FDR Strongly Rebuffed On Two Issues

House Votes To End Program Of Food Subsidies

Chief Warns That Responsibility Is Fully On Congress

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 25 — The House voted to end the administration's food subsidy program today only a few hours after two labor leaders declared the rollback must be fully effective by July 15 or workers will insist on higher pay to meet increases in the cost of living.

The House action came while the Senate was debating a similar curb, and shortly after President Roosevelt commented that Congress will have to shoulder the responsibility if it takes the path toward inflation.

Subsidy Payments Barred

Approving a bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corp., the House adopted an amendment by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) providing in effect, that neither CCC nor any other government agency may make subsidy payments on production or distribution of farm-originated products, in order to reduce or maintain prices.

It was the second House vote against the price rollback, declared by Price Administrator Brown to be essential if living costs are to be driven back to the Sept. 15, 1942 level ordered by Congress. The rollback already has reduced the retail prices of butter and meat, and has been projected for coffee. Last week the House stripped OPA of $47,000,000 of the $177,000,000 recommended for it in the next fiscal year, and provided that none of the approved fund could be used to administer such subsidies.

The July 15 "deadline" for effective rollbacks was set by both President Philip Murray of the CIO and Boris Shishkin, economist of the AFL. Appearing before a special congressional committee considering consumer problems, Murray said labor will be compelled to demand scrapping of the "Little Steel" wage formula and the hold-the-line order against inflation unless an effective rollback program is in effect in 20 days. Shiskin said that unless this is done "labor no longer will be able to accept the pressure which

Murray Blames Solon Absentees

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP) — President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) said tonight "absentee congressmen must share the blame for a major national disaster" in the congressional overturning of President Roosevelt's veto of the war labor disputes act. He predicted popular resentment over the congressional action will bring about repeal of the measure.

Murray's full statement:

"In vetoing the Smith-Connally bill President Roosevelt has demonstrated once more his sound understanding of the nature of the democracy for which we are fighting and the need for full mobilization of the nation for victory.

"It is a tragic fact that the absence of a number of members of congress made it possible for a congressional clique to engineer a sneak attack on the commander-in-chief by rushing through the over-riding of the veto within minutes of its announcement. The absentee congressmen must share the blame for a major national disaster equivalent to a real military defeat for democracy.

Labor's Duty Clear

"The duty of labor at this time remains clear. We will continue to stand firmly behind the commander-in-chief and carry forward the fight for complete and speedy victory. In the same spirit of contribution to national victory, organized labor will carry on the fight to strengthen the home front. We will help the people of America to make articulate their resentment against this sniping and war sabotage by the groups which sponsored this measure.

"That resentment will inevitably reach every corner of Congress and bring about the repeal of a measure of this type and an end to this harassment of the commander-in-chief and this attempted sabotage of the people's will to victory."

Second Big Inch Pipeline Urged

Jester Insists On Two More Outlets

By BRACK CURRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, June 25—A second big inch pipeline from Texas oil fields to the east should be built to meet offshore war demands and essential civilian requirements for Petroleum products, Rep. George J. Bates (R-Mass) of the House Naval Affairs committee's petroleum investigating sub-committee asserted today.

Bates made this recommendation to Texas and Oklahoma oil men at the sub-group's final hearing in Texas on the nation's crude production and supply program.

Earlier, Chairman Beauford H. Jester of the Texas railroad commission had recommended that two additional pipelines from West Texas to California and to the middle west be constructed.

Shipping Costs Cited

Listing comparative costs of shipping oil from Texas to the east, Bates said the rate by tank car is from $1.40 to $1.90 a barrel compared with 40 cents to 50 cents by tanker and 31 cents by the big inch line.

Texas' largest crude reserve area in the Permian basin "should have an additional pipeline to the west coast in California and still another pipeline to the midwest area with Minneapolis or Chicago as terminals," Jester said.

These pipelines "would render their greatest service if they were under control of independent oil operators rather than under major oil company control," he added.

From major company and independent operators, the sub-committee received testimony urging an immediate crude oil price increase of from 50 cents to $1.00 a barrel, and relaxation of priorities on materials.

Cosden Trio Freed On Hot Oil Charge

DALLAS, June 25. (AP) — The Cosden Petroleum corporation and three individual defendants were acquitted today by a federal court jury of charges of conspiracy to violate the Connally hot oil act.

The verdicts of innocent were returned shortly after noon for the company; its president, Raymond L. Tollett; pipe line superintendent, R. Weldon Thompson; and M. M. Hines, an employe. Judge T. W. Davidson yesterday instructed the jury to acquit Hines.

The government charged the defendants conspired between April 1, 1940, and Nov. 1, 1941, to transport in interstate commerce oil produced in violation of state regulations. This is prohibited by the Connally act.

Nazis Reported Massing Troops At Brenner Pass

Germans Concerned Over Fears Italy About To Collapse

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 25. — The Germans were reported unofficially tonight to be massing about 10 divisions of up to 150,000 men in northern Italy to guard the Brenner Pass, southern portal to Germany, against invasion, while the Berlin radio itself said the famous British Eighth Army had been sent to Syria to spearhead an Allied attack from there.

The German troop movement was reported by an unofficial source with close continental connections, and it was suggested that the Nazis were concerned over the possibility that Italy might collapse in event of an Allied landing.

Some Mobile Reserves

This source, who cannot be identified, said about five divisions were taking up new positions, below the pass, and the remainder would form a mobile troop reservoir that could be sped to the Riviera or southeast into the Balkans in case of emergency.

Except for the German air force and special service forces, virtually all the other Nazi troop strength was reported already pulled back from the crisis zones —Sicily, the toe of Italy, and Sardinia.

Transfer of the Eighth Army, flushed by its victories in Libya and Tunisia, to Syria was reported by a German military commentator in a broadcast recorded by Reuters. The report was wholly unconfirmed and it was recalled that King George VI visited the Eighth Army last week in Tripoli. The Allies have long been building powerful armies in the Middle East, where the Ninth and Tenth armies are stationed.

Raid Said Significant

Some London observers attached particular significance to the surprise raid by U. S. Liberators yesterday upon the Nazi airbase at Sedes, six miles southeast of Salonika. The most likely reason for raids in this area would be to knock out bases from which German planes might operate against any Allied amphibious operation aimed at the Dodecanese

Bomber Lashes At Jap Convoy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Saturday, June 26 (AP)—A Beauford bomber scored a near miss on a merchantman in a small Japanese convoy off Cape St. George yesterday, the high command announced.

Cape St. George is on the southeastern tip of New Ireland.

"One of our medium bombers on reconnaissance attacked a cargo vessel in an escorted enemy convoy of three small ships, scoring a near miss," the noon communique said.

Limited Activity

In a report of extremely limited activity, the communique told of a sweep by medium bombers southwest of Madang, New Guinea, where five Japanese-held villages were strafed from treetop height. Native structures were set afire and a machinegun post silenced.

The ships spotted by the Beaufort off New Irealand were escorted by a destroyer.

Meanwhile, reports were received from fliers who have been on reconnaissance over the big Japanese base of Rabaul, New Britain, showing concentrations of aircraft and shipping. Rabaul is the base which Allied bombers recently pounded with more than 160 tons of bombs in six raids.

The fliers reported that the shipping in the area was about at the usual strength but included a converted aircraft carrier. They said they counted approximately 170 bombers and fighters on the airfields, a slight increase over the previous report.

Editorial On American Democracy In Action

Congress Acts To Uphold The Majority's Wishes

SWIFT action of the national House and Senate in over-riding President Roosevelt's veto of the Connally-Harness-Smith Anti-Strike bill was an example of American democracy in action. Furthermore, it gives hope that the Congress, at long last, has decided to function as what the Constitution sets out it should be: the representative of the majority of the people.

The Morning Avalanche has no quarrel with President Roosevelt for his veto of the Anti-Strike bill. The President declined to sign the bill, he said, because he believed such a law would promote, rather than decrease, labor unrest. We do not agree with the President, but admit that time may show him to be correct. It was within his Constitutional right to veto the bill. His was the choice to sign, or not sign, as he thought best. That choice is charted for him in the American Way, set out by the Founding Fathers. He was elected to act as he best sees fit with the best interests of the country in mind.

However, we applaud the action of the Congress in over-riding the President's veto almost before the ink was dry. There is not one iota of a doubt that the majority of the people of the United States believe organized labor has gone too far; there is no question that Americans, in all walks of life and by overwhelming odds, believe organized labor's ceaseless ambition must be curbed by law. Thus, in over-riding the President's veto, the Congress did as it should. It correctly reflected the wishes of the majority of the people.

That's exactly what Congress is for; exactly what it's members are supposed to do. We hope it will do it more often in the future than it has in the immediate past.

Millions Leaving Bomb-Lashed Ruhr

Merciless Round-The-Clock Battering Of Naziland Goes On; Valley Said In Ruins

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 25 — Fleets of U. S. heavy bombers pounded northwestern Germany today on the heels of another RAF town-crusher attack last night upon the Ruhr, the bomb-shattered industrial valley ,where 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 persons were reported evacuated to escape the mighty Allied air offensive.

The big American bombers hammered undisclosed targets in adverse weather against strong fighter opposition, and lost 18 ships for a total of 173 Allied bombers as the cost of more than six days and nights of tremendous attacks. Thirty-eight were American and 135 British.

NIGHT RIDERS OUT AGAIN

LONDON, Saturday, June 26 (AP)—The Royal Air force bombed Germany again last night, rounding out a week of Allied heavy air attacks on Germany, Italy and German-occupied Europe.

Many Fighters Downed

Flying Fortresses made up at least part of the raiding force, and Fortresses from one station alone destroyed 24 enemy fighters and probably 14 more. This group lost six bombers.

Crewmen said today's attack was made in the worst weather and against the fiercest fighter opposition they had encountered in six raids. The Germans, they said, sent 200 fighters against them.

RAF Typhoon bombers joined in today's activities, attacking an airfield at Caen, France, without loss.

The daylight assault followed the RAF's renewed attack with perhaps 1,500 tons of bombs upon Wuppertal in the Ruhr. Bombs were concentrated upon Elberfeld in the western section of the amalgamated city with its chemical and textile targets.

Millions Being Evacuated

In Bern, Switzerland, a reliable source declared that the Ruhr raids had forced the Germans to move 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 non-essential workers and citizens from the Ruhr to safer areas, with the "vast enterprise" still underway. Zurich's die that asserted that the battle for the Ruhr "appears approaching a climax."

Picturing the devastation at Elberfeld, a German radio broadcast declared that "even now smoke and flames are rising.

"Approaching the town from many miles distant streams of bombed-out people can be met . . . it is with great pain that they move forward either carrying or pushing on barrows the few belongings still left to them.

"Every single street is full of rubble . . . people are tired to death. They lie on the grass. Many of them were injured."

Apparently in a desperate move to save the remains of the Ruhr,

Russia Says Nazis Poisoned Patients

MOSCOW, June 25 (AP)—A Russian commission charged tonight that the Germans had poisoned 1,000 patients in a psychiatric hospital, executed and tortured 248 citizens of Kupyansk and plundered the Rostov museum in their invasioon of Soviet territory.

A 2,000-word report issued by the "extraordinary state commission for ascertaining and investigation of crimes committed by the German fascist invaders," said it had received statements of victims and eyewitness accounts of "crimes committed by German authorities in Soviet districts which temporarily fell under the fascist yoke."

FDR Declines To Recognize UMW Work Deadline

Grim Warning To Miners Says Life Of Nation Involved

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25.— President Roosevelt, saying he would not recognize the United Mine Workers' Oct 31 deadline for continued coal production, declared today that many people seem to forget we are at war and the life of the nation is at stake.

The President's grim reminder at a press conference that a prolonged stoppage of coal production could throttle the nation's war effort came against the background of these other developments:

1. A spread of absenteeism in the Pennsylvania coal fields that had some 145,000 of the state's 200,000 miners idle. Pickets were attempting, too, to shut down other mines. A survey of all major coal mining states indicated about half of the 521,000 miners were still out of the pits. Union leaders said they had sent out organizers to try to get the men back to work on Monday, and it appeared the opening of the mines then would furnish the crucial test of whether the miners will accept the back-to-work order adopted Tuesday by the union's policy committee.

Disciplinary Action

2. An apparent sharp controversy within the administration over whether disciplinary action should be attempted against the United Mine Workers. The War Labor board (WLB) took to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes a request that the government compel the UMW to sign a contract, as ordered by WLB, or punish it for refusing. On the other hand, Secretary of Interior Ickes, the federal boss of the mines, said he knew of no way to make any "private individual or group" sign an agreement.

3. A conference of Ickes with some 30 executives of major mines on the question of extending his nominal control of the mines to active management in anticipation that the government will have to operate them for a "considerable period."

4. Closing of additional blast furnaces in the Pittsburgh area by United States Steel corpora-

Nazis Salonika Airdrome Lashed

CAIRO, June 25. (AP)—American Liberator bombers have violently raided the big German airdrome of Sedes near Salonika, a major air base in the Nazi's "Siegfried line" in Greece, and found surprisingly weak anti-aircraft defenses.

U. S. air headquarters here announced today that more than 50 Liberators dropped well over 125 tons of bombs at Sedes yesterday without a single loss. It was the first American blow at German-held Greece since September.

Three Hangars Destroyed

"Direct hits were scored on three hangars and all are believed to have been destroyed," said a Ninth U. S. air force communique.

"Dispersal areas were covered by bursts and at least three enemy aircraft were seen to be destroyed. Administrative buildings northeast of the hangars received hits and several strings of bombs criss-crossed the field itself.

"Oil fires were observed west and south of the hangars and gray and black smoke covered the target area when the bombers departed.

"No enemy fighting opposition was encountered.

U. S. Submarine Lost Off Coast

Several Of Crew Unable To Escape

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP) — Loss of the submarine R-12 while engaged in training exercises off the east coast was announced tonight by the Navy.

The R-12 had a normal complement of 28 men but the Navy indicated some of these were saved after the sinking. The Navy said the loss was probably due to accident and not enemy action.

The sinking, the time of which was placed only as "recently," raised to nine the number of United States submarines lost since Pearl Harbor either through enemy action or accident.

Several Unable To Escape

The Navy's announcement said: "A number of officers and men were unable to escape from the vessel before it sank. The depth of water makes it impossible to salvage the submarine and hope has been abandoned for recovery of the bodies of the missing personnel. The next of kin have been informed.

"Information obtained from survivors indicates that the loss was probably due to accident and not enemy action, and an investigation is now in progress to determine the available facts of the case.

"Announcement of this incident was withheld until attempts to locate and raise the R-12 were discontinued, in order that enemy submarines might not be given information that would enable them to attack the salvage vessels."

The R-12, commissioned in 1919,

Nazis Hurled Back In Bitter Fighting

LONDON, Saturday, June 26 (AP) A resumption of local but bitter fighting on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow, in which the Germans were hurled from a settlement and three times beaten off as they counterattacked, was reported early today by the Soviet command, along with sharp air activity in several areas.

About Kalinin, said the midnight Soviet communique recorded here by the Soviet monitor, 600 Nazis troops were killed and six enemy mortars and two wireless stations were captured, along with other material.

Aloft, announcements both by the Soviet command and the Moscow radio told of the destruction of six German planes in the south—in the Lisichansk sector sector and west of Rostov—and of heavy Russian raids on Nazi airdromes and railway junctions at Orsha and Karachev, in which "a large number" of German planes were destroyed.

Anti-Strike Bill Passed Into Law Despite His Veto

Action Completed Within Two Hours After Bill Vetoed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 25—Congress overrode President Roosevelt's veto today and slapped on to the statute books legislation providing fines and imprisonment for persons instigating or aiding wartime strikes in government-operated mines or war plants.

The measure, hammered out by the legislators during the strikes by John L. Lewis' coal miners,

TEXANS JOIN REVOLT

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—The vote by which Congress today overrode President Roosevelt's veto of the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill included these Democrats for overriding:

Senate: Chavez, Connally, Hatch, O'Daniel.

House: Anderson, Beckworth, Dies, Gossett, Luther A. Johnson, Lyndon B. Johnson, Kilday, Kleberg, Lanham, Mahon, Mansfield, Patman, Patten, Poage, Russell, Sumners, Thomas, Wetley and West.

No other Texas or New Mexico congressmen were listed as voting.

was rejected by Mr. Roosevelt on the grounds that some of its provisions would foment rather than deter strikes. Some union leaders had protested it would "crucify" labor.

Mr. Roosevelt asked that Congress give him instead the authority to induct persons up to age 65 for non-combat military service—an authority which would allow strikers to be put into Army uniform and sent back to work.

Breath-Taking Speed

The legislators bowled over the veto with breath-taking speed, completing action on the measure scarcely two hours after the chief executive's message reached the capitol. It becomes law immediately.

First, the Senate vetoed 56 to 25 to override, acting five minutes after it heard the message read. House action was delayed an hour and a half by the fact that the veto arrived when that body was in a parliamentary situation where immediate consideration could not be given to it.

Once the question was put, the House quickly backed up the Senate by a vote of 244 to 108. Two-thirds approval in each branch was necessary for Con-

Industry Lagging As Miners Quit

PITTSBURGH, June 25 (AP) — At least 20,000 additional miners quit work today, making about one half of the nation's 521,000 coal workers idle, as four more steel blast furnaces were closed, increasing to 14 the number down in the Pittsburgh area due to fuel shortage.

The rank and file of the United Mine Workers, already in heated debate over their policy committee's instructions to return to work without a contract or their demanded extra pay for underground travel, were further excited by the President's statement that he did not accept the Oct. 31 work deadline set by the committee.

More Furnaces Shut Down

The United States Steel corporation announced it had been forced to shut down four more furnaces and slow down operation of its huge by-product coke plant at Clairton, Pa., near Pittsburgh, from 70 per cent of capacity to 50 per cent. Fourteen of its 37 furnaces in the district are closed.

The "big steel" corporation was getting almost a normal output from its Gary, W. Va., mines, but those in Kentucky and Illinois were idle and the Pennsylvania pits, usually yielding 50,000 tons daily, were turning out less than 10,000 tons a day.

A survey showed growth of the "no contract-no work" section kept about 142,000 of Pennsylvania's 200,000 hard and soft coal workers away from the mines.

Less than 30,000 of 117,000 western Pennsylvania miners worked.

Grew Says Japs Attacked U. S. And Britain Too Late Due To Unexpectedly Stiff Resistance Met In China

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 25. (AP)—Japan attacked the United States and Britain too late, former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew said here tonight, and the reason for this fatal error in timing was the unexpectedly stiff resistance of China.

In an address for delivery under the auspices of the Office of Civilian Defense, Grew recalled that Americans for a while were so impressed by this Chinese resistance to Japanese aggression that they overesitmated its effectiveness and imagined Japan bogged down and bled white in a futile struggle to conquer 400,000,000 people.

After Pearl Harbor and Singapore, opinion swung to the opposite extreme and there was a tendency to assume that "China's efforts had been in vain, and that Japan was stronger than ever."

Actually, Grew asserted, what happened was that China's stubborn defense weakened the momentum of Japan's military machine to an extent that "the Japanese started their wider aggression too late for it to have even the slightest hope of ultimate success."

At the same time, however, this resistance had the effect of accelerating the full mobilization of Japan and of hardening Japan's troops in the furnace of actual war, with the result that it was a veteran army which lunged out at the Philippines, the Netherlands East Indies and Malaya. Japan also utilized this period of long-drawn-out campaigning in China to build up its stockpiles of strategic materials through heavy imports of oil, cotton, chemicals, scrap iron and other war vital products offered on the world market by future enemies.

History shows, Grew warned, that merely defeating Japan will not end the Japanese menace.

"They know," he said, "that we can take their Navy, demobilize their Army, control their industry, limit their trade, strip their fortifications, and even occupy part of their country without disturbing their war-making capacity if we fail to stamp out the tradition of militarism.

PRICES AND THE WAR

REMEMBER the HCL — High Cost of Living — back in the days of World War I? That was the expression people used when they talked about it — and how they talked about it! There were jokes about HCL, and newspaper cartoons. The favorite one was a drawing of John Q. Public wearing a barrel and a harried expression. But to a lot of people it wasn't fhnny.

During the first World war, and in the two or three years following it, the cost of living skyrocketed. Eggs went from 33.2 cents a dozen to 92.4 cents. The cow jumped over the moon with a rise in milk of 8½ cents a quart, between August, 1914, and December, 1920, more than 5 cents of that rise coming while we were in the war.

Bread went up more than 5 cents a pound. Sugar rose almost 3 cents a pound during the war—to 10.8 cents. After the war it continued to rise until in June, 1920, it hit a high of 26.7 cents a pound, more than five times what it had been when the war started in 1914.

How does all that compare with prices today? The prices of most foods are as high today as they were during the World war. But the war-induced percentage of rise is considerably lower, because prewar figures were higher to begin with this time.

Ceilings established by the government have kept price levels fairly steady in this war. During the last war no such controls existed.

As a result, most staple groceries have not shown the rate of advance now that they did then. Sugar, for example, is at about the same level now that it was before the present war. That it is cheaper than it was during and just after World War I, anyone with a memory of those days can tertify.

This seems remarkable at first glance, for isn't all our sugar imported from tropical lands south of us, brought by ships plying the submarine-infested Atlantic? The fact is that sugar can be, and is, grown in great quantity right here in the United States, in the sugar beet areas of the West and Middle West. We have our own dependable rource, which, in 1942, supplied almost a third of all the sugar we used.

DIETS HAVE CHANGED

LET'S look at that fact from another viewpoint, and see what other benefits it gives besides stability of price. Low-cost diets have been worked out in this war to measure every last milligram of nutritive value in various foods. Food costs can be kept low and nutrition high by following the suggestions of dietitians. They prescribe more vegetables and less of the high-cost meat demanded by living standards of 25 years ago.

Vitamins were little known then, and balanced meals were pretty much a matter of instinct. Now, nutrition experts can tell you to drink that half-cup of tomato-juice, or citrus fruit juice, and show you why you should.

They can tell you, too, why you can have sugar in your coffee, or jam on the breakfast toast. For, a careful count of dietary decimels on low-cost meale shows that, thanks to vegetables and "enriched" or "fortified" foods, you can stuff more than enough vitamins down your throat and still lack calories.

That's where a second advantage comes from having a home supply of sugar that can be depended upon. Sugar can supply those calories, to give you the energy you need in your war job, or civilian defense activities, or Red Cross work. It gives you that extra lift when you need it, because it's one of the best sources of quick energy known.

Dance Is Honor To Pre-Flight Students

Honoring upperclassmen of the 309th college training detachment at Texas Technological college, a dance was given at the Hilton hotel Thursday night. The detachment is composed of pre-flight cadets.

Mrs. Hattie L. Freeman and Mrs. James L. Jay of the training staff arranged the affair and officers of the post and members of the staff acted as chaperones.

The dance followed the detachment's first radio broadcast over KFYO at 8:30 o'clock and guests at the dance heard the broadcast over a radio in the ballroom. The broadcast was advance publicity for the detachment's musical show, "Pre-Airities of 1943," which will be presented at the Tech gym Tuesday night.

The detachment band under the direction of Pvt. Bob Andrzejewski of Milwaukee, Wis., came from the radio station and furnished music for the dance.

Texas Egg Shipments Double Over Year Ago

AUSTIN, June 25 (U.P.) — The University of Texas bureau of business research reported today that out-of-state shipments of Texas eggs—in shell equivalent—in May totaled 848 carloads, almost double the May, 1942, figures of 428 carloads.

All of these eggs were shipped either frozen or dried, reducing the transportation facilities required to 127 cars.

These out-of-state shipments were to 17 states, five of which took well over 100 cars each in shell equivalent — Lllinois, 176; Pennsylvania, 160; Louisiana. 150; New York, 130; and Ohio, 122.

In addition to out-of-state movement, bureau figures show the equivalent of 357 cars were shipped to Texas points.

Poultry shipments dropped a third, as farmers apparently kept their fowls for egg production. Ice cream, butter and cheese production established an all-time record, utilizing 154,491,000 pounds of milk.

De Valera Expecting Minor Party Support

DUBLIN, June 25 (AP)—Shorn of a clear majority in the Dail (Parliament), Eamon De Valera's chances for extending his 11-year span as Eire's prime minister hinged today on the possibility of his reaching an agreement with one or more of the lesser parties.

Complete returns from Tuesday's first wartime general election showed that de Valera's Fianna Fail party had won only 67 seats in the Dail compared with 77 it had held since the last election in 1938. Other parties and independents won 71 seats, split this way:

Fine Gael 32, Labor 17, Farmers 9 and Independents 13.

William Cosgrave, leader of the Fine Gael, or United Ireland party, campaigned for a coalition government of all parties. De Valera opposed this proposal and said he would not join such a government.

The heads of the lesser parties have not committed themselves publicly to either de Valera or Cosgrave.

Although losing his majority, the American-born de Valera himself retained his seat in the Dail.

The prime minister's setback was not expected to bring about any change in Eire's foreign policy since the question of the country's continued neutrality was not an issue in the election.

No Investigation Is Planned Into Riots

DETROIT, June 25 (U.P.)—Gov. Harry F. Kelly's four-man fact-finding committee said today it had found no evidence that Monday's bloody race rioting was organized and inspired by subversive elements and that therefore no grand jury investigation will be held at this time.

Valley's Tomato Pack To Exceed Last Year's

WESLACO, June 25 (AP)—Gross returns on the Rio Grande valley's spring tomato pack will add another $2,500,000 to its agricultural income and will exceed the 1942 pack both in volume and dollar value, says the South Texas Canners association headquarters office.

Tomato canning will continue through this week and next, showing substantial increases over the 750,000 cases of canned tomato and tomato products valued at $2,000,000 last year, the office said yesterday.

Government requirements from the 1943 tomato pack, said James H. Burch, executive secretary of the association, probably will be slightly less than they were a year ago because of the large stocks purchased by Army, Navy, lend-lease and other federal agencies in 1942.

CERTIFICATES REQUIRED

MEXICO CITY, June 25 (AP) — Labor Minister Francisco Trujillo Gurria has advised all state governors that applicants for farm work in the United States will not be considered unless they have certificates stating that they have no lands of their own to till.

Nazis Scraping At Bottom Of Barrel

LONDON, June 25 (U.P.) — Axis invasion defenses were stepped up drastically again today when reports from jittery Europe said that Germany had called up the military classes of 1894 to 1896 and Italy had seized 11,150 persons in a one-week campaign against suspected fifth columnists.

The Scandinavian telegraph bureau's correspondent at Berlin said that the Germans had ordered the two military classes including men from the ages of 47 to 49 to report to their local police stations, thus scraping the bottom of the barrel of Nazi manpower to meet threats of Allied invasion and greatly increased aerial bombardment.

Losses In Men Heavy

German losses on the fighting fronts have been estimated at more than 5,000,000 men, but in addition the Nazis recently have reported heavy casualties as a result of the Allied aerial offensive against western Germany—where even last year some 2,500,000 men were tied down in the air raid defense services. Many more have been required to meet the mounting scale of Allied air attack this year.

The Swiss newspaper Tribune at Geneva, for instance, said in a dispatch from Berlin today that casualties and material damage in western and northwestern Germany as a result of the recent Allied air attacks were far exceeding losses on the various fighting fronts.

The prospect of invasion was still being hammered home to the German people and even Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, writing in Das Reich, said that it was not doubted that the Allies could muster sufficient shipping and armed forces to land somewhere on the European coast.

Both Germany and Italy have been attempting to achieve total mobilization as the hour of invasion approaches, the Fascists having called up women between the ages of 18 and 24 for farm work and similar duties.

The Italians, however, also have been engaged in desperate efforts to suppress pro-Allied sentiment, which might facilitate an invasion and many have been arrested by the secret police.

The chief of the police organization, the Ovra, was understood to have informed Mussolini that the arrests were "absolutely necessary" in view of the grave threat of Allied landings. He asked that the Ovra be permitted greater severity in dealing with possible dissident elements.

Some 7,500 of those arrested were identified as Communists and the remaining 3,250 were labelled simply "anti-Fascists", but were known to include a number of so-called "separatists", principally from Dalmatia and southern Tyrol.

Senator Giovanni Gentile, broadcasting over Rome radio, appealed to the populace to conquer "all temptation of cowardice" and denounced Italians who contend that this was not their war. Other reports reaching London indicated that Italians who failed to support the Axis war effort would be deprived of their food and clothing ration books.

Italian efforts to bolster shaky morale on the home front were accompanied by these developments pointing toward impending action:

1. Radio London said two more German divisions have arrived in Italy to assist in defending its coasts.

2. Radio Berlin reported that the largest British naval concentration in recent months, including six battleships, two aircraft carriers, 20 smaller warships and about 70 merchant ships, either had passed through Gibraltar strait or had anchored in Gibraltar harbor in the past few days. Two of the battleships, the 35,000-ton King George V and the Howe were said to have sailed into the Mediterranean early Wednesday with an escort of destroyers and torpedo boats.

3. A German military mission is inspecting Axis defenses in Bulgaria and will go from there to Thrace to inspect Greek coastal defenses. Italian occupation forces were reported building new forts near Salonika. Information reaching Madrid from France said considerable apprenhension was apparent in Axis circles over possible Allied operations in the eastern Mediterranean.

4. A British broadcast said a complete Greek Army of about 30,000 men is among the large Allied forces concentrated in Syria for an assault on southern Europe.

5. Radio London urged 800,000 French railwaymen to destroy their locomotives and disorganize the entire French railroad system at the zero hour for an Allied invasion.

6. The military correspondent of the German Transocean agency said that Allied preparations for an attack in the Mediterranean have "reached the culminating point."

News Briefs

Burial of Eldenna Littlejohn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Littlejohn, Lubbock, was held in Wolfforth cemetery Friday, Fix Funeral home reported. The baby died 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in West Texas hospital.

The War department announced Friday the award of air medals for anti-submarine flights over the Atlantic to Cadet James K. Connolly, Tahoka, for more than 25 operational flights as aerial gunner, and to Daniel H. Stockton, jr., 1817 Twenty-fourth street, Lubbock, for more than 200 hours as bombardier-navigator.

Two South Plains service men were included among a list of United States soldiers wounded in the Aleutians, European, North African and Pacific areas. They are Pvt. Gustavo T. Delgado, son of Mrs. Cleotilde I. Delgado, O'Donnell, and Pfc. Hubert W. Goolsby, son of Marvin D. Goolsby, Roaring Springs.

Aetna Life Insurance Co. is defendant in a civil action moved over to federal court jurisdiction from Judge Daniel A. Blair's 72nd district state court, Friday. The suit originated in Hockley county, where John F. DeShazo, former oil field worker, claims insurance compensation amounting to $4,500, plus interest, because of a traffic accident injury in Yoakum county in 1939, which he said rendered him totally disabled in 1940. The insurance policy was purchased while DeShazo was employed by the Humble Oil and Refining Co., and at the time of the accident, DeShazo was driving a company truck. The case was moved to U. S. district court by the insurance company, and is set down for trial in November.

A graveside service for Bennie Marvin Lang, 3-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Lang of 2201 Avenue H, will be conducted in Lubbock cemetery at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. Floyd Dawson of the Foursquare Gospel church officiating. Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home will officiate. The baby died Wednesday afternoon in St. Mary's hospital.

Ensign Marvin Hunter, a deck officer aboard a Naval carrier, will leave today after a brief leave spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hunter of 2218 Twenty-first street. He said Billy Malone, a shipfitter 1st, was on his ship. "It's all very new and exciting, this Navy life," was about all Ensign Hunter would commit himself to in conversation.

New LAAF Class To Finish Today

The 14th class to be graduated since Lubbock Army Air field began turning out twin-engine bomber and transport pilots last year will receive wings in ceremonies opening at 10 o'clock this morning in the post theater.

The class is designated as 43-F. Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer at LAAF since mid-March, will appear on the program in a brief address to the graduating airmen, their parents and guests.

Honor Graduates Named

Invocation by Lt. Randall T. Miller, new Protestant chaplain at LAAF, will open the program. Oath of office as second lieutenants or flight officers will be administered to the graduates by Capt. Russell D. Shively, secretary, and Col. Holmes' remarks will follow.

Aviation Cadet Russell E. Hodge of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, honor student of the graduating class and holder of a B. A. degree from the University of Wisconsin, will receive his wings from Capt. Gordon J. Mott, director of the LAAF ground school. Other members of the class will be given their wings by Captain Alvin L. Smith, commander of the 495th two-engine flying training squadron, and Capt. Robert M. Frazier, operations officer of the 72nd two-engine flying training group.

Singing of the Air Corps song by the graduates will be followed by playing of the National anthem by the LAAF band, directed by Chief Warrant Officer George P. Attridge.

Included among the Texans slated to receive their wings are four Panhandle-Plains men: William J. Webster of 2204 Ninth Street, Lubbock; Warren D Blakney, Plainview; Charles H. Cruse, Dimmitt; Jim S. Travis, Ralls, and Fayden D. Watson, Amarillo and Petersburg.

Other Texas men on the graduates' roster will be Willard B. Corley and John E. Talbert, Corpus Christi; Frank H. Farris, jr., and Frank S. Bonno, jr., Dallas; Albert T. Lively, Winfred T. Lewis, Albert W. Smith, Floyd L. Weber and Thomas Bruyere, all of Houston; Milton H. Kelley, Eugene C. St. Clair and Francis N. Finch, all of San Antonio; Spencer G. Luke, El Paso; Ted O. Koonce, Fort Worth; John H. Bailey, Big Spring; Norman R. Magee, Rusk; Julian D. McDonald, Bandera; Laverne Nusbaum, McAllen; Franklin L. Evans, Swearingen; David J. Herring, Laird Hill; Dee A. McDaniel, jr., Electra; Roswell E. Morris, jr., Mesquite; Robert J. Philips, Van Alstyne, and Jack E. Waller, Newsome.

The Red Cross Motor corps, led by Mrs. R. D. Erwin, is again offering transportation from Lubbock hotels to LAAF for parents and other out-of-town guests of the graduating fliers.

Renewal By Mail For 'A' Books

Application forms for renewing "A" gasoline rations by mail will be available at service stations and other cites in Lubbock county beginning July 1, Lubbock county war price and rationing board announced Friday.

Clarence A. Bestwick, chief clerk of the board, said the application forms would be distributed to stations ,stores and other places at which it will be convenient for every "A" book holder in the county to obtain one.

No matter how far or how near one lives from the board, he is to renew his rations by mail.

Expires July 21

Present "A" rations expire July 21. It was urged that motorists who have only "A" rations obtain the application forms as soon as possible after July 1 and mail them to the board so that the A books may be serviced first. "B" and "C" book holders have coupons which will serve them beyond that date.

It also was stressed that every "A" book holder should take care to fill the applications in completely and properly. Because of the large number of applications which will need to be processed, applications not properly filled in or not accompanied by required material will have to be set aside until other applications have been serviced.

The application form properly filled in should be accompanied by the curent tire inspection record, which must show that at least one tire inspection has been made and approved, and the back cover of the present basic A book, which should have the applicant's signature and address in the spaces provided.

Motorcycle owners also will renew their rations in a similar manner, except that they are not required to send in tire inspection records.

Dallas Men Buying Up Shorts So They Won't Be Caught Short

DALLAS, June 25. (U.P.) — Not wishing to be short on shorts, clothes conscious Dallas men have been rushing the stores, or running their wives to the stores, to buy a pair or so, just in case, the rush came after the announcement yesterday by the Southwestern Men's Apparel club that there would be fewer shorts this fall.

Thousands of Southwestern buyers in Dallas to stock their stores for fall, were buying as much as possible in view of shortages.

Stud books recognize the following colors in horses: bay, black, brown, chestnut, dun, grey and roan.

Another Class Gets Glider Pilot Wings

Another graduating class of flight officers received wings Friday morning at South Plains Army Air field.

Specially engraved silver wings were presented to the best soldier in the class, Dean O. Skelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Skelton of St. Logansport, Ind., and a trophy was presented to the outstanding athlete, Albert L. Leemhuis, son of Mrs. Ella Salier of Freeport, Ill.

Wings were presented by Capt. Rowland O. Mosher, directer of flying. The oath of office was administered by Lt. Harry M. Davis, secretary of the school.

Chaplain John F. McKenna, Catholic chaplain at the post, gave the invocation and benediction. Music was presented by the SPAAF band, directed by Warrant Officer Harry Dunham.

The men represented almost every section of the nation. They have completed intensive training in Uncle Sam's giant cargo and troop-carrying gliders.

Alimony Payers Put On Compulsory Savings By Pay-As-You-Go Plan

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—Congressional tax authorities discovered today the pay-as-you-go income tax law has put the nation's alimony payers on a compulsory savings plan.

The law makes no provision for and adjustment of the 20 per cent withholding levy, on account of alimony payments, although the alimony is deductible in computing actual income tax at the year end.

As an illustration, a married man making $100 weekly, but paying a former wife $50 weekly alimony, would have approximately $790 deducted from his pay check annually through the 20 per cent withholding, but the following March 15 when he made out his final return on the previous year's income, the governemnt would owe him around $325—on account of the withholdings against the $2,600 he had paid in alimony.

The ex-wife would be liable for the income tax on the $2,600 paid her in alimony.

Two Slightly Hurt In Glider Crash Friday

Only slight injuries were suffered by a glider pilot and a student when a glider from South Plains Army Air field struck a high tension line about a half-mile northwest of the field at 1 o'clock Friday morning, the field's public relations department reported.

The line belonging to Southwestern Public Service company was broken and light and power service to the field, Lubbock and Lubbock Army Air field was interrupted briefly. Repair crews were summoned and service restored within a few minutes.

The glider was reported badly damaged.

Escaped Convict Said To Be Good Cowhand

AUSTIN, June 25 (U.P.) — Pete Baird, for whom police are making search since his daring escape from officers by jumping from a moving train at Royse City, June 22, is described as a "good cowhand" in "wanted" circulars sent out today by Texas state police headquarters.

Baird's residence is given as Juliff, Fort Bend county, and the circular says he has worked on ranches in Texas and Wyoming. Caution in apprehending him is advised with a note that he may have firearms disguised as a package.

The tall, six-foot, three-inches, cowboy escaped while being brought from Minnesota to Texas for trial on an FBI charge of violation of the national motor vehicle theft act.

Ten Texas Colleges To Train Navy Men

HOUSTON, June 25. (U.P.) — The Navy public relations office here announced today that 3,118 trainees under the Navy's V-12 program eventually will be assigned to 10 Texas universities and colleges having contracts for the training programs.

The University of Texas will have the largest training center, with 1,111 trainees scheduled to be sent to the main university at Austin and 107 to the medical branch at Galveston.

Rice institute at Houston will draw 530 trainees, the announcement said, while Baylor university college of medicine at Houston will receive 51. Sixty-one trainees will be rent to a third Houston school, the Texas Dental college.

Baylor university's college of dentistry will receive 60 and North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington will train 352, including 176 Marines, the Navy said.

Southern Methodist university at Dallas will be assigned 220 and 384, including 192 Marines, will go to Southwestern university, Georgetown. Texas Christian university in Fort Worth will train 242.

LEARNS FIRSTHAND

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP) — Interior Secretary Ickes revealed today that he doesn't have to study reports to his solid fuels' office to learn that there's a growing shortage of coal. He told reporters wistfully today that although he's the boss of the government-operated coal mines he hasn't been able to get delivery on some anthracite he ordered more than a month ago for his poultry farm at nearby Olney, Md.

LAAF Nine To Play Roswell Field Today

Lubbock Army Air field's baseball team will clash with the "Stratofighters" of Roswell Army Air field in a week-end twin bill at Hubber park. Today's tilt will get underway at 2:30, while the Sunday engagement is slated to start at 3 o'clock.

Admission will be 25 cents for officers and civilians, while enisted men will be admitted free.

The "Stratofighters" have already made 13 appearances this season, winning five, dropping seven and tying another. LAAF battled the Hobbs crew in its most recent tussle and lost a bitterly-fought 8 to 6 decision.

Sgt. Sam West's nine has spent the two weeks since the Hobbs game in daily workouts, and will be in peak condition for both encounters. West is undecided as to whether Cadet Pete Christy, former American Association hurler who graduates this morning, or Tech. Sgt. W. G. Hardwick will get the nod as starting pitcher for the opening fracas.

South Plains Army Air field will meet the Big Spring Bombardiers at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the SPAAF diamond. The Commandos are out for their sixth victory after lashing the strong Kirtland field squad 12-6 in Albuquerque last week-end.

HENDERSON PHYSICIAN DIES

HENDERSON, June 25. (UP) — Dr. J. H. Spivey, 69, retired Henderson physician, died today in Shereveport, where he had made his home in recent years. Dr. Spivey, who launched his practice here in 1912, held extensive oil and farm lands in Rusk county. He will be buried here.

Cubs' Puerto Rican Pitcher Shuts Out Cardinal Nine 6-0

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Hi Bithorn, the Chicago Cubs' Puerto Rican right-hander, shut out the St. Louis Cardinals with two hits, 6 to 0 tonight for his fourth victory over the world's champions this season. A crowd of 6,620 saw the game, which was the first twilight contest ever played at Wrigley field.

The Cubs made seven hits off a quartet of Redbird pitchers, but needed only two of them, both singles, for pairs of runs in the first and third innings that kayoed starter Ernie White.

The defeat moved the Cubs into seventh place over the New York Giants. It was the Cubs' sixth victory in 11 games against the Cardinals this year and Bithorn's seventh league triumph against seven defeats.

Miss Frizzell Takes Miss Allen Easily

GALVESTON, une 25. (AP)—Miss Shelby Frizzell of Austin, state women's singles champion and defending champion of the Galveston Gulf coast tennis tournament, had little trouble in her opening match of the tournament today, bowling over Bambi Allen of Galveston 6-0, 6-1 in the second round of women's singles.

Miss Frizzell is expected to have somewhat stiffer competition tomorrow when she meets Margaret Varner of El Paso, winner of two matches today by scores of 6-1, 6-1 over Mary Cunningham, also of El Paso, and 6-0, 6-3 over Mrs. Willie Myrtle Osander of San Antonio.

Jaycees Shade Faculty 4 To 3

Big Third Wins For Loop Pacers

Despite three errors and heavier stick work by Tech Faculty, the Jaycees made it 13 straight in B&P softball league competition by defeating the teachers 4 to 3 Friday.

W. L. Wise handled the mound for the Jaycees and allowed five hits, while "Whizzer" White held his mates to three hits. The loop leaders made three errors, all of which were made in the third inning. The faculty was unable to take advantage of these bobbles and did not score.

Three of the Jaycees' runs and all their hits were made in the fourth. Carl walked, Thompson and Baker doubled and Presley singled to bring in the three tallies. Baker made the other Jaycee score when he got on base with a walk and ran home on a fielder's choice.

Sewell, National's Champion '42 Loser, On Victory Rampage

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Truett Banks Sewell, a strawberry blond from the deep South, led the National league in defeats last year, but this season has a chance to lead it in victories.

To date "Rip" has won nine games, going the route in every one, and has been beaten twice—once by one run and another time when his Pittsburgh Pirates were shut out.

Broke In With Tigers

This is a record matched by no other pitcher in the senior circuit and seems to prove that at the age of 35, when most pitchers have gone over the hill, Sewell is still climbing.

He had his first chance with a major league club in 1932 with the Detroit Tigers, worked 11 innings in five games and gave up fifteen runs. This beginning may have had nothing to do with it, but he spent six years after that becoming the most travelled pitcher in the minor leagues, shuttling from Toronto to Beaumont, Texas, to Seattle to Toledo to Louisville to Buffalo before the Pirates finally brught him up in 1938. Even then it took two more years and a change in managers to make him a starting pitcher.

Likes Cubs

In 1940 his record was 16-5, last year 14-17 and this year he could write his own ticket if he could choose the number of times he would get to face the Chicago Cubs.

Thus far he has beaten them five times, including 2-1 Thursday without a setback. This is one of the principal reasons the Pirates are a strong contender in the first division.

The habit of running down the battery in a car can be checked by use of much lighter engine oil and a close check on details of ignition.

Harridge And Frick Wonder Where Babe Got His Dope; Things Are Fine, They Say

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 25 (UP) — Some misinformed pessimist apparently has given Babe Ruth false data on the current major league attendance situation.

The Bambino, while visiting Cleveland Wednesday, expressed doubt that the majors would survive the present season. He said: "It all depends on how long the owners care to keep losing money."

No Folding Expected

These remarks mystified many baseball people, particularly Messrs. Ford Frick and William Harridge, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively, who are mildly gratified over attendance. It's not as bad as expected.

Harridge said last night via the telephone from Chicago: "I don't know where Babe Ruth got his information, but I can assure you that no club in the American league will fold up this season for financial reasons."

Frick Pleased

"The American league certainly will finish the season unless the government begins taking fathers with children for military service or unless the transportation of players is additionally restricted," Harridge added. "Naturally our attendance will not be up to last season, when the American league drew close to 5,000,000 persons. But we are having a good year, under the circumstances. Even in banner years, some clubs lose money. We expect that."

In New York Frick almost duplicated Harridge's statement. He said: "As far as attendance is concerned, the National league will finish the season all right. As a matter of fact, I'm quite pleased with our attendance. Before the season opened, we expected it to be off from 20 to 25 per cent. But it's not that bad, although we had the worst weather I can remember during the first months of play. Four of our clubs are ahead of last year at the gate, and four are off."

With Several More Murtaughs, Phillies Might Win Pennant

PHILADELPHIA, June 23. (AP) —The Phillies probably would be careening along toward the National league pennant at a dizzy pace these days if Bucky Harris and Bill Cox had a few more Irishmen of the ilk of dauntless Danny Murtaugh, who's suddenly come to life after a nightmare season in 1942.

Determined Danny, believe it or not, currently is on the hottest hitting spree in the majors. On an eight-game road trip just ended, the hittin' hibernian from Chester, Pa., had a batting average of .484.

Which looks even better compared with his anemic .241 of last season.

While the Phillies were playing Brooklyn twice and Boston six times, winning half the games, Danny went to bat 31 times and garnered himself 15 hits. In addition, he was walked five times. As lead-off man, he opened four straight games with base hits.

Manager Harris undoubtedly can take some of the credit for Murtaugh's renaissance. At spring training camp, Harris studied his batting form and decided it was odorous. Under his tutoring, Danny began using a lighter bat and swinging from the end, and also learned to "push" the ball—that is, to whack it through infield holes or to dump dribblers to either side of the pitcher's mound.

The 25-year-old right-hander came up from the Texas league in 1941.

South Grid Outlook Looks Pretty Bleak

ATLANTA, June 25. (AP)—The men who run the deep South's big-time football will count noses here tomorrow — and putting it with the subtleness of a bungstarter, the prospect looks pretty bleak.

Five schools—possibly seven at the outside—are expected to field teams next fall in the Southeastern conference.

Alabama, winner over Boston college in the Orange bowl, will put a team on the field even if it is exclusively a 17-year-old affair. So will Georgia, victor over UCLA in the Rose bowl. Georgia Tech, loser to Texas in the Cotton bowl, also is determined to carry on.

Tulane, hopeful (its president says) of a return to "football sanity" during the war years, plans operations on an amateur scale. Louisiana states hopes to have a ...gish but none-the-less potent team.

Texas Is Now Hunter's Utopia

Ducks And Deer Become Nuisances

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—The average Texas hunter, who needs at least eight shots to kill a deer and two dozen to dunk a duck, feels better about the prospects for next fall.

The state is crawling with game. Down on the coast millions of ducks are gobbling up the rice as fast as the farmers raise it. They are so well fed lots of them didn't even bother to migrate north.

May Release Bullets

Deer are getting to be a nuisance in the hill country; turkeys are raising a big fuss in every pecan bottom from the Brazos to the Rio Grande; game department experts feel sure there is an over-population of all upland birds.

Until this week, hunters faced all that with a shortage of ammunition. Now they are happier because Washington has announced that plans are being made to provide bullets for civilian hunters on a basis of need.

Still unanswered is the question of who is going to decide who is a good shot.

Deer Are Fast

It's pretty hard for a man in the field to judge which may and how fast a white-tail will jump. Some of these cedar brake Texas deer are so fast that when you aim at one end, you frequently hit the other, if at all. You can find plenty of one-shot one-buck deadeyes who slip a few extra cartridges into their pants just to be sure.

These are some of the things the government is going to have to figure on when they decide who needs how many shots, for what.

Or take a duck. One of those $17 ducks that game department statisticians are talking about.

May Stop Lying

You're sitting in a blind, your hands are cold, your feet are cold, the wind is blowing cold rain in your face and down your neck. In wings one of these valued mallards, 90 miles an hour. Blam blam blam. No duck. Repeat several times and you'll find that $1.50 of the $17 per duck book-kept as ammunition expense is conservative, and most hunters are better at shooting than killing.

But the need-basis business will do one thing. It will put a stop to a lot of lying. Every hunter you meet next fall will be crying about what a lousy shot he is.

NAMED VICHY MINISTER

LONDON, June 25 (AP)—The Berlin radio, quoting advices from Tokyo, reported that Taro Terasaka, former head of the American section of the Japanese foreign office, had been appointed minister to Vichy. The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press.

Segura Licks Earl Cochell, His Better Two Years Ago

EVANSTON, Ill., June 25. (AP)—Francisco (Pancho) Segura showed Earl Cochell today how much a fellow can improve at tennis in two years.

An easy victim of Cochell's smart, steady game in 1941 when he first came to this country from his native Ecuador, Pancho got his revenge today with a slashing, tricky 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 victory in the semi-finals of the 59th National Collegiate Athletic association tournament—a win that virtually sewed up the singles championship for the little South American who represents the University of Miami.

Cochell Folds

Tomorrow he must meet Tom Brown, jr., of California in what is billed as the finalist match, but it would be hard to find anyone who thinks Brown, seeded No. 2 in the meet, will have a chance.

Cochell, from the University of Southern California, regarded as the player with the best chance of checking Segura's title surge, folded today before the firecracker forehand smashes and dipsy-doo drop shots which sprang from the two-handed swings of El Pancho.

Brown's match with Jimmy Everet of Notre Dame on an adjacent court scarcely drew a glance from the spectators. The Californian won 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Just Getting Breaks, Says Guy Curtright

CLEVELAND, June 25. (AP) — Guy Paxton Curtright, rookie Chicago outfielder who waited until he was 30 before he made the majors, dismissed his flashy batting streak today with the comment "I'm hitting over my head."

Going into tonight's game with at least one hit in his last 20 consecutive games and a sizzling .356 average, the White Sox' blond right hander explained "I've been getting the breaks. Every time I've hit the ball hard it's been right in there, between the fielders."

After a long career in the lower minors, Curtright went up to St. Paul last season and lined out 13 home runs while hitting .291, and was purchased by the Chisox.

Race Season Opens On Battle Grounds

AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE, Somewhere in New Guinea, June 25. (AP)—The Dobodura Turf club has opened its racing season on battlefields where the Japanese were driven out of Papua six months before.

The turf club uses equipment made in Japan, and British horses from Malaya.

Australians conducted the first trotting program recently, using sulkies made of wheels from Japanese bicycles captured in the battle of Buna, and seats from wrecked Japanese planes.

Their horses are fine British ponies which the Japanese captured in Malaya and brought to New Guinea for use in the Buna area.

Fishing's Good In Brazos At Freeport

HOUSTON, June 25 (AP) — It's tarpon "picking" time in Freeport.

Bill Walker, hunting and fishing columnist of the Houston Post, reported dozens of glistening silver kings are being hooked and landed from the new Brazos river at Freeport. He said the present run is the most sensational one witnessed along this section of the coast during the past decade.

Large live mullet are proving to be the best bait.

Australia consists of six states and two territories.

CASE HISTORY No. 1430 — Lady, age 40, who had arthritis, constipation, intense pain in the shoulder knees, and almost all joints in the body were swollen and she had much pain. She also had headaches. She was carried into my office in November of 1942. At this time she was unable to walk, turn in bed, or take care of herself in any way. She began the chiropractic service and after six months she is walking, sometimes several blocks, driving her car, and is so much better that she feels she has been saved from a life time of suffering and misery. Her constipation is better, and she seldom has a headache.
CASE HISTORY NO. 375 — Lady age 34 who before coming to a chiropractor had almost died with heart trouble. She was extremely nervous, had indigestion, stomach trouble, leakage of the heart, numbness all over the body, could not sleep, and was losing much weight. She began taking Chiropractic services and almost all the above symptoms disappeared and she feels like a different person.
CHIROPRACTIC BENEFITS—There is no person, regardless of his duties, that can perform his work with the same efficiency when he has interference to nerve energy between his brain and his body as he can if there is no interference between his brain and body. If you have a vertebra out of place causing pressure upon the spinal cord within the spinal canal you have a cutting down of the quantity of nerve energy between your brain and your body. The cutting down of the quantity of nerve force between your brain and your body cuts down on the ability of your body to function. The cutting down of the nerve forces, regardless of how small, cuts down your efficiency because your ability will vary with the quality of the nerve force received from the brain. The condition may be minor now but may be serious in 10 years. An efficient chiropractor taking care of you may mean everything to your health and may have everything to do with whether you will be able to meet your everyday problems efficiently or not.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Misguided "Humanitarianism"

MOST Americans likely will derive satisfaction from the general reaction reported in England to a speech made by a member of the British House of Commons, named Stokes, the other day.

Stokes argued that, after the Allies win, they mustn't be too hard on the "poor" German people. His notion is that the Nazi leaders, and not the masses, are to blame for the start and the horrors of this war. Therefore, he would punish the leaders, but would kill the fatted calf in welcoming the "poor" German people back into decent society.

A lot of this sort of drivel was heard both in England and the United States during the closing stages of the other war. A little of it has been heard of late in England, where some of the impractical extremists have gone so far as to urge an end to present aerial war on the Axis. To our credit, practically none of it is being heard in the United States.

But the general reaction in England to the Stokes speech certainly has not been what he might have hoped and expected. It seems quite clear, judging from the reported reaction, that the masses of England are going to insist upon penalties which will discourage the masses of Axis nations — particularly Germany — from following blood-thrsty leaders like those of this war, like those of 1914-18, like those they have supported and abetted in wars of conquest and aggression at least a dozen times within five generations.

Undoubtedly it is true that the Axis masses do not share in the blame and responsibility for the present world catastrophe to the same degree as their leaders. But it also is a self-evident fact that those leaders in this war, and in many wars of the past, could have done no international harm without the support of the masses. The reaction to the Stokes' drivel gives reassurance that, when this war is over, the Axis masses are going to learn the hard way that they must pay a penalty not to be forgotten if they choose to follow leaders who flood he world with blood.

An Unfortunate Expression

ONE remark that would have been better if left unsaid was credited the other day to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ikes, who expressed the opinion that men now in overseas service may not see their homelands for another five years.

Mr. Ickes made the statement, according to the report, during the discussion of the food situation. He argued that any food planning must include the provision for the feeding of millions of our men in foreign service for another five years.

It may be that Mr. Ickes is correct. If so, it is to be supposed that if as many, or more men, are in foreign service five years hence as at present, they won't all be the same men. It is to be supposed that, while many men are being sent away, many will be returning.

Even so, there are obvious objections to any statement which might cause men now far away to be fearful that they won't get to se their homes for another five years. It isn't good for that impression to be spread among the relatives of such men. To them, five years naturally seem like a lifetime. The morale of the men is sure to suffer, and the morale at home as well, if all are allowed to get the impression that our fighters may have to spend another five years in the sort of service they now perform.

Logis does not support the supposition that any considerable number of men now overseas still will be there five years hence. Most of them in active service then almost certainly will have been given opportunities to return to their homes on furloughs. For our part, we have no doubt but that the high command is going to do everything it can to protect fighting men against monotony and against prolonging their absences unnecessarily.

It isn't that the English have no sense of humor—they simply take their humor too seriously.

"Civilization, as we know it, will last 40,000 more years," says a sociologist. It's a dreary outlook.

A Promise For Tomorrow

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 15

In The Shadows

At least part of the answer was painfully clear by the end of the following week. Pete, well enough now to be moved, was wheeled to the automobile entrance, transferred to the deep-cushioned luxury of the Kelland limousine. Propped with pillows, smothered with service, his last protest at being "shipped off to the country" had apparently been overcome and Dawn, hovering like a lovely butterfly, was obviously triumphant.

"You must come up next week-end," Dawn invited Julie as they parted. "It's Pete's birthday and I'm having a surprise party for him. Promise me you'll come? Bring Bart?"

Julie hesitated. "I won't promise. Thank you, though—"

"But you will come if you possible can? It won't be a big party—just a few of Pete's dearest friends. But it's going to be very special—so do come."

For several moments after the big, shiny black car had moved carefully out of the hospital grounds, Julie stared after it. "A special" party—for what? To announce an engagement, perhaps? The big car was suddenly blurred, trees and green lawns swam together. She turned, stumbled as she went back into the cool cavern of the hospital corridor.

Julie filled the days that followed so full of calls, of appointments, of study that she had no time nor energy to face her own problems. With strength that seemed inexhaustible, unflagging interest, she devoted herself to her patients. With orders to Hulda that she was too busy to see Bart, to accept any social engagements, she built a wall around the ache in her heart, listened only to her head, After all, she had her work. And if something seemed lacking, it was only because she wanted—the moon!

But all her fine determination to solve things logically broke down before Dr. Tom's casual plea for help.

Forced To Go

"They've got Pete out at the Kelland place as you probably know," he said at breakfast the morning of Dawn's "special" party. "I haven't time to traipse clear out there to see how the boy's doing. Could you possibly go for me?"

'Well—I—" There wasn't any reason why she couldn't, of course. "Yes, Dad. I'll go."

"Good. Why don't you get young Rogers to drive you up this morning? Understand you've been invited for the week-end. I think you should go. Rest would do you good."

Julie looked at him, brows arched, lips pursed. "Just who gave you all that information?"

Her father chuckled. "Young Rogers, matter of fact."

"The deal's off, then, I won't be maneuvered into—"

"You'll go to the party if I say so, young lady." Dr. Tom roared with mock ferocity. "I'm still boss here. And I won't have you getting hollow-cheeked and pale with overwork. Run along now. Have a good time."

"But Dad, I'd rather—for special reasons—"

"Look here. Don't be difficult, Julie. You need the recreation, to be sure. More than that, Pete needs a check-up. You'll be much more likely to get the real picture if I go up for a fifteen minute visit. If the social whirl is doing him more harm than good, he's got to come abck. Otherwise, fine. Call it in the line of duty if you must, but go on."

So Julie went. In Bart's luxurious car and in fearful anticipation of what the week-end would bring in the way of heartache.

The Kelland "cottage" had come to life since their first visit. Bright red and white porch furniture sprawling on the wide porches, curtains at the wide-opened windows, the sound of laughter, the clink of ice in glasses as Bart and Julie reached the steps.

"Darlings, hello!" Dawn greeted them, waved from the corner of a huge porch swing where she sat curled small like a kittne. "Aren't you wonderful to come."

"Aren't you wonderful to ask us," Bart replied promptly, dropped down into the swing beside her.

There were six couples, in all. Julie'd been bridesmaid for two of the girls, known all of them since high school. Greetings were gay, warmly friendly.

"Where's Pete?" Julie tried to say casually.

"Gone for a little walk," Dawn told her. "He's doing marvelously. Looks wonderful."

He did look nothing at all like an invalid, Julie saw a little later when he appeared, tanned, grinning, from a trail leading under the pines. As he crossed the pine-needled patio she saw that he walked, slowly, carefully, but without the slightest limp. Dr. LeMeure had not been mistaken. The operation was completely successful. Pete was free!

"Well, hello, doc. I'm surprised to find you here," he said, his smile friendly, his eyes hostile.

"Why?"

"Didn't suppose career women had time for the frivolous."

Stung, Julie retorted, "I wouldn't disappoint you, then. I'm really here on professional duty. Dad wanted to know how you were."

"Thought there must be some reason. You can tell him that thanks to his brilliant daughter's theories I'm an excellent testimonial of her skill in diagnosis. How's that?"

For an instant their eyes met. The tension, like high voltage, seemed like swift stabbing pain. Fighting to keep her lips firm, Julie finally managed a careless smile. And then turned away before the pleading in her heart could show in her eyes.

The party was very gay. Julie managed by sheer will to be as gay as the rest, to enjoy the delicious steaks Pete barbecued over glowing coals, to contribute her share of bright foolishness to the conversation. The evening was gloriously moonlighted and Julie, lying relaxed in one of the comfortable deck-chairs, watched the clouds drift dazily across the night's dark face.

She closed her eyes. And realized suddenly how very tired she was. Voices around her drifted away.

She didn't know how long she'd slept when she roused, conscious that she was chilled. The porch seemed deserted. Below her from the deep shadow beside the porch came the sound of a quarrel, carefully muoted.

"But you can't come here." A woman's voice—strangely familiar, but high-pitched with emotion now. "Can't you see I have guests?"

"I too shall be your guest,"—a deep, smooth voice, taunting, carelessly bold.

"No you won't. You promised me that you would not come."

"Promises?" A deep-throated laugh. "What are they, my dearly beloved? You made promises once. Remember."

"Please go. Tell me what you want, and then go."

"Hush,"—and the laugh again. "You will be overheard."

Silence for a moment and then, Julie's horror mounted the woman's pleading threaded with panic. "Please, tell me. Please. I'll give you whatever you want. Now go."

"I can depend on it?"

"Yes. The usual amount. The usual place. Please go."

A moment later footsteps crossed the patio, a side-door shut softly. Then, as Julie scrambled out of her chair, the windows of Dawn's bedroom just above, closed noiselessly.

Hours later, as Julie lay sleepless in the pretty guest room just next to Dawn's, she heard her hostess' sobbing—like the hysterical weeping of a frightened child.

Silver Star Medal Is Awarded Texas Sailor

HOUSTON, June 25. (U.P.) — The Navy public relations office announced today that the Silver Star medal "for conspicuous gallantry in action against enemy Japanese naval forces last fall," has been awarded to Boatswain's Mate, Third Class, Julius R. Mays, of Waller, Tex.

Mays was aboard the U. S. S. Northampton off Savo island the night of Nov. 30, 1942, the citation said, and "with utter disregard for his own personal safety, he remained in an extremely dangerous area until ordered to leave" assisting in evacuating wounded personnel from atop a flame-enveloped structure of the mainmast.

Mays enlisted in the Navy Sept. 9, 1938, in Houston. His wife, Mrs. Neva Odell Mays lives at 127 Ellis St., San Francisco, Calif.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

UNDERLYING factor in the repudiation of the Office of War Information by the House of Representatives was the last-minute discovery that Elmer Davis operates a so-called "Bureau of Intelligence." Although it does not function as a Gestapo, its performance convinces many conrgessmen that the agency is a political device rather than a fountainhead of objective data.

Whenever a problem with threatening implications arises for the administration, OWI sends a swarm of secret investigators into the affected area. They conduct a poll of sentiment among the people involved, whether the question affects miners, farmers, business men, financiers or manufacturers. Canvassers do not attempt to obtain facts working toward a solution. They simply try to ascertain what action will produce a favorable effect from the standpoint of the ballot-box.

Davis has not released any of these reports for publication, presumably because most of them have been far too pessimistic for general reading. Ironically, his staff consists largely of extreme leftists, who are not in complete sympathy with FDR's attitude toward labor, agriculturists or consumers. Memos of the surveyors reflect their feeling that the President has deserted the liberal cause under the duress of the conflict.

It is generally admitted here that Davis has lost his usefulness in the capitol, even though the Senate restores the appropriation for his operations on the home front. He has been tagged as an apologist, and a believer that whatever the administration does is right and proper.

The former radio commentator has sacrificed his spirit of scientific detachment and the folks with whom he deals — officials, congressmen and newspapermen—have lost faith in him as they did in his two predecessars, Lowell Mellett and Archibald MacLeish.

OUSTED: The moguls of the American Federation of Labor recently debatd their futur policy toward the National War Labor board and Franklin D. Roosevelt should he seek a fourth term. Although the executive committee arrived at no definite decision at this secret session, its deliberations reflect growing dissatisfaction with the administration.

Matthew Woll denounced the NWLB setup and its attitude toward John L. Lewis, and offered a formal motion that the workingmen's representatives should be asked to resign from the William H. Davis agency. Woll agreed fully with the United Mine Workers' boss that the federal organization was a packed court. He also contended that it was inefficient and ineffective. He was supported by George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL and a man mentioned as possible leader of a consolidated movement.

Presidential defenders were William Green and Daniel J Tobin, who has headed the Democratic National committee's labor board for three campaigns and served also as a White House secretary. Because of the serious split no formal vote was taken, although it is expected that the question will be brought up again soon.

Green and Tobin are fearful that their faction's withdrawal from NWLB would strengthen Lewis in the present conflict. Green has a personal stake in the matter, for he realizes that if John L. wins, he will be ousted from his present post.

CHALLENGE: Topnotch lawyers in the District of Columbia have organized a boycott against the system which allows Alien Property Custodian Leo T. Crowley to charge a $50 fee for the use of a patent seized by the United States from Axis nationals. The movement threatens to end a handsome federal revenue and to toss this highly controversial question into the laps of the peacemakers.

Objectors argue that the Constitution does not authorize Uncle Sam to own patents, but merely to grant them. According to their view, the acquired rights belong to the people, and there should be no bar to general usage. The attorneys are advising their clients to write the U. S. Patent Office, obtain the blueprints of any gadget they desire to manufacture upon payment of ten cents, and then if they foresee a market, to go ahead with production.

Several scandals arose from the handling of this problem after the last World war, and one official possessor of the confiscated holdings went to jail. A number of persons close to the Wilson administration emerged with Midas-like fortunes as a result of having cut in on several German industrial secrets.

Crowley, however, has pursued a forthright policy, even though it has been challenged. Under his program anybody can obtain the authority to utilize the inventions which he controls upon paymnt of the fee and upon deposit of $5 for all subsequent licenses.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

TWO types of news monopolize the front page: Reports of uninterrupted victories abroad and accounts of increased turmoil here. At the moment when both Germany and Italy are wincing with pain, we ourselves face fresh bickerings in the capital, acute labor troubles, an ugly race war and a breakdown in the supply and distribution of food. Such an incongruity just doesn't make sense.

A roundup of opinion expressed by some of America's greatest authorities on economics, government and military affairs follows:

The administration forgets that we are already fighting on a second front—the home front. This oversight is at the root of most of our current difficulties. We are expanding our Army-Navy machine so rapidly and on such titanic proportions that with this year's shipping facilities we shall be unable to transport it overseas. Although it cannot be used in the immediate future, it remains a gigantic consumer, drawing off metals, provisions and manpower sorely needed for production.

When a spokesman of importance brought this matter to the attention of Mr. Roosevelt, the President is said to have replied that there should be no complaint about edibles, since we are not yet down to the level of the Greek diet.

But merchants warn that a nation in which the standard of living has always been high and where private economy is sustained by an extremely intricate business system, cannot go primitive overnight without severe repercussions. We are willing to sacrifice to the limit, but it is not in our nature to accept the disorder and bungling inevitable in so swift and drastic a cut.

FAILURE: Nine per cent of the German population is in the army. The United States is putting eight per cent of her manpower in uniform. In this ratio is found the cause of most of our present headaches.

The Reich can siphon off so large a percentage from domestic industry and agriculture because it can loot the shelves and barns of occupied lands. Vast hordes of forced laborers and war prisoners are sweating for Hitler. Satellite states furnish their bit. Great numbers of workers are not required—as they are in the USA—to build an enormous merchant marine and the world's largest Navy.

We on the other hand, in addition to recruiting 10,000,000 servicemen before January 1, 1944 and establishing and maintaining our global communications, must also produce for lend-lease and for the rehabilitation projects set up in liberated territories.

The authorities whose views are cited here are not pacificts nor do they think we can wage a painless war either here or overseas. They are wholeheartedly in favor of pressing on until our bombs and bayonets force unconditional surrender upon Rome, Berlin and Tokyo. Their fear is that by impulsive action in battle and by the neglect of the domestic field we may delay victory.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"You will get out of this war what you put into it," asserts a philosopher — of a sort. The member of the armed forces, who has put himself in it, fervently hopes this is true.

Why is it that we Americans always make more money when we're fighting against a common enemy than when we're fighting among ourselves?

Here And There In Texas

By J. S. PAYNE
Associated Press Staff Writer

EVERY 24 hours one Texas ordnance works is manufacturing upward of 20,000 pounds of TNT. Delivered in bombs and shells, this explosive is wrecking enemy strongholds in the Pacific and the Mediterranean.

The approximate production figure was released by officials of the Longhorn Ordnance works and the public relations branch of the Eighth Service Command on a tour during which reporters saw the plant in operation.

The ordnance works is situated on a heavily-guarded, 9,033-acre military reservation cleared from a sandy, piney-woods area several miles from Marshall. It was completed on Dec. 15, 1942, at a cost of $21,498,000 and has storage facilities for 30 days' supply of incoming materials and 60 days' TNT production.

Has Tremendous Power

TNT— tri-nitro-toluene—is a yellow, flaky material which can be stored, shipped, handled and loaded into projectiles with relative safety. Its explosive power is tremendous when subjected to a sharp detonating shock from a fuse and booster in a shell or bomb.

Basic materials in its manufacture are nitric acid and toluene, and oily substance produced either as a by-product of coke ovens or synthesized from petroleum.

IN three steps, during which the nitric acid is mixed with and "cooks" the toluene, it becomes successively mono-nitro-toluene, bi-nitro-toluene, and finally tri-nitro-toulene.

More danger, from acid burns or explosions, is encountered during the three steps of nitration than from handling the finished product.

The Longhorn works is replete with safety controls to protect workmen and properties.

A force of several hundred guards covers the reservation. The operating areas are enclosed by a chain-link fence along which are elevated sentry boxes manned by armed guards and connected by telephone to headquarters. Mounted guards patrol the area between this high fence and the reservation boundary. Patrol cars are equipped with two-way radio and a central short wave transmitting station also can serve for emergency communication with the outside. The works has its own fire department.

Safety Factors Watched

Before entering the plant area, those in the newspaper party—like employes—had to leave behind all matches and metal objects which might be dropped and cause sparks.

We donned rubber boots so that nails in our shoes would not cause sparks and so that any static electricity in the body would be grounded. We were given glasses to protect our eyes from acid.

THE nitration buildings—in which only four persons are allowed at a time—are small and widely scattered for safety. They are of fireproof construction.

Electric switch boxes are located outside the buildings. The switches operate in oil to prevent sparks. Electric lights are behind glass.

Escape chutes run from a second-floor door to the ground. If something goes wrong and the acid-toluene mixture (which is supposed to be kept at a controlled temperature) should start boiling from the mixing drums, the operator can escape down the chute and pull a lever, conveniently placed at the bottom, which drenches him with water from a shower. This would dilute and make ineffective any acid on his body or clothing.

He can pull another lever and the mixture out of control will be emptied from the drum through pipes into a huge vat of water to end the danger. An automatic sprinkler system inside would go into operation if the heat became intense.

Whole Procedure Observed

We watched the acid and toluene being mixed in the three operations. The product of the third mixing was TNT in liquid form. It was solidified then by cooling and was refined by washing first with a solution of sodium sulfite and then with water. The purified product was remelted and fed to a slowly-revolving, water-cooled drum from which it is continually flaked.

The flaked product dropped through a chute into packing boxes, was weighed, sealed and placed on a conveyor belt which took it to a point from which it might be taken to storage or shipped to shell loading plants.

THE ordnance works makes its own nitric acid and reclaims much of the waste given off from the mixing process. For instance, yellow nitrous oxide gas is piped to the reclaiming plant, mixed with water and becomes 62 per cent nitric acid. This can be stepped up to full strength and used again.

Because TNT is toxic to some persons, the plant requires each employe to bathe daily and operates its own laundry so workers have a daily change of clothes free from TNT particles.

The plant was opened with technical men from other plants, who in turn trained employes hired locally. Some local men were sent to other plants for training.

The works is operated by the Monsanto Chemical company but is a facility of the Army's Ordnance department and is a military reservation, with Major Thomas J. Skeahan as commanding officer.

Metallizing, or metal spraying, is an effective method recently developed for renewing worn automobile parts so that they will be, in some cases, even more durable and stronger than the original part.

LUBBOCK NATIONAL DEFENSE SCHOOL
Free Training For War Jobs
The Government urges every person who is not now employed in essential war work to prepare to do a vital job in the production of war weapons. No experience is required.

Persons sixteen years of age or over, who are physically able to work and are not in high school, are eligible for War Industry Training. A short training course of 4-6 weeks will insure the average person of a good paying job in war work.

The greatest need for workers at the present time is in aircraft factories and shipyards. Avail yourself of the opportunity to be trained in Aircraft Sheet Metal or Ship Welding at the Lubbock National Defense School. Classes are operating both day and night. Persons who are now holding non-essential jobs, should plan to take training while still working on their present job. Class schedules will be arranged to suit the convenience of the individual. Contact the Lubbock National Defense School, located on the Senior High School campus, immediately. Write Box 748, Call 8631.

Air Power Answer Is Believed Near

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The question of whether the war can be won by air power alone, which never was raised anyhow except by a handful of extreme enthusiasts, has given place in a short time to a much more immediate and practical one.

This is, can the war be won by air power as the senior partner of the triumvirate of air, sea and land power? The answer is close at hand now and there are few who doubt what it will be.

Coined Too Soon

The phrase "air power alone" was unfortunate in the first place in that it was coined too soon. It might well apply in a future war. In the present war it has emerged as the chief weapon for victory, just as naval power might have proved the chief weapon if the air arm had not been developed as it was.

The fact remains that Hitler's vast land Army still is in the field and cannot be bombed out of existence; that the Japanese Army, Navy and Air force are still in being, somewhat hurt but in the main unimpaired.

No Harm In Trying

The course of events in Europe lends peculiar force to the impartial and prophetic statement of Prime Minister Churchill to Congress last May in which he said:

"Opinion is divided as to whether the use of air power could by itself bring about the collapse in Germany or Italy. The experiment is well worth trying, as long as other measures are not excluded. Well, there is certainly no harm in finding out."

The prime minister's intonation placed verbal italics around the phrase, "as long as other measures are not excluded."

Gives Tokyo The Shivers

The other measures were not excluded, as was shown in Africa, and is almost certain to be shown in southern and western Europe and on the Russian front in the immediate future.

Meanwhile, what is happening in Germany and Italy is perceptibly giving the shivers to the war lords in Tokyo. As they see the outer walls of Europe's defenses passed over and destruction carried into the heart of the enemy's stronghold, their confidence must weaken in the widespread outer perimeter of defense which Japan has set up in the Pacific and on the Asiatic mainland.

PEACE STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Industrials, largely in the peace classification, responded to fresh buying in today's stock market and favorites were lifted fractions to more than 2 points to peaks for 1943 or longer.

Profit-taking occasionally trimmed quotations but bidding picked up in the final hour and most leaders closed at or near the day's best marks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .6 of a point at 51.5 where it was back to its level of June 19. The day's upturn was the widest since May 3 last. There was a little more breadth in dealings, 895 issues being traded. Of these, 599 were up, 124 down and 172 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,146,660 shares, largest since June 14. They compared with 728,850 the day before.

Among stocks touching best levels for the year were Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, J. C. Penney, International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers, Paramount Pictures and American Viscose.

Well in front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Pullman, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Warner Bros., Loew's, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Can, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, U. S. Gypsum and International Telephone.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 36 cents a bale higher to 15 cents lower after erratic dealings today, with near months showing advances and far positions declining.

Covering and price-fixing sent values up in early trading but gains largely were lost when scattered liquidation and hedging set in. Switching operations from July into later months were heavy.

Cooper Boy Honored In Award Of Wings

The first West Texas boy under 18 to be honored here with a new Silver Wings as an enlisted man in the Air Corps reserve, according to Capt. Paul Stormer of the West Texas Recruiting and Induction district office, is Gainer C. Pitts of Cooper, Lubbock county. Pitts is the son of Mrs. L. C. Brown, route 4, Lubbock, and starred in football while attending high school at Cooper.

Pitts said the mental tests are not difficult, and many other high school graduates should pass them if they try. Capt. Stormer is Aviation Cadet procurement officer for the district. He said Pitts confersed his desired for aviation ever since an older brother enlisted several years ago.

When the youth reaches his 18th birthday he will be caled to active duty, going first into a five-months' special pre-flight college course.

News Briefs

Sgt. Chauncy C. Gammill, son of Mrs. Gussie Gammill, 2305 Eighth street, has arrived safely "somewhere in England," he reported to his mother by V-mail letter Friday. He is in a squadron made up largely of Lubbock and South Plains men who enlisted at Lubbock Army Air field last year. Sgt. Gammill was the first local man to enlist at the field. He reported in his letter that "we saw a lot of water" and that he expected to visit London in the near future.

Roy Hicks, merchant marine seaman, is visiting his mother, Mrs. M. A. Hicks, 1629 Seventeenth street. He has been in the merchant marine two and one-half years and the past eight months has seen a lot of sea duty. He visited here about a year ago.

Military and municipal police alike were on lookout Friday for a young soldier who had been reported to have left a train Thursday afternoon at Slaton and to have been "AWOL." He caught a ride into Lubbock on a cheese truck, officials were informed. Municipal police radioed his description to other authorities over West Texas.

The cases of John Q. Hanna—he is named in two complaints charging cruelty toanimals—attracted more attention Friday afternoon when it was annouced by T. E. May, constable, that a goat on Hanna's place had died. Hanna, who pleaded innocent and was remanded to jail in lieu of bonds totaling $1,500, allegedly had not provided proper food and water for three mares and approximately 25 goats. Officials who went to his place in northwest Lubbock Thursday and Friday said they found the mares and goats tied by chains where they could not reach sufficient vegetation to sustain them much longer. Officials and their friends watered and fed the stock.

H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector, reminded that last half split-taxes must be paid by June 30 or a penalty of 8 per cent, interest of 6 per cent a year and costs of $1 will attach.

Friends said District Attorney Burton S. Burks would be released today from St. Mary's hospital, where he was admitted several days ago for treatment of influenza.

C. W. Newman, Littlestown, and Mrs. Lynn Smith of Walkersville, Md., father and sister of Sam C. Newman, Hilton hotel, are visiting in Lubbock.

June Lock, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lock, Lorenzo, was reported at Lubbock General hospital as doing nicely after being bitten on the eyelid by a dog.

Jean Acres of Port Arthur, former Tech student, recently returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Reverdie Ater of Ropesville, and Reverdie Ater, jr., who was recently inducted into the army at Fort Sill.

Mrs. T. W. White is reported as improving after major surgery at Lubbock General hospital.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP) — A strong buying movement entered grain pits today and prices spurted as much as 2 cents in oats. Wheat and rye were up more than a cent. Reports ceiling prices on corn might be raised spurred the upturn.

Action of the War Food administration in requisitioning corn in commercial elevators was coupled with an order from the exchange's directors requiring settlement of all outstanding corn contracts at ceiling and prohibiting any further trading in the yellow grain.

Renewed buying before the final bell sent wheat up to a close 2¼-2½ cents higher, July 141.44, September $1.44⅝-¾. Corn was unchanged at ceilings, July $1.08. Oats closed 2¾- 3¼ cents higher, July 68¾-⅞, and rye was up 2¼-2½.

Price Ceiling Apply To Frying Chickens

A price ceiling applies to frying chickens, Howard R. Gholson, district OPA director, said Friday after receiving inquiries from West Texas producers.

A regulation effective since April 22 sets ceilings which vary in different localities because of freight rates.

In Lubbock county the consumer cannot legally pay more than $.3547 a pound for live chickens weighing under four pounds. Retail stores, hotels, cafes, institutional users or government users may not pay more than $.2956 a pound. The maximum price for wholesale and produce companies to pay the producer is $.2806 a pound.

Any price under the ceilings may be charged.

Club Hears Appeal For Council Aid

The American Business club in luncheon meeting Friday at Hilton hotel, heard Clarence D. Doggett ask for support of the program recently inaugurated by the Llano Estacado Camp and Hospital council, Red Cross auxiliary, in behalf of obtaining "luxury" equipment for the two Army Air fields here, particularly the South Plains Army Air field.

The speaker explained there is an appeal of this kind being made in the 14 counties surrounding Lubbock, South Plains Army Air field, being a temporary military installation, is badly in need of pianos, lawnmowers, tables, chairs, window shades, awnings, reading lampe, and all sorts of furnishings for day rooms and hospital wards.

Doggett said the needs cannot be supplied promptly or adequately through military channels, and the appeal is made fo rthat reason, especially since hot weather has emphasized the needs.

With her is her mother, Mrs. Cozart of San Antonio, and her sister, Mrs. Herman J. Offer of Chicago.

Judge C. D. Russell of the 64th judicial district, of Plainview, will depart from his accepted court routine here today when he tries a case in 72nd district court. Judge Russell has heard several cases recently in the vacant 99th district, but shifts today because Special Judge J. E. Vickers of the 72nd disqualified himself in a divorce action because his firm represents one of the litigants.

OPA Warns On Gasoline Usage

A warning to both motorists and service station operators to adhere strictly to gasoline regulations was issued today by Howard Gholson, district director of Office of Price Administration. Stating that the enforcement division of the OPA was beginning to round up these violators, Gholson said that the consumers are as responsible for observing regulations as are service station operators.

Many district local war price and rationing board have taken up gasoline coupon books immediately and others have refused to renew rations after finding motorists guilty of violating regulations. The director pointed out that rationing boards were also authorized to punish motorists in like manner when they exceed the legal speed limit.

No Reason For Resentment

Motorists have no reason for resenting a service station carrying out OPA regulations, Gholson said. They should understand that he is not only protecting himself but the motorist, also. Motorists as well as operators are guilty of disobeying the law when they ignore OPA gasoline regulations and are subject to criminal prosecution.

The correct procedure to follow in obtainind gasoline was outlined by the OPA director as follows:

(1) Station operator asks for motorist's gasoline coupon book.

(2) Operator checks to see if book has been issued for the car which he is asked to service. If the license number, model, make, and state of registration are the same as that listed in the book and the book is valid during that period, the motorist is observing regulations.

(3) Operator will then check windschield to see that the sticker correcponds to the type of gasoline coupon book motrists is carying. He may then service the car.

(4) Motorist should write in ink or indelibile pencil the license number of his car on the back of the gasoline coupons and hand the book over to the service station operator so that he may detach coupons.

Loose coupons are invalid and cannot be legally accepted by service station operators, the OPA director said. He further pointed out that the main source of supply of illegally used gasoline is the passing of books and coupons from one motorist to another in violation of the regulatins that sufficent rubber supply may be saved to keep essential vehicles in operation.

Wage Earners' Dollar Worth Only 55 Cents

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP) — The wae earners' dollar today is worth only 55 cents as compared to what it was worth in 1940, saye Joe T. Steadham, chairman of the Joint Railway Leislative Board of Texas.

He cited soaring living costs and Congressional attacks on the OPA plus failure to obtain more adequate wages as among the problems facing wage-earners in a letter sent out to railway brotherhood members throughout the state.

"We have pledged a no strike, no slowdown policy . . . and I know that your pledge will not be violated, unless and until the necessity drives you to other sources of redress," the letter said.

All American Pilots Lost In India Rescued

SAN ANTONIO, June 25. (U.P.)—Every American pilot shot down back of enemy lines in northeast India commands operations area has been rescued, Col. John Barr revealed today.

"How we do it, of course, is a military secret," he added. "We got one pilot out from within 100 yards of Japanese headquarters."

Col. Barr, the man who conceived the idea of carrying 1000-pound bombs in P-40 fighters, praised the ruggedness of the P-40 and its ability to take punishment.

"It can outshoot, outrun Zeros, but can not outmaneuver or outclimb them. So we make the Japanese fight the kind of war we want."

Home on leave, Col. Barr told newspapermen that he "would rather get John L. Lewis lined up in my machine gun sights than any Jap I have ever seen."

Lufkin Firm Proud Owner Of "E" Award

LUFKIN, June 25. (AP) — The Lufkin Foundry and Machine company today held the coveted Army-Navy E production award—the 24th local plant in the St. Louis ordnance district to receive the emblem.

Col. Merle H. Davis, chief of the district, made the presentation Thursday to President W. C. Trout of the company in ceremonies before several thousand persons in the high school stadium. Rear Admiral P. W. Foote, inspector of naval material for the Houston district, presented E pins to representative employes of the plant.

Other high officials of the Army and the Navy sat on a platform in the stadium which was surrounded by exhibits of products the company makes. These include gun-carriages, final drive assembly gears, mobile laundry units for the Army, and gears of several types for the Navy.

A gun carriage manufactured by the Lufkin company is a joint British and American standardization, Col. Davis said.

Wheat Yield In Hale Said Good

HALE CENTER, June 25. (Special)—Central Hale county's 1943 wheat crop is more than 50% harvested, grain elevator men here said this week. Yield for the territory is higher generally than had been expected.

Around Hale Center, yield for this year will average 15 bushels per acre, Silas Maggard, manager of the Hale Center Wheat Growers, Inc., elevator said. Some wheat is yielding as high as 30 bushels per acre. In the region south and west, where hail damage was most severe in the storm late in May, wheat is yielding 5 to 10 bushels per acre. "As a whole, our wheat crop is better than ordinary this year," Maggard said.

Advanced At Abernathy

Buford F. Davenport, editor of the Abernathy Review, said harvest is two-thirds completed in south Hale county, with the yield in that region averaging 15 bushels per acre. Some hail-damaged fields in that area are yielding about 10 bushels per acre, he said.

North of Hale Center, in the Plainview region, farmers are busy getting wheat in during what they called the earliest harvest in years, with trucks, car-drawn trailers and pick-ups waiting in line to weigh in at elevators. Rail car facilities have been short all during harvest in all communities, but generally elevator managers report the condition "could be worse."

Better Than Expected

"In fact, it is better than we expected in there war times," W. L. Porter, manager at Kimbell elevators in Hale Center said. "We haven't been waiting for 'empties' as long as we thought we might have to."

Labor for harvest has not been as critical as had been expected, either. Some merchants, clerks in stores and high school students are aiding in the work, the youngsters driving wheat trucks to elevators, and assisting with scooping and attendant tasks in the big harvest job. The smaller communiites in Hale county, such as Hale Center, Abernathy and Petersburg, are deserted, with only a few people on the streets. All available manpower is at work in the wheat fields.

Crude Price Hike Progress Seen

TULSA, Okla., June 25 (U.P.) — Oil leaders expressed belief today that they were making some headway in their fight for a crude petroleum price increase—at least they were getting their case before the nation.

All they have needed all along was the chance to show the proper officials and the public why the crude price must be advanced quickly to avert a serious shortage of petroleum products for war, industry spokesmen contend.

Buttram Issues Warning

Simultaneous meetings have been under way by a special congressional committee in Washington and a House subcommittee in the field in the southwest.

President Frank Buttram of the Independent Petroleum Association of America warned that daily average production by early 1944 would be nearly 500,000 barrels below the essential war and civilian demand.

This can be remedied, at least partially, by an immediate boost in crude prices, he asserted, to stimulate exploration for new reserves and to compensate for losses in drilling dry holes.

Three Factors Involved

"Three factors are involved in maintaining production from existing wells at the maximum efficient rate and in finding new oil and those factors are materials, manpower and money," Buttram said.

"The most important of these at the present time is money. The price of crude oil has been kept at a depressed level for years so that the oil producer is unable to secure the funds to expand exploratory effort to the necessary point and to maintain his existing properties in efficient operating condition."

Oil producers said the 35-cent increase recently recommended by Petroleum Administrator for War Harold L. Ickes and rejected by the Office of Price Administration would not be the answer to the industry's problem.

Most of the talk in trade circles centers on an advance of 75 cents to $3 a barrel.

Increasing bitterness is reflected in oil leaders' statements toward suggestions of federal subsidies to the industry to assure sufficient reserves for both the war and essential civilian needs.

Stevenson Says Jones Gets No Gasoline

AUSTIN, June 25. (U.P.) — Jesse Jones of Houston, U. S. Secretary of Commerce and head of the RFC, receives no gasoline, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson relater here today.

Jones' car has not been out of the garage for six months. The secretary of commerce has a chauffeur who lives at the edge of Washington, D. C., and has a gasoline ration to come back and forth.

He picks up Jones at his hotel and takes him with two other share-the-ride passengers to the office in a small automobile.

Allies Knocking At Nazis' Back Door

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press War Analyst

The Allies have begun knocking at the backdoor of Hitler's fortress. More than 50 American Liberators roared across the eastern Mediterranean Thursday and loosed more than 125 tons of bombs on an airbase near Salonika. It was the first Allied attack on this famous Greek port since it passed into enemy hands in the tragic spring of 1941, and it must have carried to Berlin dread reminders of Salonika's role in the last war.

GLENN BABB

Salonika was the base for the armies that opened by the back door to central Europe in 1918, winning a victory that led directly and speedily to the debacle of the German alliance. It was just 25 years ago this summer that these armies were prepared, under the French General Franchet D'Esperey, for the offensive which began Sept. 15 and led to the capitulation of Bulgaria within a fortnight. Five weeks later Austraia was knocked out; Germany followed within another week.

Much Like Today

In many respects the situation then was like today's, especially in southeastern Europe. Germany's offensive bolt had been shot; central Europe was under siege. But the Kaiser's armies had overrun most of the Balkans, held nearly all of Rumania and Serbia (later to become Yugoslavia) and had Bulgaria as an ally. There were some important differences. Turkey was in the German camp. Greece had not been conquered and afforded the Allies a foothold on the continent.

Today the Allies still have to win their lodgment in the Balkans. The German sweep through Greece and the islands of the Aegean two years ago has made their task far more difficult than in 1918. In any case this is one of the invasion routes most favored in the speculation of the day and there is no doubt that the United Nations are assembling great armies, air forces and fleets in the eastern Mediterranean area.

This may be only part of the worldwide war of nerves with which the Allies are supplementing their actual but hidden military preparations. One prerequisite to successful invasion is that the enemy shall be compelled to disperse his forces as widely as possible. If he has to maintain some 75 divisions in the Balkans and the outlying islands, as reports from Turkey indicate, that means the thinning of his lines in Russia and the west.

There is more to it than bluff, however. Hitler must disperse his forces because he knows that the United Nations actually are building up concentrations of striking power at half a dozen or more points around his domains each capable of delivering a knockout blow.

Food Subsidies

has been put upon it."

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York likewise supported subsidies before this committee, headed by Rep. Scanlon (D-Pa), saying "hell will break loose in this country" unless Congress gives immediate attention to food and prices.

In House debate on subsidies, Rep. Fish (R-NY) declared OPA has established them "in defiance of public opinion," while in the Senate Senator Clark (D-Mo) said Secretary of Commerce Jones has lobbied "indecently" in behalf of the payments and could be impeached. Senator Hill of Alabama, acting Democratic leader, replied that Jones had acted "well within his rights" in counseling with Congress members.

Mr. Roosevelt, speaking out anew against creation of a food czar as demanded by the House agriculture committee, said the question at issue is whether we are for inflation or against it.

Described As Red Herring

President Roosevelt described as close to a red herring the suggestions that someone receive complete authority over all phases of the food question. He told a press conference the real question is whether prices are to be kept down, whether we want to go into an inflationary spiral. Congress could take the path toward inflation if it wanted to, Mr. Roosevelt observed, but responsibility for such action would rest 100 per cent on the legislators.

Suppose we had the Angel Gabriel as food czar, the President observed—how is he going to get more food to the people at the present cost? Some people on Capitol hill, he said, think the easiest way to use up surplus buying power is to let prices go sky high.

If prices keep going up, the chief executive commented, a lot of people, mostly relatively small wage earners, will have to spend a great deal more for food.

Then they would demand more pay and probably get it, which would mean production costs and costs to the farmer would go up, he said, and that would lead to requests for higher wages; cost to farmers would rise again, and so on.

The chief executive disclosed he had asked Food Administrator Chester C. Davis whether he wanted to run the OPA, and Davis had replied: "God forbid!"

CIO President Murray, appearing before a special congressional committee considering consumer problems, insisted that Congress support the subsidy-rollback program, already in effect on meat and butter. Unless Congress acts immediately, he testified, labor cannot meet increased living costs under present wage ceilings.

Anti-Strike Law

gress to override the veto.

The House division found 114 Democrats and 130 Republicans voting to override the veto, and 67 Democrats, 37 Republicans and four minor party members balloting to sustain it.

First Major Labor Defeat

It was the first time since he has been in office that the President has suffered a major defeat in Congress on labor legislation.

Administration leaders sought to delay a vote in the House by offering a motion to adjourn, but this was shouted down.

The message was read in an atmosphere of tension which was broken by subdued laughter from the Republican side when that portion was reached where the President asked amendment of the selective service act so strikers could be drafted.

Even as the vote was being taken, representatives of the CIO were circulating an open letter to members of Congress from Philip Murray, its president, declaring that "the President's veto has made possible a more careful consideration of the devastating implications of the measure passed by Congress in haste."

"In the interests of effective prosecution of the war by a nation strong in its democratic unity," Murray added, "I earnestly plead with the members of Congress to rally to the support of the President and of his veto to the bill."

President's Position

In his veto message, Mr. Roosevelt said there should be no misunderstanding of his reasons for disapproving the legislation.

"I am unalterably opposed to strikes in wartime," he continued. "I do not hesitate to use the powers of government to prevent them."

But the Connally-Harness-Smith bill, he declared, included provisions "which have no place in legislation to prevent strikes in wartime and which in fact would foment slow-downs and strikes."

Specifically, he cited provisions for a secret ballot by employes before a strike and for notice before a strike is called. And he described as irrelevant a prohibition against political contributions by labor organizations in wartime.

Senator Connally (D-Tex), one of the authors of the measure, declared the people were "sorely disappointed" at the President's rejection of the bill, and Senator Hatch (D-NM) seconded Connally's views.

Senators Cry To Vote

"Let's vote," senators cried.

The roll was called and a burst of applause from the floor and galleries greeted announcement of the result.

Twenty-nine Democrats and 27 Republicans balloted to override the veto. Voting to sustain it were 19 Democrats, five Republicans and Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis).

The terms of the new war labor disputes act:

Give statutory authority for the President to seize war facilities.

Provide for maintenance of existing terms and conditions of employment except as directed by the War Labor Board.

Provide fines up to $5,000 and imprisonment for up to one year for persons instigating or aiding a strike in a government-operated war facility.

Give statutory authority to the War Labor Board which was created by executive order of the President.

All these provisions, the President said he approved, adding that broadly speaking they incorporated into statute "the existing machinery for setting labor disputes."

Views On Criminal Penalties

Of the proposed criminal penalties for instigating a strike in a government-operated plant, he said:

"This would make possible the arrest of a few leaders who would give bond for their appearance at trial. It would assure punishment for those found guilty and might also have some deterrent effect. But it would not assure continuance of war production in the most critical emergencies."

Then he raised objections to other sections which:

Require notice to government labor agencies when a labor dispute exists which threatens to interrupt war production.

Direct that within 30 days after such voting the National Labor Relations board conduct a secret ballot election among the affected workers to determine whether they wish to strike.

Forbid wartime political contributions by labor organizations.

Speaking in general of labor's wartime record, Mr. Roosevelt cited the "no-strike" pledge.

"That pledge has been well kept except in the case of the leaders of the United Mine Workers," he continued. "For the entire year of 1942, the time lost by strikes averaged only 5/100ths of one per cent of the total man hours worked. The American people should realize that fact — that 99 and 95/100th per cent of the work went forward without strikes, and that only 5/100ths of one per cent of the work was delayed by strikes. That record has never before been equalled in this country. It is as good or better than the record of any of our Allies in war time."

Filling Station Work Limited

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, as petroleum administrator, issued an order today strictly limiting the use of building materials, pumps and other equipment by filling stations and other firms engaged in selling petroleum.

The order replaces previous War Productiin board (WPB) regulations covering the same field.

Ickes specifically provided, however, that barrel pumps or drum pumps may be used freely without regard to the limitations on all other equipment contained in the new order. Because cans for lubricating oil are no longer being manufactured, barrel pumps are necessary to dispense the oil in bulk from drums and barrels.

Service stations and retail outlets may not undertake any maintenance or repair construction except when building or equipment has become "unsafe or unfit for further service," the new order (petroleum administrative order No. 12) provides.

Bulk Plants Included

Bulk distributing plants come under the same restrictions, except that construction up to $500 in material costs is permitted for any one complete addition.

Equipment may be replaced if it cannot be repaired on the premises, but if the outworn item is a storage tank, a larger tank may not be installed in its place. Dispensing pumps which are five years old or more may be replaced by pumps which were manufactured before January 14, 1942, if the old pump is junked and delivered as scrap within ten days after removal.

Equipment made before January 14, 1942, may be installed to dispense petroleum to farm machinery and vehicles exclusively.

Crude Oil Session

winter, the federal government and the federal government alone will be responsible," Jester asserted.

Texas' daily output of petroleum can be increased by 250,000 to 350,000 barrels a day, he said.

Though empty crude oil storage in the state exceeds 130,000,000 barrels, the Petroleum Administration for War has refused to permit adequate production to fill part or all of available storage as a reserve against future demands, Jester declared.

"Texas has the oil if the federal government will let us produce it and will provide transportation facilities to the east," he told the sub-committee.

"The oil is here," he emphasized. "We say, come and get it."

Others Testify

Also testifying were Joe Zeppa, Tyler, of the Delta Drilling Co.; C. J. Wrightman, Tulsa independent operator; E. R. Filley, assistant production manager of the Texas company, Houston; George A. Shivock of Fort Worth, petroleum engineer and producer; J. P. Coleman, Wichita Falls operator; M. P. Flanagan, Longview independent; C. E. McGaha, Wichita Falls, president of the National Stripper Wells association.

Wrightman criticized what he labeled the "insufferably insufficient price" and the "unnecessary burden of departmental requirements for materials to carry on our work."

These, he said, are the two chief deterrents to wildcatting.

The only major company representative to testify, Filley told the sub-committee that the Texas company favored a price hike. He further stressed the need for alleviation of manpower and equipment shortages which he said discouraged exploration for new reserves.

'Old Ironsides' Ends Bombing Career But Its Crew Is Rescued

LONDON, une 25. (U.P) — The Flying Fortress "Old Ironsides" fought off enemy planes for nearly two hours before it succumbed to their attacks and ended its bombing career in the North sea after probably destroying five of its opponents.

The story of the plane and the rescue of the crew was described last night by U. S. Army headquarters.

Among the crew members picked up off the Belgian coast by a rescue launch, directed to the spot by Spitfires, was Pilot 1st Lt. Buster Peek, Paint Rock, Tex.

Two Masonic Groups Install New Officers

Royal Arch chapter No. 248 and Lubbock council No. 183 of the Masonic order installed officers Friday night.

W. Guy Casey was installed as most excellent high priest of the chapter; B. F. Herring, excellent king; J. E. Mann, excellent scribe; Hugh J. McClellan, recorder; Max T. Davis, host; Howard E. Hunt, principal sojourner; C. C. Sherrod, captain; M. T. Darden, master third veil; J. B. O'Connell, master second veil; Clifton Cummings, master first veil; F. B. Sherrod, guard; and Dr. J. M. Lewis, chaplain.

In the council, Early Daniel was installed as thrice illustrious master; Herring, right illustrious deputy master; Hunt, illustrious conductor of work; L. C. Ellis, treasurer; McClellan, recorder; O'Connell, captain of guard; Cliff Elliott, conductor of council; Davis, sentinel; F. B. Sherrod, guard.

H. B. Bryan and E. A. Tipton were installing officers.

and other stepping stones to Greece, it was said.

The Vichy radio said in a broadcast recorded by Reuters that "there are signs that an Allied attack on the Balkans is imminent. . . . The luftwaffe has been strongly reinforced in the Mediterranean in the last few days."

At Trondheim, Norway, an unidentified German admiral believed to be Admiral Otto Ciliax, Nazi naval commander in chief in Norway, told 2,000 Marines that he believed the Allies would invade Norway "within a short time," according to Stockholm dispatches.

King Cheers New Drive

The return of King George VI recalled the widespread reaction of Londoners at the time of his trip: That he did not go to praise an Army for its victory, but to cheer troops on the threshold of a new onslaught.

Further indicating Italian nervousness, the Rome radio broadcast an order from Mussolini to Fascist party followers that party membership would be withdrawn from "all those Fascists who do not serve the country and the Fascist regime with a religious fervor according to the directives given by the duce."

No Direct Comment

There was no immediate direct comment from the White House on the WLB's request for enforcement of its order that the UMW sign a contract with the operators at the old terms plus concessions of about 20 cents a day.

In his brief press conference discussion, however, President Roosevelt left no doubt that in his own mind all other questions are secondary to one hard fact:

Coal must be mined if the nation is not to meet with disaster. He said we have got to do it some way, that the nation is at war and has got to have coal.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, and the union policy committee made the back-to-work order contingent upon continued government operation of the mines. Earlier Lewis had denounced the contract proposed by the WLB as an "infamous, yellow dog" one.

Other Areas Active

(Announcements from Malta and North Africa disclosed that Allied planes based under those commands also had been active.

(Malta fighter bombers and British naval air squadrons attacked war plants at Pozzalla in Sicily and objectives at Augusta, Sicily. A single German plane was shot down.

(Medium and fighter bombers of the Africa command attacked several targets in Sardinia and Wellington bombers concentrated on Catania in Sicily. In all these operations of the Africa force 20 enemy planes were shot down to nine Allied planes lost.)

Japs Indicate Heavy Damage In Celebes

MELBOURNE, June 25 (AP) — Aneta, the Netherlands East Indies news agency, said today that the Japanese-controlled Macassar radio had implied that Wednesday's heavy American bomber raid on Celebes had wrought serious damage.

The Macassar radio indicated heavy casualties by promising aid to dependents of the dead, hospitalization for the wounded and relief for the homeless, the agency said.

News Briefs

The Casscaders, a local orchestra, played for the entertainment of soldiers Friday night at the downtown center for service men. A large crowd was reported by the Lubbock Service organization. The orchestra is to play again at the center next Friday night, it was announced. Announcement also was made of a dance to be held at the center tonight. A grab bag social is planned for negro soldiers tonight beginning at 9 o'clock at the colored center at Twenty-first street and Avenue C.

Retired Anton Farmer Dies At Littlefield

John Allen Riddle Hoover, 74-year-old retired farmer of Anton, died at 7:15 o'clock Friday night in a Littlefield hospital. He had been a resident of the Anton vicinity 15 years.

The body will be sent to Belton, Tex., for funeral services, it was announced by Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home.

Riddle is survived by his wife; two sons, Ollie Riddle Hoover and John Riddle Hoover, both of Waco; two daughters, Mrs. Johnnie Hunt, Waco, Mrs. F. M. Thomason, Corpus Christi; five step-sons, E. D. had a displacement of 530 tons afloat or 680 tons submerged. She was 179 feet long with a beam of 17 feet six inches. Her armament included one three-inch 50-caliber gun and four torpedo tubes

The previous submarines lost since the war began include six overdue and presumably lost due to enemy action. These were the Amberjack, Argonaut, Grampus, Grunnion, Perch and Shark.

In addition to these the submarine Sea Lion was destroyed to prevent capture in the Philippines, and the submarine S-26 was sunk in January, 1942, in a collision off Panama.

The names of the R-12's officers and men were not disclosed.

Huge Radar School Revealed By Navy

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 25. (AP) —A huge school built near here on the sandy wastes of Ward island is training thousands of men in operation and maintenance of radar, the new radio beam reflection device for locating enemy planes, ships and submarines, the Navy disclosed today.

The school, whose function was kept strictly a secret until today, was built in just seven weeks and commissioned July 1, 1942.

It is the naval air technical training center, adjacent to the large Corpus Christi naval air training center.

More than 10,000 officers and men have completed the training. The first class was graduated last September.

Martinique Refugees Arrive In New York

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—Approximately 1,000 refugees from the French island of Martinique arrived yesterday in New York after escaping individually or in small groups from Admiral George Robert's jurisdiction, it was learned here today.

The refugees were picked up on various Caribbean islands to which they escaped from Martinique and were brought by steamer to New York, where they were met by representatives of the State department, the Army and Navy and the Fighting French and Giraudist missions here.

WILCOX RESIGNS POST

TULSA, June 25 (AP)—Homer F. Wilcox resigned today as president of the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company which he organized 25 years ago. Frank H. Dunn, executive vice president, was named president. Wilcox said that he severed ties with the firm because after 30 years in the oil business he felt entitled to "slow down."

Japs Reported Using Wooden Coastal Ships

CHUNGKING, June 25 (AP) — The Japanese, to counteract serious shipping losses, are building large numbers of wooden ships to handle their coastal trade with occupied territories, a Chinese Army spokesman said today.

He also reported that a growing need for manpower had caused the Japanese to order home for military training all their civilians in China aged 18 to 40.

Minor fighting was reported from two areas, with Chinese troops occupied in clearing the Japanese out of the foothills across the Yangtze river from Shasi in Hupeh province and resisting the enemy's efforts to plunder districts near Canton and Swatow in Kwangtung province.

Loaded Wheat Trucks Jam Hale Highways

PLAINVIEW, June 25.—Streets and highways leading to grain elevators in Plainview were jammed for several blocks in every direction during the last three days with trucks loaded to capacity with new wheat, each vehicle waiting its turn to be unloaded.

The 1943 wheat harvest is the best in many years around Plainview. The yield and the price are good, and the weather so far has been perfect. The bulk of the crop is being moved in a remarkably short period of time, and the cutting is earlier than usual. Half of the crop will be cut in 10 days, and the harvest will end earlier than in many years, observers said.

Jury Deadlocked In Latham Sanity Case

FORT WORTH, June 25 (AP) — A jury which could not agree after nearly 42 hours of deliberation on the sanity of 23-year-old Kathleen Latham was dismissed shortly after 5 p. m. today by Criminal District Judge McGregor.

Miss Latham, who is charged with the slaying of Jack B. Disney, was returned to county jail.

Hunger Is Blamed For Young Burglar's Spree

HOUSTON, June 25. (U.P.)—Behind the bars of the city jail, Clarence Harvey Brown, 19, of Galveston, today blamed his brief crime spree on hunger.

Police nabbed him late Thursday night on the roof of the John Darter and Son Transfer Co., after a negro had spotted the youth trying to break into the building.

The negro reported to O. O. Grounds, clerk in the homicide office, who was eating in a cafe near the transfer company. Grounds telephoned for a squad car and the officers found the Edwin Transfer Co., adjoining the Darter firm, already had been broken into. Charges of burglary and attempted burglary were filed against Brown.

Many Leave Ruhr

the Germans were reported by the air ministry news service to have pushed their outer ring of defenses to the North Sea coast.

British crews said coastal defenses were "obviously strengthened" but with "a far more intense struggle in the Ruhr itself." There, huge belts of searchlights and guns were pressed into action last night, and one pilot said he counted nine cones of 30 to 40 searchlights each.

The RAF reported many night fighters out, and the American raiders today encountered fierce attacks by swarms of German defenders, diving on the U. S. bombers in relays. Today the Germans were benefitted also by bad weather, which made observation of the target difficult, Eighth Airforce headquarters said.

Try To Bomb Bombers

The Germans again tried to knock out the American raiders by flying above and dropping bombs on them.

It was the second big daylight attack this week for the American heavies. On Tuesday they smashed the synthetic rubber factory at Huls in the Ruhr, losing 20 Fortresses.

Last night's RAF attack made Wuppertal "like a blast furnace when the coals have been raked evenly over the floor," one Canadian pilot said. Smoke rose at least 10,000 feet.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy, returning airmen said.
