Clint Small Assails 'Wild Campaign Promises' Of O'Daniel In Talk

'Few Of Us To Hold Line' Says Solon

Panhandle Senator Urges Few Laws And No New Taxes

In one of the frankest speeches ever made in Pampa and without once mentioning any names, State Senator Clint C. Small, of Amarillo, "took Governor-nominate W. Lee O'Daniel apart" in an address on "Taxation," delivered Tuesday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and over Radio Station KPDN.

Sen. Small, by almost direct inference, began at the very outset of his speech to indict campaign promises of the next governor as being impossible of realization.

"We have been led to believe," he said, "that the milennium is just around the corner. But, we will find son enough that the picture has been overdrawn."

The senator indicted and subtly lambasted O'Daniel's campaign promises of a pension for everyone over 65 years of age, abolishment of the poll tax, a state sales tax, and what he termed "a sentimental appeal for votes."

"It would be nice if we could be tax free, but when they promise you that taxes will be lowered it's no' true," Sen. Small said. "The state now faces a 16-million dollar deficit, and if we effect a savings of five or six millions in state spending at Austin this next year, we'll be doing good.

Defines Politician.

"A campaign was waged against so-called professional politicians last summer. My definition of a politician is a fellow who promises you something he can't do.

"A man who tells you the truth about taxes and expenditures has a hard time staying in office. The state is short 16 million dollars right now. It spent two millions more last year than it took in. If an individual did that they'd soon have him over in the bankruptcy court, but apparently the good old state of Texas and the United States must be indestructible or else that would have happened to them long ago.

New District Judge Named

AUSTIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred announced today appointment of Curtis Douglas of Panhandle as Judge of the 84th Judicial District in succession to E. J. Pickens, who died last Friday.

During the illness of Judge Pickens for many months, Douglas served as special judge. The appointment will be until the general election. Candidates for the full-term office are W. L. McConnell of Panhandle, Joseph H. Ayensworth of Borger and Jack Allen of Perryton.

In a telegram from Allred to Ayensworth, the governor said Judge Douglas has "assured me personally" he will not be a candidate in November.

The judge elected in November will serve out the term of Judge Pickens, due to expire in 1940.

Judge Pickens died recently after a long illness.

15-Minute Parking Limit Area Fixed

Pampans wishing to park on North Frost street in the 100 block and go into the city hall to pay water bills or transact other business will no longer be required to circle Albert square vainly in an attempt to find a convenient parking space.

By orders of the city commission, a 15-minute limit has been put on parking on the west side of the city hall building. Parking heretofore in that area has been unlimited. No change has been made in parking time on the other streets around the city hall.

Both signs and painted lines will be used on North Frost street notifying citizens of the new parking limit.

Cisco Man Blown To Pieces

New Underpass Plans Made By Commission

A proposal that members of the city commission, and a representative of the Santa Fe railway confer this week in the interest of advancing of plans for an underpass to be constructed at the point where the Santa Fe tracks cross Cuyler was made to the city commission at its meeting Tuesday by Garnet Reeves, BCD manager.

Following the conference it was suggested that a represenattive of the BCD and a member of the city commission then go to Austin to meet with the Texas Highway commission to determine what could be done about the matter.

Mr. Reeves told the commission he thought it was the logical time to see if the project could be listed for 1940 or 1941. He said he did not see much chance of getting the project through at this time for 1939.

All plans at present are in the tentative stage. The underpass, if built, would be a four-way arrangement between the Santa Fe, Texas Highway department, the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, and the city.

Arrangements to build the underpass seemed favorable a year ago, but the city would have been liable for property damage, and did not wish to assume the responsibility. The commission yesterday indicated it might assume such responsibility, but wanted this feature clearly defined.

W. H. Rochester, chief engineer of the Western lines of the Santa Fe, will probably be the official with whom the city commission will confer. Rochester succeeded W. W. Kelley who was transferred six months ago to Chicago. Kelley had voluminous file of correspondence concerning the proposed underpass, first advocated five years ago.

Local Police Seek Two Missing Girls

City and county police have been asked to search for two girls missing since Monday when they left their homes for school. The girls were chums and it is believed by their parents that they left together.

One of the girls is 15 years old, is 5 feet 4 inches tall and has brown hair and eyes. When last seen she was wearing a blue coat, black dress, brown and white shoes and brown hat, turned up in front.

The other girls is 16 years old but officers do not have her description.

Anyone who saw the girls is urged to contact the police or sheriff's office.

Owner Of Georgia Marble Company Dies In Mansion

TATE, Ga., Oct. 12 (AP)—Col. Sam Tate, 78, chairman of the board of the Georgia Marble Company, died late yesterday at his pink marble mansion in Long Swamp valley.

Since 1905 he had held control of vast stone quarrying and manufacturing interests built up from a 160-acre tract which his grandfather, Samuel Tate, purchased for $150 in 1835. The company was first organized in 1884 with capital stock of $1,000,000.

Eight States Seek Car Of Girl Slayer

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—An 8-state alarm for a blood-stained motorcar was broadcast by police today in their quest of the slayer of 17-year-old Mary Imelda Coyle, red-haired Parochial school graduate, whose bludgeoned and ravished body was found early yesterday behind a movie theater.

Westchester county authorities, organizing the most intensive search since the kidnap-slaying of 12-year-old Peter Levine last spring, were balked by a paucity of clues.

These possibilities for identification of the attacker stood out:

1. The voice of the killer, who choked off Mary's desperate cries for help, might again be recognized by a woman who heard a girl's screams at 1:30 a. m.

2. Between 10 and 15 strands of brown hair, each about four inches long and without the reddish tint characterized by that of the victim, were found clutched in her hand.

3. She was slain with a blunt instrument such as a ball-headed hammer, with which the killer inflicted from five to eight fractures of the skull. A search for the weapon in the hope of finding fingerprints was started.

4. Absence of blood under the body supported a policy theory that the crime was committed elsewhere and the body dragged to the vacant lot. Bloodstains led 30 feet

Fire Prevention Observance Praised

With fire prevention week half gone, Fire Chief Ben White and his fire fighters are well pleased with the local response to their plea for cooperation in making Pampa a safer place in which to live. They urge continued efforts the rest of the week.

"Unprecendented cooperation has been received from schools and civic clubs," Chief White said this morning. "Our work in that branch is practically finished and we will devote the rest of the week to downtown and some residential inspections."

Themes have been written, posters made and students told about fire prevention. Only two schools remain to be visited, Chief White said today. Holy Souls church will be visited by Phillip Powell at 10:15 tomorrow morning and Chief White and Fireman Tom Eckerd will take a truck and visit Baker school at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Firemen will try to visit every business house in Pampa and as many residences as possible seeking fire hazards.

NAZIS MOB PRELATE'S PALACE

LAUGHS OVER SEVEN-STORY FALL

Still not quite able to believe the miracle is Mrs. Mary Babyak, of New York, pictured holding her 14-months-old son Michael, who will probably go through life dubbed "Lucky Mike". The baby was playing on a bed in his home on the top floor of an apartment house. He plunged through an open window level with the bed and fell seven stories to the ground. Mrs. Babyak rushed downstairs to pick up, as she feared, his crushed and bleeding body. She got there in time to see him rise without a whimper and walk over to her. "Lucky Mike" and his mother are shown after the accident, whose total damage, thanks to a network of clotheslines that broke the baby's fall, were abrasions on his head and wrist.

Dealey Begins 65th Year With Newspaper

By L. C. SLOAN

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (AP)—G. B. Dealey, president of the Dallas Morning News, today began his sixty-fifth year of continuous service with the oldest business institution in Texas, a record unequalled by any other American newspaper publisher.

At his desk piled with messages, friends congratulated the white-haired, clear-eyed man who sixty-four years ago today started as an office boy for the Galveston News, parent organization of the Dallas News.

Dealey, who is at his office daily from 9 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., puts in more hours than most of the News' hundreds of employes.

Born in Manchester, England, Sept. 18, 1849, Dealey with his family first saw Galveston from the deck of a sailing vessel in 1870. He never went back to England.

From office boy at $3 a week, Dealey worked in the circulation department, as travelling agent and as correspondent at Waco, Houston and Dallas.

When the Dallas News was founded in 1885, Dealey became its business manager.

Ten years later, he became manager of the News and in 1906 be-

Forest Blaze Fatal To 18

(By The Associated Press)

Airplanes, National Guard trucks and thousands of men patroled the fire-ravaged Canadian border district between Northern Minnesota and Ontario today on the 20th anniversary of a forest fire that took hundreds of lives.

Although scattered showers and lower temperatures had greatly improved conditions, authorities said, grimy, weary fire fighters were watching blazes from Warroad, Minn., eastward on both sides of the border to prevent new outbreaks of the fires that had already claimed 17 lives.

About 30 persons, including one whole family, were missing in the dance township, Ontario, region north of Fort Francis, where a crackling timber fire yesterday killed 14 settlers. Three men lost their lives, fighting blazes on the Minnesota side of the border.

It was just 20 years ago today that a timber fire destroyed the city of Cloquet and killed several hundred residents of the district.

Constable David Hamilton of the Ontaria Provincial Police said today indications were two more families, comprising about ten persons, perished in Monday's devastating fires that swept the Minnesota-Canadian border country with 17 dead previously listed.

The constable directed a crew into the dance township region, fifty miles northwest of here, where 14 victims had been accounted for, and

Traffic Deaths To Rise During Fall

AUSTIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—The debit side of Texas' book of highway deaths increased by $6,350,000 in September.

Figuring each life lost in highway accidents exacts an economic toll of $50,000, state police reported September's toll of 127 persons boosted the economic loss for the first nine months of the year $57,400,000.

Although fatalities of 1,148 were 294 less than for the first nine months last year, police forecast a rising toll for the rest of the year unless motorists and pedestrians "revolt against speeding and other offenses against the public safety."

British Advised To Leave Canton

CANTON, China, Oct. 12 (AP)—The British consul in Canton today advised British women and children to leave as a new Japanese expeditionary force landed at nearby Bias Bay.

It was understood about 40 British subjects and several Americans would leave tomorrow.

The populace generally was calm. Military authorities were secretive about defense preparations but it was reported the Chinese planned to construct a barrier across the Canton river.

Czechs Ask Hitler To Satisfy Hungarians

KOMAROM, On the Czecho-Slovak-Hungarian Border, Oct. 12. (AP)—Persons close to the Slovak delegation in the Komarom conference on the territorial dispute between Hungary and Czechoslovakia said today that the Slovaks had asked Adolf Hitler to mediate "in this serious hour."

Slovaks said after a meeting today of the two delegations that they were so widely apart that it did not appear their difference could be bridged by ordinary negotiation.

The only hope, they said, was that some foreign statesmen could convince the Hungarian government that its demands were "sky high" and a danger to European peace.

They believed that the fuehrer of Germany, already master of the Sudetenland taken from Czechoslovakia, was the only man who might so impress the Hungarians.

Previously it had been reliably indicated that the Hungarians were asking for some 8,000 square miles of southern Slovakia and that the Slovaks — to whom the Prague government has delegated the Komarom negotiations — were willing to cede only about 2,000 square miles.

O'Daniel Has No Theories For Farmers

CORSICANA, Oct. 12 (AP)—Texas' Democratic nominee for governor today had his first taste of agricultural controversy, and came out of it without a scratch after informing a meeting of dirt farmers he had no pet theories he wanted to inflict on them.

A few minutes after Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel told a meeting sponsored by the Farmers Union of Texas here yesterday he would have nothing to say with reference to federal legislation, State Agricultural Commissioner J. E. McDonald bitterly attacked AAA farm policies.

Meanwhile, Alexander Boynton, the Republican candidate for governor, circulated through the crowd passing out dodgers attacking O'Daniel on several points and advocating McDonald's agricultural program.

O'Daniel told the farmers, brought here by the union which is in the midst of a campaign for members, they knew more about agriculture than those who read about it in books, and invited them to air their views on what the state government could do that would be beneficial to agriculture.

After the speeches, O'Daniel, wearing a cowboy hat and boots, talked with farmers and farm women informally for nearly an hour.

Some of them said they favored the AAA plan. O'Daniel told all he was more interested in strictly state problems than he was in national questions.

McDonald, who has been stumping the state in his attacks on the AAA cotton plan, again urged the domestic allotment scheme, and explained it in detail. O'Daniel, in his speech and in the informal session afterward, studiously avoided taking sides in the controversy.

British Would End Guerilla Fighting

JERUSALEM, Oct. 12. (AP) — British troop reinforcements fanned out across the Holy Land to strategic posts today in punitive expeditions to end guerilla fighting that has marked the bitter Arab-Jewish conflict.

Columns of infantry and mechanized units were cheered by villagers as they followed Palestine highways travelled by the Crusaders of another day.

The troops, assisted by Royal Airforce warplanes, inflicted heavy casualties on a band of raiders in a midnight battle near an Arab village southwest of Jerusalem.

One British soldier was killed and one was wounded seriously.

Hog Prices Drop As Supplies Increase

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The post-drought boom in hog prices, important index of the corn belt's economic status, was near an end today.

For almost four years, farmers have been sending a sub-normal stream of hogs to livestock markets and have been receiving more than $8 per hundredweight for them.

Now, however, the $8 hog has become a rarity in most markets situated in the world's greatest corn and hog producing region. Supplies are increasing and prices are declining.

Student Tickets To Be Honored At Gate

A student gate is being built at Harvester field through which all students will pass to football games. No student tickets will be accepted at the other entrance and only persons in school at the present time will be admitted at the reduced rate.

On the student gate will be a teacher who has been in the system for several years. He will know everyone in school and those not entitled to be admitted on a student ticket will be refused entry to the game at the reduced rate.

Both adult and student general admission tickets are on sale at downtown drug stores. Combination general admission and reserve seat tickets for the east grandstand are on sale at the office of the school business manager in the city hall.

9 Streets, 4 Alleys Will Get New Paving

Money has been deposited by property owners in Pampa for the paving of portions of nine more streets and four alleys, under a Works Progress administration project, City Manager W. T. Williamson said Tuesday.

The areas to be paved are: two blocks on East Francis; and one block each of the following, on Crest north of Browning to Sunset Drive; Purviance, from Francis to Browning; Ward, from Francis to Browning; Gray, from Kingsmill to Francis. Wynne, from Francis to Browning; Gillespie, from Francis to Browning; Gray, from Foster to Atchison.

Alleys to be paved are located in blocks between Ballard and Cuyler, Ballard and Gillespie and Houston, and between Ballard and Gillespie, to the intersection of Foster and Kingsmill.

A work order has been requested on the paving of these streets and alleys.

Property owners can pave streets in front of their property at a cost of only $1.25 a foot, based on streets of 36-foot width.

On another federal aid project, that of a PWA grant to build a $260,000 waterworks system, date of the letting of contracts is expected to be received either this week or next by City Manager W. T. Williamson, from the regional office at Fort Worth. The date will allow for legal publication giving notice of the letting, two weeks in advance of the opening of the bids.

Columbus Still Holds World On

1492 Discovery Anniversary

By EDDIE GILMORE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Four hundred forty-six years after he discovered America, Christopher Columbus stands on the capitol steps looking for someone to throw the world to. The statue, known to Washington guides as "The Patient Quarterback," depicts Columbus—all wound up—ready to heave a miniature globe in the general direction of the supreme court.

Aesthetes have swooned at the sight for years.

Athletes have caught their breath.

The fine arts commission has tried to do something about it.

Things haven't always been like this. A statue of Washington once stood across capitol plaza from Columbus—in a direct line with the way he would throw the world.

But senators said the Washington statue wasn't dignified. They had their point—it was the famous statue of the father of the country without a shirt.

They called the two statues "The Ball Players."

Finally the Washington statue began to crack up. The winter snows were too much for the Italian marble of which he was made. Officials ordered it sent to the Smithsonian institution.

Columbus then stood alone.

In recent years lawmakers have offered many substitutes for the Washington statue. Enough famous Americans have been suggested to make up 40 all-American teams, but nothing has been done and here it is Columbus Day again.

The next time you're in the capital you ought to look up the Columbus statue. You can't miss it, because there's an Indian girl beside it and her marble fingers have come off.

Great Force Lands In Bay At Hongkong

Britain Warns Not To Destroy South China Property

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Japanese government today urged the United States and other powers to "refrain as far as possible from moving troops, warships and aircraft in South China" in view of the landing of a Japanese expedition, presumably for a drive on Canton.

Notes were sent to Tokyo embassies of the principal powers asking for cooperation in preventing of incidents with the South China campaign.

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Domei (Japanese News Agency) reported from Hongkong today that Japanese naval planes had bombed 11 communities in Kwangtung province, Southern China.

Domei dispatches also said ninety Soviet airmen were concentrated at the airfield adjacent to Canton.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—With Japanese forces landed in South China for a drive on Canton, the British government today let it be known that Japan had been "reminded" that any damage to British interests in South China may involve "risks for Anglo-Japanese relations."

A source close to the government said that Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, Ambassador to Japan, had delivered "a reminder" to the Tokyo foreign office on this subject within the last few days.

Other reminders, this informant pointed out, had been given Japan concerning the extensive British interests in the Crown Colony of Hongkong and in South China generally and "the risks to Anglo-Japanese relations which any incident might cause."

Informed persons said it was felt that the Japanese troop landings at Bias Bay, just north of Hongkong, with the apparent object of cutting the Canton-Kowloon railway, might seriously affect Hongkong, which depends for its trade on the Chinese Hinterland.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12 (AP)—Japanese forces unloosed their might today in a final, giant pincer offensive designed to capture Hankow and smash Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's legions.

A new Japanese expeditionary force, estimated between 30,000 and 50,000 mechanically well-equipped men supported by naval and air units, landed at Bias Bay a few miles north of Hongkong.

Their plan was to sever communications between Hongkong and Canton, the last big Chinese coastal

Negress Threatens Another In Letter

Charged with having knowingly sent a threatening letter through the United States mail, Evelyn Williams, negress, was Tuesday given into custody of county officers, following her arrest Saturday by city police.

The woman is charged with having sent letter containing the phrase "I will kill you if you ever come out" to Annie Bell Adams, negress, the letter postmarked Pampa, Texas, 5:30 p. m. October 7.

Annie Bell Adams is a cook and housekeeper in the L. N. Atchison home, 922 East Francis, and resides in a cottage at the rear of 903 East Francis, the Fred Cullum residence. The letter was addressed to 903 East Francis.

The complaint was signed by L. N. Atchison on Tuesday, before County Attorney Joe Gordon. Mr. Atchison said he did not know the reason for the threatening letter being sent, other than there had been some trouble between the two women for several months.

Benes Rejects All Offers

PRAGUE, Oct. 12 (AP)—Sources close to former President Eduard Benes said today he had rejected for the time being all propositions abroad and that there was a growing demand that he remain as an expert adviser to the Czechoslovak government. British reports that he had allowed his name to be placed in candidacy for the rectorship of Glasgow University were denied by authoritative sources.

National Leader Of B-PW Studies Humans Today

"Human beings, understanding them and apppreciating them," is the favorite hobby of Miss Earlene White of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who is the leader of the organized business and professional women of the country.

By profession Miss White is a newspaper woman but for a number of years she has been postmaster of the Captol Division of the United States Senate. She has had extensive experience in advertising, news writing and publicity, and has directed a number of campaigns to raise endowment funds for colleges. She has served as business manager of the Eldorado News of Eldorado, Arkansas, and the Biloxi News of Biloxi, Mississippi. She is now conducting a column entitled "Modern Women," for a syndicate serving 6,000 weekly newspapers throughout the country.

As a keen observer of human beings and an analyist of problems affecting women, Miss White recently stated that although women have been voting citizens throughout the country for 17 years they still have one great lesson to learn and that is the lesson of accepting responsibilities instead of looking for privileges.

"Someone said recently that women's chief contribution to our country has been along the line of social welfare legislation. We must be careful not to overdo this, so that we make people supine and unable to help themselves. After all, the economic necessity is often the spark plug to greater achievement. Privileges entail responsibilites, and if women are really to advance they must cease to shirk them," she said.

"Information is the great guide book that women must use in order to know just what their responsibilities are. If the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs can thoroughly inform our members on matters of public interest, our members can make a real contribution to our life and times. Citizen, privilige, responsibility, opportunity are the words that women should hold before them, if they are to cease to be segregated and herded into a pen of marked "women."

"Women must learn to form their own opinions, and not be rubber stamps. If women are to swallow the propaganda handed out to them on all sides they will be unable to function effectively as citizens. Truth, annedated by facts and figures should be the basis of women's thinking."

Giving credit to others for their ideas is a cardinal principle of Miss White's life. By adopting this principle and applying it in all her contacts she has been the means of pointing the spotlight on the careers of other women and so aiding in their advancement.

Friendliness and frankness are the chief characteristics of this leader of business and professional women, and they are qualities which she applies not only to business problems but to social enterprises. Her business training has included several years' experience as office manager of the Superior Oil company of Gulfport, Miss.

A gifted speaker, able to address 500 or 50,000 persons, she has the art of telling stories in an amusing way. She is the only woman ever unanimously elected president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. She formerly was vice-president of the National Federation, and president of the Mississippi Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. In her earlier days she served as president of three local clubs; the Eldorado, Arkansas, and the Hattieburg and Gulfport, Mississippi, clubs. Because of her long residence in Washington, D. C., the Business and Professional Women's clubs proudly claim her as one of them.

Rules to be Used At Annual Flower Exhibit Presented

Judges of the flowers to be shown at the annual flower exhibit Friday in the Presbyterian church will consider the points given below. These rules and suggestions are being published to give information which will enable the public and all Garden club members to compete on an equal basis. All exhibits will be entered under one of three main divisions with ribbons given for each of the many classes they include. The three divisions are:

1. Specimen. By specimen is meant a single plant, bloom, or stalk.
2. Display. The term used for several of only one kind of flower.
3. Arrangement. A group of different kinds of flowers or plants arranged to create an artistic effect.

To illustrate the above classifications one rose, for instance, would constitute a specimen. Several roses, a display, and roses mixed with other flowers as filler would constitute an arrangement. Autumn Flowers To Be Exhibited At Annual Show

Floral arrangements suitable to the season and special occasions will be exhibited at the annual flower show of the Pampa Garden Club on Friday in the annex of the First Presbyterian Church.

Early autumn has its array of brilliant colors just before the leaves turn bronze and fiery red. For this gardners must thank the asters, the gladioli, chrysanthemums and a few other lovely flowers.

Few blossoms excel in fragile lusciousness the beautiful aster. It is one of the best flowers for arrangements indoors, and its delicate colors and soft plumage are a charm which we wait months to experience. Because they are troublesome to grow outdoors in the garden, unless we take particular care of them and start early, we get in the habit of waiting until aster season, when the florist floods us with them. They are easy for him to grow because of his experience, it was pointed out by a local member.

Arrangements with asters alone may have a color contrast; preferably two contrasting colors may be used. Good arrangements, also, are made by combining them with smaller flowers, such as the tiny chrysanthemums. Brass bowls are fitted for autumn arrangements of various types, Mrs. J. B. Massa of the Pampa organization suggested.

The gladiolus is with us in full strength now. Its rainbow colors are a delightful part of any indoor decoration. For the large room, a bouquet of gladiolus is probably the most brilliant focal point we could devise, but we must not crowd them. They are being used in corsages and even as boutonnieres nowadays, the florists removing the florets and form them into a mat or design just as he would roses or carnations. Their chief importance in this respect is their many flattering colors, one or more of which can be made to harmonize with any color gown.

Roses are beginning to bloom more freely, and can be had economically. There are still a host of garden flowers such as marigolds, calendulas and zinnias. The delphiniums are making their last stand, and we will have to get ours now, or be without for several months. They form an important part as tall materials for an arrangement of garden flowers.

An abundance of autumn flowers will be shown at the exhibit Friday to which the public is invited.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Mind your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should girls working together in an office call each other by their last names—without using Miss?
2. May girls working together call each other by their first names.
3. Should a business man stand up when a woman visitor comes into his office?
4. Is it good manners to smoke in an elevator?
5. Is it good manners to "mooch" cigarettes continually?

What would you do if—

You are a widow and would like to continue using your husband's name—yet your friends persist in addressing your letters "Mrs. Elizabeth Dennam—"

(a) Tell them your preference?

(b) Have your writing paper marked, "Mrs. Frank Dennam?"

(c) Accept their preference?

Answers

1. No.
2. If it is the custom of the office—and it is in most,
3. It is not absolutely necessary—but many men take the trouble.
4. No.
5. No.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b).

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

It looks like Five Years from Now!

THE vast Buick factory is a grand place to visit, these days.

Down the roaring aisles, throughout the sprawling bays there's a sense of great things happening.

They're building something ultra, here at Buick, and they know it.

It looks like five years from now, they'll say of this dazzling 1939 Buick, and they're not talking of appearance only.

They're talking of "catwalk-cooling" that floods air under forced draft to ease the temperature of your engine.

They're talking of BuiCoil springing and the soft shock-smothering spirals that give you the true "full float" ride.

They're talking of that Dynaflash great eight engine, instant with life and wringing good from every drop of fuel.

They're talking of weight-balance and gravity-center that hold you to your line—of wheels that camber to let you take the curves more safely—of new visibility—up to 413 square inches more glass in SPECIAL and CENTURY models.

They're talking a thousand and one details of Buick that you'll never know nor need to know but that to their schooled eyes spell a better built automobile.

And they're thinking of now as they talk.

For they know that no car sells spectacularly when it's merely up-to-date. They know that for big years a car has to be ahead—that a car which looks like the future means better times for today.

When you do see it, think of what the men who built it are saying, not boastfully, but with quiet sureness.

They know. And they're saying "Looks fine for '39!"

Crucial Accident Period

The automobile death and accident rate has shown a steady decline for a number of months. But now the crucial test period is at hand.

We are entering the most dangerous driving months. Fall brings rains, to be followed by the ice and snows of winter, all of which immeasurably increase driving hazards. Equally important, these seasons bring shorter days—and the accident rate at night, is much higher than in daylight.

The wise driver will prepare for this dangerous period. And preparation should take two forms. Put your can in first-class condition, so far as brakes, lights, tires and steering are concerned. And put yourself in the proper mental condition for safe driving. Never forget that the human element is the responsible factor in the great majority of accidents. Before anyone can drive safely, he must think safely. He must know the hazards he faces, and be prepared for them. This "safety consciousness" is the first and most vital essential of accident prevention.

Remember that chance-taking isn't clever. Any fool can push the throttle to the floorboards, pass on hills and curves, disregard adverse weather conditions, and perform similar acts of idiotic recklessness. Caution is the product of intelligence.

Drive safely all the time. And be especially careful in the fall and winter seasons. Then the accident rate will continue to go down.

Be Wary

A short time ago it was announced that the post office department was investigating certain "mail order" insurance companies, to see if they were operating in violation of the law.

Whatever the results of this investigation, the prospective insurance buyer will do well to keep on his guard. "Prize" policies, whether for life, accident, or what-not, usually contain long lists of exceptions and limiting clauses in fine print which make it impossible for the unwary buyer to actually obtain what he thinks he is purchasing.

Buy your insurance from a well-known company, with agents in your locality. Pay standard rates, and get policies that mean what they say. That's the best insurance protection anyone can obtain.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Jim Farley, in the opinion of competent observers and many of his friends, has eliminated himself from serious consideration as a presidential possibility in 1940.

He missed the boat when he failed to ask for the Democratic nomination for governor of New York, which he could have had easily. His decision was deliberate, for he had pondered long and many politicians weren't sure until Governor Lehman had actually said he would run again that Farley wouldn't be chosen the party nominee to oppose Republican District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

KNOWS THE SCORE

Farley knows how things go in politics. Parties make presidential nominees out of governors, senators and even cabinet members. But they don't choose postmasters-general, fellows associated in the popular mind with the more sordid phases of politics because they run the patronage pie-counter. A New York governor usually is a step from the White House. Farley, however, apparently shared prevalent belief that only Lehman or Senator Wagner could beat Dewey this year. Last reports that he considered running died after it became sure Dewey would accede to a Republican draft movement.

PRESS HUDDLES RARE

Farley's friends all believe his popularity has increased since he failed to join in the "purge"—except in the abortive effort to beat Senator Tydings in Maryland. Certainly his press conferences are the most popular in Washington—and rarest—as was proved the other day when he had his first in eight months. He hadn't wanted to be on the spot during the primaries.

His press conferences are remarkably frank. Most of what he says is "off the record." More than any other public official he trusts newspaper correspondents to respect confidences. They do. The big published story after his recent conference was his promise, speaking for the Democratic National Committee of which he is chairman, to support all Democratic nominees. But the capital's top-flight correspondents gathered a lot of "background" about Jim's views and his inside information on political events and prospects.

Jim sits under a full life-size painting of Benjamin Franklin. Both men wear brown and have high foreheads. There resemblance ends. . . . Five fountain pens rear before Farley. Two hold green ink, three black. "No red ink here!" Farley insists. . . . He likes to reply to questions with pleasant wise-cracks, get a laugh and then start answering "But seriously—." . . . Did he know people already were calling the truck which may carry a million-dollar Post Office stamp exhibit around the country "Farley's Phraeton"? "Really?" asked Jim. "Well, just so long as they mention my name!" . . . "Can you hold those 27 seats in Pennsylvania?" "I don't know, I haven't talked with Joe Guffey lately." . . . How about probable congressional gains and losses? "I don't know, I don't want to admit anything." . . . He told how Dan O'Connell, pudgy, practical upstate New York politician, had sat on a bed and pleaded with Lehman: "Remember the great sacrifice Washington made at Valley Forge!" . . . And to several questions "Lord Jim" answered: "I never attempt to speak for anyone else but myself and the Democratic National Committee. I won't discuss what the President is likely to do."

FAILURE OF PRICE REGULATION

When I criticize the government for attempting to regulate prices, it is not a criticism of the Democratic Party, because the Republicans, under Hoover, spent a half billion dollars in attempting to regulate prices. In 1928 cotton was 18 cents. It sold today at about 8 cents, in the new kind of dollars. In terms of the old dollar value given to an ounce of gold, cotton is now lower than at any time in the history of this country.

This is true in spite of the fact that from 1928 to 1932, the acreage planted averaged 40,554,000 acres. The huge crop of 1938 is being grown on 26,904,000 acres. This means that 13,650,000 acres of tillable land in the South has been taken out of the production of cotton. This is equivalent to all the land in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Delaware, and two additional Delawares, assuming that every acre in these states, even including the land occupied by their cities and highways, had been planted to cotton.

In 1931 America furnished 45 per cent of all cotton consumed abroad. In 1936 we furnished 32 per cent. In 1937, 23 per cent. Another way of stating it is that in 1911-1913 we grew 64 per cent of the world's production; in 1937, 37 per cent of the total.

This decrease in production, threw 2,000,000 men out of work.

WASTEFUL GOVERNMENT AND WAGES

One often reads the contention that extravagant government is hurting the taxpayers. The real damage done by extravagant government is the killing of opportunities for workers to get good wages. If the laborer could understand wasteful governments are his worst enemy because they interfere with creative genius that adds to the wealth of the world, we would not have so many tax-eaters loafing on government jobs.

The tax-eaters are, in reality, job killers.

SWEATING OF LABOR BY TAXATION

Every taxing plan, so far devised, seems to result in exactly what President Roosevelt said; namely: "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are a burden on production, and can be paid only by production. If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax sold farms. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, increased cost of what they buy, or in broad cessation of employment."

But there certainly could be a taxing system that would do this in less degree than any system we have yet devised. It is the writer's contention that a tax on production is the most severe tax possible on the sweat of labor; that it is infinitely a worse tax on labor than a property tax, or a straight consumption tax because it retards the accumulation of tools that make it possible for labor to produce more with a given amount of work.

I believe the system we now have, of taxing the income resulting from production and permitting the wealthy to consume large amounts of wealth on which they do not pay their proper share of taxes to the government to protect them in their enjoyment of these luxuries, sweats labor as badly as any system ever tried. It is because of my belief that a system of taxation that would not permit the wealthy to consume anything on which they did not pay their just share of taxation and the elimination of taxes on income resulting from production, would greatly reduce the sweating of labor that I have constantly advocated a graduated tax on consumption. A graduated tax on consumption would not permit any rich man to consume wealth on which he did not pay his full share of government cost.

The point we are trying to make is that there is a great difference to the laboring classes as to how serious taxes do sweat labor. I believe that in the last 25 years, we have so taxed production that this discriminatory tax, that finally goes on to the sweat of labor, is largely responsible for 10,000,000 people being out of work. It is a tremendous undertaking to get the workers to understand how different kinds of taxes affect the wages that they can receive.

THE GERMAN BISHOPS SPEAK

New York Times

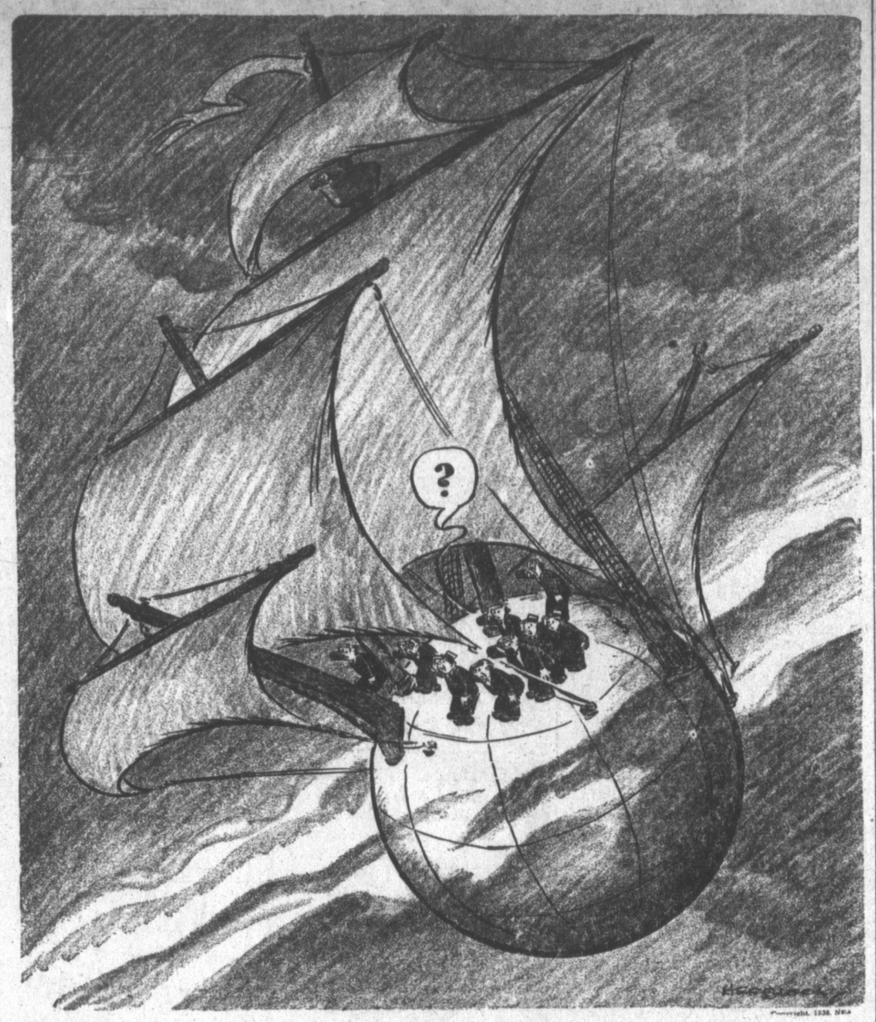

Followers of all religious faiths, as well as those whose faith may not conform to any one confessional, will find profound significance in the pastoral letter drawn up by the German Catholic Bishops at Fulda on Aug. 19 and published yesterday in The Times. This letter is not only a courageous refusal of a single church to submit its conscience to a pagan government. It is a defense, originating within Germany, among men who have no material means of fighting Hitler, of the right of the private conscience everywhere. It was written, as its authors maintain, "primarily in the interest of the country and nation rather than in that" of one "religious faith." It is a bold statement, on the part of a large section of the German people and applicable to all Germans who remember their heroic heritage, that not everything is to be rendered unto Caesar. It touches directly on the central conflict of our generation.

As the fumes of the recent crisis clear away it must become clear that the basic issue is not the freedom of one small state, nor even the peace of Europe. Ultimate freedom and lasting peace are dependent less on the arrangements made by governments than on a general respect for the rights and dignities of individuals. The effect of the great modern religions of the Western World has been to enhance those rights and dignities. Though some religious leaders, of whatever church or denomination, have sometimes taken reactionary positions, the whole trend of religion itself has been in the opposite direction. In that respect all faiths have contributed toward a humanitarian civilization. A wholly materialistic civilization could not have produced a Bill of Rights, a Gettysburg Address or that great change in custom and law which has so vastly benefited the young, the old and the helpless.

The German Bishops, in accord with the teachings of their religion, lay stress upon belief in a personal God and personal immortality. They abhor the doctrine that the "spiritual qualities" of man, like the body through which they are made manifest, are doomed to "decompose in death". They rebel against "a purely materialistic conception of human life." Millions, of their own and other faiths, will hold with them in these matters. Even those whose strivings after truth have resulted in doubt must find something stirring in this challenge and must feel in it a possibility of a common ground and common action. For the essence of the position is its implied revolt against attacks by an arrogant state on human personality. The barbarism which the German Bishops are fighting is a denial of the whole course of Western civilization. Not only the religion but the art, the literature and the science of many generations are threatened in this dark warfare.

Protests from outside Germany have lost much of their efficacy since the Munich conference. But this new protest from within Germany, joined with those that have been made by the German Protestant clergy, raises the hope that if peace can be maintained civilization may yet make its voice powerfully heard. Boundaries may be adjusted by compromise or surrender, but ideals and faith cannot be bargained away. By them the culture of the Western World stands or falls.

COLUMBUS DAY---1938

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The new face—subject of so many lovely ditties from Hollywood's casting directors who claim to want it—is having its turn this year in earnest.

Unless you've given up looking for reasons in the things that Hollywood does, you can find one—or two or three—good reasons for this trend toward experimenting with untried or scarcely tried talent.

Generally, a new face isn't as costly as a famous one—and Hollywood, scared by talk of war which would hamper its income seriously, is looking for penny-saving devices. A general paring of contract lists is going on, not because the people pared are of no use, but because it's cheaper to get them as needed by the picture than to pay them week after week.

Specifically, though, Hollywood has been having unusually good luck with "new faces," and that always sends the newcomers' stock soaring. I imagine Louis B. Mayer shudders every time he thinks what might have happened if he hadn't loaned Hedy Lamarr for "Algiers." The bright feminine star of the year might have been undiscovered.

"Four Daughters," more even than Hedy, offered incentive to producers to look around and try things. Here was a picture without a real "name" in it—and Warner's got for their experiment four good star bets in John Garfield, Jeffrey Lynn, Gale Page and Priscilla Lane. Lynn's opportunity came perforce, not through Warner foresight. They wanted Errol Flynn, and Flynn wanted to keep on boating. They had to use somebody, and there was Jeff Lynn.

Ellen Drew, the soda-fountain Cinderella looked like just another ingenue with Crosby in "Sing You Sinners." She was lucky to get that much of a break, however. My guess is they gave it to her because a Crosby leading lady doesn't have much to do, anyway, and a new girl wouldn't add to the overhead like a more experienced, higher-paid contractee. Frank Lloyd must have seen more in the girl than most of us, because he tried her for "If I Were King"—and Ellen Drew showed us all that she has the dramtic goods.

Vincent Price, the handsome "Victoria Regina" lead with Helen Hayes, wasn't so much of a gamble. Universal has him with Constance Bennett in "Service de Luxe," introducing him as a co-star, and has great hopes that film fans will like him. They should.

Out at Metro the starlets are thriving. Ruth Hussey showed more than promise in "Rich Man, Poor Girl," which also gave Lana Turner a likeable role. They think well of Ann Morriss, Ilona Massey and Miliza Korjus.

Striding toward greater things, after slow beginnings, are Marie Wilson, Ann Sheridan, Jane Bryan, Lynn Bari, Dorris Bowdon, Arleen Whelan and Dorothea Kent, among many others.

In the juvenile department the new finds include Janet Chapman, Terry Kilburn, Irene Dare, Gene Reynolds, Johnnie Russell, and Bobs Watson—the last-named a sure thing after "Boys Town."

Friends and relatives are mourning the death of Miss Martha Ann Morris of Mobeetie, sister of Bob Morris, Pampa druggist. Miss Morris formerly lived in Pampa and was employed at several local stores. A fine tribute was paid Miss Morris by Rev. Gilliam, Methodist minister, and Rev. McNeily, Baptist pastor, both of Mobeetie. Said they, "She was the most patient girl, and was full of courage and faith. She thought only of others. No matter how great her suffering or pain was she never complained. Her only thought was of others. Everyone who came into her room was greeted with a smile. She fought to the very last. She leaves a host of friends that mourn her passing." . . . Miss Morris was ill 19 months before her death.

Several Pampa children suffering from tuberculosis have recently withdrawn from school. Two children from one family have the disease and had to quit school, and that of course is the proper thing to do for tuberculosis is not the fatal disease it used to be and can be cured with proper treatment— continuous rest and proper food. It seems that more people have recovered from it than have died from it in recent years. Yet every so often the disease gets a stranglehold that cannot be dislodged. Proper treatment is absolutely necessary.

How's Your Health?

Repeatedly people write to find out whether or not the dust storms which spread over the southwestern portions of the United States in recent years have done immense damage to health.

There are said to be two new diseases called dust pneumonia and dust on the intestines. It has been said that the dust interferes with childbirth, and the children when born die young, and that wild animals and birds have disappeared from the so-called dust bowl area.

Now Dr. J. A. Blue, who is director of the Pan-Handle district of the Oklahoma State Health Department, has reported the results of his investigations of health in the dust bowl area. These will probably serve to disprove much of the wild rumor that has been circulated about health conditions.

Fifty-six people who lived in the dust bowl area were carefully examined. All of them said the dust storms caused a type of mental depression and worry which ranged from a mild to severe condition.

Fourteen per cent of the people stated that they had no symptoms whatever during the dusty season; 25 per cent felt that the dust exaggerated their usual illnesses; nine per cent had diseases of which certain symptoms seemed to be due to the dust; 62 per sent said they had a tightness of the chest during the severe dust storms, and 80 per cent had coughing for a day or two during the storms, and spit up dusty material for several days after.

Very few seemed to suffer from chills or fever, but practically all had irritation of the throat, irritation of the nose, and nose bleeds. The physical examinations also showed that the eyes had been irritated by the dust.

In very few instances was there any sign that the lungs had become inflamed or infected, although some of the patients did have such symtoms. The records for the state of Kansas for 1935 showed a definite increase, however, in the death rate from respiratory infections in the dust bowl area compared with the state as a whole.

In the Oklahoma Pan-Handle District the number of deaths from influenza and pneumonia were lower than in the rest of the state although there were more severe dust storms and longer ones in the Pan-Handle District than elsewhere. Thus the dust does not seem to be a predisposing factor in pneumonia.

Doctor Blue is convinced, however, that the dust storms have an unfavorable effect on health in general that the dust storms are getting stronger and more severe, and that eventually they will produce serious conditions in the lung like silicosis.

It was interesting alto to find that the dust exaggerated conditions of sensitivity to the pollens of plants and other substances.

Altogether, then, the worst effects of the dust seems to be the mental effect, the increase in sensitivity or allergy, and the increase in inflammation of the lungs, with a possible later development of silicosis.

State Senator Clint Small of Amarillo drove right down our alley yesterday when he got up and minced no words about what he thought could and could not be done at Austin when the new administration takes over the reins next January. . . Sitting there listening to the senator as he spoke to a radio audience and addressed some 150 or 200 persons at the monthly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, you sort of got the idea that he has a hunch some of Governor-nominate W. Lee O'Daniel's biscuits are going to go flat in the legislative oven because of a lack of dough.

Mr. Small did not mention O'Daniel's name at any time, but everybody was so sure he was talking about the people's choice that you were willing to go right out and bet a new fall felt against your neighbor's old-age pension that you could pick the fair-haired lad the senator had in mind. . . After that speech was over with, I got to messing around with some of the folk outside and they liked it very much. . . . And, it was hard to find any of the 600,000 who voted for O'Daniel last July. . . Some of them must have been there, and if they felt the same way yesterday they did in July, they should have been pretty gosh-awful mad at some of the things the senator said.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Small is one of the few—the very, very few—office-holders who tells you cold turkey that he can't promise you that he'll lower your taxes a dime. . . He says many of the new government costs that are coming up next year are expense accounts created directly by the people through the ballot box. . . Some of these include the teachers' retirement fund, care of the needy blind, and care of dependent children. . . He feels they're all necessary but it takes money to have them function. . . At that, Sen. Small thinks around five or six millions can be lopped off in state appropriations next year. . . This is in contrast to anywhere from ten to 15 millions promised in last summer's campaign talks, the senator stated.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Small drew plenty of laughs and out-loud chuckles from his audience with his reference to hillbilly music, biscuits, and wild promises. . . He was getting across his point with a very subtle collection of cellophane-drapped diatribes, supported by the Smallian grin which has become famous Panhandle and state-wide. . . Mr. Small let it be known through his address here Tuesday that he has a keen sense of humor, notwithstanding the seriousness and frankness with which he treated his subject matter. . . Incidentally, he was introduced by Eddie Dunigan of Pampa as "the dean of the state legislature."

★ ★ ★

When the senator stated that it looked like there would be enough members of the legislature to "dig in our cleats so we can hold the line like Oklahoma held Texas last Saturday," he indicated that everything will not be hotsy-totsy for Mr. O'Daniel when the time comes for going to bat on the legislative floor over some of the issues in last summer's campaign. . . It will be highly interesting to see what happens. . . At least, it should be a Roman holiday for the newspapermen on the state capitol beat.

Inland Lake Dedicated By H. Woodring

CHEROKEE, Okla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Standing at the site of a dam which will convert the Great Salt Plains irto an inland lake, Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring told a celebrating throng today the Nation's army worked at peace while armed forces abroad girded for war.

Fer, he explained, "Under supervision of army officers has been inaugurated and will be completed the Great Salt Plains Reservoir project" designed to harness flood waters of the Salt Fork of the Arkansas and form " a man-made inland sea covering nearly 30,000 acres."

"We are fortunate," Woodring said, "that the military forces of this democracy of ours are by deep tradition so inspired that they prefer to engage in the building of dams to expending their efforts on the digging of trenches on the battle front."

To the easing of the threat of war in Eurcpe Woodring gave full credit to President Roosevelt's intervention.

"Unquestionably," he said, "history will record that President Roosevelt's leadership toward bringing about pacific solution of Europe's pressing problems constituted a factor of major importance in preventing an armed conflict which threatened eventually to engulf the whole world."

Woodring expressed the hope that the Munich conference might be the forerunner of "further conventions at which may be evolved international understandings which will assure peace for Europe and peace for all the wolrd for decades to come."

66 Miles Of Fence On Highway Ordered

Construction of 66.6 miles of fence in Gray county is one of 66 Works Progress administration projects approved today by the state WPA office at San Antonio, it was announced by Harold J. Stafford, administrative assistant.

The fence is to be constructed along the Pampa-McLean road, and on the road from Pampa west to the Carson county line, (Highway 151). Federal funds for the project will be $7,984, sponsor's $9,432, and 98 workers will be employed.

Building of the fence along these roads was required by the increase in the size of the right-of-way. As both roads are a part of the state system, the Texas Highway department required the county to furnish title to a 100 foot right-of-way, and this would necessitate the county's either paying the property owners for a new fence or building the fence itself.

The 66 WPA projects approved today, of which the 66.6 miles of fence in this county is one, involves expenditures of $1,246,316 in federal funds and $793,693 by local governmental agencies.

Another Reform

By ERIK McKINLEY ERIKSSON

Professor of History, University of Southern California

For years there has been agitation for legislation to strengthen the regulation of commerce in foods and drugs. A leader in this agitation was the late Senator Copeland of New York.

Until 1906 there was no effective regulation of the sale of either foods or drugs Food unfit for human consumption was placed on the market without interference. Drugs and patent medicines dangerous to their users were sold without restraint. Finally the abuses became so great that public sentiment was aroused in favor of a law to curb them. The result was the Pure Food and Drugs Act of 1906

That this law has not been a complete success needs no demonstration here. In spite of it foods of questionable quality have found their way into the markets, and drugs which are a menace to human beings have been sold. In recent years the markets have been flooded also with cosmetics which, in some instances, contain dangerous ingredients.

In an attempt to close some of the loopholes through which unfit foods and dangerous drugs have reached the markets and to curb the sale of adulterated cosmetics, a new law was enacted on June 25, 1938. This new legislation, which is based upon the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce, is to become effective one year from the date of enactment, at which time the law of 1906 will become inoperative.

The 1938 "Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act" lists twelve actions which are prohibited. Chief among these are: "The introduction or delivery for introduction into interstate commerce of any food, drug, device or cosmetic that is adulterated or misbranded." It is just as much of an offense to receive in interstate commerce any such goods. The first violation of any of the listed prohibitions is punishable by a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for one year or both. A person who has once been convicted under the act may, for a new offense, be punished with a fine up to $10,000 or imprisonment for three years or both.

Adulterated and misbranded articles are defined at length in the law. For example, food is considered adulterated if "it bears or contains any poisonous substance which may render it injurious to health." Misbranded food is that which is falsely labelled, which has a misleading label, which is "offered for sale under the name of another food," or which, if an imitation, is not so labelled.

Drugs which are considered adulterated are those produced under unsanitary conditions, those which are made from "filthy, putrid, or decomposed substances," those which contain "poisonous or deleterious substances" injurious to health, and those which are below standard. The Secretary of Agriculture, who is charged with the administration of the law, is given extraordinary authority over new drugs. Before a new drug can be introduced into interstate commerce, an application must be made to the Secretary. Thereupon tests are to be made and, unless the Secretary is satisfied, the application will be denied and the drug will not be admitted to interstate commerce.

Regulations similar to those prescribed for foods and drugs are imposed in the case of cosmetics. Even imports and exports are made subject to the law. In enforcing the legislation, the agents of the Secretary of Agriculture are authorized to examine the records of carriers of goods and to inspect factories.

While the law does not go as far as some of the reformers wished, it appears to be far more stringent than the old law of 1906. If administered sensibly, it should result in eliminating at least some of the evils which have prevailed.

Port Arthur Not To Use 12th Graders Here

Collida Will Lead Touted Jacket Crew

Coach Tom Dennis of the Port Arthur Yellow Jackets will not use his twelfth grade players against the Pampa Harvesters here Friday night unless in the closing minutes of the game he sends in two boys whom he desires to letter this year.

"We are not using the six boys in twelfth grade this year," Coach Coach Dennis told Coach Odus Mitchell of the Harvesters in a telephone conversation last night. "We have only two twelfth graders on the squad and we use them as reserves once in a while so that they may letter. They failed to letter last year."

"From the Yellow Jacket record, they don't need their twelfth graders," Coach Mitchell remarked. "Coach Dennis told me last night that he should have beaten Longview three touchdowns instead of playing to a 13-13 tie."

The Yellow Jackets will arrive here Thursday evening. They will come to Childress by train and take a bus from Childress to Pampa. No special train will be sent from the Gulf city.

Pampa fans will see one of the classiest ball carriers, punters and passers in high school football when they watch Louis Collida, Yellow Jacket quarterback in action. That is the promise of the 200 fans who went to Port Arthur with the Harvesters last year. Collida, 165 pounds, is a streak on the ground. He can pass and he can punt like a college star.

Yesterday the Harvesters went through a long, tough practice session despite a wet field. The team is in fine shape, coming out of the game with Lawton uninjured.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BREITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—New York U. scouts came back telling it that this Brunner of Tulane is better than Whizzer White . . . Off with that cap, kid . . . Best baseball bet we know right now is that Babe Ruth will not be back coaching for the Dodgers (it's a cinch he won't if Leo Durocher is the new manager.)

Baseball market preview: Both the Giants and Cubs want Johnny Mize of the Cards and are ready to cough up plenty of the old mazuma . . . (They say the Giants have offered Hank Leiber and $100,000 in cold cash) . . . The Reds appear to be about as well fixed as any outfit in the league, but they'd like to have Tony Cuccinello of the Bees at second base . . . Pittsburgh wants Al Lopez of the same outfit and also must get a replacement for Gus Suhr at first base and some chucking . . . Gabby Hartnett has said Bill Lee, C'ay Bryant, Dizzy Dean and Stan Hack are the only Cubs certain to be assigned lockers at Wrigley Field . . . Yep, she looks like a busy winter.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's back ailment is more serious than anyone imagines, if you can believe dope from the coast . . . For a guy whose team had just won another world series, Ed Barrow, general manager of the Yanks, was a sad-looking individual yesterday . . . Reason: He was in the throes of returning $170,000 collected for the not-to-be-played fifth game of the world series.

Didrikson Breaks Record In Tourney

FORT WORTH, Oct. 12 (AP)—Paced by Babe Didrickson, who blistered the course yesterday with a par-shattering 71, the Texas Women's Open tournament moved into its second round today.

Miss Didrickson, Olympic star in 1932 and since a professional golfer, won her first match yesterday over Mrs. C. J. Davison of Fort Worth, 7 and 6, bettering men's par by two strokes and going six under par under the women's score. She broke the women's course record by three strokes.

In the second round she met Mrs. V. Z. Smith of Fort Worth, who defeated Mrs. Henry Bacon of Fort Worth, 4 and 3, yesterday.

Co-medalists Betty Jameson and Mrs. E. R. Hury, both of San Antonio, paired with Iva Mae Pilcher of Mexico, Mo., and Nell Moody of Sherman, respectively.

Other second round pairings included: Anna Bland Thompson, Fort Worth, vs. Mrs. George Thompson, Jr., Fort Worth; Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth, vs. Mrs. W. H. Ainsworth, Houston; Mrs. John Parnell, Dallas, vs. Mrs. Connally Henson, Little Rock; Joe Henson, Paris, vs. Mrs. R.E. Winger, Fort Worth; Mrs. Helen Harb, Little Rock, vs. Mrs. B. Grant, Terrell.

Scott Heads Confederates

CORSICANA, Oct. 12 (AP)—R. P. Scott of Dallas headed the Texas United Confederate Veterans today. He was elected to succeed Gen. M. J. Bonner of Fort Worth yesterday at a meeting held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Dope Puts Plainview At Top Of District

By STAFF WRITER.

Looking at it one way, Plainview is the best team in the district by at least three touchdowns. That strange statement is arrived at by studying the comparative scores between Plainview, Lamesa, Pampa, Lawton, Classen, Capitol Hill, Lubbock and Amarillo. Plainview beat Lamesa, Lamesa tied Pampa, Pampa tied Lawton, Lawton beat Classen, Classen beat Amarillo, Amarillo tied Capitol Hill, Capitol Hill beat Lubbock.

Now, figuring it another way . . . Oh, here are the comparative scores, you figure it out.

Capitol Hill 14, Lubbock 13.
Capitol Hill 0, Amarillo 0.

Classen 7, Amarillo 6.
Classen 6, Lawton 7.
Lawton 21, Pampa 21.

Pampa 0, Lamesa 0.
Plainview 26, Lamesa 6.
Hollis 7, Plainview 6.
Capitol Hill 32, Hollis 6.

Plainview 26, Lamesa 6.
Plainview 26, Bowie 0.
Lamesa 13, Bowie 0.

Plainview 24, Borger 7.

25 Unbeaten Major Teams Face Battles

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Twenty-five unbeaten football teams, all of major status, face the first big autumn shakedown Saturday. Seven games bring together pairs of undefeated aggregations. Eleven other groups take on major opposition capable of shearing their spotless records.

Pittsburgh, the ranging eastern power, journeys to Madison, Wis., to meet unbeaten Wisconsin and New York U., a greatly underrated group, entertaining North Carolina here.

Carnegie Tech's Skibos, fresh from two easy killings, entertain Holy Cross, ranked with Dartmouth as New England's top team. Brown, which surprised Harvard in opener, hopes to do the same against Dartmouth.

Cornell Tackles Syracuse.

Colgate, aching for a victory, plays undefeated—and undermanned—Columbia. Princeton, which should improve plans on giving Penn's wonder team a real tussle. Fordham, plays Purdue.

Michigan's resurgent forces hardly seem up to the Minnesota standard as these two unbeaten powers clash.

Mighty Alabama, which didn't look particularly impressive in downing North Carolina State, may have been playing 'possum to beguile Tennessee, also unbeaten. Mississippi let down after opening with an upset win over Louisiana State and should have plenty to handle in Vanderbilt, which has beaten Washington State and Kentucky.

Duke, just good enough to beat a sub-par Colgate outfit, meets Georgia Tech. Tech is quite capable of an upset after losing to Notre Dame by only one touchdown last week. Notre Dame has little to fear in Illinois, good and bad by turns.

Northwestern, spurred by dreams of a Big Ten crown, faces plenty in an Ohio State eleven which should be a major factor once it controls its undoubted power.

Baylor and Texas Christian, undefeated leaders of the Southwest conference, face uncertain quantities in Centenary and Texas A. and M. Stanford, unimpressive in two outings, has a chance to get back in the running for the coast conference title by beating Oregon, currently the circuit's unbeaten leader.

The average annual cash income from heat in Missouri has been about $25,000,000 for 30 years.

How to See Football

DOWNFIELD BLOCKING
By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

A pet theory is that if every man performs his blocking chores perfectly, every play is good for a touchdown.

To carry out blocking duties to the utmost means helping the ball carrier after he gets past the line of scrimmage.

Many long runs fall just a few yards short of the goal line because someone failed to go down and get the safety man, or someone else deep in the secondary.

Few sights thrill more than a lineman who does his job at scrimmage and then speeds downfield ahead of the ball carrier to take out the last potential tackler.

Downfield blocking, the spectator will notice, is different from the close-up contact at the scrimmage line. The defensive man has the entire width of the field in which to manœuver and consequently the blocker must use as much of his body as possible in making contact.

Waiting until the last possible instant before making his block, so that the defender doesn't feint him out of position, the blocker usually will form as long a line as possible with his body, with legs and arms extended, hitting the defender midway between the hips and knees. If he aims too low the man may skip over him as he sails underneath, and then make the tackle.

NEXT: The blocking back.

Doyle Calls Indignant Girl Who Socked Him A Stranger

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The rarest bird with the gaudiest plumage still is Jack Doyle (the alleged fighter, not the betting commissioner), whose most recent adventure was to get himself slapped silly the other morning by an indignant six-foot songstress who said Doyle had stood her up.

This made the list of Doyle knockouts virtually unanimous. It is recalled the Irish bust recently scored a phenomenal kayo over himself in a London ring, when he swung at his opponent, Eddie Phillips, missed, and landed upon his brow outside the ropes.

"Ah yes," Doyle sighed. "Here I am only 25, and what a life I've lived. Without being boastful, I think I must be good copy. I've done about everything except bite a dog, haven't I?"

The reporter had been admitted to the presence by Jack's valet, Jimmy, who expressed the opinion that his master "had been taken advantage of" because he had always been too big-hearted and kind to people. "That dame who slapped him, she's practically a stranger to Jack," said Jimmy.

"That's right," Doyle agreed. "She just wants publicity. She pulled the same thing on me in Hollywood. Popped up at a night club with a photographer along. As for being engaged to her, that's silly."

Doyle explained at some length that he, like all athletes, found it necessary to go to night clubs for relaxation. "A man can't sit around looking at the blooming four walls."

CLUB PRO

PETE NOSSENT.

The new professional at the Pampa Country club is pictured above looking over a new club. He is Pete Nossent of Colorado Springs, Colo. Although not a veteran in years he is a veteran in teaching of golf, having served as assistant pro at the famous Broadmoor and Jewett courses in Colorado Springs and in Bartlesville, Okla. The new pro is not a hotshot player but a teacher and a grounds expert.

Dizzy Strong Hope For Next Season

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Phillip K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, today placed his hopes of winning another league pennant and of winning a World Series in a six-point program.

First, of course, is a new contract to Gabby Hartnett.

As his second point, Wrigley said, veteran players will be used as trading material in the winter marts, but, he added, hastily, the "finger" has not been put on any player.

To build up the Cubs' weak supply of young players, Wrigley suggested, is point three, the setting up of a system of cooperatively owned minor league clubs.

Points four, five and six:

Tony Lazzeri will have a place with the organization in 1939 if he wants it, although not necessarily with the Cubs proper.

Dizzy Dean, given no special prescription for his winter arm treatment, remains a strong Cub hope for next season.

Borgans Will Play Reapers Here Friday

Coach Bruce Barton and his Guerillas will try to break in to the win column Thursday night at the expense of the Perryton Ranger second string. The game will be played under the lights at Perryton, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The conference schedule in the Panhandle Junior High league this week will see the Sophomores in Amarillo for a tussle with Central while the Borger Bull Pups will come to Pampa for a game with the Junior High Reapers. Both games will be Friday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

The Guerilla team will be considerably weakened through the loss of two ace ball carriers, declared ineligible to play through a ruling of the district committee Saturday in Amarillo. One of the boys is a transfer here from Odessa and the other from Price Memorial in Amarillo. Neither of them played on first string high school teams.

Fade played guard at the first of the season but was switched to quarterback on offense because of his speed and experience. Myers was the ace ball toter of the team. Coach Barton has not definitely named successors.

Both the Sophomores and Reapers are working long and hard despite soggy ground as they prepared for games. The Reapers of Coach Oscar Hinger hope to break in to the win column while Coach Jack Davis and his Sophomores are in hopes of making it two wins.

Haner Ready To Go Again On Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

Southwest conference football squads counted bumps and bruises today and found most of the teams would be in good physical shape for Saturday's rousing round of battles.

Texas and Rice had injury troubles but the latter was cheered when three casualties indicated they would be off the list when the Owls clash with Tulane.

Beefus Bryan, Texas backfield ace, was out with a fractured rib and probably won't be able to play against Arkansas at Little Rock.

At Rice Doug Sullivan, backfield speedster, and Bill Haner, guard, returned to practice and Don Hager, end, was pronounced ready to go again.

Texas Christian University and Texas A. and M. were in top shape, for their feature battle at College Station Saturday.

The Baylor Bears, with no injuries to worry about, drove hard for Centenary.

Arkansas had quite a few injuries to lament about but Coach Fred Thomsen worried more about a honeymooning quarterback, Ralph Atwood, who was married Sunday and was away on a wedding trip until today.

There were several injuries among the Southern Methodist University Mustangs but the Ponies don't play until next week.

There is an estimated 670,723,000,000 tone of coal available for mining in Wyoming.

Jackets Leave Port Arthur For Pampa

By MAYO WELLS,
Sports Editor, Port Arthur News.

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 12.—Looking forward to a continuance of athletic relations with Pampa's Harvesters, Port Arthur's Yellow Jackets will wind up home training here Wednesday afternoon, then grab up their togs for the 24-hour rail trip to the Texas Panhandle—their first visit to that area.

Unscathed in their 44-0 victory over the Byrd high Yellow Jackets of Shreveport, La., here last Friday night, indications point to the charges of Coach Tom L. Dennis being at full strength for their second set-to with the Harvesters.

Louis Collida, chunky little quarterback and one of two Jacket lettermen, returned to the practice field this week after being kept on the sidelines for the most part of the past two weeks because of an ankle injury. He saw only brief service in the 13-13 tie with the championship Longview Lobos and in the Shreveport game.

Due to work with Collida in the Jacket rear cordon at Pampa will be George Landry, speedy left half, and the other letterman member of the squad; Warren Devillier, a young speedster up from the Jacket B squad; and Guy Nunnelly, bruising fullback who also came up from the B squad.

The Jacket line, for the most part, is made up of inexperienced youngsters.

At ends are Rudolph Neumann, 162-pounder off the B squad, and Ray Sterling, 167-pounder, a squadman last season. Tackles are A. J. Barras, 207-pounder, and Payson Tucker, 186, both from the B squad. Frank Formagus, 170, one of the two guards, is a squadman from last season, while Sid Trimble, 165, the other guard, is a B squad graduate. H. M. Culpepper, a B squad guard last season, holds down center.

Others who will probably relieve on the forward wall include Jack Yoast, 220-pound tackle from junior high; James Bulls, 172-pound squadman tackle; Bill Robinson, 140-pound guard from the B squad; James Goff, 166-pound center from the B team, and Tillman Riggs, 173-pound squadman end.

Among probable backfield replacements will be Harold Bartlett, 164-pound halfback, up from junior high; Charles Hall, hard-running 150-pound fullback from the B squad, and Vincent Zummo, B squad quarterback last season.

The Jackets have won three times and tied once this season, including the 44-0 victory over Shreveport, 13-13 deadlock with Longview, 20-0 decision over Marblehead, Mass., in an intersectional game and 35-6 verdict over Nacogdoches of district 10.

Following the Pampa game, the Jackets will return to the Sabine district to open their district 14 conference campaign Friday week at Orange.

Childers Defeats Texas Tech Netter

CANYON, Oct. 12.—Tennis Coach W. E. Lockhart's Buffalo team, with only five days of practice, held the Texas Tech netters to a 4-3 count Saturday at Lubbock.

The team of Hill and Riley won over the Tech team of Beane and Bateman, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6. Bobby Childers, former Pampa Harvester ace, defeated W. Beane handily, 6-0, 6-2. Ferrell defeated Bateman in another singles match, 6-0, 6-1.

Losses were suffered when Ferrell and Kelly dropped their match to Moore and Chapman, 9-7, 6-2; Chapman defeated Kelly, 8-6, 8-6; Moore won over Riley, 6-2, 6-1, and J. Beane defeated Hill, 6-2, 7-5.

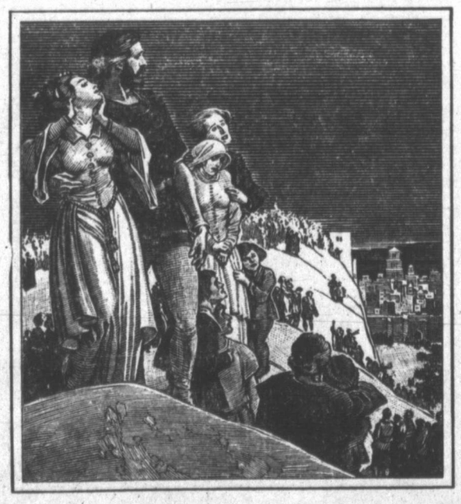

All of the matches were hard-fought, with numerous games going overtime.

Doomsday was a fizzle

"The world will end in the year One Thousand." So said the prophets. But nothing happened.

America, too, has its gloomy prophets. Has had them always. A railroad to the Pacific was a silly day dream . . . the telegraph a plaything . . . the horseless carriage a toy for fools. But all their clamor could not stem the wheels of progress . . . wheels kept moving by the eagerness and vision of our pioneers. Today the spinning wheels of progress run more smoothly and travel everywhere . . . singing a song of cheer heard 'round the world—a promise of ample rewards to Americans with faith in themselves.

● ANSWER TO CRANIUM CRACKER

(Question on editorial page.)

The park referred to is Hyde Park, in London. The fictional character is Dr. Jekyll (Mr. Hyde). He appears in Robert Louis Stevenson's "Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Gerald Sees Earth Slide Kill Father

ALHAMBRA, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—A 10-year-old boy, with a small puppy in his arms, sat on the running board of a car last night and watched his daddy dig the biggest ditch he'd ever seen.

Down 30 feet under North Huntington Drive, workmen swarmed and shovels bit into the hard-packed earth, while flood lights burned almost as bright as day and as gay as a movie premier.

It was a big job, as Foreman Chris W. Wellman, 42, proudly explained to his son, Gerald, when he took him with him to work at dusk. A big job! Through a huge siphon in that ditch would flow water to Long Beach—water that had come 300 miles over mountains and desert from the Colorado river.

Gerald watched, wide-eyed.

About 8 p. m. there was a noiseless quiver of the earth beneath the paving, as if an unseen giant had suddenly pressed down with his fist.

Elsewhere the drag-line dippers and clamshell steam shovels roared on at their task, but over Foreman Wellman a stout timber gave way and others cracked.

Into the bottom of the big ditch the black earth poured like a river.

The earth rose in a suffocating flood, but Wellman kept his head up and freed his shoulder. Then another slide came and he was lost from sight. Lost, also, was another workman, Jack Feeney, 30.

It was a death trap now, the big ditch, but men dared a third cave-in and went down. Their shovels scraped furiously. A fire department rescue crew, then two ambulances, arrived.

Up on a bank young Gerald Wellman stood by, trembling but dry-eyed, clutching his puppy convulsively. He didn't cry, at least not until he was told he would have to leave the scene.

About 11 p. m., after Gerald had gone, they brought the two bodies out.

$163,104 Owed On State Road Bonds

AUSTIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—The state owes $163,104,723 on county road bonds which in 1933 it agreed to pay, a report of the board of county and district road indebtedness to Gov. James V. Allred showed today.

Acting under a law which authorized assumption by the state of bonds voted by counties to build what later became state highways, the state has paid off approximately $40,000,000 in five years.

Last year it paid $8,696,451 on the principal of the indebtedness and $8,323,528 in interest.

Before all the bonds are liquidated a total of $163,104,723 in principal and $85,654,255 will have been paid by the state over a period of about 35 years.

The latest of the bonds matures in 1973. Most, however, will have been taken up by 1965, and they will be retired very rapidly beginning about 1950.

One cent of the four-cent gasoline tax has been allotted to payment of the bonds. Last year was the first since the assumption that the state paid all of the amount it had undertaken to pay in a year.

In 1934 it paid 30 per cent; in 1935, 50 per cent; in 1936, 75 per cent; in 1937, 90 per cent, and in 1938, 100 per cent. It will pay 100 per cent in 1939.

Airlines Agree On Winter Flying Rule

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The nation's airlines, determined to eliminate winter accidents, began operating today under an agreement designed to increase the safety margin during the cold weather flying season.

Spurred by records showing that most crashes that have hampered the industry's growth occurred during the periods of difficult flying weather, the airlines reached the agreement yesterday after a series of conferences.

The accord was drafted under powers granted by the new civil aeronautics authority. Its more important provisions were direct against competitive flying during adverse weather conditions.

Henceforth, all rival lines on a specified route will cancel scheduled trips over that route if the dispatcher of one line decides weather conditions make flying dangerous.

The lines also agreed to limit normal cruising speed to 550 horsepower per engine and to an absolute maximum of 600 horsepower in case of head winds or other delays. The limitation was designed to provide power reserve for emergencies and reduce wear on motors.

Hounds Trail Negro Killer In Louisiana

RUSTON, La., Oct. 12 (AP)—Sheriff Bryan Thigpen used bloodhounds today in an attempt to trail a negro he said killed a young man and clubbed his woman companion last night as they sat in a parked automobile three miles east of here.

The woman was tentatively identified as a waitress, about 20 years old, of Jonesboro, La., south of here. The sheriff said he was not sure of the identity of the man but believed he also was from Jonesboro.

More than 500 persons were reported to have collected at the scene late last night and feeling was reported high because a similar attack case was reported to have occurred nearby not a month ago.

Kellerville Will Have Trade Class

Adult evening school classes for oil field workers near Kellerville will be organized at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the Kellerville school by E. C. Pennington, coordinator of diversified occupations for Gray County, and W. C. Huckeba, teacher in the Pampa junior high school and instructor of a vocational training class here.

Courses to be taught will be determined at the meeting tomorrow night. Last year there were two classes at Kellerville, one in mathematics and one in science of the petroleum industry, with a total enrollment of 40 students.

Seven vocational training classes have been formed this semester in Gray County, three at Pampa, two at Hopkins 2, and two at LeFors.

Pascal Buckner of Big Spring, supervisor of trade and industrial education for district 1, which comprises the Panhandle and West Texas, has been in Pampa this week-end, inspecting the vocational training classes here and in this country. Mr. Buckner left Pampa today on a trip to Shamrock and Borger. He was in LeFors Tuesday night.

Oil Industry Had Jitters Before Cuts

By ALFRED WALL.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 12 (AP)—The oil industry set itself today to the task of building business back to a more healthy status.

It just had found itself faced with a condition that always has given it major jitters—a general reduction in the price of crude oil in the mid-continent.

All the fluttery signs that usually precede such a change were present before major purchasers cut prices.

Nervous executives started calling newspapers to ask, "has the general cut come?" then in Texas Humble set lower prices.

Finally Standard of Indiana, biggest purchaser in Oklahoma and Kansas joined in with a 20-cent reduction yesterday.

Sinclair-Prairie, major buyer in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, followed suit. Phillips, Barnsdall, Shell and others fell into line.

Today it seemed simply a case of everybody leveling off posted prices to around 20 cents a barrel for 36 gravity.

"Behind all of this," said the head of a major company who wouldn't let his name be used, "is the simply ruinous price we're getting for refined products, particularly gasoline.

To brighten the picture many an oil man pointed to the crude statistical picture today to contend there was nothing wrong with that product, what with storage at its lowest point in 17 years, around 280,000,000 barrels, down about 27,000,000 barrels from a year ago. Production is under strict regulation in the big producing states.

Refiners said gasoline, sagging further after another eighth of a cent drop at the refinery in this area during the week looked no better after the American Petroleum Institute report showing gasoline stocks and gasoline output by refineries both up for the week.

Marketers reported all refined products except domestic burning oils were weak.

Field work slacked off moderately, with 501 well completions recorded by the Oil and Gas Journal.

Novelist Excluded From United States

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—John Strachey, British leftist, today was ordered excluded from the United States.

The order, issued by a special board of inquiry of the immigration authorities at Ellis Island, classed the lecturer and author as "a non-immigrant not in possession of a properly visaed passport."

Strachey arrived yesterday in the liner, Normandie, and promptly was taken into custody by immigration officials. The officials had been notified by the state department the former British parliament member's visa had been cancelled a few hours before the Normandie sailed.

Strachey spent last night aboard the Normandie. Today he was taken to Ellis Island for the board hearing. Then he was given a sitting room, bedroom and bath to occupy until he is deported or wins an appeal to the Secretary of Labor, the only recourse now open to him.

Price Reductions On Pontiac Posted

H. J. Klingler, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, today announced substantial price reductions on the seventeen models embodied in the three new lines of cars which this Division of General Motors will offer for 1939.

All prices quoted are advertised delivered prices, at the factory, at Pontiac, Mich. State and local taxes are extra.

Mr. Kingler pointed out that prices as issued do not reveal the full size of the reduction enjoyed by the retail purchaser. "This year," said Mr. Kingler, "the buyer of our lowest priced two-door six-cylinder sedan will pay $70 less than for the corresponding model for last year, and $80 less if Safety Shift is considered, inasmuch as this widely copied feature is now standard equipment on all models.

"In addition to the safety shift, all models of the new deluxe eight line carry as standard equipment dual horns, tail lights, visors and trunk mats which, last year cost the purchaser an addional $12.25. So, considering these important and popular items, we have succeeded in affecting price cuts of which we are justifiably proud."

Humble Posts New Oil Price Schedule

The local office of the Humble Oil & Refining company today announced a change in price schedule for Panhandle crude oil. The new price posted was $1.06 for 45 gravity and above with a two-cent reduction in each gravity figure for Gray and Wheeler with a $1.01 top price in Hutchinson and Carson. For the first time a price has been posted for 28 gravity which is 72 cents per barrel.

Humble is the only company posting a price for crude above 40 gravity. Other companies have a top price of $1.08 for 40 gravity with a two-cent reduction for each gravity point to a low of 34 gravity. Up to early afternoon no other takers had met the price reduction, although Stanolind Oil & Gas company was reported to have met the price in other fields. The company does not take Panhandle crude.

The price change posted became effective at 7. m. today.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.

ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

* * *

Yesterday: After hearing Rogers' warning, Tait asks the janitor henceforth to keep everyone out of his apartment and he is surprised to learn that the janitor had left no one in there.

CHAPTER IX

VAGUELY troubled, Bob Tait went out into the alley and climbed into the rented coupe. He was certain that the janitor wasn't lying—which meant that Harris Rogers was. Either Rogers had managed to have a key made which would fit the lock of Tait's apartment, or he had a ring of skeleton keys.

Tait shrugged. There was nothing to be gained in worrying about Harris Rogers now. The manager's reasons for wanting the corpse of Ludden Dombey to stay quiet were good reasons. Good, that is, for Harris Rogers. The thing to worry about now, Tait told himself, was the eventual fate of Myrna.

He turned the car into the street, headed for an arterial which would take him straight to headquarters. Inside the dingy, gray stone building he went at once to Feeley's office. That individual lolled in a deep chair, his feet on his battered desk, a black cigar stuck at an angle in his mouth, and his eyes wandering over the skyline beyond the window.

"Well, well," said Tait jovially, "is this the way a dynamo of crime detection works?"

Dannie Feeley swung his feet down and turned to regard the newspaper photographer with a fishy eye. "You," he said, and that was all.

"No other. Robert Tait."

"Sit down," invited the detective. "I want to talk to you."

* * *

BOB TAIT sat down and smiled at Feeley in what he hoped was a very disarming fashion. "Dannie," he said, "I've got Mrs. Ludden Dombey."

Not a flicker of expression went over Feeley's features. "I'm not surprised. And I ought to throw you in the hoosegow. I may yet. Where is she?"

"She'll be here. I'll send her down. But I'd kind of like to know what the set-up is. Will you give her a break?"

For a moment Feeley was silent. He looked out of the window, studied a thin trail of smoke from a streaked brick chimney. Then he returned his attention to Bob Tait. "Listen," he said, "I like you. You've played square with me before, and until somebody proves otherwise, I'll do it again. But you knew we wanted to talk to that girl. What was the idea of making her scarce?"

"I didn't. The fact is, I've been trying to find her all night. The kid is all upset. I had to convince her that she was making a mistake in running away."

Feeley grinned ironically. "That's putting it mildly. I gather, of course, that you don't think she's guilty."

"I'm not an idiot yet, Dannie, although I've been accused of coming close. She may be—but I don't think so, But you can't tell me that you've got enough to convince you that she's guilty."

"That's why I want to talk to her." He fixed Dannie with a piercing gaze. "This isn't child's play, Bob. And I'm going to put all my cards on the table. I'm on the spot with the chief. The chief is on the spot with the mayor—"

"And the mayor," put in Tait pleasantly, "is on the spot with the public. There's been a wave of crime, and the newspapers are asking why."

"That's it exactly. So I'm not pulling any punches in this Ludden Dombey business. I've got to find out who bumped him off. And there's another thing eating me, too. Leonard Macy has showed up again."

* * *

"THE devil you say!" Tait knew Leonard Macy. He was a wealthy dilettante who interested himself in criminology. Macy was clever, too. He had a good mind and a lot of fancy, expensive crime-detecting equipment. He delighted in nothing more than showing up the police as a lot of blunderers.

Feeley nodded. "Sure. He's interested. This kind of thing is his dish. Lots of publicity and all that. I'm telling you, if Macy turns up something important, before we do, it means curtains for me on this job."

Tait took out a cigaret, lighted it carefully. "Then you'd let me help you?"

"I'd be glad for it—if it's help you'd be giving. What makes you think you can?"

"I'm pretty sure I can. But I want a square deal for Mrs. Dombey. I don't want her made a goat because the department hasn't got anything tangible."

Feeley nodded. "I'll do what I can. But don't forget we've a prosecuting attorney who's yelling for blood. If I know Barkley, he's already got a case against Myrna Dombey that would have a jury straining to convict her."

"It's going to be tough, all right."

"Tough is the word for it." Feeley leaned forward a little. "And listen, Tait, I'm trusting you. You're not to hold anything back."

"Not a thing." Tait reached into his pocket, brought out Myrna's silk handbag and tossed it on the table. "That belongs to Myrna Dombey." Then he brought out the revolver, laid it carefully on Feeley's desk. "This was inside the bag when I picked it up right after the shooting."

Feeley turned slightly purple. "And you took it out of the bag, and have been carrying it around until the fingerprints are all smeared!"

"My theory is that the gun was fired from the bag, Dannie. Through an opening in the zipper. I don't think there'd be any fingerprints."

Feeley's thick fingers took up the bag. "How'd you get it?"

* * *

TAIT told him. Feeley listened attentively, and when the newspaper photographer was through, he said, "And so you think she didn't do it? You pick up her bag from beside her, and the gun is still warm, and you figure she's innocent?"

"Yes, Dannie. I think somebody got hold of that bag, slipped the gun into it, and then tossed it onto the table again after Dombey was killed."

"It sounds fine. How you going to prove it?"

Tait was silent. Then, slowly: "I don't know—yet."

"If you don't have Myrna Dombey down here by noon, I'm going to get out a warrant for you, and it won't be a comic sheet, either."

"She'll be here, Dannie. But you've made your agreement. I'm going to help you, and in return you're not going to use Myrna as copy for the newspaper boys."

Feeley nodded. "I made the deal, and I'll stick to it—until I'm convinced you're rooking me."

Tait got up. "Okay, then. You'll see her here at 12?"

"At 12. She'd better be here. If she's not, I'll have you brought in. And you'll be up on the third floor where the old cells are."

City's Bills Total $4,543

Pampa's city commission had a routine session Tuesday afternoon, passing only one ordinance, viewing the monthly operation expense report, and approving the monthly bills that totaled $4,453.95.

The ordinance passed was one approving for acceptance the plumber's public liability insurance policy of J. W. Minnis.

Receipts for the month of September totaled $17,435.43, disbursements $11,657.75, bank balances $194,956.94. Water and sewer was the largest item under receipts, $14,529.14, and water and sewer and other expenses, $2,564.18, was the largest item under disbursements, followed by police department salaries $1,237.35, and street department salaries, $1,173.20.

The commission meeting Tuesday was the shortest in several months, lasting from 2 o'clock to 4:30.

Due to the absence of the city manager and the city water superintendent from Pampa to attend a convention of the southwest section American Waterworks association in Oklahoma City on October 17-19, the regular meeting of the city commission has been postponed from Tuesday, October 18, to Thursday, October 20.

SMALL

that nobody wanted to cut down on tax money support for schools. He said $1,200,000 of new money will be needed annually for the recently voter-approved teachers' retirement fund. An additional $400,000 will be needed next year for care of the indigent blind, and another $750,000 for care of dependent children.

Discusses Pensions.

"If we continue to support the judiciary department, the schools, the blind and the dependent children, and if we cut down on enough needless tax-supported bureaus at Austin we can save enough to take care of these newly created expenditures. Incidentally, these expenditures were created by the voters at the ballot box and not by the state legislature.

"Last summer we heard a great deal about pensions. The legislature will have something to do with that. I do not believe I have the right to take money from one person under the guise of taxation and give it to another who doesn't need it. I believe adequate provision should be made to care for the needy aged, but I do not believe in taking away from one to give to another who doesn't need it.

"There's nothing in our state constitution that mentions anything about pensions. Making blanket pensions promises with nothing in the constitution to support or authorize them is wrong."

The senator indicated that Mr. O'Daniel might bump into some trouble on some of his promises when the state legislature convenes in January. He said:

"All that fuss and feathers you heard last summer is going to cause a disturbance in Austin. And, there will be enough of us down there to dig in our cleats and hold that line like Oklahoma held Texas last Saturday—and, they did a pretty good job of holding, I understand."

Many in the luncheon meeting audience of between 150 and 200 persons edged up on their chairs when Senator Small said further:

"For a man to stand up and tell that everyone over 65 is going to get $30 a month, brands that person as not knowing what he's talking about or not caring about his promises to the people."

O'Daniel Idea Flayed.

There was no doubt about whom he was talking.

Taking exception to O'Daniel's opposition to the poll tax, the senator said:

"No greater calamity could happen to the state of Texas than to remove the poll tax and let everybody, no matter from, come in helter skelter and vote away our rights as they pleased.

"As for a sales tax—I've used it a lot of times in the senate. When they bring up some new tax law I just drag out the sales tax and say, 'there it is' and we usually get rid of both of them. We don't want a sales tax. If you get one, you'll be pennied to death.

"There is no need of a tax just to get a pile of money to give away to somebody who doesn't need it. You know, it's difficult to give away money intelligently."

The speaker also hit at a proposal to do away with the state liquor control board. "If you turn the liquor situation loose and don't give the state any help in enforcing the law, you'll have prohibition back in a hurry and you may have, anyhow," he said.

Expressing what he thought should be done by the next legislature, Senator Small said:

"I think we ought to go down, levy no new taxes, pass as few laws as possible and then adjourn and come home. Maybe it would teach the people not to go wild when they hear hill-billy music and wild promises at election time."

Band Assistance Promised

Senator Small at a meeting following the luncheon, promised local officers he would endeavor to get the state to assume approximately $322,000 worth of bonds for which the county still owes on the Pampa-McLean road, recently placed on the state highway system. Gray county authorities contend that the state is being asked only to assume the bonds on a highway that should have been on the state system when others were taken over at the time the state adopted that policy back in 1932.

Mr. Small was introduced by E. J. Dunigan, of Pampa. The meeting was presided over by Faris Oden, BCD vice president, in the absence of President Reno Stinson.

Short talks were given by Rep. H. G. Little, of Amarillo; Rep. Eugent Worley, of Shamrock. L. L. McColm spoke briefly on Fire Prevention, and Tex DeWeese gave a report on the eleventh annual meeting of the Oil Field Highway Association at Dumas last week.

Alton Hail called attention to the Grandview annual carnival to be held at Grandview school next Thursday night. Entertainment consisted of vocal selections by Art Nelson of Breckenridge, accompanied by Miss Pauline Stewart at the piano.

Fred Riley Leads Laymen's Meeting

Central Baptist laymen met Monday evening with Homer Johnson, president, in charge of the meeting, which opened with the song, "The Church in the Wildwood," followed by prayer led by Ben Hilbun.

Fred Riley, who is a church member, conducted the service in which he said that we should know the Lord as a personal Savior, commune with him daily, and say and do things for him every day.

As the Lord communed with the prophet, Jeremiah, according to Jeremiah 33:3, "Call upon me and I will answer thee and shew thee great and mighty things which thou knowest not," for his people applies to us also. We Christians of today are as the disciples were during the sojourn of the Savior here on earth with them; careless and prone to disobedience, Mr. Riley pointed out.

In response to a request for comment on "What Christianity has meant to me," every man present related his Christian experiences, pointing out the advantage of trusting in the Lord. Some of those testifying named others as being instrumental in bringing about their salvation and also of being a great help to them in times of sorrow.

Frank Ciphers renewed his trust in the Lord and expressed a desire to unite with the church.

Water Problems In Oil Wells Studied

Various methods of shutting off water in oil wells and results obtained in fields of the Mid-Continent area were discussed by W. O. Owsley of Duncan, Okla., last night at the first fall meeting of the Panhandle chapter, American Petroleum Institute. H. V. Mathews, chapter chairman, presided.

Mr. Owsley, geologist and engineer with the Halliburton Well Cementing Company, has spent more than three years studying the subject of water shut off. He said that many methods had been used, with success, and that the best method to date was squeeze cementing which is the forcing back into the water formation of cement. If oil is cut off, which seldom occurs, gun perforating or small shots are used.

Entertainment was presented by John Sullivan of radio station KPDN, and Art Nelson of Houston, accompanied by Miss Pauline Stewart at the piano.

Next meeting of the chapter will be on the night of November 8.

Slash In Louisiana Allowable Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12 (AP) — Gov. Richard W. Leche said at Covington last night that the Louisiana oil allowable production would be cut 40,000 barrels daily as an example to other states to prevent over production. The reduction would take effect next month.

He intimated that if other states failed to fall in line, or increased their production, he might have to change his plans. He and W. G. Rankin, conservation commissioner, planned a conference to discuss reports that Texas intended to allow the East Texas wells to operate Saturday and Sunday.

"That's how those fellows do in Texas," Rankin said. "They talk about the necessity for cutting production, then they turn around and open up fields."

Faher Returns

Authorities pinned some hope of identifying the killer by his voice on Mrs. Mortimer Hersh, whose home is about a mile from the Coyle's houseboat home on the way from New Rochelle to Larchmont. She told of being awakened about 1:30 a. m. yesterday by a girl's cries of distress.

Mrs. Hersh said her husband dressed and ran down stairs, but that she opened the front door the car sped away toward Larchmont.
