Four State Solons In Colorado Are Charged With Bribery

Solons Must Act For New Revenue

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 28. — Governor James V. Allred put it squarely before the legislature today to provide new revenue at the forthcoming special session.

Admitting he did not know from what sources to recommend new imposts for increased appropriations and a broadened social security program, Allred said the lawgivers must "face facts and figures."

He said he had not decided on what date to convene the legislature. He had indicated previously it would be the week of Sept. 20.

The governor was awaiting a report from State Auditor Tom C. King on necessary funds to meet new expenses and likely it would be submitted after Sept. 1.

He reiterated his opposition to a general sales tax, asserting if such a proposal was voted it would be vetoed.

Suggestions Termed "Propaganda"

Suggestions from some quarters that unexpected income from existing levies might yield enough to begin reducing the general fund deficit and meet the strain of higher appropriations were termed by the governor "propaganda to avoid meeting the issue and clear the path for a sales tax later."

Problems confronting the legislature include an increase of $22,000,000 in biennial appropriations, an estimated $1,750,000 to finance state aid to destitute children and needy adult blind, approved in the recent constitutional amendment election; an estimated $1,500,000 for the state's share of the teachers' retirement fund which will become operative Sept. 1, and a request from the old age pension organization for an additional $3,500,000 for the coming year.

Burke Challenge Issued To New Deal Leaders

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Senator Burke (D-Neb) declared today that if President Roosevelt tours the country in behalf of his defeated court bill it will be a final indication that he plans to purge the Democratic party of those unwilling to support "anything the president wants."

A leader of the opposition to the court reorganization measure, Burke said in a statement that recent utterances of the president and of James A. Farley, the Democratic national chairman, have led him to believe there is truth in "rumors" that the issue will be carried to the people.

MAY OUT-TRAVEL TAFT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt, who travels much and likes it, was still nearly 10,000 miles shy today of equalling William Howard Taft's 114,600 mileage "while in office" record.

But he has invitations pending which, partially accepted, would carry him far beyond Taft's total.

The late president and chief justice, however, chalked up his 114,600 miles in four years, from 1909 to 1913.

Before leaving for his Hyde Park, N. Y., home this week, the president had travelled 104,271 miles by land and water since March 4, 1933.

Shall Welcome Occasion

"If Senator Guffey (D-Pa), Mr. Farley or the president go into Nebraska to defend the original or substitute court proposals or to criticize me for opposing them," he said, "I shall welcome the occasion to let my people know just how outrageous and vicious a proposition it was."

Burke's statement came shortly after well-informed persons at Hyde Park, N. Y., where the president now is staying, had let it be known there is a good chance he will make a western trip this fall.

Journey Is Considered

Officials at the Summer White House acknowledged such a journey has been under consideration.

The tone of recent statements by the president has convinced many observers that he intends to press at the next session of congress for enactment of many of the administration measures shelved in the session just ended.

Negroes Are Held In Unannounced Jail

TYLER, Aug. 28 (AP)—Two negro brothers, Roscoe and Henderson Young, 19 and 18 years old, who district attorney Oscar B. Jones said had confessed assaulting a prominent Longview woman and robbing her husband last Sunday, were removed from here to an unannounced jail tonight.

At Marshall, Harrison County Attorney Benjamin Woodall said charges of criminal assault and robbery with firearms were being prepared for filing in justice court.

The negroes were arrested in Elmo, Van Zandt county, early today by Gregg, and Smith county officers.

The Longview couple said the negroes forced them to stop their automobile by firing pistol shots. The negroes got into their car, the couple said and drove into a side road, where the attack upon the woman and the robbery of the husband occurred.

The negroes then drove the couple back to their car and released them, officers were told.

The husband lost $144 and a watch.

New York Underworld Searched For Mrs. Max Gordon's Slayer

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—More than a half hundred detectives and federal agents drifted through the underworld tonight seeking the slayers of Mrs. Esther Gordon, 38, whose body was found stuffed in a barrel on the Queens bank of the East river yesterday.

The search turned into more or less definite channels when the victim, who had been beaten, stabbed and shot to death, was identified as the widow of Max (One-Eyed Maxie) Gordon, notorious narcotics peddler and ex-convict who was killed July 31 in an automobile accident near El Paso, Texas.

Five Other Men Are Indicted For Activities

Special Grand Jury In Denver, Returns Bills; Former Chief Executive's Secretary Named

(By The Associated Press)

DENVER, Aug. 28.—A special grand jury indicted nine men, including four Colorado legislators and Walter Lear, former secretary to Senator Ed C. Johnson, today.

The legislators were indicted on felony charges in connection with activities in the thirty-first general assembly. They were Representatives Marion E. Strain of Lamar, Republican; Truman C. Hall and William J. Jennings, Denver Democrats, and State Senator Willard B. Preston of Adena, Republican.

Charge Violation Of Oath

The four legislators were charged with violating their oaths and with bribery.

Sixteen indictments were against Donald B. Clifford, secretary of the state board of medical examiners, charging bribery and attempted bribery in liquor legislation.

The indictments charged Clifford tendered bribes to the legislators in connection with the defeat of the state wholesale liquor monopoly bill.

Installed Secret Microphones

Lear, who served Senator Johnson as secretary when he was governor, and three others were indicted on several counts arising from the secret installation of microphones in the private offices of Governor Teller Ammons and the apartment of Frederick E. Dickerson, Denver attorney and Democratic leader. The three others were Erl H. Ellis, Denver attorney, Walden E. Sweet, Denver (Post) newspaper reporter, and Jack H. Gilmore, private investigator.

Ellis was suspended recently from the bar by the state supreme court for participation in the microphone installation.

Listened To Conversations

The indictments against Ellis, Gilmore, Sweet and Lear charged they secretly installed the microphones and listened to conversations and permitted others to do so. Anthony F. Zarlengo, assistant district attorney, said that by precedent the maximum penalty for the offense is $300 fine or one year in jail, or both.

The maximum penalty for conviction of bribery, Zarlengo said, is one to five years imprisonment in the state pentitentiary.

State's Able Indigent Called To Cotton Fields In Labor Demand

DALLAS, Aug. 28 (AP). — The white flutter of cotton bolls opening in fields from the Gulf to North Texas today had called thousands of the able indigent back to the soil in a swelling demand for more cotton pickers.

From all parts of the state came reports of relief rolls purged and WPA projects halted to send workers into the fields to earn their own living for the next two months at least.

Shanghai Native City Is Target Of Aerial Raid

Two Hundred Noncombatants In Area Killed, 400 Wounded; Americans Are Imperiled

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—Japan's air bombers today carried the war into Nantao, native city of Shanghai, and inflicted 600 civilian casualties in an area which had been relatively unscathed by the two-weeks battle for Shanghai.

Sixteen planes participated.

Mayor O. K. Yui of greater Shanghai said 200 were killed, 400 wounded, all Chinese noncombatants.

Near French Concession

Nantao is the city that stood on the banks of the Whangpoo before the foreigners came 100 years ago to make Shanghai. Its walls were raised in the 16th century to keep out Japanese pirates. It lies just south of the French concession in which most Shanghai Americans have their homes.

The bombing of Nantao and renewal of savage fighting along the Whangpoo, Shanghai's outlet to the sea, brought the war and its perils to foreigners back to the gates of the international areas, which yesterday enjoyed a respite.

Lull Due To Land Battle

The lull had been due to the fact that the bloodiest battle of the campaign was being fought along the southern banks of the Yangze at least 12 miles from Shanghai, where the Chinese were battling desperately against the inland advance of new legions just landed from Japan.

Today Americans fleeing from Shanghai's perils again were under fire and the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, had another narrow escape from shelling.

One hundred sixty Americans, carried on a tender down the Whangpoo to board the Manila-bound president Lincoln, witnessed a battle between Japanese bombing

CLAIM SMASHING VICTORIES

PEIPING, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Japanese army today claimed smashing victories in its campaign to open a highway into China's northwestern provinces.

Army spokesmen said the Japanese had completed their occupation of Nankow, strategic 12-mile gateway through the mountains northwest of Peiping to Chahar province and other territories Japanese strategists believe Japan must dominate.

Nippon's militarists long have maintained they must hold Chahar and the rest of Inner Mongolia as a vital flanking base in any war with the Soviet Union.

Merger Of Lines Is Announced

In a transaction which entailed approximately $200,000 and which merges two large lines into the second largest independent bus operation in Texas, South Plains Coaches and McMakin Trailways yesterday were brought together under the direction of Joe W. Bowman, of Lubbock.

Both lines have been headquartered here and will continue to be under the new setup, said Grover C. McMakin, president of the Trailways, and Bowman, president of South Plains Coaches. All present employes of the two lines will be retained and others will be added to take care of the enlarged system.

To Continue In Business

In the deal, which has been under discussion for several weeks, South Plains Coaches purchased what Bowman characterizes as "a sizeable block" of Trailways stock and, in addition took over a contract to operate the McMakin concern. McMakin, of Lubbock, and his partners, Clyde Owens, of Ver-

All Signs Point To An Early And Cold Or Late And Mild Autumn This Year In Texas

By DAVID A. CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (AP)—All of the signs point to an early and cold autumn and or a late and mild autumn this year in Texas.

The pet deer on the Lewis ranch near Clarendon is mincing in the meadows in a new winter coat 30 days earlier than last year—a sure sign of cold weather, said W. J. Adams, ranch manager. Arch McDougal at Bonham countered by quoting the Indian:

"Heap not long time cause geese not going south. Late autumn."

Jesse Dillard, negro weather wizard at Columbus who can tell you what the treacherous Colorado river is going to do two months in advance by watching the snails along its banks, agrees with the Clarendon deer:

"De ants is active and de moss is hangin' heavy on de trees. De saplings barkin' up heavy and de corn's got shucks like coats. Watch out for de norther early and cold."

Feel Weather Creeping Up

Weather wiseacres in the post oak flats around Athens feel the cold creeping up their knotty legs, creaking joints loud with pain tell them cold autumn nights will soon be here. This is true, they say, because the weather has been dry and otherwise there is no accounting for their aches.

Curley Hargrove, a Dallas sportsman whose business it is to know the weather adds to the legalistic and or flavor of the situation.

"It may be an early and a cold autumn," he ventured cautiously, "because the ducks have started moving in."

At Kerrville they found a prairie dog hiding in a sack of potatoes shipped from Colorado. The pre-

Hull Told China Waters Open

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Anxiety of American officials for the safety of China-bound shipping from this country abated somewhat today when Secretary Hull received notice from Japan that her blockade of Chinese ports applies only to Chinese vessels.

The Japanese notification said the blockade will not interfere with "peaceful commerce" of foreign nations.

Consular officials continued at Hull's direction, however, to assemble full facts, concerning the Japanese policy.

Speculation On Situation

There was unofficial speculation as to whether Japan would regard as "peaceful commerce" the voyage now being made by a government-owned American freighter laden with bombing planes and barbed wire for China.

The freighter Wichita sailed from Baltimore last night with the cargo of war supplies.

Since Japan and China have not yet declared war formally and President Roosevelt has not invoked the neutrality act, which would ban the shipment of fighting wea-

All Of Mellon's Fortune But $180,000 Left In His Trust

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28. (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon left his entire personal fortune, with the exception of $180,000, to his educational and charitable trust, his attorney, D. D. Shepard, disclosed tonight.

The former secretary of the treasury's estate, which a member of the family said is a "very substantial one," will thus be exempt from inheritance taxes, Shepard asserted.

Th $180,000 exempted in the will is to go to personal employes, Shepard said.

The announcement of the will came only a few hours after Mr. Mellon's funeral in the magnificent East Liberty Presbyterian church.

The will explained that no bequests were made to his two children, Paul and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce. In explanation of his reason for making no bequests to his children, Mr. Mellon stated that they already had been adequately provided for.

GOVERNMENT LOSES $847,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Treasury officials said tonight the estate of Andrew W. Mellon would be exempt from huge inheritance taxes if it goes to charity. If the estate had been left to individuals and had amounted to $300,000,000 as some persons estimated, the combined states and federal inheritance taxes would have been $847,000,000.

Texas To Get Largest Tenancy Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP) — Agriculture department officials, busy organizing a national farm tenancy program, said today only a bare start, which will aid 3,000 families at the most, can be made in the first year.

Milo T. Perkins, assistant to Secretary Wallace, said officials hoped during the first year to establish a "pattern" for a long time program.

There are an estimated 3,000,000 farm tenants, renters, share croppers and laborers in this country. Congress provided $10,000,000 to help them purchase lands.

Congress also authorized $25,000,000 for loans to tenants the second year and $50,000,000 the third year and thereafter.

A tentative breakdown gives Texas about $900,000; about $500,000 each to North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Missouri, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisianan and Oklahoma.

Tech Preparing For Banner Year With Student Housing Facilities And Classroom Space Facing Heavy Demand

By OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

WITH scarcely time to smile over bright prospects, officials of Texas Technological college are preparing for what promises to be the most significant session since the college's first few years of operation.

Advance reservations for rooms far exceeding the total of any other year—increased faculty salaries—assured construction of a $275,000 library—increased funds for maintenance—addition of faculty members to partially ease the teaching burden in some departments, and other changes and improvements have created optimism unequalled in several years.

With slightly more than two weeks remaining before opening of the session on Sept. 14, officials are stretching housing and classroom facilities to the fullest extent and attempting to create additional accomodations.

Large classrooms have been partitioned, appeal issued for additional housing, and possibilty announced that shack structures will be needed on the campus.

Hopes for increased enrollment of at least 10 per cent over last year's record of 3,010 students were expressed by President Bradford Knapp. "But we will not be able to do it if we do not get enough rooms for students," he added. Tech ranked third among state institutions last year.

Dormitory waiting lists have mounted steadily and most rooming houses in vicinity of the campus have filled rapidly.

Take, for example, a boy from Post, Tommie Power, who placed his name 150th on the waiting list at Horn hall two weeks ago; or a girl from Spur who appealed to the president because she was unable to find a room.

Good Enrollment Indicated

Even allowing for expansion of Lubbock as a whole, scarcity of housing has reached an extent it may be interpreted as a good indication for Tech's enrollment, said Dr. Knapp.

Expansion especially is expected in the graduate, engineering, home economics and agricultural divisions, and business administration department.

An Appeal To The People Of Lubbock

"THE Texas Technological college makes an earnest appeal to the people of Lubbock for rooms for young women and young men students of the college for the fall semester, opening September 13. Students are coming here now and failing to find rooms, because of the failure of house-holders to register their rooms at the college. We need rooms for many more young women and young men. Not as many rooms have been registered this fall as we had registered a year ago, for the reason, without doubt, that a large influx of new people have absorbed the space formerly occupied by students of the college. We feel sure there are ample rooms.

"May I appeal to you, as president of the college, that you give your support to the largest industry Lubbock has. The college is worth more to you than any other industry there is. If we cannot find rooms for students, the college will suffer. We should have a very full enrollment this fall. The housing situation is the principal limiting factor.

"Call the dean of women for registering of rooms for girls and the Employment office under Cecil Horne for registering of rooms for boys.

"Sincerely yours,
"Bradford Knapp
President."

Meet Littlefield's "Master Farmer Family"

They're Setting Good Example

BY GLENN BURGESS

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 28 — One of the nine Texas farm families to receive the award of "Master Farmer" by the "Progressive Farmer" this year is the McQuatters family of Littlefield. This award was won through the cooperative work of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McQuatters, their son, Roy, and twin daughters, Vera and Veda.

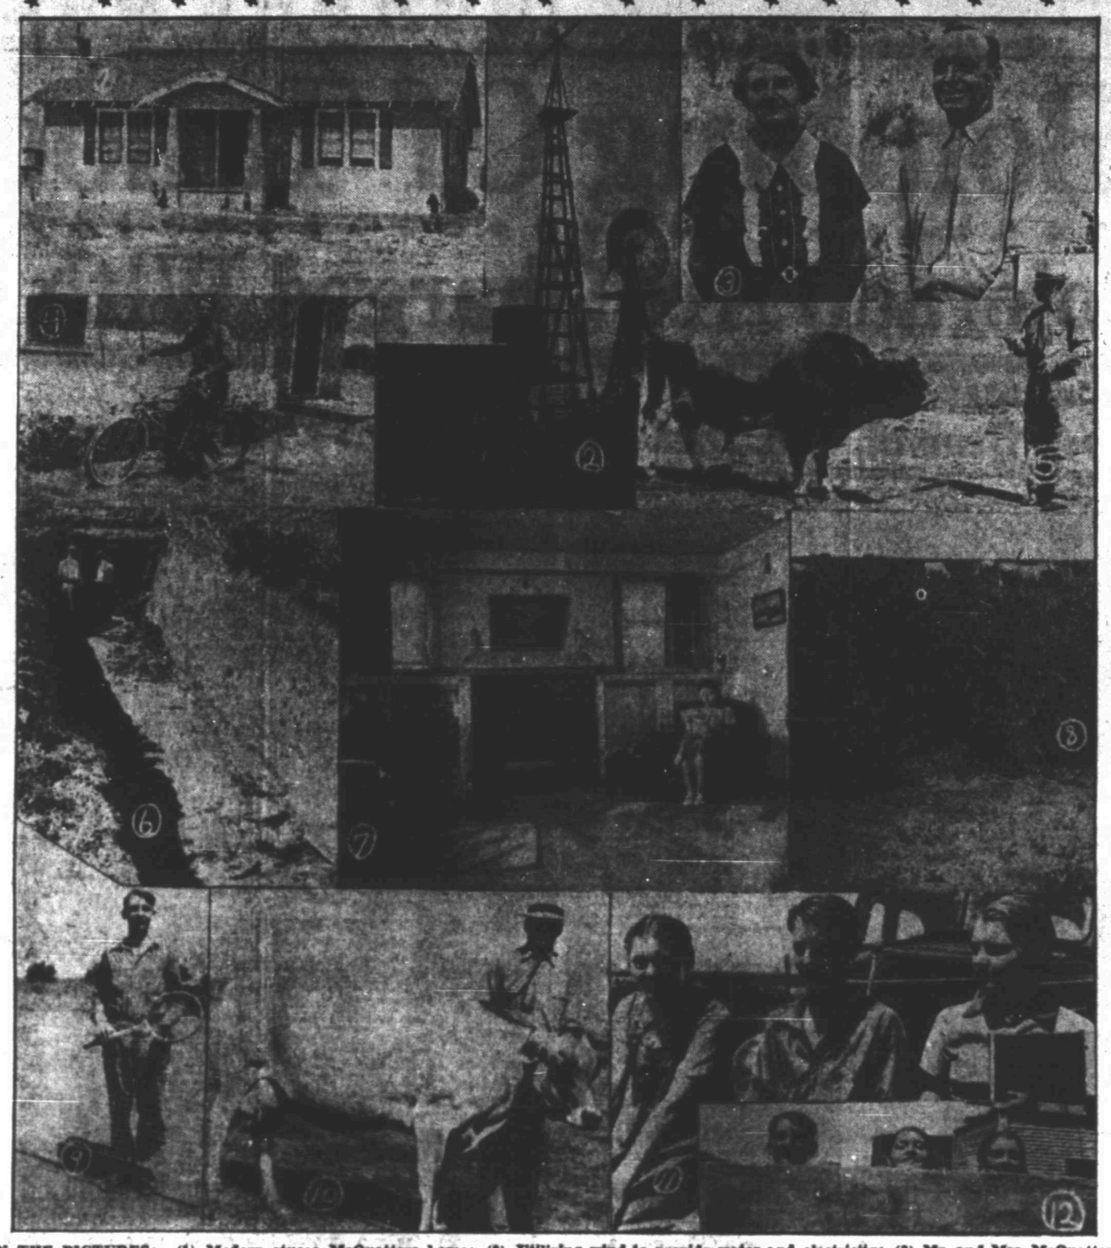

The Master Farmer award is based on the participation in community activities, home life, farming methods, farm equipment, business methods, labor saving conveniences and sanitation. Mr. McQuatters has his place well terraced, does not depend on cotton for all of his income, has splendid dairy cattle, swine and poultry, farms with a tractor, and conserves his forage crops in trench silos.

Irrigation System Unusual

Of special interest is his irrigation system. By a unique system of terraces, the run-of-water from 360 acres of land to the north, and of a county road is caught and distributed evenly over the place. Home life of the McQuatters is ideal. Their new home has many modern conveniences, including electric lights, radio, and running water. Electricity comes from a wind charger. Lawns, flowers, and shrubbery adorn the outside of the home, while the interior of the house is beautifully furnished.

The children each have their specialties. Roy is an active Future farmer and 4-H club worker. He is an excellent public speaker. Vera, one of the twins, likes canning problems, and has filled the McQuatter cellar. Veda, the other twin, excells in making clothing.

The McQuatters family has lived on the farm only eight years. In 1929, they moved from Jack county and purchased their farm 6 1-2 miles east of Littlefield. Since their home is located on a paved farm-to-market road, the McQuatters prefer their home to any they could have in a city.

Law On Deposits Will Be Sought

Leadership in a movement to secure a law which will enable such political units as cities, towns, counties and school districts once more to obtain interest on bank deposits probably will be taken by Lubbock city commissioners.

Proposal that Mayor Ross Edwards write the mayor of every city and town in Texas and call their attention to the present absence of such a law was disclosed Saturday as having received the approval of every member of the commission who is in the city. W. G. McMillan, the only absent member, left last week on a big game hunting trip in the Canadian rockies.

To Ask Cooperation

Carrying out the plan will involve the sending of communications to mayors of between 600 and 700 towns of the state, with the possibility that similar efforts from other sources will be made to line up county and school district officials of the state.

Enactment of the legislation proposed by the mayor would mean, so far as city of Lubbock is concerned, that it would be in position to seek payment of interests of deposits which probably will average $200,000. For the county, school districts and other political entities in Lubbock county, they would be approximately $500,000. Several years ago interest was paid on such deposits, those of the city of Lubbock having drawn 2 per cent up until about two years ago. The same rate would produce approximately $4,000 annually now.

Until the depression, it was an annual routine for political units to advertise for bids for depositories, and with rate exceptions, competition was keen. With the depression, a different situation was created and except in rare instances, banks had nothing to gain by becoming a public depository. Credit requirements had tightened to such a point that being a depository meant just that much more cash on hand with which nothing could be done.

Regulations Are Enacted

During that period, city officials were advised, federal regulations were enacted to forbid the payment of interest by federal reserve bank members on public deposits except in states which had laws specifically authorizing cities, towns and the like to call for bids for such depositories. Report to city officials, as related to commission members, further continued that the Texas legislature has enacted legislation conforming to the federal regulations, but without permitting political subdivision to ask for interest.

Mayor Edwards' suggestion to city commission members was that legislation should be enacted which would put cities, counties and the like in position to at least make the effort to obtain interest on deposits, as was the case until a few years ago.

In the case of the city of Lubbock, the biggest item of deposits is the interest and sinking fund which, on last July 31, totaled $197,784. That fund remains large constantly, because it contains the money to be applied on the principal and interest on warrants and bonds. Tax levies must be issued specifically for that fund and collections can be used for no other purpose. Money in the fund must remain there until the obligation for which it has been collected falls due, and that sometimes is years in the future.

While Mayor Edwards had not composed the letter which he discussed informally with commissioners, one suggestion was made that he seek the opinions of mayors elsewhere on the proposal that the matter be urged for consideration of any special session of the legislature which may be called in advance of the regular session.

The "dominant" is the name given the fifth note in any scale.

New Regulations To Go Into Effect On Liquor This Week

Preparations were complete Saturday for putting into effect new and tightened regulations in Lubbock when the amended state liquor control act goes into effect Wednesday.

Lubbock druggists were of the opinion that effects of the act will not be apparent in any manner except to those who must keep the records dealing with the handling of medicinal liquors. Although expenses to druggists will, in many instances, be increased, there was no indication Saturday that it will affect the present level of prices.

Chief effects of the strengthened act will be to forbid the issuance of more than one prescription for more than one pint of liquor on any one day at the same store; to forbid the issuance of prescription or liquor to any person who has given a fictitious name; and to require the presence of a registered pharmacist at all times when liquor is dispensed.

The requirement relative to pharmacists, druggists here said, may make it necessary for some concerns to employ an additional registered man if one can be found. At present, they added, the demand for workers in that profession exceeds the supply.

Hundreds Of Visitors Expected For Fall Market

Varied Program Being Planned

Announcement that entries already have been received from more than 70 exhibitors who will display merchandise valued at perhaps a million dollars at the annual fall market week and fashion show of West Tex-New Mex Wholesale Clothing Market association here Oct. 10 to 13 was made at the chamber of commerce Saturday.

Represented in the exhibits, which will occupy four floors at Lubbock hotel, will be wholesale firms from every corner of the nation, including Seattle, Boston, New York City, Chicago, Kansas City, New Orleans, Dallas, San Antonio and Houston among others, the announcement continued.

Variety In Displays

Included in the displays will be practically everything that might form part of modish attire, ranging from hairpins to fur pieces retailing for thousands of dollars. On display also will be all the accessories, including jewelry and toilet articles, not to mention leather goods of every description.

The announcement that most of the exhibitors already have been lined up was followed by the statement by association officials Saturday that the mailing of invitations will be started at once in an effort to reach personally every retailer in West Texas and eastern New Mexico to send their buyers to Lubbock for the event. The entire affair is designed to bring wholesalers and retailers together at a convenient center as a convenience and economy to both.

Hundreds To Attend

Expectation is that 800 to 1,000 such invitations will be mailed, and that 600 to 800 will be represented if the same proportion of acceptances is received as the case at the annual spring market week several months ago. On that occasion, approximately 700 invitations were mailed and more than 400 retail firms were represented.

Officials explained that while every effort will be made to reach the retailers with invitations, it is almost unavoidable that some will be overlooked. If that is done, officials added, it will be wholly by oversight and they are cordially invited to join in the affair. For that reason, preparations for the market week and the fashion show will be on a basis of reservations rather than on a basis of invitations sent out.

The fashion show will be the climaxing event of the entire week and will be presented the night of Oct. 12 in the main ballroom at the hotel with attendance limited strictly to buyers. While details of that feature are yet to be completed, officials said that more firms actually have made their expense deposits for participating in the fashion event than at the spring show. Trained models will be used. A dance will follow the show.

Banquet Is Planned

Efforts also are being made to arrange a banquet for traveling salesmen sometime during the week, but uncertainty was expressed as to whether the short time remaining will permit that event this year.

The week, chamber of commerce officials estimated, will bring a minimum of 1,000 visitors to Lubbock, including those in charge of exhibits, salesmen, buyers and other representatives of other retail firms. It is purely a matter of speculation, officials added, as to how much business will be done at this particular medium of trade but the figure, conservatively estimated, will be several millions of dollars. Many of the individual orders last spring were reported in excess of $25,000.

New officers of the wholesale market association, who are in direct charge of preparations, are Luther Godwin, president; I. A. Stephens and Ernest Pope, vice-presidents, and J. H. Brock, secretary.

Extradition Of W. H. Hardage To Swisher County Is Granted

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 28. (AP)—Governor Bailey has granted the extradition of W. H. Hardage of Bentonville to Swisher county, Tex., to face a charge of "selling and disposing of personal movable property under mortgage." The extradition was asked by Gov. James V. Allred of Texas.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK

LAMESA, Aug. 28. (Special)—Josip Benyamin, a Persian missionary will speak Sunday morning at the First Methodist church and at night at the First Presbyterian. Morning theme is "Christ and Islam Religion in Persia," and the night theme "My Life and Experiences in Persia and Russia."

Wage Schedules Are Being Set

According to information received yesterday from the rural aid division of the state department of education by Joseph R. Griggs, superintendent of Lubbock county schools, maximum federal subsidy for vocational home economics teachers is $1,000. Maximum subsidy for vocational agriculture teachers is $1,500, and as much as $600 is allowed for travel.

Amount spent on vocational teachers by local districts is matched by an equal amount from the federal government. Therefore, maximum salaries are $2,000 for home economics teachers and $3,000 for those teaching agriculture.

Determined By Schedule

Salaries of vocational teachers in rural aid schools are determined by the official salary schedule set up for rural aid schools. Then, to this amount, an equal sum is added by the federal government. Home economics teachers are paid on a 10 months' basis and agriculture teachers on a 12.

The schedule is issued annually by the state department of education, and to be elegible for rural aid school districts must pay salaries listed therein.

According to this schedule, the base pay in unclassified schools is $85 and in classified and affiliated schools $90. To this sum the following amounts are added for college work completed and for experience: $2.50 for two years' college work, $2.50 for the third year of college work, $2.50 for a B. A. degree, $2.50 for an M. A. degree, and one dollar a month is added to the salary for each year's experience, except the first year (which is never figured in determining salaries) provided such increase shall not exceed $10 per month. In addition to this rate, which applies to teachers in all rural aid schools, $5 a month may be added to the salary of each teacher in a standardized school.

Addition Is Made

In unclassified schools, $5 a teacher is added to the principal's salary. In classified and affiliated schools with nine to 11 teachers $50 is added to the salary of the superintendent and $10 to that of the principal. In schools of 12 to 19 paid $65 extra and the principal $25, and in schools of 20 or more teachers $75 is the extra amount paid to superintendents and $30 to the principals.

Other regulations of the state department of education in connection with salaries are that no school with less than nine teachers can have both principal and superintendent; elementary school principals in a system having a four-year high school may be allowed $2.50 for each teacher under his supervision, provided the elementary school is located in a building apart from the high school building. However, if the elementary school principal devotes three periods or more per day to supervisory work, he is granted this increase regardless of the location of the building.

He will take the place of Euel Liner, who took a similar position in Littlefield schools. Shipman, a Texas Technological college graduate, organized the New Deal vocational agriculture department.

Final Report On Convention Of Druggists Is Offered

Final report on the convention of the West Texas Pharmaceutical association here two weeks ago, showing the largest membership in the history of that organization and a new record total of registrations for the annual meeting was forwarded from the chamber of commerce Saturday to J. W. Bryant of Lamesa, retiring secretary and new vice president of the group.

Those who paid registration fees for the convention, the total showed, numbered 340. The total broke the record set in pre-depression days at the El Paso "oasis" while national prohibition still prevailed.

Boy Scouts Of South Plains Face Busiest Autumn Program In All History

Activities Over Section Varied

Start on the busiest autumn program in the history of Boy Scouting on the South Plains will be made this week, according to announcement Saturday by Earl M. McClure, executive.

Some of the activities in the immediate future will include: a court of honor for the southern district at O'Donnell at Baptist assembly tabernacle Friday night; Lubbock adult leaders roundup at Camp Post Saturday and Sunday; and a banquet for parents of South Plains Scouts who attended the recent national jamboree at Washington, D. C., to be held at Lubbock hotel the night of Thursday, Sept. 9.

New Plan Is Drafted

Announced also was that an entirely new plan will be put into immediate effect to determine the boy who will go into courts of honor for advancement; that a new savings system has been inaugurated which will enable boys to prepare, and obtain bonuses, for the various encampments next summer; and that boys who were "washed out" of their Sacramento mountain camp will be home Monday about 4 p. m.; and that approximately 50 boys in Lubbock troops have been given advancements.

The O'Donnell court of honor will be for troops there and will be followed by a watermelon feast. One of the events will be a friction fire building contest in which four-men teams will compete.

Arrangements for the Lubbock leaders roundup at Camp Post are in charge of Sam A. Henry, sr., Lubbock commissioner, and invitations have been extended to more than 100 scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, committeemen and commissioners to attend. Activities for the coming year, including the largest camping program in the history of West Texas scouting, will be discussed.

Banquet Scheduled

Jack Stone of Sudan will be toastmaster at the banquet for jamboree parents, and the tentative program includes: invocation by J. D. Dyer of Lamesa; singing led by Bedford Raley of Lubbock; welcome by McClure; patrol stunt; talks by Marvin McLarty, Lubbock, Pat Boone, Littlefield, Albert White, Silverton, F. M. Mitchell and Skeet Noret, Lamesa, and Bill J. Davis, Post; motion pictures by M. K. Young, Levelland; talks by mothers and fathers, by Tom Carter, jamboree chairman, and Dr. F. B. Malone, council president.

The new system of handling advancements involves the creation of what will be known as a board of review, of which John E. Vickers has been appointed chairman. It will meet the third Thursday of each month, and boys who have been recommended for advancement will appear before the board. If they are approved there, they then go before the court of honor, which meets the fourth Thursday of the month. The plan is designed to make certain that boys are prepared for advancement before they go before the court of honor.

The camp savings plan involves the award of cards on deposit of $1 to individual boys to which they may attach stamps purchased at 10 cents each. When $1 worth of stamps is accumulated, the card will be deposited and a new one received. Boys who complete their go-to-camp fund by May 30, 1938, will receive a credit of 50 cents to $1 toward their camping expenses. The plan is designed to solve the problem for boys who, in the past, have been eliminated for lack of the money.

Boys in Lubbock troops announced by McClure as having received advancements are; to tenderfoot rank—Bobby Carr, Eugene Knee, Sidney Keeton, Marshall Johnson and Leddrew Snyder; to second class—Skeezix Barrier, Roy Claud Nisbett, Tim O'Connell, Windell Melton, Earle Browne, Joe Terry Jackson and Jimmie Butler; to first class—Roy Nisbett, Billy Wright; Charles Royalty, David West, Jay Reed, M. M. Page, Charles Kuykendall, Douglas McSpadden, Olin Monk and A. J. Lair; star rank—Max Walthall; life rank—A. B. sansom; eagle scout bronze palm—Eugene Marquart; and civic service awards—Frazier Blackwell, Fritz Sandlin, Billy Tucker and Eugene Bray.

Troop No. 6 won the general attendance banner for the month and advanced to the top of the competitive leader, displacing troop 5, which dropped to fourth place. Troop 4 was in second place and troop 9 in third.

Boys returning from the New Mexico camp are scheduled to arrive in Carlsbad this morning for a trip through the caverns today, and are due in Lubbock at City Hall park about 4 p. m. Monday. McClure suggested that parents meet them there and take care of their baggage. The Scouts were forced to transfer their camp to lowlands because of incessant rains in the Sacramento, the executive was advised.

Early Or Late Fall

sumption was the rodent foresaw an early winter in plenty of time to hitch-hike south.

Jack Faulkner, Tyler minnow salesman, found 15 green-headed ducks had taken possession of his hatching pond. "That's a sure sign of early winter," he said.

Sam Crowther, the weather forecaster at San Angelo, looked for a mild and late fall, saying, "the nights ar too warm now for an early autumn."

From almost every point in the state crickets are reported in great numbers. This is variously interpreted as a sign of an early fall and a late fall.

RAILS PROVIDE STEAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Rails provided a little rallying steam for today's stock market but many issues failed to get back on the up-grade.

It was the slowest short session in about six weeks, transfers amounting to only 254,300 shares compares with 380,550 last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 65.

The Shanghai scene was still a matter for worry to those who fear international complications may emerge from the Sino-Japanese conflict, but war tension, on the whole, seemed to have lessened somewhat as a market factor.

Declining steel orders and other spotty business conditions tended to keep many traders in neutral territory. Some quick-turn buying was reported on the theory the list was due for at least a temporary come-back because of the recent sharp downturn.

Nibbling at carrier shares were attributed to the belief in financial quarters the wage controversy will be settled by mediation and that a strike is unlikely. In addition it was not overlooked that the Associated Press rail average dipped to a new low for the year this week.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28. (AP) — Shorts covered in late trading on the cotton market here today in view of the double holiday over the week-end and indecision over the government loan plan and prices advanced 30 to 70 cents a bale.

Oct. closed at 9.48@9.51, Dec. at 9.55@9.56, Jan. at 9.59, March at 9.64@9.65, May at 9.73, and July at 9.81. The market was barely steady at the close, 6 to 14 points net higher.

At the opening of the short session prices were two points down to two up and moved in a narrow range until shorts rushed to cover.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—Cotton rallied from early declines today on more active covering in advance of an expected cotton loan announcement. December sold up from 9.35@9.53 and closed at 9.45 with the market ending 6 to 15 points net higher.

The market opened 2 points lower to 3 higher but prices soon sold off to net losses of 4 to 7 points. More resistance was shown at these new lows for the movement and toward the close the market quickly sold up 18 to 20 points from the lows on uncertainty over cotton loan terms.

Trading on the close was unusually active, with December ranging from 9.45@9.53 in the last half minute.

The forecast for showers in the eastern belt for next week was considered unfavorable. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 21,000 bales against 21,000 last year and 24,000 two years ago.

Ready For Settlement

Another development in the Sino-Japanese situation today was an announcement by the Chinese ambassador, Dr. Chengting T. Wang, that his government remains ready to employ the principles of international relations laid down by Secretary Hull "to settle whatever differences she may have with Japan."

One of 14 principles of international policy which Hull has enunciated calls for "adjustment of problems in international relations by processes of peaceful negotiations and agreement."

Fumimaro Knoye, President Prince of Japan, has characterized American settlement proposals as of "no great importance."

Secretary Hull said at his press conference today that this government had not received any formal clarification of Japan's blockade as far as the privilege of "preemption" is concerned.

Under privilege of preemption, recognized in international law, a nation formally at war with another may halt and investigate a vessel suspected carrying war materials to its foe.

Sino-Japanese War

planes and Chinese land forces near Woosung.

The Americans saw two Japanese bombers shot down in flames, the most decisive blow struck at Japan's air forces in the warfare immediately around Shanghai.

Showers of shrapnel and shell fragments from Chinese and Japanese guns alike fell on the President Lincoln's decks, but none was hurt.

Augusta Is Endangered

The Augusta was endangered when a Chinese battery in Chapei, northern native district of Shanghai, went into action against Japanese shore positions in Hongkew. A projectile fell into the Whangpoo close to the cruiser, moored off the International settlement.

The detonation and shower of fragments caused the Augusta's crew to take refuge below decks, but neither the ship nor her crew suffered hurt. Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, ordered stricter precautionary measures to prevent repetition of the shelling of Aug. 20, in which one of the Augusta's seamen was killed and 18 wounded.

Chinese authorities estimated that the toll taken in Nantao raised the list of civilian casualties in Shanghai's two weeks of war to 6,000, nearly all Chinese.

Independent observers said they knew of no military objectives in Nantao, but Japanese had charged it harbored Chinese artillery and had threatened to bomb it as they previously had punished Chapei and other Chinese sections of Shanghai.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (AP)—Accompanying sagging wheat values in all major world markets, Chicago price dropped more than 2 cents a bushel today to within fractions of the season's lows which were established earlier in the week.

Selling was attributed partly to receipt of needed rain in important Argentine wheat producing regions and to discouragement because of slow demand of importing nations from North American exportable supplies. There was also the usual amount of stop loss selling, September contract liquidation and hedging as the market wiped out all of the modest gain scored this week.

Wheat closed 2 to 2⅛ cents below yesterday's finish, September 1.04¼@1.04⅜, December 1.06¼@1.06⅜, May 1.08⅜@1.09; corn lost ⅛ to 1⅛, September 94¼@94⅜, December 62½@62⅝, May 63⅝@63⅞; oats ⅛ off to ⅛ up, September 28¾; rye 1 to 1⅝ down, September 78¼; provisions 3 to 10 cents lower.

non; Red Boydston, of Lubbock; Bob Baum, and Wallace Shields, of Hobbs, N. M., and Ray Grimes, of Altus, Okla., will continue active in the business.

The far-flung system does business from Amarillo on the north, to San Angelo, on the south; from McCamey and Carlsbad on the southwest, to Lawton, Okla., on the northeast; and from Clovis east to Wichita Falls. That territory is traversed by a network of lines owned by the new company.

Employ 150 Persons

Employes of the combined lines will total in the neighborhood of 150 persons, including agents, Bowman said. In Lubbock, on a full time basis, there are approximately 60 employes, he said.

Chief executives of the combination, all of whom reside in Lubbock, are Bowman, McMakin and L. L. "Bill" Watson, vice-president of South Plains Coaches. The new arrangement will begin Monday and on Tuesday, Hurley Carpenter, who recently resigned as county tax assessor-collector, joins the organization in an executive capacity.

Banner Year At Tech Expected

will be added in the agricultural division, four in the engineering, three in home economics, one in the chemistry department, and two in the economics and business administration department.

Classrooms Partitioned

Three classrooms, one of which is in the engineering and two in the administration buildings, are being partioned to allow additional classroom space.

Tedious work of arranging classes so that each room will be utilized from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock at night has been underway.

Maintenance funds from the state for the last scholastic session totaled $352,207.60. For the 1937-38 session they will be $496,353.45.

New Division to Operate

The new graduate division authorized in the education bill passed by the legislature in June will be in operation, under supervisiion of its new dean, Dr. W. A. Jackson. A new journalism department authorized will be separated from the English department and will be under superivision of Cecil Horne.

Duties of the dean of men and dean of arts and sciences will be separated, with Dean James M. Gordon serving only as arts and sciences dean. James G. Allen was promoted from associate professor of English to dean of men. Calvin Hazlewood, assistant to the dean of men, will have duties in connection with housing and employment, now supervised by Cecil Horne.

Salaries Are Increased

Salaries of faculty members will be increased approximately 28 to 29 per cent over those of last fall, or to approximately 92 or 93 per cent of the salary scale in existence in 1932-33.

Funds for vocational agriculture and home economics teacher training work will more than double those of last year. As result of the George Dean law recently put into effect, $4,400 will be available for agriculture and $6,500 for home economics teacher training at Tech.

Other improvements include construction of a cooperative cottage, bids for which are to be opened at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the office of W. T. Gaston, business manager. A $14,999 state appropriation will cover cost of construction and furnishing. The cottages will be used cooperatively by 14 girls, manner of selection of whom will be determined later.

Conferences Have Been Held

Numerous conferences on plans for the new library, which will be constructed with two allocations of $1375,500 each to be received in the next two years, have been held by officials and Wyatt Hedrick of Fort Worth, architect. Contract is expected to be let early this fall.

The 1937-38 session might be designated a "transition year."

"We are bridging over from the school with its present inadequate library to a school with a very full adequate library," said Dr. Knapp.

Much planning will be necessary next year to provide for changes made possible by new library facilities.

Employment Situation Lightened

Relieved employment situation also has been indicated for next year. Approximately 25 per cent fewer applications have been received than on the corresponding date in any of the last three or four years, Horne estimated.

Indications of more available jobs already have been seen, but jobs still are needed for many students. "Every good job will mean an additional student," said Horne.

Decrease in number of applicants is due largely to fewer applications by girls.

Have 192 Jobs Available

National Youth administration jobs will be available to 192 students, approximately 50 per cent of the number received last year. That number is equivalent to 8 per cent of students doing at least three-fourths full-time work in October of 1936. The jobs will offer salary of $15.

Rules governing NYA employment will be stricter than in other years, Dr. Knapp has been notified. Information from outside agencies showing that a student cannot attend school without employment has been required. Students must have reached 16 and not passed 25 years.

Registration Sept. 14-15

Registration will be conducted Sept. 14-15 in the gymnasium by much the same procedure as in other years, said W. P. Clement, registrar. Classes will begin Sept. 16.

Transcripts of credits must be in the registrar's office before new students can register. All students must obtain physical examinations. New students will be photographed for identification purposes.

The official calendar for September includes: Sept. 19, special sermons for students in Lubbock churches; Sept 20, late registration rules in full force; Sept. 21, opening convocation for students and faculty, annual address by president; Sept. 24, open house for students by Lubbock churches; Sept. 30, annual reception to all students by President and Mrs. Knapp and the college administrative council, at Doak hall.

Fashion Stresses Pencil Silhouette

Emphasis on Femininity; Tapered, Moulded Waist Is The Vogue

Mrs. Maxey, manager of Ready-to-Wear department at Hemphill-Wells Co., has just returned from New York where she studied the latest fashion reports taken from the leading Paris and New York stylists . . . Mrs. Maxey has kindly given us such advance information that she felt might be of interest to all style conscious women . . . touching a few of the high spots of correct Fall fashioning, she reports . . .

Every cable mentioned the new pencil lines . . . every couturier showed versions of this narrow silhouette. It is a single outstanding fashion that was repeatedly mentioned in all fashion reports.

Pencil slimness everywhere, for daytime, for evening . . . in coats, dresses and suits. Pencil slimness . . . sometimes Directoire, sometimes pre-war in feeling but everywhere the straighter line predominates.

There's a magnificence and drama about the new fashions that beggars description. There's a continued emphasis on femininity . . . figure moulded frocks that give a corseted effect . . . tapered waists . . . brilliant color and more trimmings.

"BASIC" COSTUMES

This Fall there is a versatility in costumes never before equaled . . . it all starts with the "BASIC" costume . . . it can be the basic dress, hat, coat, suit or most any main part of your costume . . . from this basic apparel item you can build several effects . . . for instance one day with a black dress you wear a gold belt with other gold trimmed accessories . . . the next day with the same dress have an entirely new effect by wearing a different set of accessories . . . these Basic costumes are designs to be changeable . . . in many instances by manipulating the crown of a hat you may change it from a dress hat to a sport hat . . . there is no end to it all for each costume can be four or five with the proper changes.

HI-LOW NECKLINES

Necklines contribute fresh interest to fall dresses and while lower necklines are talked of . . . the high necklines still lead . . . Necklines are so closely related to the basic design of individual dresses that bodice manipulations are often the determining factor of neckline depth. High draped necklines vie with jutting necklines that have collarless necklines protruding at center front.

Some of this fall's suits will be topped with fedoras that are firmly tied on with bewitching veils. Others will be set off by huge berets that sweep upward from the hairline. Classic felts with mannish flip brims are often noted in stitched effects that give them a new look. Higher manipulated crowns, and the smokestack crown, give swagger to other suit hats. Quills shoot off in daring angles, and profiles stand out in flattering relief against the sweeping brims. All-in-all, the "suit hat" is the flattering hat any woman may wear all day. —Adv.

VEILS GIVE GLAMOUR TO FALL MILLINERY

There are plain veils—embroidered veils—rhinestone studded veils—sequin studded veils — metal shot veils—stiff veils—foamy veils—BUT—all are LARGE VEILS and CIRCULAR.

This wave stems from the tide of figure-molding, form-revealing, utterly beguiling, definitely 1937 styles that literally cry for the added lure of half veiled or completely veiled faces . . .

Too, veils for formal evenings are a predilection this season . . . they're first in glamour (she's part of the starlight when she threads her veil with silver . . . or studs it with sequins or rhinestones) . . . and entirely practical (to protect that "imported" coiffeur that cost her next week's salary but'll be gone with the dawn).

DIRECTOIRE INFLUENCE SEEN

More flattering to many women, the bonnet styles borrowed from the Directoire period, have come into fashion once more. They are off-face styles that set well back and frame the coiffure, showing the soft curls about the face in flattering effect. Profile lines are especially well framed by many of these new hats, as the snug back line gives beauty to the headline itself, and thus emphasizes the beauty of the profile.

With deep subtle shades, or black, the smartest colors for the costume it is no wonder hats adopt richly colorful trimmings. Bright feathers, soft plumes, flowers of glamorous colored velvet, and even embroideries give color contrasts in this season's hats. Even felts are noted in stitched or patterned treatment this year while brocades and evening gown fabrics find their way into other hats.

High crowns and high twisted toques of velvets vie with uplifted brims and flirting feathers in new hats. A hint of the gay nineties is seen here and there, in high-placed feathers and upsweeping brims. The swagger of the apache beret or the dignity of the Hindu turban give interest to other hats. —Adv.

Fashion is "lifting her head" and lifting her hat with an onward and upward movement that gives dashing interest to the entire costume ensemble this fall. No more dowdy headgear, and no more trailing "fussiness." The new mode has its air of elegance that flatters the woman and attracts the men!

The corselet line gives a high-low effect and suggests a lower waistline. Lower waistlines are indicated by wide belts and girdles . . . shirring and draped movements. —Adv.

High Riding Patterns Lead In Shoes

Suedes Top Favorite . . . . While Black Is All Important

In women's dress type shoes fashion finds black the leading color and suede, by all means the most important material. . . however in some elegant patterns, patent leather as trims seem a very tasteful combination for brisk Fall weather.

Harvest Of Brown And Red In Smart Fall Hosiery

Harmonising with the rich new colors of Fall costumes, hosiery is shown in a range of rich autumn browns, copper-beige tones, and reddish tans. Wine tones, with off-brown or off-copper hues are planned to blend with any of the dark rich colors of this season. For those preferring gray or navy costumes, hosiery is shown in blending gunmetal tones, or in contrasting coppery hues that suggest other accessories in the same smart contrast.

SHOES MATCH BAGS

Matching the shoes to the handbag is one of the really smart tricks of fashion this Fall. Dark rich colors, or black give excellent opportunity to "team-mate" the leather accessories of the costume. Such colors as rust, brown, mahogany, dark green, etc., are especially favored, while of course, black is dominant.

A note of trimming on both handbag and shoes is often the method of "matching" these costume essentials. Bright leather contrasts, or shining patent leather trims provide the matching note in some of these. Buttons, braidings, pipings, or even lacings are used to match others.

FASHION SMILES ON VELVET

Dull and slenderising, or shiny and glamorous, the new velvets are shown for day or afternoon wear. Shorter piles make them more supple than ever before, and new non-crushable treatments make them more practical.

Lending themselves to the soft shirrings and rich draped treatments of Fall dresses, velvets promise to be among the season's favorites. Their colors are beautiful, too, in deep rich hues borrowed from the Autumn forest, or from the tapestries of the Middle Ages.

GLOVES ARE LADYLIKE

Slimly fitting as to wrist, with refined details and stitchings, the new Fall gloves have a ladylike elegance that carries out the new mode. Even sports gloves are more refined in their trimming, more fitting in their lines.

—Adv.

TRIMS TAKE ON INTERESTING ANGLES

Reviving the glamour and elegance of the pre-war era and the gay nineties, rich embroideries and braidings, beadings or even spangles are used to ornament Fall dresses. Braidings are expected to be used extensively on daytime frocks, nail-heads and modified bright trimmings on afternoon frocks. Colorful embroideries will be shown on many. And jet spangles give glamour to many black daytime or afternoon dresses.

SKIRT LINES SHORTER

Although American women wore their skirts a trifle shorter for Summer than did smart Parisiennes, skirt lines will be slightly shorter this Fall. Thirteen and one-half inches is quoted as the fashionable new length, a flattering line that strikes the average woman mid-calf. This is longer than sports fashions this Summer, but shorter than more formal costumes last Spring. Many women will wear skirts fourteen and fifteen inches from the floor, especially more youthful fashionables.

NECKLINES BECOME IMPORTANT

Necklines become important once more, too, with the continuation of the V-line so popular this Summer. And with raised hair-lines, the throat becomes an interesting place for lovely necklaces, clips and brooches. Many of these are borrowed from old-fashioned jewel pieces, and have brilliant combinations of colorful settings. Interest in these elaborate types of jewelry has been brought about by the visiting notables at England's Coronation.

Every smart neckline this Fall and Winter will have its scarf, tied in a jaunty bow, or wrapped in careless fashion and tucked into the suit collar. Bright printed scarfs, bright woven scarfs, and others of wool or silk dot the Fall parade. With suits so overwhelmingly popular, it is no wonder this is a "scarf season."

—Adv.

DEFINITELY A SUIT SEASON

Fashion offers glorious colors in Fall tweeds, lavish use of furs, and gleaming satins in blouses. More than ever before, this will be a Fall suit season.

Carrying on the ensemble theme, smart women plan their wardrobes around coats as well as suits. Dresses that blend or contrast beautifully with extra coats create well-planned ensembles and become the basis of entire wardrobes.

The dressy suit, richly furred, and with blended or contrasting blouse of its own, is one of the high-fashions of the season. It is usually in dark, rich woolens, with fox or other luxurious fur used lavishly for collar and trimming.

Costume ensembles in which an entire dress is harmonised with the coat are also smart this season and make excellent basic costumes for the all 'round wardrobe.

—Adv.

Color Highlights Fall Accessories

Rich Hues Give Sparkle To Basic Dark Costume Themes

With black the leading "color" for Fall, much emphasis is being given to colorful accessories, designed to give relief to Fall ensembles.

With dark "basic" colors in costumes, black or rich dark accessories give the smart contrast liked this season. Romantic colors give a complete new range of these dark costume colors. Such names as "shocking red" and tavern green indicate the wide range of names that describe them.

Novelty shapes, with new braided tip-handles, and softly gathered pouch bags, metal clasps, etc., give interest to this year's bag crop.

Novelty kits for the young crowd come in satchel or vanity box shapes, and have special compartments for make-up, smoking accessories, etc. In bright colored leathers, they make grand sports accessories.

Gold metal, long a favored medium for evening accessories and belts, is seen in a new guise, as appliques on belts and bodices. It is also used for belts and trimmings.

—Adv.

Balloon sized handbags launched last year were so successful that they are being revived for Fall. Their generous capacity, with pockets and containers for cosmetics and smoking kits, make them especially popular for travel or all-day use.

—Adv.

HANDBAGS MATCH GLOVES

Smartly ensembled handbags will match Fall gloves, both in color and in type of leather. Soft suedes, smoothly fitting kidskin, or the more rugged doeskin or other sturdier leathers find their "mates" in fashionable bags. Often some note of trimming on the handbags will be carried out on the gloves. Thus, in choosing a glove with buckled wrist, the smart woman chooses a handbag with a buckle effect, or similar matching note.

Interesting Details About An Industry Of Astonishing Proportion

Last year enough thread was used in Arrow shirts to reach twice the distance of the earth to the moon and then some.

A 19,000-mile carpet of cloth one yard wide (enough to reach from Honolulu to New York, the long way around!) was used in Arrow shirts last year.

Enough buttons (72,396,684) were used on Arrow shirts last year to put a necklace around the state of Connecticut—and have enough left over to encircle Rhode Island, too.

The boxes in which Arrow shirts were packed during 1936 would make a pile 580 times as high as the Empire State building, the tallest in the world.

In all foreign countries, including such faraway places as Thodesia and Siam, you will find Arrow shirts on sale. Arrow started—75 years ago—in a small one-room work shop. Over the door hung the shingle of MAULLIN & BLACHARD, COLLAR MAKERS—the firm which fathered the Cluett, Peabody and company of today. That's where the saying comes from—Why shouldnt Arrow collars fit perfectly; they made over six million collars before they ever attached one to a shirt.

SHIRTS TURN TO MORE FORMAL DESIGNING

Starched shirts new Fall style note. Although we can see no signs of the soft collar shirt disappearing, we can see a revival of the more dressy type of shirt. Any number of men have turned to starched collars, demi-bosoms, French cuffs and pleats for a welcome change from the informality of soft shirts. These shirts go beautifully with the new trend toward drape suits.

Soft shirts are toned down

Shirts have paraded through the entire color line. Starting several seasons ago with deep tones, coming to dust tones and now reaching pastel shades. Glaringly bold checks have been replaced by smaller effects and stripes are often in two colors.

Men's Shoes Have An Air Of "Broguishness"

Fall, 1937, gives men "Something different." This season the newer men's shoes have an air of broguishness that has been absent for the past few seasons. There are punched and perforated tips and trims, and in some cases the soles are more extended. The leathers are mellow and soft, Scotch grain and Norwegian calfskin, and the colors are black leading, and we see considerably more browns than at any time in the past few showings. This is due to the increase in brown clothing and colors that blend with brown shoes.

The toes seem to be somewhat less pointed—they have that comfort appeal. But still for the collegiate type there still remains wing tips and fancy toes with buckskins shown in black, brown and grey.

Trend Is Toward "Easier" Clothes For Men

Says Robert Surrey, Leading Men's Clothing Stylist

The drape model in men's clothing—an easy, smart, lounge type of model, will be more popular this fall than at any other time since its introduction to the style world.

Mr. Lewis Price of Hemphill-Wells Company, which carries the line of Hart Schaffner & Marx in this city, made this announcement today, explaining that Robert Surrey, noted stylist for Hart Schaffner & Marx, which is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, predicts the drape or Savile lounge model will be outstanding in popularity. Mr. Surrey states:

"Double-breasted coats will be prominently featured, with expectations of a heavy demand. Sport back models also will play an important part in styles this fall.

"The college student will show definite favoritism for the typical three-button New Haven sack coat, custom-tailored in its design, with modernized lapel and button spacing."

Mr. Surrey declared that other favorites will be raglan shoulder overcoats and top-coats, especially those coats cut with deep arms and loose bodies, since men now definitely prefer a generous sweep in the styling of their coats, comfort being a key note in both suits and top-coats.

"As for more formal wear," says the style expert, "the double-breasted dinner jacket, lower button to button, will be the top model for fall and winter."

In general, Glen-O-Plaids and somewhat brighter colors will be the fashion this fall, said Mr. Surrey, with men going in more for smarter colors than at any time in the past six years.

Yoakum County Pools Are Opened; Hockley Operations Receive Extension

Oil Showing In Dawson County Well Reported; Fate In Doubt

BY JOHN R. ALDWIN
Special Oil Writer

Opening of two oil pools in southwestern Yoakum county, one by Bahago and Bond No. 1 J. L. West, six miles southwest of Plains, the other, 6 1-2 miles south and a quarter mile west, by Denver Producers & Refiners No. 1 J. A. Wattenberg, and the indicated extension of Hockley county's pool 2 1-2 miles southeast by Stanolind No. 1 Slaughter were among principal West Texas developments this week.

A northwestern Dawson county wildcat, E. L. Wilson and others' No. 1 T. H. Scanlon, showed oil, thin struck water and its fate was in doubt. Lefiland Bros. No. 2 Tubb in the Sand Hills district in western Crane county showed only sulphur water when tested after holes from 5,822-91 feet had indicated to some that heavy Ordovician production would be developed. Wildcats abandoned included Argo No. 1 Dr. E. H. Jones in northwestern Gaines county, General Crude No. 1 T-P Land Trust in northern Reeves county and Murjo No. 1 Monroe in western Ward county, both of which tested the Delaware sand, and Superior and others' No. 1 Massie on the J. S. Todd ranch in north central Crockett county, which unsuccessfully tested from 1,230-70 feet after finding the Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, barren, in drilling to 7,968 feet.

Locations Are Staked

Locations were staked for 52 tests in 12 counties, four of them wildcats, two more than the number listed during the preceeding week.

Humble Pipe Line Co., according to an unconfirmed report, was surveying for a proposed extension from the Means field in north central Andrews county to the Seminole and Wasson pools in Gaines county which have no outlet. The Seminole pool has two producers and the Wasson four with others near completion.

The Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Co., formed a year or more ago through merger of the interests of The Texas Pipe Line Co. and other firms, is looping its 10-inch pipe line from Jal, New Mexico, to Crane, Tex., with an alternate 8 and 12-inch line. The expansion, it is understood, will permit the handling of 60,000 barrels of crude daily. A daily average of 35,000 barrels now is being run.

Line Treated With Acid

Bohago and Bond No. 1 West in southwestern Yoakum county flowed 101.75 barrels of pipe line oil in 24 hours through 2-inch tubing set at 5,240 feet with a packer at 4,992 and the total depth 5,255 after treating the Permian lime twice with a total of 4,000 gallons of acid. It was retreated with 6,000 gallons of acid and was swabbing four to five barrels of oil hourly. Location is 1,980 feet from the north and west lines of section 606-D-John H. Gibson, on acreage obtained by L. D. Stogner of Dallas from the Ohio Oil Co.

Denver No. 1 Whittenberg, 660 feet out of the northwest corner of section 631-D-John H. Gibson, logged lime between 4,847 and 5,015 feet, the total depth, that showed porosity and oil stains at intervals and flowed 15 barrels hourly, half oil and half basic sediment and acid water, following retreatment with 3,000 gallons of acid. The first treatment was with 1,000 gallons. No. 1 Whittenberg is only 6 1-4 miles northwest of the discovery well in the Wasson pool in Gaines county.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Walker, in the southeast corner of section 794, three miles west and one location north of the Denver test, showed a scum of oil on the pits in drilling to 4,963 feet, where the tools stuck. Moore Bros. No. 1 Cleveland, in the northwest corner of section 706, three and three-quarter miles southeast of the Bohago and Bond well, logged lime showing porosity and oil stains at intervals in drilling to 5,363 feet in lime.

The Standard Oil Co. of Texas staked location for No. 1 M. B. Sawyer 660 feet out of the southeast corner of section 576-D-John H. Gibson, one-half mile northwest of Bohago and Bond No. 1 West.

Strike In Hockley County

Stanolind No. 1 Slaughter, 2 1-2 miles southeast of The Texas No. 1 Slaughter, Hockley county's lone producer, struck oil from 4,940-50 feet in drilling to 4,975 and was tubing and erecting storage, with 3,600 feet of oil in the hole. A small amount of sulphur water—totaling about 20 gallons—had exhausted. Location is in the center of the southwest quarter of section 76, league 27, Zavala county school land.

Continental No. 1 W. McCarty Moore became the fourth completed producer and the largest in the Wasson pool in northwestern Gaines county by flowing 1,359.60 barrels of 33.6 gravity oil through 2-inch tubing in 24 hours, bottomed at 4,992 feet. Its gas-oil ratio was 6,794 to 1. The well was treated with 7,000 gallons of acid. It is in the southwest corner of section 46-AX-psl. 1 1-4 miles northeast of the discovery well.

Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, who, with Continental, opened the Wasson field in June, staked four more locations in the area, one to be drilled jointly with Phillips Petroleum Co., another to be a north offset to Amerada No. 1 Matthews if the latter produces. No. 1 Matthews, 1 1-4 miles southwest of the Wasson discovery and in the northeast corner of section 41T-G-GCSD&RGNG, plugged back from 5,018 to 5,013 feet after swabbing oil and water following acid treatment.

Treated And Swabbing

Amerada No. 1 Matthews, four miles west of No. 1 Armstrong and in the northwest quarter of section 456-G-GCSD&RGNG, struck 1 1-2 ballers of sulphur water hourly from 5,071-79, obtained a shutoff by plugging back to 5,000 feet. It was treated with 2,000 gallons of acid and was swabbing.

Continental No. 1 Dr. E. H. Jones, nine miles west and three miles south of the Wasson pool opener and in the northeast corner of section 22-A7-psl, plugged back from 5,020 to 4,815 feet, having been shot without results.

Argo No. 1 Dr. E. H. Jones, 4 1-2 miles north by east of Continental No. 1 Jones and in the center of the northeast quarter of section 2-A7-psl, was slated to plug after striking sulphur water from 5,247-54 feet.

Ralph N. Gill spudded No. 1 R. S. Simpson, a wildcat seven miles southeast of the Seminole pool and 330 frofm the north, 1,533.6 feet from the east line of section 8-C44-psl.

Likely To Plug Back

E. L. Wilson and others No. 1 T. H. Scanlon, northwestern Dawson county wildcat, in the northwest corner of section 83-M-ELaRR, struck oil from 4,902-09 and from 4,945-47 feet and when bottomed at 4,954 recovered 10 to 15 barrels of oil each trip in swabbing three times in seven hours. It encountered salty sulphur water, however, in deepening to 4,965 and plugging back and acidizing were likely. No. 1 Scanlon is five miles west and one mile north of Ray Albaugh and others No. 1 John Robinson, only producer in the county.

Broderick & Calvert No. 1-B Cowden became the largest producer in the Harper pool in Ector county this week by flowing 737.28 barrels of oil in 24 hours for completion at 4,264 feet. Pay topped at 3,985 feet was shot with 540 quarts of nitroglycerin. Location is in the northwest quarter of section 34-44-3o-T&P.

Hargrave & Peters No. 1 Riordan in Andrews county, seven miles south of the Means field and in the northwest quarter of section 10-A44-psl, was abandoned a failure at 5,013 feet, having had on shows. Gulf staked a location for No. 1-G University, 440 feet out of the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 8-14-U, two miles northeast of the Deep Rock pool.

Well Is Abandoned

Murjo No. 1 Day McFoe, western Ward county wildcat in the center of the north quarter of section 210-34-H&TC, struck salt water from 5,013-50 feet and was abandoned. Wilcox Oil & Gas Co. spudded No. 1 Kinnebrew, a wildcat in northwestern Sterling county, in the center of the northwest quarter of section 101-2-H&TC, on a block secured frfom Floyd C. Dodson of San Angelo. The Sward-Mendenhall Trust within 30 days plays to start a test on the T. G. Brennand land, in the southeast corner of section 180-2-H&TC, in Sterling county.

Oil was rising 16 feet in a 6 5-8 inch hole in 24 hours in Salt Gap Development Co. No. 1 T. C. Ward, McCulloch county wildcat bottomed at 1,179 feet, while tubing was awaited. The oil was struck in the last six feet of drilling and acid—of the sandy lime was probable. The test is in the northwest part of H. Brandis survey 1563, three and one-half miles north of Melvin. It is 1 1-4 miles east and slightly south of Maverick No. 1 Jim Rice, which headed oil from 1,835-42 feet but failed to produce.

MRS. H. H. LANCASTER

Street, San Angelo, Texas. "A good night's sleep was impossible and I was always tired and worn-out. Many times during the day I would feel as if I could not stand it any longer, felt as if I wanted to scream. The least thing annoyed me beyond reason. Although I had taken many different kinds of medicines with no relief I naturally became badly discouraged. When Gly-Cas was recommended to me I had no faith in it at all—until I gave it a trial—it soon proved different."

"This new medical discovery made a remarkable change in my condition in a very short time," continued Mrs. Lancaster. "Today I am feeling better in everyway. My nerves are quieted and my health in general is greatly improved. I now enjoy a good night's sleep, eat well and have new strength and energy with which to enjoy life as others. Gly-Cas is one medicine I do not hesitate to recommend for I know it will mean new health for others."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Haley Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

Borger Sends Toughest Team Of Season To Local Ball Park This Afternoon

Hubbers Rank As Underdogs For First Time

Most distinguished team to appear on the home diamond this season is due this afternoon at 3 o'clock when the Huber Carbons of Borger engage the home town Hubbers.

Manager Roy Story, who ordinarily runs his club from the bench but who inserts himself into the lineup as utility fielder and pinch hitter when occasion suggests, had not named a starting pitcher last night, but it is not without reason to suspect that he intends to send a lefthander in against a lefthander this afternoon. Borger's southpaw pitching ace is Jim Carrithers, a curve ball artist, who has seen professional experience with the Atlanta club of the Southern Association and Albany of the International league.

Three Good Righthanders

Story, however, will bring three capable righthanders as the Hubers, representing one of the largest carbon black manufacturing plants in the entire world. There is Byron Chody, listed as No. 1, who has pitched for New Orleans of the Southern Association, and there is Cy Young, formerly of Hutchinson in the Western Association, and there is Paul Spencer, formerly with Memphis and Pine Bluff in organized ball.

The Borger carbon company, in fact, has picked his baseball team with extreme care. Every player on the squad comes from a professional source, all of them above Class B. Most of them are from the Southern Association, the Western Association and the International or American Associations. Manager Story himself is an old Yankee player.

Borger's team has won 35 games this season and lost 15. Most of the losses were early in the season when Borger tackled strong teams. There was no "warm up" period or practice against weak teams, but since they got going, the Hubers have made a name for themselves. They finished in a tie for third place in the recent Denver Post tournament, recognized as the oldest and most representative semi-pro tournament of the country, and thus may be said to be the "third best team in the country."

The gates at the local park open at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. No tickets have been sold in advance, and it's another case of first come, first served. The extra bleachers, obtained for the tournament, still remain, assuring plenty of seating space for all fans. The price remains the same, although the game expenses are running considerably higher than for ordinary contests. It's 40 cents for adults, 25 cents for children.

As for the Hubbers, they're cool, calm and collected so far, with no show of jitters through Friday's workout. They'll indulge in a long batting practice early this afternoon before game time, and Manager Jack Thompson will have his full strength. He may take over third base himself, if Andy Anderson is not called upon to catch, sending Ed Hambright to right field. Harold Crites will be in center, Bill Holloway or Charles Presley in left. Lefty Bettis will be at first, the dependable Win Breedlove at second and Strong-Arm Blue Graham at short.

Considering the fest of Borger's "gashouse gang," there's Fred Poivgt catching. He's an ex-Cardinal, if you remember the box scores, and has seen service in the Cardinal camp at Rochester. If he falters, there's Frank Warren, formerly of Toledo, to take his place. In right field there Carl "Power House" Brown, formerly with Birmingham, who possesses a bullet arm and who "can hit from town to town," according to advance notices.

In center is Hack Wilson, not the big league Hack, but the one who played with Galveston in the Texas League some, and in left is the redoubtable Harold Gilbert, formerly of New Orleans, a 200-pound plus person who hits the ball to distant corners.

Cage Keaton, formerly with Kansas City, is at first, Buzz Ross, formerly of the Cardinal camp at Rochester, at third, and Al Summers, the ex-Oklahoma City player, at second. Choppy Spencer, formerly with Memphis, plays shortstop.

Post All-Stars Win District Softball Meet

POST, Aug. 28 (Special)—Ending a smooth session of uncontested softball, the Post All-Stars tonight defeated the KFYO Radio team of Lubbock, 12 to 2, for the championship of the South Plains district tournament.

Pitcher Corley allowed but two hits tonight, after pitching a shutout over Tahoka Friday night, while the All-Stars collected 15 bingles off Charley Duval, Radio chunker who experienced a bad evening against the heavy hitters of Post. Duval's mates committed four errors behind him, the Post team making one. Aside from giving up numerous hits, Duval pitcher hard ball, striking out 8 men, while Corley was fanning 9. Corley walked 5 and Duval 3.

The largest crowd of the tournament paid $102.45 to see the championship game, bringing the total gate receipts to $334.50.

County Attorney Joe Moss, district softball commissioner for the Amateur Softball Association of America, said last night that the tournament was a success all the way around, from the standpoints of player ability, game excitement and finance. "After paying our bills, we'll have enough to defray most of the expenses of the winning team to Overton for the state tournament," Moss said.

"I wish to express by appreciation to all the teams competing in the tournament for their cooperation and their ability to take defeat. We did not have a single protest; nobody got 'out of line', and everything went off smoothly. I further wish to thank the sponsors and managers of teams, the umpires and all connected with helping make the tournament a success."

Schaal Of Plainview Meets Obie Bristow Today For Golf Tournament Title

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

A 220-pound-plus heavyweight veteran who coaches football in season and shoots golf out of season, hailing from Big Spring and playing good golf wherever he goes, meets a 20-year-old middleweight sharpshooter from Plainview, a distinct dark horse who doesn't like to be called that, in the final round of the Fifth Annual Lubbock Country Club invitation golf tournament today.

The principals are big Obie Bristow, the long driver, from Big Spring, and Worland Schaal, the clean iron hitter and deft putter from Plainview.

The Picture Changes

Thus is the championship picture of one of West Texas' most popular tournaments changed completely from that of a year ago, when Shorty Hornbuckle of Clovis, N. M., defeated Douglas Jones of Big Spring for the title. The title will stay in Texas this year, in West Texas at that, and Big Spring's delegates, who surrendered last year, may have a champion today. The wise boys, however, who were all for the old guard, have settled down and aren't saying much. They've seen young Schaal play his shots not so long off the tee but deadly to the green and down, and they're saying "pay your money and take your choice." And there isn't a whole lot of ready money on Bristow, the favorite.

Schaal disclaims any "dark horse" or "underdog" discrimination. "Why should I?" he interrogates. "I've won the Plainview City championship twice, in 1935 and again this year, and I've been playing golf eight years. Hell, I'm due to win sometime. I'm no newcomer, even if I am just 20 years old. I don't want to be the dark horse, and I don't want to be the favorite. I just want an even break. I've got just about as many clubs in my bag as my opponent, and if he outdistances me off the tee, maybe I can make it up from the tee shot on to the hole."

His Advance No Fluke

Schaal has a true golfer's temperament—cool, undisturbed, steady, but not cocky. He's modest, and he wasn't making the above statement for publication. He just feels that way.

Bristow, who has played in many times more tournaments than his young adversary, also has the golfing temperament. Nothing can disturb him, nothing can upset him. He's steady, powerful, big and independent.

And that's how the championship business stacks up.

Schaal advanced by defeating Owen Crump of Crosbyton, 2 and 1, in the quarter-final round Saturday morning, after taking out Al Badger, the medalist, in a 24-hole second round match Friday afternoon. He won from Weldon Counts of Lubbock in the first round.

Bristow marched majestically into the finals with a 1 up victory over Buddy Wheeler of Spur yesterday afternoon, after nosing out J. R. Farmer, Lubbock's last remaining hope, 3 and 1, in the morning round. Previously Bristow had defeated Alfred Holton, another Lubbock favorite, and Sid Thrash, Country club championship flighter.

Par Holds Upper Hand

Old General Par was still chuckling, just as he has been doing since the tournament started, over the efforts of local and visiting golfers to "break" him. The entire field, particularly in the championship flight, have found the General a most elusive creature. In the semi-final round, Schaal was nearest par of the four with a total of one over. Bristow had a total of 73 for the 18 holes, two over par.

Schaal was one down to the likeable Gore after the first nine of the semi-final round, the Plainview city champion shooting a 39 to Gore's 38. But Schaal came back on the back side, evening the match on the 11th, taking a lead on the 12th, increasing it on the 14th, losing the 15th to a birdie but winning with a birdie on the 17th to end the match. True and steady with his irons, Schaal had the gallery gasping.

Bristow needed a 27 on the front

Gehringer Slips Up On Medwick

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—While Ducky Medwick remained in the batting doldrums, the pitching fraternity had a new worry this week in the sudden clouting bombardment currently being turned loose by Charley Gehringer.

Medwick, although retaining the National league batting lead with a .393 mark, continued in his biggest slump of the year and fell off seven points more during the seven day span ended with yesterday's games.

Gehringer, on the other hand by hitting 14-for-33 for the week and boosting his junior loop mark eight points to .386, increased his edge to 18 points over second place.

Britain Breaks Mark For Mile

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Stanley Wooderson, spindly, bespectacled bank clerk, smashed the world mile record today and became the first Englishman in more than 50 years to set a new international standard at that distance.

Paced by two club-mates in a special race, Wooderson was clocked in 4:06.6, clipping two-tenths of a second off Glenn Cunningham's listed world record of 4:06.8, set at Princeton, N. J., in 1934.

Wooderson, who established British and English native mile records at 4:10.8 in 1936 and gained fame as the man the fleet New Zealander, Jack Lovelock, couldn't beat, accepted an invitation to try for a new world standard over the track in Hotspur park, London, during a meet held by his own club, the Blackheath Harriers.

Two club-mates, B. C. Eeles and R. H. Thomas, were given handicaps of 65 and 10 yards respectively, and instructions to set the fastest possible pace. Thomas dropped out after a half mile but Eeles continued and led Wooderson across the line.

Wooderson was caught in 58.6 at the quarter-mile post, 2:02.6 at the half and 3:07.2 at the three quarters. Thus he achieved his new record mainly through fast times on the first and fourth quarters.

By quarters his times were 58.6, 64.0, 64.6 and 59.4.

Miss Miley Winner Over Texas Star

ST. PAUL, Aug. 28 (AP). — Less than a month after her conquest in the women's western derby in Chicago, Marion Miley of Cincinnti, Curtis cup star, added another title to her imposing list today by winning the 25th annual women's western tournament.

She defeated Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., Trans-Mississippi champion, 7 and 6 over the 36-hole route to regain the championship she held in 1935 and relinquished last year in the tournament at South Bend, Ind.

It was the fifth time in three years the two players had met in match play and the third time Miss Miley was victorious.

Three up at the end of 18 holes, Miss Miley ended the match on the thirtieth green with a burst of subpar golf. She was one under regulation figures for the afternoon's 12 holes.

Miss Jameson had been one up at the end of nine holes, the result of a 38 medal score to Miss Miley's 39.

Shotgun Enfilade Wednesday To Announce Opening Of Texas Dove Shooting Season

AUSTIN, Aug. 28. (AP) — Panhandle nimrods will take to the field Wednesday opening the first phase of Texas' patchwork of mourning and white wing dove seasons.

Game department officials, who admit failure of the legislature to harmonize state regulations with federal law might induce "headaches" among the hunting gentry, predict successful shooting.

Improved food and cover resulted in an increase of mourning doves throughout the state, they declare, and will offset a shortage of white wings in the Rio Grande valley.

For two months after Sept. 1 hunters in Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, King Cottle, Childress and counties to the north and west may shoot both species.

Legal hunting begins Sept. 15 in the remainder of the state, although special regulations affect three large sections and in 18 counties and portions of 16 others there is no open season.

Will J. Tucker, secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster commission announced recently he would ask the legislature to correct the jumble of rules. He will recommend an open season in September and October for the Panhandle and Sept. 15-Nov. 15 elsewhere.

Hunting is allowed from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31 under present law in the area between the Panhandle and the dividing line of the north and south zones. The boundary line is the Southern Pacific railroad in Val Verde and Kinney counties.

The north borders of Uvalde and Medina counties, the Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific lines from Bexar county to Travis county, the H. & T. C. railroad from Austin to the Brazos river, up the Brazos to the Santa Fe, along that railway to a juncture with the H. E. & W. T. and following that line to the Louisiana border.

Immediately below the dividing line is the tier of counties and parts of counties in which hunting is not authorized. They are Maverick, Karnes, Wilson, Guadalupe, Caldwell, Gonzales, Lavaca, Fayette, Colorado, Austin, Waller, Liberty, Hardin, Tyler, Jasper, Newton, Sabine and San Augustine and the southern portions of Val Verde, Kinney, Bexar, Comal, Hays, Travas, Bastrop, Lee, Washington Grimes, Montgomery, San Jacinto, Polka, Angelina Nacogdoches and Shelby.

Below the closed zone are two sections, separated by the Texas-Mexican railroad, each with distinct regulations. North of the railroad white wings may be shot from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31 and mouring doves from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15.

South of the railroad both species may be shot from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31 but only on Saturdays, Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The bag limit for both mourning doves and white wings is 15 a day, and limit of possession is one day's bag.

Johnny Goodman Ends 10-Year Jinx To Win National Amateur Golf Title

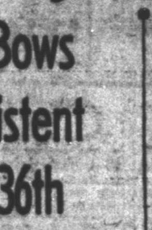

Billows Bows To Consistent Play On 36th

(By The Associated Press)

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28.—Johnny Goodman finally caught up with the elusive amateur golf champion of the United States after a 10-year hunt. He won the title today by defeating Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 2 up, in the 36-hole final match.

"I'm very happy", said Goodman.

Billows was philosophical. "I tried my best," he said, "but Johnny was too good."

Johnny Goodman

Billows made a valiant fight and carried the match to the home hole when it seemed earlier it must end long before the finish of the 36-hole route.

The Omaha, Neb., stylist, was four up after 22 holes and saw his margin reduced to one at the 34th when Billows won three of the next seven holes.

The Poughkeepsie boy had a chance at the close until his second shot on the 561-yard 36th hole was badly pushed and caromed from a spectator's head to rough and trees.

Goodman's steadiness told the tale.

He did not miss the fairway often and when he did stray, he did not go very far away.

Billows, who yesterday put up one of the great exhibitions of iron play in the competition, was good with the irons today but not the sensation of the day before.

A great crowd was on hand to cheer at the close. When the championship was finally wrapped up and turned over to the former open champion the crowd had grown to approximately 6,000.

Bristow And Schaal

nine of the afternoon round and was one up on Wheeler, whose sensational pitches to the green have been a tournament feature. Bristow came in with a par 36 on the back side and was two over par for the round. Wheeler also bagged a 36, and the way he did it almost meant trouble for Bristow and his supporters.

Wheeler Makes Rally

The Big Spring hotshot was three up and three to go through the 15th, but the undisturbed Wheeler copped the 16th and the 17th, the latter with a birdie. They came to the 18th, Bristow leading by a hole, and Wheeler missed a long putt which would have squared the match. As it was, Bristow canned a short putt for a four, Wheeler two-putted for a four, the hole was halved and the match was ended.

All quarter-final matches ended on the 17th green, Schaal taking out Crump, 2 and 1, Gore beating Jones by the same score, Bristow eliminating Farmer 3 and 1 and Wheeler defeating Ferrell 2 and 1.

Bristow shot even par on the first nine against Farmer for a 2 up lead at the turn. He made it 3 up at the eleventh with a birdie and through the fourteenth he was four up and flat with par. Farmer rallied with a birdie and a par to stay in the match, but they halved the seventeenth with pars to end the contest.

Jones' Putter Fails

The slender Amarillo sharpshooter, long off the tees and putting well, but not so hot with his approaches, was no better than even with Jones at the turn. Jones was hitting beautiful drives and his irons were working almost perfectly, but his putter "done him wrong" all the way. He missed very short putts, this phase of his game costing him the match.

Young Schaal, who needed 4 extra holes Friday to put out the medalist, the veteran Al Badger, came back in the morning round fresh as a daisy to shoot a pair of 38s at the Crosbyton veteran, Owen Crump, who was one stroke worse. Crump took a lead on the first nine with his but the lead changed twice and ended all even. Schaal won the tenth with a birdie and the eleventh with a par, went three up with a bogey six on the thirteenth, but lost the fourteenth and the sixteenth, won the seventeenth for the match.

Buddy Wheeler shot nice golf in the morning round to defeat Farmer, who had eliminated Defending Champion Shorty Hornbuckle Friday. After starting with bogies, the lead went to Wheeler on the second with a birdie. He parred the next five holes, then took two bogies to wind up the first nine all square with Farmer, who won the sixth, seventh and eighth with two birds and a par.

Wheeler went ahead with a birdie 2 on the twelfth, won the next with a par. They halved the next three, and Wheeler's tee shot to the seventeenth was almost dead for a birdie 2, ending the match.

SPORTICLES

by COLLIER PARRIS

THE SPORTING PUBLIC will be a house divided this afternoon, and for good reason. There's a hot baseball game at the College Avenue park, and a hot golf match on the other side of town. You take your choice, but pay your money only at the ball park.

Personally, we intend to see some of both. The final match of the Fifth Annual Lubbock Country Club Invitation tournament starts this morning at 9 o'clock, featuring a youngster from Plainview, Worland Schaal, and a veteran from Big Spring, Obie Bristow. It resumes at about 2 o'clock this afternoon for the final 18 holes.

The ball game, featuring the powerful Huber Carbons of Borger and the hustling Hubbers of Lubbock, starts at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and, folks, that ought to be a contest. You've heard about the Hubers, and you know the Hubbers, so make up your mind.

It's A Tourney Full Of Thrills

It has been, is being, a swell tournament out on the Country Club hill. Lubbock continues to be a popular golf resort, and if the tournament were held earlier, and if it had no competition, it surely would be the biggest in this end of the state. From an entry standpoint it is exceptionally good this year, considering that three other tournaments are operating simultaneously, at Shamrock and Brownwood and Midland. Even four local golfers passed up the home tournament to compete at Shamrock, which is all right. They're doing quite well. Joe Bihl was medalist, and all four made the championship flight. The others are Manson Allen, Rufus Bradshaw and Carl Nail.

The upsets, of course, have dominated the headlines regarding the local tournament, and there were plenty of them. The pesies are passed to young Worland Schaal of Plainview, who had a tough row to reach the final round. He eliminated two Lubbock men, including the medalist, and Owen Crump of Crosbyton, before taking out the Amarillo favorite, Paul Gore yesterday.

BRISTOW is the only "favorite" to come through and Obie had trouble. He's undoubtedly one of the best tournament golf players we ever saw. Before getting to Buddy Wheeler of Spur yesterday, Obie had eliminated three of the home town's most popular golfers, Sid Thrash, Alfred Holton and J. R. Farmer, the latter gaining the heights when he defeated Shorty Hornbuckle the defending champion, Friday.

Many and varied are the anecdotes and sidelights connected with the tournament, but space will now allow. Herewith presented, however, is the classic of the tournament so far as stories are concerned and you'll find people to vouch for the authenticity of this:

E. W. SETTLE and Frank Bass, Lubbock players competing in the third flight consolations, fired away to No. 6 green. On his second shot, Bass was over the green but still in the fairway. He improved his lie, which means "teeing it up," according to local fairway rules. As he took his stance, completed his backswing and started down, imagine his suprise to see the ball jump suddenly upward, then to the side, to settle in a depression. At the same time, a scurrying movement was seen.

They'll tell you, and swear to it, that Bass teed his ball on the back of a ground squirrel, which was half covered by grass and leaves and which moved sharply just after Frank "teed up."

Radio scouts looking for talent might inquire about today's finalists, Bristow and Schaal. They were interviewed by KFYO's reporter yesterday afternoon, and both made fair "mike tests."

In the course of the interview, Bristow was asked about his match with Wheeler and how he felt when he was three up and three to go, after which Wheeler won a couple of holes and forced the match to the 18th green.

"Well," murmured the soft-spoken Bristow, "He won the 18th when I took a six, but I wasn't worried right then. I did begin to worry a little when shot on the No. 17 green for a gimme birdie 2 because, you know, it's pretty hard to make a hole-in-one."

Footballs Are Flying For Lubbock

The Westerners are in Kerrville, the Red Raiders are lying quiet, but football proceeds in Lubbock. Doing fall practice here are high school teams from Olney and McCamey.

TWICE daily on the Texas Tech practice fields, which are generously sized and spaced, are Coach C. R. Pattison's Olney squad and Shorty Mayhurst's McCamey boys. The city "papas" should visit these camps, express gratitude that they selected Lubbock for a training site, and otherwise give welcome and salutation.

Down at Kerrville, the Westerners are progressing nicely, according to word from our special agent and hired hand of this department Tom Miller. Tom reports last night that the Westerners engaged the Tivy High club in a scrimmage yesterday, and that they, the Westerners, looked fairly good.

From Tom: Assistant Coach Goober Keyes appeared on the practice field wearing a flop sun hat. To the cries of "stay," he replied: "This old bald head has been scorched, sunburned and otherwise blistered every time I've gone fishing this summer, and I've had enough of it, even if I'm not fishing."

From Dutchy Smith's typewriter comes a sheaf of messages, which he admits is publicity stuff, but which tells its stories. One of the most interesting is that about Aubrey "Professor" Butts, former Waco High and Texas Tech backfield ace and still considered one of the best blocking backs in Tech history, although he waited until the last game of his last year before making a touchdown. Anyway, the Professor had landed a job, as assistant coach at Denison High school—and may we congratulate him . . . Aubrey is a fine boy, and deserving of a good job. We're sure glad he caught on at Denison. . .

There'll be more of Dutchy's publicity dope about Texas Tech and its ball players, past, present and future, right away.

Just now we're glad to announce that Gene Alderson the forward passing star of Lubbock High a few seasons back, will be on the varsity at Tech this fall. . .

24 Start Spring Workout For Post Gridiron Squad

SPUR, Aug. 28. (Special)—Twenty-four boys reported for football for the Spur Bulldog training work, Coach Wadzeck reports. The boys are in camp.

The boys are getting into shape rapidly. Average weights 145 pounds. The pre season schedule begins Sept. 1 with Spur at Snyder; Sept. 7, Rotan at Spur and Sept. 24, Lubbock B-team at Spur.

Good Weather Slated For Champ Bout

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Sunshine flooded everybody's skies today except Tommy Farr's as the ex-Welsh coal miner, one of the most belittled heavyweight challengers since Gentleman Jim Corbett warmed up for the mighty John L. Sullivan, awaited his chance at Joe Louis' title.

After a week of intermittent rain, which forced postponement of the big fight from Thursday to Monday night, the sun came out with every indication of providing clear skies for the battle.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, reporting a new rush of ticket sales and few cancellations because of the postponement, was elated. Louis, though warned against over-confidence, also seemed bright and confident.

Speculation Starts Knockdown

Farr, who hasn't been a fight favorite since his carnival days, was more angered than discouraged but his camp handlers were perturbed because a sparring mate, Abe Feldman, had scored a clean knockdown against the challenger in yesterday's workout at Long Branch, N. J. though they publicly dismissed the incident and mumbled something about a wet floor, they were worried lest Farr be over-trained.

Meanwhile, odds on the challenger soared rapidly from 4 to 1 and even 10 to 1, whereas on Thursday morning Louis money was hard to find.

Chapman Indicates Lubbock High Lineup In Kerrville Scrimmage

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

KERRVILLE, Aug. 28.—Here on the Schreiner Institute gridiron this morning, the probable strength and weaknesses of Lubbock High school's 1937 football team, as well as the same assets and deficits of Tivy High school's club, were demonstrated for the benefit of coaches and a few observers as the clubs clashed in an informal scrimmage.

Tivy High's team is staying home for its training, and helping to entertain the Westerners, who hope to do things in District 1 this season. The Westerners ended their first week of training with a brisk scrimmage that made the Lubbock coaches' hearts leap at times, fall low at other times. The heavy drill lasted 45 minutes; the "beers" wasn't followed because the teams forgot about yard-lines and goal lines, touchdowns and yardage. They slambanged into each other, and one side looked just about as good as the other.

The Westerners were not exactly disappointing, nor did they show up as potential state champions. Inexperience at several positions was evident. Reserve material showed up weaker than expected.

In the backfield, running with Bill Semmes and Jumbo Walter Webster from last year's team were Rusty Johnson and Harold Parsons, up from the Cowhand team. Jack Coursey and Melvin Billings were at ends; Lloyd Sanders and Joe Fyfall were at guard, Captain Babe Ritchie and Henry Ford at tackles and Herb Leaverton, letterman, at center.

After five days of practice, Coach Chapman is well pleased with the physical condition of his players. No injuries have been sustained, and the boys are bearing down to get in shape for the first game of the season in Lubbock Sept. 17, with Cisco. The team will break camp Wednesday noon.

Parker And Hendrix Advance In Canadian Tennis Play

SHOOTORY CLUB, Que., Aug. 28. (AP)—Franklin Parker, United States Davis Cup player from Milwaukee, and Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., reached the final round of the Shooniory club invitation tennis tournament today.

Parker whipped Roger Durham of Montreal, 6-3, 6-3, while Hendrix routed Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-4.

Parker the favorite to take the tourney which Billy Reese of Atlanta won last year, lost his only set in three matches in the quarter final today. Against Bobby Kamrath of Austin, Tex., the second-ranking player of the United States rallied to win, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, after trailing 3-4 in the final set.

School Activities Open This Week

The last week before opening of the 1937-38 scholastic term of Lubbock public schools will include continued enrollment in Junior and Senior High schools and first faculty meeting, to be conducted at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning in Senior High school auditorium. Supt. W. B. Irvin, who came here this summer from Perryton, will meet with faculty for the first time.

More than 300 students were enrolled in the eighth grade at Junior High school Thursday and Friday, Carroll Thompson, principal, reported to the superintendent. Seventh grade enrollment will be conducted Monday and Tuesday; sixth grade, Wednesday and Thursday; and high fifth, Friday.

Books Are Issued

Books were issued at Senior High school in the last week to approximately 600 students or more than half of the anticipated enrollment of about 1,100 students. Thirty-five or 40 were students enrolling for the first time in Lubbock, said R. W. Matthews, principal. Many students registered last May and have not yet obtained books. Enrollment and issuance of books at the school will continue through Friday.

Hours of registration are 8:30 to 12 and 1 to 4 at both Junior and Senior High schools.

Elementary school students will enroll on opening day, Sept. 6. All schools will open that day. Students are to register in their respective zones, changes in which were announced recently, and no transfers will be considered until Sept. 7, said Supt. Irvin.

Enrollment is expected to approximate last year's number of scholastics, which was 5,929, although this year's census showed a slightly less number. Transfers will make the difference.

Teachers in all schools are to attend faculty meeting Saturday morning. Number of teachers is 185 and number of employes, including the business staff, is 210.

Mayor Ross Edwards will greet the teachers. The superintendent will speak. Mrs. Waldo Trotter will present a musical program.

Canvass Of Votes Is Slated Monday

Official tabulation of returns from Monday's state constitutional amendment election indicate that Lubbock county gave its endorsement to five of the proposed amendments instead of four as had been shown in the unofficial count, according to information given Saturday by County Judge J. J. Dillard.

The latest tabulation, which will be subject to canvass at the county commission meeting Monday, indicates the Harris county road financing plan was approved by a majority of 11 votes. Unofficial count indicated a margin of 14 against.

Lubbock county tabulations on various questions, Judge Dillard reported, show: for amendment providing the amount of stockholder's liability in state banks 343, against 235, majority in favor 108; for aid to dependent children 389, against 211, majority for 178; for abolishing salary system for district, county and precinct officials 276, against 295, majority against 17; for amendment providing that property shall never be assessed for taxes at more than its fair, cash market value 499, against 127, majority for, 342; for Harris county road financing plan, 262, against 251, majority for 11; for aid to dependent blind 433, against 168, majority for 264.

Jury Will Be Impaneled For Civil Cases Still On Docket

Jury will be impaneled in county court Monday for civil cases remaining on the docket for disposition during the remainder of the term, Judge J. J. Dillard said Saturday.

A jury also has been called for the week of Sept. 6 for trials of criminal cases. His court, Judge Dillard said, then will remain at recess until the beginning of the annual September term on Sept. 20.

LOW BID TABULATED

AUSTIN, Aug. 28. (AP)—The Jensen Construction company of Austin was low bidder at $109,004 today for constructing an overpass on the M. K. & T. tracks on highway 1 in Cisco. A contract probably will be awarded shortly, highway officials said.

Floyd County Man Injured In Crash

Four persons suffered injuries, one possibly serious, in an automobile mishap about eight miles west of Floydada at the intersection of the Floydada-Hale Center and Lockney-Petersburg highways about 8 o'clock last night.

Arthur Graham, about 20, resident of the Mickey community several miles west of Floydada, was most seriously injured and was taken to West Texas hospital here after he received emergency treatment at Smith & Smith sanitarium at Floydada. He suffered a fractured right collar bone and a deep gash in the top of his head.

Names of the other persons injured and taken to the Floydada sanitarium last night were not obtainable. None of them suffered more than minor injuries.

Graham's machine "rolled over and over" more than 30 yards and Graham was thrown approximately 30 feet beyond where his automobile stopped.

Two men and a girl were in the automobile which was in collision with the one driven by Graham.

Graham was taken to the Lubbock hospital by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Graham. He was admitted to the hospital about 11:15 o'clock last night.

Oklahoma Farmer's Cow Gives Birth To Quintuplet Calves, 'A Very Unusual Incident'

STROUD, Okla., Aug. 28. (AP) —Spot, Farmer Hiram Long's Guernsey cow, has given birth to quintuplet calves, and the feat had bovine circles agasp today.

"It is a, well, it is a very, very unusual incident," spluttered C. C. Hisel, state veterinarian, when he was advised of the quintuple births.

One of the calves died shortly after birth, Long said, but the other four are hale and well, and are being fed two at a time.

Hisel said it was the first report of quintuplet calves of record, so far as he knew. Triplets, he said, were rare enough.

'Foolproof' Plane Is In City; Attracts Attention Saturday

A Stearman-Hammond "Y" "foolproof" plane, Menasco powered, swooped over Municipal airport and the city of Lubbock Saturday. It will be here today and will return next week, said Bill Blevins and R. B. Cowden, both of Midland, distributors for Texas.

Both flew the ship, although neither qualifies as an airman. Both maintain, just as builders of the craft, that a flier is not a necessity for handling the craft, the building of which was a result of an expensive government subsidy.

The ship will be seen in numerous West and northern Texas cities before returning to Lubbock.

The silver plane with the all-metal construction and a semi-monocoupe structure attracted much attention when it flew over the city.

First Bale At Slaton Brings $44 Premium

SLATON, Aug. 27—(Special) — The first bale of cotton ginned in Lubbock county this year sold today at ten cents a pound in addition to a $44 premium made up of donations from Slaton merchants.

The 560-pound bale, ginned yesterday afternoon by the Producers Cooperative gin, was raised by Otto Rinne on a farm containing nearly a section of land about 6 miles south of Slaton.

Jack Lokey bought the cotton which was auctioned by A. J. Payne, manager of the chamber of commerce. Lokey is a Lubbock cotton buyer.

The selling price and the premium brought $100 for its producer. Rinne raised the first bale ginned at the Producers Cooperative gin last year, although it was not the first ginned here.

With approximately 450 acres of land in cotton, Rinne said he had several more bales open. Agricultural authorities pointed out that this is "unusually early" for this section. The first bale last year was in September.

Annual Baptist Gathering Is To Be Conducted At Midway

LAMESA, Aug. 28 (Special) — Annual meeting of the Lamesa Baptist association will be held at the Midway Baptist church near here, Sept. 7 and 8.

Rev. W. C. Wright will lead a devotional Tuesday morning and Rev. W. I. Taylor will preach the annual sermon at 11:35. In the afternoon the Women's Missionary union will be in charge.

Other speakers will include Dr. R. A. Collins, Abilene; Rev. Jeff Day, Dallas; Rev. J. J. Strickland, Big Spring, and Rev. C. E. Lancaster, Big Spring.

Rev. J. J. Gentry is moderator; Owen C. Taylor, treasurer, and C. I. Darling, clerk.

Labor Expected To Be In Area

Inquiries to the chamber of commerce indicate that itinerant cotton pickers will be available on South Plains in larger numbers this fall than during the last several years, according to information given Saturday.

As yet, however, they are not being given any encouragement to come here because of uncertainty as to what the labor situation will be.

Inquiries have come from numerous states, including California, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, as well as from many portions of South Texas. Most of those making inquiries, it was added, apparently are from persons who will become dependents unless work is immediately and continuously available.

About the only inquiries received from prospective employers, information added, has been from farmers who are interested in locating large families to remain with them until the crop has been gathered. As yet, no indication has been given as to what price will be paid for the picking.

Enforcement To Be Tightened Down On Meters Here

From police headquarters yesterday came the sound warning that parking laws relative to the parking meters and "parking on the red" will be enforced strictly "from now on."

"We believe the parking meters have been in operation long enough for residents to know how to use them," said City Recorder George W. Foster when sounding the warning.

At first officials said they were lax in assessing punishments for violations of the parking meter ordinance, but now "we are tightening down," they warned.

GOOD LUCK GORDON

GORDON Gaines singing of "The Lord Is My Shepherd" at the First Methodist church this morning may be his last public appearance in Lubbock for many months since he is leaving tomorrow for an indefinite stay to study in New York City. Surely Gordon will take with him the best wishes of the many local residents who have heard him during the years that he has so graciously lent his fine young baritone voice on numerous occasions.

Several times Gordon has practically carried the burden of an anthem or a chorus. We'll never forget how clear his voice came over the radio last spring at the rendition of "The Seven Last Words." The first time we heard him, about five years ago, he was a shy boy in his teens but he was at ease as he sang "Trees." He was new in Lubbock at that time and people were just beginning to marvel at his voice.

We've forgotten everything about "The Elijah" except the way Gordon sang the part, "It Is Enough O Lord." He repeated that selection in a state contest in San Angelo later in the spring and won first place. The judges admitted that they were partly influenced by the women who wept at the beauty of the number.

Gordon will be missed but we are sure his future career will be followed with interest by his many town and college friends.

A large oil entitled "Grief" which hangs in one corner of the art museum in the capital city of New Mexico held us for several minutes as the fading light cast shadows over the face of a dead Indian woman and the half-clad form of her grief-stricken husband who sits there in mute despair and sorrow. His right hand is clenched on his left wrist and his straight black hair has fallen across his face that is bent to touch his knees. His beautifully muscled back is taut. It's a picture that one could never forget.

IF impetuous, temperamental Allan Carney and ambitious, curious Sutton Christian, former sports editor and reporter on the Avalanche and Journal, were in Shanghai now, as was the case a few years ago, they would in all probability be in the thick of the disturbance there. . . . The cold mortality statistics show: You have the best chance of living if up to the age of 30, you're slightly overweight; if from 40 to 49, you're slightly underweight; and if, from 50 on, you're quite a bit underweight. . . . But for a boyhood accident, the millionaire Wall Streeter, Bernard Baruch, might be just another $5,000-a-year army general today. from Lou to Louella . . .

DEAR Louella: This is that uncertain time of year when a heavy pall of impending worries descends upon an unready feminine public. It's time to get the kids in school; it's time to reorganize for the new season numerous women's study clubs; it's time of think of P.-T. A.; it's time to plan a fall wardrobe—yet it is too early today to do anything about any of them.

In other words, this is a period of anxiety, a time when we know we ought to be doing something but we don't know exactly what it is we have to do, or how to do it.

Younger Generation Busy

This is a time when the younger generation is running its legs off in order to make a high school or college social club or, if already a member, to see that the club gets its quota of the "right people."

It is a time of year when society reporters lose their minds because they can't find anything definite to print about anybody because of the hub-bub of excitement which no one seemingly has time or knowledge to explain.

A COUPLE of high school age girls were rushing madly to a rush party one day last week and were arrested for speeding and, subsequently, the one driving was fined $20.

I saw some Lubbock friends rushing around gleefully the other day, because they had just learned that George Cottingham and wife and their three children will arrive here this week for a visit. Mr. Cottingham is editor of the Houston Chronicle.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Plank and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson have gone to Oregon to visit until time for the opening of the first semester at the college. In Eugene they will attend the wedding of Doctor Plank's brother on September 8.

Mrs. James H. Goodman of Midland, former resident who with Mr. Goodman visited here last week, looks like an entirely different person from the Mrs. Goodman who moved away from here about two years ago. She says she is in better health than she has known for years and years.

Mrs. Terrell To Resume Duties

Someone else who looks good is Mrs. Ed Terrell who was real sick last winter and last spring. She says she is perfectly well now and will resume duties as Lubbock High school dean of girls this fall.

Nancy and J. H. Stiles, jr., are still in the Sacramento mountains, I think, although their sister, Wanda Ruth, came home last week from Clarksville where she spent the summer.

My friend whose letters I've been quoting wrote again last week but declined to say what it was interesting she had to say about herself. Never mind, I'll get the dope, yet.

Mexico forever misted in purple haze. She has no neighbors, and the faint road that winds up to her yard is so dangerous than no one except her and her husband has ever attempted it. They have an ancient truck that leaps up the trail.

When we saw her recently she was singeing young chickens and washing carrots the color of oranges and sweet, green lettuce preparatory for the market. She kills the chickens because her husband cannot bring himself to kill an animal or a fowl about the place. They sell cord wood, dairy products and produce and in between times Mrs. Springfel cans, makes bread and cakes and cookies and lays in a store of supplies for winter months.

She stays in the cabin alone much of the winter since her husbands leaves on Monday for his work and returns late Saturday afternoon. To the question, "Aren't you afraid and don't you get lonesome?" the not yet middleaged woman answers;" I have my radio and books and magazines for company and we are too secluded for me to fear unwelcome guests."

She believes that one might grow tired of the solitude if she had nothing to do. Her philosophy of life is that one must plant a flower or set a hen if she would be happy. In other words have a responsibility.

Tahoka Roundup Will Be Staged

TAHOKA, Aug. 28. (Special)—Plans for the first annual Tahoka roundup and free barbecue on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 8 and 9, are going forward, and local business men, sponsors of the event, hope to make the celebration one of the biggest of its kind ever held on the South Plains.

For entertainment there will be rodeo performances afternoon and night, carnival, platform dances, parade each day, negro ball game, an old time basket picnic the first day, and the free barbecue on the second day. Fifteen beeves and plenty of bread, onions, pickles, and coffee are being bought for the barbecue.

Copeland Is Director

Charlie Copeland, Plains ranchman, is rodeo director, and $700.00 in prizes are being offered cowboys who win places in bronc riding, calf roping, wild cow milking, bulldogging, and Brahma steer riding. A $100.00 roping saddle goes to the champion all-around cowboy. There will also be a yearling riding contest for boys. Other rodeo entertainment will be furnished by a cowboy clown, trick riders and ropers, and a cowgirl riding exhibition by Loraine Yale, Pampa.

Cowboys from all over West Texas and eastern New Mexico are expected to enter the contests.

Young Daughter Is Threatened

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Beverly Hills home of Wallace Beery, screen actor, was guarded today by police while federal authorities studied a note threatening

WALLACE BEERY

Beery's adopted daughter unless he paid $10,000.

The daughter, four-year-old Carol Ann, and Mrs. Beery are living in the Beery house. Beery is on location in Utah.

Letter Is Quoted

The letter, composed of words clipped from newspapers, read:

"Demand $10,000. Payable not later than Thursday. R. Kelly, general delivery, Culver City. Dyer case."

Albert Dyer was convicted of first degree murder this week for the slaying of three little girls.

The note was turned over to federal authorities yesterday.

J. W. Hammock, Sudan Farmer, Has Had Trench Silo 20 Years

SUDAN, Aug. 28 (Special)—J. W. Hammock, state certified grain sorghum grower here, has had a trench silo for 20 years, probably one of the earliest feeders in this section.

"My first silo was at Coolidge, near Waco, back in 1917," he said. "When I came here 15 years ago, I dug a silo and have used it ever since. There is no better way for farmers to get the most out of their grains than through a trench silo."

Hammock said his certified maize and hegari are now being harvested. Kafir will be cut soon. Crops are good and he expects a very good yield this year.

Daniel Boone is buried at Frankfort, Ky.

Weed Chopping To Eliminate Fire Hazard Being Urged

Weed chopping now to eliminate a later, and possibly serious fire hazard, was urged Saturday by Fire Chief W. E. Twitty and other city officials.

The city already has cut weeds on most of the vacant lots and between curbs and sidewalk lines on occupied property, but the growths are getting out of control in many alleys, yards and other places, city officials reported.

While they still are growing as the result of recent rains and present no immediate fire hazard, the fire chief warned that they soon will begin to dry out and be a constant menace to other property. Where the quantity of weeds chopped justifies, the city will be supplied to haul them away, information at City hall said.

Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, added the further warning that the vegetation is something of a health hazard because such plots often are the breeding place for flies and mosquitoes. They are costly for the further reason, officials added, because they take from the soil moisture that otherwise would be taken by lawns, trees and other ornamental plants.

Four Persons Are Hurt When Auto And Truck Collide

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 28, (Special) — While en route home from a visit to Payne-Shotwell hospital, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moses and small daughter and G. W. Benton of Sudan were injured in an automobile accident. They returned to the hospital.

Mrs. Moses was treated for a fractured shoulder and severe head cut. Benton suffered a crushed chest and minor cuts and bruises. The baby was thrown from the car and suffered only slight bruises. Moses also suffered minor bruises.

The car in which they were riding collided with a truck on highway 7 a few miles west of Littlefield. They had visited Mrs. Moses' aunt, Mrs. C. E. Mann, at the hospital.

Registration Of Spur School Students Opens Thursday

SPUR, Aug. 28. (Special)—Registration of pupils in the Spur schools will begin Thursday, closing Friday, with opening of the schools Labor day, Sept. 6.

Eleventh grade students will enroll Thursday morning; tenth grade, Thursday afternoon; ninth grade Friday morning and eighth grade in the afternoon.

GOOD HEGARI CROP

TULIA, (Special) — Central Swisher county's hegari crop is better than last year, according to farmers. The yield will be larger and the acreage greater. Some wheat is being shipped.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Halsey and daughter, Miss Joyce Halsey, are on a vacation that will carry them to Holland, Mich., and Canada.

Prizes Will Be Offered Bands

AMARILLO, Aug. 28. (Special)—Substantial cash prizes will be offered again this year to bands accompanied by delegations at the Tri-State Fair, September 20-25.

To the band with the largest delegation on the exposition grounds during any one day will go $75.

Second and third prizes will be $50 and $25.

Anyone Is Eligible

Anyone in the county from which the band comes will be eligible to register.

The registration booth will be maintained in the Amarillo Globe-News display, located in the merchant's building.

Mason King, in charge of grandstand attractions for the fair association, has announced a plan for bands to defray expenses of the trip or to obtain funds for band libraries.

"Every band visiting the fair this year will be given 15 cents for each ticket sold to either the rodeo or the night show," explained Mr. King.

"Bandmasters or chamber of commerce officials are invited to write to me for the number of tickets they want to sell," continued Mr. King.

Hosts To All Bands

The Tri-State Fair director said exposition officials would be hosts to all bands at one of the grandstand attractions.

"Cities are urged to select the day on which they will send delegations to the fair," added King.

Beutler Brothers of Elk City, Oklahoma, will stage the rodeo each afternoon in front of the grandstand and each night there will be a special attraction, probably a beauty revue and musical comedy.

Al G. Barnes and Sell-Floto circus and Crowley's United Shows on the midway will be other attractions.

American Legion Post Taking Over Operation Of Park

SPUR, Aug. 28. — The Boyd M. Williams post of the American Legion has taken over operation of Burlington park, local athletic field where soft ball games are played.

The post announced it has assumed obligations against the park. An effort will be made to foster interest to pay out the debts.

APPROPRIATION RECEIVED

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 28, (Special)—An appropriation of federal road funds, matched by state funds, will be available next year for hard surfacing six or seven miles of Lamb county highway, Judge L. R. Crockett has been informed. The funds may be applied to highway 51 either north to Herring gin or south to the Hockley county line.

From Lou To Louella . . .

neth Leftwich accompanied George Zarafonetis to California and that Doyce Clark had gone to Dallas a month early for school at Baylor Med.

Ada'Lou and Buck Harbison wrote from Galveston that they are having fun on their vacation which they are taking mainly in Houston.

Pretty and talented Eron Gafford wrote from Denver while, presumably, she was on her way home from Pasadena, Calif., where she has spent the summer studying at the Pasadena Playhouse. She said she spent one day in San Francisco, four hours in Denver and seven weeks in Pasadena and Los Angeles. She said there is always a bicycle on the lawn at Robert Taylor's home. I'm anxious to hear what Eron is going to do this winter.

Coleta Baker finally sent that promised card from Europe. It was mailed at Paris:

"Here I am in Grenable and having the best time! We spent nearly two weeks in Italy. I loved Venice with its canals, gondolas and beautiful architecture. One evening we went "gondoling" until 1 o'clock. The next evening we went out to Lido to the Excelsior hotel and to the Follies. Some of our party saw the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

"Naples was just beautiful. We went to Pompeii, Amalfi and Sorrens. I thought Rome was one of the most interesting places we visited. The old ruins are amazing. One night we went to the Casino Del Rose and another we went to an open air symphony concert. Then we went to the beautiful Villa D'Est with its magnificent water fountain.

"I fell in love with Nice. The Mediterranean is more beautiful than you can imagine (She doesn't know what an imagination I have!)

"Although I didn't break the bank of Monte Carlo, I got a big thrill out of the Casino. Now I'm all ready for Paris." She really got all of that on one postcard.

Coleta arrived in Amarillo last night and will be home today.

ONE of the most informative cards I've seen this summer is that written by Sam Fort who, with the former Miss Madeline Ely, is honeymooning in the West. Mailed from Santa Fe, it read:

"We are here, but we won't be here long. We will be some other place before you get this and don't know how long we will be there because we don't know exactly where we are going. Unusual how undecided, but we enjoy it.

Unless you know Sam, you will not appreciate the card. The local police department, of which he is a former member, has been trying to find him, I understand, to have him "arrested" and "jailed."

Yours, Lou.

Man Has 40 Acres But His Harvest Is Frogs' Legs

BEAUMONT, Aug. 28. (AP)—Claude Trinkle farms 40 acres but his harvest is for the epicure—frogs' legs.

Starting with six pair of giant breeders in May, 1935, Trinkle estimates the frog crop on his land below Sabine Pass numbers thousands. "I'll market them next spring and get back my original investment in the first sale" he said.

Classified as small, medium, and large, the genus rana command $2, $3 to $4, and $5 to $6 a dozen, respectively, from the consumer.

They Are Smart

"They're smart," Trinkle says. "The breeders passed this spring without laying because of the drouth. However, immediately after the late July showers I found eggs in both the breeder and the large pens."

Feeding frogs is economical, he says. Adjacent to the enclosed farm is a long tank of minnows that are fed bread crumbs and the frogs eat them. Trinkle lights kerosene lamps in the pens at night to attract bugs and insects to vary the menu for his frogs.

The farm is divided into pens, wired to keep out snakes.

U. S. Department Official Pays Visit To Lubbock On Friday

On his 13th consecutive visit to the Lubbock experiment sub-station, Dr. John H. Martin, in charge of cereal work for the bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., spent Friday with Don L. Jones at the station. He attended the field day and took part on the program.

Dr. Martin is interested in small grains and while here checked on experimental work with grain sorghums. He said more experimental work is being conducted in southwestern states now than ever before. Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Nebraska and California are doing the most work along with Texas. Efforts are being made to develop drouth and disease resistant sorghums, especially the latter.

Deputy State Superintendent Of Schools Has Been Named

J. B. Speer, M. A. gradaute of Texas Tech and well known Panhandle-Plains school man, has been named deputy state superintendent of schools at Canyon for the North Panhandle district. He succeeds J. W. Gunstream, transferred to Dallas.

Sparrows Are Reported To Be Bothering Farmers' Grain

Sparrows, most of them "town sparrows," because they live in town part of the time, are causing considerable trouble to farmers with grain crops, according to reports.

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment sub-station, says he killed about 500 last winter and that he now has more than he had last year. "My neighbors did not poison sparrows last winter, and I did, so they come over onto me from them," he said.

The sparrows fly out to the station in the morning and return an hour or so before nightfall.

Rapid Growth Of Lubbock's Public School System Shown In Recent Survey

Enrollment Gain Being Expected

Enrollment in the Lubbock public school system has gained 43 per cent in the past 22 years, or since the 1914-15 enrollment, while property valuations have increased 2,400 per cent in the same time, figures reported by Superintendent W. B. Irvin last week show.

For the year closing last spring, 5,236 more pupils were enrolled than for the year ending 22 years before. There were 703 in 1914-15 and 5,929 in 1936-37. Property values increased from $54,000 to $1,354,000, a net gain of $1,300,000.

Buildings Increased

The number of buildings in the same period increased from two to 14, teachers from 20 to 185 and salaries of teachers from $10,760 to $210,000. A corresponding gain in high school graduates is shown, from eight in 1915 to 264 in 1937, with 10 negroes graduating also.

Superintendent Irvin prepared figures for every five years from 1915 to 1937, showing the increases. Biggest gain in enrollment was from 1920 to 1925 when the number leaped from 1,228 to 3,746, or nearly three times as many. High school graduates increased from 18 to 116 during the same period. Property valuations increased from $178,000 to $545,000.

Buildings during the five years grew from four to 10 in number. Salaries of teachers grew from $32,000 to $90,000.

Reports Are Cited

Comparative reports of the 22 years include:

1915: enrollment, 703; high school graduates, 8; buildings, two; valuation of buildings, $54,000; teachers, 20; salaries, $10,760.

1920: enrollment, 1,228; high school graduates, 18; buildings, four; valuation of buildings, $178,000; teachers, 36; salaries, $32,000.

1925: enrollment, 3,746; high school graduates, 216; buildings, 10; valuation of buildings, $535,000; teachers, 86; salaries, $90,000.

1930: enrollment, 5,771; high school graduates, 260; buildings, 12; valuation of buildings, $646,000; teachers, 145; salaries, $185,000.

1937: enrollment, 5,929; high school graduates, 264, 10 negroes; buildings, 14; valuation of buildings, $1,354,350; teachers, 185; salaries, $210,000.

The past year's enrollment was not the all-time high. That was back in 1930-31 when 5,944 were enrolled during the year.

Drops In Depression

The next year, the depression had set in, enrollment dropped to 5,053. Since then it has gradually climbed back. By years, since then, enrollment figures are: 1932-33, 5,249; 1933-34, 5,188; 1934-35, 5,294; 1935-36, 5,224; 1936-37, 5,929.

During the summer considerable repair work has been done to the 14 buildings in the system. These include repair of roofs, seats reconditioned, painting of corridors and roofs and a general overhauling. Some 180 rooms will be used this year.

Superintendent Irvin said he expected to start work with about 188 teachers. If enrollment comes up to expectations, more may be needed.

Two ward buildings, out in the country, will not be used this year, the northwest ward and the southeast ward. Patrons living in these districts prefer to have grade children brought into town along with the high school pupils. The other ward buildings, southwest and northeast, will be operated as long as needed.

Superintendent Irvin expects enrollment for the year to pass the 6,000 mark.

Cooperative Home For Girls Being Planned At Canyon

CANYON, Aug. 28 (Special) — A second college managed cooperative home for girls will be started by the West Texas State Teachers college when it opens Sept. 15.

President J. A. Hill announced today that a large house within a block of the campus has been secured, and it will be remodelled and refurnished to accommodate 23 young women. Girls who live in the new home will do all the work of the house and will share its expenses. An experienced housemother will be in charge at the house.

According to Mrs. Geraldine Green, College Dean of Women, the new cooperative home was made necessary because Randall Hall which accommodates 115 girls could not begin to meet the demand for this type of living quarters. There has been a waiting list for places at Randall Hall since early in the summer. It was stated that arrangements to live in the new co-op can be made through the office of the dean of women.

Other colleges in Texas have found the small cooperative home highly satisfactory.

Biggest Movie Laughs Of All Come During Rehearsing On Set; Some Side-Splitters

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28. — Some pictures would be funnier if they shot the rehearsals instead of the scenes.

"Nothing Sacred" is a comedy, and funny enough, but I still wish they would film the rehearsals. Any Carole Lombard set is a comedy. So is any set presided over by Director William (Wild Bill) Wellman. And Fredric March is no slouch at patter, either.

Fredric March

Today's scene has March and Lombard seated in a sailing yacht in the studio tank. Your Mr. March is having dialog trouble, not exactly his fault. He's supposed to tell Carole to do something to the sails, and these nautical terms get him tangled. He's tangled in the hal-yards, verbally, and the boom and the jibs keep thwacking his memory and leaving a blank. He speaks of luffing to leeward, and then has to speak of love, and soon nobody knows whether he is luffing or loving but it doesn't matter because it is lunch-time anyway. But a good time has been had by all, especially by Lombard, Wellman and the spectators.

'Convolutional Atrophy'

ON "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," Dr. Warner Baxter is reading a case report: ". . . then there's a slight separation of the suture lines —a convolutional atrophy . . ."

Warner Baxter

Time and again Dr. Baxter's tongue gets twisted on that "convolutional atrophy." Finally they rearrange the dialog to give those words to Virginia Bruce. So they shoot the scene and suddenly, slick as oil, out come the words from Baxter's lips. But they don't belong to him any more and the scene must be done again.

On "The Perfect Specimen," Joan Blondell knows her name is Mona Carter but circumstances conspire to keep the fact from film.

Harry Harrington and Frank Mayo knock and come in. Harry asks: "Is your name Mona Carter?" Then Mayo says: "We're from the department of justice. The chief wants to see you."

Mistaken Identity

"Is your name Mona Carter?" has been rehearsed 19 times, with bungles, before Director Mike Curtiz is ready to take it. Joan, frightened, has admitted her identity 19 times. Everybody on the set knows all the lines by this time and is convinced that Joan Blondell is Mona Carter. So they're taking it—as far as Mayo's line, which comes out: "We're from the partment of dejustice."

Joan Blondell

He stops, they start over. This is Harrington's turn. "Is your mona Name Carter?" he demands. Joan is about to say it is, when Curtiz interrupts sternly. "No, no, no," he moans. "That's not the line. What was the line?"

A dozen voices cry: "Is your name Mona Carter?"

"All right," says Curtiz, "now everybody remember his lines just once please, and we go to lunch. I promise."

This is the zero hour. We creep toward an exit. The question follows us: "Is your name Mona Carter?"

"No!" says Joan wearily. "I'm Santa Claus! Mona just went out."

It's Good Publicity---But---

A few months ago there was considerable talk in Texas concerning the possibilities of Karl Crowley's being a 1938 candidate for governor. Since that time, however, all of the interest in the gubernatorial race has centered about Railroad Commissioner Ernest Thompson, Attorney-General William C. McCraw and the possibility that Governor Allred might, himself, be back in the lists. Crowley has been forgotten, which well he may be as far as his chances are concerned.

Surprised, therefore, was the Editor of The Avalanche-Journal to receive yesterday a publicity blurb, accredited to no one and headed "Karl A. Crowley for governor?" The blurb set out, among other things, that "increasing discussion of the possibility" is being heard all over Texas, which, of course, isn't so. It also spoke glowingly of Crowley as a statesman and as this, that, or the other thing.

For the benefit of those who never heard of Karl Crowley—and they are legion—his home is in Ft. Worth and he is, as his publicity handout says, "chief law officer for Jim Farley." Crowley's official position in Washington is that of solicitor of the Postofice department. Further than that, the ambitious Ft. Worth man is a very pleasant appearing gentleman with a reputation for being quite agreeable.

But—and that's a big "but", too—if Mr. Crowley does run for governor he will immediately be marked as "Jim Farley's candidate."

Many Texans, and quite logically, will brand Crowley as a means by which the New Deal seeks to politically kidnap Texas, lock, stock and barrel, for whatever uses it may see fit to make of it.

Further than that, Mr. Crowley as a candidate for governor couldn't get to first base for the simple reason that he is unknown to the vast majority of the Texas electorate, which already has decided to make its choice between two virulent redheads, Colonel Thompson and General McCraw.

The Farley aide's publicity sounds good to him, no doubt, but it just won't hold water.

The World May Be Grateful

THE serious wounding of the British ambassador to China, while a grave affair, is not likely to plunge Great Britain into the Chinese-Japanese fracas. England, may it be said to her credit, is too smart for that.

But a series of such incidents — and that is quite possible—might very easily lead to warfare on a large scale. Great conflicts often are caused by "incidents", as the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, at Serajevo, on June 28, 1914, will prove.

The world may be glad today that the ambassador injured by Jap fire was not a representative of Italy, say, or of Germany, both of which are manned by dictators spoiling for an excuse to make war in order to strengthen their own positions.

As black as the situation in the Orient appears, perhaps it will not end fatally for the world and the inevitable "next war" may be postponed for a time.

Let The People Be The Jury

DURING the past couple of days both The Morning Avalanche and The Evening Journal have commented at some length not only upon Lubbock's need of another modern office building, but also upon the necessity of "getting started."

If there are any of our citizens who doubt that such a building is needed, all they need to do is to look around.

Among other things, let them ask the first ten business men they meet and take the verdict of that "jury". Then there will be no doubt in their minds that Avalanche-Journal papers are merely expressing the ideas of the majority of our citizens in this very important matter.

Floyd Gibbons is sued by the script writer of an on-the-spot description of a flood, which he says was broadcast from a studio. It is one of the situations where Floyd will have to talk fast.

The Mayor of Toronto has a plan whereby the Dionne girls could pay off the Canadian debt. This would give Papa Dionne the honorary post of Father of his Country.

The One-Minute Sermon

There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labour. This also I saw, that it was from the hand of God.

For who can eat, or who else can hasten hereunto, more than I?

For God giveth to a man that is good in his sight, wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he giveth travail, to gather and to heap up, that he may give to him that is good before God. This also is vanity and vexation of spirit.—Ecclesiastes, 11, 24 through 26.

Frederic Prokosch Writes Truly Fine Novel In "The Seven Who Fled"; Harvey O'Connor's Story, "The Guggenheims" Is Honest Biography And Makes Good Reading; Gatti Tells Of Belgian Congo

"THE SEVEN WHO FLED," by Frederic Prokosch; (Harpers, New York).

THERE is no denying that "The Seven Who Fled" is as beautiful as it is unreal. It is not believable that any seven human beings could have felt so truly as they are supposed to feel in this novel. Nor could a world be so unblurred, so describable or so cleanly observed as Mr. Prokosch makes the world of this novel. These visions come only to sensitive young men with the true knack of the narrator.

Truly this is one of the few prize novels which deserve their money.

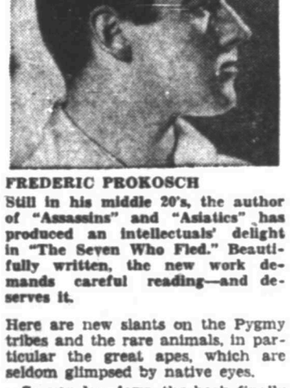

Mr. Prokosch delivered the goods. He has made one of those fantasies which convince utterly because they are so incredible. Seven people, it is supposed, are fleing an unnamed danger in a town in central Asia. Because of a certain unimportant incident, these must scatter. Because of a certain compulsion, a kind of imaginative athleticism, Mr. Prokosch feels impelled to detail their histories, including the parts before the opening of his "novel."

Defects Jar Very Little

He does this with hardly a pedestrian line, and once one accepts his determined beauty of concept and phrase his pleasure is great, even acute at times. Such minor defects as the consistent overuse of certain words jars very little—even when everyone is described as sly, as in the first story (of the blue-eyed Englishman) little of the intended effect is lost. And although reviewers are sure to read a determined "lesson" into this almost medieval stained glass mosiac, this "moral" is the least part of the book.

The most important part of the lesson is in the last pages; it is that man is the hunted, not the huntsman. That all there is in life is to accept one's successive defeats with dignity.

FREDERIC PROKOSCH

Still in his middle 20's, the author of "Assassins" and "Asiatics" has produced an intellectuals' delight in "The Seven Who Fled." Beautifully written, the new work demands careful reading—and deserves it.

Here are new slants on the Pygmy tribes and the rare animals, in particular the great apes, which are seldom glimpsed by native eyes.

So you lay down the book finally with the "inferno of insects" still buzzing and swarming about your eyes and the hideous cries of the great beasts still rending your ears. That, after all is something for your money.

Amazing Story

"THE GUGGENHEIMS," by Harvey O'Connor; (Covici-Friede, N. Y.).

THE epic of the great financial dynasties of the United States is being recorded altogether too slowly. The very few honest, objective biographies plowing into this rich field have scarcely broken the earth. Such a story of empire as Harvey O'Connor's "The Guggenheims" is therefore decidedly welcome.

And you may depend, the author of "Mellon's Millions" has turned out a rousing chapter. Here is the amazing tory of an obscure Philadelphia peddler who welded, with nothing more than his own adventuresome spirit, the links of an industrial empire second to few in the entire world. The power of the Guggenheims extends today across the continent and even into foreign countries. In many places the name is respected; in others, hated, but in none is it quite unknown.

So you begin with Mr. O'Connor that day back in 1847 when old Meyer Guggenheim fled Swiss persecution and began life anew in Philadelphia. You see him as a peddler of shoe polish, then an importer of lace, eventually manufacturer, then speculator, finally capitalist and metal monarch of the times.

By 1929, says the author, the Guggenheim family was among the four wealthiest in the United States, ranking with the Fords, the Rockefellers and the Mellons.

But now, concludes the author, the end has come for the Guggenheim dynasty. The sons of Meyer's sons have turned to aviation, scholarship, medicine and music, with a generous patronage. "The mainspring which pushed old Meyer and his sons into ever new fields has run down."

Hence it is high time for recording of this meteoric chapter, and Mr. O'Connor seems to have done a bangup job.

Of The More Tense Variety

LEONARD O. MOSELEY'S "No More Remains" (Doubleday, Doran) is hammock reading of the more tense variety, though not so tense as his first novel, which you may recall as "So I Killed Her." The new one concerns a girl whose disfigured face was rebuilt by a plastic surgeon considerably older than herself. The girl married the surgeon, and, being bored, took a lover. Let Mr. Moseley resolve the dissonance himself.

Graphic Account

"GREAT MOTHER FOREST", by Attilio Gatti; (Chas. Scribners, N. Y.).

THE secrets of life deep in the heart of the Belgian Congo have perennially fascinated Explorer Attilio Gatti. In the last 13 years he has led nine expeditions south and from east to west. "Great Mother Forest" is the graphic account of his latest wanderings in this primitive land.

Attilio Gatti

Moving along with an easy, direct conversational style, the book is devoted particularly to the forbidden territory of the Kibali-Ituri forest. This is the "tabu" forest, a vast stretch of land which no man knows, shunned by Pygmy or native because of the superstitious terrors regarding it. Here, according to legend, the evil spirits dwell and monstrous animals roam.

Return With Strange Stories

Into this jungle-forest, almost a solid wall of matted vegetation, Gatti and his party ventured and returned with many strange stories. He found out about the rare animal, the okapi, and he captured several specimens.

Another most interesting section of this book is the story of the native Watussi, which Gatti claims "are the children of the ancient Egyptian civilization."

Amply illustrated with photographs taken by the Gatti expedition, "Great Mother Forest" opens up vast recesses of "darkest Africa" as have few books in recent years.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ira Bennett

PERHAPS the greatest item in President Roosevelt's list of disappointments is defeat of his plan to reorganize the administrative branch of the government. Refusal by Congress to accept this plan carried something of personal distrust of the President. Even his request for six assistants was ignored and goodness knows that he needs the right kind of assistants. Odd as it seems, nobody in Congress denied that the President was in need—but the proposal became tangled with the general reorganization program and had to go over.

Louis Brownlow was author of a great part of the reorganization plan. He is a member of the "President's committee," which was appointed after Congress took steps to investigate reorganization. Some of the opposition to the Brownlow program arose from the fact that members thought the President was trying to steal a march on Congress by offering his plan before Congress could formulate its own.

Brownlow was a commissioner of the District of Columbia and later city manager of several minor towns. In the vast network of government his theories became mixed, according to experts in Congress.

GUFFEY: As the skyrocket marking the glorious close of Congress popped its dazzling stars the name of Senator Joe Guffey unexpectedly led all the rest—unexpectedly to him. His Senate friends confided that he had no idea that he would be so liberally advertised for his little radio speech attacking colleagues who had opposed the court bill. Few senators have gone through the grilling that made Guffey's face red.

Chairman Jim Farley of the National committee was absent in Indianapolis, assuring young Democrats that talk of a split in the party was pure piffle. Secretary Charlie Michelson immediately denied that the committee had prearranged Guffey's radio attack, as charged by Senator Wheeler.

As a practical go-getting politician Joe Guffey can afford to laugh. No other Senator has obtained so much aid and comfort from New Deal distributing agencies. Pennsylvania is supposed to be double rivted to the Roosevelt chariot as a result of Guffey's skill in obtaining for it a huge proportion of federal funds.

BENNETT: Control of crop production may be beyond the power of Congress (although another stab will be made to assert control) but no obstacle is in the way of spending money to aid agriculture. Opinions differ as to whether benefit payments as rewards for cooperation in erosion prevention are not really beating the devil around the stump. But it's a notable fact that nobody in Congress or out has attacked the actual work of erosion prevention carried on under direction of H. H. Bennett, head of the bureau charged with that work.

Only a small fraction of the farmers had any idea of the ravages of erosion or how to prevent them when Bennett organized his campaign. Now it's a pretty sleepy farmer who hasn't waked up. Hundreds of thousands of them are now attending to their own erosion problems with scientific success. Millions of acres of fertile soil have been saved.

Bennett pays no attention to the politics of farm relief. His religion is the saving of soils—that means he knows no South nor North, no radical nor reactionary. Farmers have confidence in him—he delivers the goods.

HORNBECK: Secretary Hull is fortunate in having at his right hand an expert adviser in Far Eastern matters—Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck. No one pretends to forsee the future in the cloudy turmoil that envelops China, but no one knows better than Dr. Hornbeck the elements that have worked for the present situation. His long residence in Asia was fertilized by study, innumerable contacts, and a happy temperament or special gift of understanding the oriental mind. As chief of the Far Eastern bureau for many years Dr. Hornbeck shared in all the information and policy shaping that now furnish the basis of American action.

BANKHEAD: The Speaker of the House went through the grilling session with flying colors, in spite of the long illness that prevented his doing much last year. Now there's talk of making William S. Bankhead candidate for the Senate to succeed Justice Black. The Speakership is a more powerful position, but a six-year term in the Senate has its appeal.

The Speaker's brother, John H. Bankhead, Jr., occupies the other Senate seat. He is two years older than William. Both went through the same schooling, legal training and Congressional experience, like their distinguished daddy before them. The Speaker enjoys reflected fame also as the father of the glamorous Tallulah.

Some Alabamans say that Gov. Graves appointed his wife a Senator so that he could step in and take the place at the right time. But if Speaker Bankhead should enter the lists it might not be so easy for the Graves family to hold the senatorship.

Speaker Bankhead stood by F. D. R. faithfully, although it was known that his heart wasn't in part of the program.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NOT much is heard publicly these days of Chester R. Davis, the former head of the A. A. A. who is now the representative of agriculture on the Federal Reserve board. But financial insiders confide that Mr. Davis is a key man in the Federal Reserve setup, perhaps the most important next to Chairman Marriner Eccles, with whom he works closely.

Most previous representatives of agriculture on the Reserve Board have not gotten on at all well in a banking background. Generally they have been ignorant of the true nature of banking problems but ashamed to admit it, suspicious of their colleagues as financial slickers bent on gold bricking the farmer, and looked down upon by said colleagues as rural dumbbells.

Mr. Davis has changed all that. Cheerily he conceded at the outset to his associates that he knew nothing of finance or banking. But he added that he did know plenty about the financial problems besetting farmers and thought his knowledge should be useful in the formulation of broad banking policies. It has been. As a result, financial authorities are showing a more sincere and intelligent interest in agriculture than ever before. Even some crusty old private bankers in the metropolis have succumbed to the charm of Davis' refreshingly novel and candid approach to old problems.

O'MAHONEY: Of all the Democratic rebels against the President's Supreme court plan Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming is rated among the highest in ability and intelligence. He wasn't as colorful or conspicuous as Wheeler or Burke or Clark or Byrd, but he had a lot to do with evolving the backstage strategy that won out.

O'Mahoney started his political career as secretary to the late Senator John B. Kendrick. It was he who tipped off Kendrick that there was something rotten in Teapot Dome and he who drafted—at Kendrick's request—the Senate resolution which tore the lid off the scandal.

In 1928 O'Mahoney led the western drive for Al Smith delegates. In 1932, he was one of the leaders in the campaign which gave Roosevelt the same delegations which had gone to Smith four years earlier. His work as a member of the Platform committee at the Chicago convention attracted Jim Farley's attention, and the latter brought him east to serve as first assistant campaign manager.

After election, O'Mahoney was strongly urged for Secretary of the Interior. Failing that, Farley persuaded the westerner to quit his law practice in Cheyenne and come to Washington as First Assistant Postmaster General. When the veteran Kendrick died in '33, O'Mahoney was appointed to fill the Senate vacancy and in '34 he was elected for a full term.

Third Of Family Carries On Weird Corpse-Finding Labors

INDIAN JOHN III
Third of his title and profession, George "Indian John" Thompson continues to use successfully the secret method devised by his grand-uncle for locating bodies in the bottom of lakes and rivers. Here he's setting out on one of his gruesome quests.

STILLWATER, Minn., Aug. 28 (AP) For three generations folk in this land of rivers and lakes have counted on Indian John—I, II and III—to bring up drowned bodies when all other searchers have failed.

For three generations Indian John—father, son and nephew—have locked their lips against revealing how they did it.

He Won't Tell

And today's Indian John—his real name is George Thompson; and he's not an Indian at all, but a sandy-haired, 23-year-old American of mixed nationality — continues to use and guard the formula passed down through his family since 1800.

The original Indian John was John Jeremey, a dark French-Canadian who resembled the Chippewas living in the St. Croix valley here.

Some persons said he used trained muskrats tied to strings to locate the bodies. Others said the old trapper followed friendly fish as they gathered over the corpse.

But It Works

"You'll have to say for yourself whether that's true," Thompson says as he loads the treasured pack into his skiff. The bag obviously does not contain live muskrats or fish.

"Just say it's a different method."

Whatever the secret is, it has worked. Thompson says he has battled about .999 in the gruesome game. The only body he missed was located downstream in a river 47 miles from where relatives told him the victim drowned.

U. S. Ambassador To China Is Keeping Busy!

Nelson Johnson, Diplomat, Knows Orient's Ways

BY SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Feature Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—Long-distance commuting is nothing new to Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China. He's been living on sleepers between Nanking and Peiping the last seven years. But right now this train trip isn't exactly a joy ride.

While shuttling between the two Chinese cities, the 50-year-old career diplomat must look out for the safety of hundreds of stranded, fear-stricken Americans caught in the crossfire between China and Japan.

He must know which roads are still safe to travel, what railroads are still running, whether a city's food supply will hold out, what local banks will honor checks. And if possible he must get promises from Chinese and Japanese officers to keep random bombs out of the American embassy's backyard.

Likes Railroad Travel

Ambassador Johnson's commuting is necessary because of a unique arrangement in China. It's the only foreign country in which the United States maintains two official embassies. Nanking is now the capital, but Peiping is the old center of negotiations. So the ambassador rushes to Peiping when he seeks some agreement among all the foreign nations represented there, and then hurries back to Nanking when he has business to do with the Chinese government.

When the Chinese Nationalist government first established its headquarters in Nanking, Johnson then minister to China—he was named the first U. S. ambassador to China two years ago—took the inconvenient arrangement with a smile.

"My desire," he said, "is to keep in closest touch with government officials. I don't mind railroad travel. In fact, I rather like it especially with as comfortable sleepers as these. It's only two nights and one day, and I work en route. So long as the capital is Nanking and the legations remain in Peiping, I am going to be a commuter."

Knows His China

Johnson has spent half his life in the Far East. He was initiated into its frequent crises when at 2 he crossed into Wu-Chang to observe a revolution. His work was praised by the state department and the following year he was appointed consul at Chung-King.

He speaks Chinese fluently and makes a hobby of Chinese painting.

Six years ago he was married to Miss Jane Beck at the American consulate in Tientsin. They have a four-year-old son and a two-year-old daughter.

South Plains Ginners Are Prepared To Handle Expected Bumper Cotton Crop

Plants Put Into Shape For Fall

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

WITH cotton harvesting "just around the corner," so to speak, most of the approximately 235 gins on the South Plains are in first class shape, repairs made and ginners ready for work. First bales have been reported in a number of counties, but owing to general lateness of the crop, late September is expected to see the season starting.

Nine new gin locations in five counties have been reported. Some of these are new gins, others are moved in from other localities. In addition a gin has been moved from Garza to Terry county. Five of the gins are at new locations.

Between $400,000 - $500,000 Spent

Between $400,000 and $500,000 has been spent over the area in putting gins into working condition for the season, with more than $200,000 more spent on the new properties. Some gins that have not operated for a season or two, have been reconditioned for this year's crop.

An average of $2,000 per gin is estimated for replacement of worn out machinery or improved, faster types. Several gins have had as much as $3,500 or more spent this season.

Fastest In State

South Plains gins are the fastest in the state and the south. Average is said to be around one bale every 15 minutes, with many of them one every 12 minutes.

Cleaning machinery is of the latest type that cleans the seed cotton much more rapidly than older types, used down state. Burrs, leaves and other foreign substances are removed more quickly with the later type machine.

All Compresses To Operate

All of these compresses in the territory will be in operation this year. They likewise have been reconditioned, machinery oiled up and put in readiness and when the season starts, they will receive cotton as rapidly as ever.

Compresses are all of the high-density type, latest type presses, permitting fast, clean work.

Compresses are located at: Lubbock, (two plants); Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Plainview, Ralls, Slaton, Lamesa. Warehouses are available at Crosbyton and Sudan.

Have Attended Schools

Many ginners the past summer have attended cotton classing schools and are prepared to buy cotton on a grade and staple basis.

New gins are located as follows:

Dawson county: McDonald gin at Lamesa; Patricia Cooperative gin; Milner gin eight miles southeast on highway No. 9; Bayless gin 10 miles east on highway 15.

Lynn county: Hardbarger gin at Wayside, between Tahoka and Lubbock on highway 9, John Hardbarger, manager.

Lubbock county: J. T. Caldwell gin, owned by C. E. Dean, on the old Murray tract north of Shallowater and Hardy and south of County Line.

Has Brick Gin

Bailey county: G. P. Howell brick gin at Enochs.

Cochran county: W. A. Dyches gin at Oasis, on New Mexico state line; L. B. Goodrich gin at Bledsoe.

The McNabb gin has been moved from Southland to Meadow and the Beck Bros. gin from Lubbock to Canyon.

Lubbock in reality has three compresses, the Lubbock compress owning two plants and the Port City Compress company is building a new plant that is expected to be in operation by the time the season begins.

RECEIVE STEERS FOR FEEDING

CROSBYTON, Aug. 28 (Special) —The L-7 ranch near here has received six cars of steers for fall feeding. W. W. Brunson, Midland rancher, owner of the property, plans to stock it up to about 5,000 head. He now has about 2,000. The range is in good shape and crops are splendid.

Pork is headed upward but this ponderous paradox of porcine pulchritude is staying down, declares Matt Shibles, of Newburg, Me., owner of the living mass of 1600 pounds of fresh pork, on the hoof. Shibles charges five cents a person for a glimpse of Goliath, and says he has collected $800 since the fame of his beast spread far and wide.

Garza County Ranchers And Stock Farmers Show Cooperation In Range Conservation Program; 365,148 Acres Are In Campaign

Editors Note: This is one of a series of articles written by county agent's of South Plains counties on their work. These will appear from time to time on the Avalanche-Journal.

BY JAMES W. POTTS
Garza County Agent

GARZA county ranchers and stock farmers have shown their true interest in soil and water conservation by signing up almost one hundred percent under the 1937 range conservation program. Sixty-five ranch and stock farm operators have signed range worksheets on 366,148 acres of grazing land. These ranches contain an average of 5,633 acres each but their acreages vary from 75 to 100,000 acres. The largest acreage turned in by one operator is the famous U Lazy S ranch which is operated by J. B. Slaughter, jr. The O S ranch is the second largest and is owned by the Connell estate.

These sixty-five operators are participating in the range conservation program because it is offering them an opportunity not only to improve their ranges, but the greatest benefit will come from the conservation of soil, grass, and water. Ranches in Garza county have not forgotten the shortage of grass and water that almost ruined them in 1934. The practices that are now being carried out under the direction of the range inspector and the county extension service office clearly reflect the attitude of the ranch operators

To Construct Reservoirs

One hundred twenty-two earthen tanks and reservoirs have or will be constructed which is almost an average of two for each operator participating in the program. 170,104 cubic yards of material will be used in the construction of these water and soil conserving practices. This will give an average of 1,394 cubic yards per tank and these tanks will greatly increase the amount of available stock water on farms and ranches in all parts of the county.

Eight operators are deferred grazing 74,451 acres. This acreage is not to be grazed for a period of six months beginning May 1. This practice permits the desirable grasses and plants to mature a crop of seed that during the next few years will greatly increase the density and palatability of the ranges. This practice also gives nature an opportunity to begin the sealing of scars caused by over-grazing and erosion.

Building Spreader Dams

Two operators are building twenty-two spreader dams. These dams will contain 1,160 cubic yards of material and they will be constructed to stop gully erosion which in some sections of the county have become a menace to both plants and animals.

Four operators are constructing 4,640 rods of fence. These fences have been constructed in connection with the deferred grazing practices. Two operators are plowing forty-one and one-half miles of fire guards. These fire guards will give protection to the pastures that are bounded by public roads where fire hazards are greatest.

Eighteen producers are eradicating prairie dogs from 3,500 acres of ranch land. This will mean that the carrying capacity of this acreage will be greatly increased and it will also stop the spread of these plant destroying pests.

Nine producers are rescuing 1,680 acres of range land from prickly pear. This will increase the growth of grasses and add to the carrying capacity of the acreage being treated.

Other practices include the eradication of mesquite on 800 acres, contour listing of 500 acres, and the building of 2,000 feet of ridges. These last two practices are among the very best soil and water conserving practices. Contouring of pasture land will greatly increase the grass growth by conserving rainfall that usually runs off and takes with it by erosion much valuable surface soil. Ridges do for pastures what terraces do for farm fields; conserve water and soil.

Garza county ranchers further report to the county extension office that the program has been very educational. The range inspector, George Samson, and the local county agent, J. W. Potts, have made a collection of more than forty species of grasses plus a large collection of weeds. These plans have been pressed and mounted in frames and are on display in the county agent's office. Ranchers have come to know their plants better and at the same time they have been taught many of the characteristics of the various plants found on their home ranges.

Garza county has and will profit much from the 1937 range conservation program and when the dry years come the ranchers will be prepared because they are conserving soil, water, and plant food for just those years.

VOLUNTEER WHEAT

CROSBYTON, (Special) — Mid-August rains have started volunteer wheat to growing. Farmers, as soon as it gets high enough, will plow it under to kill the crop. They then will begin planting for the fall crop.

GOOD COTTON CROP

SNYDER, (Special) — Cotton ginners here predict a 35,000-bale crop of cotton for Scurry county. Recent rains greatly improved prospects. Picking has not become general.

Need For Better Seed Is Cited

More than two thirds of the 395,900 bales of cotton ginned in the 19 counties of district No. 2, state extension service, for the 1936-37 crop, were untenderable, County Agent C. C. Jobson pointed out. Percentage was 68.5, he said.

Tenderable cotton was 31.5 per cent.

"This shows the necessity of seed improvement," he added. "The extension service is holding a series of meetings in this section in September. We hope that every farmer, as well as ginners, bankers, vocational agriculture teachers, business men, land owners and others who should be interested, attend these meetings.

"One will be held in every county in this section. We hope that farmers and others will attend."

College Station gives the following figures on cotton lengths of the 1936 crop:

	Bales
Under 7-8 inch (untenderable)	271,300	or 68.5 per cent
7-8 to 29-32 inch,	108,400	27.4 per cent
15-16 to 31-32 inch,	14,700	13.7 per cent
Inch or better,	1,500	.4 per cent
	395,900	100

Specialist On Crop Marketing Is To Visit In City

C. E. Bowles, College Station, specialist of crop marketing of the state extension service, will visit Lubbock Sept. 1 to inspect the new Farmers Cooperative Oil mill here and to confer with Manager F. G. Campbell and directors.

Bowles in a letter to Campbell and to County Agent C. C. Jobson, said he would visit cooperative properties at Quanah and Childress on August 30, the Plains Cooperative, Inc., plant at Plainview on August 31 and the Lubbock oil mill and Spur experiment station on Sept. 1. He will leave Cisco early August 30 and return there after leaving Spur.

Farm Is Run By Girl, 18

MARY ANN KASMARSKI
She's A Full-Time Farmer

KENTTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 28. (AP) From convent classroom to boss farmer—in 12 months. That's the success story of 18-year-old Mary Ann Kasmarski.

The evidence: 160 rich acres of about-to-be harvested grain and a yard full of sleek cattle, workhorses, chickens, ducks and pigeons.

Mary Ann hadn't planned to be a farmer. But last year as she pursued the quiet convent life of a student at the Academy of Holy Names, her father was trampled to death by a team of runaway horses.

Home came Mary Ann and went to work where her dad had left off.

This spring she plowed, dragged, planted and cultivated—all by herself—25 acres of corn, 25 acres of oats, four acres of potatoes and harvested 60 acres of hay.

Except that her mother and two sisters help milk their 25 cows, Mary Ann's only outside assistance will come during threshing time.

PLANT IS OPERATING

SLATON, (Special) — The Plains Grain Heads Handling Co. here has begun its threshing of grain sorghums for the 1937 crop. A few loads have been received and threshed, to meet demand. Last year the concern, only one of its kind in this section, handled more than 1,000 carloads of heads, representing more than a third that number of cars of threshed grains.

Feed And Cotton In Dawson County Said To Be Best In Decade; Cotton Fruiting Fast

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, Aug. 28—Feed and cotton in Dawson county are in the best shape for this time of the year for more than a decade, in the opinion of Joe Williams, county agent.

Cotton is fruiting fast and the late cotton is expected to nearly catch up with the early planted.

Early feed is good. Some fields have yielded as high as a ton of heads per acre. Fifteen hundred pounds per acre is good.

Zachary Taylor, from the time he was old enough to vote, never stayed in one place long enough to qualify as a voter, but he became President of the United States.

GOOD MAIZE YIELD

LORENZO, (Special) — Farmers who have cut their maize report yields of about 1,500 pounds per acre. Heads are a little green. Cotton is better than at any time since 1926 and a yield as high as a bale per acre is predicted.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 43 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Convinced that he could get no more information, Tarzan vanished into the trees; then he circled back secretly to follow Ydeni to the mysterious home of the Kavuru. But strangely, when the ape-man picked up his trail again, he was traveling southward.

Hour after hour Tarzan dogged his quarry's footsteps or watched him while he rested. At last he realized they were approaching Udalo's village, from which the ape-man had recently escaped. Then, to the Jungle Lord's surprise, Ydeni took to the trees.

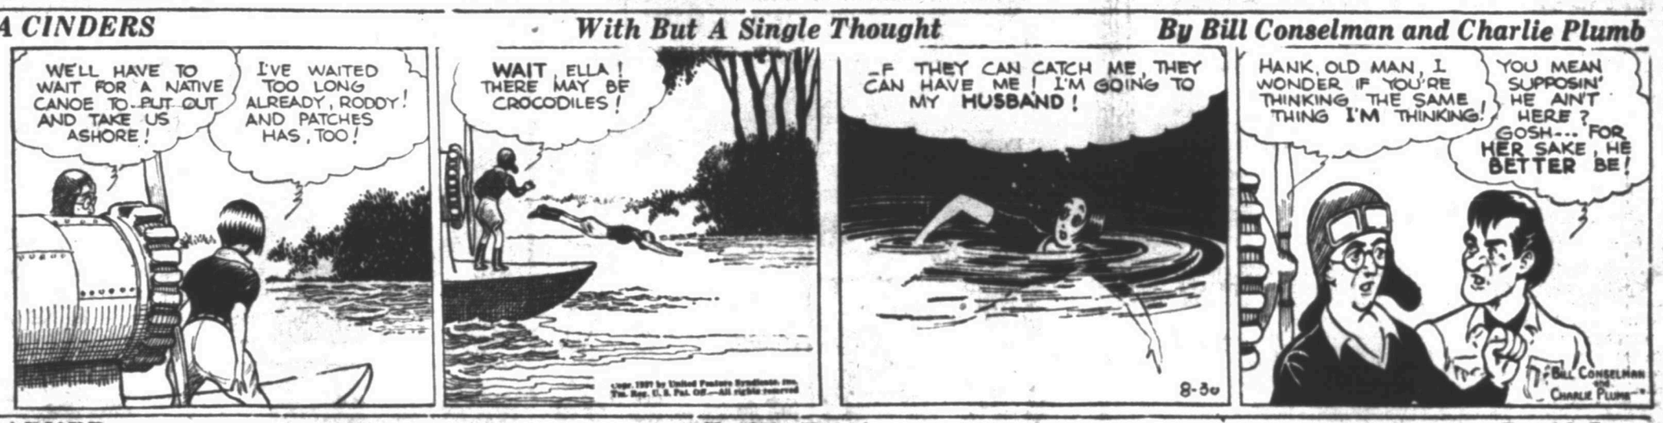

Presently the white savage uncoiled a rope from around his waist and ran a noose in one end of it. Now Tarzan heard voices faintly from a distance. Warily, Ydeni changed his direction slightly and moved toward the sound like a keen hunter stalking his prey . . .

. . . Hunter and prey! These are the two ever-shifting divisions of the denizens of the jungle, whether man or beast. And so, when Brown and Tibbs heard an awful scream, they believed that Lady Jane, who had gone out as a hunter, had become a prey!

Nearly $10,000,000 Distributed By Federal Agencies In Lubbock Offices

Thousands Of Men Receive Aid During Past Several Years

BY DAN TARPLEY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Nearly ten millions of dollars is the estimate of the amount of funds distributed through Lubbock offices of federal emergency agencies created since 1932, most of them dating their establishment from 1933 or since.

Most of the funds distributed through offices, whether they represent a county, district, or an area division, have been grants, loans, or for construction projects giving work to unemployed,

Of the several agencies with offices here, some are for direct relief, others are for welfare work, others for aiding persons in finding private employment, and others sponsor projects furnishing employment for needy unemployed families.

Most funds probably have been distributed through the office of the county agent, the unit which handles many of the federal government's grants, loans and other disbursement to farmers of the county.

A total of $3,003,567 has been distributed through the office of C. C. Jobson, Lubbock county's agricultural agent, since the beginning of 1934, according to figures prepared there. Broken down into totals for the several years, the figures were: $946,997 in 1934; $1,027,443 in 1935; $664,127 in 1936; and approximately $365,000 for 1937 to date, Jobson said.

The agricultural agent's office is on the second floor of the Federal building. In operation now is the Soil Conservation program which succeeded the invalidated Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Purposes Explained

The division of the program in operation in Texas has for its purpose, according to Lubbock officials, "preservation and improvement of soil fertility; promotion and economic use and conservation of land; reduction of exploitation, wasteful, and unscientific use of soil resources; and protection of rivers and harbors against results of soil erosion."

Other than Jobson, the officers here for the soil conservation service are: Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent; Sarah J. Cherry, secretary to the county agent; Mary A. Cooper, secretary to the assistant county agent; Abrey W. Bingham and Judge C. Smith, jr., clerks. Another member will be added to the staff soon to fill a vacancy caused by a transfer, it was pointed out.

Federal funds spent in the 17th district of the Works Progress administration, with district offices at Lubbock, from July, 1935, to July 1, 1937, amount to $2,821,007.54. Sponsors of projects have spent $1,088,916.18 in that period, it was pointed by officials of the district headquarters.

Thousands Employed

Sponsors of the projects are "the various political sub-divisions—counties, cities and school districts—and the State Highway department, and the Texas Relief commission."

In the two-year period an average of 2,750 persons a month have been given employment. The 17th district, until recently, embodied 15 counties. Under a recent reorganization, 9 counties were added.

In the same district and in the same period the National Youth administration, an agency subordinate to the WPA has spent $667,667.34 in federal funds. Sponsors of NYA projects have spent $33,444.50.

An average of 325 youths per month has been kept working in the period of the existance of the 17th district, Bullock said.

40 Persons In Office

The district offices of the Works Progress administration are at 1114 Tenth street. The office personnel is made up of 40 persons. The NYA office now is located on the basement floor of the courthouse. It formerly was on the third floor of the Palace Theater building on the corner of Main street and Avenue J. Offices for headquarters for the emergency education program and the state-wide tax survey still are on the third floor of the Palace theater building.

Heads of the WPA departments are: J. O. Jones, district director, Dr. I. E. Barr, assistant director; A. J. Delahunty, district supervisor of the divison of employment; A. L. Burden, district supervisor of division of finance and statistics; W. E. Burke, district supervisor of the division of operation; Miss Evelyn Richter, district supervisor of women's and professional projects; E. E. Kerr, district supervisor of emergency education; and Edgar Hutchins, district supervisor of the tax survey.

The 24 counties are divided into four areas with an area engineer in each division: Lubbock, seven counties, L. O. Scott; Littlefield, six counties, R. L. Thurman; Matador, five counties, J. S. Denson; and Roby, six counties, J. T. Johnson.

Approximately $10,000 a month is being paid to old age recipients in Lubbock county, according to figures from that office. The headquarters is on the third floor of the county courthouse.

"Lubbock county once reached a peak of about 700 pensioners on its rolls," said R. S. Williams, local investigator. "Some of these have died;; some have transferred to other districts; some have been removed from the rolls. Total of old age recipients now on the rolls in the county is about 650, with an average grant of nearly $16 per person.

Investigation Under Way

Investigation to determine the actual needs and the eligibility of persons receiving grants has been underway several months. Under the new law, to be eligible to receive a grant, a person must be in needy circumstances. In other words, he must be dependent on the state and federal government for aid, such as food, shelter, clothing, etc. As under the old law, he must meet statutory requirements relative to age, residence, citizenship, etc."

The district office is at Plainview. A subordinate office for Lubbock is under Williams' direction. Williams is assisted by Joe B. Owen. Owen also has charge of investigations in Hockley and Cochran counties.

The Resettlement administration has loaned approximately $180,000 through its Lubbock office, according to Marvin C. Wilson, rural supervisor for the office here at 1609 1-2 Texas avenue in the Benson building.

"In addition to the loans which have been made through this office, considerable money has been allotted by making grants to farm families who had no possible means of repayment," he said.

Aid Low Income Farmers

Wilson outlined the purpose of the administration to "assist low income farmers and those farmers who, through a period of disastrous years, lost their credit with banks and other institutions, basing loans mainly upon collateral; to assist the farmers in improving their farm plans in every way possible by lending them sufficient money for carrying out a complete and well-balanced program to render service to the homes and families with the assistance of the home supervisor; to render assistance to the debt-burdened farmer through the Farm Debt Adjustment section; to encourage better farming practices as recommended by the Extension department; and to improve the tenancy situation."

The Farm Debt Adjustment section has handled debts amounting to $118,418 which were shaved to $70,347, effecting a saving of $47,071, it was pointed out. The organization also brought about payment of taxes totaling $2,167.

"This saving was an assistance not only to farmers, but also to creditors, inasmuch as the greater part of this indebtedness was practically uncollectible," Wilson pointed out.

Other than Wilson, the district office force consists of Peter F. Murray, district supervisor of the Farm Debt Adjustment section; Delmar W. Sears, senior clerk typist for the Resettlement administration; and Martha G. Brent, home supervisor for the Resettlement administration.

The Texas Relief commission has an office at 608 and 610 Broadway with three case workers in the county. Two are supplied by the county and one by the TRC. C. W. Long is administrator for districts 16 and 17 at Amarillo and Lubbock. Mrs. Viola Perkins, assistant administrator, maintains headquarters at Plainview. The City-County welfare association also offices there.

A new quota for enrollies in the Civilian Conservation corps has been announced and applications must be made in September. Approved applicants will be inducted about Oct. 1. Applications must be made through case workers next month, it was explained.

There are other channels in the county through which federal and state funds for relief and welfare have been released including Federal Housing administration, the CCC, employment services, unemployment compensation commission, and others.

In the news limelight now is the Texas State Employment service, formerly the National Re-employment service, with offices here in the Lubbock National bank building on Texas avenue and Main street. Its purpose was described as: "It serves to organize a local labor market, seeking work opportunities for the unemployed and better jobs for those employed. We determine qualifications and fitness of applicants for jobs and are ready to place them when places are open. There is no charge either to employer or employe."

AUSTRALIA MAKING GUNS

ADELAIDE, South Australia (AP)—Defense authorities are very secretive about recent tests of a new Australian-made anti-aircraft gun. The gun is said to be of standard British design, three-inch caliber and weighing one ton. It was made to fire home-manufactured ammunition and is to be used at strategic points on Australia's coastline.

Big Spring Experiment Station To Conduct Feeding Experiment

The U. S. dry land experiment station at Big Spring, of which Fred E. Keating is superintendent, plans another cattle feeding experiment this year, according to Jot Smyth, jr., who has been in charge of the experimental work there the past year.

About 40 head will be used. The herd will be divided into four groups of 10 head each, with four types of feeding rations.

Feeding begins in October and will close in the spring. A field day probably in May, is expected to be held.

REICH IS SAVING BABIES

BERLIN (AP) — Infant mortality in Germany has declined steadily since the nazis came to power, according to official statistics. These show that whereas in 1932, 7.9 per cent of all infants died, the death-rate in 1936 was only 6.8 per cent, a difference of 52,000 infants.
