Revolt Threatens Stability Of Brazilian Capitol; Moratorium Extended

By The Associated Press.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 13. Authoritative advices received here say the Brazilian revolutionists in Sao Paulo have won fresh victories over the government troops. According to these advices the government forces have been badly defeated.

Reports which passed the censor assert that the situation in Sao Paulo is momentarily growing worse; that the rebels, after getting the upper hand of the government established provisional government in Sao Paulo city and now are advancing upon Santos which port is the supply base of the government troops, which are declared to be fighting a rear guard action and endeavoring, though unsuccessfully, to hold back the advance of the rebels.

Residents Alarmed

Fighting is declared to be going on 60 kilometres from Santos where the battleship Minas Geraes and six torpedo boat destroyers are anchored. The inhabitants of Santos are reported to be greatly alarmed. It is stated that the first line reserves are to be called to the colors and that reinforcements from the government are awaited in Santos to which point they are proceeding from many parts of Brazil.

The transportation is being carried out by naval vehicles and the Brazilian Lloyd and other Brazilian navigation companies.

Brazilian exchange in Montevideo dropped yesterday from 35,500 to the pound sterling to 39,000 with no buyers.

PROMINENT BRAZILIANS SUPPORTING GIVERNMENT

By The Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 13.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Rio Janeiro says the Brazilian government has issued a decree extending until July 19 the virtual moratorium throughout the state of Sao Paulo, "In view of the circumstances which necessitated the original decree." Numerous delegations of leading bankers, business men coffee growers and other persons have called on President Bernardes and expressed solidarity with the government in the present circumstances.

Another dispatch to La Nacion from Rio Janeiro gives the following communication issued yesterday:

Operations Continue

"Military operations against the revolutionists in Sao Paulo are continuing. Our troops are continually obtaining further successes and reducing the rebels' means of defense. It is evident that the rebels are making their last effort and the situation is clearly favorable to our troops at all points."

A dispatch to La Nacion from Montevideo says the correspondent is reliably informed that the rebels took possession of the city of Sao Paulo after severe street fighting and that they are now advancing upon Santos. This dispatch adds that the movement is spreading to neighboring states and to the most important cities in Brazil.

WALES TO WATCH NEW YORK MATCHES

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 13.—According to present arrangements the Prince of Wales will start on his Canadian tour August 22, sailing for New York on the steamer Berengaria. He will occupy the suite formerly used by Emperor William when the Berengaria was the Imperator. He will travel incognito, as Lord Renfrew.

It is now regarded as settled that the prince will attend the polo matches to be held on the field of the Meadow Brook club in Long Island. The initial phases of the prince's program in this respect have been arranged personally by him.

AGED WOMAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, July 13.—Mrs. Sallie Chrisenhall, 87 years old, a pioneer resident of Keller, Texas, a station 12 miles north of here, was run down and instantly killed by a southbound Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train while she was crossing the tracks, going from her home to the home of a neighbor at 8:30 o'clock tonight. She is survived by a daughter and two sons.

Walsh Believes Democrats Will Carry Middle West

LaFollette Threat Not Worrying Him; Davis Optimistic

Democratic Nominee for Presidency Spends Quiet Day At Locust Valley Home Sunday; Greets His Friends and Plans Tour

By The Associated Press.

LOCUST VALLEY, July 13.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, told correspondents today that Senator Walsh of Montana, who dined with him last night, was very sanguine as to the prospects of carrying the middle and northwestern states, despite the candidacy of Senator La Follette. Mr. Davis said he expected to make an extensive speaking tour of the west, which Senator Walsh is understood to have urged.

Spends Day Quietly

The nominee spent a restful Sunday at his country home here, paying little attention to politics. He arose at 7:30 o'clock and took a half hour horseback ride to the Piping Rock Country club, returning to attend the morning service at St. John's Episcopal church, near his home. The remainder of the day he spent resting, receiving an occasional caller.

Mr. Davis attired in a blue serge suit, a stiff straw hat and carrying a walking stick, drove to the little church shortly before 11 o'clock, accompanied by his wife; Mrs. P. M. Watson of Indianapolis, his sister-in-law and Frank L. Polk, his close friend.

Mrs. Davis is member of the church and Mr. Davis attends the services frequently when in Locust Valley. His parents were Presbyterians.

Greeted By Friends

After the service the nominee paused a few minutes at the church door to greet friends and neighbors, then drove back to his home.

The rector, the Rev. Charleg W Hinton, spoke on the text from Matthew 5:6: "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

No Reference to Politics

The rector made no reference to politics or to the presence in his congregation of the head of the democratic party.

Members of the congregation were informally dressed, some wearing golf suits.

St. John's the decoration of which is not quite complete, is distinguished and wainscoating carved by Sir Robert Lorimer of Edinburgh. They were a gift from Mr. Morgan.

Among the callers at the Davis home today were Richard Crane, former American minister to Czecho-Slovakia, and Gordon Auchincloss son-in-law of Colonel E. M. House.

COTTON SEEKS LOWER LEVELS

Improved Cotton Conditions Blamed for Price Drop Following Holiday.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Starting out Monday after a long holiday, the cotton market showed a disposition to seek lower levels following the belief in a much improved crop condition created by the government report of July 2. Under selling pressure, July traded down to 26.60, and October to 22.85, or close to 200 points below the levels prevailing prior to the publication of the government report. Contrary to expectations, Liverpool advanced, traders there becoming alarmed at the shrinkage of their supply of spots and realizing that with a late crop replenishment was some months off and moreover, receiving unfavorable crop reports from the eastern portions of the cotton belt. The action of the English market checked selling in our market and started shorts to covering.

Too Much Rain

As advices from the eastern portion of the belt, particularly the Carolinas and Georgia, indicated that the crop was suffering from too much rain and consequently grass fields, and as portions of the western belt also reported insufficient moisture and rising temperatures, shorts took alarm in the latter portion of the week and covered rather freely, finding contracts rather scarce in their efforts to buy back what they had sold.

LAFOLLETTE PARTY PLAN V-PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—La Follette adherents, who are already in Washington for the meeting next Friday at which a vice presidential candidate to complete a national ticket is expected to be selected refrained from campaign activities over Sunday and Senator La Follette himself saw no one.

Until Friday, when a committee authorized by the Cleveland convention will give the senator formal notification of the indorsement of his presidential candidacy, no gatherings have been scheduled. The notification will mark the inauguration of the campaign and soon thereafter the senator expects to go to his home at Madison, Wisconsin, where he will remain for the rest of the summer.

METHODIST BISHOP ASSAILS KU KLUX

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Scoring the ku klux klan, and praising the league of nations, Bishop F. L. Waldorf of the Kansas City area, in a sermon delivered at the Methodist camp meeting being held at Des Plaines, Illinois, said that the "ku klux klan as a foment-er of religious strife among Americans has no place in this country." The Kansas City area includes the states of Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. Referring to the league of nations, the bishop said:

"The future generations will realize that the league of nations has been and will be the salvation of civilization."

TWO MEN HELD FOR HOUSTON OFFICERS

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, July 13.—On request of Houston authorities J. R. Swift, and Jim Bell, both of San Antonio, were arrested here Sunday afternoon by Texas rangers and United States customs officers. They were taken before United States Commissioner Edwards and committed, awaiting further instructions from Houston. The men according to customs officers, are wanted in connection with what has been characterized as a gigantic rum smuggling ring operating on the Gulf coast in Louisiana and Texas.

Revenue Bureau To Publish New Tax Regulations

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The bureau of internal revenue has completed and soon will issue the first part of the revised regulations under the new tax law, setting forth the treasury's interpretation of the law applying a tax on admissions. Bureau experts have been engaged for some time in drawing up a construction of all provisions of the law and it is expected that the revision will be completed in another 30 days.

The new regulations make definite the apparent intent of congress to levy a 10% tax on the whole admission when the charge is more than 50 cents. The tax does not apply under any circumstances when the admission is 50 cents or less.

FARM CONGRESS BACKING BILL

By The Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, July 13.—After forming a permanent organization to represent to congress the McNary-Haugen bill and to further promote the interests of the American farmer, the national agricultural relief congress in session here since Friday, adjourned late today.

The resolutions as passed at the closing session comprises chiefly the two main issues mentioned in the original call—renewed support of the McNary-Haugen bill, and a centralized national farm group.

EGYPTIAN PREMIER SHOT BY STUDENT

By The Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 13.—An x-ray examination tonight of the Egyptian premier, Said Nagloul Pasha, who was shot and wounded early in the day by a young student, showed no trace of the bullet which had passed through the fleshy portion of the premier's right fore-arm and had skimmed the right side of the chest muscles. The premier had recovered sufficiently to receive many callers and was quite cheerful.

CAR OF MISSING OFFICER FOUND; NO SIGN OF HIM

Machine Identified As That of Major McCleary, Texas Man, Located in N. C.

SEARCH CONTINUES

War Department and State Joins in Hunt Through Mountains of Carolina.

By The Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 12.—A touring car found two miles east of Canton Saturday was identified by Canton and Haywood county authorities tonight as that of Major Samuel H. McCleary, missing United States coast artillery officer. A search is being conducted for him, but late tonight no information of his whereabouts has been developed.

In the automobile were found an officer's uniform stamped with the major's name, and two suitcases.

Unheard From.

Major McCleary has not been heard from since he was seen in Raleigh on July 2, then traveling by automobile from Norfolk to Fort Moultrie, S. C. A native of Texas, Governor Neff of that state, had asked Governor Morrison of this state to institute search and the war department also sent out an alarm for him.

Same Kind of Car.

The automobile found near Canton was of the same kind that he was using when last seen but Canton is several miles off the road to Columbia, S. C., which it was believed he intended to follow from Raleigh.

The touring car found Saturday bore identification and license numbers given in the description of the officer's automobile, while a permit made to operate it made out in the name of Major McCleary was found in it.

STEAMER WRECKED ON WEXFORD COAST

By The Associated Press.

CORK, July 13.—The new steamer Lismore, belonging to the Cork Steam Packet company, bound for Birkenhead, was wrecked off the Wexford coast Friday. It is feared that 10 of the crew including the Spanish firemen were drowned. Only one survivor thus far has been washed ashore.

MAN KILLED IN FAMILY QUARREL

By The Associated Press.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 13—Claude Wilson was fatally shot here today when he intervened in a family quarrel in the house of Daniel Wolfe, a neighbor, according to police. Wilson was attempting to shield Mrs. Wolfe from the attacks of her husband when the latter opened fire on him. Wolfe, an ex-convict, fled and tonight posses were searching for him.

TEXAS GUARDSMEN TAKING IT EASY

GALVESTON, July 13.—After swinging through a week of stiff infantry drill, the citizen soldiers of the Texas National guard will spend a light week-end before they start their second week's training. Tactical problems will be worked out next week. Regimental, brigade, divisional manoeuvers will be staged. Several divisional reviews will be staged in honor of Major General Ernest Hinds and Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton, both of whom are expected to visit the encampment during the coming week.

Swig 'o Corn, Nap on Track, Funeral Soon

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13. While sleeping on a railroad bridge near Choctaw, just outside Oklahoma City, Clyde Sanders, 16, was knocked from the structure by a Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway passenger train early Sunday morning and died a few hours later on in an Oklahoma City hospital.

According to the sheriff's officers, Sanders had been given corn whiskey by Jake Williams, a companion, who is in the Oklahoma county jail charged with possession of liquor. Williams admitted furnishing Sanders and his brother, Van, who is 18 years old, with the liquor, the officer said. Williams was asleep on the bridge at the time of accident, but escaped injury, the sheriff's office declared. The elder Sanders boy was asleep on the right-of-way when his brother was killed, he told a deputy sheriff.

NEW MINE LAW WORRYING U. S.

American Interests to Lose Heavy Investments in Rumania, Is Claim

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Ambassador Jay is expected to arrive in Washington from Bucharest about August 15 to discuss among other things the recently enacted Rumanian mining law affecting American interests in that country.

Secretary Hughes is to return from England at that time and the situation will be gone into. Pending the discussions the whole question, it was reiterated today, is being kept open so far as the United States is concerned.

While referring to mining generally, the new law prohibits development of any natural resources of the country less than 60 per cent native owned. One leading American company has estimated its expenditures in Rumania at $75,000,000.

PASSENGERS KICK ON NEGROES IN PULLMAN COACHES

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13.—Although passengers in a sleeping car of the Memphis-California, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific passenger train asked the removal of nine negroes in the car, under the "Jim Crow law" of Oklahoma, when the train arrived here today, local officers were powerless to act because the complainants declined to stop over and appear as witnesses against the negroes. The negroes were through passengers from Los Angeles to Memphis, according to local Rock Island passenger agent. Rock Island officials here anticipated further trouble in Arkansas where a segregation law also is in effect.

CORPUS HAS RIGHT TO AD VALOREM TAXES

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—The city of Corpus Christi has the right to all ad valorem taxes collected regardless of when they were assessed and levied under provisions of a law of the thirty-fifth legislature donating such taxes for 15 years, the attorney general's department ruled today.

Charlie Bryan, in Nebraska, Wary Of Telling Scribes His Views on Issues Of Day; Counts on William J. B.'s Aid

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, democratic nominee for the vice-presidency, arrived here today from Washington on his way home from the national convention of his party in New York. He was accompanied by Justice W. A. Thomson of the Nebraska supreme court and was met here by George E. Brennan, leader of the Smith forces in the recent convention. After an hour's conversation with Mr. Brennan and with newspaper men, Mr. Bryan left for his home in Lincoln, Nebr., where he will rest until formally notified of his nomination.

Mr. Bryan refused to discuss his plans as vice-presidential nominee, but speaking as the governor of Nebraska, he reiterated his often-expressed opinion of the industrial and agricultural situations. It sometimes is necessary, he emphasized, for a government executive to take over industries or public utilities, "so that the people will get a square deal or to prevent them from being deliberately robbed."

"Only in that manner," he went on "can we stop bolshevism and third parties from getting a hold in this country."

Such operations of industries must only be temporary, he said, to be dropped when the need for them has passed.

Mr. Bryan declared that he does not fear an independent candidacy on Nebraska. He cited figures showing that the farmer-labor voters of his state, who had placed him on their ticket in the gubernatorial primary, cast 75 per cent of their registered strength for him.

That William J. Bryan, his brother will take an active part in the campaign, he was certain.

LONDON HEARS AD TALKS FROM PULPITS SUNDAY

Associated Advertising clubs Convention Brings Strange Sermons by Prelates

CHURCHES CROWDED

Delegates at International Meet Turn Out For Services in British Cathedrals.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 13.—The ethics and uses of advertising as novel subjects of pulpit oratory struck strangely upon the ears of the congregations assembled today for the morning services in both Westminster abbey and the Westminster Roman Catholic cathedral.

Though the services were devoted to the overseas visitors to the international advertising convention and the congregation largely consisted of English speaking delegates of the United States and dominions. But that the Bishop of Durham in Westminster abbey and Father Knox in the Cathedral should have chosen such worldly subjects as the themes for their sermons was considered as showing the tremendous hold which the convention has already established upon the consciousness of the British people.

Tells of Advertising.

The Bishop of Durham dwelt on the enormous influence of advertising in modern life. He said the presence of so many of the delegates of the convention in the church implied an assumption that their business had a direct relation to those sublime verities which the church existed to confirm.

Father Knox argued there was no reason why the convention's slogan "Truth in advertising" should come as a surprise or that the people should be shocked even by the convention's proposal to debate the possibilities of advertising religion. There was, he contended, no harm even advertising a particular kind of religion so long as the advertisers were sure it came up to the sample.

Hundreds of the delegates attended an inspirational gathering in the central hall, Westminster, where Viscount Burnham and the Dean of Windsor were on the platform.

ADVERTISERS PLAY WITH LONDON HOSTS

LONDON, July 13.—Delegates to the international advertising convention, which will witness the greatest gathering of advertising experts ever assembled, were guests tonight at a huge reception and ball. Viscount Burnham made a speech of welcome, to which Lou Holland, president of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world replied.

Then the visitors from all over the world, speaking a bable of tongues "mixed in" true American style awhile before the dancing, which, despite the heat wave that has enveloped London the last few days, proved popular, especially with the Americans. The big ball was packed when the three convention presidents—Viscount Burnham, Viscount Leverhulme and the Lord Mayor of London—preceded the platform followed by officials of many British towns, the heads of various overseas delegates, Premier Craig of Ulster and other notables.

AGREE ON GERMAN STATUS IN LEAGUE

By The Associated Press.

PRAGUE, July 13.—Unity of action on the admission of Germany to the league of nations and a general agreement of their attitude toward the Russian soviet government was announced by the foreign ministers of the Little Entente as accomplishments of their two-day session which ended here last night.

Dr. Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slovakia, said Germany ought to be admitted to the league, but only under conditions that would make her membership contribute toward the pacification of Europe. This question, he added, might be discussed after the powers had agreed on the application of the Dawes report.

ANTI-WAR MEETS FOR WORLD READY

MOSCOW, July 13.—Anti-war demonstrations will be held simultaneously in the United States, England, France, and Germany during the week from July 22 to August 4 under the auspices of the communists parties of the world, if the plans of the communist internationals, formulated at its recent meeting here, are carried out.

The concensus of opinion among communists as developed at the meeting is that the danger of war is becoming more real day by day because as one speaker phrased it, "of the growth of armaments on the one side and the conflict of various capitalistic groups among themselves on the other."

CHAIN STORES OFFER STOCKS

American Leaders Combine to Offer Bankers' Shares in London and New York

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Simultaneous offering will be made this week in New York and London of bankers' shares secured upon the stocks of 14 leading chain store systems in the United States, including the Woolworth, Kresge and Great Atlantic and Pacific companies.

Form Company

Formation of the United American Chain Stores, Inc., has been completed as a holding company for the stock. Against each block of one hundred and forty-eight shares, totaling $10,000 par value, there will be issued 1000 bankers' shares which will be sold at a price of about $16.25 each.

Operating 19,000 stores, the 14 systems last year reported combined net profits exceeding $68,000,000.

SEPTEMBER 6 IS LAFAYETTE DAY

NEW YORK, July 13.—For the ninth successive time the La Fayette day national committee has issued its call to the American people to celebrate on September 6, the anniversary of the birth of La Fayette, in 1757 and the battle of the Marne, in 1914. This year the principal ceremony will take place in Baltimore, Md., where a statute of La Fayette will be unveiled. In announcing its call, the committee expressed its gratitude to President Coolidge for his commendation of the double anniversary for the general observances last year.

THEY GET CLEAN ONCE A MONTH IN GERMANY

BERLIN, July 13.—Bath parties are all the go in Berlin just now. In order to economize on coal, all apartment house owners have stopped the daily supply of hot water, providing it only twice a month, or in some of the more expensive houses, one day each week. As a consequence neighbors have taken to the exchange of bathing privileges and have regular schedules. "Hot water day" is the event of the week among apartment dwellers and after the family bathes, favored neighbors are invited in from other houses and they reciprocate when their good day rolls around.

NEFF WILL INSPECT CAVALRY, TOUR WEST

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—Governor Pat M. Neff will inspect the cavalry brigade of the Texas National guard at Camp Stanley, San Antonio, Monday, he announced today. He will leave from San Antonio on a tour of west Texas for an inspection of state park sites which includes also a visit to the proposed national park site in the Davis mountains.

ORIENT MAY PULL THROUGH

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—The Orient railroad can continue operation if it makes a fair showing this year according to Dr. Walter Splawn, member of the Texas railroad commission, who returned today from an inspection of the financially embarrassed road. Residents along the line are cooperating to keep the road alive and some counties have reduced taxes against the line, said Dr. Splawn. A good grain crop, improving prospects for oil and co-operative spirit of the people all promise a good year for the road, perhaps the best in its history, he said.

SUSPICIONS OF OFFICERS GROW AGAINST PAIR

Believe White Boys May Be Responsible For Ashmore Murder

EXPECT ARRESTS SOON

Absence of Duo From Homes Increases Importance of New Angle in Case

Despite the fact that Sunday brought a brief halt in the grand jury investigation, county officers yesterday continued work in an effort to apprehend the slayers of 13-year-old Wesley Ashmore. The boy died last Wednesday night following an attack Tuesday afternoon in which he was beaten down and fatally injured by robbers who entered the C. G. Johnson cold drink stand in the 1400 block Ninth street.

Continue Search.

That increasing importance is being attached to the absence of two white youths who have been missing from their homes since the day of the attack seemed evident yesterday. Statements by officials in a position to know indicated yesterday that an unceasing search was being made for the two and that there was reason to believe that their capture is imminent. It is known that one county officer has been out of the city for the past several days and it was learned that his absence has a bearing on the hunt.

How soon the expected capture may come is not known, of course, but indications are that it is not far away.

Abandoned Theory.

The theory that young Ashmore was murdered by white youths developed again Saturday morning after it had once been abandoned. Statements purporting to be confessions of guilt made by a negro who is now in jail in another city, seemed Friday to have solved the mystery of the attack. The black made signed statements before the grand jury, declaring that another negro and himself had gone to the Johnson stand Tuesday afternoon and that the other black had actually struck Ashmore down.

Considerable doubt now seems to exist as to the authenticity of this tale, however. Glaring discrepancies have been found in it, and the accused negro steadfastly denies his guilt. He gives a story, also, that tends to discredit in large measure the charges of his accuser.

Two negro men and a white youth who were arrested several days ago were still being held Sunday night and will be questioned again Monday. It is not believed that the white boy was implicated in the case, but there are some parts of stories he has told that have excited the curiosity of officials.

The grand jury will meet again today and resume its investigation of the case.

Members of the jury are reported to have expressed a determination to "stay here six months if necessary to clear this thing up," and it is known that they have dropped everything else since the time of the attack on Ashmore in an effort to find his slayers.

YOUTH FACING LARCENY CHARGE

By The Associated Press.

TULSA, July 13.—Application for a writ of habeas corpus was denied Cole E. Oglesby, 18, by District Judge Z. I. J. Hold here today, and the youth was turned over to Eastland, Texas, authorities on charges of grand larceny. He recently was held in connection with the mail robbery at Rondont, Ill., but was exonerated by federal officials. After his release on that charge he was re-arrested on complaint of Texas authorities. He is being returned there tonight.

SAYS NATION'S POWER FORETOLD

Evangelist Here Declares Phophet Saw America As World Leader

"Strikingly portrayed in symbols calculated to fill mankind with wonder and admiration, we find the greatest republic in the world, the United States of America described by the lonely prophet who was banished as an exile to the Isle of Patmos" declared evangelist R. L. Benton Saturday night in a sermon at the tabernacle on Denver street. Mr. Benton says that the rise, progress and destiny of our own nation has for nearly two thousand years been foretold in the book of Revelation.

Likened to Beast

After reading from Revelation, chapter thirteen, from the eleventh verse on to the end, Mr. Benton said, 'The second beast of this chapter is described as being different from the first. The first having been partaker of the nature of the dragon from its beginning, while this one has two horns like a lamb, which fittingly represent the principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which our government was founded that made it so different from the nations of the old world where religious persecution drove the pilgrim fathers to our shores for protection and liberty.

Symbol Seen

"The symbol representing our country was seen 'coming up' just after the first beast went into captivity. This we learned happened in 1798, at which time our nation was constitutionally just nine years of age. By virtue of the fact that it had to appeal to the people to secure the making of an image to the first beast, we can see it was a republic—a nation where the people are sovereign.

"An image to the first beast would be a union of church and state to the extent that the nation through its civil laws would enforce religious dogmas and thus persecute all who were not in harmony with them, as was done during the dark ages. Today there is a great clamor before the national congress to enact Sunday laws, which are religious laws, and if enacted and enforced would mean persecution."

Don't Let Your Children Come Home to Mother—When They Show Signs of Lying Down on the Job, Don't Pity Them. Brace Them Up to See and Do Their Duty.

"When my daughters got married," said a woman the other day, "I said to each one of them: 'God bless you, my dear, and make you happy, but don't come running back to mother.

"'Don't tell me your troubles. It will break my heart to hear them. Don't tell me of your husband's faults. I do not wish to know them. Keep your own counsel. Fight your own battles. Have the courage and the grit to make your own home instead of fleeing to mine when things go wrong.'"

"If there were more mothers like you, there would be fewer divorces," replied another woman. "Lately I have begun to wonder just how often mothers man the wrecking crew that scuttles the matrimonial bark of the many young couples who go to smash all about us.

"They don't mean to do it, of course. Mother would give her very heart's blood to secure the happiness and prosperity of her idolized daughters, but she has never fitted them for life. She has never taught them self-denial and self-control. She has never made them do anything they didn't want to do, or stick to anything that was hard, just because it was the right thing to do. She has never taught them to endure. The muscles of their souls are as weak and flabby as their body muscles would be if they had never exercised them. And so, when the strain of real life comes, they collapse.

"Especially when they encounter the hard sledding of matrimony do they simply throw up their hands and quit cold. They know they can always go back to mother and be 'wept over as persecuted martyrs and "poor-deared," and have mother buy them a ticket to Reno.

"But these girls wouldn't be matrimonial quitters if they had nowhere to go. They would stick to their posts and put up a fight for home and happiness, and win out, if they know that mother would regard them as deserters and send them back to to do their duty if they came whining to her."

"I have just been hearing of a case in point," said a third woman. "A girl I know married and went to live in a small town, where her husband had fine business prospects. But she was a city-bred girl, and didn't like the small town ways. She was lonesome and bored, and she nagged her husband until she made him throw up his job, and go back with her to her mother's. He has been out of work now for months and is miserable and discouraged, and it doesn't take any prophet to foretell that that marriage is going on the rocks.

"Now, this girl's mother could have saved it if, when her daughter first began talking about coming back home, she had written her firmly, 'Forget it. You have no right to ruin your husband's chances. Stay in the home he has made for you and adapt yourself to the people among whom your lot is cast.'

"If the mother had had backbone enough to do that, the girl would have got over her homesickness. She would have got interested in her new home and all would have gone well with her and her husband, for there is nothing like knowing that a thing is finally and definitely settled to make us accept it and make the best of it.

"I have always been glad that when I got married I went a thousand miles away from home to live. Of course, it threw me out on my own and I nearly died of longing for mother, but I had to stand on my own feet because I had no one to lean on.

"I didn't know a thing about housework and sewing and there were days when I could have made Niobe, doing her well known crying stunt, look like a picture of joy, compared to the tears I put on when I found out how hard it was to make bread that wasn't a menace to life or iron a skirt. But there was no one to tell my troubles to, so I wiped my eyes and kept plugging along until I learned how to be a first-class cook and washlady.

"And one time when we struck a streak of bad luck I went out and got a job rather than write home for money and ask mother for help.

"There haven't been many happier marriages than ours, and when I told my husband the other day about this girl who has come running home to mother, just because she didn't like the place her husband lived in, he said: 'I am glad I married a woman who is a better sport than that.'

"But I said, 'You had better be thankful that you married a woman who had a mother who had a backbone instead of a bag of mush.' For I had the blessing of having had a Spartan mother who would never let us lie down on our jobs. She made us finish whatever we started, even matrimony."

"Mother love and mother sympathy are the most beautiful and consoling things in the world, but they also are the most dangerous things and do more than any other one thing to break down the morale of the young. When our sons and daughters are in trouble they do not need to be pitied. What they need is to be braced up to do their duty and to have fresh courage breathed into them.

"And the average mother hasn't the nerve and grit to do this. She can't be cruel to be kind, and that is why there are so many failures in the world. They can all come home to mother." DOROTHY DIX.

Edward Kilman, Secretary, Board Of Managers of State Railroad, Answers Charges Made Against Lynch Davidson

A letter signed by Edward Killman, secretary of the board of managers of the Texas-state railroad, replying to charges made recently by W. E. Pope in his campaign for the governorship, has just been made public. It goes into some detail concerning Lynch Davidson's record as an operator of the state railroad, and is reproduced below:

"Despite numerous statements that have been published [illegible] conclusive proof of Lynch Davidson's service to Texas in his rehabilitation of the state railroad, various, sundry and divers of his opponents in the race for governor persist in assailing and decrying the accomplishments, in their grim concerted endeavor to pull the Houston candidate from ahead of them.

Lynch Too Busy.

"Lynch Davidson is too busy placing his constructive candidacy before the people of Texas to repeatedly stop to refute each of these snappings at his heels. Therefore, as secretary of the board of managers of the state railroad; I feel it my official duty to correct such misrepresentations of the railroad's affairs, as were quoted from W. E. Pope in a report of his speech at Gorman, appearing in the Houston Chronicle July 7.

"Mr. Pope's demand that Lynch Davidson withdraw his statement that he saved the state railroad when he had authority to junk it, or withdraw from the race, is as presumptous as old King Canute's command to the waves to be still. And his alternate demand that Mr. Davidson meet him in joint debate is like Kid Bantam challenging Jack Demysey to a 20-round knockout bout.

Statements Correct.

"As for Lynch Davidson's statement that he saved the road, and that it was "two streaks of rust" when he took it over, I have authentic documents emphatically supporting these statements and commending Lynch Davidson in highest terms for his work, by every party informed of and interested in the state railroad situation, including the governor of Texas; the legislature of Texas; a joint legislative committee that personally inspected the road; Messrs. J. A. Glen and E. C. Durham, members of the board of managers; and a large number of representative citizens living along the line of the railroad. These documents have all been published, and copies will be gladly furnished anyone wishing to see them.

"Then, Mr. Pope stated that the state railroad bill passed by the 37th legislature "says that the road shall not be junked, but that its operation shall be continued, and if the board can't sell or lease it, then the state shall continue its operation," Mr. Pope told his audience, 'You read the law if you doubt me.'

Has Full Authority.

"I have read it carefully, but nowhere does it say these things. To prove it, I'll gladly send anyone a copy of the law who wants to see it. On the contrary, the law states specifically: 'Which board shall exercise full and plenary control and management of the Texas state railroad.' Webster defines the word plenary as 'full; entire; complete; absolute; unqualified.' Thus, with 'plenary control' the board had absolute authority to do anything it deemed advisable with the railroad—including junking it—just as if it belonged to them. The act also gives the board 'full authority to sell or lease said railroad for the highest amount and upon the best terms obtainable.' If the board, therefore, saw fit to sell the road, and a junk price was the 'highest amount and best terms obtainable,' they had full authority to junk it. After all, however, the question of whether the board could junk the road is academic, for they did not do so and had not the slightest thought of doing so.

"Mr. Pope said the people of Texas have a right to know the facts about the state railroad. So they have. And here are the facts. Under the circumstances Mr. Pope should withdraw his statement or meet somebody in joint debate on Browning's classic line: 'Truth is within ourselves.' He could not withdraw from the race because he has never been in it.

(Signed) "EDWARD KILMAN,
"Secretary, Board of Managers, Texas State Railroad, Houston, Texas."

BANKS SECURE ON FARM LOANS

CLARENDON, Tex., July 13—Perhaps no better recommendation of Donley county as an agricultural center could be made than that conveyed in a remark by an official of one of the county's largest banking establishments Saturday to the effect that the institution had not in its history lost $500 on loans to farmers.

According to statement of condition as of June 30 to the commissioner of banking, Donley county banks are in unusually good condition. Better so than at the same season for the past several years. The three blanks in Clarendon show approximately a million dollars in deposits, with current resources in excess of one and a quarter millions. This is largely due to the excellent condition of crops and the optimistic outlook in general.

WAURIKA DAY IS READY AT RODEO

WAURIKA, July 13.—Friday, July 25, will be Waurika day at the big rodeo and free barbecue that the people of Addington are giving July 25-26. The Business Men's club in their meeting Tuesday accepted the Addington invitations and decided that Friday would be the most suitable day. Saturday will be Comanche day and the Comanche boosters will be there in full force, with their band. Big preparations are being made by the Addington folk to make this a feature of the 1924 picnic season.

Clarendon Will Have Camp For Tourists Soon

CLARENDON, Tex., July 13.—A campaign inaugurated by the chamber of commerce for the purpose of raising funds with which to equip the municipal tourist camp ground was brought to a successful conclusion here Saturday. Ample funds were secured to beautify the grounds, erect a camp house, install water, lights and sewerage facilities. When completed the ground will be one of the best equipped and well kept along the Colorado Gulf highway. Tentative plans provide for camp sheds, dressing rooms, lavoratories and shower baths. It is purposed to have the project completed within the next two weeks.

Waurika Gets Farm Agents

WAURIKA, July 13.—The county commissioners at their regular meeting last week agreed to employ a county agent, and a county home demonstrator for this county for the ensuing fiscal year. No selection for agent was made but Miss Jeffie Thompson, who has been working in the county for the past month, was employed as home demonstration agent. Lengthy petitions from all parts of the county were presented asking the commissioners to take this step.

The cost to the county will be $100 per month for each of the new officials. The federal government and the A. & M. college at Stillwater will pay an additional $110 a month in each case making the salary $210.

FACULTY BIGGEST PART OF SCHOOL

DENTON, Texas, July 13.—The needs of the College of Industrial Arts and the place of the institution in the Texas educational world were presented to students and faculty members in assembly here by Dr. F. M. Bralley, president.

Dr. Bralley defined the biggest factor in making a real college as the faculty of the institution. The proposed salary schedule of $344,920 for the first year, as presented in the C. I. A. budget recently filed with the state board of control, and $348,570 for the second year, is lower than the average salary schedule of more than 75 other American colleges, Dr. Bralley pointed out.

CATTLE RANGE NEEDING RAIN

Market Report Says That Fall Shipments Depend on Weather Now

AUSTIN, July 13.—Shipments of livestock this fall will depend largely upon the state of the market and the disposition of the banks in the matter of liquidation. However, just now the prospects for rain to restore the range in the dry sections are of immediate interest. The condition of the corn crop in the north is also a factor in its bearing upon the feeder market. The corn acreage this year is 101.4 per cent of last year's, or 105,604,000 acres. July 1 condition of which, 72 per cent, forecasts a production of 2,515,285,000 bushels comparing with 3,046,000,000 bushels in 1923 and the 5-year average, from 1918 to 1922, of 2,899,000,000 bushels.

Condition Drops.

In the report of H. H. Shutz statistician, U. S. division of crop and livestock estimates, released today it is pointed out that the condition of the cattle range declined four points during June to 87 per cent of normal as compared with a reduction of three points to 90 per cent during this period of last year. The abundance of sub-soil moisture of the winter months has sustained the range remarkably well, but rainfall is now urgently needed in the west and northwest and to a lesser degree in all other districts except the south and southeast where conditions are generally most satisfactory.

The condition of cattle has fallen from 92 per cent of normal to 90 per cent since June 1; a year ago it was reported at 92 per cent, a decline of but one point during the month. They are largely holding their own, but are not fattening much except in favored sections. The calf crop has been good except in portions of the west and where the breeding period last year was too dry; the losses among young calves have been the lightest in years. It is estimated that the calf crop is 70 per cent; last year 61 per cent was reported. The advance of approximately $10 per head up to June 1 was wiped out by the latter part of June, discouraging trading and checking shipments. The average reported by cattlemen indicates that shipments during the next six months will be in the neighborhood of 89 per cent of the shipments during this period last year.

Rotary Meets Lion in Burk

BURKBURNETT, July 13.—The Rotarians and the Lions held a joint meeting this week in the Central Christian church annex, where a splendid evening luncheon was served by the ladies of the church. The session was given over to discussions, pro and con, regarding the contemplated building of a Country club for this city. Present plans were submitted by members, but nothing definite was done about the matter. The following were appointed to investigate proposed plans: Sam Spence, Carl Cowles, Paul Browning, F. U. McCutcheon and Harry Lamb. A meeting is planned for Monday evening at the Caro Motor company where this committee will appear before those favoring the enterprise and discuss it more fully.

The Lion club's contest closed at this meeting, and it was announced that Earl Sowers' side was winner over Bill Dickson and his team. The time and place for the big feed to be staged by the defeated contestants, will be announced at the next regular meeting.

MONEY At Work

Brief but important lessons in finance, markets, stocks, bonds and investments

Is the wealth of the world drifting into the hands of a few individuals, or is it tending to become distributed among many?

Answered by A. W. Warner, veteran financial writer and newspaper man.

When it comes time for the average man to dig into his pocket, which is usually almost empty, for taxes, he is apt to believe that his rich neighbor is getting more and more wealthy, while he finds it harder to pay his bills each year.

There are two deductions which ought to mollify a man who is in this frame of mind. 1. As near as it is possible to figure, estimates show that if all incomes above $10,000 a year in the United States were divided among all those who make less than $10,000 annually, the net addition to the incomes of the latter would be about 10 per cent.

2. Common labor today probably is being paid more, both in money and real wages, than ever before.

These two deductions seems to indicate that the so-called poor are pretty wel off and certainly have a gread deal more than in past years. If the wealthy people have lost what the poor gained, the rich have been geeting poorer and the poor richer, which means that wealth is drifting away from the rich.

Color Cut-Outs

A Gipsy Maiden.

"Gipsy wagons!" breathed Betty Cut-out as she and her father were out walking one day. "Look, they're camped back of Fisher's Creek. Oh, I'm glad we walked away out here. I never saw a whole family of gipsies so close!"

While they were speaking, a dark haired girl, with flashing black eyes and a wide smile which showed her white teeth, came across the road. She was about Betty's age. "Hello," she greeted, "you want your fortune told?"

"Oh, yes," cried Betty. "Do you tell fortunes?"

The girl shook her head. "My mother tell fortunes. You come." Betty and her father followed toward the wagons.

The gipsy girl has a tan dress, with a sash of many bright colors. She has big gold earrings in her shiny hair.

REGAN COUNTY LOOKS LIKE OIL

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—Bringing in of Big Lake No. 10 oil well on university land in Reagan county for 2,700 barrels daily, "makes Reagan county look like a real oil field," according to officials of the oil and gas division, state railroad commission. The well was brought in Friday morning, and reported promptly to the commission. The Texon company, which drilled ten wells in Reagan county, has brought in producers in three or more of them, and the last well in the county is showing best of all but one previous well.

One More Venerable Monster Comes From Jensen, Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, July.—The perfect skeleton of a brontosaurus, said to be the first ever found which was not minus the skull, has been unearthed by University of Utah excavators in the region near Jensen, Utah, long famed for its fosill remains.

Professor F. J. Pack and Dr. Earl Douglas of the institution declare the brontosaurus was probably the largest animal which ever existed and they estimate the remains to be about 5,000,000 years old.

The brontosaurus was lizzard-like in appearance with a long tail, back and neck. The weight of the creature is thought to have been about 20 tons, and it was about 100 feet long. The top of its back stood about 20 feet and the belly about 12 feet from the ground. It is believed to have fed upon vegetable matter and to have lived partly in the water and partly on land.

Troubled With Eczema For Years Cuticura Healed

"I had a very severe case of eczema. It started in pimples that were very hard and itched and burned so badly that I could not help rubbing them. I could not put my hands in water and was unable to do my washing for about a year. On account of the irritation I could not rest. I was troubled in this way for ten or twelve years.

"I tried different remedies which helped and then the trouble would break out again. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Etta Montgomery, Ozark, Ky.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

JULY 14, 1924.

RETURN TO THE LORD:—Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Isaiah 55:7.

PRAYER:—O Lord, our God, we have often tried to forsake our wickedness, and to purify our own thoughts, but could not. Now we turn to Thee and with Thy help and by Thy grace, success is assured.

THE DOHENY INDICTMENTS

There is something doing every day. Naval oil scandals are again forced into the foreground by the action of the United States grand jury at Washington. Albert B. Fall is indicted, with the Dohenys, father and son, for conspiring to defraud the United States in connection with Elk Hills lease in California. He is indicted, together with Harry F. Sinclair, for conspiring to defraud the United States in connection with the Tea Pot Dome lease in Wyoming. In a third indictment the two Dohenys are charged with paying Fall a bribe of $100,000 to influence his decision in regard to the Elk Hills lease and in the fourth indictment Fall is charged with accepting a $100,000 bribe.

Senator Pat Harrison, the temporary chairman of the Madison Square Garden convention, first denounced and then damned the Coolidge administration for failing to bring Fall and others concerned in the scandal, to justice. Three days later the indictments were returned and the prosecutors are the republican attorney general of the United States and two distinguished lawyers named by the president.

This is a world of surprises. Four years ago Edward L. Doheny was a member of the platform committee of the democratic convention at San Francisco and contributed $50,000 to the Cox campaign fund. It has since developed that the California oil magnate contributed to the Harding campaign fund in that year and later employed eminent lawyers of the democratic faith who had held high office in the Wilson administration to look after his legal interests.

Harry F. Sinclair started in life a democrat, became an oil magnate and millionaire and has been generous with his political contributions to the two great political parties of the country. Twenty-five years ago Albert B. Fall was a democrat. Pickings were scant for democrats in New Mexico.

Fall became a republican, climbed high as a leader and then like Lucifer, fell from the gates of paradise to the depths of hell. Indictment is one thing; conviction is quite another thing. It takes direct evidence to convict and there are three multimillionaires among the indicted ones who are able to employ the most brilliant members of the American bar to extricate them from the legal tangles in the battle that is to come.

Guilt is personal. Sounds fine. Are the Dohenys guilty? Is Sinclair guilty? As for Fall, why ask?

CAMPAIGN NEAR AT HAND

President Coolidge will be officially notified of his nomination in Washington Thursday, July 24, and is expected to reply in a speech outlining the issues upon which he will appeal to the American people. Then one week later, Thursday, July 31, General Charles G. Dawes will be officially notified at his home in Illinois. General Dawes will make his first speech of the campaign about September 1st at his former home at Lincoln, Nebraska and from that time on will occupy the stump throughout the country until the eve of the election in November.

This is going to be a campaign of campaigns. President Coolidge is to do the directing and General Dawes is to swing from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Mexico. Who is going to be elected? Go ask the book makers early in November.

A BRYANIC MAN.

"What this nation wants is a man whose heart beats in sympathy with the common people and they don't care where he was born," was the message that William Jennings Bryan shot into the national convention of his party. Woodrow Wilson was a man whose heart beat in sympathy with the common people. He was the apostle of universal peace and universal justice. And what happened to the ideals of Woodrow Wilson? Go ask Newton D. Baker of Ohio.

PANTOMIME -:- By J. H. Striebel

A MILD VISITATION BY COMPARISONGRASSHOPPER PLEAGUE MAY PROVE

"OLIVER OCTOBER"

Mrs. Sag was holding forth in her most effective English when the two entered the sitting room. She may have eyed them narrowly for a second or two, but that was all.

Sammy Parr, however, who had been observing Oliver very closely, got up from his chair and marched across the room, his hand extended.

"Congratulations, old man!" he shouted joyously.

And little old Mrs. Grimes, from her place on the sofa, remarked as she leaned back with a sigh of content:

"Well, goodness knows it's about time."

Proving that since entrance of the lovers the great Josephine had failed signally to hold her audience spellbound.

CHAPTER XXII
Oliver May Withdraw

The ensuing three weeks were busy ones for Oliver. He was off "electioneering" by day and out speechmaking by night in district schoolhouses, in town halls, and at mass meetings held at the county seat. The opposition press, stirred to action by the harassed Mr. Gooch, printed frequent reports of their search for old Oliver Baxter. They made sensation out of two or three minor discoveries—such as the finding of an old straw hat in one of the pools and the unearthing of a stout spade-handle at the edge of the swamp not far from where the man and his son parted company.

Malone and his gang of Italian laborers were conducting the quest leisurely. The chief operative was bored—admitted it to Oliver and Mrs. Grimes and Lizzie Meggs and to the high heavens besides.

Mid-afternoon of a windy day in October—it was the 19th, to be exact—he sat in the shelter of the kitchen wing, his chair propped against the wall, reading a book. He yawned frequently and seemed to be having great difficulty in keeping his pipe going. From time to time he dozed.

His partner, Charlie What's-his-name, was out in the swamp directing the efforts of eight or 10 men who were sounding the scattered "mudholes" with long poles or digging at random in sections where the earth was sufficiently solid to bear the weight of man or beast. These men were now far out beyond the wire fence, within a hundred yards or so of the pond.

Mr. Malone's rest was disturbed shortly before 3 o'clock by the arrival of Oliver October. The two had become quite good friends.

"Say Malone, would you mind calling off these grave-diggers of yours for half an hour or so? I am expecting a committee here at 3 o'clock.

"Sure," said Malone. He got up slowly. "Hey!" he shouted over his shoulder. "Come out o' that! Knock off! It's 4 o'clock. In New York," he added in an aside to Oliver. "As I've said before, Mr. Baxter, it's all damned foolishness digging up your place like this."

"Mrs. Grimes says the house is likely to fall down on our heads at any minute," said Oliver. She notified me this noon that our hired girl, Lizzie Megge, has decided to give up her place unless your men fill up some of the graves they've dug in my cellar."

"I'll have 'em put some planks over those holes," said the detective. "That reminds me. Now that they're stopped work under the porch, you might call off your watch-dog. Give the old boy a little much needed rest."

Oliver walked to the corner. Joseph Sikes was sitting on the back steps, his coat collar turned up about his throat, his aged back bent almost double, his chin resting on the mittened hands that gripped the head of his cane, his wrinkled face screwed up into a dogged scowl.

"Better step into the kitchen, Uncle Joe, and ask Lizzie for a cup of hot coffee. Work's over for today."

"The hell it is," growled Mr. Sikes, without changing his position.

"Let him alone," said Malone, good-naturedly. "He's hatching out some new trouble for me. As for Fink, he's down there in the swamp from morning till night, supervising the whole blamed job."

"They are the best friends I've got in the world, Malone," said Oliver earnestly.

"Well, we'll clear out so's you can have your committee meeting in peace," said the detective.

"I have put it up to county headquarters, Malone," said Oliver, in an emotionless tone, "as to whether I should stay in the race or withdraw."

"What do you mean withdraw?" asked the detective sharply.

"Well, it's only fair to give them a chance to put some one else on the ticket in my place if they feel—"

"Come off! You've got old Gooch licked to a standstill, so what the devil's got into you? We're not going to find your father's body, my boy."

"How do you know you are not going to find it?" Oliver's surprising question.

Malone started. "What has caused you to change your tone like this, Baxter?"

"It's getting on my nerves, Malone—I don't mind saying so," said the younger man, frowning.

"I get you," said Malone, sympathetically. "It does give a fellow the shivers. But now about this getting off the ticket. Don't you do anything of the sort, Baxter."

"Malone, I can feel it in the air that a great many people believe I know what became of my father."

Mr. Sikes, who had shuffled around the corner, overheard the remark. He fairly barked:

"It don't make a particle of difference what they believe prorided nobody is able to find the corpus delicti. They've got to dig up your father's corpus delicti before—What in thunder are you laughing at, sir?"

Malone, to whom this question was addressed in Mr. Sikes's most aggressive manner, put his hand to his mouth and succeeded in replying with as straight a face as possible:

"I've been reading an awfully funny book, Mr. Sikes. It's about detectives."

There is no telling what Mr. Sikes would have said to Mr. Malone about detectives in general if the delegation from headquarters had not arrived a minute or two later.

CHAPTER XXIII
The Corpus Delicti

The automobile came swinging up the drive on the tail of Mr. Malone's defensive explanation. Oliver hurried off to greet the occupants of the car, Mr. Sikes hobbling along in his wake. Malone refilled his pipe as he strode across the stable yard. In the lee of the barn he scorched his fingers. His gaze was fixed on the swamp. Far out in the "danger zone" a number of men were compactly grounded. A solitary figure was running toward the Baxter house, while from the main highway to the right of the slough a dozen or more scattered people were picking their way gingerly across the intervening space. The detective dropped the charred match an alert, vital keen-sensed no longer bored. He was no longer bored. He was an alert, vitall keen-sensed hunter of men

Mrs. Grimes stood on the front porch as the three committeemen entered the house. Mr. Sikes ambled up as they disappeared through the door. He stopped short in the gravel walk just below where Mrs. Grimes was standing. He felt that it was necessary to lower his voice.

"We've only six more days to go, Screpty," he said. "This is the 19th."

"Yes. He will be 20 on the 25th. I hope you'll be satisfied, Joe Sikes."

He pondered gloomily. "Setting back there on the kitchen steps I got to thinkin' about the last time I was up here before old Ollie disappeared. I wonder if you remember what he said to me and Silas, setting right here on this porch."

"I remember the poor old thing saying he couldn't go to sleep nights because he was afraid a mob would come up to the house and take Oliver October out and hang him for something he'd never done."

"I guess maybe that was it. And another thing. Didn't he say he wouldn't blame Oliver if he up and beat his brains out for letting that gypsy queen lift that veil and cause all this worry?"

"What are you trying to get at, Joe Sikes?"

"Oh—nothin' particular. I just thought I'd warn you not to say anything about our talk that night, 'specially what he said about Oliver beatin' his brains out. I mean," he added sternly, "that you and me and Silas never heard him say anything like that—then or any other time."

"What's got into you, Joe?"

"I'm just giving you a few instructions, Screpty, in case anything does happen. You're so darned good and conscientious, as the saying is, that I've worried myself sick over you. I mean about swearing to a lie."

"I would swear to a million of them," she cried, "if it would be any help to Oliver October."

"Birds of a feather," said Mr. Sikes, rather proudly.

"Come in and have a cup of coffee, Joe," said she.

She came down from the porch and together they started for the rear of the house.

"Look out yonder, Joe—in the swamp," she cried suddenly, pointing through the fringe of trees. "There's a crowd—"

"Screpty!" he moaned. "They—they have found something out yonder. I feel it in my bones. The corpus delicti. I guess I won't have any coffee. I'll just mosey out there and see what's happened."

"Wait a minute. Isn't that Silas Link coming across the swamp?"

They stood and waited. In due time, Silas panted his way up the incline and came shuffling toward them. Mr. Sikes stalked forward, followed by Mrs. Grimes.

"Well?" demanded the former.

"They—fished—up—a—carcass," puffed Mr. Link.

A Friendly Boost.

We wish to extend "thanks for them kind words" to our friend A. W. Cline of the Bowie Blade, who is listed among those who recognize The Record News as the up-to-the-minute newspaper in the northwest Texas field. The Blade says:

"Right here we wish to give a little free advertising to our good friend the Wichita Falls Record News. It is the only morning newspaper entering Bowie that this morning carried the account of the nomination of Charles W. Bryan; the only one that had McAdoo's withdrawal; one of two that published the death of young Coolidge; and for the past two weeks has had full proceedings of the convention up to the hour of adjournment at night. It will also be remembered as the only paper carrying the news of the death of President Harding in the regular edition. And now Burns Hegler owes us a box of cigars.

As for the cigars, we haven't the slightest objection of "owing them" to Brother Cline.

We will even do better than that. He may collect them, one at a time, when he visits Wichita Falls, his former home.

That is, provided we are "in" when he calls.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

CANCER

Today's planetary aspects are neither distinctly favorable nor unfavorable. It would, therefore, be advisable, while avoiding all risky ideals or speculative business, to devote your attention only to regular daily duties of a routine character. Great care should be taken not to do anything that might jeopardize health conditions, and regular habits should alone be indulged. Avoid all excesses—either mental or physical.

A child born today will enjoy normal health, although this result will only be achieved by a proper system of nutrition. It should be allowed as much outdoor exercise as possible, and compelled to participate in sports, so as to give it, what it otherwise will not possess, courage when necessary to take defeat, and a becoming modesty in the face of victory. If this method of training be adopted, it will have an agreeable disposition and an even character.

If today is your birthday you cause much unhappiness to your friends, as you appear to have a grudge against the world, and are dissatisfied with conditions that exist. Life will always be, to a great extent, what you yourself make it. The cheerful man makes a cheerful world, the gloomy man a gloomy one. You will usually find your own temperament reflected in the dispositions of those about you. If you are yourself querulous, you will find them so: if you are unforgiving and uncharitable to them, they will be the same to you.

If you would be at peace with others and insure their respect, you must have regard for their personality. Every person has peculiarities of manner and character, as well as peculiarities of form and feature: you must have forbearance in dealing with them, as you expect them to have forbearance in dealing with you. You may not be conscious of your own peculiarities, yet they exist nevertheless.

A person returning from an evening party complained to a policeman that an ill looking fellow was following him: it turned out to be only his shadow! Such usually is human life to each of us: it is, for the most part, but the reflection of ourselves.

Successful people born on this date are:

John Penn, governor of Pennsylvania.
Clara Fisher, actress.
Amanda M. Douglas, author.
Arthur Capper, United States senator.
Paul D. Cravath, lawyer.
William H. Burr, engineer.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE END OF THE WORKING DAY

A happy and expectant thrill
Runs through the office boy,
His little bosom seems to fill
With an unholy joy.
Unanswered is the telephone,
Unfilled the ink-well stands,
And thward a dirty cap have flown
Two dirty little hands.

The trimly gowned stenographer
Taps one last parting click,
And rubs the ruby lips of her
With a still rubier stick.
She gives her shingle bob again
A little loving pat,
And glances toward the hallway when
The boss puts on his hat.

But oh! how slow the minutes pass,
How sad hearts fume and fret,
Because the laggard boss, alas!
Has not departed yet.
The minutes do not fly—they stand,
As ne'er they did before,
As he remains there with his hand
Upon the office door!

I've heard a section boss declare:
"We'll call this here a day!"
And hied myself away from there,
My spirit glad and gay;
I've seen my ship come back again
Across the stormy foam,
But happiness is sweetest when
The boss goes home.

COMPENSATION

Anyway, it is something to be a great-grandfather, even if Mr. Bryan never succeeded in being a great president.

BAD PRECEDENT

If Uncle Sam gives the Chickasaw Indians that $200,000,000 they demand for a tract of oil land, other Indians will soon be wanting the whole country deeded back to them.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

The politician who could blow hot and cold has been replaced by the statesman who can blow wet and dry.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Give and Take

It is well to remember that life is pretty much a matter of give and take.

As the stenographer observes: "You're not the only pebble on the beach," or as the festive Al Jolson puts it: "You can't play every instrument in the orchestra."

If we go all down along the line of human relationships and apply this bit of sense, we will find

'It wad frae mony a blunder free us
An' foolish notion."

Come, newlyweds, give and take, abate your egocentric mania, remember it takes two people to make a happy pair, adapt yourselves, come down a bit, and you'll save yourselves many a pouting spell and sour moment, many an incipient tragedy and budding despair, many a heart twinge and drop of bitterness.

When you're shopping, give and take. Don't forget the clerk is a human being and may have her own particular worm of annoyance eating at her heart.

When you're handling workmen, give and take. They have their problems and prejudices, their wills and obsessions, even as you and your board of directors.

When you're dealing with the boss, give and take. He has his troubles. The wage earner is not the only one who is worried about getting on; the man who pays the wages has to watch his step also, and when he falls he breaks not only his own leg but yours.

When you have an argument with the streetcar conductor, or deal with the cook, or have to do with the grocer and the milkman, or are put out by an unsatisfactory waiter, or have a session with your lawyer, doctor, tailor or real estate agent, give and take.

Nobody get happiness from having things all his own way. Happiness is not that kind of product.

Happiness is a mutual affair. It usually takes at least two. It is a co-operative enterprise.

And the beauty of it is that it is the paradox of the world. For divided by two it is larger than when it is yours alone.

If you want to get the most out of this imperfect world as you go along, Give and Take!

Pacific Coast Fires Continue To Sweep Timber

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Forest fires continued today on the Pacific coast territory, some under and some beyond control of the hundreds of men who have been pressed into work. One death has been caused by the fires in Oregon. Reports show forests are burning in California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

J. R. Casperson of Portland, Ore., was killed when he plunged over a cliff to avoid being hit by a falling burning tree. In Oregon, 4,000,000 feet of logs were destroyed near Tillamook, and in another part of the district two other fires were under control.

BANKER'S WIFE WANTS NO DIVORCE

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, through her attorneys, today filed a bill of exception to the finding of the jury which recently granted her husband, Beverely D. Harris, former National City bank vice-president, an interlocutory decree of annulment.

Contents of the bill make it plain that Mrs. Harris will continue her fight to disprove her husband's charges that she misrepresented herself to him before their marriage.

ALL-DAY FLIGHT FAILS AGAIN

NORFOLK, Va., July 13.—Another attempt by naval fliers to remain in the air 24 hours in a new type of long distance scouting seaplane failed early today when Lieutenants George C. McDonald and H. D. Smith were forced down after piloting their craft for approximately 13 hours on a 100 mile triangular course.

The duration of their flight fell about 20 minutes short of the seaplane records.

PROGRESSIVE INSTITUTIONS of Wichita Falls

WHERE DO YOU SOW?

IF YOU were sowing for a crop, would you sow in your own field, or in someone's else? Sounds like foolish question doesn't it? But there are a great many people who do sow in the other fellow's field when it comes to buying. Instead of buying from home dealers, or having home folks render them service, they send their money away to firms that they have never seen and folks they never will see.

THE MONEY spent at home yields a crop in building up home business—making it possible for home folks to buy what you have to sell. The money sent elsewhere doesn't do that. It can't, for it never comes back. Patronize the firms represented on this page and you'll be sowing in your own field—and reaping a twofold harvest. Spend your money where it will have a chance to return to you.

BUILDING BOOM HITS CHILDRESS

Light Company Soon to Erect New $100,000 Power Plant

CHILDRESS, July 12.—There is quite a building boom in Childress. The local lumber yards report heavy demands. The Childress Electric and Ice company are preparing to erect a modern $100,000 power plant, early in September. The dimensions of the main building will be 90x115 feet. It will be built of brick, reinforced with steel, it is said. This will be one of the largest plants of its kind in northwest Texas or the Panhandle. Frank Houston is the local manager.

A number of modern residences are being built and a number are being remodeled. It is said that the value of lots has advanced very appreciably. If lots close in are desired, old houses on these have to be bought and removed. All carpenters, painters and paperhangers are busy.

The Childress Building and Loan association held their annual meeting.

BIZZELL TO GIVE EUROPEAN STUDY AT SHORT COURSE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 13.—The subject of agricultural conditions in Europe will be presented by President W. B. Bizzell of the A. & M. college of Texas in a series of addresses which will be delivered, one each evening to those attending the farmers' short course, which will be held at the college July 28 to August 2.

President W. B. Bizzell recently toured England and the western European countries and made a careful study of agricultural conditions, and since returning has compiled his material for the purpose of giving a complete survey of the conditions of agriculture in Europe, its future and its possible effect on the industry of America. The topics on which he will speak are: "A survey of agricultural conditions in western Europe." Monday evening, July 28. "Farm lands and their utilization in western Europe," Tuesday evening July 29. "The cotton problem of Lancanshire and its influence on American cotton production," Wednesday evening, July 30.

Information in the hands of T. C. Walton, director of the short course, indicate that the course this year will be the largest in the history of the college, meaning that over 2,500 farm men, women, girls and boys will ne here for the short intensive course in agriculture and farm home practice.

RECORD YIELD OF WHEAT CUT AT CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, July 13.—What is believed to be the record yield of wheat in the state was threshed this week on the farm of Bob Hamilton three miles north of Chillicothe.

Mr. Hamilton had 550 acres which averaged 37½ bushels per acre, and tested 60 pounds per bushel.

Many record yields are being reported over the state on small acreages, but this is believed to be the largest average on such a large acreage.

A. Laird had charge of the threshing of the wheat.

CLARENDON STUDENTS TO HAVE BIG PICNIC

CLARENDON, Texas, July 13.—The business men of the city together with the Woman's Home Mission will entertain the students of Clarendon college with a picnic in Troublesome canyon Wednesday, July 16, according to present plans. In connection with plans for advertising and exploiting Clarendon college it is realized that one of the best possible advertising mediums is a satisfied and contented student body. This is the first of a series of such affairs planned for the purpose of entertaining the students and making them feel their welcome to the city.

U. S. Wins Olympic Track and Field Meet

AMERICANS SHARE HONORS WITH LITTLE NORDIC NATION

Stenroos, 40-Year-Old Finnish Runner, Is Impressive Victor in Classic Marathon Race

OLYMPIC STADIUM, COLOMBES, France, July 13.—America left the Olympic battle field today triumphant in track and field for the eighth successive time since the modern revival of the Olympic games. But when dusk brought to a close the greatest and most spectacular fight ever witnessed for international athletic honors, America shared the final glory with her gallant rival for the north, Finland.

Although the Americans in a convincing and final demonstration of the all-around supremacy today shattered two more world and one Olympic record, the premier mantle of Olympic triumph went to the New Finnish hero, Alben Stenroos, who raced under a blazing sun to the classic marathon championship, a victory which capped the climax to Finland's clean sweep of the distance races and gave the little Nordic country the greatest athletic laurels it has ever known.

ITALY SECOND IN MARATHON.

Stenroos, a 40-year-old Helsingfors wood-worker, running his first competitive marathon race in 15 years, sped over the 26 miles of country road to one of the most impressive victories in the history of the Blue Ribbon event. He crossed the finish line inside the stadium amid a deafening ovation, in two hours 42 minutes 22 3-4 seconds, nearly six minutes in front of his nearest rival, Bertini of Italy, with Clarence De Mar, Millrose, Mass., the American veteran, finishing a close third, to send the stars and stripes up to the Olympic masthead for the marathon for the first time since 1912.

NURMI COMPLETES GREATEST RECORD.

But remarkable as was Stenroos' triumph in the world's greatest test of heart and stamina, the highest honor of all in the final analysis must be bestowed upon his countryman, Paavo Nurmi, who completed a phenomenal record today, when leading his team to victory in the 3,000 metre race, he won his fourth triumph of the games.

AMERICANS SCORE 255.

Following is the record of points in the Olympic games:

United States 255.
Finland 106.
Great Britain 85 1-2.
Sweden 31 1-2.
France 26 1-2.
Italy 19.
Switzerland 15.
South Africa 11.
Hungary 10 1-2.
Australia 10.
Canada 8.
Norway 6.
Argentina 5.
New Zealand 4.
Esthania 4.
Holland 4.
Denmark 3.
Japan 1.
Chile 1.

First places:
United States 12; Finland 10; Great Britain 3; Australia 1; Italy 1.

BLACK GOLD RACES IN ASHLAND DERBY

CHICAGO, July 13.—Black Gold, conqueror of Ladkin, in the Chicago derby at Hawthorne yesterday, will be shipped to Ashland, Ky., Tuesday to start in the Ashland derby at a mile and a quarter next Saturday.

Black Gold's victory yesterday, when he won $12,975, ran his total winnings for the year up to $89,790. With a full campaign ahead of him, there is a possibility that he may become a greater money winner as a three-year-old than Zev in 1923.

WASHINGTON FAN WALLOPS UMPIRE

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Umpire Holmes was attacked at the close of the baseball game here today between Cleveland and Washington, by a Washington fan, being struck in the face and knocked against a wall. Umpire Moriarity came to the defense of his associate and is reported to have struck the fan. The crowd surged on the field but police and players prevented any further disturbances.

The fan apparently wished to register disapproval of Holmes' action in ejecting from the game during the ninth, Manager Harris of the Washington club, who had gone to the plate to protest a decision on balls and strikes.

AMERICANS QUALIFY OLYMPIC SHELL RACE

PARIS, July 13.—The U. S. crew today won the first heat of the elimination trials in the four-oared shells with coxswains from Belgium and Spain in the Olympic regatta, which opened on the Seine river today.

Others qualifying were France who defeated England and Poland. Italy, which won from Hungary and Holland by defeating Switzerland.

The United States, France, Italy and Holland will meet in the semi-finals Tuesday.

URGE COUNCIL FOR AGRICULTURE AID

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 1d—Organization of a national council for promotion of the interests of agriculture is urged in the resolutions committee report presented to the national conference of farm organizations here this afternoon.

This council would be called the American council of agriculture and would "promote and defend the broad welfare of agriculture under any and all circumstances and by such means as appear to it honorable and effective."

Waco—$230,000 street improvement bonds voted.

Houston—$125,000 to be expended for erection of Kinkaid private school building.

BLONDY

Osborn is the probable mound selection of the Spudders for today's tilt with Houston at Athletic park.

* * *

"My! How I wish I had another infielder," moaned President Harvey yesterday while watching the Spudder-Beaumont fiasco.

* * *

When asked why he didn't get another player, he came back tersely, "Picking up good ball players is not as easy as some people think. I've been trying to get one for several weeks now."

* * *

The news trickled from Spudder headquarters a long time back that the Wichita mogul had his telescope out for a likely inner guard, and, according to Harvey, he has been searching ever since.

* * *

The Spud infield will probably receive an addition before the week is out, that is, if all breaks well with the Spudder official's negotiations.

* * *

The Maywood-Trammel glove tilt Thursday night doesn't stack up on paper as a very promising contest. But as far as that goes, many a likely appearing bout has proved just the converse, while some other scrap not rated as much has turned out a regular hum-dinger. Anyhow, Wichita Falls fans called loud and long for the re-matching of Trammel and Maywood, so promoters have finally heeded them.

* * *

The fact that Bib Falk, Austin athlete, is battling it out with Babe Ruth for American league slugging honors is a just cause for joy among Texas fans. But there is one man, a quite gray haired old fellow who sits chuckling daily in his Morris chair down at his office in the capital city, though not shouting with glee, who is the most pleased of all. That man is the veteran Billy Disch, Texas university baseball coach. The venerable Disch, the master mind of college baseball, is one who discovered Falk and sent him up to the Chicago White Sox.

* * *

And Bib Falk is not the only one of the Falk family who is a baseball star. Disch will have under his tutelage in Texas university next spring, and he has been tutoring him all along, Spot Falk, youngest boy of the Falk family. Spot right now rates as one of the very cream of Texas amateur pitchers. He is a rangy southpaw. Under the guidance of Disch, who also expects to send him up to the big show some day, Spot will doubtless develop into as great if not greater luminary than his big brother, Bib.

* * *

Disch has probably sent more players to the big leagues than any other college mentor, and a great number to the minors. Our own Howard Fitzgerald, the cleverest outfielder in the Texas league, learned his stuff from Uncle Billy, the most popular man on the Texas university campus.

PILOT STEPS INTO PLANE PROPELLOR

WASHINKTON, July 13. — A heedless step backward into the whirling blades of a naval airplane cost the life of Lieutenant Herbert Schiff at Hampton Roads, Va., today, as he was preparing to return to Washington as pilot of a plane in which Rear Admiral Moffett, head of naval air service, was a passenger.

COPS SHOOT TWO OTHERS ON HUNT

NEW YORK, July 13.—Two policemen, patrolling the bay in a motorboat early today on the lookout for rum smugglers, were wounded when their boat was fired upon by customs men in another motorboat. The customs men mistook the policemen for smugglers.

KRAFT'S HOMER BEATS HOUSTON

Cats and Buffs Go 12 Rounds Before Former Wins 4 to 3 Count

FORT WORTH, July 13.—Kraft's number 31 home run of the season with two out in the twelfth inning broke up a three-three tie and enabled the Cats to win 4 to 3. With the score 2 to 1 in the ninth, Kraft's error resulted in two runs, but the Cats tied it in their half of the same inning.

As Champions Play It

If the shot is a little too long for a mashie and a little too short for a mid-iron is it best to force the mashie or play a half shot with an iron?

Answered by
WM. MELHORN.
"The St. Louis Youngster" whose battering courage and sound in all the tournaments he enters.

A shot is always best played well within yourself. Forcing a shot may have a tendency to put you off on other shots in your round. The half shot with the iron is by far the best. At times a player may be compelled to force the mashie; that is, the shot to the green may call for it if there is a trap directly in front of the green or some other obstacle is in the way.

Here's An Off-Season Delicacy For Gridiron Followers

While the diamond fans are watching two nip and tuck battles in the big leagues for the New York controlled pennants, three husky gridiron warriors are toiling on a southern Indiana farm in the hope of making the Indiana U. team a championship outfit in next fall's Big Ten race.

The three men are brothers, George, Scott and Walter Fisher. George is the veteran of the three. He played tackle last season and made quite a rep for himself. Scott hopes to win an end berth. And Walter, a sophomore next year, has his eye on a guard position.

The boys live in Medora, Ind.

Indiana is optimistic over its prospects next fall, and not even the difficulty encountered in constructing its new mammoth stadium has discouraged them.

SENATORS WIN WILD BATTLE

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The heat apparently affected both players and spectators at today's game between Cleveland and Washington which the home club won 15 to 11 before a crowd which frequently baited the umpires. In the ninth Manager Harris was banished by Umpire Holmes as he protested the calling of balls and strikes and when the game ended, excited fans poured on the field and surrounded Holmes. While one fan shook his finger at the umpire another struck him in the face, knocking him against a wall, but Umpire Morarity, players and police came to the rescue and further trouble was averted.

Cleveland used five pitchers and Washington three while the batting of Speaker was the feature of the game. He hit a home run, a single and a double, and walked three times.

WOUNDED EGYPTIAN PREMIER IMPROVES

By The Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 13.—Habib Zagloul Pasha the prime minister who was shot and wounded yesterday by a student, passed a good night. This morning he expressed gratification over messages of sympathy received from Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier and others.

During the night the police searched numerous houses for persons suspected of being connected with the attack on the premier. A demonstration of sympathy for Zagloul was held this morning. During the demonstration the telephone and telegraph services were suspended for 10 minutes.

FAMED INVENTOR DIES IN GOTHAM

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Oscar Newhouse, inventor of a device which Bellevue hospital officials stated had proven successful in the amelioration of rheumatism cases, died of heart trouble early today. He was 65 years of age. Mr. Newhouse's machine has been employed for about a year by the staff of Bellevue for the treatment of nerve and rheumatism patients, Dr. John O. Hanlon, the superintendent said.

According to Benjamin Hamilton, a close friend of Mr. Newhouse, the inventor claimed that his machine had therapeutic value in the treatment of persons suffering from heart trouble.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—A survey of water borne traffic completed by the sipping board's bureau of research and made public today, discloses that nearly 126,000,000 tons of freight, exclusive of coastwise commerce, were handled by American ports during the year ended last December 31.

More than 53% of this total passed through six ports.

Firpo to Use Argentine Training Methods for Coming Clash With Wills—He'll Have Tough Jaws

By ROBERT EDGREN

NEW YORK, July 13.—Johnny Dundee wants to know why the N. Y. Boxing Commissioners are picking on him. The commission insists that Dundee must fight Kid Kaplan of Connecticut, and that the bout must be a decision affair. This, naturally, prevents Dundee's boxing Kaplan without risking his featherweight title. Anyone who has seen some of the weird decisions of the past few months will acknowledge the risk.

Probably the commission selects Dundee for the simple reason that Dundee, living in New York and doing most of his boxing here, is within easy range. Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, is living in California, and isn't planning to box again in New York even next year. Gene Tunney, the active light-heavyweight champion, has been boxing recently and has a match with Carpentier on for July. Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, lives in New Jersey, boxes in New Jersey and doesn't care what the New York commission thinks about him. The commission can't compel Mickey to box in New York, and the New Jersey commission won't suspend Mickey just because the New York commission is peeved with him.

Harry Greb, middleweight title holder, is already suspended in New York and Massachusetts, but doing fairly well elsewhere in spite of the commission blacklist.

Just why the commission doesn't fuss about Benny Leonard is a mystery. Benny does little boxing and the lightweight title is practically on the shelf. But Leonard's case may be different from Dundee's. There are no lightweights around to threaten Benny's title. Some day it will be discovered that Benny has become a middleweight or something like that and then there will be a rush to challenge him to fight at 135 pounds, but as long as there's a suspicion that he can make the weight he's safe from annoyance.

As for Villa, he keeps fairly busy. Jack Goldstein is less active but is small potatoes anyhow.

Looks as if Dundee won't be able to pull a Johnny Kilbane with that featherweight crown and keep it on ice for four or five years after practically retiring, to come out at last and trade the honorable bric-a-brac off for a hundred thousand planks. Shooting the title into the ring offhand, the way the commission wants Dundee to do it, and against a just fairly well known boxer like Kaplan, Johnny might get enough out of it to buy a couple of hairpins for the family.

FIRPO TO EAT FIVE STEAKS EACH MEAL.

Luis Firpo sailed for New York accompanied by his cook, who is also a sparring partner. He says American cooking makes him sick, and this time he'll have the Argentine grub.

"Wills bothers me not at all," said Firpo, "but a badly cooked steak, ah, that is too much."

Firpo is particular about his steaks. When training for Dempsey he was said to devour three at each meal, proving conclusively that he isn't a vegetarian.

Luis Angel may not take kindly to roadwork, but he could win a steak eating contest anywhere in the known world. Eating Argentine steaks gave Luis the tremendous jaws and huge muscles that that act as shock absorbers when he is hit on the lower maxillary, better known in ring science as "the button." Eating steaks and developing his jaws is Firpo's favorite training stunt. Let Dempsey run on the road and train his legs into thinness and toughness of wire cables. Nobody gets hit on the legs. But the jaws—that's another matter entirely. This time, getting ready to fight Harry Wills, Luis will eat five good tough Argentine steaks per sitting, instead of three. This will put the jaw that wobbled under Dempsey's attack in the second round into such magnificent condition that Harry's hands will crumple against it like egg shells battered against a rock.

We knew Firpo would spring something new when he announced he'd train in the Argentine manner and disregard all United States boxing notions.

OLYMPIC GAMES GROWN UNWIELDY.

Holland sends a special committee to investigate the expense of holding the Olympic games in Paris. The inference is that Holland isn't anxious to guarantee the cost of holding the next Olympics in Holland.

The Olympic games have grown into a tremendous and unwieldy affair. Delegates of each country insist upon inserting into the competition program the sport specialties of the home land. There's everything from skating and skiing to a contest consisting of taking two shots at an iron plate stamped out to resemble a deer. Don't know just what country got that into the Olympics. We have real deer in this country still and the sport of shooting at swinging cast iron plates hasn't become popular here.

The original Olympic games in ancient Greece consisted almost entirely of sports held in the Stadium at Olympics. They were foot races of different distances, discus and javelin throwing, jumping, wrestling and boxing.

The Olympic games of today would be more interesting if they were kept down to something like the simplicity of the old Olympics. It would be easier to handle a great world meet consisting of athletic events held in a stadium, to track and field contests, wrestling and boxing. These are the events that draw the crowds and furnish the most interesting spectacles. With this simplification Holland would not worry over the finanacial strain of conducting the 1928 Olympics.

It would be a great notion to go back to the Olympic games as held in Athens in 1896 and 1900.

As for the polo, gymnastics, fencing, football of various European brands, ski jumping, skating, target shooting and all the rest of the innumerable sports that are interesting in themselves but have no Olympic tradition—they could be held successfully as separate international meets, at other times and not under Olympic games direction at all.

There is such a thing as having too many circus rings under the big top. Any spectator who tries to see everything is likely to come out cross-eyed and with that dizzy feeling.

Beaumont Finally Manages to Down Spuds

MATTESON AND MATES REVERSE FORM AND WIN GAME, 10 TO 3

Mussers in Poor Form—Deviveros, Karns, and Jonnard Each Pole Out Non-Stoppers

By BLONDY CROSS

They all win one now and then. Matteson, Beaumont right hander, had taken part in 24 games this season up to Sunday afternoon, and had been victorious in three. But Matteson came back yesterday with a surprising reversal of form and at the Spudders' expense. Paul Musser, one of the leading pitchers of the league, took a turn for the opposite. Results: Beaumont beat Wichita Falls for Beaumont's only game of the series 10 to 3.

Musser yielded 15 safe blows, and was a bit wild in the pinches, and his mates booted the ball six times. Matteson was poked for nine safeties, and was exceedingly efficient with men on bases with the exception of two occasions when the Spuds got a man on, and were able to hit just timely enough to send him around.

FANDOM JUMPS ON MUSSER UNJUSTLY.

Musser, razzed by his own fans time and again because he was off form yesterday, must have wondered what it was all about. For just a few days before when he was going great guns against the Fort Worth Panthers, these same fans cheered, worshipped, and did homage to him every time he stuck his mug where it could be seen. But such are the breaks of the game. Being off color himself, receiving rather ragged support from his mates, and no support at all from the fans in the stand, he just couldn't jerk together and get going in his regular form.

When a man comes through and produces, he is wonderful in the eyes of Spudder fans, and receives a world of praise and support from these fans. But when he goes bad, and needs the backing all the more, the attitude changes—he's rotten and ought to be run out of the league.

Oh well, another day, and another game. Houston's Buffaloes will gallop into Spud park this afternoon for the first of three. Mayhaps Spudder fans will be given the chance to praise today instead of knock.

TANNER AND WEIS WALLOP RUN OVER.

Porters flared up with a meager menace in the initial couplet after three were two away. Successive singles by Ostergard and Huber, and a pass issued by Musser to Kearns stuffed the cushions. Bernsen, however, eased the anxiety of Spud fandom by grounding out to White.

Tanner oozed over for a marker the domestic portion of the first. After Fitz had gone out to short, Bud slashed out to right center for a brace of sacks. Locker bounded out to second and Skipper roamed on to third. Buddy tabulated in front of a monetary smack through short by Weis.

BEAUMONT GETS THREE IN SECOND.

Beaumonters, after there were two out, forged two runs out front in the second canto. But for an error the side may have been retired without a run. Taylor, Shipper port gardner of Chinese features who is therefore known as Chink, was allowed a free ticket to first. Two batters passed away without Chink pulling from the initial station. With Joseph Rabbit at bat, the Oriental chap absconded with second. On an attempt to catch him off the keystone cushion a few seconds later, Musser threw poorly, advancing Taylor to third. Joseph then mistreated the pill for a two-sack swat to left center, scoring Taylor. Knaupp singled through short and romped clear around the trail to third while the homelings were futilely attempting to cut Rabbitt off at the platter. Single between first and second by Ostergard sent Knaupp to the pan. Huber made the final out by fouling to Tanner.

SPUDS LOAD SACKS WITH NOBODY OUT.

Spuds soaked the sacks the latter half of the second with none down but lacked the punch to benefit by the opportunity. Singles to left by Turge, Camb's walk and perfect bunt by White put three perspiring athletes on the bases. Matteson tightened and whiffed Jonnard. Musser aviated to left, too short for Turge to score from third after the catch, and Fitz forced White at second.

Theodore Kearns, known as Theo for short, led off the Beaumont third with a drive to the home run zone back of the port palisades. This brought the calculation up to 4 to 1, Shippers.

Beaumont accepted an unearned marker in the fourth, a walk, double by Ostergard which busted the starboard boards, and a miscue on the on the infield put the tally over.

Again in the fourth did the homelings realize a misadventure. With one away, a binbie to port by Coombs, an error on grounder to short hit by White, put a pair on the paths. Matteson and Saffton Top Kearns on first handled the tail-end of the batting order with ease, retiring Jonnard and Musser.

SHIPPERS SCORE FOUR IN SIXTH.

Beaumont broke into the tabulating counter again in the sixth, this time for a quartet of markers. Huber singled through second. Kearns was passed by Musser. Bernsen feebly bounded to Locker at first, who scooped in the ball and on attempt to start a double play at second jungle heaved to the left pasture. Kearns scooted to third while Huber was scoring. Taylor forced Bernsen at second. DeViveros then came through with a circuit wallop over the left garden wall. After this, although there was another base hit garnered, another walk and another error, the gang tightened, and the visitors were cut down with no further casualties.

BUBBER JONNARD SMACKS HOMER.

Spudders staged a one-man rally in the seventh. Bubber Jonnard opened the round with a drive over the left field fence, scoring himself.

Beaumont nearly scored again in the eighth after there were two out. Rabbit lived up to his name by beating out a bunt down the first line. He then stole second. Knaupp walked. The pair went on a twin pilfering foray, Rabbit hooking third, and Knaupp second. Before they purloined the plate, Ostergard grounded out to first.

Spuds pulled a two-man rally in the eighth. Weis butchered one to center for a couple of cushions and slipped home before solitaire to right by Turge.

Couple of errors and the same number of bingles accounted for another in the Exporter half of the ninth.

U. S. GIRLS WIN WATER EVENTS

One Masculine Swimmer of American Team Qualifies

LES TOURELLES, France, July 13.—It was ladies day at the Tourelles pool, all America's daughters winning their heats handily today in the 400 metres free-style. The men qualified in only one heat and were soundly drubbed at water polo.

These were the opening events of the Olympic swimming contests and conditions at the big pool were favorable for good records.

In the respective heats of the 400 metres, Gertrude Ederle's time was six minutes 12 1-5 second. Helen Wainwright 6:46 3-5, and Martha Norelius 6:23 1-5. Miss Molesworth, Great Britain, finished second to Miss Ederle; Mariett Protin, France, second to Miss Wainwright, and Miss Jeanes, Great Britain, second to Miss Norelius.

American qualified only one man in the three trial heats of the 1500 metres win in the morning. In the first heat Smith, United States, finished second to Annison, Great Britain. Smith's time was 22 minutes, 48 4-5 seconds, 10 2-5 seconds behind the winner. There were no North nor South American entries in the second heat, Ske Borg, of Sweden, winning handily with Taylor, Great Britain second. In the third heat, Charlton of Australia broke the record, covering the distance in 21 minutes, 20 2-5 seconds, distancing Hatfield, Great Britain, and Richard Howell, United States. Howell may have a chance, however, to qualify in the finals in a heat among the men finishing third because of his time of 22 minutes, 48 1-5 seconds was better than the time of Christie of Australia and Noda, Japan, the other third place men.

Arne Borg, in the fourth heat again lowered the record, making the distance in 21 minutes, 11 2-5 seconds.

HIGH VERSATILE HITTER

Andy High, Brooklyn infielder, never has been listed among the home run hitting stars of the big show but one thing must be said of him. He is the most versatile home run clouter in the game. No two of his first five homers this season were slammed in the same park. He laced one out in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

Maywood Declares Trammel Not Dangerous At All

This Quartet of Veterans Is Still Going Strong

The four vets, Walter Johnson, left; Howard Ehmke, right; Burleigh Grimes, upper center, and Dazzy Vance, below.

CLEVELAND, July 13.—Listed among the pitching leaders of both big leagues these days are several veterans who have defied old man time for varying lengths.

Of course Walter Johnson is the dean of them in the American league. Stepping right along with him, however, is Howard Ehmke. In the National league Burleigh Grimes is rambling along at a gait better than many of the youths ten years younger can hit. Dazzy Vance, though a youngster in service in that circuit is a veteran of the game and at an age most pitchers are slipping is hanging up another good record for himself.

Oddly enough these four stars present four distinct pitching types.

Johnson is the scientist of the diamond. He has reduced the game in general and pitching in particular down to a scientific basis. He goes at his mound work with the calm, nerveless competent manner of a surgeon or physician or astronomer. There are no wasted motions, no useless effort expended by Walter.

Ehmke is erratic, a man of varying moods. He labors twice as hard as the great Johnson mainly because he wastes many balls every game due to his inability to locate the plate.

Johnson studies the game as a master delves deeper into philosophy and science. Ehmke is a student of the game but to this day needs the guiding hand of an instructor. This is shown by his success under Lee Fohl after treading dangerously near the edge with Cobb.

Burleigh Grimes is temperamental. He is a perennial holdout. At his best he is without a superior. He is one of the best spitball artists the game has ever had and one of the few remaining moist hurlers in the leagues. When he is "off," however, the reason for it is a mystery to everyone. On his bad days he seems to have everything at his command. His periodical slumps that have prevented him yearly from taking rank with the truly greats have also been mysteries to his bosses. They have finally attributed it to temperament.

Dazzy Vance's name in the list of four "veterans" may cause some surprise. He has been with the Dodgers and in the big show but three years. In age and baseball service, however, he ranks with the real vets—Joe Bush, Dutch Ruether, Grimes and half a dozen others.

The fact that it took him an average baseball lifetime to make the big show indicates his type. He is a plodder. He says himself that he succeeds only by plodding, by pitching his best to every man that faces him.

Sports Done by Brown

One by one the lads who won their first fistic honors between the grim battles of the World war are slipping from the squared circle. Bob Roper and Bob Martin were the first two notables to go. Martin gave up the ring game, when his championship hopes were blasted, and joined the New Jersey state police. Roper went into business.

Now Fay Keiser, who first drew attention by his thrilling battle with Martin in the tournament held by the A. E. F. in France, has laid aside his gloves and fighting trunks. He gave up the ghost after suffering a knockout in the third round in his fight with Jimmy Slattery a short time ago.

Keiser was the boxing hero of the famous 77th division in the World war. He was heavyweight champion of the division and many of his followers disputed the decision which Martin gained over him in the tourney that followed the close of field activities.

Keiser later got revenge for the defeat, however, by giving the husky a thorough beating. This fight started Martin on the road to oblivion.

Keiser's many battles with Harry Greb drew the former much attention if not much fame. The last time they met Greb beat Fay down in 12 rounds. Keiser's fight with Slattery was the only one in which he engaged after the Greb mill.

His failure to develop a couple of good pitchers out of the squad of 11 rookies that he took south last spring has been a great disappointment to Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians. A checkup of the team roster the other day showed that only one of the 11 prospects tried out last spring in sunny Florida is now with the team. That one is Luther Roy. And he was sent to the minors for a time, along with the 10 other hopefuls. He was recalled recently from Chattanooga. His work has been highly satisfactory and indicates that he is ready to stick in the big show.

The ten who were not ready when disposed of in cutting down season are Drake, Bedgood, Edmondson, Vondrashek, Learn, Levsen, Kuhn, Sullivan, Lindsey and Jeric.

As it shows where the trails lead for youngsters who find their journeys to the big show postponed the disposition made of these 10 might be of interest. Jim Lindsey was sold to Kansas City. Drake was sent to Wichita Falls. Levsen and Sullivan went to the Three Eye league. Edmondson is with Des Moines. Vondrashek was sent to Elmira but was found wanting. Kuhn went to the same club. Bedgood and Jeric were given unconditional releases and Learn was turned over to Lakeland, the hometown club at the Indians' training camp.

Bill Johnston, one of America's tennis wonders, reports that the recent operation he underwent for the removal of his unsympathetic tonsils has done wonders for him.

Johnston, naturally almost frail in build, found two years ago that he was losing weight. All efforts to hold his weight, let alone increase it, were of no avail. This year he heeded the word of doctors that ailing tonsils might be the cause of his condition and had them removed.

John Sords, eminent sport cartoonist, rises to remark that the four most famous Wheats in the world are:

Zack ——
Mack ——
Buck ——
Cream of ——

Charley Hoff, regardless of his showing at the present Olympic games this year, stands out as one of Europe's greatest all around athletes. He set a record in European collegiate sport circles that speaks for itself. During his scholastic career at the University of Christiana Hoff was never defeated in a scratch event in track and field contests. His world's record of 13 feet, six inches in the pole vault, was only one of the many marks which had stamped him as a wonder, even before the present international games began.

Present Summer Proves Lean One For Boxers and Boxing Fans So Far

The summer is proving a lean one for boxers and boxing fans, generally speaking.

It seems doubly dull when last summer's activities are recalled. Soon after the open air season started last year Eugene Criqui came over from France and knocked the featherweight crown off Johnny Kilbane's head. Criqui immediately signed up to risk his newly found crown in a battle with Johnny Dundee and before the summer waned lost it.

Shortly after Kilbane's fadeout Jimmy Wilde lost his world's flyweight title to Pancho Villa on U. S. soil. Jess Willard essayed a comeback and flattened Floyd Johnson in a manner that caused Jessica to be matched with Luis Firpo.

Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons met in Shelby, Mont., July 4. Jack Kearns lost a decision to the backers of the fight when they gave him notice he'd have to go through with the bout. Then Gibbons fooled the wise boys by staying 15 rounds with Dempsey, the first man to turn that trick against the champion.

Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler were exchanging verbal jabs in preparation for their battle later in the summer.

Harry Greb caught Johnny Wilson without a hand-picked referee and took the middleweight title away from him. Later on Luis Firpo knocked Jack Dempsey through the ropes but not for enough to prevent Jack's friends helping him back in and so lost the bout to the champ.

Truly it was a joyful summer for the boxers, the fans and especially the promoters.

So far this summer the important battles that have materialized are the Wills-Madden bout, which wasn't so good; the Gibbons-Carpentier fracas which ended as everyone thought it would; the Spalla-Tunney battle which eliminated another European bust and a couple of interesting bouts in which Harry Greb and Young Stribling featured.

This summer is young yet. There still is time for a few good battles. But the only ones brewing now are the Wills-Firpo affair, the Carpentier-Tunney battle, a possible one between Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker for the welterweight title and a scrap between Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro for the flyweight tit

SNODGRASS IN TENNIS FINALS

Californian Plays Tilden For Clay Court Title

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—Harvey B. Snodgrass of Los Angeles, entered the final round of the national clay court championship here this afternoon by defeating Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco, former champion, in a four-set match. The score was 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Snodgrass will meet William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, in the men's singles final Monday afternoon. The junior singles final between Al Weiner, Philadelphia, and Emmett Pare, Chicago, scheduled for this morning was postponed because of wet courts.

Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, clay court doubles champions, defeated R. E. Schlesinger, Australia, and Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass, in straight sets in a semi-final match 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

LOCAL BATTLER FINALLY TALKS PROMOTERS INTO RETURN MATCH

They Fought to Doubtful Draw Two Months Back—But Ray Says He Will Win This Time

"Trammel has been dodging me. I've been trying hard to get a return match with him, but he won't meet me," said Ray Maywood, local welterweight boxer, when visiting the Record News editorial room six weeks back.

Duke Trammel of Fort Worth, and Maywood had fought a rather doubtful draw just about three weeks before this visit by Maywood. Maywood tried hard to get Trammel back into the ring with him for the purpose of settling once and for all their difference. For bad blood had been brewed by that battle, and Maywood was rearing for another shot at the Fort Worth boy. He tried time and again to get Trammel into a ring with him, but the promoters at that time would not listen to him, they didn't believe it would be a good fight.

All Forgotten Now.

Now all of that is forgotten, all except the smouldering flame of dislike between the two boxers. Promoters have at last decided to give Maywood his chance. The two pugilists are matched for a ten-round bout next Thursday night on the Legion card in the Legion's arena.

Maywood, a fistic gent who has given but little attention to that greatest requisite of the fight game the past several weeks, that of training diligently and daily, has turned completely around and is working away each day in deadly and earnest preparation for the coming embroglio.

Barr Says He'll Train.

Maywood has picked up a manager, Bill Barr. Bill declares that he'll train or else! That else is a question which cannot be answered by any but Barr and Maywood themselves, but it carries with it a threat that if Maywood doesn't stick to his knitting there is something in store of a very unpleasant nature for the battler coming from none other than the doughty manager himself.

Ray Says He'll Win.

Said Maywood Sunday: "I'm going to prove to Wichita fight followers that Trammel's string of victories and knockouts here were nothing but setups, and that his knockout of the tough Dago Ryan in Waco recently was but a fluke."

Trammel has also picked up a manager, Bobby Burns, a veteran ring performer well known to local fandom.

And Trammel down in Fort Worth will work just as hard for this fight as will Maywood. The Cowtown mauler is scheduled to arrive in Wichita Falls Wednesday, said Promoter Don Wofford yesterday. Maywood here now will workout at the Legion hall each afternoon.

The remainder of the card is to be composed of an eight-round go between Ewell Paul of Lawton and Battling Jennings of Henrietta, another eight-rounder between Tabby Levine of Wichita Falls and Johnny Rivers of Fort Worth, and a four-round bout between Rattlesnake and Benny Hunt, local duskies. There will be a curtain raiser, too, said Wofford.

SUCH IS FAME!

Such is fame. Years ago when Fred Luderus was making what seemed an impossible run of some 500 consecutive games without missing a day at his position the world called him an iron man. The other day Everett Scott passed his 1,200th consecutive game at short and the occasion passed unnoticed. Tennyson's Brook now runs second to Everett.

BIG LEAGUER IN BUSHES

Those who have seen Pete Monahan in action at first base for Paris, Ky., in the Blue Grass league, say that he will draw a trial with some big league ball club next spring. It's a long jump from the Blue Grass to the big time, they admit, but say that Pete is a real find. He is hitting over .400 and fielding sensationally.

HOUSTON FACES STRIKE THREAT

Carpenters and Other Members of Building Trades Fight

By The Associated Press.

HOUSTON, July 13.— Houston faced the possibility of a serious building strike today. The trouble was precipitated by a quarrel between the local members of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and the members of the other organizations belonging to the building trades alliance.

The Steel and Lath Workers' organization claims right to install metal laths and window casings on construction jobs, and the carpenters claim the same privilege. A decision handed down December 5, 1920, by the national board of jurisdiction and awards of the American Federation of Labor, declares that the work belongs to the steel and lath men.

Carpenters.

The steel and lath men are being supported in their dispute with the carpenters by all the other local organizations belonging to the building trades alliance, with the exception of the carpenters. The building trades alliance has authorized contractors to abide by the decision of the national board of jurisdiction and awards, but little attention has been paid to the request by contractors thus far.

Off Work.

Several organizations have already pulled their men off local construction work, as a protest against the carpenters. Should a strike occur, it will affect about $5,000,000 worth of local construction, it is estimated.

ALLEGED SHIPPING FRAUDS DISMISSED

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Two indictments against Colin H. Livingston, William W. Scott and Leonard D. Christie, who with Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilders, and others, were charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States in shipbuilding cases, were nolle prossed by District Attorney Gordon.

When the Morse trial was called a separate trial was granted the three men and after the acquital in the Morse case the government decided not to press the charges against the remaining defendants.

Splawn Runs In First Primary

AUSTIN, Tex., July 13.—The name of Dr. Walter Splawn, president-elect of the University of Texas, will remain on the primary ballot as a candidate for railroad commissioner to succeed himself until after the first primary, Dr. Splawn decided today. He concluded after an opinion from the attorney general that there was no way to remove the name at present. This will make it necessary for the state executive committee to substitute a name after the primary, according to the attorney general.

Continue Gould Income Suit

NEW YORK, July 13.—Supreme Court Justice Platzek today denied the application of Frank J. Gould for the removal of Edwin Gould, his only brother, as one of the trustees of the estate of the father, the late Jay Gould. The case had been referred to a referee for determination and report, Justice Platzek said, and no action by the court was necessary at present.

Justice Platzek issued an order that until the case is determined the trustees are to pay over to Frank Gould one half of his income from the estate, which he claimed the trustees had been withholding. He accused his brother of mismanagement of the estate.

SEVEN CITIES IN COLLEGE PROPOSAL

MARLIN, Tex., July 13.—The financial report of Texas district, Lutheran church, submitted today to the church convention at Trinity church, near Marlin, shows that $90,888 for district funds and $74,245 for general funds has been collected for the two year period ending last June 15.

Marlin, Austin, Temple, Clifton, Giddings, Lagrange and Waco are receiving consideration as possible sites for the location of a proposed new Lutheran college in Texas.

YOU KNOW ME AL — The Adventures Of Jack Keefe — —By Ring Lardner

Friend Al:

Well Al dont be supprised if you pick up the paper some day and read about Jack Keefe the famous musician. I dont mean I am going to quit pitching Al but it seems like the Cubs has a regular orcestra on there club with a banjo and catarrh and horns and etc. and we was talking about it today and 1 of the boys says we should ought to have a orcestra on our club to wile away the time on the road. Well it seems like 1 or 2 of our boys can all ready play a instrument and they ast me to buy myself some kind of a instrument on acct. of me haveing such a good ear for music and the next question is what kind of a instrument is easy to lern it though I guest I wont have no trouble mastering any of them as I never seen nothing yet I could not do if I put my mine on it.

Dr. Grafton Urges Men of Kay Bible Class to Learn More of Christ

PASTOR TAKES JUDGE'S PLACE

Gives Opinions of Great Men of Past on Christ; Asks That Others Be Made.

A challenge to think of Christ themselves and find out through personal study what a really great character He was was laid before the members of the Kay Bible class Sunday by Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who filled the place of Judge J. C. Kay. The latter is away on his summer vacation.

A total of 522 men were present for the lesson and program.

Dr. Grafton's address was as follows:

He was introduced by J. T. Harrell as follows:

"In the absence of our teacher, Judge Kay, we are very fortunate indeed to have with us, to deliver the address of the hour, one of the popular pastors of Wichita Falls and one who needs no introduction to this audience. It is our pleasure to have Dr. Grafton to deliver the address this morning.

Dr. Grafton Speaks.

"I am very glad to come to you this morning, first because you always give me such a hearty welcome and next because of the privilege of talking to a great crowd like this, but at the same time I come to you reluctantly because there is just one Judge Kay and nobody can fill his place.

We study this quarter and the next few months the life of the greatest man who ever lived, the Lord Jesus Christ. As an organized Bible class you are going to look into this life together with the whole Christian world the coming months. Today's lesson fills us with utter amazement that a child 12 years old could ask and answer questions to the surprise of the Doctors of Divinity and the Doctors of Law as they gathered there in the Temple in Jerusalem that day. We have studied him as a baby, we are looking at him today as a boy, next Sabbath we are going to see him in the beginning of his ministry, then we are going to follow him step by step along the way and as we study this life, it is worth while to, in our mind, form some kind of an opinion touching him, to get some sort of a conception of that great life he lived among men.

Asked Questions

One day as the Master sat with His disciples alone after a busy season, he asked them two very important questions, the first of these questions touched the people who had been listening to him, who had been watching him as he went about doing good, "Whom do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?" His disciples replied, "Some say that you are Moses, others say you are Elias, or Elijah, and still others say that you are one of the prophets." After they had replied to that important question and had imparted to him the they had listened to them, he turned gathered up opinion of the people as and asked them a very personal question; "What think you of Christ? Whose son is he?" The Master wanted to get their conception of him personally, and Peter, as usual the spokesman, said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God" and Jesus said to him, "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjonah, flesh and blood has not revealed this, that I am the Christ, the Son of the Living God, flesh and blood has not revealed this but my Father in Heaven has revealed it and upon this revelation that I am the Christ, will I build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

What Is Your Opinion?

So it seems to me this morning in the few minutes I have, as I must be brief, that I will ask your personally, "What think ye of Christ?" Well, some will reply, I think of him as a great historical character. I admit the truth of his biography, that he was a babe born in Bethlehem, that as a lad twelve years of age he went into the Temple and asked and answered questions, that he began his ministry, that he went about doing good, that he was crucified, died and was buried yes I think he was a great historical character.

Some think of Him as a great theological character, that somehow as the preacher says he came into the world to make atonement for sin by some sort of process that I do not pretend to understand, yet in the plan of God somehow Jesus Christ was a theological character.

Others say I think of Him as an ideal character, a winsome character, he lived a beautiful life, was charming in every particular; he stands at the forefront as one of the most beautiful of all characters that was ever lived. Others say I look upon Him as rather an effeminate man; the pictures of the Master rather make him sort of an effeminate man. When you recall that he was the son of a carpenter, that he supported his family at the workbench, that he lived in the open constantly, that he tramped across a territory eighty miles long and forty miles wide, that he slept in the open, that he breathed his lungs full of fresh air, then you realize he was not effeminate. When you consider also that he somehow drew to him strong characters, the biggest of men, then you realize that Jesus, the Master, was not very effeminate. What think ye of Christ? It might be well for us to notice what the past has thought of Him.

Significant Expression.

Jacob said, long, long ago, long before the Magee came into the world, gave at his death an expression quite significant I believe. He said to his son, "The scepter shall not depart out of Judah nor a law-giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." Moses, the great commoner, said, "The Lord shall raise up unto thee a prophet from the midst of thee and unto him shall thou hearken." Isaiah said, "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given and the government shall be upon his shoulders and his name shall be called Wonderful Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, of the increase of his government there shall be no end."

Pilate who had to do with the trial of the Master gave expression as to what he thought of Christ. He said, "I find no fault in him." That Roman Centurion standing there at the cross witnessing that crucifixion, turned to another Roman soldier and said to him, "Truly this was the Son of God."

So we gather up here the thoughts that men had of Him in the past. What think ye of the Son of God? Some of the world's greatest characters have gone on record as to their opinion of him. Napoleon Bonaparte, the Emperor of France, the little Corsican General, said out there one the isle, "I know men and tell you Christ was not a man. Alexander, Caesar, Charlemagne and I founded empires upon the force of the sword, Christ founded an empire on love and I tell you at this hour millions of men would die for him. His kingdom is loved and adored and spreading over the whole world."

Gladstone's Opinion.

Gladstone, the Prime Minister of England, one of the greatest men of his day, said, "There is but one question, the Man of Gallilee." He said, "I have been brought in contact with sixty of the world's greatest men and found all but five of them were followers of the lowly Nazarene."

Jean Paul Richster says, "The life of Christ concerns Him, who being the holiest among the mighty and the mightiest among the holy, lifted with his pierced hands empires off their hinges, and turned the stream of centuries out of its channel and still governs the ages. Goethe said, "I esteem the gospel to be thoroughly genuine for there shines forth from it the reflection of a sublimity proceeding from the person of Jesus Christ of so sublime a kind as only the Divine could have manifested on earth.

Thomas Carlyle said, "Oh Jesus of Nazareth, our Divine symbol, higher than human thought has yet reached. A symbol of quiet, perennial character, whose significance will ever demand to be inquired into and anew made manifest." Renan said, "His worship will grow stronger without ceasing, his story will call forth tears without end while coming ages will proclaim that among the sons of men there is none greater than Jesus."

Has Met World's Need.

Now why all of these eulogies that have been passed upon him? I think because he alone has met the world's need. A Roman writer said, "Even our children no longer believe in our divinities." Another Roman writer said, "I need a God who can speak to me and who can lead me." Pliny says, "We pray for a consolation great and strong of which I have not read nor heard." Cicero said, "One must wait for some one to come from the sky to teach us the right way." Christ has met this need that wells up in the hearts of men and for that reason he stands preeminent as the greatest character that has ever lived. Listen to the words of the Master himself, "I am come that you might have life and that you might have it more abundantly." Men have been looking for that sort of life, that abundant life and Jesus proposed to bring it.

If he has so profoundly impressed great minds and great hearts, then his entire claim must be true and might be not then be the friend for whom we have been looking? It is not enough for us to know that men of the past have thought about him, but as Jesus turned to his disciples and said to them, "What think ye of Christ?" I would leave upon your minds and hearts the great question, "What do you individually think of Christ?" And as these weeks and months shall pass and you look in the Bible and study that character, may it not be that you will choose him to be your best friend for he is the greatest friend that any man has ever had.

Results of Democratic Convention Bear Out In Full Early Predictions

Writer Declares McAdoo-Smith Opposition Was Easily foretold; New York Governor Wins Out Even If He Was Not Nominated

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

NEW YORK CITY, July 13.—"There can be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principles must and will prevail. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

John W. Davis was the speaker and a few hours earlier he had been nominated by the national convention of the democratic party for president of the United States. This happened on the 103rd ballot, in the historic city of New York, where in 1865 the standard had been placed in the hands of Horatio Seymour, three years after the close of the war between the states.

This convention had been in session 13 days when the nomination was made by acclamation and had broken the worlds' record for balloting for a choice. It had been the stormiest convention in the history of the democratic party with the exception of the one held in the city of Charleston in 1800 and adjourned from Charleston to Baltimore where Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois was nominated, the party split on the issue of slavery, the republicans elected Abraham Lincoln to the presidency, a civil war followed and that slavery was banished from the North American continent.

No Birds Left.

But there are no birds in last year's nests. This is the eighth national convention of the democratic party that the writer has enjoyed a close-up view. Coming events had cast their shadows before and in a series of articles which had appeared in the Marsh-Fentress newspapers, a deadlock had been forecast, the prediction had been made that the convention would be deadlocked and that neither William Gibbs McAdoo or Governor Alfred E. Smith would be nominated unless the McAdoo forces smashed the two-thirds rule and nominated by a majority vote.

This rule has been in vogue since the year 1832 and General Andrew Jackson was its father. It was not set aside by the Madison Square Garden convention. Neither was the unit rule broken. William Gibbs McAdoo never had a majority vote of the convention or a sufficient number of delegates to overturn the two-thirds rule. Governor Smith never had a majority vote but he had a following sufficient to prevent the nomination of McAdoo or any other democrat who was looked upon as hostile to the traditions of democracy as Governor Smith and his friends interpret those traditions.

McAdoo Blocked.

McAdoo's nomination, under the rules, was blocked from the beginning. First the national committee was opposed to the abrogation of the two-thirds rule and secondly the committee on rules appointed by the delegates to the convention was hostile to its abrogation. Then came the fight over the klan plank which created the real peak of intense excitement and bitter rancor. All who read know what happened. A plank was adopted which did not denounce the klan by name and the votes of Porto Rico, the Canal Zone and the Philippines saved the day for those who contended that the klan should not be named in the plank adopted. This was a vote that carried with it the significant fact that neither McAdoo nor Smith would ever receive a majority if they continued in the race until the Angel Gabriel blew his horn.

McAdoo and his men and women followers fought until they came to the last ditch and then went down in defeat. Governor Smith and his men and women followers stood as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar and made known to the world that there would be no break-away while the name of McAdoo was before the convention. There were magnificent drives for McAdoo but he always failed to reach the goal. There were magnificent drives for Smith with demonstrations never before equaled in convention history but Smith could not reach the majority mark. These men were the leaders of the convention, the idols of their party. One blocked the success of the other. Neither won the prize and thus followed dreary days of balloting.

Bryan Makes Platform.

William Jennings Bryan had made the platform. He had made his only telling speech in four years for the adoption of the plank which did not name the klan. He had thrust down the threats of the list delegates his list of available democrats to select from should McAdo fail of nomination. He was the leader of the McAdoo cause. He ignored Senator Glass of Virginia. He branded John W. Davis as an unfit, a wet and a reactionary, the legal advisor of the House of Morgan with all the great combinations of Wall street his clients.

Senator Glass held Virginia in line against the McAdoo candidacy; West Virginia democrats stood loyaly behind Davis; Arkansas democrats never deserted Senator Robinson, Louisiand democrats, Maryland democrats and the democrats of Delaware from first to last refused to fall in with the states behind McAdoo. From the opening day until the closing hour when John W. Davis was nominated by acclamation the California contender never had it in his power to batter down the breast-works of his enemies with the two-thirds rule governing and immovable blocs of delegates resisting all assaults, frontal or rear, ever determined to force the nomination of someone of the dark horses or a rank outsider.

Taggart Fails.

Boss Tom Taggart made his drive for Senator Samuel A. Ralston of Indiana. That drive failed and then Ralston's name was withdrawn. Again in the darkest hour of a deadlocked convention and a distracted party, Boss Taggart made another drive for Ralston but the followers of Smith as well as the followers of minor candidates, blocked the drive and the Indiana boss was notified that Ralstan was as objectionable to the blockers as McAdoo and some of the alleged forces behind him.

Then came to the firing line, James M. Cox of Ohio. He came as a harmonizer. Some said that he did not come to praise McAdoo but to assist in his burial. Brushing aside the nasty insinuation, Cox as a harmonizer, succeeded. Governor Smith and the minor candidates pooled their issues. For the sake of harmony, for the sake of the principles and traditions of the party of the people, they agreed to step aside should a suitable candidate be found. McAdoo alone refused to sign the truce or agree to withdraw from the race.

Beginning of End.

This was the beginning of the end. Ralston saw the handwriting on the wall; Meredith saw the handwriting on the wall and then after giving Oscar W. Underwood an airing around the Madison Square Garden arena, Edward A. Moore of Ohio and George S. Brennan of Illinois made the plunge for Davis and the stampede that followed to Davis smashed all records and made the distinguished democrat so vigorously denounced by William Jennings Bryan, the democratic nominee for president of the United States and 12 hours later completed the program of harmony by naming Governor Charles W. Bryan for second place after Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana had adjourned the convention to prevent his own nomination for the high honor.

William Gibbs McAdoo was defeated before the convention opened. Governor Alfred E. Smith and the favorite son senators had the votes from first to last and finally triumphed over all McAdoo opposition.

"Mistaken Identity" Puts Two Out For Count When They Mix With Local Pug

A case of mistaken identity caused the defeat of two local boys on a downtown street Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

According to one of the combatants, he and a friend were sitting in a car on Eighth street near Tipton's Drug store, serenely reviewing the passing crowd. While they were sitting there a small boy, the friend of both youths, stepped on the running board of the car and began honking the horn. Several people in the crowd turned to see the cause of the excitement. At about this time a small dapper little fellow stepped from the sidewalk and told the small boy to cut out the racket or he would slap him." Urged on by the two boys in the car, the little fellow took one more crack at the horn and was instantly slapped by the boy who had made the threat.

Instantly the two boys in the car began crawling out for a combat. As one stepped on the ground he was greeted with a husky right that knocked him to the pavement and broke his nose. Rising quickly he was again floored by a right to the eye that closed it tight and left him in a dazed condition. By this time the second boy had stepped from the car and before his friend had hit the ground the second time, was greeted by a left to the chest that sent him sprawling. The crowd interfered at this time and all three boys were carried to the court house and made bonds. Curious as to who their lively adversary was, both boys watched him sign his name and were startled when they learned they had been mixing with a local prize fighter of wide reputation. All three will appear before court Monday.

"Know your man before you hit him," advised one of the defeated heroes.

DECLARES SEAL OF GOD IS GONE

Evangelist Benton Says Only Two Relics of Garden of Eden Remain

"Charges are made against this generation by high Heaven that the seal of God has been removed from His sacred law, and a counterfeit mark substituted in its place," affirmed Evangelist R. L. Benton in a sermon last night at the Denver street tabernacle, on "The Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast."

Mr. Benton declares that the seventh day Sabbath is God's sign given to man and was designed to serve as a distinguishing mark between God's people and the heathen.

Discard Sign

"Today the great majority have discarded the sign God gave them to distinguish them from the heathen, and have approved a sign that came originally from heathondom," says Mr. Benton.

In comparing the seal of God with the mark of the anti-Christ, Mr. Benton said, "since Eden when God gave man the marriage institution and the Sabbath as a sign of His authority and power, and it has ever stood between Him and man as a pledge from Him and a sign of loyalty on man's part.

Broadcasting Message

"Today God is broadcasting a message to the whole world to restore the seal to the law among His disciples. He sees thousands of honest truth loving men and women scattered over the face of this earth who desire to do right, but who are still ignorantly substituting a counterfeit Sabbath for the day He gave man at creation to be a sign between Him and man forever. A seal shows authority, title and jurisdiction. These things are found in the Sabbath commandment but not in any of the other nine. And this is the one that has been taken out of the law and a counterfeit placed there instead."

There will be meetings at the tabernacle only Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday nights this week.

PROHI AGENTS JAILED IN N. O.

Four Arrested by City Police on Charges of Disturbing Peace

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Four federal prohibition officers including Max Overpeck, divisional chief, were arrested by police early today when the agents raided a fashionable restaurant at West End, on Lake Pontchartrain, while the place was crowded with guests.

Those arrested, after being locked in the tenth precinct station for a short time, were paroled. They were ordered to appear in police court and charges of disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. In addition to Mr. Overpeck, there was Lake Holland, Lauren R. Collins and L. J. Hoyt.

To Fight Back.

Mr. Overpeck stated tonight that officers making the arrest would be charged in United States court with interferring with federal officers while in the discharge of their duty.

Widely divergent stories were told by the agents and the police. The agents reported they had found liquor in the possession of several guests and caused the arrests of two persons. The police report of the raid said no liquor was found in the restaurant.

The arrests of the agents were made, the police reported, on the advice of Thomas V. Cravens, assistant district attorney, when the raiders leaping through windows and crushing down the door, threw the guests into a panic. Many leading business men of New Orleans occupied tables at the time of the raid.

YOUTH MAY FACE SERIOUS CHARGE

Officers of the city police force, making their rounds Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, found a boy about twenty years and a girl of less than fourteen in Bellview Park.

The girl was turned over to her mother, who believed her to have been in bed at the time. The man was lodged in jail for the night to be turned over to county authorities and be taken before the grand jury this morning where it is understood he will be charged with a statutory offense. Officers attach some importance to the case because of the extreme youth of the principals.

MISS KAY ILL.

Miss Margaret Kay, William-mary hotel, was taken to the general hospital yesterday, seriously ill with pneumonia. Her condition was said last night to be critical.

Prohi Officers See Negro Deliver Booze to White Man; Both Caught

A negro and a white man are in jail with the probability of charges of violation of federal liquor laws being made against them as a result of a transaction Saturday night whereby the white man was seen to deliver to the negro two half-gallon jars of whiskey. Federal Prohibition Officer Welpton was the witness

Welpton allowed the white man to leave the scene after recognizing him, before arresting the negro and confiscating the whiskey. The negro showed some fight at first. After arresting the negro the white man was found and lodged in jail. No charges had been filed against them last night.

8-YEAR OLD BOY MISSING HERE

Joe Marnoch, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marnoch, 104 Galveston street, has been missing from his home since early Saturday afternoon. When last seen he was wearing blue overalls and a straw hat.

Police were set on the trail yesterday but had not been able to locate the boy last night. His parents do not know what could have become of him as he was too young to run away and has been heard to express himself as being satisfied with his home.

COOLIDGE FAMILY CRUISING SUNDAY

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—President and Mrs. Coolidge rested today on the presidential yacht, Mayflower, down the Potomac, leaving yesterday and planning not to return until tomorrow morning. A complete rest was sought and with them were only their son, John, the president's father, John C. Coolidge, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Sterns of Boston. It was understood tonight that the yacht had had no wireless communication with Washington since leaving.

ATTACK ON MAN BAFFLES MEDICS

Michigan Minister Unable to Remember Anything Following Recovery.

By The Associated Press.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 13 While detectives studied the criminal angles of the case and doctors continued baffled by its medical side, the Rev. Oren Van Loon, pastor of a community church at Berkeley, Michigan, was recovering today from the effects of experiences which apparently deprived him of his mental powers for 11 days. Van Loon was found here late Friday apparently suffering from exhaustion and insufficient nourishment.

Disappeared June 30.

The minister disappeared from his home on June 30. Doctors who examined him at the hospital said that he was branded on the back with the letters K. K. K., and that he was suffering from shock. Today Van Loon, although able to talk to visitors, was unable to give any explanation of his condition and said he could not remember anything that happened to him during the 11 days he was missing from his home.

He was reluctant to discuss the ku klux klan when questioned regarding his attitude toward that organization, but said he had preached a sermon, shortly before he disappeared, in which he spoke against the burning of fiery crosses. Van Loon professed to have no theories as to what happened to him, but his wife asserted her belief that her husband had been drugged to cause loss of memory and then tortured.

Detective Learns Nothing.

Arthur Hessmer, detective here, who interviewed Van Loon in an effort to get clues which might aid in solving the mystery concerning the pastor's disappearance, said that he was unsuccessful.

"The perpetrators of this crime were no ordinary criminals," the detective asserted. "In the ordinary case, the victim remembers something. He can give some clue. In this case there is nothing."

Dr. A. F. Kingsley, attending the minister, said he was mystified by the medical angles of the case.

Extend Agreement of Russian Note Holders

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Extension of the protective agreement entered into several years ago by holders of the imperial Russian government five and a half percent bonds of defaulted 1916 loan is being sought by members of the protective committee.

Pending further action to effect a settlement of Russian debts, the committee, in notice issued today asks that its powers be continued for another 18 months. Thomas Cochran of J. P. Morgan and company and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, are members of the committee.
