

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

Saturday the people of Texas will choose a Governor of the state along with other officers. That is, they will choose those candidates whom they wish to be on the ballot in the general election in November as Democrats.

In choosing an officer every voter should determine for himself by studying the records of each candidate to determine the one that comes nearer fulfilling his ideals as a government official.

Laying aside the charges and counter charges the candidates have flung at each other, let's sift them down to the facts in the case and determine from there whom we want to serve the great State of Texas.

This columnist has not tried to change anyone's mind for or against any candidate other than to tell what we think on certain things.

Let's forget for a moment that Governor Shivers worked for the election of a Republican President in 1952 and look at his record in office. So far as we can determine he has a good record in many instances. In the one thing, though, that counts for most in our book—integrity in office—he does not come up to my standard. If you believe it is lawful for a governor of Texas to award printing contracts to a firm in which his family is interested when the Constitution clearly says it is a violation of the law then you will want to vote for Shivers. Every newspaper must publish once each year a statement of ownership and management. The Mission Times has published such statement and in 1951 the name of Allan Shivers is listed as one of the owners of the paper despite the fact that the governor himself says he transferred his interest in the paper to his wife in 1946. But even if he did transfer his interest to his wife under Texas law any property is community property when owned by either husband or wife. So the governor has been profiting from state printing contracts even though the constitution says he must not do so.

Gov. Ferguson was impeached for putting state money in a bank he had an interest in.

If you believe that any man whether he be governor or not can make a legitimate profit of $425,000 on a land deal in a few months, Shivers is your man.

Ralph Yarbrough has not held a state office other than that of District Judge. So he has no record except in that office. No one has ever accused him of mishandling the powers of that office. The biggest accusation his opposition can bring against him—the only one that can be proved—is the fact that his precinct in which he lives in Austin went against him in the first primary. That only means, of course, that his neighbors do not see things as he sees them.

In evaluating a charge like that we like to get the truth from one of those neighbors. We did in the person of E. V. White, who for many years until his health failed, was dean of T. S. C. W. at Denton. He has lived in Austin since retiring from the school position. He says that Mr. Yarbrough is an upright Christian gentleman. He and Mr. Yarbrough attend the same church and Sunday School. When a man like Dean White tells me a man is alright, I believe him.

It is up to you Saturday to choose the candidate that comes more nearly fitting your standards and philosophy of government—Allan Shivers or Ralph Yarbrough. As for me I choose Yarbrough.

Grandson Marries At Vernon

Mrs. Homer Wilson returned this week from Vernon, where she attended the wedding of her grandson, Ronnie Bowers, and Miss Shelly Ann Bell.

The wedding vows were said in the First Methodist Church with Dr. Marshall Rhew officiating before the lovely setting of greenery background flanked by dozens of pink candles. Three steps led up to the white satin covered kneeling bench where the couple knelt as Mr. Kermit Gurley sang The Lord's Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel-length gown of candle-light satin, imported lace and nylon tulle. J. W. Bowers served his son as best man. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore pink and white dresses with matching shoes and carried contrasting fans to which were attached pompom mums.

Streamers fell from the fans to the hemline. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parlor of the church.

The couple will make their home in Lubbock where the groom will resume studies towards his degree in geology at Texas Tech.

Senator G. H. Nelson Spoke At Rally

G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, a former State Senator, told an audience of about 200 in civil house in Colorado City Monday night that they do not have to be against Allan Shivers to vote Saturday for they have someone to be for in the person of Ralph Yarbrough.

Minus the usual vituperation, the speaker tore into the record of Allan Shivers during the time when both he and Shivers were members of the Texas Senate. On several occasions, the speaker said, he and Mr. Shivers had debated issues on opposite sides of the question.

One instance he referred to was when he, Nelson, introduced a bill in the Senate to repeal the race track gambling law then on the statute books of Texas. Mr. Shivers voted both in committee and on the floor of the Senate against the bill to repeal race track gambling.

The bill passed and race track gambling was repealed in spite of the opposition of Mr. Shivers and others.

The speaker chided Shivers on his claim of saving the tidelands and named Price Daniel and other U. S. Senators who put through a bill restoring the tidelands to Texas.

At one time in his talk, the speaker displayed a picture of Allan Shivers and a group of Negro soldiers in Korea, taken when the Governors were in Korea on a mission for President Eisenhower, in which the Governor told the group he was in favor of integration of the races. The picture appeared in Negro publications throughout the country.

The main issue in the campaign, the speaker said, is the ideals of government as favored by the Republicans and Shivers and those favored by the Democrats and Yarbrough. He urged the voters of Texas to return the state to Democratic rule by electing Ralph Yarbrough Governor of Texas next Saturday.

In introducing the speaker, ex-Senator Pat Bullock told of a sales tax bill that was introduced in the Senate while Mr. Shivers was a Senator that would have mushroomed into about a 9 percent sales tax. Mr. Shivers favored the bill, Bullock said.

Appeal Made For Polio Funds Here

An appeal to people of Mitchell County for emergency polio funds is being sent out this week by A. L. McSpadden, chairman of Mitchell County Chapter. Mitchell County has had only four cases of polio this year, but there are four old cases that still require attention.

In his appeal for funds, Mr. McSpadden points out that the National Foundation in 1950 and 1951, when there were several cases of polio in the county, a total of $11,700 and reminds the people of the county that the National Foundation needs more funds badly at this time to combat the rapidly increasing polio.

To date this year 9,179 cases of polio have developed in the U. S. which is almost 2,000 cases more than the yearly average over a period of five years.

This increase in the number of cases has drained the National Foundation of funds.

Questions and Answers
Q A veteran friend of mine forgot to pay his GI insurance premium when it was due, and he died during the 31-day grace period. Will his beneficiaries receive his insurance proceeds, or are they out of luck?
A. Inasmuch as the grace period had not expired, his beneficiaries will receive the insurance proceeds, minus the unpaid premium.

Q I am enrolled in a two-year business course under the Korean GI Bill. I understand I am entitled to 30 days' absence a year. If I don't use up all my absences the first year, can I carry over the rest to use in the second year?
A. No. Unused absences may not be carried over from one year to the next. During your second year you still will be allowed no more than 30 days' absence—regardless of how many days you used up your first year.

Q I bought a house with a GI loan. Recently my house was completely gutted by fire. Would it be possible to have my GI loan rights restored, so that I can buy another house?
A. Yes. It is possible, under the law, to restore your GI loan rights. However, VA must be free from liability on the original loan. Your nearest VA office can provide you with all the details.

Q I have just been separated from service, and I intend to apply for Korean GI term insurance. What's my deadline?
A. You must apply, and pay your first premium, within 120 days after the date of your separation. Remember, 120 days is not always four calendar months, so be sure you apply within the 120-day period.

$1 Buys A Lot From Soil Testing Lab

College Station, August 23. Getting the most production from every acre on the farm is just good business.

To do this, says M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist, more information is needed than can be gleaned from actually working the soil and watching crops grow on it. The chemical laboratory with its test tubes and machines and expert technicians is needed to get information which can be used by the farmer to increase yields and the returns from farming.

The basis for soil building, says the chemist, should be a soil testing program. Fields on which winter pastures and legumes will soon be planted should be tested now. Thornton points out that several days are required to complete the laboratory work on the soil samples, to analyze the results and write up the recommended practices and get them back to the farmer for his use.

For the soil testing dollar, here's what you get, an analysis showing the amount of organic matter in the soil; nitrogen (computed); soil reaction; available phosphoric acid; available potash; available lime and soluble salts. Thornton's recommendations will cover such items as the type and amount of fertilizers needed for particular crops and cropping practices.

Since the laboratory commenced operations in the fall of 1950, the volume of samples submitted for testing has steadily increased. Last year 10,497 samples were handled by the laboratory. Three other such facilities have been established in the state to speed-up the program and to get the laboratories closer to the farm.

"It is next to impossible to diagnose some diseases without a laboratory," says Thornton, "and knowing what ails an unproductive soil requires the same study." For the soil's sake get it tested. Then follow the prescription offered for its improvement.

Irrigation Meeting Attracts Crowd

The irrigation planning meeting sponsored by the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District attracted people from many walks of life. About eighty farmers, businessmen, ranchers, and others met on the irrigated cotton acreage of Felix Martin
to observe Soil Conservation Service technicians take data on Martin's sprinkler system. Lee
Williamson, Soil Conservation Service engineer from Big Spring, used the information taken to present possibilities for carrying out a conservation irrigation plan. The flow from the well was first measured with a Sparling flow meter recently purchased by the District. Individual sprinklers were checked for pressure and flow in gallons per minute.

Williamson then told the group how to plan an irrigation system using the water-holding capacity of the soil and the amount of water which is available as a base to start from. It was pointed out that heavy soils would require longer sets while watering but would not have to be watered as often as sandy soils. Early season crops will require less water per day than later on because of small size
and cooler temperatures.
The necessity of high per acre yields was stressed repeatedly. Williamson said that if you watered cotton as much as it needed during a dry year that you would probably spend from eighty to one hundred dollars per acre on the crop. Individual farmers bore that out from experience. A common mistake on using sprinkler irrigation is to let the crop suffer too long between waterings. Williamson said that if growth stops for longer than about five days that the next watering will cause the cotton to throw off some of its fruit.

Prayer Meeting 7:00 p. m.

The group was told the effect of wind on sprinkler type irrigation. A good job of watering can be done when the wind is below 10 miles per hour. A wind 10 to 15 miles per hour decreases efficiency somewhat, and when the wind exceeds 15 miles per hour you might as well shut it off. Something you can do to cut down on water loss in high winds is to decrease pressure in the line—this causes a larger drop size, which doesn't blow and evaporate as badly. But you will have to cut down on distance between sets since the water won't be thrown as far.
Williamson said that seventy percent efficiency is about what sprinkler systems run under ordinary operating conditions.
W. A. "Willie" Taylor, Chairman of the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District Board, was pleased with the turnout and said he thought the people had gotten something out of the meeting.

Candidate For

TAX ASSESSOR-COLLECTOR

Answer These - Mr. Shivers

The People of Texas Deserve a Direct Answer to the Following Questions:

1. Didn't you vote for the present ceiling on OLD AGE PENSIONS? Have Old Age Pensions been raised any from State Funds since you became Governor?

2. Even though you have been Governor over five and one-half years, why are patients still sleeping on floors in the hall of our State Mental Hospitals? Why does Texas rate 47th in the care of T. B. Patients?

3. During your administration, has not Texas dropped from 24th to 38th in Public Education? Why have over 1,000 of our public school teachers left their jobs to seek employment in other fields to make a decent living?

4. Is it true that you made $150,000.00 on a land deal in the Rio Grande Valley without spending one red cent of your money? Is it not true that hundreds of Veterans and others were swindled out of their money in this same land fraud?

5. Did you not support the Graham Bill, 1951, which would have abolished a $15 Million Farm-to-Market Road Appropriation?

6. Why is it that Texas has more licensed insurance companies (some 1800) than all the other 47 States put together? Isn't it a known fact that at least seventeen insurance companies have failed in the last 17 months?

7. As a State Senator did you not vote for every horse race gambling bill in Texas that was brought before the Senate?

8. Why is it, after five and a half long years you invaded Duval County while on the other hand messes, as in Galveston County, continued unhampered by the State's Texas Rangers? Is it also not true that you carried practically every County in the Valley by as much as a 3 and 4 to 1 majority?

9. What are Texas citizens to believe about our Tidelands? U. S. Attorney General Brownell says Texas' limit is only three miles, yet you proclaim you saved Texas Tidelands through an unholy alliance with the Republicans.

10. Isn't it true that you and your family own controlling interests in the Mission Publishing Company which was awarded State printing contracts in clear violation of our State Constitution? Isn't it also true that State printing was ordered from this firm as late as June, 1954?

11. Isn't it true that you have been talking out of both sides-of-your-mouth on the Segregation Problem? That while you told the people in East Texas you were against non-segregation, your children have been attending a non-segregated school in Austin for over 3 years.

12. Isn't it true, Mr. Shivers, that dope and narcotics traffic has increased more under your administration than any former Governor, and that it took Federal Narcotic Agents to break-up and expose this terrible mess?

Your Answer To These Questions Is Awaited By All Texans

Mitchell County Soil Conservation News

Deferred Grazing

Key to More Grazing

Some people think that holding what you have in the way of grass on range land during drouth years is doing mighty well, but L. S. "Bunkie" Girvin, cooperator with the Mitchell County Soil Conservation District, goes one better. He has made progress in getting more grass on his range land south of Lorraine despite four years of dry weather.

If you could see "Bunkie's" pasture, you might say that he is letting most of his grass go to waste, but actually this grass is working for him. By not grazing it during late spring and summer, the grass is getting a firmer hold on the land. The root system is growing deeper into the soil to utilize deep moisture and fertility; a good seed crop is being produced to bring back areas where good grasses had ceased to grow and some litter is being produced to protect the surface from erosion and packing, which is a serious problem in the district.

"Bunkie" says that during the time range land is being rested, one cow in the rested area is one too many. Cattle are selective in their grazing habits, and it just so happens that they like to eat the best grasses first. When they are allowed to graze all year long, the plants never have a chance to reseed themselves and develop a deep root system.

While his pastures get a rest, "Bunkie" has been using sudan and other supplemental pastures whenever possible. Not content with the speed of his grass recovery, "Bunkie" has three acres of sideoats grama grass under irrigation which he plans to use for seed production purposes.

Some of the good grasses which were found growing out in the pasture, not under brush and trees, were: Switchgrass, Texas wintergrass, Virginia wildrye, vine mesquite, blue grama, sideoats grama, black grama, Buffalograss, Arizona cottontop, hooded windmill grass and Plains brome. Less desirable grasses in the area were hairy triodia, tabosa, and sand dropped.

Charles Murphy, range technician with the Soil Conservation Service, says that when the poorer grasses are in such a minority that the range land is getting in a healthy condition.

"Bunkie" is a busy person with a lot of irrigated land to take care of in addition to his ranching activities. But when a person gets so busy that he doesn't have time to rest his pastures, that is one instance where haste makes waste. He started deferring some of his pastures for short periods as far back as 1940 and is sold on the accomplishments by doing so.
