ILLINOIS COURT RULES ON SMALL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9. (AP)—Reaffirming its previous decision, the supreme court of Illinois today denied a rehearing and directed Governor Les Small to account for $1,000,000 interest money alleged withheld by him while state treasurer in 1917 and 1918. It was a divided decision, two justices repeating their original decision. The court held in its previous decision that Governor Small, the late Senator E. C. Curtis and V. C. Curtis withdrew more than $30,000,000 from the state treasury for investments and investments in packers notes, and that none of the resulting interest money was paid into the treasury.

Today's court action exhausts the Governor's alternative. He must accede. It ends another phase of his troubles as Illinois' chief executive. In 1921 and 1922 he was indicted, tried and acquitted of a criminal conspiracy based on the same evidence as used in a suit for an accounting.

Governor Small's continued incumbency as chief executive and his right of appeal to the United States Supreme court were questions brought to the fore by the decision. Anti-administration leaders have contended that he is ineligible to hold office under the state constitution.

Governor Small and his advisers evidently expected an adverse decision. Their organization already started to raise a fund by public subscription to relieve the governor of a personal accounting, the necessity for which he had to "political persecution."

OUT-OF-TOWN MEN WILL BRING TOTAL TO 150 IS ESTIMATE

One hundred and fifty merchants are expected to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Retail Merchants association which will be held tonight in the basement of the Leader Building beginning at seven o'clock, according to estimates of P. D. Sherrod, head of the committee who made reservations for the banquet a few days ago.

Edgar H. Kemp of San Antonio, field representative of the Retail Merchants association of Texas, arrived here late Monday for the meeting and will be the principal speaker for the evening.

Representatives Coming. Representatives of the Retail Merchants association of Crosbyton, Falls, Lorenzo, Idalou, Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Amaral, Plainview, Tulla, Lockney, Floydada and other South Plains towns will be in attendance at the meeting as guests of Lubbock merchants.

The annual election of officers and other business will be transacted in addition to a number of interesting and valuable addresses from both local and out-of-town speakers.

The meeting tonight will be the biggest meeting the local association has ever held, according to J. W. Gamel, president of the association, and a record attendance is expected.

Anyone who has not yet made his reservation for the banquet can do so by calling 918, according to P. L. Sherrod, head of the committee in charge of the banquet or he may come about to the banquet at seven o'clock and secure his ticket at the door.

Is Important Organization. The Retail Merchants association in Lubbock has taken on a more important aspect during the past several months with the majority of the business men of the city recognizing its need to the community. It is the plan of the organization to increase its efficiency and usefulness as it grows and the meeting tonight is regarded as one of the first steps toward a bigger and better retailers association here.

The organization, after its start several years ago, had a rocky road to travel but those in charge now believe that with the support manifested towards it it is now well launched on the highroad to success.

CUMMINS STARTS ENDURANCE TEST

Jim Cummins, owner and manager of the Cummins Battery and Electric company of this city, has set out to shatter the mark of "Daredevil" Lockwood that was established here more than a year ago when Lockwood drove an automobile for one hundred miles continuously. Cummins pulled out from the display rooms of the Kuykendall Chevrolet company here Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock locked to the steering wheel of a Chevrolet "ouster" where he will attempt to remain for 120 hours of continuous driving.

Cummins is driving a standard stock car roadster from the floor of Mr. Kuykendall's salesroom, which has been fitted up with appropriate signs to fit the occasion. He drove out of the salesroom promptly at 10 o'clock this morning on a run that will not only be a strain on his physical make-up, but an accurate test of the durability of the Chevrolet. The local dealer as well as factory representatives who are interested in the case say that the car is more than equal to the task.

Has Physical Examination. Cummins underwent a physical examination late Monday, and was pronounced in good condition for the trip.

The car is equipped with 29x40 Federal balloon tires furnished by the J. P. Frye Rubber company, of this city, and according to Mr. Richards the tires will measure up to the test, even though it is exceptionally trying. Vestol Motor oil is being used for the trip.

Cummins spent the greater part of the day in and near Lubbock, but before the journey ends will visit the greater part of Lubbock's trade territory. Cummins is a World War veteran, is 29 years old, and weighs 193 pounds.

Various kinds of expressions have been heard here as to whether or not he will be able physically to complete the 120 hours run, some offering the assertion that it is impossible due mainly to the fact the Cummins has never, before driven for any great length of time without rest intervals. Others declare that his hardy constitution and physical condition will pull him through most any kind of ordeal of this nature.

CONSOLIDATION OF MANY LINES TO REMAKE RAILROAD MAP WITH TWELVE GREAT SYSTEMS IN U. S.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE WELL ADVANCED TO PUT ICC PLANS IN WORKING ORDER; SEVERAL MERGERS HAVE ALREADY BEEN EFFECTED

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Recent adoption of plans to fuse the St. Louis-San Francisco and Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railways into a single system is another step toward discarding of the grouping proposals of the interstate commerce commission's consolidation plan which will remake the country's railroad map.

Negotiations are well advanced for combining more than a hundred leading lines into a dozen or more great systems, most of which will have properties valued in excess of a billion dollars and operate between 10,000 and 20,000 miles of track. Their completion awaits largely the formation of a definite congressional policy and the decision of the commission on the proposed $1,500,000,000 Nickel Plate unification.

Plans Are Worked Out. Plans have been quietly worked out which recognize financial, geographical relations and the normal flow of traffic. In some parts of the United States, such as the Southwest, the railroads have undergone a considerable shifting of control. In the North, west and in the middle West, a new trend toward linking the so-called "Journal News Reel" is apparent. William Mitchell says new air investigation is slap at Patrick... Delaware negro assaulter sentenced to die... Catholics will not enter into pro-lab dispute... Wichita Falls ball club looks good on paper... Governor Len Small, of Illinois, must account for fund shortage... Mexican barkeep jailed in death of four people... Coolidge refuses to intervene in coal strike... Retail merchants to meet here tonight... Texas Textbook war begins... Scranton police hold off 600 striking miners with shotguns... Tom Connally, Abilene representative, scores President Coolidge... Charles Penit will give up his Illinois, one dead, one dying and one wounded body.

OMAHA, Neb.—If a man would dress to enjoy the greatest health, he should harken back to the revolutionary period of American history, when breeches, silk stockings and low cut shirts were in vogue. This is the opinion of Dr. V. E. Levine of Creighton University who stresses the aid of good sunlight on the body.

Pushes Dance

Miss Bina West of Port Huron, Mich., supreme commander of the Women's Benefit Association, has instructed each of the 2500 local bodies in the organization to form classes for the teaching of the old-fashioned dances such as Henry Ford dances. ## STATE TEXTBOOK WAR IS STARTED

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 9.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's state textbook commission today ratified a $500,000 book contract with the American Book company, which Attorney General Dan Moody has held in irregular.

Moody's disapproval of the contract was based on alleged failure of the company to present with their bid an anti-trust affidavit signed by the secretary of the company. The affidavit was delivered by airplane, and according to Moody was delivered after the bid had been presented.

Governor Ferguson's husband, James E. Ferguson, vigorously opposed S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, who had opposed the contract. Ferguson challenged him to show any irregularities in the contract and Marrs replied that the company "had handled the contract in a high-handed way and had altered certain sections of the contract form approved by the attorney general."

Controversy Old One. The book controversy has been developing since as companion to the highway controversy which also has set the Ferguson and Moody against each other. Marrs has announced he would follow Moody's advice and would not certify the American Co.'s books covered by this contract until so advised by Moody.

COOLIDGE TELLS SENATE HE WILL NOT END STRIKE

SOLONS FINALLY APPEAL TO EXECUTIVE BUT TO NO SUCCESS

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—President Coolidge was asked today by the senate to intercede in the anthracite controversy.

After having twice refused to consider such a step, the senate succumbed to the growing pressure for action and adopted a resolution by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, asking the chief executive to call operators and miners into conference at the White House.

As adopted, however, the resolution was amended so as to leave to the President to decide when the conference will be called.

Coolidge Says "No." The senate appealed to President Coolidge today to seek a solution of the anthracite controversy, but the request was answered almost immediately by a reiteration at the White House of the President's policy of non-interference.

The vote for adoption was 41 to 28. On last Friday the senate refused, 41 to 28, to take up the proposal and on the following day it repeated the refusal 41 to 28.

Twenty-six republicans, twenty-seven democrats, and the one farmer-labor senator voted for the resolution today, while 19 republicans and two democrats voted against it.

President "Not Convinced." The senate's action, it was said officially, had not convinced Mr. Coolidge that there was any change in conditions which would justify a change in his policy.

He does not consider the senate's advice in any way binding upon the federal government. He also feels that passage of the coal resolution was more or less necessary in order to save the time of the senate and permit it to center attention on the pending tax bill. The author of the measure, Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, had given notice he would return to PAGE 8, COL. 1, PLEASE

SPUDDERS WILL PUT UP STAUNCH FIGHT FOR TEXAS FLAG; MANAGER BRAINARD HAS PROMISING ARRAY

If "facts on paper" have anything to do with it the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league should give the Fort Worth Panthers a good run for their money in the 1926 Texas league derby.

At least that is the view of Manager Fred Brainard, of the Spudders, who was in Lubbock yesterday. And, looking over the list of hirings which will chase the agents in the oil metropolis and even the most ardent anti-Spudders will have to admit that Brainard has a good team lined up ready to enter the fray.

Veterans Are Busy. Twenty-three seasoned athletes, including three catchers, eight pitchers, five outfielders and seven infielders, are awaiting the call to training camp which Brainard will sound on March 5th, and supporting these professional men of the diamond is an array of youthful talent privates in which will endeavor to break into Class A company for the first time.

Behind the log the Spudders have Johnny Lapan, a recent purchase from New Orleans, a right-handed hitter, and the veteran Wray Query, who hits from the near side of the plate. Jimmy Knox, the third baseman of the pads, is a youngster from Birmingham, who, Brainard told the Journal yesterday, will probably be shipped to Beaumont before the season starts.

Infielders Are Many. The hard hitting Royce (Mule) Waahburn, who was with San Antonio last year and who, as a member of the Tulsa club of the Western league was acknowledged as one of the kings of sweat of the minors, will probably play first base, with young Holloway, formerly with Cleveland and last year with Tyler, contesting him for the post. Joe Turgeon or Brainard will be at second and both of these men are acknowledged stars. Turgeon is well known to Texas league fans and Manager Brainard, formerly with the New York Giants, and Newark and Baltimore in the International league, hung up a 268 average in the International league last year after reporting late.

Toney DeFate. "The Wallopping Wop," a recent shortstop purchase, will fight out the shortstop position with Diel and a youth by the name of Gorman will play third base unless Brainard, himself, holds down the hot corner. T he Wallopping Wop is little known in the Texas circuit but in the Western league for years he has been rated as one of the heaviest hitters and best fielders in the circuit.

Has Strong Outfield. Fitzgerald, who last year was with the Cubs; Lyman Lamb, formerly manager of the Tulsa Western league club and last year with Portland on the Coast; Ping Bodie, from San Moines and the running mate of Sam Langford last year, and two rookies, Metzler and Trexler, will fight out the outfield posts. In this department Brainard has the making of a larruping good outfield. Lamb, especially, is figured as one of the best outfielders in the minors. He is fast, a fine fielder, has a wonderful throwing arm and hits in the neighborhood of 250 every year. While a member of the Tulsa team in 1924 he broke the record for two base hits in one season, clouting out 191 doubles while hanging up a hitting average of .361. He is aggressive, almost too much of a fighter. In fact, Lamb should give the best in the league a run for their money. Metzler, while just a youth, comes highly touted by William McCarty, president of the Pacific coast league.

Pitchers Look Promising. Jera Winters, formerly of the Giants; Stu Sutherland, ex-Detroit; Roberts, from Brooklyn; Rip Wheeler, Dick Morgan and Carl Williams, right handers, and Martin and Passoth, wrong arms, will be the material from which the hurling corps is selected, although Brainard believes that a rookie or two may get the call over one or two of the veterans.

"We mean to start out after the flag," Manager Brainard told the Journal. "And while I don't promise Wichita Falls a flag, I believe we'll finish one, two, three."

The Spudders will train in Wichita Falls and have a strong line-up of exhibition games. Manager Brainard, while coming from the Baltimore club where he cavorted as a player at second base, is not new to the managerial job, having piloted the Newark club of the same circuit for two seasons. He makes his home in Artesia, New Mexico, and broke into organized baseball in 1913 with the Austin club of the Texas league. Since that time he has been in the National league, the American association, and the International circuit.

He passed through Lubbock yesterday, stopping to talk terms to Sled Allen, whom he is trying to secure as a coach for spring training season.

EDDIE COLLINS ONE DIAMOND MANAGER WHO HAS NO DEFINITE BAN ON GOLF

Soon we will have with us the annual dispute as to whether ball players should mix golf with the diamond pastime.

It is going to be a bigger problem than ever this spring because of the many players who are wintering either in Florida or California.

Climate, plus the real estate lure and the chance of picking up some soft money playing baseball, was the magnet that attracted many players to Florida. All the big real estate firms have teams.

I feel that I am very conservative in saying that at least 100 ball players from the majors are wintering in Florida. At least 50 of those players are strong for golf.

Once upon a time a ball player who donned knickers at the training camp would immediately lose caste. Now the plus fours and sixes are the favorite mode of dress with the athletes.

While many of the managers permit golf as a part of the spring training, several have taken a drastic stand in the matter and ruled it out of the moment spring practice begins.

ANNUAL DISPUTE Manager John McGraw of the Giants has definite views on the subject. He wants a ball club to talk baseball when it is doing its spring training, not golf and automobile.

During my many trips to the spring training camps, it has been my observation that the New York Giants work harder than any other ball club. McGraw's teams train and you can always bank on them being in condition when the season starts.

A good many clubs have only one practice session daily. McGraw still sticks to two and often with an exhibition game on for the afternoon puts his team through a workout in the morning.

There isn't much time to play golf at the training camp of the Giants. In addition the players, after two workouts, are usually too tired to take a whirl at even nine holes.

DRASTIC RULES It is a rather interesting fact that practically every major league manager likes to play golf as a diversion—a good way to forget his baseball woes.

Most ball players become quite proficient at the game. There are any number of players who are always in the eighties. All get great distance from the tee; most of them are weak at the short game.

Pitcher Dutch Leonard and First Baseman Johnny McInnis are two players who often break into the seventies.

As I understand it Eddie Collins is about the only big league manager who doesn't put an absolute ban on golf during the summer. He leaves it up to his players to use proper judgment as to when they should and shouldn't play.

The chief objection to golf does not lie in injurious effects from swinging the club but simply that it takes much of the player's reserve energy that is often needed on a hot day.

SPUDDERS MAY BE MATCHED WITH HUBBERS

If it can be arranged at all the Wichita Falls team of the Texas league will be brought to Lubbock for a spring practice game with the champion Hubbers, Fred Brainard, manager of the Texas league club, told the Daily Journal yesterday while in the city conferring with Manager Sled Allen.

Thirteen spring training games, with big league and Class AA clubs have already been signed but the Spudder boss hopes to come out into West Texas and give the people here a chance to see what he thinks is the best ball club in the Lone Star loop.

It is the plan to come from Wichita Falls to Amarillo, for a game with the Gassers, and on to Lubbock for the tilt here, Brainard stated. Manager Allen is delighted with the idea and will do everything in his power to line up the game. Advances reaching here from Amarillo indicate that arrangements will be completed for the game there in the near future and if such is the case the Spudders are certain to show their wares in Lubbock.

"Wichita Falls is making a strong bid for the support of West Texas and we hope to see the fans in this country over in our ball park many days during the summer," Brainard told the Daily Journal. "We're not promising to win a flag, but we will guarantee to show West Texans a fighting, hard hitting sure fielding aggregation," he said.

MOSCOW, Russia, Feb. 9. Finger print examinations made at the morgue by the criminal authorities confirmed this fact.

YOU'LL say so when you discover what a perfect peach of a home-rolled cigarette P. A. makes. Pull up a chair and pull down your vest and get an earful of this sweet music about a better cigarette tobacco. We're talking about Prince Albert, you bet.

First off, P. A. rolls easier. It's crimp-cut and stays put. All of it goes into the papers... every fragrant, nut-brown grain... not into your lap or all over the floor. It burns better for the same reason. Doesn't go out as soon as you lay it down.

And you won't lay it down often when you discover that wonderful taste of real tobacco. Cool, Fragrant, Friendly. The Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch positive-ly. Get a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag today and you've got the best there is for cigarettes.

This goes for pipes too. If you've envied the fellows who have found pipe-contentment, just see what a wonderful difference P. A. makes in the bowl of a jimmy-pipe. Pipe or cigarette, your tobacco troubles are over when you sign up with Prince Albert.

JOB FOR A GENIUS

Why does underwear shrink? and how may the shrinking be prevented? are questions to be investigated by the department of commerce. Let scoffers scoff and triflers trifle, as they are doing. Here is a subject worthy of the genius of Secretary Hoover. If it does not transcend it equals in importance that other one which he solved during the war, to wit: how shall a pinch of sugar be made to sweeten that in which three spoonfuls customarily were used? The answer was simple. It was, stir harder. Shortage was overcome in a jiffy, though the price soared. Still an economic triumph was scored and the war was won. Why should any doubt that the disposition of underwear to shrink may be corrected as easily.

A mere layman might say and not to be far from the truth, that underwear shrinks because the laundries and laundresses slight their work. But laundries and laundresses are not amenable to discipline and are wholly deaf to reason. So the problem is a scientific one, not one of labor. And upon the correct solution of it depends far more than the physical mental stability, important as these comfort of human beings and their are. The laundries must be beaten at the same of shrinking their patrons garments by producing garments that will not shrink. And when that is done there will be possible a huge saving of goods into the manufacture of underwear.

If underwear did not shrink a man could buy his size with confidence that he would not have to hand it down to the baby when it came out of the wash. Unless one's new union suit hangs like a mouse uniform it will be even tighter than his skin after being laundered. The slack must be taken out of the source of supply. That's what Mr. Hoover means to do.

ART AND BILLBOARDS

An exhibition in this country of British posters of notable excellence inspired an American artist to observe through the press, that "billboards are the art gallery of the man-in-the-street and that those who visit the postally lighted, deeply carpeted art shrines, there to speak in hushed tones of much-lauded paintings, may, and often do, fare worse than the man whose only art gallery is the advertising poster."

There has been much talk about billboard advertising and their desecration of scenery along the highways, but in all this discussion it has seldom if ever been granted that not all of these roadside lithographs are of the same artistic quality. Some of them are had, irrespective of how much of the scenery they obscure, while others in themselves are real works of art calculated to improve the taste of the passerby.

This artistic defender of the billboard appeals to the public to judge the posters by their merit as works of art, instead of railing at them indiscriminately. Public appreciation of the meritorious, he believes, would eventually exterminate those that are discordant with the landscape and obtain universal adoption of the artistic poster which indirectly suggests the product it advertises.

But even the most artistic of posters should not hide, or divert attention from the natural charms of the landscape. Let the advertiser choose wisely the artist and site for his poster.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

PROHIBITION IS BAD FOR U. S. BUREAU

By Charles P. Stewart, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON—If you want to prove conclusively that prohibition's a bad thing, go to the "bottle division" of the navy hydrographic office. There they'll furnish you with an argument that Wayne R. Wheeler himself will find it hard to combat.

Among other things the hydrographic office is interested in ocean currents. One of its ways of studying them is by getting marines to toss bottles overboard at sea and leaving 'em to drift. A fair share are picked up later and turned into the "bottle division," which notes how far they've traveled, in what direction and how fast, and draws its conclusions accordingly.

The division provides blanks to be enclosed in these bottles filled out with the time of their abandonment, the position of the ships from which they're cast and the time and position of their recovery.

The hydrographic office isn't particular as to the nationality of the navigators to whom it entrusts its blanks—its all in the interest of science, anyway—but being an American hydrographic office, naturally it depends mainly on American ships—merchant ships, warships, tramps, liners, all kinds.

And ever since prohibition the hydrographic office complains, there's been a serious shortage of bottles on American craft.

With no bottles to put 'em in, what good are the blanks?

Journal Sabs

One of the most important things for a voter to know in order to be a good citizen is how to discriminate between genuine solicitude for the public welfare and pharisaical pretense. It is generally safe to assume, however, that the greatest promoter in the world will prove to be the worst performer.

Envy is such a sneaking, contemptible sort of thing that nobody ever admits to it.

The less a man has to say the longer it seems to take him to say it.

A friend is anybody who is fool enough to lend you money the second time when you failed to pay the first time. An enemy is a person whom you have given something for nothing, and who thinks you are a stunk because you refuse to give him more on the same terms.

A real skeptic is one who denies the relations of cause and effect.

Chuckle Awhile

Amazing. From Liverpool Express. A husband telephoned to say that he could not get home to dinner. Late as it was it would be much later before he had finished his business.

"You poor dear," answered his wife sympathetically. "I wonder you can get anything done at all with that jazz band playing in your office."

In Boomland. From Life. Visitor—I understand you own this lot.

Floridian—I did for ten minutes this morning.

Suspicious. From Answers, London. Sutor—Sir, I would like to marry your daughter.

Father—I absolutely forbid you to do so.

Sutor (surprised)—Why, what's the matter with her?

Oil Weekly. A young man with a pretty but flirtatious fiancée wrote to a supposed rival:

"I've been told that you have been kissing my girl. Come to my office at 11 o'clock Saturday. I want to have this matter out."

The rival answered: "I've received a copy of your circular letter and will be present at the meeting."

Mr. Borah's attitude about our foreign relations is that he seems to consider them all poor relations.

The old time music is coming back. Only strange thing is it is coming back under its own name.

They want to revive the square dance, but this movement on foot is almost to sensible to succeed.

The waltz was a good dance. And while doing it you didn't have to wonder how you would get untangled.

Most popular dance steps now seems to be sitting out.

The new dances are good exercise. They seem to develop almost everything, except discretion.

GOOD IDEA

When this new scientific idea of broadcasting heat gets going good, we're going to try to find time to invent a cute little set of receivers for the dear things to wear in lieu of garter flasks. They would be both cunning and comfortable, which are two sure-fire selling arguments.

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, middle-aged business man, expected home by his family to celebrate his son JIMMY'S 27th birthday, is found dead by police in a cheap hotel. A well on the back of his head...

The only clues are a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket from the Paragon Theater in Cleveland.

Jimmy's sister, JANET, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN after the murder and Jimmy goes to Cleveland with DETECTIVE MOONEY, where they trace the ticket stub to a THOMAS FOGARTY.

Jimmy saves MARY LOWELL, a Cleveland girl, from the attentions of two muckers. The next night and Mooney lay a trap for FOGARTY. They follow him to his hotel room.

Later he and Mooney confront Fogarty, who gives a plausible alibi and says he never used the theater ticket, but gave it to a woman named Olga Maynard.

He is with Mary in a cabaret when he hears a man pronounce the name of Olga Maynard.

She breaks down under his questions and faints. He is lifting her into a taxi when Mary, who is with another man, sees him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

uncommonly slender from his waist down. There was something familiar looking about him. Jimmy knew he had seen him before.

A half smile played about his lips as he contemplated Jimmy. He seemed amused. It irritated Jimmy. He fell like asking to be let in on the joke.

He resented being started at like a monkey in a zoo. He was even annoyed by the other's fine grooming and obviously expensive attire.

They went in the office together, and Jimmy realized where he had seen him. It was the man who had been with Mary last night when he had been helping Olga Maynard into the taxi.

The man opened the door of the chief clerk's office and walked in, leaving it open. Jimmy could see Mary smile at his greeting. They talked and Mary laughed heartily at something he was saying. Jimmy wondered whether they were laughing at the recollection of the spectacle he and Olga Maynard must have made in front of the hotel.

"Who is that, Mac?" he asked the young fellow at the next desk.

"Who? Oh, that's Church—Sam Church. He's one of the attorneys for the Q. and R. Handles a lot of death and accident claims. Comes in here quite a lot and makes it a point to give a little dictation to the boss stenographer. I think he's pretty sweet on her myself."

"I see—thanks."

"As a matter of fact," Mac continued, "I have a sneaking suspicion that Miss Lowell doesn't exactly hate Sam Church. Good looking dog. Built like a bull in the upper story—chest and shoulders—and like a greyhound below. Got a lot of money, too. I hear that's all you need to get along in this world, Rand—money. It'll buy anything."

"You think, Mac," Jimmy asked, "that money can buy love?"

Mac was slow in answering. "Rand," he said, "it'll buy anything. There's nothing in this sentimental love in a cottage stuff. I know. I was engaged once. Then war came along and I went away, with her crying and everybody promising wonderful things for the boys when we came back."

He cursed. "And then what happened? My girl married one of these fat profiteers that stayed safe at home and made a pile of money while they were digging machine gun bullets out of me in France."

"That's," he said, "Give me a million and I'll have everything I want. And if I overstep the law I can buy myself off. John Law doesn't bother the guy with dough. But he makes us poor fish stew."

"Mac," said Jimmy, "I think you're wrong. I hope you're wrong. He bent over his desk as Church came out of Mary's office, talking in low tones to the chief clerk, Hilton. The same amused smile was playing over his features as he passed Jimmy and walked out of the main office door.

"Mary—" he stood in front of the water cooler, making a pretense of drinking, and blocking her path.

"Mary, I know it looked rotten. Just give me a chance to explain."

"Mr. Rand—please!" She was looking through him rather than at him, her dark blue eyes cold as ice.

"Let me explain, Mary—after five o'clock. Give me a chance," he pleaded.

"It is not necessary, Mr. Rand. I am able to understand what I see without the aid of an interpreter."

She stepped past him and was gone. He breathed again that subtle fragrance of her hair, as he had done the night he danced with her. He stood staring after her retreating figure with hunger in his eyes.

Shortly before five o'clock Hilton called him into his private office and told him he was discharged.

"We're giving you a week's salary instead of the customary two weeks that we allow our discharged employees. Considering the short length of your stay here, I think that is fair—sharp pointed nose. He was broad-shouldered and bulky of chest, but

Jimmy took it calmly, without somuch as raising an eyebrow. "Anything wrong with my work?" he asked. "I at least did my best while I was here."

"No, Rand, not a thing. In fact I thought you were doing very well. It's just a case of cutting expenses, and, as you're the last man to be taken on you're naturally the first to go. Sorry."

Jimmy felt like saying: "You're lying, Mr. Hilton. As soon as I go you'll hire someone in my place. I know why I'm fired. Mary Lowell did it. She had me hired and she had me fired."

Instead, he turned silently and walked out of Hilton's office back to his desk.

"Mac," he said, "I'm fired."

Mac said nothing, but gazed absently toward Hilton's office and clicked his pen against his teeth.

"Mac," said Jimmy, "a little later, 'blast them all. Do you hear?'"

He was clearing his desk when Mac's hand fell on his shoulder. He could feel the grip gradually tighten until the flesh ached under the pressure of Mac's fingers.

Mac stood like that for some time. Then he turned silently and hobbled away. His bullet-shattered leg was stiff as a ramrod from ankle to hip.

Inside the chief clerk's office, Mr. Hilton was dictating to his secretary.

"A memorandum to the cashier, Miss Lowell, to the effect that Mr. Rand has been taken off the payroll."

Her flying pencil stopped and slipped from her fingers. The short-hand characters in her notebook became suddenly a meaningless array of hieroglyphics.

"Another memorandum, Miss Lowell, to the auditor."

She recovered her pencil. It began again to move swiftly over the page, in rhythm to his voice.

When he had finished dictating she ran to the outer office and looked toward Jimmy's desk. He had left. The office was empty. She gazed for a long time at the door through which he had gone.

Jimmy walked to his room through streets crowded with home-going workers. He walked without seeing, unmindful of the way he was jostled in the crowds.

He said aloud: "Why was I fired? Why was I fired?"

He climbed the stairs to his room and found a telegram on the dresser. Absently he opened the yellow envelope and noticed that it was from Detective Mooney.

He heard the shrill voice of Mrs. King, the landlady, calling up the stairs. "Telephone, Mr. Rand."

He picked up the receiver. "Hello," he said.

A man's voice answered. "Hello—Rand?"

"Yes, this is Rand."

"Rand, this is Lieutenant O'Day at headquarters. Come down here right away."

HOW WET

Protest of numerous members of the clergy in the Episcopal denomination against the report of the temperance society of that church leads to the question as to just what percentage of the membership even believes that the prohibition law has failed in any degree. The report, it is claimed, represents a spoll of 20,000 membs, which under any consideration must be taken as minority and no more representative of the sentiment of the people of the United States than in the Congress of this country where the wet advocates are sadly in the minority.—San Angelo Standard.

In The North, Too

An Alabama newspaper tells of services held in the city of Gadsden to honor the memory of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson.

Which item stirs this thought: what a pity that northern cities don't go out of their way occasionally to honor these two great leaders of the southern Confederacy.

The time will soon come when citizens in the north as well as in the south will realize that Americans, irrespective of section, can be proud that their country has produced a Lee and a Jackson. They are national heroes—not southern heroes only.—Abilene Reporter.

TRAVEL

During the past few years, or since the Great War the tourist traffic of the earth has increased enormously. Prior to that time a person who had crossed the ocean was looked upon as having attained a sort of doctor's degree in the matter of travel and living, but today distinction has dropped to the status of a mere feature or the curricula of good schooling. The old world is not so big anyway. What formerly took a heart of iron, a nerve of steel and the endurance of a Sampson to accomplish in three or four months if one had luck, is now done in almost a few days and with little concern.—Breckenridge American.

In five months South Dakota collected more than $170,000 from cigarette smokers. Why not tax the match borrowers?—Milwaukee Journal.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9. (P)—The cotton market opened easy as Liverpool cables were less favorable than expected, due it was reported, to hedging sales there. First trades showed losses of 9 to 10 points on near months and 3 to 7 points on more distant positions. Prices rallied a few points right after the call but soon eased off again to the opening figures of 19.54c for March, 13.00c for May. The weather in the belt continued fair and favorable for new crops, which was considered bearish. The market quieted down considerably during the morning following the initial selling and prices fluctuated narrowly. Near months eased off a few points additional, making new lows at 19.50c for March, 13.07c for May and 18.42c for July to 10 to 13 points down from yesterday's close. October did not make a new low and at the lowest of the morning was only 3 points down from the previous close. Near noon prices were steadier and 5 to 7 points above the lows on old crop months. October recovered four points to a level one point above yesterday's close. The market rallied moderately during the early afternoon on some covering by short selling to the steady decrease in the New York Stock March trade up to 17.58 or 8 points up from the lows. These lows constituting the high points for the day so far. The market later became quiet, but prices continued to rule near high. The market was probably helped by a steadier stock market.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. (P)—The cotton market was rather unsettled in today's early trading due to increased near month liquidation. No particular news feature was mentioned in explanation of the selling but March was offered freely and sold off to 23.10c before the end of the first hour, while May declined to 19.60c and October to 18.15c, making the general list about 2 to 16 points net lower. At midday March was ruling around 20.11c, or 15 points net lower, while October, selling at 18.15c, was net unchanged.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. (P)—Rallying tendencies were in evidence at opening of today's stock market after the sharp break in the food shares and specialties yesterday. Texas Gulf Sulphur opened 1 1/2 higher at 139, a new peak, and initial gains of a point or more were recorded by Philadelphia Company, Central Leather preferred, Consolidated Cigar, Electric Power and California Packing. Renewed selling of Ward Baking sent that stock down 2.104 points. Fresh weakness cropped out in the so-called "pool merger" shares. California Packing dropping from an early high of 155 to 143, Ward Baking B dropping nearly 8 points to 61 1/2, and Postum Cereal yielding 2 1/2 to 116. New York Cannery, Southern Railway, Sears Roebuck and Foundation also were here. The general list displayed a strong undertone with bullish operations aggressively conducted in a number of specialties. American Snuff soared over 10 points to a new peak at 165, Allied Chemical advanced nearly 4 points and Central Leather preferred 3 before the end of the first half hour. Several others, including American Can, General Electric and United Fruit showed early gains of two points or more. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling held steady at 4.86 1/16 but French francs sank to a new low for the year at 3.68 cents.

GIRL OF 18 TAKES FOURTH HUBBY

By NEA Service.

ELPASO, Tex., Feb. 9.—She's only eighteen years old — She has been married four times and divorced three times. She's now starting in on her fourth husband, and she vows that before they lay her among the daisies she'll set a world's record as a matrimonial quick-change artist. She started in life as Pauline Nixon, out in the great open spaces of Texas where men are plentiful as well as chivalrous. Pauline hardly got a square deal in life, at that. When she was 14 she had gotten enough cards from the bottom of the deck to make many an older person throw the whole hand into the discard and call for a new deal. To begin with, her father and mother were at odds. Each one wanted the sole custody of Pauline. Once the father kidnapped her and immersed her in a convent for three years. Then, motoring in the desert, he ran afoul of bandits and was shot to death. This ended the family row, but not Pauline's troubles.

CRAVED PLEASURE The girl had grown up fast, amid such fast moving home surroundings, and at the age of 13 she became filled with a craving for life—life with its pleasures and gaieties that the older people seemed able to take, but that always were denied her.

So she dropped out of high school abruptly and married a young man named Austin P. Carlton. This at Las Cruces, N. M., in June, 1922. The marriage went on the rocks after nearly two years and Carlton left her. She was granted a divorce.

"I boasted, in jest, that I'd break De Wolf Hopper's marriage record," she says. "Then I got to thinking it over and decided I'd go ahead and do it. And that gave her the idea. 'I'd be in jest, that I'd break De Wolf Hopper's marriage record,' she says. 'Then I got to thinking it over and decided I'd go ahead and do it.'"

A VERY CANNY LASS Now observe the caniness that can descend upon a girl of 16. Twenty-four days after her first divorce she remarried this time a Cisco druggist by name of Loiel B. Stagner. Under the law she should have waited a year after the divorce decree. She didn't. Consequently, when she and ESTAGner tired of one another, four months later, she didn't have them to get married too. Pauline, not being the girl to be All she did was get an annulment on the ground that the marriage was illegal in the first place. A couple of weeks later the girl went to Las Cruces, N. M. with another boy friend, one W. B. Winzinread, to attend her first divorce, so another automatic annulment was in order. Again she was free. But not for long. Outside the courtroom she fell in with a bosom friend of the late lamented Winzinread, a chap named E. L. Page. One thing led to another and nine hours after she and Winzinread had become nothing more than friends she became Page's wife. For the present she still is.

BREAD TRUST IS UP IN COURT FOR TRIAL

EVERY WIFE IS TRUST-BUSTER, ATTORNEY TELLS JUDGE

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The Federal courts were asked by the government today to prevent formation of "a huge combination in the Baking Industry" by the Ward-Interests and others.

In an anti-trust suit filed in Baltimore, the government named General Baking, Continental Baking and United Baking interests as linked with the Ward companies in the enterprise. An injunction was requested.

It was charged in the petition that the companies named already had violated both the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, and it was asked that the defendants not only be prevented from further amalgamation, but required to dissolve any combinations already entered into.

The Ward Food Products corporation, whose recent incorporation in Baltimore led to much criticism, headed the list of those cited by the government as making up the "huge combination."

The other corporations and individuals named as defendants were: The Ward Baking Corporation, The Ward Baking Company, The General Baking Corporation, The Continental Baking Corporation, United Bakesies Corporation and William B. Ward, Howard H. Ward, William Deisinger, Paul H. Helms, J. W. Rumbough, B. E. Patterson, George G. Barber and George B. Smith.

Specifically the petition asked "that the defendants be adjudged to have violated both the Sherman law and the Clayton act."

"That the defendants be enjoined from doing any act in furtherance of the alleged combination conspiracy to attempt to monopolize."

"That the defendants, the Ward Baking Corporation, The Continental Baking Corporation, The General Baking Corporation and the Ward Food Products Corporation, be enjoined from acquiring the whole or any part of the stock, bonds or other evidence of indebtedness of the physical assets of each other."

"That the last named defendants be perpetually enjoined from having any director, officer, agent or employee in common with each other, and from entering into any contract, agreement or understanding with one another, or for a common policy in the sale of their output."

The court was asked further to require the corporation defendants to dispossess themselves of the "stocks, bonds, or other evidence of indebtedness of any company heretofore acquired so that competition may be fully restored in the baking industry."

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Every housewife is a "trust buster," William H. Burton, counsel for the Continental Baking corporation of Baltimore, today told the Federal Trade commission at the opening of that body's investigation into the formation of the alleged "baking trust."

"Any monopoly of the bread business is impossible so long as the housewife can buy all the necessary ingredients at the grocery store and do her own baking," he said. He denied that the formation of the company had lessened competition.

George G. Barber, chairman of the board of directors of the corporation, testified that the firm had been organized Nov. 26, 1924, under the Maryland laws "to buy bakeries and for other purposes named in our charter."

"Bigger and better service" was the slogan of the corporation, declared. The hearing was before John Addison, federal examiner with Colonel Brindley acting as attorney. Colonel Brindley said that the company's answer to the complaint in admitting an absorption of subsidiary corporations had narrowed the issues to two: First, whether the absorbed corporations had been engaged in commerce within the meaning of the law.

"Second, whether the absorption had led to the results outlined in the complaint, violation of the Clayton act."

EPISCOPALIANS TALK DRY LAWS

Majority of Bishops Say Pro Laws Should Be Rigidly Upheld in America

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Bishop William T. Manning, head of the New York Episcopal diocese believes the Volstead act can and ought to be enforced. He avers a crusade by all churches in support of the law.

Of many Sunday sermons against the stand of Dr. James Emery, national secretary of the church temperance society of the Episcopal church, in favor of light wines and beer, Bishop Manning's attracted most attention.

Modification Favored.
At Utica, Bishop Charles Fiske, head of the Central New York diocese, favored modification of the Volstead act.

Bishop Manning questioned the accuracy of the society's report that a preponderance of the 26,000 members favored modification of the Volstead act. He also questioned Dr. Emery's right to speak for the society itself.

"I do not hold that drinking wine or any other intoxicants in moderation in itself is a sin," the Bishop said, "but I believe that the prohibition law properly enforced will be a healthier, stronger and better people."

Is For Enforcement.
"I believe that the law can and ought to be enforced and is being more and more generally observed in the

Two years will be required to mount the remaining 174,000 specimens which have been collected. Effort will be made to mount 50,000 each year until the complete array of 250,000 varieties has been cared for permanently.

Ranchmen, amateur botanists and school teachers from all over the Southwest visit the Pomona herbarium to identify new weeds or native plants. ### DELAWARE TOWN, AFTER TRIAL OF ATTACKER, QUIETS DOWN WHEN HE SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

(By The Associated Press) GEORGETOWN, Del., Feb. 9.—The populace of this county seat, which yesterday caused Delaware national guardsmen to use tear gas during the trial of Harry Butler, 21 year old negro, had quieted down today.

Butler, who assaulted 12 year old Elmore Steinmetz, was convicted and sentenced to be hanged in the jail yard here February 26. The jury deliberated eight minutes.

During the trial 2,000 persons seethed about the barricaded court yard, at times demanding that the authorities surrender the negro and other times charging the barred wire entanglement about the court house in vain efforts to get to the negro. Scores of tear gas bombs, scattered in the throng by state militia on the ground and from the court house roof drove the crowd back.

Men and women inflamed by the story of Butler's attack on the girl, had vowed that justice would be served.

With the speedy conviction passed and the prisoner taken to the New Castle work house near Wilmington, without demonstration. The militia men dismantled the machine guns which had bristled from the court house roof and from sand bags nests erected in the circular park in front. The barred wire barricade was taken down and the guardsmen left.

Butler himself was the only witness for the defense. He admitted having attacked Elmore in her home at Bridgeville, near here January 21 while her parents were gone for the day. He confessed to having beaten her with a board to still her cries and having taken her to a nearby timber plot, where she was found by her parents, semi-conscious and bleeding from skull wounds. She is in a hospital.

LEGION IS HOST TO TROOP 3, LOCAL BOY SCOUTS

The local Post of the American Legion was host to Troop 3 of the Boy Scout organization, which it is sponsoring, at the regular semi-monthly meeting held Monday night in the basement of the Leader building here, and one of the best meetings on record with the Legion Post was enjoyed by approximately 50 ex-service men and about 25 Scouts with their Scoutmaster Oscar Sensabaugh.

Plates at the banquet table, which was a very important feature of the program, were so arranged that each Scout present was aided by a "big brother" ex-service man, and all entered into the meeting with an air of non-formality that is characteristic of Legion meetings.

No little excitement was caused, both among ex-service men and Scouts when awards were made for meritorious work in the ex-service men's poll recently conducted here by members of the scout troop. Manson Allen, son of Skipper Sled, introduced as "Young Skipper," and Johnny Walker, noted southpaw of the troop's baseball nine, drew consolation awards in the campaign, while Sam Henry and Ernest Dodson, who composed the team that turned in the most names during the campaign, drew a scout's camp knife.

The record of ex-service men in this city was increased by approximately 115 names by virtue of the campaign carried on by the boys. Attorney Homer L. Pharr made the presentation speech for the awards.

A communication from the State Department of the Legion concerning government insurance was read by Adjutant Martin Hart, and it was explained that all term policies carried by ex-service men must be converted into policies of acceptable nature as outlined under the compensation Act before July 2, 1926, or the policy would be lost.

Many new faces were seen at the meeting, including a delegation from Shallowater who expressed a desire to affiliate with the local Post as none has been organized at their home town. Others from various portions of the county also were in attendance.

RECORDS GIVEN ON SEWAGE FLOW IN LUBBOCK

City officials of Lubbock now have under way a continuous utility extension program in an effort to keep abreast of the demands being made for these conveniences. Several miles of water and sewer lines have been laid during the past year, with the original program yet not near completion. Then in the face of this, a continuation of the present program must be given authority in the near future due to the several new additions that have been taken into the city limits.

Records in the office of Harry N. Roberts, of the firm of Hawley and Roberts, Consulting Engineer of the City show that taps on the city sewer increased 61 per cent since November 1924, and figured on a basis of this, which is accepted as a very accurate means, the population of the city has increased at the same percentage during the past fourteen months.

To gauge the flow through the sewer system of Lubbock, Mr. Roberts has had installed at the outlet a meter that registers the number of gallons of water that flows through the lines, and according to records in November 1924 and records taken recently, the flow through the lines in proportion to population increase does not vary but a very few gallons.

The average gallon per hour flow over a twenty-four hour period during November 1924 was 24,000, and in January 1925 was 35,900. The total flow for a twenty-four hour period during 1924 was 249,200, and in January this year was 241,900 gallons.

Records show that the average flow over a twenty-four hour period per connection on the lines in 1924 was 252, and in 1925 was 256, shown a slight decrease in the amount of flow through each connection, which according to Mr. Roberts, will gradually decrease as the number of connections increase. This is borne out by records from larger cities.

The peak flow through the lines in gallons per 24 hour period from each connection in 1924 was 490, and in 1925 was 445, corresponding to the increase in the average per hour flow over a 24 hour period. The peak of the flow, records disclose, comes about 9 o'clock A. M. on week days during the summer, and at 10 o'clock A. M. on week days during the winter. On Sunday during the winter, the peak comes at about 11 o'clock A. M. and according to Mr. Roberts, these figures will not vary but very few minutes.

Aged Texas Pastor Lectures Young Men In Minister's Meet

DALLAS, Feb. 9. (AP)—A 94-year-old minister "scolded" his younger brethren at the Dallas Methodist pastors' meeting. Reverend J. H. Reynolds, aged evangelist from Sherman, told the preachers that Methodism was emphasizing organization rather than the saving of souls.

The aged preacher spoke yesterday, as long as he could stand, declaring that he had a right to exhort as long as the younger preachers because he had helped to make many of them what they are.

"When Christ said 'Go ye into all the world' he didn't mean to go to Atlanta, Ga., convention," said Rev. Reynolds. He accused the preachers of forgetting their chief aim of Gospel preaching, and said even "Amen" is almost gone from the services.

CONTINUATION OF HEALTH WORK IS APPROVED

The Public Health Department of Lubbock county is to be continued, it was voted by the commissioners' court in session here late Monday afternoon. The vote was unanimous among members of the court who attended the session, but Commissioner H. D. Talley, of Shaton, was absent.

Miss Kathryn Haquist, State Advisory nurse from the Health Department of Texas, who was instrumental in bringing the work to the attention of the court here when it was instituted last March, and who in the meantime has seen the work put under way in several adjoining counties, appeared before the court with a plea that this department be continued.

Miss Haquist pointed to the record of the Health nurse during the past year as one of the best in the state, despite the fact that other counties have long had the work under way. She explained that the good accomplished is several times worth the cost to the county, and pointed to the state aid, both financially and otherwise that is offered.

In commenting on the action of the court in connection with the work, Commissioner E. N. Wheeler, of Idalou, was high in his praise of accomplishments, but said that like some other county departments, the work is not given the cooperation on the part of the public that should be accorded it.

This can be made one of the most profitable undertakings in the county, it gives proper support by the people. Mr. Wheeler said in urging that advice offered by the health nurse be heeded. He pointed to the fact that the nurse has been especially trained for the work. They are all graduate nurses from commercial or similar institutions, and in addition to this have taken special courses under state supervision preparatory for the work.

Rural Aid Inspector Is In Lubbock County

J. B. McClung, State rural aid inspector, is in Lubbock County this week inspecting the schools which have applied for financial assistance from the State rural aid fund. He and P. F. Brown, county superintendent, visited eight County schools Monday and are visiting other schools through out the week. Mr. McClung is to be here until Saturday, Mr. Brown said.

Twenty-three of the County schools are asking for rural aid, according to Mr. Brown, and while the State cannot grant all that is asked, in all probability, there will be some money granted for use by the schools, he said.

Mr. McClung will make recommendations to the State Department of Education about the amount of money to be granted the Lubbock schools.

PUBLICITY WILL BE ILLEGAL FOR U. S. TAX REPORT

BITTER FIGHT ENDS AND SENATE VOTES TO MUZZLE PRESS

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Repeal of the law allowing publication of the amounts of income tax payments is assured, the senate having approved this provision written into the tax reduction bill by the house.

Before accepting by acclamation the repeal provision the senate rejected, 49 to 32, an amendment by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, proposing to make all income tax returns subject to public inspection. This action disposed of one of the principal points of controversy in the revenue bill and which developed a four day fight, followed by a personal exchange between Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, in charge of the bill.

Senator Couzens charged Senator Smoot had engaged in sharp practices in obtaining an agreement from him on an hour for a vote on the publicity provision and then "tricking him out of promised time in which to speak"—after Senator Couzens had been denied the floor on a point of order raised by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who said he was violating senate rules "by impugning the integrity of a senator." Senator Smoot vigorously denied the accusations.

Later when offered an opportunity to speak, Senator Couzens said he felt "too contemptuous to make any statement which will be within the senate rules."

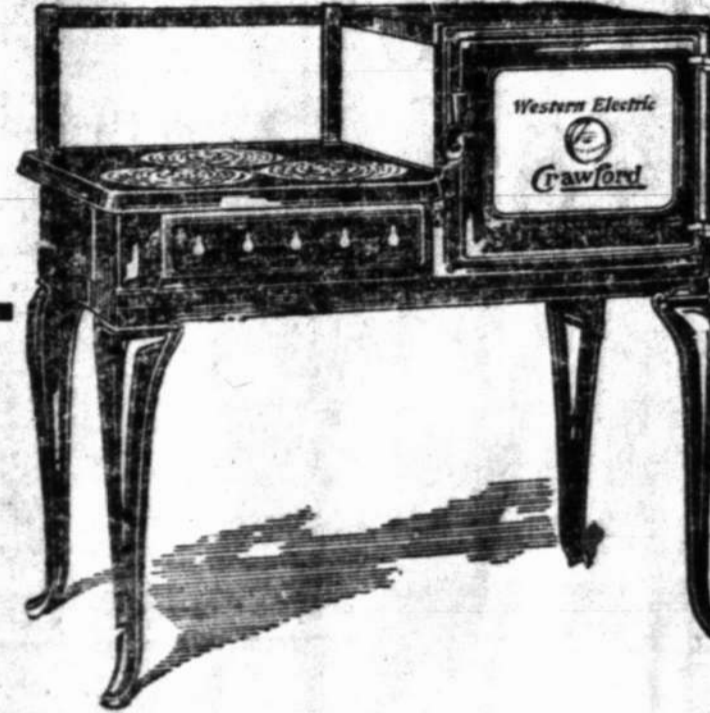

Despite the decision on publicity, the senate still faces more than fifty amendments pending against the tax reduction bill including the proposal of many senators to continue the inheritance and gift taxes which the senate bill would repeal.

ist on a vote on the proposal every day and much time was being consumed in roll calls.

The President was described at the White House as anxious to see a termination of the anthracite suspension, but unable to see any method by which the federal government, if injected into the situation could lend effective assistance toward a solution.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Feb. 9. (AP)—Efforts by representatives from the hard coal producing districts to have the house pass a resolution requesting President Coolidge to intervene in the anthracite strike failed today when a motion to send it to the mining committee was adopted 198 to 85.

STATE TEXTBOOK WAR IS STARTED

Jim Rapa Marrs. Ferguson declared that Marrs was taking the same action as taken previously in text book contracts, which the supreme court ordered valid. Marrs charged that the American Book company had revised the contract and Ferguson said he obtained that statement from D. A. Dreck, acting secretary of state, and that "you know there is not a word of truth in it."

In presenting the reason of the call of the meeting, Ferguson said "I am tired of the innuendos and insinuations that the sub-committee has exceeded its authority in the matter of this contract, which have been emanating from the educational department that somebody had done something crooked somewhere."

The resolution ratifying the action of the sub-committee was submitted by F. W. Chudej of Temple, and Marrs said that Chudej had previously been informed of the reason of the meeting, while he had not.

RAILWAY MERGERS TO BE MADE IN AMERICA

The greatest upheaval in the railroad map of the country has taken place in the Southwest. In the re-arranging of these roads, the Missouri Pacific took the initiative two years ago, building up a system of more than 12,000 miles through the acquisition of the Gulf Coast, International Great Northern and other lines.

Control of the Rock Island and a few weeks ago was acquired by the St. Louis-San Francisco railway, while the Cotton Belt previously was taken by L. F. Loree for amalgamation with the Kansas City Southern and Missouri Kansas and Texas in what will probably be the smallest but most compact of the new roads as finally completed. The two great Southwest-ern systems which reach the Pacific coast—the Atchafalaya-Texas and Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific—apparently are content to expand more slowly although the Southern Pacific more than a year ago annexed the El Paso and Southwestern to its line.

A favorable consolidation law probably would bring about an early unification of several systems in the Northwest. One of these will be headed by the Union Pacific and most likely embraces the Chicago and Northwestern; its subsidiary, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, another will include two and perhaps three of the Hill roads—the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and Burlington.
