

Plans Complete For 2-Day PTA Cooking School

Miss Alice Livermore To Demonstrate Latest Cooking Methods

Plans were completed this week for the Cooking School, to be held at the First Christian Church in Wellington Tuesday and Wednesday, September 18 and 19. The school is given under the auspices of the three P.T.A. organizations of the town.

Miss Alice Livermore, well known home service adviser of the United Gas Corporation, will demonstrate the advantages of both appliances at the school.

Gas, it was stated, is fast becoming a household word among modern homemakers. In countless homes, it is used exclusively for cooking, refrigeration, water heating and automatic house heating. Termed the "perfect fuel," gas is being put to even better advantage with the introduction of modern, labor-saving gas appliances.

Cooking, which no one will question, is a woman's most important job. To make it easier, thousands of women the country over are discarding their old, out-of-date ranges in favor of the new, beautiful streamlined gas ranges. Actual tests have proved women spend less time, yet prepare more delicious meals, in kitchens equipped with the new gas meal planning assistants. Outstanding features of the new models include high and low simmer burners, completely insulated, automatic ovens, high speed broilers, in addition to dozens of other features that go to make cooking easier and more of a joy than ever before.

Of almost equal importance is the preservation of food. As will be shown at the cooking school, the Electrolux Gas Refrigerator performs this task in silent operation. Its silence is attributed to (Continued on Page Twelve)

Grand Chancellor, Knights Of Pythias To Be Here Friday

The Grand Chancellor will be a guest of honor at a luncheon, which is being arranged for noon Friday. Enis Schaded, who is in charge of this event, requested all members or former members interested in attending to contact him, as the place of the luncheon is not yet been set.

Mr. Smith, with members of the local lodge, will visit those who have been active members in the past, and efforts will be made to establish this as an active lodge again. Mr. Smith will arrive here Friday morning.

Scouts Disband; To Reorganize

Boy Scout Troop 31 was disbanded Friday when Mr. Israel, executive of the Adobe Walls, met with the Kiwanis Club members of the troop.

The troop will, however, be reorganized on October 6, under the leadership of Mr. Israel. For two previous years this he will be in Wellington contacting boys who wish to become Scouts and helping them to organize. A scoutmaster will be named at this time. All boys between the ages of 11 and 18 years who are interested in scouting are urged to contact Mr. Elliott, assistant scoutmaster, before the time for organization is reached.

This Week In Europe

On the map below readers of The Wellington Leader may trace the course of war in Europe. News reports released at noon Wednesday stated that the German troops near Warsaw, Poland, had received a setback and had been attacked from the rear by a Polish army. There was no denial from Berlin. On the Western Front, French and British forces were preparing for a large scale offensive against the Siegfried Line. In London Lord Halifax threatened reprisals if Nazis bombed civilians. A release from Rome stated that Italy would soon clarify her position as to the present war.

Marshall Wells Writes Of People Facing World War

With little or no attempt at organization, I will endeavor to give a few of the highlights of a European tour this summer. Let the backyard generals take command of the French and British armies; let the self-appointed strategists maneuver the British fleet. We'll skip here and there in England, Scotland, Germany and France, getting a glimpse of their everyday life, customs, habits and ideas. Personal, sometimes trivial, will be this information but nevertheless facts you never read in the news communiques in our daily newspapers.

Arrived in England June 26. Even at this early date war preparations were in evidence—air-raid shelters being erected in London parks, searchlights and anti-aircraft guns being mounted at strategic points, gas masks being distributed to civilians. Yet there was little talk of war. Advertisements in leading papers read:

"Don't be afraid of Hitler, take your seashore vacation." Cricket results between Harrow and Eton were much more interesting to the average Britisher than the weighty speeches of Premier Chamberlain. Indeed life was following the customary channels.

But don't be fooled into believing the English people were simply unaware of the critical international situation. They had merely accepted the fact that war was inevitable, deeming it more enjoyable to talk of the weather, latest fall fashions, or the latest movie down the street. Firm, reconciled, ready and resolute, their composure in a time so tense was extremely admirable. It seems that America had already penetrated the Siegfried Line and on its way to Berlin before the British Parliament declared war. When asked if England would win the war, a small, cockney taxi driver tersely countered: "I think we are competent to deal with the situation, sir."

Walking down Piccadilly, I was immediately impressed with the dapper, nattily dressed Englishmen. A far cry from the doudy, ill-kept appearance of the average American business man! But, heavens, you should have seen the English women. Supremely unaware of the female figure, they paraded in an assortment of slouchy wool suits and drab silk dresses. Women in Wellington would look far smarter garbed in a Lee O'Daniel's flour sack.

Tea, a national institution in England, is had every day around 4 o'clock. Roast beef and muttons are the favorite meats of England. Boiled potatoes are standard. Vegetables are tasteless piles of greenery. One Englishman told me that (Continued from Page Seven)

Rockets Set To Meet Tigers

Five Lettermen Ready To Lead Wellington Team Through Season

With nothing to revenge, but with the perfect record of last year's team before them, Wellington's flashing Sky-rockets open their season's football schedule when they meet the Mangum, Oklahoma, Tigers on Powell Field Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

This game with the Oklahoma team, an unexpected one for the Rockets, opens the season a week earlier than was originally planned. Despite this, his boys are in good physical condition, Coach John Williams reports. More than this, the hard work they have done during the last week has greatly improved the playing, even of the seasoned squadmen.

This is the first game for the Mangum boys as well as for Wellington, consequently, both teams remain somewhat of an unknown quantity. The Tigers, however, are out to avenge the 26-0 blistering administered them last year by the Rockets.

Special Session Of Congress Is Called

A special session of Congress has been called by President Franklin D. Roosevelt for Sept. 21 to consider alteration of the Neutrality Act.

That part of the act which is expected to be changed deals with the shipment of arms and munitions to belligerent nations.

The special session was called by the President shortly before noon Wednesday.

Ask WPA Project For Two Schools

Application for WPA projects for two county schools have been made, and definite word concerning them is expected within the next few weeks.

First of these proposed projects is the building of a two-room brick veneer grade school building at Samnorwood. The total cost of this is scheduled to amount to approximately $4000, however by securing the money through WPA channels the cost to the school district will be between $700 and $800. This building is to be (Continued on Page Twelve)

Heat-Weary Oklahomans Anxious For Tilt With Brilliant Opponents

MANGUM. — (Special) — Heat-weary high school gridsters will continue dummy scrimmage and defense drills this week in preparation for their opener with the powerful Wellington eleven Friday at the Wellington stadium.

Prospects of the Tiger eleven this season rest on the shoulders of a group of lettermen and members of the 1939 squad, however, haven't looked any too impressive at workouts last week.

Although Coach Madison Pruitt may shift his lineup, starters Friday night will be drawn from the following roster: Pete Tillman, back; A. D. Hogue, end; Red Bates, back; Claud Smith, end; Gail Cummings, tackle; Jackie Greasby, guard; Wayne Morris, back; Buster Penley, tackle; Wayne Rankin, back; Buster Shortt, back; John Cowan, back. The pivot position is still open, and the Tiger mentor is still uncertain about his linesmen.

Land Use Board Starts Community Meetings Sept. 8th

Submit Most Economical Farming Unit Of County To Landowners

This county's land use planning map has been completed and is ready for submission to the farm operators of the various communities, it was learned early this week.

The land use planning committee, which was appointed last October, has worked out what it believes is the most economical size farm unit to operated in the different sections of the county.

Approval of this by the farm operators, is necessary, however, and to secure this, community meetings have been set in twenty-eight communities over the county for the coming month and a half. These meetings will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening.

A map showing the soil types of each community has been completed, and the recommendations of the planning committee are based on these soil types.

"Since future farm programs may be based on the recommendations of the people of each particular county and community, it is very important that all producers take part in the land use planning program as it applies to each community," W. K. Cottin-game, county agent, said.

The schedule of community meetings includes the following:

- Rolla, Sept. 8; Swearingen, Sept. 11; Aberdeen, Sept. 12; Needwood, Sept. 13; Roundup, Sept. 14; Indian Creek, Sept. 15; Dozier, Sept. 19; Lone Mound, Sept. 20; Hackberry, Sept. 21; Shinnery, Sept. 22; Midway, Sept. 25; Bean Hill, Sept. 26; Houselog, Sept. 27; Wellington, Sept. 28; Pleasant Point, Sept. 29; Lillie, October 2; Buck Creek, October 3; Wilnuler, Oct. 4; Quail, October 11; Marella, October 12; Ring, October 13; Cross Roads, October 16; Dodson, October 17; Fresno, October 18; Kelley, October 19; Samnorwood, October 23; China Grove, October 24, and Elm Valley, October 25.

Extension Class Opened Tuesday

Organization of an extension class in supervision of instruction was completed Saturday, Sept. 9, and the first session of the course was held Tuesday evening. The class is being taught by Dr. L. B. Ezell of Texas Technological College.

"The class will meet each Tuesday," Dr. Ezell announced, "and there is still time for others interested in this course to enroll."

The work may be counted either as graduate or undergraduate work and on administrative education or general education work.

The class will be conducted in a manner similar to the extension courses which Dr. Ezell conducted here last winter.

City Equalization Board In Session During This Week

The board is composed of E. D. Clay, Dave Thomas and S. R. Pinkston. The board is expected to continue its work until Friday.

Program Planned For Entire Day; Communities Prepare Exhibits

Everything's ready! This word comes from directors of the Samnorwood Annual Community Fair, which is to be held at the Samnorwood School Friday, September 15.

Speakers of the Fair were named this week and include the Hon. Marvin Jones, Representative to Congress from this district, Eugene Worley, state representative from this district, and C. C. Broughton, outstanding Childress Attorney.

These men will be presented at the speaking program, which opens at 10:30 o'clock, and is expected to be one of the outstanding events of the fair.

The Fair will be opened at 9 o'clock Friday morning and the program will continue until 10 o'clock in the evening. Logan Cummings will be master of ceremonies.

"We are inviting every man and woman in the county to attend this Fair. It is by far better than any that has been held at Samnorwood in the past. Not only will it prove educational, but it will provide entertainment, no matter what your idea of fun may be," promised Wood Coleman, director general of the fair.

Practically every community in the northern part of the county is preparing a booth for one or more divisions of the fair. These are to include the division of agronomy and horticulture, in which exhibits of head or ear grains, grains and seeds, vegetables, sheaf forage, and cotton will be shown; the division of poultry; the division of animal (Continued on Page Twelve)

Lakes Programs Receives Funds

The lakes program of the Panhandle Water Conservation Authority will be continued, Judge C. C. Bishop, member of the water conservation board of this county, learned Saturday in a meeting of the conservation authority in Amarillo.

Judge Bishop was also informed that surveying of the proposed Elm Creek lake in Collingsworth County might be expected at any time within the near future.

"A fund of $375,000 has been allotted to the Soil Conservation Service to continue the program on the six lakes which now exist in the Panhandle," Mr. Bishop said.

Members of the authority voted to continue secretary Carl Hinton as the Washington representative of the authority, commending him for his success in securing funds for continuance of the program.

Hot Check Law Is Explained By County Judge

Imprisonment And Fine Are Penalties Applied On New Bill

Passage of a law by the last State Legislature of a law generally known as the "bad check law," was called to the attention of county residents this week by County Judge C. C. Bishop.

The law, introduced at House Bill No. 190, includes the following provisions:

It shall be unlawful for any person, with intent to defraud, to obtain any money, goods, service, labor, or other thing of value by giving or drawing any check, draft, or order upon any bank that does not have sufficient funds in said bank to pay said check draft or order at the time it is presented for payment.

For giving a check of $5.00 or less without sufficient funds, the penalty shall be imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed two years, or by fine not to exceed $200.

Checks over $5.00 and less than $50.00 given without sufficient funds shall be punishable by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed two years or by fine not to exceed $500.

Upon conviction of the second offense, any person giving a check without funds sufficient for coverage, shall, if the check is $50.00 or less, be punished by not less than 30 days or more than two years in the county jail.

All checks over $50.00 given by persons without sufficient funds shall be punishable by confinement in the penitentiary for not less than two years nor more than ten years.

Any person making a complaint on the "hot check law" before a county or district attorney or a grand jury, and later requesting that prosecution be dismissed, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500.

All cases involving this law will be handled either in the county or district court, rather than in the justice court, as was formerly the case.

Desire To Work By Unemployed Is Noted Locally

District Examiner Commends Spirit Of Co-operation Found Here

"An honest desire to work and a spirit of cooperation with the employment service which finds them jobs," was the commendation this week on Collingsworth County claimants for unemployment benefits by B. H. Thomson, who has seen nineteen months service as supervising examiner for this district.

Thomson was specific: "Unemployment compensation is for the individual who is able to work, available for work, and who wishes to work. In the Texas state employment service we have the assistance of the most modern and effective job-finding agency in the United States. When it finds a claimant a job suitable to his ability, experience and training, the individual either takes the work or faces penalties imposed by law."

The supervisor pointed out that the job refusal penalty is the loss of from one to four benefit checks. "The law is fair," he added. "It requires only that a claimant accept work suitable for him when all factors are considered. However, refusal to accept a suitable job when offered through the employment service or by an employer direct, or refusal to return to customary self-employment lays the claimant liable to penalty."

AAA Payment On Cotton, General Allotments, Cut

Number Participating In 1939 Farm Program Cause Of Reduction

A reduction of 10 per cent in AAA payments on cotton and general crop acreage allotments for 1939 were announced this week from the state AAA offices. Participation in this year's program was found to have reached the point where available funds would not go around at the rate announced last November.

"It's like having to spread the same amount of butter over more pieces of bread," George Slaughter, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, explained.

At the same time, Slaughter pointed out that this change was provided for in the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program Bulletin, which stated rates of pay would be subject to either a decrease or increase of not more than 10 percent, depending upon actual participation. On the basis of similar provisions, 1937 rates of pay were increased 10 per cent, while no adjustments were made in 1938.

The revised conservation payment rates for the crops effected are, cotton, 1.8 cents a pound; general soil-depleting crops, 99 cents an acre, adjusted for productivity of county and farm involved. This reduction also affected rice growers in the South.

The rates apply to the number of pounds or acres, as the case may be, of the normal yield of the farm's 1939 acreage allotment for the given crop. In the case of cotton, average yields to be used in calculating the conservation payment are generally about 4 per cent larger than the yield figures used last year.

Change in the conservation payment rates had no effect on the rates of 1939 price adjustment payments, Slaughter said.

The New Timer Comments Tiny Lad Writes Column

Not the only columnist nor the most widely read one is Don Edwards Scott of Dodson, but beyond doubt, he is the youngest one to have a regular column in a regular publication.

Don Edwards is the 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Duard Scott of Dodson, and each month his column, "The New Timer," appears in the M. P. Scott Hardware News, house organ of that firm. Publisher of the paper is Duard Scott, who is associated with his father in the hardware business.

Since the M. P. Scott Hardware News has gained recognition over considerable territory, The New Timer column is read by hardware dealers in several nearby states.

Don Edwards doesn't exactly write the column. His father does that. He does, however, furnish the ideas for it by his actions and his continued exploration of the big world he lives in. His picture and his name have appeared at the heading of the column since he was a month old.

As to what The New Timer thinks about and does, when he was very young he mused:

Well, I have been here about two months, and have already learned considerable. One thing is that folks don't always get what they want in this world. However, up to now, my batting average in this respect has been pretty good. It appears that if you holler long enough and loud enough, you can get a lot of things you wouldn't if you give up too quick.

At nine month of age, however, he had changed his mind somewhat:

The bigger I get the more things happen that I don't like. And the louder I hawl, the less good it does. I have been trying some new schemes to get changes made but haven't had much luck. I can roll on the floor and hide my face, stiffen up, howl and buck around without getting hardly any attention.

It's enough to take all the heart out of a fellow when his best efforts flop so completely.

Also he decided: I'm getting tired of scooting around on my South end all the time. I'm anxious to get on my feet. Pop says he would like to get back on his feet, too. Claims he has been flat a lot longer than I have.

When he was a year old, he wrote in a serious mood:

By the radio I hear lots of talk about war. Makes me wonder how many little boys like me will wind up knee deep in mud and blood trying to kill each other for no reason at all . . . because a few maniacs are willing for us to die so they can get to boss a little bigger piece of the world.

When the September 15 issue of The Hardware News appeared last week, the above picture was run for the first time. Concerning it, The New Timer comments:

No smart cracks, now, about the four teeth in this picture. I raised 'em myself; they didn't come from no dentist. Anyhow, I've got three more besides them. Mom says I'm behind schedule on teeth, but anyhow, who wants to look like he had a mouth full of popcorn?

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

In this issue is a story by Marshall Wells who left England the day after Germany invaded Poland. He had to leave for Austin Tuesday where he intends to secure a M. A. in government. As a result he did not write as much as he had planned, but there is a good summary of his impression of the people in England and in Germany with a much shorter one of France. Later I may be able to get him to write a complete one on France as well as Italy.

His article is tremendously interesting to me. Although he was handicapped by writing it in a hurry just before leaving, I believe he has done a commendable job in following out his intention of writing an impartial article. This picture of people before their nations went to war makes me sad beyond the power of words.

Bob Goodnight asked me point-blank who I thought would win the war. I told him that my guess was that Russia might win if she stays out. It is certain that Germany will not win. Neither will France or England. All three of these will lose. The United States might win if we keep our troops at home. That is only comparatively. Actually no nation and no people will benefit from this war.

Marvin Jones will be at the Samnorwood Fair Friday, as will C. C. Broughton and Eugene Worley. Congressman Jones delayed accepting definitely due to the fact that he had been informed that a special session of congress might be called this week. That has been postponed until Sept. 21.

In Collingsworth County last week we were turning on the lights in farm homes. In Europe they were blasting them out both in the country and the cities.

Orval Couch told me of farm families who turned on every bulb in their house just to express their jubilation over the coming of electric lights. He also told me of a church stopping services that were being conducted by kerosene lamps while the REA linemen turned on the juice. There was no mention of disturbing religious worship—rather there was rejoicing all the way round—more light.

In my opinion Orval could have dispensed with the other speakers and the audience would have been satisfied with a long speech from Orval at the REA program. After all he made the most appealing speech of any of the speakers. Don't send a clipping of this anywhere, for some of the bureaucrats don't like for a subordinate to make better speeches than they do. Some of these bureaucrats seem to think they are personally digging the money for rural electrification out of their own pockets—they talk of such things as we gave you so much money. I was under the impression that the people of Collingsworth County as well as the people of the United States were providing the money for rural electrification.

In Amarillo Sunday, I heard Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State, complaining to one of his favorite and most distinguished students about the daily papers devoting their entire front pages to war news. He was talking to John McCarty, editor of The Amarillo News. Dr. Hill contended that there was news of importance besides war bulletins. John countered with the argument that the people were demanding more and more war news, and that his paper intended to give them what they wanted.

This brings a question to my mind. What do you want in The Leader? The size of our publication enables us to run a certain amount of news. We can give you war news, but if we devote more to war, we will have to cut down on local news—such as the wedding story of your daughter, the death of your neighbor, the community fairs, the school activities, the work of the churches, the activities of the American Legion, football, basketball, PTA, FFA, AAA, 4-H, Home Demonstration Clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, County Agricultural Associations, farm progress, advancement of your sons and daughters, and all of those other local stories that this paper has covered

Little Panic In Buying Grocers Discuss Rising Market

Sane, logical reasoning was found in the opinions of local grocers Monday after a survey of existing price hikes on meat, sugar, flour and beans had been made. Compared with the hysteria found in cities, purchasers, too, were in a logical frame of mind. None of the Wellington grocers have been accused of profiteering and they have received few orders for enormous quantities of the four commodities most in demand by customers in larger towns.

"Prices are advancing," said Ollie Raburn, "although none of them have yet advanced noticeably on the retail market. In my opinion, people are remembering the prices on sugar and other food products in 1920, when sugar sold at $1.00 for three pounds, and they are determined to have plenty on hand this time. Basic items have been too low for some time." Mr. Raburn concluded with, "I don't know what prices in the future will be."

Ernest Lewis made no comment on the situation and Steve Owens was out of town and could not be reached.

"Public hysteria," said Brown Lamb, "is entirely to blame for the rise in prices." Mr. Lamb reported that he had had only one call for an extra large amount of merchandise.

"Prices are not definitely affected," said Frank Gallagher. "I do not think that a higher level will be reached because of demands from a panic stricken public."

so fully and which has made it distinctive in its field. How much of this do you want cut down, and how much war news and interpretation of war news do you want in its place? Please tell me either by letter or orally. This is the first time I ever edited a paper under such conditions.

Unless you tell me otherwise, I intend to follow this policy. I intend to make this paper reflect a picture of Collingsworth County. Our home activities will continue to be paramount, but there will be a certain amount of interpretation of the war news. After all we have already discovered that the first flashes over the radio, sometimes colored with emotionalism, are not the true news. The real facts begin to trickle out of the censorship about a week or two after the event has occurred. Both the radio and the daily press in the United States are striving desperately to give as impartial news as they can, but it is obvious that the daily papers have been more authentic than the radio. Witness the case of the sinking of the Athenia. On the other hand I think there is a place for the weekly press to provide a sane check-up on both of these just as the daily is providing a verification of the radio. Until you say you want it differently, that will be the role of this paper. Our home news will continue to be paramount, but there will be a certain amount of space devoted to the war. It will not be last minute news, but it will be written in an effort to give you a foundation on which to base sane opinions. Does that suit you? Or do you want it hot off the griddle, straight from government censored sources, which is conflicting propaganda, unrefined and unverified?

The truth of the matter is that I prefer to raise crops, educate children, fuss about the drought, fight grasshoppers and cuss about the low price of cotton in the columns of this rather sensible weekly and countrified paper. That is what we have been doing all these years.

What I want is a two-inch rain in Collingsworth and a forty-inch rain, or something like Noah had, in Poland.

However, if this does not suit you, we can do something else. We can bomb Polish women and children all the way from Dodson to Hedley. That is one range of our circulation. We can blockade and starve the Germans all the way from Swearingin to Vinson. We can sink British ships from Loco to Twitty. With the French we can crack the Seisfried line from Fresno to Quail. With the Germans we can take Warsaw several times each week and conduct major battles from Arlie to Lone Mound. In fact we can wage quite a war all over Collingsworth County and some of its adjoining area. What good would it do? I am telling you what the problem is. Tell me what you want from this paper and I will give it to you. The real question is: What do you want deep down in your heart?

I. O. Ruby said, "Since supply and demand controls our market, while there is a panic, there will be an unusual demand for certain commodities; however, I have found very few of my customers ordering extraordinarily large quantities." Mr. Ruby also told of one salesman for a nationally known meat company saying that it would take this company 30 days to fill unprecedented meat orders. Another grocer salesman gave an interesting viewpoint in the statement of "Canada may have helped to cause this panic, because she waited a week to enter the war and during the interval, she could have been buying supplies of sugar and other food products for her mother country."

H. A. McCarty voiced the opinion that he considered food prices to be stable, if the United States did not enter the war. "The government has been trying for three years to raise the prices of these staple commodities and now that they have stabilized themselves, why should the government deliberately lower the price?" Mr. McCarty continued, "For the first time since I have been in the grocery business, I was refused an order by a salesman. Heretofore, we have always been given a week to buy groceries at the old price; this time, we bought at the price of the moment and even that was not guaranteed—salesmen told me that prices were apt to change within two hours. My general opinion of the situation is that the public should be more concerned with the prices of steel and iron products than with the costs of food products."

J. T. Slay said that panic was to blame for the current rise in prices, but that he had had little of this to contend with in his customers' orders. "The personnel of the store was surprised Saturday when a few people complained of the prices; we had expected many more complaints." Sugar and meat were the two principal commodities being raised in price. A broad coast-to-coast wave of consumer sugar buying touched off by the outbreak of war in Europe and the consequent determination of millions of American housewives to lay in supplies was held by refiners responsible for the disappearance almost overnight of plenteous sugar stocks in food shops and wholesalers' warehouses.

Sugar is selling at about three cents higher per pound than it was last week, but dealers think it will definitely not go up to the old World War rate of 25c.

The American sugar market, through tariffs and quotas, has been for many years almost hermetically sealed from the world price. Domestic sugar producers include Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines. Outside of these producing areas, the principal United States source of sugar is Cuba, sending around 2,000,000 tons a year here under the quota system.

However, if war demands begin taking sugar from Cuba, the Philippines and Hawaii, domestic prices, naturally, may go still higher. Domestic sugar supplies are said to be adequate, however, and from all indications, this should be an exciting game," said Coach Loren Doolen.

"The fact that only six men play does not diminish the thrills, but it rather adds to the speed of the game," he continued.

Although definite posts have not yet been assigned by Coach Doolen, boys who will likely see service in the game with Kelton are Tolbert Painter, Harold Smith, Kelley White, Wayne Darnell, Billie Davis, Herbert Carter, Oris West, R. A. Covey and Phillip Wynn.

Cochran Heads School Band

The Wellington High School Band, under the direction of John Hooper, band master, held election of officers Friday, Sept. 8. Following a brief address from Mr. Hooper, who explained the duties of the officers and expressed his thanks to the band for its good co-operation, Jimmie Cochran was elected president.

To Aaron Hurst went the place of vice president; Clarice Harper, one of the few girls in the band, was chosen secretary-treasurer; Frank Cook accepted the place as librarian; R. L. Porter was chosen sergeant-at-arms, and S. A. Combs was named publicity manager.

Edna Joyce Gribble and June Jarrell were elected drum majors. Following the election, each of the new officers was called on for a brief talk. General theme of the talks was the feeling that each member of the band is willing to do more than his share of the work planned for the coming year; that the band is 100 per cent behind the football team; and that the band will co-operate with the pep squad at the games and rallies.

The meeting was closed with speeches from the new members.

Typhoid Serum Supply Used Up

No more children can be taken for inoculation against typhoid fever through the St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary, due to the fact that all the serum received by the hospital for this purpose has been used.

"We can finish giving these inoculations which have already been started, but it is impossible for us to take any more children," said Mrs. Charley Jones Tuesday.

Although no more typhoid serum is available, enough diphtheria serum is still on hand to inoculate approximately 40 children, she added, and any parents who are unable to pay for this service for their children are invited to bring them for the free treatment.

Approximately 600 inoculations for diphtheria and typhoid fever have been given.

Notarians Honor Faculty, Trustees At Banquet Tues.

Mrs. Charles Jones, L. A. Manzer, J. L. Beard Speakers At Event

Teachers of the Wellington schools, members of the board of trustees, and Rotary Anns were honored guests when the Rotary Club entertained with a banquet Tuesday evening, Sept. 12, at the American Legion Hall.

Speakers of the evening were Mrs. Charles Jones, L. A. Manzer and John L. Beard. In addition to these talks, group songs were led by S. R. Pinkston and guests were introduced by John H. Williams. A vocal solo, "They Needed a Song Bird in Heaven," was given by Mrs. Tom Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. S. R. Pinkston. The invocation was given by Logan Manning.

Mrs. Jones, telling of the history of the Parent-Teachers Association, gave a brief history of that organization, pointing out that the first Texas club was organized in 1909. "The P.T.A. aims to raise the standards of the home life, and to bring the parents and children closer together," she said. After telling of the work which the local organization is doing, she closed by asking the Rotarians to help the P.T.A. in its citizenship and health drive.

Viewing the situation from the standpoint of the teacher, Mr. Manzer, president of the school board, said, "You have made me different from others by your criticism. . . . Here are some of the things I might get fired for," he added, enumerating a number of causes for which teachers have lost their positions. Although the talk was given in a humorous vein, Mr. Manzer brought out many points which make the position of a teacher a complex one.

"Progress succeeds itself," Mr. Beard, superintendent of the schools, told the group as he set forth plans which he added he believed would make this one of the most progressive schools in the area. "The support given me by the faculty this year has been more than 100 per cent, yet the teachers have more work this year than ever before.

"Children must be taught to live, and live together in harmony," he continued.

Stressing the need for extra curricular activities, the speaker pointed out that every student needs something to keep his hands and his mind busy during the hours he is not in school. "We are interested in developing scholarship in the student and having them study subjects that they can use after they finish their high school work, whether or not they attend college," he stated.

"After all, we are teaching children and not subjects," he concluded.

Attending the banquet were Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Manzer, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, O. B. Raburn, Lee Fortenberry, Mr. and Mrs. deputy state superintendent, Mr. John C. Harper, S. O. Murdock, and Mrs. John L. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker, O. C. Allen, Miss Mildred Hulsey, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lehmburg, Mr. and Mrs. George Neal, Miss Hattie D. (Continued from Page One)

some day he was coming to America for no other reason than to eat fried chicken and corn on the cob. Asked what he wanted to see most in the States, he replied: "Your cotton fields in bloom."

Gasoline, called petrol there, costs around 35c per gallon. Most of the cars are small, ranging from eight to twelve horsepower, being taxed $5 per h. p. per year. Cigarettes cost 25c, including a 12c tax. You see, England is still paying for the last war, and I found my pounds (equivalent to about $5) going almost as fast as dollar bills. Whether prices were really high, or whether I know how to spend dollars more expertly than pounds is a moot question.

Hay is the national crop of England. Although I seldom saw farmers working in the fields, which are much smaller than ours, the crops seemed to be perfectly farmed and harvested. Around the Scottish border, the hilly country is used for sheep grazing. However, some of the land is made worthless even for grazing because of the bracken, a parasitic growth corresponding somewhat to johnson grass.

In Scotland, whose wealth is largely centered in its seaports and large industrial cities such as Glasgow and Edinburgh, the same silent, but indomitable spirit of the English is manifest—a determination to end the policies of Hitlerism. When jokingly asked what his countrymen would do if Germany bombed them, a rustic, hard-bitten old Scotsman replied: "Aye, and a bonnie reception we'll give him, m' laddie."

After leaving England and Scotland, we crossed the channel, traveled through Belgium to the German border. Our first surprise in Germany came from our false expectation of an exceedingly curt and severe customs examination. Being thoroughly saturated with anti-German propaganda, we had expected anything from murder to a concentration camp. Instead we were met by a very courteous official who spoke perfect English. Without opening our baggage, he instructed us to get a receipt for the money we were carrying into Germany. This receipt must be presented on leaving the country in order to prove that you are taking no more money out of Germany than you took in.

From Cologne we took a steamer up the Rhine River to Mainz. At every opportunity we asked students, waiters and chance acquaintances, whether in their opin-

Cat-Tail Millet Shown By H. I. Cagle

Stalks of Cat-tail millet, grown in this county, were shown Saturday by H. I. Cagle of the Quail community.

The heads of this unusual feed give the appearance of a cat tail and are about the size of the latter plant.

"It grows just like maize, and any livestock, chickens or turkeys will eat it just as well as they do other feed," Mr. Cagle reported. The seed was given him by his son, Fred Cagle.

ion there would be a war. Ironically enough, the almost universal answer was that Hitler would keep them out of an armed conflict.

When asked about Danzig, a hotel manager in Mainz said: "We Germans don't want a war; it will be settled by talk." Other than the regular storm troopers, we saw very few soldiers. And to see the peacefulness of the towns along the Rhine, war seemed far away indeed. Of course, because of the strict censorship of the German newspapers, much of the truth is never available to the average German reader. The Danzig situation was never considered serious enough to cause a war, mainly because the German people knew little the determination of both France and England to end "appeasement."

In Heidelberg we met two German boys who were extremely courteous and friendly. In fact, the same air of friendliness and hospitality characterized our trip in southern Germany. Whether or not this welcome exists in Berlin, I am unable to say, for we did not visit northern Germany.

One of our German acquaintances was a rabid Nazi. Walking through the slummiest section of Heidelberg one night, he said: "Before Hitler, we could not walk down this street dressed decently. We would have been attacked, our clothes torn off. The people were unemployed and hungry. Since Hitler, we have no riots."

To believe all reports from Germany, one would think that no English newspapers are allowed. We had little trouble in buying either a London Times or Daily Mail. However, one day I asked Willie, our German friend, to hold a Times for me. He replied: "Pardon me, I'd rather not. You see, that paper is not so popular in Germany at present." Germans seldom buy English newspapers, because such an act may be met with suspicion.

Food in Germany was good. Butter alone tasted like a substitute. Bread, although grey and course, tasted wholesome. Coffee was expensive, costing about 25c for two servings. Beer is universally drunk with meals, and Germans laughed at us when we drank water. At present all foods are on a strictly ration basis, according to news reports. Not only food, but other indispensable commodities such as gasoline, which was about 50c per gallon before the war.

While in Heidelberg, Dr. Goebbels, minister of propaganda, arrived amid the cheers of the populace to open, oddly enough, a Shakespeare festival in that city. Thousands of school children paraded through swastika-decked streets singing the Horst Wessel, and raising their hands in a snappy Heil Hitler salute. Shrivelled, club-footed, with an abnormally large head, Goebbels' appearance belies the preverted brilliance of the man.

In France, the similarity between the French and English attitude was surprising. It was not a matter of IF war comes, but WHEN war comes. Arriving on Bastille Day, which corresponds to our Fourth of July, we saw a huge military parade, soldiers from every part of the French Empire, British soldiers, airplanes, tanks and guns all rumbled along the most beautiful street in Paris—the Champs Elysee. An interesting fact was the prominence of three flags—the French tri-color, the British Union Jack, and our own Stars and Stripes.

The paramount question in France was: "Why doesn't America take a definite stand?" Most of the French were of the opinion in July that a definite alliance between England, France and America would avert war, making Hitler afraid to fight. I could hardly agree with them.

Sorry but this article must be cut short. I would like to write more, but am leaving for Austin for school.

DON'T KILL A CHILD!

"Don't kill a child!" Alvin Horton, Wellington chief of police, warned city drivers early this week, as schools opened, definitely increasing the hazard of pedestrian death on all streets leading to the school buildings.

Acknowledgement of the fact that many children, in their enthusiasm, forget to watch for cars when they cross streets, or walk down the middle of the street, places a heavier responsibility on our drivers during those hours when boys and girls are coming to and from school. It is not our problem alone, for it exists throughout the nation.

So far, Wellington has been fortunate in having no traffic fatalities among its children during the school season, but that again increases our responsibility to do our part—or more than our part, in keeping our children safe.

THE MAGINOT LINE

To the imagination and good sense of a former first sergeant in the World War the Republic of France owes her great Maginot Line, stretching 150 miles along the border facing Germany, which is the strongest defensive military wall ever constructed by man.

Andre Maginot was the sergeant, who rose to be minister of war in the French cabinet, and for whom the completed system of fortifications was named. He conceived the plan, which was adopted after funds for extraordinary measures of military preparations were voted in 1928.

Construction was begun shortly thereafter, but Maginot did not live to see the works completed, as he died in 1932. A monument to his memory has been erected at Fort Souville, 18 miles from Verdun.

The Maginot Line consists of continuous fortifications, including 300 mighty forts, and cost about 150 million dollars. It is considered impregnable, so far as attacks by land are concerned, and it is believed that little damage could be done to it by air raids, as much of the defensive works and equipment are underground.

Steam and electric transportation systems, supply bases and communication lines are all protected in tunnels deep in the earth. Troops, equipment, food and all manner of supplies for the line can be brought to the front by trains operating wholly underground.

The Nose Is News

LAST CALL FOR WINTER PASTURES

By T. C. Richardson, Associate Editor
Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

The Southwest is particularly fortunate in the variety of pasture crops which can be grown for fall, winter, and spring grazing. Of course pasture crops are of little interest to a farm without livestock, but a farm without livestock and poultry is not a complete farm anyway. Away back in 1924, when cotton had been twice to four times the price of recent years, an Oklahoma investigation showed that farmers who depended on cotton for less than forty per cent of their income had accumulated property three to four times as fast as those who depended on cotton for seventy-one per cent or more of their income.

"As the percentage of income from livestock increases the annual saving of wealth increases," and "the farmer who had less than forty per cent of his income in cotton and more than twenty-five per cent of his income in livestock and livestock products made the most money on the average." There are perfectly logical reasons why this was true then and is true now, which have been touched upon in these articles before.

In 1924 and for a long time afterward there were no government "benefits" for doing a good job of farming. Now the government actually pays farmers to do what good farmers were already doing. But the "benefits" from cotton, wheat, etc., will not make prosperity for those who do not follow through and capitalize the land and labor released from cotton growing, by using both in some other profitable manner.

There is nothing wrong with trying some new "cash crops," or looking forward to "industrial crops" of which we hear so much since the "farm chemistry" idea has been so highly touted. In the meantime it is within the immediate ability of every Southwestern farmer to improve his own condition by practicing the well-known and long-proven principles of balanced farming outlined in the Breeder-Feeder program.

Crops and livestock belong together on the farm, and as shown above, offer greater promise for independence and farm prosperity than any new-fangled theory that has ever yet been invented. Now pastures, winter and summer, are the foundation of a balanced farm program in which man-labor is better distributed and better-paid, by turning more of the work over to the animals. And winter grazing depends on planting the right crops at the right time.

It is a common expression among practical farmers that wheat, oats or barley will pay for the seed and labor in the grazing alone, in most years. The grain crop is that much to the good. Says the Texas Experiment Station "for fall and early winter, barley is the best producer; wheat, oats and rye produce most grazing for winter months; while rye grass gives the most grazing for March and April."

"Winter legumes offer another good use for the land and labor during the winter months. Crops such as vetch, winter peas, and some of the clovers, grow well in many sections during the winter and early spring, and when plowed under in the spring, improve the soil. Substantial increase in the yields of cotton have consistently resulted . . . in East and Central Texas when legumes are grown in winter and plowed under in early spring before planting the cotton.

This holds true also in Eastern Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, as thousands of farmers have proven by their own experience in recent years.

Winter pasture crops may be sown from now until November in the Southwest, but naturally the earlier they get started the more grazing they will provide.

IF AMERICA GOES TO WAR

There's no stopping the European war now. It's on—and Americans only hope that the United States will keep out of it.

The government is on record for strict neutrality, pledged to do everything possible to prevent the necessity of sending American troops abroad. But, if the U. S. should go in—

The nation is better prepared today than it was in 1917. Because we are no longer a debtor nation and have few securities abroad, there is little danger of a panic. The neutrality act that—at present, at least—prohibits export of war materials precludes possibility of a boom.

The army is stronger. It's 13,000 officers and 180,000 men are ready for immediate overseas duty. The 200,000 enlisted in the National Guard could be prepared for front-line fighting in a short time.

Officers to train and lead recruits would come from the 100,000 men in the reserve corps. Likewise alert are the naval and air forces, increased to a new high of efficiency.

Entry into this war, however, probably would produce the most drastic regimentation of American life yet heard of. Men, women and children would be told where to work and at what wages. Use of utilities and transportation would be curbed; food and commodity prices would be set by the government.

Sub-committees of the already existing National War Resources Board would direct the mobilization of industry. The army would mobilize man power.

During the first two months, while draft plans were readied, volunteers would be trained. Then, without the delay that hampered preparations in 1917, men would be told if and when they have to fight.

About half of the 12,000,000 men between 21 and 31, eligible for the first draft, would be deferred from fighting service because of disability or to work in industries essential to war. Others would be called up by the lottery system and rushed through training camps to the front. A second draft would call men between 31 and 45.

Sweeping controls of everyday life exist today—in plain form—calling for the mobilization of industry and man power. Congressional action would be necessary to put them into effect.

Micah: Fearless Crusader

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 17.

Text: Micah 3:1-12; 6:6-8.

Micah is the author of one of the most concise and practical definitions of religion ever given.

It is the closing sentence in our lesson: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Micah was something more than a great idealist defining the essential nature of religion. It has always been safe enough for church leaders to speak about religion in terms of idealism and in a general way. The preacher may exalt the nature of righteousness and appeal to men to be righteous. He may insist that all the problems of life are at heart religious problems, and that there is no real solution of our social or political problems until men get back to God and to God's ways. There would be little protest against his preaching or teaching.

But let him begin to denounce particular evils of the people and challenge those in high places of society, state, and business who are responsible for those wrongs and their continuance, and immediately he becomes himself the object of attack and of persecution.

Someone has pointed out that Jesus was not crucified because He exhorted men to live righteous lives and because He preached the beauty of holiness and love. It was when He assailed the wrongs of His day and brought the responsibility for those wrongs home to leaders in church and in state that He aroused the opposition that brought Him to Calvary.

In addition to being a great and clear-seeing idealist, Micah was also a mighty prophet and preacher, speaking out plainly and fearlessly against the evils of his time and bringing the responsibility for them home directly to the rulers of the nation. He charged against them that they had no regard for justice. He accused them of hating the good and loving the evil. He asserted that they were destroying the life of the people, using the terribly realistic words in verse three of the lesson about "eating the flesh of my people, and flaying their skin from off them, and breaking their bones, and chopping them in pieces, as for the pot."

Are these words of Micah too strong for today? They are, if we would apply them to all, for there are many among our rulers and leaders whose hearts are genuinely for the right and welfare of the people.

But they are not, if we have in mind self-seeking politicians and grafters who have been all too numerous in our social and political life and whose personal gain and aggrandisement, regardless of their trust and of what happened to others as a consequence of their betrayal of their trust.

Five Hundred At Rural Electrification Program

All Lines On Greenbelt REA Are Energized Tuesday

That the Greenbelt rural electrification lines belong not to the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, nor to the directors of the association locally, but to every member of the association, was the theme of the program which celebrated the energizing of the rural electric lines in this county and in eastern Donley County and western Harmon County, Oklahoma, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 9, at the high school auditorium. Approximately 500 persons attended this program.

Speakers during the afternoon were Eugene Worley, state representative from this district, and J. R. Cobb, of the utilization department of the REA. Master of ceremonies was Orval Couch, project superintendent.

At the opening of the program, Mr. Couch introduced four members of the board of directors present, Walter Patterson, president; Wallace O'Rear, A. N. Wiseman and S. W. Norwood; Luther Gribble, attorney for the Greenbelt REA; Elmore Plemons, inspector; Ruel Estes, maintenance man, and Waddell Bailey, the first person to sign an application for membership with the Greenbelt REA, and also the first man to receive electricity when the lines were energized.

Mr. Worley, in his brief address, praised the people of the section and the officers of the co-operative for their work in securing the Rural Electrification lines. Reminding the audience that there are now indications of a "back to the farm" movement, he pointed out, "For too long, too many people felt that prosperity was just around some big city corner."

"It is comforting to know that this country is more interested in building up our natural resources than in entering entangling alliances," he continued, and concluded with "May we hope that there will never be a blackout of progress."

Giving factual information concerning Rural Electrification projects in Texas, Mr. Cobb told the association members here that there were 54 such co-operatives in the state, furnishing light to approximately 45,000 farm families. All this has been done during the last three years.

"REA does not run this project; your directors do not run the project; it is to be run by you folks," he told the group. "REA will go along with you in the hard years, and if the time comes when the payments to them cannot be made, they will make allowance for that."

Pointing out where the monthly rate payment of $2.45 goes, Mr. Cobb named these expenditures: for power, bought from the West Texas Utilities Company at cost; to pay the personnel of the local co-operative; for maintenance of lines and emergency repairs, as from storms, etc.; a fund to provide for future expense; and for payment on the loan to the REA.

"This co-operative is a heritage. It is something you can hand down to your children, and at the end of 20 years, you will have cheap electricity to give them," he stated. The remainder of his talk was devoted to an explanation to the co-operative members of the amount of electricity used by various electrical appliances.

Immediately following the program, the group went to the substation in North Wellington, where the switch was thrown, giving electricity to the farm homes of the county.

To Lay Plans For 1940 Shelterbelts At Childress Meet

WICHITA FALLS.—The Texas organization of the Prairie States Forestry Project will meet at Childress on September 7 and 8 to discuss plans for the 1940 shelterbelt planting season. District Officers at Shamrock and Childress and their subordinates will confer with State Director W. E. Webb and his staff to perfect plans of operation for the next several months. The Forest Service expects to wind up its cultivation season in a month or six weeks and will at the conclusion of this conference begin a program to examine locations and approve applications for the 1940 shelterbelt planting season which opens in late December. Between now and that time, the foresters expect to receive over two thousand applications for shelterbelts. Over one hundred and fifty applications have already been received, according to Mr. Webb, and interest in the plantings is increasing daily as examples of their results in soil and crop protection become known.

The actual number of applications accepted will be dependent on the amount of good tree stock in the Prairie States Forestry Project nursery at Plainview, and the funds available for the planting season.

Shelterbelt applications are being received by all county agents, in addition to the regular Forest Service offices at Childress, Shamrock, Vernon, Quanah, Paducah, Memphis, Clarendon, Wellington, McLean, Plainview and Wichita Falls.

End Seen To WPA Work On Street Projects

Work Under Construction Cannot Be Finished Till Rain Settles Base

We've enough work already proposed to keep us busy for several months to come," Bura Handley, city engineer, said Saturday concerning the WPA street improvement project.

Praising the co-operation which property owners in Wellington are giving toward securing surfaced streets and for the curbing and guttering of other streets, Mr. Handley pointed out that the results from this project are much better than had been anticipated at the time it was granted. Sponsors of the project are the county and city.

Streets now under construction not be completed until rains have settled the base, Mr. Handley pointed out. Work is under way on Bowie street, on Seventh street east to the Wellington Ice Plant, on 12th from Bowie street to East avenue.

Improvement work has been spoken for on West avenue, the south end of East avenue, the extension of the pavement two blocks south on Dalhart street, the surfacing of two blocks from Bowie to West avenue on 13th street, the extension of Amarillo street north to the Watkins Gin, the extension of West avenue north of the Katy depot, and the improvement of two alleys in the business section.

QUAIL

The Quail Future Farmers made their annual camping trip to Roaring Springs recently. Twenty-three boys, Mr. George Thomas, Mr. Ray McDaniel, Mr. Ernest Maxwell, Coach Currin and Mr. Dowell made the trip in a school bus. They spent two days out and reported a fine time. Walter polo seemed to be the favorite game and the cold spring water kept everyone playing hard to keep warm. This is the third year to hold the encampment at Roaring Springs.

Fifty-three boys have enrolled in vocational agriculture this year and ten or fifteen who wanted to take the course could not work it into their schedule on account of the double periods required. This is the largest enrollment the department has ever had.

Fourteen of the registered gilts bought by the individual boys last fall have farrowed one hundred fourteen pigs. Sixteen more will farrow in the near future.

Preliminary arrangements are being made for the Project Show and Community fair which will be held about the middle of October.

The Quail Chapter will put up an Educational exhibit at the Tri-State Fair as usual, but will not put up an exhibit at the State Fair at Dallas this year unless they win at Amarillo, in which case the booth will be moved from Amarillo to Dallas. Two years ago Quail won first place and last year they won third place.

The agriculture building has been wired for electricity and some power machinery will be installed during the fall. Having the building lighted will enable the Chapter to hold its regular meetings and most of the community agriculture meetings in their own building instead of the main school building as has been the custom in the past.

The Vocational Teacher Trainers of Iowa A. & M. College at Ames, Iowa, has announced that they will organize some cooperative programs for vocational agriculture, and vocational homemaking departments in Iowa this year will be patterned after the Quail program.

Members of the one-variety cotton community are signing up final papers this week and will get all their cotton graded by a government grader as a result of the organization. Some of the future farmers are members.

Herman Melton, one of the Quail F.F.A. boys who has been attending Texas Technological College this summer, returned recently and made a talk to the fourth year agriculture class the other day. He told us that he is majoring in agriculture education and that he believes that the agriculture school is the most efficient division of the college.

Wheat Program Proves Flexible

The 1940 AAA wheat program is flexible.

According to a change in the program announced at College Station this week, any wheat farmer may place his farm in a non-allotment classification for 1940 and still be eligible for at least some cash benefits.

The non-wheat allotment classification enables a farmer who grows wheat as hay, pasture or green-manure or cover crops to continue his regular farming operations and still cooperate in the program, Victor Cade of Slaton, member of the State Agricultural Conservation Committee, explained.

The farmer who so elects may seed all the wheat he likes, just so he doesn't harvest more than his acreage allotment, or 10 acres, whichever is larger. If he does harvest more than his allotment, deductions will be made at the regular rate for payments otherwise due him.

If he decides to plant more than his allotment, he may avoid penalty by using the excess acreage for pasture, green manure or a winter cover crop. He cannot use it for hay unless it is used as a nurse crop for legumes and grasses and cut green, or is grown in a mixture containing at least 25 per cent by weight of winter legumes.

Farmers who apply the non-wheat allotment option will not be eligible for wheat loans or price adjustment or conservation payments, on wheat in 1940. However, payments will be made on the allotted wheat acreage at the specified rate for general crops.

Texas wheat farmers have until October 1, or the beginning of seeding of wheat if that is earlier, to exercise the choice.

Austin O'Neil Is State Game Warden Captain

Wellington Man One Of Five To Have Charge Entire State

Austin O'Neil of Wellington was one of five captains of game wardens named Tuesday, August 29, by Will J. Tucker, secretary of the state game commission, to more effectively supervise law enforcement.

The captains, each of whom will have from thirteen to nineteen men under him, were E. M. Sprott of Lufkin, in charge of the East Texas district; Frank Cowser of Dallas, North Central and Central Texas; E. T. Dawson of Houston, Southeast and South Texas; Robert Snow of Kerrville, West and Southwest Texas, and Austin O'Neil of Wellington, Panhandle and Plains area.

"Since the game department has been forced to reduce its staff," Tucker said, "it was deemed advisable to institute a plan whereby we could use our limited number of wardens as effectively as possible."

"With captains supervising activities by districts, it will be possible to immediately meet situations in various sections by the temporary transfer of wardens into that area."

Mr. O'Neil has been district game warden of this district for several years.

Commissioner Giles announced that Mr. Small would come to Austin on September 11 and would fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Marlin E. Sandlin, of Woodville. Mr. Sandlin has resigned in order to become associated in the practice of law at Houston with E. J. Fountain. Mr. Sandlin served three years as Assistant Secretary of State, under the administration of Governor James V. Allred, and prior to that time practiced law for five years at Woodville.

Mr. Sandlin, in announcing his resignation, said: "It has been a real pleasure for me to have the opportunity of serving the State under my close friend, Bascom Giles; and I leave with the consolation of knowing that Texas will have an honest and efficient administration of the General Land Office as long as Bascom Giles is Commissioner."

"Anyone is eligible, and from the interest already shown, we are expecting some unusual rodeo talent," Mr. Pharis commented.

Five lettermen, however, are back for heavy duty. Fred Cox, George Stafford, Ed White, Pete Moulton and Boyd Williams. Two new men have been moved up to guard positions, Cox at left guard and Bryan Williams at right guard. Robert Belew takes Peters' place at tackle, while Clifton Brewer has been moved up to the center position. Moulton, White and Stafford are back at their old positions.

Three new men are slated to work with Boyd Williams in the backfield and in each case, just who will fill each of these places is still doubtful. In weight, Coach Williams estimates that the team is a little lighter than at this time last year. Average weights in the line is 165 pounds, while the backfield average is expected to be about 140 pounds.

"The boys know they have a battle on their hands Friday night, but from their scrimmage, it is obvious there will be a scrap worth seeing," Williams commented.

The probable starting lineup, as released by the coach Tuesday includes the following.

Cummings Named Director - General Of County League

Initial Steps Taken For Formation Of County Teachers Association

Initial steps for the 1940 county interscholastic league meet were taken Saturday when teachers of the county met Saturday, Sept. 9, for organization purposes and to name the executive committee and directors of the league.

At the same time, plans were made for the organization of the county unit of the State Teachers Association. An effort is being made to have every teacher in the county in this organization and officers will be named as soon as all dues are paid. Logan Cummings, county superintendent, announced.

This association will take the place of the Superintendents-Principals Association of the past few years, and plans are to hold four meetings a year, at which outstanding speakers will address the group.

E. G. Sanders of Samnorwood, president of the Northwest Texas Conference of Education, spoke briefly before the teachers Saturday, outlining the benefits of membership in the State Teachers Association, and setting forth plans for the program of the Northwest Texas Conference of Education at its meeting next spring.

Mr. Cummings was named director general of the League, a post which he held last year. Other directors named were Miss Hattie D. Wells, director of debate; Mrs. Raymond Powell, director of declamation; O. B. Currin, director of athletics; Mrs. Hazel Bretz, director of extemporaneous speaking; Mrs. John Williams, director of ready writers; Muri Walker, director of spelling; Mrs. Carl Chaudoin, director of choral singing; Miss Katherine McMinn, director of picture memory; A. Z. Hays, Jr., director of arithmetic; Miss Naomi Slay, director of music memory; Miss Audrey Boggs, director of typing; Mrs. Lowell Wells, director of story telling, and G. L. Stanley, director of 3-R contests.

Members of the executive committee include Mr. Cummings, Miss Wells, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Bretz, Mr. Walker, Mrs. Williams and Mr. Currin. This body will meet at a later date to set the time and place of the interscholastic league meet and to consider the adding of new contests to the league.

"Highly complimentary of the county interscholastic league setup were Roy Bedichek and R. J. Kidd of Austin, who head the state interscholastic league, in a visit here last week," reported Mr. Cummings. "Especially were they impressed with the number of contestants we have had during recent years, with the closeness of the competition and with the harmony in which the schools of the county have worked."

Cotton And Feed Gathering Begins At Samnorwood

By MRS. C. W. FRITTS
Cotton is opening fast in the Samnorwood and Plymouth sections. Several farmers began to gather their crop last week, and gathering will be in full sway this week.

A number of children were absent from school last week because of picking cotton.

Cotton is sorry, especially on the Plymouth Flat, however, in the sandy land, the yield will be fair.

In addition, a number of farmers are having their feed cut with binders or are heading maize. Feed is also light and burned in most parts of this area.

is generally considered the largest sudan field in the world. The land, explained Mr. Masten, was originally planted in cotton, but this crop was hailed out, and the land was in turn planted in sudan.

After seeing this field, and witnessing the vast farming operations which Mr. Masten is carrying on, Mr. Firestone remarked that 6,000 acres of sudan, reaching 12 feet in height, resembled an ocean of rolling water, and that in all his travels he had never seen anything to compare with it.

Upon being told that it would likely produce between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 pounds of sudan seed, he added: "With his study and development toward modern farming, Mr. Masten is worthy of the honor bestowed upon him by the Master Farmers of the nation. He must be the Sudan King of the world!"

At the Masten farm, the group saw the operation of his twelve tractors, with the attachments which have been used in farm and the demonstration of the feed binders, which Mr. Masten has just purchased from the Sullivan Furniture and Implement Company here.

Other speakers on the program were Underwood DePaul, vice president of the Lubbock Joint Stock Company, George L. Langham, of Kansas City, and Harvey Workman, manager of the Firestone Store at Lubbock.
