Between Rich, Poor Nations...

Consensus Is Predicted Despite Signs Of Discord

CANCUN, Mexico (AP) — Despite signs of sharp discord between rich and poor countries, U.S. and Mexican officials are predicting that "some consensus" will be reached at the unprecedented 22-nation economic summit.

The North-South summit was opening today amid mounting demands that President Reagan back away from his conservative economic doctrines and demonstrate more flexibility in his approach to the world's poor.

Nevertheless, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. predicted that the two-day conference would yield positive results.

Haig told a news conference Wednesday night that he is increasingly confident the meeting "will achieve some consensus in a number of important areas."

Haig gave no further details, but Mexico's Foreign Secretary Jorge Castaneda told reporters he expects summit participants to agree on ways that industrialized countries can help poor countries in two key areas: food and energy production.

Even before the summit began, there were few expectations that any significant agreements would result. Neither a final communique nor a followup conference is planned.

In a newspaper interview on the eve of the conference, Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo said it would be "futile, Utopian and demagogic to expect immediate and spectacular results" from the summit. But he expressed hope that the meeting would end the longstanding stalemate in North-South deliberations.

Mexican government spokesman Horacio Flores de la Pena said Reagan told Lopez Portillo on Wednesday that the success of the summit "depends on the cooperation of all its participants...especially on that of the industrialized countries."

Reagan appeared relaxed as he prepared for perhaps the most challenging diplomatic assignment in his nine-month-old administration.

Shortly after his arrival from Washington on Wednesday, he slipped into sports clothes and then held separate meetings with five other leaders assembled here, including Lopez Portillo, China's Prime Minister Zhoa Ziyang and India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Reagan also took time out for a Caribbean swim.

The format for the summit called for an unstructured give-and-take by the delegates, and Reagan was to be one of the early speakers at today's opening session.

Reagan, faced with a groundswell of complaints about his policies toward poor nations, appeared to be pursuing a lonely course with his insistence that free enterprise, foreign investment and expanded global trade are the keys to Third World prosperity.

Austrian Foreign Minister Willibald Pahr issued a call Wednesday for a "Marshall Plan," such as that provided Europe after World War II, of massive assistance to developing nations.

Marines Should Change Water Survival Tests

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Marine Corps should change its procedures in water survival tests to allow recruits greater control over their safety, an officer testified Wednesday in an inquiry into the drowning of Dallas Pvt. Randall Christian.

First Lt. Steven Kalish was questioned by Col. F.M. Manrod, senior officer on the formal hearing panel, about the lack of written instructions for water safety instructors who must make decisions about a recruit's swimming capabilities.

"That's one of the reasons I made the recommendation that we take the onus off the water safety instructors, so the recruit can actually make the decision as to when he's done swimming," Kalish said. "I personally recommend we take a little pressure off the instructor."

Kalish testified to a three-member investigative panel on the first day of a formal inquiry into the death of Christian, a former lifeguard and member of a Dallas high school swim team.

Christian, 18, drowned Aug. 27 during a water survival training exercise at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot. The first Marines inquiry exonerated his instructor, Sgt. Rudy Rodriguez, despite testimony from other recruits that Christian was struggling, calling for help and being pushed from the side of the pool by Rodriguez.

In an unrelated case, comments by the Corps' highest ranking officer created a stumbling block Wednesday in the court-martial of a drill instructor accused of ordering two recruits to assault a third recruit whose spleen was ruptured in the beating.

The Texas State Railroad plans to put an old Santa Fe steam locomotive into service the last day of this month. The 138-ton engine will pull the TSR's passenger train from Maydelle to Rusk, a distance of around 10 miles. The TSR operates a train between Palestine and Rusk as a tourist attraction from spring into the fall. It plans to shut down for winter on Nov. 1. This means that Santa Fe's old No. 1316 will see only two days of service until it is idled for the winter.

Santa Fe people probably will not recognize the engine as one of their own, however. It is painted in the green and silver motif of Southern Railway. Nevertheless, rail buffs likely will be interested in seeing the 1911 model locomotive return to action.

But if you happen to be interested in riding behind TSR's No. 500, its new number, they are advising that you make reservations, because they expect a lot of passengers on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. There is a toll-free number: 1-800-442-8951.

★ ★ ★

Autumn foliage is expected to be in full color about the end of the month along the TSR line.

That brings up a question that arises every year about this time, especially among youngsters. Why do leaves change color in the fall?

Many attribute it to cold weather, but leaves make their change, regardless of the temperature when the daylight hours diminish. When the hours of darkness become longer than the daylight period, the Chlorophyll in the leaves begins to break down and other pigments begin to form. Chlorophyll gives the leaves their green color.

Leaves have yellow and orange pigments throughout the year, but they are covered by green chlorophyll during the spring and summer. When the hours of sunshine decline, the chlorphyll recedes.

★ ★ ★

The situation is reversed in the spring. As the hours of sunshine increase, new, green leaves begin to appear. We used to think that warmer temperatures were the only cause of trees budding out in the spring. And we once saw an individual who, fearing that his fruit trees were emerging so early that they would be nipped by a late frost, buried ice around their roots in an effort to slow down the budding process. It didn't work, of course, because there was plenty of sunshine to bring the trees out.

Chamber Sets Membership Breakfast

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a membership breakfast for Friday, Oct. 30, Bill Warner, chamber manager, has announced.

Breakfast will be served at 7 a. m. at the Smorgasbord. The price is $3.50 per person. New members of the chamber (those who have joined since the last membership breakfast) will be guests.

Other meetings scheduled by the chamber include the women's division at noon Tuesday at the Snyder Country Club, and the chamber board meeting at 4 p. m. Tuesday in the conference room of the chamber building.

TV Report To Feature Drama Dept.

According to information received Wednesday at Snyder High School, Channel 28 (SCAT 7) of Lubbock, plans to do a special television report on the SHS Drama Dept.

Tentative plans which were made more than a week ago were firmed up Wednesday.

The TV crew is planning coverage of the SHS advanced acting classes and interviews with various drama department personnel.

According to personnel of the TV station, they became interested in the SHS Drama Dept. after learning that Powers Boothe, Brad Maule and Dane Witherspoon, all SHS drama ex-students, had appeared on national television in various shows all in the same year.

Exact show time for the program will be announced later, according to Jerry Worsham, SHS drama director.

Q.—Was Phyllis George ever named Miss America, and if so, when?

A.—Yes; 1971.

Front Brings Area Showers

The most potent norther of the fall season brought more rain and sagging temperatures to the Snyder area today.

Temperatures dropped to 41 degrees and intermittent showers added from half an inch to nearly an inch of moisture. The official rain gauge at the city water plant measured .60 inch. This ran the total for the year to 19.22 inches, about an average year's total here.

Showers produced .80 inch at the Lake J. B. Thomas dam, but runoff amounted to no more than a trickle, according to reports this morning. The rains mean further delays in the cotton harvest here. However, a clearing trend is predicted for Friday, with temperatures due to dip into the high 30s tonight.

A freeze warning is in effect tonight for the Texas Panhandle where readings are expected to drop to near 30 degrees by dawn Friday.

A flash flood warning was in effect for Val Verde County early today and flash flood watches covered Southwest Texas between San Angelo and Midland and another watch covered south and east portions of North Texas.

In addition to the freeze warning, flash flood warning and flash flood watches, forecasts called for cloudy skies, cooler temperatures and occasional rain and drizzle statewide. Highs were to range from the 40s in North Texas to the 60s and 70s in South Texas.

The front was located along a line from Dallas-Fort Worth southwestward to near Del Rio early today.

As Fall Production...

Snyder High Players To Present 'Dracula'

"Dracula" has been announced by Snyder High School Drama Director Jerry Worsham as the school's fall drama production.

Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 29, Saturday, Oct. 31, and Monday, Nov. 2, at 8 p. m.

The script for the production has been created as a joint effort by the drama students and their director. It is based on the classic melodramatic novel by Brian Stoker. A lavish set has been designed for the production by Jack O'Banion, senior drama student.

Numerous special effects including fog, flying bats and mysterious appearances and disappearances have been directed into the show. According to Worsham, the cast has included something for everyone, and the style of the show is more melodramatic than gory. Families may come as a group without fear of being offended by violence or language.

A group of senior veteran actors at the high school will head up the cast. All have extensive experience in previous SHS productions. They include Jack O'Banion and Robert Loveless in the roles of Drs. Van Helsing and Quincy; Jennifer Cole and Kim Lunsford in the roles of Lucy and Mina; and Mark Shaw as Jonathan Harker, one of Dracula's victims.

Joey Forbes will portray Dracula. John Wilson has been cast as Renfield, "an interesting case," while Rayne Marlo will play Mrs. Fern, the housekeeper. Andrew Sealy, SHS veteran lighting designer, will make his acting debut in the role of Grimm, a Sanitorium Assistant.

Additional cast members include Ramona Murphy as Miss Anya; Quent Gilbert (new student from Kermit), as Arthur Holmwood; Kathy Norris as Nurse Cassidy, and Diane Horsley as Nurse Sentell. Cherie Curfman, a new SHS student from Abilene, will play Flora, the maid, and Vicki Gregory is cast as Mrs. Westenra.

Melinda Merritt, LaRhonda Koonce and Kristi Masters will play the roles of Dracula's "Vampire Wives." Inmates of Dr. Quincy's Sanitorium will be portrayed by David Babcock, Gary Cotton, David Etheridge (new student from Roscoe), Keith Martin and Shane Sullivan.

Clint Potts will serve as assistant to the director. Andy Sealy, Keith Bryan and David Deavers will be in charge of lighting, and Keith Martin and Kelly Farqhuar will be sound technicians.

Curtain time for each performance will be 8 p. m. Reserved seats are on sale at $5 each and may be reserved by calling the high school. General admission tickets are $2.50 each and are being sold by members of the cast at the high school. They also will be available at the door.

SCENE FROM MELODRAMA—Jennifer Cole, in the role of Lucy, finds herself strangely attracted to Count Dracula, played by Joey Forbes, in the upcoming SHS fall production, "Dracula." The classic melodrama will be presented in a lavish setting with turn-of-the-century costumes, antiques and stage props. It will be a family show with something for everyone, said director Jerry Worsham.

Americans Maintain Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans recruited and paid by a fugitive former CIA operative are reportedly flying and maintaining Libyan air force planes, The New York Times said today.

The Americans, and also Canadian and British pilots, have flown U.S.-made transports and helicopters, the Times said, attributing the information to associates of the former Central Intelligence Agency man, Edwin P. Wilson.

It quoted one Western pilot as saying Americans piloted helicopters in Libya's invasion of Chad this year.

The newspaper, in an article from London, a base of operation for companies controlled by Wilson, said the activities of Wilson's American recruits apparently do not violate any U.S. laws.

The unidentified Western pilot said he was paid $3,000 a month.

Trap Gains Reputation

MELISSA, Texas (AP) — This community of 578 persons has a four-man, full-time police force that plies State Highway 75 north of Dallas for speeders, nearly clearing its yearly budget for fines in two months.

But city officials insist they don't want to get a bad reputation. They just want to enforce the law.

"We'd like to pull out of Highway 75 completely," said City Council member Mike Bell. "We don't want to get a bad reputation. But right now they've got to come up with some tourist tickets to pay for themselves."

Citizens band radios often crackle along the 2.8-mile strip of state highway annexed by the Melissa City Council in February, warning truckers and motorists of patrols.

More than 60 percent of the fines collected by the city between Feb. 1 and Aug. 31 for violations of Melissa law have come from citations, primarily speeding tickets, written against drivers on Highway 75.

Evidence May Be Used

ATLANTA (AP) — Evidence gathered in a search of Wayne B. Williams' home and car may be used against him when he goes on trial on two murder charges in December, a judge has ruled.

The charges stemmed from an investigation into the slayings of 28 young blacks in the Atlanta area.

Fulton County Superior Court Judge Clarence Cooper issued the ruling and set a Dec. 28 trial date Wednesday.

Defense attorneys had argued that the police lacked "probable cause" to conduct the June 3 search of Williams' home and car.

Cooper also rejected a motion to throw out the case due to pretrial publicity.

Man Turns Himself In

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A 41-year-old man wanted in connection with a Texas murder five years ago has turned himself in to Saginaw police, authorities said today.

Francisco Gomez, who has lived in Saginaw for the past five years but formerly was from the San Antonio, Texas, area, walked into the police station Monday night and announced he was turning himself in for a murder at San Antonio, said officer Jerry Rethman.

Detective Barrie Lockwood said Gomez told officers his son, who still lives in San Antonio, was receiving threats because of the murder. "So, to get the heat off his son, he turned himself in," Lockwood said.

He said he did not know the details of the drug-related murder, which occurred in June 1976 in Bexar County. An acquaintance of Gomez' was shot to death, but "Gomez denies killing him. He says he was just there when it occurred; he was not the one doing it," Lockwood said. "He says he wants to clear his past and his name and get it over with."

Accused Of Murder...

Nurse On Trial Pleads With Jury

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — A nurse accused of injecting a lethal dose of morphine into the body of a 51-year-old cancer patient turned to the jury after closing arguments in her murder trial and begged them to set her free.

"No one here, not yourselves, not my lawyer, not the district attorney, can possibly imagine the pain and agony she was going through, because they weren't there," Anne Capute said Wednesday of the patient, Norma Leanues. "But I was."

The 44-year-old nurse delivered her unsworn statement under a little-used state law that allows murder defendants to speak to juries without risking cross-examination. The jury was to begin deliberations today.

Mrs. Capute is accused of taking matters into her own hands and killing the ailing patient in what prosecutors have suggested was a mercy killing. Mrs. Capute says she was following the orders of a doctor, and defense lawyers have presented evidence that Mrs. Leanues was killed by cancer and its complications.

Mrs. Capute was one of three nurses charged last year with killing Mrs. Leanues by giving her a morphine overdose on May 18, 1980, at Morton Hospital in Taunton.

The other two nurses are to be tried separately.

As her husband and several of her seven children wept in the packed courtroom, Mrs. Capute told jurors she "loved Mrs. Leanues as I have any of those (patients) that I've cared for."

Several jurors dabbed at their eyes during the three-minute statement.

"I stand before you today and beg of you only one thing. If you believe the district attorney when he says that I killed Norma Leanues, then I ask you to bring back a guilty verdict.

"But if not, if you believe, as I swear to you, that it's true that I did nothing other than try to help Norma Leanues with her agony and her suffering, please set me free and return me to my family."

The jury received nearly three hours of detailed instruction Wednesday from Superior Court Judge Robert Prince.

Bristol County District Attorney Ronald Pina said in closing arguments that injections of morphine, exceeding doctor's orders, killed Mrs. Leanues and "ended any flicker of hope" for her.

Defense attorney Pat Piscitelli said Mrs. Capute was following orders and kept careful records of the morphine she used.

Braniff Might Move Its Office

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International is considering moving the headquarters of its airline from Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport to Love Field in an attempt to further reduce operating costs, an airline spokesman said.

Spokesman Ray Chanaud said the move would involve the airline's subleasing part or all of its world headquarters building at the regional airport. He said the airline has already been contacted by commercial real estate brokers interested in finding a tenant for office space in the building.

Chanaud said the airport's board has been "very cooperative" in what he called "informal discussions" about the possible move. Braniff has a long-term lease with the D-FW Airport Board, owner of the building.

The airline has not decided when or how much of the office space at D-FW would be subleased or what Braniff operations would be moved to Love Field, Chanaud said. He said the airline would have enough space at Love Field to accomodate its operations, but not as much as at D-FW.

"This would not be an overnight move," Chanaud said.

He said the offices of some top Braniff officials, including board chairman John J. Casey and president Howard Putnam, might be moved to Love Field.

It has not been determined how much money Braniff could save by such a move, Chanaud said. "But the major purpose is too find a way to reduce costs," he said.

Braniff, which has been trying to recover from massive economic problems, moved into the office building at the regional airport only three years ago. The headquarters had been located in a building near Love Field prior to three years ago.

Trailblazer Earns First Place Rating

The 1981 Trailblazer, Western Texas College yearbook, received a first place rating from Columbia University's Scholastic Press Association in New York City.

Placings are based on these numerical scores: First, 850-1,000; second, 700-849; third, 500-699; and fourth, below 500.

Competing in the junior college division nationwide, the WTC publication earned 889 points in five categories, including 88 of 100 in theme and structure, 283 of 300 in layout-design, 309 of 350 in coverage and copy, 159 of 175 in photography, and 50 of 75 in cover-community and advertising.

Lynda Cain McCormack edited the book. Adviser was Dr. Michael McBride, student publications adviser and associate professor of journalism.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Now that women are making business trips, someone did a survey on who was missed the most when they went out of town. Men or women?

It came as a complete shock to me that overwhelmingly it was the man who missed the woman. Women loved the luxury of not having to cater to men's schedules. They could eat a bowl of popcorn for dinner, have onions on their hamburgers and paint their toenails in bed.

But the men said their loneliness had nothing to do with meals. It had to do with the companionship of having someone there at the end of the day, sharing what happened to them and providing a house bustling with activity.

I would have been willing to bet that my husband could watch me being eaten by a sofa and still remain silent.

I don't know how many of you are married to men who are non-talkers; but I learned early that my husband spoke only six words a day...none of them to me.

At first, I loved the strong, silent image. I told that to a tropical fish one day after I had tried to initiate a conversation with my husband for two days.

He is of the old school: Talk only when you have something to say.

I am of the popular school: keep chattering and something worth saying might just come out amd surprise everyone.

The other night my husband was following his flight pattern getting ready for his descent into the lounger in front of the TV set.

"Is there anything nicer than being home?" I chided.

"Ummmm."

"At least the luggage arrived with the plane."

"Ummmm."

"The mail really stacked up this time."

"Ummmm."

"Traveling is lonely."

"Ummmm."

"Any news??

"Ummmm."

"Exhausting trip."

"By the way," he said, "where did you go?"

"I didn't," I said. "You did."

See what I mean.

Your Birthday

October 23, 1981

This coming year you are likely to be luckier with projects on which you've already spent time than you will with new ones. Be patient, keep the faith and finish what you've begun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could become involved in something very opportune today and yet there's a chance you won't recognize it for what it is. Count your blessings instead of questioning them. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is a possibility that you will treat friends far more generously today than they'll treat you. Be kind, but also protect your interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In situations where you are strongly motivated, success is likely today. However, your attention span may be rather brief and you won't do all you can.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Doing the difficult is within your capabilities today. What you accomplish should earn you admiration, provided it's done with style and taste.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends could be more of a hindrance than a help today in managing serious matters for you. Keep them out of the picture, even though their intentions are good.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep to the cold, hard facts when making important decisions today. If you let emotions enter the picture they could cloud your judgment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're good at conceiving concepts and ideas today, but you could lack skill in implementing them. Keep your work on a par with your bright thoughts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be complimentary today if kudos are warranted, but don't lay it on too thick if they are not. Such flattery would work against you, rather than for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're very reliable and responsible today in dealings with outsiders, but you might fail to do something you promised your mate you'd do.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Leave the tough artistic jobs around the house today to professionals. You could botch the job, and have to call in someone later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're good at making sales pitches today, but you may lack the skill to close the deal. Know when to stop selling.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Gauge your audience carefully today. Don't talk about what you have or own to "have-nots." Rather than being impressed, they'll resent your making them feel inferior.

Nettie Moss Speaks To Retired Teachers

The Scurry County Retired Teachers met recently at the Senior Center for their October meeting. Nettie Moss, daughter of Alfreda Moss and the late Jim Moss, foreign exchange student to Turkey, gave the program. She gave an interesting talk and slide presentation on her time spent in Turkey. The local chapter of the American Field Service sponsored the trip.

Jewel Summers, president, conducted a short business session. She explained the Senior Pharmacy Service Bill which will go into effect January 1, 1982. The bill will cover AARP and NRTA members only. The purpose of the bill is to curb medical expenses for members. For further information write to Pharmacy Service, P.O. Box 36114, Dallas, Texas.

She also reported that local membership has reached 61, which includes nine new members. Those recognized at the meeting were Elizabeth Beavers, Texas Jones and Jay Guthrie.

Mrs. Summers conducted a discussion on the upcoming NRTA workshop to be held in Abilene November 9. Members who wish to attend should get in touch with her before that date.

Hosting the meeting were Lida Rhoades, Margie Key, Edna McCollum, and Margaret Dell Pilcher. There were 22 members present.

4th In Cunningham Murder Series Out

THE CASE OF THE SLIDING POOL. By E. V. Cunningham. Delacorte. 178 Pages. $10.95.

They're worth recommending to mystery readers who are looking for "new" writers.

Cunningham has done a rather unusual thing: he presents a solid main course, but he's a little weak on the trimmings.

Masuto is a Zen Buddhist. Cunningham doesn't come anywhere near presenting that the way another mystery writer, Janwillem van de Wetering, presents his Zen member of the Amsterdam police force, where the flavor of Zen is part of every sentence. Cunningham sticks his Zen on from outside. It's a suitable icing, but it isn't part of the cake.

Masuto also encounters hostility every time he meets a member of the Los Angeles police force. When a new corpse is found, the first thought one cop has is that Masuto is probably the killer. He doesn't find this unreasonable and has no inclination to go on to a second thought.

Also, everybody Masuto meets comments on his being Japanese, often with amazement that he is a police detective. Surely somebody would see Masuto as just a fellow cop or not find it remarkable that a detective is Japanese.

First, he sets a difficult challenge. In this case it's a swimming pool which slid down a Beverly Hills hill during a storm, uncovering a skeleton. The person had died of a knife wound from the back, which nicked a rib. The pool had been installed 30 years before.

Masuto follows that trail, which looks at first impossible. Cunningham paces well. The trail is discouraging, but not enough to get boring; it's intricate, but not enough for the reader to be unable to follow its twists. Clues and meanings stay tantalizingly ahead of the reader all the way. We don't lose the Zen detective, who has been provided by Cunningham with a first-rate mind, but we certainly don't get ahead of him. Mary Campbell

In White House...

Dole Highest Ranking Woman

EDITOR'S NOTE—Elizabeth Dole is the highest ranking woman in the White House. Together with her husband, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, they make one of the most powerful career couples in the country's seat of power.

By Maurine Santini
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the head of the Blind Veterans' Association wanted the White House to comply with a list of demands for his organization, he went to Elizabeth Dole.

When Lupe Angiano wanted to inform the White House about her program to help women get off welfare and into jobs, she went to Elizabeth Dole.

And when President Reagan wanted business, labor, minorities, professional organizations and everyone else to support his economic package, he went to Elizabeth Dole.

Reagan, of course, didn't have to make a special trip. Persuading organizations of all stripes to support Reagan's policies — or at least not work against them — is Elizabeth Hanford Dole's job.

But Mrs. Dole, the highest ranking woman in the White House — her office is on the second floor in the West Wing — takes it seriously. That's her nature, according to someone who should know — her husband.

Since Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, married the North Carolina native in 1975, they have become one of the nation's most visible high-powered career couples. And their lifestyle reflects it.

"She leaves earlier than I do in the morning," says Dole, who helped the administration push its tax and budget cuts through Congress while his wife lobbied for support for the same economic package with labor, business and nearly every other organized group in the country.

The 12-hour day Mrs. Dole regularly puts in is a hectic series of meetings with Reagan's other top aides, her own staff, and the varied organizations she tries to keep happy.

One recent day, for example, she spoke at an awards ceremony with Nancy Reagan. Later, she joined Mrs. Reagan and officials from Howard University at an exclusive lunch for eight served in the Rose Garden. On other days, she sits next to the president in the Cabinet Room while he meets with one of the groups she has been wooing.

In the evening, Mrs. Dole, 45, often attends work-related social activities in one part of town, while her husband wines and dines his constituents, visiting Kansans, in another.

The busy pace of their lives "keeps us both alert," the senator says. "We've avoided any real conflicts." He says they make a point of spending Sundays together, have the same interests and, unlike some working couples, live in the same city.

If fate had taken a different turn, Mrs. Dole might now have been First Lady at the White House instead of an employee. Just eight months after their marriage, the senator ran for the vice-presidency with former President Ford. In 1980, Dole made his own try for the nation's top office, but he dropped out in the primaries.

All of Jannersten's hands don't show overbidding or bad breaks that must be overcome.

With 25 high-card points and balanced distribution, South has a very standard three-notrump opening.

He is lucky enough to get a heart lead and sees that he has a lot of tricks if he can get to dummy's diamonds, but he assumes that the defender with the ace of diamonds will be able to hold off twice and that two diamond tricks will be the best he can take.

Can he get to nine with just two diamond tricks? Yes, if he can establish a second club. He can do this against a 3-3 club break. How about a 4-2 club break?

He can handle some 4-2 club breaks by leading a low club immediately and will still have time to try diamonds so at trick two he leads a low club. West wins with the nine or East with the 10 and a heart or spade is led. It makes no difference.

South wins, cashes his ace of clubs and leads his king of diamonds. West must duck and the jack of diamonds is led next. West must duck again. South overtakes with dummy's queen and leads dummy's last club to establish his jack of clubs for trick nine.

Police Find Bomb Factory...

'60's Group Arrested In Bloody Brink's Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — Police investigating the bloody ambush of a Brink's armored car found a bomb factory equipped with floor plans for six police stations and identified two of the suspects as members of the radical Weather Underground.

Authorities said the gang may be associated with two militant groups — the Black Liberation Army and the May 19 Coalition, which takes it name from the birthdate of Ho Chi Minh — and may be linked to four other armored car heists in the New York area in the last two years.

Meanwhile, the search continued for up to eight more suspects in Tuesday's $1.6 million holdup and gunbattle in Nanuet which left two policemen and a Brink's officer dead. Four people were arrested.

Although they identified two of the suspects as members of the long-dormant Weather Underground terrorist group which sprang from the anti-war protests of the 1960s, police were unsure of the identity of one of the people in custody.

Charged with three counts of murder Wednesday was Katherine Boudin, 38, who had been a fugitive ever since she fled naked from a bomb factory in a Greenwich Village townhouse that exploded on March 6, 1970, killing three people.

Also charged was Judith Clark, who served nine months in jail following the "Days of Rage" demonstrations in Chicago in 1969.

Miss Clark's last known radical association was with the May 19 coalition, which takes its name from the birthdates of the late North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh and the late black militant Malcolm X, according to The New York Times.

The Black Liberation Army has been linked to attacks on police officers and bombings and the Times said police had been searching for links between it and the Weather Underground.

There was "no hard evidence that radical factions have joined forces" or that the Weather Underground had turned to robbery, New York City Police Commissioner Robert McGuire said Wednesday. All of the $1.6 million taken in the Brink's robbery was recovered in a rental van and a getaway car that crashed, authorities said.

FBI spokesman Joe Valiquette said Miss Clark and Miss Boudin had been associates "for years," but added that "we haven't been investigating the Weatherman since July 1979." The Weatherman, a violent offshoot of the Students for a Democratic Society, changed its name first to Weatherpeople and then to the Weather Underground to eliminate sexist terminology.

Police and Brink's officials said Wednesday that the methods and circumstances of the ambush of the Brink's truck in Nanuet were nearly identical to those in a holdup that left one guard dead and netted $292,000 in the Bronx on June 2.

Authorities also drew parallels to armored-car holdups June 11 in the Bronx, last December in Brooklyn and in April 1980 on Long Island.

Police were unable to catch one getaway car after Tuesday's robbery, but its license number led them to an East Orange, N.J., apartment where authorities found 9mm automatic weapons, bomb supplies, a bomb manual and floor plans of six New York police stations, officers said.

Another of the getaway cars was registered to Eve Rosahn, who was arrested at a New York airport during a protest of the Springboks rugby team from South Africa in which a caustic substance was thrown at police, authorities said.

Lawyer Leonard Boudin and his wife, Jean, went to see their daughter Wednesday at the Rockland County Jail, where Miss Boudin, Miss Clark and the two other suspects are being held on the triple murder charges. Attorney William Kunstler accompanied them.

"I and my wife met with our daughter Kathy and we had a long, personal discussion and we are going to defend her as best we can," Boudin said after the 90-minute visit.

Kunstler said he would represent Miss Boudin at a hearing Friday afternoon and would confer with lawyers for the other three suspects.

The Brink's guard, Peter Paige, 49, of East Brunswick, N.J., was shot to death and two other guards were wounded in an ambush Tuesday afternoon at a Nanuet shopping mall about 25 miles north of mid-Manhattan.

The robbers fled in a red van and then split up into three groups, some driving off in an Oldsmobile and the others in a yellow sports car and a rental van. The car crashed in Nyack and police arrested Miss Clark, a man who gave his name as James Hackford, 33, of New York City, and a man who gave his name as Sam Brown.

The name and address given for Hackford proved to be that of a retired New York City police officer who said he did not know how or why his name had been used. Police said they were not sure who the man who said he was Hackford really was.

The rental van was halted at a roadblock at the New York Thruway in Nyack, about five miles from the holdup scene, when robbers with automatic weapons jumped out and began firing. Nyack police officers Sgt. Edward O'Grady, 32, of Pearl River, and Waverly Brown, 45, of Spring Valley, were killed.

Most of the gang members escaped in the confusion, but a woman who gave her name as Barbara Edsen and later identified through fingerprints as Miss Boudin was seized by an off-duty prison guard as she ran down the highway.

Cathlyn Platt Wilkerson, who fled the Greenwich Village bomb factory at the same time as Miss Boudin, came out of hiding last year and pleaded guilty to possession of dynamite. She began serving a three-year sentence last January.

In 1978 Miss Clark and nine others sued the federal government for $100 million, charging that the FBI had illegally opened their mail, tapped their telephones, and broken into their homes during investigations of the Weather Underground.

The FBI, asked if there was any information to connect Hackford and Brown with radical causes, declined comment.

Dear Abby

Funeral Arrangements Worry Would-Be Suicide

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have a question which, as you will see, I can't very well ask anyone else. I am nearly 80, quite alone in the world, and have a progressive disease that will eventually make me helpless. Before that time comes, I plan to end my own life, a choice I believe each one of us has the right to make for himself.

I am Jewish, but not Orthodox. I want a Jewish funeral, but I need to know if a rabbi would consent to perform a funeral for a person known to have committed suicide.

Could I be buried in a Jewish cemetery? Please do not identify me or my town.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: According to Jewish law, our bodies belong to God, and only he can take a life. However, out of consideration for the grieving family, suicides are entitled to have a religious funeral and they may be buried in a Jewish cemetery.

DEAR ABBY: Your column telling girls that they don't have to "go all the way" to prove their love has made me sit down and write this.

Why is all the blame piled on the boys? Listen to this: I'm a high school senior. I dated a girl last year (I'll call her Angie) and she told me if I didn't go to bed with her it meant I didn't "love" her. Well, I kept my self-respect and my virginity, even though Angie leaked a few rumors around school.

A friend of mine (I'll call him Tim) was advised by his father to get some "experience" in his teens so that when he gets married he will be able to guide his bride through the honeymoon. Tim followed his father's advice and as a result he contracted syphilis! I know all this because I was the friend who took Tim to the clinic for treatments.

I just want to say that it's not only the girl who pays the price for hasty sex. (Consider the boy who has fathered a child out of wedlock.)

Please print this to let other boys know that virginity is nothing to be ashamed of. I'm not a religious fanatic. I'm just waiting for "the right time."

IN NO HURRY

DEAR IN: I commend you for your wholesome outlook and manly self-control. It's too bad Tim's father didn't tell his son how to prevent the twin tragedies of irresponsible sex: venereal disease and unwanted pregnancies.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A recent discussion with my girlfriend has led me to write to you with this question. For the last three months we have been together daily with very few exceptions. We have dinner together almost every night and have slept in the same bed (at my place) about five nights out of the week.

She maintains an apartment nearby where she keeps her clothes and belongings and goes there just to change clothes, do her laundry, pay her bills, get her mail, etc.

I say that we are living together. She says we are not. What do you say?

US IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR US: I say as long as she maintains an independent residence, you are not living together.

Over Police Powers...

Efforts To Wipe Out Fraud Leads To Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's drive to wipe out fraud in the multibillion-dollar food stamp program is caught up in a fight over police powers for government investigators.

The debate raging in the House is threatening a bipartisan compromise for cutting another $600 million in food stamp spending, which already has been slashed $1.8 billion for the fiscal year that began this month.

The issue is whether about 100 investigators in the Agriculture Department's inspector general office, who are required to enforce anti-fraud food stamp laws, will get powers to carry a gun and to make warrantless arrests.

Republican supporters of the plan say they that if the police powers are denied, they will force even deeper cuts that would reduce benefits for all 22 million food stamp recipients.

Critics say the police powers proposed by Rep. Tom Coleman go too far, but the Missouri Republican claims it's the only way to control criminal fraud and abuse, estimated to cost the government as much as $1 billion a year.

"We all want to eliminate this massive fraud and abuse," said Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga. "But we don't want to create a police state by giving inspectors general powers that even the FBI doesn't have."

Coleman, however, cited cases covered by the deparment's investigators involving organized crime to counterfeit food stamps and effectively turn them into a second currency used to buy guns, narcotics and other contraband.

"We're not talking about recipient fraud," Coleman said, "We're talking about undercover work ... a lot of times involving organized crime."

Since the Reagan administration began cracking down on criminal fraud early this year, investigators have succeeded in gaining more than 400 indictments and claim a 90 percent conviction rate.

The investigators are trained at the federal law enforcement center in Georgia, and while Coleman acknowledged that none has been harmed so far, he added: "These guys are placed in life-threatening situations. We've sent them into battle, but we haven't given them the power to defend themselves."

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., the ranking Republican on the House Government Operations Committee, argues that the mistake may have been letting Agriculture Department investigators enforce criminal laws in the first place.

If that authority is to remain, Horton says, traditional police agencies should provide protection.

At stake in the debate is a compromise under which the administration agreed to spend $700 million more than it originally wanted to fully fund food stamps for the next 12 months.

The administration estimated after the first round of budget cuts that the food stamp program would cost $10.6 billion in 1982 but the slumping economy pushed that projection to $11.9 billion.

To make up the entire $1.3 billion difference, officials said, would require across-the-board cuts in benefits.

Rep. Fred Richmond of New York, the Democratic chairman of the Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition, says the $600 million cut, made by postponing a benefit cost-of-living increase for six months, would keep the food stamp program on sound fiscal footing.

"We've done everything possible to make this program into a clean, fraud-free, error-free program," Richmond said.

Could Produce First Black Senator In Texas Since 1973

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he has no idea how many Republicans and Democrats his proposed Senate redistricting plan would elect but he is almost certain it would produce the first black senator since 1973.

Hobby said he hopes the five-member Legislative Redistricting Board will approve his plan — instead of one to be offered by Comptroller Bob Bullock — when it meets Sunday.

Bullock, who ends treatment for alcoholism in California on Friday, is expected to recommend a plan that would pair two senators in East Texas and two in West Texas.

Hobby's plan, released at a news conference Wednesday, creates no districts where two senators would run for the same seat in next year's elections.

Liberal Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, and George Korbel, attorney for Texas Rural Legal Aid, a Mexican-American organization, immediately criticized the lieutenant governor's redistricting plan.

South Texas and West Texas districts would resemble those in the plan vetoed by Gov. Bill Clements. Most of the differences are in the eastern half of the state.

Key features of Hobby's plan include:

— Creation of a minority district in Houston, where likely candidates would be Reps. Craig Washington and Al Edwards, both black Democrats. No incumbent lives in the district, and there has been no black senator since Barbara Jordan went to Congress in 1973.

"It is a reasonable assumption that we will have one black senator," Hobby said.

— Establishment of a new 9th District containing Waco, southern Dallas County and the conservative Democrat farming counties of Ellis, Navarro, Henderson, Hill, McLennan, Limestone, Freestone and Falls.

— A tighter clustering in Republican Sen. Betty Andujar's 10th District to "increase the voting influence of blacks and Hispanics."

— Protection of all incumbents who plan to seek re-election from pairing with other incumbents. The district of Sen. Dee Travis, R-Garland, who plans to run for Congress, was combined with that of Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas. In Harris County, the district of Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, who is running for United States senator, was merged with GOP Sen. Mike Richards' district.

— A deviation of no more than 1 percent from the ideal of districts of equal population.

Incumbents would not be running in 1982 in four districts — the Harris County minority district, the new 9th District, the 2nd District represented by Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, who is running for governor, and the 10th District, whose Sen. Bill Meier of Euless is not seeking re-election.

Hobby declined to say what impact his proposal would have on the political party composition of the Senate, which now has eight Republicans and 23 Democrats.

"I don't know, and nobody else will know until November 1982," he told reporters.

Mauzy criticized the Hobby plan for giving liberal Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, the booming Republican suburbs centered on Round Rock in Williamson County. He said the move "doesn't make any sense" and would create problems for Doggett, "which may be the purpose of it."

Mauzy also said he coul not understand why the district of labor-backed Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, was extended into parts of Montgomery and Harris counties.

Korbel predicted Hobby's plan, if adopted by the board, would not gain the required approval of the U.S. Justice Department because, in his view, it weakens the political power of Mexican-Americans in Houston and in the South Texas district of Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin.

"A number of fairly drawn plans drew a Hispanic district in Harris County," Korbel said.

In Traeger's district, he said, some areas with high Mexican-American concentrations were replaced with counties that "are marginal or low Hispanic."

"I think it was just a favor done for Traeger," Korbel said.

The board also must draw new House districts, replacing those struck down by the courts, by midnight Oct. 28. Hobby said Speaker Bill Clayton and Bullock will offer House redistricting plans.

Fine Arts Association members are being reminded that the first program of the season will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in the Western Texas College Fine Arts Theatre.

Richard Urbis of Robston, pianist and composer, will be the guest artist. He will present selections from Beethoven which he performed at the 1981 Beethoven Competition in Vienna, Austria, and selections from Chopin performed in the Chopin Competition in Warsaw, Poland, in 1980.

The program for the evening will include:

Sonata in D Major by Beethoven; Etude in A Minor, Nocturne in F Sharp Major and Scherzo in C Charp Major by Chopin; Prelude and Fugue in B Major and Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach; two etudes by Debussy, Pour les Octaves and Pour les Cinq Doigts; Etude D'Execution Transcendante Feur Follets, and Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 in A Minor by Lizst.

Also on the program is the Czech-American Fantasy composed by Urbis himself.

Urbis is a Julliard School of Music master's degree graduate.

Persons who would like to join the Fine Arts Association are invited to call the Fine Arts Division office at Western Texas College, 573-8511, extension 234, for information. Association members may loan their tickets to friends and may bring guests by paying an additional fee at the door.

ABC Did Not Violate Copyright

DALLAS (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. did not violate a copyright when it produced the television movie, "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a jury has ruled.

A six-woman jury found on Friday that the 1977 movie did not violate the copyright of Falcon International Corp. of Dallas, which made a movie with the same title in 1964.

To prove copyright infringement, Falcon International and co-plaintiff Capital Films Corp. had to prove the title was associated with their movie by a significant part of the consuming public.

Both movies speculated about the outcome of a murder trial had Oswald lived to face charges of killing President John F. Kennedy.

Benjamin Franklin was born in 1706.

Defense Moves For Mistrial...

Daughter Testifies That Vickie Threatened Price

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A state judge was expected to reject two critical defense motions today and continue testimony in the suddenly bizarre Vickie Daniel murder trial.

Visting Judge Leonard Giblin entertained motions this morning for a mistrial and an instructed verdict of aquittal in the slaying of former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Attorneys said privately that they expected him to overrule both.

The case took an unexpected twist Wednesday with a series of disclosures surrounding the Jan. 19 shooting death of Daniel, 39, namesake son of a former Texas governor.

His widow, Vickie, 34, is accused of firing the fatal shot during a bitter brawl at the couple's ranch-style Liberty home.

Mrs. Daniel, while never denying she shot her husband, insists it was an accident.

In a stunning turn of events, Mrs. Daniel's 13-year-old daughter testified for the first time Wednesday that she saw her mother with a rifle and heard her twice threaten Daniel moments before the shooting.

She said she neither saw nor heard shots fired, but when the ambulance arrived that rainy winter night, she realized, "My Mama shot Price."

Kimberly Moore, Mrs. Daniel's daughter by an earlier marriage, said she saw her mother come out of the kitchen with a rifle after the couple had quarreled fiercely.

She said Daniel apparently was descending the steps of an attic stairwell with a small white paper sack when she heard Mrs. Daniel say:

"Put that sack down or I'm going to shoot."

Speaking in a whisper, her eyes clouded with tears, Kimberly recalled herself saying: "Please don't."

The next thing she heard, she said, was her mother again threatening Daniel.

"If you don't believe I'll shoot, I will," she quoted her as saying.

Kimberly said her mother told her to go to her room and shut the door. When she next saw Mrs. Daniel, she said her mother had a rag over her mouth.

Like she was sick?, a prosecutor asked.

"Yes," she replied.

Mrs. Daniel told her to keep her two young sons by the slain speaker in their room, Kimberly said, but added that she saw her mother once more that night.

"I saw her kneeling at the foot of the attic stairs like she was praying," she recalled

Relatives escorted the children to the home of Daniel's brother, Houston, later that night, and medical aides rushed the hysterical Mrs. Daniel to a hospital.

Later, at the hospital, Kimberly said her mother asked if she had told the couple's divorce lawyer, Andrew Lannie, about seeing her with the rifle.

The teenager said she had not.

"Why didn't you tell Andrew Lannie the truth?" a prosecutor asked.

"I was scared to," she whispered.

On both direct and cross-examination, Kimberly said her mother and Daniel fought at least three times that night and twice, "I shoved Price off her."

The defense pointed out major deviations from a sworn deposition Kimberly gave last March and asked specifically when it was she first told a portion of the new story.

"I believe it was when I went to take a lie detector test," she replied.

The defense, at the bench, moved at once for a mistrial, contending the polygraph reference was so damning in the minds of jurors that it could affect the outcome of the trial.

In many instances, the mere mention of a polygraph test is grounds for a mistrial under Texas criminal law. But it is not a hard-and-fast rule and judges may consider each case individually.

Mrs. Daniel's lawyers endeavored to show on cross-examination that her slain husband's father and sister might have persuaded Kimberly to change her story. Kimberly said they did not.

Almost overlooked amid the courtroom motions and melodrama was the fact that the state, after little more than a week's testimony, rested its case. It called a total of 17 witnesses, but none like the final one.

Radiation Reduces The Misery Of Arthritis

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — An experimental radiation treatment for rheumatoid arthritis works so well that patients who once could not walk have returned to relatively normal lives, doctors say.

Doctors tested the treatment on people whose crippling disease could not be eased by any of the usual kinds of arthritis medicine.

However, they cautioned that the radiation still must be tested on more people before it is used routinely to stop rheumatoid arthritis, which affects 7 million Americans.

"The question is what proportion of patients with rheumatoid arthritis would this therapy be useful for," said Dr. Samuel Strober, one of the researchers. "Is it 10 percent or 50 percent? I'm optimistic that there is certainly a proportion of the most severely affected group that could be helped by this."

The doctors directed the radiation at the patients' lymph systems. This changed the balance in their immune systems and stopped their bodies from inflicting crippling damage to their joints.

In many patients, the disease can be controlled with other kinds of therapy, such as exercise, aspirin, gold salts and steroids.

Strober directed research on the radiation therapy at Stanford Medical School. The results of his work and a similar study conducted at Harvard Medical School were published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The two studies are considered preliminary because they involved small numbers of patients and did not include control groups who received alternative treatments.

Radiation of the lymph system has been routinely used for 20 years to treat Hodgkin's disease, a cancer of the lymph nodes.

TASS Rejects Reagan's Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass today criticized President Reagan's latest comments on nuclear weapons, claiming that a statement issued by Reagan Wednesday still fails to rule out "the possibility of unleashing a limited nuclear war in Europe."

Tass Washington correspondent Yuri Levchenko said Reagan's statement "pursues the aim of taking the heat out of the wave of protests and deceiving the public with empty promises and thus clearing the way for the deployment of new nuclear missiles in Western Europe."

Tass acknowledged that Reagan, in his statement, declared that "any use of nuclear weapons would have the most profound consequences."

But the Soviet account also noted Reagan's comment that U.S. strategy calls for maintaining the military ability to deter the use of conventional or nuclear force "at the lowest possible level."

Tass quoted a U.S. newspaper report as saying this comment referred to the possible use of tactical nuclear weapons in Europe.

"One would in vain try to find in the (Reagan) explanation a clear and unambiguous statement that would reject as criminal the very idea of the use of nuclear weapons. Neither does it contain any statement to the effect that the U.S.A. will not be the first to use nuclear weapons," Tass said.

Reagan said that "all presidents have acknowledged, any use of nuclear weapons would have the most profound consequences. In a nuclear war, all mankind would lose."

Reagan said he was responding to Soviet "propaganda statements that seek to drive a wedge between the United States and some of our closest friends in Europe."

French Police Arrest Several

PARIS (AP) — French authorities questioned some 200 people and arrested four in connection with an organized network promoting homosexual activity and pornography with young boys, police sources said.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of six others, with more charges expected to follow, the sources said Wednesday. Teachers and clergymen were among those questioned, they added.

The network was uncovered when a 10-year-old girl in the Paris suburb of Creteil told her parents there was something suspicious about a man taking her two brothers on vacation, the sources said.

Police arrested Patrice Amaniera, 31, of Creteil, who ran an association to help distressed children. A search of his home turned up pornographgic photographs and films, an address book of clients throughout France, and account books, the sources said.

Economy To Continue To Weaken More

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, noting that "we don't have a great deal to cheer about," says the weakening of the nation's economy is likely to continue in the fourth quarter.

Baldrige's comments Wednesday followed release of a new report that showed the inflation-adjusted gross national product declining at an annual rate of 0.6 percent in the July-September quarter.

That was the second straight quarterly decline in "real" GNP — a common definition of recessio.

"Real GNP in the fourth quarter is likely to show another decline," Baldrige said. "The indications seem to be pointing that way."

That would probably mean more production cutbacks and worker layoffs with unemployment rising to about 8 percent of the labor force, he acknowledged, adding that "the effect on human lives is not something that anyone likes."

"We don't have a great deal to cheer about at the moment," he said.

But Baldrige contended that President Reagan's economic program will bring a renewal of growth early next year.

The new figures brought congressional accusations and counter-accusations along party lines.

Harsh signs of recession "show the Reagan economic nonsense for what it is," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill. And he called for "rethinking and reconstructing" of the president's economic legislation by Republican supporters.

One such supporter, House Republican Leader Robert Michel, called O'Neill's comments "total nonsense." And he added, "What we're reaping today are the seeds we've sown during the disastrous four years we've just completed."

Replacing hormones

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Three months ago I had a hysterectomy. A week later I was put on Premarin. Since I had hot flashes and headaches the amount was increased. Now I feel fine but I'm worried about blood clots.

Will I age quicker, wrinkle and dry up if I do not take enough hormones? I'm 36 now. Do the hormones affect your sexual desire? Are there some check points to know if you are taking enough or too much? Do the hormones affect mood? Does the body develop a tolerance so you have to gradually increase the amount? What happens if you miss one or two a month? This surgery is irrevocable so one has to make the best of it.

DEAR READER — You should think of the hormones you are taking as replacement therapy, meaning they replace the hormones that would normally be formed by your own ovaries if you had not had an operation. Since it is a replacement of a natural substance you will not develop a tolerance and need to increase your dosage for that reason.

You must have had more than just a hysterectomy. The uterus does not form female hormones. The ovaries do. When a young woman has her ovaries removed along with a hysterectomy, she usually needs and should have hormone replacement. If not you will be thrown into the menopause early with some of the problems you mention.

Yes, the hormones do affect your sexual desire, just the same as the normal hormones you form from your ovaries at the onset of puberty influence you. One big difference in individual responses is how much female hormone is produced by the adrenal gland.

To help you sort all this out I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-12, Hysterectomy, Cystocele and Rectocele. These are common operations in women.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You will need to rely on your doctor to know if you are taking the right amount of hormone or not. If you don't take enough you may have hot flashes and other changes that he can see when he examines you. The risk of blood clots and other complications from hormones is not really great in your case, probably less than the risk of a normal pregnancy.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am trying to serve foods to my family that are good for them, but I find sodium nitrate in all packages of cold meats, hot dogs, pepperoni, all their favorites. How unsafe is it to consume foods containing this? Am I over-reacting?

DEAR READER — The main reason for concern about nitrates and nitrites is the possibility that they may be converted in the body to nitrosamines, which may cause cancer. To put the issue in perspective, there are bacteria in the intestine that produce many times the amount of these substances than exists in cured meats. They are absorbed into the blood stream and are in your saliva. Hence there is more nitrate and nitrite in your saliva than you can expect to get from your food. So I guess people concerned about this should stop swallowing saliva — and that will indeed be interesting to watch.

Now, I don't happen to approve of the foods you mention. But my reason is that these are exceptionally high fat foods. Their high fat content, and often high saturated fat content, means they should be avoided by those desiring a low-fat diet to avoid heart attacks and strokes.

Tigers Hope To Ride Momentum To Pecos

Pecos Tilt Is Special To Byerly

PECOS – Friday's meeting between the Tigers of Snyder High School and the Pecos Eagles will have a little added drama for at least one figure on the sidelines - Snyder's Coach George Byerly.

Byerly, in his first year as head football coach at SHS, was a former assistant football and head basketball coach at Pecos less than three and a half years ago.

He admitted Friday's game will have a special meaning for him.

"It probably will," he grinned, "not just because I coached there. It's a little different than when I coached at Sweetwater. I don't know the coaches there (Sweetwater) now, but I know all the varsity coaches at Pecos and we're all real good friends."

Asked about the coaches, Byerly joked, "They don't have good coaches, just great athletes over there."

"I don't think playing Pecos has anymore significance for our team, really, but it's special to me in some ways. For one thing, later on I want to be talking about how we beat them instead of how they beat us," he smiled.

Coach George Byerly doesn't know how last week's victory will affect his Snyder Tigers when they take the field against Pecos Friday night, but he's ready to find out.

"I'll tell you, I'm not sure how our young men will react to it. I'm really kind of anxious to find out myself, see if winning a game does make any difference. I can't say that our workouts have been that much better, but that may not be an indication. We'll just have to wait and see."

Unfortunately, Snyder enters Friday's 8 p.m. ballgame will as many question marks as ever, particularly at quarterback, where Brent Beck's status is tentative.

Beck, who was 7 of 12 in his passing for 94 yards against Lamesa last week, injured a knee late in the game. He hasn't been able to work out much this week, but coaches are listing him as the starter for Friday.

"We expect to start Brent, but the question is how he'll hold up if he takes a good shot or something," said Byerly. "We have been unable to work on our passing like we wanted to this week which will probably lead to a less diversified offense for us," the coach added.

Current backups are senior Darryl Boone and sophomore Chad Peterson. Both are capable, said Byerly, but lacking in experience.

"Well, the main thing we'll lose if Brent can't go is experience. I think we'd have to simplify our offense with either Darryl or Chad in there because of that reason," said the coach.

Other members of the team have nagging injuries. Ross Bawcum will still be out with a knee problem, while Loyd Sands is listed as doubtful with a pinched nerve. Glenn Parham is still suffering from some back problems but will probably see action, as will Barry Davis, who has a strained knee.

Injuries aside, Snyder and Pecos are more evenly matched than most fans might realize, especially when it's noted that the Tigers are 1-5 for the season and the Eagles are 3-3.

"They don't have a lot of speed and they haven't thrown the ball well," Byerly said of the Pecos offense. "But they seem to score whatever they need to to win ball games. Monahans recovered a fumble and scored with a minute to go to beat them and Andrews blocked two punts to get most of their scoring," he added.

"They haven't been able to move the ball all that well against people, but as I said, they usually get some breaks and they make them work for them. Their strength is their defense. Nobody has really lined up and moved the ball real well on them."

Byerly cited quickness on the front line defense and a "hoseguard that goes with the Pecos tradition" are keys for the hosts. "Their secondary is not weak by any means, but people that have moved the ball have thrown it on them usually," said Byerly.

Pecos utilizes the same basic Straight T that Snyder uses and has "pretty solid runners but now any great backs".

Pecos's top running back, Joel Garcia, is reportedly out for most of the rest of the season with a knee injury which occured last weekend as the Eagles topped Sweetwater 19-7.

Pecos is averaging 202.8 yards per game while Snyder is averaging 231.5, but the difference has been in defense, where the Eagles allow an average of 189.5 and Snyder 231.1.

Coyotes Host Cardinals; Monahans vs. Andrews

AREA – The Cardinals are only 2-4 for the 1981 football season, but Borden County had best not relax when Coach Clarence Spieker's bunch comes calling here Friday night at 7.

The Cardinals, lacking in speed but long on experience and desire, are coming off of a smacking 60-22 win over Ira, and have other key credentials to their credit also. Ask Highland, a team pegged as the loop favorite in preseason, who found itself down at halftime to the Cardinals, and ahead by only a point going into the fourth quarter. The Hornets pulled out the victory, but only after Hermleigh made a couple of crucial final-period mistakes.

Borden County, meanwhile, is 4-2 with four straight victories, including last week's 52-26 win over Grady. The Coyotes, darkhorse contender for the crown, are 2-0 in conference play, but have yet to face Highland or Trent.

And speaking of Highland, that's where Coach Tom Pierson has the unenvyable task of taking his Ira Bulldogs, 1-6, to this weekend. That game is also at 7 p.m. Friday.

District 2-AAAA

Along the District 2-AAAA ranks, No. 5 rated Andrews and conference preseason favorite Monahans take their undefeated records against each other Friday at 8 - in Monahans. A victory for Andrews would all but wrap up the title for the Mustangs, but a Monahans win would open some doors as the Loboes still have to face a strong San Angelo Lake View team later in the season.

Lake View, with one district loss on the season, travels to winless Lamesa Friday, while Snyder challenges the Eagles at Pecos.

In the only other 2-AAAA game on tap, Sweetwater tests Ector in Odessa Saturday.

Yankees Win; Lead Series 2-0

NEW YORK (AP) - Call it formula baseball - you get seven good innings from your starting pitcher and then just hand the baseball to the Goose.

The Goose is Rich Gossage, boss of the New York bullpen. And when this Goose is loose, it's usually game, set, match for the Yankees.

New York has used that flawless recipe twice now on the Los Angeles Dodgers and that's why the American League champions traveled to California today, halfway down the road to baseball's world championship.

The Yankees beat Los Angeles 3-0 Wednesday night with Tommy John delivering the impressive first seven innings and Gossage cruising through the final two. The combination left the Dodgers staggering on the brink of big trouble as they return home to Dodger Stadium.

"We've seen some outstanding pitching in these two games," said Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda. "Our guys aren't hitting, but they're throwing some great pitching at us."

They were hitless for four innings and had only one real scoring opportunity.

That came in the fifth when Steve Garvey opened with a single and moved up as Graig Nettles made a sharp play - yes, again - to throw out Ron Cey. Pedro Guerrero hit to shortstop and Larry Milbourne tried to cut down Garvey at third. But the throw was bad and both runners were safe on the error.

John then struck out Ken Landreaux. Then he got two strikes ahead of Steve Yeager. The next pitch was a forkball and Yeager drove it right back at the pitcher.

John speared the liner, knocking it down and tossed to Bob Watson for the out.

In the bottom of the fifth, the Yankees gave John a run against hard-luck loser Burt Hooton. Willie Randolph reached base on an error by Davey Lopes and moved to second on John's sacrifice. Then, with two out, Milbourne doubled into the left field corner. It was the only run the Yankees would get off Hooton, but it was enough.

In the bottom of the eighth, Lasorda went to his bullpen with less than Goosian results. Steve Howe surrendered singles to Lou Piniella and Nettles. Then Watson delivered an RBI-single against Dave Stewart and Randolph's sacrifice fly brought in another run.

Except for a one-out walk to Garvey, the ninth was easy. Goose finished with a flourish, striking out Cey and Guerrero on pitches which were just about unhittable.

The Dodgers will try to turn this Series around with rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela on the mound Friday night.

Spikers Slated Against Ector

ODESSA -- Snyder junior varsity and varsity volleyball teams are scheduled in District 2-AAAA action here tonight at 6:30 and 7:30 respectively.

Snyder varsity, trying to defend its district, regional and state championship titles, is 5-1 in the second round of conference play, 13-1 in loop action for the season.

The Tigers conclude their regular season at home Tuesday against Lake View, and will probably meet Monahans (12-1 overall) the following week in a one-match playoff to determine the conference champion.

In other volleyball action this week, Snyder ninth, eighth and seventh grade teams will host a single-day tournament on Saturday.

Underclassmen To Test Sweetwater

Snyder underclassmen are scheduled to play Sweetwater this evening, both here and away.

Local seventh grade teams were to take on the Mustangs in Sweetwater beginning at 4, followed by two 8th grade contests.

In Snyder, the local freshman teams are slated to host the Ponies at 5:30, at Travis Field.

Tickets for any of the games are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Sideline Glances...

Snyder Wins, Texas Too

By BILL MCCLELLAN

Did I, or did I not tell you to pick the opposite on the A&M-Baylor game last week? A word to the wise - do it again this time.

Last week was a fairly miserable 12 of 20 right. .600 percent, bringing the season total down to 85 right, 55 wrong, or .607. I missed several of the college games but the pros got me (again) three out of four.

I'll blame them then - and the Aggies.

At first glance, this week's lineup looks easier, but games like Houston-Arkansas, SMU-Texas, Nebraska-Missouri and Denver-Buffalo, Kansas City-Oakland and Los Angeles-San Francisco could easily go either way. Add A&M vs anybody and an upset here and there and...

On with the show:

SNYDER 14, PECOS 10 -- Pecos' games have all been low scoring. Snyder still has a world of injuries, but Pecos isn't 100 percent either. The Tigers ride a big win over Lamesa last week to upset the Panthers.

Lake View 31, Lamesa 7 -- The Chiefs still have a chance to tie for the district title. They won't give it away to the Tornadoes.

Andrews 21, Monahans 14 -- The game of the week in West Texas. Andrews dashes Monahans' hopes - and Lake View's - with a narrow victory.

Sweetwater 25, Ector 7 -- After hitting some rough weather, the Mustangs find the track smoother this time out.

Highland 56, Ira 22 -- Ira would love an upset here, but the Hornets are too strong.

Borden County 35, Hermleigh 27 -- The Coyotes won't be able to let up for the Cardinals, a much better team than their 2-4 record indicates.

Texas 19, SMU 14 -- Can Akers rally his defense? That's the question here. Houston almost had the Ponies on the ropes until second-half mistakes turned the game around last week.

Baylor 35, TCU 17 -- Baylor begins to charge up again.

A&M 25, Rice 21 -- It'll be a hold-your-breath finish. Pick the opposite again.

Washington 35, Texas Tech 14 -- No contest here.

Houston 23, Arkansas 17 -- Something of an upset, but Houston won't start off in a hole like Texas did, over and over and over and...

More Collegians: Pick Penn State to roll past West Virginia, 35-14; USC to edge Notre Dame, 21-20; Nebraska to outlast Missouri, 27-24; Washington State to nip Arizona, 23-17.

The Pros: The Bengals continue to do well, stopping the Saints, 35, 17; the Broncos rally back to edge the Bills, 24-17; the Cowboys top the Dolphins 28-13; the Chiefs defeat the Raiders 17-14; and the Rams to come back against the 49ers, 27-20.

Bicycle Taken From Residence

Snyder police investigated one reported theft and two minor traffic mishaps.

At 9:47 p.m., Barbra Green reported a bicycle valued at $110 had been taken from the front porch of her residence at 1411 Ave. T around 9:30 p.m..

Police also investigated a minor two vehicle accident at the intersection of 42nd st. and College Ave. Involved were a 1978 Ford driven by Kimberly Withers and a 1979 Cheverolet driven by Kathy Pevehouse. Only minor damage was reported to both vehicles.

At 11:00 p.m., officers recieved a report of a hit and run mishap at the Jifi Conoco in the 4200 block of College. A parked 1977 Ford owned by Rex Gard was struck by an unknown vehicle that then left the scene. Only minor damage was reported.

Vandals Try To Destroy Ancient Wall

JERUSALEM (AP) — The head of archaeological excavations at the City of David said today that vandals had tried to destroy a 4,000-year old wall that surrounded the biblical city built by King David.

Police said the vandals caused about $70,000 in damage to the reinforced parts of the wall and "incalculable damage" to the ancient stones.

Snyder Police Apprehend Three Burglary Suspects

A bit of luck and some independent detective work aided Snyder police in apprehending three suspects in a Saturday burglary.

Darrell Wilson, whose home had been robbed this past Saturday, located the suspects on his own, then called police to come pick them up. Wilson, who had lost several pieces of furniture and various appliances and tools in the burglary, says he had just about given up hope of ever recovering anything.

Tuesday, however, his wife told him that one of the neighbors had told her he had seen their front door standing open on Saturday. Wilson then went next door to talk to the neighbors.

When the man began to give him evasive answers about the time he had seen the door open, he got suspicious. Wilson asked the man if he could come in to use the bathroom. When he entered the apartment, his suspicions were confirmed after he saw some of his furniture in the bedroom.

Three men were in the apartment at the time and Wilson persuaded one of them to follow him across the street. There, he used his landlady's telephone to summon police. When police arrived, they were able to arrest two of the suspects. The third had fled while Wilson was out of the apartment.

Local police did, however, locate and arrest the third subject Wednesday

As of Thursday morning, District Attorney, Pete Greene's office had filed formal charges of buglary of a habitation against Stanly Wayne Johnson and Don Odell Williams both of Snyder. Charges against the third suspect had not yet been filed.

Proposal Would Require Material To Be Classified

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Reagan administration proposal would require government officials to classify information even if they are not sure that secrecy is needed to protect national security.

The new approach, contained in a draft presidential order obtained by The Associated Press, would reverse longstanding government policy that mandates a firm determination of national security danger before a secrecy stamp can be applied.

That stricter policy was endorsed by former Presidents Nixon in 1972 and Carter in 1978.

The new 31-page draft order, which President Reagan can implement on his own authority, also contains several other changes that would increase the government's power to deny public access to documents related to national security.

In one of the breaks with past policies, the Reagan draft states that "if there is reasonable doubt about the need to classify information, the information shall be considered classified."

By contrast, a 1972 directive signed by Nixon's national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, said: "If the classifier has any substantial doubt as to which security classification is appropriate or as to whether the material should be classified at all, he should designate the less restrictive treatment."

Carter's 1978 order contained similar language, declaring that in cases of "reasonable doubt ... the less restrictive (security) designation should be used, or the information should not be classified."

The Reagan draft also would drop Carter's requirement that government secrecy be balanced against the public's right to know. The draft states that "classification shall be determined solely on the basis of national security considerations."

Carter's executive order said government officials must "determine whether the public interest in disclosure outweighs the damage to national security that might reasonably be expected from disclosure."

In another change, the draft would loosen guidelines for what government information can be withheld as "confidential," the classification that is already applied to about 75 percent of the 300,000 government documents kept from public view each year.

Under the Reagan draft, the "confidential" stamp could be applied to documents for which unauthorized disclosuge "reasonably nould be expected to cause damage to the national security."

Carter's order requires government officials to determine that the disclosure would cause "identifiable" damage to national security.

Governor Paints Condo Walls

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Vermont's chief executive got up, put on his paint-spattered white pants and a flannel shirt, and left home to spend a day perched on a ladder, daubing paint on the walls of a West Dover condominium.

A day in the life of Gov. Richard Snelling? Not quite. Try House Speaker Stephan Morse, who spent Wednesday as acting governor.

Snelling was in Japan, where he is spending two weeks on a tour with five other governors, and 1st. Gov. Madeleine Kunin, the next in line, was in Washington on business. So the ship of state was piloted by Morse, a full-time house painter.

The 34-year-old speaker said he didn't realize that he'd have affairs of state as well as a paintbrush in his hands Wednesday.

Morse has been left in charge five or six times when both Snelling and Mrs. Kunin were out of the state, but says he has never made a special trip to Montpelier to sit in the seat of power.

Friendly Flower Shop Is Ready For National Mom-In-Law Day

Friendly Flower Shop wants to remind you there's an important holiday coming up you won't want to forget. Sunday, October 25th is the special day to do something nice for your "Other Mother." IT'S MOTHER-IN-LAW'S DAY.

And there are a couple of ways you can celebrate the occasion. You can walk right up, throw your arms around her, give her a big kiss, and wish her happy Mother-In-Law's Day, or you can send her a gift she can always remember. Send her a bouquet of flowers from Friendly Flowers. But not just any flowers. Send her a bouquet created especially for Mother-In-Law's Day. The FDT CHARM-HER Bouquet.

This bouquet will charm her with beautiful fresh flowers specially designed for this occasion. You may wish to choose one of the other beautiful and unique gifts you'll find at the Friendly Flower Shop. They have a great variety of fresh cut flowers and plants, silk flowers, baskets, brass, pottery, plant stands (wrought iron and brass), decorative wood items, butterfly boxes (unique—all different), dried arrangements, and a beautiful selection of collector item Fenton Ware.

Friendly Flower Shop at 3001 College has gifts for any occasion. Remember, Halloween is coming up. For a really different Halloween Surprise, send someone you love a flower arrangement from the shop.

For special occasions or anytime, JoAnn Prince and the staff at Friendly Flower Shop are always eager to please. So stop in and see the wide variety of gifts or give them a call at 573-3851. You can pick up your gift or have it delivered.

West Texas Carpet Cleans Upholstered Couches, Chairs

Next to new furniture, the best way to make your house look sparkling clean is to have your upholstered couches and chairs cleaned professionally. And Jack Bryant, owner of West Texas Carpet Cleaning, can do it quickly and professionally.

West Texas Carpet Cleaning now has the Advance upholstery cleaner. It is a dry foam method that can get deep down dirt out of material.

And of course West Texas Carpet Cleaning still offers the ultimate in carpet cleaning with the Castex Cyclomatic. The amazing feature of this system is that it has 10 to 30 times more power to get the dirt out than an ordinary carpet cleaner.

The system features a truck mounted unit-nothing goes in your house but the cleaning head and hose. This not only allows for maximum mobility, but also guards against an accidental spill inside the house.

Homemakers, apartment dwellers and businessmen across the country have been amazed by the Super Clean Power of this unique system.

Jack Bryant says, "After five years of cleaning carpets in Snyder I have many satisfied customers. With this equipment I can clean the dirtiest carpet."

Bryant invites both former customers and folks who have not yet tried West Texas Carpet Cleaning to give him a call for a free estimate. The number is 573-2480.

West Texas Carpet Cleaning guarantees their work. When you combine this feature with fast, efficient, courteous service you have a business that you need to be acquainted with. Give them a call-you'll be glad you did.
