Board okays phone system

By KERRI SMITH
The Pampa News

The approval of a new phone and intercom system was among the actions of the Pampa Independent School District Board of Education during its meeting Thursday evening. The board also discussed raising the price of school meals and elected officers.

Re-elected members Derrell DeLoach, Dana Terry and Lance DeFever were sworn in and the board voted to keep the same officers for the upcoming year with Charles Smith as president, DeLoach as vice president and Terry as secretary.

The board voted to approve the purchase of a Shortel Phone system through ComData. The district's present system is more than 10 years old.

The new system will be installed over the next four years while renovations and new construction are under way. The entire district will use the same system, so all of

Thornberry: House leadership compromising security with politics

By DAVID BOWSER
The Pampa News

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pampa's Congressman attacked the House leadership this week for playing politics with national security issues.

Rep. Mac Thornberry, speaking out at Wednesday's House Armed Services markup of the National Defense Authorization Act, took House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., to task on national security issues and expressed his concern that despite the bipartisan work the committee has done, national security is being compromised by the failure of Congressional leaders to take up other important national security legislation.

"The Speaker has said that she would rather have leverage against the President than even allow a vote on the Columbia Free Trade Agreement," Thornberry said.

He said the House Armed Services Committee couldn't do its job and then stick its head in the sand about what's happening all around them.

"Particularly when it undermines the things that we try to accomplish, that we try to do," Thornberry said.

"Election year or not, the

Support sought for Boys and Girls Club

By DAVID BOWSER
The Pampa News

Salvation Army Capt. Mark Martin and his wife Laura talked to the Pampa City Commission this week about getting a letter of support to establish a Boys and Girls Club here.

Martin has been talking to State Rep. Warren Chisum about establishing a Boys and Girls Club in Pampa. They have met with the regional director of the Boys and Girls Club of America.

The state has money they will provide, but Chisum suggested approaching the Pampa City Commission for their support.

Chisum represents 19 counties and this will be the first Boys and Girls Club in his district.

His wife Laura will run the operation, Martin said. She'll be the director.

"The Boys and Girls Club that we want to provide will have activities for after school care when school is in session," Mrs. Martin said, "and for summer programs."

The program, she said, will break down into five different activity areas -- education and career; character and leadership; sports, fitness and recreation; health and life skills, and a team effort that involves the students, their peers, their parents and community representatives.

"We will have power hour every day after school," Mrs. Martin said.

Students can come to the club and get a snack, and then they have to work on their homework, she said.

"We'll encourage them to read up on the day's assignment and read up for the next day's assignment so they'll be prepared," Mrs. Martin said.

She said the homework would be checked to make sure it's done properly.

The progress she expects the students to make will be celebrated with report card parties.

"We feel like the education is very important for any career that the children of this community would go into," Mrs. Martin said, "and we just want to encourage them to continue with their education and do the best that they can."

She said they're planning on having two character and leadership programs, the Keystone Club and the Torch Club.

These are separated by age groups," she said. "These will help the young people learn responsibility as far as being a citizen. They will acquire skills for participating in the democratic process of different programs, the leadership skills they will need."

The sports and fitness and recreation program is a three part program that affects the student's mind, body and soul.

"We want to encourage them to be well and to participate in fitness programs, to eat right, to keep themselves fit and this would help them to form positive relationship that will help them in a healthy lifestyle," Mrs. Martin said.

She said they also want to provide students with health and life skills programs.

"There are two programs that are part of this," she said. "One is called Smart Girls for girls only, and then we have Passport to Manhood, and that is for boys only."

These program address drugs and alcohol and premarital sexual activity.

"We just want to encourage them that abstinence is the best policy in all these things," Mrs. Martin said.

The Family Plus program is a team effort, she said, that supports family activities.

"We know that there are some students that are going to have family issues that won't necessarily know how to reach out and get the support they need," Mrs. Martin said. "This will help them find the resources that they need to help them move along and to help their parents find the resources that they need that can make a difference in their kids lives."

The Pampa clubs would be housed at the Salvation Army facility on South Cuyler.

Mrs. Martin said that eleven percent of the club

A Special Thank You!

To a special boy at Austin Elementary, Cade Furgason. My sister and I took our elderly mother to the park so she could watch her great, great granddaughter Kayla play on May 13, 2008. Cade's act of kindness really impressed us. He told his class mates to be careful so no one would knock our mother down. This just goes to show there are a lot of good kids out there. Thanks to all the parents, teachers and good citizens of Pampa. We are all so busy, sometimes we forget the good ones, so here is a big THANK YOU to Cade and all the kids at Austin Elementary. God Bless You All!

the campuses will be compatible.

A advisory committee of personnel from the high school, junior high and administration studied different systems and companies recommended the Shortel Phone system based on price and warranty.

The board approved the purchase of a Voice over IP system for the high school for $97,183 and, for the Mann Support Center for $15,403 to be included in the 2008-2009 budget. The phones used at Mann now will be transferred over to the old junior high school when the administration moves after the new junior high school is complete.

Construction and renovations under way at the high school also gives the district the opportunity to update the bell and clock system. After hearing from one of the committee members who studied numerous systems, board members approved the purchase of a new bell and clock system from ComData for $150,853, which will be included in next year's budget.

June 26 was set as the date for a public hearing to discuss and adopt the proposed budget and tax rate for the 2008-2009 school year. The meeting will be advertised 10 days before the meeting. The proposed tax rate will be the same as this year - $1.32 per $100 of assessed valuation. This tax rate is 22 cents less than the rate paid by residents two years ago.

Randy Stephenson gave a report on construction at the high school and said everything seems to be right on schedule.

"We received a shipment of steel today and expect another delivery Friday," Stephenson said. "Next week, there will be an 80-ton crane at the high school site to start erecting the steel columns. I think this will be exciting for the residents since they will be able to see work being done above ground finally."

Debbie Middleton, food services director for PISD, presented a report on the rising cost of food and the probability of increased lunch prices for the 2008-2009 school year. She said that the current prices of breakfast and lunch have not increased since 1985.

"Our current lunch prices of $1.05 for elementary, $1.15 for junior high and $1.25 for high school are just not priced to help the district combat the price of food and fuel," Middleton said. "The prices may have to go up significantly since they have not steadily increased over the past 23 years."

I will receive bids in June for next year's meals, so I'll bring these figures back to the board at the June meeting."

Board members commented on the data brought by Middleton showed that Pampa has one of the lowest prices in the entire Panhandle. Out of 31 school districts in this area, only two had cheaper prices for breakfast and lunch, Fort Elliott and Higgins.

Business Manager Carol Fields discussed the budget for the next few years with board members and said they would soon have to decide if the district would give teachers a salary increase and, if so, how much that would be.

Another subject that was discussed at Thursday's meeting was the impact that local businesses would have on school enrollment in Pampa. With Celanese Corporation shutting down current production at the end of this year or early next year, many students may leave the district when their families relocate to other areas. Also, with wind power becoming a big business in the Panhandle in the next few years, this may bring more students into Pampa schools.

members nationally are less than seven years old.

"We feel like we want to make a difference in their lives that will have a positive impact," Mrs. Martin said. "They're not being left home alone. They're not being put into situations where they might be victimized."

"One of the significant things here," Capt. Martin said, "is we worry about domestic problems. Those problems are universal across the United States."

The clubs are geared to homes where there are financial issues, he said.

"It's only $20 a year," Martin said.

The clubs will be open from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on school days. The summer program will go from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In addition to the $20 annual fee, there is a $30 fee per week for the first two kids in a family and $15 for any additional family members. Those fees go to offset transportation costs and food.

"We're going to have lunch every day," Martin said.

There will be funds provided, he said, for those who can't afford the fees.

"We're trying to give an opportunity to people who can't afford anything else," Martin said. "That's a major issue here."

He said that this summer they're planning on a maximum of 40 kids.

"We have a great summer program set up," Martin said. "We have field trips set up."

He said they've planned a 12-week summer program, and they have about 30 field trips planned.

"Over half of those are free," Martin said.

He said they have puzzles, a pool table and a ping-pong table at the Salvation Army facility.

"We also have a gentleman that's going to give us some horses on a regular basis at our property, so they get to go horseback riding," Martin said.

He said they're trying to get the summer program kicked off so they can tell how much interest there will be in the area.

Initially, the program will be at the Salvation Army facility, but Martin said he hopes that eventually they'll be able to establish satellite programs in other places.

Martin said the program is designed to be a haven for the kids.

"There has to be a place where they feel comfortable," Martin said.

He said that as far as organization, the Salvation Army is very strict.

"I have to have one adult for every 10 kids," he said.

That means with 40 kids, he has to have four adults with them at all times.

"The army has policies that are much stricter than any of the states or cities or anything else that we've been associated with," Martin said.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, May 18, the 139th day of 2008. There are 227 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 18, 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure creating the Tennessee Valley Authority.

On this date:

In 1642, the Canadian city of Montreal was founded by French colonists.

In 1804, the French Senate proclaimed Napoleon Bonaparte emperor.

In 1896, the Supreme Court, in Plessy v. Ferguson, endorsed "separate but equal" racial segregation, a concept that was renounced 58 years later with Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka.

'Life is a joke that's just begun.'

— W.S. Gilbert
English librettist
(1836-1911)

In 1920, Pope John Paul II was born Karol Wojtyla in Wadowice, Poland.

In 1926, evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson vanished while visiting a beach in Venice, Calif.; she reappeared more than a month later, claiming to have been kidnapped.

In 1927, a schoolhouse in Bath, Mich., was blown up with explosives planted by local farmer Andrew Kehoe, who then set off a dynamite-laden automobile; the attacks killed 38 children and six adults, including Kehoe, who'd earlier killed his wife.

In 1953, Jacqueline Cochran became the first woman to break the sound barrier as she piloted a North American F-86 Canadair over Rogers Dry Lake, Calif.

In 1967, Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington signed a measure repealing the law against teaching evolution that was used to prosecute John T. Scopes in 1925.

In 1980, the Mount St. Helens volcano in Washington state exploded, leaving 57 people dead or missing.

In 1991, Helen Sharman became the first British citizen to rocket into space as she flew aboard a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft with two cosmonauts on an eight-day mission.

Ten years ago: The government filed an antitrust case against Microsoft Corp., saying the powerful software company had a "choke hold" on competitors that was denying consumers important choices about how they bought and used computers. (The Justice Department and Microsoft reached a settlement in 2001.) The Supreme Court ruled that even public broadcasting stations owned and run by states need not invite marginal candidates to political debates they sponsor.

Five years ago: A Hamas suicide attacker disguised as an observant Jew killed seven Israeli bus passengers. Pope John Paul II celebrated his 83rd birthday with an open-air Mass and requests for prayers so he could continue his papacy.

Idle American: Nap time on Sunday ...

Senior adults of Arlington's Tate Springs Baptist Church filed to fellowship hall for a luncheon following Sunday morning services a while back.

Upwards of 200 signed up for the feast, followed by a program, then a benediction voiced by Pastor Bart McDonald.

It was 1:30 p.m., and the parson might now wish he had let well enough alone with a final "amen." ...

But no. He had a final question, posed with a smile: "How many of you intend to go home and enjoy a nice Sunday afternoon nap?" Most hands went up. Jim Behringer's hand didn't.

"I thought you enjoy a nap every day," the Rev. McDonald said.

"You're right, preacher," piped up Jim's friend, Larry Carter, "but he doesn't need two, and he got a good one during the sermon." ...

Lucien Coleman, long-time preacher and retired seminary prof, has offered tips by the tons to preachers in training. "Particularly in the early going, 'do church' the way they've always done it," he advised.

Dr. Coleman remembers countless times when "unannounced alterations" to "the way they did church" went awry.

One, for example, occurred when a young preacher substituted for the long-time pastor at a small country church. When it was time to take the offering, four ushers came forward. ...

The sub, remembering one of the ushers by name, asked him to voice the offertory prayer. There was a noticeable pause before "Joe" cleared his throat, then managed to get out a few hushed words — four, in fact: "I pass to Henry," he said.

The next three ushers uttered the same four words as they "passed" to Robert, Charles and Milton. The latter passed the "hot potato" back to the preacher.

"Call for voiced prayers only from folks you know will pray and not pass," Dr. Coleman instructed. ...

"Uh-oh's" involving prayer remind Dr. Coleman of another foul-up worthy of many chuckles in the faculty lounge.

A middle-aged Vietnam veteran whose experience was long in the military and short in the ways of Sunday school, joined a men's class. Soon, the teacher asked him to dismiss the class.

His response, in a commanding voice: "All right, men. Dismissed!" ...

Many's the time that folks with no speaking parts at church and who don't get

Texas Thoughts

By The Associated Press

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas:

■ May 12

The Dallas Morning News on the weak dollar and family budgets:

It's simplistic to blame higher oil prices on China's insatiable demand for oil and America's love affair with the automobile. And of course, in an election year, there's another politically convenient villain oil industry executives.

But one of the biggest reasons for the pain at the pump can be found in your wallet. A weak U.S. dollar increases the cost of oil and other imports for American consumers.

For months, the Fed had aggressively slashed interest rates to stimulate the U.S. economy. But that came at a cost.

Lower interest rates also weakened the dollar against other currencies and, likewise, increased energy expenses in family budgets. With oil prices at well over $120 a barrel, the dollar's impact on soaring energy prices is no longer an afterthought.

The more people spend on basic transportation, the less they save or spend on other goods and services. Meanwhile, higher energy costs drive up the cost of manufacturing and shipping, which eventually trickles into the prices that consumers pay in stores. This cycle leads away from a broad-based economic recovery, not toward one.

Federal Reserve chief Ben Bernanke is right to suggest a pause in the Fed's string of interest rate cuts. The weak dollar, which made U.S. goods more affordable overseas, provided a buffer against a more devastating economic downturn in the United States. But right now, this benefit is more apparent on Wall Street than on Main Street because $3.50-a-gallon gasoline and escalating grocery bills are emptying pocketbooks.

The Fed clearly needs to stem the dollar's decline, assuming the economy specifically the housing and credit markets allows it to hold the line on future rate cuts. But those crises aren't yet in the rear-view mirror; the economic recovery is a moving target.

That latest target is the price of energy and its impact on American wallets. Households are financially stressed, and, regrettably, there's a great deal more pain ahead before the U.S. economy recovers. URL: <http://www.dallas-news.com>

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Last year, my husband, "Steve," was scheduled for bypass surgery. He told everyone -- all our friends and relatives -- that he planned to stop smoking afterward. It has now been nine months, and as recently as last week Steve and I were discussing his amazing willpower with friends. Several times over the past few weeks, I had remarked to my husband that his clothes smelled of smoke. He said, "I don't know why they would." I have also told Steve I was concerned because he has developed a deep, productive cough and urged him to see his doctor about it. Last night he became angry with me and told me I am always "borrowing trouble." This morning I moved his bathrobe and found a pack of cigarettes in the pocket. I'm a retired nurse. I know how dangerous the game he's playing is. It's as if he doesn't care. Not only do I not want to lose my husband, our finances are very stressed right now. Steve says this is none of my business. How can I make him see what a dangerous game he's playing? Or do I just shut up and start planning his funeral? -- HURT AND DISGUSTED, WOODBURY, TENN.

DEAR HURT AND DISGUSTED: Face it, your husband is addicted to nicotine. You can order printed materials from the Heart Association, the American Lung Association and the American Cancer Society about the dangers of smoking, but unless he is willing to give up tobacco, nothing will get through to him. By all means start planning his funeral. By starting now you will have a better chance of managing the costs. In addition, talk to your insurance agent about increasing his life insurance, if that's possible. It might also be a good idea to explore part-time employment opportunities, should the need arise. Believe me, you have my sympathy. If one life-threatening health scare wasn't enough to convince your husband to quit smoking, then nothing will.

DEAR ABBY: Our mother was killed in a car accident two years ago. A woman I'll call "Tiffany" was driving at a high rate of speed and ran a stop sign. To this day, our family has yet to hear one word of regret from her, and we are finding it hard not to hate her. My mother died a horrible and painful death. Tiffany destroyed many lives with her "mistake," yet she walked away from the wreck physically, mentally and financially untouched. We understand the meaning of the word "accident." We know she didn't mean to kill our mother, but an apology would have been nice. Even after two years of counseling we are still bitter and need to hear Tiffany say she is sorry. Have you any advice for us? -- STILL GRIEVING IN AMARILLO

DEAR STILL GRIEVING: Please accept my deepest sympathy for the tragedy that befell your family. Under the circumstances, your feelings are understandable, and it may take still more counseling for you to work through what happened and achieve acceptance. Please do not think that the driver of that car is insensitive to your pain and grief. It is likely that she has not contacted you because she was strongly advised against it by legal counsel.

there often make promises they don't expect to keep. One man, call him "Pete," is an excellent example. He's in a sweat, having circled the block several times looking for a parking space. He's due at an important meeting and is on the cusp of being late.

Looking up to heaven, he prays, "Lord, have mercy on me! If you'll just give me a parking place right now, I'll go to church every Sunday from now on, and I'll give up whiskey and gambling."

At that very moment, a parking place miraculously appears. Pete looks up again, saying, "Never mind, Lord. I found one by myself." ...

Some of the most repeated church stories concern funerals.

The conclusion of one graveside service coincided with a tremendous burst of thunder accompanied by a distant lightning bolt and more rumbling thunder.

The little old widower nudged the pastor, saying, "Well, she's there." ...

It's but a hop/skip/jump from country church stories to weekday chuckles that pop up regularly in small-town America, often down at the feed store. At one such store, a youngster, home from college after his first year there, is working at the loading dock. The lad is happy to have a summer job.

As he loads a truck with feed, the customer surveys clouds gathering overhead. "Them are serious clouds, young man," the farmer says.

"Sir, I mean no disrespect, but I must disagree with you," the student counters. "I've been studying meteorology in college, and I am certain that these are not Sirius clouds, but are Cumulus clouds instead." ...

"I admit, son, that I've never been to college," the farmer responds. "But a man can know stuff without college, and I know about clouds.

"There ain't but two kinds of clouds — clouds that are serious, and clouds that ain't. And them moving in here today are serious clouds." ...

country's security ought to come first."

Thornberry said that he believes that the nation's potential vulnerability to new threats grows every day.

The Armed Services Committee passed the National Defense Authorization Act this week. It now goes before the House.

A spokesman for Thornberry's office said the funding levels for Pantex and Bell are expected to be authorized at a level that maintains the current workforce.

Thornberry serves on the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and the Armed Services Committee.

"This week, we continued to play politics with supplemental funding, dribbling out funding for troops in a way that makes it hard to manage the department fiscally, but also that creates doubts about our commitment to friends and foes alike," Thornberry said.

Thornberry is the senior Republican on the Terrorism and Unconventional Threats Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee and serves on the Strategic Forces Subcommittee that has oversight responsibilities for the nation's nuclear weapons complex, including Pantex.

As a member of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, Thornberry is a member of the Subcommittee on Technical and Tactical Intelligence and the Subcommittee on Intelligence Community Management.

What is the What Selected for Readership WT; African Refugee to Speak at September Convocation

CANYON — A book closely based on the inspiring story of an adolescent African refugee who is separated from his family in war-ravaged southern Sudan and ultimately makes it to the United States has been selected as the 2008-2009 offering in West Texas A&M University's common-readership program.

"What is the What" by Dave Eggers is a novel about the experiences of Valentino Achak Deng, one of the 20,000 "Lost Boys." His story relates both details about the conflicts in Sudan and the experiences of refugees in America.

Deng has agreed to speak at WTAMU's Convocation next September at the First United Bank Center on campus.

Copies of "What is the What" will be distributed to all incoming freshmen this summer at New Student Orientations and Buff Branding.

Dubbed Readership WT, the common-reader program was initiated in 2005 to bolster the theme of the University's Quality Enhancement Plan, which is "Engaging the first-year student."

Convocation also was born in 2005, and the keynote speaker at each has been the author of the common reader. While the author will not be making an appearance at WTAMU this year, having the subject of the book instead will be no less insightful or inspiring, according to Dr. Russell Lowery-Hart, associate vice president for academic affairs and director of Readership WT.

"We are thrilled to have reached an agreement with Valentino Deng to speak at Convocation," Lowery-Hart said. "Nobody knows and understands the tragedy of East Africa better than someone who has lived through it. It is a tragedy that continues to this day."

As the fourth selection for Readership WT, "What is the What" follows on the heels of the 2007-20087 selection, "Night," by famed Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel, who spoke at last year's Convocation. Afterward, 20 WTAMU freshmen were chosen through an essay contest to take an expense-paid trip to Poland to follow in the footsteps of Wiesel.

"We fully expect to do something similar this year," Lowery-Hart said. "We've studied the Holocaust and learned a great deal about man's inhumanity to man. But such inhumanity is not merely a thing of the past; it exists today in places like East Africa. 'What is the What' will open a lot of eyes on our campus."

Previous Readership WT selections:

2005: "A Hope in the Unseen" by Ron Suskind

2006: "What Should I Do with My Life?" by Po Bronson

2007: "Night by Elie Wiesel"

WTAMU Symphonic Band Selected for National Conference Performance

CANYON —The

Symphonic Band at West Texas A&M University deserves a big round of applause.

The band, under the direction of Don Lefevre, associate professor of music, is the only Division II university band selected to perform at the 2009 College Band Directors National Association (CBDNA) Conference hosted in March 2009 by the University of Texas at Austin. WTAMU's Symphonic Band is scheduled to perform at 2:30 p.m. March 26, 2009, in Bates Hall on the UT campus.

"We are excited about this wonderful opportunity to showcase the talents of our students on a national level," Lefevre said.

A blind selection of the performing groups is made by a committee of university band directors based on live, unedited recordings submitted to CBDNA. This year the judges listened to a record-setting 37 submissions, and WTAMU's Symphonic Band competed with many Division I programs for the honor of performing at the conference.

Other bands joining WTAMU on the performance roster are from University of Georgia, University of North Texas, University of Missouri-Kansas City Conservatory, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Oklahoma State University, Baylor University, Michigan State University and the University of Texas.

The Symphonic Band is no stranger to invited presentations. The group last performed at a national CBDNA convention in 1981 in Ann Arbor, Mich., under the direction of Dr. Gary Garner. Plus, the band has been selected from blind auditions to perform a record-setting 12 times at the annual Texas Music Educators Association.

New Student Orientations Scheduled at WTAMU

CANYON — West Texas A&M University's first New Student Orientation (NSO) is full, but incoming freshmen still have plenty of opportunities to participate.

WTAMU has five scheduled orientations this summer, plus special sessions for transfer, honors and bilingual students. Each session offers upbeat, tech-savvy elements to teach beginning freshmen the skills they need to be successful.

Students attending will be exposed to clicker technology and will be encouraged to create a facebook account to use during orientation. Plus, jump drives, copies of the University's common reader "What is the What" and NSO T-shirts will be distributed to each beginning freshman who attend.

The University's first NSO June 5-6 is booked full, but additional orientations for beginning freshmen and their parents are set for June 19-20, June 26-27, July 10-11 and July 31-Aug. 1. An NSO for transfer students is July 25 and honors students are invited to a June 4 NSO. Bilingual (Spanish) dates for NSO are June 19-20 and July 10-11.

Registration deadline for the June 4 honors NSO is May 23, and June 5 is the deadline for the June 19-20 session. Those attending must have completed admission requirements and testing. A pre-orientation is available each Wednesday prior to NSO sessions for those needing to complete testing requirements.

During the two-day orientation students will explore education and career information with an added focus on building community and relationships. The group will use clicker technology in a University version of the Identity Game to learn more about faculty members. There will be an Amazing Race to learn about the campus and what it has to offer. Prizes will be awarded for challenges met. The group will review academic work habits and how to develop high-performance behavior. The final day will focus on advising and registration.

NSO cost is $80 for students and $30 for each parent or family member attending. The $80 student reservation fee includes an overnight stay on campus, two meals, the jump drive and orientation materials.

Parents of beginning freshmen are encouraged to attend. A parent program during orientation offers information on services available and answers questions about the University.

WILDFIRE VICTIMS

Staples requests more aid from federal agencies

AUSTIN — In a letter to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples asked for an increase in assistance for farmers and ranchers who have suffered damages due to wildfires. Since January, the Texas Forest Service has recorded nearly one million acres lost to wildfires.

"Unfortunately, as our state continues to experience severe dry and windy conditions, Texas land owners will be susceptible to wildfire danger," Commissioner Staples said. "The good news is, there are measures farmers and ranchers can take to proactively protect their livelihood, and we are working to identify assistance programs that will help producers if they do in fact suffer losses."

Staples urged USDA to grant emergency grazing on Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres in areas impacted by wildfires and in contiguous counties, providing the livestock producer has suffered forage loss in the primary county. The commissioner also asked for the authorization of cost share reimbursements for the installation of firebreaks on CRP land. Barren firebreaks are valuable tools to prevent fire damage.

When preventative measures are not successful, producers can often encounter high expenses when restoring their operations after devastation. With this in mind, Staples has asked USDA to allocate appropriate funding levels to cover Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) resources that can assist Texas livestock producers who suffer damages this year. Without timely disaster aid, many producers face bankruptcy and the potential loss of their operations.

Staples is also encouraging farmers and ranchers to take advantage of the Texas Department of Agriculture's Hay Hotline, especially now that producers will not need a hay permit. The commissioner recently requested and was granted a hay permit waiver that suspends permitting requirements and legal height restrictions for round hay bales. Farmers and ranchers can use the TDA Hay and Grazing Hotline to find available hay for sale or pastures for lease, in addition to listings of livestock haulers to move cattle and other livestock. Producers can access the Hay Hotline through TDA's Web site, or call TDA at (800) TELL-TDA.

TDA also offers an Interest Rate Reduction Program to farmers and ranchers who have experienced crop and livestock losses. Some producers might be eligible for loans of up to $250,000, if the county in which their property is located was declared a federal disaster area. For more information on this service, contact TDA's Rural Economic Development Division at 512-936-0273 or toll free at 877-428-7848.

Producers can also contact their local Farm Service Agency office or county judge. These offices can perform damage assessments to assist with the disaster declaration process.

Several area operations honored by TDA heritage program

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Agriculture recently recognized 102 farms and ranches at the 33rd annual Family Land Heritage ceremony earlier this month in Austin.

The ceremony was held in the House Chamber at the Texas State Capitol. The annual event recognizes families who have kept their farms and ranches in continuous agricultural production for more than 100 years.

"For more than a century these families have made agriculture a way of life, establishing Texas as a nationwide leader in an ever-demanding agricultural industry," Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples said. "It's because of their unwavering dedication that Texas agriculture is the $100 billion powerhouse it is today."

Several farm and ranch operations were honored from the Panhandle including B.M. Britten Heirs Farm (1905) in Carson County; Cowan Ranch (1900) in Roberts County; and Gierhart Farm (1907) in Wheeler County.

To date, more than 4,300 Texas farms and ranches in 233 counties have been recognized by the Family Land Heritage Program.

Cowboy poet and entertainer Red Steagall performed at the ceremony. Ron Oliveira, a well-known Texas broadcaster, served as master of ceremonies.

Carson County Historical Commission is currently seeking farms and ranches in Carson County owned and operated by the same family for 100 years or more under the TDA Land Heritage program.

The TDA has honored more than 4,200 farms and ranches from 232 counties. Family members may be direct descendants, be adopted or be kin by marriage so long as they stem from the original family.

Texas residents can apply if they can trace the line of ownership from the first family to the present. The land must also fit the old U.S. Census definition of a farm, 10-acres or more with agricultural sales of $50 or more a year, or if less than 10-acres, sales of $150 per year.

Owners must be actively managing the everyday operation of the farm or ranch. If all the land has ever been rented or leased outside the family, the property will not qualify. If a portion of the land has been leased, the operation MAY qualify.

The application deadline for the 2008 program will be Sept. 15. For more information, visit www.tda.state.tx.us or contact Mogie R. McCray, Carson County Historical Commission, at (806) 537-5237.

AgriLife to offer food manager certification training course

AMARILLO — The typical American household spends an average of $2,634 on food away from home each year.

To assist area food establishments in providing food that is safe for their customers, Texas AgriLife Extension Service officials from Sherman and Potter counties are offering a two-day food manager certification training course.

"Food Safety: It's Our Business" will be offered June 3-4 at First State Bank, 500 E. 1st St., Dumas. The deadline for signing up to attend is May 20.

Food establishments are required by law to have one certified food manager employed, said Sue Church, AgriLife Extension family and consumer science

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Army Pvt. Nathan J. Clairmont, son Rodney and Melody Clairmont of Pampa, recently graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson at Columbia.

During the nine weeks of training, the soldier studied the Army mission, history, tradition and core values, physical fitness, and received instruction and practice in basic combat skills, military weapons, chemical warfare and bayonet training, drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice system, basic first aid, foot marches and field training exercises.

This year's recipient of the Jim Duggan Memorial Scholarship is Alex Curry, son of Alton and Judy Curry of Pampa. Curry is a member of the Pampa Band, Symphonic Band and Technology Students Association. He was selected by Rotary Club to attend Camp R.Y.L.A. (Rotary Youth Leadership Award).

In 2007, Curry traveled with his church on a crusade to Tobago, Trinidad. He is currently employed by United Grocery and plans to attend Clarendon College-Pampa Center in the fall where he will begin studies in meteorology.

Jim Duggan graduated from Pampa High School in 1973. After earning his degree at West Texas State University, he came back to Pampa High to start his teaching career as assistant band director under Jeff Doughton.

He soon took over the position of band director and took the Pride of Pampa Band to several successful competitions and performances, including the Tournament of Roses Parade and an appearance in Hawaii.

He later worked locally for Texaco and, later, Celanese.

During his time at WTSU, Duggan met his wife, Jill, and they started their family in Pampa with three children. In addition to being a dedicated father and husband, Duggan was an avid runner and a man of faith.

Duggan's career took him and his family to North Carolina where his life ended at the age of 39 in 1995 due to coronary heart disease.

LUBBOCK — Robert Earnest Sikes of Pampa was recently accepted into the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. Sikes will be honored during an induction ceremony this fall on the campus of TTU.

NSCS is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies and is the nation's only interdisciplinary honors organization for first- and second-year college students.

Membership is by invitation-only and is based upon academic achievement and class standing.

Sikes graduated from Pampa High School in 2007 and is currently a student at TTU. He is the son of Rhonda and Danny Holman of Pampa and the late Robert Sikes; and is the grandson of Jo Sikes of Pampa and the late E.R. Sikes, Jr., and Margie Jones of Fort Worth and the late Melvin Lemne.

'Healthy Animals'

ARS posts latest reports on-line

The Agricultural Research Service posts its latest issue of "Healthy Animals" at <http://www.ars.usda.gov/is/np/ha/ha32.htm>

This quarterly online newsletter compiles ARS news and expert resources on the health and well-being of agricultural livestock, poultry and fish.

Each quarter, one article in Healthy Animals focuses on a particular element of ARS animal research. The current issue examines the role of genetics in promoting avian health.

Other research highlighted in this issue includes:

- A novel swine flu strain that possesses avian flu genes
- Efforts to prevent obesity in poultry

Professionals interested in animal health issues may want to bookmark the site as a resource for locating animal health experts. An index lists ARS research locations covering approximately 70 animal health topics. These range from specific diseases, such as Lyme disease, to broad subjects like nutrition or parasites. The site also provides complete contact information for the more than 25 ARS research groups that conduct studies aimed at protecting and improving farm animal health.

KU star Darrell Arthur's eligibility questioned

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A television report that Kansas basketball star Darrell Arthur may have been ineligible to play at his Dallas high school has fueled speculation about whether he should have ever played for the national champion Jayhawks.

A math teacher at South Oak Cliff High School in Dallas told WFAA-TV in Dallas-Fort Worth that Arthur's grades were improperly altered to show he passed math when he hadn't.

The 6-foot-9 Kansas sophomore was instrumental in leading Kansas to its national championship, finishing second in scoring at 12.8 points a game and second in rebounding. He had 20 points and 10 rebounds in Kansas' national title win against Memphis.

Arthur has applied for early entry into the NBA draft but did not sign with an agent, so he could return to Kansas.

Arthur was one of the nation's top recruits out of high school. The McDonald's All-American led South Oak Cliff to consecutive state titles, earning tournament MVP both times. However, the school had to forfeit its 2006 state championship because of similar academic problems with another player, Kendrick Johnson.

The station said the NCAA told it that if a player is found to be ineligible, his college team might have to forfeit any or all games involving that student.

But Jim Marchiony, KU's associate athletic director for external affairs, said he believed that the investigation into Arthur likely would not affect the school's basketball program.

"This is something that happened in high school," Marchiony said. "Everything that is discussed right now is speculation. I know the media and fans like to speculate, but that's not something we participate in."

Marchiony said high schools send athletes' transcripts to the NCAA, which determines whether an athlete is eligible to play in college. Because the NCAA declared Arthur eligible, Kansas would not have known about any grading problems in high school, he said.

"I believe that the school district is looking into it," Marchiony said. "Right now, the only thing any of us can do is wait to see the result of that process."

A secretary at South Oak Cliff, who would not give her name, said no one at the school was available for comment and referred all questions to the high school association.

The school district said in a news release that it was investigating allegations of grade changing at South Oak Cliff but would not comment until the investigation is complete. The district also said it had hired an outside firm to review the district's existing policies regarding student academic achievement eligibility, with a focus on athletics.

The NCAA also said it would not comment until the high school association's investigation is complete.

"Until the Dallas Independent School District has concluded its investigation, it is premature for the NCAA to speculate on this matter," Stacey Osburn, a spokeswoman for the NCAA, said in a news release.

Kansas Coach Bill Self was out of the office Friday and could not be reached for comment.

WFAA said Arthur's math teacher, Winford Ashmore, showed it documents to prove that Arthur's grades were changed three times.

Ashmore said that during Arthur's junior season in 2004-05, he did not receive any grades during his fall semester but that his grade was changed to a 70 in September 2005 without explanation.

The station also reported that Arthur failed math in the spring of 2003 with a grade of 64. But school records showed that in January of 2005, Moten allowed the failing grade to be changed to a 72.

Suns to interview Rockets' assistant Turner

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns will interview Houston Rockets assistant Elston Turner as a replacement for former head coach Mike D'Antoni.

The interview will be next week, the team said Friday.

The 48-year-old Turner has been an assistant to coach Rick Adelman for 11 years with Portland, Sacramento and Houston.

Turner joins Terry Porter and Mark Jackson as candidates.

Porter, a Detroit Pistons' assistant and former head coach at Milwaukee, was interviewed by Suns general manager Steve Kerr on Tuesday. The Suns were to talk with Jackson, a TV analyst and former player, on Friday.

Turner was known as a rugged defender in eight seasons as an NBA player. Improved defense is one of Kerr's goals.

Phoenix is seeking a replacement for D'Antoni, who resigned to coach the New York Knicks.

Flyers force East finals back to Pittsburgh

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maybe the comeback kids have another run in them.

The Philadelphia Flyers rebounded from the worst season in franchise history — a last-place finish in the NHL — to get into the playoffs. A 10-game losing streak didn't derail them, a disappointing home playoff loss to Washington that forced a Game 7 on the road in the first round didn't rattle them, and a blown lead in the series opener against Montreal couldn't shake them, either.

Perhaps history is the next hurdle to clear. If nothing else, this improbable Flyers season has at least one more game left.

Who would've thought it? Joffrey Lupul scored the first of Philadelphia's three first-period goals Thursday night and the Flyers extended the Eastern Conference finals with a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Penguins' smooth postseason ride got a bit bumpier and will now include a Game 5 on Sunday. While Pittsburgh was preparing for its second sweep of these playoffs and a potential Stanley Cup final, the Flyers stood in the way.

"We had our legs," hard-hitting defenseman Derian Hatcher said. "Hockey is a weird game, but for whatever reason you could see at the start of the game we were skating. That is what we have to do. We have to skate."

Just as they did after taking a 3-0 lead over the New York Rangers in the second round, the Penguins were beaten in Game 4. Pittsburgh wrapped up that series at home in its next chance, shaking off its only other loss in the playoffs (11-2).

Jordan Staal scored twice in the third period to get the Penguins close, but Lupul sealed the Flyers' win with an empty-netter.

"We have the momentum right now, but we have to come out in Pittsburgh like we did tonight," forward Mike Richards said. "We still have a desperate situation. We know the mountain that we have to climb. As long as we take it slow and not try to win it in the first 10 minutes and play a full 60 we could have success."

This is all new for Philadelphia, which has been swept the five other times it trailed 3-0.

The Penguins are 7-0 in the playoffs at home and have won 15 straight at Mellon Arena.

The Flyers followed the lead set Wednesday by the Dallas Stars, who stayed alive in the West finals by avoiding a sweep against the Red Wings.

"They had a good first period, and we didn't," Penguins captain Sidney Crosby said. "That was really the difference. We fought hard in the second and third ... but it was just too little, too late."

Only two NHL teams have recovered from an 0-3 deficit to win — the 1942 Toronto Maple Leafs and the 1975 New York Islanders, who rallied to beat the Penguins. Pittsburgh has led all three series this year 3-0, including a first-round sweep of Ottawa.

"We want to finish it off," Crosby said. "I don't think you go into every series expecting to win four in a row."

Richards and Crosby each earned roughing and slashing penalties against each other and were sent to the dressing rooms before the final seconds ticked off.

"I think he thought I was trying to slash him, but I was just trying to move the puck forward," Richards said. "He was probably angry that he wasn't winning the hockey game and he tried to slash me. We can't worry about getting undisciplined and running around like village idiots."

Lupul got things going for the Flyers 8:27 in, and Danny Briere and Jeff Carter scored power-play goals 7:02 apart to make it 3-0 in the first.

Martin Biron showed the form that backstopped series wins over Washington and top-seeded Montreal in making 36 saves. Marc-Andre Fleury stopped 30 shots for the Penguins.

Staal, who returned to the Penguins following a one-day absence after the death of his grandfather, spoiled Biron's shutout bid with 16:44 left. He scored again with 5:49 remaining to transform Wachovia Center from joyous to nervous.

Once they got the ever-elusive lead, the Flyers looked a little like the Penguins as they tried to clog up the neutral zone. Pittsburgh had been doing that to perfection, allowing only 22 goals before Thursday.

"It's always nice to score first," Richards said. "It allows us to play a little looser, and instead of playing from behind do things that we've had success doing."

They earned another chance to do it again.

Notes: The Penguins were held without a power-play goal for the third time in the playoffs. They are 1-2 in those games. ... Injured Flyers defenseman Braydon Coburn (swollen eye) and Kimmo Timonen (blood clot) could be back Sunday. ... Penguins LW Gary Roberts missed his second straight game with pneumonia.

Western Conference final: Red Wings lead Stars 3-1

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings sound as if the Western Conference finals have lasted long enough.

They're ready to eliminate the Dallas Stars on Saturday in Game 5 and earn a spot in the Stanley Cup finals for the first time since winning a title in 2002.

"We want to finish them off as soon as we can," Detroit forward Tomas Holmstrom said Friday. "We want to take care of it right away."

"Otherwise, we would be stupid."

The Stars, of course, hope to ruin the Red Wings' plans. "This is huge," Dallas goaltender Marty Turco said. "They don't want to bring it back here for a Game 6, obviously, and we don't want to die."

Detroit set a franchise record by winning nine straight games in a postseason before losing 3-1 Wednesday night in Dallas.

Goaltender Chris Osgood said the setback might've helped the NHL's top-seeded team.

"Sometimes you take things for granted when you're winning so much and you forget how hard it is, or how much effort we put into winning those nine in a row," Osgood said. "We didn't think we were going to go 16-0."

"But we'll be ready and we're going to have our best game of the playoffs."

The Red Wings will be without their best playoff performer, center Johan Franzen, who will miss his fourth straight game with concussion-like symptoms. Franzen has been cleared for light workouts off the ice, but does not appear to be close to returning to the ice.

The Stars have four banged-up players out for Game 5: Stu Barnes, Jere Lehtinen, Philippe Boucher and Mark Fistric.

Franzen leads the NHL with 12 playoff goals, but Detroit still has plenty of firepower without the player known as Mule.

Henrik Zetterberg's 19 points in the postseason tie him for the league lead with Pittsburgh's Sidney Crosby, and Pavel Datsyuk has 18 points, tying him with Evgeni Malkin of the Penguins.

Detroit's duo hopes to keep the Red Wings undefeated at home in the playoffs while keeping Turco winless in the NHL at Joe Louis Arena.

Since starring at Michigan and playing well at the home of the Red Wings, Turco is 0-9-2 in the storied venue along the Detroit River.

"The good thing about sports is you always have a chance to redeem yourself. He has one in Detroit," Stars forward Mike Modano said. "That's been his demon the last little while and he has another opportunity to erase that."

Turco insisted it's not tough to win in Detroit.

"It's no different," he said. "But it's always a big test."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 17, 2008:

You might want to take the lead and be a star more often this year. Others might be unusually strong-willed, and you could be hard-pressed to accept that dominance in your life. Learn to make your own calls and be who you want to be. Your personal life evolves and becomes even more important than in the past. You will not be able to resist taking a stand on family and domestic matters. If you don't get what you want, the scene could be the Clash of the Titans! If you are single, many people come toward you. Someone quite unusual could walk into your life. If you are attached, a trip or a new venture becomes unusually important. SCORPIO can be challenging.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Working with others always takes talent, no matter how good you are at it. You might want to mobilize another's support. You discover that you cannot do a project or event alone. Welcome changes. Tonight: Say yes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Others dominate, and you feel that is OK. Knowing when to put a halt to a problem could be important. You might not be able to stop the project, but you can extricate yourself from the process. Someone might let you know how angry he or she is. Tonight: Go with a suggestion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 You make a point of doing something in a particular manner. Your ability to move a project forward or do some-

for Sunday, May 18, 2008:
Your strong sense of direction earmarks your decisions and takes you down a new path, perhaps without even an awareness of the long-term ramifications. You might feel the need to rethink decisions after they have occurred — give up looking backward. What you want and desire often tumbles into your lap. Your smile heralds new beginnings as people go out of their way for you. If you are single, you meet people with ease. Choosing "the one" could be fun! Eye the person who is very different. If you are attached, allow your sweetie to tune in to your inner self even more. Let the feelings mount. SCORPIO reads you cold.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 What was an unacceptable situation now finally works out. You might want to rethink a decision with more care and depth. Your instincts kick in. The unexpected plays a significant role in what evolves. Tonight: Be with your favorite partner.

This Week: Can life get any more exciting? Hold on tight! Try to distance yourself from out-of-control situations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Defer to others, making sure you can accomplish what is necessary. Your sunny disposition adds to the moment. If you are offered an opportunity to travel, do just that. In the near future, you will find a friend totally unpredictable. Tonight: Be a duo.

This Week: Saying yes won't work. Turning away might. Be aware that much is happening too quickly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Take off and do something just for yourself. Refresh your energy. When nurtured and feeling better, you'll move to a new dimension. Visualize and understand what needs to happen. Tonight: Easy does it.

This Week: Reach out and make what you want happen. A little goes a long way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

HOROSCOPES

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 You might wonder if you can have the impact you desire. Stay light and easy when dealing with someone at a distance. Express positive thinking and an awareness of making what you want happen. Tonight: Have fun!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Your strength and willingness to get down to basics shouldn't be taken lightly. You could be quite frustrated attempting to change your course or plans. Right now you easily could hit a brick wall. Think through a decision rather than act on it just yet. Tonight: Stay close to home.

This Week: Creativity will flourish to unforeseen levels. Use your imagination to solve problems and have fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 How you say what you are thinking could easily determine the end result of a project. Knowing when to pull back and say enough could be important. Creativity flourishes. Romance and loving relationships in general take center stage. Tonight: All smiles.

This Week: Hearsay could become an issue. Verify facts. Make sure everyone is on the same page.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 You don't have to become the big spender to convince someone you really care. He or she learns more by your body language and gestures. Express yourself, understanding that others don't always need physical proof. Tonight: Trust yourself.

This Week: Say no to a money request, and you will smile later. Communication flourishes midweek.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You might want to review a situation with the overall good in mind. With the strength of your personality, you'll melt barriers and create peace where there was none before. Your words carry a magical quality. Tonight: Reach out for a preferred playmate.

This Week: The Full Moon tosses you into the limelight. Act accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Knowing when to take a deep breath and think through a problem could make all the difference. Your ability to move through issues without making something a big deal counts in relationships. Tonight: Get some extra R and R. This Week: Pretend your workweek begins Tuesday, and everything will work out! Consider being unavailable Monday.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Aim for more of what you want. Friends play a big role in your plans. Note what needs to happen to make others feel relaxed. Mix those ingredients, and you will have a close-to-perfect recipe. Tonight: Aim high.

This Week: Monday and Thursday, claim your power. In between, think — and we do mean think deeply.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Take charge and handle what you feel is necessary. Others seek you out and want your feedback. Someone might expect more than you can give. Loosen up when dealing with an older relative. Your instincts might be leading you in a new direction. Tonight: On top of what is happening.

This Week: Ignoring what is happening won't work. Smile and deal with facts. If you can, call it an early week.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 In a new sequence of events, you will feel as if you cannot be stopped. You feel vital but also very unique as you look at the whole picture. Follow your instincts and feelings, and you'll land where you want to go. Tonight: Enjoy the moment as if it is your last.

This Week: You smile, and others shake their heads. Refuse to become part of the crowd. Distance, think and choose.
