TRAIN HITS PICKUP TRUCK

The two riders in the above pickup truck narrowly escaped possible death about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when the truck stalled on the Santa Fe tracks at the Clairemont road crossing in north Snyder and was struck by a Santa Fe freight train. Driver of the pickup, owned by Canyon Trucking Co., was Jimmie Roy Good, employe of Canyon Trucking Co. A passenger was Clifford Hall, who lives on Twenty-fifth Street in East Snyder. The men jumped from the truck when it stalled—only seconds before the train struck it. Leonard White, city policeman, investigated the accident. Good and Hall were carried to Battenfield-Jones Clinic-Hospital in a Bell ambulance for a physical checkup. (Lee Watson photograph)

Ratliff Takes Wide Lead In Race For State Senate Post

Holds Margin From Six Of 13 Counties

Rep. David Ratliff of Stamford apparently had been swept into a state senate seat from a field of seven candidates Saturday, as voters in the 24th district went to the polls to name a successor to the late Harley Sadler.

Incomplete and unofficial returns from all 13 counties in the district late Saturday night gave Ratliff a total of 3,253 votes to put him far out in front of former State Sen. Pat Bullock of Colorado City, who had a total of 2,482 votes. The other five candidates were out of the running.

Although returns from several of the counties in the district were incomplete, it was considered unlikely that later returns could change the trend.

Ratliff was running well ahead in six of the 13 counties in the district and had enough votes in the others to give him a comfortable margin. He led in Dickens, Jones, Kent, Nolan, Shackleford and Stonewall counties.

Other incomplete totals showed 1,795 votes for Rep. Truett Latimer of Abilene; 1,770 for Dan Sorrels of Abilene; 1,202 for Juston Morrow of Rotan; 731 for Dr. R. F. Wasson of Snyder; 689 for Cecil Lotief of Rotan.

Bullock led in Garza, Howard and Mitchell counties, while Dr. Wasson ran in front in Scurry and Borden counties. Morrow carried Fisher County and Latimer carried Taylor County.

The winner of the race will fill the term for which Sadler was renominated without opposition in last summer's Democratic primaries.

Sadler died on Oct. 14 after suffering a heart attack at Stamford. His name was the only one appearing in the state senate column for this district in the November general election.

Gov. Allan Shivers set the special election for Saturday following the general election.

U. N. Chief Calls For Talks On Fliers Dec. 26

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has asked Prime Minister Chou En-lai of Red China for direct talks on the case of the 11 American fliers held as spies. He suggested a meeting in Peiping around Dec. 26.

The U.N. released late today, 25 hours after it was dispatched to Peiping by Hammarskjold, the text of a brief cable asking for a meeting. Hammarskjold said in the message:

"The General Assembly of the United Nations has requested me to seek the release of eleven United Nations Command personnel captured by Chinese forces on 12 January 1953 as well as of all other captured personnel of the United Nations Command still detained.

"Taking into consideration all facts and circumstances the secretary-general must, in this case, take on himself a special responsibility. In the light of the concern I feel about the issue, I would appreciate an opportunity to take this matter up with you personally. For that reason, I would ask you whether you could receive me in Peiping. I would suggest a visit soon after 26 December and would, if you accept my proposal, ask you what date at about that time would be suitable to you."

Hammarskjold thus threw the full weight of his office into what he regards as the greatest assignment so far handed the secretary general. He dispatched the cable at 5 p.m. (EST) yesterday—within minutes after the General Assembly approved 47-5 a resolution condemning Red China for jailing the aviators and calling on him to act for their release.

A diplomat in the Soviet bloc, informed of Hammarskjold's dramatic and quick action, said he did not expect much to come from it.

The diplomat pointed out that the Assembly resolution entrusting Hammarskjold with the assignment also condemned Red China for imprisoning the men and holding the other prisoners who desire repatriation. He said this was exactly the wrong way to go about getting the men out and he added that he wondered just how anxious the West was to have the men released. If they really wanted action, he continued, they would have left out the condemnation.

Hammarskjold was reported to have informed Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, and Anthony Nutting, British minister of state, of his plans. He also was reported to have told, in separate conference, Arthur S. Lall, India's permanent delegate to the U.N., and Jacob A. Malik, Soviet delegate, who had maintained throughout heated Assembly debate that the resolution would not have any effect.

Malik said the men were spies and they were handled by China as spies and got what spies usually get.

Hammarskjold was believed here to be placing reliance on India and Sweden for direct help in his task. Both have recognized Red China. A former official of the Swedish Foreign Office, it was believed he had drawn on the resources of the Stockholm government to assist him in communicating with the Reds.

Hammarskjold talked with V. K. Krishna Menon, India's top policy expert on foreign affairs, just before Menon left Thursday to return to India. Some informants said they discussed the case of the prisoners with the idea of India using its good offices to help.

A New Delhi dispatch said Prime Minister Nehru is awaiting Menon's arrival next Tuesday before acting. It was said Nehru wants from Menon first hand knowledge of the feelings of the United States in this case. Menon left with full awareness of the importance attached by the United States to the imprisonment of the fliers—and with full knowledge of the difficulties in the case.

Ex-Duval School Head Is Convicted

BRYAN, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP)—Duval County School Supt. R. L. Adame was convicted tonight of theft of over $50 from county school funds and sentenced to two years in prison.

His is the first conviction following 104 indictments returned by a grand jury in Duval, politically turbulent South Texas county and bailiwick of political leader George Parr.

The verdict in the change - of-venue trial here came at 7:12 p.m. after four hours' deliberation. Chief defense counsel Manuel Raymond of Laredo immediately gave notice of appeal.

Both sides rested their cases earlier in the day after Adame denied testimony by state witnesses that he took change in cashing checks to pay school debts.

Adame still faces 14 more indictments charging he pocketed county school funds by giving large checks and taking change in cash on bills owed by the school district.

In final arguments, State Sen. W. T. (Bill) Moore of Bryan—one of six defense attorneys — tagged the charges against Adame as an attempt by state Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd to become governor "in two years."

"The state is going to hang somebody from Duval County, and Adame is the goat," Moore told the Brazos County jury.

Dist. Judge W.S. Barron upheld a prosecution motion that Moore was digressing from evidence.

Shepperd led a state probe into Duval County affairs which had the backing of Gov. Allan Shivers. The selection of a "reform" grand jury after a North Texas judge was imported into Duval County resulted from the investigation. The new grand jury returned 104 indictments against Parr and certain other present and past Duval County public officials.

Adame still holds his post as Duval County school superintedent.

He was the only defense witness. He took the stand at 9 a.m. today and emphatically denied he ever took any change from school checks given the San Diego, Tex., Lumber and Hardware Co. San Diego is the Duval County seat.

Adame testified further that every check he gave the company was for the exact amount of the bill. However, he told the jury he had no records to back his claim.

State and federal agents "ransacked" his office until "the only thing left is my desk," Adame testified. Federal men joined state probers in the Duval County investigation early this year.

Adame said he did not ask investigators for a receipt for the records because "they wouldn't have given them to me."

Adame said he had not gone to court with the records he possessed at one time—although subpoenaed to do so—because he stood on his "constitutional privilege at the advice of my lawyer."

Snyder Student Wins In Science Contest

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Ingrid Radky, Austin High School, and Clare Smith, Snyder High School, won first places for papers delivered here today before the junior division of the Texas Academy of Science.

Miss Radky's first prize in the biological science division was a paper on nutrition.

Miss Smith spoke on "Radio autographs."

Senate Unit Slates Probe Of Land Deals

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP)—The State Senate Investigating Committee has been called to meet in Austin Dec. 27 to look into the allegations of irregularities in the 100 million dollar state veterans land program.

State Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, chairman of the committee, issued the call today.

Hardeman has asked the attorney general, the state department of public safety and the state auditor to correlate their reports on the land program and have them ready for the committee.

The various state agencies have been investigating alleged irregularities since about Nov. 17, when accusations of fraud in some South Texas land sales were made.

The investigations have been conducted primarily in Zavala, DeWitt, Karnes, Bexar, Gonzales and Guadalupe counties.

They have centered primarily on the method by which wholesale land purchases were cleared for veterans who signed up on various promises.

Several veterans have stated that they were told they were getting a farm free as a veterans bonus from the state. Others said they did not know even they had signed up to buy land until they were notified by the state board.

Under the program, the state has set up a 100 million dollar fund from which loans can be made to veterans on easy terms for purchase of land.

Some 15,000 veterans have purchased farms under the program at an estimated average cost of slightly more than $5,000. The state buys the farms and resells them to the ex-soldiers. The price the state pays for the land involved is based on state appraisals made by employes of the state land office.

Allegations have been made concerning too-high appraisals.

The program is administered by the state land board composed of the governor, the attorney general and the land commissioner.

Socialists To Oppose Pact

BONN, Germany, Dec. 11 (AP)—West Germany's opposition Socialists announced tonight they will take "all steps in our power" to block ratification of the Paris treaties on German rearmament.

Erich Ollenhauer, the Socialists' national chairman, told party leaders in a speech:

"The incorporation of West Germany in the proposed West European Union and in NATO will block the chances for an easing of tension in Europe and in the world and for the reunification of Germany.

"A ratification of the Paris agreements and of the Saar pact without a new and serious attempt for concrete negotiations on the reunification of Germany in peace and freedom must lead to a continuation of the division of Germany."

Ollenhauer warned against any agreement by the Western powers and the Soviet Union to continue what he called the status quo in Germany.

Ollenhauer said he will meet with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday to discuss West Germany's foreign policy.

Yule Parcel Unit To Open

A special parcel post station for Christmas packages will be opened by the post office here tomorrow morning, postmaster Dawson Moreland said.

The office will be at 2110 Avenue S, one door north of its location last year. Moreland said the station is for delivery only and that the post office will not deliver COD packages.

The station will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Two extra employes have been hired for the added Christmas work, and another half-time or possibly full-time worker will be hired later, Moreland said.

The post office ordinarily closes windows at noon on Saturday but will keep them open until 6 p.m. next Saturday.

The postmaster said that because carriers will be heavily loaded for the next few days, he is urging patrons to take their Christmas cards to the post office for mailing instead of having the carrier take them.

Ike Picks Dodge To Head New Council On Foreign Aid Policy

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower called on his financial adviser of European days to organize and coordinate this country's worldwide economic struggle against the spread of communism.

In an action parralleling in some respects the unification of the military services, the President named Joseph M. Dodge chairman of a new Cabinet-level council on foreign economic policy.

Dodge, 63-year-old Detroit banker and Eisenhower's first budget director, will have the nonsalaried title of special assistant to the President. One of his primary jobs will be to try to pull together the conflicting views that have been reported in the President's official family on how best to block Moscow's bid for cold war conquests.

In a letter made public by the White House, Eisenhower told Dodge he was designating him to "assist and advise me in accomplishing an orderly development of foreign economic policies and programs and to assure the effective coordination of foreign economic matters of concern to the several departments and agencies of the executive branch.

"Because the formulation of foreign economic policy in many instances is an integral part of the formulation of national security policy or of international financial policy," Eisenhower said, "I want you, as quickly as possible, to establish appropriate working relations with the National Security Council and the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems, respectively, to the end that in those instances referred to the desired integration will be effected."

The President said he wanted to proceed as rapidly as possible to bring about improvements in the development and coordination of foreign economic policy, "including its relation to domestic economy policy where it is involved," and said he expected the new setup will lead to "a substantial simplification of the present structure."

Serving with Dodge on the new council will be Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Director Harold Stassen of the Foreign Operations Administration.

Three other presidential assistants will be ex-officio members. They are Gabriel Hague, administrative assistant for economic affairs; Robert Cutler, special assistant on national security affairs; and, probably, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Surprise Note Solves Crime

Burglary of Vaughn's Grocery and Drug store in Hermleigh on July 4 has been surprisingly solved, the sheriff's department reported yesterday.

The department has just finished checking for veracity a report received several days ago from an inmate of the state prison who says he committed the burglary.

Further investigation of the matter will be left to the grand jury if it should decide to take action on it.

E. E. (Buddy) Norris, deputy sheriff, said that while he was in the Huntsville vicinity 10 days ago to take another prisoner there, he talked to the person who admitted the burglary.

He said his visit with Billy E. Renfrow, No. 130780, now serving his fourth sentence, was the result of a letter received here. Renfrow wrote the sheriff's department Oct. 23, stating that he and a Raymond Smith, also now in the penitentiary, burglarized Vaughn's store, taking $3 in silver.

Renfrow said he and Smith also attempted to break into the Sig Line Chevron Service Station here the same week and also the Safeway Store but failed.

Both men were recently sentenced to the penitentiary from Bowie County for the same robbery by assault. Renfrow was released from a federal prison last January and had previously served time in the boys' reformatory at Gatesville and also at the state prison at Huntsville. Presently he is confined on the prison system's Ramsey Farm No. 1 at Otey, Tex.

To Discuss Name Change

A public meeting to discuss a proposal to change the name of the East Highway and Twenty-fifth Street to one name for both streets has been called for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night by Malven K. Stevenson, mayor.

The meeting was called after a petition was presented to the city council requesting the change in the street name.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with a meeting of the city council. Regular monthly meeting of the council was postponed from last Monday night until tomorrow night.

Councilmen will consider the second reading of an ordinance abandoning the alley in block 10, Wilmeth addition. The alley had not been in use, and the block is being cleared for construction of a building.

Consideration will also be given to an ordinance authorizing creation of truck routes through the city. The ordinance would require trucks to travel on state and national highways, except for local deliveries.

The council will also set a date for second reading of an ordinance annexing property located along the Santa Fe railroad tracks and U. S. Highway 84 north of the present city limits.

Band, Voice Pupils Take State Honors

ABILENE, Dec. 11—Band students of Snyder distinguished themselves and their director, Melvin Montgomery, by placing eight students on the all - region band, and two students as repeaters on an all - state band selected from contestants from 60 high school bands here today.

Karleen Roberts, a sophomore cornetist, and Bruce Evans, senior clarinet player, were selected as two of the 11 band students from this region for the all state band for their second consecutive year.

"That is a special distinction for Karleen because she has only been in high school band two years," Montgomery said.

Snyder students selected for the all - region band of Texas Region II were Evans and Miss Roberts, Vondell Drinkard, snare drum; P. W. Cloud, Jr., trombone; Doris Agee, bass clarinet; Joe Anderson, sousaphone, Lynn Tankersley, trombone, and Keren Crooks, flute.

Snyder's eight all - region band members were from a delegation of nine band members taken to the contests, held at McMurry College here, by Montgomery, whose band placed first in a marching contest here one week ago.

Evans and Miss Roberts, with the other nine all - state bandsmen from this region, will go to Dallas for a four-day band clinic directed by some of the nation's leading directors Feb. 9-13. A concert by the 110 - piece all - state band in Fair Park Auditorium will conclude the Dallas clinic.

Abilene, San Angelo, and Sweetwater each placed one member on the all-state band.

Selection of an all-state choir also saw Snyder distinguished by high school singers.

Of 10 students entered in the choir contest by Robert Clinton, choir director, four were placed on the all-state choir which will be composed of 350 voices.

Snyder's all-state choir members are Kent Fields, tenor, Doug Smith, tenor; Tommy Gary, bass, and Suzanne Houston, alto.

Borden School Election Fails

Taxpayers in Borden County Rural School District defeated its proposal yesterday to issue tax bonds up to a total of $225,000.

With only one small box not yet reported, the results late last night stood at 64 for the issuance of the bonds and 119 against the proposal.

C. C. Nunnally, Jr., county judge and county superintendent of schools, said the unreported box had less than a dozen potential votes.

The proposal was for the purpose of financing improvements of the school district's water facilities. The bonds were to be sold at less than two and a half per cent interest and to be retired serially over a 15-year period.

The election was called by the school board which proposed the drilling of two wells on the Colorado River and piping the water 14 miles to the school. The school now has six wells, but all of them produce very little water, according to S. P. Stewart, superintendent of the school system.

Soviets Issue New Warning

MOSCOW, Sunday, Dec. 12 (AP)—Soviet Russia in a note warned the American government today that providing fighter coverage for reconnaissance flights near Soviet territory would increase the danger of loss of American life.

The warning was contained in a new note on the shooting down of a U.S. RB29 photo-mapping bomber near the northeast tip of Japan on Nov. 7. The note was handed the American ambassador Saturday and was broadcast by Moscow radio early today.

The note reiterated the Soviet contention that the bomber was outside Japanese territory.

WHAT IS A CATHOLIC?

Church Regarded As Precise Institution

(This is another of a series of informative articles on the rule of religion in today's world, written for the Daily News by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations. Later articles will discuss Christian Scientists, Baptists, Episcopalians and Methodists.

By JOHN COGLEY
Executive editor of The Commonwealth, a weekly magazine edited by lay Catholics.

Do Catholich believe theirs is the only true religion?

Yes. The fact that there are many religions, all holding different — often contradictory — strikes the Catholic as tragic. The idea that they are all equally true (those that hold Christ was divine and those that hold He was merely human, for instance) seems absurdly illogical.

Catholics believe that Christ, the Son of God, founded the Church and promised to remain with it, "even unto the consummation of the world." But when they say theirs is the only true religion, Catholics do not mean that they alone are the children of God or that only Catholics are righteous and God-fearing. Many non-Catholics are saints; some Catholics are scoundrels.

Nor do Catholics believe that only Catholics go to heaven. Pope Pius IX wrote: "It is to be held as of faith that none can be saved outside the Apostolic Roman Church. . . but, nevertheless, it is equally certain that those who are ignorant of the true religion, if that ignorance is invincible, will not be held guilty in the eyes of the Lord." Catholics believe that in the sight of God, all who love Him and sincerely desire to do His will are related in some way to the Church which His Son founded and so can be saved.

What are the chief differences between the Catholic and Jewish faiths? The Catholic and Protestant?

The Catholic Church claims four distinctive marks: it is one (in doctrine, authority and worship), holy (perfect observance of its teachings leads inevitably to sanctity), catholic (it is unchanging in its essential teachings and preaches the same gospel and administers the same sacraments to men of all times in all places) and apostolic (it traces its ancestry back to the Apostles and, like them, carries the message of Christ to all, regardless of race, nationality, station or class).

JUDAISM: Pope Pius XI at the time of the Hitler persecutions wrote: "Spiritually, we are Semites." In the Mass, reference is made to "our father Abraham."

The Catholic recognizes the unique religious role of the Jewish people before Christ. He shares their belief in God the Father, in the brotherhood of man and in the moral teachings handed down by the patriarchs and prophets. Christianity, as he sees it, is the fulfillment of Judaism. "I came not to destroy the law but to fulfill it," Christ said.

The big difference is that Catholics believe that Jesus Christ was the promised Messiah, true God and true Man. They believe that

Auto Skids, Turns Over

A 1952 Pontiac sedan overturned seven miles north of here on the Lubbock highway about 6 o'clock last evening, and three occupants, suffering only minor injuries, were taken by passenger car to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

An attending nurse at the hospital reported that neither of the three men was seriously hurt. All were treated for abrasions and contusions, and one was treated also for a minor laceration of the face.

The men were Emery Pike of Slaton, G. K. Hale, 40, Slaton, and Douglas Hale, 32, Temple.

The men said they were travelling south when a sudden downpour of hail caused the driver to apply the brakes which caused the car to skid out of control.

The car traveled about 200 feet from the place it went out of control, overturning only once and coming to a stop on its left side in a field of mesquite trees, having mowed down several as it skidded sideways in the mud.

Snyder Area Gets Rain, Sleet, Hail

The Snyder area got a taste of winter with a touch of dampness mixed in late Saturday.

A moderate fall of rain, sleet and hail was reported in Scurry County, most of it falling early Saturday evening.

A drizzle had dampened the earth early Saturday morning, but it was too little to record on a rain gauge. However, by 9 p.m. Saturday, a gauge at the Daily News office showed approximately half an inch.

Most moisture fell in a shower between 5 p.m. and six p.m. A few pellets of sleet fell in the city during the late afternoon.

Hail, or over - sized sleet, fell briskly in an area from four to six miles north of Snyder. It resulted in one traffic mishap when an autonobile turned over after skidding on wet pavement.

Apparently the rains, what there were of them, were fairly general in the area. A heavy shower was reported in the Jayton area of Kent County around 8:30 p.m.

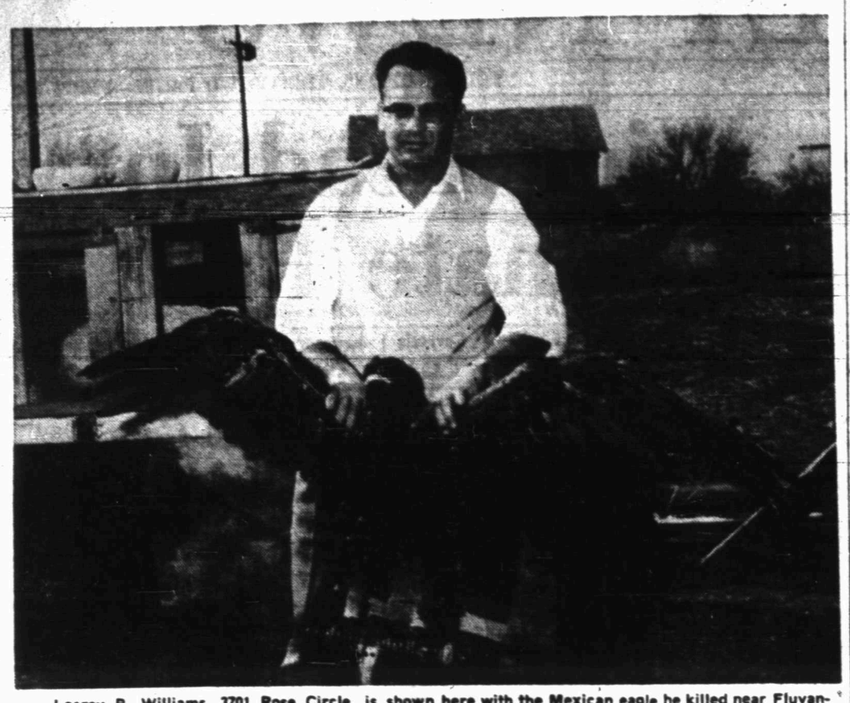

Rain and some hail or sleet, were reported early Saturday night at Big Spring, and some moisture had fallen in the Abilene area.

The temperature fell to a low of only 43 degrees Friday night, but a brisk north wind was expected to send the mercury tumbling lower Saturday night.

The weather bureau has predicted continued cold weather with partly cloudy skies through Sunday. According to the forecasts skies are due to clear to bring warmer temperatures on Monday.

Wichita Falls reported the heaviest rainfall reported officially, with 1.19. Seymour reported an unofficial two inches.

Other moisture measurements early Saturday night included .17 at Lubbock, 05 at Amarillo, .02 at Abilene, .02 at Fort Worth and .28 at Dallas.

Leeroy R. Williams, 3701 Rose Circle, is shown here with the Mexican eagle he killed near Fluvanna, which was being mounted when this picture was taken Friday. The wingspan measured six feet and 10½ inches, but the bird weighed only a fraction over nine pounds. (Staff photograph)

Lightweight Eagle Makes Good Trophy

"A lucky shot" was what Leeroy Williams called the blast from his 12-guage shotgun which killed a Mexican eagle near Fluvanna Nov. 17.

Williams said he was driving along a rural road and saw the bird standing in a prairie, apparently watching for prey. He stole quietly and patiently toward the bird until he shortened the distance between them to 70 yards.

He said he dared not attempt to get closer since it seemed he was about to scare the eagle away. He fired his shotgun using No. 4 buckshot, and only one pellet struck the body of the bird, this one hitting him just below the right ear. The bird died instantly. Another pellet broke a tail feather.

Williams said he believed the bird had just arrived in this vicinity and had probably come all the way from Mexico almost nonstop. His opinion was due to the "skinnyness" of the bird, which he believed should have weighed much more than its nine pounds if it had been here long enough to have eaten a few rabbits.

Its wingspan of six feet, 10½ inches doesn't quite put it in the class of huge eagles, but it is nevertheless a long way from the small class.

It was identified as a Mexican eagle by Collie Fish, who killed a similar bird about 10 years ago.

Several old-timers here said eagles were never actually common in this region but were not exactly rare several years ago. However, very few have been seen in this county in recent decades.

Williams said he hoped his hunting luck held out and wished he was as lucky otherwise. So far this year, he hasn't failed to bag his limit on all of several hunting trips. Consequently he and his wife and two children, who live at 3701 Rose Circle, have recently dined on duck, goose, and deer.

The eagle was mounted by Robert Greene at his home in the 1900 block of Fifteenth Street. Greene is an employe of the state highway department and a spare-time taxidermist. This was his first experience in preparing a bird.

WHAT IS A CATHOLIC?

mankind was redeemed by Christ's atonement, though individual men must still work out their own personal salvation by faith and good works.

Catholics accept the New Testament with its "new law" of charity—by which is meant the love of God for his own sake and of all men (even of enemies) because they too are children of God. The Catholic believes that with the coming of Christ, all races and nations became "chosen people."

PROTESTANTISM embraces a variety of doctrines. Some Protestants are closer to Catholic belief than others. Two of the chief differences seem to be these:

The Bible: Protestants believe in private interpretation. Catholics believe that the Church is the divinely appointed custodian of the Bible and has the final word on what is meant in any specific passage. The Church guards orthodoxy (including interpretation of the Scriptures) and passes down essential Christian tradition from one generation to another.

Universal Priesthood: Most Protestants affirm the "priesthood of all believers," in opposition to the Catholic idea of a specially ordained priesthood. Catholics, too, believe that by virtue of the sacraments, laymen share in the priesthood of Christ. But the "priesthood of the laity" is subordinated to that of the clergy, who alone have received the sacrament of Holy Orders.

The Catholic Mass is not the same as a Protestant Communion service—not only in ceremony but in what each congregation believes is taking place. Protestantism provides for a greater variety of opinion on such matters as divorce and birth control, which the Catholic feels have been settled once and for all either by the natural law or by revelation.

The average Protestant thinks of "the Church" as a broad spiritual unity; the Catholic using the same words as a precise institution—the Roman Catholic Church—in mind.

May Catholic priests take part in interreligious services?

No. The public worship of Catholics, and the priest's exercise of his spiritual office, are subject to the authority of the Church. Since the Church's authority is not recognized by the other participants at an interfaith service, Catholics at such services — be they priests or laity — are placed in an untenable position. They are implicitly called upon to deny their own Church's claims and sometimes, by the wording of prayers and hymns, to assent explicitly to beliefs they do not hold.

Do Catholices believe the Pope can do no wrong? Must Catholics accept everything the Pope says?

Catholics do not believe the Pope can do no wrong. Nor does the Pope. He confesses regularly to a simple priest, like the humblest peasant in the Church. Catholics admit freely that there were Popes who were wicked men (I first learned of them in parochial schools), though their number and the enormity of their sins have often been exaggerated.

Catholics believe that the Pope, be he saint or sinner, is preserved by God from leading the Church into doctrinal error. These are the conditions of a papal pronouncement which Catholics consider infallible: (1) It must come under the heading of faith or morals; (2) the Pope must be speaking as head of the Church with the intention of obliging its members to assent to his definition.

Everything that that the Church teaches as infallible doctrine, a Catholic must accept. On questions that have not been defined as articles of faith (the miracles at Fatima, for instance), he is under no such obligation.

What do Catholics believe about the Virgin Mary? Does the recent doctrine of the Assumption mean that Mary is now in an actual place?

Catholics believe that from the moment of her conception in her mother's womb, the Mother of Christ was preserved free from original sin. This is what is known as the Immaculate Conception, often confused with the Virgin Birth —which, of course, refers to the birth of Christ. Mary remained a virgin throughout her life. Soon after her death, her body was reunited with her soul in heaven.

Because of her stainless life and vast dignity as the Mother of the God-Man, Catholics believe, Mary is the greatest of the saints. Catholics pray to God through Mary because they believe that she is a powerful intercessor and that when Christ on Calvary said, "Behold thy mother!" she became the mother of mankind.

The Assumption (the belief that Mary's body was preserved from corruption and taken to heaven and reunited to her soul) is not a new belief. 1500 years ago, the feat was celebrated. What took place during 1950 was this: Pope Pius XII solemnly declared, that the ancient belief was now a formal doctrine, to which all Catholics must give assent. The Pope made this solemn declaration in answer to a widespread popular request by clergy and laity.

The word "heaven" is used to mean both a place and a state of being. Of the state, Catholics believe that it consists essentially in seeing God "face to face" (1 Cor. 13, 12). Of the place, we have no knowledge beyond the fact that it exists. "Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man what God hath prepared for those who love Him." (1 Cor. 2, 9).

Do Catholics believe that unbaptized babies cannot go to heaven because of "original sin?"

Yes. It is Catholic belief that no one by nature has a "right" to heaven. Man does not have a claim on the supernatural happiness which he enjoys in seeing God "face to face." It is a free gift of God.

The loss of supernatural life—generally called the fall from grace—was incurred by Adam at the time of his rebellion against God. Because Adam was head of the human race, all mankind was involved in the historic sin of disobedience by which the first man rejected the gifts God had given him above and beyond the needs of human nature.

Since the redemption by Christ ("the new Adam"), it has been possible for men to regain the life of grace. Baptism restores supernatural life. Without that life, man simply does not have the capacity to enjoy heaven. In the case of adults, the Church teaches, the life of grace may be gained by an act of perfect contrition or pure love of God ("baptism of desire"). Infants are incapable of such an act of the will.

Unbaptized babies (in limbo) do not suffer in any way, even from a sense of loss. St. Thomas Aquinas taught that they, too, have knowledge of God — but according to a "natural" capacity. Their happiness is greater than any known by man on earth, however limited in comparison with that of the saints in heaven.

How do Catholics look on the Devil?

Catholics believe that Satan (the leader of the fallen angels) and his cohorts are pure spirits with an intelligence of a very high order and a will which is now obstinately bent on evil.

The Devil and the other fallen angels can tempt and torment men, though all temptations are not directly attributable to them.

Many religious thinkers have said that the Devil's greatest triumph lies in convincing the world that he doesn't exist.

Hell, to Catholics, means two things: a place and a state of punishment. The Devil is not confined to hell as a place, and will not be until the last day; but he exists "in hell" — as a state of eternal punishment.

Why do Catholics worship "graven images?"

They don't. Like any religion, Catholicism uses symbols to heighten the meaning of spiritual truths.

The Council of Trent summed up the Catholic position on images four hundred years ago: "The images of Christ and the Virgin Mother of God, and of the other saints, are to be had and to be kept, especially in the churches, and due honor and veneration are to be given to them; not that any divinity or virtue is believed to be in them, on account of which they are to be worshiped, or that anything is to be asked of them, or that trust is to be put in images, as was done of old by the Gentiles, who placed their hopes in idols; but because the honor which is shown them is referred to the prototypes which these images represent."

Why do Catholics sprinkle holy water on buildings, farm implements etc.?

Water is an ancient symbol of spiritual purification. Holy water in the Church is an adaptation of an old Jewish custom.

Catholics do not believe that the water has any power in itself. When it is sprinkled, with appropriate prayers, on buildings, farm implements and the like, the ceremony signifies that the Church is humbly calling upon God to drive away the forces of Satan and accept for His own glory the uses to which the thing blessed will be put. Man is a unity of body and spirit, and the Church has never hesitated to recognize this by using material objects to signify spiritual realities.

What is purgatory?

Like "heaven" or "hell," the word "purgatory" refers to a place and a state.

Catholics believe that purgatory exists to purge those souls who are not yet pure enough for heaven but have not died in a state of serious (mortal) sin. Such near-saints must undergo the pain of intense longing for God until they have paid the debt of temporal punishment due them because of their sins on earth.

In a word, purgatory exists to make saints who will be ready for the purity of God's presence. If one does not succeed in becoming a saint on earth but yet escapes eternal hell, he is purified in purgatory.

Next Sunday — Do Catholics regard the human body and the act of love as shameful? Do they consider all non-Catholic children illegitimate? Why don't priests and nuns marry? Why does the Catholic Church oppose birth control? What is its attitude toward drinking and gambling? Do Catholics believe in religious tolerance?

Jury Fails To Agree On Verdict Here

A civil district court jury of 10 men and two women hung six to six Friday in the $5,000 law suit of D. C. Worley vs. Walter Hales.

It was the second suit tried here since women were qualified to serve on juries by an amendment of the state constitution. The other case also resulted in a mistrial when the eight women and four men failed to agree on a verdict.

Worley sued Hales for $5,000 which he paid Hales for a release of a builder's lien which Hales had filed against a house Worley had built with materials furnished by the defendant's business firm, Walter Hales Lumber & Supply.

The plaintiff contended he paid the $5,000 only to get the release, which he contends he should have been entitled to anyway, and that did not owe Hales that sum. Hales contends that the plaintiff owed him the $5,000 and actually a little more.

Hales says the two entered a contract by which Worley traded him some lots in Snyder for an agreed $6,500 worth of materials with which to build a certain type house according to agreed plans and specifications.

Hales said he and Worley agreed on this exchange only after he (Hales) had checked the cost of materials called for in the plans and found this cost to be about $6,500.

Hales says, however, that Worley altered the plans of the house from time to time, beginning with the foundation, and that total cost of materials came to about $12,000. He says Worley promised to pay the difference between the $6,500 and the actual cost of materials. He said that when Worley refused to do this, he filed a builder's lien, which was not released until Worley paid him the $5,000.

Worley contends that Hales is attempting to convert Worley's $5,000 to his own use and his suing him for its return.

Representing Worley is C. E. McGaw, Snyder attorney. Representing Hales is Robert R. Patterson, Snyder attorney.

Jurors were Mrs. L. P. Houston, Mrs. A. B. Baze, Grady Williams, J. D. West, John Bryant, Clyde Brown, Clyde South, J. A. Dickerson, Lee R. Massingill, Johnny Hoyle, W. D. Casebolt, and W. W. Woods.

WEST TEXAS STATE BANK TO OPEN DRIVE-IN UNIT

Opening of drive-in banking service by West Texas State Bank is scheduled for this week, Nolan Watson, president, said.

The new drive-in portion of the bank will contain Snyder's first television transmission and receiving equipment in a visual intercommunication system for use by the drive-in tellers.

The televison intercom (TVI) will have a transmitting machine in the bank's bookkeeping department located in the second floor of the main building, and receivers will be set up at each of the two teller windows so that accounts and signatures can be checked immediately without any delay to the customer, Watson said.

The TVI is just one of many services never before offered in Snyder, Watson stated.

One of the featured services, of course, is off-street drive-in banking, the president said.

Cars may enter the drive-in portion of the bank from Twenty-sixth Street just east of the city hall, and use either of the two windows—if one is busy the car may be driven to the next without inconvenience to the driver and without him waiting in line. The drive of the auto bank will be completely paved, and the alley which will be used as an exit to Twenty-seventh Street is also being paved, Watson said.

Definite date of opening of the auto bank has not been determined, pending completion of the paving.

The drive-in bank building which replaces an old frame structure torn down to make room for the auto bank, is completely all-weather air conditioned, has bullet proof glass teller windows, and a speaker system to permit conversation between the tellers and customers.

In announcing tentative opening of the auto banking service, Watson also announced promotion of some officers, and creation of some new official posts in the bank.

Charles L. Duran, formerly cashier, has been promoted to the newly created post of vice president of the bank.

Charles Hooser was promoted to assistant vice president, and Martin A. Brooks succeeds Duran as cashier. E. Ray Warren was promoted to assistant cashier. The promotions were made in a meeting of the bank's board of directors held Thursday, Watson said.

Officers of the bank now are: Wayne Boren, chairman of the board of directors; Hugh Taylor, vice chairman of the board; Watson, president; H. W. Cargile, executive vice president; H. H. Elland, vice president; Duran, vice president; Hooser, assistant vice president; Brooks, cashier; Mrs. Jeanelle Allen, Riley R. Foster, Kenneth Hathaway, Erich R. Arnold, and Warren, assistant cashiers.

HALLIBURTON 'FASHION' SHOW

Two of the "models" in a fashion show given as part of the entertainment for the annual Christmas party of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co., are shown above. What is ahead in bathing suits is demonstrated by Ed Osgood, left, and L. W. Gillstrap. Padding in strategic places and cosmetics were not enough to completely hide the muscles and knobby knees of the men who were posing in women's future fashions. (Lee Watson photograph)

No Damage From Fire At Cafe Here Saturday

Firemen answered a call to a fire in the 66 Cafe on the East Highway about 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning, but the fire was put out without causing damages, Ivan Gatlin, fire marshal, said.

Gatlin said that grease from a cook stove in the cafe caught fire.

A false alarm was answered later, about 7 o'clock in the morning, when a gas flare at the Snyder Gasoline plant was mistaken for a fire in town. The flare was reported by at least two residents.

Three Area Counties To Get Wildcats

Stonewall County, Jones County and Nolan County have drawn locations for new wildcat tests.

E. Constantin, Jr., of Dallas will drill the Nolan tester as his No. 1 Ray Boothe. It is 467 feet north of the Texas & Pacific Railroad track, 467 feet from east and 2,140 feet from north (river) lines of section 500, James W. Barnes survey. That location is five-eighths of a mile north and slightly west field which produces at an average depth of 6,060 feet. Contract depth for the new test is 6,300 feet.

H. L. Brown, Jr., of Fort Worth will drill a 6,500-foot rotary wildcat 10 miles north of Aspermont in Stonewall County.

It is the No. 1 I. D. Dougherty, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 112-D-H&TC, two and five-eighth miles northeast of Texas Pacific No. 1 Gohlson, a wildcat failure abandoned in July, 1954. The location is also one and one-half miles northeast of the Gloria Gay Caddo and Conglimerate field.

Lamar H. Moore Drilling Co. and G. A. and George Poe of Abilene will drill a 5,500-foot rotary wildcat four miles east of Hamlin as the No. 1 Earl Herbst. The drillsite is on a 100-acre lease and 467 feet from south and east lines of section 8-340-Ausin & Williams survey.

Apache Drilling Co. of Dallas will drill the No. 1 Bettie Burleson as a 5,000-foot wildcat seven miles southwest of Anson. The site is 990 feet from south and 330 feet from east lines of section 12-208-J. W. McKissick. It is on a farmout from A. G. Hill, and slightly north of a depeleted producer completed at 3,614 feet for 40 barrels of oil in 1950.

340 Wells Completed In State During Week

AUSTIN, Dec. 11 (AP)—Texas oil operators this week completed 340 oil wells and 18 gas wells but another 171 holes proved dry, the Railroad Commission said today.

The oil well completions boosted the year's total to 11,489, compared with 9,723 a year ago.

The new gas wells brought the year's total to 1,148 against last year's 1,082.

Wildcatting produced 20 of the 340 oil wells, two of the 18 gas wells and 81 of the dry holes.

The total average calendar day crude oil allowable rose to 152,995 barrels, up 349 barrels daily from a week ago.

Wildcat Is Abandoned In Stonewall County

Wayne Petroleum Co. and others of Abilene No. 1 M. A. Baldwin, East Stonewall wildcat, has been abandoned at total depth of 6,407 feet.

The failure was drilled one and three-quarter miles northwest of the Boyd-Bend conglomerate field and four miles east of Aspermont in section 50-D-H&TC.

5 Wells Set In Post Field

Dr. Sam G. Dunn of Lubbock has filed applications to drill five new projects in the Post field about 10 miles northeast of Post in Garza County.

The No. 19 McCrary is to be 2,310 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of the northeast quarter of section 79-5-GH&H. The No. 5 Davis is 1,650 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 80-5-GH&H.

Three of the wells will be on Dunn's Henderson Lease. The No. 4 Henderson is 330 feet from north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 82-5-GH&H. The No. 5 is 330 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of the same section, and the No. 6 is 330 feet from south and east lines of the same acreage.

All the wells are to drill to 3,000 feet, with operations starting immediately.

New Wildcat, Offset Spotted In Andrews

Andrews County has gained a location for a wildcat and an offset to a discovery.

Socs Vratis of Port Arthur will drill the wildcat 14 miles northwest of Andrews. It will be the No. 1 G. M. Cox and others, 660 feet from the north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 16-A33-psl. It is one and one-half miles northeast of the Fullerton field which produces at approximately 7,300 feet.

Forest Oil Corp. and Monterey Exploration Co. of Midland will drill a three-quarter mile southeast offset to their No. 1-C University, opener and lone producer of the Means-East Strawn field six miles northeast of Andrews. The new project will be the No. 1-B University, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 19-4-University lands survey.

Wolfcamp Venture Scheduled In Gaines

The Texas Co. has announced plans to drill a 9,700-foot test of the Wolfcamp in South-Central Gaines County.

The wildcat, the No. 1 S. A. Spence, is 3,310 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of tract 2, league 313, Gaines County school land survey. That is 12 miles southeast of Seminole. Drilling is slated to begin immediately.

Outpost Is Planned For Field In Garza

Curtis R. Inman of Midland has field application to drill a one and one-quarter mile west outpost to the discovery well of the Justiceburg-Glorieta field of Southeast Garza County.

The project will be the No. 1 Bella Bailey Boren, located 330 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 6-6-H&GN. That is about two and one-half miles east of Justiceburg, and on a 160-acre lease. Contract depth is 2,800 feet, with cable tools to begin operations at once.

New Fractionation Unit Put Into Use

ALHAMBRA, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP)—Did you ever see a bubble column?

It's a tower 2 to 20 feet in diameter and well over 100 feet high and has lots to do with the price of gasoline.

The column, which you can easily spot from your car as you drive past a refinery, has a fancier name, a distillation or fractionation tower, because it concerns the distillation or separation of liquids into petroleum products.

But by any name it's still a basic tool used by oil refineries and chemical processors.

A very particular bubble column is in today's oil news because 43 firms have just put it in operation, or "on stream."

This $150,000 experimental tower unit was built by C. F. Braun & Co., an Alhambra engineering firm. The tower is expected to solve some important problems and save some gasoline money for motorists.

Twenty five petroleum and chemical companies and 18 engineering firms including Continental, Globe, Keystone, Ohio, Phillips, Sunray and Tide Water, have just dedicated the column after a 5-year research project.

The companies are stockholders in a non-profit corporation called "Fractionation Research," with headquarters at Bartlesville, Okla. T. B. Hudson, formerly of Phillips Petroleum, is FRI president.

The firms incorporated in 1952, to go after the plaguing questions about fractionation equipment. They figured that by pooling expenses of $300,000 or more since FRI began they'll be able to do what one firm couldn't afford alone.

In a refinery's distillation column, a mixture of hydrocarbons or other fluids to be separated enters a column as a vapor and rises through a series of perforated metal trays.

As the vapor rises through the column it is contacted by a liquid which is descending through the tower, cooling the vapor in such a way that the individual liquids condense at different levels—high octane at the top, heavy material at the bottom.

FRI will run different mixtures of hydrocarbon liquids as found in petroleum but will use only two pure compounds at a time to produce the best possible result in finding the capacity of the tall column.

In the past, design information has been faulty in some cases so that capacities of the expensive towers have been found to be off 200 to 300 per cent from design predictions.

FRI will first test proposed trays in a simulator column and the ones showing promise will be tried next in the more expensive distillation unit. Finally, FRI may arrange for field tests in actual refineries.

When the research is done, refineries will be able to increase their production by revising the design of their equipment, will cut their utility costs (they use lots of steam, electricity and water)—and bring about a lower gasoline price to the consumer, engineers say.

Man Found Hanged

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 11 (AP)—A man's body was founding hanging from an iron grating atop a "wishing well" at the historic San Jose Mission, a tourist attraction, today. The dead man was identified as Antonio Garcia, about 35, a laborer who lived about two blocks from the mission.

School Law Changes Will Be Requested

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Texas Research League said today the Gilmer-Aikin school laws of 1949 have improved public education in Texas but the program still has major defects.

The league made seven recommendations certain to cause stormy debate if submitted to the Legislature.

Findings and recommendations of the league, a privately financed organization specializing in state government research, were submitted to the State Board of Education in a 91-page general report. The board requested the study last year.

Four additional volumes dealing with the state's minimum foundation program for public schools will deal with specific parts of the survey and give a detailed account of the findings, conclusions and proposals.

The survey listed seven "principal deficiencies" of the Gilmer-Aikin program. They dealt generally with the financing formula and with the administrative structure at the local level.

"The Gilmer-Aikin laws failed to provide for a sound statewide structure of local administrative units on which to base the new school financing program," said the report, submitted by league executive director Alvin A. Burger.

"As a result, the program is subsidizing the perpetuation of many districts which provide an inadequate but expensive education for their children," the report continued.

The league's research staff said this "inadequacy is characterized by lower attendance, restricted course and service offerings, wastage of professional manpower, and disproportionately high per pupil costs."

To eliminate what it called "gaps and defects" in the program, the league recommended:

1. That the board of education direct the Legislature's attention to "the pressing need for a realignment of the state's local school district structure to provide adequate school administrative units and effective intermediate units."

Such reorganization, the report said, should provide for a complete system of 12-grade districts of adequate enrollment and financial capacity. Replacement of existing county and administrative units with regional intermediate service and administrative units was suggested wherever such action seems necessary.

2. Amendment of the foundation program to give all districts an option of continuing under the present detailed financing formula or of converting to a flat allowance per child in current attendance or per professional unit (teacher) earned. Exact details would have to be worked out later.

3. Construction of an index of taxable property values to serve as the basis for distributing the local fund assignment to school districts. Such an index would replace the controversial economic index now used to measure each district's ability to finance school costs from local tax sources.

4. Repeal of the $100 per teacher credit against the local fund assignment of each district. The credit was adopted this year as part of the compromise in a fight over how to achieve a pay raise for teachers. The research league said the $100 credit means the ratio between state and local financing of the minimum foundation program actually will run about 83-17 instead of the 80-200 ratio sought by the Legislature.

5. Repeal of the present state and federal land credit against the local fund assignment.

The league said the reduction allowed districts containing state or federal lands "is a form of special assistance related neither to actual taxpaying ability nor to the foundation need of these districts."

6. A redefining of the word "scholastic" as used in the statute on distribution of the available school fund, so that it would mean a school age child in average daily attendance instead of a school age child living in the district.

The league said this would produce a distribution of the scholastic apportionment on the basis of actual school loads rather than on potential school leads and would encourage better school attendance in districts not now qualifying for minimum foundation program assistance.

7. That the state education agency take the school census every two years instead of annually and the results be reported to that agency statistically rather than by individual name.

The league said this would greatly reduce the present administrative burden of the education agency.

Radar Points Mortar Fire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Army tonight announced a radar device for locating the source of one of the soldier's deadliest enemies—mortar fire.

It said units already are in the hands of American ground forces "in several theaters," and that the first models had been developed early enough to be given actual battle tests in the latter phases of the Korean War.

With the electronic locator, the Army said, front lines forces can detect and "lock in" the path of enemy mortar shell, tracking their trajectory back to the source and reveal the position from which they are fired. It said "hundreds of soldiers" who fought in Korea owe their lives to the new device.

The unit is compact and can be towed by a light truck. It includes an automatic radar tracker with dish-shaped antenna, a gasoline motor generator and radar scope console.

The device was developed jointly by the Army Signal Corps and Sperry Gyroscope Co.

Women On Juries Not Exactly A New Experience In Snyder

By LaWAYNE HULSE

So far as is known here, the first women ever to serve on a district court jury in Scurry County did so a few days ago, causing many remarks throughout the county about the "first women jurors."

But they were not the first, for three women and three men sat on a jury in county court here Aug. 6, 1926. However, the recent women jurors may be allowed to claim the honor of serving on the first constitutionally-selected jury composed partly of the fair sex; and it is certain they can claim to be the first women to serve after the constitutional amendment gave women the duty and privilege.

When the Daily News recently listed the district court jury panel as the first ever to have legally chosen women on it, word came from Mrs. Sam Joyce that her mother, Mrs. Wade Winston, had served on a jury here in the early twenties.

Contacting Mrs. Winston, the Daily News was shown a photograph of her, Mrs. R. D. English, Miss Alice Lindsey, S. J. Littlepage, A. M. McPherson, and Marcus (Mark) Boyd, the jurors in a county court case that only Mrs. Winston and Mrs. English could remember.

The photograph was not dated, and both Mrs. Winston and Mrs. English tried in vain to recall the date of trial, the styling of the case, and other details. The nearest the time could be fixed by memory was between 1920 and 1926, but both opined it was 1923.

It was remembered that a party to the suit was A. E. Dennis. Old dockets were examined, and the only case with his party between those dates was that of J. A. Brown vs. Clyde Dennis and A. E. Dennis, a suit on a note, filed Nov. 13, 1925.

The file jacket was missing from the files of the county clerk's office, and it was not determined until Friday that this was the case in question.

Meanwhile, the other two of the four living jurors were contacted, Boyd and McPherson, but neither could recall any women jurors ever serving in this county. Many of the county's old-timers were contacted also but said such was news to them.

One of the attorneys in the case believed to be the one in question was contacted, C. F. (Frank) Sentell, but he said he could not recall any details of the suit and did not remember any case with women jurors.

Friday, Dan Cotton, county clerk-elect, found in the clerk's office an old bundle of vouchers, among which were two written to Mrs. Winston and Miss Lindsey for $3 each for jury service on Aug. 6, 1926.

Checking the docket again, it was found that the case mentioned above was tried three times, one of which was on that date. This trial resulted quickly in declaration of a mistrial. The reason was not found, but it may have been because women were on the jury.

(It was found that some attorneys in Snyder believe now that women occasionally served on juries years ago when courts sometimes ruled that "men" in the constitution meant "mankind" and that later the higher courts clarified the point by interpreting such to mean male persons only.)

The case was finally settled out of court four years and about 20 settings after it was first filed, during which period it was mistried twice, tried once, and appealed once.

The suit was first set on Jan. 11, 1926, for trial on Feb. 1, then continued to March 8, when it was again passed to March 29, then set again for April 1, when it was tried and a mistrial declared.

Excluding the possibility that a similar almost forgotten case may come to light, the persons shown above composed the first jury in Scurry County with women. From left to right, back row first: Miss Alice Lindsey (deceased), Mrs. Wade Winston, Mrs. R. D. English, S. J. Littlepage (deceased), Mark Boyd, and A. M. McPherson. The jury was used Aug. 6, 1926, in a civil county court suit which was mistried twice, appealed once, called a score of times, and settled out of court four years after it was filed. (photograph courtesy of Mrs. Winston)

Whether this mistrial was the result of a hung jury or some other cause is not known.

The case was next called on May 10, 1926, and continued then till July 12, when it was passed again to July 26, continued then till Aug. 5, and then set for trial the next day. This trial is apparently the one using the women jurors. A mistrial was declared later, according to the docket, which does not list the reason. The jury did agree on its verdict, however, Mrs. Winston remembers.

The case was not called to court again until 11 months later on July 12, 1927, when it was set for trial Aug. 9, then passed to Sept. 13, then postponed again till Sept. 23, then passed to Nov. 14, then set again for Nov. 30, when it was again continued to March 12, 1928. Then it was passed and set for May 14, then set for June 1, later called from the docket on July 9 and continued to Sept. 10, when it was set for trial Sept. 28, then passed to Oct. 20, then to Jan. 14, 1929, and on this date it was passed till Feb. 20.

The case was called from the docket next on May 13, 1929, and set for June 19. What happened then isn't listed, but on June 27, it was called again and a motion to postpone it was overruled. It apparently went to trial the third time on June 27, 1929. A motion for a new trial was later filed by the plaintiff June 29, and an appeal bond was filed July 17. The case was finally settled between the parties on Oct. 9, 1929.

At the time it was tried by the three men and three women, Kate Cotten was county clerk and Horace Holley was judge. Mabel F. German was clerk when the appeal was filed. Mrs. Winston remembers that G. H. Leath was the deputy sheriff who summoned her.

Many of those in office at that time are no longer living. Neither is Mr. Littlepage nor Miss Lindsey.

Mrs. Winston said the trial at which she served lasted only one day but that she served the next day on a jury commission. The other two on the commission were men.

Navy Cancellation Cause Of Layoffs

DALLAS, Dec. 11 (AP)—Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., today said it has dropped about 500 employes since Nov. 19 because of Navy cancellation of an order for one of several versions of the twin-jet Cutlass airplane built in the Dallas plant.

Chance Vought now has an employment roster of 14,742, said F. O. Detweiler, president. He said no additional layoffs are scheduled for the remainder of the year.

The cancellation applied only to the attack version of the plane and other versions of the F7U3 Cutlass remain in production.

Abilene Girl Wins Contest Of Jaycees

Gwen Lareau, 17-year-old Abilene High School senior, was declared winner of a regional Junior Chamber of Commerce radio speaking contest here Friday.

The contest was judged at the weekly meeting of the Jaycees here, with Bill Wise, a local member and state vice-president, presiding. Judges were county judge Edgar Taylor, Chamber of Commerce manager Bob Crowell, and Ted Norton, minister of the Twenty-fifth Street Church of Christ.

Wise said the contest, which goes on to national competition, is one of the Jaycees' most oustanding projects in that it gives several thousand high school students in the U. S. orientation in democracy, the subject of their talks. The regional winner of the 12-county area won after judges listened to tape recordings of the speeches, which were about eight minutes long.

The winner's tape will now be sent to the state contest, which will be held tomorrow at Grand Prairie. State and national winners will receive scholarship awards. The American Association of Broadcasting and Television Stations, which is cooperating with the Jaycees in the contest, awards others placing certificates of merit.

Miss Lareau is a member of the student body at the Abilene school and plans to study music at Hardin-Simmons University next year. Second place went to Sharlotte Shannon, senior at May High School. Third was awarded to Janice Rhea Stacy, 17-year-old Snyder High School senior. Miss Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stacy, 118 Milburn, is editor of the high school newspaper here.

Livestock In Good Shape For Winter

AUSTIN, Dec. 11 (AP)—Cattle and calves are going into the winter in "fair to good condition" despite drought, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Cattle are reported at 74 per cent condition and sheep at 71 per cent statewide. On the western side of the Edwards Plateau, the USDA found, ewes and carryover lambs are in generally fair to good shape, but in the northern and eastern sections, they are in poor to fair shape.

There has been generally heavy supplemental feeding to help make up for the extreme shortages of range feed.

Navy Man Visits Parents

Robert Bryan Creswell is visiting his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Bob Creswell of Hermleigh, having completed his basic naval training at San Diego.

He arrived here Friday morning and will leave Dec. 21 to report to Balboa Hospital in San Diego Dec. 23, where he will be a medical corpsman.

Returns To Navy Duty

Roy Kenneth Griffith was to leave for Norfolk, Va., today to resume duty with the Navy, after spending a 10-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Griffith, 911 Thirtieth Street. He serves aboard the USS Intrepid, having gone aboard that ship when it was recommissioned last June 8.

Thompson Has Another Plea

AUSTIN, Dec. 11 (AP) — Railroad Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson today appealed again for reduced oil imports.

Thompson said in a press release the U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates 30,000 more barrels of Texas crude will be needed per day in January. Gulf Oil Co., Thompson said, will need 15,000 barrels more per day to take the place of imports they had intended to bring in, but will not.

"Surely other importers will see the necessity of reducing imports in the light of Texas' production plight," the head of the state's oil and gas regulatory agency said. "Fifteen shut - down days a month is too great a burden for the independent to survive.

"Surrounding areas — New Mexico and the Rocky Mountain states —have not reduced their production. It is unfair for Texas to bear the total load."

With heavy demand months coming up, Thompson said he would like to see Texas "reoccupy its place in the supply picture" by allowing 16 or 18 days of production in January.

The railroad commission will decide on January's permissive flow of Texas oil at a meeting here Friday.

Crushed To Death

HEFLIN, Ala., Dec. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Sudie Willingham, 21, of Grand Prairie, Tex., was thrown from her car and crushed to death when it overturned today. Officers said she apparently went to sleep while driving alone.

Raiders Smash Gents To Hold Title, 93-75

Texas Tech's Red Raiders last night took their second consecutive championship in the Canyon Reef College Basketball Tournament here.

The Red Raiders moved out ahead of the Centenary Gents of Shreveport, La., during the last nine minutes to take the title, finally winning 93-75. The lead the Tech team had at the end of the game was the largest margin it had throughout.

Seven times the game was tied, three of those times in the last half and one with about nine minutes to go. Centenary led only one time. That was by one point midway through the first half.

Centenary had more opposition last night than it did in the first night of the tourney, and Tech's defense kept the Gents from hitting as well as they did in preliminaries. Centenary averaged hitting only 42.1 per cent of their field goal tries, while Tech got 56.6 per cent. On free throws, Tech averaged 80.5 per cent to Centenary's 75 per cent.

Jim Reed and Carl Ince led scoring for the Raiders with 22 points each. Reed and Eugene Carpenter led rebounders. Also among rebounders for the Raiders was Ned Underwood of Snyder. Top scorer for Centenary was Gabby Hayes with 17 points.

North Texas State of Denton downed Howard Payne of Brownwood 79-67 in the consolation game.

Chosen to the all - tournament team were Ince, Carpenter, Reed, and Du-Wayne Blackshear, all of Tech; Burl Plunkett, Jimmy Edelen, and Billy Emmons, all of Centenary; Jim Powell and Tom Hooper of North Texas, and George Moore of Howard Payne.

The tourney was sponsored for the second year by the Snyder Public Schools and Snyder Quarterback Club. John Conley, head high school coach, served as tourney director.

North Texas took an early lead in its win over Howard Payne, increasing the lead to 20 points at the half, 41-21, but as the second half got underway Howard Payne's Jackets got their offensive fired up slightly.

The Eagles' lead was narrowed at one time to 12 points, then North Texas moved farther ahead. Howard Payne was still trying hard at the end of the game and at that time was only 12 points behind.

Freddie Hopkins paced the winners with 28 points, followed by Tom Hooper with 13. Leading the Jackets was Roger Doran with 25, while Jim Webb had 15.

Howard Payne and North Texas each moved down a notch from their places in last year's tourney. Last year, North Texas was second place, losing in the finals to Tech. Howard Payne took the consolation title in a game with McMurry.

Friday night, Centenary gained entry to the finals by taking North Texas 85-72, while Tech drubbed Howard Payne 87-41.

Centenary hit 73.9 per cent of its shots in the first half and 60 per cent for the whole game against North Texas, taking the lead at the beginning and never giving it up.

By halftime, Centenary had a lead of 43-25. During most of the second half, the Gents held their lead to about 20 points while North Texas was improving. North Texas narrowed the lead to 13 points, got behind to 20 points again, and then brought it back to 13 as the game ended.

Plunkett paced the Centenary team in that game with 23 points, missing few of his shots, while Combs, the team's top rebounder, followed with 17. Leading North Texas was Jimmy Powell with 18 points. Tom Hooper and David Lane had 16 each.

The Tech-Howard Payne game was much the same, except that Tech had less opposition in that game than did Centenary in the first one. By halftime, Tech had a 34-14 margin. The Red Raiders got 48 points ahead at one time.

Reed led the Raiders with 14 points, while the team passed scoring around. Robert Moore topped the Howard Payne team with 13 points.

Eagles Rap Poly, 46-0

FORT WORTH, Dec. 11 (AP)—With plentiful array of backs to call upon, Abilene smashed Fort Worth Poly 46-0 today before 16,000 fans to move into the state Class AAAA football finals.

Abilene will go against Houston Austin for the AAAA championship next week.

Held to just one touchdown in the first quarter, Abilene exploded for two more late in the second quarter and added four in the last half to demolish the Parrots.

Abilene ground out 323 yards rushing with reserve back Jack Self being the leading rusher with 83 yards on 6 carries, including a 54-yard touchdown run.

The Eagles' terrific defense yielded just 15 yards to Poly rushing and gave up 99 yards to the Parrots' aerial game.

Poly threatened just once. Early in the first quarter, the Parrots pushed to the Eagles' 14 before a fumble rubbed out the drive.

Bowl Games Minus Two Top Powers

By BOB HOOBING
AP Sports Writer

Southern California will test its fine post-season record and a much-criticized conference rule against national champion Ohio State and Navy will make an almost unprecedented appearance on the major football bowl slate New Year's Day.

Through UCLA and Oklahoma went unbeaten and untied in winning the Pacific Coast and Big Seven Conference titles, respectively, the two circuits don't permit the same team to appear two years in a row in their bowl tieups.

Nebraska will meet Duke under the year-old Big Seven-Atlantic Coast Conference pact through the Sooners whipped the Cornhuskers 55-7.

Many voices have been raised against legislation that keeps teams with the best records out of the bowls and the chief witness for the defense will be the Trojans of USC.

Southern Cal is tied with Alabama for the most bowl appearances — 11 — and has the best record. USC has lost only twice and holds the only Pacific Coast victory since Illinois opened the current Big Ten-PCC series by trampling UCLA 45-14, Jan. 1, 1947.

This year the Bruins blanked USC 34-0 but the men of Troy issued a warning to Ohio State the following week by giving Notre Dame a bad scare before losing, 23-17.

The Buckeyes, who have split even in two previous Rose Bowl games, also have a strange precedent to overcome. In three of the past four years the national champion appeared in a bowl game and each time it lost.

Oklahoma was upset by Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl on the first day of 1951. Tennessee lost to Maryland the following year and last New Year's Day Oklahoma surprised Maryland 7-0.

Navy's famed "Team Named Desire" accepted a Sugar Bowl bid to play against Mississippi in what may become the biggest attraction. Only once before did Navy go to a post-season game. That was in 1924 when the Middies tied Washington 14-14, in the Rose Bowl. Army never has gone which means its practically a new maneuver for the service schools.

Georgia Tech, another of the old hands which sports a 7-2 bowl record, meets Arkansas' Cinderella Southwest titlists in the Cotton Bowl. The Engineers enter the game with bowl victories the last three years.

On Dec. 31 the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., puts together fast-finishing Auburn and Baylor, which lost a chance for a Southwest Conference first-place tie as the season ended.

As usual the East-West Shrine Game will be among the headliners on New Year's and the Salad Bowl offers something new in the form of a match between the senior all stars of the Border and Skyline Conferences.

Omaha meets Eastern Kentucky in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., and Texas Western faces Florida State in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas.

Navy, dropping two games out of nine, missed an unbeaten season by a mere eight points. The Middies lost to Notre Dame 6-0 and Pitt 21-19 but finished on a thunderous note with its 27-20 conquest of Army. The sailors have All-America end Ron Beagle, a great defense and a fine team director in quarterback George Welsh.

Mississippi, whose only loss was to Arkansas 6-0, has a well-balanced team and All-America tackle Rex Boggan.

The Razorbacks, sporting an 8-2 record with both defeats at the end of the season, pits its single-wing attack against Georgia Tech's split-T. All-America guard Bud Brooks spearheads the Arkansas line while fullback Henry Moore carries a big share of the load in the secondary.

Tech has a tough line featuring guard Franklin Brooks and center Larry Morris.

Duke (7-2-1) is favored against Nebraska (6-4) in the Orange Bowl. The Blue Devils have an edge in schedule with its losses to the service schools and tie with Purdue.

Border Holds Frosh Eligible

EL PASO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Border Conference faculty representatives, holding their annual winter meeting here, took no action on changing the rule that permits freshmen to compete in varsity athletics.

Arizona had led a fight to return the conference to the three-year athletic participation rule. The faculty group put a 26-game limit on basketball schedules of each school to conform with NCAA regulations. The Border Conference limit had been 25 games.

Bill Holmes, Texas Tech, was chosen president of the Border Conference Publicity Assn. Other officers are: Ed De Forrest, Arizona State, vice president; Bill Philpot, Texas Western, secretary; and Paul Bouschelle, New Mexico A&M, treasurer; George Hine, Hardin-Simmons, was named head of a committee to discount chronic reports that the Border Conference was in the throes of desolution or was undergoing membership changes.

San Francisco Edges Baltimore Colts, 10-7

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11 (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers eked out a 10-7 victory over the Baltimore Colts today in a National Football League finale that featured brilliant defensive line play and stuttering offensives.

The 49ers 90-yard march in the third quarter to the winning touchdown scored from a scant 1 yard out by fullback Joe Perry, offered slight comfort for what they had set out to do.

The 49ers — playing before 26,956 plus a national TV audience—wanted to salvage some glory from a disappointing season by springing Perry loose for 140 yards. That would have given him a new NFL ground-gaining record for one season.

Breckenridge Is Site Of Final Game

By The Associated Press

Abilene and Houston Austin met at Waco Saturday night to decide the site and date of their state Class AAAA schoolboy football championship game after they breezed into the finals with victories over Fort Worth Poly and Corpus Christi Miller respectively.

Abilene slammed Poly 46-0 and Austin edged Miller 21-20 in Saturday's semi-finals.

Breckenridge and Port Neches will play at Breckenridge next Saturday afternoon for the Class AAA title. They decided this by flip of a coin in a meeting at Waco Saturday night following Breckenridge's victory by penetrations over Lufkin in a 14-14 tie. Port Neches, the defending champion, reached the finals Friday night by smashing McAllen 44-14.

Phillips, Terrell, Killeen and Freer made the semifinals of Class AA. Phillips beat Littlefield 33-0 and Terrell defeated Carthage 26-6 in the quarter-finals Friday and they immediately agreed to meet at Vernon Saturday in the semi-finals.

Killeen and Freer are the other two semifinalists. Killeen downed Waxahachie 20-14 and Freer won over Nederland on penetrations in a 28-28 tie. They will play their semi-final game at San Marcos Friday night.

Bucks Move Into Finals

WACO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Breckenridge's mighty Buckaroos slipped into the Class AAA schoolboy football finals today by edging Lufkin 4-3 on penetrations in a 14-14 tie.

The Bucks slowed a desperate Lufkin drive in the final seconds until time ran out with the Panthers on the Breckenridge 14.

It was Lufkin's first setback in 12 starts this year.

The Bucks took the decision in spite of six lost fumbles with a slashing ground attack that picked up 352 yards rushing to 240 for Lufkin.

Rain slowed the action in the second half.

Hinds Wins Junior Rose Bowl, 13-7

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP)—Two long touchdown runs by halfback Olen Renfroe gave Hinds Jr. College of Mississippi a 13-7 victory over El Camino College of California in the ninth annual Jr. Rose Bowl game today.

Hermleigh's Wendell Goodman heads downfield for a good gain in Saturday's regional championship game with the Rochester Steers played at Tiger Stadium yesterday afternoon. Cardinal Center Alvis Tarter, far right (No. 43), moves into position to do some blocking, while an unidentified Rochester player gets set to try to halt Goodman. The Cardinals made a herculean comeback, fighting from behind a 6-25 deficit in the fourth quarter, to win, 26-25. (Lee Watson Photograph)

Sophs Spark Cardinals In Comeback For 26-25 Victory

Two lively sophomores, quarterback Robbie Robinson and halfback Billy Mac Davidson, led the way yesterday afternoon to the Hermleigh Cardinals' first Class B regional football crown.

Running behind the Rochester Steers, powerful squad of the Stamford area, the Cards didn't let Rochester's 25-6 scoring lead with eight minutes to go in the game get them down. Three times they scored in that eight minutes, with Davidson's kick after the last touchdown with 1:31 to go in the game, meaning the difference in the 26-25 victory.

Robinson, who started the game at halfback, was switched to quarterback immediately after Rochester got the game's first score. Except for a short time, he held down that position for the remainder of the game.

Coach Ray Isaacs' Cardinals made up the scoring difference in the last quarter on one hard 65-yard scoring drive on the ground, one 79-yard pass play, and a short scoring plunge set up on a long pass.

The regional championship ends the season for the Cards. Class B goes no higher in state playoffs.

The team Hermleigh beat was the one which had downed the Cards 33-23 in a non-district game earlier this season. Leading that squad, and doing a fine job, was back Billy Joe Hollingsworth, who is rushing and scoring leader for the squad this season. In yesterday's game, Hollingsworth gained 238 yards on 35 carries.

Robinson threw 15 passes in the wide-open tilt, completing six of them for 203 yards. The only other pass of the game was one for 11 yards from Kemp McMillan to Richard Fritz. Robinson hit end Neal Wilcox with four of the passes for a total of 150 yards. Davidson and Wendell Goodman caught the other two.

The game was tied up at the half 6-6. After a scoreless first period, which had as its only threat Hermleigh reaching the Rochester 25, Rochester scored on a one-yard plunge by Hollingsworth. The Steers had a short time before punched down to the Hermleigh two, lost the ball on downs, and took over again on the Hermleigh 18 after the Cards had worked to there and fumbled. It took five plays to get the ball across the goal line.

Hermleigh struck right back, taking the kickoff back to its own 43 and grinding its way down the field to the Steer 19, where Robinson passed to Wilcox and hit him at the goal line for a score. Rochester had failed to convert, and Davidson also failed on his kick for Hermleigh.

Soon after the half, McMillan stopped a Rochester drive when he intercepted a pass on the Hermleigh 18. Rochester later took over on its own 47, however, moved down to the Hermleigh 36 on three good runs, and took the rest of the yardage on a pass from Bean to John Ben Glover. Rochester then effected an onside kick, recovered the ball, and started from its own 49. The team had to punt, but Hermleigh failed in its try to carry the ball out of the hole.

Taking the ball on the Hermleigh 42, Rochester got another score in two plays. Donnie McNelly passed 17 yards to Glover, then Hollingsworth stomped across several Hermleigh defenders the remaining 25 for the TD. McNelly ran the extra point over the line.

Another onside kick worked, and Rochester started again from the Cardinal 49. This was a hard drive, moving down to the three, where Hollingsworth took the ball over for the score. That made it 25-6 early in the fourth.

That was when the Hermleigh bombshell was getting ready to explode. Robinson started a shower of passes, throwing eight in 10 plays and gaining yardage on three of them. Three more plays put the ball across, with Davidson carrying the final half yard. Davidson also kicked the point, making the score 25-13 with 7:29 to go in the game.

Rochester was forced to punt again soon, and the Cards started from their own 21. On his third try, Robinson connected with Wilcox on an aerial which covered 79 yards and made another score. Wilcox, making use of his long legs, outran two Steers during 40 of the 79-yard play. The score was then 25-19.

Again Rochester had to punt, so Hermleigh got its next drive underway from its own 41. Robinson hit Wilcox on another pass for 47 yards, then he and Davidson began punching into the line. The last jab, by Davidson, netted two yards and a TD to tie the game 25-25. Davidson's kick was to the right but still inside the posts for the conversion.

Rochester tried desperately to pass its way to another score, but Hermleigh got the ball again and ran the time out.

While Robinson and Davidson paced the backfield, the Cardinal line put in much good blocking in the game. Fritz, Jay Houston, Charles Smith, and Goodman were by far the outstanding defensive players for Hermleigh. Defensive standouts for Rochester were Donald Wade and Lee Morris.

The Cardinals, in eight years, have now taken one regional championship and three bi-district titles, besides the five district titles, two second places, and one third place.

Pro Gridders End Schedule

By The Associated Press

Professional football concludes its scheduled season Sunday and if you see anyone except Detroit and Cleveland in the title final on Dec. 26 it will be because Santa Claus has you out of focus.

Detroit already has the Western Division crown won and Cleveland has to come completely apart to be denied another sectional flag.

The Clevelanders play the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday and the carnage could be terrific. In their last meeting, Pittsburgh stomped on the proud Browns 55-27. That is enough to insure that the Clevelanders will be up. If you couple this fact with the one that the Browns can assure themselves of a title game by a victory, you can be certain they'll be all out for revenge.

The Lions go into their fray with the Chicago Bears in relaxed frame of mind, their divisional honors already won, but quarterback Bobby Layne has a broken nose and probably will be rested.

The New York Giants, hopeful of getting a tie with the Browns in the East, must defeat the Eagles at Philadelphia while the Browns are losing, to make their dreams possible. The New Yorkers already have downed the Eagles once this season, 27-14, but this time they face the Philadelphians with a patched up lineup that doesn't include Chuck Conerly, pass-tossing quarterback.

Other weekend games have Green Bay at Los Angeles and the Chicago Cardinals playing the Washington Redskins with the losers destined for the cellar. Baltimore and the San Francisco 49ers played Saturday on the West Coast.

Penetrations Boost Freer

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 11 (AP)—Freer toppled mighty Nederland on penetrations in a 28-28 tie today to push into the semifinals of Class AA schoolboy football and stage the mightiest upset of the season.

Joe Holcomb, 160-pound star, led Freer in its conquest, racing for 193 yards on 35 carries and sparking the four great drives that led to the tie.

The game ended in rhubarb with Nederland claiming a penetration when its Larry Mindaldi was hit on the Freer 26, fumbled and Holcomb recovered on the 20. It was ruled by the Interscholastic League that it was not a penetration because Nederland didn't have possession of the ball on the Freer 20.

A crowd of 7,000 saw the gripping struggle in which Freer won by the margin of one penetration—5 to 4. That penetration had come on the first drive of the game when Freer advanced 46 yards to the Nederland 17 only to lose the ball.

The eight touchdowns each contributed a penetration.

At first it was planned to view motion pictures of the game to decide the penetrations but this was abandoned when the game was analyzed and the proper rule invoked.

Furgol Edges Into Deadlock

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 11 (AP) — Ed Furgol, the National Open champion with a withered left arm, fired a 69 today and pulled a three-way tie for first place after three rounds of the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament.

Deadlocked with Furgol were Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y. All had 54-hole totals of 206, 4 under par.

Wininger, leading the field by a stroke after two rounds, slipped to a 2 over par 72 and Kroll, in second place this morning, shot a 71.

Par for the 6,620-yard Miami Springs course is 35-35—70.

Furgol, playing his first tournament since pulling a muscle in his good right arm about two months ago, could have been out front by himself if his second shot on the 18th hole had more power behind it. The ball caught the edge of a trap. Furgol was unable to go for the pin and he had to settle for a bogey 5.

Kroll, too, lost a chance to move out fron when he missed two putts of less than a foot.

The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow. In case of a tie, there will be a sudden death playoff for the championship and $2,000 first place money.

Sanford Is Selected As Coach Of Year

DALLAS, Dec. 11 (AP)—Coaches of the Pioneer Conference today voted A. J. (Sandy) Sanford of Tarleton Football Coach of the Year in the conference.

They also decided unanimously that none of their teams would accept any invitation to join the Longhorn Conference, which has made overtures to some of them.

April 29 and 30, were the dates set for the conference's annual track, tennis and golf meet to be held at Tarleton, in Stephenville.

SWC Bigwigs View Recruiting Evils

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Southwest Conference viewed with alarm the rising tide of athletic subsidization and recruiting today and said it threatened the conference's existence.

The alumni, which it was charged, exerted improper influence upon prospective athletes, drew the chief blame.

In the gloomiest report ever issued, the Faculty Committee, governing body of the conference, expressed its opinion that recruiting violations were going on in the conference but that under existing rules they could not be penalized because of lack of evidence that "would stand up in court."

Gifts to prospective athletes, inducements beyond their eligibility and aid to their families were the main violations cited.

The committee wound up its winter meeting today after delving for hours into rumors of recruiting violations, concluding that "evidence that such wrongdoing has occurred is too strong to be doubted."

The committee tightened the recruiting rules to prohibit even discussing with an athlete an offer of financial assistance or a job after he has completed his eligibility. There already is a rule prohibiting it; now it can't even be discussed.

The committee also decided that before the start of the letter of intent period no kind of document can be offered to an athlete, the signing of which would obligate his attending a member school.

Another step taken to tighten recruiting rules was a regulation that no athlete can be on a member campus more than three days before his school entrance unless he is employed there.

Howard Grubbs, conference secretary, reporting on the executive meetings, said the committee felt the rules were all right but that they were just not being enforced properly, mainly because the violations were by oustiders and were done in such manner they could not be brought to book.

But, Grubbs asserted, not all of the trouble has come from the alumni. The schools themselves have been lax and some of them have failed to uphold the rules to the letter because they wanted to keep up with what their opponents were doing.

For the first time in years the question of conference expansion was not discussed although there were two motions on the table, carried over from the spring meeting at Waco, to admit Texas Tech and Oklahoma. Grubbs said the matter wasn't even mentioned.

Navy Recruits Will See Sugar Bowl Grid Game

Its hard to get tickets to football bowl games, but if you don't have any, here is a way to get them.

The Navy has said certain qualified recruits who sign up during the next few days will be guests of the Navy at the Mississippi-Navy Sugar Bowl game in Orleans.

A Navy recruiter will be on hand here on the third floor of the courthouse Monday, Friday, Saturday, and Dec. 22, 23, 27, and 28 to interview applicants. Office hours will befrom 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Dallas recruiting district will send a special Texas company of 50 men to the game. They are now being recruited. This group of men will be able to remain home for Christmas, go to the bowl game on Jan. 1, and then go to San Diego, Cal., for "boot" camp.

What'll they think of next?

By DALE WALTON

The rumor mills are still grinding out lots of "dope" on Interscholastic League district boundaries, and assuming that a lot of smoke means there is a fire somewhere it appears safe to predict that some changes will be coming, possibly by next year.

There is already talk of making 16 districts for both AAAA and AAA. Now we hear that such plans may have influenced smooth sailing for Pampa and Borger in their applications for admission into district 1-4A again. There had been rumors that both would be dropped, because neither had the necessary enrollment for class AAAA competition under present rules. It has even hinted that Rhea Williams, director of the ISL, urged district 1-4A to retain Pampa and Borger for another year, promising that something would be done in another 12 months to clear up the situation on a state-wide scope.

It was lucky for district 1-3A, of course, that Pampa and Borger were kept in the other league. Otherwise this district would have been saddled with 10 teams for the 1955 football season, and schedule complications would have become acute.

We hear that the minimum enrollment requirements for both AAAA and AAA are likely to be lowered slightly within a year, the reason being that the true snarl centers on Class AA, which already has 16 districts.

In that event, some schools now in AAA will move up to AAAA ahead of schedule, while AAA will pick up some from the AA ranks. District 1-3A would be likely to lose some to AAAA, probably Big Spring and Plainview, but there would be some advances from AA to take their places.

It is likely that the Panhandle and South Plains would have two districts each in AAAA and AAA competition, instead of one each under the present alignment.

However, the immediate woes, as far as district 1-3A is concerned are not over yet.

Well, the problem is at hand. Amarillo's new Palo Duro High School will open next year and has applied for admission to District 3A-1, District chairman Cleo Tarter of Lamesa received the application Friday and will call a district meeting in Lubbock, probably some day this week.

Here are a few of the factors to be considered:

District 3A-1 now has eight teams, Snyder, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Lamesa, Vernon, Levelland, Monterrey of Lubbock, and Plainview. Addition of one more would make nine, forcing the teams to play an eight-game district schedule.

That size district might not be so bad, but the reason given by this district when it refused Breckenridge admission for next year was that it did not feel it could have that many teams in the district. If the district has a choice in admitting the new Amarillo school for next year, it would not be helping its reputation any by voting Amarillo in when it had used the size of the district as a reason for refusing Breckenridge.

It appears, however, that the district will have no choice, that it may be forced to admit the new school, which predicts an enrollment of about 600 for next year. If it is required to do so, what will happen to the schools which last week filled up their schedules when they learned that Borger and Pampa would not drop to Class AAA? Some of them may have already signed contracts and have 10-game slates set.

The Amarillo school was late in getting its application in. Whether the school was at fault or whether the Texas Interscholastic League was at fault on that we do not know. We do, however, believe the Interscholastic League is at fault if it does not do some redistricting right away.

One proposal is the splitting up of the district and admission of Breckenridge to one of them, giving each a five-team district. That however, would give each team only four district games. Another would be assignment of Vernon to a district east of here.

It's not a small problem, and we would not cherish the idea of being in the shoes of one of the school officials in working on it.

Hollis Gainey, all-state halfback of Colorado City, has been invited to play in the seventh annual all-star game at Memphis, Tenn., next August.

Top high school players from the East meet those from the West in the game, with the Mississippi River as the dividing line between the two. Gainey plans to accept.

Oklahoma A&M Barely Misses Favorable Vote As Big Seven Entry

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 11 (AP)—Oklahoma A&M College of Stillwater today ran just shy of support needed to make it a member of the Big Seven Conference.

The Faculty Committee, legislative body of the Big Seven, adjourned a two-day meeting with the announcement that action on the Oklahoma A&M bid had been "deferred pending further study."

Earlier in the day it was learned that presidents of the member schools—Oklahoma, Kansas, Kansas State, Colorado, Iowa State, Nebraska and Missouri—had lined up 5 for and 2 against A&M although no formal vote was taken. Six votes are needed to admit a new member.

Oklahoma A&M, a Missouri Valley Conference power for many years, lost previous bids for Big Seven membership in 1947 and 1949.

Big Ten May Leave NCAA Over TV Rule

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP)—Possibility of a Big Ten secession that could tear the NCAA wide apart loomed today over the explosive football television issue.

The showdown will come at the group's annual convention in New York, Jan. 5-7 when the colleges vote on what kind of a TV program they want for '55, another nationally controlled program or a regional schedule.

The hint of secession was raised by the powerful but outnumbered Big Ten which implied it may take "independent action" if it's regional program is turned down.

Aligned with the Big Ten in favor of regional TV, is the Pacific Coast Conference which has a Rose Bowl pact with the rebel midwesterners.

But opposed to these two conferences with a total of 19 members, is the sprawling, influential 101-member Eastern College Athletic Conference. Most of the ECAC schools are members of the NCAA.

The ECAC closed its convention Friday by solidly endorsing national controls again with some changes from the 1954 program.

While most of the other major conferences haven't made their current attitude known, the dominating votes of the ECAC appear strong enough to carry the present NCAA program through.

Last year in Cincinnati the NCAA voted 172-9 in favor of national controls and last spring, in the mail referendum, the members approved the decision by another overwhelming margin, 184-26, to continue the restricted "Game of the Week" policy.

The voting in the NCAA is by colleges and not by conferences. Thus the cards seemed heavily stacked against the Big Ten and the PCC.

If the Big Ten pulls out of the NCAA, here is what could happen to the conference:

Its members would not be permitted to compete against NCAA schools in good standing and its athletes would not be allowed to participate in NCAA championships.

Thus the Big Ten schools would have to play among themselves or with non-NCAA members.

Texas Conference Has No Expansion Action

DALLAS, Dec. 11 (AP)—Rumored expansion of the Texas Conference failed to materialize today and it will continue as a 3-school league —McMurry, Howard Payne and Eastern New Mexico.

President Jerome Vanney of Abilene, the conference president, said at the conclusion of the winter meeting here that no invitations were extended although it had been reported the conference wanted more members.

Howard Payne was selected as the site of the 1955 track, golf and tennis meets.

Ponies Move Into Finals

HOUSTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—Stephen F. Austin's Cinderella Mustangs rode the pitching arm of Vince Matthews into the state Class AAAA schoolboy finals today, coming from behind in the fourth quarter to defeat Corpus Christi Miller 21-20.

The brilliant Matthews passed for two Austin touchdowns and played an important role in the other as the Houston school moved into the state finals for the first time.

A crowd of 13,815 saw Miller jump into the lead the first time on the second play of the final quarter 20-14. After the kickoff it took Matthews only four passing plays to tie the score at 20-20.

A bad snap from center made it appear as though the game would have to be determined by penetrations but Miller was offside. On his second attempt, Randy Sims kicked his third extra point of the day.

Vote On Amarillo Entry Scheduled For Thursday

AMARILLO, Dec. 11 (AP)—Palo Duro High School, the new high school in Amarillo, will be considered for membership in Dist. 1 of Class AAA schoolboy football at a meeting of the district Committee at Lubbock Thursday morning.

Supt. C. W. Tarter of Lamesa, district chairman, informed Supt. C. M. Rogers of Amarillo schools that the new school was invited to send a representative.

Although the district already has mapped its schedule for next season, there are indications it will take in Palo Duro. The district now is composed of Monterey High of Lubbock, Plainview, Snyder, Levelland, Vernon, Big Spring, Sweetwater and Lamesa.

Cover Crops Help In Production Gain

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor, Farmer-Stockman Magazine
Written for The Associated press

WHARTON, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP)—Winter cover crops and soil building practices are helping to boost cotton, rice and livestock gains in this Gulf Coastal region.

Larry Burleson, Wharton County agent, said that new Dixie wonder peas and Austrian winter peas, planted with the recommended amount of phosphate, are fine soil builders for the cotton farmer.

This has been one of the driest years on record for Wharton County, but Burleson said the production of 61,000 bales of cotton on 76,000 acres was the highest per acre yield in the county's history.

"We had some test plots to show that cotton following fertilized legumes produced an increase in yield of 100 to 150 pounds of lint per acre, as compared to fields where cotton followed cotton or corn," Burleson said.

For cattle grazing, oats and rye grass are popular for winter and spring feed. Mustang and Camellia are two of the more popular varities, but Alamo, New Nortex and Ranger are suited for the area. Alamo oats, when fall planted in the Gulf Coastal area, get off to an early start and provide grazing from one to three weeks sooner than most of the others. In North Texas, Alamo oats are recommended for spring planting.

Dairymen in this South Texas area have had good results with Goliad barley fall-planted for early grazing. It is ready for grazing even sooner than Alamo oats.

Rice is an important crop in Wharton County. Burleson reports an increasing interest in rotating rice and improved pastures. As a result of research information made available through the rice-pasture experiment station at Beaumont, rice production in Wharton County has steadily increased from a yield of 12 barrels an acre in 1945 to over 18 barrels this year.

Recommendations are that rice be used in a three to four year rotation with pastures; that is, planting rice every third or fourth year. Recommended in this rotation are Bermuda grass, Dallis grass and clovers—hubam, bur, or white clover on some soils. Angleton bluestem, King Ranch bluestem and Buffel grass are also used to some extent.

Vote Slated Tuesday On Cotton Quota

Farmers who raise cotton in Scurry County will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on whether marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1955 cotton crop.

Polling places have been set up at the Fluvanna Mercantile Co. for those in the northwest part of the county, the agriculture building in Ira for those in the southwest part, the school in Hermleigh for those in the southeast part, and the general store in Camp Springs for those in the northeast part. Those from any communities, however, may vote at the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office in Snyder if they wish, according to Henry Burchett, ASC office manager. The polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The secretary of agriculture is required by law to proclaim marketing quotas if the supply of upland cotton is more than the normal supply. That proclamation has been made by secretary Ezra T. Benson. Each county raising upland cotton is holding the election, and at least two-thirds of the growers voting must approve the quotas if they are to continue in effect.

The total supply of upland cotton for the 1954-55 marketing year was estimated in October at 21.5 million running bales, or more than 3.8 million bales above the normal supply. The secretary was required by law to establish the national marketing quota at the minimum of 10 million bales.

Marketing quotas cannot be continued in effect without the approval of the cotton growers voting in a referendum. All farmers who produced upland cotton in 1954 are eligible to vote.

If the quotas are approved, price support at a level between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity will be available to eligible growers for the 1955 crop. If quotas are not approved, cotton acreage allotments without marketing quotas will remain in effect, but price support to eligible growers will be limited to 50 per cent of parity.

Five Out Of Eleven Victims Are Children

AUSTIN, Dec. 11 (AP)—Five of the 11 persons killed accidentally by guns so far this hunting season have been teenage boys, Executive Secy. Howard Dodgen of the Game and Fish Commission said today.

Five other teenagers were wounded as the toll of death and injury from firearms mounted. Dodgen renewed long standing warnings for all hunters to exercise great care in handling firearms.

The ancient drink, mead, was made from honey.

Records indicate that the first apple tree was planted in what is now the United States in 1629.

Woman Tries To 'Adopt' Her Own Child

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Dec. 11 (AP)—A 34-year-old nurse's aid was quoted today as saying that she attempted to "adopt" her own baby girl left on a hospital's doorstep Nov. 30.

Sheriff Stanley M. Christian said Mrs. Bessie Marie Vaughan told him last night that after she delivered herself of the baby, she and her husband, Ralph, 49, decided they couldn't afford to support the infant.

The husband is a kitchen employe at a veterans hospital.

Christian quoted Mrs. Vaughan as saying the baby was put in a shoe box soon after birth and left at the kitchen door of Condell Memorial Hospital by her husband. Mrs. Vaughan is employed at the hospital.

Mrs. Vaughan later phoned the hospital to say she was ill and wouldn't be able to report for duty at midnight. However, she returned to work the next night and heard hospital employes discussing the infant.

"I made up my mind that I had made a mistake in giving up my baby," Christian quoted Mrs. Vaughan.

Christian said the woman decided "to adopt the baby" to spare herself embarrassment in being disclosed as a mother who had abandoned her child.

Mrs. Vaughan has been charged with abandonment.

FARM AND RANCH

Leonard Spence and J. B. Patterson have plans to fertilize their next year's cotton land right away. They will use 0-45-0, a super phosphate. They firgure on putting it down in rows with a legume seeder owned by the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District here. This is being done in an attempt to increase cotton production on irrigated land.

Terrace work is being done all over this area.

Guy J. Adams has had 2.5 miles of terrace built on a place near Pyron, and terrace building was started on the first of the month on the W. R. Echols place north of Snyder. Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service ran terrace lines for Ray Fulford and the Beavers Estate northwest of town last week.

Fulford plans to build his terraces, and the Beavers Estate construction will be contracted. F. M. Winters is having a terrace system laid out on his 200-acre place southeast of Snyder. He intends to rework the terrace system on another place, where old terraces are letting water get away. He wants to hold the water on the land to increase yields and cut water erosion to a minimum. Planning to add a few terraces on farm land northeast of Dunn are Desie and Clare McFarland.

T. A. Echols has hauled organic matter, in the form of cotton burrs, from the gin to put on a part of his place.

A new 3,000-cubic yard pit-type stock tank has been built on the ranch of Fred Miller. He needed the tank to increase livestock water and reduce the distance his stock had to travel to water.

Planning to plant blue panic next spring, if moisture is available, is Frank Strom. He has 500 pounds of seed set aside for that purpose. That amount of seed will plant 250 acres.

Frank Kubala and L. M. Dawsoff at Ira each have a wind terracers owned by the soil conservation district here, and farmers needing use of them may get the equipment by contacting these men. They also each have a soil mover, which can be used in making fills in old or new terraces. Legume planters are available with regular planting boxes and fertilizer boxes with a wide variety of plates.

Music Season Opens

Largest of all the local choirs to give Christmas concerts this season will be the combined elementary school choir, pictured above during rehearsal for the Christmas Choral Festival which will be given Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The 130-voice choir is directed jointly by music teachers from Snyder's four elementary schools, and coordinated by Robert Clinton.

The Junior Choir of the First Methodist Church is shown above during rehearsal for the group's presentation, "A Christmas Pageant," which will be given at 7 o'clock next Sunday night at the church. The Senior choir of the church will also perform in the pageant.

About one-third of the Snyder community choir shown in the above picture, made Thursday night during a practice period in which they were preparing for the community choir's second performance of the Messiah. The performance will be held at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the high school auditorium. A unique feature of the community choir's performance is that it will be accompanied by two pianos, played by Mrs. N. N. Rodgers, and Mrs. Robert Clinton. Robert Clinton directs the 80-voice choir. (Lee Watson photographs)

The Madrigal Singers, a group of high school singers, are shown above at a performance they gave last Tuesday night at the Lions Club Ladies Night banquet. They will next appear in the Christmas Choral Festival at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. On Dec. 21 the Madrigal Singers will go on a carolling tour of the hospitals and houses of shut-ins in Snyder.

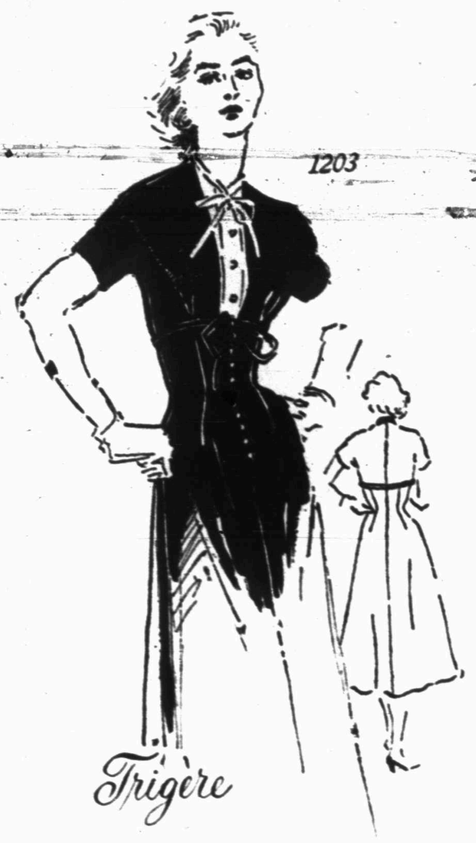

The first Christmas cantata of this season will be given tonight at the First Christian Church by the church's choir, shown in a practice session above. Art Nicholas directs the choir, which is accompanied by an organ.

The girls ensemble from the Junior High School choir is shown above in a performance at the Country Club Friday night, where they started a busy Christmas music season. Last night the group sang at the Standard of Texas Christmas dinner held at the West Elementary School cafeteria, and tonight they will sing, along with the entire junior high school choir at the First Baptist Church. Monday night the ensemble will entertain a meeting of the Junior High School Parent-Teachers Association, and Tuesday will sing at the Lions Club luncheon at noon, then in the Christmas Music Festival Tuesday night at the high school auditorium.

american designer's pattern

Trigere's clothes have an immediately recognizable quality that makes them stand out in the crowd. This model is typical of the Trigere signature, marvelously wearable, a simple understatement of style at its height. The dickey which is detachable is made in manner of expensive dressmaking: long in front, it is arranged on a harness and anchored firmly in the back. The highwaisted dress with its looped button detail has a narrow skirt eased with exactly the right amount of fullness. Mme. Trigere showed it first in navy wool with a choice of linen or silk for the gilet, and white pearl studs. Faille or any silk with body is equally good, again with a different texture for the dickey such as pique or satin. This pattern is cut to Designer Measurements, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

CANDY FROM YOUR KITCHEN

Christmas Season Always Brings Thoughts Of Candy

"Please print a receipe for marshmallow fudge, peanut butter fudge and some other soft candies," wrote a reader yesterday.

Just the thought of candy at this season starts every adult reminiscing. There were the hard ribbon candies that looked so wonderful and bright, the boxes of covered cherries that always were exchanged as gifts, the fudge that had to be beat until it began to harden—and on and on.

Now there are many new recipes for candies that require very little cooking or none at all. If you are especially fond of homemade candies, why not treat yourself to one of the special cookbooks which are devoted to candy. The books come in many price ranges, one recently published selling for 75 cents and available at several drug stores in Snyder. Candy packed in gay boxes makes a nice gift, and you might include the candy book for a friend who enjoys cooking.

Back to the recipes requested, here is Twenty - Minute Fudge which takes no longer than that to make.

1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 pound confectioners' sugar
4 squares chocolate, melted with 1 tablespoon butter
1 cup chopped walnut meats OR
1 cup marshmallows cut in pieces, or half of each

Mix the ingredients in the order given and spread in a buttered pan 8x8 inches. Cool and cut in squares. Make 1½ pounds.

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE

2 cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup top milk or cream
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
4 tablespoons peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook the sugar, salt, milk and corn syrup to 234 degrees (soft ball stage). Cool to lukewarm. Add peanut butter and vanilla. Beat until creamy and pour in a lightly buttered pan. Cut in squares. Makes one pound.

PEANUT BUTTER—MARSHMALLOW FUDGE

2 cups sugar
2-3 cup milk
1 cup marshmallow fluff
1 cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook sugar and milk to 234 degrees (soft ball stage). Add other ingredients. Mix well and pour into buttered pan. Cool and cut in squares. Makes about two pounds.

APPLE CANDIES

1 package lime, cherry or strawberry gelatin
1 cup strained applesauce
1 cup sugar
¾ cup broken walnuts OR
½ cup chopped almonds
Confectioner's sugar

Combine applesauce and sugar. Cook over low heat until very thick, about 15 minutes, stirring constantly to avoid scorching. Remove from heat. Dissolve gelatin in hot applesauce and add nuts. Turn into a greased 9x5x2 loaf pan and chill in the refrigerator. When firm, remove from the refrigerator, cut into one-inch cubes and roll in powdered sugar. Let stand overnight at room temperature to dry, then roll in more powdered sugar. Store in two layers between waxed paper in a covered container.

MAPLE CREAMS

1 cup cream
2 cups maple syrup

Boil cream and maple syrup until a thread forms (234 degrees). Cool. Beat until thick and creamy. Drop from tip of spoon on waxed paper of spread in buttered pan and cut in squares. Add nuts or raisins if desired.

FRUIT ROLL

¾ cup raisins
¼ cup walnut meats
Few grains salt

Wash raisins, dry, and put through a food chopper with the nuts. Mix well, add salt to taste and shape firmly in a small roll. Chill and slice.

Teen-Ager Taxes Sense Of Humor

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Woman's Editor

The only way to live through your children's teens and retain your sanity is to keep a firm grip on your sense of humor, says Mary Brian, who has acquired an unofficial rating as the typical American teen-ager's mother through her TV appearances in that role in the "Corliss Archer" series.

Though she has no children of her own, Mary now qualifies as an expert on and off-stage. Pretty Ann Baker plays the role of Corliss and is a typical teen-ager in real life as well as before the TV cameras. Says Mary of a recent trip to New York with Ann:

"This was Ann's first trip to New York, and she had all the typical reactions, while I went through all the typical motherly worries. One night when she didn't get in until late I couldn't sleep and was almost pacing the floor when at last she arrived. It was all perfectly reasonable when she explained—but I can understand now what mothers go through."

Mary has been acting in movies, plays, summer stock and TV since she was 12, when she played Wendy in the first movie version of "Peter Pan." She lives in the San Fernando Valley with her husband, George Tomasini, a film editor.

In observing problems of parents of teen-agers, Mary has worked out some sound theories:

1. The amusement provided by a typical teen-ager offsets the annoyance.

2. Hard and fast rules don't work. Discipline is important, but it should be pliable, to allow for unusual circumstances. For example, you can't set a certain hour at which your daughter must be home from every date—take into consideration where she is going, what the occasion is, and what traffic conditions may be.

3. It's a mother's job to explain the customs of the new generation to father, who usually takes these things harder than Mom.

4. Don't try to pick out a teenage daughter's clothes for her—you're almost sure to be wrong.

Christmas Program Is Set For Monday

The West Elementary School Parent - Teacher Association will meet for a Christmas program at 7:30 tomorrow night in the school's cafeteria. The program will be presented by students from the first, second and third grades, and will be directed by Lamoyane Harrell, music teacher at the school.

Stork Shower Honors Mrs. Billy McCormick

Mrs. Billy McCormick was honored at a stork shower Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Wendell Autry, 3207 Avenue U. A punch bowl was centered on the serving table that was covered with a yellow cloth overlaid with lace. In front of the bowl, pipe cleaners standing in marshmallows were used to spell the honoree's name. Plate favors were miniature infant night gowns made from lace dollies. Gifts were displayed in a pink and green bassinet.

Refreshments were served to 30 guests. Hostesses with Mrs. Autry were Mrs. Franklin Woods, Mrs. Billy Don Martin, Ramona Harless, and Mrs. Bobby Ray.

Use that leftover pastry for some tasty tidbits. Cut the rolled-out dough in small squares and sprinkle with bits of filleted anchovies; fold to make triangles, press together to seal, prick with the tines of a fork and bake in a hot oven. Serve hot with a tomato-vegetable juice cocktail.

Senior Scouts Spend Busy Week

Snyder Senior Girl Scouts have been one of the busiest groups in town this week. Their activities began Tuesday night when they baby-sat during the dinner and meeting sponsored by the GS Leaders' Club at the First Christian Church.

Wednesday afternoon the groop met at the Little House to complete plans for a Christmas party that was given for the Girl Scout Troop of the Abilene State Hospital Thursday night at the hospital.

The Snyder troop has adopted that troop as its service project for the year. Troop members have corresponded with the 25 girls in the Abilene troop and have sent them birthday gifts and photographs, Margaret McAdams, leader of the hospital troop, said. The local girls baked Christmas cookies and candy to serve as refreshments at the party Thursday night and also remembered each Abilene girl with a gift. The Abilene troop presented a Christmas program at the party.

Several seniors left Friday for a Senior Weekend at Camp Boothe Oaks, near Sweetwater, where senior scouts from Big Spring, Lamesa, Abilene, Sweetwater and Snyder will work on camping skills. A senior planning board will be elected to make plans for the next Area senior event. Patrol troops will be formed and each patrol will be responsible for its own cook-outs and other camping skills.

About 75 scouts were expected to attend the meeting which ends late this afternoon.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Thomas of Snyder are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Theresa Billie Gieger of Midland, to Joseph B. Ruppe of Midland. Mr. Ruppe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Ruppe of Lake Linden, Mich., and is an independent oil broker. Miss Gieger, a graduate of Sister of St. Joe's Hospital in Ponca City, Okla., is evening supervisor at Midland Memorial Hospital. The couple is to be married in Midland in February.

Dolls For Little Children Should Be Of Sturdy Type

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeature Writer

Almost every little girl likes a doll or two. Lots of little boys like them, too.

Don't discourage your little boy if he wants to play with dolls. It doesn't mean he's a sissy, any more than that the girl who likes trucks is headed toward being a tomboy.

But neither girls or boys want dolls to look at. They want to play with them. A doll is to dress and undress, to put to bed, to feed, to punish if she's naughty—to live the life of its owner. It's going to be a rough life. The doll had better be sturdy. It's much more important that she be rugged than that she be beautiful.

Breakable dolls, dolls with "don't-handle-me" clothes, are not playthings for children.

A good old fashioned tight stuffed rag doll is worth much more than a fancy high priced beauty that says "Mama." Some of the new plastic dolls are soft to the touch. Their arms and legs can be easily moved about and they take good deal of abuse.

The child will want to dress her doll and it certainly needs a wardrobe. No sewed-on clothing, please! The doll clothes need all the self help features you've been trying to find for the young ladies' own clothes.

See that the doll's dress have loose-fitting sleeves that the doll's arms slip into easily. Put great big buttons on, never mind if they look slightly out of place. Clumsy little 4-year-old fingers can button them, and that's what's important. Put elastic on pants.

Have a good-sized wardrobe—the child's great pleasure is changing the doll's clothes. Let her alone to put the nightgown over the winter jacket if she wants it that way. It's her doll.

A small bed is an excellent addition to doll play. Again it should have bed clothes, a balnket or two, maybe a pillow and a mattress that can be removed and rearranged.

Probably the child will want to wash her doll's clothes. A little clothesline and clothespins to hang them up will be enjoyed.

Listen to your child when she is busy with her dolls. A youngster plays out her own life—she's the mother and the doll is herself.

"Now, Martha," threatened 3-year-old Sue, "You're a bad, bad girl for spilling that milk. I can't love girls that spill."

Did you say that? Maybe you didn't, but that's what Sue felt you meant. Better watch your step. You certainly don't want Sue to feel you don't love her because she spilled milk. Sue needs to be loved whether she spills or not, and needs to know she's loved.

Pupils Present P-TA Program

Allene King, a fifth grade student, was mistress of ceremonies for an East Elementary Parent-Teacher Association program Thursday night.

Mrs. D. M. Dennis, music instructor at the school, directed the program titled "All About Christmas." The third grade rhythm band, directed by Robin Wasson, opened the program. Fourth grade students presented a Holly Drill and sang several Christmas carols.

Sixth grade girls dressed as senors and senoritas illustrated a fiesta celebration traditionally held after religious ceremonies at Christmas in Mexico. Sixth grade boys sang "What We Received on the 12 Days of Christmas." Fifth grade boys presented "Herkimer, the Homely Dog." Fifth grade girls, dressed as Santa's helpers, illustrated in rhtyhm the action of "Up On the Housetop." Two numbers were presented by the band, and the school choir concluded the program with a group of carols.

More than 700,000 U.S. families are broken each year by the death of the husband or wife.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for Dec. 12, 1929.)

E. B. Baugh, pioneer Scurry County resident, while delving through some old time papers recently, unearthed a Dallas News printed several years ago that conclusively proves Snyder to be the first town in the United States to have six-cylinder motor cars in operation.

To prove the point, the Times-Signal is herewith republishing the news article:

Automobiles were barred from the roads of Scurry County under a resolution which citizens there passed in a mass meeting at Snyder in 1904.

The resoltuion was an invitation to W. B. Chenoweth and his associate in the automobile business, Charley Miles, to take two machines which they owned and leave the county.

Chenoweth, who now lives at Arlington was in Fort Worth Saturday with a copy of the resolution. He brought with him two automobile license receipts which he claims to be the original inventor of the six-cylinder gas motor. After he had tried several manufacturers to take the job, Chenoweth finally got a machine shop at Logansport, Ind., to build him two six-cylinder motors early in 1904. They were the first ever made in America, he says.

The two engines were installed in motor bus frames, sent to Snyder and put in the passenger carrying business between Snyder and Colorado. Then the Scurry County citizens began to kick. The cars were a public nuisance, they claimed, and they signed their death knell at a mass meeting. The two cars were then taken to Big Spring and put in service between there and Lamesa. . .

Styled the greatest and largest poultry show ever held in Scurry County, the ninth annual meeting last weekend attracted out-of-town visitors along with a fine gathering from all parts of this section. Previous to the show, various estimates had been made of just how many birds would be here apparently the maximum figure being around 500 to 600 birds, but when more than 800 showed up for exhibit early last Thursday morning the officers were ready to take their hats off to the innovation that spelled the real success of the show, the Yard Flock exhibits.

With 35 coops nicely arranged around the sides of the tabernacle, eight by ten feet, eleven different breeds were shown that totaled 455 in number. . .

Climaxing one of the greatest football schedules ever enjoyed by a Tiger team, the boys with their sweethearts, pep squad, coach and band were dined and feted Tuesday night in the First Presbyterian Church in a wonderful good fellowship meeting. Particularly pleasing to each individual attending were the honors and good words given Coach "Red" Moore, who is 100 per cent responsible for the great team that has represented our home town this year. . .

As a fitting climax to the greatest football banquet ever held, it was brought out that Snyder High now needs a gymnasium, and when the idea was announced it came as a real happy ending, for it is one of the greatest needs of our school system today. With everyone joining in on "She Was Riding on a Tiger When She Came," the happy throng wound their way home, truthfully happy in the successful completion of notable evenihg.

The announcement of the First State Bank of Hermleigh Thursday morning, stating it had been absorbed by the First State Bank & Trust Co. of Snyder caused much surprise at Hermleigh as well as in Snyder.

By this merger the Snyder bank received resources in the amount of $135,000 and deposits of over $100,000. . .

The merger or absorption is the second in 18 months in which the First State Bank & Trust Co. has been the beneficiary, thus enlarging its activities as well as its resources. . .

The hustling little capitol of Kent County — Clairemont — is pepping up these days with building activity on the move there, all caused from the good road improvement that State Highway 84 is receiving from the Garza County line to the Fisher County line, a distance of 41.41 miles, that will be completed some time next May at an expenditure of $171,000. Much building is going on in Clairemont, with many folks being compelled to live in tents at the present time, but conditions there will improve as quickly as the good roads are completed. . .

ENTERTAIN TWO OR TWENTY
. . . it's easy and economical with tea

Helps For Homemakers

Send your questions to "Helps for Homemakers," Snyder Daily News, or call 3-8486.

The young homemakers and home owners who want fun and company can have this by entertaining simply and economically. It's almost as easy to have twenty people over as it is to have two when the occasion is a tea given in the late afternoon or after the theater. Sandwiches are easy to make with the wonderful variety of breads, spreads and cheeses on the market today. Assorted cookies can be bought by the pound for almost as little as it costs to make them at home, minus the bother.

The most important factor at any tea party is the tea. It's easy to make good tea for a crowd if you remember certain basic factors, boiling water, enough tea and the correct brewing period. To standardize quality and flavor, the following measurements, based on a 6-ounce serving, will help you prepare a good cup of tea.

To make about 25 cups of tea, bring 1 quart of freshly drawn, cold water to a full boil. Immediately pour over 10 rounded tablespoons of tea. Brew four minutes by the clock. (Overbrewed tea is apt to be bitter. Underbrewed tea will be dull in flavor and aroma.) Stir and strain into container, ready for use. When serving tea for a crowd, use two teapots—one with the tea concentrate and one with very hot water. Pour enough concentrate to obtain the desired strength into a cup and fill with hot water. Serve with milk or lemon.

The plastic bags bakery rolls sometimes come in, are useful in a number of ways in the kitchen. Empty brown sugar from its paper package into the bag, twist the top of the bag so it is tightly closed, and store in the refrigerator. The bags are also fine for storing dry leftover bread, to be ground into crumbs. They do well in the lunchbox, too, for holding carrot strips, a whole tomato, apple, or cookies.

INTERNATIONAL DESIGNERS PATTERN

CHARLES MONTAIGNE
of FRANCE

Parisian designer, Charles Montaigne, is typically French in his thinking even when he is thinking in terms of fashion. Like most Frenchmen, he believes in being practical, but never so practical that he sacrifices style. His latest dress and jacket costume is proof of this for he has designed it to allow the wearer a wider scope for conquest. The body of the dress is simplicity itself, but it takes the knowing craft of a Parisian to dart and seam the midriff in a way that seemingly lengthens the torso in the new important manner. Notice how he points his seams under the bodice and cuts deeply into the neckline to achive a higher bosom line. Alone, the dress is an informal diner, a cocktail mixer, can even appear for lunch and afternoon fetes, depending on fabric choice. With its abbreviated jacket, it can begin a day as early as nine. A ten piece pattern, it is easy to make and M. Montaigne suggests your making it in linen, cottons, shantung, faille, the silk, or any of the 48" width materials. This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

"---and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto Him gifts; gold, and frankincense and myrrh--"

The world has undergone many changes since that day long ago when a tiny child was born to bring peace and hope to mankind.
But the custom of giving at Christmas has survived the edicts of dictators, the "Scrooges",
and the scoffers who cry "commercialism".
For the gift is a symbol of the visit of the Wise Men to their new born King.
And if, in the passing of the centuries, a magic little elf, Santa Claus, has emerged to become the spirit of giving to the little ones, let us not disenchant them . . . rather let him help them to learn the true meaning of Christmas.

So, may your Christmas be happy and bright. And whatever your faith may be, as you attend your Christmas church services, give thanks for your birth in a land where you may worship
as you please, and where Christmas is a joyous occasion for everyone.

Rayburn Rarely Misses A Trick In Congress

By ROGER D. GREENE

BONHAM, Tex., Dec. 11 (AP) — The cold-eyed Texas killer glared. his lips twisted in a snarl. Swiftly, his hands reached for his six-guns.

Unflinching, Sam Rayburn of the U.S. House of Representatives looked straight at the desperado. So this was the hombre who had "hell in his holsters," was it?

Rayburn chuckled softly as he opened the lurid cover of the book and began to read.

Tonight he would sleep. . . . . ..

Relaxing at his Texas home on the outskirts of Bonham, Rayburn has found that one of the surest ways to forget the rough and tumble of Washington politics is to lose himself in gunsmoke thrillers of the old Wild West.

Spotlighted today as one of the most powerful figures in the nation's capital — and one of the most popular — Rayburn smiles wryly as he recalls that in his boyhood his idea of excitement was to see a cowboy ride up across the bleak Texas prairie.

"I have known the loneliness that breaks men's hearts," he says.

"When I was a boy, I'd sit on the fence on Sundays and wish that somebody would ride by on a horse — just anything to relieve the monotony."

Even now a look of lonely melancholy is deeply etched in the blunt, rocklike features of 72-year-old Sam Rayburn as he gazes into the fire and talks of stirring events in modern American history in which he has played a leading role.

Rayburn has served in Congress under seven presidents from Woodrow Wilson to Eisenhower — longer than any present member of either the House or Senate — and has been speaker longer than any other man in history, 10 years. His speakership was interrupted by Republican control during the 80th and 83rd Congresses.

Now again, as speaker, "Mr. Sam" will gavel the House into action Jan. 5 for the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress.

Beyond question, the Texan will be the dominant behind-the-scenes figure in the new Congress.

Aside from vast power and prestige in the House, he commands a potent influence in the Senate from the fact that many present senators, who served their apprenticeship under Rayburn in the House, have never ceased to admire him.

Among them is Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, who often consults Rayburn across the Capitol after the lights go down in the Senate. Johnson is a longtime protege of Rayburn.

Together, the two Texans will call signals on major legislation for the next two years. In concert, they could virtually make or break the Eisenhower administration's program.

Presiding over the House, Rayburn is almost as familiar a landmark in the nation's capital as the Washington Monument.

Usually dark-suited, Mr. Sam leans back in his tall, brown-leather swivel chair and seems to take only a passive interest in the endless drone of debate.

His eyes, heavy-lidded, dark and smouldering, appear half closed. From the spectators' galleries, it might seem he was wool gathering.

But old timers say Rayburn never misses a trick or fails to detect the opening gambit of a surprise attack no matter how cleverly camouflaged.

When a major battle erupts, he rises quietly — and a hush falls on the House. Party whips rush out to round up stragglers, and in the press gallery the word is passed:

"Rayburn is up!"

Unhurried, laconic, Rayburn never resorts to the theatrical devices of grandiloquent fire-and-brimstone orators. Even on the most critical issues he refrains from threats or bombast. His voice is usually soft, almost gentle.

Goaded beyond the limit, however, he has been known to bang his gavel with pistol-shot violence.

"I broke it once," he said. "A fella kept talkin' after his time ran out. Wouldn't sit down. Kinda wish I'd hit him over the head."

He declined to identify the target of his wrath.

A stocky, bull-necked man with shoulders like a Texas steer — he stands 5 feet 10 and has weighed 176 pounds the last 40 years — Rayburn not only presides over the House in his $30,000-a-year job as speaker. He also acts as father-confessor and dutch uncle to younger men on both sides of the aisle.

His favorite advice: "Be reasonable. Be fair."

One of the sorrows of Rayburn's life is that only the faintest peach-fuzz vestige of hair remains on his large and knobby head. He is extremely touchy on the subject.

By no means a "professional" Texan, Rayburn disdains fancy 10-gallon hats and wears cowboy boots only to guard against the copperheads that infest his 920-acre ranch near Lake Fannin, 14 miles east of Bonham.

Sometimes described as "the greatest compromiser since Henry Clay," Rayburn likes to work quietly in the background in the shaping of legislative history. . .a word here. . .a whispered consultation there. . .sympathizing, advising, counseling.

Although he rarely addressed the House himself, Rayburn initiated the custom of letting members speak for one minute every day before the House gets down to business. That lets them get extended remarks printed in the Congressional Record.

"A politican has got to have publicity to live," Rayburn grumbles.

At home, Rayburn hunts deer and wild turkey in the South Texas oak and cedar groves during the winter. In Indian summer he can often be found fishing for large-mouth bass, crappie and catfish—"best eatin' in the world, channel cat," he says. He fishes at Lake Texoma on the Texas-Oklahoma border a few miles north of Denison, Tex., the birthplace of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Few Bonhamites ever heard of Rayburn's short-lived marriage more than a quarter of a century ago. His 17-line biographical sketch in the Congressional Directory and his 10-line item in "Who's Who" omit any mention of it.

Rayburn was married Oct. 15, 1927, to Miss Metze Jones of Valley View, Tex., a sister of former Rep. Marvin Jones (D-Tex), now chief judge of the U.S. Court of Claims in Washington. The marriage was quietly dissolved a few months later.

Rayburn speaks frankly about Democratic strategy in the new Congress—including a promise of tax relief for "the little fellow"—and made this comment about President Eisenhower:

"Ike is a good man. He ought to be—he was born in Texas. Everybody said he was a good baby, but then he moved to Kansas.

"After all the trouble he's had, I wouldn't be surprised if he's not sorry he didn't let his reputation stand on being a great general."

The last question was how long it might take before the Republicans regain control of Congress.

Mr. Sam's dark eyes snapped.

"Maybe," he growled, "in another 20 years."

When you are short on kitchen time and the family hollers for dessert, here is a quick trick. rumble a generous layer of packaged ginger snaps into a deep pie plate. Top with a layer of canned applesauce and still another layer of ginger-snap crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until heated through and serve with light cream.

Purdue Has Own Pilots

By MERRILL SWEDLUND

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 11 (AP)—When Purdue University took to the air this fall the biggest payoff came from a fleet of airliners rather than the football passes of star quarterback Leonard Dawson.

More often than not, the teams that tried to stop Dawson's gifted tosses flew to and from Lafayette in one of three DC3s operated by the Purdue Aeronautics Corp., a nonprofit, subsidiary of the university.

Though PAC's charter flight business has grown to a volume of $300,000 a year, General Manager Grove Webster says the emphasis is still on the aeronautical training financed by PAC earnings.

Purdue's School of Aeronautics is no laboratory for novices. The six students who fly the PAC planes as copilots already hold commercial pilot licenses and instrument ratings. Their two-year course prepares them for airline copilot jobs.

In the PAC shops at Purdue's own airport, 12 other students are on a two-year course to qualify for Civil Aeronautics Administration certificates as aircraft and engine mechanics. Another 16 to 18 are studying air operations.

Webster says Purdue is the only university in the country giving this type of high-level aeronautical training in a "self-supporting, live laboratory."

Though PAC has been operating 13 years, the business of hauling football, basketball, baseball and hockey teams around the country is "just developing," Webster says.
