Main Obstacle To Highway Plan Broken

BY H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

MORE than 20 years of off-and-on negotiations were brought to an end late Wednesday when the city commission at a special meeting bought most of the property needed to open Nineteenth street between Texas avenue and Avenue G.

The commission agreed to pay $108,855 for the property which could have been bought for a total of $10,000 less than 15 years ago.

Members of the commission said the purchase removes the most difficult of the obstacles to the extension of Nineteenth street entirely across the eastern part of the city to a convergance with East Broadway at a point still to be determined.

Included Two Houses

The deal includes two brick veneer houses belonging to F. D. Brown on Texas avenue squarely at the point where Texas brings Nineteenth to a dead end. Several automobiles moving eastward on Nineteenth have crashed into these houses. One of the accidents occurred last Sunday and resulted in injuries to two men.

The commission agreed to pay Brown $45,000 for this property, including the houses, which will be for sale by the city when the deal legally is closed. Some 20 years ago, this property was offered to the city for $2,500; in about 1935 the price was raised to approximately $6,000 and in 1939 to about $9,000.

Prices Are Announced

Other properties bought Wednesday and the agreed prices were:

A lot with a 34 by 125 foot brick building from F. L. Hicks, $40,000.

A lot fronting on Avenue H from A. M. Leftwich, $8,625.

A portion of a lot from John Toles and one lot from J. K. Miller, $4,600 each.

Portion of a lot with a house, which is to be moved, from M. M. Crawford, $3,750.

Portion of a lot from C. C. Burns, $1,280.

Portion of a lot from Mrs. W. F. Cole, $1,000.

Members of the commission said these were the values of the various items set by Lubbock realtors appointed to appraise them.

Other Property Needed

Still needed to complete the opening from Texas to G are a narrow strip from the Fort Worth and Denver railway crossing a switch track and property owned by Mrs. Ed Putty between Avenues G and H.

Officials said they hope to obtain these properties through negotiations but, if that fails, through condemnation.

When all the property is secured, it will mean the extension of Nineteenth from the western city limits, where it joins the Levelland highway, to the main tracks and yards of the Fort Worth & Denver

Acheson Raps Imprisonment Of U. S. Envoy

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 — Secretary of State Acheson angrily declared today that Chinese Communist imprisonment of U. S. Consul General Angus Ward kills any possible recognition of the Red regime at this time.

Acheson said the U. S. is exploring all possible steps to bring about the American diplomat's release from a Mukden jail. He did not amplify on the extent to which these steps could go.

Strong Words Used

The secretary used strong words in denouncing the jailing of Ward and four of his staff.

Acheson declared this detention is utterly without warrant and is regarded as a very serious action on the part of the Chinese Communist regime.

The secretary's first news conference since his return from Paris and Germany brought these other developments:

1. The U.S. government has lodged a vigorous protest with the Chinese Nationalist government over the shelling of the Isbrandtsen line vessel Flying Cloud off Shanghai. Acheson emphasized that the protest was based on endangerment to American lives rather than the validity of the Nationalist blockade of Communist-held ports. An official report from the Shanghai consul general is being waited before further action is taken.

Soviets To Intervene

2. The Soviet government finally has agreed to intervene with its puppet regime in North Korea for the release of two ECA officials, Albert Willis, of Brooklyn and Alfred T. Meschter, of Kinderhook, N. J., and the 1,000-ton vessel Kimball R. Smith which was "hijacked" by a mutinous Korean crew on Sept. 22.

3. President Truman probably will make an announcement soon about an on-the-spot survey of the Far East by U. S. Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup. The envoy heads a special group charged with evolving a new U.S. Far Eastern policy.

Results To Be Delayed

4. Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman reached complete agreement at Paris on the readmission of West Germany to the European picture. Results of the decisions reached will take weeks and months to materialize.

5. Acheson denied he had discussed the idea of eventually giv-

Washington Airport Closed To Warplanes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—All combat-type aircraft today were banned from busy Washington national airport. This action followed in the wake of the nation's greatest airline disaster and a series of near accidents.

D. W. Rentzel, chief of the Civil Aeronautics administration, said in announcing the ban on combat-type planes that "increasing congestion" at the capital's only major civilian landing field made it necessary.

The ban includes combat-type planes converted for civilian use and owned and operated by civilians.

A modified P-38 Lockheed Lighting fighter plane, flown by Erick Rois Bridoux, a Bolivian, crashed into an Eastern airlines DC-4 near the airport on Nov. 1. All 55 persons aboard the airliner were killed.

Trio Arrested As Turks Smash Plot To Assassinate President

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 16. (AP)—The Turkish government announced tonight it had smashed a plot to assassinate President Ismet Inonu.

The announcement said three members of the opposition Nation's party are under arrest and police are searching the homes of other members of the strongly nationalistic party.

Informants said the plot also marked for death Celal Bayar, leader of the pro-government Democratic party.

A communique issued by Premier Shemsettin Gunaltay, said:

"The deputy from Denizli, Reshat Aydinli, informed the government that Sadik Aldogan, the deputy from Afyon Karahisar of the Nation's party; Osman Bolukbasi, and Fuat Arna, had decided to assassinate the president of the republic. Reshat Aydinli added that they had asked him to join them. The Ankara prosecution has opened an investigation."

Sailors Take Strike Vote

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16. (INS)—West coast shipowners and the AFL Sailors union of the Pacific resumed negotiations today several hours after the union ordered stopwork meetings in all coast ports to begin taking a strike vote.

The disputants were called back to the conference table by federal Conciliator Omar Hoskins who had been striving to bring them together again since a break-off of negotiations Monday.

Strike Is Urged

At a union meeting in San Francisco last night SUP Secretary Harry Lundeberg urged sailors to vote in favor of striking next Tuesday if the Pacific Maritime association fails to meet union demands.

Similar union meetings were held in Pacific coast ports from San Diego, Calif., to Bellingham, Wash.

West coast sailors are seeking a pension and welfare plan, wage increases from $10 to $25 per month and jurisdiction over cargo loadings of certain small vessels plying between Alaskan and Pacific coast ports.

Vote Count Set Monday

Lundeberg said he is confident that sailors will vote in favor of the strike. Ballots are returnable by next Monday and will be counted that night.

Lundeberg declared: "The strike will begin sometime Tuesday."

Meanwhile, government mediators in Washington reported that about a dozen vessels have been tied up in Atlantic and Gulf coast ports despite a last-minute truce

White House May Make Decision Today

Coal Dispute Placed In Truman's Hands

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The deadlocked coal dispute was put in President Truman's hands today for action.

With a new coal strike threatened in two weeks, Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation service director, turned the whole contract dispute over to Mr. Truman as hopeless.

A quick White House decision was expected, possibly tomorrow, in an effort to prevent a new mine walkout on December 1.

Two Moves Foreseen

It was indicated Mr. Truman will (1) give John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers a chance to submit his demands to a special fact finding board and, if Lewis balks at that, (2) invoke the Taft-Hartley law's strike banning court injunction powers.

Ching reported in person to the White House, then followed up with written suggestions to Mr. Truman on how to handle Lewis from here on out.

"It is our considered judgment that further mediation at this time would be fruitless," Ching told reporters.

He declined to make his suggestions public. But it was reported Ching favored giving Lewis the same sort of special fact board, empowered to recommend settlement terms, as Mr. Truman established in the recent steel industry pension dispute.

Ching was reported to have told the White House that the only alternative to the special fact find-

Briton Assails Russian Policy

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 16. Britain's Hector McNeil flayed Soviet leaders today as "saboteurs of peace" and appealed to Foreign Minister Vishinsky to return home and ask Premier Stalin to lift the iron curtain.

In one of the most outspoken condemnations of Soviet foreign policy, McNeil warned Russia at the UN that western patience is running out and that unless a change for the better occurs "the free world . . . will reduce to a minimum its relations with the Soviet government."

A British spokesman later explained that McNeil's statement was in no way intended to suggest that Britain is planning a rupture in diplomatic relations with Russia.

Assailing Vishinsky's proposal for a five-power peace pact, which also indicts the United States and Britain as warmongers, McNeil turned repeatedly to the Russian foreign minister at his right and

Guam Prepares For Violent Storm Moving Toward Island

TOKYO, Thursday, Nov. 17. (AP)—A vicious typhoon bore down on Guam today with suddenly increased speed. It is expected to hit in the area of the big American island base tonight instead of tomorrow.

A reconnaissance plane of the 2143rd Air Weather wing reported the typhoon had doubled its howling pace northwestward to 20 miles an hour.

The typhoon's internal velocity apparently had stabilized at about 115 miles an hour, the weather wing said. It was too early to tell whether it would affect often-buffeted Okinawa and Japan before it runs its course.

Position of the typhoon this morning was about 150 miles southeast of Guam.

B-29 Missing At Sea With 20 Aboard

(By The Associated Press)

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 16 — A B-29 plane with 20 men aboard apparently crash landed in the sea off the Bermuda coast today, and hours later rescue planes and surface craft reported no trace of the air giant.

One unofficial report here said high ranking officers of the U.S. Air Force were aboard the craft, which was en route from California to Britain.

At dawn tomorrow more than 80 planes will search over 75,000 square miles of ocean for the plane—probably the largest air hunt in history. Before dark 23 planes were in the air and during the night planes droned over the seas looking for some sign from the survivors of the plane.

One factor complicating the search was that no one knew a specific area in which to look for the plane. It was believed down 150 miles either southwest or northeast of Bermuda.

It had been due in Bermuda at 6:10 a.m. (CST). Thirty minutes later the pilot radioed Kindley field he had enough gasoline for two hours.

Radio Out Of Order

The last contact with the plane was at 11:45 a.m. The pilot said he was "lost" because a major part of his radio equipment was out of order and weather conditions were such that he couldn't take any readings on his position.

Then he added he was "going to ditch" in five minutes.

Four planes were dispatched immediately from the U S. Air Force base at Kindley field here to guide the B-29 in. When they failed to find the plane a general alarm was set out.

The Coast Guard cutter Bibb picked up weak SOS calls. It sent four amphibian planes to join the search and alerted its eastern seaboard stations.

In addition to the 23 planes already looking for the superfortress another 10 planes from Mc-

Slaying Suspect Escapes Dragnet

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16. (AP)—The brutal slayer of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft was still at large tonight, 48, hours after the child was strangled, stabbed and bludgeoned with an axe. Her body, wrapped in an Indian blanket was hidden under a pile of rubbish in a neighbor's back yard.

The district attorney late today issued a murder complaint against Fred Stroble, 66-year-old retired baker. Despite elaborate precautions by all law enforcement agencies in the 10 Southern California counties, Stroble appeared to have escaped the far-flung barrier thrown up for his apprehension.

Man Held In Texas

(Galveston police were reported holding an elderly man tonight for questioning in the Los Angeles attack slaying of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft.

(Officers said the man filled the description broadcast by Los Angeles police a few hours after the little girl's badly mutilated body was lifted from a garbage pile a short distance from her home.

(The man was picked up by police Sgt. J. A. Kingsley when he was engaged in a fist fight. Officers said his description tallied in weight, height, coloring and dress with that of Fred Stroble, 65-year-old neighbor of the Glucoft family.)

Freezing Weather Forecast In Area

Temperatures are scheduled to hit freezing or near freezing again early today over the South Plains and Panhandle areas.

Regions of North Texas also girded for colder weather as forecasters predicted drops of 10 degrees from Wednesday's high in some instances.

As the minor cold front invaded the Southern states, a large mass of cold air blanketed the northern fringe of the midwest with snow.

The Associated Press said a heavy snow storm snarled traffic and disrupted plane schedules in Buffalo, N. Y., Wednesday. Temperatures inched above the freezing mark during the day, however, turning much of the snow into a sea of slush.

Temperatures Wednesday ranged from an early-morning low of 28 degrees in Dalhart to a late afternoon reading of 83 in Laredo. Lubbock's maximum for the day was 67. The early morning low was 32.

The snowfall at Buffalo measured 16 inches. Several points in Michigan reported falls of eight and nine inches.

Missouri Town Endangered By Flames From Fuel Tank Blasts

UNION, Mo., Nov. 16. (INS)—Eight fuel storage tanks were destroyed by fire at Union, Mo., today and explosions and windlashed flames endangered the entire community of 3,000.

Cause of the blaze was not determined immediately.

Some 1,000 volunteer firemen battled for three hours to bring the blaze under control and prevent its spreading to other tanks.

Early estimates placed the loss of gasoline and fuel oil at 120,000 gallons.

Small sheds at plants operated by the Franklin County Oil company and the Union Oil company also were destroyed.

Probe Underway In Death At Southland

Mrs. Marvin Truelock, 41, Is Found Under Burning Gas Stove In Home

By TOM DAVIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

SOUTHLAND, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Marvin Truelock, 41, was found dead on the concrete floor of her bedroom here this afternoon, a burning stove jammed over her head, a pair of socks stuffed into her mouth and her hands held behind her back with a piece of cotton rope.

Her body was found about 1:25 p. m. by her son, Calvin Grantham, 13, who came home from school to get a pair of tennis shoes for a gym class.

Calvin ran into the smoke-filled rooms of their living quarters to find his mother on her back, her arms under her body, with flames from the heating stove licking at her head and at the walls of the room.

Youth Rushed For Help

He dashed out and ran two doors north to a veterans training school, where he found three men. They raced back to the Truelock living quarters kicked the stove off the woman's head and turned off the gas.

Sheriff E. M. Bass of Post in Garza county said the three men summoned by the boy were Edward Neff, Jason Justice and Virgil Justice.

News of the tragedy swept through this small community like wildfire. More than a dozen peace officers and officials from over the South Plains converged on the town, located about 21 miles southeast of Lubbock, shortly after the news of the death.

Justice of the Peace J. D. King of Post said tonight that he may render an inquest verdict Thursday, but added that the investigation was still incomplete.

Mode Of Death Bizarre

The woman's death was one of the most unusual and bizarre in the history of the South Plains.

The woman's face was burned beyond recognition, but Dr. D. C. Williams of Post, Garza county health officer who conducted a post mortem, said the immediate cause of death was suffocation or asphyxiation from the pair of men's cotton socks found stuffed into her mouth.

Her body was taken to Mason Funeral home in Post by a Williams Funeral home ambulance from Slaton.

Husband of the dead woman, Marvin Truelock, 40, told officers and newsmen that he was in Lubbock when notified that he was "needed at home." He drove back to Southland and identified the body of his wife.

Neighbors Not At Home

The family lived in the south end of the two-story brick Masonic building. The Masonic hall occupied the upper floor. Occupying ground floor living quarters immediately north of the Truelock family were Mr. and Mrs. Harry King. They were not at home when the tragedy occurred.

North of the King's apartment is the veterans training school. On the north end of the building is the Kwikway garage and machine shop operated by Truelock.

He said they had lived in the building for "eight or nine years, ever since we were married and came to Southland."

Daughter Was in School

Another child of Mrs. Truelock's, Glenda, 15, was in school at the time of the death. Both children are hers by a former marriage to Charles Oscar Grantham, who died about 13 years ago.

Sheriff Bass said that a pillow was under the dead woman's head and a quilt or a rug was alongside her body. Both were burned and charred by the flames, and part of her clothing had been burned away. Only a few braided wisps of hair remained on the back part of her head.

Flames did not spread because of the concrete floor, but a board on a wall partition was charred, and the fire might have spread if it had gone undiscovered for a few minutes more.

Two Notes Were Found

Officers said that two notes were found underneath a comic book on a sewing machine. Also on the sewing machine were a hatchet, a butcher knife and a screwdriver filed to a sharp point for use as a punch or ice pick.

Dr. Williams, who conducted the post mortem with the assistance of Dr. Glenn Kahler of Post, said that a careful examination of the woman's body failed to reveal any sign of external violence.

He said that the woman had been dead between one and two hours when the examination was conducted. He added that a complete autopsy was not made.

Rope Was Around Waist

Justice of the Peace King said that the rope holding the woman's arms behind her back was tied around the waist, with her hands under the rope.

He said the rope was made of cotton and about four feet long. Calvin, who found the body, told officers that the rope had been in his partitioned-off bedroom when he left for school this morning. He said he found the rope several days ago and had been playing with it.

The residence of the Truelock's is divided into three rooms by wallboard partitions that reached about half way to the high ceiling. The rooms are in a line—living room, bedroom and kitchen. A portion of the bedroom has been partitioned off for a small room holding a small bed and a dresser used by the children.

Mrs. Truelock, a former school teacher, served at one time as correspondent for The Post Dispatch. It was said that she once taught school at Wilson in Lynn county and at Southland.

Among the first officers to reach the scene of death was Deputy Sheriff V. A. Lobban of Post.

Sheriff Bass said that when he arrived at the Truelock apartment, "there were 15 people in the room," including officers, relatives, friends and others.

Texas Rangers Razz Renfrow and Capt. R. A. Crowder were among officers assisting in the investigation. Texas Highway patrolmen also

Youth Confesses Killing Man After Kidnap Victim Escapes

(By The Associated Press)

HOPE, Ark., Nov. 16.—A young hitch-hiker from New England tonight admitted killing one man, wounding and robbing another and kidnapping a third in southwest Arkansas earlier today.

Prosecutor James H. Pilkington said Ronald Edmond Gove, 20, Haverhill, Mass., made the admission shortly after his arrest at Texarkana.

The prosecutor said Gove, who is being held at Hope, will be charged tomorrow with first degree murder and kidnapping.

Gove, a tall, dark-haired nice-looking youth, was quoted by Pilkinton as saying it all started when he sought to rob Tom Seymour, 55, Fulton, Ark., planter with whom he had hitched a ride at Texarkana before dawn.

The prosecutor said the lad reported taking "more than $100" from Seymour, who suffered a serious bullet wound in his chest and was given a 50-50 chance to survive at a Hope hospital.

A negro, Matthew Runnels, was killed.

A Fulton service station employe, Lee Helton, was abducted by the gunman but escaped unharmed.

Pilkinton said he and other of-

Young Iranian Ruler Arrives In U. S. For Month's Goodwill Visit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16— The Shah of Iran arrived in Washington today for a month's state visit and heard President Truman blast Soviet Russia as a nation which does not keep its pledges.

The young shah arrived in the nation's capital and pledged his country, rich in oil and bordering Russia, will "work with the United States in the maintenance of peace in the Middle East."

The President declared at a state dinner given in honor of the visiting shah tonight that Russia "does not believe in keeping its contracts."

The President, howover, did not mention Russia specifically by name, but the allusion was not lost on his audience.

The President's remark was made in the course of a toast to the young shah, who was guest of honor at the gathering in the Carlton hotel which assembled the chief justice of the United States, the secretary of state, the secretary of defense, other members of the cabinet and high dignitaries.

BITTER FIGHT SEEN IN FUTURE

Nationalists Expected To Beat Down UN Bid Of Chinese Reds

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Nationalist China appeared today to have mustered enough support to beat down any present efforts by the Chinese Reds to unseat or silence the Nationalist delegation in the United Nations.

A bitter fight was shaping up, nevertheless. Western delegates resigned themselves to a long wrangle and possibly a showdown in the 59-nation political committee of the General Assembly on who should speak for China.

They had hoped to avoid any test during this assembly, but they are prepared to support the Nationalist delegation at least in the immediate future.

Russia Accused Of Aid

The contest is expected to come when the political committee takes up Nationalist China's complaint against Russia, probably next week. The Kuomintang (Nationalist) government accused Russia of aiding the Chinese Communists in their sweep over the receding Nationalists.

The Chinese Communists regime laid the foundation for the contest by sending a message yesterday from Peiping to Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo and UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie challenging the right of the Nationalist delegation to speak for China.

The United States immediately lined up behind the Nationalist delegation headed by T. F. Tsiang, a former ambassador to Moscow.

A British spokesman said his country also would support the Nationalist delegation as long as the Chungking government is recognized.

Muskgrove Mason, Honored At Dinner, Dies At Celebration

WINNSBORO, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Winnsboro Masonic lodge held a special supper last night for W. A. McCoy, a Mason from nearby Muskgrove.

Bad luck had been plaguing McCoy. His leg had been amputated six months ago. His money dwindled.

But at the supper he was in high spirits. At his seat as guest of honor he shook hands with just about everybody there.

Then he fell from his chair. His friends rushed to him, but he was dead. A physician said "a heart attack."

A $100 check which the lodge had planned to give to McCoy was given today to his widow.

Ban Against New Federal Projects May Be Continued

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—Unless President Truman changes his ruling, a general ban against starting new federal construction projects apparently will continue until mid 1951.

Disclosure of the President's present position was made in a letter written by Secretary of Interior Krug and made public today by the House Public Lands committee.

Bureau of the budget officials said there had yet been no formal announcement of this position.

A spokesman said, however, that "this indicated policy was transmitted to the agencies in July."

FAMED ARTIST DP FOUND CLEANING STREETS—Ukrainian artist Edward Kozak, one of Europe's greatest muralists and caricaturists, was found toiling as a street cleaner in Hamtramck, a Detroit suburb. Before the war, Kozak won many honors for his murals, but he was better known for his caricatures and political cartoons. A widely-reproduced caricature of Stalin brought the wrath of Soviet agents, and Kozak became a hunted man. Located by a Detroit architect decorator, Kozak was given a job painting murals and now his work is winning acclaim in Detroit. But, says Kozak: "Even if I have to sweep streets, I would be happy if I can remain in the United States."

Waco Youth Admits Committing 17 Of 18 Fort Worth Burglaries

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16. (AP) — An 18-year-old Waco youth, with a record of juvenile delinquency there and a former state training school inmate, this morning admitted 17 of the 18 burglaries in Arlington Heights residential section here last weekend.

Charles Eugene Hayter told city detectives and a Star-Telegram reporter he also was responsible for 16 other burglaries and thefts here since April, as well as a post-office robbery at Glen Rose.

In Hayter's possession at the time of his arrest Tuesday night a stolen pickup-truck were a 38-caliber revolver and 16 silver dollars which he said he took Saturday night from a residence here. Given permission to use a rest room at the place of his arrest, he fled through a window but was recaptured by radio patrolmen at the rear of a nearby cafe.

State Of Siege Proclaimed By Haiti Interior Ministry

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Nov. 16. (U.P.)—The ministry of interior said today it has proclaimed a state of siege to protect the country from political and social disturbances caused by the opposition political parties.

The action amounts to modified martial law. It was put into effect yesterday after a strike of university students.

Three political parties were dissolved, seven newspapers closed and news censorship established. The actions followed by a month restoration of full constitutional guarantees in the country.

A state of siege was proclaimed last February and was not lifted until Oct. 12, when the population demanded full freedom to permit campaigning for the legislative elections next January.

NEW CASES SHOW DECLINE

Five Texas Counties Struck By Polio For First Time This Year

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (AP)—Polio slapped five new Texas counties last week but total new cases ebbed to the lowest mark since spring.

Twenty-nine new cases were reported for the week by the State Health department today. There were 52 new cases during the week previous.

Counties joining the polio ranks for the first time this year were Hall with three cases, and Angelina, Brewster, Dickens and Liberty with one case each.

"The report of just 29 cases is a big refief, but the involvement of five counties for the first time this season indicates this thing isn't over yet," said State Health Officer George W. Cox. He especially cautioned areas which have so far apparently escaped polio.

Seriously afflicted Harris county reported four cases to become the week's hardest hit, but the figure was considerably down from the county's 14 new cases for the week previous.

Two other seriously affected regions, Tom Green and Tarrant counties, enjoyed a welcomed rest with no new cases reported for the week, the first zero for either county in many weeks.

Other cases were reported for the week as follows, by counties: Dallas and Ector three each; Hutchinson, two; Andrews, Collin, Deaf Smith, Galveston, Gillispie, Gray, Hidalgo, Medina, Mitchell and Taylor, one each.

The week's incidence was the lowest since 14 cases were reported for the week ending May 14.

This total was brought to 2,219 cases, compared to 1,765 for the entire year of 1948, previously the state's worst in history.

Federal Agents Find Witness Against KKK Activities In Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 16. (U.P.)— A nervous witness against Alabama Ku Klux Klansmen was under FBI custody here today, and it appeared likely that he would go back to Birmingham to testify against the white-hooded group next month.

The FBI said its agents found Irvin Leon Key, 28, in a local bar last night. The neatly-dressed man had been "hiding" here for two months while G-men trailed him all over the South.

Key's affiliation, or lack of it, with the Klan was not clear.

Reason For Hunt Unknown

The district attorney's office in Jefferson county, Alabama, declined to say just why the man had been hunted. He reportedly was to be a main witness against three night-riders who allegedly beat two men and two women last May 15 near Birmingham.

Key met a barrage of questions with "maybe." He refused direct answers, but Galen Willis, FBI agent in charge here, told newsmen, "this man is afraid for his life."

The FBI jailed Key on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid testifying at the Birmingham trial, set for Dec. 5.

'Secret' Witness Possible

Round-about word from Alabama indicated that the man being held here was a "secret" witness whose name was never revealed by the district attorney of Jefferson county, Alabama.

The floggings to which Key may have been a witness were reported to have taken place at the height of a sensational wave of beatings and Klan activities near Birmingham last summer that resulted in 18 separate indictments.

Charged with the whippings were R. C. Lyons, A. B. Carradine and Richard Lollar. All three have denied they are Klan members.

Reporters pointedly asked Key if he was a member of the KKK who was willing to turn state's evidence against other brethren.

Said Key: "I don't know they can prove I was ever in the Klan. Maybe the Klan isn't looking for me. Maybe nothing at all is going to happen to me."

The FBI awaited word from Birmingham before deciding just what to do with Key.

Demolition and excavation work on the permanent home of the United Nations in east-side Manhattan cost about $750,000.

Husband Is Stationed At Reese AFB

Girl Who Inspired 'Father Of The Bride' Now Living In City

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

"Father of the Bride," that epic and highly humorous book about the forgotten man at the wedding, appears to have a long-term lease on the best-seller lists.

The bride who inspired the book is now a resident of our fair city, and it should come as a comfort to Lubbock readers to know that both the bride and her father survived the wedding very nicely, thank you.

The bride in real life is now Mrs. John P. Woods, whose husband, Major Woods, is adjutant of the maintenance and supply group at Reese Air Force base.

Sequel Is Planned

Her father, the author of the book, is none other than Edward Streeter. Mr. Streeter, a successful New York banker, has also turned out two other best-sellers, "Dere Mable" in World War I days, and "Daily Except Sunday," first published in 1938.

And here's news: Mrs. Woods' sister is about to take the trip up the aisle and Mr. Streeter's publishers, Simon and Schuster, are already pressing him for a sequel to "Father of the Bride." In fact, he is already working on it, although his other daughter will not be married until Dec. 17.

Mrs. Woods will attend the wedding, also to be in New York.

As readers will remember, Mrs. Woods—her maiden name was Claire Warren Streeter—is called Kay Banks in the book, and her father took the name of Stanley Banks for story-telling purposes.

Amused By Description

Mrs. Woods says she was amused by her father's descriptions of her in the book. To wit, "From the time that Kay had first revealed herself to the social world, minus a mouthful of braces and plus a permanent, leggy adolescents with porcupine hair had begun to beat a path to 24 Maple Drive."

And as the book-jacket says, from the instant when he first learns of Kay's honorable intentions towards a fellow named Buckley Something-Or-Other, Mr. Banks is tossed like a pinball from crisis to crisis . . . Who among us can honestly blame our hero when he sinks so low as to offer his daughter $1,500 to elope?

The famous wedding took place in December, 1947, after the couple had met a year previously. Major Woods, then a civilian, was working in Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. Woods was head nurse in a New York Presbyterian hospital.

Now they have a young daughter, Julie. Few girls will grow up to read such a funny account of their parents' wedding.

The family now has a signed first edition of the book which they are saving for Julie when she grows up. In it is a note from her grandfather which reads:

"Dear Julie,

"This will give you some idea of what I went through. I knew your mother would never tell you. But it was well worth it.

"Bompa"

"In cast you don't know who that is when you grow up, I am your grandfather."

Mrs. Woods says her father is very much the same in real life as he is in his books. As vice president of the New York and Fifth Avenue bank at Forty-fourth and Fifth avenue, he is in great demand as an after-dinner speaker. He employs the same subtle humor as in his books. Writing best sellers has been a hobby with him. He also has written numerous magazine articles.

They Like Lubbock

The Woodses are living at 1708 Twenty-third until they get possession of a house they have purchased at 3704 Twenty-first.

They have been greatly impressed with Lubbock, so much so that they want to be permanent residents here.

"I think it is the wonderful people here that make it such a pleasant place to live here," Mrs. Woods said.

To get back to the book, it was first serialized in Collier's Magazine before publication last May in book form, and after its publication The Reader's Digest published it in condensed form in the November issue. The book is illustrated by the noted cartoonist, Gluyas Williams.

Mrs. Lewis C. Mills, owner of the PX bookstore, said the book has been in heavy demand in Lubbock since its publication.

Former New York Vets Now Eligible For State Bonus

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (AP).— Ex-New York veterans now living in Texas may get in line for the New York state bonus.

The Texas Veterans Affairs commission said today that an amendment adopted this month to the New York bonus law permits residents of other states who lived in New York for six months prior to their military service to qualify for that state's bonus, effective Jan. 1.

Previously, the veterans had to be residents of New York at the time of their application for the bonus.

Revised application forms may be obtained from offices of the Texas Veterans Affairs commission, county service officers and veterans organization service officers.

DIAMOND ENGLISH

The matter of grading diamonds for color, cutting and internal cleanliness really gets down to how good one wants his eyesight to be or how honest he might be. After all diamonds are about like peoples faces . . . No two alike. A diamond classed as a top silver cape by one fellow might be classed as a blue white by another. It all boils down to just how honest or intelligent one is or how careful one is slinging "The Kings English." Therefore, if you don't know diamonds, your sole protection lies in the reliability of the jeweler you choose.

GRADE SCHOOL GLAMOR

HOME permanents have proved a boon for mothers of straight-haired daughters. A home beauty consultant offers these tips for home waving a child's hair:

First, choose a time for the permanent when you are not rushed and when daughter is not overtired. A rainy day is a good choice, as there is no temptation to run outside and play. However, if we waited for a rainy day in Lubbock, the grammar school girl would have to wear a straight bob we're afraid.

Second, choose a place to give the permanent that is well-lighted and provides ample working space. One well padded with newspapers and covered with oil or plastic cloth is best. Small hands might inadvertently tip over waving fluids.

Third, have a chair that will be comfortable for the youngster and one that will bring her head up to a comfortable working height as you wrap the curls.

A co-operative venture is the best procedure the beauty consultant advises. Let the child help as much as possible. This will encourage pride in the final results, which later can be put to use as motivation for good grooming habits.

ENLARGING TRICK

DO YOU have to live in a very small room, that sometimes seems to be closing in on you? There are ways to open it out, as Elizabeth Ogg demonstrates in her new book, "Decorating The Small Apartment," published Nov. 15 by The Woman's Press.

A large wall mirror is one way, for it will make the room seem more spacious. And it is a good investment for the larger place you plan to have later.

A photo mural of some outdoor scene that draws the eye toward distant perspectives can help fend off claustrophobia.

TODAY'S GAG

A 7-YEAR-OLD girl went into a bank and asked to see the president. A smiling clerk showed her to his desk. The young girl explained that her girls' club was raising money and would he care to contribute?

The banker laid down a dollar bill and a dime on the desk and said, "You may take whichever one you want."

The girl picked up the dime and said, "My mother has taught me to take the smallest piece. Then she picked up the dollar bill, too, and said, "But just so I won't lose the dime, I'll take this piece of paper to wrap it in."

QUIET, PLEASE

WE AMERICANS have become so accustomed to hearing noise that a little silence is almost a frightening thing. There is nothing more urgent and compelling than the ring of a telephone, even if you are sure it is the wrong number. Most people nowadays do their reading and kids do their homework while a radio is blasting full blast close by.

Most of us live a 16-hour day to the accompaniment of noise of some sort—and most of it is the sound of human voices selling or asking something. So far we have managed to escape it during our sleeping hours.

We use our grey matter all day and many evenings when our work carries over past quitting time. The discovery by scientists that we absorb and learn things easily and fast if they are thrown at us when we are asleep does not interest the Woman's Angle.

We think the privilege of a little rest and quiet is one that should not be taken from us.

Suit, Coat Show Held At Tech

Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the division of Home Economics at Texas Technological college, was presented an award for outstanding service in 4-H club work in Extension District 2 Wednesday afternoon in the Tech Aggie Memorial auditorium. Miss Catherine Foltyn of Sudan, chairman of 4-H Girls work of District 2, made the award as a highlight of a Suit and Coat show held in the auditorium by various women of the District.

To signify the winning of the award, Dean Weeks was presented a spur clip adorned with the 4-H symbol, a four-leaf clover. The award winner was chosen by the county home demonstration agents of the District, and the clip and a gardenia corsage were given by the District 4-H girls.

Beginning in 1948, a plan was set up whereby an award for district service in 4-H work would be given each year to an outstanding man and woman in each of the 14 Extension districts of Texas. County agents choose the men and county home demonstration agents choose the women who are to be honored. Mrs. B. M. Harris of Plainview was honored by District 2 in 1948.

Dean Weeks was chosen for the 4-H award for her interest in 4-H girls who are students at Tech, for her influence in homes of West Texas where so many of her former students are homemakers, and for her influence on the many home demonstration agents who have come from her division. Dean Weeks has also been commended for making the facilities of her division available for extension training meetings on numerous occasions. At present, Tech ranks second in the number of Home

DEAN MARGARET WEEKS

Economics students who are employed as home demonstration agents or in other extension positions.

Among the special guests at the presentation and Suit and Coat show were Miss Mary Routh, clothing specialist of the Extension service of Texas A. and M., Miss Gladys Martin, acting vice-director and state agent, and Jack Sloan, visual aid specialist of the Extension service. Miss Kate Adele Hill, District 2 agent, was in charge of arrangements, and presided at the meeting.

Approximately 100 women of Terry, Cochran, Lynn, Dawson and Yoakum counties modeled suits and coats which they made following special training [illegible] with woolen materials. Miss Routh gave this training to eight leaders in each county of the district, and they in turn gave the training to other women. The models received gift certificates from Lubbock merchants.

Agents and women from all over the District were present. Similar shows have been presented in the five home counties of the models.

Truman Approves Housing Loans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (U.P.) — President Truman has approved $20,375,400 in loans to local housing authorities for planning work on 134,500 low-rent homes and apartments.

The Public Housing administration announced today that the preliminary loans, first to be made under the administration's six-year program to build 810,000 public housing units, will go to 108 housing authorities in 27 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Must Perfect Plans

Money for actual construction will not be lent to the housing authorities until they prepare detailed plans and cost estimates. The money authorized today is to pay for this work.

In the four and one-half months since the housing bill went into effect, the government has allocated more than one-fourth of the 810,000 units to 211 housing authorities in 39 states and possessions. None has reached the construction stage, but it is hoped that 50,000 units will be underway by mid-1950.

The preliminary loans announced today represent only to those housing authorities which asked for them. The remaining 103 authorities either have not asked for planning loans or have not received approval of their local governing bodies, such as city councils.

The amount of the planning loan is limited to the number of units to be built. The initial loans which President Truman approved averaged $151 per unit.

Later, when plans reach the construction stage, the remainder of the government's share will be released piecemeal with not more than one-fifth being allocated in the first year.

The government is authorized to lend up to 90 per cent of the total construction cost of the housing projects. But it is expected that few, if any, housing authorities will receive this much help from the government.

Money for the loans will be drawn from the United States Treasury. The law provides that not more than $85,000,000 may be lent each year, and that not more than 135,000 units may be started each year.

Among the cities, with the number of units and amount of preliminary loan approved, are:

Texas: Beaumont, 500, $115,000; Brownsville, 250, $85,000; Commerce, 50, $20,000; Corpus Christi, 500, $70,000; Corsicana, 200, $70,000; Dallas 2,800, $430,000; Denison, 200, $55,000; El Paso, 660, $182,000; Fort Worth, 500, $150,000; Galveston, 600, $130,000; McAllen, 150, $55,000; McKinney, 100, $40,000; Mercedes, 100, $40,000; San Benito, 100, $40,000; Taylor, 7, $28,000; Temple, 125, $14,000; Wichita Falls, 500, $100,000.

Abilene And Amarillo Surpass Quotas

Lubbock Record Lags Behind Other Cities In Chest Drive

Lubbock may have a better football team than other West Texas towns of similar size and population, but from the standpoint of a Community Chest the Hub of the Plains is lagging hopelessly behind all others.

That fact was pointed out Wednesday by J. Ray Dickey, chairman of Lubbock's 1950 Community Chest financial drive, which up until alst night had only reached $67,884.68 toward its $98,850 goal after a full month of solicitations.

"Amarillo, San Angelo, Wichita Falls and Abilene are all ahead of Lubbock in Community Chest drives," Dickey said today. "Three of them, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and San Angelo have raised more than $100,000 of their quotas, which are far above ours.

"Abilene, with a goal of $76,913, has already exceeded its quota, having raised $77,828," he continued. "Amarillo raised $75,000 the first two days of its drive and at last reports was above the $100,000-mark toward its goal of $157,000.

"San Angelo has raised more than $100,000 toward its goal of $148,000," Dickey pointed out. "I hear that Wichita Falls also has raised more than $100,000."

"About the only trouble we seem to be having is failure of team workers to complete their contacts and reports," Dickey said. "With the money collected so far, we're a little ahead of quotas on cards turned in."

Dickey announced that personnel of Reese Air Force Base, who have been in Lubbock less than two months, turned in a total of $1900.10.

"If these people, who are still strangers to most of us, can contribute as much as that toward a community project, I believe we could extend our efforts a little more in raising the quota we have set for the drive."

In making comment on the campaign, Dickey issued another plea to the various Chest captains, lieutenants and team workers to redouble their efforts to complete their solicitations.

"I think we've already made our quota if workers would just complete their reports," Dickey said.

History Of Quilts Told

Mrs. J. J. VanPelt spoke on quilts and the story they tell when Nancy Anderson chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met with Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt, 2324 Broadway, Wednesday afternoon. The speaker told of the quilts and mosaics of the early Egyptian days, of the Middle Ages, of early colonial times and of the modern day.

The collection of quilts of the hostess was displayed.

Mrs. J. L. Barstow gave the DAR prayer, Mrs. Kleinschmidt gave the Salute to the Flag, and the group, accompanied by Mrs. Frank McLain, pianist, sang "America." Mrs. Robert J. Allen presided.

Decorations were arrangements of chrysanthemums and autumn leaves, and Thanksgiving refreshments were served. Mrs. J. A. Laney and Mrs. Sam Jones were assisting hostesses.

Shivers Urged To Consider Proposal

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (U.P.)— The Texas Pension association today urged Gov. Allan Shivers to submit to a January special legislative session a proposal defining the term "need" and to permit the old people to appeal to the courts if they are dissatisfied with grants.

The appeal was made by Everett H. O'Dowd, first vice-president of the pension association.

However, the governor, in announcing plans for a special session in late January said earlier he planned to limit it to consideration of appropriations and building needs of an eleemosynary improvement program.

Fall Parties Are Held By Tech Groups

An autumn scene featuring fruit decorated the tea table for the monthly party of Tech Newcomers club Wednesday afternoon in the lounge of Drane hall on Tech campus. Approximately 50 women attended.

A guest, Mrs. M. Norvel Young, who went abroad last summer spoke on "A Woman's Glimpse of Europe and the Far East."

Hostesses were Mrs. D. O. Wiley, chairman, and Mesdames H. A. Anderson, Haskell Taylor, Lewis B. Cooper, Emmett Hazlewood, Joe L. Haddon, J. William Davis and Dell Morgan. Mrs. Morgan presided at the refreshment table.

Mrs. L. M. Hargrave was hostess to 13 members and one guest of Forty-Seveners club of Tech Wednesday afternoon at 2321 Eighth. The guest was Mrs. Earl L. Thompson.

During a business session, Mrs. Herman Williams was elected reporter.

A Christmas party for the club will be given Dec. 14 at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Byron Abernathy, 2804 Thirty-third, with Mrs. Vernon Keesee as co-hostess.

HAIR EXPERT RETURNS TO LUBBOCK TOMORROW FOR ONE-DAY CLINIC

Specialist Gives Free Examinations, Demonstrates New Home Treatment To Stop Hair Loss, Grow Thicker Hair

S. J. MUELLER, B. S., C. L. T.
Director of Trichologists, MUELLER HAIR EXPERTS
Clinics in Houston, San Antonio, Dallas, Memphis, Oklahoma City

Do you believe that baldness is due to heredity? You're 100% wrong.

Do you believe that baldness is due to age? You're 99% wrong.

Do you believe that baldness can not be prevented? You're 95% wrong?

These popular misconceptions belong to the "tonic" age. For years now, the better professional trichologists have proved that they can re-grow hair by repeated clinical treatments.

But it remained for the Mueller trichologists, after years of experience, to develop methods and formulae to restore hair growth by home treatment. Already this new treatment has proved successful in restoring hair growth for thousands of men and women.

BEFORE MUELLER TREATMENT

Unretouched photograph of Mr. W. A. Hudgins, Vivian, La., made before he started Mueller treatment.

AFTER MUELLER TREATMENT

Mr. Hudgins today, with a good head of hair, the result of Mueller treatment. Bald spot entirely covered.

Hopeless cases not accepted.

Mueller home treatment is not a "cure-all." Each of the 14 kinds of external scalp disorders requires a different therapy. For that reason, we do not ever prescribe treatment without first making a thorough, personal scalp examination.

If your case is hopeless, we tell you so. About five per cent of those we examine fall into this group not eligible for treatment. As a rule, if your scalp grows "fuzz," your case is not hopeless.

What is the treatment like?

Mueller home treatment combines physical and chemical therapy which you can easily administer to yourself in your home. Among the exclusive formulae included in most treatment kits are fast-acting germicides, scalp cleaners, and sub-scalp stimulants.

The progressive steps of medication and treatment are easy to understand and follow. You mail regular reports of your hair progress to the nearest Mueller Clinic, so that treatment can be changed if necessary to get best results.

Regular check-ups

Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Mueller expert at regular intervals.

Results are quick.

Results from home treatment are quickly noticeable. Usually it takes just a few weeks to cleanse your scalp of all dandruff, surface and imbedded, kill the bacteria swarming beneath the scalp, and correct local disorders. Then special formulae are used to stimulate the processes of hair growth. In less than two months, you should begin to see new replacement hairs.

FREE EXAMINATION

Consult the Mueller trichologist during his clinic here. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. If you decide to take treatment, you'll find the fee very reasonable.

Come to the hotel between 1 P.M. and 8 P.M., at the hour most convenient for you.

Father Cries On Witness Stand As He Reads From Son's Notes

By JOHN KAY ADAMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 16 — Lewis F. Petersen cried on the witness stand at his son's insanity hearing today as he read from a morose note he said Keith Petersen wrote.

Keith, who killed Carolyn Schofield, 20, his sweetheart, broke silence for the first time.

"No one should read that but myself," he blurted out.

Keith heard his father tell how he urged the boy be put "in an institution" before the killing. He listened impassively in the courtroom as the father said he had told Keith: "Son, you're utterly crazy. You're just as crazy as any man on the face of the earth."

A "suicide" note and a razor blade were admitted as defense evidence along with several poems, essays and an epitaph for himself that Keith wrote. Defense Attorney Maury Hughes, who read the note to the jury, said it was found with the razor blade in Keith's dresser the day after the shooting. At that time Keith was in jail.

The criminal district court jury will be asked to rule on the sanity of the 21-year-old former journalism student.

The elder Petersen, an official of the Dallas Power and Light company said his son's depression became extremely intense during the week of the shooting.

He would not eat or leave the house for four days.

"Keith was like a wild animal," the father said.

The father spent two hours on the stand reading poems to Carolyn that Keith had written.

One began:

"Fourteen was I and she my ideal queen.
Thirteen was she and I her dancing beau.
Seven years ago was that
One evening back in time.
. . . I came that night with my dancing shoes
Upon a heart that waltzed to the tune of this brown-eyed girl."

The father broke midway in a note in which Keith wrote that he was afraid of death. It said, . . . "for this flower I shall create out of the fertile soil of memories my last living work."

Attorney Hughes continued reading when Petersen was unable to continue.

The father said Keith became interested in body building after he got out of the navy.

"He went from 125 or 130 pounds to 232 pounds. He would pose before the mirrow and was extremely well pleased with his development. It was his ambition ultimately to become a candidate for Mr. America."

The elder Petersen recounted events leading up to the fatal shooting. He said he overheard a telephone conversation Keith had with Carolyn Aug. 20.

"Keith screamed, 'I hate you—I hate you—I hate you—you're awful—you're mean.' Keith was moaning, stamping his feet and smashing his fist on a door."

After the phone call the elder Petersen said Keith stayed in his room over the weekend and destroyed all his previous letters, poems and records.

The father said he received a phone call late in the afternoon on Friday, Sept. 2.

"Come on over," Keith said. "I just killed Connie." (Carolyn).

Paper Claims 100,000 Mexicans Still Working Illegally In State

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16 (U.P) — The newspaper El Nacional reported today that 100,000 Mexicans still are working illegally in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas.

The newspaper said both farmers and the workers themselves are thwarting provisions of the current migrant labor agreement between Mexico and the United States.

The labor pact provides the machinery for regularization of the status of alien workers illegally in the United States. It also prohibits families from accompanying migrant workers.

Nacional said that most of the workers in the lower valley live there with their families and have passed up the chance to legalize their condition rather than leave their families.

Young Vet Offers To Sell Eye To Get Funds For Wife, Child

DENVER, Nov. 16 (INS) — A youthful, disabled World War II veteran who said he needed money to provide for his wife and forthcoming child, offered to sell one of his eyes in Denver today.

Admittedly down on his luck, 21-year-old Gene Lanning, a native Denverite temporarily quartered at a downtown hotel, looked at his problem simply:

"I need money. Not for myself but for my wife and baby. And I need it quick. I can't make the kind of money I need overnight.

"They pay good for eyes to help blind people see again, I'm told. I have two good eyes. If I could sell one, I've still got one left. And, with the money, I could maybe give my wife the home she deserves, and maybe make another start."

The young veteran enlisted in the Navy when 16, and a year later, he said, he was wounded when a Jap dive bomber raked the LST on which he was riding just off the coast of New Guinea.

He was discharged in July of 1946, and given a disability pension which nets him $41.40 a month.

He said he was given a job in a fence manufacturing plant shortly after his discharge, but was unable to keep it because of his war wounds. Next, he tried the construction game. His crippled shoulder couldn't take it. Later, he explained, he tried working in a steel mill and met with the same result.

Move Made To Keep Agriculture Officials Out Of Controversy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—The Truman administration has taken steps to keep field officials of the Agriculture department from becoming involved in a political controversy over the Brannan farm plan.

Several hundred department production and marketing administration (PMA) officials from the various states will hold an annual meeting in Memphis Dec. 4-9 to discuss problems pertaining to farm production, prices and marketing.

Instructions have been issued that the meeting is not to adopt resolutions relating to agricultural policies.

Kansas City Industrialist, Topeka Newsman May Seek Post

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 16. (AP) — Two names stood out in Kansas political speculation today over the possible successor of the late U. S. Senator Clyde M. Reed (R.)

They were Harry Darby, Kansas City, Kas., industrialist and Republican national committman, and Oscar S. Stauffer, Topeka newspaper publisher.

Neither nas made any bid for the job or given any indication of his attitude toward the appointment. The unexpired term portion of Reed's term runs to Jan. 3, 1951.

Many political observers have expressed the belief that the appointment of either Darby or Stauffer would help Governor Frank Carlson's desire to cement party peace for the 1950 primary when it is generally believed the governor himself will be a candidate for the senatorial post.

TUBE GUIDED INTO HEART

New Technique Expected To Aid In Fight Against Heart Disease

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 — A remarkable new technique which will prolong the lives of thousands of heart disease sufferers otherwise doomed to premature death was disclosed today in Chicago.

The procedure is known as catheterization of the heart. It is being used to show doctors for the first time the amount of blood the heart is pumping, where it is going and the location of internal leaks in the arterial system.

Presbyterian hospital authorities, who made the disclosure, said lives can be prolonged because catheterization furnishes the doctor with exact knowledge—the kind formerly obtainable only through autopsy—about the condition of the patient's heart.

Instrument Put Into Heart

Catheterization is said to be painless and harmless and consists of the insertion of a special fine bore catheter—a tubular needle-like instrument—is inserted into the heart.

First, an incision is made in a vein in the arm and the catheter—a plastic tube about 40 inches long and one-eighth of an inch in diameter—is inserted.

The technician then guides the catheter up the vein to the main vein and then to the heart and into the heart cavities. The progress of the slender tube is watched carefully through X-ray

By advancing or withdrawing the catheter, the doctor can place its tip in the various chambers and vessels of the heart.

The catheter can be attached to two delicate instruments to provide a wealth of information. One, the oscilloscope, allows blood pressure and simultaneous electrocardiograph tracings to be observed by doctors while the procedure is in progress

The second, an oscillograph, permits simultaneous recordings of several different variables—pressures within the chambers of the heart, pressures in the arterial circulation of the body, venous pressure, electrocardigraph tracings and breathing movements

Hospital authorities said that more than 100 cardiac catheterizations have been carried out at Presbyterian hospital thus far.

Gin Fire Loss Over $75,000 At Rolla

CHILDRESS, Nov. 16 (AP) — The second major cotton gin fire in this area in the last five days damaged the Chickasha Cotton Oil company gin late yesterday at Rolla, Tex.

Rolla is about 30 miles north of here.

Damage to the Rolla gin was estimated today by General Manager L. A. Davis at between $75,000 and $100,000.

"Quick thinking and action by farmers saved about 50 bales of seeded cotton in the yards," Davis said. The gin itself was a total loss except for the office.

Davis said origin of the blaze was not known. The last ginned bale had been hauled out of the gin just before the blaze.

Memphis and Wellington fire departments answered the call but arrived too late. "It took about one hour for the gin to burn to the ground," Davis said.

Last Saturday, $100,000 damage was done by fire to a gin at Quanah. Origin of that blaze also was not known. The gin was owned by the Quanah Cotton oil company of which J. W. Simmons of Dallas is president.

Czech Mission In Germany Breaks From Prague Regime

BERLIN, Nov. 16. (U.P.)—British headquarters said today that the entire Czechoslovak reparations mission in the British zone of Germany has broken with the Communist regime in Prague and has been granted "protection and political asylum" by Britain.

The announcement said a request for asylum was made yesterday in behalf of the seven-man staff by Dr. L. Rozberil, mission chief.

"In accordance with the traditional British policy of granting asylum to all who genuinely seek it, irrespective of race, nationality or creed, the request was granted and the seven permanent members of the mission staff together with their dependents were granted asylum in the British zone," the announcement said.

"Every effort will be made to help them begin a new life in freedom and security."

The mission, known as the reparations and deliveries and restitution mission, had its headquarters in the British zone city of Bad Salzuflen.

The Great Smoky Mountain National Park, on the North Carolina-Tennessee border, contain more species of native trees than n all of Europe.

County Clerks Find New Benefit In State Marriage License Law

ABILENE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Texas county clerks are just waking up to one of the benefits of the new state marriage license law.

They get more sleep.

"I haven't been waked up at midnight since the new law went into effect on Oct. 5," Taylor county Clerk Chester Hutcheson said with some surprise.

The new law doesn't prohibit midnight marriages. It just makes them impractical. The physical checkup at an approved laboratory takes a full day. Usually, by that time, a daytime ceremony is arranged.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of Irwin Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

10 pounds lost in 10 days

Mrs. M. C. Britton, 306 W. Wildwood, San Antonio, Texas, writes us as follows: "I am a faithful user of Barcentrate. I had dieted for weeks without your product and needed so badly to lose 10 pounds, so I started using Barcentrate and my worry was over for I lost the 10 pounds in 10 days. I now weigh 135 pounds.

"I eat most anything I want and hold my same weight."

Area Schoolboy Races In Showdown Stage This Week

Westerner Squad Needs Win Over Midland For 3-AA Title

They ring down the curtain on the regular South Plains schoolboy football season this week, and the question of the moment is: "Which teams will be back for curtain calls?"

Except for a few scattered instances, this week's schedule winds up the regular campaign—and only district champions will be back for additional action.

One South Plains champion, Olton, already has been crowned. Five others will be determined this weekend, either on the playing field or—in case of ties—by ballot.

Bi-District In Sight

Lubbock's Westerners, slowed but not stopped by Odessa last week, can apply the District 3-AA clincher by beating impotent Midland at Midland. If the Westerners take this one, the stage will be set for the bi-district clash with the El Paso champions.

Odessa is expected to have a field day at the expense of Brownfield's hapless Cubs. Most observers agree that Broncho Coach Joe Coleman can just about name his own score, for all indications point to a lop-sided Odessa victory. The game will be at Brownfield.

The big attraction in District 3-A is Spur at Floydada on Friday night. A victory would give Coach Sam Hawkes' Spur team outright possession of the championship, while a Floydada win possibly would toss the race into a four-way deadlock and necessitate a vote to select the district play-off representative.

Ralls, Crosbyton Meet

Other 3-A tussles this week are Paducah at Matador and Ralls at Crosbyton. The latter is a traditional "grudge match" of long standing, and probably will attract one of the larger crowds of the day.

In District 4-A, the pennant puzzle has narrowed to two teams —Slaton and Littlefield. These two, winners of their divisional titles, meet at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Lubbock's Jones stadium in the championship playoff. A throng of approximately 5,000 fans is anticipated.

Wink, the current pacesetter in 8-A, can sew up a playoff berth by beating Crane this week. Should the Wildcats falter, Andrews might come out on top. Andrews plays Seminole Friday afternoon in the district's top game of the week.

Meadow Leads 4-B

It's all over but the shouting in 3-B, where Olton's stampeding Mustangs flattened the field with nine consecutive triumphs. The only game on this week's docket is Hale Center at Anton.

New Deal invades Meadow for the scrap that commands top billing in 4-B. Meadow, undefeated and untied for the full season, is leading the loop, but the powerful New Deal eleven could toss the scramble into a tie (and perhaps a three-way deadlock) by winning Friday night. Both New Deal and Whiteface still have a mathematical chance to overhaul Meadow.

Six-man football will be alone in the spotlight tonight when Wilson, champions of 4B engages Weinert, the 3-B titlist, in a bi-district playoff tilt at Post. Both teams boast perfect records this season, and a real scoring duel is in prospect. To date, Wilson has averaged 54 points per game, and has never failed to produce fewer than five touchdowns in a game.

Touchdown Club To Give Award To Former Illini Coach Zuppke

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Touchdown Club of America announced today that its annual award would be presented to former Coach Robert Zuppke of Illinois at a dinner here Dec. 1.

The award, voted annually to someone either active or retired who has performed outstanding service to football, went to W. A. (Bill) Alexander of Georgia Tech in 1948.

District Titles On Line Friday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Battles in north, central and south Texas in which perennial powers struggle for district championships headline the schoolboy football schedule this week.

Wichita Falls, rated with the best in the state, meets Vernon for the District 2 title in Class AA.

Corsicana, unbeaten and untied, tackles a dangerous Temple eleven in the pay-off tilt of District 13.

Down at Corpus Christi, Austin's Maroons, expected by many to reach the state semi-finals, joust with their long-time rivals, the Corpus Christi Bucs with the District 14 crown in the balance.

Elsewhere in the state important games stick out like bandaged thumbs with probably two-thirds of the City Conference and Class AA 20 districts due to establish championships.

Already two district titlists have set their first round play-off game. Highland Park of Dallas and Paris will play at Paris Dec. 2. Highland Park is champion of District 8 and Paris is District 7 in Class AA.

Other champions await the determination of foes in the bi-district round.

Sunset of Dallas is the only City Conference champ decided thus far.

In Class AA Pampa rules District 1, Marshall District 9 and Alice District 15.

There are 43 games this weekend in the state. The schedule:

Thursday — North Dallas vs. Crozier Tech (Dallas), (Houston) vs. Austin (Houston).

Friday — Forest (Dallas) vs. Adamson (Dallas), Amon Carter-Riverside (Fort Worth) vs. Poly (Fort Worth), San Jacinto (Houston) vs. Reagan (Houston), San Antonio Tech vs. Burbank (San Antonio), Harlandale (San Antonio) vs. Alamo Heights (San Antonio), Electra at Quanah, Memphis at Childress, Vernon at Wichita Falls, Odessa at Brownfield, Lubbock at Midland, Ysleta at Bowie (El Paso), Big Spring at Abilene, Brownwood at Sweetwater, Stephenville at Weatherford, Breckenridge at Mineral Wells, Eastland at Cisco, Denton at Grand Prairie, Sulphur Springs at Highland Park (Dallas), Texarkana at Kilgore, Gladewater at Henderson, Ennis at Longview, Palestine at Conroe, Bryan at Nacogdoches, Lufkin at Jacksonville, South Park (Beaumont) at Orange, Port Neches at Beaumont, Freeport at Texas City, Pasadena at Galena Park, Galveston at Baytown, Hillsboro at Waxahachie, Temple at Corsicana, Cleburne at Waco, Victoria at Kerrville, Austin at Corpus Christi, Robstown at Kingsville, Alice at Laredo, Harlingen at Brownsville, McAllen at San Benito.

Saturday — Sunset (Dallas) vs. Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) vs. Fort Worth Tech, Sam Houston (Houston) vs. Jeff Davis (Houston).

Arkansas' Razorbacks Work On Plays Against Indians

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 16. (AP)—Arkansas' Razorbacks had trouble stopping William and Mary plays as executed by reserves in a long scrimmage today.

Both passes and runs from the Indians' single wing formation clicked repeatedly.

Arkansas will meet W. and M. at Little Rock Saturday.

Leon (Muscles) Campbell, the Razorbacks' star fullback who has been sidelined by a knee injury most of the season, took a full part in the workout and likely will play Saturday.

Lubbock Continues Conditioning For Title Tilt Against Midland

Injuries Plague Team

Injuries have cropped up to hinder the Westerners in their efforts to nail down the lid on the District 3-AA championship. A victory over Tugboat Jones' Bulldogs would be the last nail necessary to complete the job, and the boys and coaches are working hard.

On the ailing list at present and out of the game are Brock and Guard Freddy Gray, injured against Odessa, with knee injuries. Fullback Malcolm Young is nursing a slightly sprained ankle but will be ready to go Friday night.

Linemen went through a trying blocking session in early practice while the backfield ran through plays and held pass practice. Following a long dummy scrimmage, the Westerners buckled down and went through a real head-knocking session.

Blocking Improved

Against the second bunch the regulars were able to break away for long runs on occasions, and improvement was noted in blocking by the varsity. Against Odessa gains through the line were held to a minimum, and stress has been put on opening holes in the defense all week in practice.

Co-captaining the team this week will be the halfbacks, Wayne Stroud and Charlie Williams.

Midland has been going through rough workouts this week in preparation for the tilt, which will be played at Memorial stadium. The Bulldog squad is very inexperienced, with no lettermen returning to action this year.

Festivities Planned During 3-B Game Between Hale Center, Anton

ANTON, Nov. 16 (Special)—Anton's Bulldogs are set to close out their 1949 football campaign with a four-barrel feature here Friday night.

Highlight of the program will be the District 3-B Anton-Hale Center football game. In addition, other festivities are scheduled for a pre-game ceremony that will begin at 7 p. m. These include: (1) A "Dads' Night" observance, at which fathers of Anton gridders will be honored; (2) A Homecoming program; and (3) crowning of the 1949 "Football Sweetheart," whose identity will not be disclosed in advance.

Coach A. D. Shores' Anton eleven will be trying to finish the season with a 50-50 record. To date, the Bulldogs have won four games while dropping five. A win over Hale Center, 1948 district titlist, would pull Anton up to the .500 level.

TECH FFA SPONSORS EVENT

Henderson, Olivas Highlight 28-Round Boxing Card Tonight

BY CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

Bill Henderson, the classy lightweight from Levelland, goes after his 29th triumph in 31 pro starts tonight at Sled Allen's arena when he tangles with Tony Olivas, El Paso, in the 10-round main event of an FFA-sponsored boxing card.

Three other bouts complete the 28-round card, which starts at 8 o'clock. These are:

Gene James, Lubbock, vs. Eddie Lamarr, Oklahoma City, heavyweights, eight rounds.

Leonard Duncan, Hale Center, vs. Art Gray, El Paso, middleweights, six rounds.

Tommy Mannoai, El Paso, vs. Augustine Guiterrez, Pecos, lightweights, four rounds.

Ducats Selling Well

A substantial advance ticket sale was reported Wednesday by members of the Texas Tech FFA chapter which is sponsoring the event. More than $500 already was in the till when the ticket booth in the Hilton hotel closed Wednesday evening.

Tickets, priced at $3, $2.25 and $1.25, will be available all day today at the Hilton, and tonight at the arena box office. All profits from the venture will be used by the Tech FFA group to establish a scholarship fund, to which Henderson, James and Duncan also are donating their purses for the night.

Henderson Favored

Henderson is a solid favorite to repeat an earlier victory over Olivas. The Levelland clouter packs a stiffer wallop and is more durable, although the clever Olivas possibly is a bit faster. Henderson currently is ranked fifth among the state's lightweights, while Olivas is unlisted.

The James-Lamarr go may produce some of the night's best action. James, unbeaten in 13 trips to the post as a pro, upset the ex-state champion recently at Carlsbad, and Lamarr has clamored for a return match ever since. This is it, and repeat triumph would put James directly in line for a shot at Dolph Quijano's state heavyweight crown.

Guiterres Unknown

The Duncan-Gray match also promises to be interesting. Gray, a collegian, is reputed to be a powerful puncher, and it's no secret that Duncan can be hit. To swing at him and miss is roughly akin to falling out of a boat and missing the water. However, the Hale Center middleweight is as rugged as they come, and just about as aggressive. All his fights here have been corkers, if you like the "pier six" variety of brawl.

Little is known here of Mannoai's ability, and nothing of Guiterrez. Mannoai made a creditable showing in his only earlier appearance here, while Guiterrez is listed as a former New Mexico Golden Gloves featherweight titlist.

Tech Fish Meet WTSC Freshmen

Texas Tech's unpredictable freshman football team will wind up its season Saturday with a second clash against the West Texas State 'fish' in Canyon.

The Picadors opened the fall with a 59-6 win over the Young Buffaloes and added a second win of 13-0 over Odessa Junior college before hitting the skids. Odessa copped a return engagement by 13-0 and the Hardin-Simmons freshmen won over Tech 20-13.

Coach Allie White thinks his charges will win at Canyon, but he had hoped for an undefeated season and isn't sure just what to expect.

The Picadors are somewhat chagrinned and upset over their past two losses and declare they will go full blast at Canyon. They are working harder this week than at any time this fall.

Coach White will rely on his same men, with use of the Platoon system of changing teams on offense and defense. Offensive backs will include Waldo Young of Monahans, W. H. Barker of Colorado City, Ronnie Miller of Albany, Carl Madison of Atmore, Alabama, and Chuck Reynolds of Atlanta, Georgia. Defensive backs will be Sandy Welton of Fairmont, West Virginia, Carol Drye of McAllen, Jerry Killian of Holliday and Jim Turner of Olney.

Offensive Drill Occupies Tech Squad; Aerial Plays Polished

Lobo Pass Defense Said To Be Weak

An extensive offensive drill occupied Texas Tech's spirited football squad yesterday afternoon, with most of the emphasis on passing, as the Red Raiders prepared for their game with New Mexico at Albuquerque Saturday.

The Raiders, showing more spirit this week than they have at any other time this season, went through a drill that was mainly dummy scrimmage. At one or two points, Coach Dell Morgan allowed the defensive unit to rush the passers, who seemed to work better under pressure.

Backs Hit Receivers

Four quarterbacks took turns heaving aerials. Ernest Hawkins, Milton Rathbone, Bill Lyman and Albert Salem were hitting their receivers with accuracy, even though too many of the passes were being dropped.

The Raiders are expected to make extensive use of the aerial route when they play the Lobos Saturday. Scouting reports indicate that the New Mexico eleven pass defense is leakier than any other team Tech has faced this year.

Tech's starless backfield material is more of an aid than a handicap. So many backs have taken part in the scoring, ball carrying and pass receiving that opposing coaches find it hard to build a defense for the Raiders. For instance, there have been 12 receivers of forward passes. Punt returns have been handled by seven men. Touchdowns have been made by 10 men. Kickoffs have been handled by 13 men.

Lobos Confident

But from New Mexico comes word that the Lobos have slight respect for the Raiders. The players feel that the victory over Colorado was all they needed and that Tech will be just another team. Before the Colorado tilt, Lobo supporters figured on losing to the Raiders. Now they feel certain that they can win.

Colorado fumbles and miscues in the second half of last week's game, according to New Mexico reports, can be attributed to the Lobo's terrific line play. At least 10 men from tackle to tackle on both the offensive and defensive lines turned in their best games of the year.

The New Mexico squad came out of the Colorado game in good condition physically. The question now is whether any team can reach as high a pitch two weeks in a row as the Lobos hit against Colorado. But it will be Homecoming on the Albuquerque campus and Lobo supporters feel that this is the year that they can chalk up their second victory in the series over the Raiders.

TREMAINE DECISIONS GETZ

Overhull, Flores Win Tag Team Match Over Kasaboski And Mask

Retribution finally came to The Gray Mask last night at Sled Allen's arena, when he and Alex Kasaboski dropped the tag team match to George Overhull and Salvador Flores before a near capacity crowd that cheered the decision.

The Mask didn't lose his facial coverage, but not because his opponents didn't try. They did everything they could to expose the West Coast wrestler, but to no avail. In the meantime, they also used enough grappling to send him down to defeat.

Tremaine Beats Getz

In the first event, Andy Tremaine extended Al Getz' losing streak by taking a cleancut decision in two out of three falls, even though the wrestling wasn't on the cleancut side.

Al lin all, the matches pleased all the fans last night. There was rowdy action all the way, with plenty of excitement and not one match was decided until it ended in unexpected fireworks.

Kasaboski and The Mask were slated, via public opinion, to win their match from Flores and Overhull, who didn't appear to be able to match their opponents in roughness and punishment. But the Flores-Overhull team did win and did it convincingly, meeting every thrust that the losers could make.

Kasaboski Helps

Kasaboski won the first fall for his team, pinning Flores with a full crab after 22 minutes of hectic wrestling. Flores returned to even things in 12 minutes with his favorite, the crucifix hold, taking the Mask to the mat.

In the final fall, Overhull ended the engagement after only five minutes of action with a full nelson on Kasaboski. The argument lasted long after the referee had awarded the fall to the winning team.

Getz, who hasn't been able to win for losing, fell victim to Tremaine in two straight falls, after he had won the opener. The big Dutchman, showing signs of returning to his former power, pinned Tremaine with a boomerang after 25 minutes of furious wrestling. Tremaine returned to toss Getz in three minutes with an inside stepover cat toehold and ended the match with a rocking chair split after 13 minutes.

Area Schoolboy Races In Showdown Stage This Week

Westerner Squad Needs Win Over Midland For 3-AA Title

They ring down the curtain on the regular South Plains schoolboy football season this week, and the question of the moment is: "Which teams will be back for curtain calls?"

Except for a few scattered instances, this week's schedule winds up the regular campaign—and only district champions will be back for additional action.

One South Plains champion, Olton, already has been crowned. Five others will be determined this weekend, either on the playing field or—in case of ties—by ballot.

Bi-District In Sight

Lubbock's Westerners, slowed but not stopped by Odessa last week, can apply the District 3-AA clincher by beating impotent Midland at Midland. If the Westerners take this one, the stage will be set for the bi-district clash with the El Paso champions.

Odessa is expected to have a field day at the expense of Brownfield's hapless Cubs. Most observers agree that Broncho Coach Joe Coleman can just about name his own score, for all indications point to a lop-sided Odessa victory. The game will be at Brownfield.

The big attraction in District 3-A is Spur at Floydada on Friday night. A victory would give Coach Sam Hawkes' Spur team outright possession of the championship, while a Floydada win possibly would toss the race into a four-way deadlock and necessitate a vote to select the district play-off representative.

Ralls, Crosbyton Meet

Other 3-A tussles this week are Paducah at Matador and Ralls at Crosbyton. The latter is a traditional "grudge match" of long standing, and probably will attract one of the larger crowds of the day.

In District 4-A, the pennant puzzle has narrowed to two teams —Slaton and Littlefield. These two, winners of their divisional titles, meet at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Lubbock's Jones stadium in the championship playoff. A throng of approximately 5,000 fans is anticipated.

Wink, the current pacesetter in 5-A, can sew up a playoff berth by beating Crane this week. Should the Wildcats falter, Andrews might come out on top. Andrews plays Seminole Friday afternoon in the district's top game of the week.

Meadow Leads 4-B

It's all over but the shouting in 3-B, where Olton's stampeding Mustangs flattened the field with nine consecutive triumphs. The only game on this week's docket is Hale Center at Anton.

New Deal invades Meadow for the scrap that commands top billing in 4-B. Meadow, undefeated and untied for the full season, is leading the loop, but the powerful New Deal eleven could toss the scramble into a tie (and perhaps a three-way deadlock) by winning Friday night. Both New Deal and Whiteface still have a mathematical chance to overhaul Meadow.

Six-man football will be alone in the spotlight tonight when Wilson, champions of 4B engages Weinert, the 3-B titlist, in a bi-district playoff tilt at Post. Both teams boast perfect records this season, and a real scoring duel is in prospect. To date, Wilson has averaged 54 points per game, and has never failed to produce fewer than five touchdowns in a game.

Touchdown Club To Give Award To Former Illini Coach Zuppke

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Touchdown Club of America announced today that its annual award would be presented to former Coach Robert Zuppke of Illinois at a dinner here Dec. 1.

The award, voted annually to someone either active or retired who has performed outstanding service to football, went to W. A. (Bill) Alexander of Georgia Tech in 1948.

District Titles On Line Friday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Battles in north, central and south Texas in which perennial powers struggle for district championships headline the schoolboy football schedule this week.

Wichita Falls, rated with the best in the state, meets Vernon for the District 2 title in Class AA.

Corsicana, unbeaten and untied, tackles a dangerous Temple eleven in the pay-off tilt of District 13.

Down at Corpus Christi, Austin's Maroons, expected by many to reach the state semi-finals, joust with their long-time rivals, the Corpus Christi Bucs with the District 14 crown in the balance.

Elsewhere in the state important games stick out like bandaged thumbs with probably two-thirds of the City Conference and Class AA 20 districts due to establish championships.

Already two district titlists have set their first round play-off game. Highland Park of Dallas and Paris will play at Paris Dec. 2. Highland Park is champion of District 8 and Paris is District 7 in Class AA.

Other champions await the determination of foes in the bi-district round.

Sunset of Dallas is the only City Conference champ decided thus far.

In Class AA Pampa rules District 1, Marshall District 9 and Alice District 15.

There are 43 games this weekend in the state. The schedule:

Friday — Forest (Dallas) vs. Adamson (Dallas), Amon Carter-Riverside (Fort Worth) vs. Poly (Fort Worth), San Jacinto (Houston) vs. Reagan (Houston), San Antonio Tech vs. Burbank (San Antonio), Harlandale (San Antonio) vs. Alamo Heights (San Antonio), Electra at Quanah, Memphis at Childress, Vernon at Wichita Falls, Odessa at Brownfield, Lubbock at Midland, Ysleta at Bowie (El Paso), Big Spring at Abilene, Brownwood at Sweetwater, Stephenville at Weatherford, Breckenridge at Mineral Wells, Eastland at Cisco, Denton at Grand Prairie, Sulphur Springs at Highland Park (Dallas), Texarkana at Kilgore, Gladewater at Henderson, Ennis at Longview, Palestine at Conroe, Bryan at Nacogdoches, Lufkin at Jacksonville, South Park (Beaumont) at Orange, Port Neches at Beaumont, Freeport at Texas City, Pasadena at Galena Park, Galveston at Baytown, Hillsboro at Waxahachie, Temple at Corsicana, Cleburne at Waco, Victoria at Kerrville, Austin at Corpus Christi, Robstown at Kingsville, Alice at Laredo, Harlingen at Brownsville, McAllen at San Benito.

Saturday — Sunset (Dallas) vs. Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) vs. Fort Worth Tech, Sam Houston (Houston) vs. Jeff Davis (Houston).

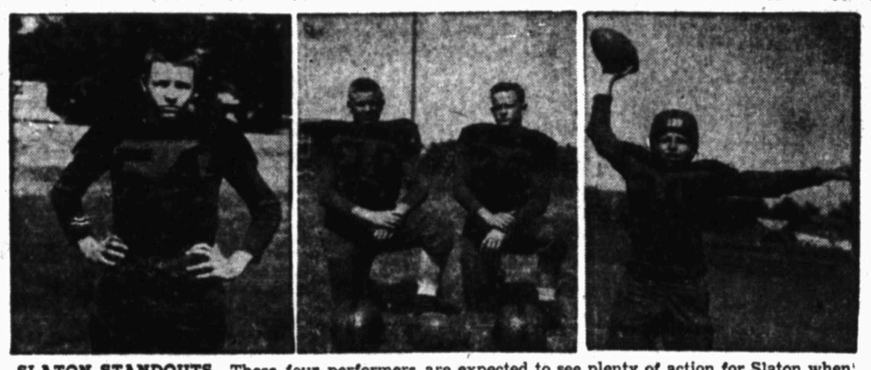

Arkansas' Razorbacks Work On Plays Against Indians

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 16. (AP)—Arkansas' Razorbacks had trouble stopping William and Mary plays as executed by reserves in a long scrimmage today.

Both passes and runs from the Indians' single wing formation clicked repeatedly.

Arkansas will meet W. and M. at Little Rock Saturday.

Leon (Muscles) Campbell, the Razorbacks' star fullback who has been sidelined by a knee injury most of the season, took a full part in the workout and likely will play Saturday.

Injuries Plague Team

Injuries have cropped up to hinder the Westerners in their efforts to nail down the lid on the District 3-AA championship. A victory over Tugboat Jones' Bulldogs would be the last nail necessary to complete the job, and the boys and coaches are working hard.

On the ailing list at present and out of the game are Brock and Guard Freddy Gray, injured against Odessa, with knee injuries. Fullback Malcolm Young is nursing a slightly sprained ankle but will be ready to go Friday night.

Linemen went through a trying blocking session in early practice while the backfield ran through plays and held pass practice. Following a long dummy scrimmage, the Westerners buckled down and went through a real head-knocking session.

Blocking Improved

Against the second bunch the regulars were able to break away for long runs on occasions, and improvement was noted in blocking by the varsity. Against Odessa gains through the line were held to a minimum, and stress has been put on opening holes in the defense all week in practice.

Co-captaining the team this week will be the halfbacks, Wayne Stroud and Charlie Williams.

Midland has been going through rough workouts this week in preparation for the tilt, which will be played at Memorial stadium. The Bulldog squad is very inexperienced, with no lettermen returning to action this year.

Festivities Planned During 3-B Game Between Hale Center, Anton

ANTON, Nov. 16 (Special)—Anton's Bulldogs are set to close out their 1949 football campaign with a four-barrel feature here Friday night.

Highlight of the program will be the District 3-B Anton-Hale Center football game. In addition, other festivities are scheduled for a pre-game ceremony that will begin at 7 p. m. These include: (1) A "Dads' Night" observance, at which fathers of Anton gridders will be honored; (2) A Homecoming program; and (3) crowning of the 1949 "Football Sweetheart," whose identity will not be disclosed in advance.

Coach A. D. Shores' Anton eleven will be trying to finish the season with a 50-50 record. To date, the Bulldogs have won four games while dropping five. A win over Hale Center, 1948 district titlist, would pull Anton up to the .500 level.

TECH FFA SPONSORS EVENT

Henderson, Olivas Highlight 28-Round Boxing Card Tonight

BY CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

Bill Henderson, the classy lightweight from Levelland, goes after his 29th triumph in 31 pro starts tonight at Sled Allen's arena when he tangles with Tony Olivas, El Paso, in the 10-round main event of an FFA-sponsored boxing card.

Three other bouts complete the 28-round card, which starts at 8 o'clock. These are:

Gene James, Lubbock, vs. Eddie Lamarr, Oklahoma City, heavyweights, eight rounds.

Leonard Duncan, Hale Center, vs. Art Gray, El Paso, middleweights, six rounds.

Tommy Mannoai, El Paso, vs. Augustine Guiterrez, Pecos, lightweights, four rounds.

Ducats Selling Well

A substantial advance ticket sale was reported Wednesday by members of the Texas Tech FFA chapter which is sponsoring the event. More than $500 already was in the till when the ticket booth in the Hilton hotel closed Wednesday evening.

Tickets, priced at $3; $2.25 and $1.25, will be available all day today at the Hilton, and tonight at the arena box office. All profits from the venture will be used by the Tech FFA group to establish a scholarship fund, to which Henderson, James and Duncan also are donating their purses for the night.

Henderson Favored

Henderson is a solid favorite to repeat an earlier victory over Olivas. The Levelland clouter packs a stiffer wallop and is more durable, although the clever Olivas possibly is a bit faster. Henderson currently is ranked fifth among the state's lightweights, while Olivas is unlisted.

The James-Lamarr go may produce some of the night's best action. James, unbeaten in 13 trips to the post as a pro, upset the ex-state champion recently at Carlsbad, and Lamarr has clamored for a return match ever since. This is it, and repeat triumph would put James directly in line for a shot at Dolph Quijano's state heavyweight crown.

Guiterrez Unknown

The Duncan-Gray match also promises to be interesting. Gray, a collegian, is reputed to be a powerful puncher, and it's no secret that Duncan can be hit. To swing at him and miss is roughly akin to falling out of a boat and missing the water. However, the Hale Center middleweight is as rugged as they come, and just about as aggressive. All his fights here have been corkers, if you like the "pier six" variety of brawl.

Little is known here of Mannoai's ability, and nothing of Guiterrez. Mannoai made a creditable showing in his only earlier appearance here, while Guiterrez is listed as a former New Mexico Golden Gloves featherweight titlist.

Tech Fish Meet WTSC Freshmen

Texas Tech's unpredictable freshman football team will wind up its season Saturday with a second clash against the West Texas State 'fish' in Canyon.

The Picadors opened the fall with a 59-6 win over the Young Buffaloes and added a second win of 13-0 over Odessa Junior college before hitting the skids. Odessa copped a return engagement by 13-0 and the Hardin-Simmons freshmen won over Tech 20-13.

Coach Allie White thinks his charges will win at Canyon, but he had hoped for an undefeated season and isn't sure just what to expect.

The Picadors are somewhat chagrinned and upset over their past two losses and declare they will go full blast at Canyon. They are working harder this week than at any time this fall.

Coach White will rely on his same men, with use of the Platoon system of changing teams on offense and defense. Offensive backs will include Waldo Young of Monahans, W. H. Barker of Colorado City, Ronnie Miller of Albany, Carl Madison of Atmore, Alabama, and Chuck Reynolds of Atlanta, Georgia. Defensive backs will be Sandy Welton of Fairmont, West Virginia, Carol Drye of McAllen, Jerry Killian of Holliday and Jim Turner of Olney.

Offensive Drill Occupies Tech Squad; Aerial Plays Polished

Lobo Pass Defense Said To Be Weak

An extensive offensive drill occupied Texas Tech's spirited football squad yesterday afternoon, with most of the emphasis on passing, as the Red Raiders prepared for their game with New Mexico at Albuquerque Saturday.

The Raiders, showing more spirit this week than they have at any other time this season, went through a drill that was mainly dummy scrimmage. At one or two points, Coach Dell Morgan allowed the defensive unit to rush the passers, who seemed to work better under pressure.

Backs Hit Receivers

Four quarterbacks took turns heaving aerials. Ernest Hawkins, Milton Rathbone, Bill Lyman and Albert Salem were hitting their receivers with accuracy, even though too many of the passes were being dropped.

The Raiders are expected to make extensive use of the aerial route when they play the Lobos Saturday. Scouting reports indicate that the New Mexico eleven pass defense is leakier than any other team Tech has faced this year.

Tech's starless backfield material is more of an aid than a handicap. So many backs have taken part in the scoring, ball carrying and pass receiving that opposing coaches find it hard to build a defense for the Raiders. For instance, there have been 12 receivers of forward passes. Punt returns have been handled by seven men. Touchdowns have been made by 10 men. Kickoffs have been handled by 13 men.

Lobos Confident

But from New Mexico comes word that the Lobos have slight respect for the Raiders. The players feel that the victory over Colorado was all they needed and that Tech will be just another team. Before the Colorado tilt, Lobo supporters figured on losing to the Raiders. Now they feel certain that they can win.

Colorado fumbles and miscues in the second half of last week's game, according to New Mexico reports, can be attributed to the Lobo's terrific line play. At least 10 men from tackle to tackle on both the offensive and defensive lines turned in their best games of the year.

The New Mexico squad came out of the Colorado game in good condition physically. The question now is whether any team can reach as high a pitch two weeks in a row as the Lobos hit against Colorado. But it will be Homecoming on the Albuquerque campus and Lobo supporters feel that this is the year that they can chalk up their second victory in the series over the Raiders.

TREMAINE DECISIONS GETZ

Overhull, Flores Win Tag Team Match Over Kasaboski And Mask

Retribution finally came to The Gray Mask last night at Sled Allen's arena, when he and Alex Kasaboski dropped the tag team match to George Overhull and Salvador Flores before a near capacity crowd that cheered the decision.

The Mask didn't lose his facial coverage, but not because his opponents didn't try. They did everything they could to expose the West Coast wrestler, but to no avail. In the meantime, they also used enough grappling to send him down to defeat.

Tremaine Beats Getz

In the first event, Andy Tremaine extended Al Getz' losing streak by taking a cleancut decision in two out of three falls, even though the wrestling wasn't on the cleancut side.

Al lin all, the matches pleased all the fans last night. There was rowdy action all the way, with plenty of excitement and not one match was decided until it ended in unexpected fireworks.

In the final fall, Overhull ended the engagement after only five minutes of action with a full nelson on Kasaboski. The argument lasted long after the referee had awarded the fall to the winning team.

Getz, who hasn't been able to win for losing, fell victim to Tremaine in two straight falls, after he had won the opener. The big Dutchman, showing signs of returning to his former power, pinned Tremaine with a boomerang after 25 minutes of furious wrestling. Tremaine returned to toss Getz in three minutes with an inside stepover cat toehold and ended the match with a rocking chair split after 13 minutes.

Big Spring Joins 3-AA

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (U.P.)— A reshufling in the ranks of the state's schoolboy football districts for 1950, affecting eight schools, was announced today by the Texas Interscholastic League.

The move will drop three schools from the AA bracket to A, transfer three schools to other AA districts, and expand two AA districts with the addition of new high schools at Corpus Christi and El Paso.

Dr. Rhea Williams, Interscholastic League athletic director, said plans would affect these schools in 1950 play:

Brownfield will drop from District 3-AA and be placed tentatively in 4-A.

Cisco, now in District 6-AA, will go into District 8-A under present plans.

Jacksonville will dop from 10-AA into District 16-A.

Big Spring To 3-AA

Three AA schools will change districts, with Graham moving from 2-AA tentatively in 6-AA, Big Spring from 5-AA to 3-AA, and Cleburne being swapped from 13-AA into 6-AA.

In 14-AA Williams said, Corpus Christi will expand from one to two high schools, Miller High school and Ray High school. And at El Paso, District A-AA will have one more high school with the completion of Thomas Jefferson high school.

Williams said that superintendents at Brownfield, Cisco and Jacksonville requested the changes from AA to A football.

Requests also were made to the TIL by Graham High school, which has les sthan 500 students, and Big Spring.

Expansion Slated

Cleburne, Williams said, was moved into District 6-AA because it was geographically convenient and to make way for the possible expansion "in the enxt few years" of Central Texas schools in District 13-AA.

Williams said that the schoolboy football district alignment will be completed "no later" than Dec. 1, to provide ample time in which to make up their 1950 football schedules.

Shortly afterward, he said, district plans also will be completed for A, B, and six-man football.

Oregon State's Stanley McGuire Gets Lineman Of The Week Honor

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — A lad from Oregon State in the Pacific Northwest is this week's Lineman Of The Week. He is Stanley McGuire, a 192-pound end who stands five feet, 11 inches.

McGuire won the honor today in the weekly Associated Press poll on the basis of his feats in sparking Oregon State to an upset 25-20 victory over Michigan State.

McGuire played about 55 minutes of the game, both on offense and defense, and was the key man in the upset.

"He stood out like a lighthouse in a storm," declared George Bertz, sports editor of the Portland, Ore., Journal.

"His individual feats were a 32-yard place kick for a field goal; he blocked a punt for an automatic safety; he caught one 36-yard forward pass that led to a touchdown and dumped Michigan State runners several times for losses. In addition, his blocking was a factor in two sweeps around his right end for Oregon State touchdowns."

Another Pacific Coast end, Bob Wilkinson of UCLA, was prominent in the voting. Wilkinson caught five passes for 136 yards and three touchdowns as UCLA dumped Washington, 47-26. A 199-pounder, he has so far caught 21 passes for 487 yards, breaking the old UCLA mark of 374 yards set by Burr Baldwin in 1946.

Leon Hart, Notre Dame end who won the Lineman Of The Week award last week, received high praise for his work against North Carolina.

Jim Owens, Oklahoma end, and Ben Proctor, Texas end, were two other wingmen who received special citations for their play against Missouri and Texas Christian, respectively.

Other Performers Named

Tackles who turned in impressive performances were Charles Bailey, Dartmouth, who constantly smeared Cornell plays, thus helping Immen Ely in Dartmouth's surprise 16-7 victory over the Big Red; Wade Walker, Oklahoma, who played a whale of a game against Missouri; and Ray Krouse, Maryland, who stopped the passing of Harry Agganis as Maryland whipped previously unbeaten Boston university.

Jack Lininger, Ohio State, and Bill Gosselin, Arizona State at Tempe, were the centers pointed out.

This week's nominations included:

Ends — Bob Moorman, Texas Christian; Terry Downs, Baylor.

Tackle: Harold Kilman, Texas Christian.

Guard — Danny Wolfe, Texas.

Centers — Joe Watson, Rice; Dick Hightower, Southern Methodist.

SPORTS Slants

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

The late Damon Runyon once quipped, "The race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong—but that's the way to bet!"

Personally, I've always agreed with this unique bit of philosophy. And, as a result, I've always had great respect for the opinions (on matters pertaining to odds, that is) of the guys who make their living by betting.

If a sports writer or "gridiron rating specialist" misses a prediction, he shrugs his shoulders and forgets it. When gambler muffs one, however, he gets kicked right where it hurts him most—in the pocketbook. As a result, the boys who make book generally are much more cautious with their forecasts than are fellows who watch 'em play for fun.

All of which serves to introduce today's subject: the state playoff odds.

Starting this week, a gambling concern (presumably with downstate headquarters) is posting a regular "odds board" for teams which still have a chance, however slim, in the Texas Class AA football race. The odds, naturally, will shift from week to week, as the scramble progresses.

Frankly, I doubt that this neat little scheme will get much "play" from even the most reckless bettors. The odds are so low that they border on the ridiculous, and any fellow who is chump enough to fall for them could spend his money to better advantage with some competent psychiatrist.

Before going into the specific odds quoted, I'd like to point out that the phrase "so many for 1" is used throughout the list. This is a cagey little coverup devised by the gambling gentry to make odds appear bigger than they actually are. For example, if odds of "2 for 1" are quoted and you make a $1 wager on which you win, you receive $2 in return. But $1 of this $2 is the money you put up when you made the bet, so in reality you win only $1. In other words, the bookie was not betting you 2 to 1, as it might at first appear, but only even money.

Bearing this in mind, let's move on to this week's quotations — which are, I believe, of interest in that they give a pretty fair comparison of the ways teams stack up for the playoff.

Here's the complete rundown, listing the odds the bookies will give you that any given team won't win the championship: Port Arthur, 2 for 1; Lubbock, 2½ for 1; Abilene, 3 for 1; Wichita Falls, 4 for 1; Highland Park, 5 for 1; Corsicana and Marshall, each 7 for 1; Pampa, 8 for 1; Austin, 10 for 1; Baytown, 15 for 1; Corpus Christi and Beaumont, each 20 for 1; Temple, 30 for 1; Paris, 40 for 1; Austin (El Paso), Lufkin and Waco, 50 for 1; San Angelo, Alice and Vernon, each 100 for 1; and Ysleta (El Paso) and Odessa, each 200 for 1.

As I stated earlier, I think all these odds are far too low. But, on the other hand, I believe they give a reasonably accurate picture of the playoff outlook.

Port Arthur, because of its position in the weaker south half bracket, probably deserves the favorite's role. Lubbock is the standout in the north bracket, but it's evident that the Westerners would have a much more difficult path to the finals than would Port Arthur. For example, four of the top five teams on the list are in the upper bracket.

All this, of course, actually has no bearing on the playoff. Games still must be won on the playing field. But this is about the best available informatin on how the teams stack up at this stage of the race.

Pee Wee Loop Cage Team Wins Tussle

Wednesday at Boys club was a light day on the schedule, and only two basketball games were played.

In the Pee Wee league the Wildcats dropped the Mustangs, 6-4, with Glenn Lawson scoring four points for the winners. James Wiley and Don Wells hit one bucket each for the losers.

Scoring in the Midget game between the Alley Rats and Five Angels was taken over by three persons in the main. The Alley Rats won, 29-20, with Wade Wolfe contributing 15 points and K. D. Watson getting the other 14. Don Dunagan made 12 tallies for the losers.

Today at the club four games are on tap. The Maulers play the Buffaloes in the Pee Wee loop; the Palominoes play the Galloping Ghosts in the Midget league; the Five Fools play the Sorry Lot in the Junior league; and the Seventh Street thugs open Senior league play against the Golden Gophers.

Bauer Sisters Will Play Exhibition At Country Club Today

Lubbock golfing fans will get a real treat today with the unscheduled exhibition of the two Bauer sisters of Los Angeles, Cal., at Lubbock Country club at 1 p.m.

The most sensational young amateur golfer in America today, 15-year-old Marlene is holder of the National Junior and Western Junior golf titles. She advanced to the semi-finals of the National Women's tourney and was runner-up at the Texas Open and the Hardscrabble at Ft. Smith, where she defeated Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

Alice, 22 years old, is the winner of the Tam O'Shanter All-American tourney. In practice rounds Wednesday at the club Alice shot a 73 over the course and Marlene carded 70.

In a nine-hole exhibition with Herb Schroeder and Roy Howard, Marlene and Alice held a 3-up advantage on the back nine despite a hole-in-one by Schroeder on the 17th green, the second in the club pro's lifetime.

Today's exhibition will be played against Jimmy Goldman, present club champion, and Raymond Marshall, former champion at the club. Starting time is one o'clock, and the exhibition is free to anyone.

GOVERNOR BAGS DEER

AUSTIN, Nov. 16. (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers got his first deer of the season in a hurry today. His office reported Shivers bagged a 110-pound, six-point deer at 7:30 a. m., in Comal County.

Lubbock Elevens Card Tilts Today

Two games are on tap today for Lubbock High football teams, with the Pioneers playing their last start in Petersburg and the Cowhands playing at Chapman field.

The once-beaten Cowhands take on Plainview at 4 o'clock, with the local eleven being heavily favored to take the contest.

In their only previous meeting this year the Cowhands dropped Plainview, 31-0, the first game of the season on a muddy field. Since then the Cowhands, coached by Freddy Brown and Pat Farris, have defeated Lamesa twice, Midland and Odessa once and lost to Odessa for five victories and one defeat.

Admission to the game will be 50 and 25 cents, and a good turnout is expected. Probable starters include Don Jones and Bobby Davis, ends; Bill Waters and Thomas Cadenhead, tackles; Sherrell Manning and Billy Breedlove, guards; Dale Clark, center; and Charles Brewer, Duane Rampy, and Johnny Tatum, backs.

The Pioneers will be trying to gain their fifth victory to go with three loses and a tie at 8 p.m. against Petersburg. Coaches Leon Batchelor and Dee Alexander have fielded a better team than the one last year which did well to win a contest.

Losses sustained were at the hands of Meadow, Littlefield and Levelland, and victories were over Wolfforth, Plainview, Ropesville and Littlefield. The tie was with Plainview when the two squads met in their first game.

Probable starters include Roy Burrows and Harry Estil, ends; Harlan Cook and George Berry, tackles; Melvin Deardorff and Charles Nix, guards; John Pittman, center; and Sammy Sayers, Billy Tucker, C. D. Walker and Charles Northington, backs.

NEW STRIKE ZONE DEFINED

Baseball Committee Meets To Draft New, Simplified Rules

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16. (AP).— You'll hardly recognize the baseball rule book next spring!

A 12-man committee composed of some of the game's best brains started today on the final draft of the simplified and recodified regulations for the national pastime.

George M. Trautman, prexy of the minors and chairman of the committee, declared:

"We'll be here until late Thursday night, after a short break for the major league draft meeting Thursday morning. We may be here until Christmas, for we're going to have these new rules ready by spring training season."

17 Pages Okayed

The committee started reading the new rules early today, and as dusk fell the group had put the official stamp on 17 pages of the 66-page rough draft complied after a year of debate.

You'd never guess the first rule in the new book.

On the first page, under the heading of "Official Rules Of The Game Of Baseball" and a sub-head of "Objectives Of The Game," the first item is:

"The object of each team is to win by scoring the more runs."

Robert L. Finch, publicity director of the minors and secretary of the committee, said it had always been understood that the team getting the larger run total was the winner, but that somehow the former writers of the rules had neglected to jot that fact down.

Strike Zone Defined

Another old baseball idea also goes out the window. For the last hundred years a ball delivered fairly by the pitcher and passing over the plate between a batter's knees and his shoulders was a strike.

The new strike zone is defined as the space over the plate between the batter's knees and his armpits, when the batter assumes his customary batting stance.

Houston, Trinity Tangle Saturday

HOUSTON, Nov. 16. (Spl.).— The University of Houston Cougars and Trinity university Tigers will tangle here at 2 p.m. Saturday in a Gulf Coast Conference football game.

Bob Hammitt, University of Houston band director, promises plenty of color for the last home game of the season for the Cougars. Delegates at a statewide conference of International Relations clubs will be guests of the local chapter at the agme, Miss Jean Kennedy, state president and University of Houston student, said.

On the basis of comparative scores the Cougars have an edge as wide as a mosquito's eyelash. The Leeman slipped past the West Texas state college Buffaloes by one point, while the Buffaloes humiliated the Tigers 55-20. Houston lost to North Texas state last week 23-28, while the Tigers lost to North Texas 21-33.

The Cougars have blood in their eyes from two previous defeats by the Tigers. Trinity slapped the Cougars 20-0 in 1947 and 15-7 last year.

The Tigers have won over the University of Corpus Christi 24-7, Oklahoma City university 18-0, Sul Ross State college 20-14 and Howard Payne college 21-14 this season.

Besides losing to West Texas and North Texas, Trinity dropped an early season contest to Southwest Texas state 6-20.

Ordinary plywood, with its plies placed cross-grain-wise to each other, can withstand many times the weight and stress of any piece of lumber of the same thickness.

Country Club Golf Winter Play Opens

Fall and winter golfing was off to a good start yesterday at Lubbock Country club, with the first of several events for the season being completed.

A sweepstakes was held, with prizes going to men and women in their individual groups. A total of 25 men participated in the men's sweepstakes. Tied for low net, actual score minus a handicap, were Bill Tatum, Tom Rooker and Eldon Rawlings with 65. All won sports shirts. Jimmy Goldman took low gross with a 68 to win seven golf balls.

In the 18-hole bracket of the women's play, Mrs. T. L. Sampson won low gross; Mrs. Glenn Watson, low net; Mrs. Tobe Foster, low putts; and Mrs. C. E. Dean, high gross.

Winner of low gross in the nine-hole flight was Mrs. Earl Hennersdorf, and Mrs. Kyle Rattiseau had high gross. Mrs. Jimmy Goldman won both the low nets and low putts.

Another sweepstakes will be held the first Wednesday in December.

Southland Woman Is Found Dead In Flames, Probe Is Underway

were on hand, along with D. L. Young, another Garza county deputy sheriff.

Southland, a busy little community with the cotton harvest in full swing, is located in Garza county about six miles southeast of Slaton. The town is on the east side of the Lubbock-Post highway and its houses and buildings are loosely scattered over a large area.

The Masonic building is located at the extreme north edge of the rambling community and the nearest buildings are about a half a block away.

Door Was Open

Sheriff Bass said one of the three veterans who answered Calvin's call for help told him that the back door of the house was not locked, but had been opened to allow the smoke to clear.

The stove found burning on the woman's body was an open heating stove made of thin metal, about 30 inches high, about 25 inches wide and about 16 inches from front to back.

It was attached to a gas jet in the kitchen by means of a long rubber hose. The rescue party of veterans—called too late—turned off the gas in the kitchen.

Investigating officers said that Mrs. Truelock suffered from diabetes and that she had been taken to the hospital frequently from over doses of insulin or lack of insulin.

Investigation To Continue

Sheriff Bass said the investigation will continue Thursday.

Adding to the bizarreness was the fact that a twin-brother of the dead woman, William Foster Fletcher, died in the flaming wreckage of an airplane that crashed eight miles southeast of Amarillo on May 14, 1947.

He was an independent aerial photographer with a studio in Amarillo, where he lived. The plane he was piloting was a Piper Cub.

The dead woman was considered in the community as an intelligent woman and her children upheld this in their school work in the Southland school.

Daughter Had Won Contest

Glenda, the daughter, won third place in a fire prevention contest sponsored in October by the Post and Southland volunteer fire departments. Her essay was among entries from Southland and Post high schools.

Justice of the Peace King said the two notes found were not dated. One was addressed to the woman's husband and the children, the other was addressed to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fletcher of Plainview.

One was written on a penny postal card and the other was written on a writing tablet.

Room Was Crowded

Sheriff Bass said that attempts to take fingerprints were not made because of the great number of persons who crowded into the small room immediately after the body was discovered.

He said the stove was found on top of the woman, with the face of the burning stove over the woman's face. One of the two thin protection bars across the front of the stove was bent downward, which allowed the stove to rest against her face. The legs of the stove were in the direction of the woman's feet. The dead woman was wearing houseshoes, and her feet in death extended about six inches under a double bed. Her body was about three feet from the south wall of the bedroom and parallel with it.

PICTURES MADE OF SCENE

In addition to the on-the-spot pictures of the Southland death scene by a Morning Avalanche photographer, one of which appears on Page one of this morning's edition, The Morning Avalanche also had photos made of the scene as it was shortly after the victim's body was found. However, the pictures, which showed the scene in horrible detail were considered too gruesome for publication.

A complete list of survivors had not been prepared by the Mason Funeral home late tonight, but it was learned that they included three brothers, identified as Frank Fletcher of Houston, Robert F. Fletcher of Kilgore and Fred Fletcher of Beaumont. Funeral arrangements were to be completed Thursday, with burial probably in Southland or Plainview.

Robert F. Fletcher, listed as a brother of the dead woman, was identified as a Lubbock resident in newspaper accounts of the plane-crash death of William Foster Fletcher in May, 1947. However, it was reported that he now lives in Kilgore.

Husband Was In Lubbock

Truelock, husband of the dead woman, stood in the room where his wife met death a few hours earlier and told newsmen from The Morning Avalanche that he left Southland around 12:20 p.m. to pick up some machine parts in Lubbock.

"I came home from the garage, which is just a few feet down the street, about 25 minutes before noon. I asked her how quick she could have lunch ready and she said about 10 minutes. It was about 15 minutes before it was ready. I washed hastily and ate and then I left," he said.

"I was in Barrett's Automotive (1314 Texas avenue) in Lubbock when I got an emergency telephone call telling me that an accident had happened and I was needed at home. When I got back to Southland they wouldn't let me in for a little while and then they called me in to see if I could identify the body," Truelock said.

Truelock, a huge man weighing well over 200 pounds, was still too stunned by the tragedy to shed tears. However, as he talked to newsmen, his eyes appeared to mist behind his steel frame glasses.

"I'm 41, I think. It's hard for me to remember. I'm trying to remember so many things and there has been so much going on. I was born in 1909 and I was a little bit younger than my wife. We had been married about eight or nine years, I don't remember exactly. We have been living in the same place all our married life because it was close to my garage."

He said his wife's maiden name was Flora May Fletcher.

Among the officials taking part in the investigation were District Attorney Stansell Clement of Lamesa. E. A. Gentry, policeman at nearby Slaton, also went to the scene. Official photographs were taken at the request of officers by P. G. Meading, secretary-manager of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, who used a camera of the type used by newspapers. Meading took two pictures of the woman's body in the death room before it was removed.

CAGE TOURNEY READIED

DALLAS, Nov. 16. (AP)—A high school invitation basketball tournament will be held here Dec. 26-29 with the field limited to 32 teams. P. C. Cobb, tournament director, said more than 20 teams already had signified their intentions of entering.

Ex-Convict Admits Taking Young Girl 'Just To Be Mean'

DETROIT, Nov. 16. (INS).— A 35-year-old Illinois ex-convict today confessed to Detroit police that he kidnaped a seven-year-old girl from the living-room of her home "just to be mean."

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Ralph Garber announced William Mabrey made the formal confession after a night and day of almost constant grilling.

Mabrey was arrested 48 minutes after blonde, blue-eyed Karen Kuechenmeister was snatched from her Alter road home last night.

Prosecutor Garber said Mabrey, a former inmate of the Illinois State penitentiary, admitted taking liberties with the little girl.

The Detroit hotel manager and father of a three-month-old baby told detectives he was "just driving around" when he saw Karen and her brother and sister through a window of their home.

"I went up on the porch when I saw the little girl," Mabrey was quoted as saying: "She came to the door and smiled at me and I grabbed her in my arms and took her to the car."

Illinois prison officials said Mabrey was sentenced on a burglary charge.

Mabrey told police Karen was crouched on the seat beside him when he tried to escape police cars. The kidnaper was forced to the curb after an 80-mile-an-hour chase by the scout cars but he escaped temporarily. He was arrested when a dragnet was thrown over the area.

Bevin To Delay Red China Recognition

LONDON, Nov. 16. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin told parliament today "I am more concerned in acting together with the commonwealth and other friendly governments rather than taking a hurried decision" on recognizing Communist China.

"I think a combined decision in which a large number of people cooperate in this business is much the best," Bevin said.

He said the Communist Peiping regime still is ignoring his request for day-to-day working relations. He agreed with a leftist Laborite member of parliament, Roland Chamberlain, that Chinese Nationalist attacks on British ships had swept away "whatever remaining shreds there may have been for retaining recognition of the Nationalist government," but added that Britain still has not decided on linking up diplomatically with the Communists.

"But there are a lot of issues involved — the United Nations, the Security Council, the question of views of the United Nations and our own commonwealth," Bevin said.

"In a great changeover of this character one has to act with caution, reasonable speed and an idea to producing the best results."

British communication with Communist China has thus far been on a one-way basis, Bevin said.

"I have already communicated with the Communist government, but I have not had a reply."

Horsemeat Probes Launched In Illinois

CHICAGO, Nov. 16. (U.P.)—Illinois residents wondered today just how much horsemeat they have eaten in the belief that it was beef.

Charles W. Wray, superintendent of the state food and dairy division, said an investigation of horsemeat sales is "growing like a snowball."

Wray said 3,000 pounds of horse meat was seized at Peoria, Ill., and another 3,000 to 4,000 pounds at Galesburg, Ill.

All of it, he said, has been traced to the Roberts Meat Co. of suburban Maywood, which operates in a building resembling a vacan't store with windows panted to obscure the view from outside.

One of its operators, Matt Klaersch, was arrested at his home here yesterday on a warrant issued by Knox county authorities at Galesburg, where some of the horsemeat turned up in hamburgers.

Investigators estimated that the weekly gross income from the horsemeat sales was $20,000.

war ally.

He said that if it had not been for Iran opening its gateways for transit of war materiel from the United States to the hard-pressed Russians the whole burden of the war would have fallen upon this country. He said of Iran:

Iran Is Praised

"That country was our ally in the late world War. Had not Iran opened its gates and given us the opportunity to assist the Russians at the proper time, there is not a doubt in the world but what the whole burden of World War II would have eventually been on the United States of America.

"We are very grateful for that assistance which your country furnished us at that time."

Then the President made a biblical quotation which led him on to his remark about Russia not keeping its pledges. He said:

"We have always been friendly to this cradle of history, this country about which Daniel said 'the laws of the Medes and Persians they are not altered.' By that Daniel meant not that the laws were unalterable, but that the Medes and the Persians believed in keeping their contracts.

Russia Is Scored

"We have been dealing with a great power that does not believe in keeping its contracts.

"Iran believes in keeping its contracts. The United States of America believes in keeping its contracts.

"When we make a treaty it is not a scrap of paper. It is intended to do just what it purports to do. It is an agreement which we expect to carry out. And that is the tradition and theory of your great country."

His imperial majesty, Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlavi, declared his confidence that America and Iran will continue to be partners "in the achievement of liberty and prosperity as the aim of all peace-loving peoples."

U. S. Friendship Pledged

President Truman, welcoming the royal visitor, said that U. S.-Iranian friendship, cemented "in the struggle against Fascism" has "grown even stronger in the years since the war" and will "become still closer in the years ahead."

Mr. Truman, flanked by his cabinet and platoons of top American dignitaries, strode forward to greet the 30-year-old Iranian ruler as the shah stepped from the President's airplane, the Independence, at Washington airport.

A 21-gun salute boomed and stirring music echoed. The American chief executive and the youthful monarch of strategically-located Iran clasped hands and then exchanged their assurances of esteem, personally and on behalf of their respective nations.

HST Greets Monarch

The Oriental monarch, who wore a dark suit and a dark topcoat, was bareheaded as he stepped nimbly from the Independence. Mr. Truman doffed his black homburg hat and smiled broadly.

An honor guard of 600 soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen stood at attention, then presented arms.

The skies were cloudless and the late-afternoon sun gave the impressive scene added brilliance.

His majesty, after shaking hands with Mr. Truman, strode briskly to exchange handshakes with other officials, including Secretary of State Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, former ambassador to Iran, and Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, dean of the diplomatic corps.

Shah Speaks In English

Arm-in-arm, the President and the shah mounted a flag-draped platform and read their speeches. The Iranian ruler spoke in English, with little trace of an accent.

Mr. Truman expressed pleasure at welcoming the shah on his first visit to the United States and his hope that through the monarch Americans may acquire "a better knowledge of Iran, its heritage of greatness and culture," and its "courage and far-sightedness." the President added:

"Our two countries were partners in the struggle against Fascism. The traditional friendship which bound us together during those troubled times has grown even stronger in the years since the war.

"Your majesty's visit represents the high point of this relationship, which will, I am sure, become still closer in the years ahead.

"You have come a long way to be with us, and we are very grateful. On behalf of the people of the United States, I bid you a most hearty welcome."

The slender, dark, erect young potentate told the President that he brought from the people and government of Iran "a message of warm regard and good will." His majesty continued:

"Iran was privileged to be one of your allies, and to contribute to the triumph of the cause of freedom, in the second world war.

"Allies in war, we shall likewise be privileged, I trust, to work with the United States in the maintenance of peace in the Middle East and in the achievement of liberty and prosperity as the aim of all peace-loving peoples."

After the ceremonies at the airport, the President escorted his royal guest to a flag-bedecked car in which they were driven through gaily-decorated streets to the District of Columbia building in downtown Washington for a welcome by city officials.

Secretary of State Acheson called the visit an event certain to "strengthen our existing very friendly relations with Iran."

The U. S. made sure that the shah would receive a good first impression of America. Washington's streets were ablaze with bunting and the stars and stripes were intertwined with the lion and sun banner of ancient Persia. Thousands massed along the route from the airport to the District of Columbia civic center.

Behind the pomp and fanfare of the visit lay important affairs of state. The shah is expected to seek strong American backing for his plan to bulwark Iran's long Russian border with a well-armed force of 250,000 men.

Congratulations to:

7, charged in a complaint filed by the district attorney's office in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of the peace, that York threatened him Sunday and took $6 from him. Officials said Yarbrough told them his assailant had a pair of metal knuckles.

Chief Deputy Sheriff George Eubank returned from Big Spring with Glen Thorton, 35, of 520 Forty-sixth Place. The complaint accuses the defendant of theft Oct. 31 of a car owned by Jack Godfrey of Lubbock.

30 "Wetbacks" Nabbed

Thirty "wetbacks" have been arrested by immigration bureau patrolmen and lodged in Lubbock county jail within the last week and will be deported to their native Mexico within a few days, it was announced.

James Copeland, 21-year-old Lubbock man, was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in county jail on his plea of guilty of a charge of liquor law violation.

The jury selected to hear the case was headed by Foreman B. P. Millsap. County Attorney Waggoner Carr and an assistant, Dudley Brummett handled the case for the state. Burton Burks and Clifford Brown were defense attorneys.

Mrs. Ralph Wyatt, of 3305 Twenty-second told police that unknown persons had thrown several eggs against her house Wednesday afternoon.

Two tires were taken from a garage at a residence at 2810 North Sixth, police were informed by the owner, E. S. Lamb. The tires were valued at $20.

Jose Cruz Amaya, about 25, a Mexican national, entered a plea of innocence—through an interpreter—to a charge of carrying a dagger. County Judge Walter Davies set bond of $300 for Amaya.

County officials of Lamesa and Brownfield asked Lubbock police Wednesday to broadcast descriptions of stolen automotive vehicles.

A gray 1941 Plymoth sedan, license CA 7695, was reported stolen at Lamesa.

The Brownfield sheriff's office said a 1941 GMC truck, license RC 8815, had been stolen at Meadow. It further was described as having a yellow cab and a green grain bed.

One Pistol Charge

A 29-year-old McAllen Latin American, Encarnacion Soliz, jr., was arrested by police after a .22 pistol had dropped out of his clothing twice in union bus terminal. He pleaded guilty of illegal possession of the weapon and was fined $100 and costs by County Judge Walter Davies.

City Buys Land

which border the east side of Aveune G.

Negotiations have been in progress with the railroad officials for several months to extend Nineteenth across the tracks. Members of the commission said the rail officials have been cooperative in trying to work out some practical arrangement. The problem is complicated by the prescence of the Fort Worth & Denver depot between Eighteenth street and the extension of Nineteenth.

City "Claimed" Property

The history of the attempts to open Nineteenth eastward from Texas avenue has been a hectic one. Some legal authorities have contended that the right-of-way actually has belonged to the city all along.

But this claim never was pressed. Individuals laid claim to various portions of the property, buildings were erected. Despite a cloud on the title of all the real estate in the right-of-way, most of it has changed hands several times, invariably at a profit.

City Manager Steve Matthews said approximately $92,000 remains from a bond issue voted in 1945 to apply on the cost of the property bought Wednesday afternoon. The remainder of the money needed to complete the deals must come from tax funds.

But he emphasized that no more money remains to secure rights-of-way for the completion of other streets in the city highway dispersal system.

An election of a proposal to issue $525,000 in bonds for this purpose has been set for Dec. 13. A proposed $550,000 issue for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system will be submitted at the same time.

Actions on the right-of-way purchases were unanimous. Present at the meeting were Mayor W. H. Rodgers and Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes and Clarence Whiteside. Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler was out of the city.

Now McCutcheon is pulling the blinds at his house. And he's still looking.

Cong. Mahon Speaks At Exchange Club

Representative George Mahon was guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Exchange club Wednesday noon in the Lubbock hotel.

The Texas Congressman, who is a member of the House appropriations committee, told the club that the committee's objective today is to spend a few billion dollars to maintain a strong defense force and discourage any outbreak of violence which might lead to World War Three.

He said most high ranking officials he knew in Washington were of the opinion that there is no immediate threat of war.

Work Explained

He explained the work of the appropriations committee during the session just ended, placing emphasis upon the 15 billion dollar armed services appropriation which caused heated controversy in subcommittee meetings and special sessions before being passed.

Intimate glimpses of "top brass" he has been associated with in Washington were given to the club. The late James Forrestall, said Mahon, was a good, conscientious worker whose job placed a terrible strain upon him. General "Ike" Eisenhower was mentioned as probably one of the greatest personalities aiding the unification program today.

Mahon was introduced by Warlick Carr. H. B. Hilburn, jr., president, presided. Lester Grimes gave a report on the club's current membership drive.

Hilburn announced that next week's meeting would be held Nov. 23 in joint session with the Lubbock Kiwanis club.

Airmen Feared Lost

Dill Air Base, Tampa, Fla., will join the hunt.

(In New York, Mackay radio said the Marine station at Hamilton had broadcast a message to all ships within 200 miles of Bermuda to keep a sharp lookout for wreckage or survivors. Hamilton field said the B-29 made a forced landing in the Atlantic.)

Less than two weeks ago a B-29 crashed into the sea a mile off the Bermuda coast and burst into flames. It was a weather reconnaissance plane based at Kindley field. Only two out of 13 crewmen survived.

Kindley field had been in continuous contact with today's Britain-bound B-29 until it received the message saying it was in trouble and was going to attempt a crash landing.

Ships Are Alerted

The Marine station here broadcast a direction to "all ships within 100 miles" of Bermuda to be on a sharp lookout for the B-29, No. 5289. The broadcast said the missing plane might transmit signals on 500 kilocycles.

At Omaha, Neb., headquarters of the U. S. Strategic Air command, it was said plane 5289 was from the second squadron of the 22nd Bombardment group and left March Field, Calif., for Britain by way of Bermuda Tuesday night.

The plane was one of a number of B-29's which have been arriving in Bermuda at intervals. Fifteen of them already were here. They were ordered to remain to take part in the search.

The Omaha headquarters said Brig. Gen. James E. Briggs, commanding general at McDill Air Force base at Tampa, Fla., also had dispatched planes from there and from Chatham Air Force base near Savanah, Ga., to aid in the search.

TEXAN IS REPORTED ABOARD MISSING B-29

MARCH AIR BASE, Calif., Nov. 16 (AP)—One Texan was reported by the March Air base as one of the 20 men missing aboard a B-29 bomber which is believed to have crash-landed in the Atlantic near Bermuda today.

He is: First Lt. Ernest W. Oliver, 27, co-pilot; wife, Catherine I. Oliver, 942 Graham St., Abilene, Tex.

None of the other missing men is reported as from Texas.

ing Germany a three-to-five division army.

6. The North Atlantic Defense council will hold its second meeting in Washington next Friday. Acheson will preside as chairman. Chief consideration will be given to organization of a "military production and supply board" and a defense and economic committee.

U. S. policy from the start has been "go-slow" on Communist China, but the Ward incident obviously riled Acheson. He pointed out that it would be impossible to even consider recognition of a group of people who are employing such tactics.

Ward and four of his staff were arrested Oct. 24 on charges of beating an ex-Chinese employe and have been held incommunicado ever since. All efforts of U.S. officials at Peiping and Shanghai to get satisfaction from the Reds have been of no avail.

Woman Treated After Explosion

Mrs. Fred Miller, about 25, of 505 College Ave., Wednesday morning received treatment at West Texas clinic and then was released after a midmorning explosion of gasoline she was using to clean clothing in the apartment she and her husband occupy at the College Ave. address.

She narrowly escaped more serious injuries. The blast blew portions of a window approximately 80 feet, a window screen about 75 feet, shifted position of a masonry partition and damaged doors and interior finish of the apartment.

Damage Estimated

T. J. Davis, jr., whose wife manages the courts, said damage probably would not exceed $500, which will be covered by insurance. He said two windows, a partition, a door and light fixtures would have to be replaced and that the apartment would require redecoration.

Mrs. Miller indicated she had attempted to turn out the pilot light of the kitchen range before commencing use of the gasoline. The court's water heating plant is centrally controlled and well removed from the Miller apartment.

Davis said he was uncertain how the gas was ignited, but attributed Mrs. Miller's failure to suffer more serious injuries to the semi-fireproof construction of the apartment and to Mrs. Miller's having been dressed in slacks and a jacket.

She was treated for face and arms burns, firemen and Davis said.

The apartment did not catch fire inasmuch as it is constructed of concrete and plaster and asphalt.

Firemen said they answered a 9:45 o'clock alarm.

Youth Confesses

ficers had pieced together this account of the rapid sequence of events:

Met Gove On Street

Seymour met Gove on a street in Texarkana and they started toward Hope, about 30 miles northeast, in Seymour's car.

The two stopped at a service station at Fulton, between Texarkana and Hope, and Gove held up Seymour.

Helton, who worked at the station and lives nearby, was awakened by a disturbance and went to investigate.

Motorist Is Shot

Seymour was shot, and the gunman ordered Helton to put the wounded man in Seymour's car. The three drove about five miles to near Sheppard, Ark.

There, Seymour was placed on a roadside embankment and Helton, at gunpoint, was directed to hand over his belt to be tied up.

Then a truck occupied by several negroes approached and Helton seized on the moment to hit his abductor and flee.

The gunman fired into the truck. Runnels was killed. A man answering the description of the gunman maneuvered a ride to Hope.

The youth held here tonight was arrested after Dick Turnage, Hope taxicab driver, spotted him on a Texarkana street and identified him as a man he had driven from Hope to Texarkana. The prisoner was buying new clothes when officers nabbed him.

Men's Club Entertained By Performances At Meet Here

Magic, music and terpsichorean art entertained members of the Men's club of St. Paul's Episcopal church last night in the social annex, Seaman hall.

Magic was supplied by E. Y. Gibbs, whose feats of legerdemain kept the large crowd of men entertained throughout his performance.

Music was supplied by Mrs. Joe Kelly, who sang four popular songs, accompanied by Mrs. John C. Oldham, and by Lawrence Ivey, who played two piano selections.

And the terpsichorean antics were given by Leete Jackson, jr., who performed one of the numbers he made popular in the recent Lions club Minstrels.

Following the dinner and prior to the entertainment, Ralph Dorsett, club president, introduced guests and conducted a brief business meeting. Members voted to suspend the December meeting and Dorsett appointed a nominating committee to present a slate of officers at the January session.

Invocation and benediction was given by Rev. Claude E. Canterbury, rector.

Final Jury Nearly Selected In Bridges Perjury Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16 (INS) — Selection of a jury for the federal perjury-conspiracy trial of Harry Bridges heared completion today with eight men and four women occupying seats in the jury box at the end of the day's proceedings.

Government prosecutors passed the jury as it stood but defense attorneys said they wanted to study the situation overnight and would probably wind up the business of jury selection some time tomorrow.

The Australian-born Bridges, international president of the CIO longshoremen's union, is accused of having testified falsely under oath to hide Communist party membership when he was naturalized in 1945. On trial with him are Henry Schmidt and J. R. Robertson, two union aides who were his sponsors at the naturalization hearing.

DANCER IS RESTING

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—Tap dancer Bill Robinson, in the hospital with a heart ailment, was "resting comfortably" tonight. A spokesman for the Columbia Presbyterian medical center said his condition is unchanged. The 71-year-old dancer had been reported seriously ill.

'MARCH OF DIMES' PLANS LAID

$27,000 Goal Set For County In 1950 Polio Fund Campaign

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

A goal of two million dollars has been set for Texas in the 1950 March of Dimes campaign, Jan. 16 to 31, with Lubbock county's share to be aproximately $27,000.

That was the announcement made Wednesday by Ed S. Stewart, state campaign chairman from Abilene, who was in Lubbock for an organizational meeting with representatives from five county March of Dimes chapters.

The meeting, held Wednesday afternoon in the Hilton hotel, and attended by seven delegates from nearby counties, was held to familiarize the local chapters with the canvassing methods which will be used in the coming campaign.

Official Tours Cities

Stewart said plans were being made to make the campaign one of the most complete ever held in the state, and he is making a tour of 19 principal Texas cities to work on ideas with local chapters.

He is being accompanied by Warren Kingsbury of New York, regional director for the National foundation, and Mrs. Helen Pearson of Abilene, state advisor on women's activities.

County campaign directors present were Tom Parrish of Plainview, J. Lee Bowen of Post. O. L. Byrd of Lubbock, P. K. Humes of Lamesa, and Jake Watson of Floydada. E. Burns Noble, treasurer of the Plainview chapter, and Wayne Finnell, co-campaign chairman of the Lubbock chapter also were present.

Efficiency Stressed

Emphasis was placed on the development of organizations efficient enough to give everyone an opportunity to contribute to the drive. The best methods of handling large contributions in advance of the actual drive dates also were discussed.

The $2 million goal is roughly $750,000 more than the 1949 campaign goal. Stewart said the increase was necessary because of the increased number of cases in the state this year.

While Texas had only 1870 cases in 1948, they have had over 2100 up to the present in 1949. Because of epidemics which local chapters have been unable to handle, the National foundation has been pouring money into local areas, and the national reserve built up over a period of years has been almost completely wiped out.

Besides aiding with money, the National foundation also has supplied the state with 369 nurses and physical therapists, 57 iron lungs, 48 hot pack machines, and numerous other materials, he said.

NEWS BRIEFS

The Rev. J. E. Shewbert, jr., of Colorado City, and Mrs. W. A. Moore of Nashville, Tenn., have arrived in Lubbock to be at the bedside of their mother, Mrs. J. E. Shewbert, of 2223 Fifteenth, who is in Lubbock Memorial hospital. Mrs. Shewbert was operated on Saturday. Her condition Wednesday evening was described by relatives as "good".

The body of Martina Ortiz, 54, who died early Wednesday morning on a farm on which she was employed about 15 miles west of Lubbock, will be sent to Laredo for burial, Rix Funeral home said last night. Death was due to natural causes, the funeral home reported.

Rix Funeral home of Lubbock directed burial in Loraine Wednesday for Menivera Piedra, 6-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Epifanio Piedra, who died late Tuesday afternoon at Loraine. The family has been living at Ropesville and had gone to Loraine recently.

Russian Policy Hit

urged him to impress upon Stalin the fact that world opinion is massed against Russia.

The British minister of state charged Soviet leaders with using a "black bible" of "pre-fabricated lies" to spread hatred throughout the world and that the Soviet satellite bloc of five nations must voice what the "saboteurs of peace" dictate. He declared that the Soviet Union "has never regarded the UN as anything but a field of operation in the sabotage of peace."

Resolution Brushed Off

McNeil brushed off Vishinsky's resolution by declaring it would be judged by "the acts of his government and we are mournfully and miserably reminded that these acts have destroyed international confidence." He told Vishinsky the western world "will not be put off by Soviet words. We have no appetite for the Soviet peace. It is a peace that destroys and does not create."

In asking Vishinsky to inform Stalin about the true facts in the non-Soviet world, McNeil said that western defenses are justified because the people desperately fear Russia.

World Opinion Against Reds

"Let him (Vishinsky) go back and tell the politbureau that in the worst days of Hitlerism, there was never such a world coalition of opinion ranged against Germany as there is mustered against Russia today.

"Let him tell them why it is so. He knows why. It is because the Soviet continent is walled off in darkness. It is because a dictatorship seeks to impose its will, not only on its own people, but by direct action increasingly in Europe and in Asia and by indirect methods in every quarter of the world."

Vishinsky Makes Answer

Vishinsky replied it is possible to find a common ground for cooperation between East and West, but he did not tell how it could be done, the Associated Press reported.

Vishinsky said "it is possible to find a common ground for co-operation" despite the fact that the opposing sides represent the worlds of capitalism and Marxism.

(He said capitalist countries before have had the idea of world domination and have failed. Then he went back to hitting the western position and said nothing more about co-operation.

(Western delegates studied the Russian speech carefully.

(Vishinsky spoke after McNeil, U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin and French delegate Jean Chauvel each appealed to the Russians to co-operate with the rest of the world toward peace.

(Vishinsky said the Soviet government had enough force to defend itself. But he said this army had not thought of attacking the United States and ridiculed any idea that the Soviet Union would want to bomb the British isles.)

Approximately 300 persons attended a "Victory Dinner" Wednesday night in First Presbyterian church Fellowship hall.

The dinner was in celebration of the end of the specified period of active solicitation for the building fund campaign.

Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the church, presided at the dinner. Speakers were Robert W. Wright, Ray C. Mowery, Dr. R. C. Douglas, and J. O. Cade. They spoke on the various phases of the fund-raising campaign.

Instrumental music was presented by a trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stenis and Mrs. J. H. Penn. A quartet composed of Mrs. Jack Spangler, Miss Velta Hilton, J. H. Penn, and Jack Hall sang.

Jack Hall sang two solos. Group singing was under the direction of Tom Cleveland.

Police Chief William A. Worton said he was considering the possibility of legally proceeding against Mrs. Haufman on the ground she was harboring a fugitive.

Mrs. Lillian Glucoft, Linda Joyce's mother, told reporters: "I hope the murderer is caught, so he will have to suffer too, but some of the blame goes to those who permit monsters to walk the streets like ordinary people."

Coal Dispute

ing board plan is use of the Taft-Hartley law.

That law, opposed by both the President and Lewis, also calls for a fact finding board, but one without power to make recommendations. An injunction to stop a new strike December 1 could be sought under Taft-Hartley provisions.

The truce Lewis ordered last week to end a 52-day strike is to expire at the end of this month.

Lewis wants more wages and shorter hours for the miners, and more money for their welfare fund. The fund has been financed by a 20 cent tonnage royalty on coal production.

For their part, the operators want to renew the old contract with tightened controls over welfare fund expenditures and some insurance against frequent strikes.

Demos Continue To Hold Strong Lead Over GOP In Latest Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12 — The Democratic sweep in the New York Senate race, the outcome of which was indicated by the American Institute of Public Opinion in a pre-election survey, has started widespread speculation as to the probable strength of the Democratic party in the 1950 Congressional races.

Some observers have even projected the outcome into the 1951 Presidential race, since President Truman participated directly in the New York election by speaking on behalf of Senator-elect Herbert H. Lehman.

How strong is the Democratic party nationally?

The New York election took place in the midst of a strong Democratic tide nationally. The cause of candidate John Foster Dulles had to buck this tide. Conversely, the general Democratic trend helped Mr. Lehman, in contrast to 1946 when he first ran for the Senate and was beaten by Senator Irving M. Ives. That was a Republican year when the trends were all away from the Democratic party, when Truman's stock was at an all-time low, and as a result the Republicans captured control of both the Senate and the House.

Now, three years later, Institute tests show that the Democratic party would hold a big edge if the Congressional elections were held at this time.

Here is the way the party stood nationally in a survey reported two weeks before the New York election.

"If you were voting for Congressman TODAY, would you be most likely to vote for the Republican, the Democratic or the candidate of some other party?"

The vote:

Democratic	45%
Republican	32
Other parties	3
Undecided	20

At the present time far more voters classify themselves as Democrats than as Republicans, especially the young voters. In reply to a survey question, "In politics as of today do you consider yourself a Republican, a Democrat or an Independent?", more than twice as many voters under the age of thirty called themselves Democrats as Republicans— an important source of "new blood" for the Democratic ranks.

President Truman's personal popularity was checked by the Institute in a national survey in mid-October and found to be high, with 51 per cent approving the way he is handling his job in the White House, 31 per cent disapproving and 18 per cent giving no opinion.

The Question Of Mandates

Democratic leaders have since Tuesday been hailing the New York election as a "mandate" from the voters to carry on the Truman administration's "Fair Deal" program.

Some have said that the election results will have a direct effect on Congress when it meets in January and is presented with the "unfinished business" in the President's list of desired legislation.

One of the services performed by public opinion polls has been to measure public sentiment on specific issues as distinguished from candidates. This enabled political observers to analyze and weigh the "mandate" claims made by winning parties and, in other words to define more clearly just what voters had in mind when they went to the polls on election day.

How would the total electorate of the nation vote today on the issues raised in the New York campaign, such as Federal aid to education, "socialized medicine," labor legislation and civil rights? The Institute is taking a series of surveys to find the answers.

Luxury Yacht Almost Complete Loss As Surf Pounds Wreckage

ACAPULCO, Mexico, Nov. 16. (U.P.)—The $3,000,000 luxury yacht Corsair, which ripped a hole in its bottom on a submerged rock here last Saturday, is almost a "complete loss," port authorities disclosed today.

The port captain's office said the sleek white cruise ship, once the property of J. P. Morgan, is being pounded further into the rock and sand of Prisoner's beach by a heavy surf. It is now heeled over on its starboard side, resting on the bottom of the beach.

"If nothing is done within the next few days to move the ship, they will never get it out of there," the port captain's office said.

The Corsair was beached early Saturday after it grounded on a shoal after it left the harbor. Capt. H. Nadden drove the 2,700-ton ship into shallow water to keep it from sinking and allow the 55 passengers and 77 crewmen to escape. No one was injured in the accident.

The port captain's office said neither the ship's owners nor the crew have started salvage work. A sea-going tug, expected here from San Pedro, Cal., still had not arrived with the men and equipment needed to make emergency repairs and refloat the ship.

Meanwhile, it was learned, results of the investigation of the Corsair's grounding, made by local authorities, will not be announced until they have been studied by the Mexican Navy ministry.

Engineers To Meet In Lubbock Monday

An organized meeting of a Lubbock chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical engineers will be held here Monday, Nov. 21, in the Hilton hotel beginning at 6:30 p. m.

Interest in organizing a chapter of the AIME here was shown when the Permian Basin section of the group met in Lubbock last month, Robert R. Shaffer of Levelland said.

The new organization would probably offer two membership classifications, member and affiliate member. The latter classification would allow oil men who would not be eligible for regular membership in the AIME to participate in activities of the local group.

Regular membership would be on the junior, associate and member levels.

Chief speaker for the Monday meeting will be R. M. Leibrock, reservoir engineer for Stanolind Oil and Gas company of Lubbock. He will speak on "Factors to be Considered in Determining the Feasibility of Gas Injection."

Between 50 and 100 area oil men are expected to attend the meetings.

Marine Recruiting Quota Cut; Requirements Boosted

The Marine recruiting quota was cut approximately 40 per cent Oct. 1 and requirements for enlistment have been increased and made more rigid, M-Sgt. W. N. Burnette, in charge of the Marine recruiting office in the federal building said Wednesday.

In order for a man to enlist in the corps, he must be between ages of 17 and 28, pass a thorough physical and mental examination and be accepted for Dallas headquarters, he said. Women must be between 20 and 30 years of age, unmarried, must be high school graduates and not have dependents.

"The Marine corps wants top men and women for recruits and would prefer younger men and women so that they may give more service to the corps," said Burnette. He said the corps is seeking men and women who wish to make a career of Marine work.

The Marine recruiting office in the federal building is open from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Saturdays.

Students Strike As Controversy Splits School Board, Principal

OTIS, Colo., Nov. 16 (INS)—A split between the school board and the principal over teaching methods flared into a strike by 58 high school students in the Eastern Colorado town of Otis today.

A board spokesman said principal William Palmer was fired last weekend because the school was four to five weeks behind the study schedule set up by the board.

A group of Otis residents claiming support of 300 of the town's 498 population demanded Palmer's reinstatement, but the board stood firm and has rejected the demand.

Republican Congress In 1950 Predicted By GOP Party Head

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16. (AP)—Chairman Guy F. Gabrielson, of the Republican National committee, said today that prospects for a Republican Congress next year are "very good."

"We were licked last time because we didn't do anything," he told a news conference. "This time (1950 campaign) we are going to get out that vote and we are going to win."

Gabrielson said the Republican party in his opinion had been remiss in its attitude toward young people, and he believes that "we must go right down to the teen agers and show them what the Republican party and being an American citizen means."

Gabrielson, who has been on a quick swing across the country, also told the reporters that "we have had too much of the 'me too' attitude; we must begin to take a strong party stand."

U. S. 'Retaliation' Against Red Seizure Of Ward Is Called Weak

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

The United States, in halting consideration of diplomatic recognition for the Chinese Communist government pending settlement of the Angus Ward detention affair, is hardly taking what one would call stiff retaliation.

U.S. recognition was still a matter of the indefinite future before Ward, U.S. consul general at Mukden, was jailed with the assertion that one of his Chinese servants was beaten in a wage dispute.

Britain Under Pressure

The bigger question is whether the United States will bring renewed pressure on Great Britain to defer the recognition which she has been expected to extend in the immediate future.

And the crucial question is what the United States will do if Ward is not released.

Recognition is of course a matter of considerable importance to the Peiping regime. It affects trade without which it would be seriously hampered in reorganizing China. It must come before Russia and Mao Tse-Tung can hope to attain membership in the United Nations which they are seeking.

Britain is going along now with the United States and what seems to be a majority of other members in refusing to throw the Nationalist representatives out of the United Nations. Britain qualifies her stand, however, with a reference to the possibility that recognition will change things.

The Communists have made the Ward case a criterion of their interest in the little man of China. It may take a lot of real pressure to make them back down.

In the old days the case of Ward and other Americans detained by the Communists in the Orient would have brought a demand to "call out the Marines." It is hard to conceive in these times of an expedition to liberate him.

Dr. Bidwell Urges Soil Saving Program

Lubbock Dentist Doubles As Farmer In 'Recreation' Time

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

"I think the greatest recreation in the world is to work—to keep occupied, keep busy and not ever quit," said Dr. H. H. Bidwell, who is a dentist in the mornings and a farmer in the afternoons.

Speaking from a trailer in which he halted his job of pushing cotton back to make a way for more cotton to be dumped by a mechanical harvester, Dr. Bidwell said farming is a hobby in the sense that it provides recreation for him.

Likes To Be In Open

"Every minute of spare time I have, I'm here instead of playing golf or something else. I like to be out in the open and watch things grow."

He supervises his 362-acre El Rancho Chico, or "little ranch," two and one-half miles west of Wolfforth, going there each afternoon after working in his dentist's office in Lubbock in the mornings.

A glance at the neat array of white farm buildings with red roofs and at the fields of cotton and wheat and maize shows farming to be more than a plaything for him.

He also finds it hard work and a means of putting into effect some of his ideas for high production and, at the same time, conservation of the soil.

His Farming Methods

When he speaks of high production, he speaks of production over a period of years and not to the yield in any one year at expense of the soil.

Some of the farming methods in which he firmly believes are: Deep plowing and "a lot of it"; winter plowing and winter watering; land leveling so that irrigation water will be distributed evenly, and crop rotation.

He is convinced crop rotation pays off in the long run in actual profits, although the high price of cotton may make it more profitable to plant cotton in any one year. High prices are the enemy of proper rotation and soil conservation, he believes.

Citing a 11-acre plot on his El Rancho Chico, he said cotton was planted on the plot in 1946, with a return of one-half bale per acre. Black-eyed peas were planted in 1947. Cotton was planted in 1948, with a return of approximately one and three-fourths bales per acre. While speaking, he was standing in the trailer on the same plot and said a yield of more than one and one-third bales per acre is indicated for this year.

"The soil should be conserved year in and year out, regardless of prices of commodities," he said. "It's the best thing in the world to leave some of that land in black-eyed peas or vetch or clover or some other nitrogen crop. The next year, it pays almost double." Experience on his own 11-acre plot showed almost four times as much production the year after planting black-eyed peas as the year before planting peas.

He said he believes that "one thing we're falling short on in this country is in taking everything out and putting nothing back and I do not believe this land will hold up under extensive irrigation without fertilizer," since under irrigation, more cotton is raised and more substance is taken from the soil than in dry land farming. The land can be fertilized either through rotation or through application of commercial fertilizer, he said.

Believes In Deep Plowing

Concerning his firm belief in deep plowing, he thinks 12 to 14 inches below the surface to be a good depth for plowing. "I think it should be plowed and prepared deep for any crop," he said. The ground should be plowed "into the hard pan to get a seed bed—a place for the root system," he believes. After deep plowing, more water is required, but the water goes below the surface and does not evaporate so quickly, he has found.

As for winter watering, nature puts snow on the ground and the farmer rejoices because he is getting good moisture so why shoudn't man also water in the winter, he asked.

He also believes in an abundant water supply through irrigation. He hired a man to level his land so that water would be distributed evenly.

Plans Stock Ranch

This year, 240 acres of the farm are in cotton, 52 in wheat and some in Martin maize. He has some poultry and pigs. Last year, he raised turkeys, about 50 ducks, 700 chickens and 65 pigs.

"I'm getting ready to develop this into a stock ranch. I'm getting ready to build my corrals and getting ready for permanent pasture." He plans to get his first cattle next year.

Dr. Bidwell has another farm, which contains 240 acres, near Becton. That farm is rented.

Wellington Farmer Raises Two Crops On Same Acreage

WELLINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — Grady Vanpelt, Wellington farmer, has raised two crops from one 35-acre field this year.

Vanpelt harvested a 30-bushel per-acre wheat crop this summer and immediately planted the stubble in combine maize. He has just finished combining that crop. It averaged 2,560 pounds of threshed maize per acre, about double the average yield for this area.

South Plains Leads 1950 Cotton Quotas

Formula Given For Estimates

The South Plains may expect to remain the nation's largest cotton producer, area considered, in 1950 despite government planting controls, it became apparent Wednesday.

According to a formula provided to The Morning Avalanche by D. F. Vance, state director of the Production and Marketing administration at College Station, the 21 South Plains counties may expect a total acreage allotment of 1,831,800 acres in 1950.

250,605 For Lubbock

The estimate followed closely Tuesday night's announcement that Lubbock county has been tentatively alloted 250,605 acres and Terry county's allotment has been set at 119,464 acres.

Vance declined to reveal the tentative county allotment for the area by long distance telephone this morning. He explained that PMA is attempting to get the allotments ready for announcements by the end of the week, that the allotments today are still in fluid stage and subject to last-minute changes.

He added that many county farm bureau committees, particularly in south and east Texas, are already exerting as much pressure as possible to have their county acreage allotments increased out of a reserve being held for "hardship" cases.

Formula Is Disclosed

Vance did, however, disclose the formula by which the allotments are being made:

In order to conform to the national allotment of 21,000,000 acres, reductions had to be made. The state PMA, using the average of 1947 and 1948 plantings, deducted 3 per cent of the state plantings for use as reserve for hardship cases.

Then 95 per cent of each coun-

Christmas Seals To Be Mailed

The Christmas seals which will be mailed to Lubbock county residents Saturday by Lubbock Tuberculosis association feature a modernistic interpretation of a dove in flight and traditional Christmas holly and were made from a drawing which won a $1,000 prize in a nation wide contest.

The Society of Illustrators, a national organization for artists, illustrators and art directors with headquarters in New York, sponsored the contest. Herbert Meyers, a recent graduate of Pratt institute in New York, won the prize and is using the prize money for additional training in commercial art and for art equipment.

Association Okays Design

The Society of Illustrators included the design for a Christmas seal as a subject in its competition, through arrangement with the National Tuberculosis association, which has 3,000 affiliates. The national association later voted to use the design.

The dove was used as a symbol of peace. Meyers, who was born in Germany, saw action in the Eighth Air force during World War II. He had an American father and German mother. He came to America nine years ago. Entering the Army immediately after graduation from high school, he served in England, Germany, France, Belgium, Austria and Italy.

The Lubbock County Tubersulosis association, which has a quota of $15,000 in the Christmas seal sale, will open its drive Monday and will mail seals Saturday so they will be delivered Monday.

Clifton Fadiman Speaker At Tech Program

Freedom In Nation's Thinking Is Urged

By JIMMIE HENLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

Clifton Fadiman, well-known master of ceremonies of "Information Please," named three definite dangers inherent in thoughtless mass communications, in his speech to some 375 students and townspeople gathered in Tech Recreational hall last night:

1. The danger of exploitation of only accepted attitudes,
2. The danger of the encouragement of passivity,
3. The danger of disguising reality.

There is a great danger in the modes of communication—radio, newspapers, magazines, books and the like—coming into the hands of fewer and fewer people, Fadiman said.

Government Control Opposed

While there is a belief in not having single group communications in the United States, we also have a passion for efficiency, and larger units tend to function more efficiently, he pointed out. It would be particularly dangerous to allow our communications to fall into the hands of the government, which would be more efficient, but less tolerant.

In explaining the growth toward a passive interest of Americans, Fadiman cited the changing interest of youth in alrge cities in baseball. When he was a boy in New York City, the boys played the game themselves; the next generation attended baseball games; and today boys in the large cities are watching baseball by television, with little active interest at all.

Reading Also Suffers

The same trend toward passivity is true in our reading as well, he said, definitely disagreeing with what he once heard a man say: "It is better to get the opinions form Life magazine, than to have none at all." To tak such an opinion is "abdicating our own freedom," the critic said.

Mavies and radio have done much to disguise reality by making life more romantic, noisier and more horrible, and by trying to make a part equal the whole.

Opening his talk by telling of what might be an average day for himself, Fadiman showed how we are subjected to all kinds of communication, through newspapers, billboards, radio, television, and other means.

Majority Of Public Affected

With about 56 per cent of the American public spending from five to ten per cent of their adult life reading newspapers and magazines, Fadiman said "I wonder if we are not reading too much?"

He went on to say that the head-

Increase In Bank's Capital Stock Okayed

Authorization for increase in the capital stock of the Citizens National bank from $500,000 to $1 million was received Wednesday from the comptroller of currency in Washington, Geo. E. Benson, president, announced late Wednesday.

Increase in the capital stock was accomplished by a stock dividend of $250,000 and the subscription and payment of an additional $250,000 in cash, Benson said.

With the completion of the capital increase, the Citizens National becomes one of the few banks in West Texas with a capital of $1 million. Other million-dollar capital banks are in El Paso, Wichita Falls and Amarillo.

Increase in capital gives the Citiezns National a total capital account in excess of $1,750,000, Benson pointed out.

"With increased capital, the bank will be able to finance customers with larger amounts of credits then they have been able to obtain heretofore in Lubbock, Benson said.

20-30 Club Holds Special Ladies Night Dinner Here

The 20-30 club held a special ladies night dinner at the Lubbock hotel last night, with 22 members, their wives and guests attending.

The group was entertained by several vocals by Kenneth Brown, accompanied on the piano by Miss Brown; a black-face pantomime, by Carolyn Daniels; and selections on an electric guitar, by Joe Kassotti.

Conrad Ward gave the invocation.

Lubbock Dairies On Honor Roll

According to infomation received Wednesday by Gerald E. Jarvis, director of the city-county department of public health, and G. G. Hunter and W. L. Gardner, city milk sanitatians, Lubbock dairies have retained their place on the honor roll of Texas cities as determined by the state and federal departments.

Hunter also reported, in connection with the announcement, that Lubbock now is served by 156 dairies, as compared with fewer than 100 two years ago and about 50 when the war broke out.

Honor roll cities, he explained, are those which maintain an average of 90 per cent or more according to a milk sanitation code designed by the state and federal departments.

Lubbock's new average for the 154 dairies handling pasteurized was 91.2 per cent, as compared with 91.3 when the last inspection was made in 1947. The rating for two handlers of raw milk was 93.6 per cent as compared with 97.1 two years ago.

The honor roll system was discontinued during the war. But when it was resumed in 1947, Hunter recalled, Lubbock was the first city in the United States to be restored to it.

Service Awards To Be Given Tonight

A total of 52 employes in this division of the Southwestern Public Service company will be presented with service awards at a dinner to be given in their honor at 7:30 p.m. today at the Hotel Lubbock.

Jack L. Cunningham of Amarillo, president of the company, will make the awards and will be the principal speaker.

Among those receiving awards will be Elbert Wilson of Slaton, line foreman for the organization, 29 years of service; Walter S. Anglin of Lubbock, right-of-way agent, 28 years of service; W. S. Jones of Lubbock, power plant manager, 27 years of service; and Homer S. Moss of Denver City, power plant foreman there, 27 years of service.

Dairy Group Meet Enters Second Day On Tech Campus

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche Staff Writer

Cleanliness and plant sterilization will get a thorough going over today as a short course in dairy manufactures moves into its second day on the Texas Technological college campus.

Cheddar and cottage cheese were in the limelight Wednesday, with a banquet and party in the Hilton hotel, sponsored by the Bell Ice Cream and Milk company of Lubbock, toppping the day at 7:30 p.m.

High points of today's program will include an address at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. G. M. Trout on "Good Housekeeping Practices" and a barbecue at the college pavilion at 7 p.m. for all those attending.

Over 90 individuals from a wide area had assembled at the college by 5 p.m. Wednesday for the short course, representing many of the leading dairy products companys in the United States. Registrants had come from as far away as New York City and Chicago and from Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Care of the dairy plant to prevent the spread of disease and germs will be the chief aim of Dr. Trout's address this morning. Other addresses and demonstrations will follow the same general theme, with representatives of several companies giving their ideas on the subject.

The meeting will break up into two sections at 9:30 a.m., with those interested in laboratory techniques assembling for discussions of quality tests for the dairy plant, control of coliform and thermoduric organisms and interpretations of bacterial counts in products.

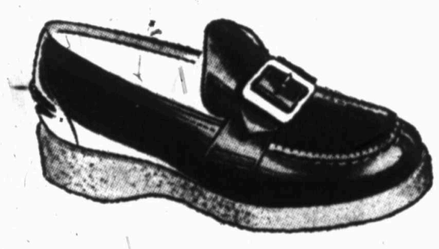

Dr. Trout's address at 10:30 will be preceded by a discus-

Major Auto Companies Already Making Plans For New Models; Production Underway On 1950 Cars

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Nov. 16. (AP)—It takes time to design a new automobile.

Some cars that will not appear until 1952 already are on the drafting boards and in the clay model stage.

Three 1950 models yet to come—those of General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—already have been completed. They await only the piling up of renewed steel inventories to get into volume output. The 1951 models for the most part are at that point where numerous changes still may be made before they go into production late next summer.

Drastic Changes Unlikely

Indications are that the changes in the 1950 and 1951 models will not be drastic. Progress on the 1951 units has reached the point where drastic changes now would be expensive.

The car industry's model planning has to be far-sighted. Provision has to be made in the styling and general designing for possible engineering advances already under development. Sometimes many months of planning on body design is scrapped because something new has popped up in the laboratories.

If it is something that can be safely delayed for another model year, no great loss is involved. If it is something a competitor may have been thinking about, too, it can't be delayed.

Couple Vacationing On Ranch Near Dallas

War Hero Audie Murphy And Actress Wife Back Together

DALLAS, Nov. 16. (AP)—War hero Audie Murphy and his movie actress wife, Wanta Hendrix, have decided to try to make a go of their marriage, they announced here today.

Widely publicized as estranged, the couple told a Dallas Times Herald representative today they had set themselves a three-month period to work out their differences.

Clay Bailey, the newspaper's amusements editor said he found the couple vacationing at the Ray Woods ranch near this city. Wanda joined her husband in Texas last week. Since then they have hunted, ridden horseback and visited old friends.

Murphy, of Greenville and Farmersville, Tex., is the most decorated service man of the second World War. His medals include the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross and two silver stars. Since the war he has been a movie actor.

The two were married last January.

Bailey said Audie and Wanda seemed "as happy as larks."

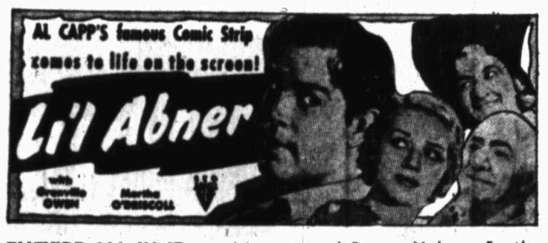

"When I knocked on the door at the ranchhouse, Wanda looked out and invited me in—then she fled like any other wife at mid-morning, exclaiming "I'm not decent."

Sessions Leave Mark

"Shortly afterward a sleepy-eyed Audie, dressed in rough clothes and wearing cowboy boots, came in. He walked a bit stifly, explaining that he had had a good many sessions of horseback riding and calf-roping since coming to Texas three weeks ago. He had spent most of this time with his sister, Mrs. Corinne Burns of Farmersville.

"Wanda confessed to making a 'mean' squirrel stew. I wasn't privileged to test the stew, but while I talked with Audie there was activity in the kitchen and pretty soon Wanda brought in strong black coffee for everybody. When we left, she was whipping up eggs and toast for a hungry husband."

Man Killed In Crash As Smog Traps Cars Seeking New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP)—A billowy curtain of smog rolled in from Lake Pontchartrain area early today trapping about 2,000 cars and bringing death to one man in a car-truck smashup.

The opaque grayness stopped traffic on Airline highway and other west approches to the city. Police said about 2,000 vehicles, tightly packed in four lanes, were trapped on the highway for more than an hour.

The fog-wrapped smoke, with a stifling quality that made it hard to breathe, caused traffic to be rerouted and cut the area's streetcar service to one vehicle.

It was the city's fourth thick fog in the last two weeks, caused by smoke from burning weeds mixing with fog.

Street Cars Collide

State police identified the dead man as Zeno Anderson, 54, of New Orleans. The driver of the car in which Anderson was riding was injured. Police said he was Lucian Verdu, also of New Orleans.

The automobile, police said, plowed into a semi-trailer truck that had halted on airline highway when the cloud blotted out all vision.

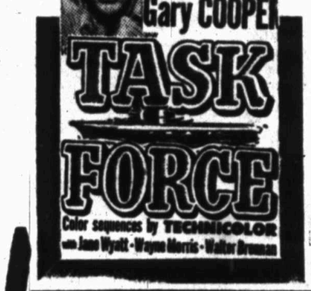

New Orleans police described the smog as "thick as a wall." It hung over the northwestern section of the city and trailed in thick-set patches along the Mississippi river.

Ferry boats chugged slowly back and forth blasting their fog horns every few seconds.

Texas Judge Accused Of Abuse Of Judicial Power In Complaint

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP).—The Justice department today accused Judge Ben H. Rice, jr., of the U. S. District court at San Antonio, of "abuse of judicial power and abegation of judicial duty" in handling a government anti-trust case.

The department made the complaint in a motion filed with the Supreme court. The motion was signed by Socilictor General Philip B. Perlman.

Perlman asked the high tribunal to overrule an order by Judge Rice in the case of 84 defendants accused to violating the Sherman Anti-trust act in their conduct of small loan offices.

Separate Trials Ordered

Judge Rice ordered the 84 defendants tried separately. He said that the indictment against them was ambiguous, verbose and replete with conclusions.

"This order of severance," Perlman's motion stated, "prevented any effective trial of the indictment and constitutes both an abuse of judicial power and abnegation of judicial duty . . ."

Perlman asked the Supreme Court to require Rice to explain why the serverance order should not be canceled.

The indictment named two associations, twenty-seven corporations, and fifty-five individuals. The defendants operate loan offices in twenty-three states. They were charged in the indictment with agreeing among themselves to fix minimum interest rates, to adhere to various conditions of doing business, and to cooperate with each other in eliminating competitors and opposing regulatory legislation.

Twenty-one of the 27 corporations were described in the indictment as part of the United Operating Company chain. Ten of the individual defendants are among the twelve co-owners of that chain. The United Operating chain was alleged to have interlocking relationships with the Triangle Securities chain, which operates about 100 small loan officers.

The Supreme Court will announce later its action on the government's request.

Texas Farmers Are Praised By Official

LAREDO, Nov. 16. (U.P.)—A ranking official of the Mexican Ministry department today praised Texas farmers for showing greater understanding of Mexican farm workers.

In Laredo today, Alfonso Guerra, the third ranking member of the Mexican ministry department, said the Texas farmers are showing more humane treatment to legalized "wetback" workers, are paying better wages, and offer improved working conditions.

Guerra said "we are in a new era of better understanding between Mexico and Texas as well as other border states." Guerra credited Gov. Allan Shivers and the Texas Good Neighbor commission with bringing about better relations between Mexico and Texas.

The Mexican official said he was not in the United States to investigate numerous bracero complaints.

French Snails Given To Future Husband

Princess Joins 'Reformed' Hollywood Actor In London

BY CHARLES A. SMITH
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 16. — Prefume and garlic collided today when little Romanian Princess Irene Ghica flew into the arms of Errol Flynn who said "I'm through with hell-raising — no one can bust up this romance."

The Princess, 19, braved a fog blanketing western Europe to fly from Paris to London to rejoin the actor, bearing an "engagement present" — a package of iced French snails heavily laced with garlic sauce.

The twice-wed, 40-year-old Flynn wrinkled his nose happily and said: "You might almost say that love of snails led us to love. We discovered a mututal adoration of snails. From then on it was a natural."

The pint-sized Princess looked up at the towering screen star who announced their engagement yesterday and apologized for not bringing him some caviar. Jokingly she said, "I almost got arrested bringing those snails through the British customs."

"Isn't she wonderful?" Flynn exclaimed to this reporter and a news cameraman in the Savoy hotel. "See what I mean. We were just made for each other. She is one of us."

Princess Irene, a Romanian exile with her widowed mother, was dressed simply in a gray suede zipper-fastened coat, a gray high-necked sweater, plaid skirt and comfortable shoes.

Flynn earlier had allied himself with movie actor Humphrey Bogart in a statement that they were the "last two of Hollywood's hell-raisers." He referred to his own clash with a New York policeman and the fact that Bogie was hauled into court after the latter, carrying a woolly panda doll, engaged in a shoving contest in a New York nightclub.

Today Flynn left the so-called "hell-raising field" to Bogie, saying "tell Bogart he can keep his panda. For me it's a book, a fire, a couple of dogs and comfortable slippers."

As an afterthought Flynn said, "of course I'll continue to strike an occasional blow for liberty whenever possible — like wearing red sox with a tuxedo. The explanation for all that hell-raising stuff in the past was simple. People just pick on me."

Flynn, in London for a royal command appearance tomorrow, ha sdecided to postpone his scheduled quick departure for India to do a film. He wants to "show the town" to Princess Irene, and shop for an emerald engagement ring "of her own choosing."

"But no more hell-raising," he said. "She has all the qualities I look for in a wife. She is a man's woman."

Flynn said he and Princess Irene will be married in a Greek orthodox church in Paris or London next spring.

"I would marry her tomorrow," he said, "if she would let me. But she's the boss from now on and wants it her way."

The gum-chewing Princess said emphatically, "and how!"

Court Adjudges Will Made By Soldier Before Battle Invalid

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (U.P.) — A crude will scribbled on the back of a receipt by an army officer a few days before he was killed in battle on Bataan was invalid, a Chicago judge ruled today.

Circuit Court Judge John Phystalski found that Maj. Charles Zurick's will, which bequeathed his entire estate of $35,000 to a sister, lacked two valid witnesses as required by Illinois law.

Two soldiers witnessed Zurick's will, but their signatures carried different dates from the makeshift document.

An attorney for Mrs. Belle Barnes, designated as beneficiary, argued unsuccessfully that in wartime a soldier can execute a will without fulfilling all legal requirements.

Two sisters and five brothers contested the will.

DOCTOR BEGAN PRACTICE IN 1908

Dr. Smith, Floydada Physician, Honored For 'Unselfish Service'

FLOYDADA, Nov. 16. (Special) —Dr. George V. Smith, pioneer Floyd county physician and surgeon, was honored by the Rotary club in a special program here the other day. Dr. Smith was cited for his "unselfish service and devotion to the people of Floydada and the surrounding area."

Dr. Smith came to Floydada in 1908. He followed by a few months his brother, Dr. Lon D. Smith, also a physician and surgeon. The two brothers were graduates of the Fort Worth Medical college, a branch of TCU. Dr. George did some post graduate work in Chicago for a few months between graduation from school and the time he arrived in Floydada.

Few People In Community

Floydada was a community of only a few people when the brothers started practice here. In fact, there were only 350 votes in the entire county. There were no roads and very few farms. The county was mostly open range. When people went to Plainview or Crosbyton they simply took off cross-country in a direct line.

Dr. George recalls that there were 13 automobiles in Floyd county when he arrived. Most travel was done in buggies and wagons.

"My first car was an old two-cylinder Maxwell," Dr. Smith recalled. "It huffed and puffed and made a lot of racket but it beat a horse and buggy. It was a fairly reliable old car."

Ranchers Hoisted Lantern

"For some reason or another we had lots of fog back in those early days," Dr. Smith said. "When we would get a call to visit some remote ranch house the owner would place a lantern high up on his windmill. This would serve as a beacon to guide us."

"It's funny how things change around," the doctor laughed. "Back when we didn't have any roads we went to visit the patients. Now that we can reach most places on hard surfaced highways the patients all come to see us."

Dr. Smith said there were plenty of times when they had to battle the mud or snow and ice. It often took hours to reach a patient.

Waited For Moon

"I recall how old Dr. R. C. Andrews used to tell how he started out with a mule team one night. It was snowing so hard you couldn't see 50 feet when Dr. Andrews harnessed up his mule team. He started out in the driving snow and before long he was back at his own barn again. He tried this three times and each times the mules circled back to the warm barn. Dr. Andrews went to bed to wait for the moon to come up and then he made the trip to the patient."

There weren't any hospitals in Floydada in 1908. Most of the doctors sent or took their patients needing hospitalization to Childress or Fort Worth. About 50 years ago one doctor waited two days for the Pease river to go down so he could ford across and go to Childress.

Took Over Hospital

In 1913 the Drs. Smith took over the Dr. Childress hospital. Dr. Childress died only a few months after he had completed his building. It was a wooden structure and had eight bedrooms. In 1923 the brothers built their own large hospital which is standing today on Main street just one block from the square. Since the death of Dr. Lon in 1941 the hospital has been run by Dr. A. E. Guthrie.

The Doctor brothers specialized in surgery and handled most of this type practice for Floyd, Briscoe, Motley, Dickens, and Crosby counties. However, neither of them ever turned down any kind of patient that needed treatment.

Dr. George is now operating his own clinic just back of the Floydada hospital. Every day a steady stream of patients come to see the man who has been practicing his healing art among them for 41 years. He expects to go right on with his practice for many more years.

Smith Is Praised

Just mention Dr. Smith's name in Floyd county and you will hear praise start to flow.

"Doc won't talk much about himself," said T. G. Hall, sr., who has known Dr. Smith for 30 years, "but I don't guess I'll ever know a better man in my life."

"Doc never seems to be concerned about the condition of a man's pocketbook," another old friend stated. "Dr. George is concerned only with the man's troubles."

Wherever you go around the county you will hear remarks in a similar vein. Dr. Smith has established himself firmly in the hearts of his neighbors. They know they can count on him as they have for nearly a half century.

Dr. George Smith was born at Houston, Mississippi, Dec. 13, 1877. He came to Allen in Collin county as a boy and got his schooling there and in Kaufman and Wise counties.

In June, 1911, Dr. Smith married Miss Beatrice Henry at Floydada. Miss Henry's father was Floyd county's first sheriff. Dr. Smith has one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Ginn, Floydada, and one niece, Mrs. Ralph Johnson, also of Floydada.

PIONEER FLOYDADA PHYSICIAN HONORED—Dr. George V. Smith, who has been a practicing physician in Floyd county 41 years, was honored the past week for "unselfish service and devotion to the people of Floydada and surrounding area." He is pictured in the bottom photo. At top is his clinic, which is located just back of the Floydada hospital. (Staff Photos.)

Ruling Delayed In Suit Against Paper

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16. (AP)—With court argument ended, a ruling still was several weeks away today in the government's suit charging Lorain Journal with monopolistic practice in the sale of advertising space.

Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed heard three groups of counsel argue yesterday on the case and its involvement of freedom of the press. Then he gave lawyers until Friday to submit additional briefs before he begins study and research expected to last two or three weeks.

The government has asked both a temporary injunction against the newspaper and four of its officers —Publisher Samuel A. Horvitz, President Isadore Horvitz, Business Manager D. P. Self and Editor Frank Maloy.

The defendants, it charges, have refused to publish advertising of merchants who advertise in the weekly Lorain Sunday News or over radio stations WEOL and WEOL-FM in nearby Elyria. The government filed the complaint embodying these charges here Sept. 22.

Yesterday's hearing was on the plea for a temporary writ which would require the Lorain newspaper to accept advertising from business houses which also advertise over WEOL or in the Sunday News, published by Morton Frank of Canton, O.

Parker Fulton of Cleveland, representing the neswpaper, maintained the government failed to prove need for injunctive relief by showing someone had suffered irreparable damage. He asserted a newspaper might be punished for what it printed, but there was not legal precedent to restrain the newspaper before printing actually was done.

NO GAGS WANTED

Let Everybody Talk!

THE Texas State association of Fire Fighters is in an extremely vulnerable position when it criticises anyone for lobbying for anything. It is doubtful whether there is a busier group of lobbyists in Texas than the representatives of this organization. Yet its spokesmen have the gall to propose the denial of this same right to others.

Specifically, the executive board of the association "condemned" a few days ago the announced determination of the Texas League of Municipalities to urge the Legislature to repeal the policemen's and firemen's civil service and minimum wage laws enacted about three years ago.

The firemen's organization would forbid the league's opposition on the grounds that it uses "public money"—meaning the membership dues paid by most towns and cities in the State to the organization.

The membership of the league is composed of the governing officials and the department heads of various municipalities. For many years, the league has been about the only agency through which the efforts of all towns and cities in the State could be coordinated for their mutual benefit. It has been the convenient and economical means of communicating to the Legislature the ideas of the officials of towns and cities concerning laws which might be helpful or harmful.

Yet the firemen's association—which, actually, is their union—now demands that the league be silenced. This amounts to a demand that the officials of the towns and cities be gagged by depriving them of their principal contact with the Legislature and official Austin.

The present civil service and minimum wage laws primarily are the result of lobbying spearheaded by the firemen. And they make no secret of their determination to continue their lobbying for legislation which will solely benefit firemen and policemen. But they would deny the governing officials of the towns and cities which would pay the bills for those benefits the means of most effectively presenting their views.

Even if we disagreed with the league's views—and we often have disagreed with the organization—we still would defend its right to represent its membership in any legislative matters. This is a right no one would attempt to deny the firemen's union, but which it apparently would deny to others.

A Sound Proposal

THE South Plains typifies areas which have special reasons for interest in and support of the proposal by Thomas B. McCabe, a chairman of the Federal Reserve board, that this agency be authorized to make loans aggregating $500,000,000 to small businesses.

With very few exceptions, businesses of this area fall within the government's official classification of "small." An establishment does not become "large" in the official sense unless it employes more than 500 people. Yet provisions have been exceedingly inadequate by the government to make available to small enterprises the credit which the little fellow often needs more urgently than the business giants.

The availability of the suggested loans might simplify the expansions of many small businesses not in position to finance them now. Such financing might mean much in terms of security for the little businesses, which are the grass-roots personification of free enterprise.

Mr. McCabe's proposal demands study and, unless objections not immediately apparent should be raised, it should be approved.

"Politics can be fascinating," says a writer. Yes, to everyone except the tax payer.

So then if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man. Romans 7:3.

Just As A Matter Of Curiosity—

The Cameo

By VIRGINIA TEALE
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Martin Falter, after failing to sell a valuable cameo which he had obtained through undisclosed channels, has asked Martin Pfieffer, a friend, to sell it to a San Francisco dealer. When Martin refuses, Arnold threatens to expose a scandal in Martin's past. Previously Arnold had offered the cameo to Hagar Blair, a local collector, at a price Hagar could not afford, but Stephanie Smith, who works in Hagar's gift shop, apparently wants the cameo badly. After Martin leaves Arnold Pfieffer's place, Nell O'Neill, wife of a wealthy resident of the Dolorosa art colony, calls on Pfieffer, asking for Martin.)

IV

ARNOLD Pfieffer tossed an unopened pack of cigarets into Nell O'Neill's lap. She picked them up, giving him a mocking smile:

"Genuine Old World courtesy always rampant at the Pfieffer weaving studio," she remarked in her hoarse, unpleasing voice.

Arnold bowed elaborately.

"Did Martin say anything to you about going away? About taking a trip or anything like that?"

"Trip? Him, or me?" Arnold kept his eye on the cigaret he was fitting into his holder.

"Don't be funny, Arnold," she rasped. "Did he say anything about going away himself?"

Arnold lighted his cigaret. "Not that I remember."

She tapped her long nails on the arm of the chair. Arnold stared at her hand as he would at a beached jellyfish. It was long, with narrow palm and slender fingers oddly squared off at the ends.

Nell stood up abruptly. She surveyed him from her almost-six-foot height, her flat blue eyes meeting his contemptuously. She adjusted her leopard coat and tucked her hands into the wide sleeves:

"If you see Martin before I do, tell him I want to see him immediately. Immediately, got that?"

Arnold turned his back on her. He heard her go down the hall and slam the front door. He whirled and spat out a word that was not in his everyday vocabulary.

When his temper had simmered down, he went again to the cabinet and took out the cameo. Was the pin actually Martin's property? What if he had stolen it? And who was this prospective buyer in San Francisco? An honest man or a fence? Arnold bit his lips—he could ill afford to bring himself to the attention of the police!

The best thing to do right now was to take this wretched bauble up to Hagar Blair, the old scarecrow who ran the Three Wishes Gift Shop. She owned quite a famous cameo collection—there had even been an illustrated story about it in a recent Sunday supplement of a Los Angeles newspaper. She certainly would know whether such a cameo had been reported stolen.

He ripped off his smock and plunged into a flannel jacket. He dug around in a drawer, pulled out a sample square of tapestry, wrapped the silver box and thrust it into his pocket.

Locking his front door behind him, Arnold stood for a moment, then struck out toward Ocean Highway. As he neared the studio of the O'Neills, he saw Nell and her husband, Tom, emerge in the company of a short, dark man who wore a turtleneck sweater and baggy pants. They climbed into a car at the curb—Arnold noticed that it wasn't the O'Neill car. He slowed his steps so he wouldn't be called upon to exchange greetings with them.

AS Andrey Yakov's car pulled away from the curb in front of the O'Neill studio, Tom O'Neill wedged between the door and his wife, freed an arm and waved it out the window.

Nell watched. "He doesn't see you," she told Tom, "or at least, he's pretending he doesn't."

Tom gave her a look of ponderous disdain. "Why should he pretend he doesn't see me, his good old friend? Little old Arnold is a nice feller. Minds his own business. Wouldn't hurt a flea."

Andrey's lips curved upward beneath his narrow, black mustache. "This man Arnold? He is a fellow artist?"

"You bet he's an artist!" Tom nodded enthusiastically. "A wonderful little old weaver, he weaves tapestries fit for the Metropolitan, that's what he does!" Suddenly, he leaned forward. "Hey, wait! Pull up, Andreyvitch! That's the place!"

Yakov took his foot off the accelerator: "What place?"

"I told you about it," Tom said petulantly. "Bob's Place—best bartender in Dolorosa, makes the best Mocow mules in the whole country."

"Oh, Tom!" Nell snapped. "Pay no attention to him, Andrey. If we're going to Martin's studio before we see Hagar Blair's cameos, we haven't much time—she closes shop at 5:30."

TOM slouched down, muttering. A lock of his surprising snow-white hair fell over one eye.

"I see no reason," he said, making an obvious effort to control his enunciation, "to take our new and valued friend, Mr. Yakov, a fine artist like he is, up to Martin Falter's so-called studio. I can think of a thousand better ways of entertaining a stranger in our midst than to take him to see a lot of clap-trap junk that masquerades as art."

Andrey gave Nell a secret, understanding smile. "The studio of our artist friend," he asked cheerily, "which house?"

Leaning forward, Nell pointed to a small house with a redwood shingle exterior.

Yakov turned off the ignition and set the handbrake against

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

"MY little buttercup!"

"My darling little dream girl!"

"You beautiful, beautiful creature!"

"He kissed each one of my fingers and even my little feet".

"He sent me three boxes of flowers every day".

BRANDEIS

"He swore he would die if I didn't marry him".

You know, of course, about whom I am talking.

No, you are wrong.

I am not talking about Sigmund Engel, alias Sam Engel, alias Tom Moore, alias many other names, who has been convicted in Chicago for fleecing a widow of $8,700 after promising to marry her.

I am talking about the women who permitted themselves to be fleeced by this synthetic Don Juan, whose pictures show not the slightest bit of charm and, who, according to all the descriptions, is a shriveled-up runt of a man.

This is not the place to discuss the criminal phase of his activities.

The most amazing thing about this disgusting case is that so many seemingly intelligent women fell for his "line" and actually believed him to the tune of many thousands of dollars.

I saw pictures of some of the other "darling little dream girls" and "beautiful, beautiful creatures" whom this seventy-four-year-old Lothario is accused of having wooed and swindled.

Haven't these women any mirrors?

Don't their aches and pains and the wrinkles and graying hair signify anything to them?

Haven't they any sense at all?

WHY is it that so many people can't reconcile themselves to growing old?

What is wrong with growing old?

Aren't there pleasures in autumn? Isn't there enjoyment in winter?

Haven't they been young? Haven't they had their fling?

Why can't they make way for new generations and enjoy the years that are left to them in the beauty and dignity of mature mind and spirit?

If I were an aging woman I would not want to be a sapling (or a sap).

I would rather be the sturdy tree on which the young ones could lean and to which they could come for shelter and shade.

But, above all, I wouldn't want to kid myself into being a "little buttercup".

Funny Business

"Now suppose I tell you what's wrong with you!"

AFTER RECENT VOTE

Demos Are Confident

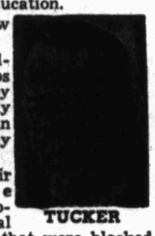

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON: President Truman's private reaction to last week's Democratic sweep was typical. He figures that he was the real victor rather than such individual candidates as Senator-elect Herbert H. Lehman of New York and other triumphant advocates of the Fair Deal.

"The Lehman-Dulles outcome," he said with gleeful but grim tightening of his lips, "ought to squelch all this silly nonsense about 'statism,' for it was Dulles who coined that work as it applies to my program.

"The voters have shown that they want the welfare state, for the people of New York make a good cross-section of the country. And, so help me, they will get it at the next session. I don't believe that even the Republicans, bankrupt and beaten, will dare to block my plans for more social security, health insurance and federal aid to education.

"We will move into a new and wonderful era now."

TUCKER

From the practical standpoint, White House politicos estimate that now they should pick at least forty more Fair Deal Zealots in the House in 1950, possibly six to ten in the Senate.

With that addition to their present strength, they are confident that they can obtain Congressional approval for the Truman proposals that were blocked by the special "turnip" session in 1948, by the 80th Congress and even by the Democrat-dominated 81st convocation.

RIGHTS: Mr. Truman will revive even more aggressively his demand for Civil Rights legislation, in view of a detailed study of the election results and rejection of poll tax repeal measures in Texas and Virginia. He will show less mercy to the Dixie wing on and off Capital Hill than he has in the past.

Precinct reports from New York's Harlem show that Governor Lehman, who endorsed every iota of the Truman program, swept that area, where so many beneficiaries of anti-discrimination legislation reside.

The disappointingly small Marcantonio vote in New York City indicate that the mass population place more trust in Mr. Truman to win gains for them than they do in the pro-Moscow leftists headed by Marcantonio, Henry Wallace and Paul Robeson.

AMBITION: In short, as of today, Harry S. Truman virtually occupies the spot in the hearts of the gregarious mass vote that was once held by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As he determined shortly after he came to realize that he actually was President of the United States, Mr. Truman hopes to lead them to an even fairer promised land than F. D. R. did. It is the Missourian's great personal ambition to outshine his predecessor in one way or another.

MEANING: Democratic successes in New York State, in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh were especially gratifying to Mr. Truman and Democratic National Chairman William Boyle jr. If the present trend persists, it means that these great, key, electoral states may go Democratic in the 1952 presidential election.

Should this happen, it will tend to support Mr. Boyle's prediction that he will "reorganize the party so that it can win a national election without a single electoral vote from the South."

Barring the unforeseen, these developments have only one meaning—that President Truman will be a candidate to succeed himself if only because no real rival appears on the scene now, or threatens to appear before 1952.

TORMENTORS: President Truman derived keen personal satisfaction from the fact that several of his private and public tormentors were swept off the public stage on November 8. An extremely human individual, he shares the average person's delight in the downfall of his foes.

The quartet consists, in the order of their low esteem at the White House, of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, "I am the Law" Frank Hague of New Jersey and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston.

The Dulles defeat, of course, was a blow to Mr. Dewey, and kills any ambition he may have entertained for a comeback. But even more pleasing to the White House, politicians report that Mr. Dewey's campaigning for Mr. Dulles hurt rather than helped the international statesman. Like F. D. R. Mr. Truman felt a deep dislike for his 1948 opponent.

HAGUE: The A. F. of L. and C. I. O. made great contributions to the Lehman and other Democratic triumphs in the industrial cities of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania. Even more so than in the past, they will have a preferred clutch on the White House latchkey, leaving Mr. Lewis on the outside looking in.

[redacted] election of Governor Alfred E. Driscoll over Hague's candidate forced the veteran Jersey boss to resign, whereas he had hoped to regain control by putting his man in the Governor's chair. Hague was anti-Truman at the Philadelphia convention, and could not carry his state for Truman in the election. The White House will probably recognize John Kenny as the new Jersey leader.

The silver-tongued Curley had a grudge against the Administration because it sent him to jail. Mr. Truman permitted Labor Secretary Tobin to announce that he would vote for Curley's opponent, the victorious John Hynes.

All in all, Mr. Truman and the Democrats are riding high today.

Capitalistic nation: One that the other nations call upon when they need financing.

A small town is the place where they oppose bingo except when it is used to raise money for the church.

PROGRESS OF NATION CITED

Federal Aid Programs Defended

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, — Obviously we don't have the "welfare state" yet and, moreover, are a long way from it.

You have seen the headlines over the weekend about 10,000,000 families in our country having less than $2,000 a year income and 8,000,000 families and individuals getting less than $1,000 yearly.

STOKES

If you read down in the news stories, furthermore, you find that it takes an annual income ranging from $3,004 in New Orleans to $3,458 in this city, the national capital, to provide an "adequate standard of living" for a family of four, according to the Bureau of Labor statistics.

Which leaves a yawning gap for lots of our folks.

A subcommittee of the congressional joint committee on the economic report headed by Senator John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), which dug out these statistics and many others on life in the U.S.A. today, wants now to find out what factors contribute to low incomes among so many of our people so we can begin to correct them.

It suggests some of the answers in its own findings. They show, for example, that of non-farm families headed by persons between 25 and 64 years of age in the low-income groups, 64 percent did not go beyond the eighth grade in school. Uneducated, untrained, they start out handicapped. It is a vicious circle, for children in families with very low income can't go to school for long, but have to get out and work.

A LARGE proportion of farm families in low-income groups are in run-down depleted areas, which suggests the wisdom of land conservation and industrial development programs to get at the basic difficulty which, themselves, require education to carry forward. A greater proportion of negroes are among the very-low-income class than any other group in our society, which emphasizes the need of attention to their welfare and ways to promote it which, of course, embrace the very fundamental one of civil rights, including the right to vote, as well as economic measures.

Older people form another sizable category in the low-income strata. This reflects the policy against employment of older people, even though they would like to work and are able to work, which demands attention.

The picture today is not too dark, comparatively. We have made considerable progress, for instance, since the early days of depression when a survey made for the late President Roosevelt showed that nearly half of the incomes in the country were less than $1,000 a year and a third were less than $750, which provoked his famous remark in his second inaugural address in 1937 that one-third of our nation was "ill-housed, ill-clad and ill-nourished."

What has brought about this improvement?

To hear some of the outcries today you would think that "the government" had done this by just handing out money. There was, of course, a period when the government did spend billions to feed people and keep them in the bare necessities during the depression. But that was only temporary.

Today the overwhelming majority of our people are employed in private enterprise.

Federal Aid Helped

One of the chief contributing factors to our improved situation today is the measures that the government took, with our approval through Congress representing us, that opened the way for people to get jobs and utilize themselves and their abilities in the free enterprise system — in short, to help themselves.

In this category in the early critical days of depression were loans to banks and industry to revive themselves; mortgage loans to individuals to save homes and farms; and, later on, loans to farm tenants to help them own their own farms and become independent; collective bargaining guarantees so that workers could join together to protect themselves; minimum wage standards to protect the unorganized and semi-skilled and unskilled; agricultural programs to conserve the land and improve it and to stabilize farm prices; reclamation, irrigation and public power projects to utilize our great resources and provide new opportunities as well as conservation programs to preserve what we have. And so on.

WE invested our money in ourselves. You may call this "the welfare state," or whatever, but it has proved a good investment, and we still have our democracy. The survey by Senator Sparkman's subcommittee shows that we still need to do more of it, in the same co-operative manner by which people are helped to help themselves in the best democratic tradition.

CHANGE REQUIRED BY GROWTH

Flexible Traffic System Needed Here, Engineer Tells Rotarians

"This city finds itself passing from a town into a city and into a metropolis and you're going to have to change the ways of doing things you've done for many years in the past," E. N. Jolliff, traffic engineer from Dallas, declared in a talk at the Rotary club luncheon at the Hilton hotel Wednesday noon.

"Streets were made to increase traffic, not to store automobiles," Jolliff declared. "You have twice as many automobiles on your streets today as you had three years ago.

Jolliff cited elimination of angle parking on various streets of Lubbock as a step in the right direction and pointed out that provision for adequate off-the-street parking, one-way streets and provision for pedestrian traffic as other necessary changes to be made in the years to come.

Traffic Pattern Changes

"No American city has yet solved its traffic problems," Jolliff said. "And your problems here are no different than in Dallas, Pittsburgh or New York, except there's not as many of them.

Citing the "Three E's,"—Engineering, Education and Enforcement—as necessary in traffic problem solutions, Jolliff declared that enforcement is just as rigorous and impartial as the people want it to be. There's no law that's going to be effectively enforced unless the people want it enforced."

The engineer said a study had been made of Lubbock's traffic during the past three years and a system provided for effecting a steady flow of traffic. The system had to be re-timed last September because of the rapid increase in the number of vehicles on Lubbock streets, he said.

"As your traffic pattern changes, you'll have to change the timing of your system from time to time," he said, citing the opening of Hemphill-Wells Co.'s new store as an occasion which will affect the traffic pattern in the store's vicinity for three or four blocks.

New Traffic Signal

Jolliff demonstrated a new five-light traffic signal, which he said would be installed within a few days at four intersections, Broadway and Ave. Q, Broadway and College Avenue, Nineteen and Avenue Q and Nineteenth and College.

The signal, with directional arrows, will provide for three lanes of traffic and will designate periods of right and left turns and straight ahead traffic.

Jolliff was introduced by City Manager Steve Matthews.

Harlan Hodges was introduced as a new club member by W. W. Rix.

Out-of-town guests at the luncheon included: Ed Stewart and Rufus Starnes, Abilene; L. B. Adams, Dallas; Earl Cromer and F. N. Aid, Amarillo; E. B. Ellis, Kansas City; and H. B. Smith, College Station.

Tre dog family includes various kinds of dogs, wolves, jackals and foxes.

Fadiman Is Speaker

line is one of the greatest inventions, in that it makes possible not having to read so much to keep up with the world.

After a 12 month experiment of reading only news summaries, Fadiman said that he thouhgt one can keep up without spending so much time pouring through the columns of newspapers.

Merely Passing Time

Further, much of the communication which we get makes no connection; "Nothing happens inside ourselves, we are merely passing time in our reading," Fadiman said. "As the best informed nation, we should be more concerned with affairs," he added, "but we tend to think that when we have learned the news we have done our duty, trying to substitute knowledge for action."

Fadiman will leave early today for Tyler where he will deliver another lecture, before returning home to New York for his weekly television show, "This Is Show Business."

At present his "Information Please" program is not on the air, but he hopes to go back on soon.

On Book of Month Board

Besides his radio work and lecturing, Fadiman is on the board which selects books for the Book of the Month club, having previously served some 10 years as editor for Simon and Schuster, book publishers, and another 10 years as book editor of The New Yorker magazine.

In a question period following his lecture, Fadiman answered many questions concerning his his work with the book club, discussing some of the recent books and telling the manner in which books are screened by the group before final approval.

He expressed enthusiasm about an unpublished book by John Hersey called "The Wall," which he termed the best novel by an American he has read in years. The story concerns a Polish Ghetto.

In an interview Wednesday, he expressed his belief that New York is still the literary center of the nation, having noticed a healthy literary movement in the South, with little trend toward the West and Southwest.

As for Lubbock, he said in the interview, "I think it probably will be the center of the country in another 50 years. Of course most of you Texans think it is now."

Fadiman was introduced by Dr. E. N. Jones and Dean James G. Allen presided over the question period at the close of the lecture.

Illustrated Lecture Slated At Tech Art Meeting Today

An illustrated lecture on picture composition will be given tonight at a meeting of the Texas Tech Art Institute in the Hilton hotel at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Elizabeth Skidmore Sasser, assistant professor of architecture at Tech will be the speaker at the dinner, the first meeting of the year for the art club.

South Plains Leads 1950 Cotton Allotments Under Formula Announced For New Plan

ty's 1947-1948 acreage was figured. From the result, 6 per cent additional was deducted.

Vance explained that out of the 3 per cent reserve acreage, allotments will be made to counties turning rapidly to cotton production, to counties with numerous new cotton farms, and to counties which during 1947 or 1948 suffered undue hardships by reason of drouth, floods, or other unusual and abnormal conditions.

Close Estimate Possible

For purposes of simplification, a close estimate of South Plains cotton acreage allotments may be obtained for each county by figuring 86 per cent of the 1947 and 1948 cotton acreage planted.

In the case of Lubbock county, this method results in the announced allotment "on the nose."

The acreage originally planted in the entire area, as estimated by K. N. Clapp after a community-by-community survey, was approximately 2,016,000 in 1947, 2,250,000 in 1948 and 3,016,000 this year.

The acreage actually harvested last year approximated 2,000,000 to 2,100,000 — probably closer to 2,000,000. Harvested this year will be about 2,700,000 acres.

Many reasons contribute to the difference between the acreage originally planted and the acreage harvested. Drouth, hail and excessive rain are among reasons why the acreage harvested is smaller than the acreage planted. Drouth caused the most losses in 1948. Too much moisture did the most damage this year.

Outlook For South Plains

In thumbnail analysis, the reports indicate these probabilities for the South Plains:

The region will still be the largest cotton producer, area considered, in the United States.

With normal weather, the ratio of this area's production to the total U. S. crop should be as large, and perhaps a little larger, than at present. The South Plains this year is producing about 10 per cent of the U. S. crop and 25 to 30 per cent of the Texas ginnings. (Twenty-five years ago, this area produced about one and one-half per cent of the U. S. crop; about eight per cent of the Texas ginnings.)

Per yield acre next year, under comparable weather conditions, can be expected to be larger than in the past for several reasons.

For one thing, the farmer, given a choice in the matter, will keep the best of his cotton land in cotton; he will farm it more intensively than ever before, and the year-to-year improvements in seed qualities can be expected to continue.

Probably, also, the ratio of irrigated land to dryland in cotton will be large, unless allotment regulations forbid. This year, the original planting consisted of 759,000 acres of irrigated land and 2,249,000 of unirrigated, according to Clapp's estimate. Last year, the figures were 462,000 irrigated and 1,787,000 unirrigated.

The irrigated acreages in 1947 was under 200,000.

The larger the irrigated acreage next year, the larger will be the average per-acre yield for the entire area.

Although Vance did not specifically say so, it appears that the South Plains and West Texas generally will fare better in obtaining portions of the 3 per cent "reserve" acreage than other parts of the state. He did point out that cotton acreage is gradually moving westward.

Vance explained that in certain parts of the Panhandle-South Plains and the Pecos-Reeves county area farmers have turned rapidly to cotton production on a large-scale basis. Deaf Smith county, likewise, has been transformed in the past two years from a cottonless county to a sizeable cotton producer.

Vance said he fully expected to make announcement of the tentative cotton acreage allotments by the end of the week.

That the cotton acreage allotments would soon be made was revealed Tuesday night when Looe Miller, Terry county PMA administrative officer, told 400 members of the Terry County Farm bureau and their families that Terry's allotment would be 119,464 acres. He spoke at an annual convention in Brownfield.

Following Miller's surprise announcement, it was learned in Lubbock late Tuesday night that the tentative Lubbock county allotment was 250,605. It is presumed that PMA officials of all 21 South Plains counties have received notification of their tentative allotments for final checking, but no county PMA officials have been authorized to announce the tentative figures.

At Brownfield, Miller said his office was already working on individual farmer allotments, "and we hope to have these in the mail by Dec. 2."

He pointed out that farmers will vote on marketing quotas about Dec. 15, and they must be advised of what acreage they would have if the plan is approved by two-thirds of qualified voters in cotton-producing areas. Should the election fail to favor marketing quotas, no support price program will be available.

Miller explained that the two-thirds approval must come in the total vote. A county voting against the proposal would still be under the program if all votes cast over the nation approve the measure by a two-thirds majority.

The 21,000,000 acre total authorized for planting in cotton in 1950 will fall far short of cotton acreage in previous years, which has run at least 26,000,000 acres for the nation.

Men Students Follow Women In Protesting College Food

DENTON, Nov. 16. (AP) — Men students followed the lead of co-eds last night in protesting against food served in North Texas State college dining halls.

Students of Chilton hall held a peaceful 30-minute "protest meeting" last night with the hall's directors to discuss food service in the dining room.

Monday night about 50 of the 500 girls who eat in the Bruce hall dining room failed to show up for their evening meal. They were all back for three meals yesterday, however.

One Chilton hall students said the boys were concerned about the quality of the food, not the quantity.

the incline of the hill.

Yakov climbed out on the other side, and waited for Nell and Tom. He looked up at the drawn blinds and fingered his mustache.

Nell led them up the splintery, gray steps, across the narrow porch to the door. Grasping the handle of a brass knocker, she struck it clatteringly against its base. She impatiently tried the knob and the door swung open.

"Martin?" she called. "Martin are you in there?" She turned to the two men with a disappointed gesture, "Well, he's not here, but he must be coming right back or he wouldn't have left the door open. Let's wait."

TOM shuffled in and Yakov followed. The Russian's eyes darted interestedly over the interior of Falter's cluttered studio; The paint spattered but vacant easel, the table nearby—its top piled with brushes, paint rags and tubes of color. A pullman-type table was unfolded from the wall and propped on its one leg—on it was a raffia - wrapped bottle of wine, a half loaf of French bread, a block of cheese on which a fly had settled, and an empty sardine can.

Tom came to a stop beside Andrey. "Props," he said. "He thinks this is the way artists are supposed to live. How long do we sit in this den of iniquity and wait for the iniquitous?"

Nell tilte dher chin and looked down at Tom through narrowed eyes. She opened her mouth to speak, then, glancing at Yakov, she closed it. She walked to the curtained corner cupboard, parted the fabric and drew out a box of book matches. She helped herself to two books, carelessly tossing one to Tom.

His face glowed dull red as he beetled down at the initials on the cover. On a background of gold, the initials N O'N were inscribed in clear satiny black. His uppper lip twisted back against his teeth.

"So, you even supply him with matches?"

Nell exhaled cigaret smoke slowly so that it partially obscured her face with a moving gray veil:

"You bore me today Tom O'Neill," she drawled.

"I bore you today," Tom mimicked. "That's funny. I can't understand that at all. How could you be bored, even by me, here in these familiar and beloved surroundings."

Okay Requested For Immediate Drilling

Permit Sought For Lynn County Well

H. E. Chiles, jr., of Midland and Edward C. Lawson of Tulsa, have filed an application with the Railroad commission of Texas, requesting a permit to start drilling at once on their No. 1 G. C. McPherson, as a 5,200-foot wildcat in Southwest Lynn county.

The project is three miles north and one mile west of New Moore and 520 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of section 14, block 0, H&OB survey.

The venture is slated to explore into the San Andres lime of the Permain. Rotary tools will be used.

WILDCAT COMPLETED FROM CANYON REEF LIME

S. B. Roberts, and associates No. 1 B. H. Lewis, Central-West Scurry county wildcat, has been officially completed for a daily initial production of 610.52 barrels of 42.1 gravity oil from the Canyon reef lime.

This new producer is one and one-half miles northeast of the closest oil well on the northeast side of the Diamond M field and it is two and one-quarter miles west of the Kelley field.

Location is 467 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 246, block 97, H&TC survery, and seven miles west of Snyder.

It topped the Canyon reef at 6,836 feet and is bottomed at 6,868 feet. The 5½-inch casing is cemented at 6,841 feet.

The open hole has been treated with 1,000 gallons and with 3,000 gallons of acid.

The potential test gauge was based on an actual flow of 152.63 barrels of oil in six hours through a one-half inch choke. Open flowing tubing pressure was 250 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was 800-1.

WILDCAT SLATED TO TEST SCURRY PENNSYLVANIAN

A wildcat to test into the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian is to be drilled in Central-South Scurry county, on the northeast side of the Sharon Ridge 1700 field.

The venture is to be at R-Y Oil company, and associates, No. 1 J. H. Taylor, a depleted producer from the lower Permian between 2,973 feet and the plugged back bottom of 3,176 feet.

This project was completed Feb. 1, 1948 for a 24-hour pumping production of 87.5 barrels. It drilled to 3,216 feet, and then plugged back to 3,176 feet. A string of 7-inch casing was cemented at 2,425 feet with 125 sacks of cement.

Location is 2,310 feet from south and east lines of section 133, block 97, H&TC survey. That makes it one-half mile northwest of Ira.

It is understood that Ray-Harris Oil company has made a deal with R-Y Oil company for an interest in the exploration. The casing which had been cemented in the shallow producer is to be pulled and a rotary is to be moved in to drill it on down to around 7,000 feet to explore into the Canyon reef which is producing in the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field a few miles to the northwest of the No. 1 Taylor.

GAINES COUNTY DISCOVERY BOTTOMED IN UNKNOWN LIME

Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1—a Parmer county fee, indicated discovery in Southeast Gaines county, is still bottomed at 12,206 feet in an unidentified lime, conditioning the drilling mud, in order to keep the project under control, before attempting to drill deeper.

This venture had an oil fill up of 14.48 barrels per hour during a drillstem test at 12,045-156 feet. The tool was open three hours and 53 minutes. A 4,500-foot water blanket was used.

Recovery was the water blanket, which was cut with oil, 560 feet of oil cut drilling mud and 4,070 feet of free oil which was 40.1 gravity. There was no water.

Operators then drilled 50 feet deeper to 12,206 feet and started in to take another drillstem test. When the tester had reached 5,500 feet from the surface the well started "kicking" and the tools were pulled out to allow conditioning the mud. The fluid was heavily cut with oil and gas and considerable free oil is on the pits.

When the mud is in satisfactory condition to hold the well operators plan to drill deeper before attempting another drillstem test.

Location is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county School Land survey. It is 15 miles southeast of Seminole.

Identity of the formation showing for the possible production has not been officially established.

TERRY PROSPECTOR MAKING HOLE IN LIME, CHERT

Tide Water Associated Oil company, and others, No. 1 Nystel, Southeast Terry county deep prospector, 14 miles south of Brownfield, and four miles east of the shallow Adair field, had reached 11,189 feet in Mississippian lime and chert, and was making more hole.

Tentative top of the Mississipian lime has been called by some geologists to be at 11,050 feet. Elevation is 3,171 feet. According to some correlations that makes it 876 feet high on the top of the Mississippian to Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 15 American Warehouse, deep dry hole in the Cedar Lake area of Northeast Gaines county, ten miles south and slightly west of No. 1 Nystel.

The project is contracted to at

Revolutionary War General On Canvas Adorns Home Here

A stern general wearing a uniform of the Revolutionary War and mounted on a white horse has moved from the pages of history onto canvas in "The General Rides Again," a painting of Gen. Andrew Pickens which hangs in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Douglas of 2913 Twenty-first.

Painted in rich colors, the general, his uniform, his horse, the rolling hillside on which he stands and a portion of a town which may be seen in the background are the results of considerable attention to authentic detail.

Much Research Required

Information necessary for the authentic detail was obtained through research, through help of a distant cousin of Mrs. Douglas, Dr. A. L. Pickens of Pickens county, South Carolina, plus an engraving of a Sully painting of the general and a history book drawing of the officer on a white horse on the night before the battle of Cowpens.

The officer rose to rank of Brigadier general and received a sword from Congress following the battle of Cowpens, which was considered one of the most brilliant victories of the Revolutionary War.

Mrs. Douglas was interested in obtaining a painting which would please her grandchildren and at the same time encourage their interest in history. Harold Gore of Lubbock painted the picture.

Present Complacency Noted

"Study of history," she said, "has a higher present value than for some time in the past, because we have become complacent about privileges of freedom and what the loss of them would mean to us.

"For so many generations," she added, "we have taken so much for granted and have so little appreciation of what we have here.

"I really think the first way to encourage appreciation of the

Douglas of 2913 Twenty-first find inspiration in the painting, "The General Rides Again," shown above them. Court Upholds School District

DALLAS, Nov. 16. (AP).— U. S. District Judge William H. Atwell today refused to issue a permanent order restraining the Addison Independent School district from spending money from a recently-voted $25,000 bond issue for school improvements.

Five negro parents petitioned Judge Atwell's court to stop any planned expenditures until facilities for white and negro schools were equalized.

Court Order Sought

The suit against the district, in northeast Dallas county, also asked for a court order forbidding the board to continue its policy of "requiring negroes to attend unsanitary, unsafe, unequal and inferior schools."

Vernon Fulton, assistant headmaster of the Texas Country Day school and chairman of the Addison district board, testified that blueprints had been drawn for construction of a new negro school in the heart of the negro district.

He stated it would cost more than $24,000 and when completed would give negro students facilities equal to those of white pupils in that area.

Testimony Called Promises

The plaintiff's counsel, in final summary, argued that Fulton's testimony and introduction of the blueprint indicated only that promises were being made.

However, Judge Atwell accepted Fulton's testimony as having been given in good faith and found no reason why the project should not be executed in the near future.

"School authorities are not Houdinis who can pull schools out of a hat and set them up," he commented.

Transportation Is Better

Judge Atwell also found that negro transportation facilities in the district were "better" than that afforded white students, and ruled that additional equipment on the white school's playground had been purchased by white civic groups.

He held that negro parents were privileged to pay for additional equipment on their children's campus if they so desired.

Likewise, Atwell held that teaching facilities and cleaning supplies were equal.

Referring to testimony given by the defendants, Atwell ordered the district to improve drinking water facilities at the negro school, patch a hole in its roof and repair three broken windows.

Ohio Juke Box Firm Named In Million Dollar Suit In Denver

DENVER, Nov. 16. (INS).— An Ohio "juke box" company was named in a million-dollar damage suit filed today in Denver federal court.

The suit, brought by the Wolf Sales company of Denver, accused the Rudolph Wurlitzer company of violating the Sherman anti-trust act by acting "in restraint of interstate commerce."

Wolf Roberts, president of the Denver firm, contended he suffered damages of $350,000 through a contract giving him the distributorship for Wurlitzer juke boxes and other equipment in eight Rocky Mountain states.

Seven specific charges were cited, including the allegation that the Wolf company was required by Wurlitzer to contribute "large sums of money" for purchase of a lodge at Cross Lake, Minn., "for the benefit and enjoyment of officers of the Wurlitzer company."

Cotton
NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — Cotton futures were steady today in slow trading. Hedge selling was more active, reflecting continued large sales of spot cotton at the ten primary markets. However, the selling was readily absorbed through mill buying. Spot firms were also buyers of the nearby March delivery against raw cotton needs later in the season. There was further liquidation in nearby December and switching to later months.

Futures closed 20 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower than the previous close.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—The stock market reversed a two-week downtrend today with gains of fractions to a point or more.

The advance was powered by a mid-morning burst of demand for automobile shares. Steels and rails shared the market's favor for a while but this attention was not sustained.

Today's rise cut down by almost half the losses of Monday and Tuesday when the market value of all stocks traded on the exchange dropped by around $1,000,000,000.

Sales totaled 1,310,000 shares compared with 1,250,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .4 of one point to 667.3. The industrial group showed the largest gain with the rails a close second. Utilities trailed with a minor rise.

Auto stocks have been much in the market limelight recently following several excellent earnings reports and, a few days ago, General Motors' record-breaking $4.25 year-end dividend.

Studebaker directors are expected to meet for dividend action soon, possibly Friday, and it is hoped that the board will deal generously with stockholders.

General Motors was the most actively traded stock with a rise of 3/8 to 65. Studebaker, also briskly traded, gained 1/2 at 26 1/8. Largest gain on the motor group was posted for Chrysler, up 1 1/4 at 55 1/8.

Steels did not hold up too well. U. S. Steel ended unchanged at 24 1/4 while modest gains appeared for Bethlehem at 28 1/8 and Republic Steel at 21 3/8.

In the rail section Union Pacific added 1 3/4 at 81 1/4 and Santa Fe 1 1/4 at 94 1/4.

Southern Pacific 45 also advanced.

Utility stocks made a substantial contribution to the day's business, mostly at slightly higher prices. Among them were American Power and Light common at 13 1/4 and 5 per cent preferred at 96 3/8, General Public Utilities 16, and United Corp. 4 1/8.

Higher were Warner Bros. Pictures, Du Pont, American Cyanamid, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Universal Laboratories, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, American Can, General Electric, and U. S. Gypsum.

Crucible Steel common dropped 1 3/8 to 14 1/4 and the preferred 5 1/8 to 91, in the wake of a skipped preferred dividend.

Also lower were Goodrich, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Bond Stores, Standard Oil (NJ), Gulf Oil, and Loew's.

Higher in the curb were Standard Power and Light, Solar Aircraft, Consolidated Mining, Colt's Mfg., and American book.

Lower were Mead Johnson and Rotary Electric steel. Sales of 390,000 shares compared with 290,000 Tuesday.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. Long-term U. S. governments inched up in over-the-counter dealings.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP) — Grains gave up a little ground on the board of trade today. Selling pressure quite heavy at times, but there were enough resting orders in the market to hold declines to fractions in most cases.

Rye suffered widest losses. December and May slumping to new seasonal lows. Large supplies of Canadian rye held in bond here discouraged holders of rye futures. Deferred corn futures fell around a cent on profit-taking.

Wheat closed 1/8 lower to 1/8 higher, December $2.09 3/8-1/2, corn was 1 cent lower to 1/4 higher, December $1.20 3/8-3/4, oats were 3/8-5/8 lower, December 74-74 1/8, rye was 2 1/4-3/4 lower, December $1.30 1/2, soybeans were 1 1/4-3 lower to 1/4 higher, November $2.21 1/4-1/2, and lard was unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, November 19.30.

Million Dollar Damage Suit Against Film Company Slated

DENVER, Nov. 1 (INS) — Gilda Gray's million dollar damage suit against Columbia pictures was scheduled for a further airing in Denver federal district court in two weeks.

Miss Gray, famed shimmy dancer of the 1920's, accused the company of making a motion picture based on her life, and using dances she invented without her permission.

The original complaint was amended and attorneys for the company ordered yesterday to file an answer to the suit by Dec. 1.

SIX EXPLORATIONS PLANNED IN SCURRY COUNTY FIELDS

Six explorations to test the Canyon lime reef have been planned for Scurry county, four in the North Snyder field of north central Scurry county and two in the Diamond-M field in the southwest part of the county.

Standard Oil company of Texas is to drill three of the North Snyder projects, all of which will drill to 7,000 feet.

The company's No. 3 T. C. Davis is to be located 467 feet from north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 339, block 97, H&TC survey.

The tool was open 45 minutes. There was a good blow for a part of the period. Recovery was 7,400 feet of salt water with no shows of oil or gas.

The venture was drilled to a total depth of 8,340 feet in the Ellenburger, but that horizon made only a slight show of oil and gas and considerable salt water. It was plugged back to its present depth. Operator is waiting on orders.

No. 1 Whatley was low on the Canyon reef to the nearest producers in the North Snyder field and has shown no indications of commercial production in any horizon it drilled through.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 548, block 97, H&TC survey.

Texans Found Dead In Room Of New York Hotel By Maid

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—A Texan was found dead in his hotel room today after a maid became suspicious because she found him "asleep" every day for five days.

Police said Roy E. Henry, 51, of San Antonio, apparently committed suicide with sleeping pills.

He left a sealed note to the hotel management, police said, directing that his personal effects be sent to his mother, Mrs. E. L. Scott of Oklahoma City.

REA Officials Hold Conference In City

Rural Electric Co-operative superintendents and personnel from an area within a radius of 100 miles of Lubbock gathered at the Hilton hotel Wednesday for a power apparatus conference conducted by officials of the General Electric company.

Eight REA co-operatives were represented in the all-day meeting, which opened at 9 a. m. and closed at 4 p. m., with a luncheon held at noon. The meeting was the last in a series of four conducted in Texas; other meeting having been held at San Antonio, Lufkin and Fort Worth.

The conference, attended by 47 persons, was conducted under sponsorship of the Amarillo office of General Electric. D. H. Hickey, manager; D. H. Buck, and J. H. Vendrick, field engineer, were here from Amarillo.

Speakers at the conference program included G. N. Pingree and E. H. Eldridge, transformer specialists; R. H. Mighell, meter and instrument specialist, all of Dallas, and R. F. Quinn, manager of power apparatus, of Schenectady, N. Y., C. S. Scott, advertising manager; and E. G. Mugford, advertising representative, both of Dallas, also were present along with local officials of the General Electric Supply Corp., and the Graybar Electric Co.

Purpose of the conference was to present post-war developments in the distribution of electric power.

Two Persons Are Injured In Auto Collisions In Area

A light automobile in which six Mexicans were riding was rolled over on its top Wednesday in a collision with another car a block south of the main street in Idalou, but an injury to the wrist of one of the riders was the only hurt suffered.

She was Mrs. Gregorio Garcia, 47, whose husband, 51, an itinerant cottonpicker, was driver of the car she occupied. Ollie Ossie Harrison, 46, of Lubbock route 1, driver of the other car, was charged with failure to grant right of way at an intersection as result of an investigation by the state highway patrol. His car struck that driven by Garcia in the left side, the investigation disclosed.

In Lubbock, Wayne W. Dew, 23, of 1901 Ave. K, suffered face and head lacerations when his car and a truck driven by Wesley Lee Beard, 53, of 1910 Eighth, were in collision Wednesday morning at Eighth and Ave. K. Beard was charged with failure to grant right of way, after an investigation by H. B. Hayes, a police radio car patrolman. Dew was released after treatment at the hospital.

Puffballs are an edible member of the mushroom family. Some reach a size of more than 10 pounds.

Revolutionary War

United States is through the story of the colonists, who made such a sacrifice that we might have this country."

Mrs. Douglas' grandchildren are Gay, 9; David, 5, and Donnie, 18 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Douglas of Littlefield, and John, 5, and Ann, 2, children of Dr. and Mrs. Ben B. Hutchinson of 2815 Twenty-third.

Painting Attracts Adults

The painting also has attracted considerable attention from adults who have seen it. The officer who dominated his men to lead them to victory against strong odds in the battle of Cowpens holds the attention of those who see him as he looks from canvas.

On the night before the battle of Cowpens, which was fought Jan. 17, 1781, the officer made the statement which has been recorded in history that, "I will fight with my command alone to show we do not give up the state." His advance guard was made up of about 350 or less men from Georgia and North Carolina.

Brigadier General Pickens was an ancester of Mrs. Douglas, who was reared in Georgia and came to Texas in childhood and who has visited the county in which the general lived. Her distant cousin, Dr. Pickens, still lives in the original Pickens homestead at Clinton, S. C., in Pickens county. He is author of a two-volume history of General Pickens' life.

In the detail of the general's saddle, information was lacking on the exact appearance of the saddle, but in order to keep the saddle authentic with that period, a picture of a saddle which was owned by George Washington was used as a pattern.
