Reynolds Aluminum, Parks and Wildlife Cooperate on Study

Reynolds Aluminum Co. and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will cooperate on an environmental study of Port Bay, a favorite duck hunting and fishing area near Rockport. Reynolds will make periodic water analysis at points suggested by the Parks and Wildlife Department while the Department will sample the fish, shrimp, and crabs to determine what exists there now. Biologists of the Department will also be sampling the bottom of the bay not only to determine what makes up the bottom, but to find out what plants grow there and in what density.

The purposes of this study are to determine exactly what conditions now exist in the bay so that any minute change can be detected in the environment after Reynolds starts using a nearby tract of land as a disposal site for the residue of bauxite ore after aluminum has been extracted from it. It the event any changes do occur, they can be detected and corrective measures taken before the habitat of fish and wildlife is damaged.

At a recent meeting of Reynolds executives and Hdqs. Region V, Parks and Wildlife officials, the complete plan for handling bauxite residue was explained and biologists agreed that if the material was handled in this way it was highly unlikely that any would ever enter Port Bay. Reynolds personnel agreed completely with the program for sampling the bay, now and in the future, and even presented plans for expanding the study.

The company hopes to complete extensive tests in the area to determine soil density factors and begin construction of dikes 56 feet wide and 13 feet above sea level in the near future. The size of the dikes will gradually be increased over the years until they are 170 feet wide and 32 feet above sea level. They hope to start using the area for disposal sometime in November of this year.

An interesting book, "Grandmother in the Kitchen", was donated by Mrs. Annie Evans, which contains fine recipes from early 1800s to late 1890s.

PALM HARBOR STREET NAMED IN HONOR OF WAR CASUALTY

Participating in the street dedication ceremony at Palm Harbor were (left to right) VFW Commander Bob Hewes, Mayor Delmar Hiller, County Commissioner Mrs. Wanda Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell, parents of Gary Barnum, County Commissioner W. B. Allen, Sheriff Joe Earl Hunt, County Judge John D. Wendell, VFW representatives Melvin Hull and J. J. McCabe (partly hidden) and Rev. Joseph Herschowitz.

Simple but impressive ceremonies marked the dedication of a new street in Palm Harbor to memory of a former resident who was killed in action in Vietnam recently.

The street was named Gary Barnum Drive in honor of Gary Lane Barnum, 19, son of Mrs. Betty Mitchell. Gary lived in Palm Harbor with his mother and step-father, William Mitchell, during the 1966-1967 school years when he attended Aransas County High School.

In charge of the ceremony was County Judge John D. Wendell. He paid tribute to Gary's patriotism and sacrifice, declaring that it was especially appropriate that a thoroughfare near where he lived be named for him.

Robert Hewes, commander of the Stewart-Wendell post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, said that Gary had set an example in patriotism which should be an inspiration to all.

The Rev. Josef Hershkowitz, Palm Harbor resident who himself experienced the horrors of war in a German concentration camp, offered prayers at the beginning and the end of the dedication ceremony.

Mrs. Mitchell cut a ribbon to symbolize the official opening of Gary Barnum Drive.

A bronze plaque appropriately inscribed will be placed at the corner of Barnum Drive and Port Avenue as a permanent memorial.

Commissioners, Judge Pay for Lights

Since it would be illegal for Aransas county to pay for lights at the radar site building unless they were for airport use, Commissioners W. B. Allen, Raymond Owens, Mrs. Wanda Sparks and Mrs. Ludene Wofford and County Judge John D. Wendell on Tuesday personally paid for lights on the building for a different purpose.

The lights are for the use of the Aransas County Youth Council during dances and other activities for young people. The county is permitting the Council to use the building, and the lights are for the convenience and safety of the young people.

At the Commissioners Court meeting, additional actions included:

—Judge Wendell announced that he is accepting contributions from local people to help restore the baseball park in Aransas Pass which was damaged by Hurricane Beulah. A Rockport team plays in Pony League contests there. The Rotary Club of Rockport already has contributed $50.

—The Court agreed to have airport house No. 1 repaired and renovated.

—Voted to have a fence put up between the jail and the library.

—Voted to purchase a dozen mattress pads and covers for the jail.

ers, writers and artists, as well as tourists.

"Nearby Aransas Wildlife Refuge has brought nation-wide fame to the "area," Mrs. Connally said.

"People throughout the country annually follow the flight of the whooping crane to Rockport from Canada. The traveler is deciding the big bird has found a most pleasant vacation spot.

"Rockport can expect a great many tourists to follow."

The state's First Lady, 21 guests and the press arrived in Rockport last Friday for lunch. The group was on the first day of tour of the Texas Tropical Trail.

Mrs. Connally officially dedicated the third of Governor Connally's 10 Texas Travel Trails.

Mrs. Connally and her party were greeted at the Big Tree in Goose Island State Park by representatives of the Woman's Club of Aransas County and the Rockport Chamber of Commerce.

Wearing a bright yellow sleeveless Dacron knit suit, with green shoes, bag and a ribbon in her hair, Mrs Connally impressed everyone with her beauty, her sparkling personality and her friendliness. She took numerous pictures and of course, was the subject of numerous photos made by amateurs as well as professionals.

The Chamber of Commerce sponsored a " help-yourself" dinner featuring fried chicken, cole slaw, potato salad, rolls, pie and iced tea.

Another highlight of the First Lady's visit here was the presentation by the Rockport Art Guilt of a painting by Jim Whitfill, president of the Guild.

LaBotana Wins

Albert Arismendez struckout 14 as he pitched LaBotana to a 10-6 victory over Rockport Sunday in a Gulf Bay League semipro baseball game here.

Johnny Davila carried the big bat for the winners by banging out four hits. Paul Flores stroked two doubles and a single to pace Rockport.

Rockport-Fulton Jr. High Band News

The Rockport-Fulton Junior High Band participated in the U.I.L. Band Concert and Sight-Reading contest held in Kingsville on Saturday, April 27, 1968, and achieved a First Division (superior) in concert playing and a Second Division (excellent) in Sight-Reading.

For their concert performance, the band prepared "Look Forward," a march by Olivadoti, "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," by Ployhar, and "Processional March from Die Meistersinger" by Wagner.

Only two other Class C Junior High Bands received a I in concert playing. They were Taft and Premont.

In Sight-Reading, the band played a number which it had never seen before, after having studied the music for the alloted five minutes. No Class C bands received a first division.

The Buc Band will present its contest selections to the public Friday night, May 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Gym. It will share the concert with the Elementary Band and the Pirate Band. The bands and directors cordially invite the public to attend.

VOTE for Hubert LETTS for U. S. CONGRESS

Democratic Candidate

Born in Inez, Victoria County, Texas, Aug. 18, 1913. He resigned from the Post Office Department, Feb. 5, 1968, to be a candidate for Congress. He has an outstandoing record of personal integrity as demonstrated by thirty years of dedicated postal service.

He is a Past President of the Portairs Business Men's Ass'n. and a Past President of the Six Points Kiwanis Club. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and an Associate member of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

ABOUT HIS OPPONENT

DID YOU KNOW THAT? ? ? ? ? ? ?

THE INCUMBENT helped his campaign manager and a business associate (who was also a supporter and campaign worker for the incumbent) to arrange an E.D.A. "depressed area" loan for $410,000 for a luxury motel on the bay in Corpus Christi. This 16 year construction loan was granted six months after the motel had opened for business and replaced a high interest rate commercial loan. The difference in the interest rates could amount to more than $120,000. The incumbent defended this "pork-barrel" project as being quite proper. Ref. Congressional Record of 3/6/68.

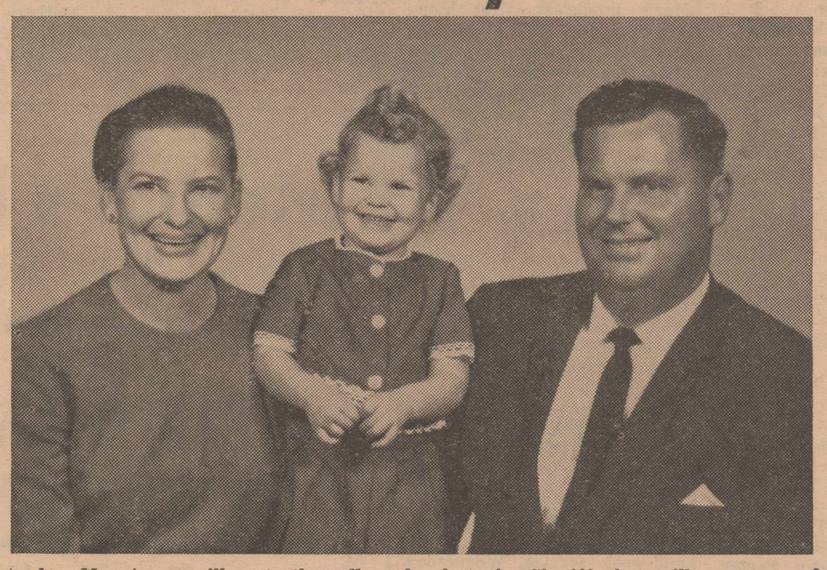

THE INCUMBENT accepted a gift from a special interest group. The incumbent flew to Hong Kong, Nov. 13 to 21, 1967 as a guest of Trans World Airlines.

THE INCUMBENT'S participation in political patronage cost the tax payers thousands of dollars each year.

Pd. Pol. Adv. Dr. T. M. Bailey, Cpn. Chm.

To The Citizens of Aransas County

On Saturday, May 4, you will go to the polls and select the Sheriff that will serve you for the next four years.

I am very grateful and humble that I was elected Sheriff of Aransas County in 1964 and I sincerely want and need a second term and hereby offer my qualifications for public review: I was born Jan. 1, 1936 in Corpus Christi and I am a lifelong resident and a property owner of Aransas County. I have almost 7 years law enforcement experience, all of which has been here in Aransas County dealing with our own problems. My experience includes over 10 months on the Rockport Police Department and over two years as deputy and chief deputy under both the late Sheriff A. C. Shivers and his successor, Mrs. Virginia Shivers and I am completing my first term as your Sheriff, and I want to continue as your Sheriff.

I graduated from the local school system in May of 1953 and I am a member of several local civic organizations including the Rockport Fire Department and the Aransas County Emergency Corps, the Rotary Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce and at present am an inactive member of the Rockport Lions Club, and a member of the First Methodist Church.

I am also active in law enforcement circles as I am a charter member of the board of directors of the Coastal Bend Peace Officers Association and I was recently elected to the Committee on Uniform Crime Reporting by the President of the Sheriff's Association of Texas.

One of my stronger beliefs is the assistance to our local youth. I am a committee member of Boy Scout Troop 281 and also a merit badge counselor. I have for several years subscribed to an ad on the outfield fence of the Little League baseball teams and I have already subscribed for 1968. I also have a complimentary ad on the 1968 Band Booster calendar.

I am very happily married to the former Peggy Smith and we have a lovely 2 year old daughter, Leia Joe.

My mother, Mrs. Charlyne L. Hunt, is retiring this May after 25 consecutive years of teaching the youth of Aransas County.

All of us want to thank you for my first term of office and we sincerely and humbly ask for a second term.

The only promise that I can make is to do the best that I can to make Aransas County a better place in which to live, and to make you proud of your Sheriff's Department.

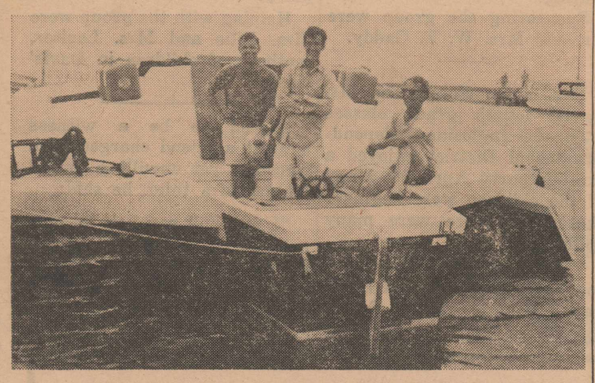

Thank you.

AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 DAYS —PLUS ABOUT TWO YEARS

Three amateur mariners stars in their eyes and a compeling itch in their feet came by Rockport and spent a night at Palm Harbor last week enroute to Chicago, Ill., by way of the Panama Canal, Pacific Ocean, South Seas, Mediterranian and the Atlantic Ocean.

While in Palm Harbor the three voyagers were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs H. L. Wright, followed by an evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osborne. The next morning they were breakfast guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Petrofsky.

Their ship is named Quee Queg after the harpooner in Moby Dick, famous tale of the great white whale. It is a homemade sailing trimaran 35 feet in length with 20 feet of beam and a 30-inch draft. It was constructed in an Illinois barnyard by two of the crew members. Onagra, Ill., is its home port, a farming community 50 miles south of Chicago and fully 90 miles from the nearest navigable water.

As to the crew—and a more unlikely group dedicated to swashbuckling adventure on the high seas would be difficult to imagine—it includes the captain and originator of the project, Quen Cultra, age 28, a mild-mannered high school teacher who is a graduate of Florida State University.

First mate is Jack Downs, age 24, of Chicago, a social service case worker and a graduate of Loyola University.

The "Old man" of the crew is David Bruce, age 47, motion picture and television actor and a writer of some note. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and a one-time Hollywood resident. Currently, Kankakee, Ill., is his home town. As the expedition's historian, he is keeping extensive notes and using a tape recorder to describe incidents and record conversations.

The younger men are bachelors without serious emotional ties; Bruce is a widower. All claim to be footloose and fancy free—for the next two years and a half at least.

The three profess a consuming interest in boating and sea, but none of them has ever operated a sailboat. So far it has been 1,600 miles by Illinois and Mississippi Rivers and the Intracoastal Canal Waterway with a 35-horsepower outboard motor propelling them at seven to 11 miles an hour.

Actually, the two masts of the to-be ketch-rigged sailboat have never been stepped, and some 760 square feet of brand-new dacron sails have never been rigged and hoisted.

All this awaits a month-long fitting at Port Isabel. Considerable work remains to be done on the cabin and deck. A number of shakedown cruises on the Gulf of Mexico will follow before the Quee Queg sets sail for the Panama Canal.

Returning for a moment to the Illinois barnyard where the ship was conceived and delivered, Cultra and Downs worked 16 months part and full time to build the Quee Queg from plans and specifications supplied by Arthur Rivers who is considered an authority on trimarans. Interested spectators were skeptical friends and an assortment of farm animals.

For those interested in construction specifics, the Quee Queg is built of three-eighths and half-inch outdoor plywood secured with marine glue and bolts, all encased in Fiberglass below and above water. Two hollow beams of laminated plywood tie the three hulls into a single unit. The main cabin occupies the full depth of the larger center hull. The space over the smaller outrigger hulls is occupied by two double berths.

The main and mizzen masts are of three-ply Sitka spruce, noted for its strength and lightness. The fully-enclosed cabin is reasonably well equipped. There is an adequate galley with a sling supplied with water pumped from tanks, as well as a refrigerator, stove and lights, all kerosene operated. There is also a shower-bath and a toilet. Around the cabin are book shelves and storage cabinets. Forward of the main cabin there is a third berth and additional storage space.

The navigator's working area is equipped with compass, radio and radar equipment, as well as a desk for charts and weather data.

After the ship was completed, there arose the question of how to get her to the Illinois River, the nearest navigable water but almost 100 miles away.

The Quee Queg was just too big to transport over normal highway routes. A house moving firm and special permits seemed the only possibility. However, the limited financial resources of the builders made this plan impractiable.

The dilemma was resolved by mounting the bulky Quee Queg on a farm wagon and hauling it by tractor over back-country roads to the launching site on the Illinois river at Seneca. The ceremony took place in sub-zero weather in the presence of a few hardy friends.

It was necessary to protect the christening champagne from freezing by burying it in a snow bank. Anticlimatic was the fact that it was necessary to haul the Quee Queg ashore a few days later to save it from a river ice jam.

The odyssey started from Seneca March 24 with scores of well-wishers on hand to bid the voyagers farewell. According to Captain Cultra, their friends considered them a bunch of nuts, but all wished they could come along.

Passage to Texas by river, Gulf and Intracoastal Waterway took four weeks and was without incident other than a temporary detainment of the crew by the police in Natchez, Miss., apparently on suspicion that they might have had something to do with the assasination of Rev. Martin Luther King in Memphis the day before.

Captain Cultra is the spiritual and physical leader of the expedition. He will handle navigation problems, having taken two classroom courses in the subject. Although he admits his limitations in this field, he believes he will be able to make the transition from theory to practice during cruises out of Port Isabel before sailing for the Panama Canal next month.

Downs is classified as engineering officer responsible for the boat's second-hand auxiliary outboard, with secondary responsibilities for cooking. Other members of the crew claim that Down's culinary skill is limited to heating a can of beans.

As for Bruce, he is official chronicler, photographer and tape recorder operator. He says that at least one nationwide radio-television network is interested in newsworthy material from the expedition. He also has hopes of attracting the attention of magazine and book publishers. He says that his crew responsibility is that of "engine wiper", a not too-demanding task aboard a sailboat.

The schedule of the Quee Queg is extremely flexible—30,000 to 40,000 miles in two to two and a half years. After the stop at Port Isabel the ship will follow the coast of Mexico and Central America to the Panama Canal, then up the west coast to California and finally to San Francisco.

It is planned to remain in San Francisco for some time, refitting and provisioning the ship for the long sail to the Hawaian Islands. From there the Quee Queg will head for the South Seas with Tahiti as its goal. The trouble spots of Asia will be avoided and after cruising among the islands of the South Seas, a course will be laid for Austrailia.

After several weeks in Australia the Quee Queg will set sail for the west coast of Africa—exact destination not yet determined — and then north along the coast and through the Suez, provided the canal is open by that time.

A cruise of the Agean Sea along the old trade routes of the ancient Greek and Phonecian galleys is on the schedule before moving into the Mediterranian.

From Gibraltar the Quee Queg will swing north along the coast of Europe to spend spring in the Scandanavian countries. From there the route will be southward to the east coast of Africa and then westward across the Atlantic from Brazil.

The final leg of the long journey will be up the coast of South and North America to St. Lawrence River. From there it will be a breeze through the Great Lakes to Chicago, some 30,000 to 40,000 miles—the long way around—from nearby Onargo, Ill., where the globe circling odssey started two or more years before.

Will the Quee Queg and its venturesome crew make it?

Well, Magellan did, and he didn't have a kerosene refrigerator.

Although 600 miles from Greece and nearer Turkey, the island of Cypress is predominantly Greek. Eighty per cent of the citizens are Greeks.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS
BY VERN SANFORD

That "weather eye," such as sailors of old were said to possess, did not refer to an ocular condition brought on by overlooking exposure to the elements.

On the contrary, a man with a weather eye was a valuable man indeed, for he had sense enough to respect the weather and what it could do to his ship.

Today's "weather-eyed" mariner has many advantages the old-timers didn't have. For instance—quick reference to a newspaper, radio or television report on weather conditions. Furthermore, he can get a report on today's weather, tomorrow's and sometimes for several days head.

Before an outboard outing, it's wise to pay close attention to such weather forecasts. When you arrive at the waterfront, check sea and weather conditions first hand immediately.

Contact the nearest Weather Bureau Office . . . for sure . . . especially if you are planning a long cruise. A telephone call to them will give you the benefit of the latest official observations.

If storm warning pennants are flying, it does not mean you are forbidden to go out; it means that each boater must decide if his craft is able to cope with conditions existing or anticipated.

When afloat, keep your weather eye cocked for distant thunderstorms and squall clouds. If you see some, watch their movement. Turn back when it is obvious they are coming your way.

Nine times out of ten you'll be in no real trouble if caught in a thunderstorm, but who wants to get a good soaking for nothing? So, play it safe, and head for port if you see a storm coming your way.

Increasing wind, growing waves, or both, tells your weather eye something rough is in store for you. That's when you'd better start looking for a place quickly.

It's best, of course, to return to port via areas where there's a chance to stop enroute to your final destination . . . such as a quiet cove or a protected bay.

JIM BEAM BOURBON— MAKING NEWS SINCE 1795

CLERMONT, KY.—173 years ago Jacob Beam started making Beam Bourbon here in Kentucky. It is still being made here today. And still by the Beams.

Along with inspired skills, the making of a Bourbon like Beam requires an unusual combination of land, climate and natural materials. And it's all here, in north central Kentucky.

There's the ancient, underlying limestone springs that supply sweet, clear water—a vital ingredient in the making of fine Bourbon.

The rich, fertile, surrounding valleys and plains provide the needed corn, rye and barley.

This and That

JOHN KINSEY

There was much excitement here last week and the Rockport area received a tremendous amount of publicity not only throughout the United States but also on an international basis.

The event that generated the most publicity was the christening of a shrimp trawler built by Rockport Yacht and Supply Company for an Australian commercial fishing company. The wife of former U. S. Ambassador to Austrailia Ed Clark christened the boat, the first fishing vessel built in our country for an Australian firm.

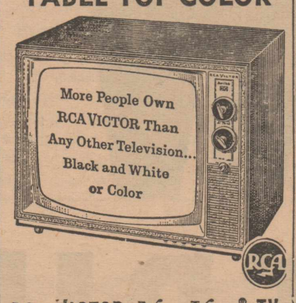

Not only did the story and pictures of this event appear in many newspapers but all three Corpus Christi television stations covered the christening. One of the Stations KIII-TV, also covered for United Press -International which meant that wire photos were sent out on a worldwide basis.

KIII-TV also took photographs for UPI of five attractive high school girls dressed in cheer leader practice outfits. Various poses were shot, showing not only the pretty girls but also background settings to show what an attractive place Rockport is.

The second important event which was widely publicized and which thoroughly enjoyed by those who took part was the visit at Goose Island State Park by Mrs. John Connally in inaugurating the Texas Tropical Trail. This is one of 10 Texas tour trails designed to lure tourists away from the primary highways and onto secondary roads offering scenic, historic and recreational attractions.

A picnic of fried chicken, potato salad, cole slaw, rolls, pie and iced tea was held for Mrs. Connally and her friends and members of the press under the Big Oak Tree. Mrs. Connally, a very pretty lady with a winning personality, captivated everyone who met her.

TEXAS HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT CELEBRATES 50th ANNIVERSARY -- Liquid mud in wet weather, iron furrows in dry -- that was the state of most roads when the Texas Highway Department was born 50 years ago. TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Fishing experts at Mercury outboards have collected some boating and angling tips that are well worth passing on to the Texas members of the Isaac Walton League:

Unkinking the Line

If a fishing line is twisted, this curl can be remedied simply by dragging the line in the water behind a boat. Water flowing over the line will take the twist out of it. Trail the line and nothing else — no swivel, no hook, no sinker—just bare line.

Balancing the Boat

Balancing the weight in a boat is essential for both safety and comfort. If the bow tends to plow through the water, the load is too far forward. If the bow tends to be high, the load probably is too far aft.

Matching Rod, Line, Lure

If you're not getting distance with your spinning outfit, the rod or line may be too heavy for the lures being used. So, use either a lighter line or heavier lures.

Magnifier Reveals Nicks

Many cases of broken lines can be traced to cracks or nicks on the fishing rod's guides or tiptop. Cautious anglers use a magnifying glass to inspect all such points.

Check Gas Tank Often

Outboard fuel tanks should run until dry, from time to time, and the bottom checked for dirt, rust and water. If any is found, flush the tank clean with a bit of kerosene or commercial alcohol to remove the water and sediment.

Braided Line Too Visible

When using a braided fishing line, a short length of monofilament should be attached between the end of the line and the lure. Braided line is too obvious in the water.

Keep Line Clean

If a floating fishing line sinks below the surface of the water, it may just be dirty. Wipe it off with a soft cloth and then applying a light coating of commercial line dressing.
