Authorities puzzled by fence-climbing attempt

White House intruder killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Authorities said today they are puzzled about what motiviated a cab driver who scaled a White House fence and threatened a guard with a three-foot pipe before being shot to death.

Washington police said the intruder, Chester M. Plummer, 30, raised the pipe "in a threatening manner" and ignored repeated orders of an Executive Protective Service guard to halt on the White House lawn Sunday night.

The guard, Pvt. Charles A. Garland, fired a single shot that hit Plummer in the upper left chest and felled him about 60 feet from the eight-foot fence he had scaled along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Plummer' name was not included on a list of about 38,000 persons considered a potential threat to government officials, said special agent Lewis McClam of the Secret Service. He said the agency is unaware of any grievance Plummer might have had against the government.

"We're trying to find out the purpose, the reasoning" of the incident, McClam said.

The police said Plummer, a 30-year-old Washington cab driver, reportedly had a criminal record, but was not involved in any previous intrusions on the White House grounds.

A police sergeant said Plummer's motive was unknown. After talking with Plummer's parents, the sergeant said, "He never indicated to them he had any qualms with the President." Plummer, a bachelor, was estranged from his parents, he added.

Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner, asked whether the incident would cause any security changes at the White House, replied, "We constantly review our security procedures and find no problems with the outer perimeter at this time."

The White House recently installed crash-proof gates costing $550,000. A man crashed into the old gates in a car on Christmas Day 1974, and in February 1973 an AWOL soldier landed a helicopter on the White House lawn amid a hail of bullets from guards. Last November an unarmed intruder came within a few feet of Susan Ford, the President's daughter, on the first of his three illicit entries onto the grounds.

But no previous incident resulted in death or serious injury.

A dispatcher at the Red Top Cab Co. in Arlington, Va., where Plummer worked, said, "He was really a nice guy. He was quiet."

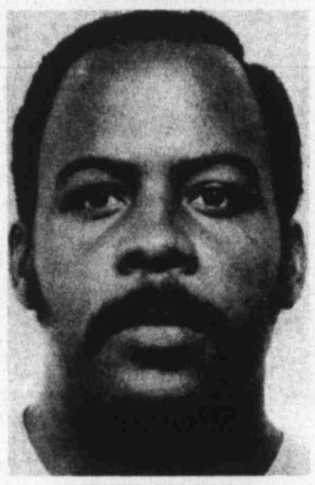

Plummer was shot several hundred feet from the White House, where President Ford and his family were in their second floor quarters. It was not known whether Ford heard the shot, but White House spokesmen say he was informed of the incident.

An ambulance squad tried to revive Plummer with heart massage on the White House lawn. He stopped breathing en route to George Washington Hospital, where efforts to revive him continued. He was pronounced dead at 11:05 p.m., about 90 minutes after the shooting.

A Secret Service official said, "The individual was observed earlier ... by EPS officers, but did not make any overt attempt at that time to arouse suspicion as to a possible penetration."

Plummer set off an alarm and was "immediately detected" by Garland and another officer when he scaled the fence, and Garland approached him alone, the official said.

Garland, 25, will be placed on administrative leave pending a routine grand jury investigation, the police said. He became an officer last January in the EPS, the uniformed branch of the Secret Service.

Reagan names choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan said today he has selected U.S. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania as his vice presidential running mate if he wins the Republican nomination for president.

Reagan said he knew he was breaking with tradition in announcing his choice for a vice president in advance of the convention.

"Since I now feel that the people and the delegates have a right to know in advance of the convention who a nominee's vice presidential choice would be, I am today departing from tradition and announcing my selection," Reagan said in a news conference.

He refused to answer any questions and left immediately after reading a 350-word statement.

There was no immediate comment from Schweiker.

Reagan, a conservative challenger to President Ford, said that Schweiker, who has a more moderate image, is someone "whose basic beliefs (are) compatible with my own."

It was not clear what the effect would be on Reagan's chances for winning delegates in Pennsylvania.

Sworn in as county judge

Ex-Texas House Speaker released from probation

BRENHAM, Tex. (AP) — Former Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher, freed earlier in the day from the rest of his probation for bribery conspiracy, was sworn in today as county judge for Washington County.

The ceremonies restoring Mutscher to a place in government came shortly after court action in Abilene freed the one-time political star from the remaining 3½ years of a five-year probated sentence.

District Court Judge J. Neal Daniel, who presided at Mutscher's 1972 trial, signed the order releasing Mutscher from probation.

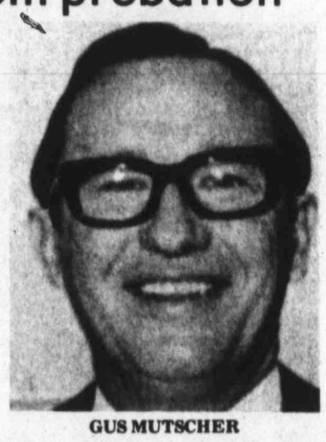

Probation officer Bill McCay called Mutscher a "model probationer."

Mutscher was indicted by a Travis County grand jury at Austin on charges he conspired to accept bribes at the height of the Sharpstown bank scandals that uprooted state government.

Travis County Dist. Atty. Robert Smith said he was aware of Mutscher's application for early release of 3½ years from probation but, in keeping with long-standing office policy, he neither recommended nor objected to Mutscher's early release.

State law provides a probationer may be released after serving at least one-third of his probation.

Mutscher was convicted of conspiring to accept bribes in the form of "loans" of $130,350 and $179,258 from Houston banker-developer Frank Sharp.

Delay in obtaining 'prime oil' seen

By JOHN EDWARDS

Asphalt may be available from Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. despite the recent fire, but there may be a few weeks of delay in obtaining "prime oil" here, County Engineer Neel Barnaby said.

County roads may not be dry enough to start paving until the prime oil is available, Barnaby told the County Commissioners Court today.

BARNABY SUGGESTED hiring two or three new permanent employes so all road equipment could be utilized.

County Auditor Virginia Black cautioned against new expenditures from the road department account. "Our money is pretty tight in that department now," Mrs. Black said.

In response to the suggestion more mowing be done by county roads, Barnaby said many low places are too wet for mowing now.

A FORT WORTH bank executive who is executor of the Clay estate promised to have an attorney advising the county of its right to improve a county road near Forsan, Barnaby said.

A copy of the letter will be sent to a man who objected to improving the road.

Other sections of the road have been improved, Barnaby said. "They have a better road today, despite the inclement weather, than they've had for the last 10 or 15 or 20 years," Barnaby claimed.

FUNDS for temporary road department employes ran out July 22, Barnaby said.

The summer employes cleared 75 loads of debris from county roads and cut grass a number of places where mowers won't reach, Barnaby said.

A woman from Sand Springs complained about a muddy road which caused residents to park a distance from their homes sometimes.

Commissioner Ikie Rupard blamed the problem on construction of dead-end roads which do not provide places for water to drain.

Rupard said he has opposed construction of dead-end roads for developers. He mentioned a desire to open a road which would provide the neighborhood an alternate entrance and exit.

A water softener is not working correctly, the court was told, and repair of a water heater purchased in November 1975 is necessary.

COMMISSIONERS court accepted bids for typewriters, patrol car equipment and a plat cabinet.

Fire Appliance Co. of Texas, Wichita Falls, was the lowest of two bidders for sirens, lights and public address systems for the sheriff's office vehicles. The total cost will be $1,082.

Stafford-Lowdon Co., Fort Worth, submitted the lowest of two bids for a plat cabinet for the county clerk's office, $1,590.

All but one of six typewriters will be purchased from Marlin's Business Machines, Big Spring.

IBM submitted the only bid for a typewriter meeting specifications of the county treasurer. It will run $540 with trade.

All the other bid prices of the two were close, but County Commissioner Jack Buchanan favored Marlin's because of a longer warranty period.

A typewriter for the county auditor's office will cost $458 with trade; for the adult probation officer, $553 with trade.

For the tax assessor-collector's office, three machines will be traded for new ones at an additional cost of $1,465.

Tower expects Reagan to decline second spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., says he thinks President Ford will win the Republican presidential nomination and, if that happens, Ronald Reagan would not accept the second spot on the ticket.

Tower, appearing Sunday said on CBS' "Face the Nation," also was asked to evaluate former Texas Gov. John Connally as a vice presidential choice. Tower said: "I think he would be an excellent one."

Tower was asked if Connally would be hurt by the trial in which he was acquitted of charges of accepting money to influenc a milk price decision.

"I think the fact that it was a bum rap and the government didn't have a case will probably enhance his popularity," Tower said.

Tower said he feels Ford will have about 1,150 committed delegates when the Republican convention begins in Kansas City Aug. 16. It takes 1,130 delegates to win the nomination.

Campaign workers for Reagan have said Reagan has 1,140 delegates. The latest Associated Press count gives Ford 1,096 and Reagan 1,024, with 138 uncommitted.

Tower said he thinks Reagan is qualified to be president, but "I don't think he's as qualified as President Ford is." And Tower said he accepts Reagan at his word that he wouldn't accept second spot on the ticket.

"I think that the ticket would probably be better enhanced by someone other than Gov. Reagan," he said.

Tower also got in some licks at the opposition, charging that the Democrat-controlled Congress has been responsible for big government and big spending. He said Ford's vetoes of appropriations bills have been like trying to stop a runaway horse. The senator charged that the Congress currently is made up of lot of newcomers who emasculated the leadership and then didn't move in to fill the void.

He charged that Democratic presidential candidateJimmy Carter is "devoid of conviction," has a "messianic complex," "smiles with his mouth but not with his heart" and "is bent on gathering power to himself."

MO is much same in two robberies

An armed robbery which occured at 7-11 in Big Spring at 10:13 p.m. was very similar to one executed this morning in San Angelo, according to local police officers.

The armed robber only obtained $34 cash and $4 in food stamps in the Big Spring hold-up. Gary Garrison, working at the 7-11 at 2310 Wasson Road, was held up at 10:13 p.m.

A lone male pulled a blue steel revolver on Garrison and requested that he lie down on the floor in the rear of the building.

He passed an incoming customer on the way out of the store, who told police he was attired in coveralls and held his hand inside the top portion of the suit.

The wife and children of the customer saw the man climb over the fence and head east on foot. They told police that they saw him remove a revolver from inside his coveralls as he went over the fence.

Davis changes operations base

Leeon Davis of Stanton has left for Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Written up originally in the Big Spring Herald as planning to attempt a national record for staying in the air in a lightweight plane, he has never gotten off the ground.

Inclement weather has kept him on the ground while he received additional stories in three area newspapers and on three television stations about a planned 30-hour flight between Big Spring and Sweetwater.

Now he has cancelled the project locally and is going on his vacation by attending the Experimental Aircraft Convention in Oshkosh.

If it is possible to change the official inspectors to that area, he plans to attempt the flight up there next week.

Boy, 3, kills her friend

Girl watches in horror

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nine-year-old Marie Barcroft thought it was play when a 3-year-old threatened her and her father with a .357 magnum pistol. Then she watched in horror as the youngster turned and killed her 7-year-old friend.

"It was just the awfullest thing I ever saw," said the young South Baltimore girl after her friend's death Sunday.

"Jeffrey just stood there for a moment with a big hole in his stomach and blood all over the place. Then he fell over."

The victim, Jeffrey Krausch, was shot once in the chest from point-blank range, police said. He was pronounced dead at South Baltimore General Hospital shortly after 2 p.m.

Police would not reveal the name of the youngster who shot Jeffrey.

The father of the 3-year-old is a security guard and neighbors said they had seen the gun in his car on previous occasions. But police said the 3-year-old and his 5-year-old brother took the gun from a kitchen table in a house where they and their father were visiting.

Marie was sitting with her father, George Barcroft, on their porch enjoying Sunday's spring-like weather when the boy and his brother came out of a nearby house where they were visiting.

"He just came up to us and pointed this gun in my face and said, 'I'm going to shoot you and I'm not going to miss.' I thought it was just play," said Marie.

According to Marie, just before the shooting the two visiting children had argued with Jeffrey and a playmate about the younger children poking holes in the Krausch's front lawn.

The Krausch family lives around the corner from the Barcroft family and the house where the two unidentified children were visiting.

As far as the shooting itself, Marie said, "I don't think the little boy knew what he was doing."

"He didn't even say nothing to Jeff," Marie said. "He just pointed the gun. His brother cocked it and the little boy pulled the trigger."

The mortally wounded boy fell against the side of his house. Barcroft said he jumped to his feet and screamed at the two younger boys, who ran inside the home they were visiting.

Barcroft then called an ambulance as the youngster's mother cradled her son's head, sobbing, "Oh my baby."

"Jeff and I were real good friends. We went to the same school and everything," the girl said.

A spokesman for the city state's attorney said no charges would be filed against the gun's owner. The spokesman would not elaborate.

Action/reaction: Scurry payments

Q. If a person is on social security and unable to pay all of the bill for curb and gutter on the south end of Scurry Street, can the payments be made on an installment basis? Also, why was the figure quoted in this column by Ms. Susan Thomas, traffic engineer for the cost of curb and gutter later changed?

A. Tom Ferguson, city finance director, said that anybody who can show need and is unable to pay all of the cost of curb and gutter at once may pay it off over a three-year-period by making arrangements through his office.

He also said that the traffic engineer never should have been questioned concerning the cost, since this is not computed in her office. She apparently looked it up and read the wrong column of figures quoting a price of $3.47 per running foot. The cost has been $4.40 per running foot from the start and was quoted as such in three news stories in the Big Spring Herald. This cost figure was also used in each and every letter that went out to the property owners, according to Ferguson.

Offbeat: Get it right

A police patrolman back from vacation was asking a fellow officer about an accident which occurred on South Scurry street Sunday night.

"Was there a Volkswagen in the accident?" one officer asked. "Both were Volkswagens," the second answered "and one was driven by Bendit."

"Bent what?" asked the first officer. "Which one was bent?"

The second officer said, "They were both bent, but one of the drivers was named Bendit and one was named Fyfe."

"Did it hurt his wife?" the first asked.

"Not wife, Fyfe," the second officer answered.

Looking perplexed, the first policeman grinned and said, "Who's on first?"

Charges pile up here against 18-year-old

A 18-year-old youth is in jail, with complaints filed by police on possible charges of unlawful carrying of weapons, aggravated kidnaping, two counts of disorderly conduct, three counts of aggravated assault and burglary.

The complaints stem from an incident in front of Super Save on N. 3rd and Gregg at 9:13 p.m. Sunday. The 18-year-old youth is accused of grabbing a 16-year-old girl and trying to take her with him.

HER MOTHER arrived at the scene and was trying to get her into the car. The youth threatened the mother with a knife, she told police, and left on foot with the girl. He was arrested a short time later near the railroad tracks, with the girl still with him. He had a gun in his possession which was reported stolen 30 minutes later by Marcus Rocha at 404 S. Benton. The gun was taken from a closet at that residence where it was wrapped in a towel.

No charges were yet filed this morning on a rape over the weekend. A 48-year-old woman claimed that a 24-year-old acquaintance raped her at her apartment in the southern part of the city.

There was also a call to police Sunday afternoon where subjects were reported shooting guns at the Northcrest Apartments. One man was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and discharging firearms inside the city limits and a second man received identical charges.

A short time later, a fight broke out at Wagon Wheel 1. Officers arrested three young men. One was charged with fleeing and eluding a police officer and disorderly conduct. The second was charged with disorderly conduct and public affray and the third with hindering apprehension. This was at 9:56 p.m.

There were also several accidents over the weekend. One truck at 10:37 p.m. spilled potatoes all over the highway when he overturned at IS 20 and Highway 176. The vehicle was driven by James Green, Clovis, N.M. The truck went out of control and struck two reflector piles. The driver was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

At 7:57 p.m., an accident occurred at 2200 Scurry between two small cars driven by Richard D. Bendit, 1511 Main and Donald W. Fyfe, 1308 Scurry.

Bendit and Camera Teresa Della, 14, were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital with cuts and bruises. Fyfe and Kenneth Lytwyn went to Webb AFB hospital, also with minor injuries.

In minor mishaps, there was a wreck at 12:23 a.m. Sunday at NW 9th and N. Aylford where Jesus Cuellar of Midland struck a city street sign.

An accident at 11:43 p.m. Sunday occurred at FM 700 and Westover. Vehcle involved was driven by James Edward Early of Coahoma, again striking a fixed object, hitting a city steel guide reflector pole.

THERE WAS A minor accident on E. 3rd, one block east of Birdwell Lane at 12:13 a.m. Monday. The unknown driver left a vehicle at the scene and it was impounded by police.

At 8:50 p.m. Saturday, an accident happened at N. 9th and Lancaster between vehicles driven by Desideris Carmona, 1405 Bluebird, and Miguel Gonzales, 307 San Jacinto.

At 8:53 p.m. Saturday, there was an accident at N. 6th and Douglas involving a vehicle driven by Adell Lott, 806 NW 6th, a vehicle that left the scene and a street sign. Mrs. Lott was taken to Medical Arts by private vehicle.

At 10:10 p.m. Saturday, vehicles driven by Jackie Merrick, Ackerly, and Ervin Paul, 608 11th, collided at 3rd and Benton. At 10:19 p.m., a vehicle driven by Byron Gressett, 202 Baylor, struck an IS 20 sign at 4th by Holiday Inn.

State Department tests

Embassy radiation?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special tests to detect genetic damage were run by the State Department on employes returning from Moscow during the 1960s because of concern over possible effects of microwave radiation being beamed at the U.S. embassy there, according to doctors familiar with the study.

However, the purpose of the tests was kept secret from the employes, the medical sources said. American foreign service officers and other embassy personnel reportedly were told only that they were being checked for a kind of abnormal bacteria, the sources said.

The existence of the genetic testing program, conducted during about an 18-month period in 1967-68, was confirmed by Dr. Cecil B. Jacobson, who oversaw the analysis of the State Department test samples by a laboratory at George Washington University.

"Things were never really conclusive," Jacobson said about results of the tests.

However, a former colleague of Jacobson's, Dr. Thomas H. Gresinger, said he was told by Jacobson at the time of the testing program that the tests showed "funny results — lots of chromosome breaks."

Chromosomes are microscopic rodlike bodies within the nucleus of each cell, containing the basic genetic material DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid). When cells divide to reproduce, chromosomes go through certain regular patterns in replicating themselves. Abnormal chromosome breaks can lead to serious problems including birth defects in children.

Gresinger said he became aware of the tests while he was on the faculty of the George Washington medical school and also doing gynecology work on a consulting basis for the State Department's medical division.

"Because I was at both places I realized they were running genetic studies on all the people from Moscow," he said.

Until last February, knowledge of the microwave problem was restricted to a handful of top officials.

Meanwhile, Sen. Bob Dole has disclosed that the radiation issue prompted President Ford to send a personal appeal to Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev urging that the Soviets curtail their microwave bombardment of the embassy.

Dole, a Republican from Kansas, said he was told of the President's letter to Brezhnev during a closed-door briefing by Helmut Sonnenfeldt, one of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's closest associates.

Following the Ford letter and U.S. diplomatic efforts to protest over the radiation, as well as an embassy staff meeting that led to widespread publicity, the Soviets reduced the microwave power levels. However, they have refused to completely cease the bombardment.

A White House spokesman, John Carlson, confirmed that on the embassy problem "there has been communication — correspondence — between the President and Brezhnev." He declined to give any further details.

A State Department spokesman said he could make no specific comment on the genetic tests.

Safety glasses should be worn while mowing

What's midsummer madness? To the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness, it's mowing or edging the lawn all through the long, hot Texas summer without ever wearing safety goggles or glasses.

"The power tools of the industry have jumped the fence and gone into the home," says Dr. Fay E. Millett, state medical chairman of the society, "and unfortunately without the eye safety precautions that the law requires for industry."

Safety goggles daily save the eyesight of industrial workers, he says, citing a recent accident at a Brown and Root Engineering plant in Houston that was caused by the familiar home-style lawn mower.

Donald Ray Speights was mowing at the plant when the mower blade hit a metal object and threw a piece of metal against the left lens of his safety glasses.

"Without the glasses, Speights might be blinded in one eye today," says Dr. Millett. "Another mower not so long ago threw up a seemingly fragile pine needle into the eye of Gary Burgoff, the well known Radar O'Reilly of "Mash," and did so with such force that the cornea of his eye was damaged."

Nor should mowing — or any activity involving power tools — ever be thought of as a spectator sport, cautions Dr. Millett for the Texas Society, which is an affiliate of the Nation Society for the Prevention of Blindness. "Machines throw debris to the side as well as to the rear and can as easily injure onlookers as operators."

The Texas Society recommends that all safety eye wear purchased meet government safety standards. These need not be expensive or special order items as they can usually be purchased at hardware counters.

Bus hijacking manhunt waged

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say as many as five persons may have been responsible for kidnaping a busload of Chowchilla school children and imprisoning them for 18 hours in a buried truck.

One man is in jail, two more are being sought and authorities said Sunday that two more persons may be named in the nationwide manhunt.

"There has been some talk of a fourth and a fifth person being involved," a law enforcement source told The Associated Press. "But we haven't gotten far enough into the investigation to be sure."

On Sunday, newspapers quoted investigators as saying a middle-aged man may have masterminded the July 15 kidnaping.

The bus carrying 26 children and their driver was stopped at gunpoint as they headed home. They were imprisoned in a moving van buried in a rock quarry 95 miles away in Livermore but escaped unharmed.

Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said it seemed "logical" to assume that at least four people were involved.

Federal and local arrest warrants have been filed for Frederick N. Woods IV and James L. Schoenfeld, both 24. Woods' father owns the quarry where the van was buried.

Schoenfeld's 22-year-old brother, Richard, surrendered Friday and was being held in the Alameda County Jail.

The federal arrest warrants described James Schoenfeld and Woods as armed and dangerous. The FBI entered the case on the assumption the two men have fled the state. The FBI said unconfirmed sightings of them were reported Sunday in Tennessee, Oklahoma and Illinois.

Meanwhile, an investigator told the San Francisco Examiner that "We're definitely pursuing the possibility that there are other suspects in this case. These others might be the brains behind the whole thing."

And the Oakland Tribune quoted a source close to the investigation as saying there is "a possibility that an older male was involved in the kidnaping, and there are some good leads to back it up."

According to the victims, including 55-year-old bus driver Ed Ray, two of the captors were men in their 40s and 50s. Authorities have refused to explain the obvious discrepancies between those descriptions and the youthfulness of Woods and the Schoenfelds.

Schoenfeld will be transferred Thursday to Madera County for arraignment. Authorities say he will face 43 counts: 27 of kidnaping for ransom and 16 of robbery. Clothing and other personal items were taken from the victims.

$3.3 million budget looms

LAMESA — School trustees will meet tonight in the high school library to conduct a public hearing on a proposed $3.3 million general operating budget.

The proposed budget calls for expenditures of $2,737,422 for salaries, $184,489 for purchased and contracter service, $213,630 for supplies and materials, $86,179 for other operating expenses and $81,379 for capital outlay. The proposed expenditures total $3,303,110.

However, under the present tax structure, revenues would total only $3,149,517 for a budget deficit of $153,593.

Following the public hearing trustees are scheduled to adopt the budget and to set the tax rate for the coming year.

Trustees are also scheduled to approve the athletic budget and policy book as amended, conduct first readings on policy amendments concerning auxiliary personnel sick leave, students dress and hair length and several routine matters.

No new leads on dead man

The identification section of the city police department was contacting Washington today with information they have on the man killed July 18 in Big Spring.

There was still to be a follow-up today through reform school records on the possibility of the man being originally a man from Haskell who has not been seen by his family for six years.

Detective Leroy Spires said that the department continues to explore every possible avenue, in the attempt to identify the corpse of the man killed in a stabbing near the railroad.

Local man buys condominium

Kent Morgan, Big Spring, has purchased a nine-unit condominium called The Abbey in Mission Valley, Calf., from the Bank of California for a transfer tax value of $575,000.

The complex is located on a 0.66-acre tract at 1111 Via Las Cumbras in Mission Valley, which is near San Diego.

The bank took back a trust deed for $425,000.

The condomininium was built by Steven Q. Abbey with a $503,000 loan from the bank in April 1974. The past January, the bank foreclosed with a bid of $573,800, after Abbey and his wife had filed a Chapter XI bankruptcy petition. In March they were declared bankrupt.

Abbey was also involved in condo projects in Carlsbad, Cal., and Ketcham, Idaho.

Viking I plans search for life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — With Viking 1 back to almost-perfect health, scientists are preparing for this week's search for life on Mars — man's first scientific analysis of another planet's surface.

On Sunday, scientists unjammed the lander's sampling arm, in which a pin from a protective covering had become stuck for several days.

Now, with the arm unjammed, the experiment will take place according to schedule on Wednesday, the lander's eighth day on Mars, Viking Project Manager James Martin said Sunday.

The telescoping device is to reach out and scoop up 50 cubic centimeters of Martian soil — enough to fill a shot glass. The analysis of that soil is the key to Viking's search for life as well as its attempts to find out about the planet's evolution.

Unjamming the pin represented a major step toward a successful mission, but it did not remedy everything that has gone wrong with Viking 1. A seismometer to measure and locate marsquakes, the equivalent of earthquakes, was still out of operation after several attempts to repair it from earth.

"There's been no new word on the seismometer," Martin said, "and I frankly don't hold out much hope for success."

Scientists unjammed the pin by recreating the problem on an identical lander here and developing a command to free the pin.

There were several anxious hours between the issuing of the command and Viking's response. The craft finally sent back pictures showing the arm in the correct position, and then close-up shots of a small section of the red, rocky Martian surface.

There, the scientists spotted the pin and knew the arm was again in working order.

"We're heading right on forward," Martin said. "Everybody's very happy and excited."

On Sunday, after deciding to have the sampling done in a relatively smooth area less cluttered with sharp Martian rocks than the spot originally set for examination, scientists sent the command for the arm to conduct its soil collecting work on Wednesday. Whether it responds to the order will be known late that day.

Martin said he was "very excited" about Viking's chances for coming up with some proof of Martian life, chances he said were "greatly enhanced" by the craft's discovery of nitrogen in the atmosphere there in samples last week.

Nitrogen is one of the requirements for the existence of life as earthlings know it.

Senators face 'hot' schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — With taxes, crime control, clean air and postal finances on the agenda, Senators face a heavy schedule this week in an effort to finish business and head out for some political campaigning.

The major items scheduled for action in the House include a mine safety bill and a measure to require government agencies to open their meetings to the public.

The Senate worked two days last week on a bill extending the life of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for another five years. The leadership had hoped to finish the oeasure on Friday but failed.

The bill authorizes the LEAA to spend $5.3 billion over the next five years to help communities fight crime.

During debate, the agency came under sharp criticism for failure to stem rising crime rates despite the expenditure of $4 billion since it was created in 1969.

Next on the Senate agenda are amendments to the Clean Air Act. The most controversial would give automakers two more years to meet stricter auto emission standards. The new deadline would be Jan. 1, 1979.

The postal bill would create a commission to study problems in the postal service. The commission, with six members appointed by Congress and four by the President, would report by Feb. 15.

Until the commission completes its work, the postal service would be prohibited from reducing services or raising rates. But the bill would increase the federal subsidy by $1 billion. The government already finances $1.5 billion of the cost of running the U.S. mail.

The Senate also is expected to continue debate this week on amendments to a major tax bill that would extend anti-recession tax cuts. Last week, the Senate approved amendments that virtually do away with tax breaks for sick pay and occasional business use of homes.

The mine safety bill scheduled for action in the House on Tuesday would transfer responsibility for mine safety from the Interior Department to the Department of Labor under a new assistant secretary of labor for mine safety and health.

The bill also would require that underground mines be inspected four times a year and surface mines twice a year.

PARADE — The army has developed new battle head gear designed to replace the series of steel helmets worn since World War I. The new helmet looks like the familiar German model but like motorcycle helmets it will be made of hard, light plastic and come in different sizes. At top is the flat "tin hat" adopted during World War I and center, the "steel pot" worn since World War II.

Kenyan leader replies to veiled threat of war

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Replying to a new veiled threat of war from Ugandan President Idi Amin, Foreign Minister Munyua Waiyaki says Kenya will defend itself if attacked.

"But we have no interest in fighting Uganda," Waiyaki added.

Amin said Sunday that Uganda may be forced "to resort to desperate action" to break an economic blockade he said Kenya is waging against his country. He reported that because of this alleged blockade, Uganda had only enough gasoline to operate emergency vehicles for five days.

Uganda normally gets its petroleum products from the Kenyan refinery at Mombasa. The Kenyans say they have stopped shipments to their landlocked neighbor because Amin owes $54 million for previous deliveries, and other supplies are not going through because the Kenyan truckdrivers are afraid of Amin's army.

The Kenyan foreign minister said no more Mombasa gas and oil will be delivered to Uganda until Amin pays what he owes, and all future deliveries must be paid for in cash.

"We are under no obligation to subsidize the Uganda economy," said Waiyaki, adding that Amin could get his oil and gas from "wealthier countries." Presumably he meant Libya, with which Amin has close ties.

Amin claims Uganda has paid for everything it has received.

Radio Uganda said Amin had sent messages to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Secretary-General Eteki Mboumoua of the Organization of African Unity asking them to send fact-finding missions to look into his charges.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said that as far as he knew, no such request had been received.

Relations between Amin and the Kenyans have been strained for several months because of a claim by the Ugandan leader to Kenyan territory. Relations worsened seriously early this month when Amin accused the Kenyans of complicity in the Israeli commando raid July 4 that rescued 102 hijacked airline passengers and crew members from Uganda's Entebbe airport.

COLORADO CITY — A budget of over $2 million for the coming year was approved by the Colorado ISD school board.

The board also set the tax rate of $1.50 for maintenance and operations and 31 cents for the interest and sinking fund, a tax rate of $1.81 per $100 of valuation which will raise $1,278,847.38 in revenue.

The ratio of assessment was changed from 55 per cent to 67 per cent, but the actual tax rate was lowered from the previous year's budget which was $1.50 and 37 cents.

Tax base for the school district is $58 million. Total expenditures from the local budget are estimated at $2,000,099.

Categories in the budget include:

—Instructional services, $982,234.07.

The largest item in the budget is for salaries, estimated at $1,314.921.62, an increase of $65,910.02 over last year's $1,249.011.90. This represents 78.48 per cent of the total budget.

Purchase of contract services, such as gasoline and utilities, will take 9.88 per cent of the total at $165,459.11, up $41,881.79 over last year's $123,577.32.

Other expenses will account for 4.44 per cent, up $8,294 over last year's $66,210.50 at $74,504.50.

The total expenditures are estimated at $1,675, 465.93, an increase of $132,850.01 over last year's $1,542.615.92.

Residents should check for grub infestations

Home owners in Howard County should check turfgrass areas in their home landscape for white grub infestations, according to Charles Neeb, Area Extension Entomologist.

This soil insect is a very destructive pest of turfgrasses in home lawns, especailly in Bermuda and St. Augustine grass. The insect attacks the roots of the grass plants. When their numbers become excessive in a lawn, feeding activity of the insects can result in severe damage to the turfgrass.

The adults, known as May or June beetles, are about ½ to ⅝-inch long and vary from light brown to black in coloration. The adults emerge from the soil in turfgrass areas in late spring or early summer, mate and start laying eggs in June or early July in turfgrass areas. Eggs are laid in the soil and usually require about 2 to 3 weeks to hatch. The egg-laying period averages about 30 days. The larvae or grub worms are white with brown heads and the hind part of their bodies are smooth and shiny with dark body contents showing through. They usually lie in a curled position. The grubs feed on the roots and underground stems of grasses and other plants and in warm weather usually stay within one to three inches below the soil surface.

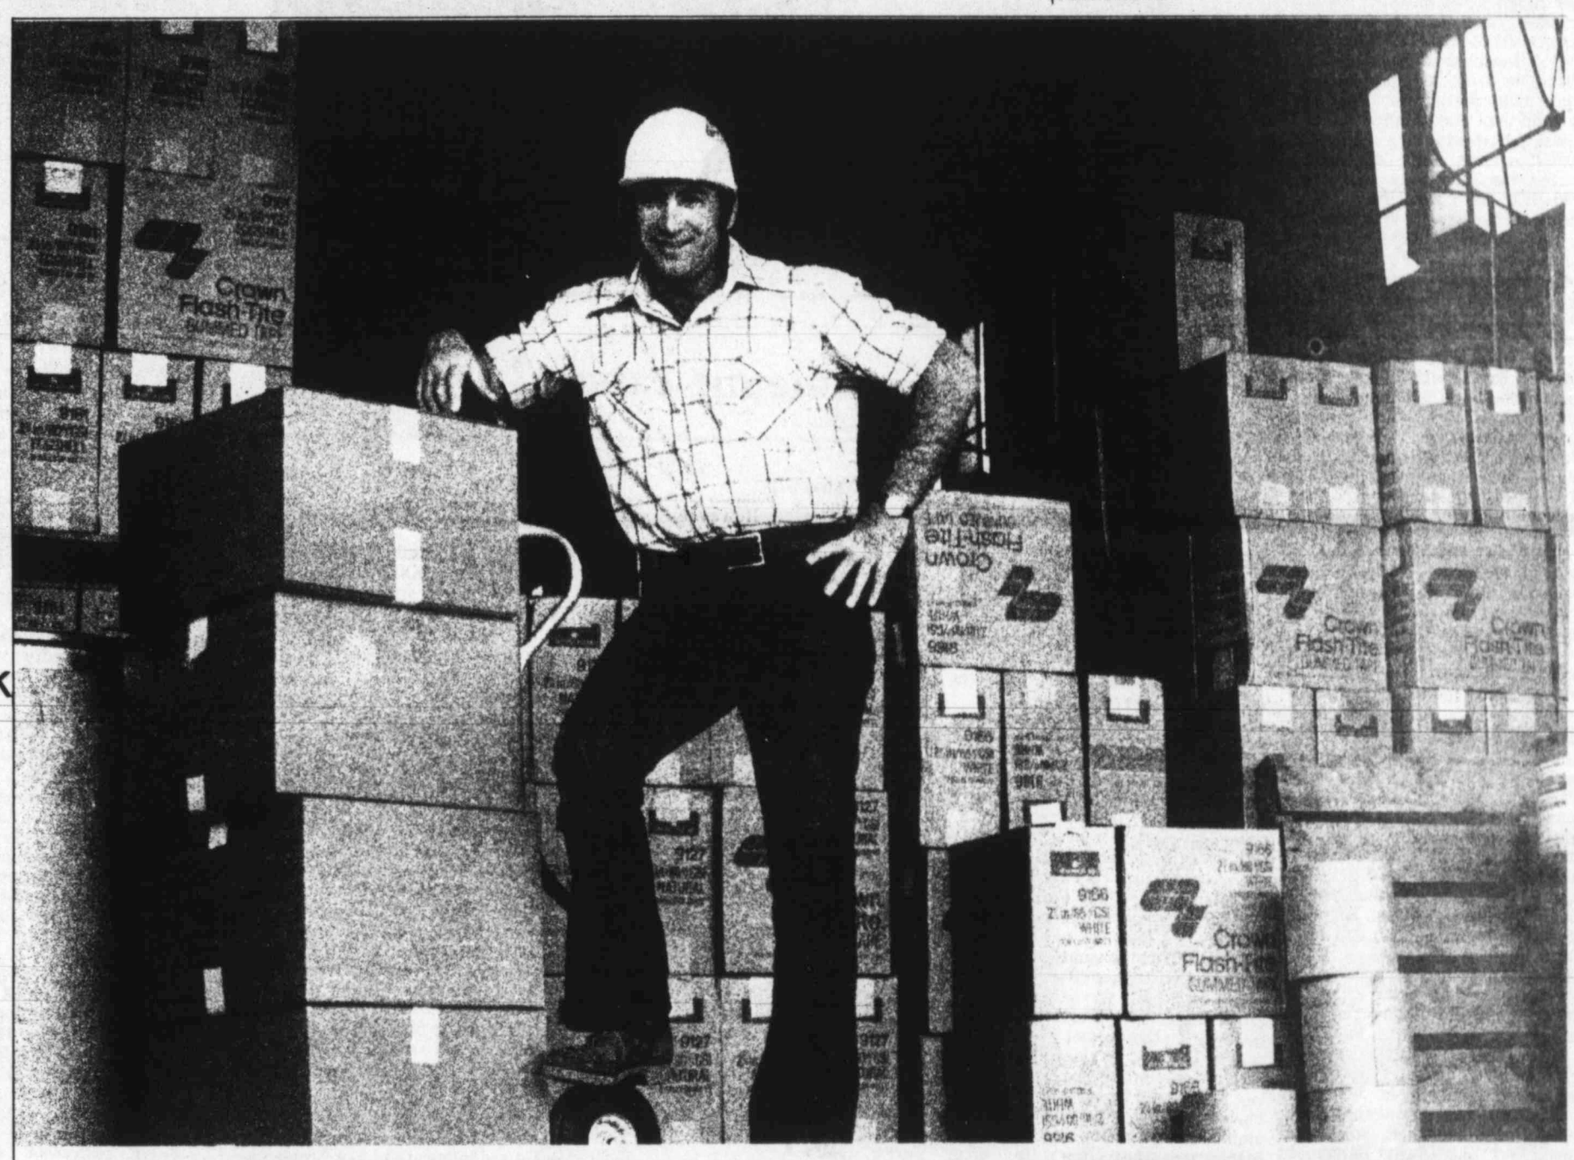

For effective control of white grubs in turfgrass areas, insecticide application must be applied to the infested areas when the white grubs are less than ½ inch in body length. In order to determine proper time to apply insecticide applications, it is essential that turfgrass areas are checked periodically in the month of July for white grub infestations.

To check for white grubs take a shovel and cut a one square foot section of sod and examine all the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches for white grubs. After examination, soil and sod should be put back in place. Examine several spots in the turfgrass area. White grubs normally are not distributed evenly in turfgrass areas because of a suspected aggregation on the part of females at the time of egg-laying. Therefore, several samples should be taken in order to make certain that an infestation justifies treatment.

An insecticide treatment usually is justified when more than four grubs per square foot are found. Diazinon and dursban are the insecticides suggested for control of white grubs in turfgrass compounds in West Texas. Use of any other chlorinated hydrocarbon compounds (heptachlor and chlordane) is discouraged since many grub populations have become tolerant to these insecticides.

The granular formulation of diazinon is usually easier for the homeowner to apply and to wash into the soil than the liquid or spray formulation. When granules are used, the suggested rate is 1 pound of 14 per cent granules or 2.5 pounds of 5 per cent granules or 6 pounds of 2 per cent granules per 1,000 square feet of turfgrass area. After application of the granules, the treated turfgrass area should be dragged with a tow sack, water hose, etc., to knock the granules down near the soil surface. Then apply enough irrigation water to wash the insecticide into the soil (½ to 1 inch of irrigation water). When liquid formulations of diazinon are used, follow the recommended dosage rate listed on the label of the chemical container.

Spray formulations should be applied at the rate of 20 to 40 gallons of water per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before application also helps. The key to control is getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where it will be most effective. Keep children, pets and other animals off the lawn until the insecticide has been thoroughly watered into the sod and turfgrass has dried.

Your men in Austin political pros

Things that happen in Austin affect Big Spring quite a bit.

If you don't think so, just read the July 16 issue of the Big Spring Herald.

On the front page was a story from Harte-Hanks News Bureau that the proposed increases in automobile insurance would make the typical Howard County driver pay another $44 a year beginning Oct. 1.

That proposal has been requested by the Texas Automobile Insurance Board to the State Board of Insurance.

THE HERALD was able to bring you this story because of the new Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau which has just opened its doors.

The bureau will be serving other newspapers as well as the Herald, of course, but I am delighted to be able to offer this extra service to our readers.

Davis

Carpenter

Remember the story on the proposed West Texas prison farm? That too came from the bureau's efforts.

The new Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau will not only represent more newspaper readers than any other in Texas, but I think it will be the best bureau in Austin.

BUREAU CHIEF will be Scott Carpenter, the son of Liz Carpenter, Lady Bird Johnson's former press secretary.

I have known Carpenter for a number of years through his work with Long News Service where he had been employed seven years. Long News Service was the best in the state capitol, and Carpenter became its ace.

A GRADUATE of the University of Texas, Carpenter also has worked for the American Broadcasting Co. in Washington.

Joining him will be Jim Davis, a native of Austin who has worked for both United Press International in Austin and the Corpus Christi Caller-Times covering government for 10 years.

These two reporters will make the best one-two punch in Austin, and they'll make certain Big Spring Herald readers know what they need to about our state government.

It's okay

William F. Buckley, Jr.

On the 200th anniversary of our republic, the United States has suddenly discovered the pressing need for the "liberation of southern Africa." The phrase is picked up, intact, from our Ambassador to the United Nations Mr. William Scranton. But that isn't all. Mr. Scranton was asked if the United States had "any objection" to the blacks' achieving "majority rule" through the use of "guerrilla warfare," and he replied "No, that's entirely up to them."

NOW ONE CAN look at such a statement and read it into meaninglessness. That is achieved as follows. If blacks from the surrounding areas or from within decide to use guerrilla warfare in Rhodesia, what could the United States do about it? Well, we could levy economic boycotts against the sponsoring countries; but, obviously, we would not do that. We could protest their actions in the United Nations, but that, by historical experience, is merely one more gesture in futility.

Therefore it is strictly correct that it is "entirely up to" people over whom the United States has no authority, to decide how they will effect what we are pleased to call the "liberation" of Rhodesia. Presumably they could drop atom bombs on Salisbury.

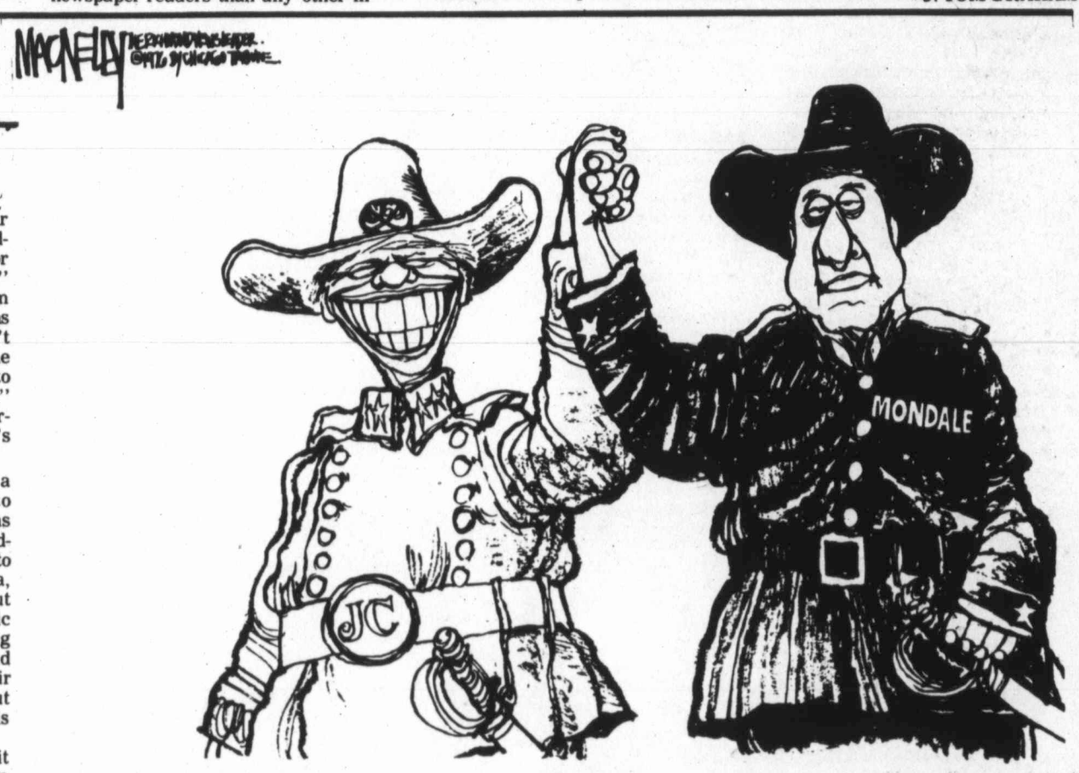

But, obviously, Mr. Scranton wasn't saying something that . . . obvious. If he had been, the Washington Post would not have run the big headline, "US Has No Objection-To Rhodesia Guerrillas." He meant to say that we have no moral objections to the guerrillas, even though "we're going to go right on trying to do it (i.e. achieve the liberation of southern Africa) without violence."

One wonders whether Mr. Scranton's voice is truly the voice of America. Since I am 1-200 millionth of America, permit me to say that his is not my voice.

LET US, to begin with, make the distinctions. We are greatly involved in an international campaign against terrorism. As recently as in the acceptance speech of Jimmy Carter, terrorism was denounced as inimical to the peace of the world. Now what do you call it when guerrilla fighters at the service of Maoist revolutionaries slither over the frontier of Rhodesia from Mozambique and torture and kill black farmers in Rhodesia?

This is the kind of thing that has been going on, and the killing of uninvolved citizens is terrorism, not guerrilla warfare — which is defined as killing armed representatives of the oppressor state. The North Vietnamese engaged in wholesale terrorism when the war against South Vietnam was launched, and their cruelty was universally denounced until it became more fashionable to denounce armed resistance provided by Americans — in whose behalf Mr. Scranton now announces his indifference to terrorism in Africa.

FINALLY, what exactly do we mean by "southern Africa," the term used so loosely by Mr. Scranton? If he means that the United States is indifferent to guerrilla warfare carried on against South Africa, a country whose government we recognize, he should perhaps give Congress a ring and inform it that we are indirectly subsidizing terrorism in South Africa. Scranton knows that his words have more than a purely platonic relationship to the course of events in Africa. Indeed he said that our credibility would depend on "our help and abetment in the liberation of southern Africa." Maybe we ought to have some liberation of our own from politicians who casually commit the United States to endorsing terrorism abroad.

Discharge means cancer?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a leaky breast that exudes a pale yellow liquid. I am 56 and have had this some of all my adult life. But for two years now it is almost constant. Slides have been made of it countless times. I've had several mammograms and do self-examination regularly.

Eleven years ago I had seven or eight cysts drained. Four years ago one was removed, and two years ago another. Both benign.

This is a constant concern to me. I take estrogen — 21 days on and 7 off. Should I continue this? Can I relax and be satisfied now with the self-examination? I'll probably die of hypertension — which I have — and I'll still worry about the darn cancer thing. — Mrs. R.E.

Several thoughts come to mind that seem to apply to your case.

You cannot say you have lacked for medical attention. The need for your estrogen therapy is not clear. Third, cancer is found in only about 1 per cent of leaky breasts, which is not to say they should be ignored. Fourth, a bloody discharge would be more ominous than a yellowish one. Fifth, a discharge that persists after menopause needs careful analysis, which you apparently have had.

If your present doctor is not aware of your estrogen use, you should tell him about it. Your hypertension and past cyst history would be good reasons for going off it, at least to note the effects. The persistent use of estrogen can be a factor in your discharge.

Your problem may lie in the milk ducts themselves. They can remain active during menopause and even afterwards. If the ducts causing the problem can be located they can be removed.

By all means continue with your regular breast self-examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes bruises or blood spots on my arms and legs for no reason? I went to my doctor for a blood check and blood pressure reading. Everything was fine. He didn't say anything about the spots. When I went to the hospital a year ago for appendicitis they told me I had very small veins. I am 67. Mrs. R. W.

Nothing happens to the body for "no reason."

Did your blood check include one for blood platelet count? Platelets have to do with blood clotting, and a deficiency can cause such bruising. Some people have unusually fragile blood vessel walls, and a very minor bump can bring on the spots. A third possibility is a deficiency in vitamin C (obtained chiefly from citrus and tomatoes) or calcium, available chiefly in milk.

It's not unusual for someone your age to have any of the above deficiencies. The symptoms can appear and disappear quickly and the spots may not have been pronounced and obvious to your doctor at the time. Next time you go to the doctor, mention them. If necessary, tie a string around a finger to remind you to do so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain why a person has to take Inderal? What does it do for the heart exactly? What side effects does it have? — Mrs. J.

It's one of several brand names for the drug "propranolol hydrochloride." Its chief effect is to slow down heart action and improve heart rhythm. Side effects are usually transient, but they can include nausea, vomiting, lightheadedness, mild diarrhea or constipation and general fatigue.

Once normal heart rhythm has been restored, dosage is usually adjusted to maintain it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your columns are so helpful to me, but I have never been able to get you to answer my question in it. I hope so this time.

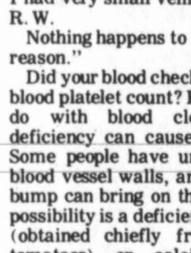

I'm 73. Is that too late to have surgery for bunions? My feet have become quite bothersome and I feel some correction is needed. Please try to squeeze an answer to this into one of your columns soon. — Mrs. E.S.

Persistence pays off.

I squeezed this one in just for you. Bunion surgery isn't as simple as it may sound, but if you are in otherwise good health, I see no reason to retire yourself out to pasture, bunions and all. Lots of good years remain. Surgery should certainly be considered. One very good reason: immobility caused by hurting feet can easily lead to other problems — obesity, muscle weakness and sluggish circulation among them. Reminds me of the old adage about "for the want of a nail," etc.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Did Jesus carry His own cross when He was led away to die? If so, is there any significance in this? — Mrs. W. M.

DEAR MRS. M.: The account found in the Gospel of John indicates that Jesus was compelled to carry His own cross (which would have been extremely heavy) toward the place of His executiin (John 19:17). Matthew, Mark and Luke all indicate that at some stage on the road the soldiers forced "one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear his cross" (Mark 15:21). Possibly this was necessary because of Jesus' weakened condition after having been beaten.

I think this incident is significant because it demonstrates the suffering of Jesus for us. We can better understand the statement of Isaiah: "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief . . . He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth" (Isaiah 53:3, 7).

Jesus' suffering, however, was not just limited to the physical pain and public humiliation He had to endure. Most of all, Jesus suffered on the cross because He was bearing our sins and the sins of the world. He did this out of love, that we might know forgiveness and salvation through faith in Him.

Incidentally, many scholars believe that Simon, the man required to carry Jesus' cross, later became a Christain, and is mentioned elsewhere in the New Testament (Acts 13:1). His son Rufus also apparently became a believer (Romans 16:13). What inscrutable ways God uses to bring us to Christ!

(Cont. from last week)

The stranger, as well as all the dark shapes slipping past in the night, had hoped for a cessation of the rains. He had more than hoped. He had sold his boat weeks ago.

He was apprehensive. The rain continued to pound upon his head, and his tent had already been washed down Third Street, bobbing its way along the turbulent waters of Runnels, disappearing somewhere in the dark and hidden distance into the lake that had formed over the railroad tracks.

And what of street soldiers Wallace and Farmer? Surely they would be back to see if he had moved to the edge of town. And he had already forgotten what direction the edge of town was.

WAS THAT THEM now? Sailing by in sleek little sloop with twin sails and a figure-head of Jack Webb on the bow, were two stalwart shadows wearing six-pointed hats. From somewhere out in the rain came the theme music to "SWAT."

The drenched pilgrim ducked behind an incoming swell. It could have been them. Or it could have been Walt Finley and his doubles partner looking for a court. Whoever it was passed by, and with its spotlight playing on the wet buildings, the craft turned leeward to the wind, scaring up a school of tuna, and shearing off a street light with its mast.

The soaked night stranger crowded closer to the towering hotel building, hoping to find greater comfort. But the rain came from all directions, chilling his skin which already had the texture of a grandaddy prune.

THE DAMPNESS had shorted out all the letters in the hotel sign except "H" and "O." And these now were flickering, threatening to black out at any moment, leaving no beacon to the weary swimmer.

As he edged closer to the dripping building, the stranger heard a radio barking out into the dampness of the night from a rain-shattered window.

"There has now been between 25 and 75 inches of rain in the city, and city officials are considering evacuating the flood-ridden community," the DJ monotoned in a semi-hysterical voice, which was garbled by intermittent thunder and whitecaps sloshing against the side of the building.

"And now for the ligher side of the news . . ." the radio began, but the stranger had turned away.

He decided to relinquish his slim claim to the sidewalk around him, and dove into the swirling waters that lapped at his feet. They were also feeting at his lap.

THE SILENT SWIMMER swam swiftly, swallowing the sweeping seepage silently, swelling surely on the swooping swarm.

He swam past a boat-load of fishermen, Wyatt Eason, Bill Norris, Dean Holland and Annette Funicello. He noticed a string of pan-size yellow catfish flouncing about the side of the craft, dangling from a rope.

The stranger, already tiring from his swim, took a fish off the stringer while the occupants were running the trotline on the other side of the boat. He didn't know when he would have another chance to eat, as . . . (click!)

There now, back from tennis, and took the typewriter off automatic. Now what? Oh yeah, have to write a rim for James while he's on vacation. Hmmm? What about?

I know. What about a rim written by his numerous house plants giving their thoughts while he's away? Yeah, why not?

Bow to big oil

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission is supposed to protect the public from rigged prices. Yet it has dropped a case that its staff says would have brought down the prices of automobile accessories.

The staff developed evidence that Amoco, Exxon, Sohio and Standard Oil of California were restraining competition. The four oil giants jointly own the Atlas Supply Co., which sells tires, batteries and accessories.

THROUGH ATLAS, the oil companies allegedly were able to manipulate prices. They accomplished this, according to confidential FTC memos, by restricting the distribution of Atlas accessories and keeping them out of the hands of discounters.

The FTC staff wanted to break the tight hold of the four oil companies on Atlas products. This would have increased competition, resulting in "lower prices to consumers on the two largest volume products, tires and batteries," states one confidential memo.

Yet the FTC, despite the strong objections of staff investigators, refused to take the four oil companies to court. Instead, the FTC filed a "Part II" complaint against the quartet. This was a cozy backroom procedure which permitted the companies to conduct secret negotiations and to seek an out-of-court settlement without painful publicity.

The closed-door negotiations dragged on for several months, but the FTC staff was unable to bring the oil companies to terms. One FTC proposal would have made Atlas products available to independent wholesalers, who could then compete with the four oil giants for the business of retail dealers.

Another proposal would have barred the four companies from assigning their chief marketing officials to serve together on the Atlas board. The board is now dominated by the Big Four's marketing specialists, who have developed and implemented anticompetitive practices.

But the oil barons, in the secrecy of the FTC backrooms, refused to cooperate. A confidential memo, summarizing the negotiations, reported bluntly: "The respondents' final settlement offer includes only token concessions . . . and would fail to prevent Atlas from continuing to be a medium for collusion."

Frustrated over the oilmen's unwillingness to compromise, the FTC staff broke off negotiations. A sharply worded memo, signed by several high-level staff members, recommended that the FTC file a formal complaint in court to break up Atlas.

"On any scale," declares the memo, "the anticompetitive aspects inherent in this combination outweigh any possible benefits . . . Divestiture is an essential remedy."

BUT THE FTC, like other regulatory agencies, is overrun by the lawyers and lobbyists of the corporations that are supposed to be regulated. The commissioners, their actions hidden from the public, refused to file suit against the four oil giants.

This made the staff so angry that it recommended dropping the whole matter and the FTC voted to close the file on the case.

Footnote: An FTC spokesman said he couldn't comment. A spokesman from Atlas also refused to comment because of the case's confidential matter.

Dear Editor:

Though we stood mute while his policy of tax, tax, spend, spend, elect and elect was implemented by our Congress, even Harry Hopkins never dreamed that we would allow our national debt to be used to support those who consider themselves above our Constitution and the laws of our Republic.

Keeping in mind that we, each of us, are our only tax base, we can slowly adjust our tax to respect the personal sovereignty of each of us, provide for our common defense and general welfare, and, encourage those of us with the most integrity and ability to lead spaceship earth to more light.

After we use our secret ballot to elect Jimmy Carter—Fritz Mondale, and, to elect candidates with equal integrity and ability to our Congress, King Henry's imaginary throne will be just another whisper on the wind.

Respectfully,
Hugh D. Dudley

To "A Concerned and Irate Citizen:"

It is certainly within your province to voice your complaints, as you did in a recent letter to The Herald, but your thoughts about the community's reaction to the proposed closing of Webb AFB can be shared with other readers only if you sign your name.

The Herald has a policy (as do all responsible newspapers) of never printing unsigned letters. The reasons are obvious: Some subscribers might get the idea that I or members of the staff composed the missives and use such guises to view with alarm or offer criticism about pertinent issues. The readers could always say that we didn't have the courage to admit responsibility for our own convictions.

Other letters have arrived at this desk recently, too, which, in effect libel individuals or business firms. In printing such letters, this paper, would automatically become party to that libel.

A proper choice of words can invariably help a complainant get a point across. An unfortunate choice of words can all too often inspire a law suit.

Mississippi delegation votes to stay unaligned

By The Associated Press

Mississippi's 30 Republican delegate-votes could have put President Ford within a political inch of the GOP nomination, but the delegation voted to stay uncommitted until the convention. So the Republican presidential contenders keep scrambling for delegates while the Democratic ticket starts writing its policy proposals.

The Mississippi delegates, the only full state delegation still unaligned either with Ford or challenger Ronald Reagan, also reaffirmed on Sunday an agreement to vote as a bloc.

But they gave no clear sign which candidate will win their votes. Both camps lobbied fiercely and both claimed strong support.

Ford has 1,096 delegates and Reagan 1,024, according to a survey by The Associated Press. The winner needs 1,130 and there are 138 delegates still uncommitted. Both candidates claim enough votes now to win the nomination.

Reagan announced Sunday that he would make "a major campaign statement" today. There were no details but one aide said it would be "a positive statement" for the campaign.

As the Mississippi delegates met, Jimmy Carter and running mate Walter F. Mondale prepared for a week-long session in Plains, Ga. with Democratic economic and foreign policy advisers.

Reagan spent Sunday taping television interviews and Ford was on the golf course as their aides lobbied for support in Mississippi.

The White House announced that Ford would meet with the Maryland delegation at a White House reception today and tad invited Pennsylvania's 103 delegates for a similar session on Thursday.

All 43 Maryland delegates are committed to Ford and most of the Pennsylvania delegates support the President, but White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford isn't taking any chances.

In other weekend developments:

—Carter told Time magazine in an interview published Sunday that his major problem remained recognition. "My major vulnerability is that people still don't know who I am or what I stand for on specific issues."

—Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., saying voters wouldn't be fooled by Carter's "messianic smile," predicted Ford will win both his party's nomination and the general election next November. Tower also praised former Texas Gov. John Connally as an excellent choice for the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket.

School replica

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Students from Mesa Central High School are constructing a replica of Mesa's first school house built in 1880 — a 20-by-30-foot building of sun-dried adobe bricks — as part of the Mesa School District's Bicentennial project.

Glen Bartel, construction class teacher at Mesa Central, said his students are gaining a lot of experience pouring footings and laying the adobe bricks which eventually will be sprayed with silicon to protect them from the weather.

Summer heat cooks up Texas tornado threats

By The Associated Press

Summer heat cooked a rash of thunderstorms, some loaded with destructive winds, and at least one tornado late Sunday across a broad reach of Texas.

Most of the turbulence dissipated soon after midnight and calm weather returned throughout the state by this morning. Except for occasional high clouds, skies cleared in all sections.

Peace officers spotted the twister as it spun down into an open field 30 miles northeast of San Angelo between Eola and Paint Rock No damage was found.

Among the thunderstorms punishing several areas in hit-or-miss fashion was one which hit the Naval Air Station at Grand Prairie, wrecking a plane on the ground and inflicting damage to several buildings. Authorities reported the wind gusted up to 60 miles per hour.

Winds hitting close to 50 m.p.h. pummeled the Wizard Wells community, 20 miles east of Jacksboro in North Texas, the National Weather Service reported, but there was no word of serious damage.

Heavy thunderstorms surged across much of North Central Texas and there were scattered storms in East Texas and from deep South Texas northward to around San Angelo.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies and more hot weather throughout the state. A slight chance was seen for showers and thundershowers in West and North Texas.

Noble skeltons are discovered

PRAGUE (AP) — A rare discovery of graves containing the skeletons of ancient Moravian men has been reported in the town of Nechvalin.

Swords were found with the skeletons, indicating they are the remains of nobility. Another indication that the dead were members of the Great Moravian Empire's upper class were the "Charon coins" found in the mouths of the skeletons. In Greek mythology, Charon was the man who ferried the souls of the dead over the Styx and Acheron rivers. The graves also include a number of gold and silver earrings.

The Great Moravian Empire was large kingdom that flourished during the 9th century, in what now is south-central Czechoslovakia.

PAT NIXON LEAVES FOR HOME — Mrs. Pat Nixon is in a wheelchair pushed by her husband Richard Nixon as she left a Long Beach, Calif., hospital Friday en route home. She has been recovering from a stroke since July 8.

Miss Toni Hale competes in international finals

Miss Toni Hale, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hale will compete in the week long Cinderella Girl Pageant International Finals in Dallas July 26-31.

The Grand Finals will be in the Great Hall at the 20-million dollar Apparel Mart at 7:00 p.m. July 30. Miss Hale qualified for the finals by winning the District II Pageant which covers 51 counties in the West Texas District.

Cinderella Girl Pageants are youth development scholarship programs which offer opportunity to talented youth. Founded in 1956, this will be the twentieth year for this event. Nearly $10,000 in cash scholarship awards and personal appearance contracts will be awarded during the international finals in several categories.

Toni entered her first pageant last year, because a friend had entered. She didn't win anything and realized a person must have a strong talent to be a contender. As soon as that pageant was over, she enrolled in dance and gymnastics classes at the local "Y" where she is a member. She entered the same pageant again this year and won the title of "Junior Miss of Big Spring." She credits much of her success to her instructor, Ora Burson. "I love dancing and it's tremendous fun but a lot of hard work too, and you must keep yourself in top shape."

Toni will be tap dancing for her talent presentation in Dallas, as well as being judged on poise, personality, standards, philosophies, and beauty. She will model in sportswear and evening gown competition. In keeping with their highest standards, there will be no swimsuit competition. She will be required to write an essay on "The Price of Leadership." Writing is one of Toni's favorite pastimes and she is the author of over 150 poems. She also enjoys oil painting and figurine painting and has won many ribbons in craft shows. Boating and skiing are high on her list of activities. Toni is a student at Coahoma High School and is secretary of her class. She is on the basketball team and a member of the Rodeo Club. She was a runner-up in this year's CHS (Coahoma High School) Contest. She is also a member of the Coahoma 4-H Club and raises and shows lambs and steers. She has won several ribbons, including a fourth place at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo in March. Toni is an active member of College Baptist Church. Her ambition is to study architecture and interior designing.

Approximately 175 girls are expected to compete in the teenage division (13-17) and Toni is taking a souvenir gift for each of them from her town. The tiny glass bottles with a shiny penny inside have been personalized with "Good Luck from Toni Hale, Big Spring, Texas" and were donated by one of her sponsors. Sponsors include Broughton Truck and Implement Company, Cosden Employes Credit Union, KBYG, First Federal Savings and Loan, Photo West, First National Bank, Wards Boot, Saddle & Western Wear, Hester's Supply Co., Big Spring Herald, Hobby Center and Frame Gallery, KBST Jay's Farm and Ranch Service Center, Anthony's, Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring New Car Dealers Association, and Coahoma State Bank, Clawson Lumber Company and Bea & Penny's Floral Company of Coahoma.

Altrusa club meets Thursday

The Altrusa Club met at Coker's Thursday with Mrs. Myrtle Tatum presiding.

The group accepted the resignation from Ms. Sheree Moates. A letter from the Howard County Library was read stating that the library had two display cases that could be used for hobby or craft display for the club or members.

Mrs. Lola Knowles gave the audit report for the past year. Ms. Beth Kay gave the Altrusa accent. She asked for the motto, then defined it.

Mrs. Knowles, chairman of the information committee, gave the program. The club has four main committees consisting of information, community services, international relations and vocations services. All committees work to promote attainment of international goals and cooperate with international and district chairmen of committees; attend all district meetings and workshops when possible; make a report before the annual meeting, for the president, evaluating the achievements made and making future recommendations; keep a workbook with all pertinent information so it can be passed on to the next chairman; and help on bulletin and reports when asked.

Mrs. Knowles briefly discussed how the classification chairman should keep up with different classifications and guidelines for the committee.

It was announced that the next meeting would be a pot luck supper at the Barcelona party room at 7 p.m Thursday, July 29. Husbands and friends will be guests.

When to tell men about breast surgery

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, unmarried and have just had one breast removed (cancer).

When I meet a man who is not aware of the surgery I've had, do you think I should tell him about it or not? I've discussed it with several people. My mother says, "Don't tell him until you are engaged to marry him."

My physician says, "Tell him as soon as you think he could become seriously interested in you."

My best friend says, "It is best to tell a man early in the friendship because it might make a difference in the way he feels about you, and it's unfair to hold it back."

I would like your opinion and the opinions of men who may have had some experience with this problem. Thank you.

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: I vote with your physician. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I wear a wig sometimes, but not all the time. I have this friend who, no matter who is present—men, women or strangers— will walk up to me, lift up my hair (or wig) and even tug on it and ask, "Is that a wig you're wearing or is that your own hair?"

Abby, when she does that, I get terribly embarrassed. How can I tell her in a nice way, so I don't offend her, that whether I'm wearing a wig or not is nobody's business but my own?

WIG-WEARER

DEAR WIG-WEARER: Tell her in plain language. And if she embarrasses you in this manner again, give the same consideration to HER as she gives to YOU. (Like practically none.)

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a wonderful man and we are planning to be married just as soon as my divorce comes through, which should be within the next few months.

My fiance wants to give me a diamond engagement ring right now. Would it be proper for me to wear an engagement ring while I'm still legally married? I don't really feel married. I've been separated from my husband for over a year.

IN LOVE AND CONFUSED

DEAR IN: Until you're divorced, you're married. Cool it until your divorce is final.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEARTSICK IN HURON, S.D.": Tell your husband you found the letter and give him a chance to explain it. Don't prejudge him.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Carrots are versatile vegetable

COLLEGE STATION — If the family is "mule-ish" about eating vegetables, tempt them with the versatile carrot, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, suggests.

"Carrots are good served alone or in combination with meats or other vegetables. Fresh carrots are available year around and are a good source of vitamin A. Current prices on carrots are attractive, also," she said.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Most carrots are tipped (leaves trimmed off) and sold in one or two-pound packages. A small volume of bunched carrots, with tops attached, is sometimes available in some markets. Packaged carrots are often labeled 'U.S. No. 1.' This U.S. Department of Agriculture grade means good quality. U.S. No. 1 carrots are firm and fairly well formed, and few carrots in the package have defects.

"Their color is orange or orange-red, not pale orange or yellow. Most of the carrots in a package must be at least five inches long and between three-fourths and one and one-half inches in diameter, unless the package is marked otherwise. If the grade name is shown within the USDA shield, the carrots have been packed under continuous government inspection," she explained.

When you buy carrots in bulk or when the grade is not shown on the package, look for well-formed, smooth, orange to orange-red carrots. They should be firm with well-trimmed tops. Avoid carrots that are flabby or shriveled or those with large green areas (sunburn) at the top, she said.

"Carrots can be stored in the vegetable bin of the refrigerator for three to four weeks," she said.

Miss Fowler will wed

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Fowler announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Doylene, to Peter C. Francis, son of Mrs. Franie Francis. The couple will be married August 21 at the White Rock Church of Christ in Dallas. Robert D. Kiser, minister at Grapevine will perform the ceremony.

Women take opportunities never before open to them

Associated Press Writer

The mental pictures, framed, by years of tradition, were fixed firmly in the minds of many Americans.

There was the male lawyer getting his client acquitted of a major crime; the male veterinarian curing the valuable race horse of a disease shortly before the big race; the male journalist with trench coat and snap brim hat getting the story of the year; the male in the pulpit delivering the Sunday sermon.

The picture is changing, at least in many of the universities of Texas as more and more women are seeking admission to educational specialities where once only men were believed to be qualified.

An Associated Press survey of various schools in Texas showed that women are moving into these male strongholds in greater and greater numbers, and being successful in all.

Prof. John Mixon of the University of Houston Law School said in a recent interview that "women now know they have opportunities that once they never thought about.

"They are looking for a place to go to meet their desires for post graduate training and found law schools. They are losing their attraction for such things as advance degrees in teaching, and college English and sociology.

"And once they enter law school, they are bright, hard working and add a lot to the classes. They provide a spirit of competition, and once women became more a part of the classroom scene, professors and male students lost the ill-at-ease feelings. Discussions reached a higher tone, moved above the 'ole boy' and locker room talk to a higher intellectual level," he said.

The freshman law school class at Houston is now 36 per cent female, far above the days when one or two women sat in the classrooms.

There has been an increase in other schools. Baylor Law School, not too long ago a male bastion, now has a female enrollment of 10 per cent.

In the state's only veterinary medicine school, Texas A&M, women will compose one-third of the freshman class next fall, up from the one-fourth of the 1975-76 scholastic year.

Dean George Shelton of the Texas A&M vet school said no longer do women think of veterinary medicine as the only treatment of horses or cows.

"With the growth of small animal practice, women became more and more interested in entering the field. Also, there are those in the environmental field and even those who know they can handle a large animal practice. It is the changing attitude of our young people. They want to become veterinarians, lawyers, doctors. There is no limit now," Shelton said.

Kay Wiley of Bryan, recently named the outstanding third-year student in the A&M School of Veterinary Medicine, said, "We are aware that some people out here resent women students. But there are so many women in the classes now, I think they all are beginning to accept us."

Shelton said women are having as much success in setting up vet practices as men.

Mixon said women law graduates "are finding better job opportunities. Ten years ago they were almost limited to the practice of domestic law or some lower echelon job. Today they are being accepted into corporate and trial practices and more than holding their own."

A spot check showed the numbers of women in journalism schools are either holding steady or growing. Women have been entering the writing field for several years, but more and more of them are going into newspaper and magazine work, rather than public relations. Fewer are taking jobs in women's news departments but are moving to all beats on newspapers, such as politics, medicine, science and crime coverage.

It is not unusual now to see a newsroom with at least 30 per cent women writers.

At the Southern Methodist University School of Theology there are 64 women studying to be pastors in a class of about 450. Five years ago there were only 15 women studying to be Methodist pastors.

The Rev. Mr. Don Rohlfs of SMU said that women had been reluctant in years past to apply for admission to theology school but now feel they can be admitted.

The Rev. Mr. Rehlfs added, "My personal opinion is that the call to the ministry comes to all human beings. Over the years, Methodist women have responded in other areas because the ministery avenue was not open to them. The door that was once closed is now open and our women are now responding as they would have years ago.

"The door has been open technically for a number of years, but practically only since 1972," he said.

The minister cited as an example the Rev. Lea Joiner, now pastor of the Southside Methodist Church of Monroe, La., with a congregation of more than 1,000 and a church income of $120,000 a year.

Miss Carr is honoree

Miss Rhonda Carr, bride-elect of Joe Harding, was honored with a bridal shower Tuesday evening in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Wayne Morris, Mrs. Garratt Patton, Mrs. Ted Hull, Mrs. Cozette Greenfield, Mrs. Jackie Carr, Mrs. Noble Kennemur, Mrs. Leonard Hanson, Mrs. Dee Foster, Mrs. Al Aton, and Mrs. Howard Voss.

Mrs. Dalton Carr and Mrs. Vergie Harding, mothers of the couple, were presented with blue carnation corsages. Miss Billie Harding, sister of the groom, was presented with a corsage, as was the grandmother of the bride-elect, Mrs. B. F. Carr.

Miss Tess Carr presided at the registry.

The serving table at the event was covered with a blue centerpiece. Brass, china and crystal appointments were used.

The couple will be married Aug. 6 in Vincent.

Beau Brummel caused tizzy

NEW YORK (AP) — Beau Brummel caused a tizzy in the society of his time when he showed up at a formal dance dressed in a silk suit of all black, according t o the American Formalwear Association.

But the idea caught on, and soon black and white was decreed the only proper way for a man to attend a formal event.

Operate own peace corps

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Harris Mainster and his family operate their own peace corps.

Since 1971, the 39-year-old osteopathic surgeon, his wife and four daughters have spend their vacations doing volunteer work in some of the world's most remote areas.

The first went to Nicaragua because a colleague of Mainster told him he had a brother in a religious order there and knew medical help was needed. Upon return, another colleague told Mainster his medical services would be more than welcome in Liberia. So they went there for their next vacation. They went to India in 1973. Last summer, they lived several weeks amidst warring tribes in New Guinea.

Bicentennial photographer

with Marj Carpenter

(Photo By Danny Valdes)

L. B. Paul had a real bird's eye view of the Bicentennial events in Big Spring.

He was the official photographer for the Bicentennial Commission and he took pictures of every single event that was held, for their scrapbook.

Paul came to Big Spring a year and a half ago, because one of his children lives here. He got acquainted in Big Spring quickly because he attended everything as the Bicentennial photographer.

YOU'D SEE him up on a ladder getting pictures of the square dance festival, down at the footlights photographing the Campus Revue, inside a church for an areawide rally, or out at the park on the Fourth of July.

"This is a wonderful place to live," says Paul. "We came from Chicago. It was quite a change."

He said that the unhurried pace of people in this area is "wonderful." He also claims that the air is cleaner and the people friendlier.

PAUL SERVED as a photographer, working in the public relations department of the Illinois Central Railroad for 28 years.

Originally, he was born in Caruthersville, Mo. but calls Memphis, Tenn. home. His father was a Baptist minister. He grew up in Memphis and married his wife, Dorothy there.

They have two children, Betty Theril of St. Louis and Mike Paul of Big Spring. They also have three grandchildren.

MIKE WORKS for Gamco and also is a photographer. Mrs. Polly Mays often shows bird slides at local programs that were taken by Mike.

The whole Paul family is interesting. They are all the kind of people who take time to notice such things as a beautiful sunset or a small bird in the park.

L. B. Paul is one of the people who has been presented a key to the city. And the key was designed by his son, Mike.

Asked if he was going to enjoy the fact that the Bicentennial is nearly over, Paul said, "I'm going to miss it. People who really attended all of the events in Big Spring during the past year enriched themselves in knowledge and had a lot of fun doing it."

YOU'VE SEEN HIM — L. B. Paul has been everywhere during the past year in Big Spring as the official photographer for the Bicentennial Commission. It's possible you've seen him snapping pictures and wondered who he was.

PAUL EXPRESSED the hope that everybody would not quit emphasizing such old-fashioned qualities as patriotism and recalling our heritage.

Paul said that he has become greatly interested in the history of Big Spring. He has also covered such events as the historical marker dedications.

But for L. B. Paul the real reward has been new friends.

"Because of the people, it's a great place to live," according to L. B. Paul. And I agree with you, from out here where I'm ridin' fence.

Caribbean beef being bought

ICA takes aim at rising property taxes in Texas

AUSTIN — Delegates at the second annual state convention of the Independent Cattlemen's Association have ranked relief from rising property taxes and defeat of state and federal land use legislation high on the Association's agenda for the coming year.

Calls for action on taxes and land use were among several policy resolutions adopted at the four-day convention of ICA members from over the state.

The delegates also reelected Goliad rancher T. A. Cunningham as president. Other officers elected were Dr. C. E. Payne, a Bryan veterinarian, first vice president; Roy Wheeler, Pleasanton, second vice president; John Nelson, Hempstead, secretary; and Bill Whitehead, Sonora, treasurer.

The tax resolution said that farm and ranch lands have reached their limits in property tax burdens and called on all taxing authorities to seek other sources of revenue. The resolution also called on ICA to seek coverage for "all family farms and ranches" of state constitutional provisions for assessment of rural lands at agricultural productivity value.

The land use resolution said that ICA "rejects all contentions that state government land use planning is an acceptable option" to federal land use threats which ICA has fought since its beginning.

Keynote speakers during the convention included Sen. John Tower, U. S. Rep. Bob Krueger, U.S. Rep. Alan Steelman, former Gov. Allan Shivers, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Texas Animal Health Commission chairman Norman Moser of Dekalb, Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, Rep. Joe Hubenak of Rosenberg, and Rep. Susan Gurley McBee of Del Rio.

Occupational safety deadline extended

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers now have until October 25 to comply with certain safety standards under the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) that were to become effective June 7.

The safety practices concern guarding tractor power take-offs (PTO), displaying safety signs and privding inital employee training for machinery operations.

"Even though the deadline has been extended, farmers should continue with preparations to meet these safety standards," advises Dr. Gary Nelson, agricultural safety engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Particular emphasis is on guarding the PTO drive line. The tractor shield on the rear PTO shaft must be kept in place, notes Nelson. However, the master shield may be removed when necessary to operate PTO driven equipment, provided the guards on such equipment cover the tractor PTO shafts.

"Regarding safety training, a farmer must instruct every employee in the operation and servicing of all equipment with which that employee is involved," emphasizes the Texas A&M University System engineer.

Among the safe operating practices in which the employee must be instructed are the following:

—Keep all guards in place when the machine is in operation.

—Permit no riders on farm equipment other than persons required for instruction or assistance.

—Stop the engine, disconnect the power source and wait for all machine movement to stop before servicing, adjusting, cleaning or unclogging equipment, except when the machine must be running to be properly services.

—Make sure everyone is clear of machinery before starting engine, engaging power or operating the machine.

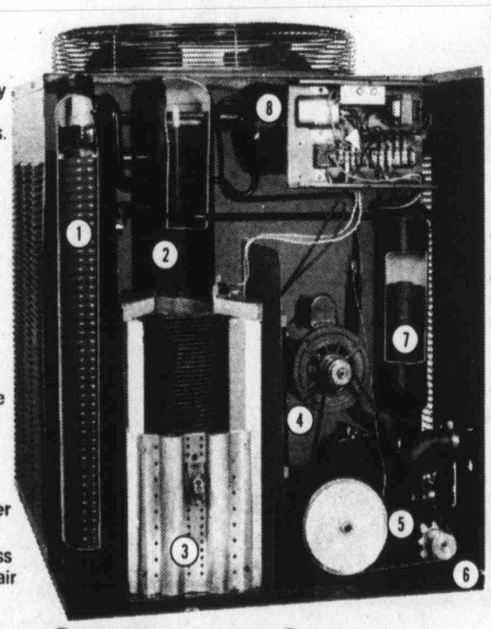

—Lock out electrical poser before performing maintenance or servicing equipment.

The requirement for safety signs calls for such signs to be placed at prominent locations on tractors and PTO driven equipment indicating that power drive system safety shield must be kept in place.

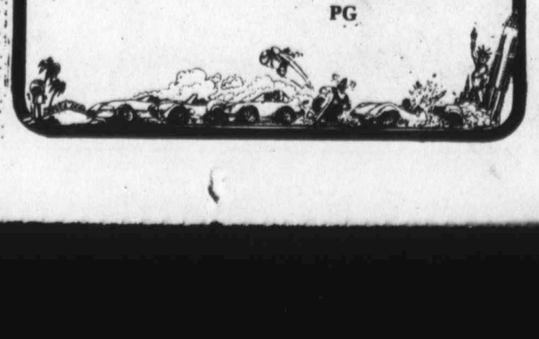

Furthermore, when removal of a guard or access door might expose an employee to any equipment that continues to rotate after the power is disengaged, the employer must provide warnings to look and listen for evidence of rotation and not to remove the guard or access door until all component movement has stopped.

"Complying with these safety standards will make the farm a safer workplace, so they should become a part of the farm operation as soon as possible," advises Nelson.

U.S. rallies in swimming, track

(AP WIREPHOTO)

WINNING PAIR — Edwin Moses of Georgia, right, clasps hands with Mike Shine of Pa., Sunday after the pair scored respective gold and silver medals in the 400-meter hurdles.

MONTREAL (AP) — The East Germans are leading, the Americans are on the rebound and the Russians are busily denying rumors one of their premier athletes is among the missing at the XXI Olympic Games.

American forces, down but not out after one of its worst days in Olympic history, turned Dark Saturday into Sunny Sunday with a gritty comeback that was sparked by one of the most dramatic moments of the Games — Shirley Babashoff's last-gasp winning anchor leg in the women's final swimming event, the 400-meter freestyle relay.

East Germany, however, won five of the eight men's rowing finals, got a medal in every race and swept past the troubled Russians into the gold medal lead with 26. They also have 17 silver and 10 bronze, a total of 53. Russia leads in total medals with a 24-24-22 gold-silver-bronze count. The United States, which won only 10 of the 104 medals distributed Friday and Saturday, collected 18 of 66 Sunday and has a 21-21-16 count.

And there was more trouble for the Russians, who will host the 1980 Games in Moscow. They've twice been accused of attempting to influence judges and had one of their modern pentathlon athletes kicked out for cheating. This time the problem involve unconfirmd reports that Valeriy Borzov, winner of both the 100 and 200 meter dashes in 1972, either has defected or been kidnaped.

The men's basketball team, apparently headed for another showdown with the Russians, plays Canada in a semifinal game. Russia plays Yugoslavia in the other. The winners meet for the gold medal which the Russians won in a controversial final in Munich in 1972. The American women could gain a silver against Czechoslovakia.

Swimming ended last night. And it ended on a high note for the deeply frustrated American women who were facing their first gold medal shutout since 1952. It was averted by an almost superhuman performance by 19-year-old Shirley Babashoff, of Fountain Valley, Calif., and three of her teammates.

It was a last-gasp thing. Going into the last event, the Americans hadn't won. Miss Babashoff had collected three silver medals, including one in the exhausting 800 meters just an hour earlier. They were facing the broad-shouldered East German women, winners of all but one event.

And the American girls won it by the touch of Miss Babashoff's fingertips over the East Germans in world record time of 3 minutes, 44.82 seconds.

"I'm very happy with all my medals," Miss Babashoff said. "I did my very best in every race. In the relay, I just got a little more help."

The help came from Jill Strickel, Hacienda Heights, Calif., Kim Peyton, Portland, Ore., and Wendy Boglioli, Ocean City, N.J., each of whom clocked her own fastest time for 100 meters.

But it was the outspoken Miss Babashoff who provided the heroics. Only an hour after the 800 meters she came back to swim the anchor leg and just hold off East Germany's Claudia Hempel.

In all, the American men won 12 of the 13 swimming events, set world records in 11 of them and accumulated 12 gold, 10 silver and 5 bronze medals in the strongest performance in the history of the Games.

They were kept from a sweep only by the victory of Scotland's David Wilkie over John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., Saturday night in 200 breaststroke.

Top NFL pick or Olympic star, which for Jones? Maybe both

MONTREAL (AP) — It's been a long way from Round Rock, Texas, for Johnny Jones.

Round Rock was where they held his district high school track meet this spring. Now, officially, he's the world's sixth fastest human.

For years hence this 18-year-old quiet-spoken young man with a flaming afterburner could be Uncle Sam's No. 1 sprint hope at the Olympics in Moscow. Or he could be a No. 1 draft choice in the National Football League. Or he could be ... who knows what?

"I don't do just a whole lot of dreaming," said Jones, who will be the second man on America's sprint relay Friday. "I try to keep my head on and not let the pressure get to me."

Jones ought to know about pressure. It's all he's ever known.

"I've been playing football and running track since I was in the fourth grade and I just haven't really done a lot of relaxing since then," he said at the Olympic village housing the U.S. Olympiad XXI athletes.

The 6-foot, 170-pounder was the target of a wild rush by college football recruiters. He could take his choice. You want a track scholarship? You got it. You want to play both, Johnny, it's yours.

Jones, who scored 45 touchdowns his last two years in high school, appreciated the way Texas Coach Darrell Royal laid his cards on the table.

"I liked the school and I liked the man," said Jones. "I think I can participate in both sports. I want to play pro football some day, and I want to come back to the Olympics. I don't think I have to give up one to do the other."

Jones, who finished sixth in the 100 meters Saturday after a poor start out of the blocks, has impressed Frank Medina, who happens to be both the University of Texas and Uncle Sam's Olympic trainer.

"Johnny has it all ... class ... lots of class," said Medina. "At this state he is more fluid than Bobby Morrow."

Morrow ran wild at the Olympics in 1956 with gold medals in the 100 and 200.

Dr. Mathew Branch said, "I think Johnny is such a strong person that he can be a world class sprinter ... at the very top in a few years. But I think the pressures of playing two sports might be too great for him. Even O.J. Simpson had to give up track."

Another U.S. official, who asked not to be named, said, "Johnny is a great prospect but if he wants to be a world class sprinter he can't play football. Football players usually hurt their knees, don't they?"

Jones made it clear he wants to play halfback for Texas this fall and start, if possible, because, "I'm going to work, work, work. I'm not ever going to give up on football.

"Just because I run track doesn't mean I'm frail or anything. I can block. We ran the Wishbone-T in high school just like Texas does."

Jones made it clear he wants to play halfback for Texas this fall and start, if possible, because, "I'm going to work, work, work. I'm not ever going to give up on football.

"Just because I run track doesn't mean I'm frail or anything. I can block. We ran the Wishbone-T in high school just like Texas does."

Jones said he can't wait for America's shot at the gold medal in the sprint relay.

"I've been getting a lot of letters, my mother (Mary Jones), and my high school coach (Scott Boyd) are here," said Jones. "Coach Royal sent me a telegram and I thought that was nice.

"But back in June if you had told me I would be in the Olympics I just might have found it a little difficult to believe."

Beats Nicklaus by 4

Pate adds Canadian

JERRY PATE

Rookie-record earnings

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Is Jerry Pate the next Jack Nicklaus?

There are many who would argue there may never be another golfer as good as Nicklaus — who has won 75 tournaments in his fabled career.

But the way Pate has blossomed as a rookie on the Professional Golfers' Association tour this year, one can't help but speculate.

Pate, the 22-year-old Floridian who won the U.S. Open last month, added the third national championship to his collection Sunday by running away with the $200,000 Canadian Open.

He fired an Essex Golf and Country Club course record of seven-under-par 63 in his final round for a 13-under 267 total, beating Nicklaus by four strokes. The $40,000 top prize brought Pate's winnings to a rookie-record $128,482. He joined the tour last fall.

It was the fourth time Nicklaus was runnerup in the Canadian Open, the only national championship he hasn't won. Last year he lost to Tom Weiskopf in a sudden-death playoff.

Like Pate, Nicklaus won the U.S. Open as a rookie, in 1962. He is a two-time U.S. Amateur champion, a title Pate grabbed in 1974.

"It would be pretty tough to be on top like he always is," Pate said of Nicklaus, "but I'm gonna try."

Nicklaus shot a 65 Sunday. Yet Pate, a former All-American from the University of Alabama, turned on the afterburners and destroyed Nicklaus, Lyn Lott, third-round leader Bob Wynn and everyone else.

Pate — youngest to win the tourney — shot 69-67-68 the first three days for a tourney total of 267.

Besides Nicklaus at 271, Pate's closest challengers were Lott at 274, Ed Sneed at 275, Wynn and Bob Eastwood at 277. Wynn, who had an eight-under 202 after 54 holes, shot a fiveover 75 in the finale over the classy, 6,696-yard course.

Only 17 golfers from the final field of 79 shot par 280 or better for the four days — despite ideal course conditions and weather.

Arnold Palmer, whose first tour triumph was the 1955 Canadian Open and who was among the leaders much of the way this year, wound up at 281, as did Weiskopf. British Open champ Johnny Miller shot 278.

Teenagers in opening round

LL title game tonight 8:00

After a one-day rain delay and nine games over a six-day span the Texas Little League District III Tournament is down to its championship fray tonight (8:00) between the Midland Northern League All-Stars and the Big Spring Nationals at Pittman Field (south of FM 700 off US 87).

Big Spring's Teenage Junior League champs, the Knights and the Elks, are just beginning their district play today when they battle each other this afternoon in Colorado City (4:30). The winner will play again tonight (9:30).

Northern's quest for the District III Little League title began easy enough, but it got tougher in each succeeding game. They whacked Midland Western 10-2 in their first encounter, came from behind to beat Big Spring International 3-1 in their second game and came from behind once again in their semi-final match to edge Midland North Central 4-3.

National took the upset route all the way. They broke in front early against tourney-favorite Big Spring Texas, fell behind by two runs and — in a wild finish — came on to win 4-3. They proved their first win wasn't a fluke by rallying in the late innings to topple Midland Eastern (which had won its first two frays 23-0 and 13-1) 3-2. National received a bye in the first round.

Jay Motter, who outdueled International's Todd Underwood last Wednesday, will probably start for Northern tonight. National manager Charles Warren said he would use his "Dynamic Duo" (Raymond Dominquez and Randy Johnson) tonight. He'll decide which one to start at game time.

In their last outing Dominquez held the Texans to three runs for four innings to garner the win and Johnson blanked them over the final two frames to pick up a safe.

Angels high on Sherry

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels have found sudden success under new manager Norm Sherry at the expense of the slump-ridden Texas Rangers. Now the challenge gets stiffer.

The runaway American League Western division-leading Kansas City Royals open a three-game series tonight at Anaheim Stadium. There's an 18-game gap in the standings between the Royals and sixth-place Angels, who completed a three-game sweep of the Rangers with an 11-inning, 7-3 victory Sunday.

"This is as good a time as any to play them," said Sherry, 3-0 as a major league manager. "My guys have pride and don't want to accept being in the cellar and we want to take the division's best, too.

Cubs win Ozona title, Garcia all-tourney

The Big Spring Tiger Cubs led by Ernie Garcia and John Morelion won the Ozona Sandlot Tournament by whipping Sonora 11-4 in their first fray and edging Junction 3-2 in the championship game.

Billy Pineda went the route in the first game scattering five hits and surrendering four runs to pick up the win. His old buddy from the Cardinals, John Morelion, gave Pineda the bat support he needed. Morelion knocked in six runs on three hits.

Ernie Garcia and Paul Paredez each had two hits for the winners.

The Tiger Cubs needed a real pitcher for the title game so Morelion traded his lumber in for a toe-plate and did the job. He held Junction to two runs on four hits.

Just about every time the losers put men on Garcia stifled a rally by making an outstanding play in centerfield. Garcia also had two more hits driving in two runs. His outstanding all-around play won Garcia the Most Valuable Player award.

Mechie Sarmiento cracked two hits in the title game.

The Tiger Cubs finished the season with a 13-4 record.

Two teams tie for first in BSGA Louisiana Draw

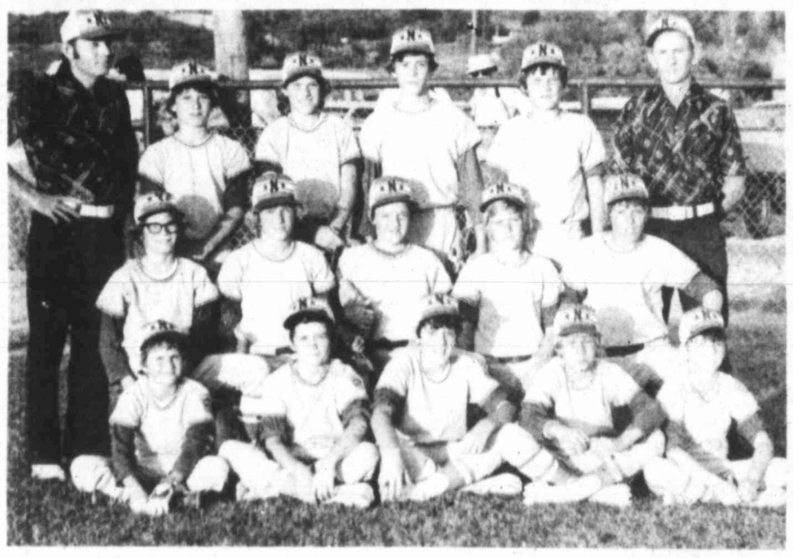

Two teams fired nine-under-par 62s to tie for first Sunday in the Big Spring Golf Association's Louisiana Draw held on the Municipal Course.

There were 61 players entered necessitating one team carrying five players instead of the usual four and the fivesome shared first place honors. The team of Joe Sharpnack, Clyde Lloyd, Dave Brazel, Gilbert Rodriquez and Howard Smith tied the team of Bernard Rains, Avery Falkner, J. D. Campbell and Dick Staggers.

Finishing third, one stroke back at 63, was the team of Ken LeSage, Charles Burdette, Miller Harris and Mike Murphy. Three teams tied for fourth with 64s.

There wasn't a play-off for the top spot. The nine members of the top two teams received $13.33 a piece in prizes. Each member of the third place team received $7.00 a piece and the 12 players who tied for fourth received $1.42 a piece.

The BSGA's next tourney will be a Selective Drive on August 22.

U.S. revenge won't be easy says Russell

MONTREAL (AP) — America's fired-up college kids won't have an easy time avenging the Olympic basketball defeat of four years ago to the Soviet Union, predicts Bill Russell.

"This is a stronger team than the Russians had at Munich," the Basketball Hall of Fame star said in analyzing the expected gold medal showdown Tuesday between the USSR and the USA.

"The Russians are very versatile. They run patterns well. They have an excellent fast break. They are not as stylized and predictable as in the past. They are more flexible, more sophisticated.

"Sure, they've got a lot of old guys. But all of the old guys are better."

The stringbean master of the boards, who came out of San Francisco to play on the United States' Olympic championship team in 1956 and then went on to a brilliant professional career, refused to make a prediction.

"It will be an interesting game," he said. Then he looked off into space. As the expert commentator for the ABC-TV network, he may have felt it indiscreet to stick out his neck.

The United States must beat Canada and the Soviet Union must overcome an old nemesis, Yugoslavia, in tonight's semifinals in order to set up the "Revenge Game."

"I feel sure the Americans and Russians will make the finals," Russell said.

Bombers clip Dusters in marathon session

The Big Spring Bombers won three games against the Webb Dusters in their four-game marathon Saturday.

The two teams were sharpening their skill for upcoming torunaments for each so they bent the rules a little. Wanting their batters to see as many different pitching styles as possible they switched pitchers for the last two games.

Jim Allen held the Dusters to two runs as the Bombers won the opening fray 4-2. Bob Harris took the loss.

Sam Kirby shutout the Dusters and Al Oldfater in the second game 5-0.

Oldfather, now pitching for the Bombers, revenged his loss to Kirby by beating him and the Dusters 6-1 in the third game.

With the Dusters' Jim Allen hurling shutout ball for the Bombers it appeared the Big Spring nine would sweep the set, but the Duster rallied in the late innings to salvage the final game 5-2. Harris picked up the win.

Roger Battle, Richard Townsend and Jim Allen's son James were the top hitters for the Bombers. Olfather, Mike Smothers and Rick Johnson paced the Dusters at the plate.

The Bombers travel to Odessa for a tournament this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The Dusters will be in the ATC tourney next month.

Astros blank Giants 1-0

HOUSTON (AP) — After being shut out twice by San Francisco within two days, the Houston Astros decided to turn the tables. 3

Rookie Mike McLaughlin's brilliant six-hit pitching effort coupled with Greg Gross' 10th-inning sacrifice fly, lifted the Astros to a 1-0 triumph over the Giants Sunday.

McLaughlin, 1-0, struck out two and walked only 1 in gathering his first major league victory. Ed Halicki, 9-13, trying to become the first National League pitcher to hurl five shutouts this season, took the loss.

Ed Hermann led off the 10th for Houston with a single preceding pinch runner Wilbur Howard's stolen base. Rob Andrews was intentionally walked and after Roger Metzger fouled out, Halicki walked pinch hitter Ken Boswell, loading the bases. Gross followed with his sacrifice fly to left, ending an 18-inning scoreless streak for Houston.

"I was just trying to hit the ball hard, but I sure didn't want to hit a line drive, Gross said. "Fortunately, I got the ball up. We've been running into some good pitching recently, but today we got some of our own."

The 22-year-old McLaughlin, playing in only his second major league game, retired 30 of the 32 San Francisco batters he faced with no Giant runner reaching as far as third base.

"I had a good breaking pitch and a good fast ball today," McLaughlin said. "I could have gone another couple of innings. It feels good the way I can come up and do the job."

Ten traffic fatalities, four drownings

Seven homicides in Texas

By The Associated Press

Automobile accidents which claimed three and four lives at one time added to the violent death toll during the weekend.

Altogether there were 10 traffic fatalities, seven homicides, four drownings and one in a plane crash tabulated by The Associated Press for the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

An Austin man, James Cody Godwin, 31, died Sunday night when his light plane struck a power line and crashed into a pasture about 1½ miles southwest of Troy in Central Texas.

A small foreign car smashed against a utility pole and killed three young Wichita Falls motorists there Sunday night. They were Jessie Martinez, 18; his brother Jerry Martinez, 14, and Gordon Whitaker, 17. Two others in the car suffered serious injuries.

Two Rockport men—Homer Saucedo and Eastevan Rebdan Lara Jr., both 19—died Sunday as their car hit a tree one-half mile north of Portland, near Corpus Christi.

Clarence Swearington, 41, of Dallas was fatally shot Sunday during an argument with a man at Swearington's home, police said.

The bodies of Paul and Mary Cantrell, both in their late 40s, were found early Sunday at their Baytown home by a daughter returning from a date. Police said the Cantrells apparently had been strangled and their throats slashed. Their wrists had been bound, officers said.

Three Douglas women died Sunday when the car in which they were riding plunged off Texas 21 into Attoyac Bayou east of Nacogdoches. State police identified them as Eula Emerson King, 67; Dennie C. Johnson, 62, and Juanita Martin Mills, 76. Divers recovered their bodies in the car.

Two persons were killed in unrelated Houston shootings Friday night. Authorities said an argument at an apartment pool resulted in the death of Kathleen Ruane, 28. Ernest Johnson Jr., 29, was slain at his home during a quarrel.

Shoplifters carry money

PRAGUE (AP) — Within the span of one year, 700 shoplifters were caught in the act in Prague's largest department store, Kotva.

The majority of the stoplifters were 30 or younger and each took an average of three items. Most of the people caught were carrying relatively large sums of money.

A popular trick was to walk into the shoe department with a pair of old shoes, and walk out with a pair of new ones.

Executed mercenary returned to America

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of Daniel Gearhart, an American mercenary executed in Angola, has been returned to the United States for burial.

The plain wooden box carrying the remains of Gearhart was unloaded Sunday from a Portuguese airliner and placed in a cargo area at Kennedy Airport overnight. It was to be flown to Washington today.

Gearhart, who was 34, was a native of the Washington suburb of Kensington, Md., where his wife, Sheila, and four children still live. No members of the family were on hand at the airport.

Gearhart served with the Special Forces in Vietnam and was working as a mechanic on cafeteria equipment when he got his job in Angola through an ad he placed in "Soldier of Fortune Magazine."

Desegregation plans are due

MIDLAND — School desegregation plans will be announced during a meeting of the Midland school board here Tuesday.

The plan must be submitted by Wednesday to comply with federal court order, received June 15, which requires the school district to submit plans for desegregating five of the school's elementary schools — Washington, De Zavala, Crockett, Milam and Pease.

If trustees' discussions with U.S. Justice Department produce the results they hope for, however, plans will be submitted only for the Washington and DeZavala schools.

CARTER NEPHEW BEHIND BARS — William Spann, 29, a nephew of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, looks out of a window at the San Francisco County jail Sunday. A jail official said Spann is serving 10 years to life for two armed robberies in San Francisco at the state prison in Vacaville, but is currently being kept at the San Francisco jail as a material witness in another robbery case.

Gas rate hike mulled

AUSTIN (AP) — A Railroad Commisision examiner today began hearing what could be several days of testimony on a proposed gas rate increase sought by Entex, Inc., in the cities of Orange, West Orange and Pinehurst.

The case came before the commission after the cities declined to grant increases sought by Entex which also seeks a purchased gas adjustment clause.

Early testimony came from employes of H. Zinder and Associates Inc., a Dallas-based utility consulting firm.

Both Joe Darrow, who sought to determine the current cost of Entex distrubution properites in Orange and Joe Wells Jr., who evaluated the condition of the Orange distrubution system, were cross-examined about testimony prepared in advance and submitted in writing.

Wells, a former employe of the Railroad Commission, said he examined the system by having 100 holes dug down to the buried pipe. Using a percentge method of describing conditions, he evaluated the mains at 92.69 per cent in their present condition. Entex services were evaluated at 94.24 per cent.

Under cross-examination by Don Butler, Austin utility lawyer retained by Orange, Wells said that he did consider obsolescence "but I didn't find any."

Under further questioning by Buter, Wells defind obsolescence as "going out of use."

He said the average age of the mains he inspected was 23.4 years.

He said he believed both pipes and mains have an indefinite life expectancy provided they are properly used, maintained and protected.

In setting rates, the commission attempts to provide an amount of money that will represent a reasonable return on the value of investment in pipeline and other catpital equipment, in addition to enabling a gas company to recovsr its operating expenses.

Increase in drilling activity is foreseen

The year 1976 will record the sharpest increase in drilling activity in more than a decade, according to the annual Midyear Forecast issued by World Oil Magazine in Houston in its Publishers Letter.

Editors of the internationally circulated publication predict the drilling of 41,451 U.S. wells and 194.5 million feet of hole, up 8 per cent and 6 per cent respectively over comparable 1975 totals. Not since 1962 has so much footage been drilled in 12 month period, and the last time a well total this high was achieved was in 1964.

The magazine's survey of operators indicate first half of the year drilling of 20,279 wells and 95.2 million feet of hole, greatly increased activity from both major and independent oil producers.

Much of the increase came from extremely active drilling plays in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, California and Illinois; a trend toward shallower drilling; and a surprising increase in rig productivity — this last in spite of a sharp drop in rig count. Holes drilled per rig and wells completed per rig have increased significantly.

World Oil points out that zooming costs will play an increasing crucial role in future work. This is reflected in the forecast of a 5 per cent decline in exploratory drilling this year. A deep wildcat well once could be drilled for $1.5 million. Now that cost may reach $6 million.

Drilling outside the U.S. also should be higher this year, led by gains in Canada and Mexico. Canada should drill 5,245 new wells, up 21.3 per cent over 1975. And Mexican completions at 449 wells would be up a remarkable 27.2 per cent.

Tenneco earnings

HOUSTON (AP) — Record second quarter and first half earnings and revenues were reported today by Tenneco Inc.

Second quarter earnings of $103.4 million or $1.19 per share compared with a year earlier $96 million or the same $1.19 for eight million fewer shares of common stock outstanding at that time. 4

Revenues of $1.59 billion compared with $1.44 billion a year ago.

First half earnings of $192.2 million were quivalent to $2.20 a share, compared with last year's $168.8 million or $2.07 a share.

Revenues for the first six months of the year were $3.15 billion, compared with $2.77 billion last year.

"In the first six months of this year, income before interest and federal income tax of our eight operating divisions, excluding investment and other income, was up 18 per cent compared with 1975, said Wilton E. Scott, board chairman. "This performance level bodes well for the remainder of this year.

Scott said strong increases in earnings for three manufacturing divisions more than offset a decline in the investment area that had made a significant contribution to second quarter and first half earnings last year.

He said other divisions, oil production, refining and marketing, natural gas pipelines, chemicals, and agriculture and land development, maintained the approximate income levels of last year's record second quarter.

Flying Training Wing's top airman, NCO named

A couple of relative newcomers have been selected as the 78th Flying Training Wing's Airman and NCO of the Quarter at Webb AFB.

Amn. Nathaniel Haywood and SSgt. Reiner Eckenbrecht were named for the honors July 12 and 13 by the selection board headed by Lt. Col. Donald E. Tokar, wing executive officer and inspector.

"I think it's a pretty good deal," said Airman Haywood, a dental specialist at the Webb Hospital. "I guess it just proves hard work here has its rewards."

The 29-year-old Philadelphia native has been at Webb since February. He plans on entering Howard College in the fall and work toward a sociology degree.

"Airman Haywood knows his job and the field exceptionally well," said his supervisor, MSgt. Eddie Barksdale, NCOIC of dental services. "I've been here about four years and he's one of the best troops I've ever had."

Airman Haywood said he found the wing selection board different from the squadron board. "For one thing, the wing board was composed entirely of officers," he said. "The wing board asked me more specific things like my chain of command. The squadron board asked more general, opinion-type questions."

ECKENBRECHT

Sergeant Eckenbrecht, a fuels specialist assigned to the fuels management branch, thought the boards were exactly the opposite. "The squadron board asked all the specifics, especially things about my job and my role as a supervisor," he said. "The wing board wanted general answers like what I hoped to get out of my career."

The 26-year-old Binghamton, N.Y., native is the NCOIC of the fuels management branch night shift. He is single and has been here since January. He has been in the Air Force seven years.

The recent graduate of Webbb's NCO Leadership School is an active member of the local American Legion Post 355. Off duty, he enjoys tennis and swimming.

The sergeant was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal from his last duty assignment and a recent suggestion of his to regulate security lights in the bulk storage area netted the base $600 years in savings.

Other top performing airmen considered for this quarter's honor were: A1C Bob W. Wyrick of Air Base Group; A1C Richard Schneider of Resource Management; A1C Robert D. Gatewood of Civil Engineering Squadron; A1C Alex Phakos of Field Maintenance Squadron; and Amn. James L. Rogers of Organizational Maintenance Squadron.

Other outstanding NCOs considered were TSgt. Joe W. Fields of Civil Engineering Squadron; SSgt. Arthur R. Kirby of Air Base Group; SSgt. Randall Johnson of Operations; SSgt. Wayne M. Rosch of Maintenance; and SSgt. Ronald L. Tanner of Field Maintenance Squadron.
