FRIENDS GUARD NORRIS IN COURT FLOODS THREATEN FIVE MIDWESTERN STATES

CREST OF WAVE GOES SOUTH AS RISE CONTINUES

OHIO RIVER ON RAMPAGE FORCES PEOPLE TO TAKE TO ROOFS

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 24.—Residents of five states along nearly 500 miles of the Ohio river viewed with apprehension today the steady rise of the river which has driven hundreds of persons from flooded lowlands.

While the water was receding somewhat in the Pittsburgh area where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, with prospects that further danger from floods had passed there, the crest of the flood was moving steadily southward.

Part of danger passed in Virginia and Kentucky territory. Flood stage had been reached and passed in many localities and further rises were predicted for the next 24 hours as the angry waters swollen by heavy rains swept onward to the Mississippi.

The lower portions of a number of towns were under water. Many persons were forced to the second stories of their homes or to seek shelter on higher ground, rail and automobile traffic was hampered, water supplies were endangered and considerable damage was done.

Five days of rain in the Pittsburgh area sent the river on its rampage, and early today the effect of the high water was felt as far west as Louisville. The Allegheny and Monongahela rivers had fallen to 2.5 feet last midnight, a drop of two feet since the morning, and were steadily receding, while a cessation of the rain and a drop in temperatures aided in starting the territory they traverse back to normal. Several streets were inundated on the north side of Pittsburgh and factories in the suburbs were forced to suspend operations.

Small Fortune Found In Search For Funds

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 24.—Liberty bonds and United States government farm loan bonds valued at $269,000 greeted Mrs. Sarah Smith Scullard when two safety boxes were drilled open here today in search of $800,000 in cash and securities she alleges her husband appropriated.

Colorado Boy Held On Charge Of Theft

Preston Schiveley, who gives his home address as Yuma county, Colorado, is in the Lubbock county jail facing a charge of theft in connection with the disappearance Sunday night of a suitcase from the rear end of the automobile of Dr. Geo. G. Ingham, local dentist. Charges were filed Monday morning by L. A. Howard, county attorney.

The youth was arrested late Sunday soon after the disappearance of the suitcase from the car. According to a statement made to officers by Doctor Ingham, the boy was riding on the rear end of the car this side of Hale center, late left the machine, and the loss of the suitcase was not discovered until Doctor Ingham reached Lubbock. He immediately instituted search for the youth with the aid of members of the sheriff's department, and the suitcase was recovered intact.

When Dan Moody Took Office In Austin Inaugural Last Tuesday

Fall-Sinclair Case Set For April 25th

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Trial of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and Harry F. Sinclair, on charges growing out of the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, was postponed today until April 25. The case previously had been set for February 2, but counsel for the prosecution and defense agreed upon a postponement until May 2 owing to the illness of Fall, who is convalescing from an attack of pneumonia at El Paso, Texas. The court, however, chose the April date, Sinclair's trial for contempt of the senate, growing out of his refusal to answer questions of the senate oil committee, will begin on March 7. The oil operator appeared today for arraignment and the date was agreed upon by both sides.

Watchman Dies As Dancers Hold Sway

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 24.—While scores of merry makers were dancing in an El Paso cafe Sunday night, John Flexen, a night watchman, plunged to his death down an elevator shaft that was separated from the dining room only by a thin wall board partition.

The check room girl and many diners heard the thud of the body as Flexen landed at the bottom of the shaft, but no attention was paid to it. His death was discovered several hours later when occupants of the Mills building tried to locate him. A panel was removed in the wall of the cafe and the horribly bruised body of the dead man was revealed to the danger. The crowd dispersed at once.

Tulsa Woman Guilty Of Murder, Verdict

TULSA, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Edna Cline, slayer of her husband, Wesley Cline, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to five years imprisonment by a jury here today. The 20 year old widow was convicted of shooting her husband as the climax to a drinking party in their home the night of November 30.

BIGAMIST KILLS WIFE AND HIDES CRIME IN RIVER

BOND SALESMAN ADMITS MURDER AFTER LONG QUESTIONING

(By The Associated Press)

MAUSTON, Wis., Jan. 24.—A baseball bat ended the life of his bigamist second wife, whose death he kept secret for three months by signing her name to letters with a rubber stamp, William N. Coffey, Madison, bond salesman, confessed today. He told Sheriff Wright he killed Mrs. Hattie Hales Coffey, whom he married on September 15 at Winona, Minn., although he already had a wife and three children, and threw her body into the Mississippi river at Dubuque, Iowa, when she accused him of associating with other women.

After refusing since his arrest last Friday to tell the whereabouts of the second Mrs. Coffey, a 53 year old saleswoman, Coffey greeted Sheriff Wright today with the blunt admission that he killed her.

Throw Body In River "I struck her over the head with a baseball bat," Coffey admitted. "Then I threw her body clad in a night gown, into the Mississippi river."

The couple were on a wedding trip. After the woman's death, Coffey wrote a series of letters signed with a rubber stamp to Mrs. Anna Holdridge, Rockford, Ill., sister of the dead woman, in which he attempted to convince her that his bride was alive.

Suspicious, Mrs. Holdridge, through a nurse brought Coffey to Elroy, Wis., where he was arrested on a charge of forgery. A warrant charging bigamy was obtained at Winona, Minn., Saturday on Coffey's admission that he has a wife and three children in Madison, Wis.

Admits Illegal Marriage Coffey at first admitted that his marriage to the Lacrosse widow was illegal, later confessing the use of rubber stamps to forge his wife's name. Authorities at Dubuque said their records showed no report of the finding of unidentified bodies in the Mississippi river. He said, however, that Coffey may be taken there and held until the river opens in the spring when a search may be made.

Tommy Armour Wins El Paso Golf Play

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 24.—Tommy Armour of the Congressional club, Washington, D. C., played preliminary golf Sunday for a $38 loan in El Paso's first annual $2,500 tournament and brought his card for the 72 holes to 288, the best of the tourney. Joe Kirkwood and Johnny Golden tied for second place with scores of 292 and second and third prize money.

A. DeMane of Long Island was fourth with 297 and Joe Turnesa of Hempstead, Long Island, was fifth with 299. Ed Dudley of Hollywood and Bill Creevey of Binnie Briar were tied for sixth place.

Florida Thieves Are Free With Big Loot

Donaldson died of pneumonia here a week ago and had been working for the Derby Oil company of Wichita, Kan. His son is thought to be in or near Salt Lake City, Utah.

City Dads Look With Favor On Tree Offer

Judge Ben Lindsey Ousted By Court

(By The Associated Press)

Denver, Colo., Jan. 24.—Judge Ben Lindsey was ousted as judge of the Denver juvenile court through a decision of the state supreme court today. The decision of the higher court reversed the decision of the Denver district court in contest proceedings brought by Royal W. Graham, Lindsey's opponent in the 1924 election and held that the ouster prayed for by Graham should be entered. Graham who brought the contest proceedings, is dead.

The decision of the supreme court leaves the juvenile jurisdiction of Denver vacant. Lindsey died in his home here more than a year ago under mysterious circumstances. A coroner's jury held that he took his own life but his family and friends have held persistently that he was murdered.

Shift Scene In Browning Trial

Daddy Cheered As Trial Is Opened At Carmel; White Plains Is Chosen

(By The Associated Press)

CARMEL, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Edward W. Browning's separation suit against his wife, the former Frances Peaches Heenan, which opened here at 10:50 this morning, was adjourned to White Plains thirty-five minutes later by a ruling of Supreme Court Justice Weiser.

The trial will be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow in its new jurisdiction. Only two witnesses were put on the stand at today's opening, both witnesses for the wealthy New York realtor. They were Edward P. Carney, his chauffeur, and John T. Gorman, Browning's secretary. Both testified that they had been told by Mrs. Browning and her mother, Mrs. Catharine Heenan, that Mrs. Browning was "sick and tired of it all" and was not going back to the real estate man. The court room was filled with three hundred seated and a hundred more standing against the wall.

Photographers were barred and one, who sneaked in, was ejected. Mr. Browning's entrance to the court room was the occasion for a prolonged hand clapping on the part of the women, many of whom were elderly farm-women roughly dressed.

Mrs. Browning appeared without any public emotion, she smiled profusely during the first few moments in court.

Bradley Asks Court To Guard Documents

A motion seeking an order from the court to prohibit removal from the files of the district clerk and justice of the peace, of original papers, both indictments and search and seizure warrants, was offered in district court here Monday morning by Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney.

Mr. Bradley explained in his motion that many papers of the above named nature have been lost from records of the court, and that the state is helping in its prosecution without them. He said it is not the intention of the state to deprive interested attorneys of access to the papers, but asked in the motion that correct copies of the papers be used by them, and not the original documents. The court said the motion would be taken under advisement, and that the order probably will be granted.

Levelland Pastor Is Very Sick Here

Rev. James A. Long, pastor of the Baptist church at Levelland, is ill in the Lubbock Sanitarium following an operation for appendicitis Friday. He was resting well this morning, his daughters said, although the operation was very serious and the crisis in his illness is expected to come Tuesday morning. In addition to Mrs. Long and younger children who are here from Levelland, six daughters and sons are here with him. They are Mrs. Guy Ellis, of Hollis, Okla.; Mrs. E. L. Nowlin, of Dallas; Mrs. C. H. Crum, of Plainview; Miss Midge Long, of Tahoka; Miss Jeanette Long, of Plainview and Jesse Long, of McCain.

DEFENSE CALLS TWO WITNESSES TO CLOSE CASE

JURY WILL GET CASE BY TUESDAY EVENING OR EARLY WEDNESDAY

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 24.—Fear of possible injury to the Rev. J. Frank Norris caused his friends to ask court bailiffs today for permission to sit near him within the railing where his murder trial is drawing to a close.

When court opened, a circle of close friends surrounded the Fort Worth pastor who is charged with killing D. E. Chippis, Fort Worth lumberman.

Possible Results

A verdict of murder, carrying with it from five years in prison to death sentence.

A verdict of manslaughter, carrying with it a prison sentence from two to five years.

Not guilty verdict, freeing defendant.

A hung jury, which will call for a new trial.

29 Mexican Rebels Slain During Fight

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—Twenty-eight rebels and one chieftain were killed in various combats with federal forces Sunday. General Pablo Cabanas, leading a group of insurgents, attacked Santa Maria, state of Guerrero, but the small garrison defeated and dispersed the rebels, killing ten of them.

Simon Cortes and four of his followers were killed after capturing a part of the town of Santiago del Monte, state of Michoacan, when state guards defeated the band. Six rebels were killed at Ahualulco, six at Los Años and two at Ayochico, during clashes with federal soldiers in the state of Jalisco.

The Woman's Daily Editorial

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

MASTERPICES!
I have a merry little landlady who could teach a lesson to kings. She is foreign, speaks of her husband as "She" in spite of all telling, and to her everything is "nice."

If I were to say anything to her about "pride of accomplishment," her black eyes would probably flash out at me a look of deep dismay, as she would think very likely that I was talking about missing buttons or too much starch.

She is 35 years old, has four children and a husband who always develops rheumatism when there is a good job on hand.

Five days a week she labors and does all her work—for other people, and on the sixth and seventh days she does the rest—the washing and ironing and cleaning and sewing, and sundry, for her own family.

I wish you could see her carry in a basket of snowy clothes, her face glowing with pride. "Nice day—good for dry," she beams, looking over her handwork as Benvenuto Cellini may have looked at a vase he had just finished for the Grand Duke.

Her work finished, she is at liberty to leave, but no, she is determined to give value received and you find her wandering over the house with cloth and basket, to see what windows need cleaning. Usually some of them do, and she goes at the job with as much alacrity and enthusiasm as though she were setting out on a picnic and the day just begun.

Zip! They are finished. Clear as crystal and the corners not neglected. She can do 25 large windows while most people are doing a fifth the number.

Loves to work you say? No, I don't think so. She would be rather working for her own children, of whom she is very fond. I often hear her sigh. But unless I ask the never mentions her troubles. She thinks nice things I met her down street the other day and stopped to talk. She patted my coat all over and said "Nice," and looked so happy to see me.

I said to myself, "You sweet little soul! Wouldn't this world be wonderful if everybody was like you?"

Pride of accomplishment is a great thing. Happiness of accomplishment is still greater.

NEEDLE IN NOSE

CEDAR RAPIDS, Mich.—For twelve years' Alvin Voldeyberg suffered from headaches. The other day when he blew his nose, he found a half-inch piece of needle in his nostril. Voldeyberg was a soldier in the Philippines 12 years ago when he was kicked by a horse. The surgeon who operated, presumably left part of a needle in his head.

BOOK SHELF GROWS

LONDON—The British Museum library has been growing out of bounds. Containing about 4,000,000 books and increasing by 35,000 to 40,000 books a year, the decentralization of the library is deemed necessary. It is the duty of the British Museum to publish and preserve every book published in Great Britain.

Miss Evalynn Williams' Chic Attire Does Not SHE SELLS REAL ESTATE IN OIL BOOM CENTERS

Keep Her From Being Real Business Success

Selling real estate is unusual enough as an occupation for a woman but add to that selling real estate in oil boom centers following the boom from one place to another and being a very pretty young woman besides, it is yet more unusual. But that's just what Miss Evalynn Williams, who is visiting friends here during the week-end and attending to business matters is doing.

Far removed from the blue serge, spectacled, low heeled business woman, Miss Williams is the chic, meticulously dressed young woman.

She is now selling lots in "Mint's Paradise Vista" at Trent in the center of the newly discovered Noodle creek oil district, having named her addition after the widely-read comic strip-Gump enterprise. She has no partner in business and does not know that she will have one. "I had an offer of a partnership recently, but since I had sunk considerable money in the project at Trent, I was not sure that I wanted someone else to tell me what to do," she said this morning.

Maybe So—Maybe Not
As to marriage, Miss Williams is not sure whether she will marry or not. She likes her business and marriage might complicate matters, but she can cook and sew and she has studied interior decoration, having become interested in this phase of art about three years ago, taking a special course of study in it.

Miss Williams was secretary to the president of a bank in Wortham when the oil boom struck the town and during that time she made from $10 to $20 extra each day with independent typing for the oil men and this aroused her interest in the work. Following that, she worked in Mexia, again in Wortham, in Amarillo and in other oil centers. At one time she spent six months in Lubbock, but things were too quiet here and she returned to the excitement of an oil town.

Was C. of C. Secretary
She was secretary of the Mexia chamber of commerce for some time and worked for a while as assistant secretary of the North Texas State Teachers college, Denton, where she had taken college work for two years.

She isn't afraid to be in an oil town in spite of the lawlessness of these centers. "I never flirt with men and I ignore the lawless element, so that they leave me alone, also," she stated. Her dealings with men are strictly business, she said. There is a class of people found in the oil towns besides the raffish of humanity she said, and, since the same group of people go from one oil town to another, she associates with the same friends everywhere.

She doesn't think her work is so unusual for a woman. "Anyone can do it who has any business sense and who is willing to work night and day and sometimes all day Sunday besides," she said.

While here Miss Williams is the guest of Mrs. Margaret Renfro, 1617 6th street, and of Misses Ira and Lou Crouch, 2316 Broadway.

Ice Cream, Western Magic, Triumphed Over Eastern Tradition When Chinese Royalty Picked for American Woman Artist

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The head that wears a crown differs not so much from the head that wears a felt sport hat. Women are women in the land of jade and ivory, as in the land of flippers and bobbed hair.

And every girl likes strawberry ice cream.

Leonebel Jacobs, famous New York pastel artist, returns from Peking with a tale of how a flash of strawberry ice cream won from the tinker girl empress of China what strategy and diplomatic wiles have never won consent to have her portrait painted.

Mrs. Jacobs' pastel of the empress is the first picture ever made in the royal palace, and today it hangs in the empress' own boudoir, or what ever she calls her little paper-walled, lily-scented chamber. And the door gods and the ancestors and all the other Chinese lares and penates probably are shivering with rage at the desecration of old tradition.

Never before in the history of China has an empress or any other woman of royal blood allowed her face to be reproduced for the poster.

A Cold Reception
Mrs. Jacobs did it with ice cream. Visiting an influential American lawyer's wife in Tientsin, she hung her best pastel in the drawing room and invited the emperor and empress to view them. When they came, she served ice cream.

Ice cream is the one sure way to the Chinese heart. Before the call was ended, she had won the empress' consent to pose.

Great as was the thrill of painting an empress, it was no new experience to Mrs. Jacobs. She has done probably more celebrities than any other living painter. Presidents Harding and Coolidge, Bertha Cantsuzene, Ethel Barrymore, Tagore, Alice Longworth, John Erskine, Clemenceau and Madame Wellington Koo are in her gallery, to say nothing of Chinese princesses, French counts, and Arabian poets.

She says they are less difficult to work with than the unimportant persons she has painted. All human beings, from kings to coolies, dance on the same strings—sympathy, friendliness, interest.

Success in portrait painting rests first of all on the artist's ability to grasp personalities, to strike the note that makes the model comfortable and gains his trust.

"The empress and emperor of China are the most friendly, childishly trusting persons you can imagine," Mrs. Jacobs says. "Almost always I have found great personalities approachable. "People told me that President Coolidge was cold and difficult to talk to. Therefore, when he sat for me, I worked silently believing him lost in thought. Suddenly he said, 'Your hair is just the color of mine!' He was as pleased with the idea that both of us had orange hair as a child might have been."

Though the portrait of the Chinese empress illustrates how beautiful the Manchou women may be, Mrs. Jacobs believes that the finest feminine faces in the world are American.

"Chinese women and some Europeans have delicate features, exquisite coloring and fragility," she says. "But none of them know life as American women know it. "The sheltered life of the Chinese empress, for example, produces a face as pretty and as quiet as that of a doll. But in comparison, a woman like Ethel Barrymore or Alice Longworth can lay claim to far greater beauty. Their faces show character molded by varied experience."

"Whereas Oriental women worship beauty for itself, American women want their faces to show intelligence.

Alfred Roosevelt, however, was the only woman of any race who actually asked me not to soften a single line in her face. I am 40, and I want to look 40," she said, and she meant it.

The best model, according to Mrs. Jacobs' standards, is a man of 50 or 60 who has lived strenuously. And the finest sitter she has ever met was "Uncle Joe" Cannon, whose face at 80 showed the refining and deepening influence of a long life.

As a connoisseur of human beings, the portrait painter prefers character to beauty, personality to perfect features.

"The sheltered life spoils a woman's good looks," she declares. "To be really beautiful, live. Life is the best cosmetic."

SCOUTS TO AID IN CELEBRATION

Plans Laid For Entrance Into Nationwide Celebration Of 17th Birthday

Plans are being completed here for participation of Lubbock Boy scouts in the nationwide celebration of the seventeenth anniversary of the founding of scouting in the United States, set for the week of February 6, H. B. Palmer, scout executive said today.

The celebration will be held simultaneously throughout the nation, the purpose of which is three-fold, as follows:

1. To give the boys in scouting a real birthday party.

2. To educate the public on the value of scouting through an abundance of scout participation in worthwhile activities.

3. To recruit and train leaders with institutional backing who will give leadership to scout troops in these institutions.

Outline Is Received
A general outline of a proposed program to be used has been received by the local office, with each day during the week being set aside to cover one certain phase of scout work.

Under the outlined program Sunday has been set aside for a discussion of the scout and his church; Monday, the scout and his home; Tuesday, the scout and his community; Wednesday, the scout and his school; Thursday,

Iowa Police Continue CORPSE EXHUMED TODAY

Probe Of Lad's Death

(By The Associated Press)
MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, Jan. 24.—EXHUMATION today of the body of Charles Elrod, 18 year old Lewellen, Neb., widower may solve the mystery surrounding the youth's death a fortnight ago in Marshalltown hotel room.

With authorities undecided as to whether the victim of a love letter hoax was slain, committed suicide, or died of natural causes, the body will be taken to Iowa City for examination by Dean Wilber Teeters, of the University of Iowa. An examination of vital organs several days ago revealed no trace of poison.

The dead man's schoolgirl sweetheart, Veda Bellefeuille, has not returned to her classes, school authorities having requested that she remain away until the investigation in Elrod's death is completed.

Officers have found new leads in the "Keith Clayton" letters—letters Miss Bellefeuille wrote to Elrod in an attempt to make him believe he had a rival for her hand in an imaginary "Keith Clayton."

The theory that Elrod's death may have been the result of a suicide pact with Miss Bellefeuille has brought denial from her.

FRANK J. NAVIN SUCCEEDS BAN JOHNSON

ALL HEALTH OF JOHNSON CAUSE OWNERS' CHANGE

'SHOWDOWN' CALLED OFF AFTER SUNDAY MEET OF MAGNATES

(By The Associated Press)

CAGO, Jan. 24.—Frank J. Navin took today in solving president of the American League. Ban Johnson, who founded the circuit in 1903 and has been its president ever since, has been voted a temporary vacation because of his illness. His physician said Johnson again may be able to assume duties of president of the league. The meeting of the club owners last night in Chicago, Johnson's post automatically postponed the meeting. Commissioner K. M. Landis called for today at which there was to have been a showdown between Johnson and the owners over the Speaker's charges.

Landis Statement Coming
Landis said he would have a statement later on the status of these matters which Johnson previously had said would not manage American League clubs this year.

Johnson's passing from league control, at least for a time, of Johnson's name from Baltimore to the report that he had been offered a salary of $50,000 to play this year with the Boston Orioles of the International League.

Jack Dunn, president of the Orioles, said one has told him he should not be in the clear yet. That is, I don't think I'm in the clear myself, he said. I have the right to endeavor to get him.

Cobb had not received the Baltimore offer late last night. Asked if he would be willing to play for Baltimore, the Georgian replied.

Cobb Undecided
"I have a hard question. You know me in the clear yet. That is, I don't think I'm in the clear myself, he said. I have the right to endeavor to get him.

A formal statement concerning the status of Johnson was given out following a meeting of the eight club owners of the league last night. It was the first American League meeting since Johnson's death in two years by which Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox and bitter foe of Johnson, was present.

Navin Draws Post
Johnson's personal physician, Dr. Robert B. Drury of Columbia, said that Mr. Johnson's health was such that he should immediately take a vacation.

Five Players Who Figured In Big Trade

WALTER HENLINE
JACK SCOTT
ALEX FERGUSON

Billy Evans Says:

John McGraw will have his New York Giants strongly in the running for the 1927 pennant if trying counts for anything.

Since the close of the 1926 world series McGraw has put over two big deals that certainly have added much strength to the New York club.

First, he traded Frankie Frisch to St. Louis for the great and only Rogers Hornsby, outstanding star of the National League, after Hornsby, his manager, had won for St. Louis its first pennant and world championship.

Having bolstered up his infield, McGraw, realizing that he must have much improved pitching to put over a pennant winner, set about to get it.

In a four-cornered deal that involved about a dozen players, veterans and rookies, McGraw, landed Burleigh Grimes for the Giants. The former star of the Brooklyn Dodgers is one of the few spiltball pitchers still doing business in the majors and he is a mighty good one. Grimes should be a big winner for McGraw.

The deal also brings back to the majors Alex Ferguson, who was the pitching surprise of the 1925 series for Washington against Pittsburgh. Philadelphia parts with Catcher Dutch Henline, who plays for the Brooklyn club. In addition, Manager McInnis gets Pitcher Jack Scott and Infielder Thompson from New York. In the deal of many angles.

Coach E. J. Lowery, who has had charge of the track team in Lubbock high school for the past five years, has started work in the cinder path department. Coach Lowery states that his material is young, green and unexperienced. It will take a lot of work, he added, and that's just why I am with the track team.

The track team of the Lubbock high school last season consisted mostly of Seniors and as a result the club will be lacking for veterans.

Jack Dempsey, who second at the end of each round would start a vigorous massage of my eyes and the doctor kept plying applications because we were working against time and were afraid my eyes would close again and I had to get Gilmore and get him quick before it was too late.

I went out and started a savage body attack in the 25th round. Gilmore winced with the pain and dropping his arms a bit to cover the belaboring I was giving his "button." We old-timers didn't call the chin the button. The button to us was the spot in the stomach just below the breast bone.

Well, Gilmore lowered his guard a bit and—wham—I brought over a looping right that hit him square on the nose, broke it, and knocked him down and out.

THEY DIDN'T DISH OUT A BIG PAY ROLL

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Here may be the reason for all those conflicts and fights between the American and English governing bodies in golf.

In the annual report of the U. S. G. A., just released, disbursements amounting to $39,486 are shown and the international relations committee was listed the sum of $18,57.

Tonight at eight the Matadors will get gone on their 1927 schedule in basket ball. They open a two game contest with the Sul Ross Lobos to-night in the new assembly hall.

Captain Walker and 'Al Jennings, a former junior college all star, will bear the brunt of the forward duty this evening for while at least, Coach Grady Higginbotham states that he is uncertain as to who will constitute the team tonight in the beginning.

George 'Buck' Weaver, former team mate of Jennings on the Ploverby quintet, of John Tarleton college, at Stephenville, who chucked up six field goals in a very few minutes in the practice tilt with the Wayland college machine last Thursday night, will no doubt have a chance against the Lobos this evening. Weaver has had lots of hard experience and is certainly familiar with the game.

Coach E. J. Lowery, who has had charge of the track team in Lubbock high school for the past five years, has started work in the cinder path department. Coach Lowery states that his material is young, green and unexperienced. It will take a lot of work, he added, and that's just why I am with the track team.

EDDIE COLLINS TO BE BOLSTER FOR MACK KIDS

PHILADELPHIA ADDS TWO NEW INFELDERS FOR BATTING PUNCH

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—A new infield built around Eddie Collins, his star second baseman of championship days, carries the pennant hopes of 24-year-old Connie Mack in his 27th season as manager of Philadelphia Athletics.

Returning to the same post he occupied in Mack's famous $100,000 infield combination sixteen years ago, Collins, deposed leader of the White Sox, will have new Philadelphia co-workers on both right and left. Connie has indicated, Reaping Galloway as shortstop will be Joe Boley, acquired from the Baltimore Internationals, while at first base will be Dudley Brannan, hard hitting star from the Kansas City club of the American association. Jimmy Dykes again is slated for third base.

With the combination as a starter Mack will have probably the best equipped reserve infield in organized baseball, with Poole for the first base, Bishop second, Galloway short and Hale third.

Hitters Are Needed
The changes have been made primarily to bolster one of the weakest hitting clubs of the 1926 American League campaign. In Collins and Brannan he has obtained two players who hit well over 300 last year. Boley also climbed into the select group of the international.

One more heavy artillery man for the lineup was obtained in the signing of "The Hickman" former Brooklyn outfielder, Zack West, who for years finished among the National League batting leaders. Zack appears slated to patrol left field, with A. L. Simmons in center and Walter French in right. West and Wilson from Waco, Texas, and Metzler of Wichita Falls will seek to displace the veterans, while Mack also may find room for Bill Lamar.

Good Hurling Crew
The pitching staff, holding over from last year, includes Howard Ehmke, Sam Gray, Ed Rommel and Jack Quinn, right handers, and Grove, Willis, Waiberg and Pate, southpaws. Darrah and Hunter from Dallas, Shores from Wichita Falls and Yerkes, a Philadelphia product, also are possibilities.

Mickey Cochrane, Cy Perkins and Jimmy Fox again will handle the catching assignment.

"We've done everything possible to strengthen the team," Mack said. "I figure it will be a tough race, but I have a hunch we will be leading the procession next October. If not I'm still ready to try again the following year."

Seeks Increase

FRANKIE FRISCH

(By Associated Press)

Unable to sign Rogers Hornsby for less than $50,000 for three years, Owner Breardon traded him to the Giants. He received in return Frankie Frisch, also another argument on salary.

Realizing President Breardon must have him in the lineup to appease the fans, Frisch is holding out for a substantial increase in salary. It is said he received $18,000 from New York last year.

Coach L. J. Von Tungen, of the Lubbock high school, spent several days in Oklahoma City recently arranging to bring the Oklahoma City high school football eleven to Lubbock during the 1927 football season. White contract for the game has not been signed. It has been planned for some time and the Oklahoma club is anxious to make the trip to Lubbock.

OFFICIALS DENY CHARGE THAT PRINCETON IS 'DIRTY ELEVEN'

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—A widening circle of denial and regret of Wyanan D. Hubbard's charges that Princeton played dirty football against Harvard rose from the two universities today. For the magazine Liberty, Hubbard, who played guard for Harvard, wrote an article in which he named Harvard players who he said had been injured deliberately by Princeton.

Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton university board of athletic control, declared Hubbard's charges "unworthy of answer from Princeton." Instead he offered the testimony of F. W. Murphy of Brown university; W. R. Okeson of Lehigh, and W. G. Crowell of Swarthmore, all of whom have served as officials in Harvard-Princeton battles from 1919 to 1926 during which period Hubbard charged that eyes were gouged, limbs broken and other injuries inflicted.

The officials were unanimous in their statements that the games were cleanly played; that injuries were not maliciously inflicted; and the conduct of players most sportsmanlike, as befitting play between "gentlemen."

PARIS, Jan. 24.—Two mountains have been reported as moving—one in England, the other in Switzerland. The first is Dourneau Fair, the moving mountain of Monmouthshire, and the other is Mt. Arlino, near Bellinzona.

The latest shift at Dourneau Fair moved the bed of a river and made 20 families homeless. The city of Bellinzona, the capital of the Swiss canton of Ticino is reported to be in danger of being wiped off the map by Mount Arlino. Sometimes the mountain moves as much as three feet in 48 hours.

Scientists have studied these phenomena. Some say that the moving mountain becomes topheavy because of rains and the trickling of water. The movement is usually slow, but lately.

TECH FIVE WILL MEET SUL ROSS ON COURT HERE

SCARLET AND BLACK TO OPEN SEASON ON OWN FLOOR TONIGHT

Tonight at the new assembly hall the Matadors will formally open their 1927 basket ball season with a game with the Sul Ross Lobos of Alpine. The defenders of the Scarlet and Black while not in the best of condition for the opener, are anxious and ready to do battle. As the Sul Ross quintet has been in the running for sometime it will naturally be the Tech players who experience in this season's action than the Matadors; but even though the homeboys have been delayed in their workouts some two weeks they have constantly worked two periods each day, which has given them a fairly good preparation.

In meeting with the Alpine aggregation the Matadors are going into battle with one of the best floor machines in West Texas. Under the supervision of Coach E. T. Shotwell, formerly of the Simmons university, the Lobos have an excellent record already started for this season. The Lobos defeated the Techegers last evening with a score of 41 to 24 in the opening contest; and on the next night the Matadors defeated them by a small margin.

Throughout this season the Lobos have been defeating a number of the strongest teams of the Southwestern, Texas, and W. I. A. A. conferences. Numbered among indoor stars on the trip for the Sul Ross is one of the former Matador floor performers in Gene Alford, who in many games last season was high point man.

Coach Grady Higginbotham stated today that he was uncertain as to who would be in the starting line-up for this evening but it is thought that the line-up will be: Walker and Jennings, forwards; Dean center; Hunter and Vinant guards.

The game will start promptly at eight o'clock.

Bristling Back of Bare Fist Days

MY LIFE STORY by Jack McAlliffe

I had gone blind in my fight with Harry Gilmore in the 19th round. His left had closed both my eyes. Jack Dempsey in my corner wanted Dr. Ferguson, my Brooklyn friend, to cut my eyes, but he refused.

"He's in fine shape physically and condition will bring him out of it," he said.

"Condition won't carry a blind man through this fight. Cut 'em open, Doc," Dempsey insisted.

But the doctor started massaging my eyes. All through the 20th round I couldn't see a thing and I could tell where Gilmore was only by his breathing. I covered up and blocked a lot of blows by instinct. Gilmore's backers were screaming their triumph and offering bets of $500 to $100 I wouldn't last another round.

I struggled on and on, reeling around like a drunken man while the angelic strains of the Salvation Army hymns kept pouring out from the room above. Down below I was being slowly cut to ribbons.

Coast League Owners Meet To Face Ouster Resolution On Leonard And Proposition To Sign Cobb-Speaker

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 24.—Echoes of the recent baseball scandal were heard as club owners and directors of the eight clubs of the Pacific Coast League prepared to convene in annual meeting here today.

A motion offered by the San Francisco and Mission clubs that Hubert "Dutch" Leonard, former Detroit pitcher, be barred for life from all coast league parks, as a result of the scandal involving Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, appeared certain to come up at the opening session today. It was indicated however, that the proposal would be rejected. Leonard is now living on his ranch near Fresno.

Wants To Sign Cobb-Speaker

(By The Associated Press)

From Charles Lockard, president of the Seattle club came the announcement last night that he would submit at the meeting a resolution authorizing each club of the league to sign Cobb and Speaker for a week's appearance during the forthcoming season. This Lockard said, will give the fans of the league an opportunity to show their faith in Cobb and Speaker and give them a chance to see two of the greatest stars in baseball perform. His plan calls for each of the clubs to sign Cobb and Speaker to a one week contract, calling for $2,500 a week each.

Editorials The Berger Battle

Up at Berger, the new oil town in the Panhandle, the Berger Daily Herald is waging an active battle against the lawless element which has given that city nation-wide publicity as an "open town." In spite of threats made against the lives and safety of the staff of the Herald, it has continued its battle for right and as a result the town which has been referred to as "West Texas Gormorrah" is rapidly becoming a law-abiding city of some 15,000 inhabitants.

Silent Diplomats Abroad

The advance guard of the American Legion, which holds its 1927 convention in Paris in September, is on its way. The advance guard travels in sacks, and is made up entirely of tree seeds, the terms of Douglas fir, they will rear their stature and stand as symbols on the battlefields of the world war.

Money And True Love

In most of our romantic novels, and many of the other kind, money almost invariably is represented as the chief thing needful to make the course of true love run smooth. Gold furnishes the plot for many stories. The struggles of Herbert or Leon or Ernest to lay away enough money so that he can marry Gertrude or Emma or Alice—that is the crux of many a romantic tale.

Old Master's

Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind That from the summer Of thy caste breast and quiet mind, To war and arms I fly. True, a new mistress now I chase, The first foe in the field; And with a stronger faith embrace A sword, a horse, a shield.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

Dr. Atkins asked them to wait a moment outside the closed door of the room in which Martha Lane had died, while he conferred for a moment with the interne and the nurse who were keeping vigil within. When he opened the door the nurse, a slim, bobbed haired, healthy looking little girl, stepped, with a rustle of her starched skirts, past the huddled group at the door. Even in her grief, Faith could not keep from wondering, in a detached, resentful way, what the girl really thought about death, how much she really cared that her patient had died so suddenly and so dramatically.

Read Proceeding Chapter on Page 4

Perhaps Martha Lane would have been rattered at the tremendous public interest which her death had aroused. She had been born in obscurity, grown up in obscure poverty, married, without ceremony, a man as obscure as herself, reared her family in obscurity, until one of her brood had developed into a wild little bird-of-paradise, whose brilliance and beauty could not be concealed.

Probably no funeral in the history of the city had been attended by so many uninvited guests as gathered in the street and on the sidewalk before the shabby, shambling little house in Myrtle Street on Wednesday morning. Police reserves were sent out long before the hour of the funeral, to hold the mob in check. Although it was bitterly cold that cheerless first day of December, hundreds of morbidly curious men and women, boys and girls, gathered soon after daybreak, filling the whole block, waiting patiently for hours for a glimpse of Cherry, who was to be brought to the funeral under a heavy police guard, and of the suddenly famous Lane family.

Aunt Hattie Lane had spent the night at the Myrtle Street house, sharing the vigil of the family and making herself unceasingly useful by brewing hot coffee, tartly refusing interviews to reporters, and by talking briskly and cheerfully on subjects not even remotely connected with death and murder. Faith had never loved her acidulous, withered little old spinster aunt so much in her life as she did before Wednesday morning dawned.

Joy had been told on Tuesday of her mother's death, but her Aunt Hattie had wisely refused to allow her to come home until Wednesday. Grandma and Grandma Lane, feeble and subdued, but almost bright-eyed with interest and somehow elated over their own importance as relatives of both a newly deceased person and an accused murderer, arrived at nine o'clock, each holding tightly to Joy's hands as they stepped out of Bob Hathaway's car. "I took a sight, in this old dress and hat," Grandma Lane quavered to Bob, after they had passed the battery of cameras.

He smiled at her, understanding her, not blaming her for an instant that she had wanted to "look nice" in the only pictures of her that had ever been made for publication.

The sight of Faith, in her plain black satin dress, her bloodless lips entirely free of rouge, her cheeks far whiter than those of the dead woman, deep circles of fatigue and grief under her great brown eyes, touched his heart more profoundly than she had ever done, when she had looked her handsomest, brightest self. He had never felt more utterly sure of his abiding love for her.

"Please, Bob, tell the preacher not to make a funeral oration," Faith pleaded, almost hysterically. "I couldn't stand that. He didn't know her at all—just tell him to read the service. Oh, Bob, I'm afraid for Cherry! Could anything be more dreadful than her coming home—to this? We must get it over with quickly, Bob, for Dad's sake—and Cherry's!"

The kitchen door was flung open, and Joy's shrill voice, rising grotesquely in the funeral calm of the bereaved home, told them: "Cherry's coming! I seen her, Faith—through the window! There are lots of policemen and a big fat woman with a policeman's badge—"

"Don't talk so loud, honey," Faith said gently. Then, with head held high but her heart bursting with pain and pity, she went to meet her sister.

How To Give First Aid To Monoxide Victim

FOR some years it has been known that it is exceedingly dangerous to remain in a closed garage near to the exhaust of a motor car when the engine is running. The exhaust gas contains large amounts of dangerous poison called carbon monoxide gas. Illuminating gas also contains a considerable amount of this substance. The gas is invisible and has no odor, at least not sufficient to constitute a warning.

Indeed, some doctors have stated that a sufficient amount of this gas is released from the exhaust pipes of motor cars, and particularly large trucks and buses running in our streets, to cause serious symptoms in the people who are constantly exposed to the inhaling of such gases.

The garage doors should always be kept open and the motorist should never lie under the car indoors when the motor is running.

If a person is found unconscious in a closed garage or lying underneath a car under circumstances which indicate that he has succumbed to the carbon monoxide poisoning, he should be removed immediately from the poisoned atmosphere.

A physician should be called at once. Fresh air and mild stimulation should be provided immediately, since the emergency is one of life or death and every moment may be significant.

It is best not to wait for the coming of a pulmonologist or any other artificial device for forcing breathing. Instead the person should be placed on his stomach with his face to one side so that his nose and mouth are free for breathing.

Then the one who is going to give first-aid should kneel over the person, straddling the thighs and facing the head. The palms of the hands may be placed on the loins or the muscles of the small of the back with the thumbs nearly touching and with the fingers spread towards the legs.

The person who is giving artificial respiration then raises the arms, swinging them forward slowly and then backward slowly. A complete breathing movement forced by this method will require about four seconds. The movements may be continued in time with the breathing of the one who is giving first-aid.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

WILL ROSE wrote a story in a recent magazine about a thrifty and prosperous old grocer and his wife who planned to spend the winter in California.

They had planned the trip a good many times since their family of boys was off their hands, educated, married and settled in business of various kinds.

But every time the old folks had planned anything in the way of a holiday, along came a request from one of the boys for financial help.

This time was no exception. That very day there came a letter from Jimmy, the youngest, about a loan for his new gas station.

Hiram was greatly excited. This time the worm turned, however, and the late parent declared he was tired helping the boys. They could stand on their own legs, and if they could not, that was up to them. He and Mother Smith were going this time, and go they did.

In two days they got off the train and went back home and sent for Jimmy.

Someone asked me recently if the world was getting so that only the children of the well-to-do could be perfect. There is my answer! As long as parents' hearts are tender and there is money in the bank, do you think that the iron of self-reliance will keep on developing in the children?

The world, as far as people go, changes very little. It is the people who make the greatest endeavor and who learn to depend upon themselves who reap the richest harvests of living, and who make a race to be reckoned with.

A self-made man said to me one day, "I'm worried about my children. The boys don't take the least interest in business or anything else. I wish to heaven I hadn't a cent in the world. I'd give all I have just to see them hustle into something worth while. But I haven't enough will-power to disinherit them."

We all know people, of course, children of rich parents, who have triumphed over their fortunes and themselves and made the world all the better by having money and spending it wisely. Money is a great thing, but there are greater things. The answer to my friend's question is obvious.

Here in America it's sort of a game of tag that Dame Fortune plays anyway. Did you ever hear the saying, "Three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves"?

BAD ROADS CAUSE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Highway accidents over the week-end in West Texas and eastern Texas took a toll of one life and several injured, due to slippery conditions of the highways, according to reports received here Monday.

Joe Anderson, of Portales, New Mexico, pioneer cattleman and bus line operator in the two states, was almost instantly killed Sunday morning about 3 o'clock five miles south of Portales when
