Major drug bust on interstate

A major drug bust involving more than 1,000 pounds of marijuana was made by a Department of Public Safety task force during tractor-trailer traffic checks on I-20 Wednesday.

James David Owens, Jr., 44, of El Paso, was charged with aggravated possession of marijuana with intent to deliver. Bond was set at $25,000.

The arrest was made at mile post 227 at the rest stop east of Loraine during a two day check involving 24 DPS license and weight personnel and 27 DPS troopers. The task force operation was set up on the eastbound and westbound lanes of the interstate.

"We routinely check commercial vehicles. What was different about this was the number of people involved in the operation," said License and Weight Service Sergeant Dale C. St. John.

A DPS drug trained dog alerted for drugs when he walked around the standard tractor-trailer. Another dog also alerted for drugs, confirming the possibility of drugs inside the trailer.

Troopers found twelve boxes of what is believed to be high grade marijuana with a street value of approximately $1.6 million. The boxes were found in the middle of the trailer containing a load of Mexican tiles.

The tiles had been loaded in El Paso and it is believed that the driver had already passed through one weight station without detection.

Hospital board considers administrator's contract

The Mitchell County Hospital Board voted unanimously "to review and extend" Hospital Administrator Wendell Alford's contract during a called meeting Tuesday night.

The board's action was taken after a two-hour executive session.

Board member Tom Carlock made the motion "to allow Wendell Alford to finish the 30 day leave of absence he originally requested himself and to review and extend Mr. Alford's original contract he had before between himself and Methodist Hospital and the Mitchell County Hospital District."

An announcement that the hospital administrator was taking a 30 day leave of absence was made at the hospital board meeting June 27.

Housing shortage problem continues

Colorado City realtors and rental property owners agree—there's a housing shortage here. And the situation is likely to become more critical when the new state jail opens here this fall.

The seven local realtors and rental property owners contacted tell the same story—they receive calls every day from people wanting to live in Colorado City who can't find suitable housing here.

Fleta Lewis, a realtor for 19 years, predicts that with the influx of the 325 new employees at the state jail "we'll be seeing more of the same situation we have now—a need for more rentals and the less expensive housing," she says.

According to the latest census, in 1990 Colorado City had 2,166

Day Care continues to seek new home

People For Progress, Inc. (PPI) continued their efforts last week to find new housing for New Discovery Child Care Center in Colorado City. Following a meeting with the CISD school board, representatives from the day care center met with the city council and Mitchell County Commissioners Court last week.

Betty Casares, New Discovery director, asked council members and commissioners for help, saying that the present building was in disrepair and too small for the demand for child care in the community.

The present building has a capacity for 100. Ninety seven children are already expected to be in the center this fall, Casares said. The center has a waiting list and turns away infants and children because of lack of adequate space.

PPI representatives have been interested in two facilities—the second floor of the CISD Administrative Curriculum Building and the Wallace Center, currently used by local senior citizens.

Casares told the city and county officials that they could not use the second floor of the administrative building because state day care license requirements do not permit day care centers to be located on a second floor for child safety reasons.

However, a memorandum from PPI to the CISD school board indicates that PPI would ideally like

New coach ready to turn program around

New head coach Bill Grissom comes to Colorado City to rebuild a football program that has seen only five wins the past four years.

Grissom loves the challenge and can't wait to get started.

If his past coaching record is any indication of his ability to turn programs around, then Wolf fans won't have long to wait.

Grissom brings with him 19 years of head coaching experience and a career record of 122-78-3.

His head coaching career began at Hamlin in 1976. During eight years at Hamlin his teams won five district championships, four bi-district championships, one area championship and one regional title.

In 1984 Grissom accepted the head coaching job in Breckenridge, where he won two more district championships, one bi-district championship and was runner-up as district champion twice.

For the past four years, Grissom has served as head coach at Stanton High School. The last two years his teams have soundly defeated Colorado City 42-2 and 34-13.

Grissom expects the football program here to turn around much faster than it did in Stanton.

"We've played Colorado City and I've seen the ability that these kids coming up have," he said. "I think the situation is there to turn the program around and I believe it will happen faster here than it did in Stanton."

Head coach Bill Grissom has completed assembling his coaching staff and set the schedule for two-a-day workouts in preparation for the upcoming football season.

"I'm real happy with the staff. We have the type of coaches we need to turn the program around here," Grissom said. (See coaches below.)

The players' first day to report is Wednesday, August 9. Shorts, headgear, shoes, etc. will be issued at 8 a.m. that day.

Monday, August 14 pads will be issued.

Practice times during two-a-days will be 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. with a

Man's body found near Lasky Road

The partially decomposed body of a young man was found Tuesday afternoon in a wooded area near the intersection of I-20 and Lasky Rd.

The body was found at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday by sheriff's department deputies on horseback. A shotgun was found next to the body of the man who is believed to have been between 18 and 19 years old, according to a spokesman for the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department.

Investigators said Tuesday they suspect that the man, who is believed to have been dead for three or four weeks, was the owner of a 1967 Mustang found abandoned in the same area June 24. The car was towed to a Colorado City wrecker service yard July 1.

The vehicle was registered to a man from California who was reported to be missing by family members after he failed to report to a military boot camp in California around June 24.

The Mitchell County Sheriff's Department and Texas Rangers are investigating the death.

More students expected by CISD officials

Growing pains have started for Colorado Independent School District.

Kelley Elementary School could have over a hundred children in pre-kindergarten this year if registration patterns are similar to last year, said Principal Rita Hardegree.

Seventy-one children have already been pre-registered in pre-k which is almost twice as many as last year, said Hardegree.

Normally a large number of children are not pre-registered when school begins. Last year, 42 children were registered in the spring but the final enrollment figures were 86, twice the number who had pre-registered.

COOK'S CORNER

Billie Woods

Billie Woods has spent most of her life cooking—because she wanted to. She cooked at home growing up, at college she majored in Home Economics and later continued her education to become the dietetic technician at Mitchell County Hospital. Her interest in cooking and the makeup of foods has continued even further with the startup of her own business, Kountry Katerer.

As dietetic technician, Billie is responsible for the patients' diets coinciding with doctor's orders. That is where the knowledge of foods, not just how to prepare them, comes in. So you will notice that her low-fat recipes this week include nutritional information.

Billie enjoyed cooking even as a child. Her mother cooked at Wallace School for years and Billie would often visit her in the kitchen. She would beg her mother to let her stay and help instead of going to class. Her mom insisted she go to class, which she appreciates now, but didn't then.

Billie excelled in the classroom at college—which led to some jealousy from her roommate and other students. In fact, one day in class the students were to make a dessert. Billie chose a pound cake recipe, only she didn't know a few girls had switched the sugar for the salt. A beautiful pound cake came out of the oven, but it tasted terrible.

Not to be outdone, Billie sought revenge. In a few days the students were given instructions to peel potatoes with a knife. The teacher really watched for thin peelings. Billie noticed the other girls had thick peelings laying on the cabinet and sent the instructor outside, telling her someone needed to talk with her. Billie then told the girls they ought to throw their peelings out the window because the skins were too thick. They proceeded to do just that—on the instructor! I would say Billie got the best of them.

Billie's catering business started because of her love to cook. She was making all this food and was giving it away because she and her husband couldn't eat it all. She decided she could cook for people and enjoy her hobby also. She caters parties, weddings, etc. Her largest job was a wedding in San Angelo for over 250 people. She also caters the hospital Christmas party each year.

Billie has two sons; Kevin, who lives in Kansas City, MO and Kenon, who lives in Longview. She is married to David Woods, whom you may know from Colorado High School.

Enjoy the good and good-for-you recipes Billie is sharing with you today.

Gradually add sugar, about 2 tablespoons at a time, beating until stiff peaks form. Blend in vanilla. Sift about a fourth of the flour mixture over egg white mixtures; fold in gently. Repeat, folding in remaining flour mixture by fourths. Pour into an ungreased 10 inch tube pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour. Turn off the oven, but let cake sit in the oven for five minutes. Remove from the oven and immediately invert pan; cool. Loosen sides of cake from pan and remove. Yield: 12 servings.

Several TDCJ employees held a birthday party last week for Assistant Warden Jackie Edwards. Fellow employees surprised Warden Edwards with a much-needed lawnmower. I don't know if that's good or bad—sounds like work to me!

Longtime Buford residents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Smith, recently celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary. Both are 91, and have lived in Buford most of their lives. Their children include: Mrs. Billie Allen of Colorado City, Mrs. Smitty Brecheen of Abilene and Ray Smith of Snyder. Congratulations to the Smiths!

My son, Tyler, received a postcard from Santa Claus last week, saying he was going to be visiting Christmas Eve. I wonder if Ray Anne Carlock had anything to do with that while visiting in Alaska?

I recently heard Kenneth Rogers give a talk on the mission and the work they do in our community. He went on to say the mission is looking for a permanent home. They are in need of a structurally sound, large building. Does anyone have any ideas?

Wolf coach Bill Grissom stopped by the Record office last week and told us how many games he expects to win this year. I'll let him tell you his prediction. We are really lucky to have Coach Grissom. He brings to Colorado City a very impressive record. We wish him the best!

Happy 70th birthday to Mark Grissom. Congratulations to Kewin Wright. He hit an over-the-fence homerun during the last game the 11-12 year-old All Stars played last week. His mother, Bonnie Wright, told me he said he was sorry they lost, but most of all he really enjoyed playing the game, which is the most important part of playing Little League baseball.

Dear Editor:

In the Thursday, July 14th edition of the Record, under the public records column, was a man named Richard Charles Rice. This man was filed on for Driving While Intoxicated.

This has caused quite a bit of concern among the citizens of Mitchell County. My family and friends have received numerous telephone calls from people that thought I might have been the person that was arrested. However, such is not the case.

I am writing this letter, not to defend myself, but to let those people who thought I was arrested for Driving While Intoxicated to know that I was not, and to thank them for their concern. I would also like to tell the kids I have taught in D.A.R.E. that it was not me.

My name is Charles Memron Rice. I am a Patrol Officer and D.A.R.E. Officer for the City of Colorado City and would no longer be employed if I had been arrested.

Sincerely,
Charles Rice
Patrol Officer/D.A.R.E. Officer

Dear Editor:

I was born in this town 22 years ago. My family has been in this town for 30 years or more. I have come back here on three different times in an eight-month period. While I was here, myself, my husband and a military member friend of mine had our military IDs rejected because "they were not allowed to take a military ID."

West Texas has always had snakes. The critters just seem to go with the landscape, kind of like cactus and cow pies. Eighty-seven-year-old Mike Smith of Colorado City has co-existed with snakes all his life, but not peacefully.

"I can't hardly stand to talk about 'em," Smith confesses. And that comes from a man who admits he used to put his foot on the heads of rattlers, "right quick," then reached down with his hand and picked up the snakes behind their heads.

But he maintains he still had a healthy respect for snakes. One day as a teenager he and a friend, Lee Dorn, were out in a field chopping cotton. They had already killed two snakes that day, but Smith was still startled when he took his hoe to a healthy milkweed and "a bullsnake came out at me."

Smith says the snake was "belligerent and at least five feet long." When the initial shock wore off, he started teasing the snake and it started slithering up his hoe handle.

"I started running backwards," Smith says. "When it got within six inches of my hand, it dawned on me I could drop the hoe." Which is exactly what he did.

Eventually Smith learned to give snakes a wider berth. Like the time he was out at the farm of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Green. Grandpa Green was on the school board and he and his wife provided room and meals for a teacher, Ruby Templeton.

"It was a beautiful fall day and she wanted to go up on the river," Smith remembers. "So I saddled a couple of horses, grabbed a rifle and she fixed some sandwiches."

A short time later, the two came to a nice sandy place which had a rock bluff backdrop. It would have been a perfect site to enjoy the sun and a sandwich, except for the fact the area was already taken.

"I bet there were over 150 rattlesnakes stretched out enjoying that warm sand," Smith says. "She (Ruby) wanted me to start shooting and I said, 'No, let's just go.' I didn't want to stir up a bunch of rattlesnakes." The two vomited from the area, "right quick."

Snakes come in all sizes and colors. "Big" is the word most often used by West Texans when they describe the size of the reptiles they have had confrontations with.

However, in one instance, a specific length is mentioned. Sis Hart Jones remembers her father coming home one day and he had a dead rattler across his shoulder.

"It was an eight-footer," she stated. He had killed the rattlesnake where Lake Champion is now located.

Over the years all sorts of weapons have been used to bring about the demise of Mr. Rattler. Rifles, hoes and even a whip come to mind. The late Louise Geisenberger liked to tell about the time her uncle Urda Wulfjen killed a rattler with a whip. It happened out on the Wulfjen "96" Ranch when she was just a child.

"We were coming back from a roundup across the river and we were all tired and hungry." She and six or seven others were riding horseback single file when they approached a catclaw bush.

"I saw this great big rattlesnake coiled up there. I paused my horse and Uncle Urda saw that snake and he had been dragging his bullwhip on the ground."

"He took that whip and snapped that snake's head off just as if you had cut it off with a knife," she concluded.

Of course, the time honored method of doing away with rattlers remains the firearm. Westbrook's Bill Rees recalls the time years ago he had given his daughter a rabbit. One day the bunny hopped out from under the Rees house and just keeled over dead.

Rees says his wife, Lena, tried to tell him a rattler had bitten the hare. He disagreed.

"Well, we got into an argument, so I said, 'I'll just show you.'" Having said that, the cocksure Rees crawled under the house, looked around, didn't see a snake and crawled back out.

"See, I told you," he proclaimed victoriously to his wife. About that time "a big ol' rattlesnake" came out from under the house. As quickly as you can say "rattlesnake," the reptile was killed.

But the story doesn't end there. Later that same night the Reeses had gone to bed when they heard another rattler under the house. Rees says he couldn't go to sleep, so he got his .410 and decided to fire a shot "about where I thought it was."

And that's what he did. He took the gun, stuck the barrel under the house, then pulled the trigger. The snake quit rattling. Rees went back to bed, sleeping fitfully the rest of the night.

The next morning he went back outside and looked under the house. "I had hit that ol' snake," he states modestly. "Killed it." After killing two rattlers under his house, Rees started paying more attention to his wife's opinions. Sort of.

Rattlesnakes are not particular where they bite a human. A hand, an arm, or a leg, makes the rattler no difference. Over Roscoe way Pete Ethridge tells the story about his Grandfather Bryan being bitten years ago. Seems as though Grandpa Bryan didn't cotton to those new-fangled "bathrooms" being in the house.

His theory was, when it was time to heed nature's call, it was time to go outside. "He went to the Indian restroom," was the way Ethridge phrased it.

Anyway, on this particular occasion, Gramps Bryan was doing what came natural when he apparently invaded a rattler's territory. The snake struck and without being too specific about where, let's just say it hit the "bullseye."

Which brings us to a related subject about rattlesnakes—home remedies. Ethridge says bear in mind that this incident happened out in the country some 18 miles from Roby.

"To get a doctor you had to go get him on horseback, then he had to come back with you on horseback." That took time, so remedies were a must. Ethridge told about a couple of them.

"One, tear a live chicken in two and press it against the bite and it will suck out a lot of that poison. Or a jug of whiskey could be utilized." Ethridge says his grandpa selected that method. And he didn't pour it over the wound.

"Treatment was soon started and he really enjoyed the medicine. He would just sit in his rockin' chair and sing and meditate."

Apparently the liquid remedy was effective. Grandpa Bryan lived to the ripe old age of 88 or 89.

(Next week, more snake stories.)

County tax rebates up

Mitchell County sales tax rebates increased 4.98 percent this month over those received in 1994, according to a report from the State Comptroller's Office.

Colorado City's net payment was $29,770.51, a 2.62 percent decrease from last year's payment for July.

Loraine received $502.82 with 1995 payments to date totaling $16,953.71, a large increase over last year's payments by July of $3,584.14.

Westbrook also showed a significant increase over last year. Payments for July totaled $1,363.43. For 1995, Westbrook received $7,412.25, up 75 percent over the $4,143.59 the city received last July.

This month's sales tax rebates include taxes collected on May sales and reported to the comptroller in June by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

State Comptroller John Sharp reported he delivered a total of $134 million in monthly sales tax rebates to Texas cities and counties, 4.5 percent more than the payments of July 1994.

"While the Texas economy continues to grow at a very healthy rate, retail sales have cooled somewhat from their previous torrid pace," said State Comptroller John Sharp.

to find housing for more programs than just the day care center.

"Inside the Wallace Center with 11,749 square ft. available it will only be possible to house PPI's existing New Discoveries Day-Care Center, project Head-Start, and possible rural transportation. Whereas, with the 23,526 sq. ft.

available at the Administrative Curriculum Center, it will be possible for PPI to house its day-care, head-start, rural transportation, community services programs, affordable housing-weatherization, entrepreneurial education/small business incubation center and cottage industries. Also, sufficient room exists to house Adult Basic Education, Community Education and other local community based programs," the memorandum read.

When meeting with commissioners and city council members, Casares explained that PPI has a $75,000 grant for renovations which they will lose if not used.

In answer to questions of why PPI doesn't use the money to repair the current facility, Casares said that it wouldn't be cost effective as the building is too old and there are significant plumbing problems.

The grant money cannot be used to build a new building because the grant is earmarked specifically for renovations, she said.

City council members proposed various options to solving the day care problem here and promised to seek possible solutions.

"You've lit a fire. Let's see what we can work out," said Mayor Jim Baum.

County commissioners also offered their support to finding solutions, suggesting that this needs to be a cooperative effort involving the city, county, school and entire community. In addition, they offered specific help with clearing land if land is found for a building.

Airport grant okayed

Major improvements will be made at the Colorado City airport in 1997 and 1998 through a $700,000 grant from the Texas Department of Transportation.

City council members approved participation in the agreement with the state highway department at their regular monthly meeting July 11.

According to the participation agreement, the city will contribute $7,000 in matching funds for the two year project costs.

Improvements include work on the aprons, reconstruction of both crossovers between the main runway, refurbishing the taxiway, and building ramps up to the hangars. The main runway will be renovated the following year.

Council members approved the selection of a committee as required in the agreement. Committee members are Kenneth Rogers, Don Jones, Steve Shutt, Carl Guelker, Bob Reily, and Jim Baum.

For sewer improvements

Loraine receives grant

A grant award of $165,000 for sewer improvements was announced at the Loraine City Council Thursday evening.

The Texas Department of Community Affairs awarded the grant for the two year project with the city providing matching funds of $16,107.

The grant provides for new sewer lines as well as replacement of old existing lines south of the railroad tracks.

Construction is scheduled to begin next spring.

The grant application was completed in January and resulted from a 1984 study of city needs, according to Kay Howard, grant consultant for the city.

The city's initial $300,000 proposal request called for sewer improvements throughout the city. Mayor Cat Martinez explained to the council that additional improvements, especially in the area north of the railroad tracks, are still planned but will have to be done after this initial phase.

"It's in the winds," he said.

housing units, with 373 of those being unoccupied. However, these statistics don't reflect the changes in the last five years, such as the opening of the Wallace Unit Prison last year.

Mitchell County Economic Development studies of the city's housing situation show that 53 percent of employees at the Wallace Unit are originally from Mitchell County and 23 percent are from Scurry County.

"When the state jail opens, there won't be 53 percent of the employees already living here. We don't have the labor market here for that," said Jay McCollum, a local rental property owner.

Realtors say they expect around 100-150 employees will be looking for housing while the remainder will commute. However, they add that housing in surrounding towns—Big Spring, Sweetwater, Snyder—is also full.

Right now there is more of a demand for rentals, Lewis says.

Texas prison workers seem to want to rent rather than buy, "to stay fluid so they can climb the career ladder by transferring from one prison unit to another."

"And we just don't have enough rentals," said local realtor Winnie Putnam. "All the rentals I have are full."

Putnam said she has a waiting list for rental property. Most rentals are rented by the time they're vacated, she said.

"I could probably rent a dozen more three bedrooms but they're just not here," said Putnam.

Rental houses are occupied first, then apartments, said the realtors.

Realtors say the biggest demand is for three bedroom, two bath homes whether the customer is wanting to rent or to buy.

Realtors said they expect to see owners to repair unoccupied houses so they'll be available to rent.

In home sales, the biggest demand is for three bedroom, two bath, brick homes.

"We definitely need more houses here," said Janet McCright, branch manager for ERA Reeder Realtors, who added that her last two sales were to prison employees.

"It's hard to find a nice home at a decent, fair price," said McCright.

Some of the available homes for sale have been overpriced by owners hoping to take advantage of the demand, she said.

Debby Roach, Colorado City Apartments manager, currently rents to several Wallace Unit prison guards and construction workers on the state jail who are living there temporarily.

When construction workers finish the jail, she expects to have six or seven vacancies for the new jail employees.

While there are normally few vacancies, Roach said she sees the possibility of having 100% occupancy with the influx of new residents.

So what do realtors see as solutions to the housing situation? They say that investors tell them they can't build more apartments here because they couldn't charge enough in rent to make a profit over their building costs.

Duplexes and mobil home parks have been suggested.

"It's a big problem," said Jay McCollum. "However, it's a good problem too because it's a problem of growth."

Loraine council hears outreach clinic options

Representatives from the Mitchell County Hospital Board began negotiations with the Loraine City Council on putting an outreach clinic in Loraine.

Hospital Board President Fred Thompson and Dr. Dee Roach, chief of staff, expressed their interest in a clinic and discussed building options with council members at their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening.

"We're here to tell you we're seriously interested and would like feedback from you," Thompson told the city council.

In discussing the various options for a building to house the facilities, Dr. Roach explained that a rural health clinic is required to meet strict requirements, such as those set by Medicare, including numerous building code specifications.

In a discussion of renovating the Johnson Clinic Building, Thompson said that numerous repairs might have to be made, such as repairs to the air conditioner, heater, floor and roof. Also, additions would have to be made to meet American Disabilities Act requirements for handicapped facilities and the cost for utilities would probably be high.

"I'm afraid the cost may be prohibitive—somewhere between $60,000 to $100,000—to bring it up to codes," said Thompson.

Police Chief Edgar Haltom said that he and a local contractor had done an initial inspection of the building.

"I think we can fix it cheaper than that," he said. "We hate to see it deteriorate."

Mrs. Bruce Johnson attended the meeting which was held in the Loraine school building.

The building is said to be a significant part of Loraine history. The Johnson Hospital was founded by a Loraine doctor, Dr. Bruce Johnson. The building, which Mrs. Johnson recently donated to the city, was first finished in 1938. Additions and renovations were made over the years with the addition completed in the '70s.

Roach said that a large amount of space was not needed for a clinic.

Other options included new construction of a 1200 to 1500 square foot building in the downtown area or a mobile clinic. Fully stocked Winnebago vans have been used in some areas, said Thompson.

Thompson suggested that the city council make a proposal to the hospital board after considering the various options.

Hunter education course scheduled in Big Spring

A course in hunter education is scheduled for August 12 and 13 in the Dora Roberts Community Center, Big Spring with Boyce Hale as instructor.

According to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, all hunters age 17 and over must successfully complete a hunter education course.

Those from ages 12 through 16 must successfully complete a hunter education course or be accompanied by a licensed hunter 17 years of age or older.

Those under age 12 must be accompanied by a licensed hunter 17 years of age or older.

Any individual may take the course on a voluntary basis and all are encouraged to attend regardless of requirements.

"The course is open to adults and youngsters and will include instruction in rifle, shotgun, handgun and primitive sporting arms handling and safety, outdoor responsibility and ethics, laws and regulations, wildlife conservation and identification, hunting traditions, field care of game and wilderness first aid and survival," Hale said.

The minimum age of certification is 12 years. Students 12 years old and older successfully completing the course will be issued a hunter education certificate from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department.

Those under 12 years of age will receive a certificate of attendance, but must take the course again after turning 12 for proper certification.

The cost of the course is $5.

More than 280,000 Texans have already completed the hunter education course, which is mandatory in 47 states.

For more information, contact Boyce Hale at (915) 267-6957 or the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Hunter Education section in Austin at 1-800-253-4536 or (512) 389-4999.

Dearen returns from Scholar-Athlete Games

Pampa High School coach Larry Dearen recently returned from Rhode Island, where he spent a week coaching in the Rhode Island Scholar-Athlete Games held in Kingston.

Dearen, the son of Virginia and the late Toby Dearen, is a 1972 graduate of Colorado High School.

He was chosen by the Institute of International Sport and the University of Rhode Island to be one of the coaches taking part in the Games.

Over 1,800 scholar-athletes competed in all the major sports except football and weight lifting. Students also competed in choir, debate and band.

Joining Dearen at the Games were coaches from Ireland, Denmark, California and the east coast.

Sports writer Dan Raposo of the Narragansett Times in Providence, R.I. conducted a lengthy interview with Dearen during the Games.

In the June 30 edition of the newspaper, Raposo wrote:

Girls coach Larry Dearen, a Texas native with an impressive coaching resume that extends from youth levels to college and overseas experience, came to the Games with the idea of bringing the tradition to his home state.

While working at the Games, Dearen, or 'Coach D,' as his Rhode Island team has grown accustomed to calling him, has noticed the sportsmanship that the Games represent.

"I was telling a bunch of coaches at breakfast this morning and last night about the bunch of kids that I'm coaching in girls' basketball, that I have quickly seen team unity with the kids. After the game we will line up and shake the other team's hand or give high-fives, and we will go to the scorer's table and thank them as well as shake the officials' hands," Dearen was quoted as saying.

"It gives you good rapport with other people who are watching you play and you want that respect. That is one of the things I am trying to emphasize to them."

"I am very pleased with the kind of respect and friendship I see going on. It has been very good and I have had a lot of fun so far," Dearen said. "You want them to win, but at the same time you want to teach them good sportsmanship. I see that they want to be successful and they want to accomplish something."

Dearen's West squad advanced unbeaten through the women's division until the semifinals. They lost by a basket in overtime with just three seconds on the clock.

When they were not competing, Dearen said the scholar-athletes and staff worked on proposals to the state government for issues to be solved on environmental, drug and alcohol problems.

Kingston, R.I. will also be the site of the 1997 World Games to be held at the University of Rhode Island for the second time.

On July 27, Dearen is headed for the United States Military Academy at West Point, where he will be a part time coach for a week. He will help coach in a sports camp for female athletes in basketball.

"Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," he said.

The USAA National Honor Roll Awards provide honor roll students with many benefits and services and is a great tribute to a student's dedication, talent and ability.

Cody is the son of Joe and Paula Reed of Corsicana. His grandparents are Bill and Sandra Thompson of Colorado City and Dorothy Reed and the late Gaston Reed of Canyon Lake.

Student housing tips offered

By Mary McMullen, CEA-FCS

The fall semester for most local colleges and universities is fast approaching, and as this time draws near you might find yourself helping a first time college student "leave the nest." This often involves a search for that perfect "place of their own." If they are not going to live in the dorm, this search will probably include finding rental housing for them. Here are some tips to hopefully help you save time, money and headaches!

The Search— Start as early as possible in your search and do not limit yourself to rent property in the classified ads. Ask friends, relatives or others who live in the area for possible referrals. Check the bulletin boards at local stores and businesses for postings of rentals available.

Check for a "Renters Guide" of the area. It usually lists a large number of rent properties throughout the area. If your student can live in a small town close to the campus, check on the rental market there. Rent rates are usually more affordable in these communities.

Select buildings, complexes or neighborhoods where you would like to live. Contact the managers or owners of these properties and see what they have available. If you find a neighborhood you like, drive around and look for rental signs. Owners of houses that are for sale in these neighborhoods might also consider renting if you contact them.

Price Shopping— Ask yourself and the student what is the maximum dollar amount you and they will be able to afford? Also, ask yourselves what is the barebones in space and comfort you will be able to tolerate? Compare prices for rental properties in the areas you like. What is the possibility of sharing the cost of an apartment with a roommate?

Check the condition of the properties; are they maintained according to the rate of rent you will be asked to pay?

If a "fixer upper" is available could you do the needed repairs, improvements, painting, etc. in trade for X number of months free rent? Be careful to get this type of agreement in writing. Get the exact number of months free rent, the improvements in return and then set a rate of rent for a following specified number of months. Remember, after you help improve the property, the rent value will go up!

Finally, remember that signing a lease agreement probably obligates you to make all monthly payments for the term of the lease.

Loraine News

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Greetings from Loraine. Suddenly I noticed it had grown very dark and cloudy last Sunday afternoon, with loud claps of thunder along with streaks and zig-zags of lightning.

Having just heard about a tornado touching down in North Texas, I decided to initiate a safety plan. (God helps those who help themselves.)

First, it hit me that I should be dressed in a more attractive manner than the loose robe I had been slouching in.

If I was going to be caught up in a tornado or any other accident that insurance agents love to call "acts of God" I wanted to dress for the occasion.

After dressing, I applied a little makeup, then decided I needed better looking shoes.

The thunder was getting louder and I was getting more anxious.

Next, I located a radio with new batteries and two or three pillows (a mattress wouldn't fit in the small closet), along with my purse.

In the closet I had to work for awhile, fixing my nest. Suddenly, it dawned on me that I should unlock the back door. Someone might need to rescue me for some reason.

When I opened the door and looked out, the sun was shining and there were no clouds in sight.

Quail and Judy Dobbs from Coahoma stopped by to visit with J.M. and Laura Lewis this past Sunday.

Mr. Dobbs is a rodeo clown and had just come from a rodeo in Comanche.

Guests of Mrs. Ida Baird this last Sunday were a nephew, Conrad Bullock, Mr. Bullock's daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Richard Boone, plus their two children and a friend, Johnnie Dickson, all of Abilene.

Verlie Liles and her daughter Connie-Hedges from Midland flew to Dallas Saturday the 15th to visit a granddaughter, Adrian Hedges, and on to Rains County to get together with other family members.

Descendants of Tobe and Virginia McCarlev had a family reunion at the Holiday Inn in Odessa last week.

A nice crowd was present with Syble Walker being the oldest descendant present. Syble said she would be 92 in September. Mary Love Albright came to get her mother last Friday so she could attend the get-together in Odessa.

Mr. David Collier and his wife, Ruth, were in Loraine last week and had lunch at the center. He told me that Loraine had a blacksmith store here many years ago owned and operated by a Mr. Chambliss.

Also, there was a blacksmith store at a different time owned by Mr. Glass.

Let me know if you remember any other old time places of business in Loraine long ago.

Sunday after church fellowship at the Baptist Church, the new pastor and his family were given an old-fashioned "pounding," which included food and money gifts.

Different musical groups sang, which added to the welcoming ceremony.

Bible school started at the Baptist Church July 17 and will continue through Friday the 21st for pre-k through fifth grade.

Every day they will experience new ideas and programs.

Thursday night the 20th is parents' night, when children will put on skits and programs of what they have learned during school.

Refreshments will be served.

Margaret Brame reports that she received a short letter from Lola Fay Bennett.

You may recall that Lola Fay moved to Friendswood, Texas in order to be helped by her son.

Following the meal, table games were played.

Attending this year's party were members and spouses Doris Henderson, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Ken and Shirley Kendall, Bobby and Wanza Graham, Eva Wells, Millie Rose, Margaret Brame, Ralph and Pat Carter, Bill and Ann Preston, Billie Schroeder, Bessie Ann-Vaughn, along with our gracious hosts, Alfred and Elaine McMichael.

Guests attending were Velma Crenshaw, Verna Mac Adkins, D.C. and Dorothy Fowler and their granddaughter.

For teachers in Loraine, school starts August 14 and for students August 15.

Loraine has a new coach moving here this week. His name is Barry Gill and he is from Miles, Texas. Barry is single.

LISD is looking for an English teacher at this time.

Senior Center Happenings Saturday night, July 13th at 5 o'clock, seniors and their guests congregated at Loraine Senior Center for an ice cream party hosted by Darlene Hamrick.

Ice cream served and enjoyed was vanilla, chocolate chip, strawberry, chocolate and rocky road, along with cakes and cookies.

Table games of spinner dominoes, "42," dominoes and the card game "Hand and Foot" were played.

It was a fun evening.

Lunch is being served Monday, July 17, Tuesday, July 18, Wednesday, July 19 and Friday, July 21 this week. The extra day is a make up meal.

It was nice to see Rudolph Bauman with his son and his grandsons this past week. The son is Rudy also and the boys' names are Mike, Billy and Nicklass.

She misses Loraine and all her old friends badly and has not adjusted to her new surroundings.

You may want to cheer her with a card or letter. 16910 Ravine Ct., Friendswood, TX 77546.

Last week Willa Dean Forbus visited in the home of Harold and Marilyn Davis along with their family in Whitehouse, Texas.

While there, Willa Dean attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Dondra Davis, who married Mr. Tim Pyle. Both are from Whitehouse.

We wish best wishes to the young couple.

We send our sympathy to the family of Rosella Smith. She passed away last Monday morning the 17th.

Rosella was Ike Williams' mother.

Darlene and Bobby Hamrick had children visit last week, Steve and Libbie Hamrick, along with daughters Mary Beth and Katie, from Pahrump, Nev. They had fun entertaining the girls.

Eva Wells visited in the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Robinson of Abilene, for a few days last week.

On Thursday, Eva accompanied her sister-in-law, Lucille Blassingame, to Baird to visit Mr. and Mrs. Garland Wells.

Also visiting in the Wells home that day were John and Nita Wells of Virginia.

Alfred and Elaine McMichael were hosts for this year's annual July F.C.E. club party.

Members, spouses and guests arrived at the family ranch house south of town at 6 o'clock Friday, July 21.

Visiting and laughing preceded the bountiful meal of beef brisket and buffalo wings, along with a nice variety of salads, veggies and desserts.

Recent visitors were Walter Stirl and Metha Rich.

Birthdays in July are to be celebrated by Bobby Hamrick, J.A. Sadler, Geneva Killian, Kay Maynard, Betty Robertson, Leona Linam, Ralph Carter, Billie Danheim, Jewell Francis, Joe Garza, Corine Burnett and Bessie Ann Vaughn.

Julia Green will make the special cake for the party table.

This month the party day with turkey, dressing and all the works will be on Wednesday, July 26.

Reminiscence day was about cooking good things to eat and recipes of long ago.

One recipe was for "Love Soup."

Love Soup
Toast two pieces of bread, remove the crusts, then butter one side of each piece of bread. Cut toast into small cubes about the size of a large postage stamp. Put toast cubes in a large soup bowl and pour in enough hot chocolate to fill and float toast. Add a few small marshmallows if you wish. Yum! Yum! Very comforting!

Jill Grant, social director of the Loraine Manor, reports that Monday, July 17 they made changes in their residents' council.

The meetings before the council gives residents a chance to voice any concerns or wishes that they might have (what they like or dislike) concerning how their place of residence is run, and they take advantage of this time to request certain programs.

Lately, the residents enjoyed two movies (along with popcorn), "Far from Home—Adventures of Yellow Dog" and "Little Women."

Sand art is even more popular now, since residents found out how much fun it is. They still need small clear bottles.

Also, the ladies are still wanting someone to teach them how to crochet.

The last word is always—please come to see us!

"Dear Son Letter"

Written day before yesterday.

Dear Son,

Before I forgot—Baby Sister says hay. She is playin' with cobwebs over yonder in the corner.

She may not be quite rite in the head—can't tell yet.

Member Mrs. T. Hobin? She just had three triplet babies.

She didn't have no doctor and they are all fine. Tell me how they aim to feed three new ones along with nine old ones.

Pa and Mr. Hobin are out on the porch arguin' over moonshine.

Products suggested for pest control

By Joe Raff, CEA-AG

I guess if it's not one thing it's another? I have received some phone calls about beet armyworms this last week. Nine times out of ten the beet armyworm is considered to be an occasional, late season pest that seldom occurs in economically important numbers. We in Mitchell County seldom worry about them (because we have the boll weevils on the mind) unlike most people do in South Texas, but we do have some this year.

The most obvious indication of infestation is the characteristic egg masses coupled with defoliation by larval feeding. Beet armyworms can also feed on squares, blooms and bolls. They can be a devastating pest as evidenced by severe outbreaks in areas of the Southeast and mid-South in 1993 and a similar situation in the Rio Grande Valley and Coastal Bend in 1995.

Like most pests that we deal with, protecting the stand is the first priority. The economic threshold of the beet armyworm can vary depending on who you talk to. Dr. Tom Fuchs suggests that finding 20-30 worms per 100 plants in a young field is the trigger to spray. However, make sure that the 20-30 worms are representative of the field (remember that these worms are, and can be, very spotty within a field).

In the first week of July the section 18 for the insect growth regulator Confirm was changed from needing approval on a county-by-county basis to statewide clearance. Confirm is a good beet armyworm material which is also soft on beneficials. Use rate is generally 8 oz. per acre. Banding on small cotton would be advisable for obvious economic reasons. Dimilin is also a good beet armyworm material. Dimilin works very effectively if applied around egg hatch. Use Dimilin at the 4 oz. rate for best results (about $1.70/acre).

Other registered products that are working include combination of Lorsban or Larvin plus Dimilin.

Even Lorsban, Larvin or Dimilin used alone look pretty good, although the combinations are often better, at least in rescue situations involving larger worms and numbers. By the way, these are all high dollar applications.

Myself and Karalee still have not found substantial numbers of boll weevils this year. We are planning to monitor the traps two weeks longer this year because of the later cotton, but we are not anticipating finding larger numbers.

Aphids are popping up around the county. Try not to spray for these or thrips until later in the season, if possible.

We can get Furadan 4F clearance from the EPA if we have enough growers contact me when they reach the "less than 80% control" on one or more fields using an acceptable rate of a registered aphicide. Aphid numbers must also have resurged to 100 or more per leaf as a field average based on examination of top and middle plant height mainstem leaves.

There are other aphid control options including Provado (cost not too bad if banded), Bidrin plus Ovasyn, and Lannate. If a weevil's application is made with a concern for aphids, consider tank mixing Phasor or Thiodan with Ovasyn to target both pests.

A bollworm/beet armyworm combo (mid-to-late season) could be Larvin plus Dimilin. A weevil/flea hopper combo could be Vydate.

The use of product names in this article was done for experimental reasons only and no discrimination or endorsement is intended by the Texas Agriculture Extension System.
