Electra C-C Launches Expansion Drive At Annual Banquet

PROGRAM FOR IMPROVEMENT IS DISCUSSED

Chamber of Commerce Sets Goal at $12,000 And Seeks Members

LEOPOLD SPEAKER

United States C-C Head In Tribute to Spirit Of Electra Leaders

By FRANK O. HALL
Staff Correspondent

ELECTRA, Texas, Dec. 4—Plans for a better Electra and a larger chamber of commerce were not only formulated but were carried along their first step toward completion here Tuesday night when more than 125 local business men attended the community banquet in the First Baptist church.

Launching of a membership drive with an ultimate goal of $12,000 culminated the meeting and before the men adjourned and returned home nearly $5,000 of that amount had been raised. The remainder will be obtained when committees start work Thursday morning.

Program for 1929

Further extension of Electra's trade territory, continuance of the good roads, irrigation, industrial and agricultural programs were announced as being included in the 1929 program for the Electra Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

The local business organization has closed the most successful year's work in its history, carrying to completion many more projects than at first anticipated and progressing rapidly on others which will acquire additional time to complete.

Featuring the program presented at the community banquet was the address by Joseph Leopold, manager of the southern central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Leopold drew a comparison between business methods of today and those of yesterday, pointing out the gradual advancement and declaring that business men must be alert in order to keep up with the present fast pace of improvement.

The 1929 program as outlined for the Electra Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture was praised by Mr. Leopold who said that many larger cities would be pleased if they could carry out a similar amount of work on the same budget.

Review of 1928

A review of the 1928 accomplishments of the local chamber was given by E. R. Brown. These accomplishments included an intensive agriculture program, promotion of aviation activity, direction of a community chest drive, holding of numerous community parties, a permanent fire prevention program, construction of additional roads in this vicinity, establishment of more rural mail routes and many other projects.

The local chamber also sent a representative to Washington, D. C., and Vicksburg, Miss., to confer with governmental officials relative to the development of the Pease river irrigation project under the supervision and aid of the federal government. Definite steps along this line have already been taken and business men are optimistic.

Ancient Canterbury Is Scene Of Enthronement

Installation of New Archbishop Brings Back Medieval Scenes to Old Cathedral

LONDON, Dec. 4. (US)—Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang was enthroned today as Archbishop of Canterbury, and primate of all England, in one of the most colorful ecclesiastical ceremonials England has seen in many years.

The high vaulted choir of ancient Canterbury cathedral, with its historic "St. Augustine's chair" standing alone in front of the high altar before which Thomas Becket was murdered in 1170, was the scene of this extraordinary pageant which carried much medieval ceremony to the present day.

There were the blue tabard of Lord Warden of Cinque Ports, cut after the 12th century pattern, the scarlet robes of the mayors and aldermen of Kentish towns, and gorgeous vestments of the visiting bishops of the Greek orthodox church, and gilded croziers—all presenting a bewildering dazzle of colors in the vaulted gloom.

In special seats on either side of the choir sat the Admiral Commander of Nore in full dress of gold and blue, Lord Chancellor Hailsham in his official robes, the Lord Mayor of London with his sheriffs and his official mace and sword, Archbishop Germanos, metropolitan of Thyatiera, with an enormous jeweled cross on his chest; Monsignor Van Vlymen, the Catholic bishop of Haarlem, Holland, representing his church at such a ceremony for the first time since the English reformation; Bishop Brent of the Episcopal diocese of Western New York; 60 other bishops, a dozen statesmen and 4,000 spectators.

The ancient ceremony of the enthronement, which has been in force since the English reformation and many features of which have been carried over from the period behind that, was conducted with a single noteworthy change of Dr. Lang Himself. The new achbishop ordered that the ancient "St. Augustine's seat" be moved from the chapel where the actual enthronement usually occurs before a select few to the center of the choir in view of all spectators.

Rescue Ship Finds Santa Claus Searchers Safe On Hudson Bay

'Sea Lion' Rescues Capt. Kleinschmidt and Party After Suffering Many Hardships

Captain Kleinschmidt and his party of explorers bound for the North Pole in search of Santa Claus reported missing last evening, after the failure of The Record News to receive regular wireless messages from them, have been found.

The first news of their recovery came from the steamer "Sea Lion," which reported to a radio station having seen two planes floating on Hudson Bay near Fort Severn. This was at noon yesterday.

Several more wireless messages told of receiving short flashes of SOS calls, supposedly from the missing planes.

All Members Well

A searching party was dispatched led by the steamer "Sea Lion" and the two planes were found with all occupants well and in good health.

"We shall proceed with our expedition just as planned," said Captain Kleinschmidt, after his rescue. "The kiddies of Wichita Falls and Texas shall not be disappointed. I intend to push on and on into the frozen North until Santa Claus is discovered."

Other members of the party expressed great joy at their good fortune.

"For a while I thought The Record News and the kiddies were going to be disappointed," said "Red" Garland, aboard the steamer. "Now I'm happy we can go ahead."

In a wireless message to The Record News Captain Kleinschmidt expressed his confidence of success in his undertaking.

Iowa Junior Wins Top Honors At Livestock Show With Steer

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. (US)—"Dick," a thorobred Hereford steer, today won the grand championship and brought his owner, Clarence Goecke, 16, of State Center, Iowa, the honor of being the first junior to ever claim grand champion honors at the International Live Stock Exposition.

Walter Biggar, international authority, of Dalbeattie, Scotland, made the award. He also presented reserve championship honors to Sni-A-Bar emblem, also a Hereford, from the Sni-A-Bar farms of Grain Valley, Mo.

The grand champion award came as a surprise to the 20,000 spectators since it was believed that Muscatine II, a Hereford, which won the grand championship at the American Royal Live Stock show at Kansas City, would repeat.

"Dick" was born on July 29, 1927, and weighed 1150 pounds. Under the care of his young master, a member of the Boys' and Girls' 4-H clubs, has shown a gain in weight of more than two pounds daily.

KING GEORGE FAILS TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Temperature Continues To Rise, Late Bulletin At Palace Says

SIGNS DOCUMENTS

Commission to Act For Ruler Formed Near Royal Bedside

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Record News Special Cable

LONDON, Dec. 4. (US)—A bulletin signed by King George's physicians and timed at 8:30 this evening states:

"The rise of temperature in this afternoon's report persists and as a result the king is rather less comfortable. Otherwise conditions remain unchanged."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn.

Privy Council Held

A remarkable scene occurred in the palace this morning when Britain's grievously ill king "held a privy council." That announcement, designed to cheer his faithful subjects, was a broad interpretation of the facts which were tragically grim. The facts are that certain members of the privy council, how many is not known, but including Premier Baldwin, Lord Chancellor Hailsham, Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks, Lord Davidson Lambeth and Sir Maurice Hankey, clerk of the privy council, assembled in audience in a chamber next to the sick room to ratify the creation of the special commission to exercise kingly prerogatives during the king's incapacity.

A door was opened into the sick room where Queen Mary sat by the patient. Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks, acting president of the privy council, stood there, a few feet from the ailing king and read the order of the council creating this special commission which his majesty subsequently signed when the document was laid on his knees and the pen put in his weak hand.

King Hears Proceedings

Thus the king, knowing his incapacity to carry on the affairs of state, heard and attested the proceedings tranferring temporarily all his powers except dissolving parliament and creating peers to the willing hands of his closest and dearest in the world.

As announced tonight in the Lon-

Roaring Oil Gusher Sets Residents Of Sooner Capital City In Frenzy

Special to The Record News.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 4—The oil world was assured a new deep pool Tuesday when a 5,000 barrel gusher sprayed high gravity crude over territory less than eight miles from the heart of Oklahoma City's business district.

The well, drilled in by Indian Territory Illuminating Oil and Foster Petroleum companies, touched off a burst of speculative enthusiasm that had the Sooner capital humming Tuesday night. Realty values were soaring and there was every indication that a boom of major proportions was already under way. This was tempered, however, by predictions that while development would be aggressive, it would not be wasteful.

Virtually all offset acreage on the I. T. I. O. tract is already leased by major companies who are favorable to conservation because of the condition of the market.

This city got its biggest thrill at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the gusher blew in with a roar. It followed a fishing job under way since last Thursday noon when gas blew tools up in the hole, kinked the cable and bridged at 2500 feet. Persistent fishing moved the bridge slightly Thursday morning and a few hours later a heavy burst of gas preceded the blow.

The well is producing from the Simpson sand at a total depth of 6402 feet. Seven-inch casing was set at 6356 feet. Oil seeping past the bridge several days ago tested 39 gravity at 70 degrees.

After running wild for two hours the well was shut in and the flow diverted to storage. Gauged at 15 minute intervals, the first hour's run reached 205 barrels. I. T. I. O. headquarters at Bartlesville Tuesday night ordered the hole deepened immediately to the Wilcox sand which it is expected will be picked up 200 feet or so beneath the Simpson sand. Oil men say that the history of the two sands in this

LOVE REBORN FOR DEL RIOS

Film Beauty Cables To Stricken Husband

BERLIN, Dec. 4. (US)—In the shadow of death the love between Jaime Del Rio, young Mexican aristocrat, and the beautiful Dolores Del Rio, who have been reparated for a long time, has been reborn.

"Fight hard, Jaime. Fight hard."

This was the cable sent today by Dolores to Jaime, who is lingering on his death bed in a Berlin sanatorium. He is stricken with general blood poisoning.

"Tell her I'm fighting," Jaime replied when the cable was read to him, and a few minutes later he cried out in a feverish delirium to friends at his bedside:

"Why doesn't Dolores come upstairs? Don't let her wait down there."

The young man evidently believes, except in his lucid moments, that his beautiful wife is not far from him. His pulse was 120, and he had a temperature of 104 tonight. There was a slight improvement in his condition, however, and he was able to move his fingers, though his limbs were completely paralyzed.

A friend of Del Rio, Fred Cleverly Stein, of East Orange, N. J., has been constantly at his bedside since he was stricken Thanksgiving day. Stein is a young Princeton graduate, and has been a companion of the Mexican for many months. According to Stein, Del Rio was collaborating with him in the writing of a play on Hollywood on the eve of Del Rio's being stricken. Stein categorically denied a rumor which evidently came from Hollywood that Dolores has remarried Jaime here in the Berlin sanatorium.

Shooting of Groesbeck Man Told to Jury

HILLSBORO, Texas, Dec. 4. (AP)—After Arthur Long had been shot to death at a Groesbeck carnival in 1926, Hugh Butler shouted to the crowds to "stand back!" Y. C. Harris testified today in Butler's trial for murder in the slaying of Long and Lester Bolton.

Long came stumbling across a street after Harris had heard a shot fired, crawled into a carnival concession and slumped to the ground, Harris said.

Charlie Hitt and Leslie Ship, who were with Butler shortly before the shooting, said Butler left them to go to get a gun, while Alvin Hughes testified he sold Butler eight shells.

The fire is believed to have begun from a static park, Chief McClure asserted.

BOYS' SLAYER DENIES GUILT

Northcott Revokes Confession in Court Plea

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Dec. 4. (US)—Repudiating promises repeated up to the last minute, Gordon Stewart Northcott this afternoon in superior court here pleaded not guilty to the murder of three boys.

Last night the accused youth horrified investigators by confessiong that nine persons had been killed on his chicken ranch near here, and that he himself killed five of them. Northcott made the confession however, only after obtaining the written promise of Deputy District Attorney Earl Redwine of Riverside county that he be brought into court today and permitted to plead guilty to slaying Walter Collins, 9; Lewis Winslow, 12, and Alvin Gothea, 19.

Earlier today Northcott increased the list of slain to 11, and admitted he had killed all of them. The other victims he told of were:

Nelson Winslow, 10, of Pomona, Calif.; Richard Gordon, 16, of Canada; a miner, name unknown; a boy, name unknown, and four unidentified men.

ELECTION BET TRIAL DELAYED

Four New Jurors Bring Total to Seven

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Conscientious scruples against infliction of the extreme penalty and fixed opinions in the case were so much in evidence that only seven of more than 100 veniremen questioned by counsel for service in the murder trial of V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer, had been accepted for service tonight after two days of questioning by attorneys.

Three men survived the barrage of interrogations leveled at them yesterday and four today were found suitable to pass on the issues surrounding the purported shooting by Adams of Orville L. Mathews, Dallas bank employe, on the downtown streets, Sept. 1. The state had exhausted six and the defense eight of its fifteen peremptory challenges.

Eight Veniremen Left

All but eight of a special panel of 300 talesmen had been quizzed and court attaches were ordered to bring all members of the regular jury panel who could be spared into the courtroom tomorrow in the hope of selecting the 12 men who are destined to hear details of a murder trial that promised to be packed with all the elements of courtroom drama.

The four jurors accepted for service today were M. E. Alley, Dallas, field clerk for a light and power company; J. S. Vaughan, Mesquite farmer; R. A. Garrison, employed by a telegraph company, and R. W. Norwood, who lives on a farm near this city.

Questions on Mayfield

As each prospective juror took his place and faced the searching eyes of the group of attorneys, he was subjected to exhaustive questioning by the defense on the laws of self-defense and his belief in the suspended sentence law of Texas. Acquaintance with United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield, Ben C. Richards, supposed klan leader of Dallas county, and other figures of importance formed the basis for a grilling by Adams' counsel. The state confined its examination to the usual questions hinging around the death penalty when found justifiable and church and business affiliations.

Verbal clashes between Robert Allen, special prosecutor in the case, and Maury Hughes of the defense tended to enliven an otherwise dull day in which there was little but routine questioning.

29 PROMINENT MEN BILLED IN BOOZE PLOTS

Severe Blow Is Dealt At Contraband Traffic Across Line

CLEANUP FORECAST

More Smugglers and U. S. Bankers Expected to Be Included in Sweep

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (UP)—One of the most smashing blows in prohibition history was delivered against liquor smuggling over the Canadian border today when a federal grand jury in Buffalo returned conspiracy indictments against the largest whisky distilling company in Canada and 29 individuals prominent in this country and Canada, the division of foreign control, prohibition bureau, announced.

This was the first time that prominent Canadians have ever been indicted on liquor conspiracy charges in this country, the division said, and is a forerunner of a general cleanup along the northern border which may result in at least 200 additional indictments.

Hope to Stop Ring

Today's action by prohibition enforcement officials is expected to stop one of the greatest liquor smuggling rings in existence, with sales agents operating in this country and with an annual business of more than $25,000,000, the division said.

Heading the list of indictments was the great distilling corporation of Gooderham and Worts, which is consolidated with the Hiram Walker company and whose stock is quoted on the New York curb market. Officers of the distilling company indicted include Harry C. Hatch, Toronto, Canada, chairman of the board of directors; Lionel J. Sinclair, manager of the Gooderham and Worts company; Frank S. Harris, treasurer of the company, and Herbert E. Hatch, brother of the chairman of the board.

Bankers Named

Officers of a number of banks in this country and employes of telegraph and railway companies are under investigation and will probably be indicted in connection with the smuggling ring's activities, officials of the division of foreign control said.

The banks knowingly acted as financial agents for the liquor ring in Canada and smugglers in this country, officials of the division explained. An investigator of the prohibition bureau, who examined banking records in connection with the indictments, said he found one of the leaders of the ring with a drawing account of $10,000,000.

Employes of telegraph companies aided in the ring's activities by accepting and transmitting sales orders over the wires, it was explained, while railroad employes helped smuggle the liquor out of Canada in freight shipments.

Practically all of the liquor entered the United States through Detroit, it was said.

Although those indicted now living in Canada cannot be extradited under present treaties between Canada and the United States, prohibition enforcement officials believe a means will be found to bring them to trial.

Coolidge Discusses National Affairs For Last Time In Message To Solons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—A reaffirmation of his position on the big problems of the day and a host of lesser questions was sent to congress today by President Coolidge in a message which will be his valedictory so far as annual communications on the state of the union are concerned.

With the end of his administration only three months away and with many members of the house and senate already turning their ears to what the incoming chief executive may have to say, the president detailed his views on various subjects and on one, the Kellogg peace treaty, expressed the hope it would be ratified before his retirement from office.

Beside this proposal, he dealt specifically with farm relief, taxation and economy, naval construction, waterways, commerce, Boulder canyon, Muscle Shoals and other problems. He wound up the message with an admonition to the country to bear in mind that "the era of prosperity" he ascribed to the United States easily could be lost without "unremitting toil," to maintain it.

U. S. COLLECTS TWO BILLIONS

Treasury Estimates Show Source of Income

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (US)—Uncle Sam will collect about $2,171,000,000 income and corporation taxes in 1928, according to estimates prepared at the treasury department today.

The income from this source from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1 was $1,731,000 and approximately $400,000,000 will be collected Dec. 15 at the fourth quarterly tax payment period. The receipts will be slightly less than for the fiscal year ending last June.

After exact figures on the December collection are available Secretary Mellon and Budget Director H. M. Lord, will be able to meake an accurate estimate of the surplus for June 30. While a small surplus is anticipated the spread between receipts and expenditures will be the smallest since the war.

The returns to be filed at the preceding tax payment period, Dec. 15, will give the first accurate check on the results of the 1928 revenue act. Some of the deductions provided in that law, including the corporation tax cut, are effective on incomes earned in 1928 and therefore will not be reflected in returns until March 15. A considerably greater productivity of business in 1928 will have the effect of partially offsetting the reduction of rates.

The next nine months will be marked by tremendous debt refunding operations, during that period bonds or certificates amounting to $2,601,000,000 falling due.

The debt operations will begin December with maturities of $571,427,000. In all probability the rate on the new issues will be lower than the 4¼ and 4¾ per cent interest carried by the last certificates.

The treasury will have a paper turnover of about $1,608,000,000 Dec. 15, with tax collections, retirements, new issues of probably around $500,000,000 and $96,000,000 anticipated as payments on the war debts.

In March about $571,000,000 in securities will be refunded, $549,310,700 in June and $308,000,000 in September. The treasury also will dispose of the consol of 1930 amounting to $569,000,000, which back up the national bank currency. Just what will be done about these bonds depends upon the action of congress in relation to continuance of national bank notes as part of the government's currency system.

The public debt on Dec. 1 was $17,483,000,000. The treasury will not be able to make its billion-dollar reduction this fiscal year, owing to the material drop in the surplus. It is anticipated, however, that well about $500,000,000 will be lopped off.

Nothing but pleasure attaches to the thought of the approach of Christmas when you know the Shop-o-scope will help you to make all your preparations.—Adv.

Romance Of Gloria Vanderbilt And Prince Goes On Rocks

BERLIN, Dec. 4. (US)—The Romantic Bark of Gloria Vanderbilt and Prince Hohenlohe Langenburg, which has been sailing uncertain seas for more than a year, seems finally wrecked on the rocks of financial difficulties.

The matrimonial plans of the prince, who is a nephew of Queen Marie of Roumania, and the beautiful widow of Reginald Vanderbilt now are apparently hopelessly tangled. A dispatch from Stuttgart, near the seat of the Hohenlohe Langenburg family, which was published in an obscure corner of a Berlin newspaper today, not too delicately conveys the news that "besides the disinclination of the princely parents to this union, it is above all a still unsettled financial question that delays the marriage."

Gloria Shyly admitted in Paris sometime ago that she would marry Gottfried when the prince's parents withdrew their objections to the couple living in America instead of in Germany. But in social circles here it is said the parents are trying to match the 30-year-old prince to another American heiress.

STATE CHECKS ON GAS TAX

Comptroller Sends Agent Here For Survey

R. B. Patton, with the state comptroller's department, is checking Wichita county for delinquencies in the gross receipts reports due from wholesale gasoline dealers for the state gasoline tax assessment. The reports are due on the 25th of each month. Failure to turn in the receipts involves a 10 per cent penalty and an 8 per cent interest charge.

Reports of the special examiner go to the attorney general's office at Austin, where all action is initiated in case of suit. The 2-cent per gallon tax has been in effect since Sept. 1, a 1-cent reduction from the former assessment.

Mr. Patton has worked the Wichita county territory three times in the last six months, he said. Discovered delinquencies involve from 5,000 to 50,000 gallons of gas, he reported.

Rum Ships Cluster Outside Coast Limit

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 4. Foreign Relations Department Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (UP)—Creation of a department of foreign relations to study and advise the president and congress on international affairs, is to be asked in a bill to be presented this session by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma.

Thomas said he had been working on the proposal for several years and has at last put it into shape for presentation.

The foreign relations division would be a part of the state department and be directed by a board to include heads of the foreign relations committee in the house and senate and officials representing state, commerce and other government departments.

"While my initial proposal will be only a start, I expect to see this department develop into one of the most important branches of the government," Thomas said.

"Its creaation ought to prevent the diplomatic blunders into which this nation is getting itself constantly."

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 4. (AP)—The right of negro citizens to joint use with white citizens of the Charleston public library was upheld today by the state supreme court. FATHER TRIED ON SON'S DEATH

Pauls Valley Killing Due To Jealousy, Claim

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—Jealousy within the family of W. H. Paul, grandson of the founder of this city, was given by witnesses today as the reason for his killing his son, Willie, last July.

Taking of testimony for the state was begun today in Paul's district court trial, the first case on the December docket.

Paul, who claims to have shot his son accidentally in trying to wrest a gun from his hands was to hear his children appear against him this afternoon.

Included among the witnesses for the state is Homer Paul, state representative, Haskell 26, and Robert, 16.

Six state witnesses testified this morning that the death of Willie followed altercations between the father and son, caused by the son siding with his mother in jealous quarrels between the estranged parents.

Defense testimony is expected to begin tomorrow.

The jury includes no relatives of the Pauls, but persons from various occupations chosen from all over Garvey county. A change of venue, asked by the defense, was refused by the state.

Oil Price Power Of West Opposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—An injunction to prevent Secretary West from regulating the price at which oil other than royalty oil shall be sold by lessees of oil grants to private corporations was sought today in District of Columbia supreme court by the Texas company.

Asserting that it has a contract with the Cody Petroleum company of Wyoming to buy oil at 53 cents a barrel with an output of about 1,000 barrels a day, the Texas company said it would be financially affected if the interior department requires the Cody group to charge 85 cents a barrel for the oil. The petition contended that Secretary West has no legal right to fix the price of any but royalty oils, and that in attempting to do so he is violating contract rights of the Texas company.

LENIENCY FOR BOLTERS ASKED

Georgia Solons Want To Forget Differences

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—An echo of the presidential campaign in the South came today in a formal statement by Senator Harris of Georgia in which he opposed any move to discipline southern Democratic senators who bolted the Smith-Robinson ticket.

Senators Heflin of Alabama and Simmons of North Carolina were outstanding opponents of Governor Smith but their names were not mentioned in the Harris statement.

"Instead of punishing the Democrats who have differed with the party, I believe they should harmonize their differences so as to present a solid front four years from now," Harris said.

He expressed his opinion that Gov. Smith "has eliminated himself from consideration as a candidate four years from now and that entirely new issues would be made."

Crockett P.-T. A. Will Present Two Plays At School Friday Evening

Members of the Crockett P.-T. A. will present two plays, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Good Medicine," at the school at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Mrs. Nydia Joiner Young will direct the two plays.

"The Lord's Prayer" was written by Francois Coppel and depicts drama and chaos of the French commune. The day after the tragic death of the Abbe Morel, the Abbe's sister, Mlle. Rose is prostrate with grief. Her temporary insanity causes her to denounce even God Himself.

There is great human appeal in the lines of the old French serving woman, Yatee, as she described the incidents of the revolution. The cure is an unusually strong character who consoles the sorrowing sister in her bereavement and inspires her to a kindly deed that insures her future happiness.

Of much interest to the children will be the delightful poems of James Whitcomb Riley, "Fool Younguns" and "I Ain't Goin' to Cry No More," that will be given at an intermission.

"Good Medecine" is filled with satirical humor. The young Dr. Groves and his pretty wife are seemingly victims of circumstance but with the help of one of the patients who is a good actor, they escape the tragedies that threaten to engulf them.

A small admission will be charged, the proceeds of which are to be used for the school by the P.-T. A.

O' These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (US)—An English girl swung a pin and then stuck it in a racing list, betting on the horse whose name the pin pierced; she won $3,300. Immediately she gave up her job as stenographer and bought a pair of twin silver foxes to make her look pretty.

Don't you like her better than the girl who asks her husband what he did with every penny of his lunch money, and tells him he could have bought a suit for less, and scolds because he didn't put his money in the bank instead of having a little fun?

Even the lowliest of animals have to have a little play now and then, and men are not the lowliest —not quite.

While having breakfast with his wife, a mere man answered the postman's ring, and was handed a certified copy of a divorce decree. The wife neglected to tell him she divorced him for cruelty and had told the court they were living apart.

The oversight is going to cost her the divorce and net her a considerable amount of trouble. You don't have to tell a husband everything, but a little hint on a thing like this it develops would be worth the trouble.

Dorothy Scarborough, professor of English literature at Columbia university, lives in an interesting old house 200 years old, out at Cornwall, Conn. She hasn't anything in it less than 100 years old. She is, of course, even more interesting than her home, no wonder, with her talents, and that setting in which to write, she can write a book like "Impatient Griselda."

These days women who are worth while, aren't hunting for new friendships among the best bridge players and the best hostesses, and the women who can attract the most men to their parties. They are inquiring as Franz Schubert did when asked to meet strangers: "What can they do? Are they producers? What do they produce?

Life isn't so long that worth while people want to waste it on women who do well only one thing —make whoopee. If I don't misinterpret Mr. Winchell, whoopee is a diversion and not a life work.

A New York woman has made $200,000 in two years on the market. Not by gambling, but by wise investments. In gratitude for her success she says she has established a bread line in one of the city's needy spots, and has invested $20,000 in it.

She is not a whoopee maker.

There is a woman fortune teller in New York who predicts dire things ahead for her clients, and then calls them up to see if these things happen. If they don't she is very angry. She wants what she predicts to happen, no matter how disastrous.

A pleasant little party! And she has made the lives of several women I know perfectly miserable with her system. She calls her clients "my people."

That's a new way to work "a racket." In Chicago, fortune tellers give you glowing accounts of an immediate future for which you have always longed.

The New York woman is a regular Red Riding Hood's wolf. Someone should predict for her what should happen to her and then follow it up in the proper quarters.

There is very little that can be done for women who haunt fortune tellers. And what can be done to them, the seers do.

The next time you have a feeling that you are going to visit a fortune teller, go out and spend the money for toy balloons. It will be easier to see how silly that was.

Dorothy Dix Thinks Husbands And Wives Should Swap Jobs

If Husbands and Wives Could Swap Jobs Occasionally, So That Each Could Know What the Other Has to Endure, There Would Be Less Rattling and a Great Deal More Patience in Matrimony.

Isn't it a pity that we can't put ourselves in the other fellow's place now and then and get his point of view on things? Suppose, for instance, husbands and wives could swap jobs occasionally and each get a line on the trials and tribulations that the other has daily to endure —Wouldn't it do more than any other imaginable thing to make them more patient and forbearing and sympathetic with each other?

It looks to the average man as if his wife had a perfect graft in being just a wife and a mother. Man to stand between her and the world. Good house to live in. Plenty of food. Somebody else to hustle around and get the money to pay the bills at the end of the month. No boss growling at her all day. No cantankerous customers or clients who have to be jollied into good humor. By jove, he wishes he didn't have anything harder to do than just to stay at home and take care of the house and the children.

Yet if a man could live only one day of his wife's experience he would never again look upon the lot of the wife and mother as a soft snap. He would find that he would have to get up in the morning about half an hour earlier than any of the rest of the family because he had to prepare the breakfast and that he would be the last one to bed, because he would always have to work overtime to get his daily tasks done.

He would find that he would have to do over and over again the same tasks. Cook meals that were eaten by those who would be hungry again in another hour or two. Sweep floors that would be littered the minute after they were swept. Mend clothes that would be torn again, find caps that would be lost, take a million steps that seemed to lead nowhere, do endless labor that seemed to accomplish nothing and all to the ceaseless cry for m-o-o-ther and to an accompaniment of the noise, fights and wrangles of restless, growing children.

At the end of the day he would find himself bored with the monotony of the domestic treadmill, tired, with frazzled nerves, body and soul crying out for change, for something new to think about, something new to do, something bright and cheerful.

Do you think that a man who had held down his wife's job for even one day would come home gruff and grouchy and gobble down in silence the good meal she had prepared for him and sit up all evening as silent as a graven image with a paper in his hands and snap her head off if she even so much as suggested going to the movies? No, indeed.

He would make an effort to be pleasant and agreeable and chirk her up a bit, for he would know that no matter how hard his work had been it was no harder than hers, and that he, at least, had had the advantage of working among other people, where he had some companionship and could see and hear interesting things.

Even if his feet did ache for his slippers he would get himself up once or twice a week and take her to some place of amusement where she would get something to turn her thoughts into a fresh channel, something to mull over as she washed the dishes and sterilized the baby's milk.

Do you think that any man, unless he was the meanest tightwad who had ever put a Yale lock on his pocketbook, would refuse to give his wife an allowance if he had ever understudied the dependent wife role even for a moment? Never.

He'd know just how humiliated a woman feels who has to go as a beggar to a man for every penny she needs and how insulted she feels when she has the pennies doled out to her and how it outrages her sense of justice that her husbands withholds from her the money she has earned a hundred times over by her work.

Suppose, also, that the wife could put herself in the husband's place. She thinks it a lark to go downtown. Getting in the crowd. Meeting new people continually. Going out to lunch. Hearing funny stories. A life full of thrills and excitement.

Suppose she knew the actuality of it for even one day. Working for an employer who continually found fault and never praised. Living in perpetual fear of losing his job. Or fighting with his back against the wall for success in his business or profession. Notes to meet in the bank. Unscrupulous rivals cutting the ground from under his feet. Incompetent and blundering employes. The black fear of what will happen to his wife and children if he should fail.

Anxiety. Worry. Care. Crushing burdens. Overwork. Exhaustion. Stumbling home too tired to talk, too tired to think, craving only silence and peace in which to gather his forces together for the next day's fight.

If a woman would go through a day like that, do you think that she would meet her husband at the door when he returned home of an evening with an itemized account of everything that has gone wrong in the home and burden him with all of her household worries and troubles? Do you think that she would consider him grouchy and cross because he wasn't bright and chatty? Do you think that she would consider herself ill-used because he didn't want to dress up in his evening clothes and go out to parties with her?

I trow not. On the contrary, she would draw him across the threshold with words of tenderness and sympathy about how tired he was and she would feed and comfort him and take her town amusements in the afternoon so that he might get his rest at night.

Not many men are deliberately cruel husbands. Mighty few women are intentionally unreasonable wives. Their sins against each other are mostly due to blundering ignorance, of neither one realizing what the other has to endure. If they did, they would be kinder and tenderer and make each other's lot happier.

If only husbands and wives could change places for a day it would reform matrimony.

GUESTS' FEUDS WORRY FRANCE

Political Antagonists Flock To Tri-Color Protection

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.
Record News Special Cable

PARIS, Dec. 4. (US)—Drastic governmental measures designed to halt foreigners using France as a battle ground for personal feuds growing out of political animosities in their homelands, was confidently forecast today as Minister of the Interior Andre Tardieu took up the task assigned to him by the Poincare ministry.

There is no denying the obvious fact that French officialdom is greatly disturbed by the Italian uproar following the "absurd" two-year sentence against the Italian slayer of Count Nardini, Rome's consular representative in Paris.

It is recognized that the Italian indignation is aggravated by the recent murder in France of Abbe Caravadossi, a Mussolini enthusiast.

As the great military power of Europe France has had to suffer the abuse of her hospitality by political fanatics of all sorts. Every violent fanatic realized that the French power was a guarantee that his home government was practically helpless, no matter what he did. Moreover, French judicial practice enabled an assassin on trial to drag in all kinds of political controversial issues which would have been absolutely irrelevant under Anglo-Saxon procedure.

While the French police have achieved practical miracles in the protection of conspicuous visiting foreigners against violence at the hands of their own fanatical foes residing in the republic, there have been several unpleasant assassinations among the foreign colonies. Now the latest violent outbursts of Italian wrath have aroused the Poincare ministry to the urgent need of remedial measures.

At this moment, with many vital European international problems at stake, Paris is particularly desirous not to antagonize Rome. Those who have recently come from Italy declare that while it is difficult there to stir up feeling against Jugoslavia on account of the Adriatic problems it is comparatively easy to arouse anti-French bitterness.

ITALY WRATHFUL TOWARD FRANCE

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI
Record News Special Wireless

ROME, Dec. 4. (US)—Italian resentment against France as the aftermath of a French court's leniency in sentencing the murderer of a Fascist official in France to only two years' imprisonment, reached such a pitch tonight that the scheduled fencing tournament between fencing experts of the two countries was called off.

The tournament was to have been held at the Augusteo here tonight, but the French fencing champions took a late train today for Paris.

Great popular interest was centered on the tournament, as the Italian master, Agesilao Greco, had challenged the French Olympic champion, M. Caillau.

Augusto Turati, general secretary of the Fascist party and probably the most powerful man in Italy except Premier Mussolini, was to have met the French champion, M. Gaudion. Signor Turati was formerly a fencing master.

The chief reason for calling off the tournament is understood to have been a fear of a public demonstration against the French champions. This would have been especially grave in case they should have won the tournament.

Foes of Bible to Launch Campaign

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (UP)—Fundamentalists' efforts to prevent the teaching of the theory of man's descent from lower animals are to be countered by agnostics in a campaign to prevent the reading of the Bible in public schools.

Officials of the Freethinkers of America, an agnostic society, announced today that they would begin the fight against the Bible within a fortnight. They intend to file a suit to restrain teachers from reading the Bible to their pupils.

The agnostics claim that reading the Bible to school children is in violation of the American principle of separation of church and state, that portions of the Bible are "immoral and salacious" and that many of the incidents described in it are fanciful.

SOCIETY AUTO SHOW IS HELD

Colors Guide Exposition Of Fine Vehicles

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (INS)—Seventeen different makes of motor cars and everything that pertains to them—that is, everything but an open roadway—are to be seen today at the Hotel Commodore. The occasion is the twenty-fourth annual "society" automobile salon of the New York Automobile club.

Unlike other shows, color seems to be the big thing at this year's salon. The manufacturers have exhausted the spectrum in their efforts to beautify their products. Orange sport models, slate gray sedans and baby blue roadsters are to be seen on all sides.

Airplane Influence

Two models draw more than a little share of the visitors' attention. These are sport cars in which the influence of the airplane is to be seen to a marked degree. One of them is a Lincoln phaeton of highly polished aluminum with the front fenders designed to represent the cross section of a plane's wing, the front and rear seats resembling cockpits and a rudder and elevator attachment on the rear.

The other airplane model is a 365-horsepower Deusenberg with two depressed panels painted in silver, one curving from the top of the hood downward to the center of the front door and the other extending around the back from the rear door.

Another interesting model is the new Packard de luxe eight. It is a convertible machine and can be used either as an enclosed town car or an open sport car.

Other Models

Other models that have come in for praise and attention are a Chrysler imperial 80, a Cadillac with a Fleetwood cabriolet, a LaSalle sport roadster, a Stearns-Knight limousine and a Stutz roadster-phaeton.

Foreign exhibits include the Rolls Royce, Renault, Lancia, Mercedes, Isotta Franschini and Cunningham.

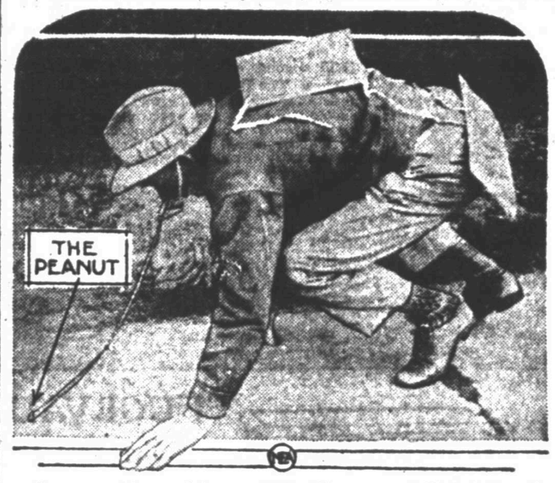

Raley and Jones To Draft New License Law

Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, and Roy Jones, chief deputy in his office, will leave Friday for Fort Worth where they will attend the meeting of a committee appointed to draft a proposed law lowering the cost of automobile license plates and establishing a 5-cent gasoline tax.

Mr. Raley is chairman of the committee, appointed last summer by R. G. LeClere, president of the County Tax Collectors' association. Six or eight members will gather to draw up the law, later to be sponsored by the same committee when the legislature meets in January. Plans calling for the meeting in Dallas have been altered to make Fort Worth the meeting ground, Mr. Raley explained.

ROLLS PEANUT 11 MILES WITH NOSE

A new world record for peanut pushing was established the other day by Bill Williams of Riohondo, Texas, who rolled a goober with his nose for eleven miles. It took Williams nine days to roll the peanut from Riohondo to Harlingen and he arrived two days ahead of schedule. On the fourth day out an automobile ran over him, but Bill didn't mind that.

Bryant Heads State Teachers Committee On Rural Schools

Burl Bryant, county superintendent and member of the state textbook commisson, returned Tuesday morning from Austin and San Antonio where he has been attending meetings of the commission and of the State Teachers' association.

Work of the commission, expected to be completed in a short session last Thursday morning, was delayed by legal difficulties involving the prices quoted on four of the books adopted. The Thursday session was continued until Monday, when the commission recessed to allow the attorney general time to investigate the prices before contracts are signed. The decisive meeting will be held in Austin on Dec. 17.

Mr. Bryant found time to attend the State Teachers' association convention in San Antonio between meetings of the commission. During the convention he was elected chairman of the county superintendents and rural schools division of the association for the coming year.

Navy's Mystery Plane Demolished in Crash

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (UP)—The navy's new mystery airplane—a new type of Curtis two-seater—was demolished today after dropping 3,000 feet over the naval air station here.

The pilot, James C. Collins, of the Curtiss company, New York, escaped by leaping in a parachute when the right wing of the fighting plane dropped off while he was putting it through difficult maneuvers.

13 Reported Killed In Croatian Clash

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Dec. 4. (UP)—The newspaper Politika reported tonight that 13 persons were seriously wounded in a clash between Radicals and Peasant supporters of a coalition government at the Croatian village of Kukunievaca. The clash grew out of disputes between Serbs and Croats over divisions of governmental power in the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Sloevenes.

RURAL SCHOOLS FACING PERIL

Oklahoma Ruling Threatens White Pupils

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 4. (UP)—Hundreds of district schools will be unable to function, if an opinion written by Justice Robert A. Hefner in a Creek county tax case is allowed to stand, Chief Justice Fred P. Branson of the supreme court charged in a dissenting opinion filed today.

The Hefner opinion held that a negro school is entitled to its share of state aid money awarded a county, the negro school's share being based on the negro scholastic population as compared with the white.

The case was brought by school district No. 3 of Creek county against the county commissioners to recover state aid money, which the commissioners had spent on a separate (negro) school in the district.

The Hefner opinion was filed last February and the court today overruled a motion for a rehearing. Justice E. F. Lester, who concurred in the Hefner opinion, filed a supplemental opinion today again concurring in the Hefner opinion.

The state aid money was divided between the district school and the separate school on the basis of scholastic population including each class of pupils.

Branson's dissenting opinion held the district school is a district burden and the separate school a county burden, supported by county taxes.

In view of this the district school, the justice held, should have received on the basis of the entire scholastic population, white and black, of the district, but the separate school should be maintained by a county levy.

Vaught Expected To Be Confirmed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (UP)—Confirmation of Ed S. Vaught as federal judge at Tulsa is not expected to be delayed long by the senate, it was said here today.

O. O. Owens, oil man and state legislator from Tulsa, Okla., sent a telegram to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, asking that the confirmation be delayed. Owens will file charges against Judge Vaught, the telegram stated.

Judge Vaught was nominated in the closing days of the last session and his confirmation withheld when Owens asked for an investigation.

Senator W. B. Pine, Oklahoma, said he expected no delay in confirmation when the senate hears Owen's charges.

Former Senator J. W. Harreld, Oklahoma, was here Monday and is believed ready to support Judge Vaught in the controversy.

COUNSELLOR OF WIFE IS SUED

Kindly Advice to Secure Divorce May Cost

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (UP)—A former Tennessee college president's success in persuading a young stenographer she should get a divorce may cost him $250,000.

The suit, charging breach of promise had been filed against Dr. David Earl Mitchell, former president of Cumberland university Lebanon, Tenn., by Mrs. Mary J. Collins of Brooklyn. She asserted Dr. Mitchell made a whirlwind courtship beginning in 1925 in which he spent more than $75,000 on her and sent her more than 750 letters and telegrams.

Supreme Court Justice Mitchell heard arguments yesterday on a motion to force Dr. Mitchell to reveal his whereabouts for questioning by Mrs. Collins' attorneys before trial. The former president's attorney said he did not know his client's address at present but expected to learn it soon. Judgment was reserved.

Mrs. Collins charged that Dr. Mitchell gave her $5,000 to go to Reno and divorce her husband, said to be a naval officer.

When Food Sours

COUNTY CLUBS TO EXPAND

Farm Home Groups To Work on New Program

A program of expansion for both the Women's clubs and the Girls' Four-H clubs in Wichita county is being planned for the coming year by Miss Ethel M. Webb, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Webb is completing her work for the 1929 year book this week and will be ready to announce her new program at the same time she presents her records of achievements for 1928. She expects to be able to make both announcements on or about Dec. 20.

Ten new members for each of the nine women's clubs within the county are pledged for next year, she said. The groups will be concerned with the problems of food, clothing and home improvement, according to plans already in operation.

Re-organization of the Girls' Four-H clubs and plans for 11 or 12 organizations instead of the eight now active is another part of the plans for the coming year to be completed in December. Miss Webb also expects to see the formation of women's clubs in communities not yet organized, she said Tuesday.

Daredevil Driver Parades Today

Plans for Buck Hoover's first parade here Wednesday afternoon were practically completed Tuesday night.

Buck, who hails from Hollywood, is here to drive an automobile through the streets of Wichita Falls for 101 consecutive hours while he is chained to his car. This drive is to be the big publicity stunt to advertise a pre-Christmas dance at the Kemp hotel which is being given to raise money to buy uniforms for the Wichita Falls Playground band.

Wednesday's parade will see Buck at the wheel of a Durant sedan, the car he will use during his long drive. It will be a "get acquainted" drive in which Buck will see Wichita Falls and Wichitans and they will have their first chance to see him.

This daredevil stunt expert, will seek to shatter the existing world's record for consecutive hours driving in this city, and to do so he must drive more than 101 hours. As he takes no food during the drive, he goes into training about a week before the drive starts. He will start training in the near future as the drive will start on Dec. 18.

Wichitan's Book In Third Printing

News was received here Tuesday that "Favorite Jokes of Famous People," a recently published compilation by Frank Nicholson, son of Judge and Mrs. E. W. Nicholson of Wichita Falls, has already gone into its third edition, and that the publishers are expecting it to go to seven.

The youthful writer, well known to hundreds of Wichitans, has received hundreds of favorable press reviews and numerous congratulations from the "famous people." Among the letters commending the work are messages from Charles Dana Gibson, Meredith Nicholson, Charlie Chaplin and Harold Bell Wright.

Mr. Nicholson plans to go to Paris by steamship just in time to make a return trip in the Graf Zeppelin which recently completed a successful transatlantic flight. His experiences will be recorded in his second book.

Odd Fellows Elect New Set of Officers

New officers of the Panhandle lodge No. 341 I. O. O. F. who were elected at the regular meeting here Monday night will be installed some time during the latter part of January, it was announced Tuesday night.

Officers were elected as follows: Roy J. Mann, noble grand; Carl Meade, vice-grand; J. W. Bussey, recording secretary; O. C. Blanton, financial secretary; J. W. Marlowe, J. T. James, and B. M. Fowler, trustees; J. W. Bussey, representative of the grand lodge; J. T. James, alternate representative, and J. W. Moontooth, degree captain.

Roll call night was designated as Dec. 17 by James Buster of Sherman, grand master of the Texas lodge, who urged all Odd Fellows to attend the meeting that night.

Accidental Shot Victim Improving

F. U. McCutchen of Weatherford who was wounded in the face by the accidental discharge of a shotgun during a hunting expedition near Paducah Sunday, was reported to be improving by attendants at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Tuesday night.

The injured man is connected with the Bradford Supply company of Weatherford, and is a brother of C. E. and W. U. McCutchen, local bankers.

Owners of Three Blocks of Land Submit Prices for Federal Building

Owners of four of the six tracts of land designated a few weeks ago by postoffice department officials as possible sites from which one might be chosen for the proposed new federal building were present at the chamber of commerce Tuesday night for interviews with the recently appointed option committee.

Three owners submitted definite prices on the basis of which chamber of commerce officials expect options to be signed Wednesday.

Six different sites were inspected by John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, on his recent visit to Wichita Falls, who asked that options be secured on the properties and forwarded to him at Washington, D. C., to be submitted along with his promised recommendation of a new government building here. Owners of one of the tracts refused Tuesday night to set a price, and that tract was withdrawn from the list of possible locations.

Orville Bullington, chairman; Roscoe Staton, W. S. Curlee, and O. P. Maricle of the option committee were present Tuesday night, with Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, acting as secretary for the body.

Women Tell Store Experts How And Why Advertisements Appeal

Mrs. Wayne Somerville, Miss Nora B. Stewart and Mrs. P. B. Cox addressed the Advertising club of Wichita Falls at its luncheon in the Kemp hotel Tuesday on their angles as club women, business women and housewives on what ads mean to them.

"Ads I Read and Why I Read Them" was discussed by Mrs. Cox on behalf of the housewives of the city.

"Ads carrying a notice to 'see our window Saturday don't mean anything to the housewife who is making out a long list of groceries and other household and family needs," Mrs. Cox told the advertisers.

"Personal letters reach comparitively few people but have a tendency to please the vanity," Mrs. Cox continued. "Women read advertisements mainly for supplying their immediate needs and long lists of reductions are studied."

Mrs. Somerville said she expected the store whose ad had drawn her to it to make her feel at home.

From the business woman's point of view, Miss Stewart said the ads should show bargains in things that are in good style and durable.

Oil Gusher At Oklahoma City

state has always established the Wilcox as a superior producer to the Simpson.

From an economic standpoint, Oklahoma City sees its chief benefit accruing from the fact that most of the prospective drilling areas are controlled by local capital. Oklahoma City companies and independent operators located here long ago sewed up all available acreage. T. B. Slick, independent operator; W. R. Ramsey, Anderson-Pritchard and Coline Oil company are the fortunate ones holding large blocks around the lease. I. T. I. O. has approximately 6,000 acres offsetting their discovery test. They own outright 40 acres on which the hole was drilled, paying $200 an acre for it some months ago.

Little acreage was on the market Tuesday night but the few blocks available were quoted around $2,000 an acre.

Auxiliary events incident to the bringing in of the well included a veritable evacuation of Oklahoma City Tuesday afternoon and night. Thousands of curious ones swarmed to the lease although they were held back from the scene of operations by a cordon of police.

By air line the lease is six and one-half miles southeast of the Huckins hotel and is eight miles by highway. It is near the Oklahoma City-Norman highway.

Capitol Hill, a suburb of the southern rim of the city, will stage a street dance and barbecue Wednesday night.

As oil cascaded down a hillside in rivulets Tuesday afternoon many persons scooped up buckets and pailfuls as souvenirs.

Body of Frank Mason Sent to Iowa for Burial

The body of Frank Mason, 60, who died in a local hospital Saturday, was forwarded to Tipton, Iowa, for burial Tuesday afternoon by the Merkle Undertaking company. Funeral services were held from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Evans, 1636 Lucile street, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock with Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Mr. Mason was a salesman here for the Continental Oil company and had been a resident of Wichita Falls for the past eight years. He was an active member of the Wichita Falls lodge No. 635, A. F. and A. M., and a life member of the Elks lodge at Galveston.

He is survived by one brother, Charles Mason of Tipton, Iowa.

Young Musician On Lions Club Program

Instrumental musical numbers by Jack Speegle and J. W. Collins, and a report of the banquet staged at Burkburnett Tuesday night by the Lions club of that city will comprise the program at the regular weekly meeting of Wichita Falls Lions Wednesday noon, it was announced Tuesday night by Leo M. Underwood, program chairman.

Jack Speegle, 7, was called by Mr. Underwood "the youngest cornetist in the south." J. W. Collins will play the clarinet, and both soloists will be accompanied by Miss Lois Baber, pianist, with the high school orchestra.

Dr. R. B. Graham, president of the local club and deputy district governor, headed a delegation of local Lions who attended the banquet at Burkburnett Tuesday night.

New Freear Home To Cost $100,000

Saying that people here have become more optimistic in the past 30 days than at any time in many months, Burton Stayton, one of the owners of the W. A. Freear Furniture company, announced Tuesday noon at the Real Estate board luncheon that the Freear company is to erect a $100,000 building at Eleventh and Lamar streets.

The exact date of the commencement of work was not given, but Mr. Stayton said that the place would be completed in June or July.

Fred Cone, R. S. Tucker and Alfred Harris were named on a committee by the realtors to consider the establishment of a bureau to aid property owners in obtaining desirable tenants.

George Shows No Improvement

don Gazette, the commission comprises Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Chancellor Lord Hailsham, and Premier Baldwin, any three of whom may constitute a working quorum.

The lengthy order in council, which the king heard read, gives the full names and titles of the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, but refers to Queen Mary only as "our most dearly beloved consort queen."

So passes, temporarily, as all Britons pray, much of the king's prerogatives. A tragic episode. The brave and well beloved little man who has sacrificed 18 years to the service of his country, is making the necessary gesture of relinquishment because he is unable to carry on.

Queen at Bedside

One may well wonder what are the feelings of Queen Mary, sitting at the bedside and hearing her name read as one of the commission assuming the power of that weak invalid she has nursed for 15 days—Queen Mary, who has seen the shadows closing gradually about the devoted head of her husband. With her are only one son and her daughter. Another son is at sea and another somewhere in Africa, with the heir hastening homeward as fast as he can travel.

The temperature rise this afternoon's bulletin noted, and reiterated in tonight's bulletin, is generally considered a grave sign, because it puts an added strain on the already overworked heart, which much needs rest if the king is to continue living.

Thieves Take Purses As Family Dines

The first indication of consideration among prowlers and burglars who have committed such frequent robberies in Wichita Falls during the last three months was reported to police headquarters Tuesday when thieves entered a residence here and escaped with three purses which they rifled then departed in an automobile in front of the house.

The residents to the burglarized house told police that they were eating dinner at the time of the robbery and did not discover the loss for some time. The three purses contained a total of $8.

Here's Real Relief From Neuritis
In 24 to 48 Hours You Get Rest and Comfort Again

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not entirely banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue taking them for two or three days more and thus prevent an early return of the torture.

It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs, Allison's Drug store says these little wonder-working capsules must banish all pain and torture in five days or money cheerfully refunded.—Adv.

SAVINGS CLUB BANKS $28,000

650 Wichitans Practice Systematic Thrift

Approximately $28,000 was deposited in the savings department of the City National bank between Jan. 1 and Dec. 1 of the current year by 650 members of the Christmas Savings club, according to a report given Tuesday by W. T. Cox, head of the department.

Accounts in the savings clubs are opened on or after January 1 of each year, and close on the first of December. According to a speech which was delivered over a radio hookup a few weeks ago from New York by the president of the Christmas Savings clubs of the United States, there are more than 2,000 such clubs maintained by local banks of the country, and amounts totalling $550,000,000 were deposited during 1927. It was estimated that the 1928 savings would approximate $600,000,000. The plan was inaugurated less than 20 years ago, and has extended to almost every village and town. The savings club president declared that an extensive questionnaire had proven that 60 per cent of the savings which are drawn out in December of each year are applied in constructive and useful channels.

Mr. Cox stated that many of those depositing in the Christmas savings accounts at the local bank declare upon withdrawing the accumulated funds that it is the first experience of saving any money regularly. The investment value of even a small amount of cash in hand is realized for the first time, he said, by many of these Christmas savers upon withdrawing their savings.

Music on Program

William Austin presided over Tuesday night's meeting.

Musical selections made up the entertainment program. Three vocal selections were given by Miss Latrice Wofford and the six Vanity Girls. The Municipal concert orchestra, under the direction of I. C. Johns, played one special number.

Mr. Johns played a violin solo and a vocal selection was rendered by Mrs. Brazilia Ainsworth with Mrs. O. E. Wheat playing the piano accompaniment. William Slaton, who led the meeting in a sing song, sang the "Big Base Viol."

The Rev. C. C. Klingman gave the invocation.

Iowa Park Well Flows 745 Bbls.

Flowing and swabbing at the rate of 745 barrels in 24 hours from the sand topped at 1,470 feet, Holbrook and Woods of Wichita Falls late Saturday completed their No. 26 Kemp-Kempner in block 82, Wichita Farm Lands southwest of Iowa Park in Wichita county.

The well, which is the biggest producer to be brought in from southwest Wichita county since the uncovering of the 1,900 foot sand in the south Electra pool and the K. M. A. production several years ago, encountered the pay at 1,470 feet and when drilled into a distance of nine feet began flowing. The producer was placed on a gauge and in a 24-hour period produced 746 barrels.

Holbrook and Woods, pioneer operators in this part of the country, completed many other wells from the various sands on their lease but none so far has produced the volume of oil poured forth in this recent completion.

Mr. Oneal stated that a banquet for the enlarged membership would be held in January, at which time important business matters will be taken up. The next regular meeting will be held on Jan. 8.

GRID BANQUET SET DEC. 18

Tech Club Plans Annual "Razz" for Notables

Installation of new officers for the coming year and plans for a membership campaign to be launched within the present month featured the regular meeting of the Wichita Falls Technical club Tuesday night at 6:45 o'clock in the Wichita club rooms.

Herbert Voelcker, retiring president, briefly outlined the history of the local club and the work of the past year in his "swan song," following which he presided at the installation of P. M. Cordell, president; Charles E. Watson, first vice president; John Marrs, second vice president, and C. F. Helmcamp, secretary treasurer.

Plans for the next meeting of the club Dec. 18, on which date the annual gridiron banquet and Christmas tree party will be held, were given further consideration. Herbert Voelcker and Dr. A. H. Douglass are in charge of preparations for the farce which in the past has been one of the most successful home talent productions of the year. Mr. Voelcker and Dr. Douglass were said to be utilizing heretofore undiscovered talent in composing the program of comedy and tragedy in the revelation of which local lights are privileged to see themselves, for one night, as others see them.

The annual Christmas tree will be unburdened of mysterious and baleful gifts following the banquet. Local celebrities, it was said, will find new angles of Santa Claus' understanding generosity revealed in their drawings from the tree.

Auto Theft Suspect Returned From Okla.

C. W. Bruner, charged with automobile theft, was brought back to Wichita Falls from Shawnee, Okla., by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Tuesday afternoon. Bruner, arrested in Oklahoma, first gave notice that he would fight extradition, but after a conference with Sheriff Bralley, agreed to come back without the filing of requisition papers.

He is charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to A. H. Fell on Oct. 31. Sheriff Bralley brought the car back with him to Wichita Falls.

F. C. Blakely, wanted here on charges of stealing an automobile in Electra, is also being held in the Shawnee jail, Mr. Bralley said. Steps will be taken soon for his removal for trial here.

The tax collected on complimentary tickets for the Tunney-Hetney fight was $13,399.22.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Down the Bowery way, less savory and more prosaic than in the heydays of yesteryear, they're beginning to protest after a fashion that their own Paddy Sullivan really set the precedent in this party bolting business. Raskob, Owen and the others, they'll tell you, have done nothing new.

Paddy Sullivan, or more pretentiously, Patrick H. Sullivan, a brother of the celebrated Big Tim, a real old-fashioned Alderman, patron saint of the Sullivan club and a power in Tammany circles, seeing himself about to go in the discard actually took the family name and influence from the Wigwam and went over, lock, stock and barrel to Mitchel. However, nothing like it ever happened before, and the news broke in Arlington hall, where resolutions were read, which gave Tammany and Murphy fits. The amazingly frank resolutions, read by Paddy himself, are necessary to an understanding of the situation. Here they are:

"Whereas Tammany hall today is run by Charles F. Murphy and his 'interests' in the interests only of this selfish group and the corporations they favor, instead of the loyal Tammany workers; and

"Whereas Mr. Murphy and his selected cabinet now attempt to create the bunco issue of the rich against the poor, and this despite the fact that Mr. Murphy spends his time on his fine country estate at Good Ground or in gilded private dining rooms at Delmonico's, where your shoe sinks two inches into velvet carpets and cigars don't come two for five; and

"Whereas, in spite of the wicked class hatred issues of rich against poor raised by the secure tool picked by Murphy and McCooey to handle the affairs of the wealthiest city in the world, Murphy went right over to Fifth avenue to get his candidate for sheriff in the person of David H. Knott, who lives at 45 Fifth avenue, and thereby threw aside the earnest Tammany leaders, whose rewards in the past have been selections for offices; and

"Whereas in fulfillment of the Murphy policy of only picking men whom he owns body and soul, he and his group of nominators picked a fellow named Charles L. Craig, who has an office with James A. Foley, Murphy's personal senator, in the financial district, to O. K. some $200,000,000 of expenditures in the comptroller's office; and

"Whereas Murphy and McCooey with their paper and faking 'leagues' and 'committees' now try to pull the wool over the eyes of the people on the issue of New York's poor, notwithstanding the fact that Mayor Mitchel has been the poor man's friend—for example, in providing places on newsstands for the blind, cripples and invalids, that these may not become public charges, and in insuring protection and liberty in business, thus making for the business people of the city's government that every one knows has been free from the petty exactness (sic) of other days; and

"Whereas Murphy and McCooey brazenly picked a ticket of unknowns in Delmonico's just as they did four years ago, although Murphy and McCooey rigged up a fraudulent 'fusion' crowd, who never belonged to Tammany, to deceive honest Tammany Democrats into the belief that such men as Hylan, Knott, Craig, &c, are 'the people's choice,' in spite of the fact that every one knows that Murphy wants only four years of good pickings in the city government before the 'retires;' and

"Whereas everybody knows that Mayor Mitchell has been honest, sincere, fearless and capable in giving a nonpartisan government which all the big men of New York admits is the 'best New York has ever had;' therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Sullivan club in meeting assembled does hereby affiliate itself with the city democracy, which has been organized by the unbossed Democrats of New York city from Murphyism, to keep Murphy and McCooey from city hall by reelecting Mayor Mitchel and a nonpartisan ticket, therefore, be it further,

"Resolved, That this organization, one of the oldest and greatest of Tammany strongholds, hereby withdraws from Tammany hall and pledges its efforts and votes to a man to reelect the ticket headed by Mayor Mitchel."

From these resolutions it appears that Paddy Sullivan grieved particularly because the nomination for sheriff, at that time one of the fattest lawful prizes within the gift of New York, had gone elsewhere. He, no doubt, remembered that Big Tim nominated Erlanger for the office and that later on Christy Sullivan had the opportunity to win but couldn't.

A Superior Inferiority Complex

BAUDELAIRE, French poet of another era, once said in effect, "It is only the inferior who really are observant."

His remark was made at the height of the mode of "dandyism," a fashion of thought and action which he founded, and which is generally thought of in America in connection with the well-dressed dude flipping cigarette ashes casually at the street corner, while explaining to his friends his "philosophy of life."

Baudelaire, if we are to believe his own explanation of his remark, delivered it in just that spirit, a flippant and sarcastic thought, while flipping his cigarette ashes at the street corner. It was his point that the intelligent man didn't observe his comrades on this earth, didn't show curiosity about their thoughts, and their manners, because he thought himself superoir enough as it was. Therefore, let the inferior, the numbskull, use his eyes and his brain for this purpose.

There were two things wrong with that remark. The first was that he was right about it, to a vast degree. Not entirely, but to a sufficient degree that the masses, who believe anything a great man says, took it too seriously. The second thing wrong with it was that Baudelaire probably didn't have the right conception of "superiority." Hence, the effect of his remark on the really inferior person was to give him a false conception of himself, to throttle his brain with the thought that "I'll not do this, or study that, because I'm supposed to know it already."

To sum it all up, the inferior one, reading Baudelaire's cryptic statement, thought this way: "I have been observant of life as it presents itself to me. Now this man says that betraying my ignorance is so much a confession of inferiority that I will be a laughing stock in society. I do not wish to be that. So I will pose as superior instead."

He poses as superior. In so doing, he finally closes the doors to whatever thought ever cried for the shelter of his unkempt mental abode.

There were hundreds of such men who had the same mental reaction to a great man's flippant phrase. That was many years ago, far back in the last century. America, always more than a decade behind the French in culture, finally discovered Baudelaire and his school of dandyism, and any college student of the days of 1920, say, can testify that small groups of esthetes emulated him faithfully with their campus antics. Some of them were intelligent. But others can well fit into the category of the bewildered man of another century trying to reconcile his manner of thinking to a poet's conceit.

But—and here is the point—there have lived, and still live, men who take an admission of inferiority as the spur to a real superiority, a superiority that Baudelaire, for all his renown, never actually enjoyed. Beethoven, for instance, at 15 was willing to throw himself at the feet of Mozart in tears after hearing the master play. Crying like the child he was, he despaired of ever learning anything, so perfect was the music he had heard. His despair, however, generated an inconquerable will, which by the time he was 25, soon put Mozart behind him as a composer and led him to a spiritual eminence never attained, it is admitted, by any other musician.

Beethoven represents the type of man who will say, "Yes, I recognize my inferiority at present. But by emulation of those better than I until I reach the stage where I can branch out and stand on my own feet, I will to be superior to my present condition."

Bringing this contention down to the humdrum of everyday life, it is not the poseur who disdains his employer who rises from the position of a clerk to a departmental manager; and it is not the person befogged with trivial statements of allegedly great men who look at life with their own, and not someone else's viewpoint.

What a pity that men like Beethoven don't spend more of their time on the street corners, dropping phrases for the guidance of youth!

New York's Vicious Circle

IT MIGHT be a good thing if city planners and real estate men from such growing metropolitan cities as Detroit and Chicago could spend a bit of time studying the transit puzzle of New York.

New York's transit situation raises the question whether it is not possible for a city to grow too big for any use. The worker in New York has to endure almost unbearable crowding in the subways when he goes to and from his job. The city digs new subways at vast expense; but the new subways enhance realty values and cause the construction of new skyscrapers, which in turn increase the congestion until things are as bad as they were before. It is a vicious circle that, seemingly, has no end.

It is freely predicted that a number of American cities will soon be as populous as Manhattan now is; and if New York's traffic tangle can be used as on object lesson by these municipalities it will be a good thing. Surely, one city with streets and subways as jammed as New York's is enough.

A SAFE AND SANE CHRISTMAS FOR POCKETS

Now that Thanksgiving is over, we have Christmas to worry about and it usually is more worry than any other holiday time of the year. Especially the paying for it part.

FOR BUILDING OF CITIES

Institutions are not built in a day. Cities do not spring up overnight. Sometimes extraordinary starts are possible or unusual progress is registered, but the stuff of which they are made cannot be accumulated in short order. In the natural course of events, time is one of the most important requisites for consummation of projects. It takes some individuals and communities longer than others to succeed, but in the main the prime necessity is time coupled with energy, money, foresight and judgment.

The INN of the HAWK and RAVEN

George Barr McCutcheon

COPYRIGHT, GEORGE BARR MCCUTCHEON, DISTRIBUTED BY NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOC., NEW YORK

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt aging as the escort of the princess, on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth, but he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

Urged on by his mother and his brothers, who hate Jonifer, Peter contemplates a revolt against his uncle's authority.

Jonifer, who, on learning that Gerane is in love with Starcourt, makes some secret plans that involve the soldier, takes a trip to Moscow. On his way home, near the Axphain border, the stage-coach is held up—not by his men however. The arrival of a troop of soldiers results in the capture of the robbers. The incident serves to inform Jonifer that Starcourt, with 500 picked men, is in the Forest of Droon to run down the Davos band, no matter how long the task keeps him there. Jonifer and his companion.

John Crispo and Jonifer Davos quietly disappear that night and make their way home, realizing that the situation is too serious to permit of their running the risk of capture.

Jonifer's return puts an end, for a time at least, to Peter's thoughts of rebellion. The chief's next move is an attempt to capture Starcourt in a surprise attack at night. He is defeated, however.

Later, coming upon Starcourt while he is swimming in a mountain pool, Jonifer captures him. The colonel's men believe him to be drowned.

Meanwhile, he is among the robbers in the valley, free to do as he pleases, but unable to escape.

Jonifer tells Gerane that he has captured Starcourt as a birthday present for her. The bandit chief takes it for granted that the soldier will fall in love with his daughter and that they will marry. He is amazed when Gerane, in a fit of rage, says she will marry Peter—anybody but the soldier.

When Starcourt at last makes friendly overtures, Gerane repulses him.

Jonifer, acting on a suggestion of one of his lieutenants, who informs him that Gerane has killed a hawk that Starcourt had sent to him as a carrier-bird, sends thereby get into communication with the outside world, tells his daughter that he is going to have Starcourt executed.

Gerane, although she is not fooled by Jonifer's threat, says the soldier is not to be shot—that she has decided to have his life that he may instruct her in English.

While the Graustark authorities are still making frantic efforts to recover Starcourt's body from the pool in which the soldier was supposedly drowned the minister of police, Baron Danglois, is informed by one of his men, Peter Corpax, that the Countess Jabassy has in her possession a famous diamond that was taken from a Russian princess in the Forest of Droon by Davos' men. The detective also says that the count and countess are living on a scale that is far beyond their means and asks where the money comes from. He says that he believes the count and countess to be Davos' confederates.

Corpax, disguised as a fruit vender, stops the Countess Katrane on the street and, taking a long chance, tells her he is a messenger from Jonifer Davos and has been sent to tell her that her connection with the robber band is known to the police. Despite her desperate efforts at self-control, Corpax sees how alarmed she is and decides that his suspicions are correct.

As the result of Corpax's report, Danglois sends officers to bring the count and countess before him. They, fearing that arrest will result in the disclosure of their relations with Jonifer, commit suicide.

INSTALLMENT 27

Starcourt was a long time in going to sleep that night. Frequently he paused in pacing up and down his room to study the picture of the late Duke of Droon that hung on the wall—a proud, arrogant face it was, despite all the havoc that time and ill-use had played with the canvas on which it was painted—and, at such times, he drew a ghastly picture of his own; the head of this ancestor of Gerane's lying in the bloody sand at the base of the executioner's block.

The room was cold. A high wind whistled around the corner of the cabin, rattled the door and hurled dead leaves against the window-pane. Bed was the place for him—he could be warm and comfortable there—but he knew there was no such thing as repose for him tonight. He was in a state of torment. Over and over again, he demanded of himself.

"Am I in love with her? Can it be possible that I am in love with this robber's daughter. Has she cast a spell over me Can I throw it off And will she bring me to heel and then laugh at me"

Or he would cry inwardly: "She is as good as gold. She's clean-minded, she's clean-hearted. How proud she is! How she fights to keep me from seeing that she is the warmest-hearted, gentlest—why there isn't a mean drop of blood in her dear body."

At length: "Now, suppose I am in love with her—I hope I'm not. I hope I've only lost my head for a little while, as any other fool might do—but suppose I am actually in love with her, what then? Have I any reason to believe that she will ever care for me. And yet, sometimes I fancy she—" and so on through the long, cold night.

He was at the kitchen door the next morning when Matilde emerged from the main house and called to him.

"Not the kitchen this morning, Colonel Starcourt," she said as he came up. "Jonifer told Elfie that you are to have breakfast in the big room." She closed the door behind them and continued: "You and I will eat alone. Jonifer was off before daybreak to see Heber Dykes, who was injured in the night when a tree was blown down upon his house. I have not heard the details."

Starcourt expressed concern for Dykes and then asked:

"Isn't Miss Gerane—er—feeling well?"

"Oh, yes. But she never gets up to breakfast as early as this. Isn't it wonderful to have nothing on your mind and be able to sleep like that?"

He said it was wonderful to have nothing on one's mind. The light from the window fell on his face as he sat opposite her at the table.

"You do not look as though you slept well last night, Colonel Starcourt," she said.

"I slept badly," he said. "You would hardly expect me to sleep well under the circumstances, Miss Matilde," he made haste to explain. "I am afraid it will take a long time for me to get used to captivity."

She leaned forward. "Colonel Starcourt," she said, lowering her voice, "I have been a prisoner in this valley for nearly a quarter of a century and, even now, I am not used to what you call captivity."

"I—But I thought you loved it here. You—you seem contented and cheerful," he stammered.

"I love Gerane. If it were not for her, I should have made my escape long, long ago."

"Your escape! Good heavens, if you know of a way to get out of this place—"

"There is no way to get out of this valley," said she calmly. "But there is a way to escape, my friend."

"You mean?"

"Yes—it is the only way. The reason I have not killed myself, Colonel Starcourt, is—Gerane."

"Such love and devotion as yours—" he began, but she cut him short.

"You may have to stay in this valley for the rest of your life—who can tell? And the reason you will not kill yourself is the same as mine—Gerane."

"Upon my word, Matilde," he exclaimed. "Why, if the slightest chance of escape offered itself, I would fight my way out tomorrow, next day—next year—any time. You—"

"My friend, I merely told you the reason why you will not escape by killing yourself."

"I would not kill myself under any circumstances."

Rosa came into the room with platters of meat and cakes. Matilde did not speak until the woman retired.

"For more than 23 years, Colonel Starcourt, I have not put foot outside this valley. Somewhere, in the world beyond those hills, are people who loved me. They do not know whether I am dead or alive. I speak of my father, my sisters, and my brother. My mother died when I was a child. Perhaps my father has gone to join her. Now, try, if you can, to picture yourself as existing here for 20 years, knowing nothing of what has befallen your loved ones—your mother, your sisters, if you have any, your friends—yes, perhaps your sweetheart. It may seem incredible to you, sir—but I had a sweetheart, long ago. Would you go on living as I have lived, unless there was something more for you to think about than yourself? I fancy not, my friend. For the past 16 years Gerane has stood between me and—escape. And so, my friend, she will keep you from escaping by the simplest way open to the hopeless."

"Gerane," he murmured huskily. His gaze went to the curtained doorway.

"Tell me about Gerane's mother," he urged.

"Would you be interested?" after a moment's hesitation.

"I can't tell you how much, Matilde," he said earnestly, leaning forward.

So Matilde related the story of Louise, and not for an instant did Gavan Starcourt suspect that she took a deep—aye, a fierce interest in letting him know who and what the mother of Gerane was in the golden days before she fell into the hands of the robbers of Droon.

Louise was the eldest daughter of a rich and influential baron whose belongings included a castle in the Tyrol, a mansion in the city of Vienna, and far-reaching farm lands in the south of Austria. These had come down to him in his generation from the feudal barons who built and throve before his birth and who had won and lost and won again in the wars of conquest and defeat that made the land a bloody battleground for years upon years of greed and misery.

Her father was Baron Johann Hazenstahl; her mother was the daughter of a titled Viennese surgeon of great renown. She had an elder brother and two sisters younger than herself. The former must have been the head of the family by this time, as Baron Johann was well along in years when his daughter was kidnaped.

"I know nothing of what has happened at Hazenstahl or in Vienna since the day Louise and I left Edelweiss on our way to the railroad in Exphain. We spent a fortnight at the house of Count Marlanx, in Edelweiss, and were on our way to Prague, where Louise had relatives and school friends. I need not tell you that she was received at the Court of Graustark and that many entertainments were arranged in her honor by the nobility. Your mother would remember her visit, if she happened to be in Edelweiss at the time."

"I dare say my mother was living in England at that time," interjected Starcourt.

"I was her companion," went on Matilde, disregarding the interruption. "She was 21 years old. That portrait does not do her justice. She was very beautiful, Colonel Starcourt, and greatly beloved. But we need not go into that. It is too painful.

"A lordly company attended us part of the way over the King's Highway—gay, eager, young gallants who had lost their hearts to her in Edelweiss. They left us on the morning of the second day, and we went forward with the escort provided by Count Marlanx, who was then minister of war. There were 10 soldiers, besides our own servants and the postilions. That night the robbers swept down upon us. The soldiers tried to beat them off. Every man in our escort was killed, Colonel Starcourt. Two days later we came to this valley as captives.

"Gerane's grandfather was the chieftain of the band. He was a tyrant. The only thing I shall ever be grateful to Jonifer for was his defiance of his father when that beast would have—. But I must leave something to your imagination. There is good in Jonifer, Colonel Starcourt. He is ruthless, he has killed men, he has ruled here with a hand of iron. But he loved Louise. He loves her still. And she came to love him, robber though he was. After all, he is the descendant of a royal duke. There is good blood in him. But your coffee is cold, Colonel Starcourt. Let me pour you a fresh cup."

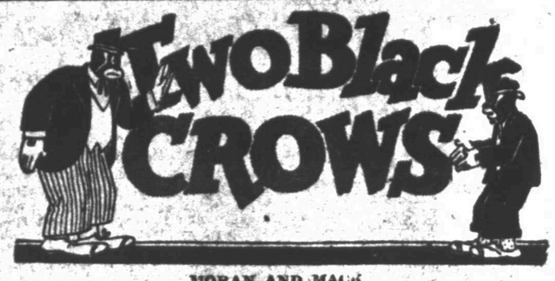

"Thank you. Stupid of me. Yes, please," he said. Then:

"When I was a little boy, my father and mother talked a great deal about the horrible fate of the poor young Austrian girl, and, even to this day, Matilde, the crime is discussed at the Tower. It will cause a great sensation when the facts become known."

"If they ever do," said she, sententiously. "I wonder what the world would say, if it ever came to know that the lineal descendant of a royal duke, a daughter of the ill-fated Louise, and cousin to the noble house of Hazenstahl was born and brought up in a nest of thieves and cutthroats. I wonder."

AUSTIN, Dec. 4. (AP)—State Representative W. R. RIGHT NOW

that car of yours needs the unfailing protection of

EVEREADY PRESTONE

(TRADEMARK)
For the Preparation of

The Perfect Anti-Freeze

Does not contain alcohol or glycerine

A new discovery! An enormous success! There's nothing like it for winter safety!

NEVER has there been an anti-freeze that has met with such overwhelming success as Eveready Prestone. Thousands and thousands of motorists everywhere have welcomed this perfect anti-freeze as the first permanently satisfactory answer to the freezing hazards of cold-weather driving. The enormous demand last year made it impossible to supply everyone. This season every motorist can protect his car with the perfect anti-freeze. Do it now! Eveready Prestone lasts indefinitely and your car needs its protection right now as cold weather begins.

Driving without anti-freeze or depending on an anti-freeze that boils off or loses strength while in service, exposes your car to the costly hazard of freeze-up—a ruined radiator, cracked castings, a broken pump. As much damage as though you had driven it into a stone wall! Why take such a chance when one supply of the perfect anti-freeze, Eveready Prestone, will mean safety and peace-of-mind all winter?

A guaranteed and proved product

Eveready Prestone is marketed by the National Carbon Company, Inc., manufacturers of Eveready Flashlights and Eveready Radio Batteries, and is guaranteed by them to meet every specification established by the U. S. Bureau of Standards for "an ideal anti-freeze."

Eveready Prestone has been thoroughly tested under every condition of winter driving by thousands of individual car owners, leading automobile manufacturers, by bus and truck fleet operators, and by operators of dirigibles and commercial airships. They have endorsed it as the one anti-freeze that is completely dependable, safe and harmless.

Eveready Prestone is a pure, undiluted product, not a solution or a mixture. It contains no water, alcohol or glycerine. Although it costs more initially, it is a most economical investment because of its lasting qualities and because one to two gallons, depending upon your radiator capacity, is sufficient to protect your car against a freeze-up for all winter.

Eveready Prestone is added to the water in the radiator in quantities depending on the temperature against which protection is desired. Guard against mechanical leaks and no replacements are necessary. Water lost by evaporation, of course, should be replenished. For complete protection you require less of Eveready Prestone than of any other anti-freeze, and it proves less expensive to use.

Safest for your car

You can use Eveready Prestone without fear of damage to the finish of your car or the metals or other materials in the cooling system. It does not leave deposits or become gummy or cause overheating. It is the perfect anti-freeze!

There is no longer any need to risk a frozen motor and a big repair bill with an unreliable anti-freeze. Make your car safe all winter with one supply of Eveready Prestone.

OKLA. SOLONS MEET SUNDAY

Caucus Called to Select New Speaker

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 4. (UP)—Democratic house members will attempt to settle on a speaker for the twelfth legislature at a meeting Sunday at 1 a. m. in the Huckins hotel.

J. Woody Dixon, representative from Love county, one candidate for speaker, called the meeting through a letter written to leaders of the house.

"I asked all Democratic members interested in organizing the house in a way that would hold the party caucus intact to meet Sunday," Dixon said.

"The letter was mailed Monday. I have not received any response yet, but with the nearness of the session I am sure all leaders will attend," he said.

"Compromise" Denied

It had been reported that the meeting was a compromise affair with a goal of settling on either Dixon or Jim Nance of Walters, Cotton county, as speaker.

Nance denied this.

"I will not withdraw from the race for speaker for anyone," Nance said. "I have not heard about the meeting, but if it is for the purpose of organizing the house I will attend."

The Republicans hold the balance of power in the house between the administration and anti-administration forces.

Some political writers have forecast a bolt of the Democratic caucus and election of a speaker from the floor, if bitter anti-administration leaders lose their choice for speaker.

Nance is said to be the anti-administration candidate. Allen Street, Oklahoma City, has been mentioned as a compromise candidate although he is pledged to an investigation of state departments.

The meeting Sunday is said to be an effort to halt a bolt of the Democratic caucus and destruction of party lines in the house.

Electra Woman Is Startled by the Ring of Telephone

Had Awful Nervous and Dizzy Spells at Times—Orgatone Restores Her

"I am no more like I was before I began taking Orgatone than day is like night," said Mrs. May Beadle, of Electra, Texas, while in Allison's Drug store, Wichita Falls, the other day.

"I had indigestion so bad for four years," she continued, "that I could hardly eat anything without having trouble afterwards, even breakfast foods disagreed with me. I suffered terribly after eating, from pains in my stomach and gas that would rise and press against my heart. I had so little appetite that I used to dread for meal time to come because it meant that if I ate anything at all, I would have to force it down. I had such dizzy spells that often I would have fallen headlong to the floor, if I hadn't caught hold of something for support as soon as things began to whirl around me. My nerves were so upset that I didn't have the patience to do the embroidery or needle work that I loved to do when I was well. Slight noises like the telephone ringing would startle me, and even the ticking of the clock sometimes annoyed me. I kept losing strength until I was unable to do my own housework at all, and finally began to be despondent because nothing I tried helped me.

"One day I read of some people here in Wichita Falls that had been helped by Orgatone and I determined right then and there to try it.

"I took Orgatone faithfully according to the directions and hadn't finished the first bottle before I was feeling much better than I had been for several years. I have steadily improved, until now, my appetite is so strong that I am always glad when meal time comes and I can eat anything I want. My digestion is perfect, so I don't have any more trouble with gas, pains, shortness of breath or dizzy spells. I can not do any kind of work that I ever did. I am now as well as I ever was any day of my life, free from all pain and discomfort, and gaining strength right along. I will be grateful to Orgatone the longest day I live."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily. Out-of-town customers are are being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25, or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

Paris Loses Prestige As Divorce Center—Switzerland Gains

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (US)—Paris is rapidly losing its American divorce colony; Geneva and Lausanne are all the rage now!

This from George C. De Lacy, of the Paris law firm of De Lacy and Chambers, who now is on his way back after a brief visit to New York on business matters for Parisian clients.

Not himself a divorce lawyer, De Lacy nevertheless has been unable to step entirely free from exported American marital matters, he admitted before sailing on the French liner Paris.

"But there will be less and less of such business, I'm rather glad to say. The reason is that the French courts have been so imposed upon that American couples must now show bona fide domicile in France of about one year before they can obtain divorces."

De Lacy was quite rapturous over the advantages of divorces outside of France. He saw special advantages in Swiss divorces.

"Not only will Swiss divorces stand in any country in the world but just think of the winter pleasures of Geneva and Lausanne—with a divorce thrown in."

LINDY PICKS AIR STATIONS

Stops on New Air-Rail Line Designated

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (UP)—The new "Lindbergh air-rail line," which will start operation next spring, will use Columbus, Ohio, Wichita, Kan., and Clovis, N. M., as its transfer stations, it was learned today.

These cities were decided on by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is chairman of the technical committee of the trans-continental air transport, operators of the line.

Ford tri-motor planes will be used in the service, connecting with fast trains of the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads. The trip from coast to coast will require only 48 hours.

The air-rail passenger, who will be allowed 30 pounds of free baggage, will leave the Pennsylvania station here at 6:05 p. m. and arrive at Columbus at breakfast time the following morning. There he will proceed to the Columbus airport and take off in a plane at 8 a. m.

An all-day flight over Middle-Western plains and prairies will bring him to Wichita, where he will board a Santa Fe sleeper for the night, arriving in Clovis the next morning. The final leg of the journey will be made in a plane flying over the southwestern deserts and mountains to Los Angeles, where the plane is scheduled to arrive late in the afternoon.

The only faster transportation would be by continuous day and and night flying. The trans-continental air mail between New York and San Francisco is carried in about 36 hours.

Mystery Shrouds Death Of Young Woman

BRISTOW, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—Police and Creek county authorities here today were investigating a possible mystery murder following the death late last night of Mrs. Bessie Caldwell, 21, wife of C. A. Caldwell, principal of the high school at Shamrock, near here.

Mrs. Caldwell, the mother of a 2-year-old son, was brought, unconscious, into the Bristow general hospital about 9 o'clock last night by a man who said he had picked her up on the highway two miles north of Depew. The man left without leaving his name, address, or anything by which to identify him. Mrs. Caldwell died about 45 minutes after she was brought to the hospital. She never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Caldwell's skull was fractured at the base. That was the only wound or bruise on her, hospital attendants said.

Mrs. Caldwell left Shamrock, her home, about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Depew where she was going on business for her mother, Mrs. Fred Black.

She told her mother before leaving that she would return on either the train or bus late in the day. The train was due in Shamrock at 4:15 and the bus at 7:35.

Mrs. Caldwell had been married three years and had lived in Shamrock for nearly two years, advices from there said.

Daughter Locates Parent in Mining Town

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4. (US)—And all the time his daughter was searching for him—15 years, now—C. H. Judd has been the mayor of a Colorado town!

That was the sequel revealed today to the tale of how Mrs. John Luhman, wife of an Inglewood motion picture projecting machine operator, "discovered" her long-lost father last week in a news reel. News of the discovery, together with pictures of Judd, published in a newspaper here, drew the story of Judd's position from Joe Davids, former miner and prospector, who has known Judd for years.

"Why," he said, "Old Man Judd has been mayor of Gothie, Gunnison county, Colo., for a long time. Anyway, that's what they call him, because most of the time, he's about the only one living there.

"He makes his home in a two-story shack—the biggest house in Gothie—and it used to be a saloon and gambling hall in the old boom days."

The Luhmans, after seeing Judd's picture in a newsreel showing a party of Colorado university co-eds visiting the old Colorado mining towns, had been making efforts to locate the exact town in which Mrs. Luhman's father is now living. Davids' story supplies this information, and the Luhmans plan to make an immediate trip to Colorado to see the old man.

Sequel to Duels Of Roman Nobles Takes New Turn

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI
Record News Special Wireless

ROME, Dec. 4. (US)—An attempt by Prince Spada Potenziani, former governor of Rome, to dethrone Prince Giovanni Torlonia as president of the ultra-exclusive Rome club, "Degli Scacchi," was thwarted at a meeting of the club's general assembly here tonight.

Torlonia, who is owner of the Villa Torlonia, where Premier Mussolini resides, has been president of the Degli Scacchi club for the last 25 years. Potenziani's effort to unseat him was defeated after a bitter debate before the club's assembly by a vote of 80 to 65.

The former governor of Rome had attempted to gain the presidential chair for himself, after a quarrel with Prince Torlonia which had its inception in the recent series of duels in which Prince Potenziani figured as a duelist on one side while his opponent figured as a second on the other side.

After the duels, Prince Potenziani asked the club's committee to inquire into the full conduct of the club's business under the administration of Prince Torlonia. The committee's answer proved unsatisfactory to the ex-governor, and he accordingly declared war on the club president.

Tonight's vote fully vindicates Prince Torlonia, and it is whispered in some quarters that Potenziani and his followers may withdraw from the club's membership as a result of their defeat.

GENEROUS MAN DONATES DEBT

Employes Presented With Firms' Liabilities

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (UP)—Big-hearted Daniel Von Bremen faces court proceedings because of complaints that all he gave away, when he presented his Indiana Flooring company to his faithful employes two years ago, was $500,000 in debts.

Von Bremen with a gesture turned over all his stock in the company to the workers. On the books, it was pointed out, there was shown an annual profit of $266,000. Auditors were called in some time later, when something seemed to have come unstock.

It was claimed that the audit showed Von Bremen had entered the company's annual depreciation on the asset side of his ledger, and had borrowed more than $500,000 from banks. This money, it was said, he distributed to stockholders. He owned 80 per cent of the stock.

Banks from whom Von Bremen obtained loans decided to act jointly against him, and brought a civil action for fraud against him.

...PIPED FROM THE WELLS TO YOUR GRATE

The utilities of a city are combined in your motor car

YOUR automobile is something like a miniature city. There is an electric light and power system, a water system, a fuel system.

In the new Ford, you will find each of these systems of the latest design and built of the best materials. Every part has been made to serve you faithfully and well and at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Take, for example, the generator—one of the most important parts of the electrical system which supplies the current for lighting and for engine ignition.

In the new Ford, the generator is of the power-house type and is distinctive in many features. It has been specially designed to prevent most forms of trouble. Oiling is necessary only once a year. About the only thing you need do is to have the charging rate changed as the seasons change.

Closely allied to the electrical system is the ignition system. It, too, is of new mechanical design in the new Ford. There is but one high tension cable and that connects the coil with the distributor. Even cables from the distributor to the spark plugs have been eliminated. Special care has also been taken to make the distributor water-proof, thus preventing short circuits from rain, etc.

The electrical and ignition systems of the new Ford are so simple in design and so carefully made that they will give you surprisingly little trouble. Yet that doesn't mean they should be neglected. Certain little attentions are needed from time to time.

The storage battery should be given water and the connections kept clean. The generator charging rate should be changed as indicated. Spark plugs should be cleaned at regular intervals. Distributor points should also be kept clean and the distributor cam given a light film of vaseline every 2000 miles.

These are just little things, but they mean a great deal to your car. You can have them looked after at very small cost by the Ford dealer when you take the car in for oiling and greasing.

A thorough checking-up at regular intervals will lengthen the life of your car and give you many thousands of miles of care-free, economical motoring.

MEN'S COMMERCIAL BASKET BALL LOOP ORGANIZED FOR 1929

6-CLUB WHEEL ELECTS JONES

Another Big Year Seen As President Is Retained

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Six teams will start play early in January in the Men's Commercial Basket Ball league. Reorganization of the loop and election of officers for the 1929 season was held last night at the Texas Electric Service company.

The fives which will comprise the men's circuit this winter are Texas Electric Service company, champions last season; Hub Clothiers, 1928 runners-up, Continental Oil company, Featherstone-Hawkins-Vague Insurance company, Wichita Falls junior college and Wichita Falls High school.

Featherstone-Hawkins-Vague and the high school Coyotes supplant Draughon's Business college and National Guards, which were not represented at last night's meeting.

Jim Jones, under whose efficient leadership the league achieved great popularity last winter for the fast and excellent basket ball offered, was reelected president by acclamation. Jones thus starts his third season as head of the loop, proof of the esteem with which he and his regime is held.

Other Officers Elected

Al Parker, first vice president and Jimmy Lawrence, secretary-treasurer, also were reelected to those offices, and by acclamation. Larry Dailey was named second vice president. The third vice president will be chosen from the Girls' Commercial league, which is to be organized next Tuesday night.

A board of directors for the league composed of five leading sportsmen of the city, was selected. It comprises W. B. Ward, A. E. Kelly, William E. Huff, T. H. Lawson and Horace Robbins.

Few changes were made in the bylaws of the circuit. Of importance was the vote of managers to continue to vest the power of executive authority in the president and first and second vice presidents, in the deciding of disputes and protests.

The president, as last season, will appoint the league referee with the aid of the team managers.

Split in Abeyance

Officers and managers of the league voted to start the 1929 season on a full schedule, with the option of splitting the playing program if deemed advisable.

It was also reiterated by a vote that players in the league must be residents of Wichita Falls or must be employed by concerns which are members of the circuit.

The 1929 season will mark the seventh year for the league.

Perfection of the men's organization and formation of the girl's loop will be the important business of the league at next Tuesday night's session, which also will be at the Texas Electric Service company, at 7:30 o'clock.

Representatives of teams at last night's conclave included:

Texas Electric Service company—Charles Spraggins and Coyal Francis.

Hub Clothiers—Mike Goldstucker.

Featherstone-Hawkins-Vague, Insurance company—Thomas Vague.

Continental Oil company—Frank Ramsey and G. Jarvis.

Wichita Falls High school—Kenneth Mills.

Mental Strain Too Great

By BOBBY JONES
National Amateur Champion

JOHNNY FARRELL

Soon after Johnny Farrell had won the American open, Grantland Rice wrote that about the only thing that could keep Johnny away from a permanent position around the top was playing too much golf. The demands upon an open champion for exhibitions are great and the desire to realize upon the market value of a title impels most men to accept all invitations.

Farrell quite naturally, filled all the engagements which train schedules and the distances to be traversed would permit. The very day after the playoff at Olympia fields, he was engaged in a tournament at Kansas City. From that time on there were matches and tournaments here, there and everywhere.

Early in September Johnny failed to qualify for the P. G. A. and was beaten in the early stages of the Metropolitan professional championship. Immediately after the P. G. A. qualifying rounds, I played with Farrell, Hagen and Sarazen at Woodland near Boston. At that time it was impossible to watch Johnny without becoming sincerely sympathetic. Not particularly strong at any time, he appeared to be actually worn out mentally and physically. The king was gone from his long shots and his putting was listless and ineffective. I thought then of Grant Rice's forecast.

Hagen, on the other hand, has played as much golf this year probably more, and during the past several years he has taken part in more exhibitions than any man living. Apparently it has no effect upon him either physically or mentally. After looking at Hagen it is easy to appreciate his raw physical endurance. Big, powerful, he looks as though he could wade through 72 holes a day for weeks without even becoming weary. But to avoid staleness—which is after all only a fagging of the brain—requires more than a powerful body.

There again Farrell lacks the equipment needed to carry him through a long strenuous season. His high-strung nervous system is not able to absorb punishment day after day, and week after week. Farrell can never play golf placidly. He is one of the many who must be "putting out" all the time.

Johnny takes very good care of his body, even going in to a certain extent for systematic training. He neither smokes nor drinks. But what he has needed this year and hasn't had is relaxation. The wisest thing he ever did was to stay away from the British open in order to be rested up for the American championship. In the end it was the rest which enabled him to win.

Everything said about the advantages of continuous competitive play should be heavily discounted. Men situated like myself, who cannot spare time for more than two tournaments each year are supposed to labor under a severe handicap when playing against professionals who have unlimited time for play. But I consider that very circumstance as a distinct advantage. After years of experience it is not necessary to play continuously in order to know how to handle oneself under a strain; and the infrequent play never destroys the keen edge of a competitive spirit. The man who is "rearing to go" is always a hard one to beat.

Johnny Farrell just happens to be the type which needs rest—not necessarily complete physical rest, but rest from golf. He will meet with greater success when he chooses a few important tournaments upon which he can concentrate his energies. Unfortunately to follow that plan will mean the loss of many useful exhibition fees, but it will bring more important titles.

50 CANDIDATES FOR PREP FIVE

Intensive Practice to Get Under Way Next Week

Fifty candidates reported for the first meeting of the Coyote basketball team Tuesday afternoon. Much enthusiasm was shown during the meeting, although regular training will not start until next Monday, according to Kenneth Mills, who is to help coach the Pack during the former part of the season this year.

Three letter men will be with the team this year. The lettermen are: Paul Dickey, captain; Henry (Babe) Anderson and Jerry Curtis.

McCallum Talks

Coach A. Y. McCallum gave a short talk to the boys present, telling of the methods that are to be used this year in coaching. He stated that the candidates would be divided into three groups, alphabetically, so that the coaches could work more efficiently. The groups are to be under the supervision of three coaches: Bill Morris, McCallum and Mills.

Captain Anderson said that the prospects were excellent for a winning team. He also stated that, from all indications, the Pack would even go further in the tournaments this year than they did last year; the squad having won the bi-district championship last year.

Other Candidates

Some of the veterans of the team who are expected to make good showings on the floor this season are: Jerry Curtis, Paul Dickey, Thomas Beaty, Charles Mundey and Martin Hodgkiss.

Much is also expected of the new members on the squad who have played on other school teams in the past. Among them are Ensign Rexford, a two-year star; Dale Davis who has also played for two years, and Estel Sharpe, a three-year man.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE MAGNUTS of minor league baseball are meeting this week in Toronto. But little important legislation and business affecting the game probably will be transacted, if this conclave is like the rest. The moguls go to the meetings with the ringing declarations of drastic changes to be introduced, or with some particular fight to be waged for some particular "cause." But when they meet the other magnates, they become imbued with a spirit of camaraderie and amity. Past differences are forgotten. Their meetings are cut and dried and about as interesting sessions as the weekly teas of the Ladies' Aid society they hold back in my old home town.

F'instance, there was a piece last week in The Sporting News, the baseball paper published at St. Louis, saying that Oklahoma City and Tulsa magnates would wage a determined fight to get out of the Western league in this conclave at Toronto. Well, the Western loop moguls met yesterday at Toronto. Hoover's goodwill tour did not exceed the backslapping harmony that prevailed at the Western loop confab. There was no mention made of seceding; indeed, Jack Holland, the Oklahoma City club owner, was placed on the schedule committee. President Dale Gear of the Western league was elected president without a dissenting vote.

THE INTERNATIONAL league also met yesterday. Here was to be a real fight, it was said, with the draft and the reelection of John Conway Toole as the main issues. But the "Int" wheel moguls held Toole in office by a unanimous vote and were of one accord on the draft, which means that they oppose it.

PRACTICALLY ALL leagues, including the Texas, will hold meetings at Toronto. But all these sessions are hardly more than formalities. Indeed, there is little business to transact by the Texas moguls. In their fall meeting the bosses of our circuit adopted the class rule, decided on a 168-game schedule and discarded the split season. So there is little more for them to do at Toronto. Except to barter for players.

THEREIN LIES the real interest of these National Association of Professional Baseball clubs meeting—the trade and sale of players. J. Alvin Gardner, Spudder prexy, is at the Toronto meeting with an open mind regarding the acquisition or disposal of athletes. Don't be surprised if the sale or purchase of more than one player is announced by Gardner.

The ever-present and always-disturbing question of the draft will come up at the National association meeting, which formally gets under way today and ends Friday. But little change in the draft is to be made. The class AA loops, largest of the minors, will continue to oppose the draft and the smaller circuits may adopt it or discard it at their own discretion. A majority of the minors under AA classification favor the draft and doubtless will so go on record at Toronto.

IT'S A GREAT session, the National Association meeting. I have attended several. You renew old acquaintances and make new ones; and have a fine time. And what a fine time one can have at Toronto, a real Al Smith town, where them that wants can get without fear of the law or wood alcohol. But as far as the leagues transacting important business, except for player deals, the meeting holds little for scribes to write about—except for the usual long speech by Commissioner Landis, who deals in platitudes—like Gene Tunney.

They're Still Teaching Vintage Chuckball in East, Runyon Says

Oregon State and Stanford Show Pride of Effete Section Difference Between Old and New Grid Game

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. — After glaring at the efforts of one of the better chuckball teams of the Pacific coast, to-wit, Stanford, I have come to the conclusion that our Eastern chuckball tutors don't know what time it is when it comes to the modern phases of chuckball. They are still teaching vintage football when the rules call for chuckball.

The fine royal American pasting that the Oregon Staters administered to New York university, one of our crack—or it is cracked?—Eastern elevens on Thanksgiving day, gave rise to vague forebodings in the minds of some of our more astute chuckball experts. If an obscure team like the Oregon apple knockers could do this to one of the Eastern top-toppers, why, what the—?

But then the experts suddenly remembered that N. Y. U. didn't have Al Lassman, or something, and this eased the ache to some extent while they waited for Stanford and Army. I think there is no doubt that Army also had one of the greatest of the Eastern teams.

And Stanford, with a 3,000-mile train ride only a few hours behind it, and playing in weather that must have curdled the sun-kist blood of the young Californians, made our soldiers look as if they had never heard of chuckball before. On this same horrendous day, the University of Southern California was plastering the wandering tribe of Notre Dame by the Pacific's sad waves.

Any and all arguments as to the merits of Eastern and Mid-Western and Western chuckball end here. The West wins by seven lengths. Let us be thankful that the title remains in America.

It is obvious that our Eastern chuckball tutors are not moving abreast of the chuckball tide. Human material for the pastime is, in general, about the same the country over. I mean to say the young men of N. Y. U., Notre Dame, Army, Yale and other colleges, are no better—and no worse—for chuckball purposes than the young men of Stanford, U. S. C. and Oregon State.

That is, with the exception of a few individual cases. In the main they are all about the same width, height, length, color and average of intelligence. That being true, results depend on teaching.

Wherefore I say to you that the war Western tutors, on the face of the returns, have displayed a stronger grasp on the possibilities of the wide open game than their Eastern comrades. They have shown us the higher and better things of chuckball. Though oddly enough some of these far Western tutors are Eastern turned and polished. Maybe it's that California climate.

Oregon State and Stanford both unveiled little quirks and twists of chuckball that were hitherto quite unknown to the East. They made suckers of two of our most gallant teams, if you want the real low down in unvarnished terms. Army and N. Y. U. looked as if they didn't belong in the same league with these west coasters.

What the strangers might have done to some of our other Eastern teams makes one shudder to contemplate.

Anyone can at once see the difference between far Western and Eastern chuckball after viewing Oregon State and Stanford. It becomes apparent that our Eastern teams are still proceeding along the established lines of tradition, while the westerners are doing something new. They are handling that ol' leather muskmelon with confidence, and daring, while the easterners are still fondling as gingerly as if it were a Brooklyn bomb.

I saw a lot of Eastern teams before I saw Stanford. I believe that of all the easterners, only fair Harvard, in its last game against Yale, displayed some conception of the game of chuckball as it is played out there in the open spaces where they aren't afraid to pass the pineapple. However, I must say that up to that last game Harvard acted as if it had only just heard of the pass, and didn't believe the rumor.

My comrades, we are behind the chuckball times back here in the effete East.

No doubt about it.

We have a number of right little, tight little teams, to be sure, made up of bright young men of intelligence and earnestness. Fine students. Splendid characters. And all.

But their chuckball tutors, or coaches, are old fashioned fellows, who wear suspenders. They aren't Jerry to this new fangled chuckball.

I once fostered a movement to require coaches to go to work, a movement that ended abruptly with a counter proposal from the coaches that sports writers also be required to go to work. But I now offer an amendment to my original motion.

I move you, Mister Chairman, that the eastern coaches be compelled to spend the winter taking instructions in chuckball under Ol' Pop Warner, of Stanford, that we of the East may move out in the light of chuckball day, and be relieved of the embarrassment of the sneers of our far West friends.

Either that, or else divide the pastime into two distinct phases—eastern and western, or old and new chuckball.

Then when a far Western team comes to the East, let us play the game in two parts. The first half in the eastern, or old style, the second half in the western, or new style.

TOOLE RETAINS 'INT' LOOP JOB

Attempt to Oust Baseball League Prexy Fails

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 4. (UP)—An attempt to oust John Conway Toole as president of the International league failed today when those opposed to the present administration found they had not enough votes to swing the ouster, and the first session of the series of minor league meetings at the King Edward hotel was conducted with perfect accord.

Warren Giles, president of the Rochester club, had announced that he would demand President Toole's resignation, and the attention of major and minor league magnates and representatives was focused upon the International league meeting.

The question of the universal draft, the most important before the assembled gathering at Toronto, was involved, for Toole was known to stand adamantly opposed to acceptance of "the right of selection," while those who wanted him ousted were in favor of modification.

Following a three-hour meeting, at which no mention of removing Toole from office was made, the International league announced the following decision. The league season will open April 27 and close Sept. 25, with the customary 168 games being played.

The American association also met today, but beyond appointment of Joe Cantillon, superviser of umpires, it did little business of general interest.

THERE'S a grade of Conoco Amalie Oil for your particular motor. Exhaustive tests have proved that Conoco Amalie lubricates your motor exactly as you and the manufacturer of your car want it lubricated. Conoco Amalie is "custom made" for you.

Manufactured from the cream of 100% Pennsylvania Crude, Conoco Amalie stands up under practically every operating condition. It fights friction, seals the pistons, protects every moving part, reduces wear and tear and thereby insures a greater trade-in value for your motor.

Why endanger the very life of your motor by allowing "tramp" and unbranded oils to be poured into the crankcase? Why not play safe and insist upon Conoco Amalie?

Ask for it wherever you see the Conoco sign.

Developing the Facial Contours

The fleshy parts underlying the skin are composed principally of muscles and by exercising the muscles of the face and neck properly the circulation of the skin can be restored to a large extent.

There is nothing which will improve the circulation of the blood to the face and head as thoroughly as exercising the muscles of the neck. A good method is to place a pillow against the wall, stand back about three feet and rest your weight on your forehead while pressing it against the pillow. Partly support your weight with your hands, but gradually support as much weight with your neck muscles as possible. Roll your forehead back and forth in the pillow so as to strain the neck muscles to the utmost. You can also apply your head sidewise to the pillow which will develop the muscles at the side of the neck and take out the hollows around the collag bone. Next, turn your back to the wall and raise and lower your weight, supporting your body entirely by your head and feet.

The appearance of the neck may also be improved by exercising of the platysma myiodes—a flat muscle attached to the jaw at one end and to the muscles of the chest at the other. If this muscle is exercised vigorously, the throat will soon assume a normal shape.

A good exercise is to stick the jaw out and tense the muscles in front of the throat, contracting and relaxing this muscle alternately, as you make the chin protrude and recede. Do this a few times, and then try tensing the muscles and throwing the head quickly backward so as to put a sudden strain on the front of the throat. Practice this exercise in front of a mirror. Hold your hand on your throat while doing the exercise so you can feel the muscles when they become tense. This exercise should be taken cautiously at first or the muscles will become very sore and you will think you are having an attack of tonsilitis.

Another method of promoting the circulation to the skin is to use hot applications morning and evening, followed immediately by an ice rub or laving with very cold water. After the cold treatment, use the facial exercises. After the exercises a good plan is to rub the wrinkles lengthwise with a clean toothbrush, which has been dipped in sweet almond oil. These combined treatments will stimulate the circulation to the wrinkled area and the skin will soon assume a healthful, glowing appearance.

Other exercises may be indulged in. A good plan is to look at yourself in the mirror and try to discover various muscles of your face. Avoid undue stretching of the facial muscles. It is more important to gently alternately tense and relax them. Rolling the eyes to first one direction and then the other is also helpful.

You might imagine yourself acting in the movies and that the director is telling you to assume the different emotional attitudes of the face. For instances, first look surprised, then angry; laugh, look sad, jealous, joyous and so on. It is best to employ these exercises in privacy, otherwise your friends will be wondering what has happened to you.

After you have continued these exercises for a time your friends will probably be inquiring the name of the surgeon who did your face lifting, because it is possible to erase 15 or 20 years from the appearance of the face by using these daily exercises.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Drinking Water in Kidney Trouble

Question—E. H. Writes: "I am suffering from tuberculosis and had my right kidney removed. I drink from 6 to 8 glasses of water daily. Do you think that amount of water will tax my kidney, or is the water any help to my cure"

Answer: You should drink as much water as is necessary to keep the urine a light straw color.

Non-Starchy Vegetables

Question—Mrs. Q. asks: "How should the non-starchy vegetables be combined with other foods?"

Answer: One or more of the non-starchy vegetables, either raw or cooked, may be used with either one starch or one protein, or with any other article of food, such as milk, toast, or fruit. I will be glad to send you a free article on food combinations. Send large self-addressed stamped envelope with your request.

Pain in Side of Head

Question—M. M. J. writes: "For a couple of months I have had a pain sometimes sharp and sometimes dull in one side of my head, reaching from the shoulder and upper arm to the right side of the head, back to the ear. It seems more acute in the morning, but is ever present and not particularly pleasant. Is it nerves? I am an unmarried woman 55 years old, with generally excellent health."

Answer: Your pain may be caused from a misalignment of one or more of the cervical vertebra. Change to another size pillow and this treatment to the neck (while you are having the pain) would doubtless relieve, and if not, the cause may then be found to be either rheumatism or some reflex from lower down on the spine.

"'Five cents a word for ten words,' replied the cashier.

"'How mooch for mae signature?' inquired MacTavish.

"'No charge for that,' smiled the other.

"'Ye main tae tell me, mon, that ye'll send mae name free?'

"'That's right.'

"The Scot rubbed his forehead with the pencil. 'Now, mon,' he said, 'ye mas not believe whot I'm aboot to tell ye, but it's absolutely true. I want to send only mae signature—I'm a Red Indian, and mae name is Won't-Be-Home-Till-Friday.'"

Bus Line Wrangle Sifted in Inquiry

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Two witnesses today told the Texas Railroad commission that they had not received a proper accounting of revenues received by Harvey Brothers, who operate a bus line between Dallas and Houston, and whose permit will be canceled if the commission upholds charges being aired at the hearing.

C. E. McKinney and George T. Adams, both of Corsicana, operators of the A. & M. lines, were the witnesses who made this claim. They also contended that Harvey Brothers had violated ordered schedules, ordered fares and stipulations that portions of revenues on part-way trips be paid to intermediate lines.

Sam Day, Waco, operator of the Central Texas lines, said that buses of the Harvey lines often pulled out of a station ahead of his, thus violating orders of the commission.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—After selling off several points during the early trading under further liquidation promoted by rather larger private crop figures than expected, the cotton market rallied on trade buying and covering. January contracts sold off from 20.19 to 20.05 and advanced to 20.32 during the afternoon but reacted slightly, closing at 20.26. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 16 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points and the active months sold about 4 to 5 points net higher during the early trading on covering and local buying which was evidently encouraged by relatively steady Liverpool cables and reiterated reports of a favorable outlook for the cotton goods trade. The advance was checked by realizing around 20.39 for December and 20.16 for May, however, and the market eased during the middle of the morning under southern selling, which appeared to be coupled with some local or commission house liquidation. This may have been promoted by a couple of private crop reports, one of which estimated the yield at 14,388,000 bales and the ginnings to Dec. 1 at 12,350,000 bales. The other placed the crop at 14,114,000 and the ginnings at 12,407,000 bales.

On the average, however, these reports did not seem very far out of line with expectations and later a third report was issued placing the indicated yield at 12,-846,000 running bales and the ginnings to Dec. 1 at 12,334,000 bales. These later figures seemed to stimulate the demand somewhat, while there was also buying which was said to be influenced by constructive features in the president's message to congress.

Offerings were comparatively light after the mid-morning selling had been absorbed, and the market worked up readily to 20.41 for December and 20.32 for May, or 19 to 24 points net higher on the active months. At these figures considerable realizing by early buyers and some southern selling was encountered, which was well enough taken to give the market a steady undertone at the closing reactions of some 6 to 10 points from the best. Trade interests were reported buyers during the day, but a good part of the demand was attributed to covering, and local brokers said the decline of 75 to 78 points from recent high levels appeared to have left the market in a firmer technical position.

Exports today were, 33,597, making 2,-334,535 so far this season. Port receipts, 97,453. U. S. Port stocks, 2,307,223.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4. (AP)—An early decline was checked by covering and re-buying in the cotton market today and January contracts which had sold down to 19.45 rallied to 19.72 and closed at 19.65, net 16 points higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 15 to 16 points.

Liverpool cables were 2 to 3 points better than due but the local market opened only 1 to 3 points up. The initial advance was soon lost in a flurry of realizing but offerings were absorbed and towards the end of the first hour prices showed gains of 5 to 8 points compared with yesterday's close.

In the second hour two private crop reports making the indicated yields 14,388,-000 and 14,114,000 bales respectively and estimating ginnings to Dec. 1, at 12,350,000 and 12,407,000 bales respectively, encouraged a renewal of liquidation. Before the offerings were absorbed January sold down to 19.45, March 19.57 and May 19.52, or 10 to 11 points net down.

Towards noon a third private report made its appearance, showing a probable yield of 12,846,000 bales. This served to offset in some measure the influence exerted by the two previous estimates and recent sellers rebought. The president's message to congress was also considered rather favorable and brought out some covering. Prices continued on the up-grade until near the end when January reached 19.72, March 19.84 and May 19.78, or 20 to 27 points above the lows and 21 to 24 points over yesterday's close.

From these levels the market eased 7 to 8 points on some realizing and March closed at 19.76 and May 19.71, or 15 to 16 points net higher.

Stocks Are Strong Generally With Radio's Skyrocketing the Feature

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (US)—Radio, in skyrocketing flight to new high record, featured a generally strong market today. The entire list advanced during most of the session in the face of 10 per cent call money that resulted from banks calling $40,000,000 more loans. Profit taking setback wiped out a good part of the gains toward the close, however.

Radio, after soaring over 410, closed at 407½ for net gain of 33⅛ points for the session. Gold Dust gained over 4 as did Standard Milling, while Chrysler featured an irregular motor group with advance of 4⅛ points. Steel, General Motors and other standard industrials were comparatively quiet but firm throughout.

Coppers met heavier profit taking on the good news of the special dividend declarations by the porphyry companies. Oils were dull but steady while the rails lost most of their gains of recent sessions. The continued tight money again curtailed trading and kept volume for the day below 5,000,000 shares.

Message Is Pleasing

The president's message to congress proved all the street expected and as the coming administration is trusted to "continue Coolidge policies" the sustained rally resulted. The most important feature of the message from a market standpoint was the reference to railroad mergers. It gave rise to hope that the short session would result in legislation that would do away with the obstacles the commerce commission has put before the more important merger plans of railroad magnates and bankers. If the several mergers which leading railroad bankers have had before them for many months were to be consummated successfully, it was believed the greatest rail market in history would result. However, private advices from Washington hold out little hope that any such legislation can be put through before the present congress ends, so the one hope of the rail bulls is that the personnel of the commission will be changed next month.

Alaska Juneau was the outstanding performer of the early hours. Activity was influenced by the same interests who first took a position some time ago when it was pointed out here that the company would earn close to $1 a share this year and that prospects were bright for income of three times that much in 1929. Mexican Seaboard's new high reflected in part further favorable advices regarding operations in California. In addition, it was learned that important development on the Texas holdings of the company can be looked for in the not distant future. Quiet accumulation of Texas Gulf was evidenced again.

B. and O. Drops

Baltimore and Ohio dropped despite expectations of increase in dividend as a result of further improvement in earnings. Missouri Pacific met some profit taking when the long awaited dividend was announced but met good support. Part of the "big ten" were at work in Auto Lite as word was received that Ford had notified companies supplying his plants to prepare for even larger production for January and subsequent months. Wesson Oil, Gold Dust and Standard Milling is the lineup for the next merger expected with the Gold Dust interests mentioned as responsible in good part for consolidation plans that will group Toddy with other companies. Associated Dry Goods was helped by group operations based on report that earnings were showing even better than the usual seasonal gain recorded at this time of the year.

More important than the president's message to several of the old-timers were the remarks regarding the stock market uttered by President Sloan of General Motors. His remarks were overlooked by the "public" but his view that the market has over-discounted the earning power of many corporations is shared in by an increasing number of bankers and business leaders. As head of General Motors he is in a position to get the best possible view of countrywide business conditions. He is in daily touch with the most powerful bankers and closely associated with important stock market interests. His outspoken expression is another straw to the burden the market is carrying.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Liberal receipts and curtailed shipping orders resulted in another uneven decline of 10@35c in hog prices around the 11-market circuit; the day's extreme top of $8.90 was paid at Chicago, St. Louis had a top of $8.75, while at Kansas City both packers and shippers bought choice butchers at $8.45; total offerings were around 155,000 as compared with 97,097 last Tuesday and 138,308 the same day a year ago.

Fat lambs were on a steady to 25c higher basis and at Chicago a moderate advance was registered on aged stock; choice native lambs at Chicago scored $14.40; the supply was around 44,250, an increase of 10,000 over a week ago, but 3,700 short of the same day last year.

Steady prices were maintained on the better grades of fed steers and yearlings but at several markets an additional decline was enforced on short feds; demand at most points centered on the better kinds of light yearlings; other killing classes of cattle were little changed; bulls, vealers and calves moved freely at firm to slightly higher figures; stocker and feeder classes have been in limited supply this week with values firm; there has been a decided decrease this week in stockers from Colorado; choice to prime 1,185 pound steers in Chicago scored $17.50; bulk of short fed steers are selling from $10.50@13.50; the latter price securing good heavy beeves at Kansas City; aggregate receipts were estimated at 46,300 against 32,176 a week ago and 34,053 a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 15,000; 10@15c lower; top $8.45 on choice 220-240 pounds; butchers, medium to choice 200 to 350 pounds $8.10@8.45; 200 to 250 pounds $8.25@8.45; 160 to 200 pounds $7.85@8.40; 130 to 160 pounds $7.40@8.35; packing sows $7@8.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW
By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (AP)—Coarse grain increased in activity and showed an upward trend today, contrasting with weakness of wheat. Exporters in need of corn to fill contracts which call for December shipment were apparently becoming anxious. Scarcity of oats resulted in March and May oats outdoing the highest prices heretofore attained this season.

Corn finished irregular, varying from ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, with oats ⅛c to 1⅛c gain. In wheat, the close was easy, ⅛c to ⅛c net lower. Provisions at the last were to off to 2c up.

Final quotations on corn and oats were near to the day's top level. A careful check-up on the corn export situation as it affects the price of December delivery in Chicago was said to show that exporters had in general sold corn for December shipment, hedging the sales by making purchases of the December future delivery, but were now in a dilemma because rural holders have not been letting go of corn to the extent which was looked for. In this connection, talk was current that exporters who thus are short are finding themselves unable to turn over December contracts and get immediate delivery corn submitted in time to fill requirements.

It was further asserted that corn premiums have worked higher on the grades which have been sold for export, and that as settlement time approaches, anxiety is apt to increase. Meanwhile today's purchases of corn to arrive in Chicago were small, and fresh export business was announced despite gossip in some quarters that there had been transatlantic selling today of corn future deliveries here, and that Europe had also relinquished certain amounts of corn bought for January shipment from the United States.

Meanwhile, vessel charters were made today for 190,000 bushels of corn to go from Chicago to Buffalo Georgian Bay. Charters to Georgian Bay were also made for 250,000 bushels of oats.

Extension of wheat harvesting in the southern hemisphere, with Argentina offering wheat freely to Europe at cheaper prices, acted as a weight on the wheat market. However, sellers were as a rule disposed to be cautious pending developments in farm legislation at Washington.

Provisions averaged a little lower, reflecting the action of hog values.

SKELLY PLEADS FOR ECONOMY

Petroleum Institute Opens Annual Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (AP)—W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company, today told members of the National Petroleum Institute that the oil industry was faced with the necessity of drastic economy, and offered as a money saving device the standardization of equipment.

He advised the oil men to break with managers too conservative to give up their old equipment for standardization, adding that economy was owed to stockholders and the industry itself.

CO-OPERATION IS BYLES' PLEA

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (UP)—Axtell J. Byles, vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, opened the institute's ninth annual meeting today with a plea for "rationalization" and co-operative policies in production, manufacture and marketing of oil.

Byles said the oil business cannot be profitable if it continues in alternative periods of over-production and threats of under supply, without co-operation from within or control from without.

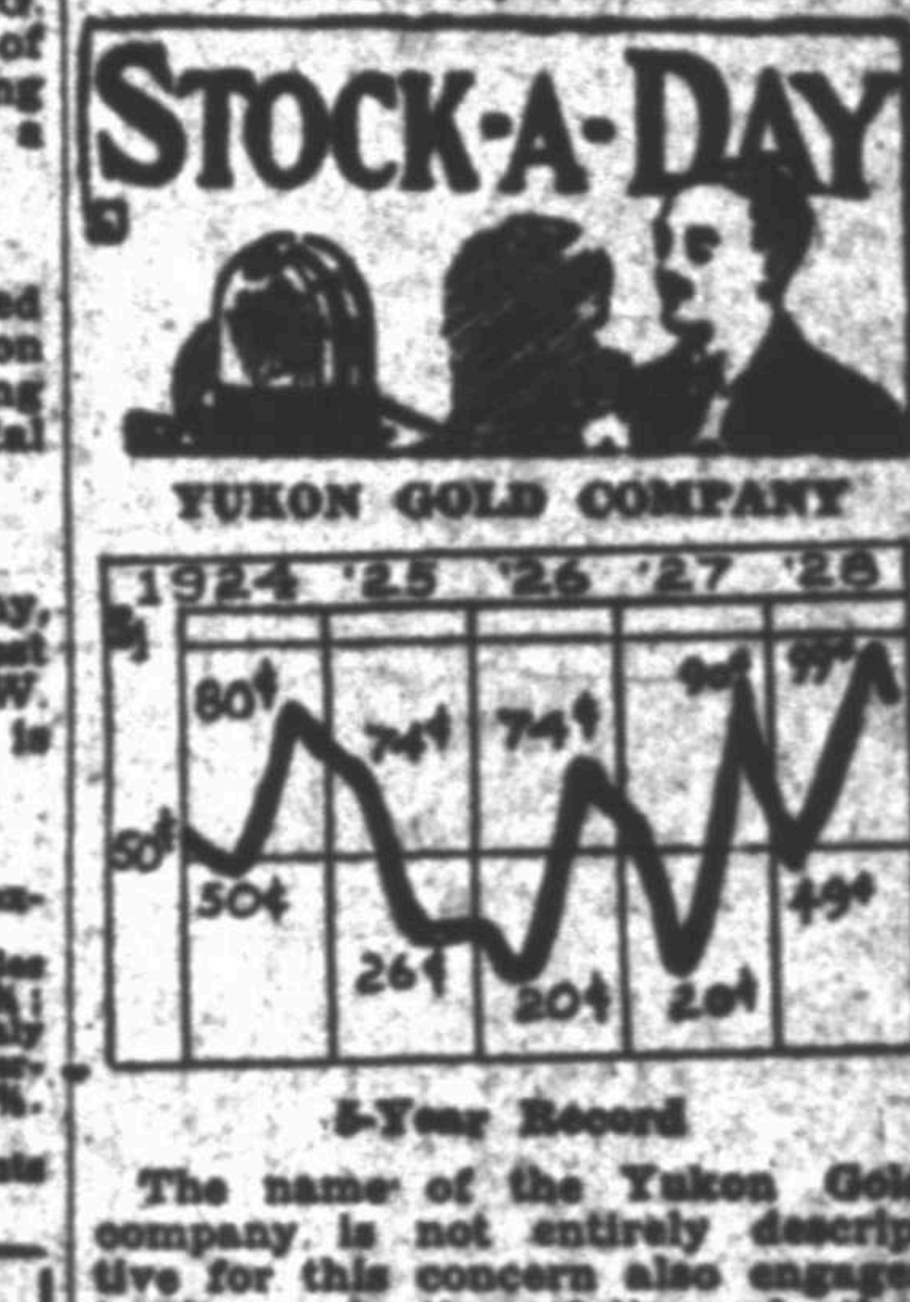

Jack County Scores Strike

Leidecker Finds Oil At Bryson Wildcat

The opening up of a big scope of new land for future exploitation in the Jack county area is looked for by the showing of a good producer in the Carl Leidecker No. 1 Oliver Loving wildcat, located in the southwest corner of J. C. Rayston survey.

The test is located two and one-half miles north and east of the Panhandle wells on the J. Daugherty lands the closest production, and to the north of the townsite of Bryson.

The sand which was encountered at 3157 feet was barely penetrated when the oil filled the hole and in the first four hours before being shut in produced 92 barrels of oil. Report is that the sand will be drilled in Thursday when its status will be determined.

5-Year Record

The name of the Yukon Gold company is not entirely descriptive for this concern also engages in the production of tin and other metals than gold. It was organized in 1907 and is controlled by the Yukon Alaska Trust. It has 600 claims in the Klondyke district on Bear, Bonanza, Hunker and Eldorado creeks and has also acquired considerable property in Alaska, California, Idaho and Nevada. It got into the dredging of placer tin in the Malay Peninsula in 1919 and owns 88 per cent of the Ampang Tin Company Ltd. It also controls Keno Hill Ltd., under lease by the Treadwell Yukon Ltd.

In 1926 there was a deficit from operations of $31,952. This was turned into a net profit of $384,870 in 1927 and the markets for metals have been even more advantageous for the company this year than last. This does not show total net profits of the tin subsidiary which were reported to be $1,087,527.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $17,-500,000 in shares of the par value of $5 each. Of this Yukon Alaska Trust owns $14,291,875.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets were $1,252,099, current liabilities $50,338, and net working capital $1,205,761. Book value applicable to the stock amounted to $596,461, or 17 cents a share.

The company has on its board of directors some strong financial interests. According to President McGowan, cost of producing tin was 31.60 a pound in 1927, while this product was sold at an average of 60.42 cents.

Million Pounds of Turkey on Storage In East, Says Market Report Here

One million pounds of dressed turkeys held over from Thanksgiving supplies and placed in cold storage last week in New York City, according to a wire received by Matt Noble, manager of the Wichita Poultry and Egg company, explains the market condition which resulted in a recent marked break in prices.

It was reported last Wednesday that the sharp decline in turkey prices on that date was due to an over supply, as represented by Texas having shipped 535 cars of dressed turkeys instead of 475 as had been expected. The best birds, which brought 30 cents per pound before Thanksgiving, dropped to 25 cents with lower prices for hens and old toms.

It was reported locally Tuesday that practically no turkeys are being received at the local packing plants. According to buyers here, there is no possibility of any increase in the price of turkeys, but rather almost a certainty of lower priced turkey for Christmas than for Thanksgiving.

It was pointed out that birds for the local pack must be in by Dec. 11, as two days for cooling are required, making Dec. 13 the last shipping date for eastern markets. The management of the Wichita Poultry and Egg company expressed the hope that local raisers would distribute their deliveries here over the next 10 days, both for their probable better price, and to prevent an over-crowding of packing facilities in their plant.

MOTOR FREIGHT PLAN APPROVED

C.-C. Seeks to Improve Service Over Area

Recommendation of a plan which it was said would prove of great benefit to all shippers and receivers in Wichita Falls trade territory using motor freight lines was offered by the motor truck committee of the manufacturers and jobbers division of the chamber of commerce at the regular monthly meeting of the body Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The motor truck committee, of which J. L. Maxwell is chairman, has made an exhaustive study of the motor freight line situation with a view to effecting improvements in the handling of goods in transit, more efficient pick up and delivery of goods, prompt and equitable settlement of claims, and general reliability of the motor lines as common carriers. The plan recommended by Mr. Maxwell's committee, details of which were not announced, will provide a medium for the prompt and impartial settlement of all claims originating either with or against the carrier, and will be designed to make the motor freight lines more definitely responsible to shippers and receivers for goods entrusted to the former for delivery.

Plans were adopted for sending invitations to trades people in the South Plains territory recently visited by the booster excursion train bearing 125 Wichita Falls business men on the occasion of the opening of the new Fort Worth & Denver City railway into that territory. A great degree of friendliness toward Wichita Falls was shown by the towns visited, and the city is considered by business men in the plains country as one of the most logical distributing points for their territory, it was said.

Consideration was given also to the matter of obtaining reestablishment of through Pullman service between Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City. During the latter part of last October, the M-K-T railway officials discontinued sleeper service on trains between these two points.

R. E. Penick, chairman of the Manufacturers and Jobbers' division, presided at the meeting.

Firm Starts Work On Repairs to Jail

Work on the construction of a vestibule door to the run-around cage in the Wichita county jail was begun by the Southern Prison company of San Antonio Tuesday morning. The alterations are designed to reduce the possibility of successful jail breaks.

The construction, recommended by the county commissioners court, is under the observation of J. M. Isbell, county engineer. J. P. Price is in active supervision. The work is expected to be completed before Christmas.

County Entirely Within Rights In Bridge Plans, Says Nicholson

Commissioners Expected to Call for Bids On $75,000 Structure at Meeting Here Monday

The county commissioners court unquestionably has the right to construct the proposed bridge across Wichita river at Scott avenue, in the opinion of Judge E. W. Nicholson, presiding judge of the court. The designation of the avenue as a county highway, necessary for an appropriation for work within the city limits, is entirely within the jurisdiction of the court, he declared Tuesday.

Status Unchanged

Meanwhile, the bridge proposition remains legally, where it was two weeks ago when the court agreed to appropriate all additional money necessary after property owners raise $25,000, an approximate one-third of the cost. The designation matter can be disposed of at one meeting of the court, in the opinion of Judge Nicholson, removing the last legal obstacle to the plan. The county money will be taken from the precinct 1 funds, according to stipulations.

"Since the court agreed to repair the Ohio street bridge according to petitions, opposition to the Scott street construction has quieted down," Judge Nicholson said Tuesday. The rumors of protest and talk questioning the authority of the court has in no way altered the former action of the commissioners, he said.

Plans Drawn

Carrying out instructions from the court, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, has already completed tentative plans for a 280 foot cantilever type bridge, to cost around $75,000. His drawing allows for 53 feet in width, including walk ways and hand rails.

The bridge as he has outlined it calls for four piers supporting 72 foot spans, and for two abutments, one at either end. When the first drawings are complete he plans to compute other plans, employing 100 foot spans, in order to determine which type is least expensive.

Advertisements for bids for the construction will probably be authorized at the Monday meeting of the commissioners court.

Pauline Frederick is our favorite of all actresses, and although the stage and screen have seen comparatively little of her in recent years, she will be in Wichita Falls in the immediate future.

With Bert Lytell she will appear in a Warner brothers Vitaphone picture "On Trial" at the Strand starting Friday. Polly, as she is known throughout the theatrical world, is one of the clearest cut and finely chiseled actresses in the country. Her extreme nervousness and reaction to details has made life just one divorce after another, but that has no bearing on the excellence of her acting. In fact, it makes it a little more interesting.

Bert Lytell was in Wichita Falls in person at the Majestic last season, and Miss Frederick was here in person before that time. So it seems that Wichitans will have the chance to see and hear old friends again Friday.

"On Trial" itself is a great play adapted from one of the greatest successes of the legitimate stage. Elmer Rice wrote it and made a fortune for himself through it.

"D. W. Griffith's "Battle of the Sexes" is coming to the Majestic theater Dec. 15. Phillis Haver, Belle Bennett, Don Alvarado and Sally O'Neil are featured in it.

It looks good to see that little Holland girl back on the stage at the Olympic theater, she suffered a slight attack of pneumonia and has been in the hospital, but she just couldn't stay in with all the gang at the Olympic and all her friends among the fans wanting her back again.

"The Vagabond King" musical comedy, was announced for presentation by Dent theaters, Inc., in the near future on the Monday night program of "Rio Rita." "The Vagabond King" is a better known show than "Rio Rita" and should attract tremendous crowds.

OPTIMISTS TO HEAR DABNEY

250 Expected at Club's Annual Frolic

With more than 200 tickets sold and expectation of at least 50 more reservations being made before Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, all indications Tuesday pointed to a big party at that hour when the Wichita Falls Optimists gather for their annual banquet and frolic in the Wichita club, according to an announcement made by Solon Featherston, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

An elaborate program has been prepared for the event, which will replace the usual Wednesday noonday meeting of the club. Edwin Dabney, attorney-general of Oklahoma, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Dabney is a member of the Optimist club of Oklahoma City. Vocal numbers by Miss Edith Crownover, Vernon, accompanied by Miss Johnnie Mallow, Optimist club "sweetheart" of that city, are on the program. Miss Mallow also will give a group of piano solos. J. W. Pyland has charge of preparation of a vaudeville turn.

J. V. Allred, club president, will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Mr. Dabney will be accompanied on his visit here by C. Ed Hall of Oklahoma City, former president of Optimist International, and A. V. Stevenson, secretary of the Oklahoma City Optimist club.

Joe Bailey heads the committee in charge of the sale of tickets. Optimists, their wives and friends have been invited, with unlimited guest privileges, according to Mr. Featherston.

Hoover City Is Pushing To Fore

HOOVER CITY, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—Hoover City, newest town in the state, already has a population estimated by "civic boosters" as 2,000 and every day marks the arrival of many more.

Where about two weeks ago the the road between the oil towns of Maud and Earlsboro crossed with the road to Shawnee, today stands an enterprising "young city" with business of every kind.

Plans are already under way for procuring more land to be laid out in the townsite. A newspaper in a neighboring town has a circulation of 600 here already. Every business from the small hamburger joint on wheels to branches of some of the state's largest stores are prepresented.

The town as yet has no railroad facilities. The closest station is at Maud, four miles distant. But with the neighboring Maud-Mission field close by, citizens of Hoover City do not see how the railroad can long stay out.

Oil field workers; who with their families will spend the winter in their hastily constructed homes, explain that the future of Hoover City is big and that their oil field if not the biggest is one of the biggest in existence.

Already a rival town is appearing on the rorizon, however, namely—the town of Dunn City, 1½ miles distant.

CITY'S HEART "70 PER CENT"

Kelly Appeals to Wichita To Fill Chest

With the cold weather emphasizing the need of charity, A. R. Kelly, chairman manager of the Wichita Falls Community chest, Tuesday again appealed to Wichitans to help put the drive over, for as it now stands, Wichita Falls is far from its goal and has not done as well as it did last year.

"How big is the heart of Wichita Falls?" he asked.

"The answer is that we have a 70 per cent heart to date."

"Do you realize that not only the eyes of every city in Texas but the eyes of other cities in the United States are watching our progress in this drive and comparing our condition with their own? Do you want Wichita Falls to be in the 'also ran' class? Where are the red blooded fighters who have put things over for the city in the past?

"Have you done your part as you should?

"Have you done it to the extent that you are at peace with your own conscience?

"Be faithful to your God, to your community and to yourself. Help swell the heart to its full proportion."
