Aransas County Day at Austin Planned by Rep. Leroy Wieting

State Rep. Leroy Wieting announced this week that he is making arrangements for "Aransas County Day" at the state capitol building in Austin on Tuesday, Feb. 13. "I cordially invite all residents of Aransas County, which I represent, to come to Austin Feb. 13 to meet members of the House and state officials and to see how your state government functions," Wieting said.

He urged Aransas County residents who attend this event to first come to a registration desk outside Wieting's office by the rotunda and register so that he will get their names and later be able to recognize these visitors in the gallery.

Wieting also said he will arrange guided tours to escort the visitors throughout the capitol building to see various places of interest, even including some committee hearings.

Another event will be a reception at which Wieting will introduce Aransas County visitors to House members and state officials.

The Rockport Chamber of Commerce is preparing a packet of detailed information about Aransas County which will be sent to Wieting and which will form the basis for a resolution in honor of "Aransas County Day" which Wieting plans to introduce at the legislative session.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigating Arson In Recent Grass Fires

Sheriff Bob Hewes reports that his office is investigating the possibility of arson in several of the recent grass fires that have occurred in Aransas County.

He said that at least one fire starting apparatus had been found and turned in.

The Sheriff's Department has been assigned to this investigation and will be on continuous patrol in areas where grass fires are potential hazards.

Sheriff Hewes reports also that any person found to be involved in such a crime can be charged with a felony under penal code section 1321A, which provides for a fine of $300 to $1000 or a penitentiary term of 1 to 5 years. Sheriff Hewes wishes it to be known that any person involved will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

C of C Places 11 on Ballot

Eleven persons have been nominated for five places on the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The nominees are Miss Lola L. Bonner, Mrs. Agnes "Tony" Harden, Delmar R. Hiller, Joe Hugenberg, Port Little, James Pearson, Roy V. Rogero, Jr., Gordon Stanley, Larry Stewart, M. H. Treptow and Mrs. Juanita Wagley.

The names of the nominees were announced Tuesday at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Chamber directors at Key Allegro Hotel. Members of the nominating committee were John P. Mitchell, Jr., Sam Wilcox and Mrs. Denver (Corky) Agler.

Ballots are being mailed to the entire membership of the Chamber of Commerce and must be turned in at the C of C Building on or before Feb. 28. Members are urged to submit their ballots as soon as possible.

Present at the monthly meeting were Glen Wagner, Little, Carl Duckworth, Mrs. Harden, John R. Kinsey, Vernon Kleyras, Wilcox, Bill Janacek, Raymond Owens, L.E. Casterline, Mrs. Loyce Landrum, Ed Harper, Murray McMillan, Mrs. Agler, Stanley, Jack McDavid and Mrs. Wagley.

Before the business session started, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Howard, formerly of Tyler, Texas, presented a magic show. They are vacationing at Sportsman Manor and would be pleased to present magic shows to any local group.

In other actions, the directors:

--Were informed by Gordon Stanley that many Rockport-Fulton brochures were distributed at recent boat shows in Corpus Christi and Houston.

--Agreed to have the roof at the C of C Building repaired.

--Approved a request from high school track coach Norman Spears to contribute a check to purchase a trophy for the Toast of the Coast Relays which will be held here March 17.

Pirates Win North Zone Title

By BOB CRAWFORD

Rockport - Fulton won the North Zone of District 15-AAA last week with a big win over Aransas Pass, and added an insurance victory over Taft for good measure. The Pirates were 8-0 in the North Zone and will now play for the District Championship against West Oso, the South Zone winner, a 2-out-of-3 series which began Tuesday night.

The second game of the series will be in the Pirates' gym Friday night and if a third game is needed, the neutral site will be Gregory-Portland.

Big Steve Mayes led the Pirates in both wins last week with 29 points and 20 points in the games. John Vick added the 18 in the Aransas game, while Jim McBride chipped in 14 points. Donnie Setterbo was the only other Pirate in double figures in the Taft game with 18 points.

A&I Workshop Held Saturday

Texas A & I University's speech 304 class sponsored the Texas A&I Oral Interpretation Workshop on February 3. Rockport - Fulton High School participated.

The workshop, which hosted 11 area schools, served as a practical activity for the 304 class (oral interpretation) as well as a learning experience for the participating high school students, according to Mrs. Donna Tobias, class instructor.

Attending were 92 students, who observed speech demonstrations before giving individual readings. The students received evaluations for their performances. The prose and poetry readings were from the 1972-1973 University Interscholastic League lists. In prose reading, categories were Modern American Short Stories, Modern Commonwealth Short Stories and Modern Latin American Short Stories. In poetry, selections were from Modern Australian / Canadian Poets, Modern American Poets and Modern European Poets.

Basketball Finals Being Broadcast

District basketball finals are being broadcast this week by Radio Station KOUL, 103.3, with First National Bank and Class, Sorenson and McDavid Insurance Agency as sponsors.

First game between Rockport and West Oso was aired last Tuesday. The second game is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday from the Rockport-Fulton gymnasium. If the two schools split the first two games, a third and deciding game will be broadcast by KOUL from Gregory - Portland gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

Race Relations Sunday, Feb. 11

Calvary Baptist Church will observe Race Relations Sunday, February 11, with a special morning worship service.

A singing group from the Valley Baptist Academy, Harlingen, will be here and will provide the music for the service. This is a very talented group of young people. The group is composed of boys and girls whose homes range from nearby Corpus Christi to the Virgin Islands.

The public is invited to attend this service. The service begins at 10:50 a.m.

Woman Nabbed On Marijuana Charge

Shortly after midnight Friday, a 25 year old woman was arrested in a local dance hall and charged with possession of marijuana.

Deputy Sheriff Joe A. Williams made the arrest after seizing a quantity of marijuana from the woman. She was transferred to the county jail where she was released on bond Saturday morning. This narcotics case, along with several others, will go to the grand jury which will begin Monday, February 12,

Cancer Society Seminars Held

Members of the Aransas County Unit of the American Cancer Society attended seminars at the Sheraton Marina Inn in Corpus Christi in preparation for the kickoff of the annual Cancer Crusade which will begin in March.

Reese Davis and Patti McArdle attended the residential and crusade seminar which was conducted by Bill Janacek and Mary Lou McGlathery of Rockport.

Jim Fowler, president of the local unit, attended the special gifts and business seminar while Mary Hearn was attending the headquarters and publicity seminar.

The seminars were designed to help the American Cancer Society unit volunteer leaders organize and plan the 1973 educational and fund raising Crusade.

The monetary goal for Aransas County has been set for $5000 for 1973. The organization of the Crusaders has begun, and the Crusaders will be working throughout March and April to bring Aransas County to its goal.

Firemen Appoint Committees for '73

The Rockport Volunteer Fire Department met Feb. 1, with Chief Gary Smith presiding. Twenty - three men attended. Harold Stengel was voted in as a new member. The department voted to sell a pool table.

Chief Smith appointed the following committees for 1973: Maintenance: Roy Boddie, Gene Howland, Edward True-love, and John Ray, Jr.

Membership: Edward True-love and Jimmy Hill. Finance: J. C. Gurley and Eddie Ratliff.

Public Relations: Eddie Ratliff and Dick Fox.

Grievance: Coy Truelove. Building: Coy Truelove, Ceylon Ammons and Gilbert Hill.

Reporter: Bill Gray. Cakes for refreshments were furnished by Mrs. Mona McNutt and Mrs. Gwyn Howland.

Man Injured In Auto Accident

W. H. Smith, Jr., 54, was injured Sunday when his car went out of control on a curve on Farm Road 1781, three miles north of FM 1781. He was taken to Lyman-Roberts Hospital in Aransas Pass suffering from head lacerations and neck injuries.

Handling the investigation at the scene were State Highway Patrolmen Bill Hill and Rick Brush, Chief Deputy Sheriff E. A. Stautzenberger, Deputy Sheriffs Daniel Vargas and Joe Williams, Chief of Police James A. Craigmile and Sgt. Joe Hinojosa of the Rockport Police Department.

NEW POLICE CHIEF — James A. Craigmile, new Chief of Police of the Rockport Police Department, is now on the job. The former San Patricio County District Deputy Sheriff told the Pilot he is glad to be here as head of the local police department and wishes to thank the many people who have welcomed him and made him feel at home.

Shrimp Landings In 1972 Surpass 1971

Shrimp landings in Texas amounted to 2.8 million pounds valued at $3.4 million in December. This was far below the volume and value of December, 1971. Current landings brought the 1972 Texas shrimp landings to 61 million pounds valued at $79.4 million. This was a record value surpassing the $64.2 million in 1971 and approached the 1967 volume record of 64 million pounds.

Brownsville-Port Isabel-Port Mansfield led all areas with 42 per cent of the current landings; followed by Aransas Pass-Rockport, 29 per cent; and Freeport, 15 per cent.

The following table represents landings of headless shrimp for specified areas and periods:

Area	December 1972	January-December 1971	January-December 1972
Port Arthur-Sabine	165,500	2,578,000	2,056,500
Galveston-Seabrook	110,300	7,017,200	6,605,700
Freeport	419,900	10,953,800	11,255,500
Matagorda-Palacios	26,700	1,233,900	931,900
Port Lavaca-Port O'Connor-Seadrift	83,200	2,684,600	2,998,100
Aransas Pass-Rockport	798,700	12,442,400	15,221,000
Brownsville-Port Isabel-Port Mansfield	1,165,700	17,475,200	21,913,700
TOTAL	2,770,000	54,385,100	60,982,400

Trawl vessels working brown shrimp made short trips throughout December as weather conditions were very bad. High winds restricted many vessels to port for 15-18 days. Trawlers working waters on the high seas off Mexico were not hampered as severely as were units working adjacent waters. Catch rates from the distant Campeche grounds averaged about 400 pounds per night with spotted higher catches. Vessels working white shrimp made fair to poor catches of small white shrimp adjacent to major passes. Weather conditions were not conducive to operation of small vessels.

December oyster landings totaled about 35,000 barrels yielding 700,000 pounds of meats valued at $455,000. This was slightly below the volume and value of the December 1971 harvest. Weather conditions and the holiday season curtailed oyster dredging operations somewhat, but extremely high and low tides and a strict enforcement of size limitations for shell oysters discouraged many out-of-state units. Fishermen received about $13.50 per barrel of clean shell oysters.

Blue crab landings amounted to about 300,000 pounds in December. This was some 17 per cent below the December, 1971 level and again the decline was attributed to cold water temperatures and high winds.

Five large vessels entered the shrimp fishery in December. All are long-range "super trawlers" and are Texas owned and operated. In 1972, 89 "super trawlers" and 30-40 smaller documented units entered the Texas shrimp fishery. One vessel was lost at sea during December.

Sport fishing activity was confined largely to inside waters as weather conditions were very unsettled. High winds and cold temperatures restricted fishing to between-storms type activity. Catches of spotted trout were outstanding when weather conditions permitted. Sportsmen reported large catches of 4- to 7-pound fish from deep waters in major bay systems. Live bait was scarce to non-existent throughout December.

Masonic Official Coming Feb. 12

GOLDEN AGE CLUB

The Golden Age Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20 in the Fellowship Hall at First United Methodist Church.

Pirates Meet West Oso Friday for Second Game

Rockport - Fulton rebounded from a slow first half to burn up the nets in the third quarter for 26 points to put the game out of reach, as the Pirates went on to beat the West Oso Bears 77-45 in West Oso Tuesday night before a standing room only crowd.

The first half was nearly even with both teams making numerous errors, but the Pirates settled down near the end of the second quarter and led at the half 30-21.

About midway through the third period the Pirates relied on getting the ball to big Steve Mayes who finished the night with 29 points. One of the big contributors to the Pirate surge was sophomore Warren Gerdine who entered the game when starter Joe Green ran into foul trouble; Gerdine hit for five baskets to give him 10 points for the night in less than two quarters of play.

Also in double figures was Donnie "Turtle" Setterbo who also played a strong board game. Green and John Vick completely shut down the Bears' big gun Stan Limuel in 8 points for the night. Limuel hit for 22 the last time the two clubs met.

The second zone play - off game between West Oso and Rockport - Fulton High School basketball will be played Friday evening February 9 in the Rockport - Fulton High School gym at 7:30 p.m.

Price of admission for this game will be $.50 for students and $1.00 for adults. Doors for ticket sales will open at 5:30 p.m. on Friday afternoon. Seating will be on a first come, first served basis, except for an area of 125 seats which will be reserved for West Oso until 7:00 p.m., at which time it will be put on first come, first served basis.

Why does a coach leave a championship team to take over a school which he helped defeat for the district title? The concept is even more astounding when one finds out that the school moved up a division. But, that's exactly what Rockport's Bobby Flanagan did and he hasn't regretted it one bit.

Flanagan took over the Rockport Pirates basketball program and guided it to a 20-2 mark and the North Zone championship in District 15-3A. Just a year ago at this time, a Flanagan - coached Woodsboro team defeated Rockport for the 30-2A title. Why did he make the change?

"The talent was there," answers Flanagan. "Yes, Woodsboro did beat Rockport last year but the Pirates were a good team back then, also. The fact that they were moving up to 15-3A didn't take any of that talent away from them."

The Pirates return four starters from last year's 18-6 team that lost to Woodsboro. Ironically, the only two losses this year's Pirates have were to Refugio, 30-2A leader.

"I don't mind losing to Refugio," adds Flanagan. "Refugio probably has as much talent as any team in South Texas and that coupled with the fact that we played two of our worst games of the season when we met it caused us to lose." Rockport has met Refugio three times, beating it the first game 75-62 and losing the next two 64-47 and 51-46.

Despite this, Rockport is still hitting 69.0 points per game for the season while allowing only 51 points. In district play the Pirates are hitting at a clip of 75 points per game while limiting opponents to 54.

One of the main reasons for Rockport's success has been the play of 6-6 1/2 postman Steve (Continued on Page Two)

Commercial Fishermen to Meet

Commercial fishermen and other interested persons are invited to attend a special meeting Thursday, Feb. 8 at 7 p.m. at Compton Hall at Aransas Pass High School.

Sponsored by the Seafood Producers Association, the meeting has been called to discuss Article 947 (906) of the State Penal Code which relates to shrimping, fishing and netting.

TOURISTS OF WEEK — Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Jorgenson, Alexandria, Minn., have been selected as "Tourists of the Week" in the Chamber of Commerce hospitality program for winter visitors. Staying at Sea Foam Motel, they received as prizes gift certificates from Sea Shell Shoppe, Suttles Dress Shop, Marsha's Ceramics, Winn's Stores, Marineland, Wagley Lumber Co. and a year's subscription to the Rockport Pilot.

Mayes who has averaged 21.6 points per outing while nabbing 15 rebounds a contest. Flanagan describes the lanky Mayes as a definite all-state candidate. Mayes is hitting 50 per cent of his shots from the field and 73 per cent of them from the free throw line.

Mayes is only one of four returning starters to the Pirates cove. The others are John Vick, Donnie Setterbo, and Mike McCaskey.

Vick and Setterbo are both seniors and average 11 points per contest. McCaskey was hitting 12 points until a virus infection cut his season short and he missed all district competition. However, McCaskey is expected to be back in time for the district playoff which started Tuesday at West Oso.

Joe Lee Green, a 6-1 sophomore, has replaced McCaskey and has responded well. Green has become an adequate playmaker for the Pirates and has hit 14 points per game in district competition. For the season he is hitting 9.6.

Jim McBride, a sophomore, is the Pirates fifth starter and the 5-8 wingman responds with a six point average.

Rockport seems to be stocking up talented sophomores and its bench is loaded with them. Warren Gerdine is the replacement for the post man. At 6-3, the sophomore gets an average of four rebounds a game during his short stay. Bob Gillis is another top reserve for the Pirates.

"We kind of felt we were going to have a good year and we have been satisfied with our season thus far," says Flanagan. "However, we want the district championship and our prime concern right now is West Oso. West Oso is a scrappy ball club with a lot of talented athletes. They can jump, they can shoot and they are just now reaching their peak. It'll be a tough contest but I feel we can beat West Oso."

West Oso won the South Zone with a 16-8 record. The first game of the playoff was Tuesday at West Oso. Rockport will host the Bears Friday and the third game, if needed, will be played at Gregory-Portland. All games start at 7:30 p.m.

Rockport has been to a district playoff before and lost. Will the same thing happen again this year? "If they get overconfident I'll just remind them about what happened to them last year and I'm sure they'll come down to earth," Flanagan says.

MRS. CALOWAY DIES

Mrs. Edith Caloway of Star Rt. 1, Copano Village passed away in the Aransas Hospital Tuesday, Feb. 6, 1973. Mrs. Caloway has been a resident of Rockport since 1959.

Survivors include a son, C. C. Caloway, Jr., and a grandson, Patrick, both of Houston.

Mrs. Wanda Sparks is a patient in Spohn Hospital undergoing a series of medical tests. She is in room 596 and will remain in the hospital several days.

Bays Vital To Economy

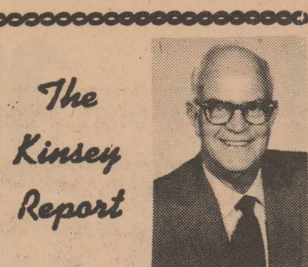

The importance of Aransas Bay and adjacent bodies of water to the economy of this area was discussed by Thomas L. Heffernan, marine biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club Jan. 31 at Corky's Restaurant.

Heffernan said the shrimp catch in Aransas County is valued at approximately $2,000,000 a year and shrimp, as well as blue crabs and many varieties of fish, spawn in the Gulf of Mexico and grow to maturity in coastal estuaries. He pointed out that Aransas Bay is a primary location for this phase of marine life development, with Copano Bay and similar bodies of coastal water serving as a secondary location.

Heffernan said pollution of these bays poses a serious threat to the local ecosystem with oil spills and oil well brine, especially from the Missouri River and Chilton Creek, contributing heavily to industrial pollution. He also said man-made waste is another serious threat, along with indiscriminate dredging and filling of swampy areas.

He asserted that Little Bay and the ski basin are ideal for production of brown shrimp. He added that submerged flats on Harbor Island also are very important in development of marine life. He said there was fear that development of a deep-water harbor on Harbor Island would have a seriously detrimental effect on marine life, and an alternate site adjacent to the ship channel and on a large tract of low-lying land has been suggested.

Heffernan reported the Texas Railway Commission has issued a stop order to a number of marginal oil wells that now dump brine into Copano Bay tributaries. Also, the Parks and Wildlife Department is working with land developers and the U. S. Corps of Engineers to minimize adverse effects on coastal waters.

The Chamber of Commerce works on a year-round basis on numerous projects for the benefit of the Rockport-Fulton area. Many of these efforts are known only to the directors or the Chamber who help formulate the annual program of action and assist in carrying out the various projects.

One worthwhile, continuing project is the job of getting publicity throughout the nation about the many advantages our area offers for vacationing and year-round living.

One means of getting good publicity is to maintain a close working relationship with the Texas Tourist Development Agency and the Corpus Christi Area Tourist Bureau.

This co-operation often results in travel writers from northern states coming to the Rockport-Corpus Christi area to see for themselves what the tourist attractions are, and then going home and writing stories for their own publications.

During the past few weeks, writers from AVIATION TRAVEL and the FREMONT (Ohio) NEWS - MESSENGER have visited here and written stories praising our area. These articles will be published in the Pilot during the next couple of weeks.

Teachers Attend Homemaking Meet

Mrs. Janice Spears and Miss Frances Mutscher, homemaking teachers at Rockport-Fulton High School, attended the Area In-Service Conference Feb. 2 and 3 at Del Mar Tech in Corpus Christi.

The theme of the conference was "Molding Vocational Homemaking to the Needs of Individuals". Ken M. Young, Director of Research and Evaluation at West Virginia Teacher Education Center, Charleston, West Virginia, conducted workshops on personalized individual learning systems.

The workshops' primary emphasis was to assist the teacher in developing learning experiences which are meaningful to each individual student.

Saturday noon was highlighted with a luncheon in the ball room of Emerald Beach Holiday Inn. A style show of beautiful leather fashions was enjoyed during the luncheon. The style show was coordinated by Mrs. Margarita Garza of Laredo.

Following the luncheon, the group returned to Del Mar Tech for an afternoon session of suggestions for program improvement by Mrs. Bobbie Moore, area consultant.

Castaways Rummage Sale

The Concerned Women of Aransas County will have all of their rummage at 114 N. Church on sale at half price for the next two Thursday and Saturday mornings from 9 a.m.-11 a.m.

The women will again be holding their sales at the Methodist Youth Building starting the first week in March. This means a need of more volunteer workers. Please call Mrs. Clark, 729-5500, Mrs. Montgomery, 729-2164 or Mrs. Hawes, 729-6345 if you can work as a marker, ironer, mender or cashier. Plans are to work at the Youth Building on Wednesday afternoons beginning February 21st. Thursday and Saturday mornings, 9-11 will continue to be sale days.

Contributions are accepted anytime.

Livestock Show In Victoria

The annual Jaycee-sponsored Livestock Show in Victoria will be held on March 8-12 at the Victoria Community Center. The Livestock Show Parade, which has become one of the largest and most colorful pageants in South Texas, will begin at 10:00 a.m., Saturday March 10th in downtown Victoria.

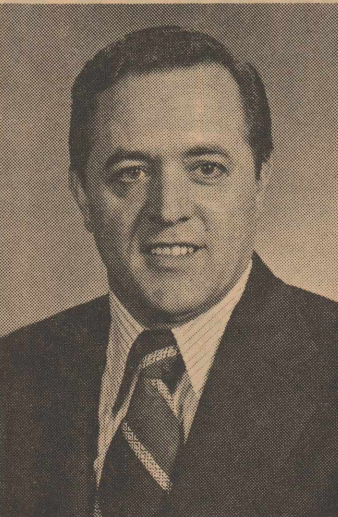

Parade entrants from all over the state will be judged in the following categories: non-commercial floats, cars, bands, (excluding high school), marching groups (except bands), horseback entries, commercial floats and novelties (clowns, antique cars, etc.). Trophies will be awarded to the top three entries in each class. A trophy will also be awarded to the parade's most outstanding entry.

To enter the Victoria Livestock Show Parade, contact Roger D. Hotz, 1012 North Navarro, in Victoria, Texas, 77901, phone 575-4731 or Fred Sanchez, 4903 Lilac, in Victoria, Texas, 77901, phone 578-1365.

H.E.B. Food Stores Makes Appointment

H.E.B. Food Stores has announced the appointment of Charles B. Hendryx as Director of Meat Operations for the Texas supermarket chain. With over 25 years experience in meat operations with the Kroger Company, Hendryx was the National Manager of the Pork and Provisions Procurement Division of the national chain the two years prior to joining H.E.B. His wife, Nancy, and two sons, Kevin and Bryan, will be moving to Corpus Christi from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hendryx attended Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois, and began his career in the meat business shortly thereafter. He has been a meat cutter, market manager, training supervisor, district meat supervisor, buyer, divisional meat merchandiser, and national departmental manager. He served four years in the U.S. Navy from 1950-1954.

Hendryx will headquarter in Corpus Christi and direct the meat market operations for all H.E.B. Food Stores and Thrif-Tex units in Texas.

Fulton Lions Issue Challenge

The Fulton Lions Club, at its dinner-meeting in the Lions Building on Monday night this week, issued a "membership increase" challenge to the Rockport Lions Club.

At the meeting, presided over by Dan Shelton, President, the 21 members present voted unanimous approval of the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Lions Club of Fulton, Texas, challenge the Lions Club of Rockport, Texas, to a one-month membership increase competition beginning Thursday, March 1, 1973, and ending Saturday, March 31, 1973.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this competition for increase in membership be based on a percentage of increase.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Lions Club of Fulton does attest to the fact that it now has 27 members and does accompany a copy of this resolution with a certified list of its membership in good standing for publication in THE ROCKPORT PILOT in the edition of Thursday, February 8, 1973, thereby challenging the Rockport Lions Club to offer for publication a certified list of its membership in good standing for publication in the ROCKPORT PILOT in the edition of Thursday, Feb. 15.

The percentage of increase shall be determined by the number of the names of new members each club can present for publication in THE ROCKPORT PILOT in the edition of Thursday, April 5, 1973.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the club which is the loser, and its auxiliary, shall be hosts at a buffet dinner to the club which is the winner, and its auxiliary, on some date and in some place agreeable to both during the month of May, 1973.

In accordance with this resolution the Fulton Lions Club offers the following list of its members in good standing at this time: Chris Allen, John Anderson, F. L. Appleton, Bob Barclay, E. T. Busch, Bland Davis, Bill Gordon, Don Gray, A.C. Hamon, Jr., Jim C. Harrison, Frank J. Kirk, Walter Maness, Tom E. McArdle, Hal B. McKnight, William Mercer, David Ogle, Raymond Owens, Matt Scott, Dan R. Shelton, George E. Smith, Eugene Sprinkle, Ken L. Thomas, Wilburn Underwood, J. Henry Von Pein, A. O. Long and Earnest Jones.

To get its membership drive off to a flying start, the Fulton Lions voted to hold its annual oyster fry on Sunday, March 4, at a place to be announced.

Church of Christ

Cleric, clergy, and clergy-man are titles not used in the Church of Christ. More often than not, these titled persons are the preachers of speculative teachings in religion; whose phrases and terminology is not found in the Bible. They (the clergy) are on the whole, ministers of their peculiar traditions which have been handed down. These handed down beliefs, opinions, customs, and stories, are to the clergy very dear.

The Christian must remember that the Bible only is authoritative, and that the New Testament alone is binding on the Christian community. It is the right of every individual to read the Scriptures for himself, and act upon its truth. St. Paul said "See to it that no one take you captive through philosophy, deception, according to the tradition of men", Col. 2:8.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

What are the 10 leading causes of death and the 10 most frequently occurring communicable diseases in Texas? And how does Texas compare with the rest of the nation?

These questions have been answered by state health officials in their year-end reports, and the answers can be eye-opening. For example, two of the most frequently occurring diseases in Texas are gonorrhea and syphilis. These venereal diseases—VD, for short—are transmitted from one infected individual to another through close sexual contact. Some optimistic notes show up in the state health officials' reports which reflect the better health care now available to Texans.

"There has been a sizable drop in the occurrence of many of the childhood diseases which can be prevented through protective immunization," said Dr. M. S. Dickerson, Chief of the State Health Department's Communicable Disease Services Section.

"This decline in occurrence of these diseases probably reflects the new mandatory school immunization law, which requires all school-age children and some kindergarten age children to be protected against these diseases before they can enroll in school," said Dr. Dickerson.

State Health Department statistics indicate the following ranking of communicable diseases occurring in Texas in 1972, and the number of cases reported to the State Health Department:

The leading communicable disease in 1972 in Texas was influenza and flu-like illnesses (170,126 cases). Second was gonorrhea (58,404). Third, strep throat, including scarlet fever (50,274). Fourth, mumps (5,108). Fifth, syphilis (4,904). Sixth, infectious and serum hepatitis (4,185). Seventh, tuberculosis (2,576). Eighth, measles (1,618). Ninth, rubella (1,596). And tenth, shigellosis, otherwise known as dysentery or intestinal diarrhea (1,018).

Five of the state's "top ten" diseases showed a dramatic decrease last year. Three of these are diseases for which protective immunizations are available: mumps, measles, and rubella. The occurrence of new tuberculosis cases also showed a decrease in 1972.

Perhaps the most significant decline, and most pleasing to state health officials, was the drop in reported cases of syphilis, a 26 percent decrease in occurrence of the disease in one year's time. The State Health Department has had a comprehensive syphilis control program in operation for the past several years, and has just launched a massive statewide gonorrhea control effort as federal funding became available. Gonorrhea has shown a sub-

FISH TOURNAMENT WINNER — W. T. Rumler, Cuba, Ill., won a weekly prize in the Chamber of Commerce fishing tournament for winter visitors. stantial increase over the previous year's totals, reflecting the massive patient screening program now being put into operation by the State Health Department, in cooperation with private physicians and other agencies. State Health officials estimate some 250,000 cases of gonorrhea actually occurred in Texas last year. Many cases of the disease were never diagnosed, for the patient never saw his physician or the local public health clinic.

The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia, reports the following occurrence of communicable diseases nationwide:

The leading communicable disease nationwide in 1972 was gonorrhea. Second was chickenpox. Third, mumps. Fourth infectious and serum hepatitis. Fifth, tuberculosis. Sixth, measles. Seventh, syphilis. Eighth, rubella. Ninth, aseptic meningitis. And tenth, meningococcal infections.

The reported disease for the nation do not include influenza or strep throat or other streptococcal infections.

Other diseases of statewide interest include: a decrease in diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), and typhoid fever. The state showed an increase in leprosy cases and infectious encephalitis, and a stable reading on polio cases (with four cases last year). There was no VEE (Venezuelan equine en-cephalomyelitis) recorded in 1972.

The ten leading causes of death in Texas reflect the toll that chronic diseases, accidents, and other factors take on the Texas population. The leading cause of death in Texas is heart disease. Second is malignant neoplasms, or cancer. Third is cerebrovascular disease. Fourth, accidents. Fifth, influenza and pneumonia. Sixth, mortality in early infancy. Seventh, diabetes mellitus. Eighth, bronchitis, emphysema and asthma. Ninth, arteriosclerosis. Tenth, homicide.

Baby's Food

COLLEGE STATION -- Although feeding children properly is always important, it's crucial during baby's first year. "In that first year, birth weight will more than triple and baby will grow 9-10 inches in length," Frances L. Reasonover pointed out.

The foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, stressed correct feeding and explained utilization of various foods.

"First, consider the infant's abilities and limitations," she said.

"Much of baby's body is water. The skeleton is very soft since it's mostly cartilage -- the bones haven't hardened.

"Also, there's limited fat in the skin, and the muscles are poorly developed," Miss Reasonover continued.

"He is, however, able to digest protein foods, fats dissolved in milk, and sugars."

Since his digestive tract's enzyme production systems lack full development, certain foods aren't digested by the infant. These include starches -- which are complex carbohydrates--and solid fats.

"Choose foods carefully since they're important in growth and maintenance."

Both milk--particularly the mother's milk--and formula contain several ingredients essential for the baby's well being.

"Protein, for example, is required for growth and development," Miss Reasonover explained.

"Milk sugar, on the other hand, provides energy, while calcium and phosphorus are necessary for developing bones and teeth."

In addition, several vitamins are contained in milk.

"Vitamin A helps baby maintain healthy skin and develop good vision.

"The B-vitamins maintain a good digestive system and aid in utilization of food energy."

Not only is milk fat an essential source of energy, it also keeps skin healthy and carries vitamins A and D.

"After baby is about two weeks old, add vitamin C to his diet," the specialist said. Juices from oranges and certain other fruits are excellent sources of this vitamin which affects various tissue formation.

"If vitamin D isn't supplied in the formula, furnish it through a reliable source. This vitamin helps the body use calcium and phosphorus in building bones and teeth," Miss Reasonover added.

"One thing milk lacks is iron. A baby from a well-nourished mother has about a three month supply. After that, include iron rich foods--such as egg yolk and meat--in the diet."

A Permanent Record ---

As discussed in a recent advertisement, a First National Bank checking account provides data that can be invaluable at income tax reporting time.

But that's only one of the convenience aspects of a checking account. Probably even more important is the permanent and detailed record it produces on personal and business transactions. Most people who have checking accounts seem to feel it would be almost impossible to operate without them.

For many people, a checking account provides their only accurate and permanent record of amounts spent and amounts taken in. It is actually a simple but effective bookkeeping system in which cancelled checks record money paid out, and deposit slips record money received.

And all this information is collected, classified and stored by First National people, and modern computers.

For more than 80 years thousands of local people have depended on First National Bank.

Doings at the Dunes

By VIOLA REYNOLDS

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Strange went to their home in Waco last Thursday for a week's stay.

Three of our families pulled out last Thursday morning for a month's stay in the Valley. They were the Don Dauts, Sam Ireys, and the Cliff Rummells.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brown and Mrs. Allene Runyan of Louisburg, Kansas, were guests Thursday and Friday of Bob and Viola Reynolds before going on to the Valley for a month's stay.

Several persons in our court have been working in some golf these nice sunny days. Carl and Stella Baertch, Bob Reynolds, Stan Morton, and Paul Stone are the golfers from the Dunes. They have been joined by friends from other courts in this area who enjoy the sport.

Laurence and Gertrude Rasmussen of Stevens Point, Wis., moved into the Dunes Thursday afternoon. They left home Dec. 5 and gyped along the way via Florida to be back with us again this winter.

Edward O'Quinn and a friend, Buddy Herring, came from San Antonio Thursday to spend the weekend at the Dunes.

A cleaning crew of Dunes residents, armed with buckets, brushes, etc., descended on the "reck" hall early Saturday morning and in a few hours left it shining and spotless as new.

John Smith not only celebrated his birthday Jan. 30 but he will tell you which birthday it was.

Tom Henderson left Tuesday by jet plane for a vacation in Hawaii for a 6-weeks' visit with friends.

Twenty-two people enjoyed snacks and games at the "reck" hall Friday evening.

Miss Opal Iseminger came Monday from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to visit for a month with the Harold Scotts. Colette and Opal are sisters.

Dinner out took a new twist at the Dunes Sunday when John Smith put his boat in and took Velta to Port Aransas by the water route for dinner at Mrs. Pete's.

Thirteen Register For Draft

A total of ninety-nine 18-year-olds registered with the Sinton Draft Board during the month of January, 1973. Thirteen from Aransas County were David C. Lang and Jackie J. Dietrich, Jr. of Fulton and Richard G. Little, Jesus Torres, Gary, B. Smith, Gerald W. Sanford, Jr., Guadalupe Sanchez, Abelardo Lopez, Jr., Carlos G. Carabajal, William C. Hunter, Patrick W. Court, Alvin D. Hattenbach and William A. Hearn.

P.E.O. News

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brush of Slaton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra Gay, to James Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Russell of Rockport.

Miss Brush, a 1971 graduate of Slaton High School, is employed at Fondy's Western Store.

Russell is a 1968 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School and is a Deputy Sheriff of Aransas County.

They will be united in marriage April 6 at First Baptist Church at Rockport.

Tax Payers Ask IRS

Q: Is it true that this year's Federal income tax return asks questions related to Federal revenue sharing?

A: Yes. Your 1972 Form 1040 and short Form 1040A ask two questions related to the sharing of Federal money with state and local governments. One question asks the location of your principal place of residence (state, county, locality and township); the second question asks for the number of your dependents who are filing a return of their own or who did not live at your principal place of residence at the end of 1972.

You must supply the correct information in your answers to these questions to ensure that your state, county and local community receive their rightful share of revenue sharing funds.

Q: Does every taxpayer have to give his state, county, locality and township in answering the revenue sharing question on place of residence?

A: All of this information may not be required. Only certain states have townships and these are specified in your tax form instructions. If your state is not listed there, you can leave this column of your tax return blank. Secondly, there are a few places, such as Baltimore City, Md. and St. Louis, Mo., that are not within a county. Once again, these areas are listed in your instructions.

Unless you lived outside the U. S. on December 31, 1972, you must enter the abbreviation for your state in the column provided. In addition, if you lived inside an incorporated city, town, or village, print the name of the municipality in the "locality" column. If you did not live inside the boundaries of such a location, check the box in this column.

Q: Can you give me some tips on how to guard against dishonest tax preparers?

A: The IRS offers the following advice to taxpayers seeking assistance from commercial income tax return preparers: never sign a blank return; do not sign a tax return prepared in pencil because it can be changed later; do not allow your refund check to be mailed to the preparer; avoid the advisor who "guarantees" refunds, wants a percentage of the refund, or supposedly knows all the angles; and avoid the preparer who advises a taxpayer to overstate deductions, claim fictitious dependents or omit income.

In addition, taxpayers should insist that the tax preparer sign the return he prepares and enter his tax identifying number. Finally, be sure to keep a copy of your return.

Q: What are the rules for deducting finance charges on department store revolving charge accounts?

A: You may deduct the "finance charge" levied by retail stores on your revolving charge accounts if the charges are based on your unpaid balances and computed monthly. Also, in the case of bank credit card plans, you can deduct the finance charge if no part of this amount is for service charges, loan fees, credit investigation fees, etc.

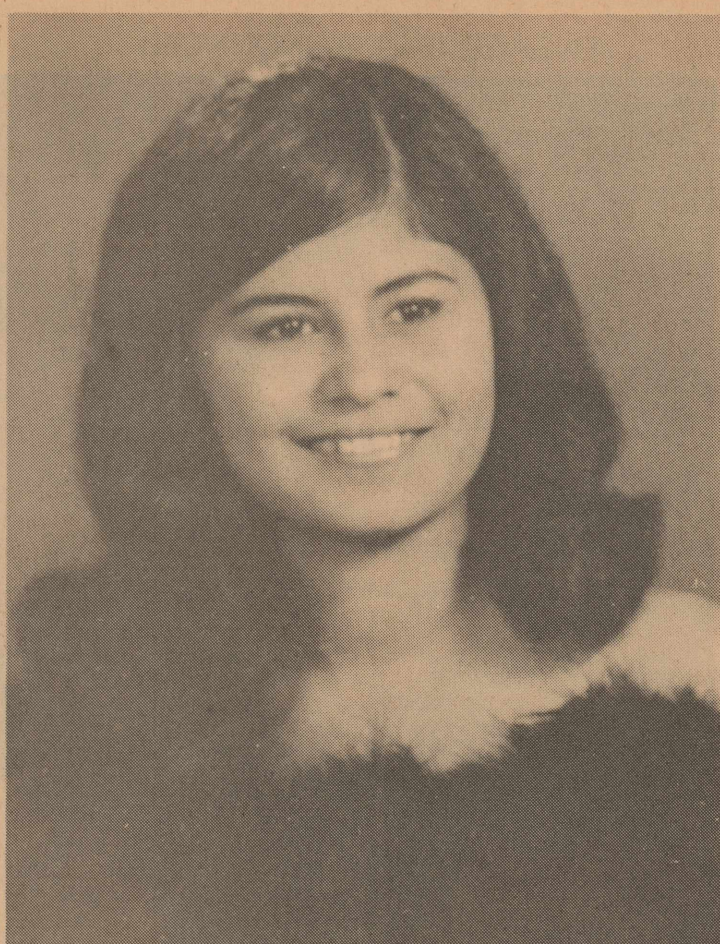

However, if you buy items on the installment plan and the carrying charges are separately stated, but the interest charge cannot be ascertained, deduct the lower of (1) 6 percent of your average unpaid monthly balance or (2) the actual charge for the year. For more details, see IRS Publication 545, "Income Tax Deduction for Interest Expense." Use the order blank on the back of your tax forms package to obtain a free copy.

Q: I had no income tax liability for 1972, but I'm filing a return to recover income tax withheld from my pay. Can I still designate $1 of the tax withheld towards the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

A: No. You can only make the $1 check-off if you had an income tax liability. This does not mean that because you are getting a refund, you can't use the $1 check-off, but it does mean you must be able to show tax on line 20 of your Form 1040 or line 21 of your short Form 1040A to use the check-off.

New Resident Car

The following new resident car was registered last month at the county tax assessor-collector's office:
Myron Schwab, 1962 Ford.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Vicente De La Garza, Sr., of McFaddin, Texas announce the engagement of their daughter, Esther, to Carlos Lopez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezequiel Lopez of Rockport. The wedding will take place Feb. 11 at St. Dennis Catholic Church on the O'Connor brothers' River Ranch.

Letter to the Editor

I want to publicly thank Mr. Chester Barre, high school principal, and Deputy Sheriff Joe Williams for their response, cooperation and assistance when quite a large sum of money was taken from my purse at the Rockport-Gregory-Portland basketball game Friday night, January 27th.

I immediately reported the theft to Mr. Barre and he in turn called the deputy. In just a few minutes, Deputy Williams was there. By 4:00 p.m. Saturday he had notified me that the thieves had been caught and part of the money recovered and that restitution would be made eventually for the remainder.

Yesterday Mr. Barre phoned to say that steps were being taken to prevent an occurrence of this situation again. My husband and I greatly appreciate the service these two gentlemen gave me and just wanted the residents in the Rockport area to know what cooperative and efficient officials they have.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Rankin

REPORTING INTEREST INCOME

All interest received or credited to taxpayers' accounts during 1972 must be reported on Federal income tax returns unless it is specifically exempt from tax, said George Zerda, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Interest must be reported in the year it is credited to the account and subject to withdrawal, even though it is not entered on passbooks until the following year. The same is true of interest on insurance dividends left on deposit with the insurance company.

Taxpayers may elect to report interest on their Series E, F, and J, U. S. Savings Bonds each year. They may, however, defer reporting the interest until the bonds mature or are cashed in.

So-called "dividends" on deposits or shares of building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, credit unions, mutual and cooperative savings banks are also taxable as interest income and must be reported.

All interest received must be reported even though the payer does not issue a statement to depositors.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers of the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service.

Q-What can the Cost of Living Council do if it finds a firm or industry to be violating Phase III controls?

A-Upon learning through its monitoring of prices and labor negotiations that action has been or is about to be taken that is not consistent with the standards or goals of the program, the Cost of Living Council can use its authority to issue a temporary order setting interim price and wage levels. This would allow the Council: 1) to require parties to supply information and assurances demonstrating that their actions are not or will not be inconsistent with the standards or goals of the program; 2) to hold public hearings; and 3) to issue a special rule or order of the Council setting out a specific legally binding level for proposed price or pay action that would restrain an industry or firm from that point on. Such a rule or order could include the requirement to roll back already effected price or wage increases. Violations of the new rules may be subject to a criminal fine of $5,000 for each violation or a civil penalty of $2,500 for each violation.

Q-What is the effective date of Phase III?

A-January 11, 1973.

Q-What happens to violations that occurred before January 11, 1973?

A-Phase III rules do not affect any suit, action, prosecution, or administrative proceeding with respect to any right possessed, liability incurred, or offense committed before January 11, 1973.

Parties covered by Phase II rules will be required to comply with all such rules up to the effective date of the new regulations. Price-wage changes or profit developments occurring during Phase II will still be subject to review and enforcement. Parties required to report under present rules will be obligated to report all developments occurring under Phase II rules prior to January 11, 1973 in the regular manner.

Instant Replay. For the Wet Set.

Diaper after diaper, an electric dryer keeps Mom and Dad ahead of the wet set. And there's a good reason. Electric heat dries all laundry fifteen times faster than sunshine. What's more, an electric dryer is 24-hour dependable, rain or shine, saves steps and does a great job on permanent press. Costs less to buy, too. See your appliance dealer soon for a special offer on electric dryers.

Texas Coastal Bend: People And Places

This is the tenth installment of our serialization of an outstanding regional history, TEXAS COASTAL BEND: PEOPLE AND PLACES by Alpha Kennedy Wood, now being reprinted in the Rockport Pilot with permission of The Naylor Company, publishers of this book and many other Southwestern titles. Hardcover, $7.95.

CHAPTER XIII THE CIVIL WAR

To the eternal credit of the Mexican Republic, it opposed human slavery and prohibited the bringing of African slaves into Texas by the colonists. However, the Americans evaded the law by passing their slaves as indentured servants, and thus the curse of slavery got root in Texas. The constitution of the Republic of Texas recognized slavery as a legal institution and safeguarded it to such an extent that Congress was denied the power to emancipate slaves in the Republic, and no slaveholder could free his slaves without an act of congress, and no freed slave was permitted to reside permanently within the Republic. The constitution of 1845 contained like provisions.

There is no record, or any evidence for that matter, that the Irish colonists of either the Power or the McMullen colonies had or held slaves under any guise; and there is no record of any slaves in Refugio County during the Republic. The bulk of the slaves were brought in by the families who settled in this county during the middle and late 1850s. It was then that some of the old families began to acquire slaves, principally for use as household and personal servants.

The first slave-deed of record in our deed records is dated March 24, 1851, it being from John Clark to his brother-in-law, Maj. John H. Wood. As the reader may be curious as to such matters, this deed is copied in full, as follows:

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That, I, John Clark of the State of Texas and County of San Patricio, for and in consideration of the sum of Twelve hundred dollars in lawful money in hand paid by John H. Wood, of the County of Refugio, in the State aforesaid, the receipt whereof I hereby acknowledge, have this day bargained, sold and delivered, and do by these present bargain, sell and deliver unto the said John H. Wood: Three Negro Slaves, viz: Jesse, Negro man aged about forty-one years, his wife, Matilda, about twenty-seven years of age, and their child, Jim, about two years of age.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD said Negro Slave, to him, the said John H. Wood, his heirs and assigns, to his or their only proper use and benefit, forever. And I, the said John Clark, for myself, my heirs, executors and administrators do hereby warrant and forever defend the Title of the above named Negro Slaves to the said John H. Wood, his heirs and assigns forever.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this twenty-fourth day of March, One thousand eight hundred and fifty one.

JOHN CLARK (LS)

This is a good example, and served as the standard form of slave-deed used in Texas; except the form later contained the usual clause, "warranted sound both in body and mind and a slave for life."

In 1852, a slave - deed is recorded from Pierre Blanchette and wife, of Liberty County, Texas, to Susan Dugat, of the Negress Charlotte, then eight years old.

Thereafter, appear no slave-deeds until 1855, the period of influx of the new settlers. Thereafter, a number of these indentures appear of record.

The ordinance of secession was adopted February 2, 1861. To her everlasting glory, Texas was the only one of the seceding states which gave its citizens the right or opportunity to vote directly upon the question as to whether or not the state should secede. The convention ordered an election to be held throughout the state on February 23, 1861, to decide the issue. The issue was heatedly debated from the hustings. The vote over the state was 39,415 for secession and 13,841 against.

In Refugio County there was a respectable number of ranking citizens who opposed secession and remained Unionist in principle during the war. These included Thomas O'Connor, Thomas Welder, Capt. James W. Byrne, Capt. James B. Wells, George S. Sherman, Lucas Dubois, Sr., and Edward P. Upton, Col. L. B. Camp, who had signed an address to the people opposing secession, moved to St. Mary's at the beginning of the war. None of these Unionists, with the possible exception of Upton, did anything to retard the Confederate war effort. Dennis M. and Thomas M. O'Connor, sons of Thomas O'Connor, saw four years active service in the Confederate army.

The list of leading secessionists in Refugio County is quite long. The most active included Joseph F. Smith and Youngs Coleman, who remained "unreconstructed rebels" to the end of their lives. Alfred M. Hobby, Edwin Hobby, Judge Lieuen M. Rogers, Capt. Henry Scott, Capt. Daniel C. Doughty, James M. Doughty, Lt. Richard H. Wood, Maj. John H. Wood, Dr. Pulaski A. Thurmond, Col. William McGrew, Dr. William P. McGrew, Judge Thomas Marshall Duke, Judge Samuel M. Robinson, Col. Allen J. Heard, and Col. Thomas C. Heard.

The county officers in 1864, and to the end of the war, were: Dr. William P. McGrew, chief justice; William W. Holbrook, George R. Little, and Thomas Kuykendall, justices. Holbrook joined the Confederate army, and Maj. John H. Wood took his place on the court; Patrick Shelly, county clerk; Gen. Jackson Brown, sheriff; F. M. Swift, assessor-collector; Samuel M. Robinson, treasurer, until 1865, when he was succeeded by C. P. Miles; A. L. Doughty, district clerk; Henry M. Barlow, surveyor; T. C. Heard, coroner; Michael O'Boyle, Jacob Thomas and P. H. Fagan, constables.

The county court took prompt and effective measures to guard against a slave uprising. The war having become a certainty the court, on July 27, 1861, appointed patrols over the entire county. Precincts 2 and 3: Daniel C. Doughty, captain; Benjamin Barber, Robert Martin, Samuel M. Robinson, A. L. Doughty, and George Maley; Road Precinct 2: John H. Wood, captain; James R. McCarty, Archibald McNeill, John Low, Wm. H. Townsend, and Theodore Monroe Dorsett; Road Precinct 4: Walter Lambert, captain; Robert Duman, Daniel Fox, James Power, Joseph E. Plummer, and F. M. Swift; Election Precinct 5: Allen J. Heard, captain; John Teal, Richard T. Byrne, Murdock McRae, Thomas C. Heard, and Lyman Brightman; Hynes Bay Precinct: J. E. Ford, captain; Thomas Kuykendall, Henry McGrew, Ransom F. Huff, Peletiah Bickford, and Thomas Duke, Jr. In 1862, Peletiah Bickford was appointed captain of the Hynes Bay patrol. These patrols, which were continued throughout the war, were maintained in compliance with legislative requirement.

The Texas contemporaries of the Civil War were unanimous in stating that common table salt was one of the most needed commodities during the war. The Confederate government established salt works at various points along the coast. These were raided and destroyed by landing parties from Union warships in 1862, and periodically thereafter. Salt became so short that it became a medium of exchange and was as good as gold.

Within a week after the fall of Fort Sumter, the Confederate government made requisition on Texas for eight thousand infantry, and these were promptly furnished. In July, Texas was called upon for twenty companies for service in Virginia, and thirty-two companies responded. They later became famous as Hood's Texas Brigade.

In Refugio County many men answered these early calls to service. In our county were men who had settled here not long enough to wear their first love from their native states, or other sections of Texas. These men preferred to find service with old-time friends, neighbors and relatives, and went back to those states or sections and enlisted.

During April and May, 1861, five volunteer companies were raised in Refugio County, they being: 1. The Refugio Guards; 2. Capt. William T. Townsend's Home Guards of St. Mary's Precinct; 3. Capt. Rafael Aldrete's company of Jeff Davis Home Guards; 4. Capt. Edward P. Upton's Lamar Home Guards, and 5. Capt. Peter H. Fagan's San Antonio River Home Guards. In the fall of 1861, one other company was organized at St. Mary's, known as Capt. John Low's Rough and Ready Home Guards. Maj. John H. Wood was later commissioned a Lt. Colonel in the Coast Guard, and later was active in the recapture of Corpus Christi from the Federals, from which service he was later known as Colonel, as well as Major, Wood.

James M. Doughty, one of the founders of Rockport, enlisted in Capt. M. M. Kenney's Company K of the 21st Texas Cavalry on September 20, 1864.

The ninth legislature, on December 27, 1861, enacted a law putting the state on a war footing. The law provided that every able-bodied white male inhabitant of the state, between the ages of eighteen and fifty, should be liable to perform military duty, with certain exceptions.

Hamilton P. Bee was appointed brigadier general to command the 29th Brigade. Bee was well known and popular within his brigade district. He was then a planter of Gollad County. From 1849 to 1851, he had represented the Refugio District in the lower house of the legislature.

At the adjournment of the session of the ninth legislature, Alfred M. Hobby resigned his seat in the House, so that he could devote his entire time and efforts to raising a battalion of infantry for service with the 29th Brigade. It is interesting to know that this young merchant, who had represented this county in the secession convention and in two legislatures, was only twenty-five years of age in 1861. He was, however, a mature scholar, a brilliant orator, and even then a man of letters. He was energetic, enthusiastic, and sincere, and in the short time he had lived in this section had gained a strong hold on the affections of the people. He proved himself a capable commander and had the respect and admiration of his officers, most of whom were older than he by many years. To be a colonel before one is twenty-six is a distinction in itself. In later years, Colonel Hobby, who married Gertrude Menard, devoted a great deal of time to literary and historical works, and wrote many articles for the journals of the day. His published works included two volumes of poems and a biography of David G. Burnet. In the organization of the 8th Infantry Battalion, Major Hobby was ably assisted by his younger brother, Edwin E. Hobby, who was barely nineteen years of age. Edwin Hobby became a lawyer after the war and served with distinction on the district and appellate benches. He was the author of a textbook on Texas Land Law, which is standard in the profession even at this late date.

In the summer of 1861, the federal blockading fleet appeared off Galveston and proclaimed a stage of blockade to exist along the entire coast of Texas. Little appears to have been done during the next several months to enforce the blockade of Texas, although a tight cordon was drawn around the remainder of the Confederacy's coastline. It was not long before the effect of the blockade was felt by the South as a whole, and there is little doubt that the sustained blockade contributed mightily to the downfall of the Confederacy.

In February, 1862, the first units of the blockading squadron made their appearance in the waters of then Refugio County. In the latter part of the month, a force of marines from the U.S.S. Afton landed on Mustang Island and burned the homes of and buildings of Mmes. Thomas B. Clubb and Robert A. Mercer, and captured the patrol sloop used by Capt. Benjamin F.

Neal's Battery. The Afton next turned its attention to the village of Aransas on St. Joseph's Island, across Aransas Pass from Mustang Island. Here, about fifty marines were landed and remained several days, pillaging and plundering at will, and burning several houses and buildings. Maj. Daniel D. Shea, commanding at Fort Esperanza, upon learning of the raid, hurried to the village with a detachment of mounted riflemen. He moved stealthily into the vicinity of the village, hoping to take the enemy. The raiders discovered his presence, and got back to their vessels. The Afton, after getting out of rifle range, bombarded the village and Shea's detachment. The affair concluded in a parley. The federal commander landed under a flag of truce and turned over to Shea a sack of mail which he had captured, and transmitted messages from the crew of the blockade runner McNeill, which had been taken by the Federals a few days before. The Yankee apprised Shea that the Unionists had come "not to fight but to stop the trade." Captain Neal, whose battery was stationed on Shell Bank Island, kept his garrison on the alert to resist any entrance into the bay.

The advent of the federal squadron with its depredation caused a mass evacuation of old settlers from the islands from the Texas coast, so that by the middle of 1862, they were practically depopulated of civilians. The islands have never recovered their population or prosperity.

The defense of the entire area between Indianola and Corpus Christi, including the outlying islands, was committed to Colonel Hobby and the 8th Infantry Regiment. Companies A and B, the artillery companies of Indianola and Port Lavaca, were kept in their home sectors. Company K, Ireland's old company, now commanded by Captain George, was sent to Indianola, where it remained for about eight months, during the spring and summer of 1863. Company I, Captain Neal's heavy artillery company, was stationed on Mustang Island. It was in time reinforced by Captain Garrett's company of state troops. Capt. Edwin Hobby and his Company C were stationed on the south end of St. Joseph's Island. A permanent garrison seems to have been kept on Shell Bank Island, which faced the channel of Aransas Pass. Wilke's Battery had charge of that important post at various periods after Neal's Battery was removed elsewhere.

On April 30, 1863, a blockade runner was overtaken by the federal warship, W. G. Anderson. The encounter took place during a storm, and the captain of the blockade runner, to avoid capture, headed his vessel through the storm and succeeded in beaching her on St. Joseph's Island. The captain and the crew managed to get safely to shore. The Federals waited until the storm had subsided to go to the stranded vessel. They found her loaded with cotton and securely stuck in the mud. The Federals, on May 3, sent a party to the island to attempt to free the vessel and her cargo. Capt. Edwin E. Hobby and his company suddenly appeared over the sand dunes and a fight took place. Twenty of the enemy were killed or taken prisoner and three federal launches were captured.

On May 30, the Federals landed at Point Isabel and burned the Confederate revenue cutter which they found there. This appears to have been an operation to feel out the Confederate defenses in the Rio Grande area, and was a precursor of what was to follow.

The federal ship, Afton, lay in wait and bombarded vessels laden with merchandise for the Confederacy. In March, 1862, Lt. Com. J. W. Kittredge, who became the scourge of Corpus Christi, with the flagship Arthur, was sent by Rear Admiral Farragut to take over Corpus Christi. He preyed with great success upon blockade runners off Port Aransas, and harassed land operations with many commando raids. He used St. Joseph's Island as a depot for captured cargo until it could be sent to New Orleans.

On July 7, 1862, Kittredge made a first landing attempt at Corpus Christi but was repulsed. A few days later, he captured three Confederate vessels while at port in Lamar, and there seized cotton and other supplies with a landing party.

The Battle of Corpus Christi began on August 16, 1862, and lasted all day. The engagement was broken off and resumed on the eighteenth. The city was roundly bombarded both days, and the property damage was heavy, but the casualties were light. The Confederates, on their part, did good execution with the shore batteries and badly damaged the warships, Corypheus and the Sachem. Landing parties were sent by the Federals on both days, but they were repulsed.

Major Hobby was wounded in the head by a ball, but remained in the field to the end. The Federals, disappointed at the outcome of their land operations, strafed the town, directing their cannonading to the buildings of the town. Considerable property was destroyed.

One of the highlights of Major Hobby's tenure at Corpus Christi was the capture of Lieutenant Kittredge. After the Battle of Corpus Christi, the debonair lieutenant had resumed his destructive activities. On August 23, he captured the fine English vessel, Water Witch, off Aransas Pass. The cargo of gunpowder and supplies was valued at $10,000. On September 12, he returned with the warships, Corypheus and Breaker, to Corpus Christi and raised a flag of truce. This time he desired to be allowed to take away the family of Col. Edmund J. Davis, a Texan who was serving in the Union army. Major Hobby was absent at the time, and Major Gray, who was in command, felt that he had no authority to act in the matter. He suggested that Kittredge return in ten days for an answer. Kittredge sailed south towards the Laguna Madre. Maj. E. E. Gray instructed Capt. John Ireland to take fifty men and follow the Federal vessels by land and watch their movements. Having been advised that Kittredge intended landing at Flour Bluff, Ireland got there ahead of him and laid a trap for him. With his usual impetuosity, Kittredge landed with a few men at Flour Bluff and began exploring, and was decoyed into an ambush, where he was captured in full view of the men on his vessels.

With the federal invasion imminent, frantic efforts were made to get as many blockade runners into Brownsville and Matamoros as quickly as possible. These daring vessels not only had to run the gauntlet of the federal fleet, but the blockade of the French fleet as well, as the latter feared the arms might fall into the hands of the Juarez government.

Mrs. Brundrett Dies at Age 101

Funeral services for Mrs. Lydia McRae (Manch) Brundrett, 101, a member of a pioneer Aransas County family and the oldest resident of the county, were held Friday in the First Presbyterian Church with burial in Rockport Cemetery under direction of Marshall Funeral Home. She died January 31.

A native of Lamar, Mrs. Brundrett had lived in Aransas County all of her life. She and her late husband, J.W. Brundrett, ran the Black Jack Ranch for 20 years around the turn of the century.

The ranch was located on Black Jack Peninsula which now makes up the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge. In 1917, the Brundretts moved to Rockport where Mrs. Brundrett became active in church, school and civic activities. Her husband died in 1940.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, a charter member of the Aransas County Cemetery Association and the Aransas County Parent-Teacher Association.

Both her Scottish and Irish grandfathers were among the earliest settlers in South Texas and their families have been prominent in Aransas, Bee and Refugio counties.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. George Sorenson of Port Lavaca, Mrs. Fred Mires of Taft, Mrs. W.A. Kell of Prentiss, Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Mrs. D. L. Kight and Mrs. Ingle Turner, all of Rockport; 20 grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were grandsons Jackie Smith, Wally Sloan, James Sledge, Ray Roden, Jimmy Turner and Billy Kell.

Redfish Au Gratin

AUSTIN -- Trying to stretch your 1973 food dollar a little farther?

One way to level spiraling food prices a bit is by eating more inexpensive and nutritious Texas fish, according to Cindy Gray, home economist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Fish supplies high level protein with practically no waste. Since fish steaks and fillets contain few bones and no fat, you pay for only what you eat, and when cooked properly there is practically no shrinkage.

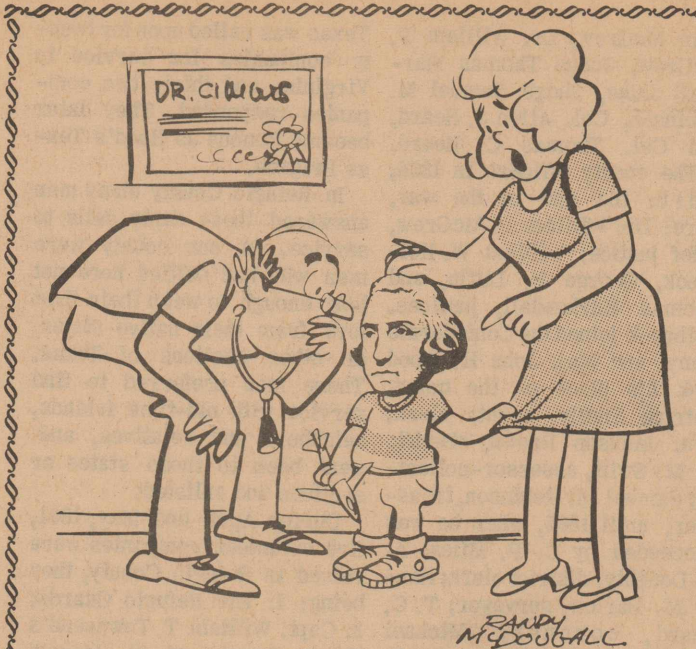

Baking is one of the easiest ways to cook fish, and the following baked-fish recipe makes delicious use of the abundant Texas redfish or any other of the fine native species.

More seafood recipes are available at no charge by sending a postcard with your name and address to "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

REDFISH AU GRATIN

2 lbs. redfish steaks or fillets
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
dash pepper
1/4 cup flour
2 Tbs. grated onion
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
1 cup grated cheese
2 Tbs. chopped parsley
Paprika

Remove skin and bones as necessary and cut fish into serving-size portions. Add seasoning to flour. Roll fish in flour and place in a well-greased, shallow, 1 1/2 quart casserole. Add onion to soup and spread over fish. Top with cheese and parsley. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes six servings.

Miss Mary Harrist In Texas Tech Play

Miss Mary Harrist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrist, will play an important role in a Maxim Gorki play, "The Lower Depths," at Texas Tech University Theatre at Lubbock, February 22-26. Miss Harrist will be "Natasha" in the play.

Professor Ronald Schulz will direct the campus theatre's 110th production, which is the story of the stark life in Russia at the turn of the century. Gorki's play is a memorable achievement depicting creatures that once were. It is a dramatic experience that takes a sordid slice from the "lower depths" of life and electrifies it with pity rather than despair.

Ladies Golf News

The "George Clark Tournament" was held Saturday morning by the ladies of Live Oak Country Club.

The trophy was won by Mrs. Rose (O.D.) McCoy. Three tied for second place. They were Mrs. Helen (E.H.) Dupree, Mrs. Cleo (Bill) Barr and Mrs. Lou (Bill) Dahlman.

Wednesday is regular ladies day.

Grass Found Resistant To Chinch Bugs

COLLEGE STATION -- Researchers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have found two varieties of St. Augustine grass to be resistant to damaging chinch bug infestations.

The Southern chinch bug, one of the most serious pests to St. Augustine grass, has been infesting Texas lawns for more than 20 years and populations of chinch bugs have grown alarmingly during the last few years.

The two resistant varieties were tested by Dr. Richard L. Dumble and his co-workers in the Soil and Crop Sciences Department at Texas A & M University.

Dumble, an assistant professor of turf, initiated the search several years ago and tested several thousand seedlings and selections before reaching success with two resistant varieties.

"These two varieties have remained healthy while all other varieties, including common St. Augustine grass, were killed in the tests we conducted," Dumble commented.

One of the two varieties, Floratam, was jointly released by the Florida and Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations early last summer. This grass is being propagated by Texas sod growers and will be available to Texas homeowners in a limited supply this summer.

"In addition to being resistant to chinch bug infestations, Floratam was also found to be resistant to the St. Augustine Decline (SAD) virus by Dr. R.W. Toler with the Experiment Station. Texas homeowners lose several million dollars annually

KENDALL D. KNARRDIES

Kendall D. Knarr, 69, who had been visiting here from Jewell, Kan., was dead on arrival at an Aransas Pass hospital Jan. 31.

Knarr and his wife had been visiting here for about 15 days. Funeral services were scheduled to be held in Jewell.

from damages caused by these two pests," the researcher added.

"Floratam may not be the final answer to St. Augustine-grass lawn problems, but it does provide protection against chinch bugs and SAD," Dumble pointed out.

The other chinch bug resistant variety is still in the experimental stage, but it has also shown good resistance to SAD.

Floratam can be distinguished from the common Texas variety by its darker green color, wider and longer leaf, larger stem and coarser texture. Floratam also grows faster than most common St. Augustine grass and may require more frequent mowing. The mowing height should be raised to two inches for Floratam to compensate for its coarse texture and growth rate, added Dumble.

Tax Tables Include Sales Tax Deductions

The amount taxpayers can deduct for sales tax on Federal tax returns appears in tables printed in the 1040 tax instructions.

George Zerda, administrative officer of Internal Revenue for Corpus Christi, Texas, said the tables show the sales tax deduction by family size and income.

The table is based on consumer spending patterns and shows the average sales tax paid by Texas residents, he said.

The sales tax on automobiles, boats, trailers, and airplanes is not included in the table. Taxpayers who bought these items in 1972 may add deductible sales taxes paid during the year should have records as proof of payment.

Seventy-four per cent of the people who go to the movies fairly regularly are under 50 years of age.

Betty Latham continued the display by "sweeping off" the 5-6-10 and Kathy Bowden the 4-5.

The League weekly standings are: Armstrong Auto Parts, 49-27; Kelly's Drive In, 46-30; Ray's Texaco, 42-34; Kin-kades, 41-35; Sipe Real Estate, 37-39; Little Bob's, 36-40; Kim's Bar-B-Q, 33-43; and Team #1, 20-56.

The big event of the week was the tournament held on February 2 and 4. The Early Bird League had seven teams entered. In class A team event Armstrong Auto Parts placed second and Kelly's Drive In took third. Kin-kades placed third in class B team event.

Some of the achievements of individuals were Joyce Arthur taking class A all events with 1944; Mary Ankele taking first place in class A singles with a 668; Mother and daughter team of Ida and Marilyn Armstrong taking first place in class A doubles with a 1314.

Library News

Lou Ann Agee, Kay Bell, Teresa Domasch and Kerry Ogle, members of Girl Scout Senior Troop 223 under the supervision of Miss Betty Whitney, are working in the library as their community project for Library Aid.

These girls are in the process of listing addresses and telephone numbers of patrons who have overdue books. When the list is complete these patrons will be contacted in regard to returning their books to the library. There are approximately 900 books overdue.

It will be greatly appreciated if all those people who have overdue books will return them to the library promptly. The week of February 12th will be a fine free week at the library.

The following people have donated books to the library: Oliver A. Stuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kuykendall, Joe Forest and Mrs. George Anderson. These donations are gratefully appreciated.

Pharmacy Topics

By SHELLEY ROATEN

Dr. Paul Dudley White, octogenarian heart specialist, still rides a bicycle. He says it promotes healthy circulation.

If you want your ears pierced, have it done by a trained person who follows sanitary procedures.

Soft, sticky foods encourage the formation of tartar on teeth. Crisp foods help clean teeth and exercise the gums.

Clinical trials have begun on a reversible vasectomy device that could make it possible for a man's fertility to be halted or returned through a simple operation in a doctor's office.

"Imitation" milks are nutritionally inferior to whole milk in their protein, vitamin and mineral content, and are not suitable for infants or young children.
