CofC Employs Secretary, Sets Future Program

The Post Chamber of Commerce is undertaking a "let's get re-acquainted program," with the business men of the city.

At the Friday night Board Meeting, Mrs. Burnis Lawrence was hired as secretary to the Chamber of Commerce. The board also mapped out some plans for the future which they are very optimistic about.

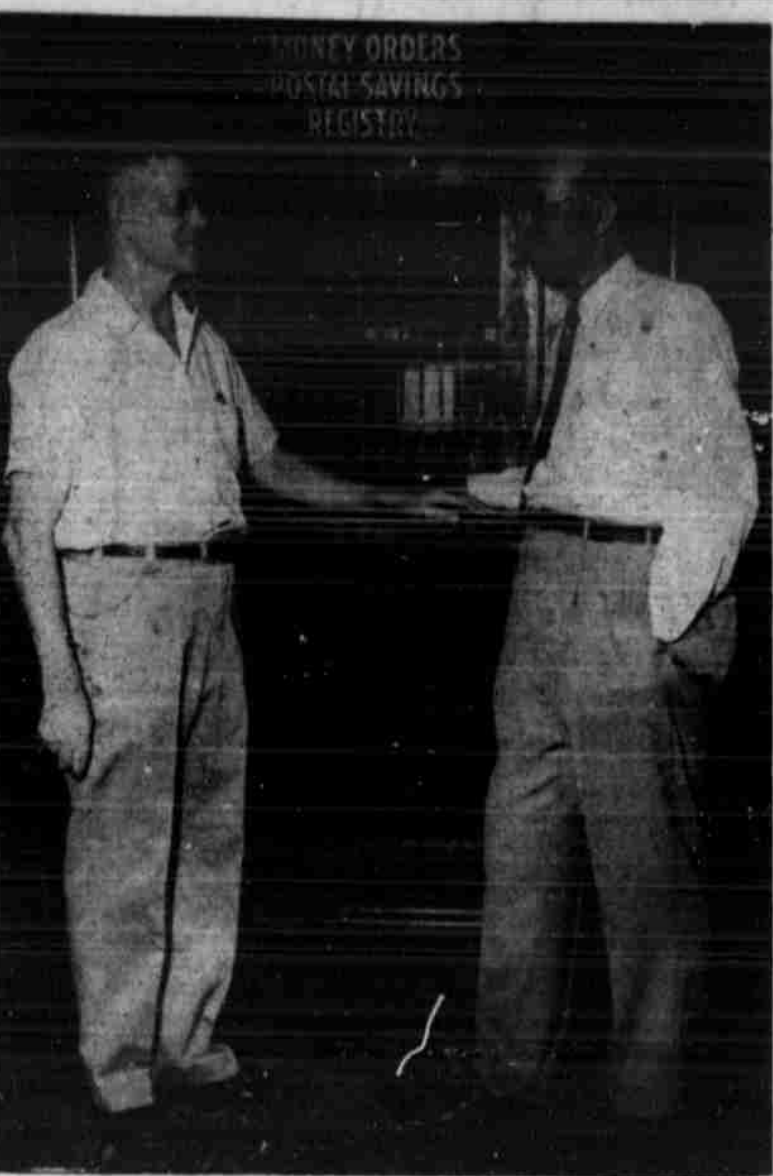

They have experienced a couple of set-backs which seem to have opened a wide gap in their relation with many of the business men. But that will be changed, they feel, as soon as the new plan gets underway.

Each week the board will meet with Mrs. Lawrence and go over what has been accomplished during that week. And at the same time they will outline and discuss their plans for the coming week.

During their Friday night meeting, board members instructed Mrs. Lawrence to urge all business men to make suggestions and recommendations to her as she makes her rounds becoming acquainted and collecting dues. These suggestions will be brought to the attention of the board and discussed at each week's meeting.

But, they pointed out, the businessmen need not wait until Mrs. Lawrence comes around to make suggestions. They can either drop

FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS OF COMBINED SERVICE — The two well-known Post residents pictured above have been serving the people of the town for more than a half-century. Together the two men have served 57 years in the Postal service. Curtis Davies, left, has been employed by the Post Office for nearly 24 years and Oliver McMahon, right, has even more years service to his credit. He began working for the Postal department in 1918 and has been with it ever since, which means a total of 33 years service. The two men are pictured in the Post Office building. Post Construction Is On The Increase Contracts have been let for the construction of two new business buildings in Post to be located immediately west of the Boyd Smith Auto Supply store.

Work began on the two buildings early this week under the guidance of B. A. Price, contractor. The buildings are being constructed for Jim Hundley and Homer McCrary.

Hundley's structure, a 40 x 75-foot building, will be located next to the supply store with McCrary's adjoining it. The McCrary structure will also be 40 x 75.

McCrary's building will be occupied by the McCrary Appliance company immediately upon completion. "This new building will greatly increase our showroom and storage space and will help immensely in offering better service to the public," McCrary said.

Hundley will divide his building into two sections and lease both of these. Leases have already been signed and the spaces will be occupied by Post News Stand, which is to be located next to the old Post Office or Boyd's supply, and the Western Boot Shop, a new boot factory

Lee Appointed Principal Of High School System

CHANT D. LEE

STAMPEDE COWBOYS

Some 25 Post Stampede Cowboys went to Snyder Wednesday afternoon and rode in the opening parade of the annual, fourth Scurry county rodeo.

Chant D. Lee, head of the social science department in the Post school system for the past two years, has been appointed high school principal to replace Stevens Strasser, Superintendent D. C. Arthur has announced.

Strasser resigned two weeks ago after five years service as principal. He has been in the system for six years. His resignation becomes effective Aug. 1 so he can enroll in Baylor university this fall to complete work on his master's degree.

A native of Utah, Lee attended the Agriculture college at Cedar City, Utah, and Abilene Christian college in Abilene. Lee says he has lived in Texas for the past 10 or 12 years and "considers himself a native Texan by now."

During World War II, Lee served four years in the Army. He was a member of the 202nd Field Artillery battalion in Patton's Third Army in Europe.

At the present time, Lee is attending school at Hardin - Simmons university in Abilene working on his M. A. degree.

Lee married a West Texas girl, Miss Ruth Rushing of Matamor, and the couple has two children, David, 7, and Kathryn, six months.

Teasing Rains Hit County On Sunday

Sunday afternoon and evening showers hit certain sections of the county with only teasing amounts of rainfall and left others high and dry after threatening good rains for an hour or two.

Moving in from the northeast and traveling in a southwesterly direction, the rains hit Post with only .12 inches. Heaviest reports were made by C. P. Witt in the Kalgary community. He reported .61 inches.

Lee Reed of Justiceburg also reported .32 inches. No reports have been received from other sections of the county, but Monk Gibson, Soil Conservation employee here, said that apparently a negligible amount fell around the Pleasant Valley community.

The rain cloud threatened a good rain for several hours Sunday afternoon and evening but then passed over without raining enough to relieve the serious need of the Garza county farmers.

Water System Improved With Wells and Lines

With the completion of tying-in two new wells and a 12-inch main line from the reservoir, the city has effectively eliminated the water shortage and low pressure which have posed serious problems for both the Water department and the people of the town.

Since the three new wells, one was tied in a week or so ago, have been added to the system, they have more than doubled the capacity of the system. Where the other 16 wells were pumping approximately 300 gallons per minute, the three new ones have raised the capacity to more than 700 gallons per minute.

One of the wells, the best one in the system now, pumps 200 gallons per minute and the other two slightly more than 100 gallons each. The largest well prior to these was 85 gallons per minute.

Pressure in town has increased considerably, R. H. Tate, Water department manager, said. Before the tie-in of the new line from the reservoir, the pressure at ten or eleven o'clock in the morning was about 15 pounds.

Two New Wells Staked In County

Staking of two wells, one slightly west of the city limits on the City of Post tract of land and the other about two miles northwest of Post in the Garza-San Andres pool, highlighted the county city activity this week.

Operations on the well staked in the Garza - San Andres pool by D. J. Stone of Lubbock will begin immediately.

Drilling should begin in a few days on the Bright, Schiff and Kennedy well to be drilled on the city tract by Cannon Drilling company. The rig was being set up Wednesday. Bright, Schiff and Kennedy leased the tract from the city last March.

Elsewhere in the county the Humble Oil and Refining company well, 3 miles southeast of Justiceburg, was reported drilling below 6,270 feet. It is slated as a 7,500 foot project.

Cleanup of City Needed Before Fogging Starts

Before Post can be sprayed or fogged, the people must clean it up!

That was the final opinion of city officials Wednesday after an inspection of the city by R. H. Tate and Bill Hineman, engineer for the state health department. Inspecting eight alleys they found 61 outhouses, 41 chicken houses, cow lots and horse lots, and not a single garbage can with a lid.

The health representative said he would advise the people of Post who are concerned over the health of their children to get organized and clean up the town — then spray or fog.

Dr. D. C. Williams, city health officer, says, "There is no need of becoming overly frightened. One of the main precautions is to clean up and stay cleaned up."

Third Polio Case Strikes In Post

The third case of polio in two weeks hit Post this week when little Ronald Storie, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Storie, Jr., was carried to Lubbock Memorial hospital stricken with the malady.

Admitted to the hospital Monday, the child was reported in a fair condition Wednesday. The disease had not paralyzed the child and seemed to be mostly in his back. Hot packs have been applied constantly in an effort to check any spreading.

The other two cases of polio which have occurred in Post during the past two weeks were Cherry Dodson, 10-year-old

Junior Rodeo Officials Near Completion Of Plans

Certain Drivers Are Warned By Sheriff

Sheriff Carl Rains and his department has issued the following first warnings to certain Post drivers:

Anyone with "Smitties," gutted mufflers, or straight exhausts must get rid of them.

Men who are working here and are driving cars with out-of-state licenses to work must register their cars at courthouse and obtain Texas licenses.

Drivers, whoever they may be, who are playing "ditch-em" along the streets of Post and especially along West Main, must stop it.

In issuing these more than fair warnings, Sheriff Rains said these requests must be complied with soon or he and his staff will see that they are.

All officials of the fourth annual Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo are in perfect agreement that the show this year promises to be the best ever produced in the history of the rodeo when it unfolds five performances on Aug. 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18.

Plans for participants in the two big parades, which are to be held during the show, are nearing completion. Ten Sheriff's Poses have been invited and have indicated they will be here.

First big parade will wind through downtown Post at 6 p. m. on Tuesday, Aug. 14. Besides the Sheriff's Poses, many of the 300 contestants who are expected to enter the show will ride in the parade. Plans are also being made for several floats and other parade entries. The second parade of the show will be held at 8 p. m. on Friday, Aug. 17.

Publicity for the show is under the direction of Alvin Davis. He is being helped by nearly everyone concerned with the show. Mediums which Davis is employing to publicize the show include newspapers, radio broadcasts, window cards (these will be taken around and displayed in surrounding towns) and window stickers.

Davis also reports that there is a possibility that Life magazine might have someone cover the show. He wrote them a long time back and fully explained the show and they said to send them all the information he had on it about a month before rodeo time. This he has already done and is awaiting a reply. It will

Mrs. Strasser HD Agent Here Resigns Job

The resignation of Mrs. Jewell Strasser, Home Demonstration Agent for Garza county since December, 1946, was announced this week by County Judge H. M. Snowden.

Mrs. Strasser's resignation will become effective the first of September. She will join her husband, Stevens Strasser, in Waco and both will work on their Master's degrees at Baylor university. Strasser is in school there now.

"It is with regret," Judge Snowden said, "that the Commissioner's Court and the Extension Service accepts the resignation of Mrs. Strasser. She has worked diligently and long hours with the people of the county and the Extension Service program in the county and 4-H clubs and Home Demonstration clubs have expanded considerably under her direction."

Mrs. Aubrey Russell, new District agent, was in Post Monday for a conference with Judge Snowden and presented Mrs. Strasser's resignation at that time. Mrs. Russell told the judge she hoped to be able to announce the new Home Demonstration agent by the last of August so she can come in and work with Mrs. Strasser during her last

Deputy Raid Nets Big Liquor Haul

Deputy Sheriff Fay Claborn raided a cache at 2:45 a. m. Tuesday and made a haul of 29 cases of beer, 36 pints of liquor, 23 "fifths" of liquor and 24 quarts of wine.

Four charges were also filed over the week including one each on wife and child desertion, sale of beer, swindling by worthless check and aiding a prisoner to escape.

James Patterson was charged with sale of beer; J. H. Price with swindling by worthless check; Charles E. Davenport with child and wife desertion; and Kenneth Finchum with aiding a prisoner to escape.

Davenport is out on $750 bond awaiting grand jury. Finchum's bond was set for $500.

In a short session of district court here Tuesday afternoon, District Judge Louis B. Reed granted three divorces.

Hospital Fate Still Unknown

Voters in the nine election boxes in Garza county went to the polls Saturday and soundly defeated both the reallocation of county tax rate proposal and the 15 cents additional road levy.

Only 257 voters, of an eligible number of approximately 1,800 cast ballots in the elections. The reallocation was defeated by 18 votes, or 136 to 118. A wider margin of defeat was registered on the road tax with 144 voting against and only 113 supporting it, thereby defeating the measure by 31 votes.

In defeating the two proposals, county residents left the county stranded with a $350,000 hospital and no money to operate it with.

County Judge H. M. Snowden and the other members of the Commissioner's Court have no idea at the present time what is to be done about opening the new hospital when construction is completed on it around the first of 1952.

Another special election cannot be called for 12 months, the Judge said. During the meantime however, he and the Court will continue to search for a workable plan by which the money might be raised.

Probably the main point which can be deduced from the voting is that negligence on the part of the voters defeated the two bills. When the petition requesting the election was carried around, 230 persons signed their names to it, yet when the election occurred only 257 people turned out to cast a vote one way or the other.

The road tax bill was defeated in five boxes and carried in the other four. And the reallocation carried in five and was defeated in four. Boxes voting heavily against both proposals included Southland, Graham, Close City and Pleasant Valley.

Heaviest turnout of voters, of the few who turned out, were in North Post, South Post, Pleasant Valley and Southland.

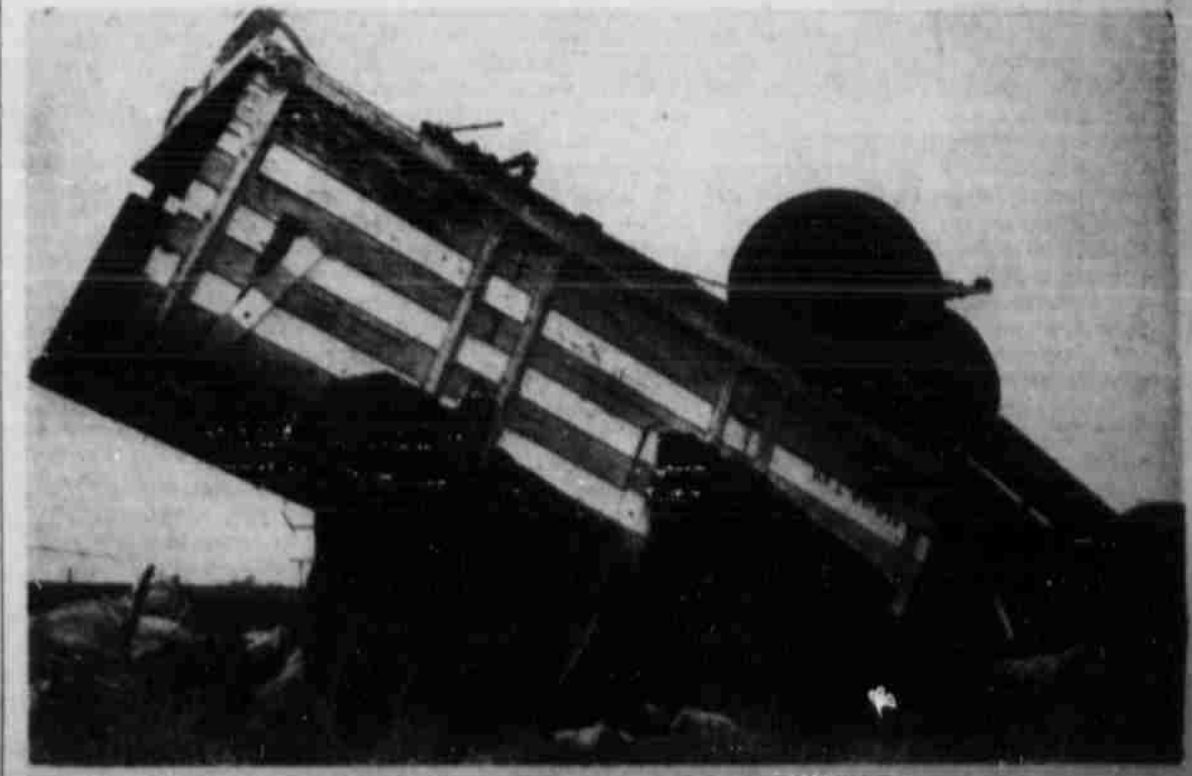

Broken into the number of votes cast at each box the elections ran:

For The Road Tax: North Post, 49; South Post, 20; Verbena, 1; Pleasant Valley, 4; Close City, 7; Justiceburg, 15; Graham, 5; Southland, 3; and Two Draw (Pat Walker residence), 9.

Against The Road Tax: North Post, 19; South Post, 19; Verbena, 3; Pleasant Valley, 29; Close City, 12; Justiceburg, 8; Graham, 12; Southland, 40; and Two Draw, 2.

For Reallocation: North Post, 51; South Post, 23; Verbena, 3; Pleasant Valley, 30; Close City, 8; Justiceburg, 17; Graham, 5; Southland, 2; and Two Draw, 7.

Against Reallocation: North Post, 16; South Post, 17; Verbena, 1; Pleasant Valley, 30; Close City, 11; Justiceburg, 6; Graham, 11; Southland, 40; and Two Draw, 4.

BOARD OF MANAGERS ...

The thanks and praise of every person in Garza county should be forthcoming to the six citizens who recently accepted appointments as board of managers for the new county hospital. Such willingness to devote time and effort to such a project deserves appreciation. These men, Lowell Short, L. G. Thuet, sr., Dowe Mayfield, Russell Wilks, jr., Bandy Cash and L. R. Mason, have shouldered what has proved in many cities to be a thankless task. Such apathy toward these civic-minded Garza county citizens should never be allowed to gain a foothold here. Taking time which could definitely be devoted to more profitable personal projects, these six men have accepted the positions without thought of compensation. They have accepted the responsibilities of directing the management of an institution of mercy built by the people of Garza county for the people of Garza county. The task undertaken is not an easy one and will place a heavy load on the shoulders of the new managers. But that load can be lightened considerably through the cooperative efforts of all the people of the county. It can be lightened immensely by one small gesture — appreciation. These six men have assumed their responsibilities with the purpose of doing a good job and it is the duty of every person in Garza county to get one hundred percent behind this effort and show that it is appreciated.

SPRAYING PROGRAM ...

The plan of the City Commission to spray the city at the present time is both commendable and lamentable. Such a plan cannot help but contain commendable qualities when it is proposed as a health aid for the entire city. But it is lamentable that the momentum of such a plan had to be gained from the city's two cases of polio, when it should have been carried out sometime back. Yet the Commission does have the momentum now and the plan will tend to eliminate some of the health hazards the same as it would have two months ago. Actually the City Commission's proposal is two-fold. It not only proposes to spray or fog the city, but with the cooperation of the people proposes to go a long way toward ridding the city of the trash, rubbish, and junk which litters many of the alleys in town. The Commission is requesting, and should have no trouble in getting, the whole-hearted support of the townspeople in the plan. They would like to eliminate such health hazards as outdoor toilets, open cess pools, and cow and horse lots all of which are perfect breeding grounds for flies. And once the cleanup is completed the spraying or fogging will begin. A good fogging job by a heavy machine with plenty of pressure should last nearly six months. Such a spraying is definitely needed and with the help of the people the City Commission will see that it is accomplished.

Getting Out On the LIMB ...

by EDDIE the editor

Since the two tax elections held Saturday have been soundly voted against and killed, many people are wondering what Garza county is going to do about its new hospital.

It's much too late to wonder. The time for action was Saturday when the issue was open for everyone to take action on. But the action that was taken was so pitifully small that the issue died and came January, the county will have a $350,000 hospital which they cannot open.

The turnout of voters in the election was actually tragic. Of the approximately 1,800 eligible voters in the county about 260 cast ballots. It is partly understandable why people on the outer fringes of the county and near other hospitals would be prone to vote against the measure, but for those in the city of Post and nearby communities to do so the answer somehow is hard to find.

The hospital would naturally benefit people nearer Post than it might the farther communities so the negligence of the voters in this city and its surrounding communities in not turning out to cast votes actually cannot be explained.

One thing is certain, though, and that is the hospital has been killed as neatly as it could be done by negligence and there is nothing at the present time that can be done about it. It is just another regrettable incident which glaringly points out that the people of the city and county are not as progressive as they wish people to believe.

THE WOMEN — God Love 'Em — In heavy traffic I was edging past a woman driver who was trying to squeeze into a parking space that was clearly too small. Suddenly her car swung out and bumped into mine. Flushed with exasperation, she leaned out her window. "You could see I was going to do something stupid," she said. "Why didn't you wait to see what it was?"

I see by my favorite columnist's column where the Indians are clamoring to get back a piece of Manhattan Island on the ground that they got swindled by old Peter Minuit, who bought the island for 24 bucks worth of beads and a cast of fireworks.

A red - blooded, all - American boy named Chief Rising Cloud, is seeking the return of a mid-town block. He wants it back for the original purchase price.

Now, Robert C. Ruark, who writes the column, fails to see eye to eye with Chief Rising Cloud. . . he claims the Indians got the best of the deal and points out his beliefs:

"I've always had a hunch that the Indians pulled a fast one on old Petrus when they unloaded Manhattan on him. I think it was part of a plot against the whites . . . a long-term hex that richens with the years.

"Manhattan was a pastoral place when Minuit bought it. It was uninfested with strip-teasers or hotel doormen. Sporadic skunks roamed the Wall Street section, and copper-skinned mobsters from Brooklyn occasionally made a foray, but largely it was a quiet, peaceful place. But the Manhattan Indians just naturally figured they couldn't keep it that way.

"There are some who say that $24 and a hoghead of hooch was not a fair price for the island, but the owners didn't figure that way. Twenty-four fish, in these days, was roughly equivalent to the national debt today, and we must forget that Mr. Astor had not yet arrived to improve the premises.

"The redman was a pretty smart cookie, in those days, before the United States took over his moral and physical welfare, and the Red Man could see the handwriting on the wigwag wall.

"There was no way he could know that a Mr. Rockefeller would erect a tall teepee in the heart of the best pheasant country, from which would come the soap opera, the ulcer, the advertising campaign and the singing commercial, but he noticed that the braves were spending more and more time over the signal tom-toms, and on clear afternoons the sky was crowded with puffs of smoke as the primitive announcers extolled the virtues of Sitting Pretty war-paint.

"Yes sir, I think our red brothers had a pretty clear idea of what was coming . . . the crowded trails, the underground tunnels, the visiting tribesmen, the dissatisfied squaws with little dogs too expensive to eat, the iron horses and the prohibitive cost of stew meat. I think the Red Man got the best of the bargain, for New York today is no place for a peace-loving warrior to dwell. Too many tribes in it, all out for each other's scalp, and noisy to beat the band."

ALL OF WHICH makes me wonder — who'd trade a hunk of this country for 24 bucks worth of New Deal and Truman.

Texans In WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY, Associated Press Washington Service

WASHINGTON, P. — The number of bills Congress passes isn't the only yardstick for measuring the amount of work it does.

Hundreds of bills are introduced on the opening day of a session. As of July 1 the number introduced totaled 4,679 in the House and 1,790 in the Senate, plus several hundred resolutions offered in each body.

Of this grand total of 6,469 bills, only 53 were signed into law by President Truman as of July 1. In addition, out of 361 joint resolutions of the House and Senate, 16 were signed by the president.

These joint resolutions largely were measures granting temporary extensions of laws about to expire, so more time could be devoted to consideration of permanent legislation.

A big percentage of bills introduced never have any chance whatever of becoming law; many are introduced purely for political effect. They all are referred to committees, and that's where their fate is usually decided.

So, although only a handful of measures were enacted during the first six months of the year, the various committees have been in almost continuous session. This is particularly true of those committees dealing with taxation, appropriation, economic controls, foreign relations and the armed forces.

The Defense Production Act of 1950, for example, was considered for months by the banking and currency committees of the House. Rep. Wright Patman of Texas serves on the House group, which reported an 84-page bill to the floor for action.

One provision, strongly backed by Patman, establishes a small defense plans corporation to assist smaller concerns in obtaining a fair share of defense contracts and scarce materials and to aid them in obtaining loans for financing construction or expansion.

One section provides broad authority for a system of priorities of scarce materials. Another deals with expansion of defense manufacturing plants by loans and other forms of governmental assistance. And another section deals with price and wage controls.

The big new tax bill finally was sent to the House floor after months of intense study by the Ways and Means committee, on which Rep. J. M. Combs of Beaumont is the lone Texas member.

Passed by the House, the bill went to the Senate Finance committee. Sen. Tom Connally serves on that group, as well as holding down the chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Both Connally and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, the latter a member of the Armed Services committee, served on the group which held weeks of study into the MacArthur controversy. That was the combined Armed Services-Foreign Relations committee.

The House Appropriations committee was in session almost every day. Saturdays included, during the first six months of the year. The fiscal year of the government ended June 30, so they were trying to finish hearings on money measures for all the departments and agencies by that time.

Chairman of the Armed Services subcommittee on appropriations is Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City and Lubbock. A constant stream of admirals and generals, flanked by subordinates ranking from sergeant to colonel and yeoman to commander, paraded week after week into Mahon's committee room to explain the need for billions of dollars.

Likewise, Houston's Congressman Albert Thomas headed a subcommittee which heard top officials of various other agencies justify or attempt to justify their requests for large sums.

With all these facts in mind, it is clear that any reference to the number of bills Congress has passed is little indication of the work they have done.

Campaign On To Discredit United States Savings Bonds, Financial Authority Says

Editor's Note: Due to the flood conditions in the middle West, the Babson material used in this section did not arrive this week. To replace this the Dispatch is reprinting parts of an address given by Sylvia Porter, noted financial authority, before the annual conference conducted by the Women's Division of the United States Treasury Saving Bonds office, and held recently in Washington. The title of Miss Porter's speech was "Are Defense Bonds A Good Investment?" and should prove of vital interest to every citizen in the Nation.

It is foolish for any person starting out to work on a new Defense bond program to fail to realize that this job is going to be tough. What we are up against at the particular moment in the United States is a campaign to discredit savings bonds.

Some people who are participating in it are completely honest, although I believe, misguided. Some are not so honest and may be acting from pernicious and insidious motives. You will read columns in your newspapers week to week bitterly and viciously attacking United States savings bonds; you will read magazine articles saying any person who buys savings bonds now on anything but a patriotic basis is not only naive, but also ignorant to an astonishing degree.

The arguments will fall into three or four classifications. The first argument is, "The dollar has decreased in value approximately 40 cents since 1941 and any individual who bought bonds then is not getting back $100 a his $75 dollar bonds, but is getting back much less in terms of purchasing power."

Argument number two: "Why should you buy bonds when you can get a much higher return by buying stocks?"

Number three: "The United States government is a spendthrift government. Why should you buy bonds when you can get a much higher return by buying U. S. Treasury." And four: "If money into goods, into things, into things that you want, out of your cash."

Arguments you will be ally I believe these arguments are insidious. I think they are awfully close to being vicious disloyalty, and I think they are damnable.

Sure the dollar has lost value since 1941, but since that time we have fought and won a global war. And now we are trying to keep it from losing any more value by stopping the spiral of inflation. And savings bonds are one way of ending such inflation.

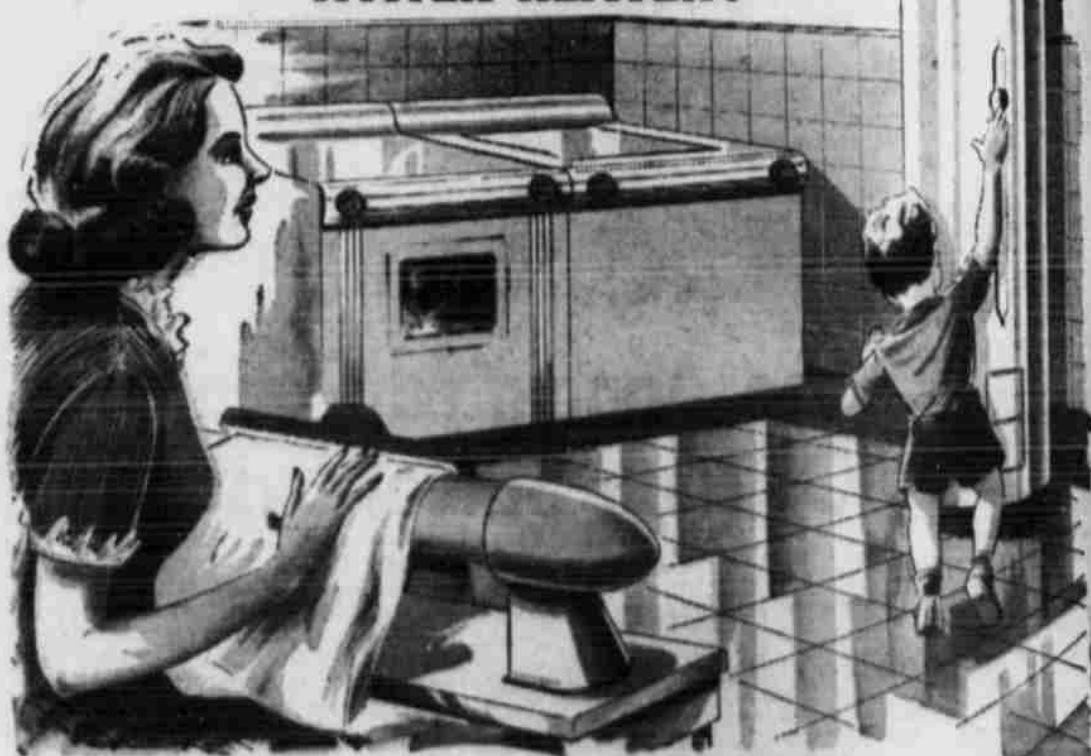

Now for the stock buying argument. What assurance does one have that he will not lose money when he buys stocks? None whatsoever. Yes, it is true if a person had bought certain stocks in 1941 and held them until now, he would be way ahead of the game. But look at the many companies whose stock are now selling far below the 1941 price. These include Sperry Gyroscope, Glen L. Martin or U. S. Tobacco. All of these stocks, which seemed so sureproof in 1941, are way down. And remember, somebody bought the stocks from the people who sold them in '29.

As for the spendthrift government argument, that is completely false. You don't stop a spendthrift government, if such there be, by refusing to buy savings bonds. The way to stop waste is through Congress and slashing into bonodoggling in local areas. We will stop extravagance when we are sufficiently aroused to stop it ourselves. We do intensify the evil, however, do precisely the wrong thing when we attack the soundest form of government financing—sale of savings bonds.

Finally for the "don't buy bonds, put the cash somewhere else" idea. Once you spend your savings on a beautiful, glorious evening, your money is gone. All you have left is a hangover or a memory. But the money put into savings bonds is saved. These are the facts and you and everyone know them and should never listen to the insidious advice passed out by someone else . . . to you whose money will be either lost or saved in the end.

Why pick on savings bonds as an investment? It is cash plus interest. Why not criticize every citizen with money in the bank? Why not call us suckers if we buy or hold insurance? Why not say we are complete fools if we hold annuities? Why pick just on the savings bonds?

Safe-IT'S AN Electric WATER HEATER!

When you have a child in the caddy, crawling stage, you have the perfect reason for installing an automatic electric water heater—the safest water heater made. Your child can crawl right up to the water heater, pull itself up by holding on to its spotlessly clean sides, wrap its arms around the water heater and be perfectly safe, thanks to the complete insulation and no-flame features of an electric water heater.

These same features make an electric water heater equally safe for you, too. There's no fear of gummy winds blowing out a flame—there's no flame. There's no waste heat, either, because only an electric water heater is completely insulated so that all the heat goes into the job to be done.

Reddy Kilowatt's special water heating rate makes electric water heating economical, too. For plenty of hot water always, safely, economically, see your electric appliance dealer now.

Mrs. Lee Davis Gives Graphic Account Of Her Experiences In Temple Clinic

Editor's Note: For sometime now Mrs. Lee Davis has been promising that she would write for the Dispatch an account of her experiences in going through the clinic at Temple. Below you will find that account in the graphic and humorous style of Mrs. Davis' own words.

I had just passed my 50th birthday and it was about to kill me. I hadn't minded my 49th and I would not mind my 51st or my 61st, but there was something so final and half-wayish about 50. I couldn't possibly live more than 50 more years and I would settle for 40.

The more I thought about it, the more certain I became that I would be lucky if I lived 40 more and that I had better do all I could to help the thing along. I had no idea what might be the matter with me physically (mentally, I knew) so I decided it might be a good thing if I went to Temple and went through the clinic. Everyone else in Post had been so why should I be the exception.

I persuaded Joy to go with me and we were going to leave early on a Sunday. As all women have to do before they can leave home for a few days, I had done enough work on Saturday to kill a mule, after which I packed my bag, and crawled into bed about 10:15, wondering why I couldn't just die quietly there without all that stewing around going to Temple.

At 10:30 Joy called me to say that she was on her way to the hospital. A grandchild was arriving three weeks ahead of schedule.

I didn't say anything but the elay worried me. No telling what kind of dreaded disease was eating chunks out of my forty years. At the end of ten days we tried again. In the meantime, we had gotten smart and had decided to go on the train as it would save two days driving in the heat. We got into Temple at 2:55 a. m.

Famous last words — several people had told us that we need not make hotel reservations, that we wouldn't have any trouble getting a room. We sailed into the Kyle with all the confidence in the world only to be told that they were full up.

I told the clerk that we certainly couldn't get out at three o'clock in the morning and look for a room. We would just go up on the mezzanine and sleep on the divans until he had a room vacant. He looked like it might be against the law but he let us go up. In ten minutes we were asleep and I never slept better in my life.

About 5:30 the porter woke us up and told us he had a room but it had a double bed. I told him we would take it until we could get a room with twin beds. When we came back from breakfast, the clerk said he had us a room with twin beds. After we moved, I noticed it had a shower and no tub.

If there is anything I hate it is a shower, but even I didn't have enough nerve to ask to be moved again. So I just waited until I got home to have a real bath.

We caught a taxi and went to the clinic. Incidentally, we bought at least one of those taxis while we were there. It's nice to go on the train but you could practically pay for the trip by having your car there to save taxi fare.

I don't know why but I was just a little scared. Everything was strange and you're not sure what is going to happen. But we marched up to the first desk as brave as you please and began to answer questions. The first desk asks your name and your chief ailment. I tried to tell her that I felt fine and didn't have a "chief ailment," but she cut me short and said "chief ailment" again so I said stomach. I thought that would be safe because almost everyone has one.

At the next desk, they asked a gillion questions, mostly about your husband. They didn't fool me any, they were just trying to see if your husband would be able to pay you out of hock when they got through with you. They asked us what doctor we preferred. We named two of the biggest doctors in the clinic on the advice of numerous friends who had been through before us. Then we were told to be seated until our names were called.

Here is where it began — the waiting. They have an unwritten law that you must wait at least thirty minutes every time and mostly an hour or more. I read two books, three who-done-its, and a raft of magazines in the three days I was waiting. Some of the people just sat and stared. I would have been batty. When you felt like you would scream the next minute, they would call your name. I don't know how they could time it so exactly but I never did hear any one scream.

Finally, a girl came and took me to desk nine. This was where I was to see my doctor. Of course I had to ask for one of the big wheels and what did I get — a young one not dry behind the ears. Talk about your question askers — he took the cake. When he got through asking me questions, he began on my ancestors for three or four generations back.

He left and told me to undress. Undressing came as regular as the waiting. Every time you went into a different room they told you to undress. It might be all right for these gals that only wear two pieces in the summer but it was hard on any one that wears as many clothes as I do. The first day, we remarked about the fact that everyone was bare-headed but brother, by the time we had pulled off and put on our hats a dozen times we knew why. After the first day, you left everything that the law would allow in your hotel room.

Mr. Young-one came back and gave me an examination. When they get through they have found muscles and spots you didn't know you had. He told me to report back after lunch.

When I came back, I was put in another room and told to undress. I hadn't had much sleep the night before and I already had my mind made up as to what I was going to do the next time they had me undress and left me alone with a table. So I crawled upon it and went to sleep. An hour and a half later, another doctor woke me up. This was Mr. Big that I had asked for in the first place.

I soon understood why you had Mr. Young-one first. His time only cost you twenty or twenty-five dollars an hour and he did a lot of elimination and told Mr. Big (whose time was worth fifty or seventy-five dollars an hour) just what to look for, that way saving you a lot of money.

He told me to report to desk A-1. Now this is the brains of the outfit. They always know just what to tell you, where to go, and when. No matter where or when you report, they are expecting you and have everything ready. I don't know who is responsible for the organization and coordination of THE clinic but it is a shame that they do not have an important job with the U. N. They could have the world straightened out in a month.

A-1 told me not to eat or drink after 10 o'clock, have no breakfast and report at 8:30 the next morning. Oh yes, I didn't feel left out any more, she gave me a paper sack like I had seen everyone else carrying. So ended the first day.

The next morning, very lank, I reported to desk four. A gal took a needle about the size of the largest one Lee uses to vaccinate cows and drew out about one-half cup of my life's blood. She was very sweet about it but it still hurt like the mischief.

The x-rays were next. I nearly got into trouble here. I went in and a man told me to go into a room — yeah, you guessed it — and undress — and put on one of the gowns I would find in there. Well, I tried on all of them in one stack before I discovered that they were all the same size which was too small. I was stumped for a minute until I thought to put on two, one frontwards and one backwards. X-rays were the only thing in the whole deal that didn't hurt.

A-1 told me I could come back after lunch and see my doctor. I was elated for I was getting through in two days so there couldn't be much the matter with me. I was happy too soon, for the doctor had had a bad lunch or he was mad at his wife or something. He had thought up something else nasty he could do to me. So, nothing to eat after 10:00 o'clock and no breakfast, and report to desk four at 8 o'clock.

Dear old desk four. They took me in and I'll swear they drew a cup (well, a little cup) of blood out of my arm. But I will hand it to them, they replaced the liquid — they made me drink two cups of sweetened water, go to the lobby and stay thirty minutes. Come back and repeat the process. Did you ever drink a quart of sweetened water before breakfast? Stay out thirty minutes and be stuck again but no sweetened water. This was the place where the lady kept calling me Mrs. Post, but by this time I was so battered and beaten I didn't even correct her.

I know now how hospitals keep up their blood banks — desk four. Why I contributed enough blood for an epidemic and you multiply that by all the people that pass through there — they may even have some to sell to other hospitals.

Desk A-1 told me to go eat breakfast and report to my doctor

Post Youth Joins Korean Division

Word has been received that Private Homer J. Mason, son of Grover Mason, Route 3, Post, recently joined the 48th Field Artillery battalion of the Seventh Infantry Division in Korea.

As a member of the "Hourglass" Division, Mason has joined the most traveled unit in the Far East. In nine months of Korean action, his unit has made two amphibious landings, gained the Manchurian border and fought on both coasts of the Korean peninsula.

Just recently the 48th F. A. Bn celebrated the firing of its 100,000th round of the Korean campaign. The occasion was marked by a battlefield ceremony. The artillery has become one of the most feared of the weapons used against the enemy.

Private Mason joined the Seventh Division in June 1951 with five months of service.

In two hours, I wasn't very hungry as I was full of sweetened water, so I just ordered orange juice, oatmeal, ham, two eggs, buttered toast, and two cups of coffee. Well! It was after ten o'clock and I am used to eating at seven. If I had known that that was the last time in my life that I would walk into a restaurant and order any thing in the world that I wanted, I would have started at the top and ordered every item on the menu.

I reported to desk nine and sat down to wait. This should be called the chamber of horrors. You feel pretty brave when you first sit down, but the longer you wait the more active your imagination becomes. There can't be anything wrong with me, for I am never sick.

Of course there are those terrible coughs I have in the winter. Someone is always saying "I sound like I have T. B. My heart does pound if I climb stairs too fast. That could indicate heart trouble. And I know of 13 different places I could have cancer. There is that hip I hurt in a car wreck. It hurts some nights if I work hard all day. I wonder how long it takes to learn to walk on a wooden leg."

I could have leprosy. I read an article in the Reader's Digest and I very definitely had several of the symptoms. By the time my name was called my insides were quaking with fear.

I braced myself and waited in. Well, he let me have it right between the eyes — sort of man to man. I stared at him in horror and disbelief. To think that all these years I hadn't suspected. I staggered down the hall to pay my bill. Then I sure enough did nearly drop dead when he said "$115.00 please." But I told myself to be brave—I had stood everything else. After all it was just money.

I tottered out to the lobby and fell into a chair to try to take it all in. After three days of being punched and poked, after having my blood taken by the quarts, after suffering the torture of the damned in uncertainty, after being charged enough to buy half a cow, do you know what that doctor told me?

He said, "You're too fat."

"Don't Quit"

Sooner or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that it doesn't pay to be a too sensitive soul; that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back. He learns that he who loses his temper, usually loses out. He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously. He learns that no man has ever got to first base alone and that it is only through cooperative effort that we move on to better things.

The bleaching must undoubtedly be an excellent place to work for we transferred Zula Baxter and Ethel Mae Odom from the spinning department to the bleaching department and they seem to be happy indeed.

Old Cuts Served With Salad, Desserts, Good During Summer

Despite the heat we all must eat... but let's keep our foods cool. It seems that cold cuts, salads and frozen desserts are the bill in most Post homes during summer. We discovered a frozen dessert made with vanilla wafers that is both delicious and easily prepared.

Combine 1 cup of unsweetened pineapple juice with 1-2 cup orange juice and a dash of salt; heat to boiling. Add 24 quartered marshmallows and stir until melted. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream. Alternate layers of marshmallow mixture and vanilla wafers, using wafers for bottom and top layers in refrigerator. Chill until firm and cut in squares.

Peaches are beginning to ripen and are available at most all Post grocery stores, so why not drag out the ice cream freezer and enjoy some fresh peach freezer ice cream.

Mix 1-2 quarts light cream and 1 quart milk; stir in 1-2 cups sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon almond flavoring and beat. Add 4 eggs and 4 cups mashed peaches mixed well with 1-2 cups sugar; freeze.

If you are a lover of the popular cantaloupe, see how you like this treat...

VANILLA ICE CREAM WITH CANTALOUPE-LIME SAUCE—Heat 1-2 cup light corn syrup and dash of salt in small saucepan over moderately low heat to boiling. Meanwhile cut 1 small lime in half; extract juice from 1 half and slice other half in very thin slices. Stir lime juice and slices into syrup and boil 1-2 minute. Chill. At serving time remove lime slices and add 1-2 cups finely diced cantaloupe (1-2 of a 2-1/2 pound cantaloupe) to sauce; serve over vanilla ice cream.

This salad gets a good mark... We just refer to it as a SUMMER SALAD BOWL. Break 1 head of lettuce in bite sized pieces and arrange can (5 3-4 ounces) shrimp, 3 sliced hard cooked eggs and 1 sliced avocado in three separate mounds over lettuce and 1-4 cup French dressing on; toss slightly.

Miss Rosser Weds Neil Vervalin In Carlsbad Rites

Mrs. Ira Greenfield was matron of honor in the informal wedding of her sister, Miss Kathryn Rosser, and Neil Vervalin in Carlsbad, N. M., July 8.

Mr. and Mrs. True H. Rosser of Petersburg are parents of the bride.

Mrs. B. J. Harris, pianist, played "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning" before the ceremony, the wedding march, and "Clare de Lune" as the couple exchanged vows.

The Rev. Joe Emanuel, pastor, read the single ring service in the First Methodist church parsonage, Pastel gladioli and palms were altar decorations.

The bride wore a navy crepe suit with yellow linen trim, and navy accessories. She carried yellow gladioli atop a white prayer book.

True H. Rosser, Jr., of Petersburg, attended the bridegroom as best man.

A reception was given after the wedding.

After a trip in New Mexico and Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Vervalin are at home at 909 Alvarado street in Carlsbad.

The bride is a graduate of Plainview high school and Lipscomb Business college and is cashier of the Southwestern Associated Telephone company.

Her husband attended Dallas schools and is a veteran of World War II. He is associated with the United States Potash company.

Miss Helen Davis And Pvt. L. Odom Marry Saturday

Miss Helen Jo Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dew Davis, became the bride of Pvt. Lyda Odom, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyda Odom, in Clovis, N. M., Saturday.

The Rev. Mr. Braddock, pastor of the First Baptist church read the single ring ceremony, at 11:30 o'clock in the morning.

The bride wore a blue and white dress with navy accessories.

Wedding guests were the mothers of the couple and the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Ralph Dean and Miss Joan Odom.

Pvt. Odom is leaving this week for his new base in North Carolina. He has been stationed at Camp Carson, Colo.

The couple attended Post High school.

Mrs. Kennedy Is Priscilla Club Host

The Pete Kennedy home was the scene of a Priscilla club meeting Friday afternoon. After a period of sewing, ice cream and cake were served to the following members:

Mrs. Jessie Voss, Mrs. H. G. Smith, Mrs. Robert Cox, Mrs. Earle Thaxton, Mrs. Ben Williams, Mrs. Wayne Pennington, Mrs. Arch Haws, Mrs. Dove Mayfield and Mrs. Lawrence Epley.

Mrs. Smith will be hostess for the next meeting, July 27.

Patriotic Program Is Given At OES Meet

Thirty-two members and Miss Alma Kincannon of Dallas, a non-resident member, attended a stated meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star Tuesday night in the Masonic hall.

Worthy Matron Henrietta Nichols and Worthy Patron Lester Nichols presided. A patriotic program "Spirit of America" was presented by Mrs. Robert Cox and lodge officers.

After the close of chapter refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies and punch were served by Mrs. L. J. Richardson, Jr., Mrs. Floy Richardson and Mrs. Carl Rains.

LOOK WHO'S NEW!

A son, David Warren, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Yancey at 6:58 o'clock Friday evening in Lubbock Memorial hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds and eight ounces at birth.

Mrs. Yancey is the former Miss Betty Williams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Elhel of Dallas announce the arrival of a seven pound, 11 ounce daughter at 10:05 o'clock Thursday morning. She has been named Pamela Claire.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. McElroy of Wichita Falls, formerly of Post, are the maternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Young are parents of a daughter, weighing six pounds, at birth, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in Slaton Mercy hospital. The baby's name is Lynda Louise.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Dodson and Mrs. Lillie Young of Flora, Ill. are the grandparents. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. W. Morris.

A daughter weighing eight pounds was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Trull of Lubbock, formerly of Post.

Scripture

Let not then your good be evil spoken of: For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. For he that in these things serveth Christ is acceptable to God, and approved of men. Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things whereof one may edify another. For meat destroyeth not the work of God. All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offense. It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak. Hast thou faith? Have it to thyself before God. Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth. And he that doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith is sin. Romans 14: 16-23.

A pastor is to be called at the Sunday morning service at the First Baptist church. Evening services will be held. Preachers who have spoken since the church has been without a pastor are the Rev. Troy Dale of Midway, Dawson county; the Rev. Clifford Potts of Matador; the Rev. Nat Tracy of Brownwood; the Rev. Alton Green of Dora, N. M.; and the Rev. Wayland Boyd of Lorraine.

The Christian Women's fellowship met at the First Christian church at 2:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Almon Martin. After a prayer, Mrs. K. Stoker directed singing with Mrs. W. M. Kirkpatrick as organist. Mrs. Lee Davis then gave a book review "The White Witch Doctor." The book was about a trained nurse who was doing missionary work. Mrs. Kirkpatrick read the minutes before business matters were discussed. Twenty attended.

A social congregational supper will be held at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening in the new educational building at the First Presbyterian church, the pastor, the Rev. Gerald N. Blackburn, has announced.

A Waldrep (Bud) Johnson of Monroe, La. is preaching in a gospel meeting at the Grassland Church of Christ this week. The revival began Sunday and will close Wednesday. Services are at 7 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. daily. J. L. Farham of Lubbock is directing the singing. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Gayle Bowen, evangelistic singer, formerly of Post, is to direct the music in a Baptist revival at Rotan, July 29-Aug. 12.

The Presbyterian Missionary society will meet at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. A. Stallings. Mrs. John Jones is to be program leader.

Calvary Baptists attending the Jr. GA encampment near Floydada this week are Alice Fay Kiker, Joan Odom, Beverly Gilmore, Kay Anthony, Effie Lee Smith, Mrs. F. M. Wiley and Mrs. W. C. Kiker.

Mrs. J. A. Stallings and Miss Barbara Norris, organists at the Presbyterian and First Methodist churches, respectively, returned last week from Santa Fe, N. M. where they attended the Summer School of the Southwest sponsored by American Presbyterian churches. Both took a course in organ. Talented instructors from New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois assisted with the school.

Bits-Of-News

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fleming returned Saturday from a trip through New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, California and Mexico. They visited relatives in Flagstaff, Ariz. and attended an Indian pow wow. They also visited Grand Canyon and Boulder Dam before going to El Centro, Calif., for a visit with friends.

Mrs. Lillian Hill and daughter, Madeline, of Houston are visiting over the weekend with Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Freeman and children of Clinton were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson.

Scottie Joe Pierce is home after spending several weeks in Artesia, N. M. with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bishop and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins And Son Move Into New, Modern Home

The greensided two bedroom home, facing east on South Harrison street, belongs to the John Hopkins family. It is equally as cheerful looking on the interior with a colorful decor and modern limed oak furnishings.

The walls and ceilings of the entrance hall, living and dining area and hall leading to the bedrooms, are painted cocoa brown. A soft green carpeting is used in here with corresponding chartreuse draw drapery. A large picture window is on the east side of the living room.

Furnishings include a dark green sectional suite, two red chairs, console radio, occasional tables and "Johnny's lounging chair" which is upholstered in a plaid pattern on a tan background.

"The buffet to the dining room furniture hasn't arrived yet and when it does, we don't know where we are going to put it," Mrs. Hopkins said. Chartreuse covering on the chairs emphasize the Hopkins' favorite color.

A china closet displays the couple's new chartreuse and brown pottery set. Several pieces to the set were received as housewarming gifts when friends surprised them with a party last week.

The kitchen is on the north side of the house and has an east entrance and a door into the garage. Grey venetian blinds match the top half of the kitchen walls and ceiling. Turquoise wainscoting harmonizes with the pale yellow wood cabinets and woodwork. A red chrome-trimmed dinette suite adds to the attractiveness of the room. The floor and cabinet top are covered with light grey linoleum.

A pale turquoise and wine color scheme is stressed in the master bedroom on the southeast. The woodwork is a shade darker turquoise than the walls and matching blinds with wine tapes cover the windows. A bookcase is built onto either side of the headboard of the double bed.

Twin cactus lamps, made by Shorty Owen, are on the nightstands. Wine lampshades match the quilted bedspread. Carpeting is of a floral design in wine, turquoise, rose and brown on a tan background. The extremely modern vanity has a full length mirror on one side.

The southwest bedroom is occupied by the Hopkins' young son, Don. Peach blinds with blue tapes and peach woodwork complement the pale blue walls, throw rug and bedspread. Don's love for the "western world" is expressed by seven large bronze horses, displayed on a cedar chest, and bronze boot lamps on the double chest.

The bathroom is wainscoted in red; walls, ceiling and floor covering are grey. A white organdy ruffle with red and white checked trim, is around the red blind on the bathroom window. Woodwork is chartreuse. A dirty clothes bin and linen closet provide storage space.

A closet in the hall holds the water heater and drawers underneath supply additional storage. Each of the bedrooms and the entrance hall contains a walk-in closet. Slab doors are used throughout the house.

The exterior of the Theatre manager's new home is trimmed in dark green and the roof is light grey.

Mrs. C. Propst Is Honored At Party

Mrs. Charles Jimmy Propst was honored with a layette shower in the home of Mrs. O. H. Hoover, yesterday afternoon.

Other hostesses were Mrs. Gus Porterfield, Mrs. Glen Davis, Mrs. Nellie K. Babb, Mrs. S. A. Benge and Mrs. P. E. Stevens.

Fifty guests registered between 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of gladioli. Cookies and punch were served.

GRAHAM CLUB

The Graham Thursday club is meeting this afternoon in the home of Mrs. O. H. Hoover.

CLUB TO MEET

Mrs. Lonnie Peel will host a meeting of the Merry-makers club in her home, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Collier observed their wedding anniversary Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edwards took their daughter, Lynn, to Dallas for medical treatment Wednesday.

The Dwayne Taylors Consider Post Extremely Friendly Town

Post is the friendliest oil town in West Texas, according to Mrs. Dwayne Taylor, who was born and reared in an "oil patch." Mrs. Taylor and her husband have lived here, in the Graeber apartments, for about three weeks. He is a geologist with Core Laboratories.

"The people here have gone out of their way to be nice to us. The first week we lived in Post three people invited us to three different churches. Since he is a Methodist and I am a Baptist, we compromise and attend the First Christian church," the young bride revealed.

The couple was married in her home town, Crane, June 9. "When we returned to Crane from our wedding trip, we had orders from the company to move to Monahans. We packed half of our wedding gifts and stored the other half and left for our first home. Upon arrival, we received a new assignment. Midland. After a week there it was either Utah or Post for us and we chose Post," the newcomer said. "I told Dwayne that he should buy me some long earrings and loud scarfs and I could tell fortunes while we move from place to place," the attractive blonde laughingly said.

The Taylors had no trouble finding an apartment but couldn't find the location. "When we first arrived in town we heard of a place for rent on Washington street. We stopped a lady and asked if she could direct us to Washington street; she replied that she had lived here 30 years but didn't have the slightest idea where it was," Mrs. Taylor said.

The new resident is a graduate of Pecos high school, where she was a member of Chi Omega Theta, and Texas State College for Women, Denton. In college she majored in radio and dramatics. After her graduation she was employed by a bank and insurance and oil companies in Midland, Odessa and Crane.

In Odessa she was a member of Talent, Incorporated. This organization, Mrs. Taylor explained, was formed by a couple of men from Radio City, N. Y. and California who had come to Texas because of ill health. Talent in Odessa and Midland was pooled and served both towns in most of their social functions.

Taylor was born and reared in McCamey and graduated from high school there. He is a graduate of Oregon State college where he pledged a Navy fraternity, while with the Navy Cadets during his freshman year. His hobby is mineralogy. "Everywhere we go he brings home at least a dozen kinds of rocks to study."

their contents," his wife revealed.

The newlyweds have known each other practically all their lives "but Dwayne never knew Bobby Ervin had a little sister until last August," the native West Texan said.

"I'm really enjoying living here and just relaxing, since I've worked ever since I have been out of college. The only unhappy moment I've had since coming here was when I couldn't go home for my only brother's wedding, June 30. We were planning to go and at the last minute, my husband was called out to a rig," Mrs. Taylor said.

The couple hasn't met many Postites yet but is enjoying visiting the neighbors across the hall, the Ivor Enticotts, who moved here several months ago from England.

Telephone Users Can Be Troublesome As Same As Operators, Survey Shows

Many are times that the user of a telephone will blow his top and heave insults on the head of "the fouled-up telephone operator who doesn't know what she is doing—or is just plain asleep."

Could the truth be known, the number of telephone users who have not committed this act could be counted on your fingers. And in certain cases perhaps they are justified.

But there are two sides to every question and the operator definitely has a gripe or two coming against the caller as far as her side is concerned.

So as to satisfy a natural curiosity about the whole discussion, the Dispatch conducted a survey of Post telephone operators to ferret out a few of the irksome and troublesome problems that bedevil the operator throughout the day.

To begin with, the Post operators handle 8,000 local calls and 300 toll calls in an average 24-hour period. That in itself is a lot of talking. And during that time 15 operators are on duty—four operators are on duty at a time until late at night when only one works.

The 8,000 local calls per day are done by 1,115 phone subscribers, which means that each subscriber averages nearly eight calls per day. Observation of these calls throughout the day show that from 8 a. m. til 12 noon is the busiest time of the day, with 4 p. m. til 9 p. m. registering the second number of calls in any certain period.

Telephone officials realize that the number of phones in the town is inadequate, but at the present time cable is holding up the installation of new lines and phones. "There just isn't any cable for anything," explained Mrs. Fritz Greenfield, manager of the local exchange, "why if the new local hospital were to be completed today, we could not install a phone out there because of the cable shortage."

One of the main problems in the telephone office as a whole is the continual changing about of the people within the city. People change residence so often and want their phones switched that an immense problem of re-assigning numbers is created. "We have on record," Mrs. Greenfield pointed out, "where some numbers have been reassigned as many as five times during one month."

But back to the operators. All the operators proved more than reluctant to mention the faults of the telephone users, but a little persuasion brought out a few of the acts which take up time and prove troublesome but which subscribers insist upon as service received in return for paying their monthly bills.

Many people place long distance calls and are unable to get their party right away, so they tell the operator to call them back when the party is on the line. But when the operator finally gets the party and calls back the caller, cannot be found, therefore the call has to be made again at a later time.

Then there are those who complete a long distance call and just jiggle the hook. When this is done the light at the switchboard intermittently flashes on and off. Should the operator be busy and miss this very brief flash, the caller has to pay for extra time. This unnecessary inconvenience to both parties could be eliminated by the caller hanging up the phone long enough for the operator to catch the light and stamp her ticket.

In several instances, local operators have been asked to place calls by persons who were slightly "under the influence" and the conversation would run somewhat like this:

Caller: "Operator, I would like to talk to Miss So-and-so (last name only) in Midland. (Of course the speaking was not as plain as this.)"

Operator: "What is her first name and number, sir?"

Caller: "Heck, I don't know. But she is the niece of Mrs. Such-and-such (last name only)."

Operator: "Well, what is her number, sir?"

Caller: "Heck, I don't know, but you had better find her cause this is important."

So the local operator has to ask the one in Midland to call everyone there with such-and-such last name to see if they have a niece by so-and-so last name.

One day the switchboard lighted up and the party asked the operator, "would you call so-and-so?" And the operator immediately began to look for that person's number.

The caller impatiently jiggled the hook and shouts, "Operator, I ask would you ring me so-and-so."

"Yes, ma'am but I must look up the number first," replied the operator. "Oh, I thought you knew it," said the caller and then hung up because she didn't have time to look up the number.

Many people will call the office and say, "Operator, I hear my phone ringing and I am over at my neighbors, would you transfer the call over here?" And as is usual the operator they are talking to does not even have the other phone on her board so time must be taken to find which operator has it.

Then there is the chronic traveling citizen who calls in and

Train Traffic In Post Is Increased

Have you noticed or wondered about the unusual amount of train activity through Post the last several days?

If you haven't paid any attention to the increased number of heavily loaded trains that have been whizzing over the Post railroads with only a few short blasts on their whistles before they are gone just read further into this story.

According to J. A. Stallings, Post stationmaster, freight traffic has increased considerably in the last few weeks. Because of the disastrous floods in Kansas and Missouri much of the freight is being shuttled to other routes to by-pass these areas. And much of that traffic out of Lubbock is coming through here.

Although the freights are never scheduled for a definite number per day through Post, they usually average four or five through here per day. Then if traffic demands they send more.

But presently, in addition to the two scheduled passenger trains each day, the traffic along the line keeps the rails humming just about all day.

says, "Operator, I am going down to the cafe in case anybody calls, and if I am not there I'll be at the show. Oh, yes, if you can't find me there I might be over at so-and-so's house."

But the operators admit they do pull boners occasionally. Take the case of the young operator who received the call from one party of a two party line. It seems they wanted the other party on the line which would necessitate their hanging up their phone while the operator rang. So the operator pipes up with, "I'm sorry, but you will have to ring-up while I hang the other party."

The biggest trouble in the Post system, Mrs. Greenfield says, has been growing pains. "Several years ago when we had only 200 or so phones the operators could answer questions, give the time explain the fire or describe the excitement downtown. But those days are past."

"We have so many subscribers those small accommodations the people became so accustomed to cannot be done and many people don't understand why."

Yet, all in all, Mrs. Greenfield and the operators insisted in explaining that these complaints account for only a small minority of their callers.

"Most people are very nice," Mrs. Greenfield said. "You get so mad some time you think the next one will make you scream. And then someone calls in and is so nice about everything you are ready to forgive the rest and start over again."

As has been said before, there are two sides to the question and many times when we "cuss" the operator it is not altogether her fault.

You've Arrived

HERE pictured is an automobile that may well be the fulfillment of any man's dream of a fine motorcar.

For you've a right to expect, when you pay a fine-car price, that your money will buy more distinction, more comfort, more performance than are to be found in vehicles of lesser worth.

So mark well the things that a ROADMASTER offers.

No other car on the American scene has a prouder bearing.

No other automobile has more spacious dimensions, more luxurious comfort, or finer appointments.

No other car has a ride more serenely smooth on curve or straightaway, highway or byway.

And no other car, at ROADMASTER's price or above, has Dynaflow, and the supreme command of every traffic condition which it provides.

So you, at the wheel of Buick's biggest and best, have a right to feel distinguished.

But there's a joy of possession which goes deeper than visible things.

There's the feel of a power plant as brilliantly eager as this great car's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—and the satisfying companionship of a brawny traveler instantly responsive to your every wish.

And there's one thing more, which only ROADMASTER can give you in such generous measure. That is the pride of a wise investment, based on the fact that this car stands alone in price per pound, among fine cars similarly equipped.

So why not take that very important first step—and come in and see us soon?

Firm Installs Way Radio Unit

Installation of a 50-watt radio communications system was completed at the Post Public Service company last week. Final testing on Saturday was made Saturday morning, Ted Hibbs, manager, here, said.

The completion of the system has been behind the office and 25 feet high. In addition to the service truck equipped with a unit, the main unit is located in the town office.

Reason for the system has been the need for communication with the service truck in Lubbock and Pecos, Slaton and Ralls. The system was installed by L. E. J. Dotts, Lubbock divisional office.

Operation of the system will be better and quicker service will also cut down on the truck has to make office now. The unit can be used in any emergency and placed into immediate use of a national defense.

At Hibbs pointed out, the unit on 37.5 MC the unit

C. B. Everett Pitched The Second Tent In The Post Town Section 44 Years Ago

When a man suddenly packs all of his belongings and his family in the old wagon and sets out for a different location just so he can go fishing, he certainly likes to fish.

But once he reaches the place and becomes so engrossed in helping it grow and build that he never gets to go fishing in 44 years, then he must like the place he moved to.

And such an incident happened exactly that way in the life of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie B. Everett, residents of Garza county and the town section of Post since June 16, 1907.

"We were living near Tahoka at that time," Everett explained. "I was a freighter and some man in Big Spring gave me a map showing the salt creeks of this section. So I ask my wife one night if she wanted to go fishing."

Mrs. Everett, having lived for sometime on the Plains, asked, "Where in the world can you go fishing around here?"

Finally convincing her that there might be some fish in this is available for 24-hour use.

FIRST SETTLERS OF POST — Shown above are two of the first settlers of the town section of Post, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie B. Everett. The Everetts arrived in Post on the morning of June 16, 1907 and pitched the second tent in the town section. From that time on they have raised three children, watched the town grow to its present size and devoted much of their time to the progress of the town. (Photo By Dispatch Photographer) vicinity, Everett packed her and the kids and all their possessions into the wagon and headed out. He actually had no intention of coming to this specific section, but on arriving at the intersection of the old stage lines near Grassland he met a man by the name of Alexander who asked him, "Would you like to help me build a town in Garza county?"

"This sure fascinated me," Everett said, "so I told him sure."

"They issued me a tent in Grassland and told me a road had been cut down the Cap Rock. This had been done with grubbing hoes and was a pretty tough job," the old-timer continued. "So I locked both rear wheels on the wagon and dropped off the Rock on the morning of June 16, 1907. For awhile I thought we might never make it, the Rock was so steep the horses had to outrun the wagon."

Before leaving the commissary, Everett had been told that one tent was already set up in the town section here. "They didn't tell me who it was and when I discovered the people's identity I got the surprise of my life," Everett said.

"I drove my goods in and pitched my tent about 50 feet from this other fellow. We noticed a woman stirring around but did not recognize her so we kept working."

"Just about the time we finished the man that had been sleeping in the tent comes out and walks over. He was my father's youngest brother, Henry Everett. We knew he was somewhere in West Texas but I didn't expect to run up on him here."

The next morning, Everett says, he and his uncle began building Post with pick and shovel. Alexander was in charge of the job. He was the first manager of the Double U company and kept that job until late 1907 when Old Man Post came down from Michigan and canned him, according to Everett.

"At that time we had to haul our drinking water from six miles up on the Plains," Everett said. "My wife hauled the water while I worked."

From that time on things began happening around here pretty fast, Everett said, and the town just kinda "sprouted up." The crews came through in 1909 laying the road-bed for the railroad and the rails were placed in 1911.

Everett, who will be 75 next February, possesses a lucid memory of all the happenings from that time. In giving a little background information on himself, the "old citizen" of Post disclosed he was born in Robinson county as the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Everett. He has three living brothers and three living sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett have raised three children in Post. Their only son died this past February. One of their daughters, Mrs. Dick Wood, lives here in Post. The other, Mrs. George, has been a resident of Alexandria, La. for the past 30 years.

Outlining a few of the various jobs he has been employed at since coming here in 1907, Everett explained that he worked for the Double U company helping build the town until 1912, then went into the Post Office and worked until 1916.

For two years after that he managed a store for the Power brothers in "Ragtown" and then hired out to the mill until 1924. In that year he was elected as county treasurer where he served the people for three terms.

After managing the Garza County Marketing association one year, Everett went into the oil business for two years. After selling out there in 1932, he claims he "has done a little bit of everything since that time."

Since he bought his first home, Everett says he has experienced an odd experience in real estate. "The first house we bought, we lived in 11 years; we also lived 11 years in the second one; and then we bought the third and lived there 11 years," he explained.

"So I told my wife recently that she had better begin to kinda look around for a new place since we have lived in our present house six years."

As is true with every person of that age, many things have happened to Everett during the past 44 years. But the one which stands out clearest in his mind is the time he and a friend took it on themselves to "sort of" doctor a sick man.

"In 1909," Everett began the story, "a freighter by the name of House took the pneumonia. One day about sundown the doctor came by and told me and another fellow that House was going to die before 10 o'clock and ask-

Co-op Phone Loan Signed In Tahoka

Officials of the Peka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative last week signed papers for the first $910,000 of an eventual $1,837,000 loan for construction of telephone lines and buildings and the purchase of equipment. They met in Tahoka.

The initial funds will be used for the construction of a rural telephone system in the exchange areas of Gail, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Tahoka and Southland, according to Sam Allen of Lamesa, co-ordinator for Peka-Lambro. Papers signed last week have been sent to Washington, D. C. along with a request for the federal funds.

Allen said a mortgage note will be filed in each of the nine counties the system eventually will serve to show the indebtedness entered into last week. Peka-Lambro will serve Borden, Garza (the western section), Dawson, Lynn, Martin, Gaines, Terry, Hockley and Yoakum counties.

Coupled with the $141,000 in membership equities paid into the company by persons living

BITS OF NEWS—Picked Up Over Town

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Petty have returned to their home in Carlsbad, N. M., after a two weeks vacation here in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Petty, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. June Caffey, in Lubbock. The Petty's children accompanied them home after spending three weeks here. The Caffey's and the Arnold Woods of Lubbock left Sunday for a vacation in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Vandell and daughters, JoAnn and Dana Sue, of Levelland are guests in the home of Mrs. Vandell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ensminger and family and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Garner spent last week in Phoenix, Ariz., visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Garner and family, formerly of Post. While there the visitors went sight-seeing. They went over the Apache Trail and saw Salt River Canyon.

The Dispatch staff received a greeting card from Victor O. B. Slater of Tarboro, N. C., this week. Slater said "I'll always remember the fine people of Post and Postex. I hope you have had a good rain and that everybody is happy."

also covered by a professional photographer out of Fort Worth. Interest in the show, which is open to any youth 19 years of age or under, is gaining momentum daily among both young and old of Post.

Jack Kirkpatrick, manager of the 1951 show, says: "The show this year will be bigger and better. We are much better organized and having advisory managers who have had experience with rodeos to help us in doing wonders with our planning."

"There is a lot of interest in Post among the young people and everyone seems to be much more enthusiastic this year," Walter Duckworth, advisory manager for the show, says. "Nothing can keep it from being a good show! All details have been worked out and she's ready ahead of time."

According to Phil Bouchier, Stampede manager, "The boys are much better organized this year. And from all indications the show promises to be faster and better. The arena will be in good shape and the stock will be good and plenty of it. Interest all over town is excellent."

Roy Josey, president of the Junior Rodeo association, claims, "This year's show should be the best one ever produced. We all intend to put everything we have into making the show a success and we know the people of Post and the surrounding area will back us up."

At the last meeting held by the directors of the show, the decision was made that the 4-H club girls will have concessions at the show.

Car stickers for the rodeo can be obtained at any filling station in town.

Billie Ruth Hill Is Still In Hospital

Billie Ruth Hill, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hill of Tulsa, Okla., formerly of Post, is "doing as well as could be expected" after receiving treatment for polio, relatives here said early this week. Billie's grandmother, Mrs. E. C. Hill, is with her.

Her uncle and aunt, Hoyt and Deanie Hill, have returned home after visiting her. They say that she would appreciate getting letters from her Post friends and gave the following address: Billie Ruth Hill, Polio Ward 3, Hillcrest Memorial hospital, Tulsa.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Bennett and daughters of Hillsboro, visited Sunday in the W. C. Kiker home.

New Business Is Started In Post

The Western Boot Shop is Post's newest business establishment. Owned by Lee Willard and John Locke, both of Lubbock, the Western Boot Shop is presently located in the west side of the Garza theatre building.

Willard has been in the boot making and shoe repair business for 18 years. He has been employed at the Woodfin Boot shop in Lubbock.

Locke has been in the business for six years. So the two bring years of experience and know-how with them in opening their new shop in Post.

The shop will specialize in the making of cowboy boots, but will also cater to all persons needing all types of leather goods and repair work.

Locke is married and has two children. They are Don, five months, and Cindy Kay, two and a half years. Willard has a wife and one child, Nancy Charlene, 11 years.

Both of the new Post business men will move their families here as soon as they find houses.

by the Chamber of Commerce office or call at any time.

Office hours in the future will be from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. Monday and 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. during the rest of the week. Anyone with a problem, suggestion or recommendation is urged to drop by the office at their convenience.

Plans for future projects were also discussed fully at the Friday night meeting. Main projects under discussion included the Junior Rodeo next month; Garza County Fair in September; the Garza County exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair in Lubbock this fall; and the Christmas program for this year. The members also hope to be able to assist the 4-H and FFA boys in getting their stock to the State fair in Dallas this fall.

Previous to coming to Post, Mrs. Lawrence worked as bookkeeper and payroll clerk for plants in Lubbock and Nacodoches and during the war she worked in the accounting office of a shipyard in Orange.

and shoe repair shop owned by Lee Willard and John Locke. Construction on the buildings should be completed in six weeks Price says. The contract calls for 90 working days, but he says that it will not take that long.

Elsewhere on the construction picture in Post progress is being made on the new hospital, the Church of the Nazarene building and the First Christian church educational building.

Foundation for most of the side beams have already been poured at the hospital site and C. H. Pettijohn, job superintendent, said that all side beams and center beams would more than likely be completed by the end of next week.

Constructed of tile, the new Church of the Nazarene building, is going right up. Blocks already have been laid for a good portion of the outside walls.

Work on the First Christian church building has reached the stage of putting finishing shingles on the outside walls and partitioning the inside rooms.

week here. Prior to assuming her duties in Garza county on Dec. 1, 1946, Mrs. Strasser, then Miss Jewell Hipp, served 10 years as agent in Fisher, Coleman and Caldwell counties. Before that she taught three years at Logue Chapel, near Taxon, Okla., and also at Amherst.

During her tour of duty here, Mrs. Strasser has had two national 4-H Club Congress Trip winners, Lois and Doris Ritchie; two Talent Trip winners, Jeanne Kiker Brown and Sybil Smith White.

She has always had a large number of girls to attend the District 4-H camp and has always filled the quota on the number of girls to attend the annual 4-H Roundup at Texas A. and M. Since Mrs. Strasser came here Garza county has always had a representative of 4-H club girls at the State fair. Last year she was the only Home Demonstration agent in the state to carry a delegation. The year before only two agents entered county representatives.

This past year Sue Stephens attended the Longhorn Recreation Laboratory at Athens, Mrs. Strasser points out that this was the first time the county had been represented at the laboratory. Since attending, Sue has been helping with the county recreation program training.

"Naturally the court and everyone hopes to get an experienced agent in here," Mrs. Strasser explained, "but leadership among the girls in the county is well developed and I am sure they will be a real help to the new agent."

Postal Employees—

es, began his Post Office career back in 1927 in Littlefield. "But I only stayed there six months and came to Post," he said, "so I just say I have worked here all the time."

Curtis says that his family moved here from Runnels county in 1910 when he was only five years old. They previously lived in Ballinger.

When he entered the Post Office it was located in the Garza hotel. They employed two clerks and a Postmaster and two substitutes.

Then in 1930 it was moved to where the Boyd Smith Auto is and remained there for 20 years when it was moved to the present location.

Davies married Miss Leta Pearl Hancock, of Post, in 1931 and they have one daughter, El Wanda. Eighteen years old, El Wanda has worked off one year's work toward her college degree at Texas Tech.

A member of the Church of Christ, Davies says he has been attending, "since way before 1916."

Both McMahon and Davies agree that during the fifty-seven years they have been in the Post Office many humorous things have happened.

Davies tells of the time a man threatened to get him fired:

"Some man in the office misplaced a piece of mail that I was supposed to forward," he explained. "One day the owner came busting in all the way from Portales, N. M., he says, and demanded the Postmaster get that letter."

"Well, as luck would have it, he found the letter and the fun began. A lot of people were standing in the lobby when the man went into his fuming about me losing his letter. 'Why,' he shouts, 'I am going to write my congressman and tell him you should not be allowed to stay in a Post Office. Just wait, you'll be fired before the month is out.'"

McMahon said he remembered no actual incidents but did say "The first lesson I ever learned when I started working was that you cannot deliver a person's mail before it arrives at the Office."

Neither man said a word about retiring, but from the hearty looks of each one that day will be a long, long time. They have become permanent fixtures at the Post Office and say that they wouldn't feel right being away from there.

Third Polio Case—

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welton Dodson, and Roland Rose, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose.

The Rose youth was reported in very fine condition late Tuesday. He was resting nicely and knew everyone who came to see him.

But the Dodson girl was still in serious condition, according to her father. She was in lots of pain when he left Monday afternoon. The doctors removed her from the iron lung Friday night and off oxygen Sunday. They began giving her physiotherapy treatments Tuesday.

Another case was thought to have been added to the city's list Tuesday when Terry Lynn Owen, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Owen, was carried to the Slaton hospital with a high fever.

But after all polio tests had been given, the doctors could find no indication of the disease. Nor could they find any reason for the fever. The child was brought home and doctors said if his fever went up again he was to be rushed back.

It was only last year that this family was stricken with polio.

Water System—

but now the pressure is approximately 65 pounds at that time.

Work on the system was completed Monday and since that time the people have noticed a peculiar taste in the water and a milky complexion to it. The taste is caused by the chlorine which had to be added to the water and regulated to the new flow and the complexion is only air in the lines. Both probably will be cleared up by the time the paper is out.

First Rodeo Entry Received

First entry in the Post Junior Rodeo and Quarterhorse show has been received by officials. James Kenney, of Spearman, will enter his filly "Nellie Abner" and will also compete in the rodeo.

Judges include R. E. Josey and Jimmie Bird, flag judges; Harold Childs, barrier judge.

Trophy buckles have arrived and will go on display at Maxine's Monday. A movie trailer advertising the rodeo will begin running at the Tower Monday. Several calls have come in from Vernon and Clovis, N. M., wanting entry blanks for the Quarterhorse show.

Mrs. Lefty Davies took her daughter, Molly, to Lubbock for medical attention, Tuesday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Curtis Davies and Mrs. Roy Stevens.

Misses Catherine Royalty and Lovie Bevers of Lubbock visited Mrs. Ed Warren Saturday en route to Abilene for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Voss of Whippany, N. J., left for their home after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Voss.

Church Of God Convention To Be Held Today Through Sunday

The annual West Texas State convention of the Church of God will open here at 8 p. m. today at the Church of God in the south side of the city, the Rev. L. E. Silvers, pastor and state over-seer for the convention, announced.

Approximately 350 state secretaries, ministers, band leaders, V. L. B. W. M. B. leaders, Sunday school superintendents, church clerks, gleaner leaders and C. P. M. A. leaders are expected to attend the meeting from all over the state of Texas. Delegates will also attend from Arizona, New Mexico, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Principal speaker for the convention, which will last through Sunday morning, will be J. B. Wright, Bible school superintendent, Cleveland, Tenn. A main address will also be given by the Rev. Charles Monroe, evangelist from Wheatcraft, Ky.

The convention will be divided into eight sessions, beginning with one tonight, three each Friday and Saturday and one Sunday morning. Tonight's session is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m.; the Friday morning session at 9:45 a. m., afternoon at 1:30 p. m.; and night at 8 p. m. Saturday's schedule will be somewhat different with the sessions scheduled for 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. The lone Sunday session will begin at 10 a. m.

Each session will contain, in rough outline, a song service, prayer service, special songs, messages by speakers and Sunday school program.

Persons in charge of the convention arrangements include M. A. Tomlinson, general overseer; the Rev. Mr. Silvers, state overseer; La Vera Nichols and Betty Tomlinson, clerks; Jo Ann Cooper and Betty Ruth Cooper, registrars.

George Herron, Jr., Mary Lou Herron, Nannie Cooper and Nettie Fox, reception; Charlie Silvers, Tiny Bullock, Zula Hunt and Catherine Carter, entertainment; Calvin Cooper and David Ezell, ushers; and J. M. Brown and George Herron, expense committee.

City Hall Cleanup Nearing Completion

With the exception of new blinds, the redecoration project on the City Hall has been completed, Mrs. Lorene Benson, city secretary, said Wednesday.

Painted in green and coral-red the hall has been improved considerably in appearance. And Mrs. Benson says that anyone wishing to may drop by to see what has been accomplished at any time.

At the present the front of the building will not be painted but the Commission hopes to be able to do so in the near future.

"No specific price has been set yet for the use of the hall for parties or dances," Mrs. Benson explained. "The Commission will decide on the question later."

Visitors Attend Rotary Meeting

Visits by five out-of-town Rotarians and four visitors highlighted the Tuesday Rotary meeting.

Visiting Rotarians included three from Slaton and two from Tahoka. From Slaton were Ed H. Haddock, Bruce Fenders and J. J. Maxey. Visiting from Tahoka were O. C. Elliott and A. M. Bray.

Other visitors included Burnis Lawrence, Post; Doyle Courtney, Malakoff; L. L. Huddleston, Palestine; and W. R. Chandler, Greenville, S. C.

Several points of discussion were brought up at the meeting following the introduction of visitors. Members heard a discussion of the tax election by Dave Willis; a history of the Rotary club by T. R. Greenfield; and held a discussion on the proposal of the city to cleanup the alleys and spray the town.

Four Games Remain On Softball Slate

With only four more games slated before the beginning of the league play-off series, the Storie Motor softball team is struggling to grab a berth in the four-team play-off lineup.

They are battling out the fourth place position with O'Donnell, Manager Monk Gibson said. One of the deciding games in this struggle will unfold Friday night on the local diamond when O'Donnell comes here.

Two of the remaining games on the Storie Motor schedule will be played at home and two on the road. Following the O'Donnell game Friday night, the team goes to Tahoka Tuesday and Southland next Friday for their two road games. The final regular game of the season will be played against Grassland here.

In Grassland Friday night Post and Grassland nines turned in the tightest game of the year. Grassland eked out a 2-1 victory garnering four hits off Storie pitcher Taylor.

Storie hitters managed to get five hits off Gribble.

Grassland scored two runs in the fourth inning. Murray, right-fielder, smashed a two-bagger and Billy Jones stepped up and slammed out a four-master to account for the two runs.

Storie scoring came in the sixth on two consecutive two-base hits. Walter Holland hit a two-bagger and scored when Malouf did the same thing.

STRICKEN BOY MEETS HORSE — Little Tommy Lynn Goss, of Uvalde, met a Western movie hero in Kerrville. He is shown shaking hands with "Wild Bill" Elliott's horse "Thunder." Tommy is six, a victim of a blood disease called incurable. His doctor said he had only a few weeks to live.

Most Americans are geared for action and are not completely satisfied if they remain inactive for long. This holds true in their reading, their sports, their entertainment, and their work.

Therefore it is only natural that people who have something for sale or rent would place that information where it would get the fastest results.

And the action is faster nowhere than in a Dispatch classified. Take Mrs. J. O. Miller who called the Dispatch office Monday with a report on a classified ad she placed in the paper last week.

"I just thought I'd call you folks," Mrs. Miller said, "and let you know that an ad in your paper really brings results in a hurry. I ran an ad about a refrigerator I wanted to sell and I received some calls Thursday after the paper came out and sold it early Friday morning."

So if you crave fast action on some object you have for sale or unit you have for rent advertise it in the Dispatch classified section and then stand back for the fastest results you ever imagined.

OPS Man To Visit Post On July 26

OPS price specialist Melvin D. Lakey, specialist in the food branch, will stress requirements of the service establishment regulation (CPR 34) and the need for filings by other firms when he visits Post on Thursday morning, July 26.

Lakey will maintain his office in the Chamber of Commerce office in the Garza theater building.

The price specialist, from the Lubbock district office, will assist business men with their filing requirements under the regulations. He emphasized, that despite the fact the deadline has passed, firms which are delinquent should immediately comply. The specialist will visit business men in their offices if appointments are requested and time is available.

These clinics have been held weekly throughout the district during the last several months and they are expected to continue in August, according to C. J. Taylor, district price executive.

Bits-Of-News

Miss Mildred Boren is spending the week in Crane and her sister, Carolyn, is visiting in La-mesa and Midland.

Saturday visitors in the Truman Riddle home were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Riddle and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Riddle, of Whitesboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Treves Huddleston and daughter, Laura Marie, of Palestine, are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Acker this week. Mrs. Huddleston and Mrs. Acker are sisters. The Huddlestons arrived Sunday and plan to leave Saturday.

they're ALL yours in a

DODGE "Job-Rated" TRUCK!

Plenty of power for your job. Power has been increased up to 30% on eight great engines—94 to 154 hp. You get top economy, too—thanks to high compression ratio, 4-ring pistons with chrome-plated top ring, and many other extra values.

Maximum safety—You get the best truck brakes in the industry! On many models you get new, molded, tapered, Cyclebond brake lining for smoother, quieter, safer braking. And you'll ride in a welded all-steel cab with extra-big windshield.

Easy handling—You can turn, back up and maneuver with the least effort . . . because of cross-steering, short wheelbase and wide front end. Other aids to easy handling are a comfortable new steering wheel position and extra cab visibility.

Bigger payloads—Balanced weight distribution enables you to haul bigger payloads on a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck without danger of overloading. Because the engine has been moved forward and front axle back, the right proportion of the load is carried on each axle.

Extra comfort—Famous "Pilot-House" cab gives you safe, all-around vision with extra-big windshield and rear quarter windows. Roomy, "chair-height" seat is widest of any popular truck. Now "Oriflow" Shock Absorbers on 3/4-, 1-ton, and 1-ton models give smoother ride.

gýrol Fluid Drive—Only Dodge offers gýrol Fluid Drive. Available on 3/4-, 1-ton, and 1-ton models. You start with amazing smoothness. Gearshifting is minimized. Wear is reduced on vital parts. And Fluid Drive protects your load by minimizing damaging jolts.

How Dodge trucks are "Job-Rated" to fit your job

A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to provide the best in low-cost transportation. Every unit from engine to rear axle is "Job-Rated"—factory-engineered to haul a specific load.

Every load-CARRYING unit—frame, axles, springs, wheels, and tires—is engineered to provide extra strength and capacity necessary to support the load.

Every load-MOVING unit—engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle, and others—is engineered to move the load under most severe operating conditions. A range of over 350 G.V.W. chassis models enables you to select a truck that meets your conditions.

Plenty of power for your job. . . low down payment . . . low monthly payments

BITS OF NEWS—Picked Up Over Town

Wayne Edward Schmedt, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Schmedt, is in satisfactory condition in Lubbock Memorial hospital. Only 15-days old, the infant has taken several blood transfusions. One of the main contributors of the rare type blood used in these transfusions has been Margaret Turner, Women's Editor of the Avalanche-Journal. Three Post men have donated blood to replace that used from the Red Cross Blood Bank. These men were Bill Carter, Wayne Pipes and Jeff Fowler. The infant will remain in the hospital for some time.

Billy Patty, who is in the army and stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., spent his weekend pass in Fort Worth with his brother, James, and family.

Mrs. B. K. Bowen, of Post, and Mr. and Mrs. Mansel Richardson and daughters, Hilda and Wanda, of Lubbock, and Sonja Sue Queen, of Ranger, spent July 11 with Wesley Stephens and family to celebrate Wesley's birthday. Mrs. Elmer Long's mother, Mrs. C. W. Dubbs, and her sister, Mrs. J. R. Reid, of Amarillo arrived yesterday to spend the rest of the week here.

The Lady Got His Number—And How

FAIRMONT, W. Va. P—A police desk sergeant asked a woman who came in to report an accident the routine question, "Did you get the other car's license number?"

"You're doggoned right I did," snapped the woman, who said her car was hit by another vehicle in a parking lot.

"Here it is," she added, tossing a battered license plate on the sergeant's desk. The woman said she tore it loose after the man knocked her to the pavement.

Soil Conservation Vital To Every Individual As Well As To Nation

Mike E. Custer, secretary, Garza County PMA, advises that often we hear the statement, "If the farmer wants to let his farm wash or blow away, that's his business. It's no concern of mine." Too many business men, professional men or wage earners have this mistaken idea. Regardless of where you live or what business you are in it is some concern of yours — why?

Well, first, we are all depending on the products of the land for our food. If all the farmers that operate the farms of the nation neglect their soils, production of food drops. The less food that is produced the higher the price. If you think food prices are high now just remember that farmers are producing 40 per cent more per acre now than they were 15 years ago. Suppose then that there was 40 per cent less food on the market today than there is.

If all the farmers let their soils wash or blow away, farm income is sure to decline because of loss of farm production. As farm income drops, farm taxes also drop. When the farmer pays less taxes some other group must pay more taxes.

Again when farm income drops the farmer's purchasing power also drops. When the farmer buys less it results in decreased sales for local stores and this in turn results in less sales for factories, less jobs for labor, less business for the railroads, oil companies, doctors, lawyers, etc.

The population of this country is increasing at the rate of about two million per year. Practically all the available cropland in the nation is being used at the present time to produce food and fiber. In a very few years it will take full production from these acres to supply ample food and fiber for our increased population. If we let a part of this land waste away there may not be enough left in a very short time. Many other countries have found themselves in this condition.

You don't go out and buy topsoil. When that which nature put upon the land is gone, you can put it back only by hard work and expensive methods over a long period of years. Many nations today don't have enough topsoil. That is why their people are starving. The warning is given us today that unless we conserve our soil, one day, not many years away, we're not going to have enough. We have lost large quantities and are still losing it at an alarming rate.

It has been proved in the last 15 years that a sound, carefully planned conservation program not only controls erosion, it also makes tilling the land easier and cheaper, increases crop yields, puts idle acres to work and gives the farmer more buying power.

It does more than help the individual farmer practicing it. It helps the entire community and the community extends to include the nation. The increased production is needed if we are to continue living on our present standards. If we are to produce for the added demands of our defense program, and if we are to retain our greatness in world leadership.

This would concern each of us.
