

THE LINE FORMS AT THE REAR.....

'Mail Box Rush' Here

Preliminaries to the Olton Post Office move are well underway.

Postal clerks D. M. "Bub" Holt and Leatrice Langford received rent on 166 new boxes in the new bldg. Monday.

By Wednesday the new box total had reached 350. Holt said that there were still about 250 people needing to secure boxes in the new building before the post office moves from its old quarters.

Olton postmaster Doc Holt had previously pointed out the necessity for securing new boxes before the move. He said that mail deliveries could be seriously interrupted by the move if no box had been rented in the new building.

The move from the old building to the new must be accomplished during one weekend to prevent the loss of mail in the confusion which would result from two post offices being in use at the same time.

Once the move is completed, the post office workers will have to learn the changes made by the move—new facilities, new box numbers, new places for materials.

Doc Holt said that all possible attempts were being made to allow people to maintain their present box numbers in the new building, but he pointed out that this was impossible in many instances.

There are 130 more postal boxes in the new building than in the old, but boxes in the new bldg. are consecutively numbered—1 through 660. Boxes in the old building were marked into the 900's, but many numbers were skipped.

The postmaster expressed the hope that he would be able to make the move to the new building—located one block east of the present building—very soon, and he urged Olton area residents to obtain their new boxes just as soon as possible.

Dedication Changed

Melvin McReynolds announced this week that the date for the dedication of the new Olton Post Office Bldg. has been changed from July 8 to Saturday, July 11.

McReynolds said that Olton plans for the event remain unchanged except for the new date, but he added that he did not know yet who the speaker for the dedication ceremonies would be.

It had been announced previously that the first choice for dedication speaker was Congressman George Mahon, but speakers are secured by the Post Office Dept. for dedication.

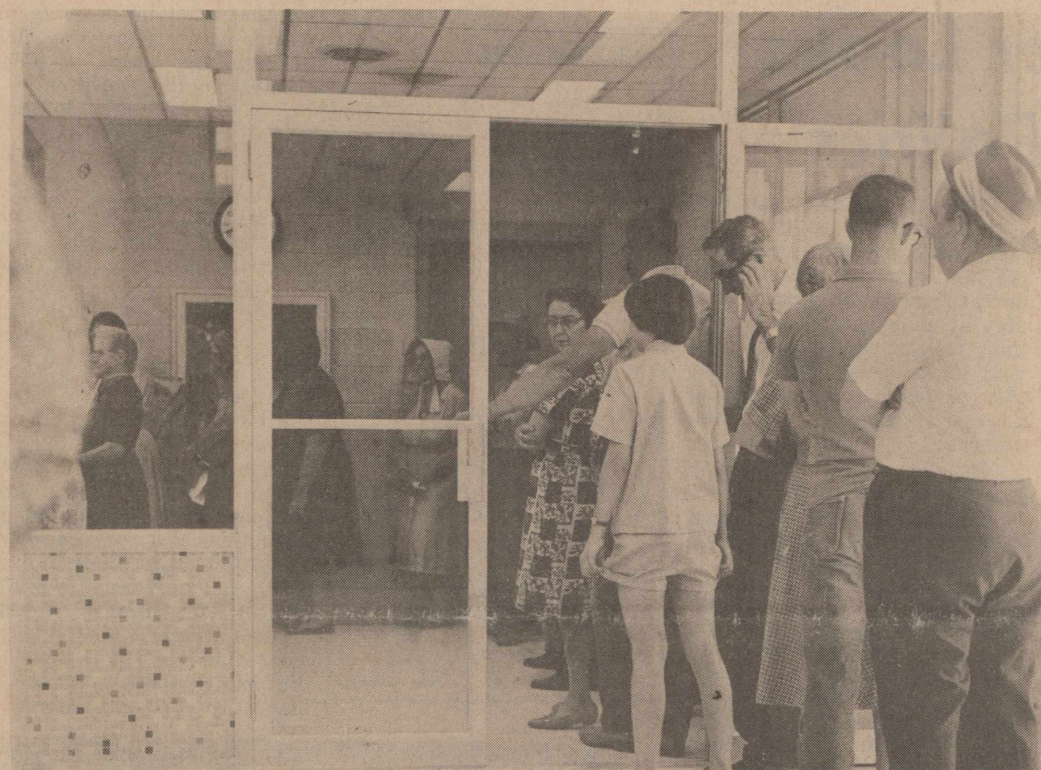

The date change from July 8 to July 11 is also at the request of the Post Office Dept. which has the final say in such matters.

Bookmobile Here Saturday

The "Bookmobile" will make its first Olton visit of the summer Saturday, June 20.

Three more visits are scheduled for the summer as the traveling library will give Olton area residents a chance to borrow books.

The Bookmobile will, as in the past this year, stop on the northwest corner of the square. The Bookmobile will arrive in Olton at 9:15 a.m. and stay until 11:45 a.m.

IT WAS A HECTIC DAY--Monday was the first day any business was transacted in the new Post Office Bldg. Olton residents formed some rather long lines as they waited to get new boxes in the new building. Postal clerks Bub Holt and Leatrice Langford collected rent for 166 postal boxes the first day. Postmaster Doc Holt even got into the fray, as he showed new boxes to Oltonites--as he is doing in the accompanying picture.

13 Vacancies In School Here

Olton Public Schools now have 13 teacher vacancies, as a result of two resignations this week, it was announced by Johnny Clark Jr., superintendent.

Tom Harkey, junior high science teacher and counselor, and Mrs. Dean Bradley, home-making instructor, resigned to take new posts at Wilson and Hereford, respectively.

Harkey will become elementary principal at Wilson and Mrs. Bradley will teach home economics at Hereford. Her husband, currently employed at Plainview, has been transferred to Hereford.

In recent weeks, eight other teachers have resigned and the school has three additional posts to fill as a result of increased teacher units from the state because of a rise in average daily attendance last year.

This increase from the state will result in the high school, junior high and elementary school each having one additional teacher next year, according to Clark.

Other teachers who have resigned and whose posts are now vacant are:

Allie Aikman, first grade, who is retiring from the profession.

Sue Bunner, second grade, who has taken a teaching position at Springlake.

May Ree Tuttle, third grade, who is moving to Abilene.

La Nelle Waldrop, fourth grade, who moved to Stratford.

Bobby Fred, high school English, who will go to Arizona.

James Caley, high school science, who will teach at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell.

Mrs. E. C. Woods, Bohner teacher, who has taken maternity leave.

Helen Wright, Bohner teacher, who will teach at Plainview.

Wheat Harvest Going Strong

The Olton area wheat harvest is in full swing.

The three Olton grain elevators reported total receipts of 227,600 lb of wheat by 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Most of the wheat has been testing 12 to 13 per cent moisture content, and the average weight has been about 60 lb per bushel.

The received wheat, then, amounts to about 3800 bushels so far.

All three area elevators said that more wheat was coming in all the time.

Recent rains slowed the harvest somewhat.

City, School Agree In Stadium Problem

Field Plan Is Given Go Ahead

The City of Olton and Olton Independent School District overcame right-of-way problems between the two governmental units Tuesday afternoon at a special city council meeting.

The meeting developed after the school district, launching an expansion program, moved its football field to a new site at the west side of the campus.

Questions arose when the city learned the stadium location was partly on city right-of-way.

But the problems were quickly ironed out Tuesday in a harmonious meeting between the city council and Supt. Johnny Clark Jr.

West grandstand of the stadium had been placed about 12 feet from the curb on Avenue J, some 5 1/2 feet inside the city right-of-way.

A press box at the top of the stand was situated over the right-of-way and its supports stood directly on the Avenue J curb.

"Our problem was to get everything as far west as possible, so that we could make more use of the school property east of the football field," he said.

He explained that the school did not use an architect on this phase of the building program, in an effort to save tax money.

"We want to work out the problems on right-of-way with you in the best interests of both the city and school," Clark told the council.

He explained that plans called for a bus maintenance garage north of the field, along with parking area for the buses.

Getting the field and track in the area south to 9th street presented a tight squeeze, Clark explained, leaving only 6 1/2 feet between the south end of the track and the curb on 9th.

The superintendent then requested that the council allow the school to construct a six-foot fence on city right-of-way around the north, west and south sides of the field and track.

In addition, he explained that plans called for the press box to be moved to the east stands, so that it would not interfere with city right-of-way.

The council agreed to permit the fence to be constructed five feet from the curb along Avenue J, 7th and 9th. This will allow ample walking room outside the fence.

And the council officially closed the original streets which were laid out on the school property—Ave. H, and I between 7th and 9th, and 8th Street between Ave. G, and J.

Prior to the meeting the council had received a letter from Clark explaining the school program. It said, in part:

"It is requested that Avenue H and Eighth Street, as originally planned, remain closed if previous permission has not been granted. It is also requested that Avenue I between Seventh and Ninth Streets be closed. Plans are to have double gates on both the north and south sides of the campus so that patrons may park in the area east or present stands. It is believed that a great portion of this area will ultimately be surfaced.

"It is requested that a chain link fence six feet high be permitted along Avenue J, Seventh, and Ninth Streets near the curb so that a walk may be maintained between the fence and curb. Offsets for ticket offices, gates, and the memorial arch may be needed. If the arch cannot be moved, then another will be constructed to carry out its original purpose.

It is believed that the inside of the park can be landscaped and maintained better than the outside. The existing areas between Avenues H and J on Seventh and Ninth Streets are not desirable.

"As in the past, the school will expect the city's maintenance and other departments to have access to any and all parts of the campus. Easements will be granted for street lights and other services that are for the best interests of the city and the schools."

FOR COUNTY SCHOOL DUTIES

Round Figures Show Budget Of About $27,000-$29,000

An impromptu news conference with County Supt. C. Roy Stevens shed some light on the controversial office this week, but reporters ran into some difficulties trying to pin down finances.

"I don't think we need to get down to the last penny of it," County Supt. C. Roy Stevens said to requests for a copy of his office's budget.

The office is the object of a movement by the Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture to call an election to determine whether the post should be abolished.

Apparently reluctant to publicize the office's operations, Stevens also was hesitant about reporters seeing minutes of county school board meetings.

He asked them to wait "until I talk to the board about it."

The county superintendent did, however, release some round figures which indicated the overall program of his office has a budget between $27,000 and $29,000.

A 1962 Texas law allows the office to be eliminated by county vote.

Olton C-CA began circulating a petition to call a county-wide election several weeks ago. More than 1,100 signatures will be needed before the petition is presented to county commissioners for action.

Rallying cry of the movement has been that the office is unnecessary in Lamb County, and that it is a "waste of tax money."

The Olton group, which has been pretty much on its own in the campaign, still may get backing from other parts of the county.

Chamber leaders here were elated this week after learning the Littlefield C-C has launched a committee study of the proposal.

A five-man group was appointed to study the functions of the office and make a recommendation for possible Chamber action in Littlefield.

Stevens, in questioning last Friday, said that actual expenses of operating his office, including his salary, are "about $10,000 to $12,000 a year."

His salary is "a little more than $8,000."

Three staff members attached to the office perform jobs for the Spade, Springlake, Amherst and Sudan schools, independent school districts which Stevens terms "co-op" schools.

These are schools with less than 40 teachers, for which the county superintendent's office supplies help mainly in counseling and supervision, Stevens said.

One member of the staff, Enos W. Harper is a counselor and curriculum supervisor in the Spade and Springlake schools. He is paid "about $6,200" a year, Stevens said.

Another member, Thurman D. Knoll, performs much the same functions in the Sudan and Amherst schools at "about $6,000 a year."

Mrs. Viola Humphreys is the third member of the staff. A school nurse, Mrs. Humphreys works at Spade and Amherst and is paid "about $4,700 to $5,900 a year."

These members are paid with state school funds, as is Stevens' salary.

The county superintendent told reporters that jobs of the staff members would not necessarily be affected by a change in his office.

The proposal by the Olton C-CA would be to transfer the full-time office to an ex-officio duty of the county judge, as is done in about 100 Texas counties now.

Three Days Of Rain Top 5 Inches In Area

The rains came again to the Olton area this past week--and came again--and came again.

The official rainfall in Olton, recorded by James Gallagher, totaled more than four inches during the first four days of the week.

Wednesday's rain--the first of the four-day rainfall--was 0.55 inches and was followed by 1.35 inches and was followed by 1.31 inches and was completed Saturday and Sunday by 0.89 inches of moisture.

Area consensus seemed to point to the fact that there was a lot of rain, but that the rain helped, for the most part, more than it hurt.

The Henry Aigak farm northwest of Olton caught 5.50 inches of rain, and the comment was "It sure helped."

O. E. Patterson said he measured 5.10 inches of moisture east of Olton. He said, "It helped some; there was no crop damage."

Northeast of town, H. B. Carson said, "there was a lot of rain." No crop damage was mentioned from the rains.

Homer Worley, west of town, said that the farm got "a good five inches." Further comment was, "we could have used a couple of inches, but we got a little too much to really help out. It washed in on some feed, and a small lake came up and covered some crops."

The Paul Burrus farm southwest of Olton received about 5.50 inches altogether. There was no crop damage and comment was, "The crops look real good. If we can get over them before the sand blows, the rain will have helped a lot."

The Delmer Givens farm southeast of town stayed with the rest of the area--catching about 5 inches of moisture. No major crop damage was reported, though some feed was covered by water in the low areas.

Tax Ruling Hits Members Of ORC

A ruling of the Internal Revenue Service will result in an increase in membership dues at the Olton Recreation Center beginning July 1, the ORC board of directors announced this week.

The ORC is subject to a 20 per cent federal excise tax on dues, the board said.

Effective July 1, regular members will be charged $8.40 per month and associate members $12.00 per month. This is an increase from $7.00 and $10.00, respectively.

A higher court has reversed a ruling of a lower court and the ORC has become subject excise tax on all dues paid since December 1, 1960, the board said.

ORC members will be billed for this past tax later.

A general membership meeting is planned for July, and a detailed explanation of the situation will be made to members at that time.

The ORC board has operated in the past with an understanding that the club was not subject to excise tax because it is municipally owned.

However attorneys investigating the situation for the ORC have been told by IRS that this would be true only if the center had been operated by city funds and as a part of regular city responsibility.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

I "RECRUITED" THE BEST

Dear Amy:

I recently read in your column about a serviceman who is having a problem with a girl's mother because he wears a uniform and the mother won't allow the girl to date him.

Being a professional soldier, I object to your statement that he shouldn't blame the mother too much because, and I quote your words, "Men in uniform are known for taking too many liberties." To my way of thinking, any man, civilian or serviceman, will only go so far in taking "liberties" as the girl herself allows. I am proud to be seen in uniform and wear it as much at social gatherings as I do on duty. I don't feel I have to prove that I am a respectable individual. Today, one has to be good before they can even wear a uniform in the Armed Forces.

I went with my wife for eight years while in the Army and her parents, like most, trusted us and never denied us a date just because I was in uniform. Where would this nation be if it were not for the loyalty and dedication of its service men and women?

I hope you will print this to let that mother and others like her know that being in uniform and serving one's country is the greatest privilege a person can have. She should be proud that her daughter is seen in public with a young man who wears his uniform with pride and the feeling that what he is doing in the service is in some way helping to keep this nation of ours the greatest in the world.

Ronald J. Borisa,
S/Sgt., U.S.A.

Dear Amy:

Bless you for your reply to "Soldier." I met one. Married him. Had his child. And now his address is:

SOMEWHERE IN THE U.S.A.

A Korean War Bride

Dear Amy:

I have just read your column and am very disappointed in your answer to a soldier. How can people judge any man in uniform and condemn him, all because of the actions of a few? I agree there are a few bad apples, but aren't there in any company or organization? The military services of our country are not correctional institutions and any bad habits the young men (in the services) have are brought along from home—not acquired while serving their country.

I can see no reason why men in uniform should be ashamed to be seen in uniform or let people know they're serving their country. They are the men who are protecting you and don't you ever forget it. Shouldn't we all show respect for the military men of our country?

Unashamed Service Wife

Dear Amy:

Did you suffer because of a soldier? You sure write like you did. How your answer was ever published is beyond me. Turn the situation around and put the uniform on a girl. What the would your answer be? I guess the same . . . and I would send you another letter like this.

What would you say if your own son were so attired? You and your advice: " . . . rough time proving it. Hope that her parents will view you in a more favorable light." Phew!

A uniform on a clothesline has its one and only meaning. It belongs to a male or female in our country's service. And these are the men and women who win the wars. Did the men or women in civies win the wars?

An Old Soldier

Dear Soldier:

Winning a war or maintaining the peace is a team effort soldiers and civies alike. Color us both Red, White and Blue!

Dear Amy:

I was a service man when I courted my wife and when I finally convinced her mother that I wasn't like the rest of the "pack," she told me that she always was afraid of strangers passing through. She so aptly put it when she said that these unattached men (without roots) can play such a beautiful tune, but are seldom around town to face the music. She didn't want her daughter's heart broken, and now that I look back, I can't blame her. For now that I have a daughter of my own, I, too, am suspicious of all strangers . . . in uniform or mufti. Parents faced with the problem of a dating daughter can't be too careful!

Philosopher Looks At Future Politics

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his careless weed farm on Running Water Draw apparently has heard about the computer machines the television industry is using, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

As I understand it, a lot of people are complaining because the television companies' computer machines are now announcing the results of elections before the elections are over

They say this is unfair, that a man starting to the polls late in the afternoon and hearing that somebody has already been declared the winner, will stay at home, although I doubt this, as he knows good and well there won't be anything else on television that evening anyway except more election returns.

None the less, some Congressmen want to pass a law prohibiting the machines from announcing their verdict until the polls have closed.

This is an issue which I find it hard to get involved with. I just don't have any feelings toward machines, one way or another. I'm just not emotionally involved, although I'll admit I've said a few unkind things about my tractor when it wouldn't start. I've never been one to consider a piece of machinery or a human being useless just because neither was out burning up the miles. A man and a machine both ought to be allowed to refuse to budge for no reason at all if the mood strikes.

But back to the election computers. If the television industry's machine can accurately and without fail predict the outcome of an election, just by looking at a few isolated votes, why can't the newspapers perfect a machine that'll predict what the television machine will say?

Then of course television can counter with one that'll predict what the newspaper machine will predict about what the television machine will predict, an so on, back and forth, until you can be informed how an election will come out five years before it's held.

Obviously, with elections thus pre-determined and pre-announced, there'd be no need for campaign speeches on television and a man could turn on his set and get Wagon Train when Wagon Train is supposed to be on. Or if somebody feels he has to deliver a speech, hook him up to the computer and let him deliver it to it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Reiman-Granbery Wedding Performed In Colorado

Chapel of the Angels at Lakewood was the scene of the wedding Saturday, June 13, of Miss Patricia Reiman, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Reiman, 1116 11th St., and Gerald Granbery, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Granbery of Kress.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Judge Daniel Shannon.

The bride was attired in a ballerina-length gown of imported Chantilly lace. It was designed with scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, figure-molding bodice and windswept skirt. Her shoulder-length nylon illusion veil was caught on a ribbon cluster, accented with pearls. She also wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried an English sixpence, borrowed from Miss Ethelene Rhiner, dean of women at Colorado State College in Greeley. The bridal bouquet was of stephanotis, centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Nuptial selections were played by Miss Ruth Damer of Lakewood, who played "Trumpet Tune" as the processional and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The chapel was decorated with seven-branch candelabra, flanked by baskets of white gladiolus, roses and snapdragons.

Candles were lighted by Marjorie Sharp, niece of the bride from Greeley, and Carol Johnson of Lakewood. They also carried the bride's anniversary candle to its place of honor where it was lighted.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Floyd Sharp, sister of the bride from Greeley. She wore a soft blue street-length sheath, of embroidered lace, and matching headband. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, centered with blue.

The groom's father served him as best man. The usher was Jim Stingers, brother-in-law of the bridegroom from Abilene.

For traveling, the bride chose a blue and white suit with white accessories and wore the orchid corsage from her bouquet.

The newlyweds will spend four weeks in the northeastern states, Canada and New York, before going to Abilene, where Granbery will attend Abilene Christian College to work on his master's degree. They will return to Lakewood in August to reside there.

A wedding dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Granbery, was held after the ceremony at the Tally-Ho Inn in Lakewood, with some 24 persons attending.

Relatives and close friends of the couple attended the wedding. Out-of-state guests were Mrs. Stigers and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, and Scotty of Olton.

The new Mrs. Granbery is a 1954 graduate of Greeley High School and attended Colorado State College. Prior to her marriage, she was a dental assistant in Lakewood.

Granbery is a graduate of Olton High School and Abilene Christian College. He was on army tour in Puerto Rico before teaching English at Creighton Junior High School in the Jefferson County School System.

A bridal shower honoring Mrs. Jerry De Sha, nee Joy Fern Cole, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cole, will be given Wednesday, June 24 in the Plainview Production Credit party room, at 3 p.m.

Marriage Vows Read

The double ring ceremony uniting Beinetta Loyce Womack of Midland and Gerald Marlowe (Jerry) Mulkey of Abilene in marriage was held at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 13 in the First Methodist Church of Midland.

The Rev. Royce Womack of Hamlin, uncle of the bride, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of imported silk organza. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline enhanced with rose motifs of Chantilly lace. The long sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands. The bouffant skirt fell from soft unpressed pleats accented with the same motifs of Chantilly lace, and was caught in back by an organza bow, which topped a pleated pouf and fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught by a pearl crown. She carried a Bible with white Phalaenopsis orchids and showers of Frenched carnations.

The twin sister of the bride, Mrs. Charles Adams of Mountain View, Calif., was the matron of honor. Linda Mulkey of Abilene, sister of the bridegroom was the maid of honor, and Evelyn Teague of Waco was the bridesmaid. Mrs. Joe Agan of Abilene served as bridesmatron.

The best man was Taylor Daniell of Fort Worth. Bill Davis and Dudley Kidwell of Abilene and Charles Adams of Mountain View were the groomsmen and Monnie Collett of Dallas and Jack Anderson of Abilene ushered the guests. Candles for the ceremony were lighted by Robert and Richard Mulkey of Abilene, brothers of the bridegroom.

A sunburst arrangement of white gladiolus, stock and daisies flanked by pyramid candelabras with greenery decorated the church. Two arrangements of white gladiolus also were used.

Attendants to the bride were street-length dresses of yellow crystal peau with fitted bodices and gathered skirts. Their head-dresses were circlets of yellow tulle attached by butterfly bows of matching crystal peau. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of yellow and chite carnations.

Nuptial selections were played by George DeHart, organist, and were sung by Mrs. Wilson Blurton.

Serving in the house party for the reception in the Fellowship Hall were Nancy Savage and Darlene Rees of Abilene, Mrs. Victor Horn, Gail Butler, Vickie Horn, Freda Walker and Mrs. Robert Baker of Midland, Lavern Loving of Lubbock, Mrs. Taylor Daniell of Fort Worth and Mrs. Leonard Groves of Norton, cousin of the bride. OLTON PIONEER DAYS RELIVED

Duane Eby of Olton enjoys a rather unique experience these days. He is one of the few people in the nation who remain living in the home in which they were born.

As a matter of fact, he still lives in the first house his father, Wilford Bolten Eby, built when the elder Eby first came to Texas in 1908.

The house has been enlarged and modernized, but the original three-room Eby house remains to this very day.

And as long as the house remains, so does the story of one of Olton's early pioneers--W. B. Eby.

W. B. Eby was born on a farm near Drexel, Missouri, in October of 1876.

In 1900 he moved to Jamestown, N. Dakota, and began the twisted journey which led him eventually to the Olton area.

Shortly after arriving in North Dakota, he homesteaded some land near Goodrich. Although he was required to live on the homestead for several months each year, he purchased a cafe in Jamestown.

While in the cafe business, he met Marie Nelson, who had moved to Jamestown from Denmark at the age of 4.

Marie's father was a railroad shop foreman, and in 1903, she was a telephone operator. She and Eby were married four years later in June of 1907.

The newlyweds sold the cafe and bought a hotel-bakery business. But their luck was against them. Within a very short time, a business near the bakery caught fire, and every business in Jamestown burned--except the bank, which was brick.

EARLY OLTON PIONEER--W. B. Eby is pictured shortly after he arrived in the "wide open spaces" of West Texas. The early area pioneer settled in the Olton area before the town was in existence.

STILL HALE AND HEARTY--Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Eby have moved to Lubbock from the Olton area. They will celebrate their 57th wedding anniversary this next week, in the Hub City.

After losing the business to fire, the Ebys came to Texas to look for land to buy. They came in 1908 on the Soash excursion, and they found the land--320 acres southeast of Olton.

They lived in a tent while they were building their three-room house. Eby hauled the lumber from Plainview and built the house himself. They had to haul water a quarter of a mile from windmills to the house.

Each year they would break out another block of land with their teams. Originally they grew maize, wheat and oats, but later they added cotton.

The nearest produce markets were Plainview and Hale Center; so they had to haul the grain and cotton cross-country to market. It took two full days to make the trip to Plainview in those days.

Only a few members of the Soash excursion remained in the area. Drought and hardship helped lessen the remaining numbers. A typical workday started at 4 a.m. and wasn't over until about 10 p.m.

In the early days, settlers had to grub bare grass to feed cattle. Several years crops were planted, and then nothing was harvested. It was not an easy life.

The Ebys raised cattle and had to drive them to Plainview to market. Later they bought a herd of milch cows and some hogs. The animals kept the farm going through the hard times.

Eby added to the family finances in years that they did make a crop by doing custom cutting with his row binder.

There was a small general store in Olton then. Groceries were sometimes bought at the store, but most of the food was hauled out to the farm in gross lots two or three times a year. Plainview was also the nearest town to the farm which could supply a doctor.

In spite of the distance to medical care, the Ebys produced four children--Duane; Madeline Allcorn; Bill, Crowell, and Jesse, Lubbock.

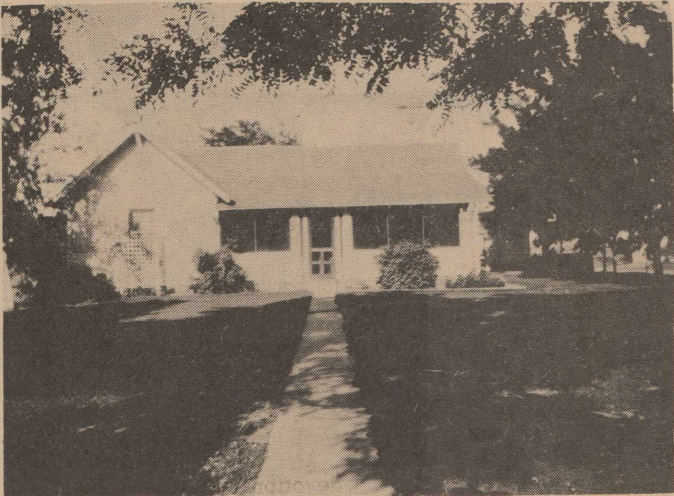

The children went to school in Olton, seldom, it is said, missing a day--even in the winter. School transportation was a buggy, and hot bricks functioned as a heater on especially cold winter days.

Eby served on the school board and helped secure the first school bus for Olton.

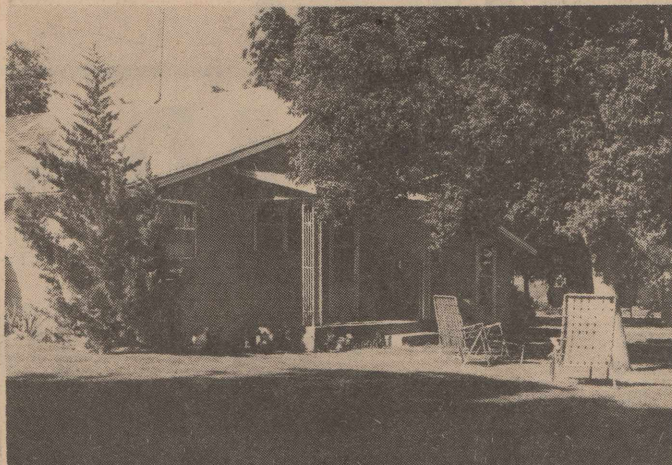

He planted an orchard around the farm--an orchard which furnished many Olton families with fruit. In 1923 he put out an American Elm tree which has become something of a local landmark.

As the family grew and expanded, the old Eby house had to grow and expand too. Four additional rooms were added to the original three in 1917--a difficult necessity following several years of drought.

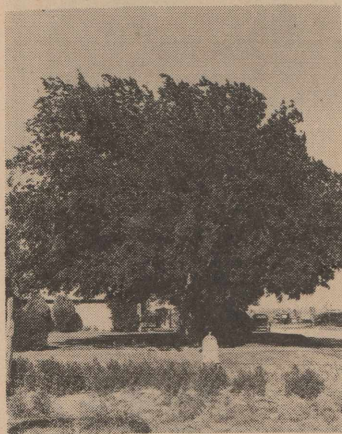

In 1962--long after Wilford

THIS OLD HOUSE--By 1919, when this picture was taken, the Eby house had grown considerably from its original three rooms. The original house was, and is, still in the middle of the structure.

BUT THE SPIRIT LIVES ON--The Eby house was re-modeled last year by D. C. Eby, son of the pioneer who built the home. Although many changes were made and partitions were removed, the original Eby house, built in 1908, remains part of the home.

AREA LANDMARK--An American Elm planted by W. B. Eby in 1923 is both one of the oldest and one of the largest trees in the area. It has been a landmark in the Olton Area for many years now.

See Us For New Bidrin For Control of Cotton Insects

Bidrin is a phosphate insecticide that is actually taken into the plant's sap stream. When applied by spray in conventional manner, more than 50 per cent of the Bidrin solution is absorbed within 8 hours after application. It is distributed within the leaf in quantities sufficient to kill insects that suck the juices or chew the leaf. In short, the cotton leaf itself becomes toxic to pests!

Bidrin helps reduce the problem of wash off or poor coverage. The plant is a reservoir for the insecticide.

Bidrin penetrates the cotton leaf. Surface residues disappear within 24 hours after application leaving beneficial insects largely unaffected.

Bidrin's systemic action rapidly penetrates the leaves, so that more than half of the material is within the leaf within 8 hours after application.

Garrison To
Bidrin gives 7-14 days of protection in every treated leaf against many species of insects.

Agronomist Warns Against Frauds

BY BILL BENNETT, AGRONOMIST

Every new crop season will usually bring in some new "miracle" product designed to increase crop production. Too often, such "miracle" products have little or no value and are sold by "soil fertility quacks".

Have you been offered such a "miracle" product this year? Usually the salesman is a persuasive talker who makes great claims for his product. Here are some ways to spot the "fertility quack".

1. He claims mysterious benefits by unlocking the nutrients in your soil. The material often comes from some unusual natural deposit or may be a "new strain" of bacteria.

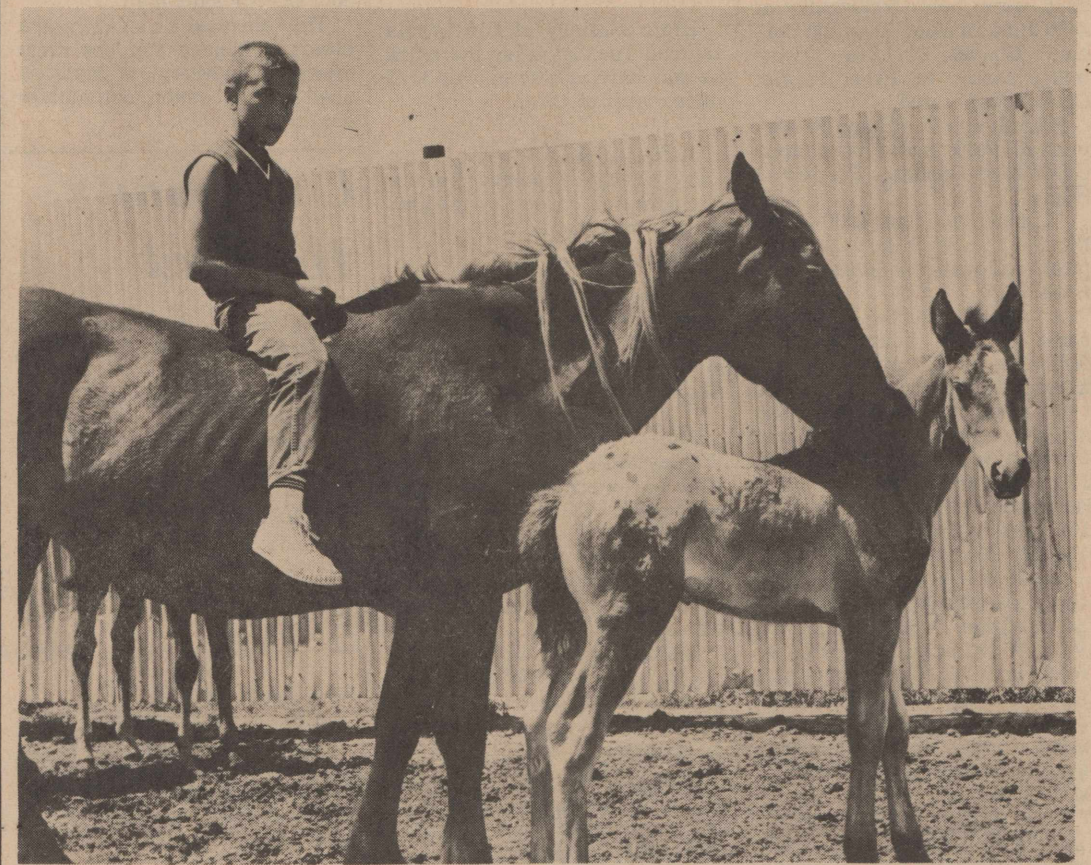

2. He makes no guarantee for nitrogen, phosphorus or potassium and thus does not come under the fertilizer law. An analysis will often show a large number of elements—most of which are not even necessary for plant growth.

3. He cannot back up his claims with research from an unbiased source such as the University experiment stations or independent research foundations. He usually has testimonials from farmers in other states.

4. When asked what the County Agent thinks about the product, the quack says, "Don't ask him. He probably wouldn't know the value of our product or recommend it". The quack has the same attitude toward experiment stations.

With need for phosphate increasing and as more attention is given to secondary and minor elements, the quack will surely be around in larger numbers.

Don't hesitate to try new products on a small scale. There have been many advances in fertilizer and there will be more. But don't invest a lot of money in a new product until you know it will pay or until it has been proven by research either by the experiment stations or reliable, reputable manufacturing concerns.

PET-OF-THE-WEEK--Tim Givens, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Givens, sitting atop Cricket, finally manages to get close to Cricket's frisky 5-week-old colt.

Levelland Team Takes Early Lead In Bowling Tourney

The team from Levelland Body Shop has taken the lead in the First Annual Tournament of Champions being hosted by Olton Bowling Center and sponsored by the High Plains Bowling Proprietor's Assn.

The Levelland team is currently in first place with 2831 pins for three team lines.

Bellah's Super Market in Lockney is in second place with a team total of 2807 pins.

Muleshoe Co-Op Gin knocked 2779 pins for third place, and Goodpasture Grain in Brownfield demolished 2763 for current fourth place.

The tournament will continue Saturday with seven teams joining in the competition and trying to better the current leaders. Saturday action will be at 6:30 p.m.

Blue Sox Take First

The Halfway Blue Sox handed Thompson Imp. their second defeat of the season, and then added injury to insult by knocking Thompson Imp. out of first place with the defeat.

The Blue Sox took a half-game lead over Thompson Imp. with the 4-2 victory.

The Blue Sox struck first in the game, as they picked up three runs on one hit in the top of the first inning. The single Sox hit was a double by James Pinkerton.

The Sox added another run in the second inning for good measure to take a 4-0 lead over Thompson Imp. The Blue Sox went scoreless the rest of the game, but Thompson was never able to overcome the 4-point lead.

Travis Shipley and James Pinkerton produced singles in the second inning to get the fourth Sox score.

Thompson tried to come back in the third inning, scoring twice on singles by Joe Dale Chitwood, Gale McClain and Jackie Kemp, but the Blue Sox stopped the rally and held Thompson scoreless for the remaining three innings.

The winning Blue Sox pitcher was James Pinkerton, who helped his own cause considerably by collecting a total of three hits during the game.

Joe Dale Chitwood was charged with the loss for Thompson Imp.

Rains Hamper Little League

Recent rains hindered Little League activities somewhat as three games were rained out.

The rains forced the Little League to fall one game behind schedule.

But four teams, who were hit by earlier rains are now two games behind schedule.

The first-place Halfway Blue Sox, the Halfway Red Sox, Olton State Bank and Olton Co-Op Gin must make up two games apiece to catch back up with the Little League schedule.

The Pee Wee League, playing earlier in the day, has managed to keep out of the way of the recent rains.

Saturday's competitors include teams from Muleshoe, Farwell, Morton, Denver City, Lubbock (2) and Olton.

The Olton league champion in Saturday's competition will be Phillips Plumbing and Ditching.

The tournament will draw to a close Sunday. A team from Lubbock and Dennis Builders Supply of Olton will bowl at 2 p.m.

Teams from Morton, Brownfield, Plainview and Lubbock will take to the lanes at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the last action of tournament.

First place in the tournament is worth $160 for the victorious team. Second place collects $100, while third place picks up $80 and fourth place wins $60.

Farmers Gin In 19-1 Massacre

Olton State Bank--Little League Giant Killers, who handed Thompson Imp. their first defeat of the season--has been suffering from a jinx of some sort ever since they knocked Thompson from the ranks of the undefeated.

The now-first place Halfway Blue Sox proceeded to smash State Bank to a 15-1 defeat in the first game after State Bank had defeated Thompson.

In the second game Tuesday--following the Thompson defeat--Farmers Gin proceeded to massacre State Bank by a 19-1 score.

State Bank managed only three hits the entire game--a double by Pedro Ganzaes and singles by Gary Barron and Barry Cowart.

Gary Kelly was the winning pitcher for Farmers Gin. He helped his cause by picking up 4 RBI's, while banging out a double and a 2-run homer.

Monty Roberson also produced a double for the victors. Royce Riggins banged out two of the double-sackers.

Roberson picked up three singles, and Royce Riggins and Tommy Riffin each picked up a single apiece.

Tommy Riffin and Monty Roberson teamed up on a double play for Farmers Gin.

Monty Roberson and Royce Riggins were each credited with three runs batted in as Farmers Gin went on the Little League rampage of the season.

ATTENDS WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Elkins and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elkins of Hart, were in Cotton Center attending the wedding of Miss Ellis Ann Benson, daughter to Mrs. Fitz Benson, Saturday night.

For the third year in a row, Laus Hair has won the Lions Club Golf Tournament. This year he did it with a 36-hole total of 151.

Hair shot a first round 78 on the par-72 course, but he followed with a 1-over par 73 on the second 18 holes to take the lead.

Hair was an early finisher and left a target for other Championship Flight competitors to shoot at. And shoot they did, but no one managed to seriously threaten Hair's first-place standing.

Andy Andrews was the only person to come close to Hair. Andrews shot a consistent 77, 77 154 to take second place in the 36-hole medal play tournament.

Bob Copeland also played consistent golf to pull down third place in the Championship Flight. He shot an 80, 78, 158.

Other Championship finishers at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday were Owen Norfleet--80, 82, 162; Bill Turner--87, 86, 173; and Joe Turner--88, 89, 177.

Basil Sherman took the First Flight victory with a 36-hole total of 165.

Sherman shot a very consistent pair of 18-hole rounds, carding 82 for the first round and 83 for the second 18 holes.

Dan Gregory set the target for the First Flight competition to shoot at--an 82, 88, 170. Three people beat it, and one person tied it.

Ralph Glover and James Hall joined Sherman in beating the 170 posted by Gregory. Both Glover and Hall posted 36-hole totals of 168.

Glover shot 85, 83, 168, and Hall shot 82, 86, 168.

Charles Polk tied Gregory at 170 with two 18-hole rounds of 85.

Bob Gullett crowded the 170 mark closely with 171. Gullett shot a first-round 84 and followed it with an 87.

Other finishers in the First Flight were Max Malone--86, 94, 180; Conner Parsons--93, 88, 181; George Redinger--87, 94, 181; and Eldon Franks--99, 93, 192.

Lester Ramsey, who took the first-round lead in Second Flight competition, held his early position and won the Second Flight fight with a 36-hole total of 192.

Ramsey carded two 18-hole rounds of 96 to gain his victory. Elmer Moore ended up in second place in the Second Flight with a 97, 99, 196.

Herman Meyers was the only other Second Flight competitor to break 200. Meyers carded consecutive 99's to clinch third place with 198.

Howard Hall came in with an even 200 on rounds of 104 and 96.

G. H. Bley posted 110, 100, 210. Percy Parsons carded 106, 105, 211 and Carl McClure came in with 106, 109, 215.

Trophies and awards will be presented the victors at Lions Club ceremonies Tuesday--ceremonies to install new officers for the coming year.

Co-Op Wins

The hapless Olton Co-Op Gin team, dogged by bad luck all season long, finally got a much overdue win Tuesday, as they sent the Halfway Red Sox tumbling to an 8-4 defeat.

The combination of Co-Op Gin victory and Red Sox didn't help either team too much however. Co-Op Gin is no longer in sole possession of a much-unwanted last place. The Red Sox are tied with the Co-Op for the unenviable last-place position.

The Red Sox started the scoring with a single run in first inning, and they they added one more run in the top of the second inning for a 2-0 lead.

But Co-Op Gin, battling to get out of the league cellar, tied things up in the bottom of the second with a home-run by Mack Lancaster and singles by Carroll Blackwell and Lynn Ramsey.

The Red Sox weren't giving up, as they jumped to a 4-2 lead on a wild throw past first base in the third inning.

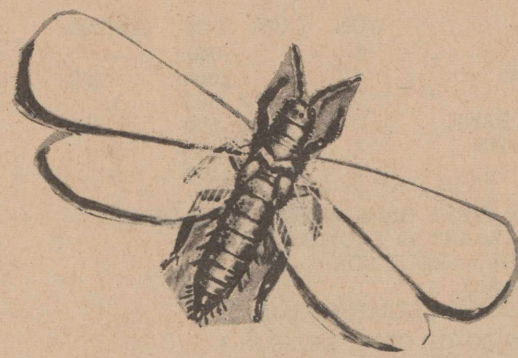

Co-Op Gin then took the lead for the first time in the game, by producing four runs from doubles by Lynn Campbell and Americo Zavaleta and a single by Robert Davis. The 6-4 lead was enough to win the game.

But Co-Op added two more runs in the fourth inning with another single by Davis, a single by Blackwell and a double by Lancaster.

Robert Davis was the winning pitcher for Olton Co-Op Gin, while Joe Lopez was charged with the loss for the Red Sox.

This is a thrip.

The kind that is eating away at your cotton right now.

If you've seen only one, chances are you have a million...chewing away at your young cotton.

Want to know how to get rid of them? It's easy.

Spray Bidrin or Magnum Dynamic - quality insecticides by Olin.

Either will kill them.
