Norfolk Man's Attorneys Charge Police With 'Railroad' Plot

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 27. (UP)—Grim-visaged but in complete possession of himself, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh went before a jury in Flemington's white-pillared courthouse today to tell his version of the kidnaping, last March 1, of his blue-eyed son, Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Speaking in a tone that was low, yet distinct, Colonel Lindbergh recited, for the first time in public, the circumstances surrounding the abduction and murder of his baby, and of his dealings with John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, who is on trial accused of hoaxing the famous flier into believing he had been in contact with the kidnapers.

Curtis is charged with obstructing the orderly processes of justice. He supposedly confessed, after the Lindbergh baby's body had been found near Hopewell, that he had manufactured his story of negotiations with the kidnapers.

Demanded Proof

He sat today, 10 feet from the dead child's father, beside his 11-year-old daughter, Constance, and his two brothers, George and Sandusky Curtis, from Norfolk.

Anthony M. Hauck Jr., district attorney who has full charge of the prosecution, told the jury of five women and seven men that he hoped to prove that Curtis tried to get in touch with Colonel Lindbergh for the purpose of perpetrating the hoax.

Hauck declared that after Curtis had come forward with the statement that he had been in contact with the kidnapers, and that they wanted $25,000 ransom, Colonel Lindbergh refused to put up the money, insisting that he would need definite proof before posting the ransom.

Police authorities, the prosecutor said, had abandoned numerous clues that might have been important in order to follow the leads furnished by the Virginian.

"Railroading" Charged

Rymann Herr, chief of defense counsel, indicated today that he and his cohorts are prepared to battle every move of the prosecution. He even stood up in the hushed, crowded courtroom and accused the state police of having "railroaded" Curtis, and of continuing their efforts to send him to prison.

Almost the entire dramatis personae of the now famous Lindbergh case was present in the courtroom when Judge Adam O. Robbins, brusque and business-like, called the session to order.

Betty Gow, attractive English nursemaid who was Baby Lindbergh's constant companion, sat beside Ollie Wheatley, the dour, unemotional Lindbergh butler. Mrs. Wheatley, cook in the Lindbergh house, sat back of Betty. Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf occupied a seat a few feet from Colonel Lindbergh. Neither Dean H. Dobson Peacock, nor Admiral H. Guy Burrage, the two Norfolk men who were allied with Curtis in the so-called negotiations, was present.

Lindbergh told how Curtis, Dean Peacock and Admiral Burrage had come to his home in the middle of March.

Told of Visit

"Burrage said," the colonel testified, "that he had received information from Curtis which he thought important enough to bring to my attention. Mr. Curtis stated that he had been approached in the

Nurse Ends Testimony Against David Hutton After Week Of Court

LOS ANGELES, June 27. (UP)—A lone "mystery witness" remained tonight on the list summoned by Myrtle St. Pierre to bolster her $200,000 heartbalm suit against David L. Hutton, obese husband of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton the revivalist.

The attractive nurse herself ended a week-long ordeal on the witness stand late today amid a fresh outburst of charges, denials and tears calculated to leave a vivid impression with the 12 middle-aged jurors.

The rapidity with which other witnesses were called and dismissed indicated the 31-year-old nurse's testimony was almost the entire basis for her charges that "Iron Dave" Hutton wooed her and then betrayed her under promise of marriage.

History of Kisses

She sighed with relief as she left the stand after denying endless questions of Hutton's attorneys as to kisses she allegedly bestowed on other men. Besides the corpulent choir master. She hasn't kissed Edgar Ebens, theater organist, for five years and never did kiss Lloyd Curry, Pasadena station agent, she said.

The complainant's 28-year-old sister, Mrs. Mildred McCaffery, who has been helpful throughout the trial with smelling salts and ice water every time Mrs. St. Pierre faltered, was the next witness.

"Hazel introduced me to Mr. Hutton as her future husband," said Mrs. McCaffery. "He put his arms around me and kissed me when I congratulated them. I also saw some candy and a string of beads he gave her."

Sidney Solomon, butcher boy, also was introduced to Hutton as the nurse's future helpmeet. That was when the two came in for a steak, "to cook a good dinner for Mr. Hutton."

Hutton's Guard Disarmed

Mrs. Elizabeth Mack gave similar testimony. When she ended, Mrs. St. Pierre's battery of lawyers said their last witness, who was understood to have important testimony, will be called in the morning.

Hutton sat through it all with unruffled calm, although his whispered asides of "bunk" came less frequently. He apparently was prepared for an emergency, since a gun was removed by bailiffs from E. T. Crider, who described himself as Hutton's bodyguard.

Just after the gun episode Mrs. St. Pierre testified that she received numerous telephone warnings to drop her suit—so many, in fact, that she went into hiding and changed her name.

A shout of protest arose from Mrs. St. Pierre's counsel as Hutton's lawyers sought to bring out the address where she has been living the last 10 days. Superior Judge Lester Roth, after a conference with attorneys, informed the jury Mrs. St. Pierre had been living in a single, one room apartment, and that the address was not necessary.

SCENARIO WRITER AWARDED DAMAGES FROM AIMEE

LOS ANGELES, June 27. (UP)—Damages of $10,000 were awarded Harvey H. Gates, scenario writer, against Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton by Superior Judge Arthur Crum late today after a two-day trial.

The noted woman evangelist was ill in a suburban sanitarium when the verdict was returned, and in a nearby courtroom, her husband, David L. Hutton, was defending himself in a $200,000 heartbalm suit.

Gates charged Mrs. Hutton and J. Roy Stewart, film director, retained him to write a scenario, "Clay in the Potter's Hands," in which the revivalist was to have a leading role. Plans for the picture were abandoned after he wrote the script and he received no compensation, Gates said.

North Texas Receives Cooling Fall of Rain

Rain fell over this section in varying quantities Monday, ranging from a light shower in Wichita Falls to heavy rains at points south of here to Fort Worth.

Precipitation here registered .02 of an inch. A heavy shower fell at Electra and vicinity. Hardest rain fell in the territory south from Henrietta.

Temperatures dropped here with the rain. The mercury rested at 73 degrees at 5 o'clock, the low mark for the 24-hour period ending at that time. The maximum for the period was 92 degrees.

STERLING RALLY

DALLAS, June 27. (AP)—Dallas supporters of Gov. R. S. Sterling announced today that a state-wide rally in behalf of his candidacy for re-election would be held here on the night of July 11. Ex-Governor Dan Moody will be one of the chief speakers.

California Companies Raise Price After Crude Boost

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27. (AP)—The major oil companies advanced the price of gasoline 2½c a gallon today at all stations served out of California refineries.

The advance conformed roughly with the increase in crude oil prices put into effect in California fields yesterday, although it was proportionately somewhat smaller.

The crude price increase effective yesterday raised 75c oil to $1 a barrel and other grades proportionately.

CROWD CHEERS BAILEY SPEECH

Son of Noted Texan Lists Issues in Race

With more than 350 cheering listeners crowding the 78th district courtroom, the spirit of an illustrious Texan, Joe W. Bailey, was abroad Monday night when Joseph Weldon Bailey Jr. delivered with terse eloquence his plea for nomination as congressman at large, place 2, in the coming Democratic primaries.

Stating modestly in his opening sentence that he "laid no claims to eloquence, and made no pretense of being a political orator," the candidate proceeded at once to grip his audience under a forceful delivery in which a convincing, driving style blended effectively with a consummate exposition of Democratic principles of government.

Two Chief Issues

Mr. Bailey confined his address to two issues, after declaring that "there are at least 30 questions in this country far more pressing for solution than prohibition." He hammered first upon the present national administration for alleged "profligate waste of countless billions of dollars, every penny of which must be and has been drawn from taxpayers like you and me." Under an impassioned plea for the exercise of purely Democratic principles in the application of governmental powers, he charged that control of liquor is imperative, but it should be vested in "the sovereign states of this imperiled union."

"To my mind" the speaker said, "Democratic principles demand of our federal government an economical administration under a strict construction of our constitution. This is one doctrine which will do more to return this country to good times, and good government, than any other single demand which we could make. Do you realize that

Negro Contests Rule Limiting Vote to Whites

HOUSTON, June 27. (AP)—Suit for injunction to restrain enforcement of a resolution of the state Democratic convention limiting the vote to qualified white voters was filed in federal court today by Julius White, negro.

The action named J. B. Lubbock, chairman, and Charles Kamp, secretary, and other members of the county Democratic executive committee. The petition alleged that inasmuch as White has paid taxes and that materials for voting were paid out of taxes he was entitled to vote.

The suit also alleged the resolution was unconstitutional.

AGREEMENT ON UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF NEARS

Speaker Garner Appears At Joint Committee Hearing on Bill

CALL ECONOMY VOTE

Senate to Reconsider Its Action on Measure For Saving Money

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Indications of a compromise on the $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill came from house and senate conferees today, as congress speeded action on the big governmental appropriation measures.

With all plans for congressional adjournment hanging on the outcome of their negotiations, representatives of the house and senate worked all day long toward an agreement on the jobless aid measures passed by the two branches.

They reported that no final decision had been reached but there was evidence of progress and some of it toward President Hoover's views.

Garner Appears

Speaker Garner threw precedent to the winds by appearing personally before the conferees to urge his bill which the house approved.

Meanwhile, the house passed and sent to the president the District of Columbia appropriation bill, the second of the 10 annual supply measures which must be placed on the statute books by Thursday night, the end of this fiscal year.

On a test vote the senate indicated it will yield to the house on the economy bill, and thus clear up the last controversy on that measure.

Vote Asks Return

The vote came on a motion by Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee to request the house to return the bill, which was sent to the house when the senate last week rejected the conference report.

The motion was carried by a vote of 29-17. Jones still has a motion pending to reconsider the vote by which the senate rejected the conference report.

The senate stuck to its position of allowing only $600,000 for farm board operation funds this year instead of the $1,000,000 voted by the house. This left to conferees on the independent offices appropriations bill, to which the item is attached, the only possibility of the board's getting the larger sum from its unexpended balances.

By a 33 to 12 vote an effort failed to have the senate reconsider the reduction agreed upon last week.

Coroner Blames Death Of Doctor to Suicide

AUSTIN, June 27. (AP)—Dr. Morris H. Boerner, whose body was found yesterday near a lane about 16 miles west of Austin, "had cut his throat while sitting in a car about 50 yards from where he was lying," according to a verdict entered today by Justice of the Peace Frank Tannehill.

An open razor was found in his hand, the verdict stated.

Burial was planned for late today.

Bridge Company Files Briefs in Damage Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 27. (UP)—Attorneys for the Red River Bridge company have filed briefs in their suit to enjoin further use of the Denison-Durant free bridge until alleged damages are collected by the company, the attorney general's office was advised today.

Although the state also has filed briefs in the case, no ruling is expected before fall from Federal Judge John C. Pollock, Kansas City.

W. T. Westbrook Elected President of Singers

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 27.—W. T. Westbrook was elected president of the community singers at the bimonthly meeting Sunday afternoon. The meeting was held at the Church of God. Westbrook succeeds J. C. Robertson, who moved to Wichita Falls recently. Westbrook has served as vice president of the organization for the past several months. The next singing will be held July 10 at the First Baptist church.

'Reds' Held at Waco After Letters Circulated

WACO, Texas, June 27. (AP)—Four men suspected of Communist activities were held in jail here tonight. No charges had been filed.

Chief of Police Hollis Barron said the men were held for federal officers, who would return tomorrow. Police said letters advocating overthrow of the government by arms were found in the possession of one of the men and inflammatory circulars had been distributed among Mexicans and negroes.

FARM BOARD APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON, June 27. (UP)—The senate confirmed today the reappointment of C. B. Denman of Missouri as member of the federal farm board.

Receiver Raskob Speaks and G. M. Stocks Tumble

By WILL ROGERS
(Copy't, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 27.—Raskob, the receiver of the Democratic party, opened the convention and General Motors dropped five points.

The talking started at 12 o'clock and everybody didn't become entirely exhausted till almost 4.

Raskob spoke of his "great interest" in the Democratic party. Interest nothing, he will do well to even get 50 per cent of his principal back that he has put in it. He said it had been an "experience and a lesson to him."

The Democrats showed the touch with the common people by having Miss Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army ask the Lord to bless 'em around early November.

When she took the stand to deliver her invocation a lot of delegates just out of force of habit started to go up and get their rations. It was a fitting tribute to the head of this great charity organization to have picked her for the Democrats are much nearer the Salvation Army than the Republicans. And evidently being a Democrat, Miss Booth prayed very long and earnestly. She didn't read her prayer which was an improvement over all the men preachers.

The Democrats always sing the Star-Spangled Banner. The Republicans never sing (till after election). The lady singer knew

GIGANTIC GOLD LEDGE BARED

Alaskans Find Tremendous Store of Metal

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 27. (AP)—Fred Johanson and E. E. Smith, of Cordova, claimed today they have discovered "the biggest ledge of gold in the world."

They have staked 22 claims near mile 41 of the Copper River railway where the recent breaking of a huge glacier lake washed away the entire side of a mountain.

They are backed by Emil Helekal, Cordova business man. Experienced mining men here said if present indications hold it will be the biggest gold mine in the world.

The discoverers said the ledge is only two and one-half miles from the railroad tracks and is exposed for a width of about 1,800 feet and a depth of 1,500 feet. They could not estimate how deep it extends underground.

They said they already have traced it a mile and a half back and have "three hundred millions tons of ore in sight with assays running $3 a ton."

Candidates to Speak At Rocky Point Tonight

ELECTRA, Texas, June 27.—A number of Electrans plan to attend the ice cream supper at the Rocky Point school house Tuesday night. Candidates for state, county, district and precinct offices will be present and will make brief talks. Proceeds from the supper will go to the home demonstration club of Beaver creek, who is sponsoring the affair. A program will also be given.

Demurers Heard In Pipe Line Fraud Case

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Demurrers to the indictments of Frank P. Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, and three other officials, were taken under advisement today by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

They were charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of the company's stock. The defense contended the indictments were insufficient.

Child Slips From Back Of Father and Drowns

DALLAS, June 27. (AP)—James Lawrence, 8, was drowned today near Irving in Dallas county when he choked his step-father, Clifford Moore, on whose back he was riding, and the two went under. Moore struggled to the surface again but could not find the boy. The child's body was recovered a quarter of an hour later.

COMPROMISE ON MAJORITY RULE IS PRESENTED

Committee Endorses Plan To Abrogate Section After Six Votes

WETS FRAMING PLANK

Organization Committee Supports Walsh For Chairman

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—With two rapid history making votes, the Democratic rules committee tonight proposed to abandon the traditional clad two-thirds rule and to select the presidential and vice presidential candidates before adopting the platform.

In discarding the two-thirds rule, the Roosevelt dominated committee adopted a plan for presentation to the convention tomorrow under which if the first six ballots fail to produce a two-thirds majority for any candidate, the party would be permitted to choose its presidential nominee by a majority vote.

The first is designed to prevent the balloting for the presidential nomination deadlock the convention. In the debate that preceded the adoption of the second, no reason was brought out for the change.

Both proposals came from the Roosevelt camp and both were opposed by the forces that are contesting his nomination for the presidency. In the debate against both of them, Atlee Pomerene, the former senator from Ohio, was one of the most vigorous opponents.

Both proposals go almost immediately into a fight on the convention floor. Immediately after the tentative planks had been adopted, dissenting factions on the committee assembled and drew up resolutions which they will present to the delegates tomorrow with demands for their adoption.

PLATFORM WRITERS DELAYED AGAIN

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Prohibition and farm relief disputes broke over the Democratic platform making committee tonight, forcing a day's delay in completion of the 1932 party declaration.

The prohibition issue was deferred, without committee discussion as the wets went into a separate caucus to formulate a plank committing the party to repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Eleven states with 454 votes in the convention were represented in the wet movement launched by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts who has the backing of Alfred E. Smith, anti-Roosevelt leader.

Roosevelt forces, with a comfortable committee majority, are confident of carrying a straight repeal submission plank, although the issue will go to the floor.

An attempt to settle the vexing farm relief plank tonight brought fresh trouble. Representatives of organized agriculture waited outside the door for a hearing but the committee declined it on the ground that no attempt had been made for a hearing by the farm leaders last week.

NEW YORK WILL VOTE FOR SHOUSE

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Tammany gave Roosevelt supporters of Senator Thomas J. Walsh a blow tonight just after the Democratic committee on permanent organization recommended the Montana Democrat be made the convention's permanent chairman.

Al Smith made a characteristic ringing plea for the selection of Jouett Shouse instead of Walsh. Then the New York delegation, largest of all, voted overwhelmingly for Shouse, the tiger throwing its strength solidly for him.

Both developments, along with Mississippi's decision to cast at least 13 of its 20 votes for Walsh, were only preludes, however, to settlement of the issue on the floor tomorrow.

Enemies Of Favorite Gather Strength For Chairmanship Battle

Certain Strife to Strike on Second Day of Convention as Opening Session Brings But One Demonstration, When Wets Stage Parade After Barkley Keynote Speech

By EDWARD J. DUFFY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 27.—Riding as it wished through the first session of the Democratic convention and in the committees it set up, but not so roughshod as it set out to do, the Roosevelt organization tonight based hopes for a fast getaway toward the presidential nomination tomorrow on a compromise plan for ditching the two-thirds rule if no candidate is nominated under it on the first six ballots.

By 30 to 20, the rules committee that was conceded to belong to it in advance, the set-up of the New York governor approved a requirement whereby a simple majority would nominate on the seventh ballot.

Repeal Drive Planned

The Rooseveltian platform committee, meanwhile, proceeded with plans to recommend submission of a prohibition repeal amendment in the face of an organized minority that decided to go for advocating outright repeal and modification of the Volstead act.

Spurred by the 10-minute uprising of enthusiasm by the anti-prohibitionists in the afternoon meeting of the convention, delegates from 11 states gathered with Senator Walsh of Massachusetts to support his insistence on repeal that already has the outspoken backing of Alfred E. Smith.

There will be a minority contest against the rule recommended, Smith and other Roosevelt rivals having determined to combat anything except the two-thirds rule that for a century has governed Democratic nominations.

Two Battles Today

That will make the second big battle in tomorrow's meeting, the Roosevelt-controlled permanent organization committee having voted 36 to 12 tonight for Senator Walsh of Montana for permanent chairman as against Jouett Shouse—wanted by the "antis."

Accepting a suggestion from Roosevelt sources, the rules committee also voted tonight to put off convention action on the platform—and thereby the prohibition dispute until after the presidential nomination is made, which is a reversal of the usual procedure. This would give a full opportunity to frame the platform in accord with the convictions of the candidate. It was recalled that after Smith was nominated four years ago in Houston, he elected to speak his mind frankly on prohibition—although his views had found no reflection in the platform.

Question Arises

The states represented in the minority wet meeting tonight have 454 of the 1154 votes in the convention.

One of the major questions concerning all sides tonight was the extent to which those Roosevelt states a consequential group, which were against the two-thirds rule or split on abrogating it, will go along on the six-ballot trial compromise.

Solitary Demonstration

The solitary convention demonstration of any size was set off by the keynote address of Senator Barkley of Kentucky—a Roosevelt man and regarded as a dry—who declared for submission of repeal to the decision of state conventions.

That held sway and commanded the gleeful attention of the many for the time. But as soon as the convention quieted again, it was Governor Roosevelt's order from Albany against going ahead with the effort to authorize nomination by a simple majority that tipped the whispering tongues of all. News of the telegram to James A. Farley, the Roosevelt manager, had just spread through the assemblage.

Through the morning, in continued state caucuses, defections from the Roosevelt leadership had come in such states as Alabama, North Carolina and Maine, leading his opponents to proclaim it meant the 100-year-old two-thirds tradition would live on at least for the present. The word soon spread that its enemies would give up the ship, various Roosevelt captains denied

FISTS FLY AS TEXANS BATTLE OVER REPEAL

Wets and Drys Fight For Possession of Banner During Parade

By FRED DYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 27.—The squabble of the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention over prohibition reached a climax today with a major disturbance on the convention floor. A few fists were swung but no material damage was done.

When Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the keynoter, reached his declaration in favor of repealing the national prohibition act, numerous state banners were swung aloft and a wild and enthusiastic demonstration was started, with the delegates marching, shouting and singing.

Brennan Guards Flag

Hal Brennan, Laredo, big and strong, former state commander of the American Legion, had a firm grasp on the pole to which was affixed the Texas place marker. Nobody seemed able to wrest it from his hands to be carried in the parade, but to make doubly sure the standard did not show in the parade, Grady Woodruff, Decatur, also quite a bit of a husky, reached up and tore off the pasteboard placard labelled "Texas," folded it up and put it in his pocket.

A wet grabbed the banner pole and started in the parade and C. K. Walsh, Wichita Falls, a wet, moved to join in the parade but Mrs. George E. Sevey, a comely Chicagoan, also a wet, thought he was attempting to keep the banner out of the parade and stuck a small foot out in the aisle. Walsh went down headlong.

In the surge for the Texas standard, Maury Hughes, Dallas attorney who last Saturday night won a place on the important resolutions and platform committee, was knocked down and contents of a soda pop bottle spilled over him.

Chambers Makes Card

Determined Texas should be represented in the demonstration, C. M. Chambers, mayor of San Antonio, grabbed a piece of paper and with a pencil wrote "Texas" on it and carried it around the stadium. Brennan said he maintained his grasp on the standard until Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, requested him to release it, but the formal place marker never did appear in the parade.

After the demonstration the placard was smoothed out and restored to its proper place.

Mrs. Henry Humphrey, wife of the Texarkana editor, was the only Texas woman delegate who participated in the demonstration.

A. C. Flynt, Lincoln delegate, said he was across the street in a saloon when he heard the demonstration over the radio and rushed back to the stadium to join in.

The Texas delegation found some satisfaction today in the request by Gov. F. D. Roosevelt of New York that his cohorts here not press for abrogation of the two-thirds majority rule for nomination.

"We are glad Governor Roosevelt has seen the light and now agrees with us," said Walter C. Woodward, Coleman, vice chairman of the delegation. The Texans voted against abandoning the rule in their caucus last Saturday night.

F. D. Second Choice

While remaining staunchly for Garner, there were enough Roosevelt second choices among the delegates to turn the entire 46 votes for the New Yorker should Speaker John W. Garner ever see fit to release the delegation from the instructions voted by the Houston convention.

That that point never would be reached was the assertion of the Garner leaders who continued to work under high pressure to obtain for their man all unpledged votes and, with possible breaks in the ranks of other candidates, to swerve released votes into the Garner column.

"We still have a wonderful chance and are going to make the most of it," said Hughes.

State to Require Bidders To Make Financial Report

AUSTIN, June 27. (AP)—The Texas highway department today asked contractors who expect to bid on state highway construction during the next six months to submit sworn statements of their financial condition as of June 30.

ENDURANCE FLIER KILLED

ROSEDALE, Miss., June 27. (AP)—John Hunter, one of four brothers who set a world's airplane endurance record at Chicago two years ago, was killed here today when the propellor of his ship struck his head.

Wichita Visitor Predicts Hunter Will Lead Ticket in First Primary

Sentiment for Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls is crystallizing rapidly in all parts of the state, and promise to sweep into first place in the first primary, Judge J. W. Radcliffe of Moran, strong Hunter supporter, declared here Monday.

Judge Radcliffe, formerly a resident of this city, has been engaged in campaigning for Mr. Hunter during the past three months. He spent last week in Cook, Montague, Grayson and Jack counties. Democratic leaders in those communities assured him, he said, that "if the election were to be held now, Tom Hunter not only would get into the run-off, but would have a majority in the first election."

Plans were being completed Monday for another meeting of the local Hunter campaign committee to be held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the county court room. Judge Radcliffe indicated his intention of remaining in the city for that session, planning to leave immediately thereafter for West Texas.

Plans for asking Gov. R. S. Sterling and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson to meet Hunter in debate here on July 8, the date announced for a Hunter rally, were under consideration Monday. It was said that many supporters of the local man had urged that such an arrangement be made if possible.

"Nothing would please us more," said J. B. Marlow, chairman of the Hunter committee here.

Murray Keeps Steady Hand at Helm Of Sooner Group to Forestall Stampede

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Oklahoma's delegation to the Democratic national convention remained a potential "bloc" tonight as Gov. William H. Murray, himself a candidate for the nomination for president, made sure his solid group would not be stampeded by any of the convention movements that made the preliminary lobbies a maelstrom of uncertainty.

Murray personally held on to the state standard when the first flurry of excitement broke out during the keynote address at Senator Barkley's mention of prohibition repeal.

"Oklahoma is dry constitutionally and will remain that way," the militant governor declared. "I didn't let the fanatics stampede me when I was in congress, and I don't propose to let the hoodlums stampede me now."

From the beginning of his campaign, the Oklahoma governor has expressed the view "folks are not going to worry about where to buy something to drink when they are hungry." If the convention swings into a wilder demonstration on the liquor question, the Sooner banner probably never will get into line.

The Oklahoma delegation will remain a "Murray-for-president" group until the governor releases its vote, but rumors were current the delegation would "have a bit of fun" before it gets down to serious balloting. It was likely after casting its first votes for Murray, the vicinity of Norfolk by a man claiming to be able to bring about the return of my son.

LINDY DETAILS CURTIS HOAX

Boatbuilder on Trial For Obstructing Justice

"Mr. Curtis wished to know what amount of ransom I was willing to pay if my son was returned. I replied that I could not discuss any amount of ransom unless I had positive identification of the persons with whom I was dealing. Curtis said the amount of $25,000 had been suggested and the people he was in contact with were willing to give me an opportunity to identify the baby before I paid the ransom. They agreed to receive payment after identification by me."

Questions Listed

Curtis came to the Lindbergh home on April 18, the colonel said, and they discussed his "negotiations." The boat builder said at that time, Lindbergh testified, that he had seen several hundred dollars of the ransom money which had been paid to Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon, and that the serial numbers corresponded. An agreement was reached at this time, Colonel Lindbergh testified, that the next time Curtis contacted the alleged kidnapers, he would personally join the negotiations. They were to meet at the Prince George hotel in New York.

Later Colonel Lindbergh said he drove to Cape May courthouse, New Jersey and contacted Curtis, who told him the kidnap gang had furnished him with a list of questions to ask the child's father, chiefly concerning governmental activity in the vicinity of Cape May courthouse.

Damaging Testimony

As Colonel Lindbergh continued his story it became apparent that his testimony would prove damaging to Curtis.

"Curtis said," the flier declared, "that he had been taken to a Gloucester fisherman where he met the entire gang. There were five men in the gang. They were all of Scandinavian descent. He said that John was there and said also that John sent his love to Dr. Condon. The gang was split into two groups. One was led by "Dynamite' and the other by John. John was by far the most desperate character in the gang. Dynamite was in his control. Curtis said he had seen over $3,000 of the ransom money and that he had checked the bills against a newspaper list and the numbers were the same and identical with those in the newspaper list.

Curtis Described Gang

"He said he checked several hundred dollars. He claimed that John wanted to sell the baby to a group making the highest bid, but they were afraid to carry out negotiations with any other gang. Dynamite agreed to return the baby to me. Curtis said that two of the men in the gang were named Eric and Nils. He also said that there was a regular fishing crew on the boat and also members of a gang which consisted of a rum running crew, led by a man named Murray, sometimes known also as Sam.

"Dynamite had agreed to take the baby and its German nurse in his boat. He said he was going to make contact in the vicinity of Block island where he would return the child to us. He said he would drop his regular fishing crew and take on the rum running crew. Delivery was to be made the following morning in the vicinity of Block island. Curtis said he was told to return to New York and get a chart of the waters in the vicinity of Block island and mark on the chart the spot where delivery was to be made."

Following adjournment it was indicated Colonel Lindbergh will resume his testimony at tomorrow's session.

Bailey Assails Government Costs

since 1909 the cost of this government, state and national, has grown from $1,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000 in 1923? That is a growth from 2 per cent of our total national income to 22.3 per cent—in 24 years.

Pleading for state control of the liquor traffic, the speaker declared that close responsibility of state officers to their constituencies guarantees a much more effective enforcement of prohibition laws than can emanate from federal control.

"With me it is not a question of wet or dry; it is a question of governmental principle," he said. "When we view a thing from a moral viewpoint alone, we forget the governmental principles involved, neglect other and more important issues, and make it profitable for every office-holder to remain non-committal on all issues.

Will Vote His Convictions

"If you want a representative who votes dry and drinks wet, you may have him; but I won't have him. If you don't want a representative who is ardently devoted to the Democratic principles upon which the perpetuity of this country depends, then don't vote for me. I will vote my convictions with absolute sincerity. If you want my office, you may have it; but you can not take my convictions from me."

Mr. Bailey was presented by Judge W. E. Fitzgerald, who introduced the speaker as "the son of the greatest Democrat of his time, the greatest statesman in our state's history." Judge Fitzgerald was introduced by Judge Edgar Scurry, who presided.

Rogers Praises Cermak's Talk

both verses and I was just starting to write about her complimenting her when I found she had notes made and was reading from them.

Next come Mayor Cermak of Chicago. He beat 'em all to the name of Thomas Jefferson. (It's always a race with the Democrats to see which speaker can mention Jefferson first.) Well, Cermack drew the first blood of the Democratic national convention by grabbing Jefferson early. It was awfully timely the way he dragged him in. He said: "Chicago and Thomas Jefferson had much in common; they both loved liberty."

The mayor said, "The next president has not been named yet." Did he mean that there is no name that Herbert Hoover hasn't yet been called? But the mayor made a good speech.

Now comes California. Isadore Dockweiler read Thomas Jefferson's first inaugural address. It wasn't so long. That ought to have been a tip right there to the other speakers if they were true disciples of Jefferson.

Now comes Senator Barkley with the "keynotes." What do you mean "note?" This was no note. This was in three volumes. Barkley leaves from here to go to the Olympic games to run in the marathon. He will win it too for that race only lasts three or four hours.

But it had to be a long speech for when you start enumerating the things that the Republicans have got away with in the last 12 years you have cut yourself out a job.

He just touched on the highlights of their devilment. He didn't have time to go into detail. This is one keynote speech you can forgive the length for when you jot down our ills you got to have a lot of paper. He had it all over the Republican keynoter for this fellow was reading facts while the other fellow had to read "alibis."

Barkley did a fine job of delivery, and too, he was on his feet at the finish.

Rule Compromise Wins Adoption

for the guidance of the New York member of the committee on permanent organization and does not bind the delegates.

But Smith chuckled over the outcome, declaring:

"I guess this elects Shouse without any question."

John F. Curry, Tammany leader, who saw his organization fall perfectly in line behind him for the second time in two days, smiled broadly as the result was announced. The New York group yesterday voted against abrogation of the two-thirds rule.

COMMITTEE VOTES TO SUPPORT WALSH

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—The Roosevelt dominated committee on permanent organization tonight voted by 36 to 12 to make Senator Walsh of Montana permanent chairman over Jouett Shouse.

The committee's recommendation must be ratified by the convention. Both sides are claiming victory.

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone voted for Walsh.

Shouse was given the vote of California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia and Alaska.

There were no committee members from Indiana, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, District of Columbia or the Philippines present.

Shouse supporters did the expected in filing notice of a minority report, preparatory to the floor fight.

RITCHIE MAY GET ALLIES' SUPPORT

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—An agreement under which Tammany hall and forces supporting Alfred E. Smith would throw their support to Governor Ritchie of Maryland was under discussion tonight by members of the three groups.

Mayor Frank Hague, Smith's campaign manager, was understood to have sounded John F. Curry, Tammany leader, on the feasibility of throwing support to the Maryland governor, and avowed candidate for the nomination.

Curry, although silent on the whole convention situation, was represented by those in close contact with him as doubting Governor Roosevelt could be nominated.

He was reported to base this opinion on the change of plans on the two-thirds rule, since Tammany quarters generally felt this indicated weakness.

Demos Retain Two-Third Rule for Nomination

it, but surely enough the telegram was forthcoming before long.

Telegram Causes Chagrin

Not all of those heading the organization of the governor knew about it in advance, and some—when informed on the convention floor by reporters—expressed deep chagrin. They would not venture to predict what effects might be felt.

"I'm still for the majority rule," said Governor Woodring of Kansas—a Roosevelt state.

In his telegram, Roosevelt said he had been assured by friends "that they have a majority of votes to adopt a majority rule," but since the issue had not been raised until after the delegates had been selected he would "decline to permit either myself or my friends to be open to the accusation of poor sportsmanship."

He asked a cessation of efforts to get a majority nominating rule "at the opening of the convention," suggesting, however, that the rules committee recommend "some rule to insure against the catastrophe of a deadlock or prolonged balloting."

Republicans Denounced

This last part caused Senator Glass of Virginia, who is for Harry Byrd for the nomination, to raise his eyebrows—saying it carried a "clear implication" that the Rooseveltians may try later to cast aside the two-thirds requirement.

On the surface of the crowded convention floor proper, there were but the barest hints of the strife at work underneath. Both Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt leaders hurried hither and yon to consult with spokesmen for state delegations, then left the scene.

Senator Barkley had the audience with him from the word go—especially in his denunciation of Republican deeds in general and the Hoover administration in particular; and finally when he urged submission of a repeal amendment.

Jumping at that signal, delegation after delegation pushed in parade through the narrow aisles in back-slapping good humor, cavorting and shouting and acting to all appearances as one. But it was noted that the state standards of Virginia, Nebraska, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Alabama and Kansas stayed fast—and delegates in those vicinities remained seated.

Tribute to Wilson

The convention had given voice to enthusiasm in a mild way on but a few other occasions. One was when Barkley paid tribute to the war-time President Wilson, whose widow acknowledged the applause with bows from her box facing the speaker's stand.

Another was when Al Smith was escorted in by police and hurried to the New York delegation to sit in front of John W. Davis and Mayor "Jimmy" Walker. For barely a minute the applause went on, and he was seated before many could see him.

Others who won the applause from the packed floor and almost filled galleries included Governors Ritchie of Maryland, and Murray of Oklahoma, and former Governor Byrd of Virginia—all out after the nomination with the very local support of their state delegations.

Barkley Flays Tariff

In old-fashioned stump style, and with a penetrating voice that grew hoarse as he spoke on for two hours, Senator Barkley singled out the Smoot-Hawley tariff and the farm board especially for his barbs. The first, he said, brought retaliation from more than 40 nations to the detriment of American trade. He termed the latter a $500,000,000 failure.

For farm relief, he pledged his party would take the government "out of the dubious adventure of speculation" in farm products and assist producers of surplus crops to get the surplus into world markets "and obtain for that consumed at home an amount equal to the world price plus whatever advantage may accrue from our domestic conditions and our international trade relationships."

The Democrats propose "to reduce the exorbitant and indefensible rates" of the present tariff, he said, and to inaugurate international trade conferences "with a view to the reopening of normal trade channels. He assured that "legitimate claims of American business" would not be ignored but would be promoted.

Economy Pledged

Promising governmental economy, the senator said the party would "abolish every useless office."

On relief: "While we believe in and insist on the primary obligation of local agencies, we do not believe that a great nation can or will see its defenders or their dependents suffer from want or neglect while we engage in sophomoric dispute over the identity of first aid.

The Democrats have fully cooperated with the administration toward alleviating the existing emergency, Barkley concluded, in presenting this picture:

"Our house was on fire and we could not stop to dispute over the brand on the hook and ladder. Though the fire chief was known to be vacillating, uncertain, timid and afraid of the smoke and flames, we have tried to make the best of it and get along with him until we can secure a better one, which we expect to do on the fourth of next March."

Opening Delayed

Forty-five minutes late in starting, with Chairman John J. Raskob and the police having much difficulty in getting the crowding delegates in order, the opening session went for three hours before it adjourned at 4:08 p. m.

In greeting the convention on behalf of Chicago, Mayor Anton Cermak brought the first brief rise with a declaration for flat repeal of prohibition. The same view was given in a surprise speech by Raskob, in which he said:

"The Republican party should hang its head in shame for the deceit it attempts to perpetrate on the citizens of the United States in presenting the prohibition plank contained in its platform. That plank, like its authors, is so intellectually dishonest that its mere presentation insults the intelligence of American citizens."

Speculation Rampant

The one time that quiet blanked the huge gathering was when Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, prayed with reverent voice and bowed head as the first woman to give the invocation at a national political convention.

The all-engaging topic in hotel corridors tonight was as to what effect the Roosevelt abandonment of the two-thirds rule dispute would have on his candidacy. Manager Farley insisted it would interfere not at all with his prediction of a two-thirds nomination on the first ballot. But all his supporters were not quite so positive.

Anti-Saloon League Bides Its Decision

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 27. (INS)—The Anti-Saloon League will await the close of the Democratic national convention before indicating where it will throw its support, Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent, said today.

Dr. McBride said both Gov. Franklin Roosevelt and former Gov. Al Smith, of New York, were unacceptable to the league.

Philippine Independence Measure Introduced

WASHINGTON, June 27. (INS)—A bill granting complete independence to the Philippine islands in two and a half years was offered today by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

King's bill was presented as a substitute for the pending Hawes-Cutting bill which contemplates unconditional Philippine independence at the end of 19 years.

Evangeline Booth Delivers Opening Prayer at Democratic Convention

STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 27. (INS)—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army delivered the following invocation at the opening of the Democratic national convention here today:

"Almighty God, Wonderful Counselor, Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. The government is upon thy shoulder. It is in thy name we gather here today and in reverence and humility acknowledge thee king of eternity, measurer of time. The years perish, but thy throne endureth forever.

"We plead for thy blessing upon these thy servants assembled in this convention, representing all states and territories within this great republic, which, in thy gracious providence, thou has committed to her citizens as a most solemn and abiding heritage of responsibility.

"In this tragic hour of the world's history we wonder if there is an interpretation of thy will, written upon the walls of the nations in letters of want and sorrow, which we have not caught. O God of all good, has the dark mantle which has enwrapped us been of they permitting? Has the great drive of commerce, the onrushing tide of unequaled progress, the ever-increasing resources of our country's wealth, been broken in upon by the call of sacrifice, suffering and want, lest we forget?

"Forget that a nation's power is not alone to be found in its material advantages; forget that its fleets, its armies, its wealth, the extent of its territories are not alone the measure of its strength? But thou in the majesty of they unerring wisdom hast decreed that a nation's power shall rather be found in its moral influences, in the authority of its enlightened teaching, in the righteousness of its politics, and in its ascendancy in goodness and truth. Blessed Lord, grant that these may be the forces which shall wave their invincible banners over the hearts and lives of mankind.

"Dear Heavenly Father, father of us all, we plead with thee; give to us light that will show the way; give to us courage that will overcome the seemingly impossible; give to us wisdom that will unravel the tangled threads of national problems; so that by thy divine guidance we may reach a realization of thy will, which will bring us out of our losses, pains and tears into a loftier understanding and a deeper insight of thy divine truth. Dear Lord give to our mortal eyesight immortal vision. Grant that we may hear new sounds, feel new sympathies, thrill with new love; lead us into a more vivid consciousness that thou art in thy world; that thy presence is bound about us as a healing breath, and at this grave moment in the annals of mankind, when the foundations of orderly commonwealths and assured faith are so deeply disturbed, oh, may our anchorage be in thee.

"Dear crucified Lord, in the shadow of thy cross, may we receive that moral strength, that divine courage which will enable us to combat the evils of selfishness, greed, indulgence and all unworthiness that would prevent our deliberations leading us to decisions for the highest good of the little village as well as of the great city; for the poor and the nearly poor as well as for those who have plenty; those who are weak in the face of temptation, as well as for those who can stand strong.

"Help us, dear Savior, to remember that in this great thorng this morning we appear before thee as individuals, separate and alone. Be thou the captain of our souls! Then, if poverty comes we shall not be so poor, and if sorrow comes we shall not be so sad, and if death comes we shall not be afraid.

"O thou God of all nations, Jesus Christ the world's redeemer, hear us as we pray, for thy dear name's sake. Amen."

delegation would swing to Will Rogers for a complimentary expression to a beloved state celebrity, then swing back to Murray to be used in any way he sees fit to throw its powers in the heated nomination contest. Some delegates predicted in the case of a ballot snarl, Murray might find himself able to dictate the nomination with the 23 votes he holds in the palm of his hand. But that was pure conjecture.

The ice cream party to have been sponsored by the Westmoreland Home Demonstration club Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Leo Thomas, Call field, has been postponed until Saturday night, club officials announced Monday.

B. E. F. RECRUITS ARRIVE HERE

Wing of California Army Camps at Park

A second detachment of B. E. F. recruits bound for Camp Anacostia at Washington, D. C., to await passage of legislation calling for payment of remaining adjusted compensation certificates were guests in Wichita Falls Monday night. The group of 33 men and women is a part of the California army which entered Texas at El Paso about June 23.

Army Splits

The unit left the main army at Abilene Sunday when leaders agreed that the manpower of 1,000 men and women and 100 cars was too much of a burden for any one city to support. The recruits obtain meals, lodging and gasoline for a day's drive at each stop.

Advance cars of the 11 machines in the party, arrived in Wichita Falls about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and the rear guard pulled in at Tenth and Grant shortly after 7 o'clock. A scout awaited the final machine and followed to the billet at the Wichita tourist park on the Henrietta road. Post Commander Roy J. Daniel of the American Legion post named a committee to assist the detachment.

Cars Decorated

Eight members of the party are accompanied by their wives and the group is traveling in old model cars for the most part. The machines carry small United States flags and are painted with former infantry or other army organization numbers of which the members were a part. The group planned to leave early Tuesday for Oklahoma City, while other units of the California army are going north via Fort Worth and Dallas.

BONUS ARMY OF 900 CAMPS AT DALLAS

DALLAS, June 27. (AP)—The California contingent of bonus seeking war veterans encamped today at Fair park while its leaders arranged to continue the march to Washington tomorrow. There were 900 or more ex-soldiers and some 50 women and children in the "army," which drifted into Dallas by freight train and automobile.

The veterans, who are bound for the nation's capital to demand of congress immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, planned to stage a "bonus rally" tonight at the park.

Meantime, the Veterans Relief association bustled about town gathering food and supplies for the contingent, which was fed last night at association headquarters after its arrival from Fort Worth and points west.

Rites Held at Burk For Mrs. Florence Chapin

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 27.—Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Chapin, 62, a resident of Burkburnett for the past 17 years, and a member of the Methodist church for the past 30 years, were held at the First Methodist church here Monday morning, with the Rev. C. W. Dennis, pastor, and the Rev. Miles B. Hayes, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Mrs. Chapin succumbed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. D. Stacy on Sunday morning. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Chapin is survived by five sons, Ernest of Sulphur Springs, Texas; Joe of Miranda City, Texas; Arlin, of Burkburnett; Dewey of Graham; and Byrd of Detroit, Mich.

Interment was at Sulphur Springs, Texas, Owens & Brumley Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Job Hunter Injured As Awning Collapses

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 27. (UP)—Search for a job resulted in a trip to the hospital today for Norman Price, 19. Twenty feet of cornice on a Main street building collapsed on him as he and his brother, Vernon, 23, walked past on the sidewalk.

Norman was rescued by passers-by who narrowly escaped injury. His brother was not injured.

Three Minute Relief From Your Headache

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C." a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so-blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—Adv.

Was Getting Bald Fast

Read How He Saved His Hair

Here is a true story written by Mr. C. D. H. (name on request), 11218 Buckeye Road, Cleveland, Ohio. It will help those who are becoming bald or who have scalp itch and dandruff.

"Let me tell you a story so that others who are suffering with dandruff, itching scalp or falling hair may benefit by my experience.

"About three years ago I contracted dandruff. My head was literally covered with it. Sometimes I could not sleep on account of it, it was so stubborn. It tormented me exceedingly and made me simply miserable and downhearted.

"Altho' I tried all kinds of hair tonics and remedies I got no relief whatsoever—no results. My head still itched, I still had dandruff and I began gradually to lose my hair. I spent quite an amount of money on those unhelpful remedies and tonics.

"Then, about three months ago, I read your advertisement in an old magazine I found lying around the house. I read this advertisement hopefully—then decided to try Japanese Oil—put it on trial, so to speak. If it helped others—gave them relief, results—I thought it surely would give me relief, too—free me from my miserable predicament.

"I gave it three months' trial. Results: I have no more dandruff; it is all gone. My scalp no longer itches and my hair has stopped falling out.

"Thank God, what a relief—all on account of this marvelous remedy of yours—Japanese Oil.

"Those who are victims of dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair will be the wiser by giving Japanese Oil a fair trial. I recommend it."

JAPANESE OIL, the antiseptic medicine for the hair and scalp, costs $1 at any Rexfro Drug Store or other good druggists.—Adv.

Lamar Baptist Circles Plan For All Day Meet

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist Woman's Missionary union met in circles Monday to study mission and Bible lessons and prepare for the all-day meeting which is to be held Friday instead of the first Monday of July. Mrs. D. B. King was hostess to members of circle one in an all-day meeting when the group practised for the royal service meeting to be held Friday.

Mrs. W. H. Conn gave the opening prayer and Mrs. D. B. King gave the devotional. Mrs. W. L. Garner taught the mission lesson and gave the examination. In the short business meeting, each member was urged to be present Friday. Mrs. H. C. Glaxner gave the prayer dismissing 11 members and three guests, Mesdames J. M. Tanner, J. O. Vinson and W. H. Conn.

Circle Two

Members of circle two met with Mrs. E. M. Teeters at her home on the Petrolia road and Mrs. E. F. Moore gave the opening prayer and presided in the business session after the devotional, when each member gave favorite Scriptures.

In the business session, it was announced the group would serve cold drinks at the day nursery for personal service work; that the Baylor fund was completed and the menu for the all-day meeting was planned.

Mrs. R. C. Milford gave a talk on stewardship, and Mrs. Moore dismissed six members and one new member, Mrs. O. H. Wood, and one guest, Mrs. S. W. Wheeler.

Circle Three

Mrs. C. T. Walters was hostess to members of circle three and led the devotional. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Roxie Strickland.

In a short business session, personal service work for the week was a visit to the hospital.

Mrs. L. C. Blakely taught the missio.. lesson and Mrs. C. T. Walters dismissed nine members with prayer.

Circle Four

Mrs. W. R. Hull was hostess to members of circle four at her home on Elizabeth when the devotional was given by Mrs. W. C. Gay of Shreveport, La. Mrs. Hull gave the opening prayer.

Mrs. A. A. Foster taught the mission lesson and had charge of the business session when the time to meet during the summer was set for 3:15.

Mrs. W. B. Wood gave the closing prayer dismissing seven members and one guest.

Circle Five

Mrs. R. C. Small was hostess to members of circle five at her home on Buchanan when Mrs. J. M. Tanner gave the opening prayer.

Each member gave a Scripture verse as the devotional and Mrs. G. E. McWhirter closed with prayer.

The lesson from the mission book, "Signal Fires on the Mountain," was taught by Mrs. J. R. Self and following a short business session, Mrs. L. R. Hall gave the closing prayer, dismissing eight members.

Circle Six

Members of circle six met with Mrs. A. E. Stanley with Mrs. J. W. Tallent giving the opening prayer, and Mrs. Stanley the devotional. Mrs. J. J. Bozeman led in prayer preceding the mission lesson taught by Mrs. G. W. Anderson.

Mrs. V. M. Tillerson presided in the business session after which Mrs. Anderson gave the closing prayer dismissing six members and two visitors, Mrs. Roxie Barton and Miss Millie Anderson.

Circle Seven

Members of circle seven met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Griffitts when the chairman, Mrs. M. V. Horton opened the meeting. Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly gave the devotional and opening prayer and Mrs. A. J. Catlin taught the last lesson from the text book, "In Royal Service."

Mrs. Horton presided in the business session when it was announced the circle attained the highest standard of excellence. The circle bought two books for the Y. W. A.

Mrs. S. F. Martin gave the closing prayer dismissing six members.

Methodist W. M. S. Entertains With Special Program

Members of the Grant Street Methodist Woman's Missionary society met for a special program announced as guest day, when their objective was to interest new members.

The meeting was opened with song and Mrs. W. H. Black, president, presided. Mrs. C. L. Bounds gave the opening prayer and an inspiring devotional was given by Mrs. C. B. Wigley who used the theme of "Love" and took for her text the wonderful word picture painted of Christ by Paul.

Mrs. C. L. Bounds, accompanied by Mrs. Grady Fletcher, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" A one act play "Modernizing Mrs. Patton," presented by Mesdames J. F. Counts, Marshal Doke, H. A. Baker, E. L. McElroy, M. D. Smithson, and J. L. Fine.

"Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was sung as a benediction when an invitation was extended to new members.

Delicious refreshments were served to 50 members and guests.

Blended to America's Taste"

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Young Americans know an awful lot. We learn from them. We listened the other night to a discussion of the times and the customs, conducted by young folks who had food and shelter and clothing in their parent's homes. At the time we thought of Howard Brubaker's paragraph in the current New Yorker. "To busy readers, we offer this summary of all the commencement addresses delivered to the classes of 1932: You kids picked a bad year for it."

That ever recurring phantom of revolution was mentioned. One round faced, fresh colored, sweet youth, "Pshawed" at the idea. He explained that we would get through this all right. That it took a year or two to re-establish economic steadiness. Someone suggested there'd already been more than that time. "But this," he explained, with a becoming seriousness, "is different, because this depression has been world wide. We have been through just the same before and came out all right." He was asked when, and hesitated, "Let me see, he said thoughtfully, "I think it was back in 1893" (which by the way was long, long before he was born.) We ventured to dispute the fact; we can remember 1893 and no calamity threatened in our young circle; every child knows there's something wrong now.

"Probably," we said, "the nearest that this country has heretofore known of prevailing conditions was in the South directly after the civil war. Tragic tales of those times had so often been told to us; up to the past few years, nothing in America seemed so comparatively helpless. To our relief, the exponent of economics agreed with us. So that was settled.

It has been this young American's scornful view of the present generation probably, that has made us ponder on one thing: the fact that young people of today seem to have lost their sense of adventure.

There was a generation when both boys and girls dreamed of and planned for the future. The day was not then sufficient unto itself. It seems to us a more common thing than in any time we have known, boys now lose confidence in the possibility of their great adventures. More men than Robert Louis Stevenson have gone poverty stricken round the world.

There was never such an age as this for girls. Freedom is open to them more than in any previous period. If a person can finish education, let him fight the world. It is not for the young to grow depressed. If older men and women, with the weight of years on their shoulders and with only a short time to make good, can march ahead, what an adventure life should be for the young.

Speaking of adventure brings back one of our chronic grouches. News pictures have come to be almost a failure with us. We see too often the same news repeated, and one may follow with an accompaniment of solemn music the adventurous man starting out to cross the ocean in a plane, with a suggestion that he has probably gone to join the lost and forgotten aviators, then wake to read in the morning paper, that he is safe—rescued after long hours of privations. We rebel at the funereal music.

And for years we have been seeing the graduating classes at Annapolis wind up their rousing three times three by throwing a storm of white caps into the air and never yet have we seen any one make away with a cap. We crave one!

Loot Valued at $130 Secured in Two Thefts

Criminal activities in Wichita Falls and the county Sunday night netted more than $130 in a burglary and theft reported to city police Monday. Burglars forced a window at the Ballard Brothers grocery store, 2208 Avenue H, Sunday night and obtained $17 in cash and grocery supplies valued at $38.50.

R. J. Bradley, residing on route No. 1, 12 miles south of Electra, reported Monday that he had lost two truck tires, valued at $75, in a theft Sunday night. Mr. Bradley posted a reward of $25 for recovery of the tires and furnished officers descriptions of two suspects.

Cumberland Group Names Committees

Members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Woman's Missionary society met at the church Monday afternoon when Rev. Ben L. Baits gave the opening prayer and Mrs. G. J. Towles the devotional. Mrs. Towles also taught the Bible lesson.

A program, a social and a visiting committee were appointed after which Mrs. B. L. Baits dismissed four members and six guests with prayer.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

"My complexion was very poor because of pimples and blackheads which covered my face and neck. I had been advised to try Resinol Soap and Ointment, but had tried so many other things without success I was disgusted with everything. But, a friend urged me to try a sample anyway. In three days' time the improvement was so great I could hardly believe it. I will always have a word of praise for Resinol." (Signed)

Floral Heights Methodist W. M. S. Holds Final Meet

A study of council and conference minutes furnished an entertaining program for Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society Monday when it met for the last time until autumn. Mrs. Austin Leach was at the piano during the opening song and Mrs. Milo Connelly gave the devotional, using extracts from "Launch Out Into the Deep." "The past year," she said, "has seen much want, distress and helplessness, but the command to the church is the same as that given in the New Testament. There are deep places where the church must go, but they are safe for those who lead Christ-like lives." The topic was closed with prayer by Mrs. Leach and Mrs. George Thorburn gave a devotional solo.

Mrs. Charles Crowell gave the report from the first vice president of the conference, Mrs. Ellis Gafford, whose items dealt with the spiritual development of various auxiliaries.

An estimate of the finances of the North Texas conference was given by Mrs. M. E. Faulk who stated that the majority of the pledges are sent to the council undirected in order that the money may be sent where the greatest need prevails.

Children's Work

The new chairman of children's work, Mrs. Jack Ralston, made a splendid report. She said that seven friendship boxes had been sent to Porto Rico and a number of scrapbooks to China. Wichita Falls children's departments were given special recognition for their work.

Mrs. R. J. Claypool gave a resume of the Bible and mission study topic. She stated that 616 classes were in session last year in the North Texas conference, with an attendance of 13,375.

The social service activities were discussed by Mrs. S. M. Gose who told of legislative objectives, interracial work and recited a creed for good citizenship.

Mission Work

Foreign work as outlined by the council was described by Mrs. A. F. Leach who told of the efforts to promote schools and churches in the foreign field. Tributes were paid to Misses Esther Case, foreign secretary in Mexico and Nannie B. Gaines of Hiroshima Girls' school, who had passed away since the last council met in Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Leach stated that in some fields autonomous churches are emerging from difficulties and carring on departments with an increase. Political conflict makes mission work harder, but the Japanese and Chinese Christians work hand in hand. There were 11 new missionaries sent out to foreign fields in the past year. Floral Heights foreign special is support of the Janie Chauncey day school in China.

Mrs. Finis Crutchfield told of home work, stating that 200 deaconesses and 50 employed women were doing special work in Wesley houses, Mexican missions, in mountain and mill districts, in cooperative homes and Bethlehem houses. There are 69 institutions benefited by the home work.

Mrs. O. W. Harvey's circle led in attendance.

Mrs. J. B. Reigard was introduced as a new member and Mrs. P. B. Cox reported on a needy and worthy family.

The group of 75 women was dismissed with sentence prayers led by Mrs. S. E. Trevathan and closed by Mrs. S. M. Gose.

Table Details Subject of Talk By Emily Post

By EMILY POST
Author "The Blue Book of Social Usage."

All the following questions are asked by a woman who has lived in hotels all her life, so that she feels uncertain about inviting people to her house where she and not the head waiter is responsible, should anything be wrong. Her definite questions are:

"Is a lace banquet cloth not in good taste?" Answer: This is a question of suitability to the room and to the table appointments with which it is used.

"Is it possible to use too much silver?" Answer: Yes, if it serves no useful or other essential purpose. Flat silver is limited to that which is necessary for each course. "Hollow ware" is limited to decorative unity: a center piece and possibly two or four matching objects in addition to or in place of dishes to hold nuts or candy or fruit, and candlesticks when candles are necessary to light the table.

"When does a hostess precede her guests?" Answer: She never goes ahead of another woman except for a moment to open—and hold open—a door, or to enter a dark room in order to turn on the light, or when passageways are so confusing that she must show the way. And she always says, "Excuse my going first."

"What is the correct thing to say when the hostess wishes to ask her guests to adjourn to the living room at the close of an informal meal? Answer: She stands at her place. This should be enough. But if no one rises, then she says, "Shall we go back to the living room?"

"Is it proper to thank the maid who is serving you at the table?" Answer: Say "No, thank you" when refusing a dish, but when you help yourself, say nothing.

"Is it correct for the hostess to be served first? Answer: Never, if a woman guest be present. This is known as the great American rudeness.

Any urgent requests to which a personal reply from Mrs. Post is requested must be accompanied by a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

Our Children

SUNBATHS

We have learned that sunshine is good for our bodies so we are all rushing to take sunbaths. Some have gone to the extreme and suffered in consequence. They have learned that the sun can burn with the heat of fire. A burnt skin is not a good cure for anything that ails one, not even for vanity. It is most unwise to burn one's skin. Unwise apart from the discomfort and the disfigurement that a bad sunburn always brings. There is little room for admiration in one's thoughts when presented to a sunburned victim.

Grownup people have it in their power to help themselves. They need not expose themselves to be burned but little children are not so fortunate. They are at the mercy of the grownup person who is in charge of them and if that person strips them naked and lays them on the hot sands to be grilled alive all they can do about it is to cry and suffer.

Before any child is exposed to the summer sun the family physician ought to be consulted. How much of his skin is to be exposed at first? At what time of day? For how long? What treatment, if any, is to follow the exposure to the sun? These questions are important and unless one can answer them with some degree of sureness no sunbath ought to be given the child.

Children's eyes should be protected from direct sunlight. I have seen little children lying on the white sea sands with the sunlight beating down into their faces and wished that I could do something to save the children's eyes the fatigue they were undergoing. I think a beach umbrella is a necessity where children are to spend long hours on the sand. It will save them burns and it will protect their eyes.

The sun is not the only force that causes discomfort to little children. The murky days when no sun shines, the days when soft gray clouds hang low and the air seems full of wetness, burn tender skin. The hot dry winds sweeping across the sands burn like blistering fires.

It is well to protect the children against these elements of nature. A shade hat, a parasol, a beach umbrella under which to take shelter occasionally will save hours of suffering and endless bottles of lotion, powder and salve, to say nothing of sleep.

I believe sunshine is the best medicine. I believe it is a great preventive of disease. It is a blessing to mankind, old and young, but it must be used respectfully, with discretion and temperance. If it is used recklessly the skin, one of the precious organs of the human body, is injured. If it is used intemperately the child can not sleep.

Sleep is as necessary to children as food. Anything that robs a child of sleep is dangerous to his health yet we find people, anxious to do what will help their children, burning them in the sunlight and so depriving them of hours of sleep. No coat of tan, however golden, can pay for a night's unrest.

The beneficent sunlight is being used as an excuse for bad manners on the beaches. Public beaches belong to everybody and some people have strong prejudices against human nakedness in young or old. Those prejudices ought to be respected sufficiently to still their loud protests. A sunsuit will give a child all the light and air his body requires and allow it proper protection from the sun's rays and the neighbor's inhibitions. There's no sense in killing a good idea with excess.

'BOSS' CURRY IS BUSY MAN

Tammany Chief Works Like Field General

By RAY BLACK

CHICAGO, June 27. (UP)—John Francis Curry, Tammany hall's chief, posed today for a verbal picture which revealed him as a political general as well as a good-natured American father who likes to go to movie comedies, enthuses over scenery, and is still a boy in his love for sports.

His suite in the Blackstone hotel seemed more like headquarters of a general in wartime.

The 58-year-old leader of the most powerful single political group in America looks so much like General Pershing that he is continually saluted by soldiers.

Genial Tone

"Fire away," he commanded, but with a genial intonation. Before a question could be asked he had told Jimmy, his secretary, to type a telegram, had talked to a governor on the telephone and had given some direction regarding a political meeting to one of his lieutenants.

"Yes, I was born in Ireland, on a small farm in county Farmanach. If you can spell it, I'll give you a cigar."

He proffered a cigar, his blue eyes twinkling and his neat white mustache twitching on his lips.

"I'll give it to you anyway," he chuckled, turning to sign a letter.

"I'm too busy, sir, to keep up with life, as you see," he said. "I enjoy all kinds of sports. I enjoy the theater. I like to go out into the country and see beautiful things. But where can I find the time?"

Fresh and Alert

Curry looked fresh and alert. His white hair was neatly brushed in a side-part.

"I am an Irishman by birth but a New Yorker by rearing," he observed.

He started his first job as a telegrapher at $5 a week. He joined the West Side Athletic club in New York.

"I was good at track and field sports, if I do say it," he admitted.

In those days, Curry weighed 140 pounds. He has put on some 30 pounds since, but still is bone and muscle, carried with military bearing.

He became a Tammny precinct worker, rising to district leader in 1899. For 33 years he was on political pay rolls. He succeeded George W. Olvaney, as "boss" of Tammany hall in 1929.

Foy Testifies At I.C.C. Grain Hearing

Traffic Manager Dudley Foy of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce returned Monday afternoon from a trip to Oklahoma City over the Reed air line route, where he presented arguments in grain cases before Examiner Taylor of the Interstate Commerce commission. Mr. Foy represented mill and elevator interests of this area and presented an argument favoring granting of permission to carry grain, originating in Western Oklahoma, through Texas without a penalty when destined for points in the north.

Q.—Was Charles James Fox an inveterate gambler?—B. S.

A.—Charles James Fox was a typical gambler of his period, about 150 years ago. He won heavily at the race track but lost at cards. At one time his father had to pay $700,000 of his gambling debts and at another, friends raised $350,000. In addition, he lost all his winnings and his estate. He entered parliament at the age of 19, became a cabinet member at 21, and gambled through a lifetime of great political activity in the course of which he became foreign minister, and, save for the dislike of the king, would have been prime minister of England.

Q.—What is amber?—H. G. F.

A.—It is a fossil resin, primarily a product of the forest, consisting of the sap of an extinct species of pine tree of the Tertiary period. In the regions where it is found near the seacoast it was probably carried down by rivers that no longer exist. The transparent variety contains up to 4 per cent and the opaque variety up to 8 per cent succinic acid.

Q.—How long did it take steamships to cross the Atlantic ocean in 1864?—G. W. B.

A.—About that time the average steamer required about two weeks to cross the Atlantic, although the transatlantic voyage was made in much less time by some vessels. The record for the year 1864 was established by the Scotia of the Cunard line, which sailed from Queenstown to New York in eight days 15 hours and 45 minutes.

Q.—Is William Beebe, the explorer, married?—T. L.

A.—His wife is Elswyth Thane, the novelist.

Q.—Where are the headquarters of the British Broadcasting company?—P. H. H.

A.—Broadcasting House is in Langham place, London. It is a magnificent new building with all of the latest improvements for broadcasting. The concert hall is the third largest in London.

Q.—Does a federal law go into effect as soon as it is signed by the president?—R. M. W.

A.—Some laws take effect as soon as signed by the president. Others take effect as provided in the bill.

Q.—How long has the American eagle been used on our money?—E. E.

A.—This emblem appeared on the first coin issued by the United States in 1795 and on a majority of the subsequent coins.

Q.—Has the state of Rhode Island ever been dry?—A. W.

A.—April, 1886, Rhode Island adopted as an amendment to its constitution, article V reading: "The manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage shall be prohibited." A later amendment, known as article VIII, adopted in June, 1889, reads: "Article V of the amendments to the constitution of this state is hereby annulled."

Q.—How much money do tobacco advertisers spend in newspaper advertising?—N. C.

A.—Last year their bill was $28,620,000.

Q.—What bird was regarded as the Hapsburg bird of misfortune?—R. A. D.

A.—The raven.

Q.—What is the diameter of the clock in the hall of the house of representatives?—S. B.

A.—It is about 18 inches.

Our Half-Honest People

WHEN the Right Rev. Irving P. Johnson, Episcopal bishop of Colorado, told the graduating class at Union college the other day that the bane of American life is the nation's vast number of "half-truthful, half-honest" people, he touched on a flaw that usually gets overlooked.

These people, he explained, are those that "make our political platforms, regulate the stock market and muddle our whole educational system with the half truth that education will make a nation righteous."

As individuals, he said, not one of them would pick another man's pocket; as members of a political group or a social or economic class they would blithely deprive a nation of its heritage.

What the bishop seems to have been getting at is the fact that we do not live in such a clear-cut, black-and-white world as we like to suppose. We may be betrayed, over and over, by political or business leaders, but the men who betray us aren't conscious villains. Instead they belong to that half-truthful, half-honest group which has lost the capacity to assay its own actions correctly.

The politician who accepts the support of a corrupt municipal gang and thereby helps to perpetrate it; the financier who fans the flames of speculation and paves the way for a panic; the industrialist who owns a coal mine where men are as truly enslaved as Siberian serfs; the publicist who averts public wrath from such people by acting as their apologist—these men, without exception, think that they are doing the right thing.

They are, in other words, scrupulously honest according to their lights. The tragedy is that the lights by which they live are at fault.

That is the point we must recognize if we are to iron out the kinks in our national life. It isn't enough to have leaders who are honest—for most men, after all, are as honest as they know how to be. They must also know exactly where they are going. In plain English, they must combine honesty with intelligence.

A Wise Move

THE Medical society of New Jersey has set up a committee to limit the designation of "specialist" to physicians scientifically qualified to assume it. When the committee has completed its work, any doctor who wants to practice as a specialist must submit his scientific and personal credentials for a strict examination, and if he is turned down he must simply list himself as a general practitioner.

This ruling will appeal to the ordinary citizen as exceedingly sensible, worthy of emulation by other state medical societies. The layman who wants a specialist is, after all, more or less at the mercy of chance. In many localities any inexperienced young sawbones fresh from his internship may list himself as a specialist, and his prospective patients have no way of judging his qualifications. Such a scheme as this of New Jersey looks like a very good way of handling the situation.

The Call of the Wild

THE call of the wild is supposed to be an ever-potent thing as far as forest animals are conquered; but apparently wild creatures can become so fond of captivity that they don't like freedom when they get it.

New York's state conservation department a year ago brought a herd of elk to a corral in the De Bar mountain game refuge, planning to feed and develop the herd, turn it loose and thus restore the wild herds that once roamed over the state.

The other day the animals, having waxed robust in the corral, were given their freedom. A few wandered off into the woods—but most of them, after sauntering aimlessly for an hour or so, came back to the corral! The call of the wild, evidently, is not as alluring as the prospect of good bedding and three square meals a day in a man-made habitat.

Depression Story

QUEEREST of all the tales of the depression is this one, from Michigan:

In 1929, before the crash, a man had a $280,000 loan at a bank, to cover which he deposited stock worth, at the market then existing, $400,000. When the stock market went into a tailspin the bank sold him out, getting $330,000 for the stock, and leaving the man with his debt paid and a $50,000 credit in the bank.

Then, a little later, the bank collapsed. In a short time it was reorganized, and in the shrinkage that was involved the man's credit dwindled to $36,000. Thereupon he drew out $30,000—and bought back all of the securities he had held originally. So now he holds the same stock that he held in 1929, he has wiped out a $280,000 loan and he has $6,000 in cash. Has he gained or lost in the depression?

SO THEY SAY!

When they get us hicks down where we can't make a dollar, conditions are in a bad way. We hicks, you know, are the backbone of the country.—Frank Mullen, Watertown, Wis., farmer.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1932, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

By Request

He says of her: "She was so fair,
Like sunlight on an April leaf;
Braided and bound, her lovely hair,
Her eyes, all shadowy with grief."

He says of her: "And thus she went
Without the grace of backward glance—"
And all his hours, he says, are spent
Regretting what was once romance.

My lord, if she who smiles at you
Is quick to listen, soon or late,
To tales of me—I beg you to
Enliven them with scorn or hate.

It is so dull—"she was so fair"—
So old a story that men tell.
It would be more than I could bear
To know you'd do it extra well!
—ELSPETH.

Gag

The Sharkey-Schmeling brawl brings back this timely tale of the ring. It's the story of The Sure-Thing Manager and The Leaden Bandages. This crafty fight manager managed to send his palooka into battle with his right glove weighted with 200 yards of leaded wire-tape, cement-soaked gauze and part of a horseshoe. "When you see an opening," counseled the manager, "swing that right!"

But for the first two minutes of the opening round his man was smacked dizzy, using only his left while his right hung at his side.

"Swing it, swing your right, you bum!" screamed the manager.

"Swing it yourself," was the hysterical answer, "I can't even lift it!"

Merciless Truth

Newspaper men turn out some of the best fiction of the day, observes a literary critic, and Norman Sullivan agrees—especially when you try to collect coin they owe you!

Complaint

"Dear Walter," postal-tellys Dan Winkler, an authority on Broadway, "let's be fair. You state that Whispering Jack Smith was the first crooner. Without question of a doubt Benny Fields (Blossom Seeley's man) was crooning songs 15 years ago. I can prove it to your satisfaction if a first-crooner controversy ever arises, and Fields will win."

On the radio?

In Fewer Words

George Jean Nathan's definition of an Opening-Night—"the night before the play is ready to open."

Joan of Aaaaah!

"I dread openings where one is stared at. I dread going out nights for fear some autograph seeker will rush up to me and make me a center of attention. I escape all that when I can. I'd much rather be away in a mountain cabin where I can think."—Joan Crawford.

Gratitude

On Broadway more than any other place, one presumes, it isn't so hard to make new friends—as it is to keep your old ones. But one of the lads put over a neat trick on those who served him faithfully and there is a lot of groaning going on, as a result.

He lost his wife, who convinced the courts that he was a wrong guy—and when she wound up with the verdict she also rated his savings, his property and his jewels.

Then he lost his job—and the landlord almost dispossessed him. This is when his real friends came to the front for him. They loaned him a young fortune to get back on his feet. The coin set him up in business again, and now he no longer dreads the fear of disgrace and poverty.

So the other day, to show those who were so loyal to him, how grateful he was—he went into bankruptcy—to avoid making good his debts.

There ought to be law.

Gosh, Yes!

He is a poor columnist, indeed, who doesn't believe that his contemporaries waste more time and space than he. But Fred Donaghey, who used to column for a Chicago living, says that he used to do a column "in half an hour" and that he could have done it in less "if it weren't for those contributors!"

Nonsense

Then there's the silly about the new teacher whose class was made up of 6-year-olds. "I like geography," she began, "I know where Germany is; there's salt water in the sea and science is a great subject. How old am I?"

Little Abe Mefoofsky, 6, got up. "You're 44," cried Mefoofsky.

"Amazing!" said teacher, "how on earth did you guess?"

"Well," Abie replied, "I got a brother who's half nuts—and he's 22!"

Scallions

Mr. Elinson, a bit of a critic, says he saw a flop show last night and wanted to leave after the initial intermission, but didn't have the heart. "I felt," he says, "that the cast expected me back" . . . He observes, too, that an aspirin firm is advertising its product on the radio—and that's his idea of a perfect medium!

Of All Things!

We were away when it happened, but the Sun's Mr. McLain, it is good to know, duly chronicled the fact. That a benefit was held at a theater in New York for The Actors' Fund of America. At which the actors, of course, did their strenuous routines sans any fee. But the stage hands and the musicians were not permitted by their respective unions to labor gratis.

The result being that the $1,200 gross taken in for that one performance—practically went to the union crews!

Phooey!

Grounds for Divorce

They say that Fanny Ward, who bills herself as "Father Time's Sweetheart," is a fortune teller fiend. And that while she was on tour recently she had a clairvoyant read her future. The crystal-gazer said among other things: "Within two years you will fall madly in love."

Fanny raced to a long distance phone to call her husband in New York. "Darling," she ejaculated, "a fortune teller just told me that within two years I will fall madly in love!"

"In two years," snapped her husband, "you will fall madly apart!"

A NATIONAL CONTEST PRIZE WINNER—An all-expense trip through the province of Quebec, Canada, for two people, is the prize awarded to Col. L. S. Powers of Hawesville, Ky., for his entry about the astounding Biblical knowledge of the Rev. M. L. Voyles of Little Rock, Ark.

For the past 16 years Rev. Voyles has been engaged in evangelistic work in the Mississippi valley, and during the time he is in the pulpit he never reads from his Bible, though he makes numerous references to it and quotes verses and chapters during his sermons. The demonstrations of his remarkable memory usually bring forth numerous queries from his congregations. Given a Biblical quotation he will without hesitancy quote the reference, as well as the exact verse preceding and following the quotation. In all this time he has never failed to quote correctly.

Colonel Powers and Rev. Voyles are making the trip to Canada together.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhino—rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Share, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal. Buck's plans are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore. Later he returns to collect the rare rhinos the Maharajah has captured for him. The most difficult part is transporting them to the rail head in India. After an exciting journey, he arrives in Calcutta with his rhinos.

Of the thousands of monkeys and apes Buck has brought to America from Asia, the most interesting was a female orang-utan picked up in Borneo which he named Gladys. In the last chapter, Buck related the experience of a white adventurer named Holter, who gave up the tea business to go on a tiger trapping expedition. Meeting Holter a year later, Buck hears the story of how Holter lost his leg when caught in his own steel trap.

Returning to America with one of the biggest of many floating zoos Buck brought back, he has trouble with a huge orang-utan and is aided by a powerful sailor, "Chips," to subdue the animal. In the last chapter, Buck's friend, the sultan of Johore, challenges Buck to capture a man-eating tiger, native to the sultan's domain. Buck leaps at the opportunity to try for a man-eater and joins the Sultan at his fort. The tiger, after killing a native, is trapped in a pit dug by Buck. He sets out to capture the animal alive. Buck arrives at the pit which is surrounded by fear-ridden natives.

Buck, at the instance of a Los Angeles animal dealer, sets out to capture the smallest baby elephant in the jungle.

CHAPTER XXVIII
Monkey Mothers

I had some orders for crocodiles. Not being fond of these reptiles—a vicious lot at best, with none of the color and imaginative appeal one frequently finds in savage creatures—I had put off securing these specimens until I had gathered most of the other items of a big collection that I had rounded up at Singapore and Calcutta for shipment to zoological gardens, dealers and circuses in the United States.

I was in Calcutta when I decided to land my crocodiles and get this dull chore out of the way, little knowing that these stupid reptiles were going to provide an opportunity to witness as touching an example of the maternal instinct at its heroic best as I have ever seen—in a species that had nothing to do with my mission.

I left with Lal for the Sunderbunds, that vast lowland studded with innumerable islands and marshes, where the Ganges splits into many rivers and enters the Bay of Bengal. This district is easily accessible from Calcutta and was the ideal place to go for my crocodiles.

Until recently the Sunderbunds were one of the game paradises of Asia. Most of the big game has been killed off, although there are still some tigers and leopards. Thousands of monkeys still inhabit this territory, however, and it is also alive with crocodiles, cobras and wild pigs.

The Sunderbunds cover an area of over 1,000 square miles. Some of this is heavy jungle but in the main it is not the thick black jungle of other parts of India and the Malay country.

There are several light-houses in this district. An old shikari who used to get crocodiles and other specimens for me lived with one of the light-house keepers and I was on my way to see him, having notified him of my needs and arranged for a meeting place.

Zoos are the only market for crocodiles. Hardy creatures, they live a long time and practically every sizeable zoo has at least one specimen to round out its reptile exhibit.

The natives have many ways of catching crocodiles, but the one most commonly used is to take a live monkey and tie a stout hardwood stick about the same length as the monkey along its back. The stick is sharpened at both ends. Attached to the center of this stick and set cross wise upon it is another of about half its length. The monkey is then tied out on a leash in the mangrove bushes that grow in the shallow water along the edge of the streams where these creatures are found. When the crocodile grabs the monkey, whichever way it takes its prey, either sidewise or perpendicularly, its jaws clamp down on the two sharp ends of the stick which hold its mouth open. Being unable to close its mouth, the crocodile cannot swim, so it immediately makes for the banks where its tracks can easily be followed by the trappers who have no difficulty in catching the monster on land.

As little enthusiasm as I have for crocodiles, I am always glad to pick one up for a zoo that wants it. It is all in the day's work; and usually it is part of an order that includes more interesting assignments.

I'll say this for crocodiles: once you get 'em boxed for shipment they cause very little trouble. I recall one that I brough back for the St. Louis zoo that declined food and drink for 45 days and yet had the good grace to be in perfect condition when I delivered him. I mention this by way of giving an idea of how hardy these strange reptiles are.

Another specimen that I brought back had no interest in food for almost as long a period but in this case the long fast was more understandable as the creature had consumed a native woman before he had been caught. This victim had gone to the river bank to do the family washing when the reptile dealt her a terrific blow with its tail that felled her. Then the killer dragged her off into the mud and finished the job.

Crocodiles are among the worst of the man-eaters. In some sections the local governments pay a reward for the killing of these vicious reptiles. For instance, in Sarawak, North Borneo, which is ruled by Rajah Brooke, the only white rajah, a bounty of 25 cents (Straits money) per foot is paid for all crocodiles killed and captured and for man-eaters a larger bounty is paid. The depredations of these murderous creatures have reached sizeable proportions in that district and for some time past everything possible to stamp them out has been done.

Most of the specimens brought in by those claiming bounty money range from 10 to 14 feet. (The biggest crocodile I ever saw was a 16-footer that got into a drain ditch on a rubber estate in Johore and was killed by coolies.)

A native claiming bounty money usually goes through this routine: First, of course, he catches his crocodile. (Experts tell me that is the most important step, and I guess they're right.) Next the question of transporting the captive arises. The reptile's front legs are trussed up over its back and tied, then the hind legs are treated in a similar manner. The prisoner is then lashed to a pole and two men carry it on their shoulders to the nearest village where it is taken before the headman, the local police magistrate or any one else in authority.

In the presence of the authorised one the reptile is cut open and then his insides are explored for signs of a human feast. Practically all the natives wear trinkets of some kind, usually pewter, brass or silver bangles. The first object of the search is to look for the bangles which a greedy crocodile does not hesitate to cram down his throat along with the flesh. These ornaments become imbedded in the reptile's insides and apparently do him no harm. I know of one case where a crocodile that was caught and killed was found to have bangles so deeply imbedded in his flesh (which had completely grown over the trinkets) that it was the opinion of the headman that these ornaments represented a killing made 20 or 25 years before.

If signs are found indicating that the captured reptile has been feasting on human flesh, the special "man-eating bounty" is paid. If not the smaller reward applies.

Lal and I traveled by bullock cart the last seven or eight miles of our journey to meet the shikari, there being no other means of conveyance. If I could have expected something besides crocodiles on my arrival I would have found the trip more enjoyable. As it was, I was bored by the necessity of retraveling this familiar ground which did not promise to yield anything in the way of a new experience. My one thought was to meet my man, get my crocodiles and return to Calcutta with all possible haste. I couldn't have been less interested in my mission if I were on my way to collect a herd of cows—although that's an unfair comparison. I find cows more interesting than crocodiles.

As we rumbled along I found myself mentally cussing out the driver for not making better time, although I knew full well that he was doing all that could be expected of him. Suddenly as we passed a spot where there was a small clearing on one side of the jungle, the driver let out an excited yell in his best exclamatory Hindustani. As he did I heard crashing sounds near the side of the road. Then I saw a monkey jump frantically from a gnarly twisted tree trunk that leaned out over the roadway and scramble across the trail some 10 or 12 yards ahead of us. Obviously the frightened creature was making for the trees on the other side of the clearing. When the monkey was halfway across the road I could see what was happening. There was a yellow streak in pursuit . . . a leopard! The pursuer had no doubt dashed up the sloping tree after the little rhesus, and having failed to make its capture there, was now after the elusive simian on open ground. The unlucky monkey had barely reached the other side of the road when the big cat, coming on in a great rush, pounced upon it. There was an agonized screech and in a fraction of a second the monkey population was reduced by one.

Just before the leopard seized the shrieking monkey and disappeared with it into the jungle on the other side I thought I saw a small dark object drop to the ground a few feet away. I had no idea what I had seen—in fact, I wasn't sure I had seen anything—but my curiousity was aroused. I halted the driver and with Lal went over to investigate.

Lal wasn't sure what I was looking for—which wasn't surprising since I wasn't either. He had kept his eyes on the leopard.

For several minutes I looked around on the ground, my search yielding nothing. I was about to give up the hunt and decide that I had been imagining things when I suddenly spied something in the grass, a baby monkey not more than four inches long. I picked it up and examined it. It couldn't have been more than a few days old. Its head was about as big as a good-sized marble, its face and hands were pink and its very thin hair was a further indication that it had only recently arrived on earth.

I wrapped the little baby in a handkerchief and placed it in one of the pockets of my jacket. Then we were off again.

What had happened was obvious. With the breath of the leopard on its back, the last thought of the doomed mother was to throw her babe to safety. This she had done.

A monkey mother carries its babe in a peculiar way. The infant, facing the parental stomach, puts its little arms, as far as they'll go, around the body from which it sprang, and hangs on for dear life in this fashion. The mother moves from place to place, on the watch for food and looking after its other concerns, knowing that its babe will instinctively cling to her. When the heroine of the episode I have just described realized that she was faced by certain death, she tore the young one loose and threw it to a place on the grass where she hoped it would be safe. I hadn't any doubt that this is what had happened.

At the nearest point along the line, I stopped and got some goat's milk which I fed with difficulty to the little child of my favorite jungle heroine.

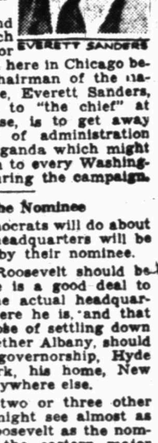
I met my shikari and picked up my crocodiles but they received scant attention from me. I assigned to Lal the job of looking after them. My little monkey was my primary concern.

When I returned to Calcutta I found it easier to feed the little infant, for there I was able to secure an eye-dropper, a device to which I have frequently resorted as a means of getting milk into the stomachs of tiny animals. The little fellow thrived and I made a pet of him all the way back to America, and for some time afterwards. I didn't like to part with him as I had grown very fond of the tiny cuss—as amusing a handful of rhesus monkey as I'd encountered in some time—but eventually it became inconvenient for me to keep him.

His best chance of surviving was to put him in a place where there were attendants to look after his needs, so I gave him to the San Diego zoo, where I knew he would have excellent care. On only a few occasions have I parted with an animal more regretfully.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON



EVERETT SANDERS

CHICAGO, June 27.—This city of big things done in a big way, where the latest of the world's fairs is setting up its tent on the lake shore, seems destined to become the political hub of the 1932 political campaigning.

Announcement comes that the G. O. P. campaign is to be centered here with the national committee transferred bodily from Washington.

The idea behind that shift, which was arranged for Hoover approval here in Chicago before the new chairman of the national committee, Everett Sanders, went to report to "the chief" at the White House, is to get away from the taint of administration campaign propaganda which might otherwise attach to every Washington date line during the campaign.

Up to the Nominee

What the Democrats will do about their national headquarters will be decided finally by their nominee.

If Governor Roosevelt should be that man, there is a good deal to indicate that the actual headquarters will be where he is, and that he has no purpose of settling down in one spot, whether Albany, should he retain his governorship, Hyde Park, New York, his home, New York City or anywhere else.

Chicago and two or three other interior cities might see almost as much of Mr. Roosevelt as the nominee as would the eastern major villages.

What any other Democratic nomination possibility might do would depend, presumably, on where he hailed from. There is no telling about that until the Democrats pick their man.

Democratic Chance

Still, Washington will likely continue a Democratic campaign center, and for precisely the reason that the Republicans are giving it the go-by in favor of a Chicago national headquarters.

The Republicans want to dodge an administration propaganda taint and picture Mr. Hoover as sticking so strictly to his job of presidenting the whole country as to have no personal time for his own re-election campaign.

The Democrats will feel the urge to explain to the voters that every presidential word or deed is in reality that of candidate rather than of President Hoover. The Washington date line will have increased Democratic value for that purpose.

Under Director Shouse and his Washington executive committee set-up it has been extensively and sometimes effectively used that way since last election. It cost a heap but got results most party leaders contend.

SHIPPERS TROUNCE CATS, 6-2, TO WIN FIRST HALF TITLE

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Moreland and His Prize

Gus Moreland won a $3,000 automobile the other day when he was victorious in the finals of the Trans-Mississippi Golf tournament at Oklahoma City, but at last report he had not accepted the prize. He was awaiting a decision from the United States Golf association on whether such acceptance would affect his amateur standing.

Gus has been over-cautious in the matter. If he had gone ahead and taken the automobile without raising the question of professionalism, nothing would have been said about it. There is no more essence of professionalism in his taking a $3,000 automobile as a prize than there is in a fourth flight consolation winner in the Greenbelt Golf tournament winning a cocktail shaker, or a long distance driving contest winner in the same tournament taking a five-dollar meal ticket for his prowess.

That is not to say, however, that acceptance of such prizes does not, at bottom, represent professionalism. It does, and very frankly so. There is not a prominent amateur golfer in the country who is not at some time or another violating the amateur's creed, but the point is nobody seems to give a dern, not even the U. S. G. A. If a town wants to have a good hot tournament, it offers something besides nickel-plated loving cups as prizes, and in the big cities the "expenses" of a number of prominent golfers are paid by the club staging the tournament. Needless to say, these "expenses" usually run into swell figures. They have to. Otherwise the prominent golfers of our country couldn't eat in swell restaurants, wear swanky clothes and ride in big automobiles—and as a corolary, the big golf clubs couldn't get the services of the big golfers.

These developments in our athletic life are not confined to golf. You can find instances of confusion over amateur status in practically all the sports with the possible exception of ping pong, and it is doubtful if ping pong will ever be dignified by being called a sport, and thus be eligible to all the evils and sins that afflict its more honored brethren.

The total result, as Gene Tunney recently expressed it in an article in the New York Herald-Tribune, is that our athletic life is burdened with hypocrisy. And the tournament golf player, who does nothing during the spring, summer and early fall months but play golf as an "amateur" and who emerges therefrom having made a pretty good profit, is one of the most outstanding examples of that hypocrisy. The blame is not entirely with the golfers in this instance. It is more with national organizations that set up amateur rules that cannot and never will be successfully enforced. The thing to do is let the athletes scramble after whatever prizes are available, and not try to ostracize them by calling them professionals. There is not anything so terrible in being a professional athlete. We enjoy seeing professional baseball players at their work. Why can't the same tolerance be shown in other sports? If a player is good enough to outclass a field of the best golfers in the Southwest and win a $3,000 automobile, we can see no reason why he shouldn't take the boat, fill 'er up with gas, call his sweetie and take a joy ride, and not be bothered about whether in so doing he will be branded a professional.

With 90 per cent of golfdom's stars professionals in fact, no matter what their outward pretensions, we can't see the use in maintaining false pretenses. The main thing is that our golf courses are crowded, our tennis courts are crowded, and more people today are taking beneficial exercise than ever before. If their efforts are spurred by the posting of a juicy prize, so much the better. And if that be professionalism, which it is, why who gives a damn?

Return Bout Talk

As in many other things, the American public, when it comes to athletics, is rather gullible. This may have been the cause for the turnout of some 62,000 fans at the Schmeling-Sharkey fizzle. But it is hard to believe that 62,000 people actually thought either one of the contestants could fight. A large per cent of the crowd must have been attracted by nothing but a wistful hope—the hope that one or the other of the contestants would awaken the boxing game from its post-Dempsey lethargy with some good pokes to the jaw, some real honest-to-goodness slugging.

We cannot see any excuse for those gullible ones who actually thought Schmeling or Sharkey capable of putting on a real scrap, but there is a certain amount of clemency for those who went hoping, but expecting little.

However, even these will not be pardoned if they pay their good money to see these alleged fighters appear in a return bout, which now is being whooped up. And by whom? Mainly, of course, by the promoters. They no doubt licked their chops when they saw the $800,000 gate, and after the fight, with everybody thinking the other boxer had won, it was only natural for the promoters to realize what could be made out of such a situation. They no doubt foresaw another turnout of 62,000, and another substantial rake-off. Talk of a return match was started immediately, and it hasn't stopped yet.

The discouraging thing is that such talk seems to be meeting favor with fans in both the Schmeling and Sharkey camps. The poor, gullible American public doesn't seem to be able to get enough—of anything. After watching both Schmeling and Sharkey demonstrate forcibly that neither is worth a bushel of turnip greens when it comes to putting on a good, stirring fight, the dear public probably will find themselves into believing that both can do better next time.

The Morning Mail

The following blast comes from Electra:

"Dear Fred: I have noticed in the papers that Vernon is dropping out of the Red River Valley league. Some of the fans are speaking about money troubles, but I believe that the league is just a shade too fast for them. It takes a truly fast nine to win in this league and that alone would let Vernon out.

"We are expecting two other teams to lack the internal fortification that it takes to stick, although we hope not.

"If Vernon should write up about her fast team in the future, all we can say is 'go tell it to the marines.'

"Phooey."

HERRING HURLS DECIDING TILT

Beaumont Rewarded After 20 Years in League

BEAUMONT, June 27. (AP)—Beaumont clinched first half honors of the Texas league this afternoon by defeating Fort Worth, 6 to 2. It was the first title resembling a championship Beaumont had won since entering the league, 20 years ago.

Art Herring scattered seven hits effectively to win his second start since joining the club two weeks ago. In the first a walk to Engle followed by singles by Loepp and Hooks cost him a run and in the seventh Knothe's single followed by Warren's double cost him another.

Tommy Hughes was the offensive star for the first half champions with three hits, one of which was a home run. This came in the fifth when his line drive to right hopped over Nash, Hughes completing the circuit to score behind Clifton. Dick Whitworth, pitching out of turn, went six innings before he was removed for a pinch hitter. Score:

Crowell Cats Trounce Ozarka Nine, 15 to 12

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, June 27.—The Crowell ball team took an old-fashioned slugging match from the Ozarka Water company team of Wichita Falls here Sunday by the score of 15 to 12. The Crowell sluggers hopped on Geyer's fast ball for 10 runs and nine hits before he could get warmed up and continued to hit Lefty Flemming at a terrific clip and finally sent him to the showers in the sixth. Lewis replaced him and succeeded in stopping the Cats the remainder of the game with only three hits. The score:

Church Baseball League Is Formed

The Church Indoor Baseball league was organized Sunday afternoon at the Highland Heights Christian church with a 30-game schedule being adopted at the meeting. The first game between First Methodist and Floral Heights Methodist will be played Tuesday evening at 6:15 on Culbertson field at Huff and Harrison streets. The league will continue its schedule until Sept. 1 playing three games a week. Each club will play one game a week and play each other team twice around the schedule.

The movement was put into motion by Jean Montgomery and Leonard Volz for the purpose of giving the older members of the church a chance to get their share of recreation. The teams will be devoted to men over 30 years of age with but few exceptions. The league schedule follows:

June 28—First Methodist vs. Floral Heights Methodist.
June 29—First Christian vs. First Baptist.
June 30—Highland Heights vs. Temple Israel.
July 5—First Baptist vs. Temple Israel.
July 6—Highland Heights Christians vs. Floral Heights Methodist.

MATCH PLAY STARTS JULY 3

Entrants May Qualify On Their Home Courses

By SAM BRASWELL
Record News Correspondent

CLARENDON, Texas, June 27.—Indications point to more than 100 golfers being present and participating in the fourth annual Clarendon open golf tournament, July 3 and 4. The Clarendon tourney, always a favorite with the golfing fraternity, bids fair to break all former attendance records as reports from more than 25 clubs uphold this contention.

The tourney will be one of the most unique ever staged in West Texas in that there will be incorporated several procedures new to tournament play. No specific date has been set for the qualifying round, and the golfers will not be required to qualify on the Clarendon course. If it is inconvenient to be in Clarendon on the two holidays, any player may send in his handicap score of his local club with the card attested by the club secretary and president. All cards must be in Clarendon by Saturday, July 2. Sixteen players will make up each flight with as many flights as players justify. First and second round matches and first round consolation will be played on Sunday, with the semifinal and championship rounds scheduled for Monday. A small registration fee of $1 will be charged each player.

The fine sporty layout of the Hillcroft course is in the best condition of its history. The local course, one of the prettiest and best in the Southwest, is now open to the public for qualifying rounds should any of the players wish to acquaint themselves with the layout before the first round matches Sunday.

A handsome array of useful prizes will be given the winner, runnerup and consolation winner in each flight with special prizes for various events.

Those who will be present are Billy Holmes, Greenbelt champion of Shamrock, Frank Foxhall, ex-Greenbelt titlist of Memphis, Jack and James Parr of Electra, Reginal Greenhew, Greenbelt finalist of Memphis, and a score or so other splendid golfers.

A special invitation has been sent Jimmy Phillips of Ranger, 18-year-old sensation, who recently copped the West Texas association championship. It is believed he will accept and it is probable that an exhibition match may be arranged for Saturday, July 2, which will pit the champions of the Greenbelt and West Texas association against two of the following crack golfers of this section: Ira Merchant, Al Cooke or Frank Foxhall.

Players have signified their intention to participate in the Clarendon tournament from Pampa, McLean, Shamrock, Memphis, Electra, Vernon, Matador, Amarillo, Childress, Hedley, Quanah, Estelline, Wellington, Tulia, Seymour, Borger, Hollis and Frederick, Okla., Turkey and Quitaque and other cities.

Vernon Izaak Walton League Meets Tonight

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 27.—Officers for the Vernon chapter of the Izaak Walton league for the ensuing year will be elected at a meeting Tuesday evening in the courthouse. The session will start at 8 o'clock. More than 40 sportsmen of this city are expected at the meeting, according to C. Fred Russell, president.

In addition to Mr. Russell officers of the chapter are J. L. Showers, secretary-treasurer, and F. L. Massie, B. Daniel, W. S. Lundy and Will I. Stephens, members of the executive board.

Dallas Defeats Houston, 3 to 1

HOUSTON, June 27. (AP)—Dallas gathered only six hits off Payne's offerings here tonight but four went for extra bases and Hap Morse's charges romped away with a 3-1 victory. The game was a tight hurling duel between Whitehead, Dallas rookie, and the venerable Payne. Score:

Farrell Ahead In Vernon Tournament

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 27.—Roy Farrell, medalist of the recent Greenbelt Golf association tournament, today appeared to have cinched medalist honors in the 1932 Hillcrest Country club tournament here with a 71, three over par, scored Sunday afternoon. The relatively high mark appears safe due to the fact that all but a few of the low-score players of the club have turned in their qualifying round.

Farrell's 71 was identical with that turned in by his father, C. J. Farrell, last year in winning medalist honors. Par on the course last year, however, was 70 instead of 68. Scores turned in Sunday were, as a rule, on a par with 1931 marks, no score being turned in to compare with E. P. Hick's qualifying 68 of two years ago.

Possibly the only hope to beat Farrell's low mark in the 10th annual tournament this week is R. B. Gibson, twice champion, who has not as yet qualified. Hicks and W. K. Long have not been playing much this year, and are not considered likely to break the 71.

Earnshaw and Freitas Hurl Athletics To Double Victory Over Boston's Sox

PHILADELPHIA, June 27. (AP)—The Athletics made a sweep of today's double-header with the Boston Red Sox, Tony Freitas pitching and batting them to a 9-4 victory in the nightcap after Earnshaw had won the first, 15-8. Scores:

ARCHER DEMOS NAME JUDGES

Election Officers Appointed For Primaries

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 27.—Officers to preside at primary elections in Archer in July and August have been named by the county Democratic executive committee.

The committee estimated the cost of the primaries at $1,100, and assessed candidates $1,200. The group reached a decision that majority votes would govern nominations.

It was estimated that the vote in the 1932 primaries would total 2,400.

Presiding judges for the county's 24 precincts during coming primaries are named in numerical order as follows:

T. F. Gatlin, I. Y. Slover, Henry Mahler, E. A. Maag, G. W. Edgin, T. A. Schrieber, J. W. Hasson, H. O. Andrews, W. J. Kunkel, M. L. Gilmore, Joe Fish, J. D. Smyth, George Parish, W. M. Creighton, B. E. Cooper, H. A. Meurer, James T. Longley, W. E. Bailey, Cecil Mankins, C. E. Graham, J. G. Crowley, W. S. Hale, J. D. Powell and William Sturm.

All of the 44 candidates whose names will appear on the ballot have paid assessments, according to J. Sell Melugin, executive committee chairman.

Ballots are being prepared in order that absentee voting may begin July 4, the stipulated date. It is reported that a number of voters already have requested absentee ballots.

Girl Slightly Hurt When Hit by Auto

Agnes Bindel, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bindel, 1009 Bridge, suffered minor injuries in an automobile accident about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon when she was knocked to the pavement at the intersection of Jefferson and Burkburnett road.

The child is the third member of the family to receive injuries in an automobile accident in the last six months, although the family does not own a car. An older sister suffered a scalp laceration several weeks ago and the father received a broken leg Dec. 31, 1931.

Mrs. R. W. Waldrop, 15 Conoco court, driver of the car said the fenders and running board on one side of the machine were smashed as she swerved into a nearby residence to avoid running over the child.

Bandit Secures $2 In Raid on Gas Station

A lone bandit obtained $2 in cash in a raid on the Lone Star filling station, 1307 Eighth, about 9:30 o'clock Monday night shortly after Attendant J. A. Faircloth, 1210 Bluff, had checked out the day's receipts to the station manager, G. W. Mitchell, 1614 Polk.

Approaching with an automatic pistol held ready for action, the hijacker forced Mr. Faircloth to the floor while he searched for additional funds. Mr. Faircloth was forced to accompany the bandit west to Bellevue park where he was released. Patrolmen Frank Warfield and J. B. Flenniken investigated.

Water Sports Program Tonight at Park Pool

"Water sports night" will be observed at Haven park Tuesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock, it was announced Monday. The park is under new management and provision has been made for picnic and other parties as well as for swimming. The program in the pool will include all kinds of diving and swimming stunts and races, a battle royal from a raft and a contest of walking a greased pipe across the pool. The program is open to the public.

Kiwanis Club Enjoys Country Club Picnic

More than 50 members of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club and their wives observed the annual all-Kiwanis picnic Monday evening with a dinner and outdoor games at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. The party was scheduled as part of local participation in connection with the international Kiwanis convention in session at Detroit. Dinner was served by women of the First Christian church. Dr. H. T. Wood was in charge of arrangements.

Electricity Used By Newspapers Tax Free

WASHINGTON, June 27. (UP)—The bureau of internal revenue ruled today that electricity consumed by newspaper plants is not taxable.

The bureau said that such electricity is used for industrial purposes and is therefore exempt from the 3 per cent electricity tax in the new revenue bill.

St. John's Church To Hold B. Y. P. U. Institute

A negro Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. institute will be held at Saint John's Baptist church, 301 Park, opening Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The institute will close Sunday night. Dr. J. E. Knox of Houston, director of religious education in the negro state work, will conduct the programs. The public is invited.

Amarillo Prisoners Placed in Jail Here

Seven prisoners committed to the state penitentiary at Huntsville from Amarillo arrived in Wichita Falls early Monday night in custody of Penitentiary Agent Crane. The group was lodged in the county jail here and will be transferred to the state prison on the arrival of Agent Bud Russell Tuesday or Wednesday.

DEATHS

NEVA JEAN STRAWN

Funeral services for Neva Jean Strawn, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Strawn, 405 Waco, will be held Tuesday at Sweetwater. The child died Monday morning at the family home and the body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary for forwarding to Sweetwater.

Recall of City Council Threatened As Result of War on Dime Taxis

Members of the city council present Monday night at the regular weekly meeting were told that continued prosecution of 10-cent taxicab drivers for violation of the city's regulating ordinance will result in "the immediate circulation of 60 petitions asking for removal of the present city government."

The challenge was issued by Russell (Jack) Ballard, attorney for one or more of the taxi drivers in recent trials for alleged violation of the city's taxi ordinance. Addressing the council in protest against the arrest of any alleged violator more than once daily, Mr. Ballard stated that taxi operators had authorized him to advise the council that unless such mutiple prosecution were discontinued at once, the recall petitions would be circulated throughout the city by his clients and their friends.

Members of the council replied immediately that the city would follow the single policy of enforcing to the fullest possible extent any and all ordinances now in effect.

An amendment to the taxi ordinance then was proposed and adopted on its first reading providing that each act of carrying a taxi passenger for less than the prescribed 25-cent minimum fare, or each passenger-carrying trip of a taxi without the proper license from the city, will constitute a separate offense and be subject to prosecution as such.

W. R. Freeman, manager of the Southwest Dairy Products company, asked for a permit to use the old James Brothers creamery building on Virginia street as a stable for 14 head of horses. City Clerk W. E. McBroom was authorized to advertise the application upon which a public hearing will be held next Monday night in the council room. All members of the council except J. N. Prothro were present.

Jimmy Allred Speaks In Johnson County

Special to The Record News.

CLEBURNE, Texas, June 27.—James V. Allred returned to Johnson county today and tonight spoke at Cleburne from the same platform where just two years ago he opened his successful campaign for attorney general of Texas.

The attorney general dwelt upon his record in office and made no reference to any opponent. He outlined the unprecedented volume of work which has been demanded of his office during the 18-month period which he has served.

Among the many important lawsuits handled by his department, he cited the Whiteside land case tried in the Travis county district court in which the state was victor and which if sustained in the appellate courts will result in the immediate release of $3,500,000 to the permanent free school fund of this state and an ultimate recovery of more than $20,000,000 for that fund.

Allred left Tuesday morning for Waxahachie where he speaks in the afternoon. He was scheduled for an address at Hillsboro on Tuesday night.

CALHOUN WANTS DEBATE WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL

DALLAS, June 27. (INS)—Clem Calhoun, candidate for attorney general, today issued an invitation to Atty. Gen. James V. Allred, candidate for re-election, to join him in joint debates at whatever places on which they may agree between now and election time.

Test of Vernon Water Shows no Impurities

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 27.—The city of Vernon is entering the summer season with an adequate supply of pure water. This announcement was made by City Engineer H. L. Coleman Monday following a report on an anlysis of a sample of Vernon water sent to the state department of health. The report declared the Vernon water free from all impurities.

Mr. Coleman, in making the announcement, pointed out that the consumption of water now is but little more than half the capacity. The system is capable of producing 1,500,000 gallons a day and the demand now totals only about 800,000 gallons daily.

GROCER HELD FOR SHOOTING

J. H. Tuggle at Vernon With Shotgun Wounds

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 27.—J. H. Tuggle, 25, of Thalia, is in a hospital here suffering from gunshot wounds sustained at Rayland this afternoon. He was wounded in the right arm and right side by two charges from a shotgun.

R. A. Rutledge, Rayland grocer, surrendered to Vernon officers shortly after the shooting, and returned to Crowell in the company of Sheriff R. J. Thomas of Foard county tonight. Mr. Rutledge made no statement. His wounds are serious but he is expected to recover.

The injured man had made no statement and little was known about the affair other than that Tuggle was seen to stagger from a vacant building following two gun shots. He was rushed to Vernon by a brother, E. H. Tuggle. Both men are married.

Maricle on Vacation

Postmaster O. P. Maricle left Monday for Austin for a vacation trip visiting relatives. Mr. Maricle plans to return the latter part of this week. Assistant Postmaster Lon Howard has returned from a vacation trip to Carlsbad cavern and other points.

THREE NAMED IN RAIL THEFTS

Wichita Woman and Boy Also Held

Charges of burglary were filed Monday afternoon in Cooke county against three defendants in connection with a burglary of a Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway freight car at Muenster the night of June 22. One of the men, Roy McAlester, was arrested here over the weekend and officers said the two remaining men were expected to be taken into custody soon.

The charges were filed after investigations at Bridgeport and in Wichita Falls by special railway officers and city detectives, a result of which was the recovery of much of the loot. The missing property included a case of malt, towels, work clothes, toilet articles and other merchandise.

Charges of receiving and concealing stolen property were filed in Wichita county court against Mrs. Ida Brown in connection with the case and a boy was placed in custody of Juvenile Officer J. A. McDonald. Officers working on the case are Detectives Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson and Special Officers Jess Leverett and H. G. Ellis.

Three other suspects for investigation in connection with robbery of parts from automobiles stolen in Wichita Falls were held by police Monday, while a fourth, a 16-year-old boy, escaped from the city jail Sunday night by spreading the bars at his cell window.

RACE CAR KILLS THREE

NANCY, June 27. (UP)—Three spectators were killed and six were seriously hurt when an automobile in the Nancy grand prix left the road and plunged into a crowd.

Women Supporting One of Their Sex For Vice President

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Arizona's shout: "Mrs. Isabella Greenway for vice president" was harmony today to the women here, feminist, conservative, Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt alike.

There was no confident belief that the handsome, wealthy woman who made her debut with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt would get second place but the suggestion was regarded in itself as a woman's victory.

The Arizona nominee has been active in politics only about five years. Isabelle Selmes when she made her debut back about 1902, in New York, she went west soon after marrying Robert Ferguson. Later she married John H. Greenway, well-to-do mine owner. Widowed once more, she moved into public life via an interest in social welfare. Then she became national committeewoman.

Services for E. L. Blum Held at Burkburnett

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 27.—Funeral services for Ervin L. Blum, 39, who died at his home here Saturday were held Monday afternoon at the First Methodist church with the Masonic order in charge. The pastor, Rev. C. W. Dennis, officiated. Following the funeral services the body was taken to Riverside cemetery in Wichita Falls for burial by the Owens & Brumley funeral home. The Masons conducted the burial ceremony.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—Much of today's business in cotton comprised July liquidation, but the near month offerings were readily absorbed and prices held generally steady on some trade buying and a scattering demand promoted by relatively steady cables and reports of rains in the South. July contracts sold up to 5.25 or 9 points net higher but reacted partially in the late trading closing at 5.21 the general market finished steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

The opening was 1 to 3 points higher in response to relatively steady cables and eastern showers which were considered unfavorable following the recent reports of excessive rainfall and boll weevil weather in that section. July liquidation was taken by the trade, and prices worked upward during the middle of the day when active months sold about 4 to 9 points net higher to 5.34 for December.

The first private July June condition reported indicated a reduction of 7 per cent in acreage with an area of 38,300,000. No indicated crop figures were given, and the report appeared to be without much effect on the market.

Tomorrow will be first notice day for July contracts here but there was no very definite estimate as to how many might be issued. Liverpool cables reported Bombay buying supplied by local liquidation on the decline of about 16 to 17 points in Egyptian futures at Alexandria and said there was a broadening demand for cotton goods from the British home trade. Exports today 2,976 making 8,347,078 so far this season. Port receipts 3,702. U. S. port stocks, 3,607,483.

Futures closed steady 3 to 6 points higher. Spot quiet; middling 5.35.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 27. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today but prices showed an upward tendency owing to rather favorable cables and a showing of too much rain in the belt by the weather map. The close was at net gains for the day of 7 to 9 points.

The market opened quiet but steady with Liverpool cables about as due to penny points better than due.

Liverpool is to open New Orleans tomorrow one penny point up.

Port receipts, 3,702; for week, 11,468; for season, 9,835,186; last season, 8,920,077. Exports, 2,976; for week, 6,537; for season, 8,182,330; last season, 6,401,577. CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—The cotton market displayed moderate strength on complaint of too much rain and final prices on the board of trade were steady, 6@8 points net higher; the opening was unchanged to 4 points up while gables were about as due. An advance of 10 points occurred during morning trading, and was followed by a reaction, but the market turned firm in the afternoon. General rain fell over the week-end over much of the belt and the forecast was for favorable for more precipitation in the central and eastern sections. Week-end statistics were bullish, lower grain and security markets failed to be reflected in the cotton market which maintained independent strength.

CANDIDATES FIX SPEAKING DAYS

Changes Made in Schedule For Rallies

Speaking dates for the two groups into which county candidates have been formed for campaign purposes were changed at a meeting of candidates held in the county courtroom Monday afternoon.

Revising the schedule drawn last Wednesday night, Monday's meeting adopted the following dates for the speaking tours:

Group 1 (John M. Martin, J. O. Cowart, D. M. Perkins, Early Van DeVenter, C. H. Tennyson, George H. Williams, O. T. Warlick Jr., Albert G. Walker, John P. Marrs, T. A. Hicks, H. W. Fillmore, Ray Bland, W. L. Bass, Walter Friberg, Max Shumake, Jim Robinson, Fred P. Hodge, Irving Deaton) will speak at 8 o'clock July 12, at Wichita Falls; July 16, Iowa Park; July 18, Electra; July 20, Burkburnett; and on July 22, Wichita Falls.

Group 2 (Gordon Hall, R. J. Claypool, Lee McClain, Bob Long, Harry Bunnenberg, Wayne Somerville, P. A. Martin, W. W. Cook, Irvin J. Vogel, Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, R. E. (Bob) Moore, Sam B. Spence, Ed Trevathan, Julian McFall, Jake Avis, Miss Elizabeth Hall, L. V. Abernathy, Perry Browning and Fred K. Smith, will speak at Wichita Falls on July 13; Electra, July 14; Iowa Park, July 19; Burkburnett, July 15; Wichita Falls, July 22.

George Hodgins will act as master of ceremonies at all of the group speaking.

Precinct officers will be given opportunity to speak after county candidates have been heard, and thereafter state and national candidates may have the platform, it was said.

Trials of Taxi Drivers Reset for Tuesday

Trial of cases against 11 dime taxi operators in Wichita Falls was set for Tuesday morning in corporation court Monday when seven cases filed Saturday were called. Arrest of additional operators Sunday and Monday morning brought the total to 11 cases set for hearings Tuesday before Judge Edgar Scurry. Charges of violation of the city's minimum fare ordinance and of operating without a license have been filed in each case.

Harvest Festival Bargains Draw Many Shoppers to Wichita Stores

Satisfactory opening day results were reported by Wichita Falls merchants late Monday as the harvest week festival and American Legion buying week program was launched. Several merchants reported many out of town buyers in their stores from many points in the Wichita Falls area of Southern Oklahoma and North Texas.

Sheaves of Wichita county grain were placed in stores of the city over the week-end and shoppers Monday were welcomed by a harvest atmosphere in the business district through efforts of merchants to decorate their places of business.

"Hospitality day" will feature the week for shoppers of the area when rooms at the Holt and Kemp hotels will be furnished without charge and tickets will be distributed for theater programs. The tickets will be issued merchants late Wednesday by the retail merchants association. A new low scale of prices has been adopted by merchants in efforts to clear shelves.

C-C May Join Dallas in Plans For Pampa Train

The executive committee of the manufacturers and jobbers division of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will meet with the trade area development service at the organization offices Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to outline plans for the running a special train to Pampa for celebration of the new Pampa-Childress Denver railway line.

Invitation was extended the local group Monday by Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce leaders for Wichita Falls and Dallas to cooperate in running a train of Pullman cars to Pampa, allowing the delegations to spend the entire day at Pampa.

The local chamber group had previously planned to run a special train of day coaches, leaving and returning on the same day.

DOUBLE TOUGH

Police Pinch Taxi Driver For Operating Cab Free of Charge

Free taxi service as now in operation in Wichita Falls has not resulted in any protection for the drivers from warrants in the hands of city police, Chief Dick Morris declared Monday that drivers operating "free service" taxis are violating the minimum fare ordinance passed by the city council, placing the lowest charge at 25 cents.

One driver arrested by police and held under a $50 bond had placed a small cardboard box in his taxi for receipt of "donations." The box contained several cents in small change.

JURY AWARDS MAN $20,350

Injured Worker Wins Verdict in Court Here

Judgment for $20,350 against the Texas Electric Service company was awarded E. H. Peevey by a jury which returned its verdict before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday afternoon at the conclusion of a day's deliberation.

Peevey charged permanent disability as a result of alleged contact with a ground wire belonging to the defendant concern in Burkburnett on April 30, 1931. The plaintiff charged in his petition that a chain which he was handling in line of duty as an employe of an oil company came in contact with the ground wire and caused him to receive a heavy electric shock.

The award of judgment carried the stipulation that a sum of about $4,800 awarded the plaintiff several months ago by a compensation insurance company be returned to that concern. The insurance company joined Peevey in the suit against the utilities concern.

E. W. Napier represented the plaintiff. The trial began last Wednesday and was completed Saturday evening.

Rites Tuesday for Girl, Victim of Gasoline Fire

Funeral services for Irene Joiner, 6-year-old daughter of Mrs. H. N. Joiner of Knoll street, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Hines mortuary chapel with the Rev. A. C. Turner, South Side Baptist church pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Rosemont.

The child died at 12:33 o'clock Monday morning from burns received earlier in the night in an explosion of gasoline with which a group of children was playing.

The mother, two brother and two sisters survive.

County Committee May Complete Ballot Today

Names of precinct, county, district, state and federal candidates which are to appear on the Democratic primary election ballot for use on July 23 will be announced as soon as state candidates are certified and payment of primary cost assessments by candidates here has been checked, according to information given Monday by H. J. Bruce, secretary of the county executive committee. It was expected that the qualified list of candidates might be announced Tuesday.

INDIAN BRAVE TAKES BRIDE

'Apache Ben' Approves Vows With Hearty Ugh

Relatives there were none, but of friendly witnesses there was an abundance, when "Apache Ben" Chaletsin and Mrs. Rose Achilta, both impressive specimens of Indian sturdiness, came to the courthouse Monday afternoon from Apache, Okla., to be married by Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs.

The giant groom, now in his 58th year, and his smaller bride received their license Monday from Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, after having filed applications last Friday. A younger man, of their own kind, again was present to act as interpreter. The ceremony by which the two were joined was brief, and was approved at its completion by a hearty "Ugh!" from "Apache Ben." A new blanket of brightest hues featured the bride's wedding attire.

Told by courthouse employes, through the interpreter, that his appearance here last Friday had "rated" a brief description of the couple in The Record News, Chaletsin grinned widely, grunted his approval, and commissioned his interpreter to secure several copies of the paper.

A large delegation of the "courthouse family" attended the wedding in Judge Gibbs' office.

Moving Pictures To Show Life in Navy

Free motion pictures depicting life in the United States navy, and other scenes reflecting adventure in foreign lands, are to be shown on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium for the public Tuesday night at 8 o'clock by Don Ross, motion picture expert with the local Boy Scout organization.

Pictures to be shown Tuesday night have been provided through the local naval recruiting office, it was said.

Mr. Ross reported Monday the completion at Archer City Sunday afternoon of several water-front scenes in the new scout motion picture now being made.

Do you inhale?

"Like a stepchild"
..a question generally avoided. Why?

DO you inhale? Why has this question been treated "like a stepchild" in cigarette advertising?

It's a subject vital to you—for you do inhale—we all do—every smoker inhales—every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? A simple question. But silence on the subject—may be full of meaning.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this question ... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Lucky Strike's famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do! Then this vital message is for you!
