Fire Destroys 3400 Hens And House At Carmack's

Floydada firemen continued to stay busy with a chicken house fire in the southern edge of Floydada Friday afternoon that totally destroyed the house and some 3400 hens. The firemen were able to save the adjoining house and hens with their promptness in getting to the fire. Cager Carmack said he was in a local cafe when he received word of the fire. Linda Powell discovered the fire and called the fire department. Carmack said he had heaters inside the house that may have caused the fire. Carmack said he estimated his loss on the building from $12,000 to $15,000, with it insured for about half that much. His loss on the 3400 hens, which were not insured, was estimated at $6,000. Carmack said he had installed a new water system in the building about a year ago as well as making other improvements.

Apartment Burns

A garage apartment at 600 East Virginia Street in Floydada was destroyed by fire early Friday morning. Firemen answered the 3:15 a.m. call to find the small structure engulfed in flames.

The residents, who were not injured in the blaze, said they thought they heard a small explosion, according to a report from the fire department, but firemen surmised the fire may have started at an open heater with a rubber gas line.

No injuries were reported in connection with the fire, but the residents were thought to have lost most of their belongings.

The apartment was located behind the Earl Bishop residence and belonged to Bishop.

THIS FIRE KILLED SOME 3400 laying hens and destroyed the house in the south part of Floydada Thursday afternoon. Floydada volunteer firemen are pictured bringing it under control. (Staff Photo)

Paula Cummings was too much for the Whirlettes Friday at Lockney. She scored 29 points (19 in the first half) for the Longhornettes, and the Lockney girls scored a 44-34 basketball victory over Floydada.

Sharon Decker had 15 points for the Whirlettes, and Nancy Puckett scored 13.

The third quarter was the Whirlettes' undoing, as they were behind by just three points, 22-19, at the half but were outscored 12-6 in the third.

The Floydada girls hit 15 of 36 field-goal attempts (42%), outshooting the Longhornettes from the field 15-14. But Lockney hit 16 of 23 free-throw tries while the Whirlettes managed only four of seven.

Neighborhood Board Meets

Board members of the Neighborhood Center met for their regular monthly meeting Monday night with several important issues discussed during the meeting.

Albert Juarez mentioned the speed limit on 12th street. Since special education classes are held in the Della Plains school and the school bus picks up and unloads children at the school, the board felt the speed limit should be changed according to other speed limits in school zones. Efforts to have the speed limit changed are being made.

The board considered the functions of the clothing center. Complaints on the part of persons receiving clothing from the center each month were noted. Complaints on not being treated fairly and only being able to receive one garment a month for each person were the main complaints.

It was stated the people were not receiving the best clothing in the clothing center.

The board mentioned briefly about what is being done by the committee on gaining new industry for this area. It was noted the task force committee had been selected and progress is being made.

Farm Bureau Week Proclaimed

February 12-16 has been proclaimed "Farm Bureau Week" in Floyd County by County Judge J. K. Holmes.

Floyd County Farm Bureau will have a special membership enrollment drive during this period as a part of a statewide effort to exceed last year's total of 136,943 member families. Floyd County ended its 1972 year with 642 members.

Boyce Mosley of Lockney is president of the local county Farm Bureau. Membership chairman is Albert Scheele of Providence. Membership captains who will be working on the drive include Paul Schacht, Leslie Nixon, A. C. Pratt, Wayne Bramlet, Randy Bertrand, Dale West and Joe Wheeler.

The county president said farmers and ranchers need an organization more than ever before.

"We producers need a stronger organization to help solve problems in marketing, agricultural public relations, taxation, as well as other matters affecting our net incomes," Mosley said.

The text of the proclamation issued by Judge J. K. Holmes reads:

"Agriculture is vital to the economy of Floyd County, our state and nation. A large percentage of our citizens is dependent directly or indirectly upon agriculture for their livelihood. All of our people benefit from the productive efficiency of modern agriculture.

"Farmers and ranchers have learned to promote their

Wilson Bond Tells Floydada Rotarians About Scouts

Floydada Scout leader Wilson Bond spoke to the Floydada Rotary club about his scout troop 355 at the regular Rotary luncheon last Wednesday.

Bond said he had also started a cubpack 355 with six boys participating. He has 30

Spanish speaking boys in his scout troop.

"This is the 63rd anniversary of scouting in the nation and 50 years for the South Plains Council," Bond told the Rotarians.

Bond outlined some of the changes in scouting; a big change in uniform with beret cap, new training plan, new emphasis on decision making by the boys, changes in swimming requirements which helps the West Texas boy who only has three months a year to swim, new skill awards in advancement program.

"The campfire is still the center of scouting . . . the fellowship and training that is enjoyed and learned around the campfire is great," Bond added.

"I sometimes wonder why I keep working with scouts, but the rewards are many . . . I remember one cold rainy day, when we were trying to break camp with a bunch of boy scouts . . . I was getting aggravated trying to get a wet rope untied . . . one boy looked up at me in the rain and said . . .

"gee, Mr. Bond, I think this scouting is just great" . . . so I continue to give working with the boys," Bond concluded.

Rotary president A.E. Baker was presented with the troop charter by Bond preceding his talk. He was introduced by Rotarian Bob Kirk, representative to the troop which the Rotarians sponsor.

Longhorns Topple Whirlwinds

Whirlwind Mark Vinson led the individual scoring Friday night at Lockney, scoring 29 points, but the Longhorns put four players in double figures and won the basketball game 78-59.

Vinson's 13 rebounds paced the 'Wind board game. Erriek Jones scored nine points and caught seven rebounds for the Whirlwinds. Lockney increased an 18-14 first-quarter lead to 41-25 at the half, and the 'Horns led 57-35 at the end of the third period.

Lockney won the JV game 57-51.

Floydada ends the basketball season here Tuesday, playing Ralls.

Whirlwind Drive Inn Expands

Expansion plans for the Whirlwind Drive Inn in Floydada call for a 13' x 32' addition to the front (south) of the building for a recreation room.

Owners Bill and Mary Selman hope to install a pool table, pinball and foosball machines, and a bowling game in the new addition, moving the game machines out of the dining area to give more room there.

The floor of the new addition has been poured and construction should be completed soon.

Installation of the pool table is pending city approval, the owners said.

Valentine's Day . . . is Wednesday, and two members of Mrs. J. E. Waller's kindergarten at Duncan Elementary School in Floydada dramatize the romantic event with a pre-Valentine exchange. Do you think you have troubles pity the poor editor — if he is at a meeting he's being nosy, if he doesn't he isn't. If he writes an in-depth story, it's too long, if he writes one that's incomplete, if he takes sides on an issue he is biased, if he doesn't he is a coward. If he asks for advice, he's a pest. If he doesn't he is a know-it-all. If he makes a speech about it for weeks, if he doesn't he never hears it. If he expresses an opinion, he wants to run the show, if he lacks guts. This year, Mrs. Linnie Abbott and Miss Kathy Miller are teaching 43 children in two classrooms.

The five-year-olds ride school buses if they live out of the city limits. Their day is from 8:30 in the morning until 3:15 in the afternoon. First activity after their arrival is devoted to improving coordination by using coloring, paste and scissors. This time is also used for special things, such as having Mrs. Kathleen Thornton, wearing Japanese dress, show colored slides of her trip to Japan. Or, insects or leaves might be brought to the classroom for the children to inspect. Later on, they will plant seeds and watch them grow.

From 9 to 10 every morning, the children go to the library to watch "Sesame Street" on the school's color television, especially installed for this purpose. A special antenna even had to be used to get a strong-enough signal from Channel 5 in Lubbock. Both teachers agree that the children do learn much from watching and participating orally with "Sesame Street", but feel that the program alone is not enough because children need to be involved themselves in the learning activities.

A milk break is taken during the morning; one class does this before "Sesame Street", the other class does it after the program.

After leaving the library, the children go outside for a 30-minute play period. Individual play and games are outdoor activities at this time.

After returning to their classrooms, the children are divided into small groups for language arts (oral communication) and math activities. Manipulative materials are an important part of this program. The teachers have to make many of these things, but consider it worth their time because of the children's delight in handling the teaching devices.

Lunchtime is at 11:40. Miss Miller says that when school first began, most of the children were not familiar with

Lockney Parents Should Enroll Children For Kindergarten Now

Public school kindergarten has made its influence felt after only 2 1/2 years. One third grade teacher has noticed that she is definitely seeing better students this year. First and second grade teachers report that they can tell the difference between pupils who attended kindergarten and those who did not.

Again, the children like to handle whatever visual aids are used to tell stories. Mrs. Abbott relates that she recently told a story using figures of people that could be placed on a flannel board, or stood alone on a table. Every child in the group had to handle each figure, and when all were not able to do so before naptime, they didn't let her forget that their turn was still to come.

Although one kindergarten emphasis is on the children learning to communicate in English, the children are not forbidden to speak Spanish during school hours. Indeed, the pupils are encouraged to participate in a special feature of their classes: twice weekly teacher's aid Mrs. Felicitia Castro takes over for a 20-minute session where Spanish is the only language spoken. She reads stories, sings songs with the children, or perhaps shows filmstrips that have accompanying Spanish narrative records.

The children are then sent outdoors for another 30 minutes of play. Or, if the weather keeps them indoors, they do exercises. This gets them ready for the next hour, which they must spend quietly, stretched out on pallets on the floor. Many of the children do nap, but all are required to be still and quiet. The lights are turned low and distractions are kept to a minimum.

When naptime is over, the children have "free play" until it is time to go home. Available for them to choose to play with are blocks, puzzles, clay, finger and brush paints, games, toys and a housekeeping center with miniature appliances, dolls, etc.

The school buys most of these toys, but some things have been donated. Mrs. Abbott and Miss Miller would be glad to accept donations of this type at any time. Particularly needed are books, and for dress-up, old hats, purses, etc. (Adult clothing would be too long, and high heels would be too noisy in a group situation.)

Miss Miller laughingly recalls that some of the children in her class know how to improvise with the limited amount of dress-up articles that he has. She glanced over recently during "free play" the cafeteria's foods. Twenty minutes after lunch is devoted to story time. The children particularly like to act out the stories they've heard, telling their teachers "Let's play three bears" (or whatever their favorite story might be). The teachers have noticed that the children are more natural in the play-acting if no props are used.

Public school kindergarten is an accomplished system. Beginning this fall, all children who are 5 years and 7 months old (on or before Sept. 1) for attend public kindergarten. This means that any child who is rich, poor or in between — who can meet the requirement may enroll.

In addition, children who cannot speak or understand English may attend if they are five years old on Sept. 1.

Lockney has had a public kindergarten for 2 1/2 years. Enrollment has been limited to children who could not attend kindergarten or increased each year by allowing just a little more children to attend. The Texas legislature set up a system which would have time to build classrooms or extra children.

School superintendent Johnny Peck and school principal Weldon Dodson report that Lockney has adequate space for all its kindergarten pupils. Parents should enroll these children now.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1973 Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen in Floyd County who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Any disabled person can contact Miss Walding at First National Bank, Box 550, Floydada, who will provide the request form for a determination of the extent and type of assistance needed and the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance. Arrangements for qualified treatment or service will be made by the Easter Seal Society.

Jordan Memorial Gift Chairman

Jack Jordan has been named Memorial Gift Chairman for the West Texas TB and Lung Disease Association. The memorial gift is perhaps the most thoughtful tribute to a relative, friend, or neighbor. Such gifts are retained for tax purposes, since such gifts are deductible. An acknowledgment is also sent to the family of the person honored, so that they may thank the donor. The acknowledgment to the family simply states the donor's name, and not the amount given. Gifts in honor of the living are also received under the program, Mrs. Jordan revealed. It's a nice way to recognize someone's birthday, anniversary or other event. The money received is immediately put to work in the continuing fight against emphysema, tuberculosis, asthma, smoking and air pollution. Envelopes may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Jordan at home or at the Migrant Health Department in the Floyd County Courthouse.

High Plains Research Soybean Testing

Current premium soybean prices focus the spotlight on the High Plains Research Foundation's soybean breeding and testing program.

Since its founding in 1956, the Foundation has been a leader in High Plains area soybean research and has one of the largest testing programs. Besides its own program of researching new varieties and cultural practices for this area, the Foundation also is one of the sites for the USDA Regional Soybean Variety Tests.

Presently there are 36 varieties and strains in the regional variety test. Popular varieties that have come from these tests include Hill, Hood and York. New soybean varieties that are being proven in the testing program include Columbus, Oksoy and Essex.

The variety testing program provides a showplace for commercial varieties such as HP 963, Patterson, Hinn, SRF 300, SRF 400 and SRF 450. Varieties from Coker, McNair and Hale seed companies have been tested. Varieties from the Midwest tested for suitability to this area have included Clark 63, Kent, Wayne, Williams, Corsoy, Amsoy and Beeson.

The Foundation's soybean breeding and testing program is under the direction of Dr. Douglas Owen, a state registered plant breeder.

Dr. Owen, cooperating with Dr. Hartwig of the USDA has been studying the genetics and the physiological effects of soybean mosaic virus (SMV). Of primary interest is the effect of seed coat mottling caused by SMV on yields and chemical properties of soybean varieties.

In 1973, 36 strains that are resistant to phytophthora root rot will be screened for resistance to SMV.

During the past two years, research has included blends of soybean varieties tested to see whether certain combinations might produce higher or more consistent yields. Dr. Owen said that current plans are to continue this program in 1973 and hopefully through 1975 to see if blends have a higher average performance over a period of years.

Soybean breeding is a continuous program. Dr. Owen said the object of breeding is to select new varieties that are better adapted to this area. "It takes approximately 10 years from the time a cross is first made until a new variety can be adequately tested and released," he said. "And one new variety from 10,000 selections is a pretty good percentage," he noted.

"In 1972, we had 40 advanced strains in a replicated test that have been developed since 1967. Out of these, we hope to have from one to five improved varieties eventually released," Dr. Owen said.

He estimated the Foundation had approximately 2,000 strains in the soybean nursery from which new varieties with greater productive capabilities and improved agronomic characteristics such as shatter resistance, maturity, lodging, etc., eventually would be developed.

Cotton producers have long had the burning desire to secure greater income from the marketplace, thus reducing dependency on the federal government. Through their organizations producers over the years have invested millions of dollars in research and promotion projects aimed at realizing this ambition.

Once this goal is reached — once farmers have some assurance that market prices will cover production costs and a reasonable return to management, labor and capital — then and only then will there be justification for substantial cuts in federal expenditures on cotton programs.

"But this time has not yet come," says Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., "and in the foreseeable future a cotton program with solid producer income protection is going to be an absolute necessity."

Historically the marketplace has been an unreliable source of adequate income for farmers. Prices are sufficient to cover production costs only when supplies are short. Then supplies go up, prices come down, and only the strongest of the strong survive.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz currently is pointing to record high average prices for farm commodities and saying this new found "prosperity" reduces the need for farm programs. He has said the current administration's farm policy will be focused on increasing farmers' profits from the marketplace and reducing their dependence on government.

"Which is well and good," Johnson points out, "if the Secretary has found a way to maintain high market prices over the long term. But no one in or out of government has yet been able to prevent the development of oversupply in various commodities from time to time, followed by plunging prices and the decimation of agricultural enterprises."

For cotton, a government program to stabilize prices and supplies is particularly important, he continues. "When cotton supplies are short and prices high, we lose our markets to man-made fibers. When supplies are long and prices low, we stand to lose our farms."

"So one of the major tasks ahead for PCG and other cotton industry groups is to convince this administration that we are not yet to the point where our industry can survive without a solid government cotton program to assure adequate supplies for our customers and at the same time protect producers against disastrous prices."

Cotton producers on the Plains and all across the belt have indicated a desire to see the current set-aside program continued, retaining a 15-cent payment rate, writing in a loan level more closely tied to world market prices and eliminating or at least maintaining the $55,000 payment limitation. There is also support for this approach from other segments of the industry, from gins through textile mills.

But all agree that getting such a program through an urban-oriented, economy-minded Congress where understanding of cotton's problems is at best minimal will not be easy and could prove impossible without a direct and vigorous effort from the White House and USDA.

"Thus our ability to continue as a major industry," Johnson concludes, "may ride with our ability to change, or at least modify, some of the thinking that now prevails at the executive level in Washington."

Jackie Elliott To Show Steers In Houston

The 1973 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo opens February 21 and runs through March 4.

Jackie Elliott, Floydada FFA member, will be exhibiting a pen of eight commercial steers at a banquet on the Commercial Steer Show Feeding Records Contest.

The steers are graded according to actual U.S. market grades and premiums are paid accordingly. The purpose of the Junior Commercial Steer Show is to encourage more 4-H Club Members and Future Farmers to participate in a practical beef production program.

The steers are graded according to actual U.S. market grades and premiums are paid accordingly. The purpose of the Junior Commercial Steer Show is to encourage more 4-H Club Members and Future Farmers to participate in a practical beef production program.

Emphasis on economy in the feeding operation is not only recommended but is prerequisite entry in this show.

4-H Club members and Future Farmers of America who are residents of Texas are eligible to show in this division, and they may show purebred, grade or cross-bred steers of any of the beef breeds. The steers must have been fed and cared for by the exhibitors, who must have owned their steers prior to October 1, 1972. All steers must weigh 700 pounds or more at the official weigh-in at the show.

Proof Positive... Sheep and Lamb Feeding Down... Vegetable Value Increases... Not Just Chicken Feed...

Cattle producers are continuing to increase production, contrary to claims of some consumer groups which have charged that cattlemen are holding back on production to keep prices on the increase.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that in Texas the number of cattle on feed as of January 1 is up 26 percent from a year ago. Cattle on feed January 1 of this year totaled 2,245,000; a year ago the total was 1,781,000.

In addition, cattle placed on feed in Texas feedlots from October 1, 1972, to January 1, 1973 was up 12 percent from placements of a year ago. Cattle marketed out of Texas feedlots was 16 percent above marketings of a year ago.

Feedlot operators report intentions to market 1,257,000 cattle between now and March 31. This would be 33 percent more than marketed during the same period a year ago.

Nationwide, the trend for upward production in beef continues. Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market as of January 1 in 23 major feeding states is estimated at 13,920,000 head, four percent above a year ago. Cattle feeders throughout the nation plan to market about 6,917,000 head between now and March; this would be seven percent higher than those actually sold during the same period last year.

While cattle feeding increased, the numbers of Texas sheep and lambs on feed as of January 1 was down 15 percent from a year ago, but this is still 61 percent above November 1, 1972.

Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on succulent pastures and expected in the next three months to produce a carcass that will grade good or better.

Numbers of sheep and lambs on feed in Texas as of January 1 totaled 339,000 head. Marketings of sheep and lambs can increase now through February because additional lambs may be placed on feed early in the period and marketed later during this period.

Nationwide, sheep and lambs on feed as of January 1 in 26 states totaled 2,873,000 head, nearly the same as a year ago. Sheep and lambs on feed in the seven major feeding states—Texas, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota—were down three percent from a year ago.

VALUE of commercial vegetables—potatoes, sweet potatoes and strawberries—produced in Texas during 1972 totaled $148,827,000; this is an increase of five percent from the year earlier.

Leading crops in value of production in 1972 were onions, carrots, watermelons, cabbage and cantaloupes.

Texas ranked third in harvested acreage, production and value of fresh market vegetables. Only California and Florida outranked Texas.

Texas ranks first in the nation in harvested acreage for fresh market for these crops: cabbage, watermelons. It is second in harvested acreage for onions, cantaloupes, honeydews and cucumbers.

Favorable Weather Aids Cotton Harvest On South Plains

Cotton harvesting has resumed in all areas as open weather prevails, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office of the USDA.

Samples from 86,300 bales were tested and classed at the South Plains USDA cotton classing offices at Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland during the week ending Friday, February 2. This brought the total classed for the season to 1,462,000 bales.

Estimates indicate that approximately 80 percent of this season's crop is now out of the fields. Grades of cotton at Lubbock were slightly lower than the previous week. Strict Low Middling Light Spotted (42) was the predominant grade, making up 17 percent of all cotton classed. Strict Low Middling (41) made up 11 percent, Strict Low Middling Spotted (43) 15 percent and

Agriculture's outpost on Wall Street

Most farmers and ranchers don't realize the Land Bank gets its loan funds from the sale of money to investors. There is no government money in the Land Bank system. The quality of Land Bank plus the skill with which the Farm Credit System's own Fiscal Agency works on behalf of agriculture means a constant flow of low-cost financing to the nation's money market. Come in... and see how Land Bank money is bought—and at a fair price to the borrower.

It takes more than optimism!

The farmer/rancher is an eternal optimist. He must be—to contend with such imponderables as weather, prices and costs.

Yet, it takes more than optimism in today's high cost agriculture. It takes an organization the farmer/rancher knows he can count on. Farm Bureau is such an organization. That's why four out of five farmers in the nation are members of Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau works for agriculture on three broad fronts—

1. TO INCREASE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY—Through effectiveness in Public Affairs (policy development & legislative activities)
2. TO STRENGTHEN FARMERS' COMPETITIVE POSITION IN MARKETPLACE—Through marketing programs, commodity activities, market expansion
3. TO CONTROL PRODUCTION COSTS—Through group purchasing (tires & batteries), insurance protection (fire, life & casualty), group insurance (medical care)

Floydada in the 20's....Doctors

Arthur E. Gamble

My life in Floydada was played an important part because these men were friends, neighbors and a part of the family. Birth was attended by a midwife. I don't remember but from everything I know of him he was an excellent physician. He never admitted just how big I was because in his opinion a doctor would let a baby be shot. He did admit to 11 pounds and more - that it was much more than 11 pounds. But thanks to the care, Mother and I were through in good health a half century later.

throat; Dr. M.C. Overson being the baby doctor and Dr. J.T. Krueger specializing in surgery. These doctors had their office over the First National Bank until they built the Lubbock Sanitarium and moved to offices there.

Doctors made house calls in those days and most babies were born at home. When a cowboy broke a leg, someone was gored by a bull or any other of the major catastrophes that could happen to farm and ranch people occurred, the word was "somebody ride for the doctor" and many hairy stories are told of those rides. But there was never any question about whether they could get the Doctor to come or not - none of this "take two aspirin and call me during office hours next Thursday" stuff - the Doctor went with his little black bag to save a life if possible.

If those early day doctors were handling their workload today with the high fees, medicare, etc., they could have all been rich - but back then a Doctor was lucky if he got paid for delivering a baby by the time the child was ready for school. These were dedicated men who took their oath seriously and did their best to minister to all who needed them.

Smith may be a "common" name over this country, but when you precede the name with Dr. Lon or Dr. George memories of two great men come flooding back. Floydada should give thanks they were there when needed.

Cancer Of The Mouth

Cancers of the mouth area afflict about 15,000 Americans each year and accounts for about 7,500 deaths annually. Although mouth cancer is fairly rare in children, it represents three per cent of cancers in men, and one per cent of cancers in women.

Oral cancers in many cases can be cured if discovered early and given prompt adequate treatment. Cancers of the mouth should be readily detectable because of the mouth's sensitivity and its accessibility to inspection. However, most early mouth cancers are painless, so the lesion or altered tissue is often ignored until the cancer has reached an advanced state. All adults should have examinations regularly and be aware of the warning signals.

Person should be wary of: 1) unusual bleeding or discharge, 2) a lump or swelling of the lip, gum, tongue, cheek, palate, tonsil or neck, 3) a sore, or ulceration that does not heal within two weeks, and 4) white scaly areas inside the mouth.

The most common site of oral cancer is the lip, especially the lower lip. It is thought that cancer of the lower lip may be caused by excessive exposure to sunlight, irritation from a pipe or cigarette, rubbing from ill-fitting dentures, poor mouth hygiene, or improper diet. Lip cancer may develop in or be preceded by a condition of the membrane of the lip known as leukoplakia of "white plaque."

The outer layer of the lip's membrane thickens, forming a thin white film because of an overproduction of cells. These cells are normal in structure, but a large percentage of them develop into cancer. For this reason, most doctors consider leukoplakia a precancerous and a warning signal.

A precaution for lip cancer is to avoid irritation of the lips. When a dry cigarette is placed between the lips, the paper wrapping often sticks to the lip, usually the lower one, and some of the membrane may be pulled away when the lips are open. This minor injury, when repeated often enough, can conceivably lead to cancerous conditions. Wetting the cigarette paper with moistened lips before lighting will eliminate this possible hazard. Other irritations to be avoided are excessively hot food and drinks and a long exposure to the sun without some creamy protection.

The second most frequent site of oral cancer is the tongue. Lesions are usually preceded by Leukoplakias. Most tongue cancers develop on the sides of the tongue, although they may occur on the top or underside. Oral cancers also affect the cheek membrane, floor of the mouth, gums, and roof of the mouth (palate).

When oral cancer is suspected, the dentist may investigate by performing a "smear" or "biopsy" of the oral cavity. For a smear, the dentist scrapes some surface cells from the suspicious area, smears them on glass slides and studies them under a microscope. When cells wear out and are shed, they have a normal recognizable appearance. If the process of shedding is accelerated by an unusual growth underneath, the cells appear abnormal under the microscope. In this way, otherwise symptomless cancers can be detected early and, if treated in time, cured.

For a biopsy, the dentist or physician removes a small piece of tissue and examines it under the microscope. He studies the relationship of the cells to each other and determines whether or not they are acting normally. The biopsy is a relatively simple, yet reliable test for determining whether a lesion is cancerous.

Mouth cancer can be treated by surgery and radiation, either one or both. Radiation is sometimes used to shrink a large tumor to more operable size. The radiation may be applied from outside the mouth, as with X-rays or cobalt-60, or radium may be implanted directly into the cancer. Surgery can sometimes remove even advanced mouth and throat cancers while preserving or restoring normal facial contours.

Oral cancer is more rapidly destructive than most other serious cancers, so early detection is quite important. The American Cancer Society has a continuing professional education program stressing the dentist's role in early detection, and keeping the professionals informed of scientific progress in cancer control. The dentist can play an important role in early detection through a routine check for cancer each time he examines a patient. More and more dentists are checking for cancer, but unfortunately, only 40 per cent of the United States population visits a dentist regularly.

The number of people who die or are disfigured from oral cancer can be reduced if persons will have periodic check-ups and will become aware of the warning signals. Individuals should also know those factors which are widely regarded as tending to cause oral cancer: 1) excessive use of tobacco, 2) poor mouth hygiene, 3) sharp teeth or improperly fitting dentures, 4) dietary deficiency, and 5) habitual use of very hot food and liquid. Proper care and attention to your teeth will reduce the possibility of oral cancer. The health of your mouth is in your hands.

FLOYD PHILOSOPHER
Thinks He Has The Solution To Intense Air Pollution Across The Nation

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm tries his hand at solving the air pollution problem this week, more or less.

Dear editor:
Having visited several big cities recently on the theory a man ought to get off his own place at least once in a lifetime, I now know what the newspapers are talking about when they report the high levels of air pollution in those places, caused, it has been determined, about 90 per cent by automobiles running bumper to bumper through the places.

By late afternoon the air is so polluted from car exhaust you couldn't, if the situation existed in Floydada, see the Court House from The Hesperian office.

Officials are now racking their brains trying to find a solution to the problem. The Governor of Massachusetts has even turned down a billion dollars in Federal highway funds and is trying to ban the building or more expressways and parking lots, on the theory I guess that new highways, once they are built, are, like new weapons of war, bound to be used sooner or later.

One city is even proposing rationing gasoline as the only way to cut down on so much automobile use, not recognizing I guess that this actually would increase the use of cars as people drove to neighboring cities to stock up on un-rationed gas. Probably the net result would be merely the increase in the sale of barrels.

I've always contended that cities ought to be built out in the country where there's plenty of fresh air, but I haven't been able to get anybody to listen.

The only solution I can think of is a massive educational program to convince people to stay where they are. Show them that a hamburger in Floydada or Lockney tastes as good as a hamburger in Lubbock, that blindfolded you can't tell whether you're eating fried chicken in Boston or Los Angeles, that once you've mastered it there's no longer any adventure in going through another highway interchange, and that if your tube isn't blown you can go to sleep before the same television programs they go to sleep to in New York.

I think this is the solution, but I don't think it'll work.

Yours faithfully,

The Master's Business

Scripture: Luke 2:49

In the midst of their business cares, Mary and Joseph lost Jesus. Taking care of filing tax returns, making payments and attending to tax assessments their minds turned away from their everyday duties of knowing the whereabouts of Jesus.

In the everyday life is where many people neglect and lose the Lord. Paying taxes and taking care of tax assessments, estimated tax, local dues, civic matters, and similar responsibilities often get our minds channeled away from God except on Sunday morning.

Please remember that God's business goes continuously seven days a week. There is never any time to forget about spiritual things. Moment by moment we are kept in His care, so why shouldn't we realize His presence?

The Master's business concerns each person. Find Jesus as your personal Saviour and don't let Him get lost from you!

W.L. Hopkins
