SHAW ALPHABET READING KEY—The sound of each letter is shown in bold type. Proper names are distinguished by a dot preceding the letters of the word. Punctuation and numerals are unchanged. Four words are represented by single letters—the, of, and, to.

Shaw Play Published In New Alphabet

LONDON — A slim paper book has come out with page after page of strange characters looking like a cross between Arabic and shorthand. It brings to fruition the last wish of playwright George Bernard Shaw.

One of the loudest bees buzzing in Shaw's lively legend was the amount of time spent in the physical labor of writing ideas on paper. Ideas came quickly, words were slow.

He turned to shorthand. It speeded up his writing. But few people could read it — fewer still could publish it. If he wrote a play in shorthand it had to be transliterated into the Roman alphabet before it could be published.

Shaw was convinced there must be a better way. What was needed, he contended, was a new, more efficient alphabet that didn't need groups of letters or diacritical marks to indicate single sounds.

He died Nov. 2, 1950. In his will he left his residual estate to promote the development of a new alphabet and ordered that when this had been done, his play "Androcles and the Lion" should be published in the new alphabet with a parallel text in the Roman alphabet.

This now has been done. But it was no easy task.

Shaw appointed the public trustee as executor and trustee of his will. The playwright directed that if his money could not be used to finance the new alphabet, then it was to go to the British Museum, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the National Gallery of Ireland.

These other beneficiaries took the issue to court and a high court judge ruled that the will's provisions regarding a new alphabet were invalid in law. But when the public trustee appealed from this decision, the other three beneficiaries agreed to pay $200,000 ($23,240 toward financing the search for a new alphabet and publication of the book.

The public trustee announced competition for the new alphabet in 1957. During the following year 468 designs came in from all over the world. But none of them was judged to be sufficiently high standard. So the 500 pounds ($1,400) prize money was shared among four designers.

Kingsley Read, a 74-year-old retiring designer of lettering, was appointed to produce a new alphabet with the advice of experts and in collaboration with the prize-winning designers.

The result is a 49-letter alphabet that looks vaguely Pictish, or rather like the squiggles of a shorthand writer. Besides the equivalents of the usual 26 letters of the Roman alphabet the Shaw alphabet incorporates a number of diphthongs (such as "th") and triphthongs, plus several forms for such letters as "a" and "e."

James Pittman, legislator and grandson of Sir Isaac Pittman, inventor of Britain's most used shorthand system, has been closely associated with the project.

In an introduction to the book he writes:

"Shaw did not want you and me to abandon the Roman alphabet. Shaw believed us would be found for a new and handier alphabet without abandoning the old one."

"If those who tried it found it advantageous, they would use it and by their example it would gain what following it deserved. If its benefits were substantial enough, it would spread and establish itself through merit."

In the United States the "Androcles and the Lion" is available from Penguin Books, at 95 cents.

The copyright in the new alphabet and the type faces for printing it are public property, so anyone who wants to print his own material in the new alphabet may do so.

That was what Shaw always wanted.

AAUW Sets Art Exhibit At State

The State Arts committee of the American Association of University Women will hold an exhibit of Arts and Crafts at the state convention to be held at Keville April 25-27.

This is the first exhibit of this kind to be held by the organization and it is hoped that it will prove a success and a source of pride and inspiration for all members who attend. Along with paintings and creative writing, a wide assortment of small crafts suitable for an "exchange of ideas" for AAUW members is solicited. All exhibits must be work of the membership.

The State Arts Committee chairman, Bernice Crawford of Brownfield, has suggested that members be limited to one entry in any one medium. Any valuable entry will be covered by insurance from Thursday noon until Saturday noon. The exhibit room will be locked during convention hours.

Miss Ruby Butts, arts chairman for the local branch, urges all members to participate in order that Area II, of which Snyder is a part will be well represented.

Keep syrups, after opening, in a cold place so no scum will form over the top surface.

Picture Hooks Prevent Fall For Aunt Minnie

Hang a ancestral portraits from simple nails driven into the wall is not recommended either for the wall or for the portrait, since the nail may pull out, crumbling the plaster and dropping the portrait of Aunt Minnie with a crash.

Home decorating experts say the proper method for hanging pictures is to suspend them from picture hooks designed for the purpose and of sufficient capacity to hold the weight of the picture and frame.

An attractive new picture hook on the market is made of crystal clear plastic, with special tempered and hardened nails. These picture hooks in the popular 16-pound and 35-pound capacities, actually are attractive enough to appear in the open as hangings for other wall decorations as well. Such picture hooks, properly used, protect portraits from damage, and reduce the possibility of marring the wall.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute Report: PLYMOUTH BEATS FORD AND CHEVROLET IN 8 OUT OF 10 OFFICIAL TESTS

Plymouth once again proves all-around superiority against its competition. Handling, safety, performance, economy—all of these were measured in the second meeting of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth early in December at the Riverside, Cal., test course. In a "Showdown" asked for by Plymouth, a 1963 Plymouth Fury V-8 whipped a comparably equipped Chevrolet Impala V-8 and Ford Galaxy "400" V-8 in eight out of ten official tests.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute bought the cars, hired the drivers, supplied the officials, made and enforced the rules. The chart at right leaves no question about the results. Plymouth excelled in all-around performance and economy. Add in Plymouth's good looks and 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.

Clay Rates 4-1 Nod In Heavy Scrap

By LOU PRATO
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Exhaling pompously that the fight will go no longer than three rounds, brash young Cassius Marcellus Clay takes another step tonight in his announced bid to become the youngest heavyweight champion in boxing history in a 10-round bout against Charley Powell.

More than 10,000 fans are expected to jam Pittsburgh's Civic Arena to see if the volatile Clay, the third-ranked heavyweight contender, is as adroit with his fists as he is with his tongue.

Proceeds of the match that has excited area sports fans like nothing since the Pirates won the World Series in 1960 will go to the families of 37 coal miners killed in a mine explosion at nearby Carmichaels last Dec. 6.

A victory is a must for the impetuous Clay. He is determined to win the heavyweight title by next November in order to best Floyd Patterson as the youngest heavyweight champ on record.

Patterson was 21 years, 11 months old when he first won the crown. Clay celebrated his 21st birthday last Thursday.

Cold Causes Jam Of Autos

In this area's 14th consecutive day of sub-zero temperatures, a lot of autos won't.

More Exercise Urged By Romney

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George Romney took his early morning constitutional—a half mile run in seven-below zero temperature—Wednesday and urged his fellow Michigan residents to do a little more exercising.

"Once you get outside and start exercising, these cold days are not bad at all," Romney told skeptical newsmen. "The trouble is most people act like hot-house plants."

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

The latest score in Dave Knapp's Scorebook:
"Dr. Rhea Williams, athletic director of the Texas Inter-scholastic League, informed the Scorebook Monday afternoon that he would notify District 3-AAA of an alleged violation of TIL rules by a Sweetwater basketball player, who has been bowling for cash and trophies for some time."

"Dr. Williams said he would advise the conference chairman, Joe Cassell, San Angelo, to look into the situation and furnish the TIL with a report when a check is completed."

"When asked about last year's basketball title — won by Sweetwater apparently with an ineligible player — he said 'We're concerned only with this year. It's too late to do anything about last year — regardless of whether they were lost.'"

"Whatever is decided will be effective from now on," Williams remarked.
The cager bowed at least 27 games throughout West Texas as a member of "an all star tournament." Where money is involved — and it was — that's a violation of TIL rules.

"We had no qualms about bringing it to the attention of the TIL, then it's only fair that every other school in the district should have to adhere to them too."

When? What a relief! Ever since reading Mr. Knapp's Sunday column I was afraid that District 3-AAA might have to back up and send Lamesa to last year's regional tournament which, of course, would mean throwing a brand new tournament for their benefit and calling a bunch of boys who were off in college back to play, and . . .

Not only that, but think of all the expense it would be to the Lubbock people to put on another tournament, and then if Lamesa won there the Austin folks would have to back-track and try to throw together another 1963 state tournament.

I'm glad Dr. Williams ruled like he did, 'cause it would've been a godawful mess the other way and maybe even a little bit anti-climactic to have a bunch of '63 tournaments starting us in the face with '63 so much in evidence everywhere you look.

Laying all spoils aside, word has been received that the charges levied were well-grounded ones. The boy in question—64 star Mike Perry—did indeed participate in a bowling match in Odessa, and his team eventually won first place and was awarded cash prizes.

Even though Perry did not accept any of the prize money (all of his expenses had been paid by his father, a member of the bowling team) Williams ruled that scores he made contributed to the winning total and that due to that fact he had violated the TIL code on amateurism.

Cassell, Lake View superintendent and chairman of the 3-AAA executive committee, conducted a telephone vote of committee members and they agreed to impose the minimum penalty on the Pones—that of forfeiture of both games in which Perry has played thus far (Sweetwater's record stood at 1-1) and allowing of the school to pick up from there and compete for the district title.

Travis And Lamar Brace For Tournays

Did somebody say "tournament"? Regardless, Snyder's two junior-highs will both be seeing a liberal amount of tournament action Friday and Saturday when San Angelo hosts a 9th grade meet and Sweetwater serves as the site for an 8th grade tournay.

Lamar and Ballinger will ignite play in the San Angelo Tournament at 1 p.m. Friday. The winner of that game goes up against the San Angelo Edison-Coleman surriors at 1:20 p.m. Saturday while the two losers get together in the consolation bracket at 10:30 a.m. that morning.

Travis and Lake View tangle at 2:30 p.m. Friday in their first rounder. The winner then goes on to meet the San Angelo Lee-Sweetwater winner at noon Saturday. Prior to that — at 9 a.m. — the losers of those two first round frags are to square off.

At Sweetwater, Travis 8th will be taking on Roscoe at 8:15 and Lamar 8th is to battle Big Spring Goloid at 7:30 in Friday's opening round.

Travis, Roscoe, Sweetwater and Stamford compose one bracket of play there and Lamar, Goloid, Sweetwater, White and Colorado City the other.

Casper Enthused With Golfing Game

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Billy Casper says he's playing his best golf ever on the touring pros' winter tour, which should serve as a warning to others starting the $54,000 San Francisco International Open today.

For Billy won the $5,000 first prize in Bing Crosby's Tournament Sunday and shared low-pro honors Wednesday with Dave Riggs in the pro-amateur prelude to the San Francisco event with a 4-under-par 67. Each received $402.50 for his effort.

"I feel I'm playing better on the winter tour than I ever saw played on it," the 1959 U.S. Open champion said after posting five birdies and one bogey Wednesday. "I think a lot of it is due to my new putting stance."

Most of the pros reported the greens at the Harding Park Municipal Course, scene of the 7-hole test, were bumpy—a condition aggravated by the long dry spell in Northern California.

Arnold Palmer just shook his head when a newsmen asked about the greens following his even-par 71.

Casper, who had birdie putts from 3 to 29 feet, commented, "It's just lucky when they go in."

China-Russia Discord Makes Sweet Music For Westerners

By INEZ ROBB

Who, in his right mind, ever pulled down the window shades and stuffed cotton in his ears when the neighbors next door are having a free-for-all? It is asking too much of human nature to ignore the noisy, noisy, noisy when the neighbors are no great shakes to begin with and had won no community popularity prizes.

President Kennedy, in his State of the Union message, warned us to take no comfort from the Communist family fight between the Russians and the Chinese. He pointed out and rightly, that the inter-Communist feud is not over. While the West should be buried, but only over when and how.

Still, and all the President would surely not deny us the pleasure of listening to the sweet music of discord that came out of the big Communist party congress in East Berlin a few days ago. The international situation doesn't often provide a cheerful little earful. But the music of the sphere never sounded sweeter than the Chinese Stalins calling the Russian Khrushchev "revisionists" and vice versa.

And in the lexicon of communism "revisionists" is the equivalent of the word "bloody" in the British Isles — the absolute living end in the unspeakable and unprintable, much less unsayable. In either case, it is far more serious and offensive than is the case when an American correctly names the maternal ancestor of the family dog.

In the long run it may be cold comfort to hear the pot call the kettle black in the Communist kitchen. But only a killjoy would deny us the pleasure of a ripside seat when the two Communist factions are so busy cllobbering each other that they can scarcely take time out to clobber us.

The word "monolithic," which has been inseparable from communism during the lifetime of many Americans, will have to be discarded now. The image of communism as a solid, unshakable granite, without seam or schism, melted away in East Berlin when the two factions hissed, booed and hooted each other in a manner more reminiscent of such imperialist hooligans as Southern and Northern Democrats or conservative vs. liberal Republicans.

Even though both the Russian and Chinese Communists aim to bury us, we ought to be allowed to enjoy the violent infighting over the funeral arrangements. It gives us at least a momentary feeling that the report of our impending burial may be as grossly exaggerated as that of Mark Twain's demise.

By tradition a family fight is more lethal and savage than any other kind. More destructive, too. The President has warned us not to be tempted to hope that the two factions in communism's house will destroy each other, thereby automatically freeing the West of the obligations and necessity of spying itself. But it's nice to dream for a moment or two.

The East Germany conclave was educational in more than one sphere. It revealed an open and bitter split in Communist ranks. But it also revealed, through Nikita Khrushchev's address that the United States "has 40,000 atomic or nuclear warheads. I don't want to scare anybody — mentioning this I only cite facts," he said in his formal address to the meeting.

Khrushchev may not have impressed the Chinese Communists with that statistic or the staggering prediction that such bombs could kill 700 to 800 million human beings. But I'm certain I'm not the only American to whom the figure were not only new but their potential overwhelming.

Mao Tse-tung has already shrugged off the fact that in case of nuclear war the Chinese losses would total 300,000,000 persons. There would still be about 400,000,000 Chinese left, or more than the nation could feed and maintain at anything like a Western standard of living.

Both Communist factions may be intent on buying us, each in his own way. But if the Communist congress just concluded is a prelude to a great power struggle within the party, someone else may well lead the procession to the cemetery.

In the meantime, I am willing to speak softly and carry a big stick if I am permitted an occasional wry smile over the capers in communism's camp.

Junior Editors Quiz on PAPER

QUESTION: How and of what is paper made?

ANSWER: Paper is made out of cellulose, a substance found in plants. Cotton rags are generally used to manufacture high grade paper, but most paper comes from wood pulp. For the latter, forest trees are cut into short logs and the bark removed in a revolving drum (A). The logs are chipped (B), digested (C) and made into wood pulp in a set of steps (D, E, F). The pulp is then spread onto wire cloth (G) and goes through different sets of rollers (H) which flatten and dry it. Emerging as paper, it is wound on a roll (I). Special processes and chemicals are used to make different kinds of paper. That used in newspapers, for example, is made by blending sulfate pulp with ground up wood. To give a smoother surface, glue and starch are sometimes added. For the very fine surface needed in books and magazines, clay and other fine materials are applied to the surface with brushes or rollers. Enormous amounts of discarded newspapers, cartons, etc.—up to 8,500,000 tons a year—are used to make "paperboard," from which come new cartons and containers.

FOR YOU TO DO: Roll newspaper sheets tightly and tie to make animal form (1). Soak newspaper scraps overnight in water (2). Squeeze out water and mash up with glue and water and you have paper mache (3). Build this around foundation and decorate with poster paints (4).

Remembering Is Always Big Chore

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—If anyone ever starts a memory-training course in our neighborhood I'll be the first one to join it. It is, I can remember where and when the classes are held.

I'd like to be able to blame my slowness in memory on what I gracefully refer to as my "mature" years. But the fact is, the only date I've ever been able to remember is my birthday, and lately I've been trying to forget that.

Some people forget the tag line of a joke. I forget the whole joke. I not only can't remember things—I can't even remember what it is I'm trying to remember.

While my husband is away at work, I can think of things I want to tell him when he gets home. Or, I run across some interesting bit of news in our old hometown paper and I stow the item in my mind for future reference. Unfortunately, I always seem to put it in the "file and forget" compartment.

Not only do I not recall details—I don't even link on to the generalities. Concerning our family vacation trips, I can never be certain whether it was Bunker Hill we visited, or Gettysburg.

When I beg my husband at a party, "to tell them that funny story about what happened in Canada," I'm not just giving him a wily pish-to the center of the stage. The truth is, I can't remember what did happen in Canada.

Mostly, I am able to conceal this mental handicap, but there have been occasions when it proved my social undoing.

Once a dear friend was visiting me when another friend dropped in unexpectedly.

That was fine, except that in the surprise at seeing Friend No. 2 her name escaped me completely. When I started to introduce her to Friend No. 1.

Somehow I couldn't bring myself to mar my cordial greeting with the query, "By the way, what is your name?"

Suddenly her identity flashed across my memory. True, it was only her last name I had thought of, but at least I could make the introduction by surname, even though it was a bit formal.

With relief, I beamingly announced, "Mrs. Kolan, this is..."

All at once, Friend No. 2's last name had vanished from my mind.

Well, at least that's one incident I'll never forget.

Dog Stays On Bed Of Dead Master

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Authorities have given up attempts to lure Tippy, a mongrel dog, from the bed of his dead 4-year-old master.

The dog was the only survivor Wednesday of a fire which killed his owner, Hayes Eaton Jr., and the boy's mother, Barbara Eaton, 25.

Mrs. Eaton's husband, Hayes, a bartender, was at work when the fire broke out in their two-bedroom home.

After the fire, Tippy, jumped up on the boy's bed. He was lured away once but he came back. Repeated efforts by firemen and neighbors to keep him away failed.
