Guardsmen Get Shooting Orders As Kilgore Incendiarism Breaks Out Anew

TWO BLAZES SPREAD ALARM THROUGH CITY

Military and Civil Authorities Join in Patrol-ing Streets

SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Fires Follow Invasion of Camp by Shooting Motorist

KILGORE, Texas, Aug. 30. (AP)—Orders to national guardsmen in the East Texas oil field martial law zone to "shoot at the waistline" were issued by Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commandant of the area, as a fresh outbreak of incendiarism occurred here today.

A combination rooming house and morgue and a grain warehouse were damaged slightly in the second outbreak, following the first by exactly one week.

Kilgore, thoroughly alarmed at the recurrence, was arming itself and placing heavy guards around oil property and business places. The volunteer fire department was recruiting additional men to handle the fire emergency. Military and civil authorities had joined hands in patrolling the city.

Troops Mustered

Immediately after the second fire this afternoon, General Wolters lined up his troopers in front of the city hall to issue orders. A detachment of 36 men was sent to various sections of the city for patrol duty.

"Open your holsters," General Wolters barked at his men. Holsters were opened.

"Now if you are forced to shoot," the general ordered, "shoot at the waistline and if you miss don't come back here and alibi. You had just as well keep going over the hill. That's all."

Two suspects were held in the city jail. Authorities expressed belief the man they wanted was one of the men held.

Rags Soaked

The first attempt in the new outbreak was discovered shortly after 2 p. m. City officers and Texas rangers found a bundle of gasoline soaked rags, similar to those discovered frequently in the blazes last Sunday, beneath the combination morgue and rooming house. Less than 30 minutes later, the grain company warehouse was set fire in the same manner. Both fires were extinguished without material damage.

Fear that insurance companies will withdraw fire protection from the city was expressed by Kilgore business men. Such action already had been threatened, it was reported.

Previous to the fires today, the soldiers were enjoying a peaceful week-end with folks from home

English Trade Congress To Convene on Sept. 7

LONDON, Aug. 30. (US)—The agenda for the important meeting of the trades union congress, scheduled for Bristol on Sept. 7, was announced tonight. The main items listed for consideration were:

Nationalization of mining, railways, and the building industry; the establishment of a six hour day to cut unemployment; and repeal of the trades disputes Act of 1927.

Roosevelt Relief Bill To Be Pushed Through

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30. (AP)—Governor Roosevelt's unemployment relief program had the right of way for the second week of the special session of the New York state legislature as the senators and assemblymen returned to Albany tonight.

Senator George R. Fearon, Republican, majority leader, announced at Syracuse the state's relief measures would be pushed through as speedily as possible.

FENCE INJURIES

GREENVILLE, Texas, Aug. 30. (UP)—Harold Ray, Greenville youth, had a badly cut and gashed leg tonight to show for a horseback ride he took today. His mount ran into a barbed wire fence and the painful injuries followed.

Railroad Commission Lays Plans For Rigid Enforcemeut Of Order

AUSTIN, Aug. 30. (UP)—Texas state railroad commissioners, with whom rests responsibility for issuance of an order preventing wasteful production of oil in the huge East Texas field, expect to promulgate the order tomorrow.

They spent Sunday planning enforcement of the order, although they held no conference to decide on its term. Conferences were expected to begin tomorrow morning, an order to be issued tomorrow afternoon, and its effectiveness to come Tuesday.

The East Texas field, largest in the world, has produced no oil since Aug. 17, when Gov. Ross Sterling sent 1,200 state cavalrymen into it and had all wells shut down.

Plan to Use 26 Men

The commission laid plans today to have 26 men in the East Texas field to enforce the new waste order as soon as it is effective. They will be employes of the oil and gas division of the commission, rather than militiamen. Fifteen of them will be gaugers, and there will be a petroleum engineer and a technical expert. Names of none of the enforcing employes were announced.

The state government begins a new fiscal year Tuesday, and the commission will have available its first funds under the new state oil and gas conservation law.

The commission, concluding its first hearing under the new law Friday, gave indications that it intends to allow the East Texas field to produce about 300,000 barrels of oil per day. It was predicted that the allowable would be divided among producers on a 20-acre unit basis, each unit producing approximately 150 barrels.

Sterling Silent

Whether Governor Sterling would withdraw the 700-odd troops still in the field enforcing his shutdown, on issuance of the waste order, was an unanswered question tonight. He has never given any indication what he will do or when. Last week, however, he suggested to Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commander of the forces in the field, that if they could be safely reduced it ought to be done in the interest of economy. General Wolters promptly sent home a third of the troopers.

Governor Sterling maintains he closed the field to prevent waste of oil and gas and to prevent dissatisfaction of royalty and land owners with low prices from developing into insurrection. He is expected to have more troops withdrawn from time to time as the railroad commission reports its orders are being obeyed.

The order is not expected to go unchallenged. Court actions to determine its validity and the constitutionality of the law under which it is issued are expected to follow promulgation of the order. Such actions will be settled speedily and opinion is that they will not prevent enforcement of the order against non-protesting operators.

Hoover Studies Arms Problem During Week-End

RAPIDAN CAMP, Va., Aug. 30. (US)—President Hoover will return to Washington early tomorrow after a week-end spent for the most part in considering the question of armaments and their relation to world depression.

The president was in frequent conference with Assistant Secretary of State James G. Rogers, who has been making a special study of the armaments situation abroad and who was a camp guest for the second time within a month.

New British Cabinet Launches Program Today

LONDON, Aug. 30. (US)—With the sterling buttressed by the new credits from New York and Paris, and with the decks cleared of extraneous politics for full steam ahead, the new national government meets tomorrow to begin a rigorous economy program.

The members of the new cabinet studied the reports of the cabinet committees over the week-end. Premier MacDonald spent a busy morning telephoning Downing street from Lossiemouth. He will fly from Lossiemouth to London tomorrow morning.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

EASY SUMS IN SIMPLE TRADING

Our undercover man in the blanket factory gives us the new international weights and measures.

Five bushels of wheat equal one bushel of coffee.

A peck of corn makes one pint. One pint is equivalent to 30 days.

One-third of a bale of cotton is a bonfire for the farm board. Two-thirds equal Sherman's march to the sea.

Sixty prominent citizens mean a commission which means nothing. The sum of two sides of a triangle is equal to the base. But nobody ever gets on base.

The straight line of a blue pencil is the shortest distance across an unpopular amendment.

Like the careful little boy who got all his answers wrong we must still award the administration five points for neatness.

CCTTON PLANS WAIT STERLING

Special Session Call to Depend on Growers

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 30.—Gov. Ross S. Sterling said Sunday night his decision on calling a special session of the legislature for cotton production relief will await his tabulating and studying responses of members. He said he has found the most extensive appeal for action ever recorded by the people of Texas on any subject and the most nearly unanimous attitude of the affected industry. His comment left no doubt of his purpose to convene the session unless unexpected opposition is shown by lawmakers' responses.

AUSTIN, Aug. 30. (UP)—With Louisiana's 1932 cotton ban "baby" all dressed up and ready for Texas to adopt, Gov. Ross Sterling will return to his office here tomorrow for information on how the Texas cotton farmer feels on acreage control and reduction. On the strength of tabulations of messages from the growers, accumulated for more than a week, Governor Sterling will decide whether he should call the legislature into special session to pass a control law.

Gov. Huey P. Long and the Louisiana legislature have put squarely up to Governor Sterling the question of whether the South shall attempt to control the price of its major crop next year through control of plantings. The bill sent here by Governor Long for study and adoption forbids any planting at all in 1932.

The ban will not be effective until states with as much as three-fourths of the 1931 cotton growing acreage

Doctor Admits Starting Fires to 'See Them Burn'

OGALLALA, Neb., Aug. 30. (UP)—A young physician, who yielded to an urge to set fires and watch their flames destroy property in western Nebraska, was held here tonight by state officers.

Dr. H. J. O'Donnell, graduate of the Creighton University Medical school and now practicing at Paxton, confessed to setting eight fires "just to see them burn." He caused damage of $150,000.

"I would control my urge to burn as long as possible, then it would break out," he told officers. "The thought of seeing the red flames dart up into the darkness made me want to set fires every night."

TREASURY TO SEEK BILLION FROM PUBLIC

Long-Term Certificate and Bond Issues Planned As Taxes Drop

DEFICIT MOUNTING

Income Taxes and Revenue From Other Sources Drop Sharply

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Already $387,000,000 in the hole although the present fiscal year is but two months old, the treasury announced tonight it would seek to raise more than a billion dollars on long-term bond and certificate issues.

Secretary Mellon said the paper would include $800,000,000 worth of bonds to carry three per cent interest and to run for 20 to 24 years and $300,000,000 in a certificate issue at 1½ per cent.

Year's Third Issue

The bond issue will be the third of the present calendar year, the treasury having issued $600,000,000 of that kind of paper in March and another $800,000,000 in June. The new financing indicated to some that the treasury would follow its policy of increasing the public debt rather than ask tax increases to make up the deficit. The deficit for the last fiscal year was $903,000,000.

Since the new year began, receipts have shown a decline of about $11,000,000 under the last year while expenditures were above $38,000,000 more for the same number of days up to Aug. 27.

Income Taxes Drop

Income taxes, which dropped $550,000,000 last year, continued their downward swing and in July and August this year were nearly $10,000,000 less.

It was last year's sharp decline in income tax receipts that caused Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary Mills to suggest some new basis might be found necessary for the taxation system. Neither, however, has intimated he would recommend such a course to congress, and previous statements were interpreted by other treasury workers as indicating a revision will not be sought until the legislative session begins in December of 1933.

Some belief persisted that despite efforts to reduce expenditures it might be necessary this winter to raise additional revenue.

Callable In 1951

Both the new bond and certificate issues will be dated Sept. 15. The bonds, which will mature in 1955, will be callable in 1951. The interest on the bonds will be the lowest paid in recent years on that form of securities.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to retire $634,000,000 interest on the public debt and to provide funds to operate the government until Dec. 15, when $994,000,000 in treasury bonds and certificates will fall due.

Along with skidding income tax returns, the treasury in July and August collected $13,000,000 less in miscellaneous internal revenue than last year.

Passenger Killed, Pilot Hurt as Plane Crashes

WESTCLIFFE, Colo., Aug. 30. (UP)—Max Earl was killed and Phil Reid, Denver aviator, critically injured when an airplane piloted by Reid went into a tailspin and crashed 1,500 feet to the ground here today.

The plane crashed about three-quarters of a mile from the city limits and hundreds of townspeople who had been watching Reid fly ran to the plane and had just extricated him from the wreckage when the ship burst into flames.

Earl was killed by the force of the fall. His body was burned to a crisp in the flames. He was riding in the forward pit of the plane and was so surrounded by wreckage that it was impossible to remove his body.

Physicians feared Reid's injuries were so numerous and serious that he would not recover.

New York to Welcome Mississippi Party Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. (US)—A delegation of 100 Mississippians consisting of state and municipal officials and business men, will be welcomed at city hall Tuesday by George F. Mand, treasurer of the mayor's committee on reception to distinguished visitors. Former Gov. Murphree of Mississippi is heading the party.

Following the reception at city hall the visitors will be taken on a sight-seeing trip about the harbor on the municipal steamer "Riverside." The party is touring the East on a special train and has for its slogan, "know Mississippi better."

Former Texas Pastor Takes Missouri Post

MEXICO, Mo., Aug. 30. (UP)—Rev. J. A. Hays, former Methodist pastor of Texas, today was appointed minister to the Francis Street church of St. Joseph, Mo. His new pastorate is the largest in the Missouri conference. Reverend Hays formerly preached at Sweetwater, Texas, El Paso, Beaumont and Amarillo.

GANG BULLETS IMPERIL 200 CHILDREN; GIRL WOUNDED

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. (AP)—Gangsters bullets raked a street crowded with children in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn late today, felling an 18-year-old girl, while between 100 and 200 smaller children and the target of the shots escaped injury. The gangsters, who witnesses said fired between six and eight shots in all, fled.

The wounded girl in Jennie Balantino. She was on her way to a moving picture show with five or six other girls and was wounded in the right wrist by a stray bullet. At the hospital it was said she was not seriously wounded.

Refuses Payoff

Police said the shots fired from a parked sedan were intended for Joseph Santora, 45, a boss stevedore and longshoreman. He reported to police last night two men were seeking to extort tribute from him and he had refused to pay. They demanded money if he wanted to continue his trade unmolested, he said. Santora, who escaped the fusillade by dropping prone on the sidewalk, was questioned and then released.

Police said they knew the identity of the two gunmen.

Santora, father of 12 children, has no police record.

The solution of a recent Brooklyn gang killing and a clue to a gunman wanted for killing one child and wounding four others in Harlem rewarded the authorities tonight for their week-end anti-crime round-up.

Vincent Coll Hunted

Although only 11 prisoners were taken, one of them was Ernest Soricelli, former henchman of Arthur Felgenheimer, (Dutch Schultz) Bronx beer baron. His story sent 20 detectives on a hurried quest for Vincent Coll, suspected of having committed the "Little Italy" child shootings. Police and newspapers have offered rewards of $30,000 for conviction of the gangster responsible for the Harlem child's death.

The confessions of a band of youths blasted out of a Brooklyn apartment with riot guns fixed the guilt in the shooting a week ago of three men placed against a slaughter-house wall. It established, police said, that the gangsters on that occasion killed the wrong man.

If Babies Could Defend Themselves—

This little judge's platform leaves no room for doubt. He has joined New York's civic campaign against gangsters. A jury at the annual Rockaway, Long Island, baby parade returned a verdict of first prize for 'Judge' James Delaney Jr., when he appeared on this novel float. It calls attention to the recent killings of children in gang warfare.

Pilots Leap to Safety When Planes Crash in Air Above Race Crowd

Woman Flier Is Unofficial Winner of Both Men's and Women's Divisions in Air Derby

AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, Aug. 30. (UP)—An air thrill of a lifetime a collision 1,500 feet up between two stunting planes, was furnished today to a large crowd awaiting finish of the air derby at the national air races.

While nine Maine national guard planes were going through a difficult "corkscrew roll" formation the planes of Lieut. L. H. Sanderson and Lieut. W. O. Brice collided. A wing was clipped from Brice's plane.

The fliers bailed out and floated to a safe landing near their wrecked ships.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, 28, of Memphis, arrived first in the air derby and unofficially was declared winner of both the men's and women's divisions. Official awarding of the grand prize was held up until the judges could check elapsed times.

D. C. Warren of San Francisco, ahead in points when the 52 entrants left Dayton last night, apparently won the men's division.

Mrs. Omlie landed at 2:16 p. m. Eldon Cessna of Wichita, Kan., was the first man to land, three minutes behind Miss Omlie. The next arrival was Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Calif.

An announcement described as "entirely unofficial" by Carl F. Lienesch, derby chairman, said Edith Foltz, Portland, Ore., Mrs. Martie Bowman of Glendale, Calif., and Mrs. Mae Haizlip of St. Louis, were apparently tied for second place in the women's division.

Fourteen of the 17 women who started from Santa Monica, Calif., finished.

Dodges Tornado

Mrs. Omlie said the derby was the hardest flying she had done in her 11 years' experience.

"I passed the most difficult course over the desert. Near Enid Okla.," she said, "I flew through and around a tornado. Then everything worked with clock-like precision until this morning after leaving Dayton when I ran into a rain and windstorm. I was afraid for a

HARLAN MINER SHOT TO DEATH

Deputy Sheriff Shoots Trio On Road

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 30. (AP)—Mine labor troubles flared anew tonight when one miner was shot and killed and two others wounded, one probably fatally, by Deputy Sheriff Joe Fleener, who said the three fired on him when he attempted to question them.

A bullet from the deputy's .45 caliber pistol struck Joe Moore, 40, in the heart and killed him instantly. Julius Baldwin, 30, was shot twice in the head, and has slight chance to recover. His brother, Jeff Baldwin, 32, was shot twice in the shoulder.

Fleener said he stopped his automobile in front of a pavilion a mile from Harlan where firearms previously had been found and confiscated. He said the three men appeared in the doorway and opened fire without warning. The deputy, unharmed, emptied his gun in reply.

Fleener was released on his own bond by Sheriff J. H. Blair, who with other deputies went to the pavilion, which contained a soup kitchen and a small swimming pool, and found four shotguns, a pump gun and an automatic pistol secreted in the building. Shotgun shells were found in the pockets of the dead man, though he carried a pistol.

Children Get 100,000 Adult Jobs, Report Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (US)—Despite the decrease in employment opportunities, more than 103,000 children 14 to 15 years old received first regular employment certificates permitting them to leave school for work in 1930, according to reports made public by the U. S. children's bureau today.

The reports cover 23 states, the District of Columbia, and 40 cities of 50,000 population and over in 11 other states.

These 103,000 children entered jobs which might have been available for older persons without employment had the children remained in school, the bureau pointed out.

POLICE CHECK UP ON FATE OF 115 'PROSPECTS'

Bluebeard Gives Account Of Five Murders In Queer Garage

LYNCHING IS FEARED

Mail Order Romeo Strangled Victims With Rope And Battered Them

By ORVILLE DWYER

Universal Service Writer

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 30.—A detailed confession of the murder of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., and of another woman amplifying the meager details he gave yesterday, was made today by Harry F. Powers.

The other woman, he said, was Mrs. Dorothy Lemke of Northboro, Mass.

As the multiple slayer was relating his butchery, a chain gang of county prisoners was digging painstakingly into the ground surrounding the Quiet Dell garage where the Eichers were slain, expecting to find additional victims buried.

Wrote to 115 Women

The finding of another woman victim last night, and the discovery that Powers had carried on correspondence love afafirs with at least 115 other women, prompted the renewed digging.

It also led to a hurried checkup by police and government operatives throughout the country to determine how many of the 115 are alive and how many are dead or missing.

One of the 115 women to whom Powers wrote was a Mrs. A. D. Bailey, whose address was believed to be Oak Park, Ill.

Pushed for Story

The pudgy, perverted Powers told his elaborated story today under the insisting prodding of City Detective Carl Southern and Corporal Dorsey Bailey of the state police.

"I got them all together about Aug. 1 in the sub-cellar of my garage out in the country and killed them all together.

"I strangled them with a rope."

He declared he met Mrs. Eicher, her children and Mrs. Lemke at Fairmont, 25 miles from here, and drove them in his roadster to the slaughter scene.

"I put 14-year-old Gretche Eicher in one room; Harry Eicher, 12, and Annabel 9, in another, and Mrs. Eicher and Mrs. Lemke each in a separate room."

Studies His Words

He was hanging his head at times, apparently studying his words.

"I killed Mrs. Eicher first," he went on. "I strangled her with a rope around the neck."

He continued:

"Then I killed the two younger kids, the brother and sister. I hit the little boy on the head with a hammer before putting the rope around his neck.

"But they never made any noise or put up any fight.

"I then killed the older girl and Mrs. Lemke by strangling them."

"How long was I in the garage before I killed them? I got them there in the afternoon and killed them in the evening.

Stayed With Bodies

"Then I stayed with the bodies—No, I didn't mind it—until it was late and buried them in the sewer trench.

"You ask me if there are any more? No, that was the last—that's all there was at that place.

"They can dig if they want to, but that's all there is!"

The officers asked Powers if he had killed anybody else anywhere.

"I tell you that's all there is," he repeated.

Powers said he had left on about July 29 from Northboro, Mass., with Mrs. Lemke.

Stopped Overnight

"I went there and got Mrs. Lemke at her sister's house—Mrs. Fleming," he said. "I brought her to a town in Pennsylvania. I think it was Uniontown where she stayed overnight."

He went on:

"I left here there and met her next day with Mrs. Eicher and the kids at Fairmount. Then I took them all over to the garage to kill them."

Detective Southern expressed

TRAIN LEAP KILLS VICTIM

Oklahoman Dies in Jump From Moving Car

Special to The Record News

ROCHESTER, Texas, Aug. 30.—A man 25 years of age and tentatively identified as Fred J. Baker of Fletcher, Okla., was killed near the depot here early this morning by a Santa Fe freight train. He carried identification cards showing that he was a member of typographical union No. 663 of Lawton, Okla.

There were no witnesses to the accident and the body was not found until an hour later by the crew of the north bound passenger train which arrived at 8:28 a. m.

Baker apparently had tried to alight from the train which was traveling at a high speed when it passed here and the body was dragged approximately 25 yards and was badly mangled.

An inquest was held and the body is being held by a local undertaking establishment pending the advice of Baker's wife who is a telephone operator at Fletcher.

Graf Zep Soars Over Atlantic Toward Brazil

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 30—(US)—Enroute to South America for the second time, Germany's veteran air traveler, the Graf Zeppelin, passed over Gibraltar and headed out into the Atlantic for the Canary islands at 3 p. m. today (11 a. m. eastern daylight time).

The Graf was first sighted over Sapin at 11 a. m. (7 a. m., eastern standard time) at Palos on the southeastern Mediterranean coast.

Weather conditions were ideal as the huge airship barged over Gibraltar making about 65 miles an hour. The Graf left its home hangar at Friedrichshafen, Germany, shortly after 9 p. m. last night with 43 passengers, freight and 200 pounds of mail for Recife (Pernambuco) Brazil.

Kentucky Anti-Betting Crusader Raids Race Club for Back Taxes

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 30. (AP)—Atty. Gen. J. W. Cammack, crusader against race track betting in the state that gives the world most of its thoroughbreds, has filed another suit against a race track which probably will keep him busy during the last four months of his term of office.

Secret operations last night by Sheriff R. C. Soaper of Henderson county, who with 16 deputies armed with machine guns stormed the pari-mutuel betting sheds at Dade park, revealed another legal attack was under way against another jockey club. The machine guns, however, were to protect the track's money, not frighten embattled employes.

The latest legal maneuver ordered by the attorney general was not designed to stop betting, however. He was taking steps to enforce a four-year-old judgment for back taxes of $64,000, plus interest which brought the amount to $80,000, against the Dade Park Jockey club.

The attorney general waited until Dade park's race meeting was well under way, when he knew a large sum of money would be stored at the track, to enforce the judgment. When the first attach-

Martial Law Guards Idaho Forest Areas From Incendiary Fires

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 30. (AP)—Armed troops today inaugurated martial law in four Idaho counties, seeking to quell an outbreak of incendiarism in forest areas which Gov. C. Ben Ross blamed on jobless would-be fire fighters.

Martial law in the area was declared by Governor Ross last night when national guard and forest officials expressed fear fire fighters being rapidly released as existing blazes were controlled, would light other forests in order to give themselves employment.

About 60 men were discharged from crews in the Placerville-Grimes Pass area today as foresters became confident the wide fire line would hold. The entire line was completed save for a short section of backfiring near Grimes creek. Altogether 45 miles of line was bounding the Placerville fire.

In declaring martial law in the four counties of Gem, Boise, Valley and Idaho, Governor Ross said drastic measures were necessary.

Fires in the area under surveillance have razed two small towns, destroyed mines, timber and cabins, and burned at least two men to death.

Martial law went into effect at 8 a. m. today and immediately roads into the timber areas were closed to all persons except those showing a permit.

DISTRICT GINS REDUCE RATES

West Texas Operators Name New Terms

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Aug. 30.—Local ginners have reduced the gin rate to 30 cents per hundred pounds, and 40 cents for snapped and undesirable cottons. Bagging and ties will be sold this year for $1. This cut was suggested by the committee after the district meeting held here last week by the ginners of the lower Panhandle.

Other reductions effecting neighboring territories are: Turkey, south and west, 30 per cwt. white, 35c snaps and $1 bagging and ties.

Motley county and east, 30c per cwt. white, 30c snaps, and $1.35 bagging and ties.

Hall and Donley counties 35c per cwt. white, 30c snaps and $1.35 bagging and ties.

Childress county, 25c white, 35c snaps, and $1.25 bagging and ties.

Contrary to reports that have been circulated the gins in nearly every section will buy cotton this year as in the past.

The Farmers Cooperative gin of Quanah has installed a new round bale press, and much of their cotton will be handled through Anderson-Clayton cotton firm. This same type press has been used at the Hughes & Sanders gin since it was built several years ago.

Army Rifles Received By Legion at Quanah

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas Aug. 30.—Nineteen Springfield army rifles were received this week by the members of American Legion post. The guns were old ones recalled from actual use by the government, and had been stored until they were sold for the low price of $2.25 each to members of the legion over the country.

The guns were brought here to be used in the work of the legion, but several of the members have stated they expected to use them this coming season to shoot deer and large game.

Hall County Administers Serums Against Disease

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 30—Approximately 1,000 people in Hall county have been given immunization treatment for typhoid, diphtheria and smallpox during the last month, according to Mrs. Roy L. Guthrie, county school superintendent. The commissioners court donated 300 serums, making a total of 900 treatments that they have given for this work.

The clinic was in operation in Estelline and Turkey Monday and Tuesday and some 365 people received the serum. Miss Violet Jones, district public health nurse, and Mrs. Roy Guthrie usually gave the serum but they were both out of town and Miss Eula Saye assisted.

Cotton Relief Awaits Sterling

have adopted it. Texas produces one-third of the nation's cotton and success of the plan is well-nigh dependent on her cooperation.

Although earlier messages indicated that growers of cotton in this state preferred 50 per cent reduction of acreage for the next two years to the drastic prohibition of all planting, there were indications tonight that sentiment is changing.

Bellevue Meeting

At Bellevue and McClean, in West Texas, farmers and business men in mass meetings Sunday voted overwhelmingly to ask Governor Sterling to have the legislature prohibit all 1932 planting and to impose a graduated tax on cotton planted in 1932. Before passage of the Long bill by the Louisiana legislature, its support in Texas had come almost exclusively from counties nearest Louisiana.

Whether Texas cotton farmers, admiring the courage of the Louisianans have decided they ought to join them, or whether the plan, on prolonged study, seems to have more merit, was uncertain tonight. The final decision on whether Texas will adopt it rests with the legislature and Governor Sterling. He has said he will call the legislature together if growers want a special session for any kind of control law.

KILGORE HIT BY NEW FIRES

Wolters Gives Shooting Orders to Guard

scottered through the camp. Rules against admission to the camp had been relaxed at general headquarters and visitors were strolling around.

Camp 'Shot Up'

A similar outbreak of incendiarism last Sunday destroyed Kilgore's two churches and damaged several other buildings. At that time General Wolters expressed grave concern that the work he described as that of "Reds" might spread to the oil field proper.

Authorities announced an arrest this afternoon in connection with the "shooting up" of headquarters camp early last Monday. An unidentified motorist raced through the camp, firing a pistol wildly. Sentries fired several shots at the motorist but none were thought to have taken effect.

This morning Capt. Harry Lee Virden, chaplain in the martial law zone, preached sermons in all six camps of the area, covering 600 square miles. Church goers of Kilgore who lost their edifices in fires of last Sunday found other places of worship today.

Dances Banned

Military orders were issued which placed a ban on Sunday dances. Following a raid of several road resorts near here early today orders were announced dancing must cease promptly at midnight, Saturday.

Meantime, General Wolters was organizing his guardsmen in preparation for the new conservation oil orders, expected to be made effective by the railroad commission for Tuesday. The orders will open the giant oil field under a new proration plan after a complete military shutdown of more than two weeks.

East Texas oil storage was gradually being diminished, a survey revealed and operators are now anxious to resume production under the conservation orders. The posted price of oil in the field was as high today as 68 cents per barrel. In the great flush periods of unbridled oil flow before Gov. Ross S. Sterling proclaimed martial law the price had fallen as low as 5 cents a barrel.

Gangsters' Guns Imperil Children

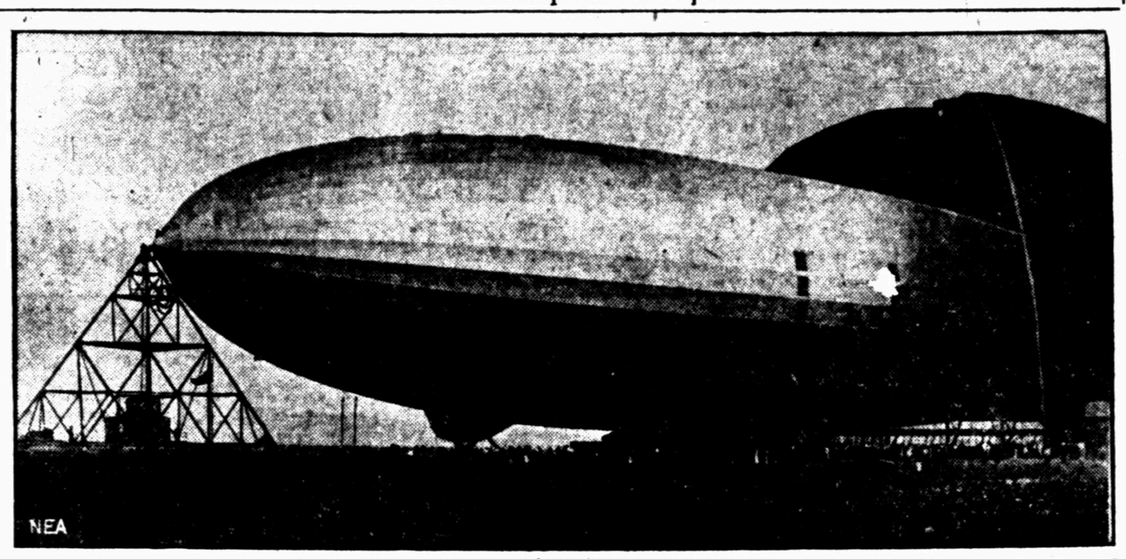
They wounded two others now under arrest.

Soricelli, when arrested today, had two heavy-caliber revolvers in his pockets and detectives said he admitted he was "out gunning" for the Harlem suspect to avenge the killing of his brother, John Soricelli, also a "Dutch Schultz" man.

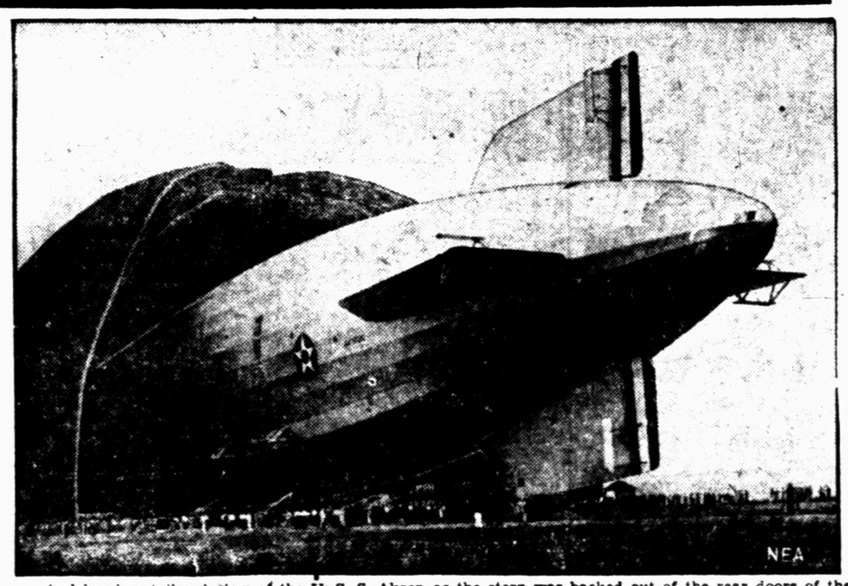
"If you had waited a little longer you might have got 'Irish' too," police said he told them. The officers said "Irish" was Vincent Coll's gang sobriquet.

Soricelli was held in $1,000 bail for carrying concealed weapons.

Mighty Airship Peeps Out of Hangar for First Time to Sniff at Skies That It Hopes to Conquer



Sniffing for the first time the outside air which will carry it over lands and oceans, the U. S. navy's newly-completed Akron, world's mightiest airship, is shown above as it partly emerged from its giant dock at Akron, Ohio, for its initial test. The ship was merely nosed out for part of its length as practice for its ground crew of 250 men and a test of its mechanical mooring apparatus. It is expected to be ready for its formal launching and first flight early in September.



And here's a tail-end view of the U. S. S. Akron as the stern was backed out of the rear doors of the big dock. Note the fins with which the big airship is controlled during flight.

COTTON CO-OP MEET CALLED

Leaders to Speak in Memphis Tuesday

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 30.—C. M. Davis, of Lubbock, manager of the West Texas district of the Cotton Cooperative association, and Paul Payne, field representative, will speak in Memphis Tuesday, Sept. 1 at 8 o'clock at the courthouse. Among matters up for discussion will be the full explanation of the plans for handling the fall crop.

Every business man and farmer who is interested in disposition of the cotton through this concern is urged to attend the meeting, Mr. Payne stated. Discussion of several matters of interest to the farmers will be heard.

A similar meeting will be held at Turkey Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

while I would be forced down, but I managed all right."

The winners of the two divisions will share $6,000 grand prize money. In addition, Mrs. Omlie will receive a sports car for topping both divisions.

Team Gives Thrills

The skill and daring of the international team, led by Lieut. Alford J. Williams, again captivated the spectators who sat in their seats until dusk to watch the five aces perform. Seated in the radio control room before a microphone was a sixth member, Flight Commander Richard L. R. Atcherley of Great Britain, who directed Williams through his maneuvers. Atcherley was injured Friday when his plane cracked up in landing as he completed a test flight.

Connected by a special radio transmitter, Atcherley instructed the American pilot in various stunts, Williams complying with a prompt readiness, turns, banks, lops and dives spun from the American's plane as the Englishman acted as flight commander. Darkness fell just as the unique demonstration was completed.

Maj. Ernst Udet of Germany, the first foreign ace aloft, was cheered enthusiastically as he landed from a flight that sent him through loops at the amazing low level of less than 300 feet. Of almost equally astonishing skill were the performances of Lieut. Col. Mario de Bernardi of Italy; Capt. Boleslaw Orlinski of Poland, and Maj. Alois Kukita of Czecho-Slovakia.

In addition to the crash of the two marine planes, another slight mishap occurred when Lee Gallup, 45, of Iron River, Mich., fell into a tree as he landed in a parachute. Gallup was bruised and scratched but not seriously injured.

Domestic Difficulties Blamed for Suicide

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 30. (UP)—Mrs. Esther Rogers, young wife of a millionaire Oklahoma oil man, committed suicide because of domestic difficulties, police decided today.

Mrs. Rogers, 29, shot herself late Saturday and died two hours later. She had been divorced but recently from Wesley G. Rogers. The decree was not to become effective for two months.

Rogers was not at home when the shooting occurred. She had tried once before to kill herself, he said.

Foreign War Veterans Convene in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 30. (UP)—Uniformed bands, drums and bugle corps and war heroes paraded downtown streets here tonight as members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars met for their 32nd. annual encampment.

More than 5,000 former soldiers-grizzled veterans of the Spanish-American war, youthful veterans of the world conflict—were here for the convention.

FLOOD CLAIMS 200,000 MORE

Grand Canal at Tachow, China, Collapses

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30. (US)—More than 200,000 additional Chinese in the flood stricken Yang-Tze-Kiang river valley were reported drowned today when the north bank of the Kiang-eu province grand canal burst at Tachow.

The turbid waters, unrestrained, inundated an area of several hundred square miles. Thousands were drowned as they slept. Other thousands died as they sought to escape to higher ground in any available craft, however frail.

The death toll was the greatest in a single day since the onset of the two-weeks-old floods that have spread terror throughout the Yang-Tze-Kiang valley with a resulting flood, famine, and disease toll of more than 4,000,000.

By the curious twist of fate, death came to the inhabitants of Tachow probably because they had forcibly resisted the efforts of authorities to breach the walls of the grand canal and allow the flood waters to pour into an emergency channel.

The authorities had hoped thus to relieve the water pressure furthus inland but Tachow residents feared the cut would result in the inundation of their own district.

At the same time, reports from Hupeh province declared Communist forces pursued by nationalist troops are cutting the dykes in order to hamper their pursuers The advices stated their action has resulted in the death by drowning of some 20,000 peasants.

Race Club Raided For Back Taxes

ment order was issued in 1927 Henderson county's sheriff, then a woman, Mrs. Francis Holt, was forced to report "no visible property," since racing was not in progress and no money was found.

After Sheriff Soaper had seized $75,000 in cash last night, James C. Ellis, president of the Dade Park Jockey club, posted a personal forthcoming bond for the amount and the cash was released. Mr. Ellis, a millionaire oil operator, announced the suit would not interfere with the racing meeting now in progress.

Lateness of the attempt to enforce the judgment may be laid to the fact Attorney General Cammack hitherto had been occupied with a weightier suit, in which he attempted to collect $1,000,000. From operators of race tracks at Churchhill Downs and Latonia and sought forfeiture of their charters. This action charged violation of the state's anti-gambling laws, but the court of appeals upheld the parimutuel betting law and recently denied the attorney general's plea for a rehearing.

'Love Interest' Absent In Murder-Suicide

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. (US)—Before Mrs. Helen Lynch killed her baby and attempted suicide by jumping, she left a note explaining:

"This affair lacks the customary love interest. There is none. I have killed by darling. O, Walter please forgive me."

Her darling was her 2-year-old son Joseph. She chloroformed him and then leaped from the second story of a Clark street hotel. Her neck was broken and she was taken to a hospital, dying.

Hall Club Group Plans Excursion For Home Canning

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 30.—A party composed of about 25 members of Hall county demonstration clubs, is expected to go to Roswell, Sept. 2, to can vegetables and fruits for the home use during the coming winter months, according to Miss Ruby Adams, home demonstration agent. It is probable that the group will remain in Roswell until Sept. 6.

Those who will make the trip, according to Miss Adams, will furnish their own canning equipment. It will be taken to Roswell by trucks. La Hondo Courts, an exclusive camp ground has been secured by Miss Adams, in which canning will be done at the court, where all modern conveniences, including hot and cold running water, are to be had.

Plans have been completed for the Roswell Trucking association to haul vegetables and fruit to the camp from the surrounding territory, at a low cost, it is stated, and each woman will pay for what she uses.

On Sunday Sept. 6 plans have been completed for a visit to the Oasis ranch, west of Roswell, in the irrigation district. Other trips to places of interest will be made.

"This trip will afford a profitable vacation for the club women," Miss Adams stated,. "All women who are interested in going should see me Aug. 31 as we expect to go to work Sep. 2."

Vernon Legion to Lead Chillicothe Program

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Aug 30.—Vernon Legion will have charge of the program for the Home Entertainers here Friday night, Sept. 4. H. I. Boothe, one of the directors, announced. J. K. Freese, commander of the Vernon post, has notified Mr. Boothe the program will consist of singing, dancing and readings, as well as instrumental music.

Heretofore the programs have been given every other Thursday evening, but the directors thought Friday nights would be more preferred. These entertainments are free to the public, and each performance is visited by a large crowd.

Montana and district, 7.726 cents.

It also is provided that goods are not to be entered at less than their invoice values, nor less than the fair market value as sold for home consumption.

The prices are based on current prices of crude oil in the different fields, it was said.

Fire Razes $12,000 Highway Bridge

ROSEBUD, Texas, Aug. 30. (AP)—The $12,000 highway bridge over Pond creek, one mile west of here on highway No. 44, was destroyed by fire today.

Officers were inclined to believe a cigaret flipped from a passing automobile ignited the 900 foot long structure.

The fire was discovered about 1 p. m. by a motorist who rushed here to turn in an alarm. He said at that time the flames had gained little headway. When fire fighting equipment arrived at the structure the fire was out of control.

The Rosebud fire department used all of its chemical in an effort to extinguish the fire. There was no water in the vicinity.

More than 125 golfers entered the Tennessee amateur tournament at Knoxville.

POWERS TELLS 'WHOLE STORY'

'Butcher Lover' Confesses Fifth Slaying

doubt as to certain parts of the butcher's story—particularly being skeptical about how Powers managed to get the two women to whom he had proposed marriage into the garage—apparently without violence.

"Didn't the children scream when they heard their mother being killed?" he was asked.

"They were all very quiet and didn't make any trouble," he said.

Other Murders Suspected

The authorities feel certain the bodies of more victims are still in the ground, either at the garage in Quiet Dell or in some other place.

Feeling against Powers was at a high pitch in this town of 30,000 miners, glass workers and other manufactory workers. The authorities did not want any more bodies unearthed until the arrival of state police to prevent any attempt at lynching.

By radio, by wire and by mail, detectives and postoffice department operatives all over the nation were ordered into action today to find out what fate befell the scores of other women who came under the spell of Power's courtship.

It has been determined from letters found already that at least 115 women were wooed by him by mail. Almost all of them first received the form letter from the "wealthy civil engineer" who was "too busy with his work to mingle in society" and who therefore had not had opportunity to find a wife.

Always Asked Information

Always he wanted them to "tell me about yourself"—to tell him, in other words, whether they had property which would be worth his scheming.

It may take weeks—or months—officers agreed, to find out what happened to these women—to learn just how many of them may have gone to Clarksburg for what they thought was to be their weddings, only to find they had traveled to their deaths instead.

The case of every one of these women is to be investigated to its solution. Officers are determined to know how many of Powers' correspondence sweethearts are alive—and how many are dead.

The power of the government was thrown into the inquiry because he used the mail in his plotting.

Perversion Blamed

While the digging went on and Powers remained in a heavily guarded cell in the Harrison county jail, it was revealed that some psychopathic perversion motivated him in his dealing with many women, as well as his apparent object of obtaining their money.

That Powers' sex perversities go back at least to 1925, and probably much further, is revealed in the long letter he wrote to Mrs. Lemke.

The digging operations at Powers' "farm" were halted shortly after dark tonight when a heavy rain began to fall.

Sheriff W. B. Grimm expressed a conviction that additional bodies would be found.

The search for bodies will be directed particularly at a well to the rear of the garage, he said. Sheriffs deputies reported that at the bottom of the well they found four feet of rock which probably was dumped there quite recently.

Several deep holes in a creek which runs by the Power property also will be explored.

Corporal Dorsey C. Dailey of the West Virginia state police and City Detective Carl Southern, to whom Powers made his oral confession late today, announced that they would receive a written confession from the prisoner tomorrow.

Powers said he could not write his confession tonight "because I will need some of the records you have in order to give you the dates and other things you will want to know," his captors quoted him.

The accused man reiterated that "no more bodies will be found out there."

"Five is all I killed," he asserted.

SOCIETY and CHURCH NEWS

Engagement News Told at Pretty Afternoon Tea

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Clark A. Hood of Nocona entertained at a seated tea at the Nocona Country club this week announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter Virginia to Dr. Robert Farris Thompson of El Paso. A beautiful color motif of pink was observed in the baskets of pink roses decorating the reception suite and the tea table where a handsome lace cloth was laid over pink satin and pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley were the effective center.

Mesdames Ora Flynt Lemon and A. L. Williams, Jr. presided at the tea table and the announcement was made on cards attached to sweetheart roses presented to the guests by little Patricia Ann Carson.

During the afternoon a musical program was given and an ice course was served to more than 100 guests.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

For awhile this summer, one could read no paper without a story of cantaloupes. At the present time, it is almost impossible to read any paper without a story of second Empire—or Empress Eugenie—hats.

Strange thing, these changing fashions—not only in hats and gowns but in habits and sometimes in morals; often in books.

Yes, there's a style in books in each decade. For there are many readers who only read the things that are talked about. Ten years ago—or just a wee bit earlier, "Margot" was the daring book of the day. Smart people ready Lady Asquith's memoirs and chuckled over her daring.

Today, Lady Asquith is quite out of date. She even failed to draw the crowd she expected when she visited America. Younger and more daring ladies have usurped her place.

So many readers change their literary interests quite as often as they change their wardrobes. We remember going to dinner parties when men and women talked round the edge of spiritualism, feeling that it had an interest, but not ready to really go after information.

Then the world became absorbed in psycho-analysis and one dared not speak of innermost thoughts. We know women who read a book or two then started out and really made money as "psycho-analysists."

Many readers follow literature just as they would follow a guide book in a foreign land, seeking out what the guide book says is the proper thing to see.

They studied Browning when Browning societies were the fashion; then forgot even those breathlessly beautiful lines that linger forever in the mind of one who really loves beauty.

Men and women may be students without being lovers of books. Bookloving is a disease that lasts a lifetime. It is a pleasure and a pain; a sorrow and a solace.

A real booklover suffers to see a book turned upside down with pages turned back. But he may drown a sad memory in the right book. He may grieve somewhat because he cannot get the perfect book which he craves, but he would not exchange the worn, thumb marked volumes he reads and rereads for all the handsome new morocco bound editions of an author whom he does not admire.

A booklover is a fortunate being. There's bitterness in politics and jealousy in art and intolerance in theology, but there are your own thoughts come to life in the books you love and friends who are always the same in your favorite authors.

Woman's Forum Yearbooks Ready For Distribution

With the first week of September, club activities in Wichita Falls will be renewed. Mrs. Ruth Kirksey, hostess at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, returns to the city Tuesday, Sept. 1, and the clubhouse will be open for social events after that time. The yearbooks of the Forum have been released and Mrs. A. N. Lummus is ready to distribute them to members who have already paid their dues or who are ready to pay them.

Clay county will hold the first County Federation meeting of the autumn season Friday, Sept. 4, and other counties in the first district will meet before the conference of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in Lubbock. An inter-county federation conference will be held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse in October.

First district is planning special work on scholarships so that these may be reported at Lubbock, closing the work of the present club year. Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, chairman of the Eunice Buchanan scholarship has been and is still ill, but the work is progressing and there will be a handsome fund to report.

The Bewley Memorial fund, of which Mrs. B. K. Trammel, Breckenridge, is chairman, has reached the amount of $1,000. At a meeting at Mrs. Trammel's home in July to discuss plans for conducting and permanently naming this fund, members present stated they felt sure they would have $500 by the date of the November federation; they now expect it to go to $5,000. Scholarships will be awarded from the interest on the fund. The donations to this fund have been made by individuals and by clubs of Fort Worth, Breckenridge and Moran. Mrs. B. K. Trammel is chairman and Mrs. J. D. Meredith of Moran, secretary and treasurer of the committee. Mesdames R. E. Buchanan and Julian Oppenheimer of Fort Worth are members of the committee with Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, retiring district president, and Mrs. Bob Barker, incoming district president active members.

Associate clubs will hold their meetings at the Forum clubhouse as usual and after the first few days of September, club life promises to be full of interest in Wichita Falls.

Favorite Recipes Of Wichita Women

A salmon mold made with boiled dressing, and a cucumber dressing to be served with it, are recipes given today. These recipes might be termed favorites of more than one Wichita woman and of a group of Fort Worth women as they were included in as nearly perfect a hot weather luncheon as the group had ever been served at the home of Mrs. B. K. Trammell, Breckenridge.

Salmon Mold

Open a can of red salmon; pour boiling water over it and let drain. Remove all bones, black greasy particles and flake. Mix with the boiled dressing and place in mold.

Boiled Dressing

One fourth tablespoon salt; two teaspoons mustard; one and one half tablespoons sugar; few grains cayenne; one and one half tablespoons flour; yolks two eggs; one and one half tablespoons melted butter; three fourth cup of milk or cream and one fourth cup vinegar. Mix dry ingredients; add yolks of eggs, slightly beaten, butter, milk, and vinegar very slowly; cook in double boiler until mixture thickens; strain to cool; add three fourths tablespoon gelatine to your dressing.

Remove mold of salmon after thoroughly chilled and garnish with sliced stuffed olives, sliced hard boiled eggs and capers; serve with cucumber dressing.

Cucumber Dressing

One pint of whipping cream beaten; when almost stiff, add slowly one third cup of vinegar, few grains cayenne; add one of two small cucumbers chopped very fine and flavor with onion juice. Make this just before serving.

Tomatoes filled with a mixture of tomato, lettuce, green pepper and hard boiled eggs that has been marinated are delicious with this dressing.

HOOVER TO BE SESQUI TALKER

President's Address and Singing Are Features

YORKTOWN, Va., Aug. 30. (INS)—President Herbert Hoover will make a speech at the ceremonies attendant to the last day of Yorktown Sesquicentennial celebration on Oct. 19, the association in charge has definitely announced.

The chief executive will talk on the significance of Yorktown and his speech will be broadcast throughout the country. By an arrangement with the broadcasting companies and the schools 30,000,000 school children will sing America simultaneously from coast to coast.

Rich in History

Yorktown, which is rich as a location of historical events, will be the scene of gay and colorful pageants from Oct. 16 to 19. An attempt will be made to recall the colorful English period of American history and costumes of the period will be worn. There will be a Colonial day on Oct. 16, a Revolutionary day on Oct. 17, a God and the Nation day on Oct. 18 and an Anniversary day, Oct. 19.

The location of Yorktown is on the wide York river, and is six miles from Lee hall, on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, with motor vehicle connections to Yorktown. Yorktown may be reached by improved highway, via Fredericksburg and Tappahannock, or Richmond, via U. S. highway No. 1, or via Norfolk or Suffolk by James river bridge or ferry. By railroad, from Richmond, Norfolk, and Newport News. By steamship, from Norfolk, Newport News, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Old Point Comfort.

Reduced Rates

Greatly reduced rates will be effective over all bus, rail and steamship lines, the committee announced.

Ample parking space for many thousands of automobiles has been provided by the officials in close proximity to the celebration grounds, and will be available, at reasonable rates, to all motorists. All parking areas under the control of the association will be policed.

Following is the program for Anniversary day, the most important of the celebration.

Monday—Oct. 19, 6:00 a. m. Raising flags. Soldiers and sailors dressed in colonial uniforms raise U. S. flag, French flag and the British flag. Bugle call. Guard of honor. Band, France participating.

Colonial fair and harvest festival—(Open 9:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m.) National park service exhibit of national parks; agricultural and horticultural exhibits; old vehicles. Indian village; colonial amusements; dancing and music.

9:00 a. m.—Assembly grounds, assembly tent—Registration and reception of distinguished guests and officers of patriotic and colonial organizations. Registration of the guests will continue all day. Music by band.

9:30 to 10 a. m.—National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Address and unveiling of two tablets in Yorktown—one in memory of American, and one in memory of French soldiers who fell in the battle of Yorktown.

Swanson Speaks

10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.—Speakers' rostrum, pageant field, Honorable Claude A. Swanson, chairman of the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial commission, presiding. Massed band and chorus. Invocation. Presentations of the governors from the original 13 states.

11:00—The president arrives—presidential salute by army and navy. Music by massed band and chorus.

11:30—Invocation.

11:25—Introduction of the president of the United States; sesquicentennial address by the president of the United States. Massed band.

12:30 to 1:30 p. m.—Official luncheon to the president and distinguished guests by the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial commission.

1:45 to 5:00 p. m.—Speakers' rostrum, pageant field. Claude A. Swanson, chairman. Music by massed band.

Parade and pageant—Military and naval review by the army, navy, coast guard marines and visiting military companies, including commands of the centennial legion. The officers and men from the French fleet will be invited to participate.

Pageant

At the close of the parade a pageant called a "Masque" will be given dealing in symbolic or allegorical form with the great developments following the events of Yorktown, with main motif of peace, liberty and democracy.

Arrival of Los Angeles and squadron of airplanes of the army and navy.

5:00 p. m.—Sightseeing tour.

5:30 to 7:30 p. m.—Colonial dances. Participants to be dressed in colonial costumes. Music by band.

7:30 to 9:30 p. m.—Concert by marine band.

9:00 to 10:00 p. m.—Display of lights with army and navy searchlights.

Collingsworth Sets Home Products Week

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, Aug. 30.—Dates for Collingsworth county's second annual home products week have been set for Sept. 10-12, at which time exhibits will be arranged in Wellington by 4-H club boys and girls and home demonstration club women in order that the public may inspect work done by these and similar organizations during the past year.

Work of staging the exhibitions will be directed by Mrs. Paralee Brock, county home demonstration agent; C. C. Stinson, county farm agent; H. C. White, instructor of vocational agriculture in Wellington High school; and Miss Hattie Mounts, instructor of home economics in Wellington High school.

The Wellington Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Home Products week and will lend assistance in making arrangements for the exhibitions. Livestock, poultry, farm and garden products, etc., will be included in the exhibits.

Several boys and girls who score highest in the number of ribbons won on exhibits will be awarded free trips to the State Fair of Texas at Dallas.

A home talent carnival will be staged in connection with the exhibits in order to defray expenses of the project.

Dashing Variations on the Autumn Theme

Fall's approach finds Paris achieving a host of clever variations in the Eugenie mode, and the Talbot model at the left is one of the smartest yet to appear at the autumn showings. It is of felt in the new postilion brown, with twin mercury wings of prystal.

Louis de La Valliere inspired the model at the right with a cluster of silk flowers in black, red and white brightening the black hatters' plush. The square brown turban in center introduces the new high trimming note, with a band of white Persian lamb and felt bow.

New British Coalition Government Holds Tariff Menace to U. S. Trade

Necessity for Raising Funds Makes Stiff Duties on English Imports More Probable

By FRANK I. WELLER
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Uncle Sam, chief storekeeper to the British Isles' 45,000,000 inhabitants, may have a harder time selling his goods if the new coalition government adopts a "tariff-for-revenue policy in its struggle to balance the budget.

Foreign trade officials assume that any scheme of import duties would bear preferential rates for other countries of the empire.

Such a step would be in keeping with the spirit of the empire marketing board created in 1923 by the Baldwin government, in lieu of a tariff to stimulate intramural trade.

Imports From U. S. Drop

Whether that or the universal monetary depression was the most influential, the United States' share of the total value of merchandise imports into the United Kingdom dropped from 18.6 per cent in 1925 to 14.7 per cent in 1930, only 8.5 per cent higher than that of Germany.

The suggested tariff of 10 per cent ad valorem, strongly supported by the conservative party, now sitting with the Liberals and the Labor party chieftains on affairs of state, would be imposed on foodstuffs for a century on the free list.

Dependent for Food

It is said that the British Isles, with approximately 14,000,000 acres of arable land, could not feed their population two weeks if cut off from imports.

Tax Wins Favor

This dependence has beaten down every attempt at a tariff on food, but the Conservative viewpoint is that free trade now is an obsolete economy.

It is argued that, since foreign goods come into the country anyway, they might as well be taxed.

Tariff advocates say it would raise about $225,000,000 a year toward erasing the present $600,000,000 deficit and that it likely would suit the Labor party better than the proposal to minimize various social services, including the "dole" to unemployed.

Tariff Would Hit U. S.

On food, a tariff would affect about $340,000,000 of exports from the United States. Food is included in the "food, drink and tobacco" category of imports valued in 1929 at 535,474,835 pounds.

The United States supplied 68,159,904 pounds against 189,926,675 pounds by nations of the empire. The pound sterling is worth approximately $5.

Canada has cut deeply into American wheat trade at Liverpool and Germany has succeeded the United Kingdom as the chief outlet for American cotton.

Canadian wheat went to market, while price stabilization held United States wheat above export parity.

Value of Exports

The total value of exports from this country to the United Kingdom was $678,108,376 in 1930 compared with $847,999,841 in 1929, and the total value of imports was $209,982,700 compared with $329,750,565.

The United States' share of the 1,044,840,194 pounds British import business in 1930 was 153,610,374 pounds.

British external trade in merchandise during 1930 declined by that of the preceding year.

Import values were the smallest since 1922, reflecting more, perhaps, the fall in commodity values than reduction in trade.

It has been calculated that the volume of imports fell only about 2.5 per cent.

STATE MAPS HIGHWAY FIVE

Definite Route Depends on Right-of-Way

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 30.—Progress on state highway No. 5, almost a straight line from Texarkana to Texline and passing through the extreme northern part of the state, is being made. This refers to the section through Montague county routed by Saint Jo, Bonita, Nocona, Belcherville and Ringgold. A delay was caused by getting the road routed, but it is now understood here that the state highway commission has had three surveys made and the exact route will be definitely determined when it is seen that right of way can and will be secured by the county.

Maps of the highway have been received by County Judge H. N. Dearemore who brought them to Nocona and turned them over to citizens here so they may begin securing options on land along the route. There has also been much delay in securing maps of this section of the highway. Maps that were recently received include part of road from here to highway 2 at Ringgold. Complete details are included. As soon as maps can be completed by the department for the balance of the section in Montague county, they will be furnished to the commissioners court.

Representative committees from the local Rotary and Lions clubs, with another committee of citizens are making plans to secure the right of way as soon as possible. The Lions committee includes Ernest Curlin and G. W. Humphreys and the Rotary committee includes Clark A. Hood and T. B. Wilkes. The citizens representative will be designated soon.

According to reliable reports the state highway department agrees to grade, build culverts and put road in first class shape with the exceptions of topping.

Hog Shipment Ordered For Stamford Farmers

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Aug. 30.—Thirty good grade gilts will be brought to the Stamford area within the next 10 days through the efforts of the Stamford Exchange club and the local chamber of commerce, Louis Rosenwasser, chairman of the Exchange club hog committee, states.

Poland China, Duroc Jersey or Hampshire gilts are included in the group ordered, each purchaser specifying the breed he desires. J. S. England bought one for his own farm in the Tuxedo community, and the other 29 were bought by 28 business men or firms of the city and will be put out to farmers on the deferred payment plan enabling the farmer to pay for the animal out of the increase.

Four gilts were ordered by Anson men in this same shipment. The hogs are being secured from Iowa through the Fort Worth Stockyards company's extension service and are coming at a minimum cost for such animals. The shipment will be made up of hogs weighing from 150 to 175 pounds.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas is drained by 3,680 rivers, bayous and creeks, including only those of sufficient importance to bear a name. Their stream beds stretch out over 125,000 miles, and their runoff into the Gulf of Mexico is estimated at thirty-three million feet annually.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

Industrial development is by no means at a standstill in Texas. Many concerns, taking advantage of the prevailing "buyers' market," are making improvements, removing obsolescent equipment and replacing it with new, remodeling or otherwise improving buildings at a time when costs are phenomenally low and using "slack" time in preparation for better times to come. . . . They're staging a 200-mile wheelbarrow race up in Wisconsin. That would be interesting if it had any connection with that stuff that made Milwaukee famous.

It ought to be some consolation for those girls who get their names in the paper in being called "pretty."

Transoceanic Flying

TRANSATLANTIC flying seems to be regaining all of the ground it lost in the series of disasters that followed the Lindbergh and Chamberlain flights of four years ago. An excess of enthusiasm in those days sent into the air a number of trail-blazers who had scant chance of success; when they failed, as many of them were bound to fail, the public's faith in ocean flights suffered a severe setback.

Now, however, airmen are proving that the stunt is perfectly feasible if handled properly. The Atlantic has been conquered and reconquered. Proposals for rgular, transoceanic air mail lines do not seem as fantastic as they did a short time ago. Aviation is demonstrating that it is just about ready to provide that kind of service.

Destroying Crops

THE farm board proposal that cotton planters destroy outright one-third of this year's crop is at least drastic. Furthermore, with a bumper crop in the offing, drastic measures are needed. But it is rather doubtful that the board's proposal will have much effect.

There are few more competitive industries in existence than that of cotton growing. Few farmers would risk destroying a third of their crop unless they had iron-clad assurances that every other farmer would do the same. Lacking such assurances, they probably will harvest and market the whole crop.

Some sort of restriction of production seems imperative but such restriction, whether it be gained by acreage reduction or by destruction of a ripened crop, will be exceedingly difficult to accomplish.

Russia's Advances

AN OHIO girl returning to the United States after living for nearly a year in Russia finds that there is a striking contrast between college men of the United States and Russia—a contrast that isn't exactly favorable to the Americans.

If she were asked for a date, on the same evening, by a Harvard senior and a senior at Moscow university, she said, she would unhesitatingly decide to go out with the Russian. Why? Because:

"I'd prefer the Russian because he's more mature, more intelligent, not so flippant and doesn't neck."

All of which seems a little tough on Harvard; but the Harvard man, in this case, is simply a symbol for the American university man generally, and the young woman's remark is a sharp criticism of the current collegiate product.

Price of Civilization

IT SOMETIMES almost seems as if the present depression is simply part of the price we have to pay for the privilege of our civilization.

This thought is called to mind by a passage in Stuart Chase's recent book, "Mexico."

Mr. Chase tells of visiting a seaport in Yucatan. Business men there told him that conditions were terrible. Goods weren't moving, merchants were going broke, trade was at a standstill—the depression, in short, was at its zenith.

Then Mr. Chase asked them if there was not a great deal of distress in the villages and towns back of the seaport. To his amazement, he learned that the great mass of the inhabitants did not know there was a depression. No one was hungry; no one lacked shelter; no one needed charity; no one had lost his job. Only the small commercial class in the seaport suffered. The great majority was doing very well indeed.

This, of course, was because the villages and towns were self-supporting. People raised their own food, built their own houses and spun the cloth for their own clothes. In good times and in bad they lived their lives and ignored the rest of the world. Stock market crashes and industrial depressions meant less to them than the weather on the far side of Mars.

North of the Rio Grande we are at the other extreme. Not a city or town is self-supporting. We are all specialists, and each depends on the work of his fellows. When the automobile maker in Detroit fails ot prosper his bad luck is shared presently by the Dakota farmer and the Alabama mill hand. We stand or fall together because of the complexity of our society.

Yet it is this very complexity which has given our civilization its brightest distinction. Our vision of mankind's release from drudgery, our advances in science, our new speed of movement and communication, the thousand and one little conveniences that make life easier—all come from it. Mr. Chase's Mexicans, who are unaffected by depressions, have to do without these things.

Probably few of us would trade our civilization for that of the Mexican villages. But the present depression is the price we pay for what we have.

Quotations Worth Noting

It used to be that we said, "be good and be happy." That's been changed now to "be good looking and hold your husband."—Anna Steese Richardson.

Portrait of Man Talking to Himself

Wonder if Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney would mind very much if I were to put it this way?—That the Gene Tunneys (Polly Lauder) will be blessed with an heir some time in December . . . And if it is true that the so-called wise crowd is buying Warner's at 8—instead of wasting their coin throwing dice or playing cards? . . . Among other things that make me groan a little is the shabby treatment accorded the Messrs. Boardman and Polando, who flew 5,015 miles from here to Turkey . . . They returned the other day and the customs inspectators were pretty second-rate to them . . . When Lindbergh returned on a U. S. cruiser from the old country he brought back all the gifts and medals presented by the Furropeans in recognition of his heroic achievement . . . But when Boardman and Polando returned wearing medals given by Turkey, which they wanted to wear in the parade in their honor, the customs officials told the fliers they would have to turn them over for inspection and appraisal for duty to be paid on them . . . Of course the boys protested . . . So the customs lads detailed a special man to accompany Boardman and Polando everywhere they went—to guard the medals and to collect them at the end of the day . . . To then be appraised for duty due Uncle Sam, as he is hypocritically called . . . And they poison ivy!!!

That facade on Philip Plant's house at No. 1053 Vth Ave. is comical—it contains a plaque which shows an old gent thumbing his nose at the people next door . . . Some people have all the luck—that speakeasy owner, frinstance, in Greenwich Village, who is immune from local interference because the daughter of one of the city's most powerul officers likes the dive . . . That 40-year-old brunette with the heavy southern drawl is another who might be able to explain things about her Jap friend, for whom she promoted good-lookers . . . She introduces the Dale type to men and is not to be classed with the second-rate flesh-peddlers, but with the first-raters . . . Her racket is "introducing" young persons to men with coin—for which she exacts a high tariff . . . At least a "G" a woman—If! . . . She is a married woman—with class—and the wife of a consumptive—who once was the head of a mighty shoe store chain . . . And her home town is Asheville, N. C. . . . Leave it to the visitors from the provinces to keep giving New York a bad name.

It fascinated me when I heard it . . . I mean the one about the bartender and the little old gent who came into the small-time speak every day at a certain hour and spent 50 cents for five whiskys . . . None of the other patrons could be bothered with the old fellow . . . The bartender, however, was a good listener . . . The old man liked to tell him about his flower bed, which he nursed in the tenement yard where he dwelled. "I'm having some trouble again with my roses," the old timer would say . . . Or—"Well, the tulips are showing their noses by golly!" . . . "Yeah?" the barkeep always yeah'd . . . Once the rumor got around the place that the old man was worth a million dollars but this was dismissed on general principles . . . The only million dollars in the world, anyhow, was in the mint! . . . Last week the bartender had a cellar . . . A lawyer who told him $10,000 was willed to him by the old fellow, who suddenly died . . . "I wondered why he didn't come in lately," said the bartender, "but thanks very much." . . . "I suppose you will retire now," said the lawyer . . . "No, I don't think I'd like having nothing to do," was the reply, "but I'd like to find out how you take care of flowers."

Funny quip, at that . . . I mean the one in Udgejay that goes: "There is a broken heart for every light on Broadway—and 20 columnists writing about it." . . . The guy who penned that one must have flunked beautifully in arithmetic . . . Perhaps if they asked Sessue Hayakawa about his friend, the missing Jap importer, they'd trace him . . . They were such intimates . . . Wonder why that eve'g rag fires so many desperate-for-a-job members of the staff and spends so much coin shadowing Crater? . . . What if they do find him? . . . A scoop? . . . So all right! . . . They have three investigators burning up money chasing Crater all over the world, who claim to have traced him to Cuba, and that the motive for Crater's run-out is that he absconded with $90,000 that was given him to "fix" something . . . I really don't care! . . . More important is that those in charge of unemployment relief in New York are hoping for plenty of snow this winter . . . And from charts and past performances of the weather the indication is that this should be the year for it . . . A pretty good tennis bum now can get about 40 weeks of tournament play a year—more time than is available for a pretty good vaudevillian . . . Those Hollywood lovers keep you dizzy . . . Last week Swanson chucked Mike Farmer, and now that her decree is final she will marry him Thursday, if possible, and then honeymoon in Honolulu.

The editorial writers who jot down those "The Gangsters Must Go!" pieces in no time, must have been terribly bothered when they learned that the wild west stuff in the Bronx last week was not arranged by gangsters but by corner loafers . . . Why, the bums didn't even have colorful nick names! . . . And they will get the shock of their lives when they learn that gangsters are not "clipping" the variously reported kidnaped members of rich families or Orientals—but that society men are! . . . And that some of the city's better known Park Avenuers can take an ace out of your nose or handle phoney dice better than the banditti . . . More amazing to me is discovering that there are over 70,000 speakeasies in the five boroughs! . . . And Bainbridge Colby says they all ought to be closed . . . It would be a shame to close all the speaks and leave the town with the shakes! . . . I hope the "Vanities" troupers are not superstitious . . . For at the dedication of the new Earl Carroll temple, the procession, including the cast, had to enter the theater by walking under a ladder!

Well, the lad who thought up the readable ad for the Strand theater made it a contagious thing, but apparently he hasn't been around much . . . The tiny ad asserted: "Warning to Walter Winchell—Carefully examine the origin of those ultra-smart, wisecracks you're hearing in nightclub, salon and speakeasy—they're probably from 'The Last Flight'" . . . Well, now . . . So I dashed over to see the flicker and breathlessly waited for those ultra-nifties . . . Those devastating bon-mots . . . Those Retorts Swelegant, etc., and what happened? . . . All I heard was the gag: "I'll take vanilla!" . . . And "Take her away! She's breakin' my heart! . . . And to top it off they offer the one: "Not only is your conduct unseemly and unethical—but lousy!" . . . Which was merely one of the funnier captions under a cartoon from the nimble crayon of Peter ("It Ain't Loaded!") Arno.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE CURSED RIVER—The Saco river in Maine has suffered from a strange curse for the last 256 years, or since King Philip's war in 1675, when the curse was pronounced by the Indians. The squaw of Squando, chief of the Sokokis tribe of Indians, was paddling her way across the stream, bearing with her in the craft the first born child of the sagamore. At that period there was prevalent in England the belief that an Indian papoose could swim instinctively from birth, and the sailors from a British vessel at anchor in the river, in attempting to prove or disprove the idea, upset the squaw's canoe and the Indian child was drowned. The Indian woman then swore upon the river a curse, asking that the gods sacrifice three white persons each year in revenge. Since that time three people have been drowned each year in the Saco, a large majority of them being killed in the dangerous rapids.

THE WORKMAN WHO DUG IN ONE SPOT FOR SEVEN YEARS—The Pitch lake of Trinidad, an immense deposit of pure asphalt, is in itself one of the most unique physical phenomena of South America. It is a semi-viscous take of "ready-made pavement," and though millions of tons of it have been removed a like amount has bubbled up from the earth keeping the lake full. One workman worked in exactly the same spot for seven years, digging a hole 9 feet long, 6 feet wide and 2 feet deep each day, and when he came back in the morning the hole had filled up.

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Mary Faith, comely, young orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy business man. She gives up her position to marry Kimberly Farrell, shiftless, young lawyer. Mary Faith believes that loving a man hard enough will make everything come out all right in the end. It was this confidence that enabled her to marry Kim after he had once broken their engagement. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his jazzy friends, Clair and Jack Maidon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blond secretary. That night, he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Mary Faith, heartbroken at this turn of affairs, decides not to tell Kim of her coming motherhood. She and Mrs. Farrell decide to struggle to keep the home for the coming baby. Mary Faith obtains a position as typist. She refuses to accede to Kim's request for a divorce and asks him to wait six months before carrying out his desire.

As the bells are ringing in the New Year, Mary Faith's son is born. Kim, informed of this event, returns home and becomes, for a time, a proud and happy father.

Kim is restored to his old position which he had lost due to money irregularities. When his salary is increased, Mary Faith tells him to buy new clothes.

Mary Faith sees Kim walking with a girl from the neighborhood library. She accuses him of being a fast worker.

Clair Maidon tells Mary Faith that she should step out and be gay if she wants to hold Kim's affections. Kim again begins his visits to the Maidon flat.

Kim returns late one night, wet and ill. Mary Faith realizes he has been on a wild party

CHAPTER XXXVII

Mary Faith had been sleeping on the couch in the sitting room ever since New Year's night, and when Kim was well enough to go back to work she made no change in that arrangement. February warmed into March, and at the end of March things were just as they had been in the autumn before Kim's illness. He stayed out late two or three times a week, making no excuse for his absences. In fact, he had very little to say to Mary Faith about anything. When he did talk to her, it was of ordinary things.

"Has my suit come back from the cleaner, Mary Faith?"

"It's in your closet, Kim."

"If you'll add up your grocery bill, I'll give you the money for it."

"Thanks, Kim."

No kiss now when he left for the office. No more pleasant evenings before the sitting-room fire. No gay little jaunts to the neighborhood moving-picture theater.

"What can be wrong?" Mary Faith asked herself a hundred times a day. "What have I done, or left undone?"

And she knew that it was nothing she had done or had not done that was responsible for Kim's behavior. She knew that he was bored and out of love with her once more, just as he had been before. Well, he had always come back to her, hadn't he?

"What's the matter with him? He acts as if this place was a boarding house," his mother remarked frequently. "I declare, he runs around almost as much now as he did before he was married."

And so things went until the 15th of March.

Mary Faith was always to remember that day because of the three things that happened on it. The baby made a whole sentence that day, "I see birdie." Mrs. Farrell announced that she was going to be married to Dr. Thatcher the next morning. And Kim broke the news that he intended to leave his wife.

The day started out beautifully, with sunshine and blue sky and everything going on in the flat just as usual.

A little after 10 Mrs. Farrell started on her weekly search for bargains. She did this every Friday and returned at nightfall, loaded with toys for the baby, dish-towels that left lint all over the dishes, mayonnaise mixers that refused to work.

"Say 'bye-bye' to Nana," she said, kissing little Kim good-bye. She never spoke of herself as "Grandmother."

"Bye," said the baby, and went on playing with his string of spools.

"Now, isn't it wonderful—the way he says that, Mary Faith! Kimberley walked and talked long before he was 2 years old, and this baby is as smart as he was!" She never gave Mary Faith any credit for producing a beautiful and precocious child.

"Hold him up to the window, Mary Faith, so he can wave goodbye to his Nana," she said, opening the front door.

But the baby had no eyes for her departing figure when Mary Faith held him up to the window. He went into raptures over two sparrows on the sidewalk, and it was then that he spoke the sentence that Mary Faith interpreted as "I see birdie."

She tried to make him say it again, but he struggled to get out of her arms and back to his beloved spools. But Mary Faith was positive, nevertheless, that he had said those three little words. Late that afternoon, when the flat was in order and dinner was under way, she sat down to make an entry to that effect in his silk-covered baby book. She began to write: "This morning the baby put three words together to make a sentence—" She had reached that point when she heard the sound of Kim's car, and she flung down her pen and started up from her chair.

Long afterward she was to open the book and find that unfinished entry, trailing a long streak of ink after it, like a dark cloud; and the very sight was to bring back the vivid and aching memory of this March afternoon—the yellow glow of the sun in the room, the smell of the geraniums on the window sills, the sound of the vestibule door slamming, and Kim's footsteps on the stairs outside.

It was only 5 o'clock. Kim hadn't come home as early as this in months! Mary Faith was glad that she had just changed into a clean house dress of horizon-blue cotton crepe—the color that "set off" her blue eyes. The hope that had warmed her heart for months flared up once again as Kim stepped into the room. The hope that on one of these nights he would come home and be his old self—the companionable contented Kim of last spring and of last summer, instead of the sulky and remote man who had come and gone like a paying guest all these past ten weeks.

He came in, and as she looked at his face her hopes died. It was hard and cold as if the regular beauty of it had been chiseled out of stone.

"Hello, Kim," she said.

"Hello." He did not look at her or at the baby, who was trying to reach the geranium blossoms on the window sill.

Then he walked out of the room. She heard him go down the hall to his own room and close the door.

A moment later he came back.

"Where's my mother?"

Mary Faith smiled. "This is her bargain day. She's still downtown."

Mrs. Farrell's passion for bargains had always been the source of much good-natured joking in the family. But now Kim saw no humor in Mary Faith's report of his mother's shopping.

His face was as hard as flint as he sat down by the sitting-room fire and bit the end from a cigar.

"I'm glad she's not here—I want to talk to you," he said, and something in his tone made Mary Faith feel shaky and sick. That was the way he talked when he came to Mrs. Puckett's house to tell her that he did not want to marry her, it was the way he had come home one night, almost two years ago, to tell her that he was going to leave.

What was he going to tell her now? she wondered.

"What is it you want to tell me, Kim?" Mary Faith heard herself ask steadily. But her lower lip quivered as she drew back her breath and one hand grasped the edge of the mantel shelf, as if she were bracing herself. Before he spoke a word, she knew what he was going to say.

"I won't go on like this any longer," was what he did say, after a pause that seemed like eternity itself to her. "This business of living like two strangers under the same roof may be all right for you, but I expect something more than that from life."

If they had been living like two strangers for the last three months, it was his fault, not hers. She tried to say so, but her throat seemed to have knotted itself all at once so that she was unable to speak a word. She stood staring at Kim and slowly shaking her head.

He went on:

"When two people reach the point where they realize that they've lost interest in each other, the only decent and moral thing for them to do is to part company. Lots of people do it. There's no disgrace in a divorce any more, and not much difficulty. You can stay right on here with my mother and the baby, and I'll send you your housekeeping money every week."

Evidently he had been making his plans for a long time, for he seemed to have all the details worked out.

"You've heard me speak of Morris Gill—fraternity brother of mine? Well, he has a law-office across the hall from our office downtown. You'd better go down to see him in a few days and he'll fix everything up for you. Alimony and so on, I mean. I've told him I'm perfectly willing to turn over to you half of what I make."

Q.—Who drew the cartoon of Roosevelt on horseback, waving farewell as he started off on the long trail, published at the time of Roosevelt's death?—S. D.

A.—Jay N. Darling.

Q.—What would be a good route for a motor trip from Washington through the Shenendoah valley and return? How long would it take? —S. D. E.

A.—Proceed via Fairfax Courthouse and Middleburg to Winchester, and thence down the Shenendoah valley, through the famous cavern region of Virginia, to New Market, Harrisonburg, Staunton, Lexington (seat of Washington and Lee university) and Natural Bridge. Returning to Staunton, cross the mountains to Charlottesville, seat of the University of Virginia. Nearby are Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, and Ashlawn, where President James Monroe lived. There are numerous civil war battlefields and many fine old Virginia estates that may be viewed, and Richmond and Fredericksburg may be visited, in completing the return to Washington. This trip can be made in two days, but more time would be desirable.

Q.—Is Willa Cather a westerner? —G. F.

A.—Miss Cather was born near Winchester, Va., but lived in Nebraska from the age of 9 until after her graduation from the University of Nebraska in 1895.

Q.—Is there an organization of atheists in this country?—J. H. G.

A.—There is an organization with the title, the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism.

Q.—When two small objects are floating near each other in a basin of water, why are they suddenly drawn together as if by a magnet? —J. T.

A.—The bureau of standards says that the weight of the floating particles stretches the surface of the water, forming a dimple when the two particles come close enough. The action is due to surface tension, in virtue of which the surface is constantly striving to reduce its exposed area to a minimum.

Q.—What did James Hazen Hyde receive for the Equitable Life Insurance company when he sold it to Thomas F. Ryan?—K. L.

A.—Hyde received $2,500,000 for 502 shares, a majority of the Equitable stock.

Q.—How near completion was "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" when Dickens died?—E. P.

A.—This novel was to have been completed in 12 monthly parts, but only about six were written when he died

Q.—What was the first historical film made in the United States?—L. S. T.

A.—Will Hays says the first historic films made were those of President McKinley's inauguration.

Q.—What kind of a climate has Japan?—W. K. R.

A.—Since Japan extends through nearly 30 degress of latitude, it necessarily has a great range of climate. In the south the climate is sub-tropical; in the north it is extremely cold. The southern islands have high temperatures in the summer and no snow or ice in the winter. In the Kurile Islands the snow and ice never entirely disappear. Kiushu and Shikoku have a moderate climate.

Q.—How does the United States compare with other countries as to death rates?—E. H.

A.—It ranks tenth. Nine other countries have lower death rates. New Zealand has the lowest death rate.

Q.—Could a photograph be considered a document?—R. T. I.

A.—An authenticated photograph might be a document in the legal sense of the word.

Q.—Where is the West Point of the Air?—R. R.

A.—Randolph field, San Antonio, Texas, the partially finished field of the United States air corps is referred to as the West Point of the Air. This field will not be completed until late this year and will be the world's largest airport. The field contains 2,362 acres or approximately two square miles. It is estimated that expenditures on the building of this airport will total more than $30,000,000.

Bronchitis

Usually when a patient says that he has a cold on the chest, he really means that he has bronchitis. Whenever a cold occurs there is a possibility of the inflammation traveling down the bronchial tubes, affecting them. When the inflammation of the bronchial tubes lasts for a short period but is of great severity, it is known as acute bronchitis. Where it is not as severe but lasts over a longer period of time, it is known as a chronic bronchitis. This last form is especially likely to occur in older people, although it may occur at any age. Frequently the bronchial cough, which accompanies this trouble, will last all winter until the warm weather comes again.

Acute bronchitis may be quite a serious condition, especially if it occurs in children or the aged, as there is a danger that the inflammation will spread down into the small, minute bronchial tubes near the air cells of the lungs and cause broncho-pneumonia.

The first symptoms of acute bronchitis are usually a cold in the head, followed by a hoarseness in the throat, and finally a sense of tightness and heaviness in the chest and a feeling of rawness just under the breast bone. The patient may have a slight fever, feel out of sorts, and have an aching of the bones and muscles. He clears the throat frequently and in a short time a coughing appears which may be so severe as to cause much distress. Children with this trouble may cough until the face is red. The cough usually becomes worse when the patient is exposed to cold air, although the throat may become so irritated that the patient coughs night and day regardless of the climatic conditions. Within a few days a frothy mucus is brought up with the cough. Later it becomes mixed with pus and other heavy discharges. As soon as the heavy material is coughed up, the patient begins to feel better, and the pain in the chest is relieved. The coughing may last two or three weeks or longer.

Should the trouble turn into broncho-pneumonia, the symptoms become very much more severe. The feverishness increases, the respiration becomes rapid, and there is every evidence of suffocation. The lips become livid, and, unless the patient is relieved quickly, there is a danger of actual death either from a collapse of the lungs or from suffocation.

Acute bronchitis often follows such diseases as measles, whooping cough, typhoid fever, diphtheria, pneumonia, and influenza. Other diseases which may complicate bronchitis are catarrh, diseased tonsils, pyorrhea, sinus trouble, tuberculosis, and heart trouble.

Only acid fruit juices and water should be used during the acute period. The patient should be kept fairly warm, enemas should be used to cleanse the bowels, and packs, sweat baths, or light treatments should be used to improve the skin elimination. There is always the danger of acute bronchitis turning into the more serious form, and every effort should be made to correct the condition at the first indication.

(Tomorrow—Chronic Bronchitis).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Baby Problems

Question—A mother asks: "Would going in swimming be harmful while nursing a baby 4½ months old? The baby seems to be somewhat cross-eyed since birth; that is, the eyes turn toward each other but not at the same time. What is the best way for a baby to sleep, lying on its stomach or on its back?"

Answer—I do not think swimming would prove harmful while you are nursing your baby. The exercise would probably do you much good. Quite a few babies are seemingly cross-eyed until such a time as they are able to control the eye muscles; however, if you are worried, it may be a good plan to take the baby to a competent optometrist. It is always a good idea to change the sleeping position of the baby. She should sleep on her stomach some of the time.

Losing Hair After Scarlet Fever

Question—"Baldy" writes: "I have recently been through a severe attack of scarlet fever and my hair has almost all fallen out. It is only coming in very thinly. What can I do?"

Answer—The hair often comes out after a prolonged fever but, if you will build up your general health and strength and eat plenty of alkaline forming foods, you will soon grow back another good crop of hair.

Does Not Indicate Blood Pressure

Question—Mr. O. says: "My pulse is normal but my doctor says I have high blood pressure. Do you think this is possible?"

Answer—There is very little relationship between the pulse rate and the high blood pressure. Only the use of a spyhgmomanometer in the hands of a competent physician could determine your blood pressure.

Clubs at Floydada Prepare for Winter

Special to The Record News

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 30.—Civic organizations and church women in Floydada are making plans to take care of the needy in Floydada this winter. Four of the leading church organizations have agreed to can 100 cans each, of which one-half will be donated to the local Red Cross chapter and the other half will be held in reserve to take care of the needy in the churches. An appeal from the chairman of the local Red Cross chapter has gone out to people of the county who have a surplus of vegetables to bring them in to the chamber of commerce offices where they will be turned over to some organization which will preserve them for winter use.

SHIPPERS WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE-HEADER, 4-0 AND 8-4

HAMLIN TURNS IN SHUTOUT

Teams Conclude Series Here Today

By FRED THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

In the first game our Spudders got only six hits, and in the second their 10 blows came generally at the wrong times, and the Beaumont Exporters yesterday afternoon won both ends of a double-header, 4 to 0 and 8 to 4.

Luke Hamlin engineered the shut out in the first game, breezing along at a fairly rapid rate and never being in much danger. He was opposed by Ash Hillin, who wobbled constantly and gave up 13 hits, including a home run by Ray Fritz.

Buck Marrow won the second. He was helped over the hill by his swatting mates, who again got 13 solid punches this time off Lester White and Tot Pressnell. White was bounced in a fifth inning spree that netted five runs.

The teams conclude the series today.

Shippers go Ahead

Both teams got a runner on third to open the first game but neither scored. To open the second inning, however, Ray Fritz pounded one over the right field wall to give the Shippers a lead. Hughes followed with a single. The next two went out but Hamlin poked a single to left, Hughes taking second and Taylor punched a hit through the box to score Hughes. Schuble fanned. The Spudders didn't threaten.

A pretty double play featured the first of the third. White led off with a double to right. Easterling grounded out, third to first. Fritz hit a slow roller between the box and first. Stanton threw to Hillin, who covered first, to retire Fritz and Hillin hurled to Bradbury the catcher to nip White, who attempted to come home during the play for Fritz. The Spuds booted another chance to score in their half. With one out, Gerken and Allday singled, but Stanton forced Allday and Badgro rolled weakly out to first.

They Score Again

Hughes' double was the only thing worth writing about in the fourth. The Shippers scored again in the fifth. With one out, Schuble singled, took second on White's infield dribble, and scored on Easterling's bounder over third. Fritz also singled. Easterling taking third, and went to second on the throw-in from right, but Hughes popped to second. In the last half, with one out Hillin singled, but Gerken fanned and Allday rolled out.

Luke Hamlin hit a double to illuminate the sixth. Hillin, for the first time, set the Shippers down in order in the seventh. Hamlin gave the Spuds the same treatment.

Each pitcher continued this good work in the eighth, but Hamlin's job overshadowed Hillin's, for the Beaumonter fanned Gerken, Allday and Stanton in a row.

Rally Falls

Hillin didn't maintain his pace in the ninth, and the Shippers scored their fourth tally. Lorbeer fanned, but Hamlin singled to right. Taylor beat out a bunt down the third base line, and when Bradbury made a bum throw to first, Hamlin continued to third. Schuble walked, loading the bases. White grounded out, second to first, Hamlin scoring. Easterling flied to left.

The Spuds in their half of the ninth tried valiantly to avert the ignominy of a shutout, but failed. Badgro singled to right, swiped second, and went to third when the catcher made a bad peg trying to prevent the theft. Bradbury popped to second. Fuss walked, but Bloxsom popped to second and Euller flied to right.

Second Game

The Shippers showed intentions of making it two straight by taking a two-run lead in the first frame of the second game. Taylor singled and advanced on Schuble's sacrifice. White rolled out to first but Easterling doubled, scoring Taylor. Fritz doubled, scoring Easterling. Hughes rolled out, second to first. In their half the Spuds made a threat. Gerken beat out an infield hit to second and after Allday had flied to left, Stanton was hit by a pitched ball. Badgro flied to left and then Gerken got the idea he could steal third. Wise's peg to Schuble proved that he couldn't.

Les White and Marrow each retired three in order in the second, but in the third a scratch single by Joyner White, followed by Easterling's second double of the contest gave the Shippers another run. In the last half, three more Spuds went down, Euller lining out to left, White fanning and Gerken hoisting to left.

Wise's single through the box interrupted the regular order of outs in Beaumont's fourth.

Spuds Score Pair

For the first time in 12 and two-third innings of baseball, the Spuds managed to score in the last of the fourth. Allday beat out a hit to short and Stanton walked. Hungdin also walked, after Badgro had meekly popped to third, and the bases were loaded. Fuss flied to left. Bloxsom blazed one down the left field foul line, scoring Allday and Stanton, but made the mistake of over-running first. A play was started for Bloxsom after the ball had been relayed by Schuble to Fritz at first. But their attention was shifted to Hungling, who had been on second and who was forced off by Bloxsom. Hungling was out in a brief chase, Schuble making the putout to retire the side.

This seemed to anger the Bakermen and in the fifth they routed Les White, scoring five runs. Taylor doubled and Schuble beat out a bunt. Joyner White hoisted to center, Taylor scoring. Easterling's drive to left bounced and hit Badgro in the face. It went for a triple, scoring Schuble. Pressnell relieved White. Fritz singled to center, scoring Easterling. Hughes singled to left, Fritz taking third. Trying to break up a double steal, Bud Hungling threw the ball in center field and trying to throw to third base, Gerken, center fielder threw the ball into the Spudder dugout. Fritz and Hughes scoring during this exhibition. Holley fanned and Wise grounded out, second to first, retiring the side.

Spuds Tally Again

Pressnell retired three in order in the first of the sixth, in the Spudder half, with two out Badgro and Hungling singled and Fuss beat out a swinging bunt down the third base line to load the bases. Bloxsom beat out an infield hit to third, scoring Badgro. Euller grounded out, first to first.

Hungling and Fritz singled in order in the seventh, but a double-play, Allday to Bloxsom to Stanton, kept the Shippers off the well-beaten home plate. In the last half, Bradbury, batting for Pressnell, flied to left. Gerken and Allday walked as Marrow loosened up. Stanton flied to left but Badgro doubled to right, scoring Gerken and sending Allday to third. Hungling flied to left to end the game.

Dixon Sign Defeats Burkburnett Nine, 2-1

Willard Hillin, of Dixon Sign and Ham Vance, of Burkburnett hooked up Sunday afternoon in Burkburnett in a thrilling 13-inning pitchers battle which Hillin won for the Dixon Sign company of Wichita Falls, 2 to 1. Norvan Presley played a great game in center field for Wichita Falls while Pete Powell led the Wichita Falls' attack, getting three of the Dixon Sign six hits.

REVIVAL CLOSES

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 30.—Rev. M. J. Vaughan, Electra Methodist circuit pastor, closed the revival he has been conducting the past two weeks near County Line, Sunday evening. The revival has been jointly sponsored by the County Line Methodist church and the Guyer Baptist church. The meeting has been very successful, and there have been 18 conversions. Reverend Vaughan will fill his regular appointment at Rocky Point Sunday morning, Sept. 6 and at Eagle Bend on that afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Dallas Sandlot Team Eliminates Bailey-Moline From State Race

By MACK TURNER

The Sure Best Bakery nine, Dallas sandlot champions, Sunday eliminated the Bailey-Moline team, Wichita Falls champions, from the state amateur championship when they won the first game of a double-header 9 to 2. The Bailey-Moline club won the second game, 6 to 2.

Saturday the Dallas team blanked the local nine, 4 to 0, in the opening game of the three-game series.

The Dallas team next will meet the winner of the Fort Worth-Waco series for the championship of North Texas. The latter teams concluded their series Sunday also.

Red Roberts, formerly of the Fort Worth Texas league club, won the opening game of Sunday's double-header, while Red Nichols won the second game for Bailey-Moline.

Error Helps Cause

The only Bailey-Moline runs in the first came after an error had put McLarry on first. Jack Cossey hit for Mike Smith and tripled to the right field wall. Lefty Robertson drove Cossey home with an infield out to second base.

For the first seven innings, Roberts let the Wichita Falls entry down with only three hits, but behind his big lead he seemed to ease up and four bingles were accounted for in the closing two rounds. It was the second pitching masterpiece of the series turned in by the Dallas pitchers, Caldwell having shut Bailey-Moline out in the first game of the series Saturday.

The big gun in the Dallas attack in the first game was Davis, the southpaw first baseman. Davis hit one over the Panhandle fence in deep right field for a home run on his first trip to the plate, then added two more singles to his credit for the day to drive in three of the Dallas runs. McDuffy was the only man in the Wichita Falls lineup in the first game able to get more than one hit.

Tough Spot

Lupher got into a hole with a pair of walks in the third inning after Davis had hit his home run in the second. Lupher gave way to O'Dell McDuffy, who pitched brilliant ball the rest of the way. Errors were greatly the cause of the remaining four runs made by Dallas.

Coyal Francis, playing his first game of baseball this year, gave the local fandom a great exhibition of plain and fancy hitting getting two singles and a triple in three trips to the plate for a perfect day. Francis also turned in a great catch in the outfield off Big John's bat in the second inning. All of the Wichita Falls Skipper's hits were solid smacks, while only fast fielding held the two singles to one base.

The games were fast, with both Cryer and Vaught keeping the two clubs hustling in and out between innings. Both the Dallas and Wichita Falls umpires deserve much credit for the way they handled the three games. There was never a slow minute in any of the games, much of which was due to the hustle displayed by both umpires.

Wade's Big Bat Wins For San Antonio, 7-3

DALLAS, Aug. 30. (AP)—Charlie Wade, big San Antonio outfielder, spoiled a ball game for three right-handed recruits of Dallas Steers when he connected for four hits in as many trips to the plate, including homers in the fifth and sixth to bat in four runs in a 7 to 3 victory.

Tom Estell, veteran spitball pitcher, hurled excellent ball for the Indians except in the fourth when the Steers touched him for four safeties that produced all of their runs. Score:

Cats Defeat Buffs in Opener, 2-1 But Lose Decision in Second, 9-4

FORT WORTH, Aug. 30. (AP)—Fort Worth ran out of pitchers today and with the exhausted supply went the Panthers' chances of taking a double-header from the Houston Buffs. As it was, Leon Chagnon pulled them through a 2 to 1 victory in the opening game, but the two relief members of the staff, Jinx Harris and Paul Gribble, could not master the Buffs in the closing contest and the decision was lost, 9 to 4. Payne and Hanson worked the two games for the Buffs.

Vernon Wins in 12th Over Electra Oilers, 13 to 12

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 30.—The Vernon All-Stars defeated the Electra Oilers at Vernon in very exciting game today, 13 to 12. Lefty Osborne had the All-Stars well in hand until the ninth inning when three hits, an error and a walk accounted for four runs, tieing the score. Williamson and Scott were high men for the Oilers, with four hits each out of six times to the plate. King and Ladd were high men for Vernon. This is two wins each for these two teams and the play-off will be played at Vernon Sept. 13 to decide the best team.

BRAVES, ROBINS SPLIT

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The Braves and Robins divided a double-header here today. Boston beat Dazzy Vance, 3 to 2 in the opening contest but Brooklyn rallied to win the closing encounter for Hollis Thurston, 4 to 3. A flurry of Robin errors in the sixth ruined an effort in which Dazzy fanned nine hitters. Zachary relieved Seibold in the third inning of the doggedly fought second game, but was unable to stave off defeat after the Braves put him in front. Scores:

CO-ED CLASS HEARS HINES

Speaker Tells of 'Mission to Cyprus'

The thoughts of individuals are either good or bad, positive or negative, Harry Hines told the co-ed Sunday school class at the First Christian church Sunday, lecturing on the subject, "The Mission to Cyprus." There is no middle ground, the speaker said.

All mirrors are not glass, Mr. Hines explained. "For example," he said, "words are mirrors of our thoughts. Speech is a mirror of the soul. As a man speaks, so is he, just as a man thinketh, so is he. Words and deeds, our actions, likewise are mirrors of our lives—reflections, as it were, of just what we are.

"What a glorious mirror one may make of oneself; a mirror in which is reflected in all its beauty and impressiveness the splendid virtues with which every human being adorns himself or herself.

Message to Gentiles

"In no other mirror can we reproduce the soft glow of humility, the scintillating rays of love, the steady brightness of honesty.

"One who thus worships becomes more and more like his personal conception of his God."

Few events have been with more profound significance than the expedition of Paul and Barnabas to Cyprus, Mr. Hines declared. Former campaigns, he explained, had been to preach to the Jews, but in that campaign they carried their efforts to the Gentiles.

"If you should read the 11th chapter of Acts," the speaker continued, "your joy would be in behalf of that high and noble tribute paid Barnabas. We always enjoy, now and in historical research, the tributes paid to those who are worthy. Seldom is this overdone. We should in our day and time, not take so much for granted, but rather should pay tribute to our friends and townsmen who are worthy."

Youths' Religion

In speaking of youth's relation to religion, Mr. Hines said: "Young men and women have a tendency, in certain circles, to be timid about their church affiliations; and, furthermore, based on their conduct sometimes, one can easily appreciate why. However, as one becomes older and more interested in religious thought, he becomes braver, and in fact, to a point of being proud of God's love and predominance in his life. Then, truly can they say, and do say, 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ.'"

Of Antioch's religious growth, he said: "The city of Antioch was progressive; Jerusalem was conservative. Hence, Antioch loomed as the new progressive religious center, as new thought, new ideas, new creations, are seldom, if ever, born or developed by the conservative element. It takes progressive, modern, daring people and a freer air in which to expand.

Antioch's Leaders

"The followers of Jesus in Antioch did one very wise thing that made of them religious leaders. That was to bring every human faculty into subjection to the will of God. As a result of this accomplishment on their part they became filled with the Holy Spirit, thus magnifying God. As a result, when a speaker delivered a God-inspired message it would sink down into the soul of every listener.

"We have a few such preachers today; not many, however. But to hear them is to be elevated spiritually. The kind that at the close of his discourse, causes you to take a long breath and swallow a couple of times. He preaches the old fashioned gospel of Jesus Christ—His willingness to forgive us and to accept us. Then you can and will say to your fellow man, wherever you are and with whomever you may be, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He helps me to live life."

Attendance of the co-ed class Sunday was 100. Randle Hanks is president.

Floyd Agricultural Exhibition Expected To Set New Record

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 30.—The agricultural show at the Floyd county fair which will be held Oct. 9-10 at Floydada is expected to outstrip any previous showing here. With crops over the county in fair condition and with a greater interest of farmers to diversify and cash in on every possible side crop and other activities to offset the low price of cotton and grains, officials of the fair believe there will be more agricultural products exhibited this year than ever before.

Electra Rotarians Study Committees

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 30.—The entire club was in charge of the program at the Rotary club meeting Friday at the Armilda hotel. A discussion of the different committees was the basis of the program. B. M. Dinsmore, president, presided at the luncheon. "America" was given as the opening selection with invocation by Phillip Broadwell. E. Ray Skinner of Detroit, Mich., was the guest of Gordon Douglas. J. G. B. Totten led a singsong after which Mr. Dinsmore discussed the aims and object plans under which the Rotary clubs function. He also gave a brief report of the presidents and secretaries meeting at Breckenridge Aug. 10-11.

Ray B. Dickey, secretary-treasurer of the club, reported the model meeting at Breckenridge and discussed the public installation committee. George LeBus, chairman of the vocational service committee, told of the work of his committee.

George Williams was appointed as a special committee to work with the Olympic club to sponsor any one from this district who is capable of participating in the Olympic meet. Richard Houser, Electra dash man who represented T. C. U. last year and set a new Southwest conference record in the 100 yard dash with the time of 9.6 seconds was mentioned.

Surrender of Laughter to Anxiety Proves Need of Church Work—Martin

Bible Class Teacher Declares Sermon on the Mount to Solve World's Problems of Today

"Facial expressions, conversation, the surrender of laughter to anxious quiet, prevalent upon our streets today, proves that the church needs to be at work today just as earnestly and as faithfully as were the earliest Christians at Antioch," Judge P. A. Martin told members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

"There is enough gospel in the sermon given by Jesus on the mountainside," the speaker declared, "to accomplish the salvation of the world from all the evils which threaten. But power does not amount to anything unless it is used."

Paul's Journey

Judge Martin spoke in part as follows:

"The lesson of today is concerned with the beginning of Saint Paul's first great missionary journey. The scattered Christians had their headquarters at Antioch and in that city were assembled many of the early church. The greatest earnestness characterized their activities. We find that they were spending a great part of their time in fasting and prayer, seeking divine guidance. And the guidance came in due season. A voice, the voice of the Holy Spirit, said 'Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them.'

"And again they fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them and sent them forth to the work.

"As I read and studied this lesson, I wondered just about how many of our modern churches are really in the proper frame of mind and heart to call forth missionaries to go into a foreign field. How many of them are praying and fasting and seeking the guidance of the Spirit in order that they may intelligently carry on the work of propagating the gospel, which, as we are told in the golden text is 'the power of God unto salvation?

Leadership Needed

"It is out of just such surroundings that men and women are called to such glorious work. It is out of such churches as that of Antioch that we may expect great spiritual leadership to come and yet it seems to me to be true that we are preparing our sons and our daughters for almost any sort of life rather than the life of spiritual leadership. And the world is suffering for just such leadership today to lift it out of the slough of despondency into which it has fallen.

"This 'power of God unto salvation' is needed by teeming millions of hopeless men and women right now, to help them bear the burdens of life. We do not see them in our churches and our Sunday Schools, but go down on the streets of this or any other city of the land where men congregate and read, if you will, the story told in their anxious faces; listen a moment to the ordinary conversation of the day among the denizens of town or country and you will come to the conclusion that here is a people who are practically hopeless, not knowing which way to turn or what to do. Listen for the hearty laughter of other days. Mark well the evidences you may see of faith and hope and charity and I believe you will agree with me that the Churches of God needs to be at work today just as earnestly and as faithfully as these early Christians at Antioch.

Power Must Be Used

"Paul said that in this gospel there was a power; a power unto salvation and for this reason he was not ashamed of it. For this reason he carried it to Cyprus, to Corinth, to Athens, to Rome, preached it to kings and rulers and even numbered among his converts members of Caesar's household. There is enough gospel in the sermon of Jesus on the mount to accomplish the salvation of the world today from all the evils which threaten it, local, national and universal. There is enough gospel in the golden rule alone to settle for all time the disputes of nations and the relations of the business world. There is enough right there to feed every hungry child, clothe the naked for the winter and bring a smile to the face of the most helpless and the most disconsolate in our civilization.

"But power does not amount to anything unless it is used. The atmosphere is said to be full of electricity, but it takes a dynamo to gather it and send it out to do its work and bless the world. For centuries its very existence was unknown to mankind. But the connection once established, it sends heat and light and power to millions of people. In the same way it is given to man to make use of this power of God, the gospel of His Son, to bring happiness in the place of despair, peace in the place of war, brotherly love in the place of contention and bickering and contentment in the place of despondency.

Faith Lives On

"The 'faith of our fathers' is living still, as said in the sacred song. I am sure it is living still, very still, so still in fact that I heard a good man say yesterday that the church had ceased to perform its proper functions and wield its proper influence among children of men. I do not think he was entirely right for there are thousands of good men and women doing the best they can under the circumstances. They will keep it alive, I trust, until the Spirit will again call and direct a leadership that will inspire us to proclaim again, as did these first great missionaries, the saving power of the gospel of Christ.

"God grant that we may wake up in time to prevent threatened catastrophe."

Mangum Youth to Enter Woodward Rodeo Contests

MANGUM, Okla., Aug. 30.—Ike Rude, son of Chief of Police Sam D. Rude, will compete in the rodeo to be held at Woodward, Okla., on Sept. 12 and 13.

He is a native of Mangum and holds a number of roping championships and trophies, one of which is the world's fastest time in steer-roping. He set a record of 17.4 seconds in the Cheyenne, Wyoming contests.

Rude was also the winner of the Stetson trophy in calf-roping and his steer-roping netted him a $1,000 prize and a Fairbanks saddle. He won the Hoot Gibson trophy in calf-roping.

Hall County Gins Season's Initial Bale Of Cotton

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS Texas, Aug. 30.—Hall county's first bale for the 1931 crop was ginned by Walter White Gin company Friday evening at 8:30. The cotton was raised by G. L. Murphy living 11 miles southeast of Memphis. There were 2,000 pounds of snap cotton and the bale weighed 555. Walter White bought the cotton at six cents and the business men gave a premium of $15.50 making the bale bring $48.80. Mr. Murphy brought in the first bale of the 1930 crop on Aug. 20.

C.-C. REVEALS TEXAS GROWTH

Monthly Magazine Tells Story of Progress

Special to The Record News

STAMFORD, Texas Aug. 30.—The day by day growth and development of West Texas is pictured clearly, concisely and accurately each month in the Doings of the Districts section of West Texas Today, the official magazine and publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

In this section of the September issue, now on the press, will be 144 short articles from 77 cities and towns scattered all over West Texas, each telling a story of some development, growth, expansion, or worth-while activity that has taken place during the month of August.

"This department of our magazine is a veritable mine of information about busy West Texas for busy men," Manager D. A. Bandeen said recently, "and one may keep well informed on what is going on in the cities and counties of West Texas by reading it each month. Despite general conditions about which so much is being said and printed, West Texas is forging steadily ahead. Schools are being built, roads are under construction, public buildings are being erected, railroads are being projected, manufacturing plants are expanding and opening for business, chambers of commerce are busily engaged in sponsoring worth while projects, surplus food is being preserved, new enterprises are being founded, and natural resources are being developed. Our magazine, "West Texas Today," gives a comprehensive picture of all this each month, and we exhort West Texans to read it and let the outside world know what West Texas is accomplishing today."

The Doings of the Districts section of "West Texas Today" is edited by the 10 chamber of commerce secretaries, each located in one of the 10 of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territories, and who are members of the secretaries advisory board and district secretaries of the respective districts. They are Ed Bishop, Dalhart; A. B. Davis, Lubbock; John L. Boswell, Wichita Falls; George D. Barber, Mineral Wells; J. Z. Martin, Breckenridge; Paul T. Vickers, Midland; Claude Simpson, Roswell, N. M.; A. F. Robinson, Alpine; S. W. Cooper, Winters, and Sim O'Neal, Coleman.

Repainting Ordered For Stamford P. O.

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Aug. 30.—Approximately $750 will be spent in improvements on the Stamford postoffice which centers the square. Contract has been let to J. D. Curd for repainting the interior of the building and to the Stamford and Western Gas company in piping the building for heating purposes, Postmaster W. T. Phillips has stated.

The Stamford postoffice plaza is a point of special pride. Surrounding the beautiful stone structure are tall trees, carefully kept lawns, fragrant with roses in artistically planned beds.

MANGUM LIBRARY

BRATTON TELLS MODERN NEEDS

Minister Addresses 1,000 at Union Service

Extreme individualism, a tendency toward materialism, and a highly scientific age offer a threefold challenge to the man of today through the church of Jesus Christ, according to a spirited plea voiced by Rev. W. D. Bratton, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, before approximately 1,000 persons gathered on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium Sunday night in the closing union service of the summer.

By the nature of the problems which retard the earthly realization of God's kingdom, the speaker said, their solution and removal falls upon the church of Christ. Because the church must take up the banner for a more deeply spiritualized humanity, its cause must of necessity challenge every man who believes in the sovereignty of spiritual values.

Rev. Mr. Bratton chose the fourth chapter of Paul's letter to the Ephesians as the scriptural foundation for his sermon, referring particularly to the apostle's declaration that "God gave gifts unto men."

"The greatest of these gifts was the church," he said. "Christ prepared for it throughout His ministry, laboring with the twelve disciples that they might understand the full measure of his purpose. When at last they beheld Him as the Christ and confessed their faith, it was upon that declaration that He promised the church should be built. The torch has been handed on down to us. It behooves each of us to ask himself what the particular challenge of the church is to our present age.

"There is first the challenge of extreme individualism which characterizes our time. All the old sanctions, moral, religious, social—especially since the world war—have been held up to individual criticism, and the individual has disposed of them as he saw fit from his own personal point of view.

"We can not condemn the spirit of individualism completely. There is in it an element of tremendous value. Paul said, 'Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.' The church does not condemn it. We tell christians to test religious experiences in order to know their worth. The spirit of individualism vitalizes the field of moral and religious adventure without which religion is dead. We do not condemn individualism, but we do need to ask ourselves whether, in our present passionful individual experiment, we may not lose sight of the experiences of ages which count for much; whether individualism has not degenerated into license.

Material Trend

"In the second place, we are challenged by the marked tendency to materialism, by which I mean the tendency to value that which we see and touch and handle much more highly than the unseen values and realities of life. This is not a new tendency, but is one which has received tremendous impetus from the machine age in which we live. We are surrounded by such a multitude of things that are products of the machine, things which are now necessary to comfort and convenience, that our tendency is to make the machine our god.

"The unseen realities of goodness, truth, beauty, loyalty, sacrifice, and love tend to become submerged. When our bodies are comfortable, we think that 'all is well with our souls.'

"Thirdly, there is the challenged which comes to us through the unity of the world which science and invention have achieved. Not long ago, Prof. Compton of the University of Chicago referred to an illustration of this point drawn from daily life. A modern young woman sat before a radio, pulling on a cigaret, and writhing to the staggered measures of a dance number played by a jazz orchestra. Dr. Compton asked, 'Is this what the great electrical pioneers were working for when they labored to give the radio to the world?'

Air Menace

"Not long ago 60 airplanes droned over this city in military formation. They were army planes, each a deadly instrument of destruction, on their way to join hundreds of other planes in Ohio for military maneuvers—preparation for the next war. It then occurred to me to ask, 'Is this what the Wright brothers dreamed of when they labored to give airplanes to the world?'

"It is a byword today that science and invention have brought the nations closer together than ever before. But it remains to be seen whether or not this obvious and inescapable fact will prove to be a blessing or a curse. It may minister to the furtherance of the kingdom of God, or it may minister to the annihilation of the present day civilization. We can not doubt that the issue rests largely in the hands of the church.

Allison Presides

"Here then is an indication of the two-fold challenge of the church to the man of today. First of all, the challenge which the church brings to the individual because of himself, for his own comfort, strength, health, and guidance through the maze of life. Secondly, the challenge to lend his hand in the reconstruction days through which we are passing to aid in building up the kingdom of God on earth, until the love of Christ shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

J. H. Allison was the presiding layman at Sunday night's service. Rev. Mr. Bratton's sermon was preceded by "Now the Day is Over," (Oley Speaks), sung by Miss Tillie Mae Schaefer, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Allison. A congregational singsong on favorite hymns again was conducted by R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano. Leo Underwood's band presented a short concert of sacred and secular numbers at the opening of the service.

Wallace Wade, Duke university football coach, has conducted seven schools for gridiron mentors this summer.

Two Negro Women Stabbed as Dispute Becomes Free-for-All

Two negresses have serious though not critical stab wounds at the Wichita General hospital as the result of a free-for-all knifing affray in which they and four other negresses became involved early Sunday morning.

The fight originated in the 100 block on Lake street shortly after midnight when the two in the hospital "scraped fenders" as they passed on the sidewalk, according to A. L. Stubblefield and Herbert Pogue, city officers, who made the arrests. After a brief verbal exchange, the two negresses entered into combat. With the entrance into the fray of four women companions of one of the initial combatants, knives of various sizes and degrees of keenness were wielded.

The battle raged until the group had reached the 122 block on Ohio avenue, where officers found the two injured women. The remaining four, who had departed the scene, were later arrested at their homes. Several blood stained knives were seized.

Charges of assault were filed Sunday afternoon by L. V. Abernathy, county attorney, against the five negresses alleged to have "ganged" the sixth.

SHE'LL BE BUSY

Floyd County Woman to Supply 1,800 Gallons Of Peas to A. & M.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 30.—Mrs. W. E. Miller of the Sand Hill Home Demonstration club has been awarded the contract to supply 1,800 gallons of home canned black eyed peas for A. & M. college this fall. Mrs. Miller received a letter in June from the college asking her to make a bid. The contract was awarded June 23. Her bid was $720.

The order in the past has been handled by commercial canneries but samples of the peas canned by Mrs. Miller brought an invitation from college supply officials for her to enter a bid. Delivery of the peas to be made Oct 1, the first shipment to be made about Sept. 1. Cans have been ordered in a carload shipment. Mrs. Miller is a Master Farm Homemaker, one of the three Floyd county home demonstration women holding that distinctive title.

FIRE DESTROYS WICHITA HOME

Flames Threaten to Spread Through Block

Fire destroyed the home of A. D. Spence, 702 Houston street, shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Flames and sparks blown by a stiff south wind threatened the entire block for awhile, as firemen were handicapped with low water pressure.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined. Mr. Spence and his family were away at the time, having left early Saturday afternoon to go fishing. Damage to the place and its furnishings was estmated at $1,750 by Grover Habern, assistant fire chief.

When a water heater in the home exploded, a great section of the roof was blown away, causing burning embers to light on an adjoining house at 700 Houston. The roof of this place was slightly damaged although firemen promptly extinguished the flames there.

A GENTLEWOMAN
A HOUSEKEEPER, AND A SCHOLAR

PERHAPS you know her. She is far from wealthy, yet no matter what the occasion, she dresses appropriately and well. And whether she is guest or hostess, there is an exquisite rightness about her . . . she is gay, tactful, poised . . . her charm is graced with simplicity. She is, in short, a gentlewoman.

She is also an able housekeeper. She has to be, to live as comfortably as she does within her moderate means. She uses a budget system, keeps an exact account of all expenditures. No skimping, though. Toilet accessories, the food she serves, the completeness of her up-to-date household equipment, disclaim skimping as they do extravagance. She never denies herself necessities, and even manages to allow herself some tasteful luxuries.

If you ask her how she does it, she'll laughingly tell you the secret is that she's a scholar! Not a dillar-a-dollar 10 o'clock kind of scholar, but a bright-and-early scholar of the advertisements in her favorite newspaper. She studies them thoroughly, every day. With their constant news of unusual sales and superior values, they enable her to keep down expenses by careful buying. They tell her where to get just the things she wants for just the prices she is willing to pay.

Advertised products are dependable. Read the advertisements. They will help you, too.
