U. S. Doubling Stockpile Of Nuclear Arms

McNamara Talks To NATO Allies

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told America's European allies Saturday the United States has built up an awesome stockpile of nuclear weapons in Europe to support U.S. and Allied troops.

The secretary said the continuing buildup is doubling the nuclear stockpile which existed on the scene in 1960 for the joint defense of members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

McNamara reported this to a special committee of 10 NATO defense ministers which met throughout the day in NATO headquarters to explore means of sharing nuclear responsibility within the alliance. He repeated some of his remarks later to American newsmen.

INCREASE FORCES

"The United States," he said, "is continuing to increase the nuclear component of the NATO deterrent forces. There are now more than 5,000 U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe, under U.S. custody but in support of both U.S. and other NATO units. This number will increase by more than 20 per cent in the next six months. This will represent a doubling of nuclear weapons strength in Europe over the past five years."

Winter May Finally Arrive

Winter is finally a-comin' in Saturday night, it was supposed to get down to 31, one degree below the freezing mark, according to Midland weather forecasters. Friday night or early Saturday morning, it got down to 33 degrees, the coldest reading this fall, according to Grady Randall, U.S. Experiment Station.

Friday's high was 77, so the low, low 33 that night made a difference in temperature extremes of 44 degrees, enough to crack an Eskimo's smile.

If you think that 33 or 31 degrees are cold, it got down to 18 degrees above zero on the Nov. 28s of 1911 and 1955. Get out your mufflers and count yourselves lucky. Brrr'.

OLD TOYS NEEDED

City firemen ask for discarded toys, to be repaired for distribution to poor children at Christmas. Please see if you have suitable playthings — those that can be restored — and take them to the fire station nearest you or call AM 4-6083, and a truck will call.

Texas Toll Reaches 29

By The Associated Press

The highway traffic toll during the long Thanksgiving weekend in Texas threatened to lead all other states Saturday.

At a late hour the death count reached 29.

The tabulations began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

Latest reported deaths included:

Landon Hammit, 23, of Rotan died Saturday when his car crashed as he failed to negotiate a curve eight miles west of Rotan on Farm 611. He was en route to Lamesa, where he was a telephone company employe.

Dissenters' Picket Line Packs Washington Walks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An army of dissenters marched around the White House in a gigantic picket line Saturday, protesting the United States role in Viet Nam.

An estimated 22,000 paraded for hours in slow-moving circles that packed the sidewalks outside the White House grounds.

MANY SIGNS

Their signs ranged from simple calls to peace—the tone favored by march organizers—to denunciations of President Johnson.

After hours of protest at the White House, they trooped to the Washington Monument grounds to hear their leaders demand that the administration seek a Viet Nam cease-fire and move to the bargaining table. Organizers claimed there were 30,000 on hand there.

There were scattered scuffles and a handful of arrests as the peace pickets confronted their critics. But the march, under the watchful eyes of a heavy police cordon, was generally as peaceful as its professed aims.

Santa Coming Here Monday

Santa Claus is coming to town Monday on the heels of a cold snap that shivered him into action over the weekend.

His arrival by Texas & Pacific Railway Co. train at 2 p.m. will be met by a coach-and-four from the Flying W Ranch, Ozona; an escort by the police department, and the Big Spring High School Band. The miniature stage coach will be pulled by four Shetland ponies.

Santa will progress to the east side of the courthouse, where he will greet pre-school age children until 3:30 p.m. Assisted by members of the ABClub and the Ambassadors Club, he will hand out candy and balloons, and hear the children's desires for Christmas morning.

From 3:30 until 5 p.m., Santa will meet school-age youngsters who will receive the same favors. He will also be in the shopping centers the same afternoon, walking from store to store, talking with children.

From 5:30 p.m., he will be at College Park Shopping Center and the Highland Shopping Center. From 4:30 p.m., he will visit the Eleventh Place Shopping Center and the Gregg Street shopping area.

Cong flags were unfurled, counter-demonstrators quickly moved in to surround them with American flags. That was the tactic recommended by Sanford Gottlieb of the committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the march coordinator.

Most of the marchers were quiet and good humored. Some brought along their children.

CONFERENCE

While the pickets paraded, a delegation of their leaders conferred for 90 minutes with Chester Cooper, an aide to White House adviser McGeorge Bundy.

There weren't many people in the White House and Executive Office Building to confer with, President Johnson is at his Texas ranch.

When the delegation emerged, Gottlieb reported Cooper reiterated an administration suggestion that they write letters to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong, asking them to agree to unconditional negotiations.

MARCHERS REFUSED

He said the peace marchers refused. "This is not acceptable to us, to simply call for unconditional negotiations when North Viet Nam is being bombed," he said.

"He wanted us to become sort of negotiators on the side with North Viet Nam," said Socialist Leader Norman Thomas.

"I can't say that we got very far, except we both agreed that we were sincere," Dr. Benjamin Spock, chairman of the protest, reported.

Thomas said the delegation told Cooper the marchers want a halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam, a presidential bid for a cease-fire agreement, and administration declarations that the National Liberation Front—the Viet Cong—would be represented in any negotiations, and that the United States will pull out of Viet Nam after a settlement is reached.

Gottlieb and the march sponsors did their best to keep the signs and demonstration moderate in tone, even suggesting authorized slogans for the pickets.

They weren't altogether successful. One cluster of about 30 marchers walked along chanting:

"Hey, hey, LBJ
 How many kids have you killed today?"

There was a gaudy banner in blue and red which caricatured Johnson and called him a hypocrite. There were the Viet Cong flags. "McNamara, Get Human," one placard read. "The U.S. is the Aggressor," said another.

There were counterpickets, too. Columns of police sought to keep them away from the main demonstration. They marched

Still Willing To Suspend Bomb Runs

But Both Sides Are Building Up Ground War Surges After 2-Day Lull

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is holding open the possibility of a new suspension in the bombing of North Viet Nam if it is ever persuaded that such a move would help get Vietnamese peace talks under way.

But at the moment administration officials say they see no yielding whatever in what they consider rigid North Vietnamese terms for talks and the expectation here is that the war will be intensified over the next few months.

Both sides, in fact, are increasing their military commitment. The United States is building to 200,000 men as a present goal and authorities talk about an expansion beyond that to 225,000 or more. They also report that North Viet Nam's infiltration of troops to the South is increasing and that as many as four North Vietnamese divisions may be thrown into the fight by early next year.

Nevertheless, peace probes are continuing — despite Secretary of State Dean Rusk's refusal at a news conference Friday to discuss current diplomatic activity. And in these contacts between United States and Communist leaders, the talk of continuing or suspending the bombing of North Viet Nam holds an important place.

Most recently, it is understood, the issue of continuing the bombing was raised by the Soviets when Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield visited Moscow 10 days ago. With four colleagues, Mansfield is on a world tour with President Johnson's evident blessings.

On his Moscow stop Mansfield is understood to have urged Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to use their influence to bring about negotiations that would halt the fighting in Southeast Asia and lead to a permanent settlement.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong and South Vietnamese regiments battled in a death grip Saturday night on an abandoned rubber plantation in a thunderous upsurge of the ground war after a two-day lull. U.S. planes blasted at Red positions in the area, 45 miles northeast to Saigon.

A U.S. spokesman said no American combat troops were committed, but some Americans were killed and others wounded. These presumably were advisers to the South Vietnamese army's 7th Infantry Regiment, whose command post was overrun early in the fight.

While thousands of Americans marched in Washington "for peace in Viet Nam," Vietnamese infantrymen fought for their lives against a Red force of regimental size — 1,200 to 2,000 men — on a 54-square-mile property of the Michelin Rubber Co. The Vietnamese casualties were reported from moderate to heavy.

The Viet Cong struck from a concealed honeycomb of trenches and foxholes shortly after dawn in the third attack of that scope within the last two weeks. The others were against U.S. (See VIETS, Pg. 6-A, Col. 1)

Plane Takes Off In Storm, Crashes Killing 13 Aboard

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Thirteen persons died in flames Saturday when a two-engine charter plane grazed the top of one hill and slammed into the side of another 20 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

The plane, a DC3 football flight, had taken off from the Salt Lake Airport in a snow-storm moments before and was groping the 35 miles to Provo to pick up more passengers. It was en route to Albuquerque, N.M., and the Brigham Young New Mexico football game.

FIVE DOCTORS

The nine passengers included five Salt Lake City physicians and the daughter of the pilot. The four crew members included the pilot, copilot, stewardess and one deadheading pilot.

Only the tail section of the DC3 was intact when search parties reached the smoldering wreckage three hours after the crash. The rest of the plane was little more than ashes, scattered 500 yards between the two hills. The victims' bodies were burned beyond recognition.

A wing snapped off when the craft grazed the top of the first hill, at the foot of the Oquirrh Mountain chain on the west side of the Salt Lake Valley. The wing tumbled into the gulley site of a rifle range, between the hills.

BURST INTO FLAMES

The plane skidded and bumped across the gulley and crashed nose-first into the second hill. It apparently burst into flames after the first impact. Charred remains littered both hills.

The crash was the second major air tragedy in the Salt Lake City area in 16 days. A United Air Lines Boeing 727 jetliner crashed and burned at the Salt Lake Airport on Veterans Day, killing 43 persons. The DC3 was on instruments when it took off from Salt Lake City but the airport tower and Eddie Airlines, owner of the craft, said the takeoff was normal.

"There never was an indication of trouble," an Eddie spokesman said. "We didn't hear anything more from the plane after it was airborne."

VICTIMS

The victims were:

T.R. Gledhill, 43, a Salt Lake City businessman; Dr. Tony Dalton, Dr. Gordon Lewis, Dr. Marion Probert, Dr. Bernard Kritchfield and Dr. Roger Parkinson, all Salt Lake City physicians; Garth Edde, 45, the pilot; Kenneth Myers, copilot; Norma Jenkins, stewardess; Diana Edde, 17, daughter of the pilot; Salt Lake City attorney Richard Wilkins, deadhead pilot Calvin Higgs and J. Peterson.

All were from Salt Lake City, authorities said.

Holiday Car Fatalities Increase At Faster Clip

By The Associated Press

The traffic death toll rose at a faster clip Saturday, boosting the total for the long Thanksgiving period.

The tally reached 384.

The normal weekend loss of life — often high — apparently lifted the death rate as motorists shifted into their Saturday and Sunday driving patterns.

During the compilation period that began at 6 p.m. (local time) Wednesday, and ending at midnight Sunday, the count has been running ahead of the 1965 average of about 110 motor vehicle fatalities a day.

The bulk of the deaths on the streets and highways were occurring singly or in pairs. But there has been a threat of multiple-death accidents.

In one of the latest, a two-car collision near Radcliff, Ky., Saturday killed two brothers and their sister. They were on their way to a relative's funeral.

Snow was on the ground in sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. There were scattered areas of rain elsewhere, but much of the country had clear weather.

In recent years, the tally of traffic deaths during the Thanksgiving period — all four days — has ranged from 442 in 1960 to 554 in 1964.

The National Safety Council makes no advance estimates of motor vehicle fatalities for Thanksgiving on grounds that it is largely a home occasion that is accompanied by less distance driving than other major holidays.

The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths during a recent non-holiday period of four days — from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 10 to midnight Sunday, Nov. 14 — to provide a basis for comparison. The total then was

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Thanksgiving Day — exactly a month away from Christmas — brought a record 87 degree reading, and farmers are beginning to wonder if it's ever going to frost. Friday threatened an answer when high winds whipped in from the west and shifted to the north to bring 33-degrees. But this was but the dry front edge of a storm which has been plaguing the lower West Coast for days, and about all it did was introduce our newcomers to what a bonafide dust storm is and to load open cotton with a few hundred tons of dirt.

At least the Howard County-South Plains Hereford sale got a break in the weather last week, but it ran into some conflict that kept buyers away. Forty-three bulls averaged $426, which was termed fair, and it was better than $363 average last year for 48 bulls, and even the $419 average in 1963. The cow average of $287 was just under last year's average of $290 and the 1963 record of $430. The champion, incidentally, was CC Lord Lamplighter 780 from the Charlie Creighton herd, and the reserve Golden Superior H-6 from the G. T. Hall Estate herd.

Hundreds of people were glad they attended the Billy Graham film, "The Restless Ones," but Mrs. Edna Malone, had a double.

Real Harvest To Come, Late Frost Helps Crops

Thirteen per cent of Howard County's 1965 cotton crop has been ginned and the real harvest is still to come. Frost continues to stay away from the fields and fat bolls continue to swell and to pop open under the warmth of a strangely belated summer sun.

Texas Employment Commission office here reported Friday afternoon that the 13 gins have now handled 5,300 bales this fall. The crop estimate of 40,000 to 45,000 remains unchanged, but there is a good chance that the crop will pass the estimate set for it. Remarkably good yields are being reported.

THIRD DONE

Through Friday nine cotton counties in the Big Spring area had ginned about a third of the season. TEC officials in Sweetwater raised the guess on Scurry County another 5,000 bales last week. The total crop, as now estimated, is 37,000 bales. Total ginnings in the nine counties was 103,232. Three counties — Dawson, Fisher and Martin — have contributed the lion's share of this total.

Last year Nov. 27, there had been 79,880 bales of an estimated crop of 213,000 ginned. The crop was poor in all of the counties in 1964, but the final production was higher, probably, than the late November estimate.

Last year, as of this date, the cotton crop for this county had been set at 15,000. Actually the production was more than 20,000 when the season was over. At this date one year ago the gins had handled 4,395 bales.

DAWSON CROP

Over in Dawson County, cotton harvesting came to a halt Friday when a duster worthy of the rating "bad" moved in ahead of a cold front. The same sand and wind swept into this county about two hours after it appeared in Lamesa. It brought the scattered stripping in this area to a stop Friday afternoon.

Through Thursday, the Dawson gins had handled 45,434 bales of the crop which is now pegged at 150,000 bales.

On this same date in 1964, Dawson, with a crop estimated at 90,000 bales, had ginned 26,730.

Sixteen Years Since Frost Has Waited Until December

November, 1949, holds a record which November, 1965, could match.

Weather records show that there were no days in that November of 16 years ago when the temperature dropped to as low as 32 degrees. This meant that for the entire month in 1949, no hard freeze was reported. First freeze of that year was Dec. 7.

For all of the years from 1949 through 1964, the weather books show freezes in Howard County in all Novembers, but with none later than Nov. 21. Friday, this month had set a record for the past 15 years. It was six days later than 1963 when the first frost occurred on Nov. 21.

It was three weeks ahead of 1950 when the initial freeze of autumn struck Nov. 3 and 1961 when the date was Nov. 2.

When this fall began, weather-wise residents were quick to prophesy an early freeze. They looked at the cotton fields, still blooming from belated rains, and mournfully chanted there wasn't a snowball's chance the cotton would have time to make.

Now, with December just days away and frost still not on the records, most of that cotton which was just blooming in mid-September is ripe and ready for harvest. Meantime, too, additional blossoms and fattening bolls have developed on the plants.

Even in fields which were baraged by hail and believed completely ruined, some cotton is now in evidence. This is fruit which has developed since the hails. One farmer, who had thought his field was almost 100 per cent ruined by the hail, said "if frost holds off till late in December, I'll make pretty good cotton on that field."

Today, you can find fields with blossoms, bolls and open cotton. A hard freeze now would be beneficial to perhaps 90 per cent of the cotton. It would delimitate the plants and permit strippers to move in. It would pop open bolls which are nearly ripe.

It would also enable the cotton growers to rid themselves of the anxiety that they feel over the possibility of hail and heavy rains. This sort of weather at this time of year, with the cotton as it now is, would be disastrous.

First frost dates, since 1949, show how the average first freeze date of Nov. 10 has emerged.

They read like this: Nov. 1949, no frost; First frost, (32 degrees or lower) 1950 on Nov. 3; 1951 on Nov. 1; 1952 on Nov. 10; 1953 on Nov. 11; 1954 on Nov. 4; 1955 on Nov. 3; 1956 on Nov. 9; 1957 on Nov. 19; 1958 on Nov. 17; 1959 on Nov. 6; 1960 on Nov. 10; 1961 on Nov. 2; 1962 on Nov. 8; 1963 on Nov. 21; and 1964, on Nov. 20.

Midland County has ginned 4,276 of its 15,000 bale crop. Sweetwater TEC office said that Nolan County has now handled 4,045 of its estimated 20,000 bales; Scurry County has 8,906 of its (new estimate) 33,000 crop; Mitchell County 4,863 bales of its 45,300 crop; and Fisher County 12,845 of its 40,000 bales.

NO FROST

In none of the area counties with exception of Glasscock has any frost occurred. The area served by the Sweetwater TEC has less to be happy about this belated arrival of Jack Frost than other counties. Boll weevils have cropped up in the area and the warm weather, which has prevailed, is giving these pests additional time to feed and flourish. There are numerous reports, TEC officers related, of fields shown to be infected with boll weevils.

If any have appeared in Howard County, there is no report.

High Plains Counties Favor Marketing Quotas

The 23 Texas High Plains counties covered by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., voted solid approval Nov. 23 of the cotton marketing quota for 1966. The rest of the cotton belt concurred.

On the High Plains 86.1 per cent of a light 8,964 total vote favored marketing quotas. The Texas margin was 87.9 per cent "for" and of all those voting across the belt 94.8 per cent voted in favor of quotas.

Including wives of farmers, the 23 High Plains counties have in the neighborhood of 48,000 eligible voters — more than five times the number voting.

Passage of the referendum by the necessary two-thirds majority — a surprise to no one — puts into effect the cotton section of the Agricultural Act of 1965 with its price support payments, diversion payments and price support loan.

Failure of the referendum would have meant that farmers who planted within their allotments in 1966 would have been eligible only for a loan rate at 50 per cent of parity — about 21 cents.

In a second referendum, only 61 of over 250 counties voting agreed to permit cotton acreage to move outside the county. And only one of those 61 — Gaines County — is included in the 23 High Plains counties. Gaines has a lot of new land with good irrigation water and many farms with little or no cotton allotment.

Market Holds Fairly Steady

Grades and staples held fairly steady, as did the market for cotton from this area last week. Receipts, however, were light. Only 2,970 samples went from Howard, Martin, Midland and Glasscock counties to the Abilene classing office of the Consumer and Marketing Service. That office, however, classed 36,568 samples for the week, making 180,049 for the year.

Demand for middling light spotted dropped, while that of strict low middling light spotted and lower grades was fairly strong. Buyers were not making purchases of some of the higher grades. An increasing amount of cotton was going into the loan.

Percentage of grades from this four-county area showed one strict middling white, 30 middling white, one strict low middling plus, nine strict low middling, three strict middling light spotted, 44 middling light spotted, eight strict low middling light spotted, two middling spotted, one strict middling light spotted.

Staple percentage showed seven at 7-8; 26 at 29-32; 36 at 15-16; 14 at 31-32; five at 1 inch; three at 1 1-32; two at 1 1-16; three at 1 3-32; four at 1 1-18.

The micronaire percentages were one at 2.6; three from 2.2-2.9; 12 from 3.0-3.2; 15 at 3.3-3.5; 68 from 3.6-4.8; one at 4.9 and up. Presley percentages were one from 65-69; three from 70-74; 23 from 75-79; 24 from 80-84; 32 from 85-89; 10 from 90-94; two 95 and up.

Dog Judging Planned Monday

Graduation for the current obedience training class of the Big Spring Kennel Club is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the College Park Shopping Center.

A roped-off regulation size obedience ring will be set up at the east end of the paved area behind the W. T. Grant Store.

Dogs will be judged by Jim Patterson, Midland. Each dog will be placed as if in an American Kennel Club obedience trial and novice class.

The public is invited to witness the exercises, and those interested in the next beginners obedience class are asked to contact Mrs. R. O. Linn at this event, or they may phone AM 3-4490 or Bruce Wright at AM 4-8276.

Harvesting Kept Slow

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The far West Texas cotton harvest is in full swing and areas of Texas and kept harvest-grades and yields are good. A late frost is needed to defoliate the Plains awaited a defoliating plants. Only Concho and surrounding grain sorghum. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said grains made excellent growth and grazing was more plentiful. Range and livestock conditions improved except in spots. Grazing prospects for early winter brightened, he said. Flax and grain planting and plowing went on as field conditions permit, he said.

Panhandle moisture generally was adequate. About 90 percent of the sorghum was harvested. Cotton and sorghum still in the field will be harvested after the first hard freeze. Weather was ideal for maturing cotton in the South Plains. Some sections got some frost but the big cotton harvest was delayed until nature does the defoliating job. Cotton being harvested is mostly from fields chemically defoliated. Moisture is adequate in 18 of the 22 Rolling Plains counties. Heavy dews are slowing harvesting. Grain grazing is excellent. The sorghum harvest is over.

Adequate soil moisture was reported in most of North Central Texas. Grains in some counties are providing grazing and making good growth. Only Delta, Henderson, Van Zandt and Wood counties in Northeast Texas have adequate moisture but conditions are about average for this season.

Gale Winds Lash Northeast States

By The Associated Press

Gale winds on the tail of a major storm lashed the Northeast Saturday after dumping heavy snow near the north-central border and loosing tornadoes in the Midwest.

The airport at Buffalo, N.Y., was raked with gusts up to 59 m.p.h., and power failures hit South Buffalo and Lackawanna as well as other portions of the state.

HIGH WINDS

Forty and 50-mile winds in the Watertown, N.Y., area tipped over a house trailer, and felled trees and limbs, snapping utility lines. The winds also helped to free the 7,000-ton British tanker Halsworthy, Beacon which had been aground since Tuesday in the St. Lawrence Waterway.

The storm, 1,000 miles in diameter, was centered in eastern Canada, moving northeast.

It left an Arctic picture in northern Minnesota and upper Michigan were heavy snow drifted, and snuffed out lights and power in a number of communities as ice-coated utility lines parted. One-day snowfall ranged up to one and one-half feet.

LOTS OF SNOW

There were 27 inches of snow on the ground at Hibbing, Minn., and more than two feet covered much of northeastern Minnesota. The storm brought 16.2 inches of snow to Superior, Wis.

Icy wind, that dropped the mercury to 17 below at Havre Mont., plunged south into the Midwest and lower Mississippi valley, dropping temperatures as much as 50 degrees and churning tornadoes in Illinois, Indiana, Arkansas and Missouri Friday night.

The racing air streams pushed freezing temperatures into the South and raked much of the Midwest with damaging winds. One woman was killed in Kentucky when her trailer was overturned.

REROUT TRAFFIC

In Chicago, the winds tore a scaffold loose 35 stories above

Lake Shore Drive, and police rerouted traffic while workmen labored to pin the structure back in place on a new apartment building.

The tornadoes Friday missed population concentrations. They occurred along a squall line which developed as wintry winds chased 50 and 70-degree weather and ushered in much colder climate. Temperature extremes for 24 hours at Oklahoma City and Fort Worth were 47 degrees.

"As the cold front moved southeast, there was rain in the Appalachians and in some East and Northeast sections.

Ahead of the cold, Atlanta and Miami enjoyed clear weather in the 70s range.

FAIR, COOL

In the West the weather was mostly fair and cool. A cold front in the Southwest kicked up dust in southeastern New Mexico with 40-mile gusts behind a storm which loosed rain and snow in the mountains. Cold following the disturbance included a low of 13 degrees at Grants, N.M.

Southern California weather was a pleasant contrast to the recent protracted heavy rain. One aftermath was a mudslide which Friday night closed Topanga Canyon Road in the Malibu area.

Market Loses Ground, Year-End Rally Expected

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market lost a little ground for the third straight week as it continued last week to "consolidate" its latest advance to record highs.

Sentiment in Wall Street was cautiously optimistic, some analysts believing that the current settling-down process is laying the foundation for the traditional year-end rally.

Because of the closing of exchanges on Thanksgiving Day, the trading week was cut to four days from the usual five.

New York Stock Exchange, gainers outnumbered losers by 747 to 625, the decline in the averages was due to softness in several of the Blue Chips, including American Telephone, the most widely-held stock of all, which are important components of the averages.

These big stocks are so heavily capitalized that the decline in their value far overshadows the changes in value of lesser stocks.

It was a paradoxical performance on the Big Board because stocks fell on only one of the four sessions. The single decline was a whopper, moreover, and far outweighed the three sessions of cautious and slight advance.

Consumers, Government Become Economy Pushers

NEW YORK (AP) — Both consumers and the government are stepping up spending plans and taking over the role of economy-nudger that tax cuts played in months past.

This helps lift some of the worry that was felt earlier when the effects of the tax cuts were wearing off. Economy pushers began to look around for something else with which to keep the pace from slackening.

Now things are changing again. Intentions of buying big ticket items are reported considerably more widespread among the public this fall than a year ago or even earlier this year. This means that the consumers will be pouring more money into the economy where the effect is most quickly felt — at the retail level.

INTO RED
 The U.S. Treasury also is now pouring money into the economy at a faster rate than it's taking it out. Earlier in the year the unexpected rise in tax collections kept the Treasury's cash books in the black. This fall they're moving back into the red.

This means that government money is going to industry for goods and services, and to the states, institutions and individuals faster than the Treasury is getting money back through tax collections at this season of the year. This outpouring is classified as a spur to the economy.

Industry also is doing its bit in making everything bigger and better. Its expansion plans grow steadily. Its high rate of operations makes larger markets for raw materials, more jobs, more sales, more profits — and more borrowing.

EXPECT RAISES
 The job increase, and wage increases, seem to be working on consumer psychology. The Commerce Department reports a survey of consumer planning a month ago showed more people convinced their incomes would rise than were found in a July opinion sampling.

This apparently led more to say this October they expected to buy new cars, appliances, television sets, and other household big ticket items than were found with such intentions either in July or a year ago.

Increased government spending comes from many sides. The biggest boost is for the items needed to outfit and maintain a growing military force in Viet Nam.

One big drain on the U.S. Treasury in recent weeks was the lump sum poured out on retroactive Social Security payment hikes. But the Treasury will have a reverse problem after the first of the year. While year's collection by the Treasury for this pension and insurance will stay higher, Treasury collections will rise. Both $5 billion next year.

Viets Reporting Heavy Casualties

U.S. planes bombed shipping and communications of North Viet Nam in the 8-month-old campaign on which Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has said "increasing emphasis" may be expected. Increased emphasis might be lent by Guam-based B52 jet bombers of the Strategic Air Command, high-flying, eight-engine craft that so far have been used solely south of the border. B52s used their saturation bombing tactics at noon on suspected Communist targets in the general area of the Michelin plantation. Smaller planes, including F5 Freedom Fighters, strafed and bombed in direct support of the Vietnamese troops. Five million rubber trees dot the plantation, which the French management abandoned five weeks ago because of Communist harassment and huge taxes demanded by Viet Cong agents. Pilots at times found the canopy of foliage a handicap. The plantation has been the largest rubber producer in South Viet Nam. Newsmen were told that each of the trees annually produced $50 worth of latex, raw material for such products as tires and tennis shoes. Mortars and recoilless rifle shells from a Communist heavy weapons company cut into the ranks of the Vietnamese troops. Helicopters lifted Vietnamese rangers into the action as reinforcements. A brigade of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, the Big Red One, is based near the plantation. The Americans made a four-day drive across it in mid-November, but the Communists evidently pulled out temporarily at that time for contact was slight. Vietnamese troops took over alone after the Americans withdrew. From the central highlands came a report of an ambush Friday on Route 14 in Quang Duc Province. A spokesman said guerrillas damaged two scout cars and three trucks and inflicted light casualties on personnel of a government convoy. Convoy guards were reported to have killed five of the guerrillas and captured one.

Ground operations appeared to have picked up in South Viet Nam's 1st Corps area, a block of northern provinces adjoining the 17th parallel border. A U.S. military spokesman in Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, announced South Vietnamese forces killed 775 Viet Cong within the corps area in the seven-day period ended Nov. 25. He said this was the highest total for a comparable period within the recollection of the troops' American advisers. Addition of the Enterprise and the Bainbridge to the U.S. fleet led Japan's Socialist party to warn that it would promote a campaign of protest if they ever entered Yokosuka, location of a U.S. Navy base, 30 miles southwest of Tokyo. Port calls by U.S. nuclear-powered submarines, approved by Japan's pro-Western government, have led to bloody demonstrations at Yokosuka by Socialists, Communists and other leftist elements. Subic Bay, however, is the 7th Fleet's main rest port and American sources in the Philippines said a voyage of the two nuclear-powered surface vessels to Japan seemed unlikely. Quotes concerning the Vietnamese conflict came from two touring American leaders in Southeast Asian capitals: In Rangoon, Burma, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield described his visits to capitals in Europe and Asia as "most interesting, most enlightening and most informative." Mansfield headed a five-man Senate fact-finding mission on Viet Nam that soon will visit Saigon.

Soviets Blast Peking Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union accused Red China Sunday of hurrying the cause of the Vietnamese Communists and helping the United States by Peking's refusal to form a united front with the Kremlin. Pravda, Soviet Communist party newspaper, carried in its Sunday edition the hardest-hitting attack on the Red Chinese since the new Soviet leadership took over in October 1964. "The developments of the last few months have shown convincingly that imperialism is trying to capitalize on the weakened unity of Communist ranks," Pravda said. "Those who refuse to cooperate and turn down proposals for joint actions against the aggressors are hampering the struggle of the Vietnamese people and help the aggressor."

Earlier, Peking's New China News Agency gave prominent display to Albanian charges that the United States and the Soviet Union "are playing tricks behind the heroic Vietnamese people to strike dirty bargains" on Viet Nam. Albania is regarded as Communist China's spokesman in the angry dialogue between the two Red camps.

The Peking report quoted a commentary in the Albanian newspaper Zeri I Popullit on the Moscow visit of U.S. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic majority leader, and other senators, saying: "Their secret meetings there are ample testimony to the dirt tricks of the imperialists and the revisionists." In Peking's view, the Soviet leaders are "revisionists" of Marxist-Leninist doctrine for espousing coexistence with the west. The lengthy Pravda article was a full-scale defense of Soviet policies against the unrelenting Chinese criticism that began in the Khrushchev era. The Pravda article seemed to mark a loss of patience by the new Soviet regime in the dispute with China. But it remained to be seen whether the insults would flow between the two capitals as during the rule of former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. His successors, Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, have quietly been trying to patch up the Communist quarrel in behind-the-scenes meetings.

No Injuries In Car Crashes

One traffic wreck Friday and three Saturday failed to injure residents and non-residents involved, officers said late Saturday night. At 4:29 p.m. Friday, the cars of Ida Gibson Loyd, Route 1, and William Arthur McCall, 606 1/2 Lancaster, were in collision at the intersection of Tenth and Scurry.

Saturday, those involved in wrecks were Doug Rountree, Odessa, whose car struck a City Park tree about 200 yards south of the main gate at 3:50 p.m.; Merrill Lee Huey, Box 60, and Arah Brooks Humphries, 2005 Johnson, whose cars were in a wreck on Third at Johnson at 11:02 a.m.; and James Benjamin Owens, Lubbock, and Linda L. Alexander, Big Spring, whose vehicles were involved in a collision at Thirteenth and Nolan, officers said.

Lamesa Worker Killed At Rotan

ROTAN (AP) — Landon Hammit, 23, of Rotan died Saturday when his car crashed on a curve eight miles west of Rotan on Farm 611. He was en route to Lamesa, where he was a telephone company employee. Airman Antonio Santillanes, stationed at Dyess AFB at Abilene, was killed Saturday in a head-on crash with a truck on an Abilene Freeway. Police said the car was on the wrong side of the freeway.

Red China Loses Another Friend, Vote In U.N.

TUNIS (AP) — Communist China's heavy-handed diplomacy has lost her another influential friend in Africa and helped defeat the latest move to bring Peking into the United Nations. A serious crisis in China's relations with Tunisia has brought the two countries to the verge of a diplomatic break and has cost China the prestige victory of recognition by a simple majority of the U.N. General Assembly. Tunisia's outspokenly pro-Western president, Habib Bourguiba, for years demanded Peking's admission to the world body. In 1963, Chinese premier Chou En-lai visited Tunis and obtained Bourguiba's agreement to establish diplomatic relations. But as the Chinese sought to exploit the newly found friendship, Bourguiba became increasingly alarmed by their penetration attempts in Africa and their blistering efforts to dominate all the Afro-Asian world. After long taking a position of nonalignment, Bourguiba abruptly changed course and came out in favor of the American position in Viet Nam. Almost alone among African leaders, he blamed the Viet Nam war on Chinese Communist ambitions. In an interview with the French magazine Realites earlier this month, Bourguiba denounced Red Chinese leaders as madmen resembling Hitler who were leading the nations into a third world war. "Any concessions to them would only raise their unlimited ambitions still further," the Tunisian leader declared. In the U.N. General Assembly Nov. 18, Tunisia's abstention helped swing the balance in the critical vote on China's admission to the United Nations. A two-thirds majority would have been needed to bring China in, but the moral victory of a simple majority would have given Peking a prestige boost. The General Assembly tied 47-47 with 20 abstentions and thus rejected the resolution calling for Red China's admission. If Tunisia had voted yes, as in previous years, the resolution would have won a simple majority. On the day of the vote in New York, Red Chinese ambassador Yao Mien delivered to the Tunisian Foreign Ministry a bitter note of protest against Bourguiba's interview. The note accused Tunisia of taking an anti-Chinese stand to please its "neo-colonialist masters" and demanded a disavowal of the Realites interview. Three days later, the Tunisian government declared Yao's note unacceptable and sent it back to the Chinese Embassy, saying it was phrased in unacceptable terms "reminiscent of the tone employed by colonialist countries seeking to spread their domination over others." The Tunis newspaper Es-Sabah said Tunisia always had believed China's admission to the United Nations would help to ease world tension. "We always used to defend this position with zeal and actually succeeded in persuading many of China's opponents in the U.N. to change their views," the paper declared. "But this did not prevent us from denouncing the behavior of Peking's government and its aim of imposing its hegemony over all the countries of the Asian continent." Bourguiba is now on a month-long, eight-nation tour of west Africa. At every stop, he has been warning his hosts against Red China.

France Joins Space Powers

PARIS (AP) — Frenchmen beamed with pride Saturday about their satellite, even though its voice has dwindled to almost nothing.

The simply made 92.5-pound satellite went into orbit Friday in a test of the three-stage Diamant missile and the French tracking network. Both are reported to have performed without a hitch.

"France is the Third Space Power," said headlines in the Paris dailies Figaro and Le Monde, with the latter adding inside, "ahead of Britain and Japan."

"The whole world salutes the French success," said mass circulation France-Soir, which went to press before congratulatory notes arrived from U.S. Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Soviet scientist Leonid Sedov.

The tabloid Paris Jour headlined, "Beep, Beep, Beep — in French," but in effect the beep apparatus wasn't working. The Defense Department said the antenna may have been damaged on the way up from a Sahara pad. Also, the telemetering transmitter was varying between weak and unheard.

One paper, Paris-Presse L'Intransigeant, called the space shot "the beginning of our nuclear power." It said France soon would have rockets able to fire 1,100 to 2,200-pound bombs 2,000 to 2,500 miles.

While supersonic planes now carry the atomic bombs, by 1970 France will have 73 ballistic missiles ready to hit anything from the Azores to the Urals, according to a recent government report to Parliament on the defense bill.

Politically, Le Monde pointed out a last-minute rush to fire the rocket before the Dec. 5 presidential elections. An editorial suggested this was because President Charles de Gaulle wanted to prove that the "considerable means that have gone into the 'policy of grandeur' were not spent in vain.

About 600 Help Corral 3 Fugitives

HILLSBORO, Mo. (AP) — Three jailbreakers, who held one family hostage and terrorized scores of others, were captured Saturday after a week-long search in which more than 600 persons participated.

The fugitives surrendered without resistance when the house in which they were found was surrounded by Jefferson County Sheriff Walter Buerger and a dozen policemen and armed volunteers.

A 38-caliber pistol, taken from a deputy sheriff during the escape, and several other weapons, including shotguns, were recovered from the escapees.

Among the volunteers who flushed the fugitives from the house was Greene County Sheriff Mickey Owen, of Springfield, Mo., a former catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals and the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

Buerger said one of the fugitives, Charles Heard, 23, of St. Louis, suffered a serious leg injury during the flight from the Jefferson County Jail.

The fugitives told Buerger they had been able to remain free by hiding in the dense woods of this hilly area, 25 miles west of St. Louis, since their escape last Sunday.

They were found in a house occupied by Charles Richardson, who told the sheriff he had been held hostage since noon Saturday.

More than 600 persons—most of them heavily armed volunteers—two airplanes and police dogs and bloodhounds trugged the hilly, wooded area for a week before the men were flushed.

About a dozen families moved from their homes when the escapees fled after severely beating a night guard. But most residents remained, barricaded in their homes with weapons within immediate reach.

Diamond Pendant Theft Reported

A diamond pendant, which the owner said contains four diamonds and is valued at $300, was reported missing Friday at 5:12 p.m., officers said Saturday.

Mrs. Bernard Fisher, Ponderosa Apts., reported the loss. A red tool box he values at $100 was taken from his pickup truck parked in his garage about 10 days ago, J. W. Atkins, 1301 Runnels, told officers Friday.

Campaigner Has De Gaulle Worried

PARIS (AP) — A vigorous Kennedy-type campaign by handsome Jean Lecanuet has thrown shivers of fear into the supporters of President Charles de Gaulle with the French presidential election only a week away.

Government ministers have started a vigorous counterattack and their main target is Lecanuet.

Gen. De Gaulle, after announcing that he would not take part in the political maneuvering and would make only one brief address before the voting, has decided to go on television Tuesday night.

He also will speak on Friday when the campaign for the Dec. 5 vote closes.

De Gaulle still is the leader and his opponents privately admit they have practically no hope of beating him. But Lecanuet's surprisingly successful campaign has been cutting into votes at the center which had been staked out as De Gaulle territory.

Mrs. Franklin's Rites Monday

STANTON (SC) — Funeral will be held Monday at 4 p.m. in the First Baptist Church for Mrs. Lillian Franklin, who died at 75 Friday about 5 p.m. in an Odessa hospital.

She had been ill a short time, and had been living in Odessa, but formerly lived in Stanton. Hubbard Funeral Home, Odessa, has charge of arrangements and burial will be in an Odessa cemetery.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. O. H. Overturf, Odessa, Mrs. Earl Duncan, Monahan; two sisters, Mrs. Edna Davison, Stanton, Mrs. J. L. Raugh, Big Spring; six brothers, Earl Hull and Floyd Hull, both of Big Spring, Henry Hull, Lamesa, Clyde Hull, Phoenix, Ariz.; Leon Hull, Stanton, L. D. Hull, Stanford; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Right, had 5 per cent, an increase of half a percentage point.

UNCERTAINTY
There was one big uncertainty in this poll, however. More than a third of the voters still have not yet made up their minds. Lecanuet is on a tour of eastern France. At 45, he is presenting himself as a young man, a fresh face not involved in political decisions of the Fourth Republic. He makes frequent references to the late President John F. Kennedy, and flashes a big smile obviously intended to remind his television audience of Kennedy.

No one expects Lecanuet to win, or even to finish in second place, but his raids on the Gaullist centrist stronghold could — if the trend continues in the final week — leave De Gaulle with less than 50 per cent of the total vote.

FORCE NEW ROUND
This would force a second round of voting Dec. 19, with only the two top candidates left on the ballot.

Some sources close to De Gaulle have hinted the haughty 75-year-old general would consider this an affront to his dignity. They say that rather than take part in a run-off election De Gaulle would retire.

A poll published Saturday by the newspaper France-Soir showed De Gaulle with 57 per cent of the votes, down from 61 per cent 10 days ago.

Francois Mitterrand, supported by Communists and Socialists as the candidate of the Unified Left, had 27 per cent, an increase of 2 percentage points. Lecanuet, a former president of the leftist Catholic Popular Republican Movement (MRP), had 9.5 per cent, up 2.5 percentage points, Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour, supported by the

Job Corpsman Killed In Knife Fight

AUSTIN (AP) — David E. Smith, 18, Negro Job Corpsman from Chicago, was fatally wounded in a knife fight on an east Austin street late Friday night.

Washington officials said it was the first violent death reported among the 16,000 youths in Job Corps camps across the nation.

STABBED TWICE
Police Sgt. Bill Landis said a fight broke out on E. 11th St., in a predominately Negro section of Austin, as a group of Job Corpsmen from nearby Camp Gary, including Smith, argued with a group of Austin youths outside a tavern. Smith was stabbed twice in the back with one thrust penetrating a lung.

All those taking part in the disturbance were Negroes, the officer said.

Police indicated charges would be filed later against an Austin youth held for questioning.

Officials at Camp Gary near San Marcos, 30 miles south of Austin, said Smith and his companions were part of a group of about 100 youths given passes and brought to Austin in three buses. Job Corpsmen are given passes one night a week to visit nearby areas as part of their recreation program. Another group of 100 was to visit Austin Saturday night. Similar bus trips are sponsored to San Marcos and San Antonio.

GOOD RECORD
Camp Gary officials said Smith was the oldest of eight children in his family and had completed the 11th grade. He arrived at the camp Nov. 4 from Chicago and was assigned to a welding class. Officials said Smith had a good record at the camp.

Man Killed In Lounge Fire

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Police said Saturday that someone touched off a fire that swept through a crowded downtown lounge Friday night, killing one man and injuring 19 others.

"Something was thrown into the place, no question about that," said Police Chief Howard A. Franklin.

He said the blaze that sent about 70 patrons scrambling for the exits was "definitely arson" and that "gasoline or something was thrown through a rear door."

Franklin identified the dead man as Carmine Sepe Jr., 21, of Providence. Of the 19 persons taken to Providence hospitals, 10 were treated and released and nine were admitted for treatment of burns and smoke inhalation.

Witnesses told police that they were dancing at Fiore's Lounge when there was an explosion followed by quickly spreading flames.

John Ravo, 42, a bartender, said "it was impossible to try to put it out, the flames were everywhere." Ravo said he and owner Vincent Fiore, 62, tried to help the patrons out before they ran from the burning building themselves.

Police Capt. John Eddy said "it was a miracle more people weren't killed."

Vincent Fiore Jr., 30, the owner's son, said "all I saw was a lot of fire." He was admitted to St. Joseph's hospital suffering from second-degree burns and smoke inhalation.

Scout Banquet Date Selected

The annual banquet for Scouting leaders of the Lone Star District will be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 7 at the Cosden Country Club.

The Rev. Leo Gee, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will be speaker for the occasion. Other highlights include the recognition of volunteer leaders, awards and installation of officers.

Arrangements are being handled by William B. Crooker, who also is the district's organizational and extension chairman. His committee is projecting a membership increase for the year. Banquet tickets are $1.75 per plate.

Goes For Food, But Finds Death

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The nude, badly mauled body of a 14-year-old girl was found early today several hours after her mother sent her to a neighborhood grocery.

The girl's body was found on the second floor of a vacant apartment a few doors away from her home and the grocery.

The paper bag and groceries were found strewn in a dark alley adjacent to the vacant apartment.

Idalou Bank Robbers Lose Hostage Trade

LUBBOCK (AP)—Three bank robbers who sought to trade three women hostages for their freedom appeared meek and submissive Saturday when they faced a justice of the peace on holdup charges.

The quietness of the justice's office was in sharp contrast to the excitement Friday, when 100 officers hurried to the First State Bank of Idalou, 12 miles northeast of here.

Juan Yassaga, 37; Epifimio CALLED POLICE
Bela, 21; and Rudy Garcia, 29, held up the bank. But Vice President Charles Jackson, 40, unseen by the robbers, telephoned police and thus trapped the three.

The three held the women captive while they demanded an automobile and 10 minutes' head start. Officers agreed after almost four hours of negotiations. Two of the women ran to the car and drove away, but rammed another vehicle and were captured. They had $15,000 taken from the bank. Garcia escorted the women toward the waiting officers and surrendered.

The three men were brought before Justice of the Peace F. R. Land so their rights could be explained. The men did not speak except to whisper with their lawyers.

CHARGED
They were charged with robbing the bank and with robbing Mrs. R. D. Rackley, a grey-haired church custodian who was found locked in the trunk of an automobile, as was her son, Joe, 16.

Bond was set at $50,000 each. Federal charges of bank robbery also were filed.

The women hostages were Mrs. Bobbie Bartlett, 21; Mrs. C. W. Surratt, 35; and Mrs. Ray Everett, 19.

Mrs. Bartlett said the robbers threatened to kill them if necessary, but added, "Actually, though, they were pretty nice to us—saw to it that we were fairly comfortable and brought us water to drink." The women were handcuffed together.

SHOUTS
Shouts coming from inside an automobile trunk caused Policeman Joe Snodgrass to find Mrs. Rackley and her son. They said a man armed with a rifle robbed them of $25 while they were cleaning the First Methodist Church.

The man bound mother and son, placed them in the trunk and drove 30 miles, the victims estimated.

Police raided a motel room Saturday after the operator of the motel said he recognized pictures of the trio.

In the room they found three shotguns, a carbine, five empty handcuff boxes and price tags for the ski masks the robbers wore.

ARRESTED
A man drove up to the motel while the officers were in the room, and he was taken into custody for questioning. Each man was armed with a pistol and one carried a rifle during the robbery. The rifle discharged accidentally during negotiations, leading officers to fear for a moment that one of the women had been killed.

Cong Releases 2 Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said Saturday it has been told the Viet Cong radio had announced that two U.S. soldiers, held prisoners since 1963, have been released.

Neither the Pentagon nor the U.S. military command in Saigon had received any confirmation.

The Viet Cong radio reportedly identified the two men as George E. Smith and Claude E. McClure.

Pentagon records show that two men of those names were in a group of four Americans captured in November, 1963, northwest of Saigon.

Records at the time identified the two men as:

Sgt. George E. Smith, whose mother is Mrs. Lucille A. Popp, Chester, W. Va.

Spec. 5. Claude Donald McClure, wife, Mrs. Rita J. McClure, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Captured with them was Staff Sgt. Claude E. Boraback.

Earlier this year, the Communist radio announced that Boraback had been executed in retaliation for the execution by the South Vietnamese of a prisoner.

Rescue Crew

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's maritime safety board reported today the rescue of 17 of 21 Japanese crew members from the No. 10 Sampo Maru, which sank in the stormy South China Sea off northern Luzon Friday. One rescued crewman is reported to have died of exhaustion. Four are missing.

Little Evidence Of Betsy's Visit

Thousands Demonstrate

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — show few scars but in residential areas the roof is rare which doesn't need or wear a patch.

STILL STRUGGLE
In New Orleans sections flooded by levee breaks due to tidal surges, thousands of home owners still struggle with "do it yourself" repairs.

"Even those who have money to pay to have repairs done can't find the labor," said Joseph Lambert. "It's lucky I know a little about this kind of work. Some don't. But believe me, a lot of people are having to learn."

AS BEFORE
Except for a few broken billboards or neon signs, the midtown area looks much as it did before Hurricane Betsy's 125 m.p.h. winds.

The same is true of the Miami, Fla., vicinity, raked by Betsy when she doubled back out of the Atlantic to run the slot between Florida and the Bahamas and rage into the Gulf of Mexico.

But Betsy, 90 days after, remains a major factor in the daily lives of thousands. The aftermath will linger for months to come in some sections.

PITIFUL
"Ain't that pitiful," he said. "A man pays insurance 40 years, loses everything he's got and gets $1,000 for it."

But the Insurance Information Institute estimates total claims in Florida and Louisiana will reach $750 million — most of it in Louisiana.

The enormously expensive offshore oil well installations which dot the blue Gulf for 60 miles out to sea from the Louisiana coast caught 150 m.p.h. winds and battering waves.

Shipping losses on the river, which wrung a cry of financial pain from Lloyds of London, are best captured by this recent survey by Army Engineers:

Sunk Salvaged
Barges	41 21
Ships	3 1
Boats	10 7
Misc	16 0
Beached Salvaged
Barges	131 112
Ships	5 5
Boats	18 10
Misc	22 10

CONSIDERED SHIP
In these figures, a craft over 200 feet long was considered a ship. About 12,000 small craft estimated to be Betsy casualties are not included.

"Miscellaneous" ranged from a Navy floating drydock, which went down just off the New Orleans waterfront, to a $5 million oil well drilling rig, river ferries, dredges and even a steam shovel.

The sunken barges included one loaded with chlorine, an industrial chemical, which sank in the river at Baton Rouge. Liquid chlorine puffs into poisonous gas when released from pressure. The ticklish job of raising the barge without rupturing its tanks cost more than $1 million.

The Red Cross listed the Louisiana death toll from Betsy at 74 — a lot lower than most people thought it would be.

DEBRIS HAULED OFF
The cleanup in New Orleans and Miami continues. Hundreds of thousands of truckloads of debris have been hauled away in the New Orleans metropolitan area.

In mid-November, the federal Neighborhood Youth Corps extended its cleanup project in Louisiana another eight weeks. From New Orleans, the fur-

Club Launches Tree Sale

Another harbinger of the Yuletide is the Optimist Club Christmas tree grove which opened Saturday at the traditional spot at Tenth and Gregg.

This project is the one major fund-raising event of the Optimist Club to finance its youth work programs.

During the past year the club invested about $1,100 in more than a score of programs. Included were bike safety week, sponsorship of Little League teams in the Texas and American leagues, a pony league team, support of the foreign exchange student, contribution to the High School Bible Class, purchase of YMCA youth memberships, sending a youth to the attorney general's conference, gifts to the rehabilitation center, sponsorship of a boys oratorical contest, a Boy Scout Troop, YMCA teenage basketball team and Gra-V team, a punl-pass-kick contest, and three girl softball teams, trophies for best defensive player on the BSHS basketball team. The club also sponsors Youth Appreciation Week.

Trees in stock include Dougl- has firs from three to 14 feet in height, Scotch pines from 5 1/2 to 7 1/2 feet tall.

Trees may be selected at an early date and tagged with instructions for delivery.

Prison Escapees Are Recaptured

MCKINNEY (AP) — Two men who escaped Thursday from the Harlem Prison Farm unit in South Texas were captured Saturday at a motel just south of here.

One of the men, Thomas E. Kelley, 24, of Garland, was identified by photographs as the man who held up the co-publisher of the Eagle Lake Headlight Friday and took $5 and his car.

The other arrested man is Jim Howerton, 24, of Marlin.

Sailors And Cadets Scrap To Standoff

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army and Navy grappled to a 7-7 tie Saturday—the sixth stand-off of their colorful 75-year-old series — that nullified the iron man play of the Cadets Sam Champi and the occasional passing brilliance of the Midshipmen's sophomore John Cartwright.

Heading For An Army Touchdown

Army's Sonny Stowers (43) gallops for a first period touchdown in Saturday's 66th Army-Navy game at Philadelphia's Kennedy Stadium as effective blocking keeps out Navy would-be tacklers. Army players, in black, are: Mark Hamilton (40) and Curt Cook (12); while Navy players are: Bob Havasy (30); Bernie DeGeorge (26); Don Downing (51); Chris Hoch (61). (AP WIREPHOTO)

Jayhawks Win Third In Kansas Tourney

GARDEN CITY, Kan. — The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks captured third place Saturday in the annual Garden City Junior College Basketball tournament, defeating Sterling, Colo., 69-65 in an overtime.

Jack Nicklaus Leading Cajun Classic By Stroke

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus shot a one-under-par 71 Saturday and remained in the lead of the $32,000 Cajun Classic by one stroke.

Hot on the heels of the Masters champ, who had a 54-hole score of 207, were seven others bunched at 208. There were four more at 209 and five at 210. Pressing Nicklaus were Fred Haas, Bert Weaver, Claude King, Kermit Zarley, Rex Baxter Jr., Dave Huskey and Tom Nieporie.

Howe Eclipses Hockey Record

MONTREAL (AP) — Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings became the first man in National Hockey League history to score 400 regular season goals and the man least impressed with the feat was Howe himself. Howe's goal came in the third period in Detroit's game with Montreal Saturday night, pulling Detroit to within one goal at 3-2. That's how the game ended.

Dolphins Want Grabowski

NEW YORK (AP) — The new Miami Dolphins lapped Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski as the No. 6 pick in the American Football League draft Saturday, but the biggest stir was created by the unprecedented length of time it took New York and Oakland to make their first-round selections.

KILLS THREAT

He recovered the fumble that set up Army's first score, killed a Navy threat in the second quarter when he smeared the Navy's Felix Bassi for a 21-yard loss and caught two long passes in one of Army's futile drives.

TEDIOUS PICK

It took 4 hours and 3 minutes for the AFL to make its first-round picks—compared with a little more than one hour last year—and it took the Jets almost six hours before they finally decided on their No. 1 pick, Michigan tackle Bill Yearby.

RACES UNTOUCHED

On the third play Stowers, a former guard who was a defensive standout in Army's 11-9 victory a year ago, broke through a hole over right tackle and raced 25 yards for the goal line almost untouched. Dull converted.

NOBIS FIRST DRAFT PICK

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League draft dragged slowly Saturday after Atlanta made linebacker Tommy Nobis of Texas the first selection, but the league went full speed ahead on signings as four linemen agreed to terms before the first round ended.

GREAT GRABOWSKI

Grabowski, who broke Red Grange's career and single game rushing records en route to a 10-game total of 1,258 yards this season, was the Dolphins' bonus pick as the AFL draft began at 8:18 a.m.

NOBIS FIRST CHOICE

Nobis also was a first-round selection of Atlanta in the NFL, Shay eventually was signed by Minnesota of the NFL and Grabowski was selected by Green Bay on the NFL's first round.

Lot Of Trading Due At Baseball Parley

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Briak business is likely at the swap counter during the major-minor baseball convention starting Monday. Having solved some of their pressing problems such as selection of a commissioner, restoration of a game of the week for television, establishing a free agent and unrestricted draft, and creating a top level front office staff—the baseball moguls will have more time to discuss activity on the field and personnel changes. Of concern to the club owners is the admitted deterioration of baseball's image in recent years. Steps have been taken to regain public confidence and the owners are convinced the game must be made more attractive. A number of proposals are up to dress up the game. These include the encouragement of cooperation by players and managers with the public, crackdown on stalling and elimination of fraternization on the field. The owners have created a commissioner's cabinet that includes an assistant and directors for broadcasting, publicity, amateur baseball and player affairs. William Eckert, a former general, was unanimously elected baseball commissioner. Leo MacPhail of the Baltimore Orioles was named his administrative assistant. The prime interest in the convention is the trading of players. There should be some lively trading. The prospect is for little activity in Monday's annual draft of minor league players. Most clubs have room for only one or two players on their 40-man roster. Players most often mentioned in swap rumors include Dick Stuart and Wes Covington of Philadelphia, Bob Allison and Rich Rollins of Minnesota, Rico Carty and Hank Fischer of Milwaukee, Joe Peppitone and Jim Bouton of the New York Yankees, Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, Jim Gentile of Houston, Leon Wagner of Cleveland, Jim O'Toole and Joey Jay of Cincinnati, Curt Simmons and Bob Purkey of St. Louis, Ed Rodgers of the California Angels. The hottest rumor is that the Yankees may trade Peppitone to the Cards for southpaw Al Jackson, recently acquired by St. Louis in a swap that sent third baseman Ken Boyer to the New York Mets. Also a possibility is a Yankee-Giant deal involving Bouton and Cepeda. The Yankees will listen to offers for Roger Maris, their one-time home run king. Like Cepeda, he missed a good part of the 1965 season with injuries.

Vols Run Over Vanderbilt, 21-3

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fullback Stan Mitchell dashed 62 yards on the third play of the game for a touchdown Saturday and Tennessee went on to whip Vanderbilt 21-3. The victory gave ninth-ranked Tennessee a tie with Florida for third-place in the Southeastern Conference race. This is the highest the Vols have finished since 1956, when they had a 10-0 record and won the championship. The triumph also set the stage for a pre-bowl game next Saturday at Memphis between Rose Bowl-bound UCLA, No. 4 in the nation, and Tennessee, a Bluebonnet Bowl choice.

Gators Run Over Florida State For 30-17 Tab

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Steve Spurrier saved Florida's Sugar Bowl credentials from tarnish Saturday when he drove the Gators 71 yards in less than a minute and hit Charles Casey with a touchdown pass that led to a 30-17 victory over Florida State. There were three touchdowns in the last 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the game, seen by a second Florida field crowd of 49,513.

Frogs Defeat SMU By Late Field Goal

By MIXE COCHRAN FORT WORTH (AP)—Bruce Alford's fourth-period field goal lifted Texas Christian to a 10-7 verdict over Southern Methodist Saturday and the victorious Frogs immediately accepted a Sun Bowl bid. The triumph was Texas Christian's fourth straight and earned the Christians a share of second place in the Southwest Conference with a 5-2 record. They wound up the campaign 6-4 and will meet Texas Western on New Year's Eve in El Paso. The Frogs, stifled for minus rushing yardage in the first half, thundered to life in the final quarter for a tying touchdown and the critical 40-yard kick by Alford. Quarterbacks Kent Nix and P. D. Shabay shared duty on a clear-crip afternoon as Coach Abe Martin shuffled his chiefs in a frantic bid to get the Frogs moving. With Kenny Post ripping off long yardage on the scoring drives, the Frogs marched 57 yards in 10 plays for the tying touchdown 2:17 deep in the fourth period. Steve Landon rolled off right tackle behind a fierce wave of blockers and sped the final three yards for the touchdown. SMU, with quarterback Mac White handling the major directional chores, pushed methodically toward the TCU goal before Jim Hagie's fumble punctured the drive. Paul Smith retried the Mustang miscue at the 25 and it was from this point that Texas Christian launched its winning thrust. Post and Landon hammered at the forward pony defenses while Shabay and Nix confused the secondary with an occasional pass. The Frogs reached the SMU two-yard line but a 15-yard penalty wiped out the play and placed the outcome of the contest on Alford's kicking ability. He responded with the 40-yard boot into the wind and a crowd of 19,350 went wild. Only 4:40 remained. The Mustangs came storming back in the fading minutes but John Richards stole a White pass at the TCU 15 and the Mustang march, which began back at the SMU 20, died a swift death.

The win was the third with out a loss for the Westerners. In the B game, Lubbock's Cowhorns won a 62-49 decision over the Big Spring reserves.

The game didn't start out like a rout. Sierra Blanca made use of a spread formation that gave the Kats trouble for a quarter and actually led at the end of the first period, 20-16. The Garden City club experienced a 36-point second round, however, and reserves played much of the final two quarters. The Vaqueros lost five fumbles during the contest and had four passes intercepted during the contest. Sierra Blanca failed to complete an aerial after the half time intermission. THE SCORE FIRST The Vaqueros scored first. Joe Morales going 42 yards on a spread play on the third play after Sierra Blanca first got the ball. Morales booted the PAT to make it 7-0. Vernon Newsom set up Garden City's initial TD a short time later on a 35-yard run and Gary Vaughn got the six-point run from two yards out. Newsom then passed to Riley Chandler for the two extra points and Garden City led, 8-6. Sierra Blanca wasn't through. On the second play of the ensuing series, Roby Aguilar passed 40 yards to Tommy Wells from the spread formation for a score to give the Vaqueros a 13-8 lead. The try for point failed. Garden City came right back to count again on a 65-yard drive, Newsom going the final two. A 40-yard pass from Newsom to Riley Chandler set up the tally. Newsom ran the two extra points to make it 16-13. Sierra Blanca made it proved to be a last gasp effort for victory when Aguilar passed to Monte Sparkman for 40 yards and a tally, after which Joe Morales added the extra point on a kick. Garden City went ahead to stay in the second period when Vaughn raced 31 yards on a trap play. That made it 22-20. FUMBLE HURTS Sierra Blanca fumbled a short time later and the Kats went in for another score. Newsom passing 23 yards to Riley Chandler for the payoff. The same combination clicked for the two extra points to make it 30-20. The Vaqueros fumbled again and Garden City followed with another TD. Vaughn getting it from 10 yards away. Newsom added the extra points on a run to make it 38-20. Garden City scored twice more before the round was out. Lonnie Short set up one with an interception on the Sierra Blanca 25. Newsom managed the tally from four yards away. Following a Sierra Blanca punt, Newsom blitzed 34 yards for a Kat counter, then flipped a pass to Walter Taylor for the two points. Garden City eased off in the third quarter but the score kept mounting. Quarterback Ronnie Hirt went one yard on a sneak up the middle at the end of a 65-yard offensive. When Newsom passed to Taylor for the two extra points, the score mounted to 60-20. A 14-yard pass from Hirt to Riley Chandler enabled the Kats to count again in the third, at which time Woodley was manning most positions with reserves. The touchdown came on fourth down. In the fourth, Newsom intercepted a Sierra Blanca pass on the enemy 13 and took it on in for the score. Newsom then added the two points on a run. Lonnie Short, who handled the kicking-off chores for Garden City, played a masterful game at guard. Michael Hoch, a guard on offense and a linebacker on defense, was also outstanding in the Bearkat line. Score by quarters: Garden City 16 36 14 8-74 Sierra Blanca 20 0 0 0-20

Baylor Turns Fumbles Into 17-13 Victory

HOUSTON (AP)—Baylor used the speed of Richard DeFee to turn two fumbled punt recoveries into quick touchdowns Saturday as the Bears came from behind to defeat Rice, 17-13, and clinch a tie for fourth place in final Southwest Conference standings. Ronnie Cervenko, the Rice safety, fumbled a pair of punts in the second quarter and Baylor made recoveries at the Rice 22 and 11 yard lines. DeFee, a track team sprinter, promptly produced a pair of touchdowns by racing 17 and 11 yards around his right end without being touched by an Owl defender. Rice, after trailing a 6-0 first period lead with a 36-yard drive, cut the Baylor advantage to 14-13 early in the third period with an 80-yard surge but the Owls never again threatened seriously. Baylor, after being halted by a fumble at the Rice 32, tacked on a 35-yard field goal by Bob Purvis with less than two minutes to play after a pass interception had given the Bears the ball at the Owl 40. Both the Rice touchdowns came on identical passes of four and two yards from Robert Hailey, a reserve quarterback, to Glen Hine. Richard Parker converted after the second touchdown but his attempt in the first period saw the ball strike a goal post and bounce back into the end zone. Prior to the fumbles recoveries in the second period, Baylor had moved across midfield only twice only to have advances to the Rice 40 and 30 yard lines halted by 15-yard penalties.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Track Meet Planned Here

By TOMMY HART Plans are shaping up for the first annual Big Spring Invitational Track and Field meet, scheduled to be staged on the excellent cinder track at Memorial Stadium March 12. The date conflicts with the Border Olympics at Laredo but many area coaches have complained that the Laredo jaunt is too far and they'd like something closer. That Clint team which lost to Sonora in bi-district football play recently was coached by Eugene Jones, who resigned as coach at Knott High School (now consolidated with Ackery to form Sands High School) to take the Clint job. Sonora, incidentally, scored three times against Clint before the Lions were ever able to get their hands on the ball — twice following on-sides kicks that worked to Sonora's advantage. Coahoma's Spike Dykes and John Elam of Bishop, both former San Angelo grid aides, guided their teams to district championships the first two years they served as head coaches. Cisco College fielded a quick-to-anger basketball team here against HCJC the other night and friends of the local school fear there may be serious trouble between the two teams when they play again in Cisco Dec. 5, unless more discipline is demanded of the Wranglers. The Cisco College administration should insist on a more fitting demeanor of its athletes. There are those here who even recommend that the second game between the two clubs be cancelled. Some of those crowds reported at home games of the Dallas Cowboys are inflated — the management has been letting in up to 30,000 kids a game for 50 cents and $1 each. The district football championship the Coahoma Bulldogs won this fall was only the third in the school's 11-man history. Coahoma also ruled the roost as a Class B team in 1953 and prevailed last year. Variety Magazine reports that AFL television ratings are up 49 per cent, NFL down nine per cent and NCAA up one per cent. HCJC's track team lost one of its sprinters from New York because he couldn't clear his high school transcript but Texas state 100-yard dash champion Jimmy Jasper and ace quarter miler Roger Hill are both in school here. Jasper ran a 9.5 hundred and a 47.8 quarter while Hill has run a 48.5 quarter. The two are products of Dallas Samuel High School. Although he is still favoring a broken ankle, HCJC's Lee Leonard went to Kansas with the Javhawks this weekend, where he kept a statistical chart on the sidelines for the coaches. Midland oil man Ralph Lowe is having to sell all his racing stock due to declining health. Jack Tayrien, the Goliad coach here, and Tony Banfield of the Houston Oilers are second cousins. Banfield hails from Broken Bow, Okla. Berry King, the Big Spring halfback, likely will land an athletic scholarship from a senior college. Moe Madison, the one-time Big Springer, is building his Odessa Ector basketball team around three returning regulars. Not many sports buffs know, perhaps, that the Texas Interscholastic League was organized at a teachers' meeting in Abilene 55 years ago, and originally to promote interschool forensic (e.g., debating) activities. When asked how Odessa Ector was able to slip in the back door as the District 2-AAA football champion, athletic director Glenn Frazier of Andrews replied: "It's hard for any team to get ready for an Odessa Ector club." Ex-Big Springer griddier Johnny Hughes punted 14 times for ACC over the season for a 37.9-yard average. The Kansas City Chiefs carry 12 men on their taxi squad and each of those type players are usually paid $200 a week. The Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia usually means $1,500,000 in added business to the city for the weekend.

WESTERNERS WIN

Gratis Pitches Defeat Steers

LUBBOCK—Big Spring beat Lubbock High badly from the field but the Westerners benefited from 29 gratis pitches to edge the Steers here Friday night, 55-53. The Longhorns, now 1-1 on the year, sank 22 field goals to 13 for the District 3-AAAA club and boasted an 11-point lead with six minutes to play. The Westerners used a press to rattle the Steers, however. Don Burrell repeatedly stealing the ball for Lubbock. Big Spring outscored the Westerners, 21-8, in the third quarter, then fell apart in the final eight minutes. A layup shot by Freddy Dickson wily 2:40 remaining finally tied the score, then followed with a set shot to put the home team ahead for good. Three Big Spring players—Paul Thomas, Robert Jones and Robert Jackson—fouled out of the contest. No Westerner was banished for that reason. In all, the Steers were charged with 27 infractions. Lubbock only 16. Dickson led the Westerners in scoring with 15 points while Simon Terrazas again led the Longhorns with 18. Joe Jaure and Jackson each had 10 for the Longhorns. The win was the third with out a loss for the Westerners. In the B game, Lubbock's Cowhorns won a 62-49 decision over the Big Spring reserves.

Porkers Dominate All-SWC Choices

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas, which won the championship, dominated the All-Southwest Conference football teams selected by the coaches.
The high-riding Razorbacks placed five players on the offensive team and put a like number on the defensive squad. Arkansas took three of the four tackle spots.
Two of the Arkansas selections were unanimous—Bobby Crockett at offensive end and Glen Ray Hines at offensive tackle.
Donny Anderson, the great Texas Tech back, also drew unanimous support as did Frank Horak, the splendid safety man of Texas Christian.
Others came close. Tommy Nobis, Arkansas' mighty linebacker, got seven votes for the spot. He also drew three votes for offensive guard, two coaches having him play both ways and one picking him for offensive guard only.
Arkansas landed 10 on the two platoon, Texas five, Southern Methodist four, Texas Tech two and Rice and Texas Christian one each.
Baylor and Texas A&M failed to place although several players on the two teams got votes.

Baylor failed largely because of its long injury list that prevented the boys from playing enough at certain positions to get consideration. Coach John Bridgers said 42 boys started his games during the season.
The two quarterbacks who met in the big game—the Arkansas-Texas Tech clash—when the championship and Cotton Bowl host spot were decided, finished in a dead heat and wound up tied for one of the offensive backfield spots.
Jon Brittenum of Arkansas and Tom Wilson of Texas Tech each got four of the eight votes of the coaching staffs.
It was a happy solution to the problem—the boys were just too good and it would have been a shame to leave either off the team.
Crockett and Pete Lammons of Texas were the offensive ends. Lammons also got votes for defensive end.
Hines and Jim Vining of Rice were the tackles. Lynn Thornhill of Southern Methodist and Frank Bedrick of Texas Tech were the defensive tackles. Jack Howe of Texas Tech and Anderson, Brittenum, Wilson, Bobby Burnett of Arkansas and Harry Jones of Arkansas were the backs.

Grambling Is Pecan Nominee

ABILENE (AP) — The second annual Pecan Bowl game will match Grambling of Louisiana and undefeated North Dakota State University here Dec. 11 for the Mid-West Region championship of the NCAA.
North Dakota State qualified by ranking No. 1 in a poll by the selection committee. Grambling was picked as the opposing team Friday.
Although not rated in the poll, Grambling finished with an 8-2 record by crushing Lincoln of Missouri 54-18 in its final game Thursday. Also under consideration was the University of Southwestern Louisiana, but it lost to Chattanooga 27-25.
North Dakota State is champion of the North Central Conference and Grambling is the titleholder in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.
North Dakota State, which allowed opponents only 113.3 yards per game, is among the leading defensive teams in the nation. Grambling averaged 38.8 points in 10 games, while in its season North Dakota averaged 36.3.
Both teams also are among the top scoring teams in the country.
The NCAA college football committee selected the teams. Members are Dean Adee of Chicago State, chairman; Garvin Beauchamp of Abilene Christian, James Lovell of Depaw University and Ross Smith of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They represent the four regions that will have bowl games. No playoff will be held among the four regional champions.

Cowboys Try Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — With nothing at stake except fourth place in the National Football League's Eastern Division, Dallas and Washington collide here Sunday.
Each team has a 4-6 record. Both are reported in good shape for the game that is expected to be played in sunny, windy weather before a full house of about 49,000 at D. C. Stadium.
The Cowboys won the clubs' earlier game this year and are slight favorites.

McMahon Winner In Omaha Meet

OMAHA (AP) — Pat McMahon of Oklahoma Baptist won the NAIA cross-country meet Saturday.
He finished the four miles in 20 minutes 28.5 seconds in 32 degree sunshine. Don Lakin of Fort Hays, Kan., was second. Van Nelson of St. Cloud, Minn., was third. Ken Gould of the University of Omaha fourth and John Mason of Fort Hays fifth.
The sixth and seventh finishers, in order, were Jim Ewing and Bill Thomas, both of Howard Payne.

Odessa Triumphs Over Tascosa

AMARILLO — Odessa High toppled Amarillo Tascosa, 53-49. Amarillo High blasted Odessa Permian, 77-40, and Amarillo Caprock outlasted Odessa Ector, 64-57, in a basketball triple header here Friday night.
Randy Walker led Odessa High with 18 points. Stan Hutson paced Permian with 13.

Nineteen Seniors Earn Varsity Letters Here

The 1966 Big Spring High School football team will virtually have to start from scratch.
Of the 25 varsity lettermen announced by coach Don Robbins, 19 are seniors, the remainder juniors. Of the returning group, only center Kenneth Hamby finished the season as an offensive regular.
The coaching staff also awarded three reserve letters to juniors. 55 B team sweaters and made awards to seven student managers.
Among those who will be graduating in May are three boys who won three varsity letters each. They are Bobby Griffin and Rey Navarette, both backs, and guard Gary Phillips.
Two-year lettermen included Yogi Anderson, tackle Wesley Ballou, tackle Eddie Crittenden, back Joe Jaure, end Wayne Nall and back Gary Earhart.
Lettering for the first time were: Bobby Baker, Glenn Biffar, Ruben Ballou, Ronnie Caldwell, James Carver, Kenneth Hamby, Kirby Harlan, Robert Jackson, Wayne Kennedy, Berry King, Sammy Mills, Gary Morris, Greg Pate, Gary Rogers, Terry Smith and Jerry Wilson.
Returning for another season of competition will be Carver, Hamby, Harlan, and Earhart and letterman Jimmy Wilson. Reserve letters went to Gary Turner,

Alpine Upset In Headline Playoff Tilt

Texarkana, Dumas and Three Rivers led the way Saturday into the quarterfinals of their divisions of Texas schoolboy football but Alpine followed a trail of shattered dreams.
Texarkana, ranked No. 1 in Class AAAA, cracked Denison 28-6 Friday night as the first round of state play opened.
Dumas, the Class AAA kingpin, had been even more impressive with a 35-0 victory over Odessa Ector in the bi-district round Thursday.
Three Rivers showed its muscle as No. 1 in Class A by coming from behind for a 20-2 victory over Woodsboro in the race in this division rolled into the quarterfinals.
But Alpine was a dejected team indeed. The Bucks, rated No. 1 in Class AA for most of the season, took a humiliating 37-0 licking from unheralded Fredericksburg.
Alpine fumbled six times and had three passes intercepted to project its downfall but Fredericksburg also showed to be a much stronger team than anybody dreamed although the writing on the wall should have been noticed last week when the Hillbillies took out unbeaten, untied Granbury.
A lad named Charles Koehn and another named Stephen Fredrich paced Fredericksburg to its smashing upset, the former scoring two touchdowns and Fredrich racing 85 yards with a kickoff to totally subdue the hapless Bucks.
Five quarterfinalists were determined in Class AAAA as Dallas Hillcrest beat Fort Worth Arlington Heights 24-0, Houston Jones upset favored Spring Branch memorial 7-6, Freepport Brazosport pulled another giant upset as it crumbled hitherto unbeaten Nederland 30-6 and San Antonio Lee, led by Pat Sheehan with his three touchdowns and 213 yards rushing, battled down San Antonio Harland 21-8.
MUSTANGS OUSTED
In Class AA, Iowa Park was magnificent in beating Denver City 20-7, Plano blasted Lake Worth 44-6, DeKalb whipped down Mineola 17-7, Bellville eked out on penetrations in a 6-6 tie with Port Acres and Edna took down Hondo 16-0.
White Deer won its way to the third round by beating Kress 15-6. Keller lashed DeLeon 23-0 in something of an upset, Forey crushed Honey Grove 27-0, Smithville beat out Tidehaven 13-6 and then, of course, there was the Three Rivers result.
Texarkana not only showed terrific scoring power but a most rugged defense in the game with Denison. The latter was held scoreless the first half. Joe Norwood led the Tigers with one touchdown and passed for another touchdown.

UCLA Bruins Rated Tops In Cage Poll

The UCLA Bruins, defending national champions, were picked Saturday as the No. 1 team in the pre-season Associated Press college basketball poll for the new campaign opening Wednesday.
The charges of Coach Johnny Wooden, who will be trying for an unprecedented third straight NCAA title, beat out the Michigan Wolverines in the annual poll by an AP panel of 30 sports writers and broadcasters.
A year ago Michigan edged UCLA for the No. 1 spot in the pre-season poll but lost to UCLA in the NCAA championship final last March.
The teams again dominated this year's poll with UCLA getting 22 of the 30 first place votes to Michigan's four. The Bruins collected a total of 287 points on the basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 through 10 places to Michigan's 248.

The Duke Blue Devils edged the St. Joseph Hawks of Philadelphia for third place with 154 points to 150. The Blue Devils and the Hawks each received two first place votes. Vanderbilt, the only other team to get more than 100 points, landed fifth place with 133.
Rounding out the pre-season Top Ten, in order, were Providence, Minnesota, Kansas, Bradley and Kansas State. Providence had 97 points, Minnesota 82, Kansas 80, Bradley 74 and Kansas State 46.
Eight of the pre-season Top Ten open the season Wednesday. Tennessee is at Michigan, Milwaukee-Wisconsin at Bradley, North Dakota at Minnesota, Wittenberg at Vanderbilt, Hofstra at St. Joseph's, Kansas State at Creighton, Arkansas at Kansas and Virginia Tech meeting Duke at Greensboro, N.C.
UCLA opens at home Friday against Ohio State and on Saturday entertains Illinois.

Other Saturday games, involving the Top Ten, are Villanova at Providence, Kansas at Texas Tech, Iowa State at Minnesota, Tulsa at Kansas State, Northern Michigan at Bradley, Bowling Green at Michigan, Clemson at Duke and St. Joseph's vs. Fairfield at New Haven, Conn.

Houston Oilers Oppose Chiefs In Big Battle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs, hoping to stay in the running for the American Football League's Western Division crown, are host to the Houston Oilers Sunday.
The Chiefs are in third place behind San Diego and Oakland. They must win all their games to stay in contention, and San Diego must lose.
Kansas City is pinning its hopes on its big running backs, Curtis McClinton and Mack Hill. Both are explosive runners, and sure-handed pass receivers.
Both rank among the top six ground gainers in the league.
The Chiefs lost split end Curtis Burford, their top pass receiver, last Sunday in their 10-10 tie with Boston. He is out for the season.
Otis Taylor, from Prairie View, will replace Burford.
Five weeks ago veteran quarterback George Blanda came off the bench in the second half to lead Houston to a thrilling 38-36 victory. The winning points came on a 23-yard field goal by former Chief Jack Spikes with

CAMP TOP COACH

Twilley Heads Valley Team

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 1965 All-Missouri Valley football team chosen by The Associated Press includes the nation's leading passer and three of the nation's top pass receivers, headed by Tulsa's record-smashing Howard Twilley.
Frank Camp of Louisville was voted Coach of the Year.
The 5-foot-10, 180-pound Twilley, who made the national pass receiving record book his personal property, was the only unanimous choice. Quarterback Bill Anderson of Tulsa was close to unanimous. So were defensive tackle Willie Townes of Tulsa and linebacker Doug Buffone of Louisville.
Many voters placed John Love of North Texas at split end and Neal Sweeney of Tulsa in the backfield. Both are among the nation's leading pass receivers.
Passing obviously influenced the voters in their other offensive backfield choices. They were Louisville's Al MacFarlane, No. 4 Valley pass receiver and league punting champion, and Wichita's Pete Didonato, 411 rushing and 311 pass receiving, by a narrow margin over Cincinnati's Bill Bailey, Valley rushing champ with 674.
Rich Lucka of Cincinnati and Ronnie Romike of North Texas were the offensive tackles, with Dick Fugere of Cincinnati and Dick Tyson of Tulsa at guards and Bob Sanders of North Texas at center.
Earl Edwards, 6-foot-6, 265-pound sophomore tackle, teamed with Townes, 271, and middle guard Shelton Moomaw, 243, of Tulsa, on defense for a giant-sized interior line. Sophomore Steve Hodge of Louisville and senior Tom Sobolewski of Cincinnati were the defensive ends.

Wichita's 277-pound Jim Waskiewicz and Dwight Claxton of Tulsa joined Buffone as linebackers. The defensive second includes Darrell Wolf of Tulsa, Tony Mahoney of Louisville and Howard Starks of Wichita.

Jaure Only Longhorn Among Star Elevens

Joe Jaure, defensive half-back, was the only Big Spring player named to one of the 1965 All-District 2-AAA... platoons selected recently by coaches and sports writers.

Jaure, a 178-pounder senior, was selected on the squad for the second straight year. Twelve players were named to the offensive club, 13 to the defensive team.

San Angelo wound up with four players on the offensive club—end Harold Smith, tackle Randy Stout, quarterback Gary Mullins and halfback Frankie Stringer. Champion Permian had three, Abilene High two and Odessa High and Abilene Cooper one each.

San Angelo and Permian had four each on the defensive club. Abilene High two and Big Spring, Midland High and Midland Lee one each.

Gary Mullins of San Angelo, Permian's Glen Halsell and Midland's Wayne Merritt made it both ways. Mullins as a quarterback-linebacker, Halsell a linebacker-guard and Merritt as a linebacker-guard.

No second team was selected, since so many boys were nominated.

Mullins was the only unanimous pick on the offensive club. Julio Guerrero of San Angelo, most valuable back in the league last season, didn't even rate the team this year.

On defense, Glen Halsell of Permian was the only universal pick.

A unanimous pick for Coach of the Year in the District was Gene Mayfield of Permian, whose team was picked no higher than fourth in pre-season selections but which upset San Angelo to win the title.

Named the most Valuable Player in the league was Permian's Halsell, one of the most deadly blockers in the history of the circuit.

Cooper Triumphs
ABILENE — Abilene Cooper fought back from a two-point deficit at half time to turn back the South Oak Cliff Bears of Dallas here Friday night, 55-53. Mark Withrow tossed in 18 points for Cooper.

Tech Upset By Georgia, 17-7

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An aroused Georgia defense produced a fumble and an interception which were quickly converted to points and the Bulldogs scored a 17-7 football upset over Gator Bowl-bound Georgia Tech Saturday.

The Bulldogs set the tenor of the game when they chose to kick with a brisk wind on the opening kickoff.

On the first series of plays, tackle George Patton smacked King hard, causing him to fumble. Linebacker John Glass claimed the ball for Georgia on the Tech 22. Six plays later quarterback Kirby Moore skirted left end for seven yards and a touchdown. Bob Eitter added the point for a 7-0 Georgia lead with only 3:41 gone in the game.

Eitter added a 40-yard field goal with 9:43 left in the half to give Georgia a 10-0 lead. Safety Lynn Hughes set up the field goal when he grabbed a King pass at the Tech 48 and raced to the 23.

Georgia took the second half kickoff and marched 61 yards in nine plays, with quarterback Preston Riedelhuber hitting halfback Randy Wheeler with key passes of 19 and 14 yards. Riedelhuber carried the final six yards for the touchdowns.

HIGHEST SINCE 1945

U.S. Spending To Post Record

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The federal government will spend well over $100 billion for the first time in history during the present fiscal year.

Administration officials disclosed for the first time Saturday night expenditures now are estimated at between $105 billion and $107 billion and income at more than $96.5 billion.

This would indicate a deficit of $8.5 billion to $10.5 billion, but sources close to President Johnson expect it to be smaller than that, perhaps $7 billion to $8 billion. Their explanation is that the revenue estimate is on the conservative side.

BACK IN 1945

The previous spending record was set in fiscal 1945 when $98.3 billion was paid out at the climax of World War II. Receipts, however, were only $44.3 billion that year so the deficit was approximately $54 billion.

A variety of factors contribute to the increased spending, the war in Viet Nam being one of the main ones.

The higher estimate on receipts results from a recent spurt in tax collections which is expected to continue during the remainder of fiscal 1966, which ends June 30.

The new figures, all described as rough, were made known to newsmen following a conference on the LBJ Ranch Friday between Johnson and Budget Director Charles Schultz.

LESS ACTIVE

It was reported to newsmen that Johnson will take a less active role in the budget-making process than last year, shifting the principal burden to Cabinet members and agency heads.

Through Schultz, they are being told the primary responsibility for trimming their own budgets rests with them, not the president.

Schultz is telling these officials Johnson expects them to work with the budget director in eliminating every unnecessary item and to work out a priority system of essential, less essential and not essential.

The new spending estimate of $105 billion to $107 billion compares with the January estimate of $99.7 billion. The new income estimate of a $96.5 billion compares with $94.4 billion.

BELOW FORECASTS

Except for stepped up spending on the war in Viet Nam and other items fiscal experts call uncontrollable, federal spending is estimated at $500 million below January forecasts. Part of this decrease resulted in congressional delay in enacting administration programs. This left less time for spending the money in this bookkeeping year.

Congress, at Johnson's request, added $1.7 billion for Viet Nam and more money will be asked in another supplemental appropriation in January.

Other items contributing largely to the higher spending: —Higher pay for civilian workers and for military servicemen. The increases in both cases being well above Johnson's recommendations.

—Higher outlays by the Commodity Credit Corp. in the farm-lease program.

—Higher interest rates to finance the national debt.

CONCERNED

Johnson was pictured as concerned by the upturn in interest rates.

In January, it was estimated it would cost $11.6 billion to pay the interest on the federal debt. The estimate now is up to $12 billion or more.

The climb in the rate on short-term borrowings has been most sharp. Since 1961 the average rate on three-month bills has gone up 72 per cent, from 2.27 to 4.35 per cent in the week of Nov. 13. In the same period the average cost of long-term borrowings has increased from 3.90 per cent to 4.35 per cent.

Johnson was described also as concerned over the upward trend in interest rates on tax-free state and local bonds. He feels, officials said, that this will make it more difficult to raise money for essential facilities.

SPACE PROGRAM

The space program will cost about $5.6 billion this year, up $500 million from January. This resulted from contractors meeting schedules more promptly than before.

Cabinet members and agency heads are being told by Schultz to absorb in their next year's budgets as much as possible of the cost of the civilian pay raise. They are being urged, among other things, to cut costs through better management.

Unless present estimates are far off the mark, the deficit will not be the largest ever in peacetime. In fiscal 1959 the deficit totaled $12.4 billion.

Officials said it is too early to give any idea about the size of the budget for fiscal 1967, but said it seemed beyond doubt that it will top $100 billion for the second year in a row.

Oblivious To All Around

All that mattered to this couple was being together again, amid the throng of personnel of the 47th Tactical Fighter Squadron returning to MacDill Air Force Base at

Tampa, Fla. after four months in Viet Nam. Seventy-five members of the unit arrived by transport plane early Saturday morning. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Income Tax Institute Set

Internal Revenue Service will hold its annual practitioners' institute at the Sheraton Hotel in Dallas Dec. 13. Invitations have gone to some 2,000 tax practitioners and company representatives located throughout northern Texas. The institute is designed for those who help others prepare their tax return. Individuals may register by calling Jim Hodges in Dallas at RL 9-2481, or writing him before December at P.O. Box 594, Dallas, Texas 75221.

Quiz On Income Mailed To Vets

Annual income questionnaires again will be mailed with November benefit payment checks to veterans and beneficiaries, according to Jack Coker, manager, VA Regional Office, in Waco. These income questionnaire forms will be received about Dec. 1 by approximately 62,000 veterans and widows receiving pension payments and by some 2,000 dependent parents receiving disability and indemnity compensation. The form should be completed and returned to the regional office in Waco as soon as possible, and it must be returned by Jan. 31, 1966, to avoid discontinuance of payments. The income questionnaire form has been completely revised this year and contains only essential items for completion. Failure to complete or sign the form will require its return and can result in suspension of payments.

Cosden proudly salutes another of its 'SENIORS'

BASCOM E. REAGAN

Bascom E. Reagan has been a repairman in the tank car department most of his years with Cosden, which began November 1, 1950. This fall, however, he got his introduction to operations. He is a helper on the Hydeal-Hydrar facility which made its debut this month.

Born and reared in Big Spring, he has been an eye witness to the expanding profile of Big Spring Refinery. He joined the Navy in October 1942 and came out in December 1945 as a boat's mate. Two of those years he was assigned to a light cruiser off South America; the other year found him in the Aleutian Islands.

Reagan married a Big Spring native, Bennie Pearl Mitchell, on New Year's Day of 1946. Their home at 1500 East Sixth resonates with the interests and energies of four children.

Danny, 17, is a high school senior; he plays cornet and is president of the school band. At 14, Coy is a ninth grader at Rannels Junior High, and plays trombone in that school's band. Coin collecting appeals to Steve, 11, who is a Boydston fifth grader. Eight-year-old Eve attends Boydston, too, in the third grade.

Fishing trips are fun for the whole family. Champion Creek and Possum Kingdom being two of their favorite haunts. Wesley Methodist is the family's church. Reagan, whose friends usually call him "Blackie", has taught juniors there in past years.

Oil Well Numbers To Hit Low Mark

By MAX B. SKELTON HOUSTON (AP)—It appears fewer oil and gas wells will be drilled in the United States in 1965 than any other year since 1949.

Completions through mid-November totaled about 8.5 per cent below the comparable 1964 period. Wildcat operations were off 10.5 per cent.

Drilling trends the first 10 1/2 months indicate about 41,000 well completions for 1965, compared to 45,450 in 1964 and an all-time high of 58,259 in 1956.

Wildcat completions should total about 8,300 wells, compared to 9,250 last year and a record 13,034 in 1956.

Both 1965 totals will be the lowest since the domestic industry recorded 39,015 completions, including 8,013 wildcats, in 1949.

Completions have declined in six of the past nine years. Wildcat operations have declined in all but two of the nine years since the record 1956 pace.

Factors contributing to these steady declines include a world surplus of crude oil, wider spacing of wells, a 1958 recession that aggravated general conditions within the industry, and the prolonged controversy over federal efforts to control wildcat prices of natural gas sold into interstate commerce.

Domestic crude production dropped to 6,220,385 barrels a day in mid-1958 after climbing to 7,818,400 early in 1957.

The slump in well completions has been accompanied by a sharp decline in the number of rotary drilling rigs in use. Many drilling contractors have gone out of business and the number of rigs sold at auction has increased annually since the first such auction was held in 1960.

Making holes last Monday, but averages for the first nine months of the year were well below that figure. The January-September average was 1,346 active rigs, compared to 1,493 a year earlier.

There have been predictions the 1965 average will not exceed 1,370 active rigs. Annual averages for the past five years were 1,502, 1,501, 1,637, 1,764 and 1,745.

The 1964-65 president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors believes, however, the 1965 drilling staistics reflect at least one encouraging trend.

Earle Hellums of Houston noted that rotary rig activity was down 10 per cent the first nine months of the year, while well completions were off about eight per cent and total footage drilled was down about two per cent.

"This indicates the drilling industry has continued to increase its efficiency in 1965, showing an average increase in the number of wells per rig, with a large increase in footage per rig," Hellums said.

More than 700 rigs have been sold at auction since 1960.

Hellums believes such sales have had some effect but says the industry still has an over-supply of rigs.

"The demand for and supply of rigs is still too far out of balance in most areas," he said. "This means we still have to look into the future for economic stability in the contract drilling industry."

The county-by-county survey, with previous totals in parentheses, is:

- Andrews 8 (9); BORDEN 2 (0); Coke 2 (2); Crane 2 (4); Crockett 5 (8); Crosby 0 (1); DAWSON 4 (6); Ector 6 (3); Eddy 9 (9); Fisher 1 (1); Gaines 4 (6); GARZA 1 (1); GLASSCOCK 3 (2); Hockley 6 (7); HOWARD 6 (5); Irion 1 (1);

Wildcat operations brought in four oil discoveries and one gas well. Three of the wildcat oil wells were in District 8 and one was in District 4. The gas discovery was in District 1.

The commission said 137 wells were plugged this week, including 75 dry holes.

Completions Show Sharp Decline

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Oil well completions this year total 6,208, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday. This compares with 7,567 last year at this time.

The commission counted 101 new oil wells and seven gas well completions this week. The new gas wells bring the total for the year to 2,224, compared with 2,459 a year ago.

Wildcat operations brought in four oil discoveries and one gas well. Three of the wildcat oil wells were in District 8 and one was in District 4. The gas discovery was in District 1.

The commission said 137 wells were plugged this week, including 75 dry holes.

It is on the Jack Hays farm in the Sulphur Lick community northwest of here and is one of several wells being drilled in a foundation of silurian rock — a shallow flow formed more than 360 million years ago.

Smith said the gusher "came out with such force it pushed the casing out several feet."

Buildozers went to work digging ponds to catch the overflow but the shale ground is absorbing more than half the flow. Tanker trucks hauled 2,400 barrels of oil away from the well Friday.

Drilling was temporarily halted on 15 other nearby wells. The drillers said they want to make sure an ample supply of tanker trucks are available if they have the good fortune now being enjoyed on the Hays farm.

Pipeline Job Of Tulsa Firm Major Work

A major operation in reconditioning an old pipeline which runs south of Big Spring, is occupying well over 100 workmen.

McVean and Barlow, Odessa, hold the prime contract, but the reconditioning is being handled by Northwest Pipe Coating Company of Tulsa, Okla. T. E. Mercer Trucking Company of Fort Worth has the contract for transportation of the pipe and to Northwest's yard three miles south on US 87.

The line belongs to Gulf Oil Company and runs from Midland to Eastland. The project involves excavating the line, disjuncting it for removal to the yard, reconditioning, and then relaying.

Northwest Pipe Coating Company has approximately 85 men in its yard, and the weekly payroll approximates $10,000.

When the pipe is brought into the yard, it is sorted and stacked. It is tested to make certain it is straight, and if not, machines take out any kinks. Then it is subjected to a machine-cleaning process and routed to a final cleaning with a shot blast.

Operators then resize the pipe and cut or weld to make 40-foot joints.

Finally, a cold tar enamel coating is applied, then the pipe is spun with fibreglass and finally wrapped with an asbestos felt covering.

The final step is to transport it to the ditch where men and machines re-lay the pipe making the line as good as new. The project started July 18 and will continue for several weeks.

Engineers Throw December Party

Chemical and mechanical engineers are invited to a "BYOR" dinner - cum - dancing Christmas party Dec. 4 at the Sands Motel in Midland.

Advance reservations need to be in by Dec. 1. They can be had by mailing $8 check per couple to Harvey Dunn, Rexall Chemical Co., Box 4029, Odessa, or by calling him, or Robert Boardie, Big Spring, and pay an extra 50 cents at the door.

One guest couple per engineering couple may be guests at the affair, which will offer dancing to the "Men of Music," Dunn said.

New Plant Spending Shows Sharp Rise

Department of Commerce estimates that oil companies are spending $3.83 billions in the U.S. for new plant facilities and equipment during 1965, to meet the rising demand for petroleum products.

That figure is a gain of 14 per cent over last year and 31 per cent over 1963.

All told, U.S. industries are putting nearly $51 billion into new plants.

Anna Marie Hitz Bierschenk, 18-year-old heiress to a Swiss fortune, and her 25-year-old husband, Ulrich, are shown in Caracas, Venezuela. The heiress, who was reported missing by her mother in Washington, says she plans to settle in Venezuela with her husband after he gets a job in business or teaching. (AP WIREPHOTO BY RADIO FROM CARACAS)

Heiress Is Broke, Living In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The 18-year-old heiress to a Swiss fortune said Saturday she came penniless to Venezuela to live a normal life with her German husband away from her American mother.

"I wish my mother would stop bothering me," said Anna Marie Hitz Bierschenk, who stands to inherit a fortune estimated at $10 million to $30 million when she is 21.

The couple and their infant daughter, born in a clinic the day after they arrived from Miami, are staying at the home of former Venezuelan diplomat Luis Alsogaray in Vista Alegre, a high income residential area. They had been staying at a welfare agency run by the German community in Caracas.

Anna Marie's mother, Mrs. Anna Spring, a housekeeper at St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington, reported her daughter missing a week ago. "I am over 18 years old," Anna Marie said. "I can do what I want and not have to tell my mother about it."

Mrs. Spring said the girl ran away from home in July to be with Ulrich Bierschenk, a junior at Utah State University who then was working as a watchman at the German embassy in Washington.

Anna Marie and Ulrich said they were married in Carson City, Nev., and left the United States for Caracas, arriving Nov. 2. She was taken to the Caracas medical center at once for an emergency birth. A daughter, Claudia, was born next day.

Anna Marie's father, Othmar John Hitz of Switzerland, was a coffee magnate with interests in Venezuela. He died in 1958.

A friend said Friday that Anna Marie Hitz Bierschenk and her husband arrived in Caracas "totally broke." The friend said, "They had no money to pay even hotel bills so we took her to the clinic and gave them some money. Later on we saw the baby girl."

A legal guardian reportedly is in charge of the Hitz estate, which Anna Marie cannot use until she is 21.

The director of the German Welfare Association said Anna Marie and her husband, Ulrich Bierschenk, stayed at the association's relief center for five days and left Nov. 9 without giving a forwarding address.

In Washington, D.C., Anna Spring, Anna Marie's mother, said she would go to Caracas if she could verify that it was her daughter who sent her a cablegram saying:

"Have married. Birth certificates show I am 18. Stop this ridiculous persecution. I am happy now." The reference to persecution was not explained.

The director also quoted Bierschenk as saying they fled because he did not want to be drafted into the U. S. Army and sent to fight in Viet Nam. Bierschenk said he was trying to get a job in Venezuela, the director added.

So while it campaigns to de-

Britain Sees Anti-Cigarette Drive Winning Converts

LONDON (AP)—The British government believes its propaganda against cigarette smoking, now three years old, is beginning to make converts. It claims a trend likely to lead to a steady drop in consumption of cigarette tobacco.

The money it is spending on its anticigarette drive this year is, by comparison, a puny sum — $327,000.

MUTED START

The program started in a muted way with the aim of establishing nonsmoking as the norm of behavior for teenagers. Popular national heroes such as soccer stars were depicted as abstainers in a series of comic strips and cartoons.

A survey showed that teenagers were cynical toward the campaign mainly because their elders were not exhorted to quit smoking cigarettes.

So the ministry has gone over to a national poster campaign and taken time on television to persuade adults to stop.

IMAGE CHANGES

"Whereas the term 'nonsmoker' once tended to identify a person as a crank or faddist, this no longer seems to be true.

"There is now a lot of good will among the public to reduce cigarette smoking. And a high proportion of people want to see more publicity about the possible evils of cigarettes."

Britons bought 115.2 billion cigarettes in 1963, 114.4 billion in 1964.

Sales of cigars have risen from 390 million in 1962 to 590 million last year.

The Ministry of Health sees a shift to filter tips and the growing popularity of cigars as strong indications that the public is growing wary in its use of cigarettes. Half the cigarettes sold are filter tips. People seem to regard the filter as some sort of safeguard, although this has never been stated by the tobacco companies.

HAVE EFFECT

The tobacco industry admits that British and American official reports linking cigarette smoke and cancer have had an effect on cigarette consumption. But, the industry maintains that the major reason for falling sales is the increased cost of smoking due to higher taxation.

With four hikes in tax since 1960, a pack of 20 cigarettes now costs 78 cents, 60 of which go to the government.

The Customs and Excise Department estimates that revenue from tobacco sales this year will reach a record $2.95 billion. This is 105 times more than similar revenues of 1900 and sufficient to meet total annual government expenditure on education.

they didn't know that cigarette smoking was dangerous, but we do know now and it's rather worrying that so many people go on taking this serious risk.

CAN STOP

"Besides, many people can stop much more easily than they think.

"And we know that when people stop smoking their health begins to improve, even if they've smoked for years."

Giant posters displayed on billboards throughout the country show a pound note — worth $2.80 — blazing against a black background. The caption reads: "It doesn't pay to smoke. Why risk your health for cigarettes?"

The government banned television advertising of cigarettes starting last Aug. 1. The ministry spokesman said it is too early to determine whether this has had any effect on consumption.

The industry used to spend $16.8 million a year on television advertising of cigars. Part of this money apparently has been diverted to stepped-up television advertising of cigars, new gift coupon schemes, and on sponsoring sports competitions which can be used to boost brand names.

Wof that off cive

"WE WISH YOU a Merry Christmas," the old refrain, is expressed in many ways on the hundreds of cards displayed in racks for easy selection for shoppers such as Linda Maule, 1104 Birdwell Lane. Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Maule who are stock farmers near Rotan, will be spending her first shopping season in Big Spring but will, more than likely be at home for the holiday.

NATURAL SHOPPERS, women have fun searching for the gifts that are both practical and appreciated. At right, Mrs. Delaine Crawford inspects bright yellow shirts for her husband. She'll find other surprises for their children, Carolyn, Linda, Joan and David. With her, and choosing a belt for her brother, Lawson, is Miss Alice Ward.

WORDS TO THE WISE can assure a gift that will not be exchanged the morning after. Michael O'Leary would rather receive toiletries of his choice, but it's a hard decision to make when there are so many good ones on the market. Helping him sample the scents for men is Mrs. H. J. Morrison.

BEAUTIES AND THE BEASTS make a delightful combination as Tammy and Teresa White make friends with some furry creatures who are looking for a home. The girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry White, 2511 Lynn, are willing to share their room with the big, stuffed toys.

THE SPIRIT OF GIVING is in the air as Santa's helpers are drawn to colorful displays of merchandise now ready for Christmas shoppers. Here, Mrs. Benjamin F.

Meacham wonders if her husband, Chaplain B. F. Meacham, or her son, Dick, would like such a sweater. Also on her gift list is a daughter, Marilyn.

GETTING TO KNOW the jolly fellow who will find his way to her house on Christmas morning is two-year-old Kenny-Kaye Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carter, 2004 State. Faith shining in her eyes, Kenny reaches to give Santa Claus an affectionate pat on the cheek.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Use Tissues For Window Moisture

Dear Folks: Many of you have been writing to me asking what to do about windows that accumulate moisture which drips during cold weather, when the heat is turned on. The cheapest, most satisfactory way I have found, is to let a bit of moisture accumulate on your window until it becomes fogged up. Then, take three or four facial tissues and wipe the inside of the window. Wipe it until it is streaked and partially dry, and, using the same facial tissue, apply a dab of liquid (undiluted) household detergent, such as we wash our dishes with, and wipe the window again. This might leave it fuzzy for a second or two, but within minutes it will be clear. If, a week or so later, the window becomes fogged up again, take plain, dry facial tissues and wipe them again. The great thing about this is, not only can you see out (and believe me, I have tested it many times), but you wash your windows at the same time! ... Heloise

Dear Heloise: As we love your hints, I am enclosing one of mine: When my children are helping to make their favorite roll and cut-out cookies—no need to re-roll the leftover dough. We just use the odd-shaped pieces for "imagination cookies." The children have fun guessing what each cookie is—a country, state, animal, and what have you. ... Mother

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise: Carry a few three-by-five-inch cards in your purse for ideas that would otherwise get away, such as shopping, places to go, things to see, friends to call, hobby information, etc. Carry a magnet, magnifying glass, tape measure or steel rule. Everywhere you go, you'll look like an expert, a nut, or a Heloise fan of some kind. But you'll be an expert nut, and have a lot of fun, and be in good company. And, you'll be a better shopper. ... A reader

Dear Heloise: If you teach the younger ones and heckle the older ones to always release the drain in the bathtub before starting to get out of the tub, there is less danger of drowning, should they fall or faint. ... Hazel Dell

How true, how true. A wonderful safety hint. ... Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here's what I do when I burn food in a stainless steel pan: I use a plastic scraper to remove all I can of the burned material. Then I put a tablespoon of detergent in the pan, add boiling water, and let stand until the water is cool enough to put my hands into. The remaining burned on food will be loose enough to scrape off easily. I sponge the pan almost dry, sprinkle generously with cleanser, and scour it with a cloth which has most of the water wrung out. ... L. C. R.

Dear Heloise: For holding a pencil on the kitchen wall, over the sink, or by the telephone, I use an empty plastic pill bottle, and fasten it to the inside of a kitchen cupboard door with adhesive or masking tape. Really great by your kitchen note pad. ... Sue Cowan Sneed

TO BE SOCIALLY RIGHT

Use Christmas Cards Correctly

By ELIZABETH L. POST (Member of the Emily Post Institute and editor of the newly-revised "Emily Post's Etiquette: The Blue Book of Social Usage")

To whom do you send personal cards? Christmas cards are sent to those whom you wish to greet, but who are not close enough to you to exchange gifts. Friends you have not seen for some time, especially those who do not live near you, and with whom your Christmas card may be your only communication.

HOW SIGNED? Cards on which the sender's name or names are printed should be signed with both first and last names. A married couple would use "Mary and Bill Scott" or "Bill and Mary Scott." A young girl's name is printed "Cindy Jones" and a Bachelor's "Fred Weinberg."

When cards are signed by hand, and I feel that this denotes a warmer, more personal greeting, the last name is used on those sent to acquaintances, but to intimate friends one may simply sign, "Susie and Bob." The wife generally signs for both and also for the children, but there is no objection to each signing his own name, if the family wishes.

In either case—handwritten or printed signatures—it matters not a particle whether husband's or wife's name is first. Cards may be signed simply "the Johnson Family" and this is often done when a photograph of the family is the theme. The names of the children may be added in the order of their age. In this case the name of the father always precedes that of the mother.

In the case of a child living with one parent, the parent's name is printed (or written) on one line and the child's below. Such a card would generally be signed by hand—"John Smith Mary."

THE ENVELOPES Envelopes may be colored, as long as the ink is of a contrasting, clearly legible color. Return addresses should be in the upper left hand corner of the front of the envelope; they should, of course, always be used on envelopes when your own address has been changed, when a card is sent to someone who may not have a record of your address, or when you are not sure of the recipient's address. While a return address certainly opens the door for the receiver, it should never be taken to indicate a demand for a return card.

POSTAGE STAMPS AND TD SEALS In recent years the Post Office has printed postage stamps especially for the Christmas season. Cards should be sent first class in any case, so these postage stamps add to the attractiveness of the envelopes.

We should mail our cards early to lighten the Christmas rush, and should make the addresses as legible and clear as possible. The use of zip code numbers, when known, are a great help to the busy Post Office employees.

Finally, the true Spirit of Christmas may be seen in visible form in the use of TB Christmas Seals. Pasted on the back flap of the card envelopes as well as on Christmas gift packages, these attractive seals add color and cheer. By using TB Christmas Seals you contribute to a worthy cause and enhance the beauty and meaning of your Christmas message. Remember, the fight against TB and other respiratory diseases is a major battle on many fronts. Christmas Seals help strengthen the fight for better community health.

Jo Ellen Fiveash Wed To Peter Henneberger

Miss Jo Ellen Fiveash and Peter Henneberger exchanged wedding vows at 7 o'clock Friday evening during a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Robert J. McDermott in St. Thomas Catholic Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fiveash, 803 E. 14th, and Mrs. Arthur Henneberger, Hempstead, N.Y., and the late Mr. Henneberger.

The wedding scene was illuminated by candelabra holding white cathedral tapers, and the altar was graced with tall basket arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums interspersed with foliage. During the ceremony, the couple knelt on a white satin prie dieu.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by the organist, Miss Brenda Ried, who accompanied Miss Virginia Colclazer as she sang "Together."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her formal wedding gown was fashioned of white peau de soie and styled with a full-length redingote of white Chantilly lace. The sleeves ended in petal points over the wrists, and a flat peau de soie bow accented the front waistline of the gown. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls.

For traditional items, the bride placed pennies in her shoe, wore a blue garter and carried a handkerchief which belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. D. J. Moelling. Her bouquet of white gladioli was carried atop a Bible borrowed from Mrs. V. Ward Jackson.

Miss Darlene Jackson served as maid of honor, and Miss Rita Henneberger of Hempstead, N.Y., was the bridesmaid. The attendants were identically gowned in rust colored peau de soie with which they wore matching hats and white gloves. The dresses were fashioned with bateau necklines and A-line skirts. Both carried nosegays of feathered bronze chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's brother, Robert Henneberger of Bellflower, Calif., was the best man. Ushers were Dan E. Fiveash, brother of the bride, and C. R. Boland of Corpus Christi, her brother-in-law. Airman 2-C John Eckley of Webb AFB was the groomsmen.

RECEPTION

The parlor of Wesley Methodist Church was the scene of the reception where the bride's parents and the bridegroom's mother joined them in the receiving line. Guests were registered by Miss Marjorie Kay Fiveash, the bride's sister, and members of

Couple Recites Vows In Catholic Church

St. Thomas Catholic Church was the scene Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Margie Jimenez and Reynaldo Rene Marquez. The vows were spoken at 9 o'clock during a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Robert J. McDermott.

Forming an arch for the altar was emerald greenery, and altar vases held arrangements of white gladioli interspersed with gold foliage. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolfo G. Jimenez, 1201 W. 6th, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Marquez, 409 NE 10th.

Nuptial selections were presented by Mrs. Leslie Green, organist, and Mrs. Harold Talbot, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white peau de soie styled in the Empire manner. The molded bodice of Chantilly lace featured a bateau neckline and long fitted sleeves ending in petal points over the wrists. Flat bows and re-embroidered lace accented the circular chapel train.

The bride's petal cap of white lace was topped with tiny taffeta rosebuds and pearl silhouette leaves and anchored a layered bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a bridal bouquet of white Frenched chrysanthemums backed with tulle and showered with satin streamers.

Mrs. Rudy De Leon attended the bride as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Rudolph Claveran, Mrs. Charlie Rodriguez, Mrs. Fred Trevino, Mrs. Elias Munoz, Mrs. Alfonso Rodriguez and Mrs. Alejandro Escamela.

The matron of honor wore a white peau de soie gown with matching full-length coat, and the other attendants were identically gowned in gold formal dresses. Each carried a nosegay of yellow carnations accented with gold and white streamers.

Rudy De Leon was the best man, and ushers were Rudolph Claveran, Charlie Rodriguez, Fred Trevino, Elias Munoz, Alfonso Rodriguez and Alejandro Escamela.

WEDDING TRIP
 For traveling to El Paso the bride chose a three-piece white suit of wool with which she used bone lizard accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet. Upon returning, the couple will reside at 1201 W. 6th.

The bride attended local schools, and the bridegroom, a graduate of Big Spring High School, is assistant manager of the People's Finance Company.

RECEPTION
 The couple was honored at a reception held in the church hall where guests were registered by Mrs. Elias Barrera, the bride's sister. Members of the house party were Mrs. Rudolph Jimenez, Mrs. Ruben Marquez and Mrs. Elias Barrera.

White lace, over a rose underlay, covered the refreshment table where the centerpiece was formed of the attendants' bouquets. Crystal and silver appointments were used, and the three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Alice Lopez, all of Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Elias Barrera, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ybarra and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Torres, Uvalde; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Lee, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ochoa and Mr. and Mrs. Ignacio Modesto, all of El Paso; and Mrs. Dora Rangel, Dallas.

Prevent Germs From Spreading

When someone comes down with an easy-to-catch disease, home sanitation takes on added significance to protect other members of the household. One of the most important precautions is to isolate everything the patient uses from the rest of the family.

To prevent flu or cold germs from spreading, launder all sick-room bedding and clothing separately. Using liquid chlorine bleach in the wash as directed will act as an effective disinfectant. Sickroom dishes should also be washed separately.

Rainbows Initiate New Member

Susan Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Green, was initiated into the Order of the Rainbow for Girls during a ceremony held at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple, 221 1/2 Main.

Origin Of Name

The term "cardigan" started as a reference to a form of rib-knitting stitch, says the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry. Nowadays, the term refers to just about any collarless neckline.

BRIDAL BOUQUET

A double crown of lace encrusted with seed pearls held the three-tiered, finger-tip-length veil of illusion. The bridal bouquet was a triangular design centered with a white orchid surrounded by white stephanotis and lily-of-the-valley on a background of white lace with white picot ribbon streamers and carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Linda Shaw, Big Spring, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Burlington, Grand Island, Nev.; Mrs. Bill Elder III, Fort Worth; Mrs. Carolyn Haynes, Abilene; and as junior bridesmaid, Miss Debbie Smith, Anaheim, Calif., sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identical floor-length crepe dresses in azalea pink. The empire sheaths were fashioned with bateau necklines, three-quarter-length sleeves and satin bows in the center back. Their bouquets were long-stemmed pink roses.

Use Coat Rack As Towel Pole

That old-fashioned wooden coat rack in the attic—or one you'll find in a secondhand shop—can be beautified with a coat of enamel.

With its bright shiny surface, it can be used as a silent valet in a bedroom or as a unique towel pole in the bathroom.

Keep Trim By Early Exercise

There are simple exercises to keep you trim without much effort. In the morning while waiting for your tub to fill, lift your arms above your head 10 to 15 times. Let your fingertips touch. Then drop arms and repeat.

You will find this helps untie the nervous knots in your upper back and neck and keeps these muscles toned.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If the Christmas bells that are part of our downtown decoration had real clappers there would have been some right jolly jingling Friday afternoon. What with the ugly (that's the only word that comes to mind to express how I feel about sandstorms) sand and wind blowing, the decorations had a pretty rigorous run-through. They are made of rather sturdy stuff if they don't come down before old Saint Nick shows.

A couple who is really enjoying their overseas assignment are the DON BRINEGARS and their family who are stationed at a base near Prestwick, Scotland. They were fortunate enough to find a house recently remodeled that has good heating facilities and it suits them to a tee. Mrs. Brinegar is the former SUSAN HOUSER, daughter of Mrs. Ann Houser.

A note from RALPH LALONDE says his daughter who married recently in Europe had a storybook honeymoon in Bavaria, Austria, Italy and France. She and her husband plan to visit her father here next year.

It's always such a pleasure to visit with CAPT. ALLEN ROBERTSON and his good friend, ED CONWELL, even if it happens only once a year for five minutes. They were en route to Houston from St. Louis for Thanksgiving. We had the pleasure during the week and Ed came up with a name for this column . . . Pickle Beat which I shall add to the suggestion by Jack McGuire who was at one time with the public relation department of the T&P Railway . . . his was Pickle's Piddles . . .

Some of my favorite friends, the ROY WORLEY family, were here over the weekend as the guests of MR. and MRS. JIM ZACK. The Worleys live in between Austin and Dripping Springs, the latter is where Mr. Worley is the high school principal.

The DON GREGORYS returned to Farmer's Branch today after spending the holidays with her parents, MR. and MRS. MATT HARRINGTON.

BOB HINKLEY who teaches near Roswell, N.M., has spent the holidays with his mother, MRS. ELEANOR HINKLEY.

MRS. JERRY GRAVES of Odessa was shopping with her mother, MRS. ZOLLIE BOYKIN who was helping run herd on the young Mr. Graves.

TOMMY WILKINSON who is a student at NTSC in Denton is spending the weekend with his parents, MR. and MRS. DOC WILKINSON.

MRS. M. W. TALBOT Sr., of Leesville, La., is a guest in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, DR. and MRS. MILTON TALBOT.

LARRY and PAM EUBANKS, son and daughter of MR. and MRS. WALTER EUBANKS of Sweetwater, extended their Thanksgiving day visit with their grandparents, MR. and MRS. JOHN BALCH. Their parents returned to Sweetwater Thursday night.

At the beauty shop the past week I learned a new use for masking tape . . . a beautician pulled strips from a roll and taped some reversed waves to her customers face to hold the hair in place during the drying period.

JULIUS GLICKMAN, a senior in the University of Texas Law School, returned to Austin Friday after visiting his parents, MR. and MRS. OSCAR GLICKMAN.

A guest in the home of MR. and MRS. GEORGE THORBURN is their daughter, MRS. R. T. DIXON JR. of Fayetteville, N.C.

Burns said this would probably be the final criminal docket in 1965.

Honor Boy, Girl To Be Announced

Howard County's Gold Star boy and Gold Star girl for 1965 have been selected by the county committee, but the names of the youngsters chosen is being kept secret. The winners will not know of their selection until the closing minutes of the annual Achievement Day Banquet Monday night.

The Gold Star awards are the highest honors a 4-H Club worker can receive for accomplishment in his field.

PAUL GENTRY

Each year, the records of the boys and girls in the 4-H Club movement in the county are checked and two youngsters are chosen to receive their Gold Stars.

The Achievement Day banquet is at 7:30 p. m. in the Howard County Junior College Student Union. The adult leaders of the county clubs assisted by Mrs. Catherine Crawford, home demonstration agent, will prepare and serve the meal. About 300 club members, their families, and special guests are expected at the dinner.

The banquet is a variation in the usual program for Achievement Day in this county. In the past, the awards have been made at a day time session usually held at the fair barn or in a brief informal program at the courthouse.

A special speaker has been invited to address the Monday night gathering. He is Paul R. Gentry, Lamesa, Gentry, active in all phases of 4-H Club work for the past 10 years, was the Extension District No. 2 representative this year at the

National Adult Leader Forum

in Washington.

The speaker is a widely known civic leader in Dawson County. An employee of the Texas Electric Service Co., he is a member of the First Baptist Church, a member of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, past foreman of the Roundup Club, past president of Lamesa Kiwanis Club. He works with the Dawson County Fair, the Boy Scouts, the Dawson County Museum, the cancer society, the P-TA, and is past president and program chairman for the Four County Ag Workers.

In all, 73 awards are to be presented at the banquet. These cover all phases of club work. Names of the winners of the awards are, like those of the Gold Star boy and Gold Star girl, secret.

Roger Brown, state representative and formerly a member of the Howard County 4-H Club, will present the awards.

Lawrence Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Long, Knott, president of the Howard County 4-H Council, will preside at the dinner as toastmaster.

Arrangements are being made for music and other special entertainment.

Taxidermist Dreams Up Mythical Beasts

By DENNIS NEELD
NAIROBI (AP)—A rare beast with the head of an elephant and the body of a gorilla—a gorillephant, in fact—graces the trophy room of an American big-game hunter.

The head of the mythical unicorn hangs beside that of a lion among the souvenirs of another hunter.

Though there are 730 species of mammal in East Africa, neither the gorillephant nor the unicorn is to be found among them.

They are the creation of 75-year-old Paul Zimmermann, German-born founder of a Nairobi firm that claims to be the biggest taxidermist business in the world.

American real estate millionaire Ray Ryan bought Zimmermann in 1961, and its sprightly founder is now the company's technical director.

Zimmermann made the gorillephant and the unicorn in response to requests by two American hunters for something out of the ordinary—something sure to cap the hunting stories of all their friends.

Gorillas are protected by Kenya's game laws and their skins impossible to come by. So Zimmermann made a body out of horse hide, sewed on an elephant's head, and he'd made a monster straight from science fiction.

The unicorn he created from a white goat's head fitted with the horn of an oryx.

"No one would know it was a fake," chuckled the bespectacled taxidermist.

The company employs 200 workers, and every year some 3,000 animals wind up as hunting trophies, handbags, wallets, foot stools or museum exhibits after passing through the Zimmermann workshops on the outskirts of Nairobi.

"The world demand for our product far exceeds supply," says Zimmermann's director Ken Kertell. "Taxidermy is an art, you see. You can't put a dead animal on a conveyor belt and wait for it to come out the other end as a lifelike model.

Everything has to be done by hand.

"It takes up to 10 years to train a taxidermist," says Zimmermann. "I've been at it all my life and I'm still learning. You've got to have a knowledge of zoology and you've got to study the animals in their natural surrounding."

One of Zimmermann's finest pieces of work is a gorilla in Nairobi's Coryndon Museum.

The eyes of a gorilla lose their color almost immediately after the animal is dead. So Zimmermann accompanied an expedition to the Eastern Congo and with a box of crayons sketched the gorilla's eyes as soon as it was shot.

A complete elephant, built up and shipped out in sections for a museum, was the firm's biggest single job.

A mouse, its teeth bared in a savage snarl, was the smallest. It was ordered by a Canadian hunter for over his fireplace.

Two lionesses are being made for a movie based on Joy Adamson's best-selling book, "Born Free." One will be used instead of a live animal to ride through a herd of game on top of a landrover. The other depicts the dead "Elsa" — the picture's heroine.

A medium-sized safari will spend an average of $2,500 to have their trophies mounted, and packing often will cost another $700.

Big-game hunters, it would seem, don't always play the game. Often Zimmermanns is asked to add a few inches to the horn of a hunting trophy to fabricate a world record.

"We just want to impress our friends," explain the sportsmen. "Technically it would be no problem. Without a magnifying glass you would never know it wasn't genuine," said Kertell. "But, my dear sir, we couldn't do such a thing."

Most of the fancy goods turned out by Zimmermanns are made from animals shot by the Kenya game department to safeguard crops and human life. Elephant herds are also thinned out because in some regions their great numbers threaten the survival of other wild game. Four hundred elephants, 20 rhino, 30 hippo, 500 buffalo, 20 giraffe, 80 lions, 40 leopards and 500 zebra and antelope were destroyed last year for these reasons.

Many wind up at Zimmermanns.

Among items for sale in the company's downtown showroom are stools made from the lower joint of an elephant's leg, table lamps fashioned from a zebra's fetlock, boots of elephant's ear leather, handbags of all manner of skins.

Asked whether there had ever been criticism by some people who might think all this was in questionable taste, Kertell replied:

"We're not in this for fun, we're in it for money."

A Devotional For The Day

"How can a man be just before God?" (Job 9:2, RSV)
PRAYER: We praise Thee, eternal Father, for our Savior Christ. Because we were lost in sin, Thou didst send Him to redeem us. Forgive us and bring us back to Thy fold. We ask in His Name. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Positive Approach

The school board is moving toward what it hopes will be the beginning of a pre-school operation in the Kate Morrison School, possibly in January. Surveys have given rise to hopes that possibly a couple of hundred youngsters might be reached.

Kate Morrison got into the news last autumn when patrons protested its closing, but in the end the decision prevailed. Now the board is planning on making good on one of the possibilities mentioned at the time, a sort of regular "head start" program.

The school lends itself to this because it is in the predominantly Latin-American section of the city. Many of these youngsters really need pre-training to become accustomed to English and procedures which may be strange to them. They also need to be checked closely for physical impairments which would limit or retard their opportunities for learning. Last summer's hurry-up head start project yielded surprising dividends. Building upon this, the new program could accomplish vastly more.

It will be well, however, to remember that the program and not its physical location is the important thing.

This is another positive approach to some of the difficulties which have beset that portion of our city. We hope that there will be others, and particularly those which may involve the community leadership in cooperative attacks on problems. There is a great potential for good here if efforts are undertaken in understanding and with a common desire to improve.

Others Can Give, Too

The case of little Kristin Dowalby, whose eyes may be able to do what she never could, may stimulate interest of others in giving eyes to hospitals here or to eye bank centers.

It had been decided by the family that Kristin's eyes would be given to the Texas Lions Eye Bank in Dallas upon her death, and when she died Thursday the family followed through on this decision. This may be the means of one or two people gaining sight through surgery.

What most people do not realize is that there is an almost constant demand for eyes. Our doctors, particularly those who specialize in care of the eyes, frequently have cases where transplants are indicated. The big obstacle is that they do not have the raw material.

Many people would be willing to have their eyes, upon their death, to help others. But you cannot will your eyes, because upon death your body belongs to your next of kin. You can tell them what you would like to have done, and then they can make the gift for you. But remember, they alone can do this—and remember, too, that it should be worked out in advance if at all possible. Removal of the eyes in no way leaves a mark or affects the appearance of the corpse.

Eyes of real small children (such as babies) and of real old people (or those who have had lingering illnesses which might cause tissue starvation) are not acceptable, but those of most people from childhood through middle age are much in demand.

If Kristin's eyes stimulate interest of other people here into making a similar gift, her gift will go far beyond what her family had dreamed.

Marquis Childs Hunger Crisis Over The World

WASHINGTON — By a striking coincidence, that shaggy haired dreamer, Henry A. Wallace, died as the world confronts a crisis of hunger. Wallace's powerful imagination set this country on the way to accumulating surpluses which in World War II and in the food shortages in Asia and elsewhere in recent years gave the United States an invaluable resource.

a stubborn innocence in politics with his embrace of a left wing third party in 1948 that apparently made him taboo.

AS SECRETARY OF Agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet in the New Deal years, Wallace led the way with his Ever Normal Granary concept to an adjustment saving the farmer from bankruptcy and setting aside reserves for the lean years. Unfortunately, in the years of his retirement on his farm in New York, when he was pushing his genetic experiments in various fields, his broad knowledge and his capacity for root thinking were not drawn on. Wallace had demonstrated

THE WALLACE type of bold, imaginative thinking is in short supply in the view of observers following the efforts of the Johnson administration to come up with a new Food for Peace program. President Johnson was reported ready to unveil a new proposal when newspaper publication of his intentions is understood to have resulted in postponement if not reconsideration. The President is hypersensitive on the score of leaks of information not officially authorized by the White House.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Although much of the free world is either admonishing or looking askance at Britain for its lingering balance of payments difficulties, the man at the center of this vortex has managed to retain a sense of humor.

James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, appeared at the National Press Club in Washington the other day and the inevitable question came up:

"Why do you have balance of payments problems now, when you didn't have them 50 years ago?"

Callaghan's reply: "There were no balance of payments problems 50 years ago because there were no balance of payments statistics."

A foolish question deserves a devastatingly clever answer.

Billy Graham

I believe that if everyone would apply the 'law of love' this world would be a better place and most of our problems would be solved.

What do you think? J. L. In a recent survey it was found that eight out of ten Americans agree with you—that most of our major problems could be solved if we could somehow apply the Golden Rule. But an interesting finding came out of the same survey—eight out of ten Americans questioned thought they were living by the law of love. You see, we think the trouble is with the other fellow.

I agree if we all exercised the 'law of love' that many of our problems could be solved. But, the difficulty is: if God, who is Love, is not in our hearts, then we can hardly expect to manifest His love. Our natures need to be changed before the world can be changed. God's love needs to be allowed to flood our hearts, and then hatred, prejudice, and ill-will will be crowded out.

ONLY THROUGH the introduction of methods pioneered in the United States will the hunger crisis around the world be resolved. But that is a far more formidable undertaking than the revolutionary change in American agriculture brought about by government policy and scientific and business initiative. In hungry India, the dispute with the United States, looking to a long term commitment for help, is over whether the Indian government has not neglected agriculture at the expense of arbitrary expansion of industry. The Indian reply is that only if an industrial base exists, making possible production of fertilizer plants and farm machinery, can agriculture be revolutionized. But, however the issue between the have and the have-not nations is resolved, the grim reality of hunger will not wait on interminable debate.

J. A. Livingston Prosperity Now Being 'Administered'

The expression, "the longest peacetime recovery on record," is losing validity. In October, the military effort in Viet Nam began to exert pressure—strain—on the nation's resources.

Nonetheless, this 57-month rise from March 1961 through November is notable. It has been surpassed only once and that doesn't count. The 90-month advance from June 1938 through February 1945 was powered by World War II.

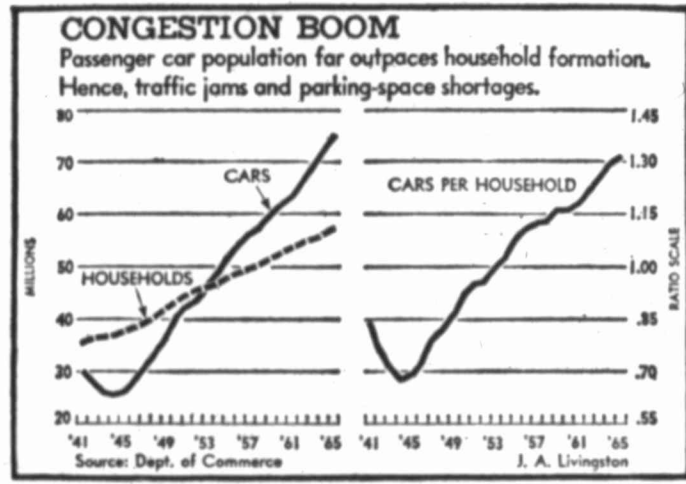

The nearest approach in longevity was from March 1933 to May 1937. And those were 50 unprosperous months, remnants of the Great Depression. Unemployment never got down to less than 14 per cent of the labor force. It's now 4.3 per cent.

THIS HAS BEEN longevity with muscle enough to rival the Korean War upsurge. The gains range from 7 per cent in employment to 33 per cent for Gross National Product and 67 per cent in net corporate profits.

The advance has been motivated along by the Council of Economic Advisers, first chaired now by Walter W. Heller and now by Gardner Ackley.

If major corporations "administer" prices, the Council "administers" the economy. Interest rates have been "talked down." President Kennedy (in steel) and Johnson (in copper and aluminum) have rolled back price advances.

AND THE White House has sponsored increased depreciation allowances, investment tax credits, and reductions in taxes generally. Purpose: To spur corporate outlays on plant and equipment and thus foster economic growth.

Can the Council "administer" another year? This is a familiar question.

When the stock market sank in 1962, after the Kennedy-Roger Blough confrontation, many Wall Street oracles were sure that it signaled an economic downturn. They were wrong. Again, at the beginning of this year, a flattening out or decline was forecast for the second half. Instead, a sweep upward, abetted, no doubt, by Viet Nam.

WILLIAM JAMES, in his psychological essay "The Energies of Men," puts forth a thesis applicable to economic trends and stock market advances which defy expectations. A person gets warmed up, seems to tire, and then comes a new burst of strength. This is the "second wind." "If unusual necessity forces us to press onward," says James, men will dig down into vital reserves for a third or fourth or fifth wind for strength undreamed of.

GRape Test
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The government has announced a project to grow grapes in the Sao Francisco River Valley, which cuts a green swath through the northeastern "drought polygon."

Table and wine grapes will be grown experimentally in the region which is periodically flayed by droughts. The Ministry of Agriculture has set aside $32,000 for the project — a part of development plans for the valley of the one constantly flowing river in the area.

The Sao Francisco is Brazil's second-largest river, after the Amazon.

Around The Rim Let's Mind Our Manners

If we're too free and easy in our manners and mores these days, perhaps it's because we don't read enough old books, published at a time when it was considered vital to be "correct."

Have been thumbing through one of the old volumes, titled "Polite Society At Home And Abroad," authored by Mrs. Annie R. White in 1891. This was in the library of the late Mrs. H. W. Leeper, and came to me through her granddaughter, Dr. Louise Worthy.

MRS. WHITE took more than 400 pages to list points of bearing, manners, good taste and etiquette, and can take you through 35 chapters ranging all the way from how to act on the street, to handling gentlemen's calls, to the etiquette of mourning, and various toiletary recipes.

There could be any number of columns taken from the contents, but since we are in the holiday season, let's look at Mrs. White's admonitions in the category of table manners:

"THERE ARE many little rudenesses which can be avoided at the table x x x Among these are coughing or breathing into your neighbor's face x x x emphasizing your remarks by flourishing your fork, to the risk of your neighbor's eyes; standing up in place of requesting what you want be passed you.

"Keep your mouth closed as much as possible while you are masticating your food.

"DO NOT eat onions or garlic before going into company.

"Do not twirl a goblet, or rattle the knife and fork, or show any thing which will look like impatience or eagerness to commence the meal."

"Never turn your tea or coffee into your saucer to cool it. x x x Never blow soup to make it cool. Never be very rude to pick your teeth at the table after a meal is completed.

"NAPKINS are to wipe the mouth with, not to mop the forehead or nose.

"Never sop up your gravy or preserves with bread. And do not scrape your plate so as to obtain the last bit, or drink as though you were dying of thirst."

"Be careful not to stretch your feet across the room, under the table. It is very disagreeable to be kicked, even accidentally.

"IN LEAVING the table, if business or an engagement compels you, to excuse yourself. It is only in hotels or boarding-houses that this is permitted to pass unnoticed.

"Never bring a book or a paper to the table to read.

"Never talk loudly or boisterously, but be cheerful and companionable, not monopolizing the conversation, but joining in it."

AND MRS. WHITE said that, rich or poor, "it is possible for all to cultivate kindly feelings, and to offer such hospitality as is within their means and fitting to their station."

You do what this author tells you to, and you'll be the most genteel of them all during these holiday dinners. At the least, keep your fork out of your neighbor's eye.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Art Buchwald How To Detect A Peace Feeler

WASHINGTON—One of the trickiest things to recognize in Washington are legitimate "peace feelers" from the enemy. In a Look magazine article Eric Sevareid wrote that Adlai Stevenson had told him the United States rejected a "peace feeler" from Hanoi through U.N. Secretary General U Thant in August of 1964. The State Department confirmed that the offer had been made, but thanks to Dean Rusk's antenna, which is very sensitive to peace feelers, the U.S. had turned it down.

THE ASSISTANT Secretary for Peace Feelers in the State Department told me the other day, "I don't know what all the fuss is about. We've had a lot of peace feelers from the Comms, but not one of them has shown up on Dean Rusk's feeler set as being legitimate."

"How do you know when a peace feeler is legitimate or not?" I asked.

"We have a peace-feeler evaluator here," he said, taking me over to what looked like a very complicated radio set. "When a peace feeler comes in, we broadcast to Dean Rusk, who picks it up on his counter-peace feeler. This feeler, attached to the Secretary's head, is so sensitive that it can tell within seconds whether it is a sincere feeler or just another lousy Communist trick."

"COULD YOU demonstrate for me?"

"Well, I don't know if the Secretary has his counter-feeler on his head now or not. Let's try it." He spoke into the machine. "Hanoi told Bulgaria it will meet with American representatives in Geneva."

There was crackling static and finally a weak voice came over which said, "Turn the offer down."

The Assistant Secretary switched the machine off.

"THAT'S MARVELOUS," I said. "It's almost like extra-sensory perception."

"It's the greatest breakthrough we've had since radar," he said proudly.

"Would it work for any Secretary of State?" I asked.

"We don't know. Dean Rusk's feeler is his own. We just built the machinery to fit it."

"Is this the only way you people handle peace feelers?" I asked.

"OH, NO. For the time being it's the most foolproof, but we have other methods as well. Timing is very important when it comes to peace feelers. For example, when you're losing a war, you've got to ignore them or the other side will get you in a box. The peace feeler from them may be legitimate, but you certainly don't want to take it up with people committing naked aggression."

"Then you would only take up a peace feeler when you're winning?" I said.

"NO, NOT necessarily. When you're winning there is no reason to sit down and talk peace because then you might have to work out a compromise with the naked aggressors."

"But if you can't accept a peace feeler when you're losing and you can't accept one when you're winning, when can you accept one?"

"If I told you that I'd be giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

"Do you ever send out peace feelers of your own?"

"ALL THE TIME. The President said he will talk peace anywhere, anytime, with no conditions attached."

"Have they ever picked up your feelers?"

"As far as we know they haven't."

"Why not?"

"We don't know, unless it's because they've got one of these damn feeler machines of their own."

David Lawrence Interference In Rhodesia

WASHINGTON — Unprecedented things are happening today in the conduct of the government of the United States—but most people aren't paying any attention to it, and representatives of both parties in Congress are strangely silent.

Nowhere in the Constitution, for instance, is the President given the right to decide for himself with what countries trade shall be conducted or what tariff duties shall be imposed—unless Congress specifically authorizes such broad powers by legislation.

YET, OVER THE past weekend, the United States voted in the Security Council of the U.N. to call on Britain to "quell" the rebellion in Rhodesia. Then Ambassador Goldberg announced various economic measures decided upon by this government to carry out the purposes of the resolution. He declared that steps will be taken to tighten the economic squeeze on the Rhodesian secessionists and said that President Johnson had cancelled Rhodesia's 1965 sugar-import quota of 9,500 tons—a shipment which already was on the high seas en route to America. Mr. Goldberg added:

"THE PRESIDENT has suspended Rhodesia's sugar quota for 1965 and has directed that this shipment will not be accepted. We will continue to consider urgently any other steps which will ensure that no action is taken to assist the illegal regime in Salisbury, Rhodesia. The writing is on the wall. The misguided rebels in Southern Rhodesia would do well to heed the voice of the Council and the voice of the vast majority of the nations of the world."

BUT COINCIDENTALLY American boys are being killed or wounded in South Viet Nam as a result of attacks by the troops of the North Vietnamese government—a regime that is obtaining supplies and commodities through trading with many nations of the world. But nothing is being done here to cut off trade between the United States and such countries.

ALSO SIGNIFICANT is the failure of the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to voice any criticism about the interference in Rhodesia's internal affairs such as he expressed about the use of United States forces during a rebellion in the Dominican Republic. Not only was the action of President Johnson then denounced as an improper interference with the right of a people to determine their own kind of government, but it was argued that the United States had no business interfering with a revolution organized by the people. In the case of the Dominican Republic, of course, there was a violation of the Monroe Doctrine as well as a threat by Communists to take possession of the government. But no such circumstances or precedents of international law are involved in Rhodesia.

IF THE PRINCIPLE is accepted that the executive branch has absolute power in international affairs—despite the plain words of the Constitution that Congress shall have the power to "regulate" commerce with foreign nations—then the United States will again find itself in an awkward position with respect to policies pursued internally by various countries in the world. The economic weapon can be a powerful one, and Congress unquestionably would grant authority when an embargo would protect directly the interests of the United States. It is unlikely, however, that authorization would be given to pass judgment upon the internal policies of any country and to set up yardsticks to determine whether any government is or is not truly representative of the wishes of the people.

To Your Good Health Homosexuality And A Young Boy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for an 8-year-old boy to be a homosexual? Is there any cure? — MRS. E. J.

Yes, it is possible. Yes, there are things we can do about it, especially in the years when the tendency is beginning.

Just before and during puberty there is an awareness of sexual feelings, and curiosity about them. At such an impressionable age if a younger boy fraternizes with a somewhat older one who has homosexual tendencies, he can innocently fall prey to the older boy's suggestions and behavior.

Hence, without being nosy or bossy about it, try to be aware of the boys he plays with. Steer a boy into wholesome physical activities. Beware of secretive twosome arrangements. It's natural enough, of course, for a boy to have a special pal, and there's no reason he shouldn't. If they fit naturally into groups of other boys, that's fine. But if they persistently avoid being "part of the gang," then it may be a suspicious sign.

Overindulgence or overprotectiveness on the part of mothers may be a factor in homosexual tendencies. Psychologically, later on the boy is unable to emancipate himself from this maternal dominance, and for fear of being "disloyal" by becoming interested in a girl, he concentrates his attention on male companionship.

Understanding these things can help you recognize danger signs and quietly direct a boy's interests into other channels. We certainly have nothing against nice, mannerly, quiet boys—but it is boy nature to be noisy and have something of the roughneck in him, some of the time. I don't say good manners and courteous behavior are reasons for suspicion, but be on guard when a youngster seems to be too much of a perfect little gentleman if, in addition, he also has a knack of disappearing too long, too consistently, too quietly, too perpetually as a twosome—and you never hear anything about what he does with his time.

Use your most thoughtful judgment. Don't jump to conclusions because a couple of kids are close pals. It's the subtle signs beyond that which distinguish between the normal and the dangerous.

Finally—this may be repulsive to us, but we can't avoid facts by shutting our eyes to them—there is an increase in venereal disease in teenagers, and one of the factors is homosexuality.

This column may be disquieting, but I write it because I have had too many letters from parents to ignore the facts of life as they are.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it O.K. to take calcium tablets every day with skim milk? — Mrs. G. S.

I don't see how they can hurt you, but milk is loaded with calcium, and the skimming process removes fat, NOT the calcium, so unless your doctor wants you to have extremely large amounts of calcium I don't see why you need both the milk and the tablets.

Goliad Students Give Fine Arts Festival

By GWYNN BONNER

The Goliad band, choir, and speech department presented a Fine Arts Festival Wednesday prior to dismissal for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The band presented "Land of Hope and Glory," by Elgar-Isaac and "Songs of Faith," arranged by James A. Scott, under the direction of Mr. R. E. McKiski, band director.

Under the direction of Miss Susan Cupp, choir director, the seventh grade choir sang "Bless This House" and the ninth grade choir sang "This Is My Country." The band and choir combined to present "From Sea to Shining Sea," arranged by Whitney, for the finale.

The speech department gave choral readings throughout the program. Susan Sieja delivered "A Thanksgiving Proclamation," written by George Washington; Steve Tidwell, "Cornucopia," by Alice Mason; and Taylor Jones, "I Thank Thee Lord." Decorations for the festival were provided by the seventh grade art classes, instructed by Mr. Don Duncan.

The cafeteria served turkey and dressing Tuesday and attendance was so above normal that the noon bell had to be held for 15 minutes in order that all students might be served.

Martha Couch, Gay Hill, Howard County 4-H member, presented a program on budgeting at the FHA meeting Tuesday. The title of her program was "The Ed Money Show" and it starred Mrs. Bargain Hunter, Mrs. Buy It All, and Mr. Want It Now. Martha and her mother, Mrs. John Couch, were guests of the executive council at a buffet luncheon Tuesday.

A party will be held for the Goliad freshmen Friday, Dec. 3, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the gym. Games and dancing will be featured.

The Executive Committee, made up of the choir officers, is in charge of the program and the decorations. Officers are Don Pierce, president; George Bailey, vice president; Merry Lee Dibrell, secretary; Ann Gibbs, treasurer; and Jim Bruce Frazier, reporter.

Mrs. Spencer On Runnels Program

By LORRIE WATKINS

The Thanksgiving Assembly was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. A locker check and clean up was held prior to the assembly.

Mr. R. T. Newell, principal, introduced Billy Spier, Student Council president, to begin the program. Billy introduced Mary Ellen Hedges, who gave the invocation, and Mike Marino, who led the students in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Hubert Murphy, choir director, led the Advanced Choir in singing "America" and "America, The Beautiful," with the students. The choir then sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America, Our Heritage."

Mrs. Judy Spencer, speech teacher, was guest speaker and her theme was "Square." She explained that this word was once complimentary but in these days of the "in" crowd, it is no longer complimentary. Linda Tawater gave the benediction and Billy dismissed the students. Following the assembly, school was dismissed for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Student Council met Monday morning to make final arrangements for Wednesday's assembly and also discussed the Christmas Dance which will be held Dec. 17 in the school gym.

FHA members brought food for a Thanksgiving basket this past week. On Wednesday, Mrs. Sue Wilbanks, sponsor, and Roe Lynn Bunch took the basket to the Salvation Army headquarters for distribution.

The choir members are now selling candy at 50 cents a bar to make money for the choir tour. Mrs. Roy Watkins, chairman for Runnels, handed out the candy to the choir members Tuesday and has additional boxes

Turned Down As Pilot, He's Still Flying At 80

By WILLIAM E. SCRIVO
LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Back in 1917 William H. (Bill) Long enlisted in the U. S. Army, figuring his nine years of flying experience would qualify him to serve as a pilot.

But after "10 days of exercises and running around," said Long, "they called me in and told me they were sending me home because of a palpitating heart."

Long, who now wears a flowing white beard, recently celebrated his 80th birthday and he's still flying.

Long has accumulated 8,000 hours in the air since he taught himself to fly back in 1908 by circling a Bleriot monoplane around the old race track in Lorain.

He taught himself, because there were no instructors. "I circled that track on the ground for I don't know how many times before I lifted her off the ground for a short hop," said Long.

Long's craving to fly was implanted in him by an uncle who wrote 5-cent novels about flying machines in the 1890s and was therefore classed as a "nut."

Three Lorain men who acquired a used Bleriot monoplane around 1908 asked Long to help them restore the craft to flying condition.

That was just a few years after Long, who drove Lorain's first taxi, a White Steamer, had gone into the auto business.

CRACKED UP
The Bleriot was Long's flying primer until one of the other pilots flew it into a storm and cracked it up. But a few years later Glenn H. Curtiss asked Long to help him prepare for his famous 65-mile flight from Euclid Beach Park in Cleveland to Cedar Point, a record flight in that era.

Long recalls that he was among some 15,000 who were on hand at Cedar Point Beach when Curtiss made his flight over water in the flimsy wood, wire and canvas biplane.

Curtiss, an exponent of flying boats, gave Long many tips on flying such craft. Long and several other Lorain men joined in buying a Benoist flying boat. The group took the plane to Cedar Point to use flying passengers to and from the resort but it crashed during a practice run. A boat piloted by an inexperienced operator ran into the downed plane, smashing it.

After World War I, Long and his associates bought a Curtiss flying boat.

"Those were the big money told many people not to do. I got careless."

He was banking down over Cedar Point to land in Beumiller's Cove, when he hit a downdraft that sucked the plane down, throwing it out of control.

RUN FROM STORM
A chance encounter led to Long's involvement in the Weaver Aircraft Co.

It was in the early 1920s when a group of itinerant flyers was passing through Lorain. The group, led by Buck Weaver, stopped to chat with a policeman, who told them that "We've got one of them Flying Nuts here."

The group went to Long's garage and stayed to organize the Advance Aircraft Co. Long found an empty concrete building in nearby Avon, and the first plane produced, the Advance, was a success.

The company was re-organized under the name of Weaver Aircraft Co., and its Waco biplane became well known. Weaver Aircraft later went out of business in the mid 1930s, because of labor troubles, according to Long.

Long started his first airport in 1919 on a farm in Avon, later moving to Lorain. He got his first flying permit in 1926 despite difficulties with the meteorology and navigation requirements of the test.

Of meteorology, he said: "I knew enough to run when a storm was coming." Of navigation: "I knew enough to follow railroad tracks and rivers."

But the inspector could see that Long knew how to fly, and gave him his license anyway. The next year, Long worked as an assistant flying instructor at the Curtiss School in Florida and learned navigation and meteorology. He came back and passed that section of the flight test.

Long, a widower for the past 18 years, flew with the Civil Air Patrol out of his airport during World War II.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Disagrees On Dissent; Would Like Some Sleep

To the Editor:
There are several things that need to be clarified concerning Mr. Stephen Lewis's letter to the editor dated Nov. 18.

His main assertion seems to be that each individual should decide for himself what laws he will follow and what laws he won't tolerate. An exact quotation from his letter runs thus:

"Some argue that the dissenters have broken the law . . . This is true. However, the burning of a draft card is an excellent form of open civil disobedience. . . ."

This runs exactly opposite to the foundations of our nation, and against the traditions that he holds in such high esteem. George Washington indicted the people who favor this form of anarchy in his Farewell Address, writing:

"The very idea of . . . the right of the people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government."
Then Mr. Lewis pictures these Vietnams as courageous and non-Communist patriots. The truth, as gleaned from Congressional journals, national investigations, and evaluations from authorities, is that many of them are Communists, cowards, and often owe more allegiance to Red China than to America. Ample evidence has been given by such men as Gordon Hall (who exposed the John Birch Society), Attorney General Katzenbach, the always liberal Senator Kuchel, J. Edgar Hoover, Senator Dodd, President Johnson, and draft chief Lewis Hershey to support any and all of these charges.

All in all, the letter seems to be more of a mirror of the Pacificist reactions than an objective view.

To the Editor:
Realizing the necessity of the U.S. Air Force, and pilot training, I can only offer a weak protest when my stumber is rudely brought to an abrupt end about daybreak some mornings by screaming jets, zooming crazily over my humble abode, shaking it to the foundation, and rattling the fillings in my teeth.

Why not head these fireballs out towards San Angelo or El Paso where there is nothing much in evidence but gophers and oil derricks and maybe a few hoot owls, and let us good citizens get some much needed rest!

'THE CINCINNATI KID'
Steve McQueen, Ann-Margret, Tuesday Weld

McQueen Starring In Ritz Feature

Set against the background of New Orleans, where much of the story was filmed on location in Metrolor, the action never flags in "The Cincinnati Kid," screen version of Richard Jessup's best-seller. This is the latest screen entertainment from the hands of producer Martin Ransohoff, who has such top hits to his credit as "The Sandpiper" and "The Loved One." And he assembled an ace cast for the taut, red-blooded yarn of a guy who likes women, but who likes the gambling tables even more and who is willing to fight to the death to be king of the poker-playing world.

Steve McQueen plays the latter, the Kid of the film's title, with the other starring roles portrayed by Edward G. Robinson, Ann-Margret, Karl Malden and Tuesday Weld. Co-starring in the big cast are Joan Blondell, Rip Torn, Jack Weston and Cab Calloway. The film also features artists in a New Orleans night life sequence. It opens today at the Ritz.

McQueen and Robinson, as Lancey Howard, are the chief protagonists in the explosive conflict of "The Cincinnati Kid." Lancey has been the king of stud poker for years and fiercely guards his title. When the Kid

Getty Talks About Money

HOW TO BE RICH. By J. Paul Getty. Playboy Press, Trident. $5.

Since he is believed to be one of the richest men in the world, Getty has the basic qualification for writing these essays.

But in addition to the tangible assets, he has the common sense which is needed to keep them. And he goes beyond the matter of making money to the complicated question of what to do with it.

Getty is giving advice. Other very successful men have done likewise, and some of Getty's truisms have been offered to the public before. He differs from others in favoring cooperation with labor organizations and in his contempt for the bureaucracy of big business.

But his principal difference is his insistence on imagination, nonconformity and dissent. No doubt his section on "The Value of Dissent, Culture and Nonconformity" should be required reading in business management courses.

The author is properly modest in describing his start as an oil wildcatter, frankly saying he was very lucky. But he drives home the moral that success hinges on personal leadership.

There is an interesting chapter on business blunders, and Getty uses some of his own boners to establish his point that a man shouldn't stumble twice against the same stone.

As an art collector, Getty is disdainful of the blind babblery so prevalent among American business men, and has some scornful things to say about their night club mentality. In his section on investments, he considers three topics—common stocks, real estate and fine art, and argues that art is the finest.

Characters Keep Drama Interesting

Although suspense dominates the production of "The Mousetrap," a picturesque gallery of characters keeps the drama entertaining, aside from the cover of guilt that hangs over all of them.

Agatha Christie, who penned the story line, developed a mysterious plot that links these guests with murder — through the artful connection of the tune, "Three Blind Mice," and a mouse.

The play will be staged here Dec. 10-11 in the City Auditorium by the Little Theatre of Big Spring.

All the characters bring personal oddities to the stage that make them entertaining as well as objects of suspicion. With so many suspects, and all of them with guilty glances, gasps and starts, only the best detectives in the audience will have a chance of guessing the real murderer before the person is revealed.

In addition to being a thrilling mystery story, "The Mousetrap" is also great fun. Mindful that many theatre-goers prefer productions suitable for the entire family, the theatre group selected this play, as it can be enjoyed by all members of the family.

Agatha Christie has employed refinement, good manners, and poise in staging this story, despite the unpleasant motives and circumstances of murder.

How to solve the college problem

Not enough room for the growing number of qualified boys and girls who want to go to college—and who ought to go—that's the problem.

The colleges lack the classrooms, facilities and teachers to educate all these potential leaders.

It's our problem, too. We need leaders to make wise use of our resources, manpower and human skills. This affects our level of prosperity—our jobs, opportunities and living standards.

The problem is too big, too widespread to be solved by the colleges alone. They need our help.

Let's help the colleges help us—it's the only way. Give to the college of your choice.

Producer Introduces Eight New Talents In Film

Howard Hawks, who has discovered many of the screen's luminaries, has surpassed his record with the Technicolor production, "Red Line 7000," opening Thursday at the Ritz Theatre.

Hawks introduces eight young talents in the leading roles of the film about young people in love, set in the world of race car driving. They are Gail Hirt, James Ward, Laura Devon, John Robert Crawford, Marian Hill, James Caan, Charlene Holt and Norman Alden.

The stars were chosen by Hawks after interviewing and testing more than a hundred candidates. The film - maker considered the picture an ideal vehicle for launching fresh talents.

The situation was not a new one for Hawks, who over the years has discovered or established the careers of more stars than any other man in Hollywood. In the past, he had made stars of Paul Muni and George Raft in "Scarface," Montgomery Clift in "Red River," and Pat O'Brien in "The Front Page."

However, it has usually been the girls who felt he was their best friend, for Hawks has always enjoyed creating a picture with an established male star—and an unknown actress. He has employed this technique to bring fame and fortune to such now renowned actresses as Carole Lombard, Rita Hayworth, Joanne Dru, Joan Collins and Angie Dickinson.

Often asked about his formula for spotting exceptional talent in an unknown, Hawks insists the first secret in discovering stars is "to be lucky."

"The second," his explanation continues, "is to keep searching. I go to Little Theatre plays in Hollywood, watch television and even pay close attention to TV commercials."

He also feels that high fashion modeling produces many future stars, because intelligent girls eventually grow tired of modeling and begin looking for acting jobs. He constantly in-

Norwegian Beauty Shown On New Issue

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newstographer

The first in a series of stamps representing and illustrating the natural beauty of Norway has been issued by the Norwegian Post Office. The new stamp, a 1.50 krone blue, depicts a view of Rondane, the magnificent formation of mountains in the southeastern part of Norway. The design was taken from the painting "Winter Night in the Mountains" (Vinternatt i fjellene) by the artist Harald Sohlberg. This work, completed in 1914, is now in the National Museum of Norway in Oslo. No information or dates have been given for other stamps in this series.

lead off the American Folklore Series.

Dates and places will be announced later.

Sixteen British colonies have issued a common omnibus commemorative stamp to commemorate the International Cooperation Year, reports the British Crown Agents. The common design features a handclasp within a wreath. A portrait of Queen Elizabeth appears at the right side of each stamp except in the following territories: Brunel—a portrait of the Sultan, Federation of South Arabia—Coat of Arms, New Hebrides Condominium—the Cyphers with symbol and crown.

Here's good news for U.S. collectors. The Post Office Department in Washington has announced the subjects for various commemoratives to be issued in 1966.

A stamp will honor SIPEX, the Sixth International Philatelic Exhibition, to be held in the nation's capital next May 21-30.

One of the issues will be an addition to the American Painting series. It will depict artwork by Mary Cassatt, the first woman to be honored in the series.

There will be a stamp, honoring the 150th anniversary of Indiana statehood, another for the 50th anniversary of the American National Park Service, one for the Migratory Bird Treaty with Canada and a stamp pointing to the humane treatment of animals which will mark the 100th anniversary of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Also on the agenda—a stamp to honor the circus, one to pay tribute to the 175th anniversary of the Bill of Rights, and a "Johnny Appleseed" adhesive to

DEAR ABBY

Restaurant Show-Off

DEAR ABBY: What can I do with a husband who takes me often to a lovely restaurant, then hardly speaks to me the whole time. He is so busy trying to impress the cocktail waitress, waiters, and even strangers at nearby tables. He considers himself a gourmet and bon vivant (which he is not) and he tries so hard to appear important to those who serve us. You should hear him show off his high school French from 30 years ago! How can I let him know how foolish his actions are? To say nothing of his thoughtlessness in keeping busy people from their work and annoying strangers who couldn't care less. I am too chagrined to sign my name. Just sign me . . .

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Show me a man who's pompous in public and I'll show you a man who is nothing at home. Your husband is suffering from malnutrition of the ego, and should be treated at home, not in restaurants.

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of my father, I could die. He has been married seven times, and divorced six! All of his ex-wives are living and I have so many half-sisters and brothers, I have lost count.

I went to a priest and confessed that I had been lying about my father, and telling people who didn't know better that my father was dead. The priest said he didn't blame me for lying, but I shouldn't lie any more about it. Now I keep having these horrible nightmares in which I see my father in a coffin with the lid nailed down, and him trying to get out. Please help me.

NIGHTMARES
DEAR NIGHTMARES: Your father's marital record is certainly nothing to brag about, but you are not responsible for your father's behavior. If someone asks about your father, tell them the truth. The chances are they will think you're kidding. These nightmares are probably caused by your guilt - feelings from lying. Forgive yourself, and stick to the truth, and you'll be all right.

DEAR ABBY: Some 13 years ago my wife and I were selected to be godparents by friends who had their first child. We are without children and quite well off.

We have faithfully inquired about the child's progress and have cheerfully played the role of "generous godparents" on all occasions. Birthdays, Christmas, Easter—you name it, we've provided a gift. Now, would you believe it, Abby, we have NEVER seen the child since his birth. And we rarely see the parents. Our godchild has never shown the slightest bit of interest in us, and every effort we have made to become closer to the parents has met with almost humiliating failure. Are we expecting too much? Or are we just a pair of old fools?

GODPARENTS
DEAR GODPARENTS: The OFFICIAL function of godparents is to rear the child in the religion of his parents should they both die while the child is a minor. All gifts should be voluntary. And anyone who feels like a "fool" for giving generously, and continues to give, is bigger fool than he thinks he is.
