Computer Talks To Students

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Thousands of remedial English students at San Antonio College are using a computer to bring their writing skills up to acceptable levels.

The computer "talks" to the students, corrects their errors and allows them to work at their own pace. And, one instructor says, the program is preventing "a great waste of human potential."

The two-year junior college, with an enrollment of 22,000 students, operates a special remedial English laboratory equipped with the IBM computers.

The lab, a supplement to tradition classroom methods, combined audio-visual teaching with individualized, computer-assisted instruction.

Working with typewriter and a video display terminal, the student reviews and tests himself on the basic concepts of sentence structure and usage.

"Within a short time, most are able to incorporate these concepts into their own writing and move on to earn top grades in freshman composition classes," said Vivian Rudisill, lab director.

The lab was begun in 1973 in response to plummeting college entrance examination scores, she said.

Mrs. Rudisill said the writing problem is nationwide. She cited reports that more than half the students starting college this year cannot write a complete English sentence. National college entrance tests show many students can't distinguish between a noun and a verb.

"If left uncorrected, this kind of handicap can severely impact overall college performance as well as hamper later career success," said Mrs. Rudisill.

The computer system is programmed to work with the students in five areas: sentence patterns, analysis, types, errors and effectiveness.

To begin each exercise, the student types his name. The computer responds with directions on how to complete the test. When the student answers correctly, he is rewarded with personalized praise- "Good work, Marty." After an error, the computer terminal displays the correct answer and an explanation.

Working with the computer seems to encourage the students and Mrs. Rudisill said "one student recently completed a whole semester's works in five weeks."

She stressed, however, that the computer does not replace the instructor, but handles the repetitive drill work at a pace that is best for each student. This frees the instructor for more creative work.

The achievement of students who take the course is dramatic, Mrs. Rudisill said.

Before the introduction of the computer-assisted instruction, nearly half the remedial English students failed more advanced classes in freshman composition. Now, nearly 75 per cent earn grades of "C" or better, she said.

"Writing is the basis of all formal business communications. The precision and clarity of written expression is vital, in everything from inter-office memos to complex contracts," she said.

"Putting your thoughts on paper forces you to think more clearly. I believe the English lab's computer instruction experience is helping prevent a great waste of human potential."

Massachusetts Employes Strike

BOSTON (AP) — State prison guards, welfare workers and other state employes struck today in a dispute over wages in a new contract. The strike is illegal under Massachusetts law and Gov. Michael S. Dukakis said, "We'll be in court today."

Dukakis said he would seek an injunction to end the strike by 50,000 of the state's 65,000 employes. It was the first statewide walkout by state employes in Massachusetts history.

Picket lines went up this morning at state office buildings and other state facilities. Rush-hour traffic was tied up on major arteries leading into Boston when state workers who man drawbridges walked off the job with the bridges open.

Dozens of placard-carrying workers appeared at state hospitals, unemployment offices and welfare offices around the state. There were picket lines at the state prison in Concord and the main state office buildings in Boston.

The Alliance, a coalition representing the striking workers, organized the picket lines which cropped up at 6 a.m.

Dukakis ordered nonstriking mangement and supervisory personnel mobilized to combat the job action at key facilities. The strike is illegal under the 1973 state law which permitted state employes to bargain collectively for wage increases.

Union officials had been served with an antistrike order Sunday by the State Labor Relations Commission.

Correction Commissioner Frank A. Hall declared a state of emergency at 6 a.m., enabling prison superintendents to hold prison guards for a second shift at Concord Reformatory. A spokesman said complete or almost complete day shifts reported for work at the Framingham, Norfolk, Walpole and Bridgewater facilities.

Several draw bridges in and around Boston were left open, backing up commuter traffic. Metropolitan District Commission police moved in to close at least one of the bridges in Cambridge.

Police said that at the medical complex housing the Danvers State Hospital and the William Hogan Center for Retarded Children, one employe reported that pickets smashed his windshield and rear windows when he tried to cross the line to go to work.

Urged to halt the strike, Alliance official Howard V. Doyle said, "We haven't changed our positions."

Fresh Riots Erupt In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Fresh riots erupted in black townships today outside Pretoria, the South African capital, and in Johannesburg. Police said at least two persons were shot and killed.

Heavily armed black and white police backed by helicopters dropping tear gas moved into the troubled areas to cordon off the rioters and quell the violence. It came after three days of racial rioting last week that was the worst in the history of this segregated nation.

The government, in its first comprehensive report of last week's casualties and damage, said at least 128 persons were killed, 1,112 injured and 143 vehicles and 139 buildings burned or damaged.

The main Pretoria townships hit by today's unrest were Mabopane, Mamelodi and Atteridgeville.

A police spokesman said the rioting at Mabopane was apparently sparked when 170 black workers at the Klipgat waterworks struck for higher wages. Buses, cars and police vehicles were attacked by mobs who set some ablaze and pelted others with rocks. Schools were gutted.

Top Court Rules 5-4

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today that states may make direct financial grants to church-related colleges without violating the constitutional separation of church and state.

The justices in the majority split 3 to 2 as to the reasons for their decision.

The court upheld a Maryland program adopted in 1971 granting state money to private colleges and universities. Funds may not go to institutions which primarily award seminarian or theological degrees.

Before receiving a grant, the president of a college must verify that it will not be used for sectarian purposes. After a year, he is required to report on the use to which the money was put.

A three-judge federal court in Baltimore upheld the program by a 2 to 1 vote in 1974.

Seventeen college receive money under the program. Three of them — Notre Dame and Loyola in Baltimore and Mount Saint Mary's in Emmitsburg, Md. — are affiliated with the Roman Catholic Church.

In other decisions, the Supreme Court:

—Ruled that courts should not referee internal disputes in churches which have their own hierarchy of rulers. The 7 to 2 decision overturned an Illinois Supreme Court ruling in a 13-year legal fight between two factions of the Serbian Eastern Orthodox Church in the United States and Canada.

—Ruled that it is constitutional to make property zoning decisions subject to a voter referendum. The ruling upheld an Eastlake, Ohio, ordinance subjecting all zoning changes to an automatic referendum in which a 55 per cent majority is required to approve the action.

The Supreme Court was asked whether the program amounts to a law "respecting an establishment of religion" and consequently forbidden by the First Amendment.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun, in an opinion in which Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. joined, said the Maryland program met a three-fold test of the constitutionality of state aid to church-related institutions, as outlined in a 1971 case.

In the 1971 ruling, the court said the aid must have a secular purpose, must not have the primary effect of advancing religion, and must not foster an excessive government entanglement with religion.

The Supreme Court's opinion said the first part of the test was not an issue because it was agreed that the purpose of the Maryland program was the secular one of supporting private higher education generally.

Christian Demos Lead In Italy

ROME (AP) — The ruling Christian Democrats jumped out in front in first returns Monday in the senate race in Italy's parliamentary elections, appearing to hold off a Communist challenge for power in this NATO country.

With 676 of 73,179 polling places reporting after the two-day election, the Christian Democrats had 95,732 votes, or 41 per cent, compared to 78,942 for the Communists, running alone or jointly with other leftist parties.

Votes in the senate race, with 315 seats at stake, were counted first, to be followed by the 630 seats in the chamber of deputies.

The state-run television, using samplings by two polling organizations, projected the ruling Christian Democrats holding their own in the senate but the Communists gaining too.

The Doxa polling organization, which is affiliated with the U.S. Gallup Poll, gave the Christian Democrats 39.1 per cent of the vote, a gain of 3.6 per cent over the 1975 regional elections, while the challenging Communists were projected to get 33.2 per cent, an increase of 1.9 per cent.

Doxa said it sampled partial returns for the senate race from 347 of the more than 73,000 polling places. However, 5.5 million 18-to 25-year-olds were allowed to vote in the chamber of deputies election and were expected to give those results a more leftward tinge.

CARTER FORCES IN FIRM CONTROL

Demo Rules Panel Nixes Major Change Proposals

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of Jimmy Carter have shown they are uninterested in pushing major structural changes within the Democrtic Party during its national convention in New York next month.

Carter forces were in firm control as the party's Rules Committee defeated or committed for further study nearly every proposal for substantial change considered in two days of weekend meetings. The committee sets the agenda for the convention and recommends changes in procedure.

Among the unsuccessful proposals were moves to change the process of selecting a vice president and for requiring that women constitute 50 per cent of convention delegates.

Meanwhile, in the Republican race for the presidential nomination, there were weekend delegate contests in five states.

Ronald Reagan cut President Ford's delegate lead by 17 and predicted a first ballot victory at the GOP national convention. The Associated Press tally shows of with 1,005 delegates pledged to him. Reagan had 932. The winner needs 1,130 delegates.

There are 157 delegates remaining to be chosen and 164 in the uncommitted category.

In Iowa, Ford came away with a 19 to 17 split, after a complicated fight in which the President's campaign managers said they had expected to do better.

In Washington state, Reagan stategists were well organized and the former California governor captured 17 delegates to Ford's seven.

In Delaware, which Reagan had virtually ignored, Ford won 12 delegates and five went uncommitted.

Texas, which voted overwhelmingly for Reagan in its primary election, sent four at large delegates to the convention committed to Reagan.

Evacuees Steam Toward Athens

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

ABOARD USS SPIEGEL GROVE (AP) — The Spiegel Grove and its cargo of 267 American and other refugees from the Lebanese civil war steamed toward Athens today.

A holiday mood took hold soon after the 110 Americans and 157 evacuees of other nationalities climbed aboard the 510-foot LSD (landing ship dock) in the Mediterranean off Beirut on Sunday.

After a choppy, 25-minute ride from the beach in a landing craft, the refugees were served cold drinks and oatmeal cookies. The children found a play area penned off by cargo nets on deck. Adults peered through telescopes at their escort ships, talked with the sailors or sunned themselves as the 36-hour voyage to Athens began.

Less than 10 per cent of the American community in war-shattered Lebanon took advantage of the sea evacuation ordered by President Ford.

Ford ordered the sea rescue when it became clear early Sunday that continued fighting between Syrian and Palestinian forces south of Beirut made a road convoy to Damascus, Syria, risky. Ford and the National Security Council maintained an all-night vigil Saturday at the White House, receiving Pentagon reports on the evacuation, dubbed "Operation Fluid Drive."

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and three members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were at the Pentagon, monitoring the progress of the operation.

At the other end of the long chain of command was Chief Bosun's Mate Glen R. Kennedy, 46, of Rhinelander, Wis., guiding the small landing craft to the Beirut dock to pick up the Spiegel Grove's passengers. They included two dogs, a cat and a parakeet.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford stayed up until after the evacuees were safely aboard the LSD at 5:12 a.m. EDT "to be ready to make whatever decision would have to be made if it did not go as smoothly as it did."

The U.S. government emphasized that the landing craft sent into the beach was unarmed. But a Navy spokesman said a five-ship amphibious group with 1,800 Marines and armor, artillery and helicopters aboard was standing by, "prepared to go in under fire" if ordered to do so.

Evacuee Vicki Ulrey of Greenwich, Conn., said she had "mixed feelings."

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Willie Mae Prichell of Hot Springs, Ark.

Davis Rites Set Wednesday

Mrs. Hank (Rosemary) Davis, 55, died at 8 a.m. Sunday in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. She was born June 27, 1920 in Quapah, Okla. She was a member of the American Legion and VFW Auxiliaries.

Funeral services are set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at Bell-Seale Chapel with Rev. Waylon Dowden of Union Methodist officiating. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

She married Hank Davis June 22, 1964 in Odessa. He survives.

Economy Moving Ahead But Doubts Are Provoked

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — At mid-year the economy continues to move ahead, at least as measured by the popular indicators, but with an irregularity and inconsistency that provokes doubts from time to time.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, recently raised his forecast of real growth for the year to 7 per cent, a significant increase of about 1 per cent over earlier forecasts.

Although private forecasts tend to be a bit lower than Greenspan's, he is not alone by any means. The Wharton Econometric forecast, issued this month, foresees a rise in Gross National Product of 6.6 per cent for 1976.

But while assurances of this sort circulate, the presence of relatively high rates of interest, inflation and unemployment prevent any euphoria. A poor housing market and a stalled stock market add to the insecurity.

A prominent broker recently issued an analysis that was remarkable in its simple conclusion: Perhaps the inability of the stock market to move ahead is a reliable forecast of an economy that will find progress difficult.

Some consumers apparently feel that way. After a surge of retail buying earlier this year they have settled back into a wait and see attitude, made hesitant by the reappearance of some hefty price increases.

The surveys of consumer sentiment pretty well document the likely attitude of shoppers if inflation threatens to get much worse: They will simply stop buying. They are not eager to go through it all over again.

What certainly must bother a great number of Americans is the continued presence of old problems and the inability of anyone to do much about them.

Housing is a perfect case. The industry has had very little success in curbing rising prices, which now have put home ownership far beyond the ability of many middle-class couples. And the government has been no more successful.

More pervasive even are the problems of unemployment and inflation. While certain statistics proclaim recovery, these two measures of the nation's wellbeing remain at levels that heretofore would have suggested deep recession.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Protecting the consumer was a major concern of the attorneys general from more than 40 states and U.S. territories attending the 70th annual meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General recently.

Our office, which hosted the meeting in San Antonio, was an active participant in meetings of the 14 N.A.A.G. committees, where much substantive discussion of consumer-related matters took place, and where resolutions were hammered out which later were adopted by the N.A.A.G. general assembly.

One such measure, proposed by our office's chief of consumer protection, Philip Maxwell, resolved to ask that Congress amend federal bankruptcy laws to close a loophole which in effect permitted violation of state consumer laws by unscrupulous merchants in certain limited instances.

Consumer protection attorneys said that some states have reported cases where corporations that are defendants in deceptive trade practices suits brought by state attorneys general have used federal bankruptcy laws to circumvent justice.

This comes about when the corporation being sued files a petition for bankruptcy. Under current federal law, all state legal actions are then held up until the bankruptcy proceedings are settled. Some corporations allegedly have misused this provision of the law as an obstructionist tactic to evade state legal actions, while continuing to operate under a special "Chapter 11" bankruptcy provision.

Another resolution passed by N.A.A.G. supports enactment of federal legislation to require that packaged foods and other products be labeled uniformly. We emphasized, however, that states should not be limited in their efforts to see that consumers purchasing such goods get the fullweight or measure stated on the package.

We felt that consumers, retailers, intrastate packagers, farmers, and manufacturers all need to be assured that the weights and measures indicated on packaged goods are accurate.

In line with that feeling, we additionally opposed any efforts to prohibit or impede the use of statistically valid methods of determining if there are short weights or measures in lots of packaged goods.

Antitrust efforts to protect the public received the attention of the assembled attorneys general also, in the form of a resolution favoring parens patriae legislation recently passed by both the U.S. House and Senate, and now in the conference committee state.

Under the bill, state attorneys general could sue antitrust violators on behalf of all of the citizens of the states, and recover treble damages for overcharges resulting from illegal company actions including price-fixing. Funds recovered in such actions would be funneled into a collective damage fund for distribution to individual claimants, with the remainder applied to an appropriate public purpose.

Viking 1 Orbit To Be Narrowed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking 1, which has completed its first sweep around Mars, was scheduled to have its orbit narrowed today so the spacecraft can probe its scheduled July 4 landing site for potential hazards.

Earth-bound controllers prepared to fire Viking 1's onboard engines at 1:43 p.m. EDT and whittle its orbit from a 42.3-hour path around the planet to one corresponding to the number of hours in a Martian day — 24 hours and 37 minutes.

The spacecraft was made ready to fire its rocket engine on reaching a point 940 miles above the site where its robot laboratory lander will set down on America's birthday.

At about 2 p.m. EDT Tuesday, Viking will begin a photographic session that will last until landing day. Using stereo cameras that produce three-dimensional images, the spacecraft will scan the ancient valley for any hazards that could damage the lab when it descends to the surface.

The predetermined site is thought to be smooth and gently rolling.

The craft also will be using infrared equipment to check for temperature differences across the Martian surface and water content in its atmosphere.

In its new elliptical orbit, Viking's distance from the planet will vary from 930 miles to 20,000 miles.

Viking 1, which has a companion ship following 10 million miles behind, arrived near Mars on Saturday, fired a 38-minute braking burst and swung into orbit. Mission officials at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here said the maneuver was precise, "as if it had been following a textbook."

Drug Arrests, Burglaries, Thefts Reported

Drugs arrests continued in Snyder over the weekend and two burglaries and a theft were also reported by city police.

Two men, 17 and 19 years old, were arrested on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and marijuana early Sunday morning in Towle Park after the car the two men were travelling in had been stopped for routine police inspection. Police officers said they were awaiting lab tests needed to determine the nature of the confiscated drugs. Both men remain in county jail. The arrest was made at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. Charges against the two men are pending.

The Joe Thompson home in the 2500 block of Thirtieth Street was the target of burglars Sunday when $600 in $10 and $20 bills was taken from the garage of his house. Entry was gained to the garage through a door after an earlier attempt of entering through a window had failed, officers reported.

The theft of two boxes of nails was reported to city police by Buell Englert. The nails were taken from a construction site in Trinity Boulevard sometime over the weekend. Value of the nails was estimated at $70. The nails were the property of the Buell Englert Const. Co.

The concession stand of the Texas Teenage Baseball League in Towle Park was burglarized Sunday evening. Taken in the burglary was a small amount of candy and chewing gum. No estimate has been made as to the value of the stolen merchandise. The burglary was reported to police at 10:07 p.m. Sunday.

Only one traffic accident occurred in Snyder over the weekend. The mishap occurred Saturday at 10:30 p.m. at the intersection of Thirty-seventh Street and Avondale. A 1975 Dodge driven by Timothy Eugene Lewis was involved in a collision with a 1973 Ford driven by Quinta M. Haymond. Only minor damages were reported.

Roloff To Jail Today

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff began serving a five-day jail sentence today for contempt of court as several hundred of his followers gathered nearby and sang, "There's something sweet about Jesus, no matter what people say."

Shortly before surrendering to sheriff's deputies, Roloff told the group, many of them youths from his child care homes, "If I never come out of this jail, you are worth it."

After Roloff entered the jail, his lawyer, Charles Lowry, left for Austin to seek a Texas Supreme Court order that would free the evangelist.

Roloff recently was held in contempt of court and ordered to pay a $1,750 fine because of his refusal to allow state welfare workers to inspect his three homes for children in South Texas.

A state inspection team visited the schools June 9 but made no public report.

It was the second time Roloff had been taken to the Nueces County jail. He was sentenced to a five-day term for contempt of court in February 1974. The Texas Supreme Court granted Roloff a writ of habeas corpus and the evangelist was freed within 24 hours.

Ships Collide In Bicentennial Race

By The Associated Press

Similar strategies at the start of the Bicentennial race for tall-masted ships from Bermuda to Newport, R.I., apparently led to collisions involving seven of the sailing vessels, two of them among the largest in the flotilla.

Two of the square riggers were forced to quit the race and two sailors reportedly suffered minor injuries Sunday in the initial stage of the race by the 18 tall ships and some 80 smaller vessels.

The Providence (R.I.) Journal, which had two reporters covering the race, said the collisions occurred because many of the ships along the 1¼-mile starting line were trying to get as close as possible to the windward starting mark and then tack starboard.

"Everyone was pinching that windward mark," Coast Guard Lt. Tony Mink, commandant of the host ship Eagle, was quoted by the newspaper as saying. The Journal had a reporter aboard the Eagle.

Cmdr. Greville Howard, vice chairman of the Sail Training Association which organized the race, said the race committee would meet in Newport and issue a statement after evaluating reports from all the ships involved.

The passage to Newport is mainly an exercise for 3,000 sail training cadets from all over the world. The fleet is scheduled to leave Newport July 1 and sail to New York for the Operation Sail 1976 Bicentennial parade up the Hudson River.

One collision involved three ships. The 350-foot, four-masted Spanish topsail schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano incurred a broken foremast and had to turn back to Bermuda, and the three-masted, 338-foot Libertad from Argentina suffered two torn sails, damaged lifeboats and a smashed port rail.

The Christian Radich, a 241-foot, three-masted full rigged ship from Norway reported no damage. Both the Libertad and the Christian Radich continued the race.

Capt. James R. Kelly of the Eagle said he narrowly avoided the three-ship collision about 50 yards from his bow.

Red, White And Glue Shows Kids' Spirit

NEW YORK (AP) — One million of the nation's junior craftsmen from 40,000 schools have illustrated their concept of "The Spirit of '76" by glueing such material as bread dough, clothespins, matches, cigar boxes, pennies, popsicle sticks and papier mache for entries in a national Bicentennial contest.

Third-grader Matthew McCommas, 8, of Cleveland, Ohio, used layers of burnt-edged wooden matches to make an American eagle with the message "Freedom's Wings 1776-1976" printed on a streamer in the bird's beak.

Matches were used in another wayby Allen Smith, also 8 and in the third grade in Shrewsbury, Pa. He crafted an American flag with blue and red match tips and had 13 stars circling "1776" on natural wood match ends. Rows of red and natural match tips were lined up for stripes.

Tara Martinez, 9, fourth-grader of Gonzalez, La., made a mouth-watering white birthday cake that looked as though it were topped with flaked coconut. Circular, it was covered with torn tissue flakes with red and blue stars glued on each "slice."

As each piece is lifted out crayoned scenes are revealed, such as the Capitol, the Liberty Bell, the Statue of Liberty and Betsy Ross and the flag.

A Lierty Bell of overlapping copper pennies to give a three-dimensional effect, mounted on a plaque, was the work of Charles B. Merrill Jr., 8, of Swainsboro, Ga.

Paul Miller, 8, of North Miami, Fla., won a $2,000 U.S. Savings Bond as first prizewinner in the competition sponsored by Elmer's Glue.

He created a diorama of George Washington crossing the Delaware, using papier mache, mirror chips, cotton balls and twigs. Coffee colored the boat for Washington and his blue-coated soldiers.

Amy Schwendimann, 10, of Richardson, Tex., won $1,000 as second prize. She built a cigar-box house showing Betsy Ross with the Revolutionary-era flag, using popsicle sticks for logs, bread dough and clothespins in her salute to the nation.

Third national prizewinner was Jusin Lang, 10, of Lakewood, Colo. The 4th-grader won $500 for his head of Benjamin Franklin, made with papier mache features on a cardboard tube.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "I see that Regina Barnes of Modesto, California, became a life master just before her fifteenth birthday. You didn't play any bridge until you entered Notre Dame, so you were never a competitor for the record."

Jim: "No. You and mother would never teach me the game."

Oswald: "Why don't you devote this whole week to some of your early bridge experiences. How about your first grand slam?"

Jim: "This was my first really interesting one. The game was match-point duplicate and while I was sure I could make seven spades I counted twelve top tricks and decided to go for the extra ten points and a top."

Oswald: "Yes. Seven spades would have been a cinch. How did you play the notrump?"

Jim: "Slowly, but successfully. I won the club in my hand, ran off five spades while chucking a club and a heart from dummy. West threw two hearts. Then I cashed the diamonds to see West discard a third heart. I played a second club and when East showed out I had a complete count of the hand. Each opponent was down to two hearts and my third heart was a winner."

1976 Potato Crop Larger

WASHINGTON (AP) — World potato production dropped sharply last year, particularly in Europe, but farmers may boost output in 1976, according to an Agriculture Department analyst.

Franklin E. Hokana of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said that the 1976 world potato crop may be "moderately larger" than last year's 230 million metric tons, weather permitting.

Hokana said in a report today in "Foreign Agriculture" published by his agency that U.S. growers have indicated a 5 per cent larger acreage and that some European countries also expect to boost plantings. But a shortage of good potato seed has been a problem, he said.

Last year's short potato crop in Europe triggered soaring prices and some scarcity. In Britain, for example, retail potato prices jumped from 2.5 pence per pound in Feb. 1975 to 12 pence a year later, the report said.

US Dairy Farmers Are Faring Better In 1976

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although much will depend on how this year's grain and forage crops turn out, it looks now as if dairy farmers will do better financially in 1976 than they have in several years, according to Agriculture Department economists.

Production has jumped more than 3 per cent from last year so far and probably will mean that total output this year will be around 117.5 billion pounds or more, the most since 119.9 billion in 1972.

Department experts say that this year's cash receipts from milk sales — what farmers gross — probably will be up substantially from the record of $9.9 billion in 1975. During the first three months, cash-receipts climbed nearly 25 per cent above January-March of last year.

The sizable jump in milk production so far this year was a main reason why Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz decided not to boost federal dairy price supports further.

Butz announced last week that the supports would be kept at $8.13 per 100 pounds of manufacturing-grade milk in the third quarter which will begin July 1. That is the rate which has been in effect since April 1, the beginning of the 1976-77 milk marketing year.

One USDA source, asking not to be identified, said that dairy farmers "should be happy Butz didn't decrease the support" from $8.13 because of the surge in milk production.

By law, Butz has the authority to set the basic milk price support at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, a price formula designed many years ago to show how much farmers would have to get for a commodity to give them the same buying power they had in 1910-14. The parity prices change regularly to reflect higher production costs and other factors.

Butz said the estimated July parity price of milk would be about the same as it was three months ago. Thus, the decision not to boost the support means that the rate of $8.13 per 100 pounds of milk will be 80 per cent of parity, the same as it was on April 1, he said.

But under the law's formula, Butz could have cut the support rate to 75 per cent — the minimum — which would be $7.62 per hundredweight. By the same token, he had the authority to raise it to 85 per cent or $8.64, where many dairy groups think the support should be, or to the maximum of 90 per cent, which would mean a support of $9.14 per hundredweight at the current parity level.

Butz is committed to review the dairy situation every three months, meaning that another decision will be due by Oct. 1. If the corn crop shrivels from drought and feed prices skyrocket again, Butz will be under heavy pressure to boost the support price at that time, particularly with the fall elections coming up.

Although milk price supports have risen gradually in recent years, the supply of milk has not kept up with demands lately. Thus, market prices of butter, cheese and dried milk have generally been higher than the support price. Those items are bought by the government when prices sag in order to carry out the support program for farmers.

Thus, the government has had to buy little milk in the form of manufactured products to carry out the support program. One reason has been that commercial inventories of dairy products have been low for some time and the upturn in production is allowing those to be rebuilt.

An illustration of the financial bind that dairy farmers have been in until recently is a new analysis of milk production costs prepared by the department's Economic Research Service for the Senate Agriculture Committee. The study, which is to be updated annually, was directed by Congress in the 1973 farm act and is based on surveys made in 1974 among 1,600 dairy farmers in 24 key areas.

Glance, McTear, Riddick Earn Olympic Berths

By KEN DONEY
Associated Press Writer

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Harvey Glance and Houston McTear, a pair of 19-year-old sprinters, and veteran Steve Riddick earned Olympic berths in the 100 meters Sunday as Steve Williams, who had been favored for a gold medal at Montreal, watched from the sidelines.

Glance, a freshman at Auburn, blazed to the tape in 10.11 seconds, his fastest time ever under automatic timing and a clocking that would have given him a gold medal at Munich.

McTear jumped out to a huge lead, but Glance brought the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials crowd of 12,500 people to their feet as he caught McTear with 10 meters to go.

McTear, who ran a world-record 9.0 for 100 yards last year in a high school meet in Florida, took second in 10.16, but he immediately pulled up, clutching his left hamstring.

"It appears that he has pulled some muscle fibers in his hamstring," a physician, Dr. Bob Larson, said of McTear, who was helped from the field.

McTear, whose 10.16 was his all-time best under automatic timing, is not entered in the 200 meters so he has a month before Montreal for the injury to heal.

Williams, the overwhelming favorite to win the 100 meters, dropped out Saturday when he pulled the hamstring muscle in his right leg. He planned to try again Monday in the preliminaries of the 200-meters dash.

Riddick, representing the Philadelphia Pioneer Club, was third in 10.18 with Johnny Jones, the prep star from Lampasas, Tex., next in 10.23 and earning the alternate berth should McTear be unable to compete in Montreal.

"I'd really like to make it in both sprints if possible," said Glance, who was entered in Monday's qualifying heats for the 200.

His time Sunday was the fourth fastest ever by an American. Riddick is one of the trio above him with his 10.05 last year.

Williams wasn't the only casualty in the first two days of the trials. Terry Albritton, the University of Hawaii shotputter who set an amateur world record of 71-8½ in February, finished fourth in the finals Sunday with 67-0 and Dan Ripley, indoor world record holder in the pole vault, failed to clear 17-0¾ in the qualifying.

Al Feuerbach, a 1972 Olympian, and George Woods, silver medalist in 1968 and 1972, finished one-two with throws of 69-3½ and 69-2¾, respectively, and fast-improving Petshmock, formerly of the University of Oregon, grabbed the third spot in 68-9¼.

Mac Wilkins, the former University of Oregon strongman who holds the world mark of 232-6 in the discus, easily qualified for the finals in that event. His toss of 210-9 was second best among the 10 who advanced.

The top throw of 212-2 was by 38-year-old Jay Silvester, who is seeking a berth on his fourth Olympic team.

DOWN PIRATES 9-4

Astros Halt Losing Streak

By GARY MIHOCES
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — On a rainy, muddy Sunday, Danny Murtaugh watched his Pittsburgh Pirates slide further down the National League East standings.

And in a span of seconds, he saw two of his players—pitcher Bruce Kison and catcher Manny Sanguillen—sustain injuries, apparently not serious, but the kind the team has had in abundance.

Yet Murtaugh found a source of optimisim—the calendar.

"The last time I looked at one, I believe it was still only June," the Pirates manager said after his team lost 9-4 to the Houston Astros. The second game of a doubleheader was postponed because of sloppy conditions.

The Astros halted their six-game losing streak and Pittsburgh's six-game winning streak by scoring five runs in the eighth-inning off Bob Moose.

The loss dropped the Pirates eight games behind Philadelphia in the NL East. The Phillies beat Cincinnati 6-1 Sunday.

"The Pirates have always been an optimistic team," Murtaugh said from his rocker. "A couple of years ago, as I recall, we were further behind by the All-Star break than we are now. If we weren't optimistic, we wouldn't play the game."

The Pirates took a 4-1 lead after the first three innings. One run came on Dave Parker's homer to center in the second off Larry Dierker.

However, the Pirates lost Kison and Sanguillen in the second.

With Ed Herrmann batting, Sanguillen jammed two fingers on a foul. Replacement Duffy Dyer then made a passed ball that allowed a run before Herrmann smashed a single off the right forearm of Kison, who also left the game.

X-rays on both players were negative. Sanguillen said he'd play Tuesday in Chicago, but Kison wasn't sure of his status.

By the middle innings, the dirt around home plate, the bases and the mound had turned to mud.

Houston tied the game with three runs in the fourth off rookie reliever Rick Langford, who allowed five straight singles.

"The mud makes it tough, but I don't want to use that as an excuse," said Langford, who doubled and scored in the third in his first major league at-bat.

For his double off the wall in left, Langford got a souvenir ball. "I thought it was a home run," said Langford, who hit a grand slam homer last year in the minors.

Tom Griffin relieved Dierker in the fourth and pitched four hitless innings with a walk and five strikeouts in raising his record to 5-1.

Myer Named MV Player

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Terry Metcalf would understand.

Fresh out of Long Beach State in 1973, he was the most valuable player in the Coaches All America Football Game yet nobody had ever heard of him.

Metcalf went on to become one of the premier running backs in the National Football League with the St. Louis Cardinals.

New Mexico quarterback Steve Myer, Missouri wide receiver Henry Marshall, Boston College quarterback Mike Kruczek, Grambling's Dwight Scales and Larry Dorsey of Tennessee State could be cut from the Metcalf mold.

They were the stars in Saturday night's nationally televised West 35-17 victory over the East in the 16th annual Coaches All America Football Game.

Myer was named the most valuable player thanks to his completing 12 of 15 passes for 131 yards and two touchdowns. Myer, a former AP Back of the Week and third leading passer in NCAA history, brought the West from behind with two clutch fourth quarter scoring passes.

Marshall, who was drafted by Kansas City, caught seven passes for 104 yards and two touchdowns.

Kruczek could keep Pittsburgh Steeler fans happy as a backup for Terry Bradshaw. Kruczek, the Steelers' number two draft pick, connected on 15 of 23 for 173 yards.

Dorsey, who is bound for San Diego, claimed eight passes for 108 yards and Scales, drafted by Los Angeles, established an all-star record with nine catches for 105 steps.

"There were some excellent talents in this game even though the players hadn't received that much of a national buildup," said West coach Frank Kush of Arizona State, who enjoyed his 14th straight victory without a loss.

Navy Coach George Welsh of the East said, "The game went just about like I expected because there was more talent on this team than there was in the East-West Shrine game I was involved in earlier this year."

An announced crowd of 36,504 watched the opening game of the football season, but the American Football Coaches Football Association refused to say whether the game would be brought back to Lubbock for an eighth consecutive year.

A decision was expected to made in the next few days.

Orioles Down Rangers 2-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Baltimore unleashed psychological warfare and Mike Cuellar's screwball on the Texas Rangers Sunday night and the result was a streaking Orioles' sixth consecutive victory and the Rangers' fifth straight loss.

Cuellar muffled the Ranger bats with a three hitter in the 2-0 victory which featured yet another greaseball controversy involving Ranger ace Gaylord Perry.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver charged homeplate umpire Rich Garcia at the end of the third inning, claiming he wasn't watching Cuellar's breaking stuff closely enough.

Weaver got the heave-ho for his trouble but noted later in the dressing room "He (Garcia) started calling the breaking pitches for strikes later in the game. I think I could have got him thinking about calling it."

Reggie Jackson took on Garcia in the seventh inning, asking him three times to look at the baseball after Perry's pitches.

Garcia, also at Jackson's request, made a visit to the mound to inspect Perry's hand for any possible foreign substance.

"I wasn't mad," said the Baltimore outfielder. "Everybody knows Perry throws spitters and I just wanted the umpires to call it once in a while."

Perry struck Jackson out with the bases loaded and the former American League Most Valuable Player went into an act that would have done credit to studio wrestling. Jackson hurled his batting helmet, bat and glove on the field and then got into an argument with Ranger Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Chris Evert Wins In Eastbourne

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Every little bit helps in championship tennis, and Chris Evert added quite a psychological bit and re-established her superiority over Virginia Wade, one of her major threats for the Wimbledon title.

Seeded first for Wimbledon, which opens for the women Tuesday, Miss Evert, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beat Miss Wade, Wimbledon's third seed, in the final of the Eastbourne grass tennis tournament 8-6, 6-3 Sunday. She won the first prize of $16,000.

Miss Evert was seeded first here and Miss Wade second. Miss Evert regained the title that Miss Wade won last year when the American was ill.

Miss Evert, whose chief competition at Wimbledon is expected to come from No. 2-ranked Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia, now has beaten Miss Wade five of six times this year, including four times in tournament play.

"I feel well prepared now for Wimbledon," Miss Evert said. "This tournament not only gave me a chance to become accustomed again to grass, but I also was able to get used to playing two sets in tournament play again."

She had been playing World Team Tennis with its one-set format the last few months with the Phoenix Racquets, winning all but one of her singles matches. The only defeat was to Miss Wade.

Jerry Pate Captures US Open With Dramatic Shot

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) — Young Jerry Pate looked at his ball nestling on a clump of Bermuda rough and measured his target, a flagstick sitting treacherously close to the front of a finger-thin green guarded by an expanse of water.

"I turned to my caddie, John Considine," he said, "and I told him, 'I've got to go for it. This is my one big chance to win the Open.'"

Pate took a five-iron from his bag.

"I had a good lie — I felt sure I could make it," he said. "I was all pumped up."

While thousands watched from the rain-drenched wings of the Atlanta Athletic Club — the club Bob Jones once belonged to — Pate swung gracefully and the ball arched toward the flag as if drawn by an invisible magnet and rested two feet from the cup.

"I knew then I had won the Open," he said.

The dramatic shot, which will go down in golfing annals as one of the greatest ever executed under extreme pressure, gave the rookie pro from Pensacola, Fla., a birdie finish for a final 68 and a two-stroke victory with 277.

Temperamental Tom Weiskopf and gangling Al Geiberger made plucky stabs at winning but fell short after firing rounds of 68 and 69, respectively, for 279. For the second year in a row, cherub-faced John Mahaffey saw the prize wrenched from his grasp as he finished bogey-bogey-bogey for a 73 that tied him at 280 with Butch Baird, an outsider wearing thick glasses and a wide-brimmed plantation hat.

"I got tired, I ran out of gas," said Mahaffey, who led until he was tied at the 70th hole of the 72-hole test. "But I will win the Open one day. You can print that."

He tied Lou Graham for the title at Medinah, outside Chicago, last year and lost in a playoff because of a tentative attitude on the putting greens. He showed no temerity in shooting rounds of 70-8-69 which gave him the lead after the second and third rounds.

The tall, talented Weiskopf exploded three straight birdies, starting at the 66th hole, but saw his hopes doused at the 215-yard 15th where he tried to recover from an impossible lie and scrambled for a bogey.

Pate, who displayed remarkable mental toughness despite his tender 22 years, never wavered in his determination or heart.

"I guess I wanted to be a hero," he said. "I really wanted to win the Open. I knew I wanted to win as much as those other guys."

At 22, Pate becomes one of the youngest ever to win the biggest prize in golf. The youngest of all time was John McDermott, who was 19 years and 10 months when he won in 1911. Gene Sarazen was 20 when he won at Skokie, Ill., in 1922, Jones 21 when he beat Bobby Cruickshank in a playoff at Inwood in 1923.

CARTER, REAGAN RESULTS EXPECTED

Conventions Highlighted By Debates, Long Waits

By GARTH JONES
and
MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writers

One thing that both Democrats and Republicans who attended their respective state conventions over the weekend might agree on is that there must be an easier way to get more things done.

The conventions, which produced expected results as far as presidential hopefuls Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan were concerned, were highlighted by time-consuming debates over resolutions and long waits for committee reports.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe summed up the feelings of many delegates at the Democratic convention that ended Saturday in Houston when he said that something had to be done about keeping the convention on time.

Briscoe said overall he "feels good" about the Democratic convention.

The Democrats wound up after an eight-hour session that had been preceded Friday by a six-hour stint running past midnight. Much of the time was spent waiting on committee reports.

"We've got to work so business can be conducted more expeditiously," the governor said. "No one ever gets everything they want out of a convention."

Briscoe also could have been speaking for the Republicans, who met in Fort Worth. Late Saturday night they concluded the longest GOP convention in memory. The holdup was debate over resolutions. Those which passed call for restricting abortion on demand and recision of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

Briscoe and Carter's followers, particularly Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong who is Carter's state campaign manager, managed to keep the two-day meeting under control, but just barely at times. Briscoe will lead the Carter delegation to the New York national convention in July.

Carter got 20 at-large delegates and 44 alternates, based on his winning a 62 per cent vote in the convention presidential preference poll. California Gov. Jerry Brown got two delegates, Alabama Gov. George Wallace got one and nine delegates went to the "uncommitted" list.

In addition to Briscoe and Armstrong, the Texas Carter delegation to New York will include Harry Hubbard, Texas AFL-CIO president; Agriculture Commissioner John White, who led Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's unsuccessful favorite-son campaign; State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest and Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz.

Chief spokesmen for the uncommitted will be former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Austin, and Billie Carr, Houston liberal Democrat leader.

Re-elected to the Democratic National Committee were Jess Hay, Dallas; Joe Bernal, San Antonio; Alicia Chacon, El Paso; Mrs. Carr and Jane Blumberg, Seguin. New members of the committee are Rep. Mickey Leland, Houston, and Leo Riedel, LaMarque.

The only real flurry came when about 80 Democrat conservatives from Dallas stormed out of the convention to protest the removal of 24 "uncommitted conservatives."

They were replaced, after a convention vote, by 22 Carter supporters and two uncommitted liberals.

Meanwhile, in Fort Worth, Republicans sipped beer at $2.50 per quart and listened to former Gov. John Connally assail a "partisan, irresponsible Congress."

Reagan picked up the remaining four delegates which this assembly chose to attend the national convention in Kansas City. He had swept the other 96 in the May primary.

Republicans chose as their at large candidates Ron Paul of Lake Jackson, Fran Chiles of Fort Worth, Michael Halbouty of Houston and J. Evetts Haley of Canyon.

They also elected state Sen. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth and Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. as national committee members.

Connally's address was the oratorical highlight of the one-day session.

He brought the crowd of 2,500 to their feet when he said:

"We ought to abolish ideas of self service and provide ideas for public service."

Convention members also heard from state party chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas, U.S. Rep. Alan Steelman of Dallas, who is challenging Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, and Sen. John Tower.

Tower, who supports President Ford, said "I intend to support the nominee of my party, whoever he is."

Wood Put In 'Bank'

NEW YORK (AP) — Placing timber "in the bank" to preserve U.S. woodlands is a major objective of the nation's paper industry.

A "bank deposit," according to Continental Forest Industries President Jess L. Belser, is made possible by planting millions of new pine seedlings annually and then harvesting only 75 per cent of the growth each year.

CONCERNED ABOUT NUTRITION

Americans Will Pay More For Information On Food

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A new government study indicates that Americans are concerned about the nutritional value of the food they eat and are willing to pay a little more for extra information.

The study was conducted by the division of consumer studies of the Food and Drug Administration. It was the second such survey to try to check such items as consumer knowledge on nutrition.

The final results of the study have not been published and are expected out in about a month. A preliminary report provides some clues, however.

Among the findings:

—Almost three out of five shoppers — 59 per cent — say they have seen nutritional labeling (now required for manufacturers who make a nutritional claim for their products). More than half of those who are familiar with the labeling say they use the information in choosing some foods and beverages.

—Countering claims by some industry spokesmen who say consumers would object to the higher prices resulting from nutritional labeling, the FDA survey found that 65 per cent of those questioned would be willing to pay at least 10 cents more on their weekly food bill in exchange for the information. Fifty-six per cent would be willing to pay an extra 30 cents and 40 per cent would be willing to pay an extra 50 cents.

—In addition to looking at nutritional information on labels, shoppers also check for items such as open dating and unit pricing. About 75 per cent of those surveyed looked for dates on products and 41 per cent looked for unit pricing.

At the same time, however, there were indications that consumers don't always understand the information they get. When asked what the date on a milk carton meant, for example, more than half of those questioned either were unsure or mistakenly thought the milk should be used by the date given. (It should have been sold by the listed date.) More than half the shoppers — 62 per cent — said they would rather have the "use by" date instead of the "sell by" date.

—Many consumers are misinformed about basic nutrition and the problem is more severe among those with less education. Two out of five people surveyed did not understand the "U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance" or RDA part of the label. (The government recommends a given amount of nutrients such as protein and vitamins for every adult per day; nutritional labeling gives the percentage of these requirements provided by one serving of the product.)

The survey covered 1,664 persons who do at least half the food shopping for their households. They were interviewed in their homes.

FAMILY QUILT—Mrs. Bernice Headstream Fish holds the family quilt, all hand done in shades of lavender and green by the late Mrs. J.P. Headstream of Roby. Grandma Bell Headstream pieced and quilted it when she was 84 years of age. The quilt has now been passed on to paternal granddaughter, Mrs. Marshall Erwin of Snyder. Mrs. Erwin has promised to show it at the Pioneer Skills Festival, July 3, at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Gas Supply Is Adequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline supplies should be adequate this summer, even for the increased driving stimulated by the nation's Bicentennial observances, the Federal Energy Administration said Thursday.

But FEA Administrator Frank G. Zarb urged drivers to observe speed limits and avoid wasting gasoline.

The FEA said the national average retail price for gasoline is around 57.4 cents a gallon and that prices probably will rise about two cents per gallon during the summer, following their usual seasonal pattern.

A statement issued for Zarb, who was traveling abroad, said the agency would watch gasoline prices and "will respond as necessary to complaints of excessively high prices."

The FEA has ended price controls on heavy fuel oil and has proposed to remove controls from home heating oil and diesel fuel.

The agency still manages price controls over gasoline but has said it was preparing a proposal to end those controls as well.

Ballard Trial Begins Today

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — The murder trial of Witmer Jean Ballard, who is accused of killing a Glasscock County rancher with a shotgun blast, was scheduled to begin for a second time today.

Ballard, who had been sentenced in 1972 to life in prison in connection with the shooting death of rancher Steve Currie, was granted a new trial on the murder charge when the Court of Criminal Appeals overturned his conviction.

The new trial was moved to San Angelo on a change of venue from Fort Stockton in April.

Since the reversal, Ballard has been held in Tom Green County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Ballard was charged in the December 1970 death of Currie, who was killed by a point-blank blast from a shotgun when he struggled with men who apparently broke into his house to rob him.

Dr. Lamb

Meaning of early heartbeats

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read an article in the newspaper that caused me some concern. The title was "Skipped Heartbeats May Be Forerunner of Sudden Death." Since I have been subject to premature beats for about 20 years I read the article with some trepidation.

The article said the significance of the premature beats depends on their setting. They are more significant in persons who have already had a heart attack or in persons who have a large number of them.

I am 59 years old, 5 feet 1 and weigh 112 pounds. I have never had a heart attack. I teach English and lead a fairly active life. I follow a regular exercise program – a half hour of calisthenics, including jogging in place, every morning; brisk walks (three to five miles round trip) four or five days a week, frequent working out to music; and almost daily bicycle riding in the summer. I drink one cup of coffee a day and smoke about a carton of cigarettes a month.

My doctor has been aware of these irregular beats from the time they began and he assures me that they are not from any organic heart condition. I have an annual physical, and my cholesterol, triglycerides and bood pressure are all within normal range. He says not to worry about these skipped beats and up until now I have managed not to worry unduly about the. However, when I read this article, I wondered if continued research had revealed new knowledge which might apply to me. I do have them almost daily and sometimes they are sustained. They do not seem to be related to exercise or exertion.

DEAR READER— Since you have had them for 20 years, if they are a forerunner of sudden death, you have been mighty lucky, particularly considering all that physical activity. Seriously, I think you can relax under the circumstances.

It is true that premature beats that come from the ventricle in a person in the hospital with a heart attack can be quite important. They may even precede a fatal irregularity of the heart. If they occur for the first time in a person who has underlying heart disease they can be significant.

To give you more information about premature beats I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The vast majority of premature beats that people have in daily life are not dangerous. In fact, almost everyone has a few. I saw premature beats in most of America's astronauts at one time or another when I was examining them. Some were brought on during exercise and went away as the exercise continued. Others were brought on by various breathing maneuvers. Still others occurred spontaneously.

Premature beats were common in a large number of Healthy pilots from the U.S. Air Force flying crews, and unless they had other findings that did suggest heart disease, we returned these people to full flying duty. People with these problems should quit smoking, avoid coffee, tea, colas and anything that causes indigestion. Of course, a medical check-up is wise to find out for certain what they mean.

Single Beds Better Than Snoring Spouse?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N Y News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: The problem of a snoring spouse hit home with me. My husband snores so loud that when we travel, we always get two rooms. Separate FLOORS would be better yet—adjoining rooms isn't far enough away from his.

It hasn't interfered with our love life, either. In fact, it's improved it. If I don't get enough sleep, I'm cranky, irritable and tired. Nuts to what people say. I need my sleep.

MILWAUKEE MRS.

DEAR ABBY: If you come up with a remedy for snoring, let me know. I've tried everything. The plastic ear plugs almost punctured my eardrums, and the beeswax ear plugs fell out of my ears and got stuck in my hair. My doctor gave me sleeping pills, but I'm afraid I'll become addicted.

Believe it or not, my husband, who is a policeman, is afraid to sleep alone. If I slip out and sleep on the couch, he comes looking for me. This "hero" is 56 years old.

BROOKLYN

DEAR ABBY: You haven't heard snoring until you've heard my little wife snore. She denied it, so I had a tape recording made. We sometimes play it for laughs.

She sleeps with her mouth open, so when the racket gets too bad, I just reach over and pinch her nose shut and she quits.

MARVIN

DEAR ABBY: My husband has snored off and on for 33 years, and I wouldn't think of trying to cure him. You see, Albert snores only when he has a guilty conscience.

After having been kept awake most of the night because he's snored up a storm, I cross-examine him. And sure enough—he's been up to something. Either women or gambling.

He's almost 60 now and he's cut down on his snoring. I presume he has less to feel guilty about. I'm sure he still gambles, however.

OLIVIA

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't resist your survey on snoring mates. My husband is a U.S. congressman, and his snoring is so bad that when he campaigns, no one will sleep with him.

Once when we were vacationing, we stopped at a motel. The manager called us at 2 a.m., asking if he could move us to a cabin away from the others because he had so many complaints from the people around us. My husband's putting on weight, and the heavier he gets, the louder he snores.

USED TO IT

DEAR ABBY: If my husband only snored in his sleep, I'd be happy. He thrashes around, kicks, hollers, grinds his teeth and swings his fists. I was always black and blue and a nervous wreck from lack of sleep. I went to a doctor and he prescribed tranquilizers for my husband. He refused to take them, so I take them, and it helps a lot.

TRANQUILIZED

DEAR ABBY: When our family decreased and there was a spare bedroom available, I took it over because my husband's snoring disturbed my sleep.

It was like closing the door on an intimacy of 31 years. Well, Abby, after five years of sleeping apart, my advice to a young bride is, "Don't, under any circumstances, take a room by yourself. Stuff your ears, put a pillow over your head, take a sleeping pill, but don't leave his bed. And don't let him leave yours."

Take it from a 58-year-old woman. Something dies when a man and his wife quit sleeping together. I can't explain it. It's not sex, either. It's something more important. And once it's gone, you'll never get it back. I know. I've tried.

FOOLISH

DEAR FOOLISH: A reader once described snoring as "the sweetest music this side of heaven." She was a widow.

NTSB Releases Report On LPG Accident, Explosion

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liquid petroleum gas explosion that killed 16 persons near Eagle Pass, Tex., last year occurred because the driver of the LPG trailer-truck swerved to avoid a slowing vehicle, the National Transportation Safety Board said Sunday.

The trailer separated from the tractor and ruptured after striking a concrete wall. The escaping gas and resulting explosion destroyed a building and 51 vehicles. Fifty one persons in the area were injured and 16, including the truck driver, were killed.

The accident was the worst highway accident involving hazardous materials ever investigated by the NTSB. The safety agency said it was concerned because such a catastrophe, although rare, "can happen again whenever a loaded bulk LPG cargo tank ruptures in an accident."

It urged the government to find new ways to combat the threat of fire and explosion from liquefied gas leaks in ruptured tank trucks.

The Mexican-owned truck, loaded with nearly 9,000 gallons of LPG, was traveling at 50 to 55 miles per hour when it swerved to avoid a car and overturned.

The resulting explosion sent a large portion of the 17—ton tank truck more than 1,000 feet into the air. The tank section destroyed three mobile homes before coming to rest 1,654 feet from the accident scene.

Most of the persons injured were trapped by the flames in a used car facility along the highway. Six persons were burned when they fled their cars in an attempt to escape the flames.

The safety board said the probable cause of the April 29, 1975, accident was the "evasive action taken by the truck driver to avoid a slowing vehicle." It said the fatalities and injuries were caused by the explosive force and fire which occurred so suddenly that no one had time to escape.

The board urged the Transportation Department to find new ways of reducing the injuries and damages caused by escaping gas.

"Technical methods to reduce the casualties caused by the behavior of pressurized liquefied petroleum gas released from broken bulk containers in accidents need to be explored and have not been," the board said.

"The continuing possibility of catastrophic accidents during the transportation of LPG in bulk require that safety measures be developed to reduce the harmful effects of the sudden release of large quantities of pressurized, liquefied LPG," it added.

The board also urged the Transportation Department to require safety registration statements from persons transporting large quantities of pressurized liquefied petroleum gases. It said the Texas Department of Highways should conduct an engineering survey of the accident site to see if the 50-mile-per hour speed limit should be reduced and whether parking should be prohibited on the road shoulder.

And it said the Federal Highway Administration should determine whether concrete walls similar to that hit by the truck should be modified to protect them from highway traffic.

Olympics In Fink Underway

FINK, Tex. (AP) — Pogo stick jumping, hand clapping, brick carrying and coin snatching. Or is it brick jumping, coin clapping and pogo stick snatching? Anyway, those are some of today's events at the Fink Olympics in this North Central Texas town.

The festivities started Sunday with the snuffing of the symbolic torch and the Fink national anthem playing in the background.

There will be gold, silver and bronze medals awarded throughout the week as competitors try a mass assault on the Guiness Book of World Records.

The first gold medal went Sunday to Lewis Thurman, a professional rodeo performer who captured the honor when his Brahma bull sat on his—the bull's—haunches for three minutes and six seconds. This shattered the previous record of 14.5 seconds.

A crowd of 1,000 turned out in these green rolling hills north of Dallas to help Fink residents in a good-natured spoof on the International Summer Olympics upcoming next month in Montreal.

For the last 14 years, Fink's citizens have sponsored a National Fink Day. But this year the town—which has been designated a Bicentennial city—decided to do something different.

"When we got our Bicentennial status for Fink, we decided to use the Guinness Book of World Records as a platform for our Olympics," said Fink Mayor Pat Albright.

Mrs. Albright, who runs a general store in Fink with her husband, faces a busy weeklong schedule as contestants try to break such records as coin snatching, handshaking and marathon backward walking.

Handshaking has drawn more entries than any other event, Mrs. Albright said.

Finks from all over the United States attended opening day festivities.

More than 50 per cent of the world's whales are under 15 feet in length, says Warren Zeiller, manager-curator of the Miami Seaquarium. There is a 108-foot difference between the smallest and the largest whales on record.
