Udall Urges Establishing Guadalupe National Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall urged Congress today to pass legislation establishing the Guadalupe Mountains National Park in Texas.

The proposed park would include the highest point in the state. It would embrace 77,500 acres approximately 100 miles east of El Paso and 55 south-west of Carlsbad, N.M.

The Interior Department said it now has jurisdiction over 5,632 acres as a result of a 1961 private gift to the nation.

"The area set aside under S2296 for the park contains a combination of scenic and scientific attributes that qualify it as an outstanding addition to the national park system," the department's report stated.

It said the Permian marine limestone mountains in the proposed park contain the most extensive and significant fossil reefs in the world.

In addition, said the department, "it contains the most diversified and beautiful scenery in Texas and some of the most beautiful landscape in the entire southwestern part of the United States."

In further description, the department said:

"The Guadalupe range resembles a huge 'V' with the point of the 'V' lying in Culberson County, Tex., and the two arms extending northward into New Mexico.

"The point of the 'V' is El Capitan, which, with its sheer thousand-foot cliff, is visible for over 50 miles.

"Directly north of El Capitan is the highest point in Texas, Guadalupe Peak, rising to a height of 8,751 feet above sea level. Elevations range from 3,650 feet at the base of the western arm of the mountains to the top height of Guadalupe Peak.

"Between the two arms of the mountain range is a pine-covered rolling highland deeply incised by canyons. The contrast between desert and high country atmosphere—including shaded canyons nourished by mountain streams—is vividly apparent."

"The first historic references to the area were compiled by the Spanish conquistadores on their journeys northward from Mexico. After their explorations, very little exploration occurred until the United States military expeditions began in 1849.

"Next the Butterfield Trail was established through the area in 1858, and one trail station was erected at the mouth of Pine Spring Canyon. Remnants of this station are visible today and will present an interesting exhibit to aid in telling the story of the Guadalupe Mountain country."

Observe that, if West makes the normal lead of his fourth best spade, declarer can win the trick in his hand with the ten and proceed to develop nine tricks with no strain. The jack of spades would have been just as effective a choice as the king in the present case; however, if South had the singleton queen of spades, then West must lead the king in order to profitably develop the suit.

Greek King Weds Danish Princess

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—King Constantine of the Hellenes wed Denmark's beautiful Princess Anne-Marie today amid the Byzantine magnificence of Athens' Greek Orthodox Cathedral.

Anne Marie, 18, became the queen of Greece and the world's youngest queen. At 24 her husband is the world's youngest monarch.

She was a gorgeous bride and the dark-haired king a strikingly handsome bridegroom.

It was a spectacularly colorful ceremony, but it had its very human moments — when Anne-Marie giggled, and when Queen Mother Frederika came close to hitting Britain's Prince Charles with one of the two crowns used in Greek Orthodox weddings.

Charles did not duck, but he eyed the heavy crowns with concern.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II was the only reigning European monarch not present. Preparing for a visit to Canada, she sent her husband, Prince Philip. Her two teen-age children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, were members of the wedding party.

CLASSIC STYLE
Anne-Marie's wedding gown was of duchesse satin, in classic Greek style with a high waist and simple lines. The dress was gathered at the waist by an heirloom brooch, and the bosom was covered with lace that had belonged to her maternal grandmother, Crown Princess Margaretha of Sweden, who wore it at her wedding.

Her veil, worn with a family tiara, had been worn by her mother, Queen Ingrid, at her wedding. The wedding gown ended in a short train of frilled silk organza, while another train 40 feet long fell from her shoulders and was carried by her six bridesmaids.

Constantine wore a white military uniform with rows of decorations.

The 45-minute service was conducted by Archbishop Chrysostomos, 85-year-old primate of Greece's Orthodox Church. Looking on was Patriarch Alexei of Moscow and all Russia.

Also on hand was a glittering gathering of kings, queens, princesses and princes. President Johnson was represented by his daughter Lynda Bird. A scorching sun burned from a cobalt blue sky, and inside the cathedral the 1,600 guests and principals looked very warm.

ROYAL BROWS
Perspiration stood on many royal brows, including that of bride's father, King Frederik of Denmark.

Lincoln Given Misnomer, Speaker Tells Kiwanians

Abraham Lincoln is well entitled to the title as preserver of the union but to call him the great emancipator, as is the common custom, does not fit the facts of history, Ralph Caton, 118th District Court Judge, told the Big Spring Kiwanians Thursday.

"Lincoln, according to authorities of law," Caton said, "did not emancipate the slaves. He had no authority to proclaim freedom for the slaves and the proclamation he issued was legally an unsound document."

Caton was speaking to the club on the U. S. Constitution and its amendments. He was stressing how the simple statements of the Constitution are being twisted and changed to change completely their meanings.

The 14th Amendment, which made slavery illegal in this nation, was the cause of his dissertation on Lincoln and the Emancipation Proclamation.

He pointed out that the President, in the darkest days of the war, was advised to inject a moral issue into the struggle and the proposal that he emancipate the slaves was suggested.

"The President," said Caton, "had no authority to take such action as Lincoln did and any such proclamation would be of no impact. After the battle of Antietam, when conditions seemed right, he issued his now renowned proclamation. This was on Sept. 22, 1862, and the terms of the proclamation were to become effective 100 days after that date—Jan. 1, 1863."

"If you read the document you will be amazed at the contradictory statements it poses. The president warned the Confederate states that he was giving them 100 days to come back into the union. If they did not he implied, he would free themselves. One assumes, that had they come back into the union, the slaves would not have been freed. He did not order the slaves in the northern states freed and it is debatable if the president of a nation, divided into two countries as the United States was at the time, had any authority to order the slaves freed in the states which had left the United States to form their own country."

Caton said that Lincoln was never a strong anti-slavery man and that his sole concern throughout his trying term was to preserve the union. He said at one time, the judge observed, that he would save the union with slavery or without slavery as conditions required.

In closing, Caton pondered how it happened that June 19 is the traditional Emancipation Day in this nation when the President's proclamation was issued on Sept. 22 and activated on Jan. 1.

"Why June 19?" asked the judge.

Helps Mental Chapel Fund

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Back in 1924 Peter Gunderson spent 10 months as a mental patient in the Utah State Hospital. This week he gave $25,000 to the hospital chapel fund.

And Norwegian-born Gunderson, now 79, says he has willed the rest of his savings to the hospital when he dies.

"I figure I owe everything to the hospital," he says. "And I want people to know that you can be a success after you get out of the hospital."

Gunderson knows something about achieving success after a bout with mental illness.

He chose to settle in Provo, site of the mental hospital, when he was released. He began working as a carpenter and in time became a subcontractor.

Gradually, he says, he decided the real money in contracting was in building and selling homes. He started his own business. "I was successful at that," he says.

Gunderson isn't reticent about having his donation publicized. "I want the patients in the hospital right now to know they can achieve these things when they get out," he says.

Gunderson says that even though all his money will go to the hospital when he dies, he gave the $25,000 to the chapel fund now "because I want to do something while I'm still alive."

Gunderson never married. He retired in 1956, but works part-time remodeling houses. "I just don't feel happy unless I'm working," he says.

3 Injured In Beatle Crush

DALLAS (AP) — England's golden-toned Beatles received a welcome so riotous it injured three Dallas fans today. A steel mesh fence held back the crowd at Love Field, the Dallas airport, but the teenagers mobbed a motorcade which carried the singers to their Cabana Motor Hotel quarters.

Mary Longoria, a hotel switchboard operator, said hundreds were pressing against the glass when the doors shattered.

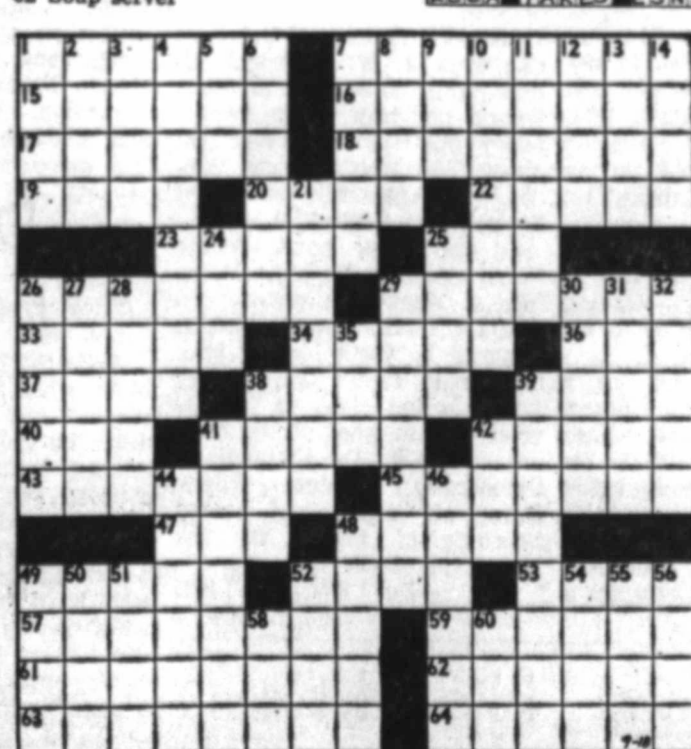

"They just kept pouring through when it broke," she said. "It's a wonder someone wasn't seriously hurt. We got pillows and napkins to stop the bleeding for the kids who were hurt. Then a police ambulance took them away."

The police force assigned to the Beatles was quickly doubled to 80, and officers succeeded in routing stray youths from four floors of the hotel. The Beatles weren't touched.

Parsons Take Peace Corps Jobs In Bolivia

Floyd W. (Bill) Parsons Jr., former Big Spring resident, leaves Sept. 25 for Bolivia with 21 other Peace Corps teachers—among them his wife.

These volunteers will teach in the country's six universities as well as in the Technological Institute, expanding the efforts of over 100 volunteers already working in Bolivia in health, education, agricultural extension and community development programs.

Bill Parsons is a graduate of Big Spring High School and of the University of Arkansas, where his wife, Sheila, also earned her degree. Last spring, they applied for Peace Corps placement and have been in training on the West Coast for several months. Before leaving, they are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Parsons, 31 Nob View Circle, in Little Rock, and her parents, Floyd Parsons Sr. is superintendent of schools at Little Rock and formerly served here in that capacity.

The universities play a central role in Bolivia's progress, providing the country with its major libraries and its best research and medical facilities. But the universities are seriously understaffed and lack qualified instructors in many areas. The Bolivian government has requested Peace Corps teachers to help fill this gap.

The volunteers attended an intensive 12-week training session at the University of Washington as preparation for their overseas assignment. Training emphasized instructional techniques and mastery of Spanish.

Volunteers also studied the history and culture of Bolivia, and reviewed American history and institutions.

Bogus Currency Made In Capitol

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three employees of the Arkansas Highway Department were charged today with making counterfeit currency in the state capitol.

A fourth man, who worked for a transportation company, was charged with possessing phony bills.

Leroy Lettner, Secret Service special agent in charge here, said about 150 bills in ones and 10s had been recovered. He said the money had been distributed among the men, but said he did not know if any had been circulated.

The three department employees were reproduction technicians, and used state equipment in the counterfeiting, Lettner said.

"Creeping Capitalism" That's what the Russian "Establishment" is worried about. They ask: "Can a Communist society be 'just a little pregnant'?"

This editorial by Malcolm Forbes is reprinted by permission of FORBES Magazine, and offered as "food for thought."

After more than 40 years, the Russians have also discovered that Socialism again has failed, as it always must. While at the time the Russians try to correct the glaring errors of their "perfect society," and begin to move away from total Socialist planning, there are those today in this country loudly promising the same utopia. Which only goes to prove that you can fool some of the people all of the time.

"Pribyl" is a dirty word.

It's been a dirty word in the Soviet Union ever since the October Revolution. But it's being used a little more openly these days.

"Pribyl" is Russian for profit.

Soviet managers were not required to show a profit. They were merely required to meet production "norms." A steel manager, for example, would be told: "Your norm is 4 million tons." If the manager met his norm, he might get a bonus; he might even get the Order of Lenin. If not, he might find himself running a grocery in Siberia.

The Liberman Heresy. In 1962, an obscure professor of economics in Kharkov named Yevsey Liberman dared to say the obvious: The Soviet system was inefficient. Then, he added a heresy. It was inefficient, he said, because the Soviets had no yardstick for measuring efficiency. And he compounded this heresy by saying the best yardstick around was whether or not a plant showed a profit.

The Liberman heresy, "Libermanism," as it's now called in the Soviet Union, instantly started a controversy. For a great many economists had long been saying privately what he said publicly. As Pravda recently put it, they believe that "a little bit of capitalism could be good . . . (they) don't belittle the important role of profit in evaluating and stimulating the work of enterprises . . ."

Other economists, however, and the overwhelming majority of factory managers were outraged by Libermanism.

The factory managers especially were outraged. For years and years, they had been running their plants to meet their norms, no matter what. Now this—this ("Bolshevik" is hardly the word) was saying they also should show a profit.

The "Ivan Birchites." To fight "Libermanism," the factory managers formed little groups, which, a U.S. Government expert on the Soviet economy remarked recently, "have all the appearance of Ivan Birch Societies."

They argued, in effect, that what Liberman advocated was "creeping capitalism." Once profit became a yardstick for measuring a factory's performance, they said, the whole Communist system would begin to crumble. Managers would stop thinking of the economy as a whole and start thinking of market demands. They would begin to compete with each other to satisfy consumers' tastes. The end result would be capitalism.

Their argument boiled down to a truism," says a State Department economist. "You can't be a little pregnant."

Against this argument were the facts: The Soviet system of norms provides an incentive to inefficiency. In order to make certain of meeting their norms, factory managers hire more men than they really need and stockpile more material. Their costs get way out of line but there's no way to check on this; they don't have to show a profit.

Since norms usually are measured in tons—4 million tons of steel, for example—factory managers inevitably turn out the products that weigh most. In the case of steel, a plant manager will meet his norm by turning out the heaviest types of steel he can, ignoring the almost hysterical demand in the Soviet Union for light alloy steel.

One of the most fervent advocates of "Libermanism," O. Antonov, the plane designer, insists that many factory managers actually hoard finished products to "haul them out for inclusion in the monthly gross output when the plant is behind on its quota." He says: "The output of the individual plant is oriented toward the warehouse rather than the sales counter."

Quiet experiment. Officially, the Kremlin has remained silent on the controversy over "Libermanism." According to Leon Herman, Soviet expert of the Library of Congress, however, it has quietly been experimenting with the idea of injecting the profit motive into the Soviet system. One of the main spots selected for this experiment, he says, is near Kazan, in the Republic of Tatar, where the Soviets have a heavy concentration of aircraft and petrochemical plants and oil refineries. According to Radio Free Europe, intelligence, "experiments with the new indices (i.e., those indicating profitability) also are being carried out in Moscow, the Donets area, Dnepropetrovsk, Central Volga . . ."

In the plants where the experiment is being conducted, the factory managers are given far more leeway than Soviet factory managers are generally given. They get bonuses for quality. However, they must pay interest on money they borrow for expansion. They must bring prices closer in line with costs. They must show a profit.

They get bonuses not only on how much they turn out, but also on how much profit they show.

The U.S. Fear. But profits are difficult to get in the Soviet Union. Prices are not set by consumer demand but by what the politicians want the public to have. Such prices have nothing to do with the quality or attractiveness of the merchandise. Says a State Department Intelligence officer: "They've got to have prices linked with the market demands to make these new reforms work . . . but Soviet politicians cannot bring themselves to give this strong vote of economic power to consumers. It takes control directly away from their own center of power."

The "Ivan Birch Societies" are beside themselves, and perhaps understandably, U.S. Government observers aren't too happy about the experiment with "Libermanism," either. They're afraid it might really inject a little capitalistic efficiency into the Soviet system.

Big Scare A Dud

Many experts feel that Soviet Premier Khrushchev's scare talk about a terrible weapon was uttered for the benefit of the Red Chinese. There is no way of gauging what effect it may have had on these rivals in the Communist camp, but if it was intended to put the rest of the world, including the United States, in a tizzy, then it proved a dud.

This may be another bold exaggeration: it may be that the Soviets have compounded a thousand megaton bomb. Our defense officials do not discount this possibility and have considered its implications. Technically, this is possible by compounding first a hydrogen bomb of specified size, then adding to it depleted uranium to feed the explosive processes.

But aside from the possibility of contaminating an entire continent (if exploded under water so that radioactive mist would sweep with the prevailing winds), the prospect of a gigantic monster bomb is no more awesome than the reality of the monster bomb itself.

No weapon extant could wreak instant destruction upon an entire continent, and unless and until that was possible, the certainty of retaliation exists. That is still a mighty sobering prospect, and responsible leaders are not going to be impetuous about starting the string of total destruction.

Our Improving Parks

Reports from the parks board meeting this week reflect a broadening of operations. While perhaps not a direct part of the parks system, the proposed new ball park for youths will give further utility to the City Park. To be sure this has a specialized clientele, but it has a faithful and growing following. Supporters of it would finance its installation and operation, and the city would maintain the grounds as part of the parks outlay, provided the city commission concurs in the recommendation.

During the past year, thanks to the close cooperation between the parks board, the parks superintendent and the city, a remarkable amount of improvements has been accomplished. While we are yet a long way from what we ought to be when it comes to parks, we are making steady strides. Moreover, value received is being wrung from every dollar—and sometimes double value. Consider the amount of work which has been accomplished and that only about half of the $75,000 provided under the Master Plan bond program has been expended.

The city has a new consciousness about its parks, and it has a voice for them in the person of parks board members, and it has experienced, dedicated personnel to implement. A pat on the head for all of them.

Your Trash Will Betray You

WASHINGTON — There was a flap here the other day when a housewife (otherwise unidentified) discovered that the city's trash men were segregating her rubbish and examining it for various signs and portents, the nature of which unfortunately has never been specified.

She complained to the Civil Liberties Union that her right to freedom from trash snooping had been violated, the CLU outcried to the municipal corporation, and the town fathers agreed to send the lady's rubbish along to the incinerator without any unseemly prying.

LIKE ALL half-fall tales this one was downright fascinating. What were the dustmen looking for in the old girl's refuse? Microfilm plans for stenciling AUH20 on the Washington Monument in red, white and blue letters 75 feet tall? A detailed scheme for introducing LBJ's fiery venison sausage into school lunches all over the Republic, once the election is out of the way?

The possibilities are endlessly diverting. Everyone has (or believes he has) a neighbor who counts empty liquor bottles in the Monday morning trash, and we all know of the CIA's morbid preoccupation with the contents of other people's wastebaskets. But few people outside the trade ever before realized that divination by trash was a widely-practiced bit of modern-day witchcraft.

I'D BEEN gumming this revelation over in my mind ever since reading about the government's interest in the sort of rubbish the lady put out on the stoop of a morning, and suddenly I realized that the mountain of trash disgorged at Crestfallen Manor contained raw material for a savagely revealing profile of every member of the household.

As it appears in the mind's eye, there is a government functionnaire (he has close-cropped hair, colorless eyes, and has been in the security game for ever so long) who presides over a basement laboratory which can only be entered by green plastic sleuth types wearing green plastic badges. The room is filled with long tables covered with neatly classified stacks of rubbish. Around the walls are computers, spectroscopes, electronic microscopes and all the rest of the dismal impedimenta of scientific prying.

AS VILE AS their calling must appear to any normal person, one must concede that these garbage-pail pointers are skillful. Obviously, no household could consume as much milk as the midden at Crestfallen Manor would suggest. In the hands of the experienced snooper in slops, this nugget of information could be invaluable. Is this ocean of milk being used for invisible writing? For the manufacture of plastique bombs? Or is the lady of the manor seeking to perpetuate her youth by bathing in the stuff?

AND WHAT OF the coupons, carefully completed and then just as carefully torn in half and chucked away unmade? It takes no great insight to match handwriting and discover that the man of the house is a compulsive coupon-filler-out, but why doesn't he go ahead and mail them?

But what do these seedy deliveries into debris make of the lunatic assortment of hardware produced chez moi? I don't know where it comes from, and I live there. All I know is that odd bits of ironmongery are always turning up on the stairs when I stumble down to put the cat out in the dark of the night. And on any good day the top of my desk can produce corkscrews, cotter pins, stove bolts and brass escutcheon pins at a rate that GM must envy.

IT ALL WINDS UP in the trash, of course, and it must be a terrible burden to the sneaks who are trying to make my rubbish tell them what it is. I am really up to.

Billy Graham

What do you think of someone who says he is a Christian and cheats a person out of a share of an estate? W. H.

The Bible says: "Thou shalt not steal, and cheating of any kind is a form of stealing. I think it is a pity that so many families are divided over inheritances. I have seen otherwise respectable people become like ravenous wolves over the seeming inequalities of a will or an estate. Quite often the testator will favor certain relatives who have been a bit more considerate of him during his lifetime, and this he has a right to do. But this is always the point of friction, and where those who have been given a little less take offense.

It seems tragic that more Christian poise and serenity cannot be exercised during these delicate moments when an estate is to be divided. This is a good time to bear testimony to our friends and neighbors that we are truly Christian. This is a good time to show that we have the grace to be fair and generous. Parents know better than anyone else which heir deserves the larger share. Let us at least have enough respect for the dead to abide by their last wishes. I do not think very much of a person who willfully cheats another out of an inheritance, but I think about as little of those who demand more than their just share.

'Medway Queen'

LONDON (AP)—The veteran paddle steamer "Medway Queen," famous for her part in rescuing thousands of British troops from the beaches of Dunkirk, France, during World War II, has been saved from the junk yard.

The 316-ton vessel has been retired after carrying millions of holiday-makers along England's south coast. Now she has been bought by a London catering firm and may be turned into a restaurant moored on the river Thames.

No Viet Nam Negotiations Likely In Near Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tough Communist line in the current talks among Laos' leaders is re-enforcing the official U.S. view that now is no time to negotiate with the Reds over neighboring South Viet Nam.

However, the former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff predicted eventual victory someday — perhaps after the campaign against the Viet Cong makes more headway and Peking-Hanoi decide the guerrilla terrorism is not worthwhile. But U.S. authorities say that day is not yet in sight.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dean Rusk publicly looked to the talks now under way in Paris between Laos' neutralist, rightist and leftist leaders for any evidence that Asia's Communists have decided to slacken their drive on Southeast Asia.

STATE DEPARTMENT sources reported Thursday that Red Prince Souphanouvong has shown no real intent of withdrawing his Pathet Lao forces from strategic ground seized in the last offensive. Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma said he is preparing to break off the Paris negotiating session.

This leaves the State Department even less inclined to swing toward French President Charles de Gaulle's view: that another Geneva conference should be held to work out a peace based on neutralization of the Indochina states.

President Johnson roundly denounced the De Gaulle idea earlier this year. "We do not believe in a conference called to ratify terror," he said.

ADMINISTRATION officials explain that: De Gaulle's idea would involve U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam. The United States is against pulling out with the Communists still on the offensive. Taylor testified that a U.S. departure would bring "a major disaster" turning not only to South Viet Nam but most of South Asia over to the Communist camp.

Varying ideas about what to do in Viet Nam have come from prominent members of Congress without making much of a dent in administration policy so far.

SENATE FOREIGN Relations Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., while jolting the administration on some other foreign policy matters with his talk about "old myth and new realities," has generally supported the policy on South Viet Nam.

On the other hand, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has suggested that De Gaulle's neutralization proposal is worth looking into. Mansfield says the United States is too close to full involvement in what should be a war fought by the Vietnamese. Democratic Senators Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska say the Americans should pull out.

To Your Good Health

Smallpox Vaccinations May Help Cold Sores

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Dear Dr. Molner: Often with a bad cold, I get a herpes infection. Each sore or blister covers a quarter of my upper or lower lip. They usually occur two or more at a time, and last two weeks as a blister or thick, unsightly scab. Medical speed up the healing process? Cosmetically, is there anything I can do to conceal them?—L.A.N.

For whatever reason, and I wish we knew why, the nerves supplying the lip area can be especially sensitive to virus infections in some people. On the basis of experimental work, people who have trouble with cold sores (Herpes simplex infections) acquire the virus and it remains indefinitely, stirring up trouble only when some other virus infection (a cold) comes along.

We know that smallpox vaccinations will put an end to this cold sore problem for some people. Other times it fails, but at least there is no harm in trying it. (Note that this is a smallpox vaccination, not a tetanus shot.)

Dabbing the sores with rubbing alcohol may tend to make them disappear faster. So some people used spirits of camphor for the same purpose. Of course if the skin is broken, this will sting, but it often helps.

Cosmetically, I can't offer much help; creams may only accentuate the blemish, and powder doesn't offer much assistance, either. The best prospect is to try to dry the sores up with alcohol.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our six-year-old was stung around the face by hornets. Her face started to swell so we took her to a hospital emergency room and she was given a shot. The doctor said she had been sensitized and might die if stung again. Is this true?—J.W.

Some people are vastly more sensitive than others to insect bites, and react so violently that they develop shortness of breath, lung congestion and swelling. That is why so much warning is being given as to bee, wasp and hornet stings. These are common insects; of all people who are stung, some are hypersensitive and each year some die.

For such persons, the first sting is not the perilous one. For them, the first sting does indeed "sensitize" the system, so subsequent bites are more dangerous.

To play safe, caution the child to avoid areas where she sees such insects flying about.

Around The Rim

Increasingly Expensive Hoopla

The present race for president, which will be with us for some time, has become a costly and important presidential campaign and how much of it is plain old hogwash. Money spent by and on behalf of the two candidates running for our top office will reach into the millions of dollars, yet we wonder just how many voters will actually be swayed one way or the other by all the words that will be spoken and reported.

OUR OWN inclination is that today a large percentage of Americans — three-fourths or better — have firmly made up their minds that come Nov. 3 they will vote for Johnson, or for Goldwater, and nothing will change their minds.

There's no doubt that some people, many well meaning, many just those types that vote on whims, will be affected by reading a report of a Johnson oration or hearing a televised appearance by Goldwater. Dozens of experts will tell you the last presidential race, Nixon versus Kennedy in 1960, was decided on the four highly-watched television debates in which Mr. Kennedy was the undeclared but apparent winner from appearances to the average voter.

DID THIS CHANGE the outcome of the election, Kennedy's better showing on TV? Close as the count was, it could have. But think of all the millions of dollars being spent and to be spent in the coming campaign on charges and counter-charges that sail over the head of the average voter or drip off his back. We think there's a mighty big waste here, but traditions loom large in America sometimes, and this is one of the big ones.

OUR MEMORY takes us back to the successful campaigns waged by Roosevelt, the one by Truman, the two by Eisenhower and the one by Kennedy. From this seat, it looks like presidential campaigns are getting bigger, louder and costlier, but the issues cloudier, less defined and much more glossed over.

ST. LOUIS — You would have to go a long way to find a more impressive case history of the threat to the future of Republicanism than here in Missouri. That history is a commentary, too, on the vitality of the two-party system in this country with one party rule stretching from years to decades.

Since the Republicans last elected a governor, in 1940, the GOP, had fallen into the hands of complacent hacks content to hold honorific titles in the party. They offered no real challenge either to the city machines or to the courthouse rings that delivered the Democratic vote outstate.

THIS MORIBUND organization was ripe for the plucking and the Goldwaterites moved in, in full force. They have taken it over completely, and with sectarian zeal they are busy reading out of the party doubters and dissenters. The tendency, as in other states, is for the extreme right to dominate, since they are the most dedicated and the most passionately committed.

But whether they are talking to each other or whether they are bringing converts into the fold—a sufficient number of converts from the ranks of the independents and conservative Democrats—is the question. Missouri editors polled by the Associated Press put President Johnson's majority as of now at just under 100,000. President Kennedy in 1960 carried the state by less than 10,000 votes.

BY A SAD coincidence this comes about as the Republicans for the first time in years have put up a strong and able candidate for governor. Ethan Shepley, a former chancellor of Washington University and a distinguished lawyer, set out

WASHINGTON — Who really knows today what the phrase "civil rights" means? For a while, it looked as if only the people in the South were against "integration" in the public schools. But now it turns out that measures taken in the state of New York to correct "racial imbalance" are being protested by white parents, who have brought about a boycott which kept a quarter of a million students away from public-school classes this week.

The parents are opposed to an edict of the Board of Education of New York City, which has favored a plan to transport by bus certain students from one neighborhood to another to bring about a numerical balance of races in the classroom.

PARENTS in the city of Cleveland are conducting a similar boycott, and all through the North there is a general fear among parents that, sooner or later, other cities will follow the same pattern in seeking to eliminate what has often been called "de facto segregation."

If, moreover, the decision of the Supreme Court rendered on May 17, 1954, in its famous school-desegregation case, is re-read, it will be noted that, theoretically, not until every class in every public school contains both white and colored children can the educational process be said to be effective. The Supreme Court said:

"DOES SEGREGATION of children in public schools solely on the basis of race, even though the physical facilities and other 'tangible' factors may be equal, deprive the children more than a year ago to make what he knew would be a tough race. Discounting his age, which is 68, Shepley is just the kind of man to give devoted and unbiased service in responsible office and to add luster to a minority party.

BUT IN THE current atmosphere these realities have no place. The Goldwaterites rode herd on Shepley because he had not come out for their hero before San Francisco. He took the plunge the other day and embraced the Goldwater - Miller ticket. Obviously, however, he has little in common with those who now control the party machinery and whether his endorsement of the ticket will help or harm is an open question.

TO COMPOUND Shepley's troubles Democrats in the primary chose a young, attractive candidate, Warren E. Hearnes, with extensive political experience. Running for a third term, Sen. Stuart Symington with his proven vote-getting record and his substantial status in the Johnson Administration adds strength to a strong ticket. His opponent, Jean Paul Bradshaw, lawyer for Ozark Airlines, is also a comparative newcomer to politics.

WHETHER IN Missouri or in other states where it is a minority, the opposition party has few enough Shepleys willing to give the time, energy and money to running for public office.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that the Goldwater nomination has put in jeopardy the two-party system as we have known it in the past. The political landscape is undergoing radical alterations.

Water District Directors Approve Next Year's Budget

A budget calling for operational and debt service expenditures of $2,145,671 was approved here today by directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1, 1965.

Despite plans to pump nearly a billion gallons more water than estimated under the current budget, the disbursements will be up only about $32,000. About the only significant changes in the budgetary outlays were in payroll to provide a five per cent increase with some other adjustments for key personnel, and a nominal increase in power costs.

The margin between estimated receipts and disbursements leaves about half a million dollars to be applied to indentured funds, including the improvement and extension fund and the retirement fund. The former will be faced with some heavy expenses in conjunction with an application to impound a new lake on the Colorado River above Robert Lee. The latter goes to retire last maturing bonds which otherwise would constitute a "balloon" at the end of retirement schedules.

The rate committee will meet later to establish rates sufficient to generate the required revenues.

By major divisions, budgeted expenditures (with current budget figures in parentheses) are: Source of supply $1,101,671 ($1,045,652), pumping expense $526,928 ($511,290), administrative expense $137,933 ($128,583), recreational expense $44,890 ($39,290), capital expenditure $26,600 ($20,000); total $2,145,671 ($2,035,815). In addition the $308,649 interest and $990,000 principal makes a debt service requirement of $1,298,649 (as compared to $339,819 interest and $970,000 principal for $1,309,819 this year).

Total power costs for 1965 are estimated at $371,521 as compared with $367,900. A modification of rates accounts for this figure in the face of a sharp estimated increase in pumping.

The payroll for 1965 is pegged at $226,420, up about $20,000 to cover salary and wage adjustments, plus new staff positions.

Items in capital outlay include replacement of a car, two trucks and a pickup, plus purchase of some dirt-moving equipment.

Enrollment Picture Bright At Junior College

Enrollment figures at Howard County Junior College are still climbing. President W. A. Hunt told trustees at the regular meeting Thursday, and he is confident last year's peak total will be surpassed when registration is completed next week.

Actually, he pointed out, the 858 now enrolled are signed up for more semester hours of work than the 872 who enrolled last year. The decline in Webb AFB personnel—from 249 to 155—who normally take only one course, have been more than replaced by 38 full-time students who signed up for over 15 semester hours of work each.

Thus, although the head count may be less, the amount of college work being taken by the students is more. The enrollment figures do not include those signed up for the auto mechanics class, the cooking class, or the nurses training classes.

In other business, trustees: (1) Instructed Hunt to check on the costs of a bronze or aluminum plaque to mark the jet airplane display on the campus;

(2) Approved the purchase of five air conditioners at $89 each;

(3) Approved the settlement of a bill from the Intercollegiate Press for $973;

(4) Approved establishment of a special account to handle hot checks;

(5) Asked trustee Paul Adams to inspect and make a decision regarding purchase of a used tractor for $1,200 (exchange).

RECEIVES 25-YEAR SERVICE AWARD
George McCasne presents plaque to Mrs. McDonald

Plaque Is Awarded To Mrs. McDonald

Beginning with a two-story boarding house at East Third and Johnson streets, Mrs. W. D. McDonald launched into the real estate business 25 years ago. The old house has made way for a motor company building, and this company is moving to 1607 E. 3rd and new expansion.

Thursday night, during a meeting of Big Spring realtors, George McCasne, Houston, president of the Texas Real Estate Association, presented a 25-year plaque to Mrs. McDonald.

In addition to the presentation, McCasne talked to the group on the meanings of new laws affecting real estate and property ownership. He told them about the "right of ownership" emphasizing the encroachment of government in regulating what may be leased, rented, sold, or bought.

Ervin Luedtke, executive vice president of the Texas Real Estate Association, emphasized the need for more education in the association, and pointed out that the association provides two to three courses each year.

Mrs. McDonald, a widow since her son Cecil was a small boy, has been active in several businesses. The son, a nephew, Bobby McDonald, and grandson, Billy McDonald, are connected in the McDonald Motor Co., in residential building in Big Spring, and in real estate.

Mrs. Marie Rowland, president of the Big Spring board, introduced two new real estate brokers as members. They were Mrs. Mary Suter, and Paul Organ. Both received membership pins.

Thirty-two attended the dinner meeting at the Cosden Country Club.

Eleven Big Spring men, headed by R. L. Tollett, chairman, participated in the annual planning program of the Buffalo Trail Council in Midland Thursday evening.

Most of the work was done in a series of operating committee sessions, where objectives and programs were suggested. This period, however, was preceded by a film strip explaining what contributions to the council budget buys in the way of maintenance and protection of council camps and other property, council service center for keeping records and furnishing advancement supplies to units, field service by executives. This year's council budget is $149,800. Present at the meeting in the First Methodist Church was District Judge Perry Pickett, Midland, council finance campaign chairman for the various fund drives outside the United Fund and Chest areas.

Among others attending from Big Spring were Sam McComb, Jack Guley, Champ Rainwater, Bill McRee, Paul Saldan, Ben Johnson, Joe Pickle, Bill Crocker, Sherman Smith, Fred Beckham.

Dennis Paschal, Abilene, is president and will preside over the annual meeting. For the past two years, the brotherhood has been interested in developing the youth camp at Eastland. This project will be reviewed and officers will be elected. Rev. Wayne Bridge, San Angelo, will be speaker.

A dinner prepared by the local church will close the meeting.

Two Sentenced To Penitentiary
Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, sentenced two defendants to penitentiary terms at a session of his court today.

Steve Harper, under indictment for burglary of a private residence at night, was sentenced to serve five years in prison. This is the minimum penalty for this offense. Harper had been indicted as a habitual offender but, with his agreement to plead guilty, the enhanced charge was not pushed by Gil Jones, district attorney.

Sammie Terrell, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, subsequent offense, was sentenced to serve one year in the state penitentiary. Terrell was involved in a collision at Third and San Antonio Aug. 15, the date he was arrested for the alleged DWI offense.

Sept. 18, 1947, air activities were transferred from the Army to the new Department of the Air Force. The previous July, President Truman signed the Armed Forces Unification Act, creating the new department.

The new air arm almost immediately faced tests of its abilities, aircraft and personnel. The Berlin airlift began in June, 1948, and lasted until September, 1949. For 16 months, the Air Force circumvented the Communist blockade of Berlin, delivering the necessities of life for the U. S. military community and more than two million German civilians in West Berlin.

At a series of business meetings, Cone will be briefed on company and industry affairs and will have the opportunity to participate in round table discussions. Other convention highlights will include a special luncheon for the wives and a banquet honoring agents and wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Cone will leave Big Spring Oct. 9, and will visit friends and relatives in Shreveport, La., on their way to New Orleans. They will return via Houston, where they also will visit with friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gifford, Midland, cousin of Cone, will accompany them on the trip, as he is to be similarly honored.

Burglary Reported
One burglary was reported to police early today, while police activity was continuing to be at a minimum otherwise. About $100 in change was reported taken from a juke box at the Paradise Inn Cafe, 500 NW 3rd, early this morning. Owner of the cafe is Billy Crook, 601 N. Lancaster. Officers said the front door, which was locked, was forced open to gain entry.

Catholic Rites Will Be Said In English

By SAM BLACKBURN

Catholics of Howard County, who for countless years have shown up Saturday before their priests for the traditional rites of confession, may be surprised and perhaps a little shocked to hear their confessor absolve them in the following words: "May our Lord Jesus Christ absolve you, and by His authority I absolve you from every bond of excommunication..."

Saturday will mark the first day that the rites of confession, baptism, confirmation, the Holy Eucharist (when received outside of Mass), anointing of the sick (extreme unction), and holy orders (ordination of priests) will be said in English instead of Latin, the traditional language of the church for centuries.

Rev. Francis Beazley, O.M.I., of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, said that all churches in this area will begin use of English forms Saturday for the rites listed and will begin Mass in English Nov. 29.

He explained that the transition from Latin to English has been recommended by the Second Vatican Council in Rome. "The Council," he explained, "felt that it would be more effective for the rites and Masses to be recited in the language of the country where the services were being held. The council thinks that such a change will bring the message closer to the communicant."

He said the three local Catholic churches would begin use of the English version for the Confession, the Baptism and other rites Saturday.

"The Catholic Church," the priest said, "believes that the rites named are the seven chief

Rituals Changed

Two examples of the change which is being made in Catholic ritual from Latin to English are demonstrated by the following examples:

BAPTISM — (As the priest pours baptismal water three times on the infant's head in the form of a cross, he will pronounce these words):

Latin: Ego te baptizo in nomine Patris et Filii et Spiritus Sancti.

New English version: I baptize you in the name of the Father (priest pours first time) and of the Son (second time) and of the Holy Spirit (third time).

PENANCE — Latin: Dominus noster Jesus Christus te absolvet et ego auctoritate ipsius te absolvo ab omni vinculo excommunicationis et interdicti, in quantum possum, et tu indiges. Deinde ego te absolvo a peccatis tuis in nomine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti Amen.

New English version: May our Lord Jesus Christ absolve you, and by His authority I absolve you from every bond of excommunication and interdict to the extent of my power and your need. Finally, I absolve you from your sins, in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Sacraments also are considered a means of grace and bear a resemblance to sacraments. These are prayers or objects such as Holy Water, ashes on Ash Wednesday, or the giving of alms.

A spokesman for the Catholic church in another city was quoted as saying:

"A side effect of the change will be the way a priest now will follow the ceremony. Usually a priest sails through the sacraments. Now that he has someone listening to him, he is going to have to slow down."

Some U.S. dioceses have been using the English ritual for some time, and the response, it is said, has been overwhelmingly favorable. Priests in these churches are not surprised. "It makes good sense," one is quoted as saying. "The use of the vernacular makes the worshiper a participant."

Rev. Beazley said an edition of the ritual printed in double columns, with the Latin and the English versions parallel, is now off the press and that priests have been instructed to acquire copies. However, he said his order for the book has not yet been filled.

The English version of the Mass was used here last weekend at the Convention of Catholic Women. The ritual was heard with deep interest and seemingly met with approval from the Catholics participating.

LET THEM SEEK TRUTH

God sometimes permits people to follow their own desires even when they are not necessarily His own. He sometimes permits them to go their own way in order that, through mistakes, they may learn the truth.

The Children of Israel demanded a king to rule them after Samuel had aged, and had appointed his corrupt sons as Judges. It was not God's plan, as outlined in 1 Samuel 10:17-25, in the International Sunday School lesson for Sept. 20.

He had outlined a plan through Samuel, but the people, looking at tribes around them, selected a big man, Saul, to become their leader, and presented their petitions to Samuel. Samuel took the matter to God and was advised to give the Israelites what they wanted. It was the beginning of a monarchy for them, under the leadership of a man, big in size, but one who sought to dodge responsibilities by hiding when he realized he had been chosen. He was the type of man whose life easily declined in effectiveness.

Missionary Set To Speak Here

A Texas minister, whose congregations during the last four years have included both Japanese factory workers and Taiwanese tribal chiefs, will speak in Big Spring Sept. 29 at 6:45 p.m. The Rev. Donnell McCall, a missionary of the Presbyterian Church U.S., who has recently served in Japan and Taiwan, will address a meeting of the men of the First Presbyterian Church.

When the missionary first sailed in 1952, his destination was Japan. During the next decade he worked with churches in Gifu Prefecture, preaching, holding Bible classes, visiting in homes and hospitals, occasionally holding tent meetings and helping to sponsor young people's conferences, speaking to civic groups and teaching a weekly English class in a local junior high school. While studying in a Japanese language school, he met and married Virginia Montgomery, a fellow missionary who taught in Kobe.

Last year the couple was transferred to Taiwan's mountainous east coast, to work among approximately 200 churches of five aboriginal tribes. In Taiwan, the American minister visited the tribal churches, counseled their ministers and held conferences for church officials and laymen.

Taiwan's 150,000 aborigines remained in comparative isolation until after World War II. Living in close-knit tribal units, in remote mountain villages, they had little contact with the outside world. Today, through the work of the tribal Christians and missionaries like Rev. McCall, the majority are related to some branch of the Christian church.

"In many cases," the missionary explained recently, "a key person in the village would be converted to Christianity and through his influential witness, many within the village would become Christians. At present there are about 70,000 Presbyterians in the mountain tribes."

He is a native of San Saba and studied at Austin College, Sherman and Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C., from which he received his bachelor of arts degree. His ministerial training was received at Columbia Theological Seminary and Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and he is a member of Central Texas Presbytery.

He had held summer pastorates at Duncan, Gotebo and Minco, Okla., and was chapel pastor and student assistant at the Independent Presbyterian Church, Savannah, Ga. He served in the Navy during 1945-46. The McCalls have three children, Bobby, 10, Roy, 9, and Frances, 6. They will return to Taiwan in June, 1965, after a furlough in Decatur, Ga.

Rev. McCall is being sponsored by the Stewardship Education Committee of the Presbytery of the Southwest, through the chairman of World Missions, Robert L. Ferguson, pastor of St. Mark Presbyterian Church, Lubbock, and World Missions chairman of the Presbyterian Women of the Church, Mrs. A. C. Barnes of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Odesa.

The Northside Methodist Church, 600 N. Goliad, will have its first Quarterly Conference of the year Sept. 20. The Rev. N. R. Saenz, district superintendent with residence in Lubbock, will preside and receive reports of the local church work. Rev. Saenz will also preach during the morning worship service.

THE ROMANS MOVED RIVERS

In this age of technological wizardry never sneer at the past.

The Roman engineers who designed this aqueduct in Spain were brilliant men. Skill such as theirs, more than the might of Caesar's armies, fashioned the vast civilization of the Empire.

In this age of scientific discovery never overlook the Truths long ago revealed.

Christianity was born in a remote province of ancient Rome. It suffered generations of persecution until it converted even its persecutors. And when barbarians overran the Empire, our faith found a foothold in their hearts as well.

In a civilization of modern marvels the Church still raises its towers of truth. And when, next Sunday, we come with our families to worship, somewhere a congregation will be singing:

*O where are kings and empires now
Of old that went and came?*

*But, Lord, thy Church is praying yet —
A thousand years the same!*

Mixed Emotions

Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey spoke to a crowd in front of San Antonio's historic Alamo Thursday night. Humphrey interrupted his speech at one point to make mention of a group of supporters of Republican presidential nominee Sen. Barry Goldwater who brought signs and heckled him during the speech. (AP WIRE PHOTO)

Alamo City Barry Chants Fail To Dismay Humphrey

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey staged a political stand at the Alamo Thursday night before a noisy crowd sprinkled with Barry Goldwater supporters chanting: "We want Barry."

Shouts of the demonstrators, who caused no trouble, did not keep him from continuing a blistering attack on Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

Humphrey, President Johnson's vice presidential running mate, wound up a day-long visit to Texas with speeches at the Alamo and John F. Kennedy Memorial High School, which the late President had promised to dedicate.

The Minnesota senator praised Johnson and lashed out at Goldwater at every opportunity along a campaign trail that also included Wichita Falls and Waco. He was returning to Texas this afternoon for a speech in Houston.

Pictures of Goldwater on placards and a large red and yellow "Goldwater for President" banner were almost overshadowed by hundreds of small "We Love Hubert" placards.

The demonstrators stayed to one side of the Alamo rally, cheering Goldwater at each opportunity.

When he first noticed, Humphrey said: "Somebody got in this parade who shouldn't be."

A majority of the audience, estimated by Police Chief George Bichsel at 5,000, cheered. Humphrey raised his hand for quiet and added:

"But we've got to be good winners."

This, too, delighted a majority of the audience.

About 20 to 25 placard-carrying Goldwater supporters appeared later at the airport, from which Humphrey's plane carried him to Hot Springs, Ark. Humphrey's aides said this was the first such demonstration the senator had faced since he hit the campaign trail shortly after the Democratic national convention.

Crowds almost mobbed Humphrey at both his San Antonio appearances.

About 1,200 persons, mostly students, packed the John F. Kennedy High School auditorium, where Humphrey described the late President as a man who had captured the "hearts and love of young people like no other American president."

Mann Outlines Alliance Work

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—Plans for economic and social progress south of the Rio Grande are being furthered by the Alliance for Progress, Asst. Sec. of State Thomas Mann said Thursday night.

Mann, of Laredo, spoke to the Chambers of Commerce in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Mann is coordinator of U. S. economic and social aid to Latin America, and President Johnson's special assistant on Latin American affairs.

Mann said the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress, "under the able leadership of a distinguished Colombian, Dr. Carlos Sanz de Santamaria," already has begun "trying to identify the obstacles in the way of more rapid hemisphere progress and to plan ways to eliminate them."

New Weapon Story Denied

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has denied that he said the Soviet Union has a new weapon that can destroy mankind.

Khrushchev said Thursday night scientists had shown him a "terrible weapon which shows what mankind can do." He said it was not a nuclear bomb but gave no indication what the weapon was.

Members of a Japanese parliamentary delegation that met with Khrushchev Tuesday had reported he told them Soviet scientists had showed him a new, secret weapon that could destroy all life on earth.

THE LORD SEETH NOT AS MAN SEETH

Outward appearances mean much to man, but nothing to God. This profound Bible truth is stated in the Old Testament:

"But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7).

While man places great value on things that reflect his material status, God desires that we seek inward purity, an honorable character, and spiritual nobility.

Man may glory in his ancestry and family background. But this does not impress God.

Man may delight in his physical prowess, mental skills, or social prestige. Again, God is not impressed.

The finest clothes, the newest automobiles, the most luxuriously furnished homes, and the most beautifully landscaped yards are definite symbols to man of his material success. Yet these contribute nothing to his standing before God.

Human learning, higher education, and higher and higher academic degrees may exalt the wisdom of man. Man's spiritual rank before God, however, is not determined by his intellectual development or amount of formal schooling.

No, the Lord does not see as man sees. The Lord is concerned with man's humility, not pride; his character, not reputation; his sacrifice, not wealth; his service to others, not preeminence over others; his spirituality, not physical attractiveness or strength of body; his brotherly love, not ancestral stock; and his devotion to the teachings of Christ, and not clothes or automobiles or homes or furniture or college degrees or fame.

Pride indeed is the deadliest and most destructive of all sins. The Bible teaches that the "proud in heart" are an abomination to the Lord (Proverbs 16:5).

We may impress ourselves and others with material success, but they become mere flimsy veneer before the powerful, penetrating eye of Almighty God, from whom nothing is hidden... "for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."

BARBARA BAIN

Beauty Needs Natural Look

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—"I am grateful for the experience of having been a model," says actress Barbara Bain, who has had great success in the high-fashion field.

"It is excellent training in grooming, speed in dressing and in emphasizing the importance of having make-up and hair style coordinated with the type of costume you are wearing."

"I don't feel that one hair style is enough. I think a gala occasion calls for jewels in the hair and make-up that looks dramatic."

"I also value naturalness. It is much harder to do a lot to your face and remove all the traces of effort than to be theatrical. You have to have the proper 'tools,' the right shade of make-up, well sharpened eyebrow pencils and mascara that flatters your lashes without looking artificial."

"I have found the most wonderful mascara. It is a cream formula without that shoe polish smell. It makes your lashes long and thick without caking. I have worn it for eight years and tell everybody who listens about it."

Hollywood Beauty

Barbara has an oily skin and another of her prized tricks is to set her make-up with talcum powder.

"I buy the kind they sell to men for after shaving. It does not cake, but rather it absorbs excess oil. I buy inexpensive powder puffs by the box—dozens of them—because they must be clean. In my purse I carry one puff heavily sprinkled with powder and put another puff on top of it and tuck them into a little sack with a draw string. When I feel my skin becoming

PARTY PLATFORMS

Political Program Given By 1905 Hyperion Club

Following the program study theme, "Widening Horizons," of the 1905 Hyperion Club, Mrs. Glenn Faison and Mrs. J. C. Pickle gave the initial program of the year on party platforms. The group met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr., 1200 W. 16th.

The speakers discussed the foreign and domestic planks of the two parties and urged members to study and secure information for themselves. Mrs. Faison spoke on the Republican plank and Mrs. Pickle noted the Democratic platform.

The club received an invitation to attend the western district workshop in Marfa, Oct. 17, and made plans to attend the Hyperion Council luncheon Sept. 24.

Plans were made to invite Mrs. Dee Locklin, western district president, to attend the club this year. Mrs. Pickle presided at the session and announced the Howard County Junior College scholarship would be given for the fall term to Elaine Biffar.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Grocery Bags Prove Boon For Packaging

Dear Heloise:

Here is a little hint that might help others who have a large freezer:

When you are adding a quantity of meat or chicken to your freezer (after you have wrapped the various kinds), use large grocery bags for each different cut.

These bags can be dated and labeled with their individual contents. This keeps different cuts separated, making them easier to find in a crowded freezer. . . . John Chapman

Dear John:

Your hint was not a little one. It was quite big!

After trying it, I found all sorts of good things about your idea. I didn't have to move 10 packages around, knock off all the frost trying to see if it was a pack of hamburger, or stew meat, etc.

By putting all the chicken breasts in one bag, legs and thighs in another, etc., lamb in another bag, and separating the different cuts of beef in another, you can grab one sack, close the door to your freezer quickly, and then look for the special size package you want . . . then replace the bag.

And think of all the cold air that could be escaping! The longer you hold a freezer door open the more frost builds up inside.

I also found that this method prevents most of the frost from forming on the outside of each individual package, thus making the printing on the package easier to read.

Thanks, John . . . Heloise

HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

After having five babies I finally got smart . . .

I put the right amount of baby food for a meal into empty baby food jars and warm them in my bottle sterilizer.

No pans to wash and the rest of the food in the other jars goes back in the refrigerator. . . . Still Learning

Dear Heloise:

I was in the florist business. We grew philodendron and ivy by the thousands of pots . . .

I have just sold my business and would like now to lend my knowledge to the housewife. And I would also like to tell her why her ivy (along with other houseplants and philodendron) does not grow like hot-house plants. Here's why:

Many housewives foolishly water all these growing plants every day or two. This is wrong! Never water your houseplants daily. Wait until the soil on the top of the plant is bone dry. Take your finger and punch it. If it's extremely dry, then soak it thoroughly! Once or twice a week is sufficient, depending upon the humidity in your home. This gives the roots time to grasp the fluid and prevents rotting and dwarfed home plants.

Most of these green-leaf things must have light. A pot of philodendron will grow small leaves and grow very slowly if not exposed to light (NOT hot, direct sun). It makes no difference whether the plant is grown in water or soil.

If water is drawn from a tap, let it sit for a day or so to allow chlorine in the water to evaporate before pouring it on the plants. It is better for the plants. . . . Retired Old Florist
Dear Heloise:

My husband enjoys gardening and wood-working, both of which involve a great deal of kneeling.

As a kneeling pad sometimes is a nuisance, I make large pockets on the knees of his coveralls and slipped in sponge rubber pads. The pads can be taken out when the coveralls are washed and re-inserted when needed. . . . Margaret Schultz

Pvt. Jimmy Haley is home on a 14-day leave from Fort Polk, La. On his return to duty he will go to Seattle, Wash., for a week and will then be sent to Anchorage, Alaska.

carpet layers don't use this idea? Those fellows are on their knees most of the time . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

As a bachelor cook, I say, "weep no more ladies." That is, when cutting onions.

Cut the onions in half from top to bottom. Put each half in a plastic bag and place in your freezer or ice cube tray.

The frozen halves are ready to use any time you choose . . . with no tears.

I find a serrated bread knife does the cutting instantly and effortlessly. There is no delay whether your recipe calls for a cup or a small amount for seasoning . . . Bachelor Cook

Yankees Reach First Place In Hot Race

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yoo hoo, Yogi, you can't be in first place. This is 1964.

Yogi, formally known as Manager Berra, and his New York Yankees climaxed a 42-day drive to the top of the American League Thursday night with a 6-2 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels.

The victory lifted the Yankees two percentage points — .593 to .595 — ahead of the idle Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, who are tied for second.

With two fewer losses than the other contenders, the Yankees appear to be in a good position to capture their fifth straight pennant.

But besides the Orioles and the White Sox standing in their way, the Yankees are faced with the odds that they've never won the pennant in a year ending in '4.'

Yankee teams have finished second in four of the six years of that type in this century, but that's as close as they've come. Their second place finish in 1954 ended a string of five consecutive pennants.

The Yankees have 17 games in which to shatter that unwanted reputation while Baltimore and Chicago have 13 each in which to extend it.

All three teams play at home tonight with the Yankees hosting Kansas City, Baltimore engaging Los Angeles and Chicago taking on Washington. New York holds a 9-6 margin over the Athletics, the Orioles are 9-6 with the Angels and the White Sox lead the Senators 11-4.

The Angels-Yankees game was the only one scheduled in the AL Thursday night. In the National League, Cincinnati beat Chicago 7-5 and Philadelphia edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

New York's latest victory came with a big help from the bullpen. Roland Sheldon rescued starter Mel Stottlemyre in the seventh inning after the Angels had scored two runs and had the bases loaded with one out.

Sheldon struck out pinch hitter Ed Kirkpatrick and got pinch hitter Felix Torres to hit into a force out.

Stottlemyre, now 7-2, had allowed only one hit through the first six innings. That was a bunt single by Bob Rodgers in the fifth.

Mickey Mantle collected a single, a double and his 31st homer, a two-run smash in the seventh, for New York. His single in the sixth inning was the 2,000th hit of his major league career.

Steers Have Broken Even In Border City Contests

Although the El Paso schools are generally regarded lightly in Texas interscholastic league football ratings, Big Spring has managed only to break even in 18 starts against teams of the Border City down through the years.

The Steers have won eight games and lost eight to representatives of that area. Two of the games resulted in ties but in one, El Paso High, nudged the Longhorns by gaining an edge in the statistics. That game, which ended up at 27-27, was in the state playoffs in 1941.

Big Spring has never before played a Ysleta Bel Air team. The school has been in existence only five years.

Yearlings Break Even In Snyder

SNYDER—Football teams representing Big Spring Rannels Junior High broke even in two starts against Snyder teams here Thursday evening.

The seventh grade Yearlings humbled Snyder Travis, 14-0, with a great show of defensive strength but the ninth grade Yearlings lost, 30-6, to Snyder Lamar.

In the seventh grade game, quarterback Roy Lee Warren scooted 75 yards on a rollout in the first quarter for Big Spring's first touchdown.

Right halfback Ricky Peurifoy intercepted a Travis pass later in the round and fled 50 yards for a tally. Warren then added the two extra points on a rollout.

Later in the game, Warren scored a touchdown that was nullified by an infraction.

On defense, Lino Sanchez and Louis Switzer, who served as game co-captains; Roy Thomas, George Pedro, Roy Anderson

Ray Allen Lost To Lee Eleven

MIDLAND — Ray Allen, a 200-pound senior on the Midland Lee football team, is probably out for the season with a broken ankle.

Allen is an offensive center and a defensive middle guard for the Rebels, who play Amarillo Tascosa Friday night in Midland. He is a two-year letterman and has been on the Lee varsity squad for four years.

Rusty Stallings, 170-pound junior, probably will replace Allen on offense while Elbert Taylor, 196-pound senior, will probably spell him on defense.

Winning streaks go on the line from Class AAAA champion Garland, Corsicana and Rockwall in Texas high school football games tonight.

Garland seeks its 14th straight triumph at the expense of Dallas Samuel after whipping Dallas Adams 23-0 last week. The defending titlists aren't expected to encounter much more difficulty with Samuel.

Meanwhile, third-ranked Dumas will venture into Class AAAA against Berger, a power in the upper class.

In Class AAAA, second-ranked Spring Branch will play Dallas South Oak Cliff in what could develop into a close battle.

Class AA kingpin Phillips is expected to find little trouble against Tulia. Ballinger, No. 2 will warm up for bigger things in a bout with Coleman.

Herd After 2nd Win In Ysleta

By TOMMY HART

Two teams which won their opening tests on widely separated fronts last week, Big Spring and Ysleta Bel Air, tangled at 9 o'clock CST tonight on the Bel Air greensward.

Big Spring hasn't played an El Paso-area team since 1958 and hasn't visited out there since 1955. The results in both contests were disastrous for the provincials.

In 1955, Ysleta High pummeled the locals by a score of 7-0. Three years later, the same school sent a team here and escaped with a 14-8 victory. Some said the Indians had horseshoes in their pockets that night but the visitors were tough when they needed to be.

Mark Hopkins And Campbell Clash Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — It's the moss backs against the limber backs today.

And if age prevails over agility at the National Amateur Golf Championship, the folks down in West Virginia will think they are seeing a summer rerun of an old refrain.

The field in the big tournament over the Canterbury course is down to four.

In one of today's 36-hole semifinals, Bill Campbell, the West Virginia gentleman with the Princeton degree, meets Mark Hopkins, a University of Houston junior.

Campbell is 41, playing in his 21st amateur, in the semis for the first time since 1949, and taking probably his last good shot at this title.

Hopkins is 21, so skinny his college chums say that he is all feet and follow-through, and hard to tell from his caddy.

In the other semi, Ed Tutwiler, a West Virginia car dealer now wheeling in Indianapolis, meets Dave Eichelberger, a student at Oklahoma State.

Tutwiler is 43, in his eighth amateur, and maybe getting his last crack at the title.

Eichelberger is also 21, slight and a chipping fool.

If Campbell and Tutwiler win through the Saturday's 36-hole final it will be old home week. Campbell has won the West Virginia amateur seven times. Tutwiler has won it 11 times.

Most of the time they won it from each other.

Campbell emerged from the toughest quarter of the draw, and had to put out well-known players to get to the semis.

In the morning Thursday Campbell eliminated Billy Joe Patton, the colorful scrambler from North Carolina with the fastest backswing in the South.

In the afternoon, Bill went 19 holes to knock out another North Carolinian, Dale Morey.

Tutwiler almost went home to Indiana during Thursday's double. First he had Leo Spooner, the 36-year-old paunchy bachelor from Duluth, Minn., on the hook and let him off. Tutwiler finally escaped one up.

Then Gene Ferrell, a left-hander from Louisiana State, took him 20 holes before Tutwiler sank a 15-footer for a birdie.

Grid Powers Face Toughs

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado and Southern California kick off the first full weekend of the college football season tonight, a weekend that has more toughs than traditional opening breathers.

The Saturday lineup offers Navy at Penn State, Syracuse at Boston College, Georgia at Alabama, Air Force at Washington, Texas A&M at Louisiana State, Oklahoma at Maryland and Missouri at California as examples of major teams opening with important opponents.

And Mississippi, picked No. 1 in the Associated Press' pre-season poll, could have its hands full with Memphis State, a growing power ready to challenge Georgia Tech as the South's top independent.

Southern California, co-favorite with Washington to make it to the Rose Bowl, starts festivities tonight after Colorado, the only major Friday night action and only the second major college game of the season.

UCLA opened the season with a 17-12 upset at Pittsburgh last week.

"We're ready," coach John McKay said after Southern Cal's final workout Thursday. "They've spent three weeks with no scrimmages and everybody wants to do some hitting. The fellows are hungry."

Halfback Mike Garrett, who paced USC to a 14-0 victory at Colorado last year, again is expected to lead the attack.

Colorado lost only five men by graduation from the team that compiled a 2-8 mark last season, but is relying heavily on sophomores and is a three touchdown underdog.

Mississippi is favored against Memphis State, but not too heavily. Ole Miss again sports a rock-ribbed defense, and has a score to settle with the oncoming Tigers, who held them to a scoreless tie last season.

Oklahoma, deep and tough, is ranked No. 2 and, with quarterback Mike Ringer in good shape, is favored over Maryland. Terrapin Tom Nugent, however, is reminding people he has managed an upset in each of his 27 years as a coach.

One of the top attractions, and one of four regional television games, has 10th ranked-Navy at Penn State. The Middies will rely heavily on quarterback Roger Staubach. Penn State is reported to have some thin spots, but is a very slight underdog to the team that was No. 2 in the nation last year.

The other regional TV games are SMU-Florida, Kansas State-Wisconsin and Stanford-Washington State.

Coahoma Hosts Buffs In 8 O'Clock Battle

By PAT WASHBURN
COAHOMA — Class A football hits the local area with a bang tonight at 8 o'clock as the Coahoma Bulldogs and Stanton Buffs tangle here in an annual clash of rivals.

Both teams will be looking for a better performance than in their last meeting a year ago. Although Coahoma was favored at that time, the best the Dogs could manage was a 6-6 tie.

But prospects of a tie tonight are slim. In judging previous experiences thus far this season that have left Stanton with a 1-1 record while Coahoma is 1-0, it will be the Buffs' defense against the Bulldogs' offense. And of the two, Coahoma appears the stronger.

But head coach Spike Dykes of Coahoma was not taking an optimistic outlook Friday morning. Because of only a fair defense, he's worrying about outscoring Stanton.

"We feel here at Coahoma, that if we give Stanton a chance, they can really score the points," Dykes said. "If we don't have any better defensive effort than we did against Rankin, we're going to really be in trouble."

Although Stanton mentor Bill Milam is going into the tilt as the decided underdog, according to grid picks in the area by sportswriters, he is attempting to even up the odds somewhat by refusing to announce his lineup until the two teams take the field. It is expected that any lineup changes will come in the backfield for the Buffs which saw the following boys starting the first two games: quarter back, Buddy Shanks; fullback, Mike Hall; right halfback, Johnny Swanson; and left halfback, Dink Polson.

Of this foursome, Hall seems the least likely to be out of the lineup. The 6'3", 205-pounder is the only real power-rusher the Buffs have come up with this season. A line plunge by Hall is almost always good for three to four yards.

"We're naturally worried about this Hall kid," Dykes said. "He could really hurt us." Dykes lineup will be practically the same that hung an opening season 24-13 defeat on the Rankin Red Devils. It looks like this:

Ends, Bobby Pherigo (150) and Mike Mosley (158); tackles, Eddie Wolski (205) and Joe Anderson (190); guards, Mike Hinsley (162) and Ted Merrick (155); center, Lawrence Lepard (150); quarterback, Dee Allen (150); or Marshall Williams (142); halfbacks, Travis Reid (144) and Eddie McHugh (168); and fullback, Tony Butler (193).

Of these boys only Hinsley will be replacing Ted Cearley and Reid taking over from Johnny Gibson in lineup changes.

Although the Coahomans only three one pass in the Rankin game which went for an incomplete, fans tonight can expect to see the Bulldogs take more to the air, according to Dykes. He has two capable passers in Williams and Allen, with the latter being more accurate at the short distances while the former is the long ball thrower. In Pherigo and Mosley, Dykes has two capable receivers with Mosley being singled out as the top target. While the Bulldogs have been concentrating their efforts in the past two weeks on defense, Milam has been putting his Buffs through exercises that have stressed all areas of the game. Stanton has looked pretty good on defense in the past and it is expected that it will show added improvement in tonight's contest.

Stanton won its opener against Roscoe, 12-8, and then lost to Big Lake last week, 32-0.

PAT WASHBURN'S

The Roundtable

ROY RIEGELS, who was dubbed "Wrong Way Riegels" for his run in the 1929 Rose Bowl game when he got his directions mixed up and almost scored an 80 yard touchdown for his opponents:

"I used to be sensitive, but everybody else thought it was funny and I finally decided that all I could do was laugh with them. Sometimes my 10-year-old son calls me 'Wrong Way Riegels'—and I don't even spank him for it."

Former football coaching Great POP WARNER: "You cannot play two kinds of football at once, dirty and good. . . . There is no system of play that substitutes for knocking an opponent down. When you hit, hit hard. . . . You play the way you practice. Practice the right way and you will react the right way in a game."

Former fighter TONY GALENTI talking about his bout with JOE LOUIS for the world heavyweight title: "If I had the right manager, I'd have licked Louis. The boxer in commission scared me. They told me if I fought a foul fight they'd give me purse to charity. If I had the right manager he woulda said: 'Go out and hit him low.' I woulda butted him and thumbed him. I coulda been champion of the world."

GENE SARAZEN talking about pro golfer WALTER HAGEN: "Gene never had a showman like him. All the professionals who have a chance to go the big money today should say a silent thanks to Walter Hagen each time they stretch a check between their fingers. It was Hagen who made professional golf what it is."

BUDDY YOUNG, a former Baltimore Colt great, talking about the tremendous strength of "BIG DADDY" LIPSCOMB when he bet six men one time that they couldn't pin him in a wrestling match:

"We got a man on each leg. One man on each arm and two around his middle. Six men in all and we still couldn't pin him. Suddenly Big Daddy flipped his body and everybody went sailing. Billy Eckstein wound up with a sprained ankle. Big Daddy got up triumphant, beating his chest and shouting, 'Still the Daddy! Still the Daddy!'"

Sports writer RALPH SCHOENSTEIN: "Everytime I pass the Polo Grounds, I want to cry. Of course, I often felt this way when baseball was there for I am the job of sports. I am a Giant fan. Although my heroes now torture me at San Francisco, I can't drop them with the disgust of a normal man. It's surprising how sentimental you can be about 16 years of bleeding."

Jockey WILLIE HARTACK speaking of trainers who tell him to take it easy on whip because a horse is beginning to move toward its peak: "I'm out to win every race. I don't want anyone to tell me next time we'll win it."

Former swimming great JOHNNY WEISSMULLER: "Even as a kid, I didn't tense up in a big meet. Not even the Olympics bothered me. I tackled everything in a routine way. There was no sweat that way, which made it a lot more enjoyable."

Magic Number Is Ten For Phils

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The count has reached 10 for both the Philadelphia Phillies and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The National League-leading Phillies reduced their magic pennant-clinching number to 10 Thursday night while touting 10 over the Los Angeles Dodgers, handing the defending champions a 4-3 defeat that mathematically eliminated them from contention.

The victory boosted the Phillies' bulge over idle, second-place St. Louis to 6½ games with 15 games remaining and left this magic number situation: Any combination of Phillies' victories or Cardinal defeats totaling 10 will bring Philadelphia its first NL flag since 1950.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, are holding onto second place by only one game over the Cincinnati Reds, who rode a three-homer salvo to a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the only other NL game scheduled.

The Phillies got the job done against Don Drysdale with the aid of three errors that led to four unearned runs, tagging Dodger right-hander with his seventh straight loss to Philadelphia. Drysdale has not beaten the Phillies since June 1, 1962.

Locked in a 3-3 tie going into the ninth, Drysdale started his own downfall when he let lead-off batter Ruben Amaro hit a pitch. Ron Fairly then added to Drysdale's troubles, grabbing a pop-bunt by John Briggs but throwing wild to first in an attempt to double up Amaro.

Amaro reached second base on the play, moved to third on a single by Tony Gonzalez and scored as Richie Allen hit into a force play.

The Phillies had scored three unearned runs in the first inning as Maury Wills made two errors, but the Dodgers got two back in their half against rookie Rick Wise.

Bobby Shantz then came on for the Phillies in relief and was touched for the tying run in the sixth on Tommy Davis' run-producing single.

Shantz, however, wound up with the victory — his first for the Phillies — as he checked the Dodgers on three hits in 7½ innings before leaving for a pinch hitter in the ninth. Drysdale's loss was his 14th against the Reds.

Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson and Johnny Edwards homered as the Reds built a commanding 7-1 lead going into the ninth. Jim O'Toole, meanwhile, had retired 22 Cubs in order after allowing a first inning run.

John Boccabella's single, Andre Rodgers' triple, a single by Billy Cowan and Ron Santo's homer chased O'Toole. Sammy Ellis came on and got the last two outs, preserving O'Toole's 15th victory against seven losses. Lew Burdette took the loss for a 10-9 record.

Runnels Ties Snyder Lamar

Big Spring Runnels and Snyder Lamar fought to a 16-16 deadlock in an eighth grade football game played here Thursday evening.

John Patton raced 25 yards for a first period score for Big Spring, then ran across the two extra points.

A long pass set up Lamar's first tally in the second period. Big Spring was on Snyder's one-yard line at the half. The period ended with the count, 8-8.

In the third quarter, Big Spring took the opening kickoff and drove down field for its second score, Rocky Wooley getting it from 30 yards out. Wooley also ran the two extra points.

Big Spring had other opportunities to score in the quarter but couldn't move in.

Late in the fourth quarter, Lamar beat the clock by scoring on a fourth down play from the ten-yard line.

Wooley was outstanding on offense for the Yearlings.

Lamar Slips Past Goliah

Snyder Lamar's 7th grade football team capitalized on a Goliah miscue in the second quarter Thursday in the old stadium and raced past the Mavericks 2-0 in a game that was even all the way.

Snyder's winning points came with Goliah on its own 10-yard line as the Mavericks' center snapped the ball over the punter's head, resulting in the ball going out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

Lamar moved to one other touchdown on a 40-yard pass play but the six-pointer was called back because of an infraction of the rules. The closest Goliah came to scoring was on the Lamar 20-yard line.

Tommy Ryan, Goliah fullback, was singled out after the contest for his offensive play and corner-man work on defense.

Beard Leads In Tourney

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Five months ago, Frank Beard was near death. Thursday he and powerful Jack Nicklaus were tied for first place in the $40,000 Portland Open golf tournament.

Both scored four-under par 68s in the first round for leads of up to four strokes over forty-three other players who matched or broke par on the 6,404-yard par 35-37-72 Portland Golf Club course.

Tech Faces Miss. State

LUBBOCK (AP)—Mississippi State and Texas Tech clash here Saturday night in an inter-sectional football game pitting the talents of two ace backs — the Bulldogs' Hoyte Granger and the Raiders' Donny Anderson.

Each team has won one game in the only previous meetings between the schools.

Granger — they pronounce it "grom-jay" — with a French accent — was Mississippi State's leading rusher last season as fullback.

Tech hopes to counter his line charges with the speedy running of Anderson, touted as one of the best all-around backs in the Southwest Conference last fall.

Both clubs raised some eyebrows in their leagues in 1963. Mississippi State, picked for the Southeastern Conference debut, compiled a 6-2-2 record, placed fourth in a 12-team league and won 16-12 in the Liberty Bowl over North Carolina State.

Don't Condemn Her Until You've Seen Her Story!

DEAR ABBY

Family Vacation

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I invited her parents to spend two weeks with us at our summer home. My father-in-law is an ardent sports fan, and while I like to listen to baseball games now and then, I dislike a steady diet of them. I had looked forward to this vacation to catch up on some long delayed pleasure reading. My father-in-law turned on all the baseball games without asking whether they would bother anyone else in the room. I took it for a week, but I balked when he added football games. He and his wife accused me of being a poor host. They said that we, by inviting them, had in effect turned over the use of our home to them. I said that their manners were poor, and I would no more turn on a baseball game without asking them than sit down and start reading aloud in their presence without permission. There was a scene and they left in a huff. Who was right?

POOR HOST?

DEAR HOST: There is more than one way to skin a cat. You apparently chose the most painful method. You were right. But you could have set them straight in a more diplomatic manner.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: The girl is 24 and the man is 27. They went steady for two years and have been engaged for the last three years. They are always arguing and he has even hit her a couple of times, but they always make up. He criticizes the way she wears her hair, the way she puts on her makeup, how she dresses and spends her money. He has all kinds of excuses for not getting married. They both have good jobs and lots of other couples have made it on less. What can be done about a relationship that seems to be going nowhere?

THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: I think the faster this relationship gets "nowhere," the better off you both will be. Lovers who fight constantly during courtship usually battle forever after if they marry. Throw in the towel before he wins by a technical knockout.

DEAR ABBY: My 20-year-old daughter is an exceptionally pretty girl. She has always been very popular and I never worried about her. We are very close. Lately she has been asking me questions that have led me to believe that she is far more advanced in her experiences with boys (one in particular) than she should be. I wish she would be 100 per cent frank with me so that I could warn her of some of the things girls should be careful of. Yet I don't want her to think I am giving my approval to anything that is wrong. I hope I am making sense, Abby. I guess what I want to ask is this: Is it wrong for a mother to tell her daughter everything she thinks the girl ought to know in case she needs the information?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If the mother thinks her daughter "ought to know"—it is wrong NOT to tell her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HOWARD: To avoid those "Blue Mondays" try going to church on Sundays.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

Three Texans Killed In Plane

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP)—Mexican police found the bodies of three Texans with a wrecked plane Thursday.

They identified the dead, all from Laredo, as pilot C. E. Drury, Don Sparks and Pete Barrera.

Sheriff Dale Rietter of Del Rio, Tex., reported the plane, a Cessna 182 which disappeared the day before on a flight from Laredo to Midland, cracked up about 2 1/2 miles south of the Rio Grande a point opposite Comstock, Tex.

Drury had inquired about the weather at Midland at 8:02 a.m. Wednesday. Apparently that was the last word before the craft went down.

National Teachers Assembly Slates Negro For High Post

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — taught for 24 years in the Negro schools of Salisbury, will be the first of her race to become president of the NEA's Department of Classroom Teachers.

She will take over as spokeswoman for 830,000 teachers, or 92 per cent of the NEA's membership, at a time when segregated state teacher groups are making final plans to merge. The NEA recently recommended the mergers be complete by 1966.

"It's going to take some time," Mrs. Koontz said. "These are voluntary organizations."

The state groups must be merged without annihilation of either the white or Negro organization, she said, in order to preserve the leadership and active membership in both.

Mrs. Koontz believes the mergers will help the transition to integration at the teacher level as well as the student level.

She said integration at the teacher level could become a reality today in many cities "if the boards of education took the lead."

Crowded classrooms, teacher shortages and teacher salaries will be additional national problems in which she will be involved.

"Just the cost of one rocket or missile could go a long way to supplying the additional classrooms we need," she said.

The great numbers of new teachers being trained are not solving the teacher shortage either, she said, because 50 per cent leave after the first year.

"Often the first-year teacher has to take the roughest situation in schools and there is such a frustration about it that the teacher feels it just isn't worth it," she said.

The lure of higher pay in industry also attracts many teachers, who she believes "really prefer to remain in teaching."

Better salaries, tenure or "some kind of job assurance," and maybe probationary periods for new teachers — "to protect the teacher as well as school officials" — will be mandatory if the nation wants to hold young teachers, she said.

Teaching is Mrs. Koontz' first love. Both her parents were teachers and she married a teacher. The couple has no children.

She attended Negro schools in her home town of Salisbury, which has a population of 23,800. Only a handful of Negroes now attend white schools in the textile community 40 miles north of Charlotte.
