Senior Class To Have Bake & Rummage Sale

A rummage and bake sale will be held from 8 a.m.- 4 p.m., one day only, Saturday, July 29. The sale will be held in the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church, 405 West 8th, Cisco. The sale will be sponsored by the Cisco High School senior class.

All high school senior students and their parents should gather things together for the sale and tape their name and the price of the items on with masking tape. These should be kept at their home until Thursday, July 27, from 1-7 p.m, when they can be brought to the church. All bake items should be brought up to the church on Saturday, July 29, after 7:30 a.m.

Outside donations will also be accepted. If anyone would like to donate something to the rummage sale, they may call Evelyn Valek, 442-3185, or Evelyn Clinton, 442-2168, or 442-3752, or Frances Anayla, 442-2284 (after 5 p.m.)

Mrs. Valek said this might be a good time for people to clean out their closets and attics and instead of throwing away the extra items, donate them to the senior class. She said the senior class will appreciate all donations.

The sale will be one of many fund raisers the class will have this year to help raise money for their senior trip. Everyone is invited to stop by the church on July 29, to pick up something useful and to also pick up some delicious desserts.

No drugs, alcohol or dipping will be allowed.

Says a 'spokesparent' for Parents for Teens, "High school parents should be assured that the dance will be well chaperoned and our definite rules will be followed. Please feel secure in allowing your teenager to attend our dance, and feel free to join us if you can."

Commissioners Look Over New Location For Rising Star J.P.

At the end of the Called Meeting Monday Eastland County Commissioners drove to Rising Star to sample some good cooking and look over possible new offices for Justice of the Peace "Tex" Evans and Constable Gene Hicks.

The need for these new offices was outlined in Commissioners Court recently, when Evans told the Commissioners that present offices were "In an old hull of a building, with rats as big as cats, snakes . . . and water a foot deep when it rains."

The Commissioners agreed that a change in location was in order, therefore the trip to look over another site.

HOSPITAL BED NEEDED

Billy Bacon, Commissioner of Pct. 4, says that a veteran in his Precinct needs a hospital bed to use at home.

This man was discharged from the V.A. Hospital recently, and it will be two months before the Hospital can furnish him a bed.

If anyone has a hospital bed they would sell at a resonable price for county use, please call Billy Bacon at 442-3500. Or you may contact County Judge Scott Bailey at his office in the Courthouse.

Commissioners Approve Modified Jail Contract

In a called meeting Monday Eastland County Commissioners approved a Jail contract with the cities - subject to some modifications. This Contract deals with the keeping of city prisoners in the county jail.

Officials of Cisco, Eastland, Gorman, Ranger and Rising Star had previously worked out the agreement, assisted by District Attorney Emory Walton. The District Attorney presented the Contract to the Commissioners Court. The amended version will now go back to the various cities, subject to their approval.

The Commissioners voted to omit the following statement from the Contract: "It is further agreed between the parties that the provisions of their contract shall automatically be extended for an additional period of six months beyond the regular expiration date hereof without further action of any party hereto."

There was also some change on a statement as to how the Contract may be "modified, amended or rescinded," and the term of the Contract is set for a period from date of its execution until Sept. 30, 1990.

During the time covered by the contract the cities would pay the County $30 per day for housing city prisoners in the County Jail. In case of illness or damage to the Jail there would be other charges.

An area of disagreement between two of the cities and the county was apparently resolved in this current contract. The wording clarifies who is to be considered a city prisoner and who a county prisoner. This item led to the rejection of several other contracts.

The contract presented to the County Commissioners Monday was the seventh such agreement to be considered. It may be the last one, if approved by the cities this week. If so, it will be the first time that local cities each had the same Jail Contract with the County.

Cisco To Have Advanced Life Support Status

The Cisco Emergency Medical Services will officially go to Advanced Life Support status as of August 1. Through careful planning and consideration of the former administrator, Marvin Cole and the EMS Department Heads, the Cisco Ambulance Service will be able to advance to a higher level of patient care which includes the use of invasive procedures such as intravenous therapy, application of Military Anti-Shock trousers, and advanced airway maintance through intubation while still providing care at the lowest possible cost to the patient.

Cisco EMS is an emergency transport service for the City of Cisco having two fully equipped ambulances, one brand new and one slightly older, available for service at all times. The ambulances are staffed with personnel who are certified with the State of Texas at the level of Emergency Medical Technician-Special Skills around the clock, making Cisco EMS the only ambulance service in Eastland County operating at the advanced life support level.

The ambulances are stationed at the hospital and all ambulance bills should be paid to Cisco EMS in care of E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital. This is a public ambulance service. Everyone is asked to pay the bill because this is your ambulance. Any questions concerning the ambulance service can be answered by calling 442-3951, Ext. 44. For emergencies call 629-1728.

REWARDED FOR EMBLEM-Daniel E. Wooldridge, left, of Eastland is presented a $100.00 U.S. Savings Bond by Richard Proctor of Citizens State Bank of Gorman as grand prize for having submitted the winning emblem for Eastland County Crime Stoppers. The bank donated the bond and the winning entry will be adopted with modifications as the official emblem of the new county-wide effort to cut down on crime. Also shown are Crime Stoppers Secretary Cathy Kanady, left, and President Rena May Kirk. There were a total of 11 entries in the contest from throughout the county, and interest and work in the Crime-Stoppers effort is gaining momentum. A special telephone number(629-TIPS) has been established to which citizens can call information and remain anonymous, and a reward program for tips is being established and will be announced soon. The county-wide organization is accepting contributions to help with its program and will be staging fund-raising events through the year to help in the over-all fight against illegal drugs and crime.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE:

Persons interested in specific details about the efforts to secure a state prison in Eastland County are invited to contact the Eastland County Economic Development Council Office and the telephone number is 442-3413.

Director Charles M. Barnes reports that his office is anxious to discuss the project and to answer any questions possible about the details.

Board Of Regents Vote No New Taxes For 89-90

For the second straight year, the Cisco Junior College Board of Regents did not raise its tax rate. The Board voted in its July 10 meeting to keep the tax rate at $.20 despite some loss of revenue.

Dr. Gary Harris, who was appointed to the board in June, was sworn in as a member of the Board of Regents. "We know that Dr. Harris will be an asset to the Board," said Dick Woolley, board president.

The Board also adopted a $5,287,533 budget for 1989-90. The budget included salaries for six new positions and raises for old employees.

"The Texas Legislature was able to appropriate enough money to higher education to get us on the road to recovery from cuts from the last four to six years," stated Roger C. Schustereit, CJC President.

In other matters the Board dealt with the following:

A. Athletic Insurance.

B. Bids of yearbook, furniture and instructional equipment.

C. Personnel and other routine matters.

The next scheduled meeting of the Board of Regents will be August 14.

Man Faces Million Dollar Bond After Crime Spree

A crime spree which started in the early hours Tuesday morning kept Eastland police officers, sheriff's officers, D.P. S. officers at least one Cisco police officer and even an airplane, busy searching for a suspect.

Later Tuesday morning the mnanhunt resulted in Antonio Vargos being arrested and arraigned before 91st District Court Judge Jim Wright. His bond was set at $200,000 on each of five counts of burglary of a building and aggrevated assault, for a bond total of one million dollars.

An employee who was sleeping in a room at Gaeta's Gulf Station first alerted officers with a call at 3:20 a.m. He was awakended when a man with a metal pipe broke a window near his head and reached into the building to take a stereo. Ramona's Cafe and the Quickway Grocery, also located near the station on the north side of I-20 at Hwy. 6 south of Eastland, were also burglarized.

Reported to be running east from the grocery, officers started searching for the suspect, and they found the discarded money bag from the grocery.

A man fitting the description tried to enter a building at the Chaney Gas Co. on the south side of Eastland.

The search intensified after officers learned that a man had entered an Eastland southside home, and had assaulted and robbed the lady in the home before leaving. An officer found a metal pipe, believed to be the one the suspect was seen carrying earlier, at the home where the assualt took place.

When Vargos was arrested, Sheriff Dee Hogan said that he had a shirt in his possession, and that Quickway personnel identified it as one missing from the store. He was wearing shorts and no shirt at the time. He was arrested southeast of Eastland.

A slender but athletic looking young man of Spanish ancestry, Vargos had long hair reaching below his shoulders. He was believed to be the man seen at Tiner's Truck Terminal earlier, talking with another man about going to Mexico. The other man, in a car, was located alone by officers, who said that he had been drinking.

Vargos is in the Eastland County jail and the investigation continues.

Suit Decided In Favor Of Doctors

Drs. H.J. Bulgerin and B.B. Alexander were acquitted late Monday on a charge of negligence in the care and treatment of Samuel L. Petrey Jr., deceased.

The civil case began July 11 in the 91st District Court, with Judge Jim Wright presiding. it was filed by Samuel L. Petrey Sr. and his wife, Lanna Petrey, on behalf of the estate of their son, Samuel L. Petrey Jr. Damages of $600,000 were reportedly asked in the case.

Seventeen-year-old Samuel Jr. died in an Abilene hospital in March, 1986, after first being treated in Eastland.

The jury voted 10-2 in favor of the defendants.

HEY DUMMY!

It's not funny!

If you're bent on driving yourself to drink, take a lesson from statistics...don't become one! Statistics will show you that there are too many people drinking and driving. As a result, people are getting hurt...getting killed. Now, the laws are getting stricter and the courts are getting tougher, but they can't do it all. There's still one person who can do his or her part...to try to put a stop to these horrifying statistics... and that's you. It's easy to remember and easy to do...don't mix automobiles and alcohol. Only a dummy would drink and drive!

A STORY ABOUT BRIAN

This is the story of Brian,
Mr. Cool he was without tryin'.
The hallways he owned;
His charms he but loaned.
Ah my, how he left the girls sighin'.

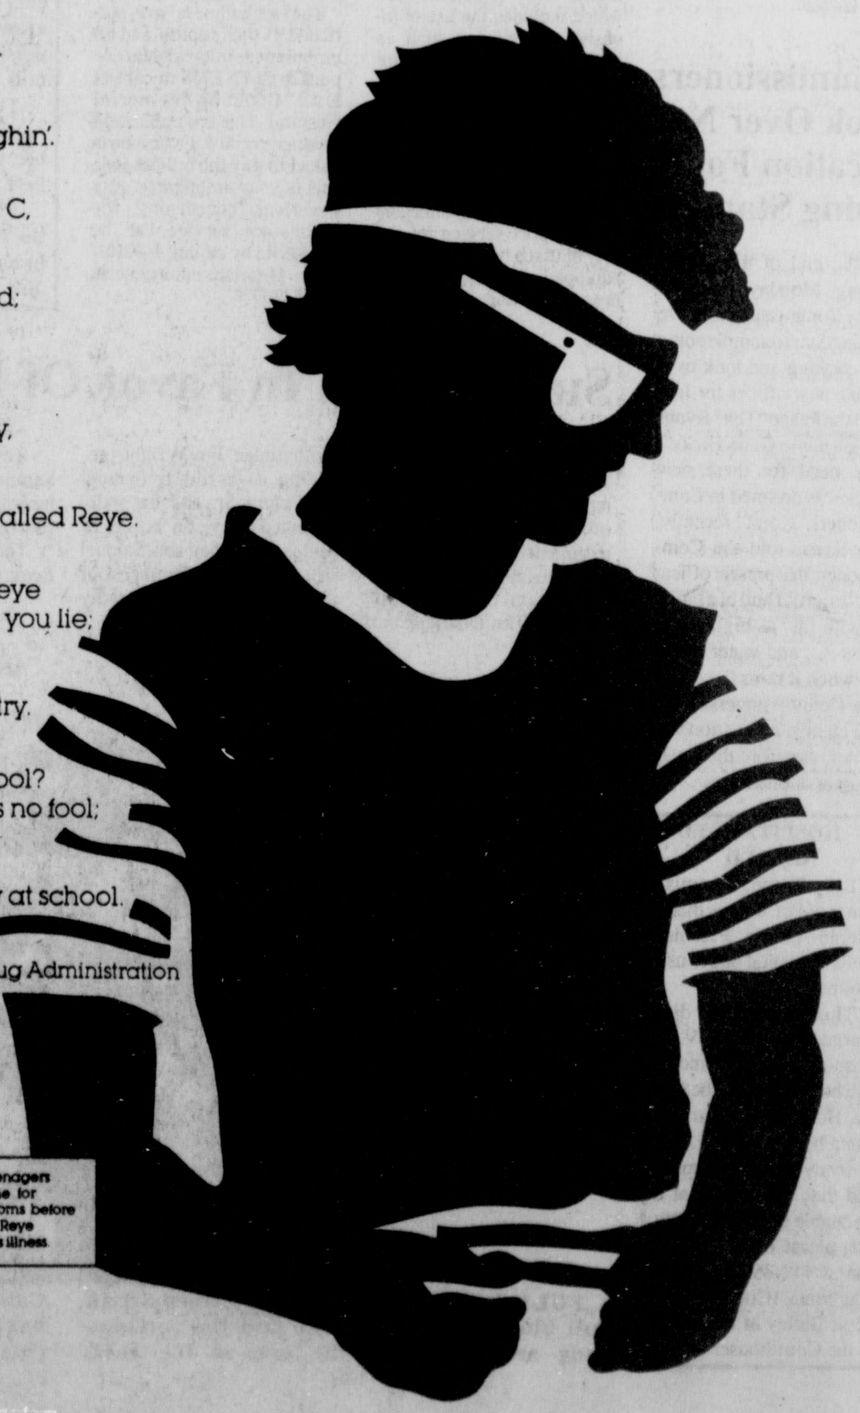

Then a virus caught our Mr. C,
A bug with a long history;
He ached, and he sneezed;
He coughed, and he wheezed;
It was flu causing this misery.

Feeling so low was this guy,
He was set to give aspirin a try,
But remember he did
A note on the lid
That warned of a syndrome called Reye.

Rare is this trouble called Reye
But permanent it might make you lie;
Kids with the flu,
Chicken pox, too,
May suffer when aspirin they try.

How did Brian reprise his cool?
Hey, remember this dude was no fool;
He just took it slow,
That's the best way to go,
When they need you so badly at school.

Sea World of Texas

KEMP'S RIDLEY THRIVING AT SEA WORLD - The rarest of all sea turtles - the Kemp's ridley - can be seen on behind the scenes tours at Sea World of Texas in San Antonio. The marine life park is home for 12 turtles in a joint research program with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service. Sea World hopes to educate the public on the plight of the Kemp's ridley, which was declared an endangered species in 1973. Sea World staffers such as Gary Violetta, curator of fishes, watch the turtles closely to increase the body of scientific knowledge on the species. For more Sea World of Texas information and current hours of operation call toll free (800) 422-SWTX or, in the San Antonio area 523-3611.

Endangered Turtles Find Home At San Antonio's Sea World Of Texas

SAN ANTONIO-- Twelve of the most endangered of all sea turtles-- the Kemp's ridley-- now make their home at Sea World of Texas in San Antonio.

The world's largest marine life park acquired the Kemp's ridley sea turtles (Lepidochelys kempi) in December, and the turtles are adapting well to their new environment. Housed in Sea World's Sharks and the Coral Reef exhibit during the winter and early spring, they are spending the warmer months in Sea World's animal science area, where they can be observed by park guests on behind the scenes tours.

Declared an endangered species in 1973, the Kemp's ridleys were brought to near extinction by decades of unrestricted overharvesting of their eggs by human egg gatherers who hauled huge loads of turtle eggs to market in Mexico City. Many of the eggs that hatched fell prey to predators such as coyotes and raccoons on land and large fish in the gulf. Today, even shrimers' nets pose a threat to the sea turtles, as they can become accidentally entrapped in the nets and drown.

Another factor contributing to the dangerous decline of the species is that the ridleys have only one known nesting ground-- an isolated beach along the Gulf of Mexico near the village of Rancho Nuevo in Tamaulipas, Mexico. This nesting beach is now federally protected by the government of Mexico.

To increase the turtles' population and the species' chances for survival, the Mexican Instituto Nacional de Pesca, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Marine Fisheries Service, National Park Service and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department join forces in 1978. Their goal was to provide increased protection of the ridley, to conduct research of its life cycle and to establish a second nesting site on Padre Island National Seashore near Corpus Christi, Texas.

A major project resulting from this international Kemp's ridley recovery program was Head Start, which is administrered by the National Marine Fisheries Service's laboratory in Galveston, Texas.

Under the head Start program, Mexico provides the United States with approximately 2,000 eggs yearly from clutches laid at the Rancho Nuevo nesting area. The eggs are transported from Rancho Nuevo to Padre Island National Seashore, where personnel from the National Park Service incubate them in the Padre Island beach sand until hatching occurs. After hatching, the turtles crawl down the beach and into the surf.

The turtles are then moved to the laboratory at Galveston, where they are kept for nine to 12 months. It is thought that because of the growth increase in the first year, these animals have a better chance of survival when released. This is where the turtles get at "head start."

Sea World of Texas' 12 turtles are the product of the Head Start program.

The endangered green sea turtles have received special care at Sea World of Florida in the "Hatchling Head Start" program, a cooperative project of Sea World and the Florida Department of Natural Resources. Hatchlings are brought to the park when they are half-dollar size and are nurtured for a year before being returned to the sea. The special care in rearing these species may help increase the population's chances for survival. Likewise, Sea World of Texas is preparing to assist the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in research on the Kemp's ridley turtle, often found stranded along Texas' Gulf Coast.

LOADED DOWN-- The peach trees at Mabel Thetford's residence, 1200 East 14th are loaded down with fruit. The limbs of the young trees had to be supported by wood beams, since the fruit was so heavy. State Teachers Salaries Rank 31st In U.S.

(The following story was reprinted from the June, 1989, issue of "Texas Business Today")

Texas' hopes for improving the education and skill levels of its citizens received a blow with the release of the latest nationwide figures ranking teacher salaries. The National Education Association report, "Ranking of the State; 1989," reveals that in the past year, Texas fell four places to 31st in average teacher salaries. Only 19 states pay their teachers less than Texas does. The 1989 ranking exactly matches the previous low point of the decade recorded in 1980-81. Texas' ranking had climbed to 21st in 1984, but it has been slipping since.

Not only has the state's ranking fallen, but salary data complied by the Texas State Teachers Association also reveals a disturbing fact: Of 960 school districts reporting, 808 froze or reduced beginning teacher salaries this year. Only 152 raised starting pay, and most of the increases were very modest, ranging from 1 to 4 percent, well below the national average increase of 5.6 percent.

The Texas Legislature recently acted to improve teacher salaries by raising state minimum salary schedules by $180 a month. The raise represents a much needed step, but teacher pay remains inordinately low. Starting salary for beginning teachers is increased from $15,200 a year to $17,000 a year. Maximum salary is $28,400 after a teacher reaches step ten. A teacher with a bachelor's degree must work a maximum, of 20 years to achieve the maximum salary; a teacher with a master's degree must work at least 14 years.

While recognizing the difficult challenge of precarious state finances, it is enormously important that the problem of low teacher salaries be addressed. Charles Beard, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, points out that investment in the future begins at the earliest levels of education. "It's our job to see that our kids get to the universities and other productive positions in the work force," he states. "Without a pay raise... it will be impossible to entice the best and the most capable young people to take the places of today's teachers when they leave. Forfeiting our children's future must not even be considered an option."

Meanwhile, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board released figures on Texas' faculty salaries. Teachers at the state's institutions of higher learning received a 7.2 percent salary increase in 1988-89 to an average salary of $39,755. That came on top of a 10.5 percent salary increase in 1987-88 and moved Texas to within 2.7 percent of the national average. However, faculty salries still lag 9.6 percent or, $4,207, behind the national average paid in the ten largest states.

In raising professors' salaries, Texas has made a laudable commitment to quality higher education. The state is rapidly closing the gap between its salaries and the salaries paid in comparable states.

Now there is need to pay heed to the crying need for competitive pay for Texas elementary and secondary teachers. If Texas does not act soon, the lack of action could signal a wholesale retreat from the race for educational excellence and economic supremacy.

'Who Gets Your Food Dollar' Brochure

A dollar spent on food at the supermarket or restaurant in 1988 provided only 25 cents to the U.S. farmer. The remaining 75 cents covered other marketing costs from packaging to profit, according to a "Who Gets Your Food Dollar?" brochure prepared by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Other components of the food dollar included 34.5 cents devoted to labor required in processing, marketing and serving, 8 cents in packaging, 7.5 cents in rent and depreciation, 4.5 cents in transportation, 4.5 cents in advertising, 3.5 cents in energy costs, 3 cents in before-tax profits, 2 cents for interest charges, 1.5 cents for repairs and 6 cents in such miscellaneous items as insurance, property taxes, debt losses and accounting.

The farm value, labor and packaging segments were unchanged from 1987. Rent and depreciation and before-tax profits rose by 1/2 cent per dollar, while overall miscellaneous costs declined by 1 cent.

The farm share of the food dollar varies greatly from one product to another. Eight cents of every dollar spent on bread goes to the wheat grower, while 58 cents out of every dollar spent on beef goes to the producer. By comparison, hog producers receive 38 cents out of every dollar spent on pork. Tomato growers receive 8 cents out of every dollar spent on canned tomatoes and orange growers earn 21 cents from every dollar's worth of fresh oranges sold

The brochure also examines the historic change in retail food prices. A look back shows that food prices haven't risen as fast as many other consumer goods. A dozen eggs, which sold for 21 cents at the turn of the century, now sells for an average price of 79 cents. Five pounds of sugar cost 30 cents in 1900. Today that same amount of sugar sells for an average cost of $1.82. A gallon of whole milk which sold for 27 cents in 1900 cost the consumer an average of $2.32 in 1988.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is a general farm organization which represents producers of all farm commodities grown in the United States and Puerto Rico.

Social Security Direct Deposit

Over 4 in 10 Social Security beneficiaries are not at home waiting for the mailman on the third of the month. They are visiting, vacationing, taking care of business, or doing whatever else they want to do.

Why? Because they have direct deposit. In other words, they have their benefits deposited directly into their account at a bank, credit union, or other financial institution.

These people have discovered some distinct advantages to direct deposit. For example:

- Their money is safe. No thefts, muggers, or lost checks to worry about.
- They save time and money. No lines to stand in. No extra gas to buy to go cash the check. The Government saves money, too, by paying you this way which means more money is available for other benefits and services.

If you are now getting Social Security or supplemental security income (SSI) checks and want direct deposit, just call any Social Security office.

Even if you have direct deposit, you sill must notify Social Security promptly if you change your address. This is because important notices are mailed directly to you from time to time.

And A Cast Of Thousands

by Jackie Kincheloe

If you were to happen upon a rehersal for the upcoming Hilton Dinner Theatre's production of OLIVER, you might think there were a cast of thusands. In actuality-about 30 people complete the cast alone, half of this number being children. OLIVER will be one of the most spectacular shows produced to date. Most of the songs involve dancing or some sort of activity that requires choreography and staging. Though the set has not been assembled yet due to the current play in progress, there are to be a pair of "revolves" that will be stair-stepped, creating various levels on the stage. These "revolves" will do just that-rotate to create the different sets. If it sounds fairly hi-tech, it is.

Dr. Tom Soare from Sam Houston State shares his skills as he directs this lavish undertaking. He is assisted by Dan Huff, Scott Taylor reveals the extent of his genius as musical director and will be providing the music during the show. By the way, Dan Huff will be helping out on the drums. you will see some new faces in OLIVER. Doug Bromley will be Bill Sikes. For those of you who know Doug, you won't want to miss him portraying this villianous character. Darise Error as Nancy creates a saucy wench who will capture your sympathy. Dalin Error(yes folks, it's a brother-sister team) brings the sneaky, shady, lecherous and all-togeth lóvable Fagin to life. Zach Thomas is a natural as the young Oliver and will steal your heart-while the Artful Dodger steals your pocket! Lillian Lewis is the sticky-fingered waif who befriends Oliver. These are but a few of the talented people involved. Make plans now to attend the PRODUCTION OF THE SUMMER. For information and reservations call 442-2589. OLIVER runs from August 4th through the 12th. You WON'T want to miss this one.

More Wins For The Weeks Family

If you need some good news these days, consider this up-date from the fiddle-playing Robert D. Weeks family.

The last report told of Bob's win of Second Place at the National Fiddler's Championship Contest in Weiser, Idaho June 19-24.

Since then Bob has attended five other Contests, and has won every one of them in the Senior Division.

His boys, Robert Jr. (age 12) and Brandy (9) have entered four Contests and have won a number of top places. Daughter Rebecca (age 6) won a place At Gallup, New Mexico.

This Gallup Competition - the North American Championship - was held June 30 - July 1. Robert D. Sr. competed with 15 fiddlers in his Division. He played two rounds with a total of six tunes to win the top place. Robert D. feels he edged to the front with "Kelly Waltz", which especially pleased the judges.

At Gallup Robert Jr. won First in the 10-18 Division, and Brandy Second in the age 6-10 yrs. Rebecca won Fourth in the Age 6 down.

Guitar players with the Weeks at Gallup were Mike Henderson of Big Spring and "Wild Bill" Lyles of Gatesville.

On July 4 at Stamford Robert D. Sr. won First in the Old Time Fiddler's Contest. Chester Derrick was awarded Second and Bonnie Workman Third in the same Contest. The Weeks boys entertained the crowd, but there was no Contest for their age.

On the next weekend the family was in Parker County at the Peach Festival in Weatherford. Robert D. Sr. won First, with Robert Jr. First and Brandy Second in the ages 12 down.

The following day, Sunday, July 9 found the Weeks in Lampassas at the Spring-Ho Festival. Robert D. Sr. received First there, with Robert Jr. First and Brandy Fourth in the ages 15 down.

Now came another big contest - at the Town Center Mall in Fort Worth on July 14-15. Some may remember that one year ago Robert D. Sr. had a serious heart attack during this Contest. Not before he had won First in it and entertained the crowd a bit, however.

He was feeling so great this year that he was determined to go back to that spot and win First again. Reports are that his wife Bonnie wasn't quite as interested in his going back there, but everything worked out fine. Bob Sr. won First in his Division, and Brandy First in ages 9 down. Robert Jr. won Fourth in ages 9-18.

Bob says one of the best parts of the Contest this year was that he felt so well. Last year he felt so bad during the competition that he doesn't even remember what he played and he sure doesn't remember coming off that high stage after the performance.

It was nice this year to greet some of the folks who helped him at Town Center Mall, and let them know that things can turn out all right. This good feeling should carry through a bunch of other Contests - and there are some more big ones ahead this summer.

Safe Driving Tips from Rhonda

To defend yourself from the high beam of oncoming vehicles, avoid looking directly into their lights by looking across the hood of your vehicle, slightly to the right, toward the white line on the side of the road. Signal to the oncoming driver to use his low beams. If he doesn't respond, be wary, he may be intoxicated or asleep at the wheel.

Kallye McCall Weathers

A major project resulting from this international Kemp's ridley recovery program was Head Start, which is administrered by the National Marine Fisheries Service's laboratory in Galveston, Texas.

Under the head Start program, Mexico provides the United States with approximately 2,000 eggs yearly from clutches laid at the Rancho Nuevo nesting area. The eggs are transported from Rancho Nuevo to Padre Island National Seashore, where personnel from the National Park Service incubate them in the Padre Island beach sand until hatching occurs. After hatching, the turtles crawl down the beach and into the surf.

The turtles are then moved to the laboratory at Galveston, where they are kept for nine to 12 months. It is thought that because of the growth increase in the first year, these animals have a better chance of survival when released. This is where the turtles get at "head start."

Sea World of Texas' 12 turtles are the product of the Head Start program.

The endangered green sea turtles have received special care at Sea World of Florida in the "Hatchling Head Start" program, a cooperative project of Sea World and the Florida Department of Natural Resources. Hatchlings are brought to the park when they are half-dollar size and are nurtured for a year before being returned to the sea. The special care in rearing these species may help increase the population's chances for survival. Likewise, Sea World of Texas is preparing to assist the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in research on the Kemp's ridley turtle, often found stranded along Texas' Gulf Coast.

Sheriff's Dept. News

By Richard Kurklin

Officers are investigating an accidental shooting in which a man was shot in the leg with a 0.22 pistol while at another man's housee.

An assault on a female which occured at the Ranger Rodeo grounds was reported by the Cisco Hospital, and was referred to Ranger Police.

Russell's Auto and Car Wash was burglarized between 1 and 3 a.m. Monday. Money was taken from the coin operated car wash, a stereo was taken from a jeep on the car lot and a submergable pump and som tools were also taken.

Friday at Flatwood, a Victor cutting torch hoses, gauges, a helmet and a portable welder were taken from the Everton place.

Also on Friday, two red and white calves were on the road near the Finley gravel pit east of Eastland.

A five feet, ten inch rattlesnake was removed from Mrs. Hart's flower bed in Cisco.

Annoying phone calls were reported in Ranger and there is a suspect.

The Sheriff's Dept. assisted Ranger Police in patroling the rodeo grounds and dance at Ranger.

After two guests at a local motel were attacked and bitten by dogs near the Eastland city limits, city and county personnel determined that the attacks occurred in the city limits, enabling the Eastland animal control officer to pen and observe the dogs for rabies. The owner of the dogs lives outside the city limits.

Officers were advised that a Toyota pickup in one case, and some cattle in another, were repossessed or taken for debts.

Officers are investigating a report of sexual molestation involving juveniles. Two prisoners were taken to T.D.C. Eastland County was unable to fill its four open slots for prisoners to go to T.D.C. Some T.D.C. prisoners are being kept in the local jail as they are awaiting court action, and one is a valued trusty who does the cooking, jail maintenance, and yard work.

Deputy Morris Hardin has informed Sheriff Dee Hogan that he has been offered a higher paying job in far West Texas which he plans to accept. That will leave a deputy spot to be filled here, and his fellow officers say that they will miss him.

Four people are expected to attend the CrimeStoppers school in Corpus Christi.

REJECTED

There is an old old story
That's told so long ago
How a kind loving God
Sent His son to the world below.

How we rejected Him
The one that loves us so
We placed a crown of thorn on His head
And led Him down the road.

Oh how He must have loved us
to suffered bled and died
On the cruel cross of calvary
Our sins on every side.

He's waiting for us today
With both arms open wide
Come unto me all ye that is weary
In my arms you can abide.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

For what its worth, these are my thoughts about the prison issue.

I was one of several women in the first groups to tour the Michael Unit at Palestine. I too was a little apprehensive about going to a Prison. As the Mother of 4 grown sons, my thought turned to them, and how grateful I was that none of them had ever been to prison.

But believe me, these modern prisons, designed by wardens are far more secure than one can imagine. The computerized control room can lock every door and gate in the complex, by the touch of button.

Sure it's not 100% safe, as you say, what if one escapes? But let me ask?

How safe are we anywhere? How did we know, when we went to a Pizza Hut in Corpus that it would be robbed while we were there, and the gunman would point his gun straight at me - how safe were the people in Super Duper in Eastland the night it was robbed - or at McDonald's at 4:30 in the afternoon, when it was robbed - we just can't live in fear of the unknown.

These weren't prison escapees they were people out here all around us.

You say, you don't want your fences cut - well none of us do - but believe me I think all of us would welcome the Fire Dept. cutting our fences, if a fire was raging across our pastures.

We must quit thinking of I and Me, and start thinking of We and Us. I bet Judge Bailey felt awfully good when he asked the 100 or so people gathered in Commissioners Court "How many were willing to pay a little more taxes, to get a prison in Eastland County" and all but one stood up. These people, weren't just thinking of themselves but are willing to 'bite the bullet', and give our County a chance to survive.

Think of it this way, we are headed for a disastrous situation and we can't run to our government for help (and believe me I'm not knocking government disaster programs) but the kind of disaster that only we the Citizens of Eastland County can work to prevent.

Every time a tax paying family moves out of Eastland County, it cost those of us left, just a little bit more. We don't want all our young families with children moving away, they are what keeps our schools open, (and school employs a lot of people) I don't want us to be a 1 school county, a 1 hospital county, our cities and churches that can hardly survive.

That is what this hard working group is trying to save in our County, they weighed the good and the bad, and thought it was worth the risk. They are doing this for all of us, not just themselves, and please don't knock our Bankers, they are the backbone of our County and contribute much to make life better in our cities.

I heard a lecturer once say "Everyone wants to eat off the Governments table, but non one wants to do the dishes."

Well this group of men and women have rolled up their sleeves to do the dishes - NOW - do we pick up the cup-towel and help - or do we throw dirty water and criticize their efforts?

Not me! Because, while the rest of us, sit on our backsides, watching our County go down the tube, they say "What helps Eastland County, helps each and every one of us."

Thanks for listening.

Sincerely,
Anita Walton

Editor,

In the Eastland Telegram of Sunday, June 18 in "Tid Bits" department - you state that a map is being made that shows the burial places of the old timers in Eastland County.

Do you have the location of the graves on the J.Evans survey which is abut seven miles southeast of Ranger?

My grandfather-grandmother and their daughter are buried on the J. Evans 160 acres survey which was part of the 2000 acre ranch. (Evans Ranch).

Here is the description of the three - Doctor Jackson Evans - born Jan. 6, 1837 died about May 15 or 16 1908

Maria Evans - born Jan. 26, 1837 died Feb. 28, 1908.

Elizabeth Evans Hill born Sept. 20, 1866 died Nov. 12, 1894.

Dr. Evans was a doctor in Eastland County - he started as a physician in Eastland County in 1873. He was probably the first physician in the county. He first practiced in Hood County, Texas (Thorp Spring).

The doctors office was his ranch house on the 160 acre tract. He practiced over 30 years in Eastland County.

You are welcome to use the above information any way you wish.

Yours Very Truly

CAN WE TALK?

EDITOR,

Mr. O'Brien has suggested that we need to talk so those of us opposed to the prison could have all our questions answered.

At this time we have no further questions.

After extensive research by some of the facts by some of our group, we found the rest of the story.

Here are some of the facts the rest of the county should be aware of:

1. Lake Leon is full at this time, but in a long period of drought Lake Leon cannot withstand an additional water usage of 927,330 gallons per day.

2. Anyone living in the vicinity of the proposed site will tell you that additional underground water available would be very small, not 500-700 GPM. We need to remember that in times of drought underground water levels drop as do those of lakes.

3. Eastland county(or city) will bear the cost of a new water filtering system, a new sewer system, and laying of both lines to the prison.

4. Add to the items above the cost of the land and we have a total projected cost to the county of well over five million dollars. That's not exactly miniscule!

In conclusion, I, for one, am rather fond of having the water I need at the turn of a faucet.

I know charity begins at home, but paying taxes on five million dollars is a little rich for my blood.

If the bankers and businessmen of Eastland county are having such economic problems as to feel the need to attempt to perpetrate this deception, perhaps we taxpayers could just do some fundraisers for them instead. It would be far cheaper in the years to come.

County History Book Sets September 15 Deadline

The Eastland County History Book has been a long-time a'borning—but it's now almost a reality!

A pre-holiday delivery date is hoped for but cannot be guaranteed as yet.

A "last chance" pre-publication book rate of $52.50 is being offered through Sept. 15th.

After that date, all books will sell for $62.50, or $70 each after publication, if extra copies are available.

After lots of hard work and cooperation from the people of Eastland County, the final proofs of over 2,109 family stories have been returned to the publishers so that final corrections may be made.

The number of general history pages available is determined directly by the total number of books sold, so this is the time to make final purchases locally, and to let friends and loved ones elsewhere know about the new deadline so that as many books as possible will be sold. This is a once-in-a-lifetime offer and won't be repeated once the b ok is printed and delivered.

Business and memorial pages are still available and may be secured by contacting Roy Smith at 817 629-2995 or 817 629-2365 after 6 p.m. (Family stores which were not included in the free section could be added on purchased space it is reported.

Books at $52.50, plus $3.68 postage each may be ordered from Eastland County Family History Book, P.O. Box 856, Eastland, TX 76448.

The book will be a 9x12 inch 800 page classic, believed to be the biggest and best ever produced by Taylor Publishing Co.

You and everyone who has ever lived in Eastland County will want at least one.

But now is the time to place orders.

The Next Best Thing -

...to a clear conscience and a good night's sleep is the feeling of security in owning your own home with a clear title. Peculiar to the real estate field, values are based on land and the improvements thereon, if any. But values on these are based on the title. The title then comes the most important item to be considered when purchase of real property is contemplated. So be careful to buy good title based on an abstract of title or a policy of title insurance.

The Untold Story Behind Student Loan Defaults

By DR. MARVIN BAKER
President
South Plains College

The U. S. Education Department's recent unveiling of rules, legislative proposals and administrative steps for the government's student loan program has drawn the battle lines between post-secondary institutions throughout the nation which act responsibly and ethically in making student loans available and governmental personnel seeking to purge the loan system of institutions "who promise to educate but deliver only a debt."

The issue of student loan defaults, reported to amount to a $1.8 billion burden on taxpayers, has come under public scrutiny and the public outcry is being heard. Public colleges and universities have long supported efforts to penalize unscrupulous post-secondary schools which appear to take advantage of the system at the expense of students and taxpayers. But there is an untold story behind the student loan default issue that needs to emerge in the reporting of a highly complex issue.

Little attention has been given to a number of Education Department policies, rules, guidelines and reporting practices which perpetuate, if not promote, a steadily increasing loan default rate among college students. Under the proposed system, Texas colleges and universities will be penalized in varying degrees based on reported student default rates ranging from 20 to 55 percent and higher.

Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos' new guidelines and proposed corrective and punitive actions could affect 49 of Texas' 64 public community and junior college campuses that enroll 73 percent of the state's first-time college freshmen and 47 percent of the state's overall college student population. Community and junior colleges' open admissions policies, by their very nature, attract many "high credit risk" students seeking student loans to pay for their college education. Studies have shown that students who are at the highest risk of defaulting on student loans tend to be in their freshman or sophomore years of college and tend to enroll in vocational and technical programs. Moreover, potential defaulters tend to come from unstable economic backgrounds.

In spite of this knowledge, the U.S. Education Department pays little heed or concern for some students' propensity to drop out of college and default on their student loans. Current department policies and statutory guidelines make no provisions to allow college and university financial aid officers to be more restrictive in certifying a student's loan eligibility. Loan eligibility is determined solely by a student's financial need. No consideration may be given to that student's credit history, and if the student meets the department's eligibility requirements, the financial aid officer must by law certify the student's application and issue loan approval forms.

The Credit Risk Gap

Compounding this aspect of the federal loan program is the fact that since 1981 the Department of Education has narrowed its eligibility guidelines. Up until the 1981-82 school year, when any student regardless of financial need could be certified for a student loan, there was no political or public outcry about default rates on student loans because they were relatively low. In the fall of 1981, the federal government began to add restrictions to the program and has considerably narrowed the eligibility profile. At the same time, the number of eligible students applying for guaranteed student loans has increased markedly since 1982-83, creating a "credit risk gap" that is certainly contributing to current default rates. Once again, at low cost schools like Texas public community and junior colleges, only the economically disadvantaged with the highest credit risk becomes eligible for student loans.

Therefore, the Department of Education seeks to act against colleges and universities for adhering to federal guidelines that do not allow them to more effectively manage potential default rates.

A Fourth Collection Agency

Moreover, the department proposes to make all colleges and universities a fourth collection agency for the massive loan program. Currently, three entities are involved in collecting payments on maturing student loans: commercial lending institutions, Regional Higher Education Authorities and the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation.

Commercial lending institutions are all to eager to dole out dollars to students who come into their offices with certified, guaranteed student loan application. There is no risk involved for them; if the student defaults, the loan is guaranteed by the federal government.

Those lending institutions who do not wish to service the loan sell the note to one of several Regional Higher Education Authorities that operate in Texas. The Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation (TGSLC) serves as an umbrella agency in guaranteeing student loans in the state and as the intermediary between lending institutions, Regional Higher Education Authorities and the federal government.

There is little incentive for any of these entities to step up the loan collection process. All three are guaranteed their money by the federal government. The Department of Education has not indicated any plans for providing more incentives for these collection agencies to be more aggressive in collecting on delinquent loans. Rather, the department chooses to act against colleges and universities who are not in the collecting agency business and threatens to withdraw vital student financial aid funds.

The Information Gap

One additional aspect of the program that is even more frustrating for college financial aid officers is the Education Department's lack of communication and reporting efforts regarding the determination of default rates. In announcing the new loan measures June 1, 1989, Secretary Cavazos distributed to the news media a report lising all the default rates of post-secondary institutions in the nation. Unfortunately, colleges and universities were not privy to this report, causing much embarrassment. It marked only the second time since 1981 that the department has compiled a default rate report. Leaving colleges in the dark, while enlightening the news media, is not a procedure that will create a mutually cooperative effort to solve the problem.

Information about the formula used by Cavazos' staff to arrive at these default rates has never been distributed to colleges. Additionally, the formula does not correspond with the formulas used by the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation which reports default rates to the state's colleges and universities every three months. The TGSLC reports have been the guide for monitoring default rates for all schools, and for the most part, these rates prove to be significantly lower than those formulated by the Education Department. For South Plains College, the TGSLC rate is 18 percentage points lower than the rate derived by the Education Department (20.28 percent versus 38.3 percent). For the other 48 Texas public community and junior college, TGSLC reports lower rates.

In the reporting process, one other factor has a tendency to artifically inflate default rates for community and junior colleges in Texas. A defaulted loan is attributed to the last school the student attended. In many instances, students who drop out as freshmen or sophomores at four-year universities will re-enter college via a local community college. It is not uncommon for those students who had a student loan at the university to be ineligible for a loan at the community college because of lower costs. The lower the cost to attend a particular school, the greater the financial need an applicant must show.

The same factor applies to students who receive student loans to attend private vocational and technical schools where training costs are very high, and then at a later date, enter a community college to gain additional training. These students, too, are many times not eligible for loans at community colleges. Therefore, the student who doesn't even qualify for a loan at the community college may at the same time be counted against the college as a defaulter.

The Net Result

Secretary Cavazos' student loan proposal could force many Texas community and junior colleges to discontinue participation in the federal student loan program in order not to jeopardize other more vital federal financial aid programs, such as the Pell Grant Program. In extreme cases, the Department's punitive actions would be to restrict all federal financial aid to schools with unsatisfactory default rates. Another concern facing colleges which consider withdrawal from the program is whether such an action will affect a school's accreditation standards regarding public access to education.

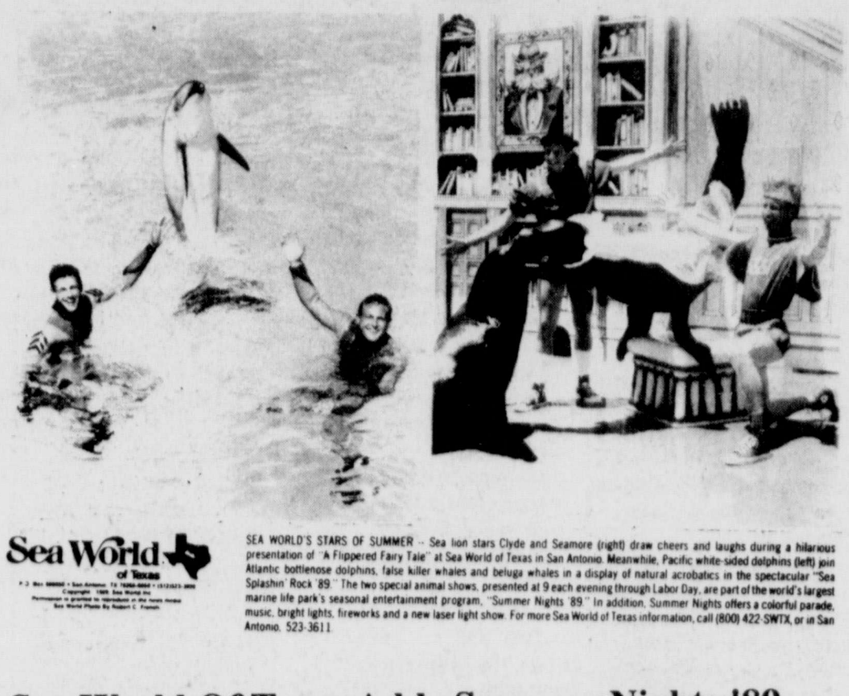

Ironically, the very students Secretary Cavazos seeks to protect will be the ones who suffer as colleges contemplate their role in the federal student loan program. Millions of innocent community college students rely on student loans to finance their college educations and have very good intention of paying the loans off once they graduate and secure a good-paying job. As professional educators, we know what is at stake for these students as they seek valid and competent training at our institutions.

Recommendations

What is needed in an open dialog between the U.S. Department of Education and financial aid personnel at post-secondary educational institutions about this complex issue. To date, the Education Department's stance has been rather bullying and unyielding. Financial aid officers should be given authority to be more restrictive in certifying loans for identifiable "high credit risk" students seeking loans. The federal government's current practice of certifying student loan eligibility based solely on financial need with no consideration for that student's ability to payback should he or she drop out of college needs to be re-examined. Greater incentives for more effective collection of delinquent loans by lending institutions, Regional Higher Education Authorities and the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation should be considered.

The burden of blame for student loan default rates should not be brought to bear on accredited colleges and universities whose hands are tied by current federal policies and guidelines. The vast majority of these institutions act responsibly and ethically in administering student loan programs. Many, like South Plains College, view student loans as a "last ditch effort" to finance a student's education. Many, many financial aid officers exhaust all other avenues of financial aid before turning to a guaranteed loan program.

Secretary Cavazos' desire to reduce defaults on guaranteed student loans is admirable and supported by the education community. However, what is needed is a mutual problem-solving approach.

SEA WORLD'S STARS OF SUMMER -- Sea lion stars Clyde and Seamore (right) draw cheers and laughs during a hilarious presentation of "A Flippered Fairy Tale" at Sea World of Texas in San Antonio. Meanwhile, Pacific white-sided dolphins (left) join Atlantic bottlenose dolphins, false killer whales and beluga whales in a display of natural acrobatics in the spectacular "Sea Splashin' Rock '89." The two special animal shows, presented at 9 each evening through Labor Day, are part of the world's largest marine life park's seasonal entertainment program, "Summer Nights '89." In addition, Summer Nights offers a colorful parade, music, bright lights, fireworks and a new laser light show. Sea World Of Texas Adds Summer Nights '89

SAN ANTONIO-- Sea World of Texas has added new versions of two animal shows to its exciting evening entertainment program, "Summer Nights '89."

In addition to bright lights, lasers and music, special Summer Nights presentations of the sea lion, walrus and otter show, sponsored by Pepsi, and the dolphin and whale show, sponsored by Southwest Airlines, are offered Sunday through Friday at 9 o'clock and Saturday at 10:15 through Labor Day.

At the Sea Lion, Walrus and Otter Stadium, sea lions Sir Clyde and Sir Seamore star as medieval knights competing for the hand of the king's daughter in "A Flippered Fairy Tale."

The "king" and "duke" set the course for comedy, directing "knights" Seamore and Clyde through an array of events testing their worthiness to awaken and marry the fair princess. The result is laughs for everyone as audience members decide the winner of the match by cheering for their favorite "knight."

At New Friends Stadium, colorful lights and contemporary music add to Sea World's evening edition of the splashy dolphin and whale presentation, "Sea Splashin' Rock '89." Four species of marine mammals from different areas of the world perform together in a fast-paced show featuring the natural acrobatics of Atlantic bottlenose dolphins, Pacific white-sided dolphins, false killer whales and beluga whales, choreographed to today's popular music.

In addition to the night-time animal shows, Summer Nights '89 offers a fun-filled evening of Sea World entertainment including costumed character shows, bands, a colorful parade and a spectacular fireworks and laser light show set to origninal music.

Summer Nights, included with a regular Sea World admission, is a bonus to the park's already extensive lineup of spectacular shows, educational exhibits and attractions. During the day, guests can enjoy Sea World's regular sea lion, walrus and otter show, "Spooky, Kooky Castle" and the regular dolphin and whale presentation, "New Friends." Other popular shows are "Meet Shamu," with killer whales Shamu, Namu, Kandu, and Baby Shamu; the "Beach Blanket Ski Party" water ski show; and "Wheels," a futuristic musical spotlighting roller skaters, bicyclists, motorcyclists and skateboarders.

For more information on Summer Nights '89 or other Sea World of Texas events, call (800) 422-SWTX or, in San Antonio, 523-3611.

N.W. Texas Arthritis Chapter Chosen To Test New Program

The Arthritis Foundation's Northwest Texas Chapter has been selected as one of only four areas nationwide to test a new Arthritis Foundation service for people with arthritis in rural locations. The Chapter is now seeking people with arthritis in the Chapter area to participate in the pilot program. Participants must have arthritis, have difficulty in attending programs outside their home, or whose job prevents them from attending programs during the week.

The new program, called "Bone-Up on Arthritis," is a home-study course designed to help people learn more about arthritis and how to cope with the disease. It consists of six lessons on cassette tape with an accompanying binder of materials and worksheets. The participants complete the lessons at their own pace and may keep the items for future reference. Specially trained resource people from the Arthritis Foundation are available to call if a participant has questions.

"We always try to reach more and more people with information about arthritis and what can be done to help cope with the disease," said Judi Moulton of the Northwest Texas Chapter. "We hope this program will expand our services to people we haven't reached by providing easy-to-understand, self-care information that can be learned and used at home. And it is exciting to be involved in the test project of this new program."

There is no cost to the participants in the text program. If the text in this area shows that people benefit from the program, it may be expanded to Arthritis Foundation chapters nationwide.

To become involved with the new "Bone-Up on Arthritis" program, either as a trained resource person or a home-study participant, call Judi Moulton at the Arthritis Foundation's toll-free number, 1-800-283-7733, by August 1.

AIDS Now Is a "Disabilty"

Persons unable to work due to AIDS (Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome) or other illnesses caused by HIV infection, may qualify for monthly disability payments under Social Security or supplemental security income, Glyn Hammons Social Security manager in Abilene said.

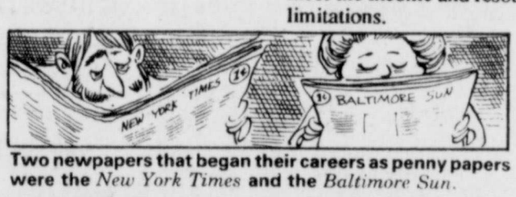

Social Security pays disability benefits to workers who suffer a physical or mental impairment which is expected to keep them from working a year or more or to result in death. Applicants who have documented AIDS, are not working, and meet the non-disability requirements for Social Security coverage generally qualify under this definition, Hammons said.

He also noted that other people infected with the human immonodeficiency virus (HIV) that causes AIDS and whose condition prevents them from working may also qualify for disability payments. Commonly called "AIDS Related Complex" or "ARC", the condition is diagnosed from symptoms generally associated with the AIDS virus, but is not fully developed AIDS.

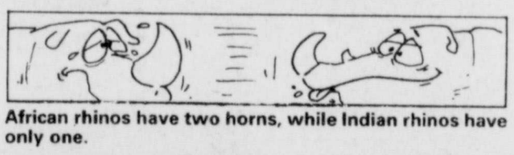

"ARC cases are evaluated on a case-by-case basis," Hammons said. "If the person's condition is so severe that he or she is unable to work, benefits are generally payable."

Generally, there is a waiting period of 5 months from the onset of the disability before Social Security disability benefits can start. However, there is no waiting period under SSI, a program which Social Security also administers, and which makes monthly disability payments to disabled or blind persons with limited income and resources. In addition, a "presumptive" disability decision may be made if it is highly probable that the person's condition is disabling. Presumptive SSI disability payments may be made for up to 3 months.

SSI payments are made from Federal government revenues, not the Social Security trust funds. No prior work is required for SSI payments. Social Security disability beneficiaries with low benefits may also qualify for SSI if they meet the income and resource limitations.

COME TO think of it: a part of Eastland County's ancient history nearly became a part of Walt Disney's EPCOT Center in Florida. Most adults probably are going to admit their preference for EPCOT over the Magic Kingdom which is geared to the younger. In case anybody is taking notes, EPCOT stands for "Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow" and its 250 acres is divided into two sections: Future World and World Showcase.

As at most theme and/or amusement parks, you arrive after a maze of freeways and exit ramps, are guided onto enormous parking lots, tram-lifted to ticket windows before entering the park. There is even a monorail, if you want to go over to Disney World for awhile.

(Here might be a good place to inject costs: one-day, one-park adult, $29; child 3-9, $23; four day, at the park(s) of your choice, $97 adult; $77 child; five day, all parks, $112 adult and $90 child. The three parks in Florida are Magic Kingdom (virtual duplicate of the original in California), EPCOT Center; and the newest Disney-MGM Studio Theme Park. Six Flags apparently taught Disney a thing or two because they no longer sell individual ride tickets inside as they once did at the Calif. park; today the entry ticket buys all, except of course food, drink, and merchandise, which is available in abundance.)

Well, back to our near contribution to EPCOT: back in 1981 we were advertising antique printing equipment and had a call from the Disney people who were interested in an old press as a possible addition to their new park they were then building in Florida. We thought we had a sale (a big 'un) until it developed that they really only wanted the sound of an old press because the park visitors were only going to be passing in a tram for a few seconds in front of a static display which was to display what purported to tell the story of early communications. We didn't get the sale, and on this trip weren't really sure when we passed the display. Like a lot of others, perhaps it was simulated.

Which brings us to this: the one word that kept leaping to our mind as we did the Disney parks is "facade", defined by Webster as follows: "the front or visible part of anything; especially a false front designed to convey a favorable impression of the whole."

You see a lot of computer-operated displays mixed with projected images accompanied by appropriate sound so you get a real impression even though it's just a facade.

Future World examines the challenges and potentials of life in the 21st Century: exploring energy frontiers, communication systems, undersea and space environments.

Hallmark of this section is the 18-story geosphere (the round silver ball we've all seen for EPCOT) you ride a "time-machine" backwards to the dawn of civilization showing how communications has changed. (The print shop we saw may have been Guttenberg's but it didn't have a press like our old dude.) This is done in a moving string of little carts which takes you by the animated displays. And yes, you can spend a great deal of time waiting your turn for a little cart, but for the most part they provide a lot of diversions to hopefully keep your mind off the fact that you're standing in a long, long lien that only moves as fast as they can load parties of two, three, four or more into their little carts. A measure of the park's success is generally how well they keep you so unaware.

In this section we covered Energy, Horizons, The Land, the Living Seas, Communicore (east and west) and of course the big-ball Spaceship Earth, missing World of Motion and Journey into Imagination. Bear in mind that each of these entries is a giant building each with displays, programs, food centers and of course gift shops, so to do them from A to Z, one could easily spend a year or two at the park.

That's the half of the park where you explore robots, computers and the like, then by walking, or by boat you go across the way to World Showcase where you find ten nations represented in appropriate architecture, authentic food and personnel, programs and of course gift shops.

From left to right they are, and here again you could spend hours days, at each location: Mexico, Norway (newest), China, Germany, Italy, The American Adventure, Japan, Morocco, France, United Kingdom and Canada. This is a good sampling of foreign visiting and on a four-day deal, we spent about two-and a half days here.

Mexico: a boat ride through an elaborate display telling that country's history of yesterday and today; a really nice museum of Mexican art; an authentic restaurant and shops with Mexican crafts, etc.

Norway: a boat ride through a North Sea Storm; a display of Norwegian art and artifacts of the seafaring people.

China: 360-degree movie in which you stand amid some nine giant screens for an exciting look at the large country; a display of Chinese time pieces; a cafe, and you know what.

Germany: Oktoberfest entertainers in an authentic restaurant and shops.

Italy: restaurant and shops.

America: Nice sit-down show in which automated Ben Franklin and Mark Twain (computer operated) tell the story of our country through movie and "audio-animatronics imagineering."

Japan: art exhibit, restaurant and shops.

Morocco: art exhibit, food and guess what.

France: A motion picture to classical music of France today; restaurants and shops.

United Kingdom: Pubs and gifts.

Canada: Vision 360 movie, food and shops.

Bear in the mind that all these "countries" have authentic buildings, streets and the people are costumed and appear to be nationals of the country represented.

Due to open this year is a new exhibit: Wonders of Life about the human body at EPCOT, and a brand new 758-room hotel, the swan, handy to all parks. Already offered are seven resorts, condos, camp grounds, so they can house you just about any way you prefer.

Also there's a complete line of usual chain hotels and motels nearby, most with free watts telephone numbers.

It isn't cheap, but it's wholesome family entertainment.

Wal-Mart Manager Mike Scott (L-R) has just presented this big check for $3,999.30 to Pastor and Mrs. Ronnie Shackelford of the Cisco Calvary Baptist Church along with Wal-Mart Associates John Gonzales, the church's Youth Director, and Melody Watts, the church's Children's Activities Co-ordinator. The money raised by the churchs' youth at bake sales at Wal-Mart was matched by Wal-Mart.

Community Coordinators Needed

Community Coordinators are needed for a new arthritis program being tested by the Arthritis Foundation's Northwest Texas Chapter for possible nationwide use. People interested in volunteering should contact the Chapter by calling: 1-800-283-7733.

The new program, called "Bone-Up on Arthritis," is a homestudy course designed to help people learn more about arthritis and how to cope with the disease. It consists of six lessons on cassette tape with an accompanying binder of materials and worksheets.

Community coordinators will be trained to be available for program participants to call if they have questions or need help with any portion of the lessons. They will be instrumental in all phases of the program's distribution and evaluation. Training for the Community Coordinators will be held in Lubbock on August 2-3.

The new program will be targeted to those rural areas where it is difficult to find arthritis educational programs. Also targeted will be people with arthritis who are semi-homebound and those people in the workforce whose job prevents them from attending programs held during the week.

To volunteer as a community coordinator, or for complete information about the responsibilities, call Judi Moulton at the Northwest Texas Chapter office: 1-800-283-7733. Deadline for registration for the coordinator training is Wednesday, July 26.

Poem

(Note: The following poem was submitted by Ruby Watson, Activity Director, Canterbury Villa Nursing Home. The article had been given to her by Helen Hounshell. It is reprinted as follows.)

"LOOK CLOSER...SEE ME"

What do you see nurses, what do you see?
Are you thinking when you are looking at me
A crabbie old woman, not very wise
Uncertain of habit, with far away eyes,
Who dribbles her food and makes no reply
When you say in a loud voice-"I do wish you'd try."
Who seems not to notice the things that you do
And forever is losing a stocking or shoe
Who unresisting or not, lets you do as you will
While bathing and feeding, the long day to fill
Is that what you are thinking, is that what you see?
Then open your eyes, nurse, you're not looking at me.
I'll tell you who I am as I sit here so still.
As I use at your bidding, as I eat at your will.
I'm a child of ten with a father and mother,
Brothers and sisters, who love one another.
A young girl of sixteen with wings on her feet,
Dreaming that soon now a lover she'll meet.
A bride soon at twenty--my heart gives a leap,
Remembering the vows that I promised to keep.
At twenty-five now I have young of my own,
Who need me to build a secure, happy home.
A woman of thirty, my young grow fast
Bound to each other with ties that should last.
At forty, my young sons have grown and are gone,
But my man's beside me to see I don't mourn.
At fifty once more babies around my knee,
Again we know children, my loved one and me.
Dark days are upon me, my husband is dead,
I look at the future, I shudder with dread.
For my young are all rearing young of their own,
And I think of the years and the love that I've known.
I'm an old woman now and nature is cruel.
Tis her just to make old age look like a fool.
The body it crumbles, grace and vigor depart.
There is now a stone where I once had a heart.
But inside this old carcass a young girl still dwells.
And now and again my battered heart swells.
I remember the boys, I remember the pain,
And I'm loving and living life over again,
I think of the years all too few--gone too fast.
And accept the start fact that nothing can last.
So open your eyes, nurses, open and see
Not a crabbie old woman, look closer--see ME!

(NOTE: It appeared when the old lady died in the geriatric ward of Ashludie Hospital near Dundee, Ireland, that she had left nothing of value. Then, the nurse going through her possessions found this poem.)

Charles Scruggs Is Chairman Of Texas FFA Foundation Endowment For Excellence Fund Drive

The Board of Directors of the newly chartered Texas FFA Foundation has named Charles G. Scruggs of Austin chairman of the foundation's Endowment for Excellence Fund Drive.

The foundation is composed of Texans who support the agriscience and FFA leadership training efforts in Texas high schools.

Scruggs, who is now a cattleman with ranches in Texas and Kansas, is the retired editor-in-chief of Progressive Farmer Magazine and Progressive Farmer radio network – one of the largest farm publications in the U.S. and owned by Time, Inc. In his high school days Scruggs was elected State President of the Texas Association of the Future Farmers of America. Scruggs is also a distinguished alumnus of Texas A&M University and a World War II veteran, retiring as a Lt. Colonel, USAR.

"We are kicking off this fund for excellence drive under the strong leadership of Mr. Scruggs in order to establish an endowment that will insure the long time future for the agri-food industry of Texas through the teaching of agriscience in high schools as well as training young men and women in the principles of leadership responsibility," Jerry Clark, chairman of the foundation board, declared.

Jay Eudy, director of agricultural education, Texas Education Agency, hailed the establishment of the foundation and the fund drive as "A great step forward in advancing the already solid program of training some 60,000 young Texans each year in agriscience and leadership through FFA. The successful completion of the fund effort by friends of our program will insure the long term future of a program that has already paid spectacular dividends to the state and nation through America's present food abundance," Eudy said.

Scruggs, the vice-chairman of the Texas FFA Foundation, in accepting the reins of the fund drive declared, "This is a labor of love for me, for I have profited immensely over the years from my training in vocational agriculture and FFA leadership at McGregor Texas, as a high school student long years ago. My goal is to attract 250,000 Texans to make in investment in the FFA Endowment For Excellence over the next months. We shall announce details of the effort at the Texas FFA State convention in Houston in July," Scruggs concluded.

The FFA Foundation Board of Directors is made up of Jerry Clark, chairman; Charles Scruggs, vice-chairman; Jay Eudy, secretary-treasurer; W.H. Meischen, Frederick McClure, Hon. Dolph Briscoe, Dr. Perry Adkisson, John Birdwell, Jon Newton, Dan Gattis, Wil Galloway, Guy Finstad, and S.M. True.
