Conservation hearing set

Big Spring area farmers concerned about the stringent conservation compliance provisions will have an opportunity to express their thoughts at a special U.S. House Agriculture Subcommittee hearing in Big Spring on Friday, Feb. 13, according to a news release from the office of 17th District Congressman Charles W. Stenholm.

Congressman Ed Jones of Tennessee, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development, will oversee the hearing, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College.

Stenholm, of Stamford, said this congressional agriculture subcommittee is conducting the hearing to learn first-hand the reaction to the requirements, which are sometimes referred to as sodbuster, and were imposed by the conservation section of the 1985 Farm bill.

"I believe these hearings will provide an excellent forum for producers, Soil Conservation District members and agribusinessmen to express their concerns and views regarding these provisions," said Stenholm, who recently became Chairman of one of the eight agriculture subcommittees.

Ambulance group to hear public

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The city budget will be revised next week, and a hearing on the proposed ambulance transfer service has been scheduled by the ambulance advisory committee, City Manager Mack Wofford said this morning.

Auditors are expected to present a report on the state of the budget and future projections at the City Council meeting Tuesday.

Officials had anticipated a budget shortfall this year because of the downturn in the economy. Wofford said a decrease in sales tax and property tax revenues, plus a smaller amount of money left over from last year in the general fund, are the causes.

The revision process should reveal just how much, if any, the city needs to trim the budget to accommodate those conditions, he said.

The Finance Department will review anticipated incomes and department heads will present their respective needs before priorities are established, he said.

Wofford anticipates the revisions will be ready for City Council discussion by mid-March and an ordinance prepared by the end of that month.

"We don't anticipate anything unusual," he said.

The Big Spring-Howard County ambulance advisory committee will meet at 5 p.m. Feb. 12 in the County Commissioners' courtroom.

The committee will hear public comment regarding the proposed ambulance transfer service.

A public hearing on the subject at a Jan. 14 Council meeting turned into a debate between Lee Ambulance owner Charles Ginn and Mike Bennett, a Big Spring man who is seeking a city operating permit to establish the service.

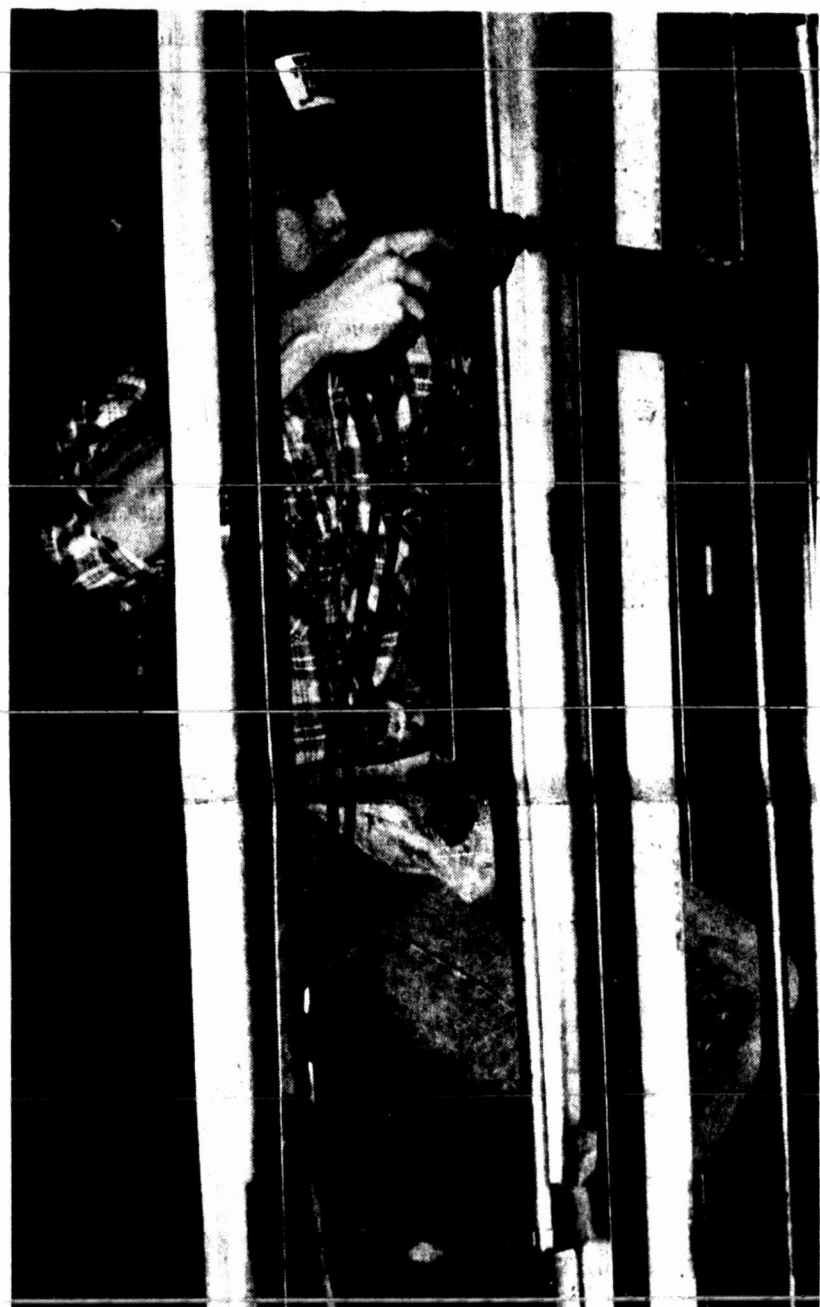

Bennett said that a need exists for the service because of delays encountered when ambulances are responding to calls outside the city limits.

The transfer service, he said, would not provide emergency care. Rather, it would be used under hospital supervision to transfer stable patients already at hospitals to other facilities. He said the service is asking for no money from the city and would not compete with Lee Ambulance.

Ginn disagreed, arguing that if profits he makes by performing the service were reduced, he wouldn't be able to provide emergency ambulance service for the city and Howard County at the current rate.

Councilman Russ McEwen commented that ambulance companies make much of their profits from such transfer service. It was his impression that the proposed service would compete with Lee Ambulance — which would mean the city would have to pay a higher subsidy for its ambulance service.

Councilman Gary Don Carey said that he is in favor of competition and that "if the guy (Bennett) is willing and can give a better service, we should let him."

Jeff Clifton prepares a wall unit for electrical service in what will be a patient pre-operation room at Malone and Hogan Clinic, where outpatient surgical facilities are under construction. Clifton, of Big Spring, is a member of the Brumley & Associates staff, electrical contractors for the project, according to Doyle Lamb, Malone and Hogan administrator.

Surgery facility a 'money saver'

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

It's all a matter of saving money — for patients, medical clinics and insurance companies, two Big Spring medical representatives said this week.

That's why Malone and Hogan Clinic is following the national trend by building a new outpatient surgery facility.

Insurance companies are the force behind the trend in outpatient surgery, said Emily Ward, spokeswoman at Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Since doctors have discovered that many types of surgery can be safely performed on an outpatient basis, insurance companies have jumped at the chance to save medical costs, she said.

Dr. J.E. Mathews agrees. He's the medical director of the new facility.

"A hospital now is primarily for very sick people," instead of those requiring minor surgery, he said.

He estimates outpatient surgery performed outside a hospital can save one-half to two-thirds the facility costs to the patient. But he quickly noted that the doctor's and anesthesia fees will remain the same.

Outpatient surgery patients may stay at the clinic only during the procedure and for several hours afterward — as needed. Because patients do not stay overnight, that translates into lower overhead costs, Dr. Mathews said.

If a patient needs to stay the night, he will be moved to the nearby hospital, the doctor said.

Ward said the national number of outpatient surgeries has increased significantly during the past two or three years because insurance companies will pay a higher percentage of outpatient costs.

Oddly enough, the opposite was true only a few years ago when insurance companies would pay only if an operation was performed in the hospital, she said.

Mathews said several hundred different types of surgery can be treated at the new facility. He said such surgeries could involve tonsils problems, hernias, cataracts and dental problems, plus plastic surgery and vasectomies.

Major operations, however, such as those on the heart or minor operations involving high-risk patients, still will be performed in a hospital, he said.

Since no emergency surgeries are planned at the new facility, patients will benefit by not having their surgery schedules interrupted, he said.

He estimated that 40 to 60 percent of all operations performed are done on an outpatient basis.

Mathews added that doctors favor outpatient operations because they believe patients recover faster in their own homes.

Officials seeking suspects in armed robbery incidents

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
and SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writers

Law enforcement officers are investigating two unrelated armed robberies that occurred in local convenience stores Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Police Lieutenant Jerry Edwards said a suspect who robbed a 7-Eleven store, 800 S. Gregg St., at gunpoint does not match the description of a man sought by the Howard County sheriff's department who robbed Thurman's Fina, off U.S. Highway 87, south of Big Spring, at 9:50 p.m. Wednesday.

The 7-Eleven armed robbery occurred at 4:23 a.m. today, according to the police report.

Edwards said the 7-Eleven suspect is a Hispanic male, about 5 feet 1 inch tall, 120 pounds, and in his twenties.

Ronnie Cobb, 7-Eleven clerk, told police the robber displayed a .22-caliber revolver before stealing $20 cash, an $8.99 pair of sunglasses and 12 cans of beer.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's department is searching for a 24 to

SHERIFF'S SUSPECT

28-year-old, white male who is 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs approximately 160 to 170 pounds.

He is suspected of robbing both Mountain View Grocery, off Interstate 20, east of Big Spring, Sunday night and Thurman's Fina, Wednesday night, the sheriff's department reported.

During the Thurman's Fina robbery, he displayed a blue revolver before ordering store Clerk Pauline Stinson to give him an undetermined amount of money. He ordered her to lie on the floor before he fled the store by foot, according to the sheriff's report.

Stinson's description of the suspect is identical to one given Sunday by Mountain View Grocery Clerk Clara M. Alexander, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

The sheriff's department has compiled a picture of their suspect from information given by both victims.

He is further described as having a medium complexion, shoulder length brown hair that is combed inward, Standard said.

The sheriff requests that persons who have information as to the identity and whereabouts of the suspect, contact the sheriff's department.

A $1,000 reward will be awarded to information leading to the arrest of the suspect. All information will be kept confidential, Standard said.

Reservoir decision awaited

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A decision is expected in late March on whether to issue a building permit for the construction of the Stacy Dam Reservoir, said Sally Werst, a public information officer with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Fort Worth.

The Colorado River Municipal District however plans to open construction bids on March 5 before approximately 100 bidders at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College, reported Joe Pickle, information officer with the water district.

The bids will not be final on that particular date, Pickle said, as specification changes are possible.

The building permit decision is the responsibility of Col. Albert J. Genetti Jr., Fort Worth District Manager, Werst said.

He will review all comments and statements regarding the U.S. Corps' Environmental Impact Statement, a 410-page document received in Washington Wednesday morning, Werst said.

Notice of it will be published in the Federal Register on Friday, she added. It is a publication of each week's official federal government activities, Werst said.

The building permit process stipulated by the U.S. Corps of Engineers allows for a 30-day comment period following publication in the Register, Werst said.

Environmental agencies earlier reported plans to contest the building of the dam because of its threat to the natural habitat of the Concho River Water Snake.

Genetti's final decision can be contested, Werst said.

"Anyone can go to court and talk to a lawyer," she added.

More examiners' muscle in two bills

By MATTHEW GEIGER

Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The State Board of Medical Examiners, the target of heated charges of ineffectiveness since last summer, would wield more investigative authority under two bills announced Wednesday.

The essentially identical bills sponsored by Sens. Chet Edwards and Chet Brooks and Reps. Mike McKinney and Nancy McDonald will give the board increased funds to run an investigative team and will require hospitals and clinics to report any internal discipline of doctors.

McDonald, D-El Paso and a registered nurse, said the measure should stop physicians dismissed for malpractice at one facility from finding employment at another if statewide records of the incident are maintained.

"It also encourages reporting malpractice by providing some immunity from civil law suits," said McKinney, D-Centerville.

Peer review boards, required in every licensed health facility, would have to report any disciplining of their physicians to the board, he said.

During Senate Nominations Committee hearings in the fall, legislators attacked the board, which licenses Texas doctors, for a three- to five-year investigation backlog. Lawmakers also criticized the board's practice of privately disciplining some physicians.

Cynthia Jenkins, a board member from Stowell, said the bills would cure the board's existing lack of muscle. "In the three years I have been on the board, I've seen many problems getting information to the board," she said.

She predicted the board may see 10 times as many cases to investigate if the legislation passes.

Brooks, D-Pasadena, said the board's yearly licensing fee will cover costs of hiring enough full-time investigators. But he said the agency has only been appropriated a fraction of the money, which is kept in the state general revenue fund.

The bill would give the board all fee revenues, he said.

Understaffing was the major factor in the board's enormous case backlog and sometimes rushed investigations, said Edwards, D-Duncanville.

"We need to provide them with better tools, with a qualified staff," he said.

Police beat

Home vandalized by gunfire

Police are looking for someone who fired shots at a residence Wednesday night.

Margarito Castenada Jr., 801 N. Nolan St., reported that someone drove by the house at 7:17 p.m. Wednesday and fired four shots with what is believed to be a pistol.

Bullets damaged the bed and grill of Castenada's Chevrolet pickup and the aluminum frame of a bedroom window. Damage totaled $450.

Lt. Jerry Edwards said police have a list of possible suspects.

• Jerry Lee Martinez, 1501 E. Fifth St., told police that someone he knows threatened him with a deadly weapon between 2:30 and 3 a.m. Wednesday at the Interstate 20 Trailer Park.

• Three tires on a Big Spring Herald Chevrolet pickup were punctured with a sharp object between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. Wednesday, circulation manager C.A. Benz told police. Damage was listed at $300.

• Thieves stole a tape case with cassettes, valued at $240, and damaged the passenger side window and ignition of a 1979 Chevrolet sedan owned by Mike Rodgers of the Howard College men's dorm, between 11 and 11:31 p.m. Wednesday.

• A 22-caliber, single-shot, lever action Winchester rifle, valued at $65 and a $25 ladies purse were stolen and a passenger side window was damaged on a brown GMC pickup owned by Marvin Lee Kendrick Jr. of Lomax. The crime occurred at the Ritz Theater parking lot between 7 and 9 p.m. Wednesday. Damage to the window was listed at $100.

• A $200 lavender BMX bicycle was stolen from the carport of 2108 Carl St. between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 4 p.m. Wednesday, Alton Fields of that address reported.

• Joe Chavez, P.O. Box 3503, told police that someone he knows used his credit card without his permission at the Winchester Steak House Friday at an unknown time.

• Sylvia Booth, 1217 W. Third St., told police that someone she knows threatened him with a $150 videocassette recorder, four VCR tapes, $5 cash and a $1.97 cigarette pouch from her residence between 4:30 and 5 a.m. Wednesday.

• Benito Paradez, 21, 611 N.W. Ninth St., was arrested at 3400 E. 11th Place Wednesday on warrants for parking in a handicapped parking space and failure to appear in court.

• Rebeca Capetillo, 21, 2900 W. Highway 80, was arrested on traffic warrants Wednesday.

• Adam Jaramillo, 19, 1323 Mesquite St., was arrested Wednesday on warrants for theft and traffic offenses.

• Francie Mathis, 50, 610 San Antonio Way, was arrested Wednesday on traffic warrants.

• Laura Berry, 21, 1905 Wasson Road, was arrested at 1503 Lexington on a traffic warrant.

Governor files waste dump complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department's efforts to pick a high-level nuclear waste dump were criticized in statements by Texas Gov. William P. Clements Jr. and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen filed with the Senate Energy Committee.

A nine-square-mile area in the Texas Panhandle west of Amarillo is one of three sites being considered by the government for location of the dump, which will house 70,000 tons of high-level waste. The other sites are in the states of Washington and Nevada.

Clements attacked the way DOE has conducted its investigation at the three sites under consideration in the West as inadequate, and particularly the way federal scientists had probed the West Texas site.

Bentsen reiterated complaints about the postponement of a search for a second site in the East and a failure by the department to consult the states involved.

"We in Texas recognize the need to serve the national purpose of disposing of these dangerous wastes in a safe, acceptable and timely manner, but, regrettably, I must report to you that our confidence in that goal being reached through the current implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act is severely stressed," Clements said in his statement.

Clements' statement, submitted by Steve Frishman, state director of nuclear waste programs, criticized DOE for failing to adequately investigate the geology of the West Texas site.

Drug delivery arrest made

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Danny Eugene Hull, 23, 4207 W. Highway 80, Wednesday afternoon on delivery of a controlled substance warrant after Hull's bondsman went off his bond.

He remained in county jail this morning in lieu of $10,000 bond.

• Deputies released Raymond Leonard, 70, 3801 Calvin St., from county jail Wednesday noon after he served a jail sentence for a driving while intoxicated judgment.

• Police transferred two persons who were recently arrested on parole violation warrants, to county jail Wednesday afternoon.

Gary A. Peterson, 34, 1002 N.

Main St. was arrested on Jan. 20 by police on aggravated assault on a peace officer and evading arrest warrants in addition to the parole violation warrant.

He is ordered to remain in jail on the parole violation warrant though $50,000 bond was set on the aggravated assault charge and $1,500 bond was set on the evading arrest charge.

Donald Alton Ashcraft, 31, of Van Zant, was transferred after being arrested on passing a forged document and forgery by passing in addition to the parole violation warrant. He was arrested Jan. 21 by police at the First National Bank drive-in.

Fire damages local house

A wood frame house on Compress Lane was damaged in a fire early Wednesday, according to fire department reports.

The fire, in a back bedroom, had already been extinguished when firefighters arrived, the reports state. Damage was listed at $1,000.

The house is owned by Trinity Co. and occupied by Oscar Trevino.

Three hurt in two accidents

A local woman was injured in an accident when the wheel of her car came off, and two local residents were hurt in a separate incident Wednesday.

Robin Diane Minchew, 25, Route 1 Box 554, was treated at Malone and Hogan Clinic for minor injuries.

When the left front wheel of her 1977 blue Chevrolet Malibu Classic came off the car, she lost control of the vehicle, which crossed the opposite lane, coming to rest off the roadway, according to reports.

The accident occurred at 6:35 a.m. Wednesday on Highway 87.

Two others were injured in a two-car accident at FM 700 and 11th Place at 3:50 p.m. Wednesday.

John Churchwell Womack, 76, of Coahoma, is in stable condition at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, according to Peter Pegan, chief of medical administrative service.

Kyla Kristene Kirkham, 17, 1404 Nolan St., was treated at Malone and Hogan Clinic.

Police reports state that Kirkham, driving a white Pontiac Firebird east on 11th Place, failed to yield the right-of-way after stopping.

Womack's silver Mazda Sundowner, driving south on FM 700, struck Kirkham's car, causing severe damage to both vehicles. The impact forced Womack's car to skid off the road, the reports state.

Driver did not leave scene of pedestrian injury mishap

The driver in an accident in which a 4-year-old pedestrian was hurt Monday did not leave the scene without leaving his name and attempting to help the child, according to Police Lt. Troy Hogue.

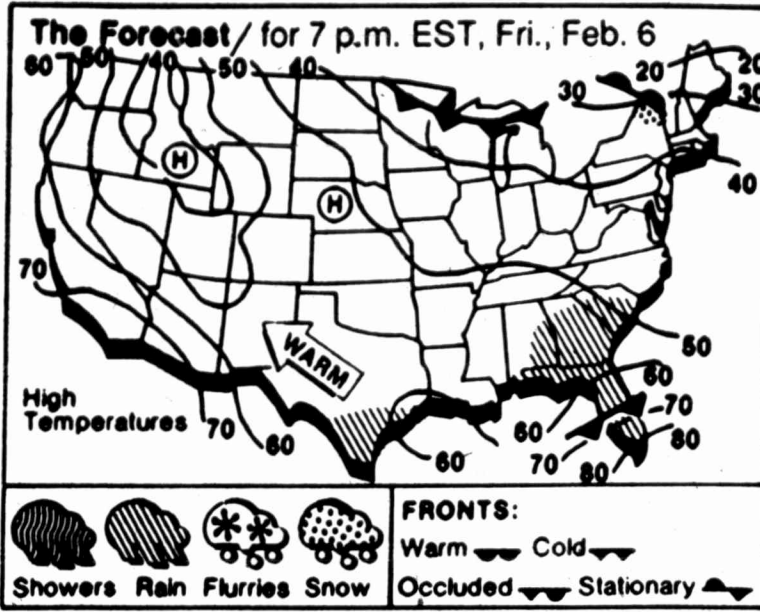

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards had said that he believed the driver left the scene of the accident. Hogue said that the driver fulfilled the requirements of the law by leaving his business card. A teen-age witness also was present, he said.

The driver, Steve Ayers Jr., 28, 800 San Antonio Way, was charged with driving without a license and failure to maintain financial responsibility, Hogue said.

The accident occurred at 1100 Lancaster St. at 6:57 p.m. Monday when the child walked into the path of the vehicle, police reports state.

Four-year-old William Hutcheson, 1006 W. Sixth St., suffered a broken leg, a Scenic Mountain Medical Center spokeswoman said.

where they're more comfortable. Many people are nervous or afraid in hospitals, and they dislike the lack of privacy, he said.

That's another factor favoring the trend, Mathews said.

Home care nurses will visit the patients who have had surgery at the clinic, to make sure they are recovering, he said.

The new $1 million Big Spring facility, called Texas Surgery, should be complete near the end of March or the beginning of April, he said.

It covers about 5,000 square feet and will include two operating rooms, four "holding" or preparation rooms, plus doctors and nurses lounges, a waiting room and a recovery room.

Any qualified doctor will be able to use Texas Surgery, he said.

Ward estimated that the new clinic will receive 50 percent of the outpatient surgery cases now handled at Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"Anything that helps our doctors helps us," she said. But she added that it could mean a loss of business that could hurt the medical center.

Last year the medical center had 123 outpatient surgeries and more than 300 emergency room cases, she said.

Deaths

Chester Brown

Chester Brown, 67, Iowa Park, formerly of Vincent, died Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1987, at his home after an extended illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 6, at Tanner & Auds Funeral Home in Iowa Park. Burial will be in an Iowa Park cemetery.

New drug drive opens

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett is launching a new drive to highlight the achievements of schools that have found ways to rid their halls of drugs.

Bennett, who has been taking heat from Congress for proposing to cut in half the Reagan administration's drug education budget, hailed Washington-Lee High School in a Washington suburb, Arlington, Va., as the first school to enlist in his campaign called "Schools Without Drugs: The Challenge."

In a speech prepared for delivery at an assembly at the high school, Bennett said, "The purpose of the program is to help schools and communities mobilize their efforts. We will publish a new drug prevention newsletter that will provide descriptions of model anti-drug programs and the best available practical research on prevention."

Bennett said his department also will begin a search this fall for schools with exemplary programs to curb drug and alcohol use and will honor them in the next school year.

Liberace dead at 67

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Liberace, the glittering showman and pianist who captivated fans for four decades with an imitable personal and musical style, died quietly at home, holding a simple rosary. He was 67.

Fans who kept a vigil at his desert home, Casa de Liberace, and friends in the entertainment community mourned the loss of the man born Wladziu Valentino Liberace on May 16, 1919, in West Allis, Wis.

"Lee was the nicest person in show business," said Shirley MacLaine.

Soviet TV coming live

NEW YORK — Millions of television viewers in all 50 states will be able to tune in on Soviet television the same week ABC presents "Amerika," its account of life in the United States under Soviet rule.

The Discovery Channel signed an agreement Wednesday to broadcast 62 hours of Channel 1, Moscow, to 14 million Discovery subscribers Feb. 15-22.

Soviet broadcasts often feature zany game shows where women compete at threading a needle on a city bus, Yellow Submarine-like cartoons, rhythmic aerobics led by shapely comrades and a healthy dose of Socialist Realism.

"Our mission is totally apolitical; it's simply to bring the world into the living rooms of our subscribers," said John S. Hendricks, chairman of the Discovery cable channel.

Colombian military men escort alleged drug king Carlos Lehder Rivas, center, to an army helicopter after his capture Wednesday in a shootout in Medellin, Colombia. Rivas was promptly extradited to the United States to face charges as one of the world's biggest cocaine traffickers.

Alleged drug king arrives in U.S.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A man alleged to be one of the world's top cocaine traffickers was in federal custody today after being captured in a shootout by Colombian authorities and extradited to the United States.

Carlos Lehder Rivas, who was brought to Florida early this morning, was to appear in federal court in Tampa today, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Ernst Mueller in Jacksonville. Lehder then faces a detention hearing in Jacksonville, where the indictment that led to his extradition was handed up in 1981.

Colombia long has been under pressure from the United States to curtail that nation's drug lords, and the capture and extradition of Lehder was hailed by U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese as a major victory.

Lehder, 37, who allegedly started out selling marijuana on New York streets, is reputed to be a member of the "Medellin Cartel," described by authorities as the world's biggest drug smuggling ring, responsible for 80 percent of U.S. cocaine imports.

Mueller, the prosecutor in the case, said Lehder has threatened the lives of those pledged to bring him to justice.

"Not me personally," Mueller said late Wednesday. "He has made generic threats. He hasn't named anybody. He has said if he was caught, he would kill a federal judge a week until he is freed."

Ana Barnett, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's office in Miami, said extraordinary efforts are being made to assure the safety of Lehder and those who are guarding him. "His past shows he's a violent man who is capable of many things," she said. "Security will be very tight."

Mueller said the hearing in Jacksonville would be held in "the most secure facility available." He refused to elaborate.

Lehder faces 29 charges in the United States.

Charges in Jacksonville include conspiracy to import cocaine, importing cocaine, possession with intent to distribute the drug and racketeering.

In 1984, he was charged in Miami with one count of conspiracy to import and distribute controlled substances, two counts of possession with intent to distribute, one count of attempting to import controlled substances and one count of promoting international travel for purposes of importing controlled substances.

The most recent indictment against Lehder, unsealed in Miami on Nov. 18, accuses the Medellin Cartel of sending 58 tons of cocaine to the United States from laboratories all over South America's Amazon Basin. Lehder was charged with 13 narcotics-related counts in that indictment.

Much of the government's information about the cartel came from informant Barry Seal, a former drug smuggler himself who infiltrated the organization. He was killed Feb. 19 in Baton Rouge, La., allegedly by three Colombians acting on a $500,000 contract put out by leaders of the cartel. The three are awaiting trial.

TV says Waite on trial

LONDON — A British television network said Shiite Moslem extremists put hostage negotiator Terry Waite on trial and ordered him detained because he had failed to meet their demands.

The Independent Television Network's correspondent Brent Sadler reported Wednesday from Nicosia, Cyprus, that "a usually reliable Moslem source" told him several Shiite fundamentalists testified against Waite during the unofficial proceeding.

There was no corroboration. The Church of England, for which Waite is an envoy, said it had no confirmation that he was being held captive.

Waite has not been seen in public leaving his Beirut hotel Jan. 20. Members of a Druse militia that was protecting him said he went to a meeting with Islamic Jihad, a Shiite group that holds two American hostages.

Sadler said a Moslem religious leader told him Waite was put on trial for failing to get more American arms for Iran.

Seib to leave today

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iranian officials have handed Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib over to the Swiss Embassy in Tehran in preparation for his expulsion from the country today, an Iranian diplomat said.

Iranian officials announced their decision to free Seib on Wednesday, five days after his arrest on charges of spying for Israel. He had been invited into Iran last month with other Western journalists to report on the Iran-Iraq war.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, Iranian Ambassador Said Rajavi Khorassani told a news conference late Wednesday that Seib was handed over to the Swiss Embassy. Spokesmen for the embassy, which handles U.S. interests in Iran, would not comment.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored here, said Wednesday that Seib would be put on a plane out of the country today. It did not say where the Cairo-based journalist would be taken.

Envoy offends minister

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Brian Mulroney has accused the senior U.S. trade envoy of insensitivity for questioning Canadian trade restrictions designed to protect its cultural sovereignty.

"His remarks showed a stunning ignorance of Canada," Mulroney said Wednesday in answer to a question in Parliament about comments by U.S. Trade representative Clayton Yeutter.

Speaking at a trade conference in Washington on Tuesday, Yeutter said he could not understand Canada's insistence on protecting its cultural sovereignty by excluding barriers to broadcasting, publishing and related industries from year-old trade talks between the two countries.

Opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around the nation.

Supercollider should be priority

The Reagan administration wants to build an exciting new machine to keep the United States on the cutting edge of technology and open up some of the deepest mysteries of the universe. Building the proposed $6 billion giant "atom smasher" is crucial if the United States is to maintain its international lead in science.

The full name of the project is the Superconductor Supercollider, which would be a ring 52 miles in circumference and would be the most expensive science program ever conducted.

Science is the engine that drives the modern age. The supercollider represents an investment in the future. The United States should put the program high on its agenda.

The Wichita (Kan.) Eagle-Beacon

Says TV should run condom ads

Credit should be given to U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop for urging frank and open discussion about sex and sexual practices, even among young children, to help curb the spread of the AIDS virus. Koop specified that the best protection against AIDS, other than abstaining from sex, was use of a condom.

Condoms aren't new, nor are they very secret. They have been in use for centuries as a means of preventing pregnancy and disease and can now be found displayed prominently in most drugstores.

So what are we trying to hide? In an age when having sex can be very dangerous to your health, it is time for television to accept appropriate advertisements that can help save people's lives.

The Patriot Ledger, Quincy, Mass.

Meese 'plotting' against accused

Attorney General Edwin Meese III and his associates at the Justice Department are plotting to pull a cornerstone from the legal rights of the accused.

Meese has not kept his contempt for Miranda secret. In a published interview in 1985 he said that the ruling's practical effect "is to prevent the police from talking to the person who knows the most about the crime — namely the perpetrator."

So much for presumed innocence until guilt is proven. Miranda has worked for the past 21 years. Senior FBI officials now say the Miranda procedure is simple to follow, and they have no objection to following it.

Nevertheless, it is certainly disturbing that the Miranda ruling has enemies within the Department of Justice. And it is absolutely frightening that this nation's chief attorney thinks so little of the fifth amendment.

The Tennessean, Nashville, Tenn.

Pornography report seems cynical

The recent admission by Attorney General Edwin Meese III that he has read Playboy and Penthouse magazines and doesn't consider them obscene makes the harassment of those publications last year by the Justice Department's pornography commission all the more cynical and inappropriate in retrospect.

A conclusion that seemed likely last year seems even more likely now: Meese's commission was using muscle to harass publications against which it had no plausible legal case. The political clamors of conservative activists and the religious right were put before the high imperatives of the U.S. Constitution. For shame.

The Atlanta Constitution

Nation shouldn't forget arms deal

The nation cannot — and must not — simply forget about the administration's forays into possible hostage swapping and arms funding for allies in Nicaragua. All done, as noted by Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, "in direct contradiction to our stated foreign policy."

The Iranian arms deal has seriously undermined the credibility of the Reagan administration.

The president must contend with that realization. "America isn't finished; her best days have just begun," the president said to the joint session of Congress.

The nation must hope that these "best days" include a liberal dose of lessons learned from the not-so-best administration days just passed.

Ocean County Observer, Toms River, N.J.

Justice department shreds principle

If Edwin Meese were not the attorney general of the United States, he would be difficult to take seriously. Meese has always seemed more interested in chasing symbolic targets like pornography than real crime. Now, his Justice Department wants to tear down a modern cornerstone of American justice: the U.S. Supreme Court's 1966 Miranda decision.

In Meese's odd way of thinking, only innocent people should be allowed to have a lawyer present during police questioning.

Many innocent people have been arrested. Some have been convicted. But the Justice Department argues that the Miranda warning is crippling the government's ability to protect citizens from crime.

Building cases against wrongdoers is tougher than forcing confessions out of them, but that does not make the Miranda decision wrong.

Meese and his reactionary ideologists ought to find something more constructive to do than try to shred a constitutional principle that protects all Americans.

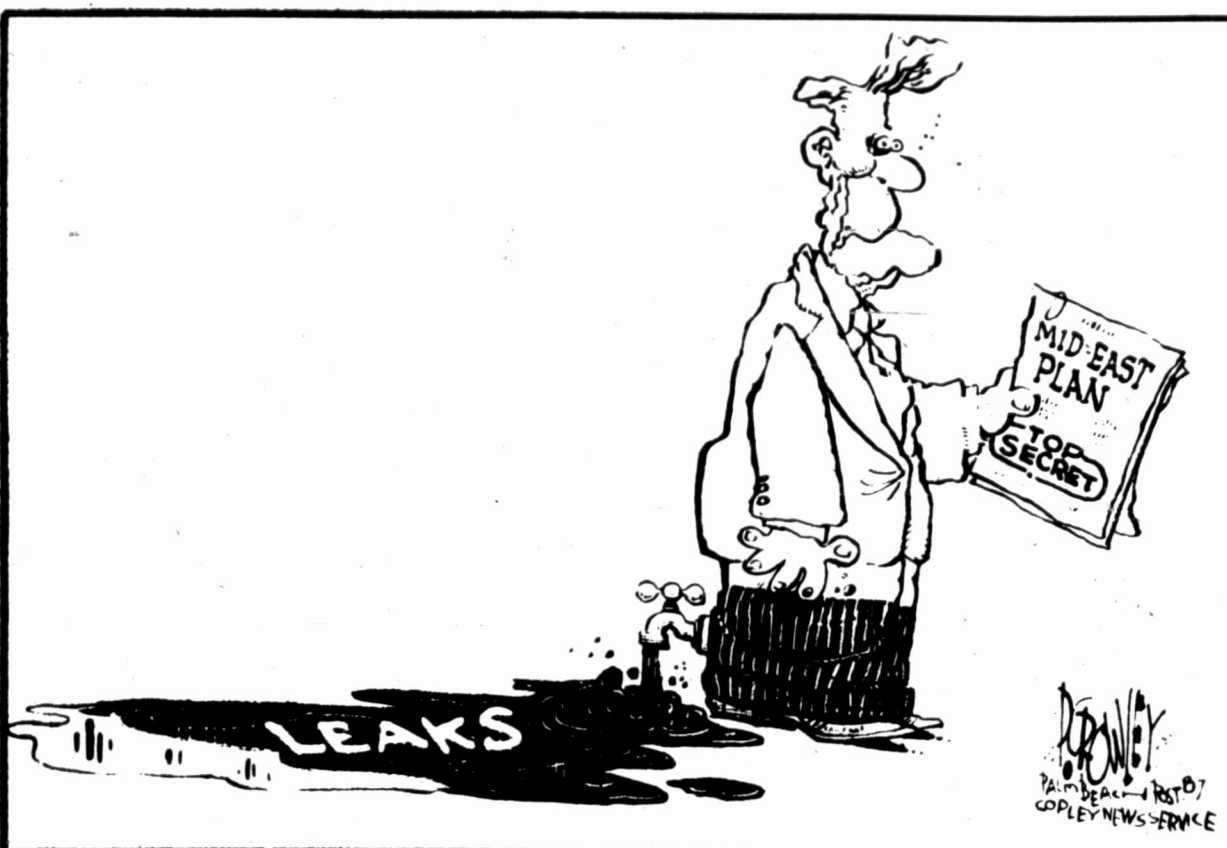

Sioux Falls (S.D.) Argus Leader

'No choice' but to help hostages

As difficult as it may be to work up much sympathy for the American professors kidnapped in Beirut after they ignored repeated U.S. government warnings to flee Lebanon, the United States really has no choice but to take Henry Kissinger's advice: "No negotiations, ... retaliation if we can find out who (the kidnappers) are."

The four new hostages bring the total of Americans being held to nine. To ignore their plight would be tantamount to sentencing Americans everywhere to the ravages of state-supported terrorism. The United States would not remain a first-rate power for long if it did not protect its citizens from gangsters.

The Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette

Cost of arms affair grows: crucial documents withheld

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The intangible cost of the Iran/contras arms fiasco continues to grow.

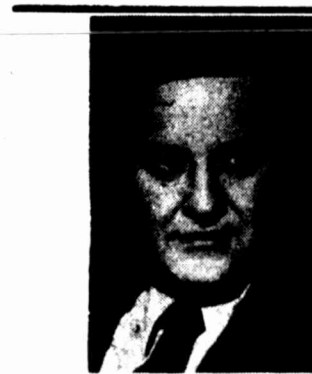

In addition to causing political embarrassment for the Reagan administration and serious damage to American influence in the Arab world, it now turns out that U.S. intelligence experts were denied crucial information on Iran for more than a year because of the White House's insistence on keeping the Iranian arms deal secret.

Congressional sources told our associate Lucette Lagnado that "thousands of documents" relating to Iran were probably withheld from State Department and Pentagon analysts to protect the secret National Security Council arms-for-hostages operations.

The material that was bottled up was raw data gathered by the National Security Agency, the super-secret, military-run outfit that intercepts and decodes communications traffic all over the world. NSA intercepts are an absolutely vital source of information for U.S. intelligence analysts.

It is not clear who ordered the NSA to withhold its raw data from the State Department and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency. Our congressional sources said it apparently was the National Security Council, but that the CIA may also have been involved. One source told us some CIA analysts may also have been cut out of the NSA's information network.

The lid was clamped on the NSA intercepts because experienced intelligence analysts would probably have grown suspicious at reports of strange planes landing in Iran. Their suspicions might have led to disclosure that the planes were carrying arms and White House negotiators.

Jack Anderson

Rather than risk premature disclosure, the NSC decided to deny the incriminating information to anyone who might be savvy enough to figure out what it meant.

"It is frightening," one congressional source said. "They simply shut down the intelligence information so that a number of agencies were prevented from seeing what they (NSA) had on Iran. The NSC essentially ordered the NSA not to disseminate their cables and reports."

As another congressional source pointed out, lack of information from the NSA's intercepts meant that foreign-policy recommendations were being made by the deprived agencies on the basis of inadequate intelligence. Among the intercepts withheld, presumably, were routine cables that tell of other arms shipments to Iran.

State Department sources say that intelligence analysts in Foggy Bottom are "furious" at the realization that vital information was kept from them for over a year. The realization dawned on them slowly over the months as they detected significant gaps in the cable-intercept material they were getting from the NSA.

A special internal task force under Michael Armacost, undersecretary of state for political affairs, is reportedly examining the NSA's Iran files in an effort to catch up on the material that was withheld for more than a year.

We have been unable to determine exactly how long it took State Department analysts to grow suspicious about the NSA's cutoff of raw data. Sources explained that intelligence analysts typically are inundated with a raw material, so it would have been relatively easy for cable intercepts to be withheld without arousing immediate suspicion.

By the same token, however, it would have been relatively easy for cable intercepts to be withheld without arousing immediate suspicion.

By the same token, however, it would have been extremely easy for the analysts to have figured out what was going on — the secret arms traffic to Iran — if they had been provided with all the cables the NSA was intercepting. It was this certainty that led the NSC to cut off the supply of raw data.

Footnote: The NSA intercepts are now being sent through special channels directly to Secretary of State George Shultz.

NUKEBOLT UPDATE: A Connecticut company that discovered it had been sold counterfeit, substandard steel bolts now tells us it doesn't make valves for nuclear power plants, as we had reported.

PosiSeal International was identified as a nuclear plant supplier by industry sources, and a spokesman for its parent company seemed to confirm the information.

But after the story appeared, another company official told us that PosiSeal doesn't make valves for nuclear power plants.

PHILADELPHIA TODAY
Weather: 18, still, fair, then overcast.

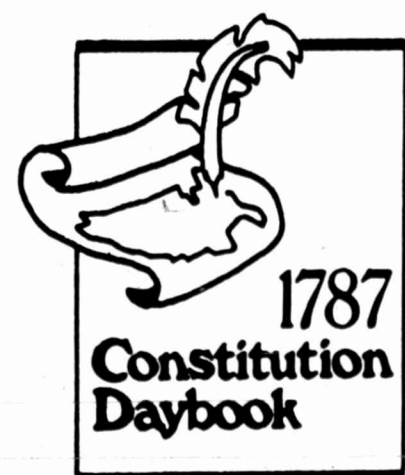

Today's Independent Gazette advertised a school opened by John Ely to teach "Spelling, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, and English Grammar." Tuition was $3 a quarter. The school was located on Arch Street.

Jacob Graff paid one year's ground rent of 16 pounds to William and Luke Morris. (Thomas Jefferson lived in Graff's second-floor apartment in 1776 when he wrote the Declaration of Independence.) Benjamin Franklin paid Jonathan McElwee 21 pounds, 16 shillings for glass.

CONFEDERATION TODAY
There were seven delegations present in Congress today plus one delegate each from Delaware and Virginia. Congress ordered "that the Board of Treasury report an estimate of the sums necessary for the service of the year 1787 including the interest on the domestic and foreign debt and so much capital of the foreign debt as will fall due within the year."

Secretary of War Henry Knox reported: "The payments to the troops are indeed bad and is the cause which gives edge to their other grievances and renders them more severe and difficult to be borne."

Robert Morris, in a letter to William Constable of New York, commented on Shays' Rebellion: "I find they have drawn blood in Massachusetts & am extremely sorry for it; but it is now incumbent on Government to follow the blow & put an end to discord which I fear can only be done by making examples."

The House of Representatives of Massachusetts ordered Caleb Strong of Northampton to form a committee "for punishing such persons as shall any way aid & assist those concerned in the present rebellion."

DELEGATES TODAY
George Washington reported "another cold day 18 in the morning with a high of 30. Ground very hard froze. Wind at So. Et.; raw & cold with great appearances of a change in the weather."

Hugh Williamson wrote to John Gray Blount, brother of a fellow North Carolina delegate: "Are you desirous to open a School immediately at Greenville if so, how much can the Trustees engage to pay for the first year? 19 boys at 8 pounds the year would give 150 pounds. ... In this Town the Scarcity of Hog and Hominy on this year prevents People from being able on this year even to pay for the Schooling of their Children."

LOOKING BACK
Daylight-Saving Time, Soil Conservation and the Gulf Stream
Many of us think of daylight-saving time as a World War II emergency expedient. And we tend to associate soil conservation with a Depression recovery program.

But, daylight-saving time was first proposed by Benjamin Franklin. As early as the 1760s, he was charting the path of the Gulf Stream on his voyages to and from London. He first correlated the connection of air flow and water currents that create that Stream.

In Philadelphia there was great interest in agricultural improvement. In 1787 the Philadelphia Society for the Promotion of Agriculture was offering substantial prizes for crop improvement and advances in livestock breeding. Two decades earlier, Franklin purchased some depleted farmland in New Jersey. There he demonstrated that clovers and legumes help restore nitrogen-depleted soils. His use of gypsum as a fertilizer was the first application in American agronomy.

President's attention span shorter

By ART BUCHWALD

There have been recent reports that President Reagan's attention span is getting shorter and he keeps wandering away from the subject at hand.

One article written by Martin Tolchin in The New York Times reported Congressman Robert Michel, the House Republican leader, urged the President to support a federal health insurance program for catastrophic illness.

Mr. Reagan responded to the request by telling a story about a welfare family living in a plush hotel in New York at enormous cost to the taxpayer. When it was pointed out to the President that health insurance is not a welfare program, Mr. Reagan is said to have repeated the story again.

Before anyone comes to any conclusions that the President has changed since the Republicans lost the Senate and the United States lost the contra money in Switzerland, let me say the story of a welfare family living in a plush hotel in New York has been bugging Mr. Reagan for six years.

White House sources say the President is obsessed with finding this family and showing them up for what they are — liberal chiselers feeding at the government trough.

The problem Mr. Reagan has in producing the family is that he heard the story about them secondhand. He can't remember who told it to him, and so he has been forced to instigate a search himself. It's taken up a great deal of his time.

They say the President will sit in his Oval Office late at night studying a map of Manhattan. Then he'll pick up the phone and speak to FBI Director William Webster.

"Bill, did you find them yet?" "No, Mr. President. But we're thinking of organizing a sting operation and offering free rooms in the Ritz Carlton to anyone now on welfare. We think that way we could smoke them out."

"What about the Plaza, Bill?" "We've got every room wired and we're giving lie detector tests to anyone who gets on the elevator."

"They have to be somewhere," the President protests. "A welfare family can't just disappear among eight million people in a city like New York."

Mr. Webster says, "The FBI swat team is raiding Mrs. Helmsley's Palace tomorrow."

"Be careful, Bill. A welfare family who lives in a deluxe hotel can be very dangerous."

The President hangs up and buzzes the Air Force command center. "Any photos of the welfare family who are living off the fat of the land?"

"No, sir. Today's satellite pictures show nothing but a string of muggings and a dozen city commissioners being paid off by contractors."

Don Regan comes in, "Mr. President do you want to check over this trillion-dollar budget?"

"How about the Hilton?"

"That's a thought. Why don't we stay there the next time we're in the city. Then when I'm taking a nap Pat Buchanan can hold you up on his shoulders and you can peek over the transome."

"I think you ought to read this latest Senate report which tells how badly you fouled up on the Iran business."

"What I'd like to do," says Mr. Reagan, "is drag the entire family on television and show the American people what kind of welfare bums are living in our best hotels these days."

"That's fine, sir. Now what do you want to do about the contras in Nicaragua?"

"Fly them up here and have them search the Waldorf Astoria room by room."

New techniques stop facial pains

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I assume you try to keep up on current medicine, so I am writing to see if you can tell me of any new ideas in treatment of tic douloureux. Is heredity thought to be a factor? What's the latest in treatments? — E.G.W.

I make an effort to keep up, E.W. Fortunately, with tic douloureux there's a lot of the "new" to keep abreast. Let me discuss it generally, first.

People who have this get spasms of short-lived, but intense pain along the route of the trigeminal nerve, which serves the face. This area becomes so sensitive that the pain trigger can be something as innocent as a gentle breeze against the cheek.

Some process incites this abnormal stimulation, and I cannot be any less vague than that. In some, though, the cause may be the twisting of an artery around the nerve at some point. A certain level of pulsation in that artery may in such people trigger the pain. Very rarely, tic douloureux may be part of another illness, like multiple sclerosis. We don't know about heredity, but it's not thought to be an important contributor.

Drugs have traditionally been used to control attacks and they are effective in 75 percent of the patients. The exciting news is the effectiveness of newer surgical therapies. Deadening the nerve with a radiofrequency needle may help. Or glycerol injected into the nerve to kill it can be the answer for others.

Most recently, success has been reported in surgery to alleviate the artery problem when that is a factor. The neurosurgeon wraps a cushioning sponge around the nerve to protect it against the offending artery.

Many other surgical approaches are being tried. I've covered this in the past. I'm more than willing to repeat in hope that one of the suggestions might lead someone to get the attention needed to overcome the sometimes excruciating symptoms.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have read that if one keeps his liquor consumption down to two drinks a day he can lower his blood pressure. Can you comment? — W.N.

All of the evidence isn't in yet, but the suggestion has been suggested.

First of all, understand that immoderate use of alcohol elevates blood pressure. Thus, if an immoderate drinker lowers his consumption, of course, that would help. When you transfer the idea to a non-drinker and suggest that a couple of drinks a day might lower his blood pressure, you are on shakier ground, based on present knowledge.

The studies done on this showed that people who drink three or more drinks a day tend to have higher blood pressures than those who don't drink at all. The studies also showed that people who drink two drinks daily (and no more) tend to have lower pressures than non-drinkers.

The problem with alcohol as "therapy" is that many can't control consumption to a couple of drinks a day and quickly pass over the limit into the danger zone. Until we know more about this, I would prefer to stick with some of the tried-and-true methods of blood pressure control. See the booklet, "Blood Pressure and Your Health," which readers may obtain by writing me in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What's the difference, so far as cause is concerned, between migraine and tension headaches? — I.R.

Migraine headaches have to do with blood vessels. Tension headaches have to do with muscles.

In migraine, vessels serving the head clamp down, then suddenly relax and expand. The subsequent rush of blood flow causes the pain. In tension headache, muscles of the head, neck and shoulders contract. That causes the pain. Often, the two kinds of headache are

Americans are optimistic about life

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Americans rate their personal lives and relationships with a surprising degree of optimism, according to a survey by Guideposts magazine of 1,200 of its readers.

It says some 50 percent of those surveyed rated as excellent their ability to maintain long-lasting relationships and the quality of their marriages.

About 70 percent believe they communicate effectively with spouses and children, and 75 percent rated as excellent or very good the quality of their relationships with their children.

Satisfaction with their personal lives carries over to the workplace for the majority of people surveyed, with 70 percent rating their work situation as excellent or very good.

State briefs

State prisons close second time

HUNTSVILLE — Texas prison officials say it may take a couple of days before the inmate population dips below a state-mandated level and new prisoners are accepted.

The Texas Department of Corrections, the nation's second largest behind California, closed the doors to new arrivals Wednesday for the second time in a month because the number of inmates topped a 95 percent limit set to curb crowding.

"It could be Thursday or Friday before we get some relief," Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said Wednesday. "We've got some serious problems."

As of midnight Tuesday, the number of inmates in the 26-unit system totaled 38,472 prisoners, or 95.21 percent of capacity. The tally, announced Wednesday, was 86 inmates over the 95 percent mark.

TDC General Counsel J. Kirk Brown said inmates would be accepted until the close of business at 5 p.m. Wednesday, but that no admissions would be made beginning Thursday.

Pickens makes new Diamond offer

AMARILLO — Amarillo oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. stepped up his hostile takeover bid for Diamond Shamrock Corp. with an offer to buy all of the Dallas-based oil company's common stock for $15 a share in cash.

The new offer, made Wednesday, amounts to $1.67 billion for all common stock, but totals more than $2 billion when preferred shares are included.

In a letter to Diamond Shamrock's directors, Pickens urged them either to accept his new offer or to let the company's stockholders hold a special meeting to choose between his offer or the restructuring plan. "We are prepared to accept the decision of the majority of Diamond Shamrock's shareholders," Pickens wrote.

He emphasized that Diamond Shamrock's shareholders "are the owners of the company, and the board should not prevent them from deciding what they wish to do with their investments."

Pickens, who heads the Amarillo-based energy concern Mesa Limited Partnership, previously proposed exchanging cash and Mesa securities for Diamond Shamrock's 111.1 million total common shares outstanding.

Police offer $11,000 for information

TEXARKANA — Rewards totaling $11,000 have been offered for information leading to an arrest and indictment in the case of a drug company president who was killed when a bomb ripped through his car, police said.

A pipe bomb placed on the driver's side of Daryl Jon Crouch's Mercedes-Benz which exploded when he turned the ignition key caused the Monday night blast, police said Wednesday.

The method of triggering the device will require further investigation by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms crime lab in San Francisco, police spokesman Earl Cox said.

Reward money includes $10,000 posted by an anonymous donor and $1,000 offered by the local Crime Stoppers group, Cox said at an afternoon news conference.

Crouch, 36, was president of Walsh-Lumpkin Drug Co. Inc. His wife and daughter suffered injuries in the blast in the company's parking lot.

AIDS victim files discrimination suit

TYLER — An AIDS victim, who is the director of anesthesia at a Tyler hospital, has filed a $1 million lawsuit against his employer, claiming his duties and salary were cut after his superiors learned he had the disease.

Mark Bible contends he was prevented from performing anesthesia, told to refrain from any contact with patients and was isolated from the rest of the staff after he was diagnosed in September as having Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

He has worked as a registered nurse anesthetist at Mother Frances Hospital since July 1984.

His suit claims the hospital invaded his privacy by misusing his confidential medical records and violated federal laws that prevent discrimination against the handicapped, including AIDS victims.

Bible was diagnosed as having AIDS after he was hospitalized for pneumonia at Mother Frances. His physician authorized him to return to work without restrictions on Oct. 6, according to the suit.

On Nov. 5, when a patient was endangered, Bible assisted two employees who were having difficulty administering anesthesia. Bible was then suspended without pay for three days, the suit said.

The following week, Bible was told he would be fired if he touched another patient and his pay was reduced to that of a registered nurse, which is roughly a 50 percent pay cut, said Bible's lawyer, Richard Levy of Austin.

Radar center to reduce drug traffic

HOUSTON — Federal authorities say a new sophisticated radar center will help reduce the number of illicit drugs brought into the country through Mexico.

The Blue Fire Operations Center was unveiled Wednesday during a news conference in which sheriffs and police chiefs from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma were present.

With the facility in southwest Houston comes the use of balloons and radar-equipped aircraft to be used during Operation Alliance, the federal crackdown on narcotics smugglers, said U.S. Customs Commissioner William von Raab.

The auditorium-style control room monitors radar points at South Padre Island, Port Mansfield, Port O'Connor, Freeport, Galveston and other locales along the coast, von Raab said.

The $5 million center also has a complex communications system that can reach agents anywhere from East Texas to Yuma, Ariz., said Chuck Scott, who heads the regional communications center.

PUC ousts Chairwoman Rosson

AUSTIN — The Public Utility Commission has ousted its chairwoman in a move a state lawyer says symbolizes the panel's lack of sensitivity to consumer concerns.

Peggy Rosson was removed as chairwoman Wednesday by two fellow commissioners who said Ms. Rosson could not adequately represent the commission in legislative proceedings because she was frequently the dissenting voter in 2-1 decisions.

Ms. Rosson, chairwoman since

November 1985, was voted out by Commissioners Dennis Thomas and Jo Campbell, the same commissioners who had voted her in. Thomas was voted in Wednesday as new chairman. Ms. Rosson abstained, but clearly did not like the move.

The ex-chairwoman, who will retain her commission seat, consistently votes for smaller rate increases than those approved by Thomas and Ms. Campbell.

Lawmakers react to Clements' speech

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' State of the State message to legislators was, "I'm not looking for confrontation." That, perhaps, was wishful thinking.

"I think the House — at least from my perspective — is going to allow the Senate and the governor to slug it out, and then we'll pick up the pieces," said Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen.

Although Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby called Clements' Wednesday speech to a joint legislative session "a very closely reasoned piece of work," Schlueter said, "I could tell by the expression on Gov. Hobby's face, we will be here all summer."

Clements suggested expanding the state sales tax to cover certain services and proposed lowering the tax.

"I think that's extremely difficult, because broadening the tax to certain services will mean an income tax for some people, and I don't think they're going to stand still to pay income tax and other people not do so," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

"I would be greatly surprised if we could do that within a regular session," Farabee said.

The 140-day session ends June 1. "We're going to have a lot of excitement from now to May and then again next summer," said Schlueter, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Clements, in his 35-minute speech, seemed to draw a do-or-die line with two statements: "I will veto a $5.8 billion tax hike ... I will veto any plan that increases revenues above current levels."

Hobby, who controls the flow of legislation in the Senate, was asked if there was any reason that Clements' proposals would survive when legislatures are noted for discarding suggestions by governors.

"Really the process generally works toward a reconciliation of the differences between the two, bearing in mind that when the whole process is over," the budget bill "goes to the governor's desk, and he has line-item veto (power)," Hobby said.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said a "fiscal time bomb" is ticking in Texas until the state tax base is overhauled.

"If I understood him correctly, and I believe that I did, Clements said he believed the current stream that we get from our present taxes is necessary, but that he would like to see a change in our tax structure to eliminate the unfairness, the inequitable part of it but which would bring in the same amount of money but no more," Bullock said.

"It just so happens I got a tax bill that fits that to a 'T,'" he added. Bullock has proposed widening the tax base to include services while lowering the rate charged.

House Speaker Gib Lewis said he thought Clements had the votes to extend "temporary" tax hikes on sales and gasoline, which would otherwise expire Aug. 31.

White gets job with firm in consulting

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Mark White will serve on a consulting council for the investment banking firm of Underwood, Neuhaus & Co. Inc., company officials say.

"Mark White extends our firm's effort in the last couple of years to keep in close touch with the political, business and civic communities," said Keith Trotman, president of the Houston regional stock brokerage and investment banking firm.

"This expertise allows us to better understand and then serve the needs of our clients, as they relate to these communities. The governor will play a key role in attracting new business to Texas," he said.

Members on the council, established in 1986, have staggered three-year terms and attend quarterly meetings. Underwood Neuhaus executives are ex-officio members of the council.

Underwood Neuhaus handles public offerings, private placements, and valuations.

PRO™ TEXAS A NEW OPTIONAL CALLING PLAN FROM AT&T

On November 13, 1986 AT&T Communications of The Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T") filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional calling plan, PRO Texas. A comparable interstate plan, known as PRO™ America, is currently available to Texas customers.

PRO Texas gives Texas consumers an opportunity to save money on direct dialed in-state long distance calls. Customers who choose this new AT&T plan will receive a 10% discount on all AT&T intrastate direct dialed station calls by paying a monthly charge of $15.00.

The PRO Texas discount applies to calls placed during all rate periods and all days. The discount is in addition to the AT&T intrastate evening discount of 25% and the night/weekend discount of 40%. A one time charge of $6.00 will be billed to initiate the service. However, this charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

PRO Texas will be available to all Message Telephone Service customers in Texas. AT&T estimates that it will generate revenues in the first year of almost $8 million, which is .7% of AT&T's annual revenues for all Texas intrastate service.

The PUC has assigned Docket No. 7194 to this proposed service offering. The proposed effective date for PRO Texas is March 16, 1987. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Many religious leaders, and men's love of titles, and human applause, the hierarchy systems and all its tributaries, the schemes and religious societies with its officers and offices have so many times acted in direct opposition to many of the plainest precepts of the New Testament with no consideration to whether or not the Word of God authorizes such teachings, actions and offices. Others fold their hands and sit down in perfect apathy and say, "We have washed our hands of all these transgressions, we thank God we know better than others, and we will do less, give less, labor less and pray less than they." Whatever does not receive the sanction of heaven's authority ought to be rejected and opposed as an unauthorized intruder into the service of God and then corrected and made right according to the New Testament pattern. The Bible says, "For this cause I sent unto you Timothy, who is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of my ways which be in Christ, as I teach everywhere in every church." I Corinthians 4:17. Paul, the Apostle taught the "same thing in every church."

Area athletes listed as top recruits

Nationally respected recruiting expert Max Emfinger has released his recruiting round-up with his rankings of the top southwest area college prospects. Two area players made the list, though neither are from the Steers. Colorado City punter Reggie Gardner was listed as a blue-chipper, which is behind gold chipper and super blue chipper.

Gardner has averaged over 40 yards per punt two consecutive seasons.

Forsan's Wayne Wright was listed as a red chipper at fullback. Most feel, however, that Wright has a better chance at linebacker than fullback. Those who know say Wright's 4.7 second speed in the 40 isn't fast enough for a college fullback, but that it's plenty fast for a linebacker.

Wright played both positions superbly this past season, and could have done either better if he hadn't been tiring himself doing the other so well. He averaged over 10 tackles a game, and might've averaged over 15 if he hadn't been totting three opponents for five yards on every play while on offense.

Despite Mr. Emfinger's reputation, Steer fans have reason to wonder. Most would agree that, among others, Jay Burcham can play major college football. I don't know about you, but I never saw Mr. Emfinger in the stands at a Steers game.

By the way, Emfinger's list comes compliments of KBYG's Roger Craig, Big Spring's high school recruiting expert.

Tonight the Howard College Hawks and Hawk-Queens host teams from New Mexico Junior College, and the games are crucial for both teams.

The Queens are in fourth place in the conference, and fifth place doesn't go to the playoffs, so they can't afford a loss. The last time these two teams played, the Queens' were down by one when Terri Powell launched a buzzer shot from the baseline. The shot hit the rim, bounced straight up as high as the top of the backboard, and swished through on its descent.

Even more so than the Queens, the Hawks must win tonight. They're battling with Odessa for the fourth and last playoff spot, and a win tonight would do wonders for their playoff hopes. The Thunderbirds were ranked fourth in the nation last week, though they'll probably drop after Monday night's 95-85 loss at South Plains.

The Thunderbirds' Richard Hollis will be the best player to visit Dorothy Garrett Coliseum this year. Hollis is averaging 28.6 points and 16.4 rebounds a game, and will be a Houston Cougar next year. In their first meeting, which the Thunderbirds won 107-95, Hollis made the most spectacular play I've seen this year.

On a fast break, Hollis skied to get the ball, but his back was to the basket, and there was no way he could see it. Nevermind. Hollis, with some kind of sixth sense, slammed the ball backwards.

The Hawks will counter with Kevin Bradsher and his 25.2 points per game average. Bradsher scored 45 points Monday night, so he's hot. Dennis Rhodes, by the way, is leading the conference with nine assists a game.

The Hawks are 5-0 at home this year. Tonight's defense of Dorothy Garrett will be the most difficult yet.

Here's some shooting news:

Art Dehlinger of Big Spring was the winner of the Sporting Rifle Center Fire match Sunday at the Western Sportsman Club. The club is 10 miles west on Hwy. 176.

There will be a silhouette pistol match at the club this Sunday at 1 p.m. The shoot is open to members and non-members, but some restrictions apply to the guns. For more information, call Walt Lane at 263-3012.

The Colorado City and Coahoma junior high girls basketball teams played Monday night, and the Lady Wolves won two of three.

For Coahoma, Jennifer Cooper, Krista Moser, Kelly Lockhart and Kathy Johnson scored two points apiece as the C-City seventh grade B-team won 15-8. In the A game, the Wolves won 33-22. The Coahoma girls won the eighth grade game, getting 14 points each from Mandi Walling and Kim Gee. The Coahoma A team is 9-2.

Sweetwater is hosting the Texas Rattlesnake Run, a 10-kilometer race and a two-mile run-walk for fun.

The run is in conjunction with the Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup, which is said to be the world's largest rattlesnake roundup. The run will be Sunday, March 15, and the entry is $8 for mailed pre-registration, and $10 the day of the race. The entry fee includes a T-shirt.

For more information, call (915) 235-4461.

Four bass in the 25-28 pound class were caught last week at Lake E.V. Spence, and eight more were reeled in weighing between 15-20 pounds. Numerous others were reported in the 10-15 pound bracket.

It appears the Lake Spence fishers made the most of the recent spring weather.

If you need practice for the Sweetwater race, then the Cowtown Marathon and 10K runs Feb. 28 in Fort Worth should warm you up.

Early registration is $15 for the marathon and $12 for the 10K race. After Feb. 23, fees are $20 and $15. For more information, call (817) 731-8600.

Track season is here. Coach Randy Britton's BSHS boys team will host Midland High in a dual practice meet Friday at 4:30 p.m. at Blankenship Field.

Houston loses a 'Tower'

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets' season, which started with the sweet afterglow of reaching the NBA finals and joining the league's elite, has turned to ashes.

Ralph Sampson's knee injury in the first quarter of Tuesday's 107-105 loss to Denver likely ended the 7-4 Twin Tower's season.

The incident added a chapter to the long list of bad news that has sent the Rockets crashing from the heights to the depths.

"You would never think all that's happened to us could happen to a team in a full season and ours is just half over," Rockets forward Rodney McCray said.

"There's nothing you can do about it. We just have to stick together and fight back."

Guard Robert Reid says the Rockets aren't ready to close the books on the 1986-87 season.

"We wouldn't be the Rockets if we folded our tents and told the fans, 'that's it for this season folks, see you next year,'" Reid said.

"Our young guys are going to have to come through now. We have to play smart. No more silly mistakes."

Sampson's injury was described as a large tear of the lateral cartilage in his left knee that will require surgery to repair.

Sampson says he's out for the season. The Rockets fear he is too, but they are holding out hope until Sampson gets additional medical advice.

"I'm probably out the rest of the season," Sampson said. "Now I have to get mentally tough to get ready for the rehabilitation, having a cast on my leg or whatever is necessary."

Sampson started Houston's season of misfortune by missing 11 of Houston's first 13 games with ankle injuries.

Akeem Olajuwon sprained an ankle Nov. 25 and missed seven games. Guard Robert Reid missed seven games after undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery Dec. 8.

The next bombshell came Jan. 13 when guards Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins, key figures in last season's title push, were banned from the league for using cocaine.

Each time the Rockets have appeared to be putting their woes behind them, they've been slapped down once again.

Their season has included a 56-point loss to Seattle and several fourth-quarter fizzes, including a loss to Phoenix when the Rockets led by 21 in the second half.

The Rockets had made a charge since losing Lloyd and Wiggins.

They have a 13-5 record since Dec. 30 and Coach Bill Fitch was named NBA Coach of the Month after the Rockets went 11-4 in January.

Now they are back at the bottom and trying to climb.

"I am shocked, we'll just have to try to win every game," Olajuwon said. "When it happened, I didn't think it was that serious. Ralph just twisted his knee trying to keep up with his man."

Sampson appeared to slip on The Summit court with six minutes to play in Tuesday's game. He tried to return in the second quarter

High salaries

worry owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball owners, concerned that player salaries have gotten too high, apparently are trying to stop free agency, claims a group of oldtimers headed by Hall of Famers Bob Gibson and Robin Roberts.

A collusion charge made by the players union is being heard by an arbitrator.

The 51-year-old Gibson, when asked Wednesday whether there was collusion among the owners in not signing free agents for the past two years, said, "I imagine there is, but I don't know that it can be proven."

"When the best players in the game are available, and no one seems to be interested in them..." added Gibson, winner of 251 regular-season games and seven World Series games, including three in 1967, during a 17-year career with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Something had to be done, though," he said. "This was their way of doing it. I guess they're trying to control long-term contracts."

Gibson said he thinks there should be a salary cap for each team, similar to the cap used in the NBA. While the average major league salary now exceeds $400,000 a year, several players earn more than $1 million a year.

Gibson, who retired in 1975, one year before the start of free agency, said, "I don't begrudge the players. They did not create free agency. The owners feel they made a mistake and now they're trying to correct it."

The 60-year-old Roberts agreed.

"The owners are to the point where they feel they have to make adjustments," said Roberts, who pitched 19 years in the major leagues, mostly with the Philadelphia Phillies before retiring in 1966 with 286 victories. Roberts was among those instrumental in the formation of the Players Association.

Roberts said, "I don't think it's hurting the game that the owners have tried to take the free agency situation under control. I think it helps to keep players with a team who have established themselves with that team — players like Mike Schmidt with the Phillies and Jack Morris with the Detroit Tigers. It's an asset for the team and for the fans."

Asked about possible collusion, he said, "I don't know... not when it's good business sense."

Oldtimers Ralph Branca and Joe Torre concurred with Gibson and Roberts.

Branca, 61, who pitched 12 seasons in the majors, mostly with the Brooklyn Dodgers and is best known for throwing the decisive home run ball to the New York Giants' Bobby Thomson in the final game of a 1951 National League playoff, said, "The owners are now making business decisions."

"They were paying vast sums of money," continued Branca, who retired in 1956. "They now realize they may have been overpaying players."

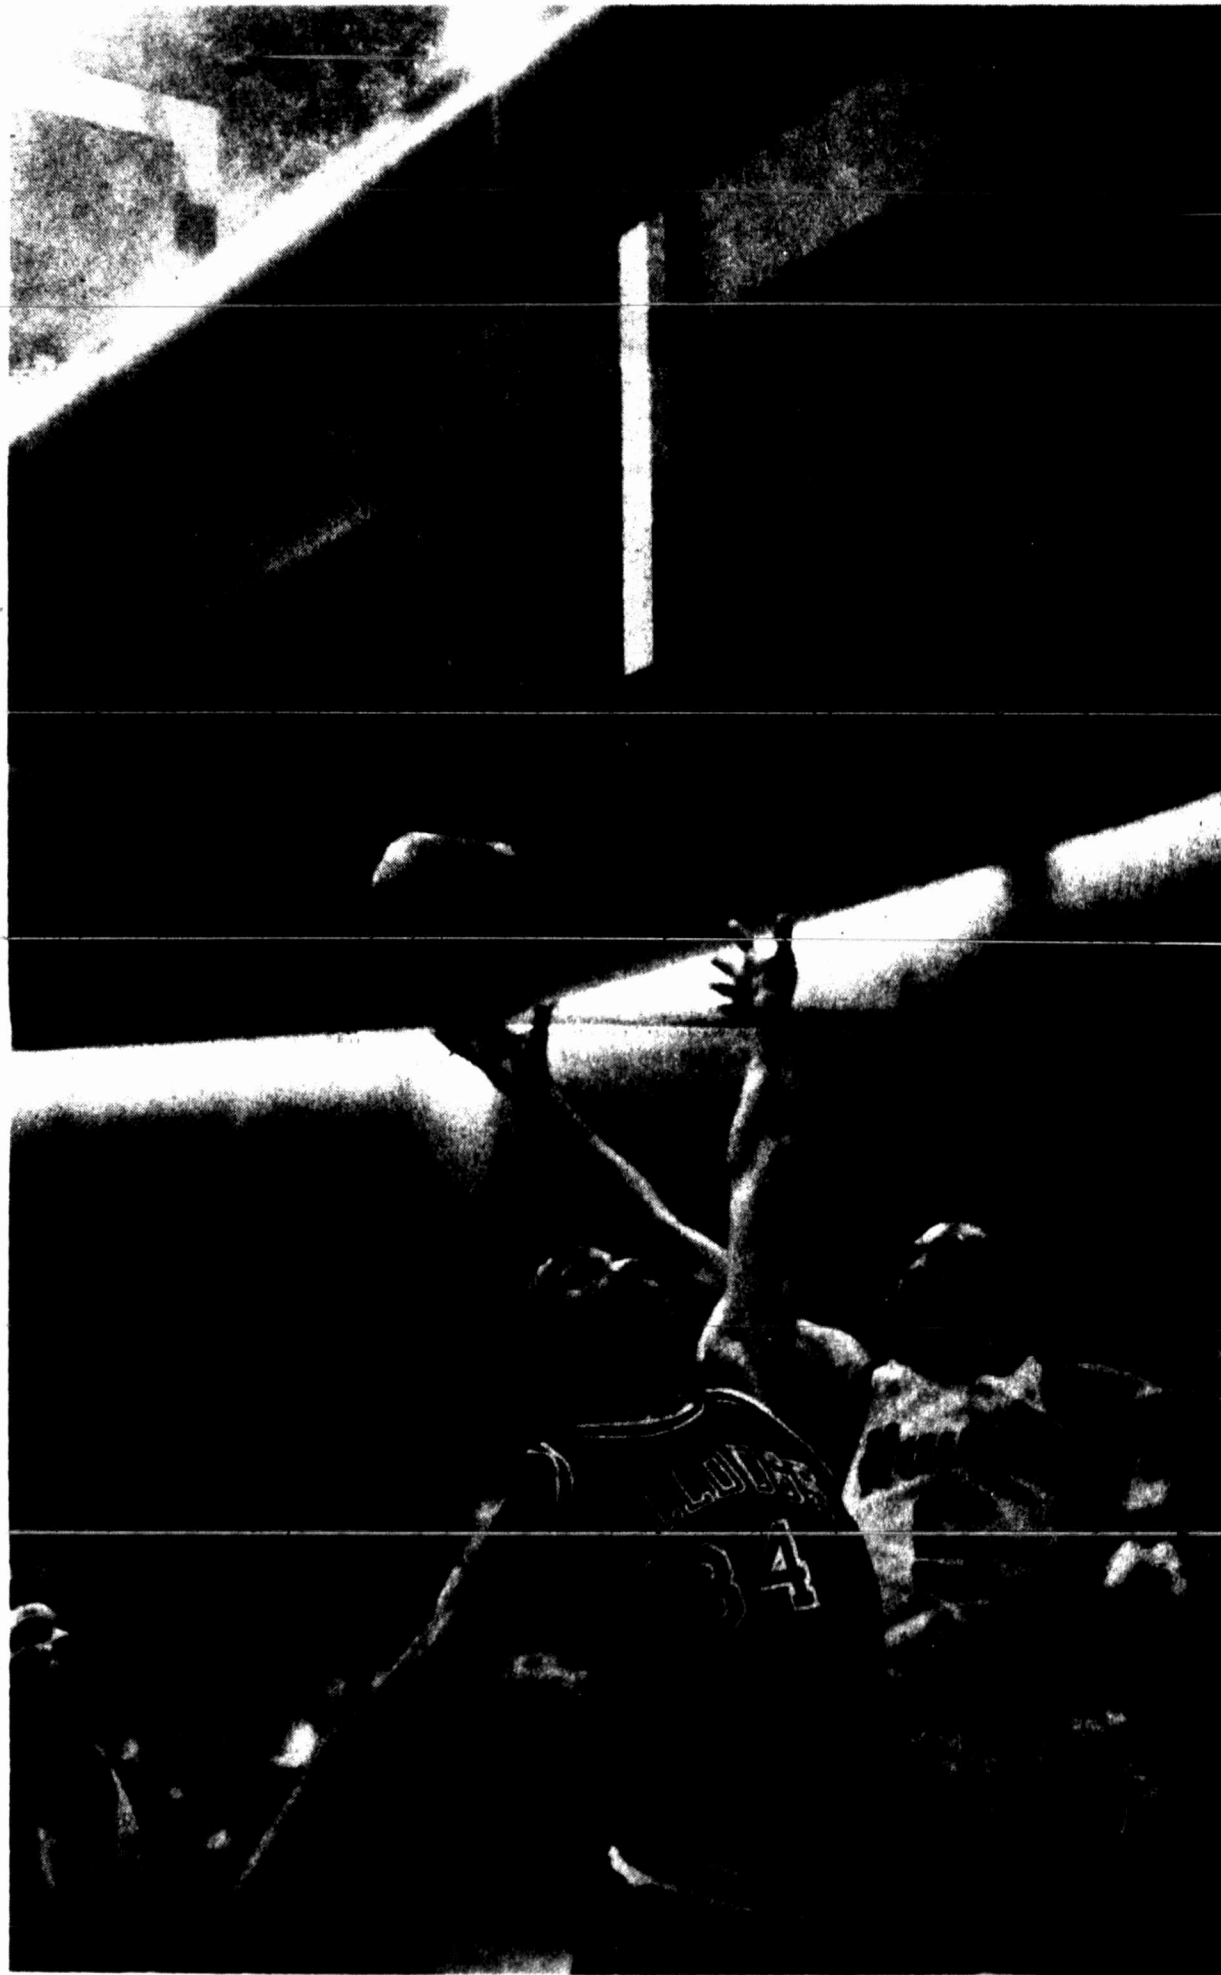

Torre, 46, a former catcher, infielder and manager who was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1971, said he did not think there was collusion among the owners, but added, "You have to think there is an understanding."

"When free agency started, they were signing players even if they didn't need them," he said. "Now they're paying guys who aren't even suiting up."

"The owners can't live that way any more."

Gibson, Roberts, Branca and Torre, along with Hall of Famer Lou Brock, 47, baseball's all-time major league stolen base leader, attended a news conference to help promote the 1987 Oldtimers Series.

The oldtimers will play a total of 26 games, one in each major league park, including the All-Star Game at Oakland July 12.

Three seeded netters fall

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Playing at top form became a prime topic as three seeded players lost and Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe prepared to take a shot at winning their fifth title at the U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

Top-seeded Mats Wilander was eliminated Wednesday by fellow Swede Jan Gunnarsson, 7-5, 7-6 (7-2), and Brad Gilbert, the No. 3 seed, went down to Australian Broderick Dyke, 7-6 (7-3), 6-7 (4-7), 6-4.

Lefthanded Ben Testerman used a backhand cross-court passing shot from behind the baseline to upset 12th-seeded Ramesh Krishnan of India, 6-0, 5-7, 6-4.

Connors, the No. 2 seed, defeated Spain's Sergio Casal, 6-2, 7-6 (7-2), and McEnroe ran off 15 straight points in defeating Mel Purcell, 6-2, 6-1.

"If I play my best, there's not a whole lot of guys who can beat me," McEnroe said.

No. 7 seed Tim Wilkison advanced, but not without a struggle. He fended off two match points by Christo Van Rensburg in the second set before rallying to win 4-6, 7-6 (7-5), 6-3.

Gilbert said he never reached his stride.

"I felt like the entire match I was struggling against myself. ... Usually I play well against baseliners, but I'd get up 15-40 and then play some sloppy points and lose the break."

"More than playing him, I was just just battling against myself," Gilbert said.

Wilander uncharacteristically refused to speak publicly after his match, earning a $1,000 fine for violating the players' code.

Gunnarsson said he last beat Wilander six years ago.

"It's one of my best victories," he said. "He's the highest ranked player I've ever beaten. It's a big day for me, I'm sorry that it was him I beat."

Gunnarsson acknowledged Wilander was not in top shape, failing to pass at the net in his usual form. Since returning from a two-month break in November, Wilander has played sparingly.

"Normally he will pass me," Gunnarsson said. "If they (passing shots) had been better, he probably would have beaten me. But usually I was there with my volley."

"My serve was working, too. He never broke my serve," Gunnarsson said.

Also reaching the third round was 11th-seeded Jakob Hlasek, a member of the Swiss Davis Cup team, who won from lefthanded Danie Visser of South Africa, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Sixteenth-seeded Amos Mansdorf of Israel eliminated talented 16-year-old amateur Martin Blackman 6-4, 6-2.

Baylor croaks Frogs, 66-63

WACO (AP)—Now the Texas Christian Horned Frogs know how the 1981-1982 Texas Longhorns felt. Texas was fifth-ranked six years ago. TCU was 15th ranked Wednesday night.

In both cases, 14-game winning streaks were shattered by the Baylor Bears in Heart O' Texas Coliseum.

In other SWC games Wednesday, Texas Tech beat Rice 79-63 and Texas defeated Arkansas 78-73.

The win gives the Red Raiders a record of 12-9 overall and 7-3 in conference play and drops the Owls, with their fourth straight loss, to 7-14 overall and 1-9 in conference play. Texas rises to 11-2 overall and 4-6 in SWC play, while Arkansas falls to 13-10 and 4-6.

TCU went into Wednesday's game with a perfect Southwest Conference mark of 9-0, the longest winning streak in the school's history, and a No. 15 national ranking.

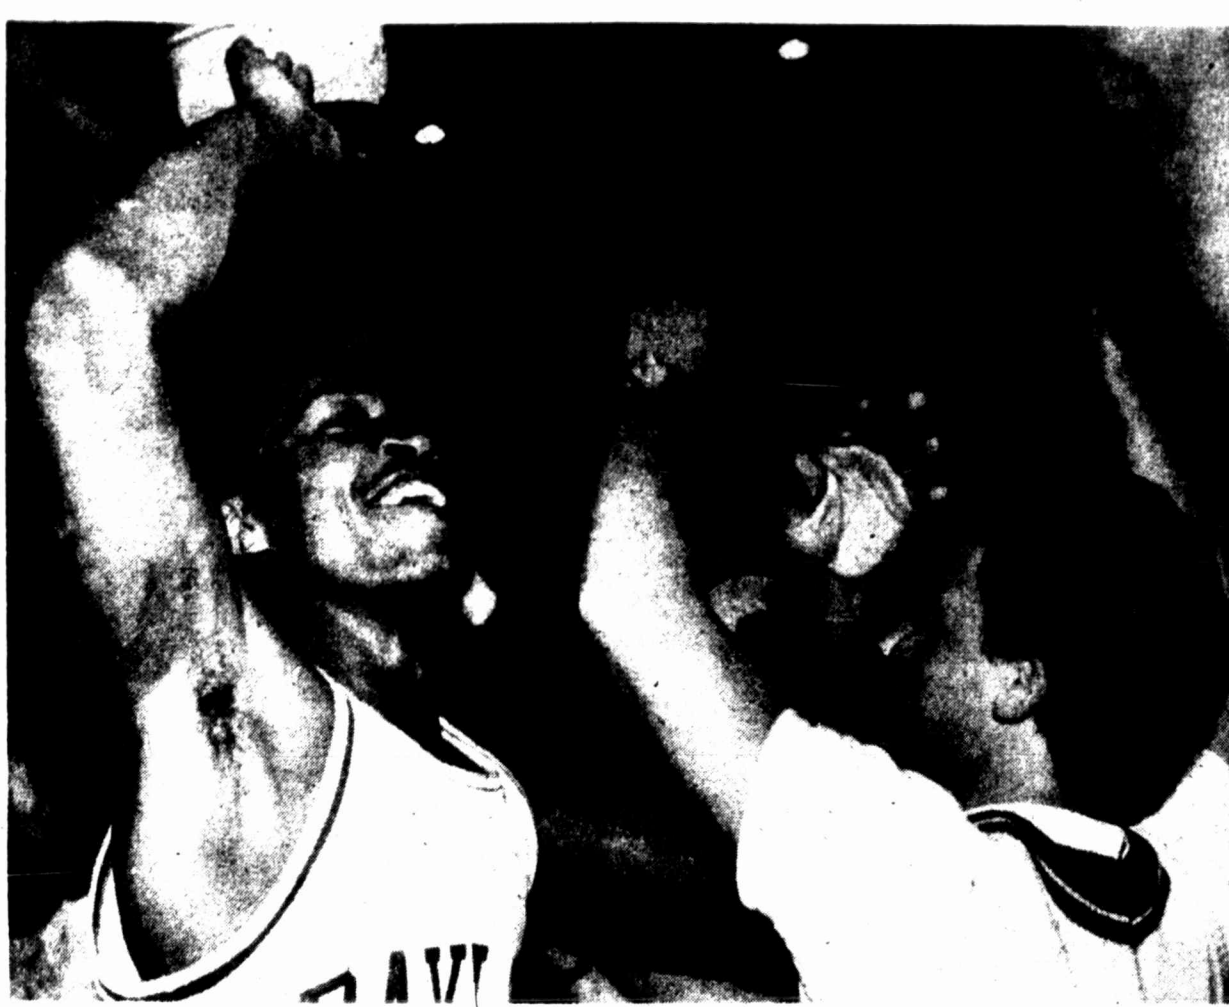

Five seasons ago, Abe Lemon's Longhorns were stunned 69-59 after center Mike Wacker broke his leg in the first half.

TCU starting center Tony Papa stayed at home Wednesday with the flu, and the Horned Frogs fell 66-63 before 8,294 fans as Michael Williams scored four late baskets including a slam dunk with a second left.

TCU leads the SWC by two games over Baylor and Texas Tech. The Frogs must travel to College Station on Sunday.

"We just waited too long to get started," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "We let them take the boards away from us and we didn't play very quick."

"Baylor should be happy," said TCU guard Carven Holcombe. "We mainly just beat ourselves by not being ourselves. We just weren't the same team out there tonight." TCU only shot 43 per cent from the field compared to 54 per cent for Baylor, the best a team has shot against the Horned Frogs this year.

"I can't honestly say this is the biggest win in my coaching career, but it's certainly the most important since I've been at Baylor," said Bears' Coach Gene Iba. "TCU is very, very good. They showed that by coming back strong."

"They did everything they needed to do to win except take care of the ball at the end of the game."

TCU suffered its first SWC loss in 10 games and dropped to 19-4 overall. The Bears improved to 7-3 and 12-8.

"Both teams played great pressure defense," Iba said. "I was very proud of our defense." Williams finished with 15 points for Baylor while Jamie Dixon had a game-high 23 points for the Horned Frogs.

"I thought I was fouled down there at the end of the game," Dixon said. "I waited for a whistle but they just didn't call anything."

Killingsworth said the Frogs missed the 6-foot-9 Papa. The team two weeks ago also lost Carl Lott, who suffered a broken finger.

Kings show why they're one of the NBA's worst

By The Associated Press
The Sacramento Kings were perfect in the first quarter — or maybe that should read imperfect. Actually, they were perfectly imperfect.

The lowly Kings showed why they are one of the worst teams in the NBA with a record-setting display of futility. And at least one of their records will never be broken — a first-quarter shooting percentage of .000 — 0-for-18 — as they fell behind the Los Angeles Lakers 40-4 in after 12 minutes. The final score was 128-92.

"The first time I looked at the score it was 22-0," said Los Angeles forward A.C. Green, who scored 12 of his 16 points during the Lakers' unprecedented 29-0 run at the start of the game. "I was out there hustling and playing as hard as I could. I never noticed that they hadn't Ron Harper's career-high 40-point performance.

With the score 87-87, Boston's Dennis Johnson hit a jumper from the top of the key to put the Celtics in front to stay and Bird followed with a 20-footer. After Harper made a layup, McHale was credited with a basket on a goaltending call and Bird scored on a turnaround baseline shot. The Celtics are 22-1 at home.

"The All-Star break couldn't come at a better time," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said. "We were on vacation in the second half. Our bodies were there, but our minds were already packed for the All-Star break."

Mavericks 124, SuperSonics 94
Coach Dick Motta still squirms when Dallas is mentioned among the NBA's elite teams. But he couldn't ignore the fact that the Mavericks became the third team to win 30 games this season, joining the Lakers (35) and Celtics (34).

"We're 14 games above .500 (30-16), and that's better than I would have predicted before the season," Motta said. "I guess our record surprises me more than the way we've played."

"Our chemistry is better and Detlef Schrempf and James Donaldson have improved from last year. And I think we've picked up a few wins that we didn't expect because of injuries to other teams in the division."

All-Stars Mark Aguirre and Orlando Blackman scored 23 and 18 points, respectively, as the Mavericks completed their best pre-All-Star showing in the history of the franchise, charging to a 28-point lead in the second quarter.

76ers 121, Nets 95
Julius Erving scored 28 points and helped Philadelphia open a 22-point first-half lead as the 76ers handed the hapless Nets their seventh straight loss. The 76ers broke the game open with 20-6 run during a five-minute stretch in the first and second quarters that gave them a 40-22 lead.

The 28 points was one less than Erving's season high and the 11-time NBA All Star did not play in the fourth quarter. The 26-point loss was the worst for the Nets this season.

Alford guns in 42 points; Hoosiers edge Spartans

By The Associated Press
Indiana Coach Bob Knight used eight players in the Hoosiers' victory over Michigan State. Three escaped the coach's wrath; the rest are in for a change.

Steve Alford scored a career-high 42 points, setting an Assembly Hall scoring record, as the No. 2 Hoosiers beat the Spartans 84-80 for their first victory over Michigan State in Bloomington since the 1982-83 season.

The victory gave Indiana an 18-2 record and allowed it to keep a one-game lead over Iowa in the Big Ten with a 9-1 mark. However, Knight was still upset with most of the team.

"We won this because Steve us at the end."

The Hoosiers led 72-59 with 8:58 remaining but the Spartans, 6-12 and 3-7, outscored Indiana 10-2 over the next 5:14 to close within five. But Alford made eight free throws over the final 1:51 to secure the victory.

"I thought Alford played better tonight than any other game we've played against him," Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote said. "He scored 33 the first game (this season), 42 this game, and maybe he would have scored 50 if we played them again. Steve Alford does it all on smarts, moving well and he has just a great, great shooting touch."

Vernon Carr led Michigan State with 25 points, 17 in the second half, while Darryl Johnson had 21.

Heathcote didn't want Alford on the foul line at the end of the game.

No. 4 Iowa 78, Minnesota 47

Iowa used its pressure defense and depth to crush the visiting Golden Gophers and improve its record to 20-2.

Roy Marble scored 12 of his 14 points in the first half as the Hawkeyes took a 51-27 halftime lead and improved to 8-2 in the Big Ten. Freshman forward Jim Shikenski came off the bench to lead Minnesota, 9-11 and 2-8, with 13 points.

No. 8 Oklahoma 80, Nebraska 66
The Sooners earned their ninth straight victory and stayed in a first-place tie in the Big Eight with Kansas. Harvey Grant scored 22 and David Johnson added 16 for visiting Oklahoma, 18-3 and 6-1, which led by at least nine points throughout the second half.

The Cornhuskers, 12-8 and 2-5, were led by Brian Carr and Anthony Bailous with 15 points each.

No. 9 Alabama 76, Mississippi State 55

Alabama used a 15-2 run at the start of the second half to erase a 31-24 halftime deficit. Mark Gottfried made three 3-pointers in the run and the senior guard had six long jumpers in the second half for all of his points to lead the visiting Crimson Tide, 17-3 and 10-1, who lead the Southeastern Conference.

Hubert Henderson led the Bulldogs, 5-15 and 1-10, with 12 points.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 6, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today finds it necessary for you to use special care in understanding all the practical aspects of whatever comes to your attention. Be reasonable and intelligent.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go over every aspect of your practical affairs. Be with creative individuals who can be of assistance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can gain what you desire in various ways. Consider them well but don't take any action yet.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may find it hard to gain your intimate aims at this time, so map out a plan for future use.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Steer clear of the individuals who waste your time or cause you to spend too much money.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Put aside civic duties for a while since you have other important duties to perform. Show your ethical side today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study those new ideas well before you put them in operation. Be most careful while walking or driving.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to handle promises you have made in a most quiet and sure manner, otherwise trouble could ensue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Outside associates could try to trap you into following a course you do not like, so be careful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you plan your time carefully you can get much accomplished, especially at the office.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure you count the cost of some amusement before you partake in the festivities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to be more cooperative at home if you are to avoid friction there. Be with persons you trust tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be careful when communicating with others or there can be much trouble. Try not to lose your temper.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very magnetic but will also have prejudiced ideas that should be discouraged, otherwise little accord can be gained with others. Be sure to give as fine an education as you can afford and add psychology courses so that your progeny will understand others.

Army National Guard Private Tony A. Pike, son of Jerry R. and Cleta B. Pike of 163A Garden City Route, has completed the basic field training artillery cannoneer course under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the course, students were taught the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman. They also received instruction in communications, maintenance and the handling of ammunition and explosives.

OSUT is a program that combines basic training with advanced individual training.

Army Spec. 4 Sandra J. Thamez, daughter of Rev. Joseph M. and Teresa L. Thamez of Snyder, has arrived for duty with the 2nd Armored Division, Fort Hood.

Thamez is a food service specialist.

Airman William P. Overhulser, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Overhulser Jr. of Snyder, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aerospace ground equipment mechanic course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

During the course, students were taught to repair generators, gas turbines and hydraulic pumping equipment. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the grandson of Vivian Crutcher of Snyder.

Navy Seaman Recruit Tracy A. Stone, son of Johnnie R. and Janet M. Stone of Lamesa, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Stone's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Stone's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

Marine Pvt. Raymond L. Goswick, son of Joyce W. Goswick of Ira, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, Goswick was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Army Private Henry A. Bergara, son of Andres R. Bergara of Austin and Maria A. Bergara of Lamesa, has completed the basic field artillery cannoneer course under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the course, students were taught the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman. They also received instruction in communications, maintenance and the handling of ammunition and explosives.

OSUT is a program that combines basic training with advanced individual training.

Army Sgt. 1st Class Florentina A. Doportto Jr., brother of Jose A. Doportto of 710 N.W. Seventh Street, Big Spring, and Carolyn Arguijo of Fort Worth, has arrived for duty with the 3rd Infantry Division, West Germany.

Doportto is an air defense gunnery member.

Lawmakers battle out highway bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans may have a 65 mph speed limit and improved highways and mass transit systems in their future, but the House, Senate and President Reagan will have to perfect a three-way balancing act to get there.

The Senate approved a $65.4 billion, four-year package of highway and mass transit assistance Wednesday. But before the money can reach the states and cities, some dramatic differences with a $91 billion, five-year House bill must be smoothed over, and Reagan — who believes the measures are too expensive — must be faced.

Last fall, differences between the House and Senate scuttled transportation assistance and left states clamoring for the aid.

Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, said he did not know what could be done about the president's objections. "We'll have to finish that the best we can," he said.

The measure passed the Senate 96-2. Sens. William Armstrong, R-Colo., and William Roth Jr., R-Del., voted against passage, while Sens. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., and Joseph Biden Jr., D-Del., did not vote.

"A vote of 96-2 sends us to conference with courage and conviction," said an optimistic Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., "and we shall return not on our heels but with them, and with some highway programs which this country very much needs, and some mass transit programs as well."

It has not yet been determined when the House-Senate conferees might meet, but the lawmakers will have much work to do before they can send a bill to the White House.

The House bill would authorize about $71 billion for highways, roads and bridges, and about $20 billion for mass transit.

The Senate measure authorizes $13 billion for mass transit and $52.4 billion for highways.

The Senate version would let states increase speed limits to 65 mph on interstate highways outside urban areas with populations of at least 50,000 people. According to the office of Sen. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, who sponsored that provision, that could allow the higher speed limit on 33,910 of the 43,291 miles of interstates.

These road and bridge projects are opposed bitterly by Senate leaders, who say they needlessly drive up the cost of the measure.

Calls within Texas now cost less on AT&T Long Distance.

AT&T has just lowered the price of in-state Texas long distance 8 percent for residence and business customers.*
 Now, for example, a five-minute direct-dial daytime call (Monday to Friday, 8 AM to 5 PM) from Amarillo to Brownsville, Houston to El Paso, Dallas to Austin, Dallas to San Antonio, Dallas to Houston or San Antonio to Amarillo costs only $1.86.

We've also lowered the price of in-state AT&T WATS 29 percent and lowered the price of in-state AT&T 800 Service approximately 20 percent.

But that's not the whole story. Since 1984, we've lowered prices 30 percent overall on direct-dial state-to-state AT&T long distance calls. Yet we're still giving you the clear long distance connections and full-service long distance operators you've come to expect from AT&T. Still giving you the best value in long distance by providing you with the most advanced and reliable long distance network in the world.

For information on AT&T Long Distance Service, just call us at 1 800 222-0300 (residence customers) or 1 800 222-0400 (business customers).
