Teary goodbye

TAMPA, Fla. — Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf shed tears Friday as he relinquished command of the forces he led to war. Schwarzkopf handed over the reins of the U.S. Central Command at MacDill Air Force Base amid much pomp.

"Old war horses like me look behind me and see the magnificent leaders ready to move up and take his place," said the 56-year-old Schwarzkopf, who wiped tears from his eyes several times. The tribute closed an Army career that began at West Point and ranged from battalion commander in Vietnam to architect of the 100-hour lightning ground assault that vanquished Iraq.

Medal for mettle

Yitzhak Shamir, Israel's prime minister, has received the Man of the Year Award from Muscle Training Illustrated. Dan Lurie, a former body builder and the magazine's publisher, said Friday, "We picked him because he had the strength to stay out of the Persian Gulf war." He presented the award to the surprised Shamir in Jerusalem last month, giving him a plaque and a mock-up magazine cover with Shamir's face on a body builder's body.

Legislator launches filibuster of lottery

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate gave tentative approval Friday night to legislation that could allow creation of a state lottery. But final passage was stalled by a filibuster.

Moments after senators gave the proposed constitutional amendment a preliminary OK, voting 24-7, Sen. John Leedom launched into a filibuster he said would last for some time.

"I'm going to talk for quite a while," Leedom, R-Dallas, told his colleagues before starting his filibuster at 6:57 p.m.

Leedom, a longtime lottery opponent, said the numbers game isn't a good way to fund state government.

Law's gun purchase met state, federal law

By Allen E. Howland
Assistant City Editor

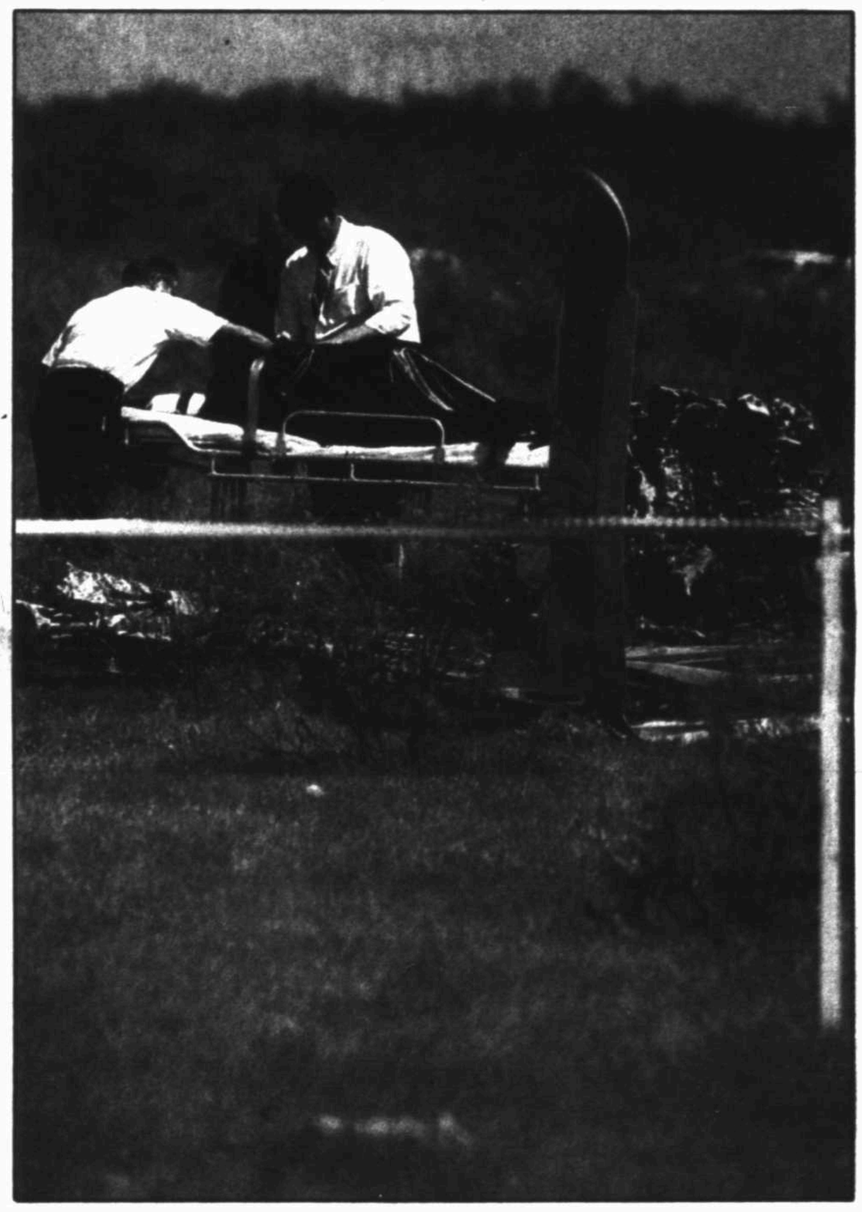

ODESSA — The price of life is immeasurable. For Richard Allen Law and his family, the cost of death was $157.85.

Just an hour before he fatally shot his wife, stepdaughter, two sons and himself Thursday morning, the 23-year-old Odessan paid cash for a Ruger .357 revolver and a box of hollow-point bullets at Permian Pawn shop at 2816 Andrews Highway, Odessa police investigators said Friday.

The transaction was fully within compliance with existing state and federal laws governing the sale of handguns, Deputy Chief of Police Barbara Gillis told reporters at a morning press briefing.

Law did not specifically request the .38 Special +P Hydra-Shok ammunition he bought, said detective Sgt. Jack White, who is oversee-

An airplane crash north of Midland Friday afternoon leaves one person — a Roswell, N.M. oilman — dead.

Fiery crash kills oilman

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

The aircraft apparently went just underneath a power line before hitting the ground, causing the fuel tank to rupture and explode into a ball of fire.

A 61-year-old Roswell, N.M., man died when the single-engine airplane he was flying crashed and exploded in north Midland a few feet from the Martin County border at about 1:30 p.m. Friday, authorities said.

Donald G. Stevens, owner of Stevens Oil Co. in Roswell, was en route to Midland Airpark from Roswell when the plane went down about two miles west of Highway 349 on the Bunton Estes Ranch, law enforcement officials said.

Cause of the crash remained under investigation Friday evening.

The Piper Lancer six-person aircraft with only Stevens on board was spotted as it went down by a ham radio operator driving north on Highway 349, Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter said at the scene.

Flying above the open field, the airplane descended at a steep angle then disappeared, followed by an explosion and smoke, according to officials who quoted the eyewitness.

The aircraft apparently went just underneath a power line before hitting the ground, causing the fuel tank to rupture and explode into a ball of fire, Painter said.

The plane then rolled tail over front, resting in the opposite direction of travel, Painter said.

Although the airplane was destined for Midland, it was traveling in a northwest direction just before the crash, Department of Public Safety officials said.

About the same time the witness reported the downed aircraft to a sheriff's deputy, a fellow ham radio operator, an emergency location transmitter notified the Airpark of the crash, officials said.

The burning wreckage was located by a law enforcement helicopter.

Because of the remote location, firefighters — dispatched at 1:35 p.m. — did not reach the scene until 1:57 p.m., fire officials said.

Remains of the airplane were spread out in an area about 100 by 100 yards.

Stevens was pronounced dead at about 2:52 p.m. at the scene by Justice of the Peace Keith Jobe. The body was taken to Ellis Funeral Home.

An autopsy was ordered which is standard procedure for airplane fatalities.

Federal Aviation Administration officials were conducting an investigation.

Agencies at the scene included the FAA, Department of Airports, the Midland County Sheriff's Office, the Midland Police Department, DPS and the Midland Fire Department.

Texans, Midlanders to vote on property-tax exemptions

■ School-finance reform prompts today's election concerning County Education Districts.

Staff Report

Texas voters today will decide the fate of two constitutional amendments and three County Education District (CED)propositions.

At stake is whether taxpayers will get additional exemptions on their school property taxes.

Voters will be asked if they want to give the new CEDs the authority to allow exemptions. The districts were formed as part of reform of the state school-funding sytem.

The new taxing entity (the Andrews-Midland CED) will collect and assess its own taxes.

The exemptions will not affect exemptions and freezes already in place.

State law already requires school districts to grant a $5,000 homestead exemption for homeowners and a $10,000 exemption for those who are disabled or

British press Israel to free its prisoners

LONDON (NYT) — With hopes for the release of other Western hostages in Lebanon clouded by the kidnapping of a French medical worker, Israel came under mounting pressure Friday to help break the stalemate by unilaterally freeing its Arab and Lebanese prisoners.

Officials of the British Foreign Ministry publicly urged Israel on Friday to release some of the more than 300 mostly Shiite prisoners held by Israel and its allies in south Lebanon.

In pressing Israel to act, a spokesman for the Foreign Office described the situation as "an opportunity not to be missed" in the wake of the release Thursday of John McCarthy, a British television newsman held hostage for more than five years.

At the United Nations, Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar told reporters that some Arab prisoners held by Israel's allies in South Lebanon "could be released" soon, and he stated that any such action by Israel "would be helpful."

But in Israel, officials said no unilateral release of Arab prisoners was being contemplated. Israel maintains there will

Friction builds over federal flood-insurance program

■ County may opt not to participate in national flood-insurance program, county engineer says.

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

A potential storm is brewing in Midland County over federal regulations involving flood insurance, according to a speaker at Friday's joint luncheon of the Women Realtors Council and the Midland Board of Realtors.

The differences between the two entities — the federal government and Midland County — are expected to heat up next month as a revised 100-year floodplain map for Midland becomes official and takes effect Sept. 27.

While the city plans to participate on a regular basis in the flood-insurance program beginning Sept. 27, the county will no longer do so "if we don't update our ordinances," said County Engineer Bill Harrell.

He added: "The county attorney and county judge don't want to expose the county to the liabilities of certifying whether or not someone lives in a flood plain. Also, the county doesn't want to go to the expense of developing building ordinances and establishing a permit division. The people in the county don't want that, either."

The problem, however, is Congress has declared only participating communities can get flood insurance, and, as a result, residents cannot get housing loans that are federally funded, insured or guaranteed unless the community participates, Susan Ivy, marketing representative with the National Flood Insurance Program, told Realtors Friday.

And if the community — in this case, unincorporated Midland County — is not in compliance, mortgage loans in that area are declared illegal and the lender fined.

"Too, officials won't be able to determine in the future whether or not a building is built to code because there won't be a code. And, in the event of a

Bullock: Government shutdown 'close' if budget talks fail

AUSTIN (AP) — As House and Senate budget writers worked into the night Friday to finalize a state spending plan, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock raised the spectre of a government shutdown if a budget-and-tax deal can't be reached.

"I am very afraid we're getting close to it. We've just got to keep on plugging," Bullock said.

The current special session ends at midnight Tuesday. If lawmakers fail to adopt a budget and taxes to fund it by then, the work starts over.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, was more upbeat, saying lawmakers were making "real good progress" and the chances of finishing were "about 50-50 at this point. We'll go down to the wire, probably."

Gov. Ann Richards, who says she likely will call the next session for Wednesday if needed, also voiced hopes that lawmakers can finish now.

"I keep thinking that we still have a shot at it," she said, adding that even tax opposition might fall.

"I think everybody's ready to leave. I think they've worked so hard, and the fatigue level is pretty high, that people are going to be pretty amenable to the tax (increase) bill," Richards said.

■ Senate panel adopts 'mishmash' tax plan/5A

The state's current two-year budget expires Aug. 31.

But Bullock said another deadline is bearing down on lawmakers. He said Aug. 20 is the last date for Texas' 1,050 public school districts — which rely on considerable state aid — to complete their budgets.

"Aug. 20 is the last day for school districts to prepare a budget. We do not have the luxury today of waiting much longer," Bullock said.

Lawmakers face a projected $4.8 billion deficit for funding all services at present levels in the 1992 and 1993 budget years.

The chief House budget writer, Rep. Jim Rudd, said negotiators hoped to finish a budget for Senate consideration by midnight Friday or early Saturday to allow time for lawmakers to consider it before the session's end.

"I think there's a good chance we can finish it," said Rudd, D-Brownfield. "Whether we can pass both (chambers), I don't know."

At the same time, the Senate Finance Committee approved a $2.1 billion tax tax increase designed to pay for the budget.

The House early Tuesday rejected all but $30 million of a $3.3 billion tax proposal.

Bullock has offered a lengthy list of more than $2.1 billion in new taxes — including higher sales taxes on motor vehicles, expanding the sales tax to amusement machines and some other items, a higher cigarette tax and other levies.

The lieutenant governor Thursday night met with several high-powered special interest lobbyists trying to convince them not to fight the tax plan.

Rare, cool August day on tap

Staff Report

The cool days of summer have been gracing West Texas with showers and thunderstorms.

And while prospects for more rain this weekend are 30 percent today and 20 percent on Sunday, temperatures are to be pleasant enough.

The weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport is forecasting a high temperature in the mid-80s for today and in the low 90s on Sunday. The skies are to be cloudy.

Tonight's low temperature is to be in the mid-60s.

Winds today are to be easterly to northeasterly at 5 to 15 mph.

Friday's peak temperature was 85 degrees, and overnight low temperature was 66 degrees.

The record high temperature for Aug. 9 is 104 degrees in 1947.

The record low temperature for Aug. 10 is 60 degrees in 1966.

STATE

A cold front invading North Texas triggered scattered thunderstorms Friday afternoon. The storms, some severe, developed rapidly under cloudy skies.

It was cloudy along and north of the cold front mainly over Northwest Texas and along the Red River. Partly to mostly cloudy skies were common elsewhere. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms dampened the Hill Country and southeast sections of South Texas as well as the middle and upper coast.

However, strong wind gusts were reported in and near the vicinity of the thunderstorms. Waco had gusts to 50 miles an hour. Pea-sized hail pelted Sulphur Springs.

Temperatures ranged from the 70s to the 90s.

Forecasters expected clouds to linger and thunderstorms to increase over the weekend. Temperatures were expected to be slightly cooler with highs in the 80s and 90s. Lows were expected in the 50s to 70s.

NATION

Showers and thunderstorms spread over much of the United States Friday, flooding streets at rush-hour in Pennsylvania and downing power lines in West Virginia. Most of the West and the northern Plains were spared a soaking.

Rain and electrical storms extended from the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Atlantic coast and also hit the northern shores of Florida.

Heavier rainfall totals for the six-hour period that ended at 2 p.m. EDT included 2.17 inches at Wilmington, Del., 1.70 inches at Utica, N.Y., and 1.56 inches at Syracuse, N.Y.

Thunderstorms dumped 4.5 inches of rain on parts of West Virginia from 11 p.m. EDT on Thursday and 2 p.m. EDT, and knocked out power to more than 10,000 homes and businesses. Authorities reported no major flooding.

Associated Press contributed to this report.

MET: Gun buy complied with state, federal law

(From 1A)

ing the investigation of the tragic incident. White said the store manager, Marlon Smith, told police he described several types of ammunition to Law before he made the decision to buy the 20-count box of hollow-pointed bullets.

White described the bullets as "designed for minimum penetration and maximum expansion ... to do the most damage."

Death was "virtually instantaneous" for each of the five victims, who were each shot once in the head — all in the right temple except 22-month-old Robert Lee Law who was shot in the base of the skull, Ms. Gillis said.

The other victims of the late morning shooting were 20-year-old Teresa Gail Law, 3-year-old Richard Allen "Ricky" Law II and 4-year-old Kyndra Sue Maxwell, Mrs. Law's daughter who police said was apparently mentally and physically handicapped.

The five bodies were discovered shortly after 10:30 a.m. Thursday by family friend Billy Butler, who had gone to a nearby convenience store 10 minutes earlier. Butler, who had known Mrs. Law for eight years and her husband for at least six years, had been living with the family for about a month, police said.

Lead investigator in the case Cpl. Rick Pippins said that all evidence gathered at the scene was consistent with the murder-suicide scenario, including trace amounts of gunpowder on Law's hand.

"The only way is if he had sought help for himself," Ms. Gillis said of speculation on how the tragedy might have been prevented.

Sunday night, Odessa officers transported Law to the Big Spring State Hospital on an emergency detention warrant from Ector County.

Law told police he had cut himself on the neck with a knife and said he had tried to find a gun to kill himself in front of his wife, who had told him she was leaving him. Although Law told officers he had attempted suicide twice before, Ms. Gillis said there was no evidence in local public safety agency records of those attempts.

At no time did Law threaten violence against anyone but himself, according to witness and police reports.

The detention warrant was issued on the basis of Law's potential danger to himself, police said.

After two days of tests, hospital officials told state District Judge Ben Lockhart of Big Spring on Wednesday that they could no longer justify holding him against his will. The judge ordered Law released.

He rode the bus back to Odessa, arriving at the family's rented home at 1222 Pueblo about 1 p.m. Wednesday. Law and his wife discussed their separation that afternoon and again about 7:15 p.m., when Donald Wasson, with whom Mrs. Law had "a relationship," came to the house, reports indicate.

"Teresa stated she wanted to move ahead with the separation and Richard agreed to move out of the house," police said in a prepared relase. "Richard told Donald he 'did not have anything against him, that he had been stuck in the middle.'

"Teresa took Donald to his residence and returned home. There was no argument and the problem seemed to be resolved," according to the police statement.

Shortly before 9:30 a.m. Thursday Butler helped Law replace the battery in his car and Law left the house without saying anything, police reported.

Law drove to the North Odessa pawn shop where he routinely completed the procedure for buying a handgun "for home security reasons," White said.

Asked if the questions currently asked of potential gun owners are adequate, Ms. Gillis replied, "If somebody's gonna walk in and lie, they're gonna lie," regardless of the questions.

Police paraphrased the eight questions to which Law answered "no," when purchasing the blue Service Six model Ruger as:

- Are you under indictment?
- Have you been convicted of a crime?
- Are you a fugitive from justice?
- Are you an unlawful user of drugs?
- Have you been committed to a mental institution?
- Have you received a honorable discharge?
- Are you an illegal alien?
- Have you renounced your citizenship?

On the issue of mandatory waiting periods for handgun purchasers, Ms. Gillis said that under a Brady bill-type law, "He certainly would not have bought the gun on the day he did."

"But whether that would have prevented these tragic events, there is no way of knowing."

Several aspects of the police investigation of the shooting are ongoing, including toxicology reports from the Department of Public Safety forensic laboratory, which are not expected to be complete for four to six weeks, Ms. Gillis said.

Police confirmed they had evidence that Law had admitted he was "a moderate user of marijuana," and that medications were prescribed during his stay in the state hospital.

FRICTION: Officials fear exposure to liability used for recovery," she added.

County Commissioner Guy McCrary said the commissioners are concerned about the situation, but insisted that the county cannot afford to comply with federal regulations. "It's less a situation of us pulling out (of the program) as it is a matter of the required regulations were way out of reason. It would have cost megabucks for the county to be in compliance, and there was some question as to whether we would ever be in compliance, even with an infusion of money."

He noted that the commissioners held hearings on the subject several months ago and received no evidence of public concern, and that the commissioners "have not been apprised of any penalties or problems by federal authorities. If we have erred in our thinking, we can revisit the question."

Despite Midland's location in a relatively arid part of the state, Midland does have floods, said Renee Franks with the City of Midland. She told Realtors that there are 2,000 parcels within city limits located on a flood plain.

After a dispute with the Corps of Engineers over its previous flood-plain map for the city, drawn in 1988, Ms. Franks said the corps has presented a new map similar to one drawn by the city engineer.

"We feel this map is not inaccurate and we accept it. Of course, the map's not final. No water-plain map is ever final. Developers can change flooding scenarios with new developments, the city could build a new drainage ditch as we are in southeast Midland, or a new metropolis could spring up nearby."

She said the city must enforce a number of regulations required by the Federal Emergency Management Agency in order to make flood insurance available to residents.

The city will not permit construction in a floodway — which carries the bulk of flood waters through an area — of anything that could impede the water's movement, such as a house or brick fence.

Residences in a flood plain must be elevated above the level flood waters are expected to hit during a 100-year flood. Commercial buildings on a flood plain can waterproof the building to that level.

She pointed out that, "Just because it's called a 100-year flood plain doesn't mean a flood happens only every 100 years. A storm that causes a 100-year flood can happen anytime. The city is making sure no new problems happen.

"We don't want another 'Rio Wadley,' or a Northwest Drainage Channel with no room for expansion. We have an advisor helping us develop a master flood plan, and developers of new developments must prove they won't flood their new neighbors before we permit them."

Roy Sedwick, regional vice president with the National Flood Certification Services, told Realtors that "Just because a property is in a flood plain doesn't mean it will flood. When I was working with the state, 35 percent of our claims were for properties outside a flood-plain area. The key point is, because a property is in a flood plain, if it meets standards it should be elevated properly and should be safe."

Added Ms. Ivy of the NFIP: "Our goal is to keep people from building in flood-plain areas or flood-prone areas. Or, if they do, that they build higher than the water will go. There is a 1 percent chance per year that a house will flood over the 30-year life of its mortgage. That's 30 percent. There's a less than 1 percent chance of a fire over the life of that 30-year mortgage. Yet no one questions buying fire insurance."

Areas within a flood zone have a one and 100 chance annually of experiencing a major flood. The last 100-year flood to strike Midland occurred in 1968.

LOTTERY: Lawmaker plans 40-hour filibuster

(From 1A)

"I just don't think that Texas is going to be benefited by turning to gambling as a source of revenue," he said.

The lottery measure won passage from the House on Monday, the first time that chamber has approved it after eight unsuccessful tries since 1983.

If the Senate agrees, the issue would go to voters on Nov. 5.

"We've debated this now for what, seven or eight years? It's time," said Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, in offering the proposal to senators.

"The issue here is whether or not you feel the people of Texas are competent to decide," Montford said.

Montford said a lottery would raise about $471 million for the 1992-93 state budget and nearly $800 million in 1994-95. That's not enough to forestall a tax increase, but it would mean a lower tax hike, he said.

"It will take out a rather large chunk that we would otherwise need, but it is not going to solve all our problems," he said. "This is not the answer to our fiscal woes."

Three amendments failed, including one — on a 21-10 vote — that would prohibit the use of state funds and other funds generated from lottery proceeds to promote or advertise a lottery.

Sen. Bill Ratliff, who sponsored the amendment, said after a few years people "begin to find out that this is an illusive dream, that they're not going to win any big money. And the interest drops off, so the state of Texas will be in a position of having to entice people to throw their money away."

"The odds of these people becoming millionaires in a lottery are about as great as the odds of them finding a million dollars in the gutter," said Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant.

Leedom, at 70 years of age, is Texas' oldest state senator. But during the day Friday, he distributed a printed schedule that should test any senator's stamina.

The schedule called for a 40-hour filibuster, which would approach the Texas Senate record of 43 hours.

At the time, 1977, that was a world record.

Leedom also released copies of a letter from Dr. Carey King Jr., a Dallas physician, who said Leedom had been examined on June 18. "He has no impairments of health which interfere with vigorous daily activities," the physician's letter said.

Leedom said he had engaged in three previous filibusters. His longest lasted 12 hours.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock called for order in the noisy chamber as Leedom began speaking, but the senator said he was like an entertainer "who keeps on talking while the crowd talks."

An hour glass, marking time, had been placed on his desk.

Tip leads to arrests of 8 at Midland home

Staff Report

Eight people were arrested and about $2,020 of crack cocaine was confiscated after a search warrant was executed at a Midland home about 4:15 p.m. Friday, according to a sheriff's officer.

Six adult and two juveniles remained jailed Friday pending arraignment.

In addition to the crack — 101 rocks total — officers seized about $1,000 in currency at the residence in the 1600 block of N. Lamesa Road.

The bust was a result of a Midland Crime Stoppers tip, the officer said.

Corrections

Hours for immunizations at the Midland Health Department for the month of August are 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Fridays and from 1-4 p.m. on Mondays.

In September, the schedule will return to its usual Monday only hours. The schedule was misidentified in Friday's edition.

The grand prize in this weekend's aluminum recycling drive benefitting the Permian Basin Vietnam Veterans' Memorial includes a ZZ Top compact disk autographed by the band. It will be awarded on Tuesday to the individual who brings the most cans to either the Midland collection site or to Odessa's Time Machine.

Donors also earn an entry per pound in a drawing for a pair of tickets to the Texas rockers' Aug. 14 concert at Ector County Coliseum. That drawing also will be Tuesday.

The Reporter-Telegram regrets the errors.

ISRAEL: British foreign minister presses Israel to break stalemate be no freedom for any Arab or Palestinian prisoners that it has captured in Lebanon, including Sheik Abdel Karen Obeid, a radical Shiite leader who was seized by Israeli commandos in 1989, unless the exchange involved seven Israeli servicemen missing since the Israeli invasion of Lebanon in 1982.

(From 1A)

Referring directly to Perez de Cuellar's remarks that some prisoners could be set free, Uri Lubrani, the Defense Ministry official who oversees Israeli activities in Lebanon, said, "I'm sorry to say that nothing conducive to such hopes has occurred."

The question of a prisoner exchange has assumed greater urgency since McCarthy revealed he was carrying a letter from his captors that apparently asks the United Nations to help broker an exchange of Western hostages for the Arab prisoners in Israeli hands.

Perez de Cueller will stop in England on Sunday to meet with McCarthy and receive the letter, the exact details of which have not been made public. McCarthy spent the day at a British Air Force base in southern England, where he underwent medical checkups and met with family and friends. He was also debriefed by government officials.

In the days leading to his release, hope grew for a breakthrough in the hostage standoff and there were expectations of freedom for at least some of the other 11 Westerners held in Lebanon. Prominent on that list was American journalist Terry A. Anderson, captive for more than six years.

Those hopes are now clouded by conflicting statements and by confirmation of another hostage-taking in Lebanon.

In Beirut, a Shiite splinter group made clear that it held Jerome Leyraud, a French medical aid worker seized Thursday just hours after McCarthy was set free.

His captors, who identified themselves as the Organization for Defending Prisoners' and Hostages' Rights, threatened to kill him if any more Western captives were released. His capture restored the number of Western hostages in Lebanon to 12.

But Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, who is the spiritual mentor of pro-Iranian Shiite Muslims and has a strong influence over groups holding Western hostages in Lebanon, issued a strong public denunciation of the kidnapping Friday and demanded that Leyraud's captors immediately free him.

VOTE: Propositions concern exemptions

(From 1A)

are 65 or older.

The first amendment allows voters to make decisions concerning the three propositions. Voting against the first amendment will turn decisions over to the Andrews-Midland CED.

The second amendment will authorize the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to issue bonds to fund ailing state student loan programs. The student loan borrowers, not the taxpayers, will pay back the bonds.

The three propositions concern tax exemptions for the CED only.

The most controversial proposition (Proposition No. 1 on Midland and Andrews County ballots) would tax personal property, including automobiles, recreational vehicles and airplanes. Voting against the first amendment will nullify voting against Proposition No. 1 since the first amendment gives voters the authority to decide on the exemptions which are included in the three propositions.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. today in the joint Constitutional/County Education District election.

Persons should bring their voting certificates if available. Polling places, listed by precinct, follow:

Senate panel OKs 'mishmash' tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate committee Friday approved a nearly $2.1 billion "mishmash" tax plan that would reform the franchise tax, expand the sales tax to more items and raise numerous professional and other fees.

The bill, adopted 13-0 by the Senate Finance Committee, closely resembled a tax proposal suggested by Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock Thursday.

The bill also would reduce the state's 6 percent tax on greyhound racing, changing to a sliding scale starting at 2 percent of the first $100 million wagered at a track. Greyhound interests say they fear that a state lottery would hurt their business and thus need the reduction.

Committee members curtailed amending the tax plan — in some cases withdrawing measures after they already had been approved — in order to retain what sponsor Sen. Bob Glasgow said was a delicate compromise with House leaders.

The Legislature is in the final days of a 30-day special session to write and fund a state budget in the face of a $4.8 billion deficit.

The House this week gutted a $3.3 billion tax proposal, passing only $30 million in new revenues.

Texas A&M investigates incidents on training trip

GALVESTON (AP) — Texas A&M University officials are investigating complaints from students that an instructor on a training ship was unprofessional and left them in unsafe conditions.

Jim McCoy, vice president for academic affairs, confirmed Thursday that 62 A&M students aboard the Texas Clipper during its recent two-month Caribbean voyage sent a petition to school officials complaining about Carol Curtiss, a nautical science teacher at the school.

"We fear that sooner or later someone will be seriously hurt or killed," the petition said. "We no longer have faith in her ability as a leader."

But Ms. Curtiss, 32, says the students are attacking her because they had to work hard on the trip. But she admits to getting drunk in Panama.

The students, who want to remain anonymous, said Ms. Curtiss placed them in danger through improper cargo handling and maintenance procedures.

Ms. Curtiss acknowledged getting intoxicated. The students say they got the tour and escaped any uncomfortable situations.

"The process of investigating is ongoing," McCoy said.

Opinion: Tribes can run casinos

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Indian tribes may build and operate gambling casinos in the state if the Legislature approves a bill allowing cruise ships to open their gambling tables in state waters, the attorney general has ruled.

In a legal opinion released Friday, Attorney General Dan Morales said passage of a gambling ship bill would clear the way for Indian-run casinos. That's because federal law says tribes may operate unregulated casinos in any state that allows such gambling.

"To put it simply, if casino gambling is permitted anywhere in Texas, then casino gambling would also be permitted on Indian lands in Texas," Morales wrote.

In addition, he said, "Such gambling activities could be conducted on land acquired by Indian tribes after the effective date" of such a state statute as long as federal laws were followed.

The opinion was sought by Rep. James Hury, D-Galveston, who failed to win passage of a gambling ship bill during the regular legislative session and who is sponsoring such a measure in the current special session.

Operations of casino ships along the Texas coast have been hampered by a ruling from U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh.

Friendly fire victims to keep medals

WASHINGTON (HNS) — American troops killed or wounded by U.S. forces during the Persian Gulf War can keep their Purple Hearts despite the fact that they were hit by friendly fire, Army and Marine officials said Friday.

In past wars, the decoration was usually reserved for casualties of enemy fire or attacks of undetermined origin during close combat.

The decision to let friendly-fire victims keep the medal emerges as Pentagon officials prepare to designate dozens of American casualties as victims of fratricide instead of Iraqi fire.

More than 75 soldiers and Marines were injured or killed in mistaken attacks by American forces during the 43-day conflict, according to a new analysis presented to Defense Secretary Dick Cheney on Wednesday.

Officially, the Pentagon has listed 26 American troops as victims of attacks by U.S. forces.

Army and Marine officials said combat decorations given friendly-fire victims by field commanders will not be rescinded despite the new designations of how they were injured or killed.

"There is no way that the Army is going to compound the grief and injury that a family has suffered by revoking an award like that," said Lt. Col. Terry Adkins, chief of military awards for the Army. "That would be totally unsympathetic to a family that we consider to be part of our (Army) family."

Maj. Nancy LaLuntas, speaking for the Marine Corps, said Marines wounded by U.S. forces and the families of Marines killed by friendly fire also will retain their decorations.

Bumper stickers beg for pharmacist

KILLDEER, N.D. (AP) — Merchants are so anxious to find a druggist they're handing out "Killdeer needs a pharmacist" bumper stickers.

The stickers list the telephone number of Todd Wetsch, owner of the Jack & Jill grocery store. Any pharmacist willing to move to this western North Dakota town of 720 can set up shop rent-free for a year in Wetsch's store.

Other merchants in town have been giving the bumper stickers to customers.

"People were willing to put them on their cars and go on vacation," Wetsch said.

Moon walker Jim Irwin dies from heart attack

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Astronaut Jim Irwin, who combined his interests in science and evangelism by exploring the moon 20 years ago and later searching for Noah's Ark, has died at age 61.

Irwin died Thursday night, apparently of a heart attack, said Alice Sundeen, spokeswoman for Valley View Hospital. He was the first to die of the 12 men who walked on the moon.

Irwin

Irwin had a history of heart trouble. NASA surgeons learned after his 295-hour moon mission ended on Aug. 7, 1971, that he suffered an exhausting irregular heartbeat shortly after liftoff.

"Americans should know that Jim was a true American hero," said Alfred M. Worden, pilot on the Apollo 15 moon mission.

Irwin, the pilot of Apollo 15's lunar module, spent nearly 67 hours on the moon, including three excursions that were the first to use the jeeplike Rover 1.

Former astronaut Alan Bean rembered Irwin as "a wonderful astronaut because he was such a good team player. He could decrease his own ego to work with people in Apollo to make a better mission."

Deke Slayton, who hired Irwin at NASA, said, "He was a real good guy, hard working and dedicated to doing what he was doing. Obviously he was working hard at what he was doing after NASA, because every time I talked to him he was either just coming from some place or going some place."

Among the samples Irwin and David R. Scott brought back from the moon was a rock estimated to be 4.15 billion years old, nicknamed the Genesis Rock. That discovery helped make the space flight a religious experience for Irwin.

Within a year of his moon walk, Irwin had retired from NASA as an Air Force colonel and founded the High Flight Foundation, an interdenominational evangelistic organization based in Colorado Springs.

Thornburgh leaves cabinet to seek Heinz Senate seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Dick Thornburgh submitted his resignation Friday to make his long-awaited run for the unexpired Senate term of the late Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania.

Thornburgh's resignation as attorney general will take effect next Thursday, a day after he is expected to appear in his hometown of Pittsburgh with President Bush at a national police convention.

Thornburgh

A former two-term Republican governor in Pennsylvania, Thornburgh is the odds-on favorite to defeat Democrat Harris Wofford, named interim senator after Heinz's April 4 death in a plane-helicopter collision.

But Democrats made it clear that they will make Thornburgh's stormy tenure as attorney general a major issue in this fall's campaign.

Thornburgh's election to the balance of Heinz's term, which expires in 1994, is considered crucial if the Republicans hope to capture the Senate, which the Democrats control by a 57-43 margin.

Deputy Attorney General William P. Barr, 41, will become Bush's acting attorney general, and is considered to be on the short list of possible permanent successors.

Postal service faces shortfall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service is facing a $1.6 billion deficit for the fiscal year, the agency's board of governors was told Friday.

Most of the loss results from a shift in responsibility for health and cost of living payments for retired postal workers.

Lower income and mail volume since new rates took effect earlier this year are also factors, officials said.

The switch in retiree payments from the federal budget to the postal service will cost the agency an added $800 million in the fiscal year which ends Sept. 27.

In addition, the new postal rates that took effect in February led to a drop in third-class mail volume and a decline in income from first-class mail. These factors have helped reduce anticipated income by about $100 million, officials said.

The independent Postal Rate Commission approved a 29-cent first-class rate instead of the 30-cent rate the postal service had sought, while it raised third-class advertising rates by more than the post office had asked.

The drop in third-class mail has been particularly sharp, as advertisers rejected the higher rates. The mail total is expected to be down by 2 billion items this year, according to Senior Assistant Postmaster General Comer S. Coppie.

The Postal Service has appealed the current rates and is awaiting a decision from the rate commission.

Children join abortion blockade

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A woman and several of her eight children were among protesters trying to shut down an abortion clinic Friday, when 99 people were arrested after resumption of curbside blockades.

Ten teen-agers, ranging from 13 to 17, were among those arrested, said police Lt. Don Deckert.

About 40 protesters rushed the gates of Dr. George Tiller's Women's Health Care Services, guarded by federal marshals and city police.

Paul Donnelly, who celebrated his 10th birthday Thursday, climbed under the back of a parked police car twice to rejoin a street blockade of patients' cars after officers had taken him to the curb.

The Ypsilanti, Mich., boy, a veteran of two protests in Washington, D.C., and one in Cleveland, came to Wichita with his mother, Mary Ellen Donnelly, and his seven siblings.

"If we let them, they are going to slaughter those babies," he said.

Mrs. Donnelly was one of the 98 arrested. She sat in the street and tried to keep cars from entering the clinic.

Children ranging in age from newborns to teen-agers have been a frequent sight at the protests, but police Capt. Norman Williams said Friday was the first day children tried to use their bodies to block vehicles.

"Who could ever have assumed that people would push 2-year-old children in front of moving vehicles," said Peggy Jarman, a spokeswoman for the Pro-Choice Action League.

The demonstration marked the first arrests since Monday in the 4-week-old protest coordinated by Operation Rescue.

Missing man's family sues Dahmer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The family of a man allegedly killed by Jeffrey Dahmer sued Friday for $3 billion, hoping to claim profits from movies or books based on the gruesome string of dismemberment slayings.

"I believe big bucks are going to be spent for the story rights to Jeff Dahmer's horrendous killing spree," said attorney Tom Jacobson, who filed the lawsuit for the family of Ernest Miller, 24.

"People feed on this stuff. The sicker it is, the more money it's worth," he said.

Earlier this week, two claims were filed against the city of Milwaukee, alleging the Police Department didn't do enough to stop the killings.

Both claims cited a May 27 incident in which three police officers found a naked and bleeding boy outside Dahmer's apartment and returned him to Dahmer after concluding the two were feuding homosexual lovers.

The officers have been suspended with pay and charged with administrative violations for their handling of the incident.

Authorities say Dahmer has admitted killing 17 people since 1978 and at least five people, including the 14-year-old, since he was questioned by police.

He is being held on $5 million cash bond pending an Aug. 22 hearing on 12 homicide counts.

Jacobson said his lawsuit is based on a Wisconsin law that lets crime victims sue to collect money from books or movies based on assailants' lives.

Police said they have released the names of all but one of the 17 people Dahmer confessed to killing.

Delta triples bid on Pan American

NEW YORK (AP) — Hours after United Airlines made a new offer for pieces of Pan American World Airways, Delta Air Lines nearly tripled its bid Friday to $904 million.

Delta previously had offered Pan Am $310 million for a package that includes most of its routes across the Atlantic, its Northeast shuttle and various planes and equipment.

Delta said Friday it would put up $515 million in cash, including $205 million to let Pan Am continue operating in Latin America. Delta also offered to assume $389 million in Pan Am liabilities.

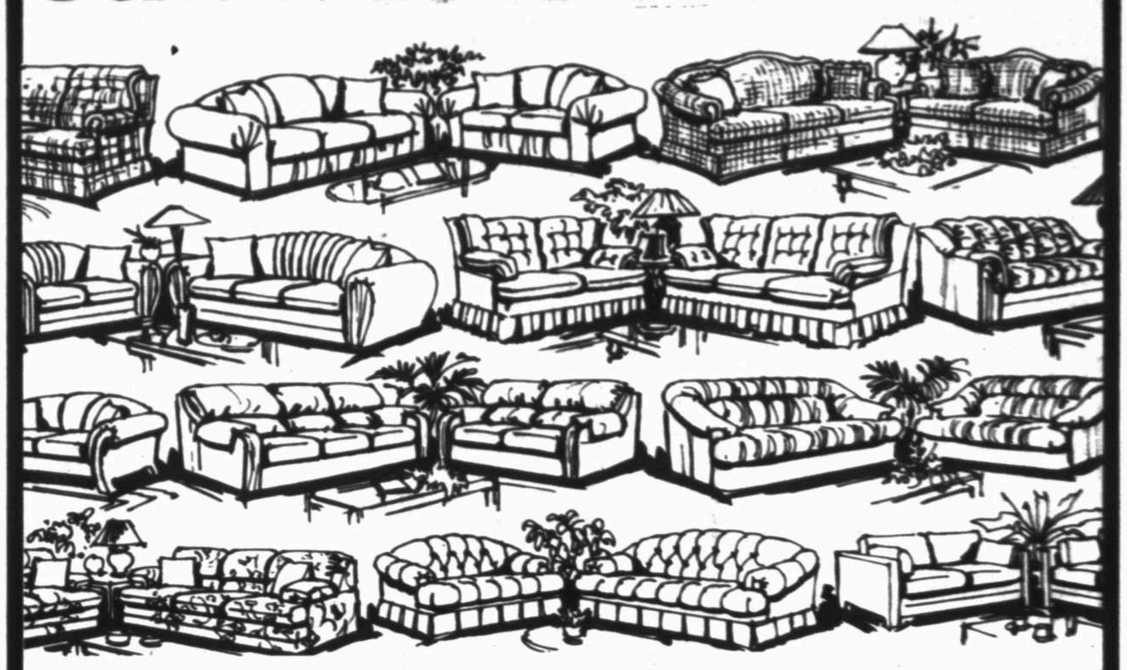

Delta hopes to win allegiance of Pan Am creditors at a hearing Monday.

Under the new Delta deal, Pan Am creditors would get the cash that Delta is putting up, plus at least 51 percent of the stock of a reorganized Pan Am and other securities.

Ambassador: Gorbachev a success

MOSCOW (AP) — As he leaves office, the U.S. ambassador to Moscow rates Mikhail S. Gorbachev's chances for political survival as high and predicts that the crumbling Communist Party will not regain its once vast power.

Ambassador Jack F. Matlock Jr. spoke to reporters at a final briefing in his official residence at Spaso House, a mansion a few blocks from the decrepit U.S. Embassy building that he says was the source of his greatest frustration during four years as ambassador.

Matlock is retiring after 35 years in the foreign service, including 11 years spent in Moscow in various diplomatic posts. As ambassador, he witnessed the roller-coaster development of perestroika, persuaded that Gorbachev was pursuing an authentic course of reform.

"I would say that we have also been privileged these last four years to be part of a larger process, one which will go down in history as one of these hinges where things change in a very fundamental way," Matlock said.

Asked to assess Gorbachev's prospects for political survival, Matlock replied: "It seems to me that he has excellent chances." Gorbachev, he said, remains the dominant figure on the Soviet political scene.

"I would say the whole four years I've been here, most of them, people have been predicting that somehow he was about to be swept from the scene. And each time there is a crisis, he seems to strengthen his position," Matlock said.

But despite his political success, Gorbachev needs more experience and exposure to the capitalist system, Matlock added.

"I think clearly none of the leaders here have as full an understanding of the market economy as it works in the West as would be desirable," he said.

Matlock was pessimistic about the future of the Communist Party, which Gorbachev still leads but which has lost credibility and millions of members.

"The Communist Party is not going to survive in the form that we knew it... Clearly at the moment there is no future for a return to a highly centralized party which directly exercises state power," he said.

To survive, the Communist Party would have to win Western-style elections, Matlock said. But the party has been trounced in recent free elections in a number of republics.

Matlock, who is fluent in Russian, was widely considered a hands-on diplomat who appeared often in the Soviet media and gave regular news briefings to Soviet and foreign journalists.

The controversy surrounding construction of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow shadowed Matlock throughout his tour as ambassador. When Matlock arrived, work had been halted on the new red brick embassy building.

The modern highrise was almost finished when U.S. officials discovered it was laced with Soviet bugs embedded during construction, and the building's future remains unresolved. Twice fires have forced embassy workers out of the peeling older embassy building.

"We obviously are not satisfied with the fact that the Congress has not yet made the decision regarding our physical facilities," he said.

He said the inability to resolve the issue of the building "my greatest frustration."

Gorbachev had been in power about 2½ years when Matlock arrived as ambassador in October 1987. Perestroika was still in its infancy, and the policy of glasnost, or openness, was slowly emerging.

An entirely different situation awaits his replacement, Robert Strauss, a prominent Democrat and lawyer from Texas. Strauss does not speak Russian or have knowledge of Soviet history.

Afrikaners try to stop speech by de Klerk

■ At least one person was killed and 54 injured in the melee that erupted after crowd of white extremists was struck by a van carrying a group of blacks.

Associated Press

VENTERSDORP, South Africa — Hundreds of police and neo-Nazis battled with guns and tear gas Friday when pro-apartheid extremists tried to stop a speech by President F.W. de Klerk. At least one person was killed and 54 injured.

Pitched battles raged through the main street of this conservative town 100 miles southwest of Pretoria as members of the Afrikaner Resistance Movement tried to fight their way into the hall where de Klerk was giving a speech.

Officers hurled tear gas canisters. Right-wingers sprayed cans of insect repellent into the faces of officers and their dogs. Police also confiscated spiked metal arm guards and steel whips from some of the rightists.

A minivan carrying blacks along the highway that cuts through the center of town careened out of control into the fighting crowd and flipped over. Police said one white extremist was killed by the van. Enraged whites then surrounded it and opened fire, injuring four black passengers.

Police initially said one of the blacks died but later retracted the report. At least 12 blacks were injured.

Another white protester was shot to death by police, Col. Johan Mostert said.

According to Mostert, six police officers were injured, three critically. Nine white protesters and 27 other bystanders also were injured.

De Klerk's speech went on as planned and was broadcast through loudspeakers into the streets at the height of the fighting. At one point, protesters waving the Afrikaner Resistance Movement's red, white and black flag, battled police to the sound of de Klerk singing "Sarie Marais," a traditional Afrikaner folk song.

"It's part of the white revolution!" one white screamed.

Ventersdorp is the headquarters of the extreme right-wing movement, known as the AWB, which opposes de Klerk's racial reforms.

De Klerk's decision to speak here clearly was intended to challenge the far-right's strength, but is likely to cost him support among conservative whites. Critics will point to the clashes as evidence de Klerk is out of touch with his own electorate.

As de Klerk prepared to talk, hundreds of khaki-clad members waving flags with the AWB's swastika-like symbol marched toward the hall. At the head of the column was the group's leader, Eugene TerreBlanche.

After forcing their way through several lines of police, the protesters were halted by a huge contingent of officers with assault rifles and shotguns. They tried to push past but were confronted by a line of snarling dogs.

Police fired tear gas bombs when the AWB's No. 2 man, Piet Rudolphe, lunged at them with a baseball bat.

Amid clouds of white gas, rifle and pistol fire broke out. It was not immediately clear who began shooting. One unidentified white said police began firing as the protesters ran away.

Six AWB members, including TerreBlanche, were arrested. They were released on condition the protesters disperse and ordered to appear in court Monday.

Afrikaners are descendants of white Dutch settlers, and the violence underscored the anger many of them feel toward de Klerk, also an Afrikaner. Since he took office two years ago, de Klerk has begun dismantling apartheid, which reserved power for the white minority, and started talks with black opposition groups such as the African National Congress.

Hundreds of police, their rifles raised, stood guard around the hall while de Klerk continued speaking. A police helicopter hovered above.

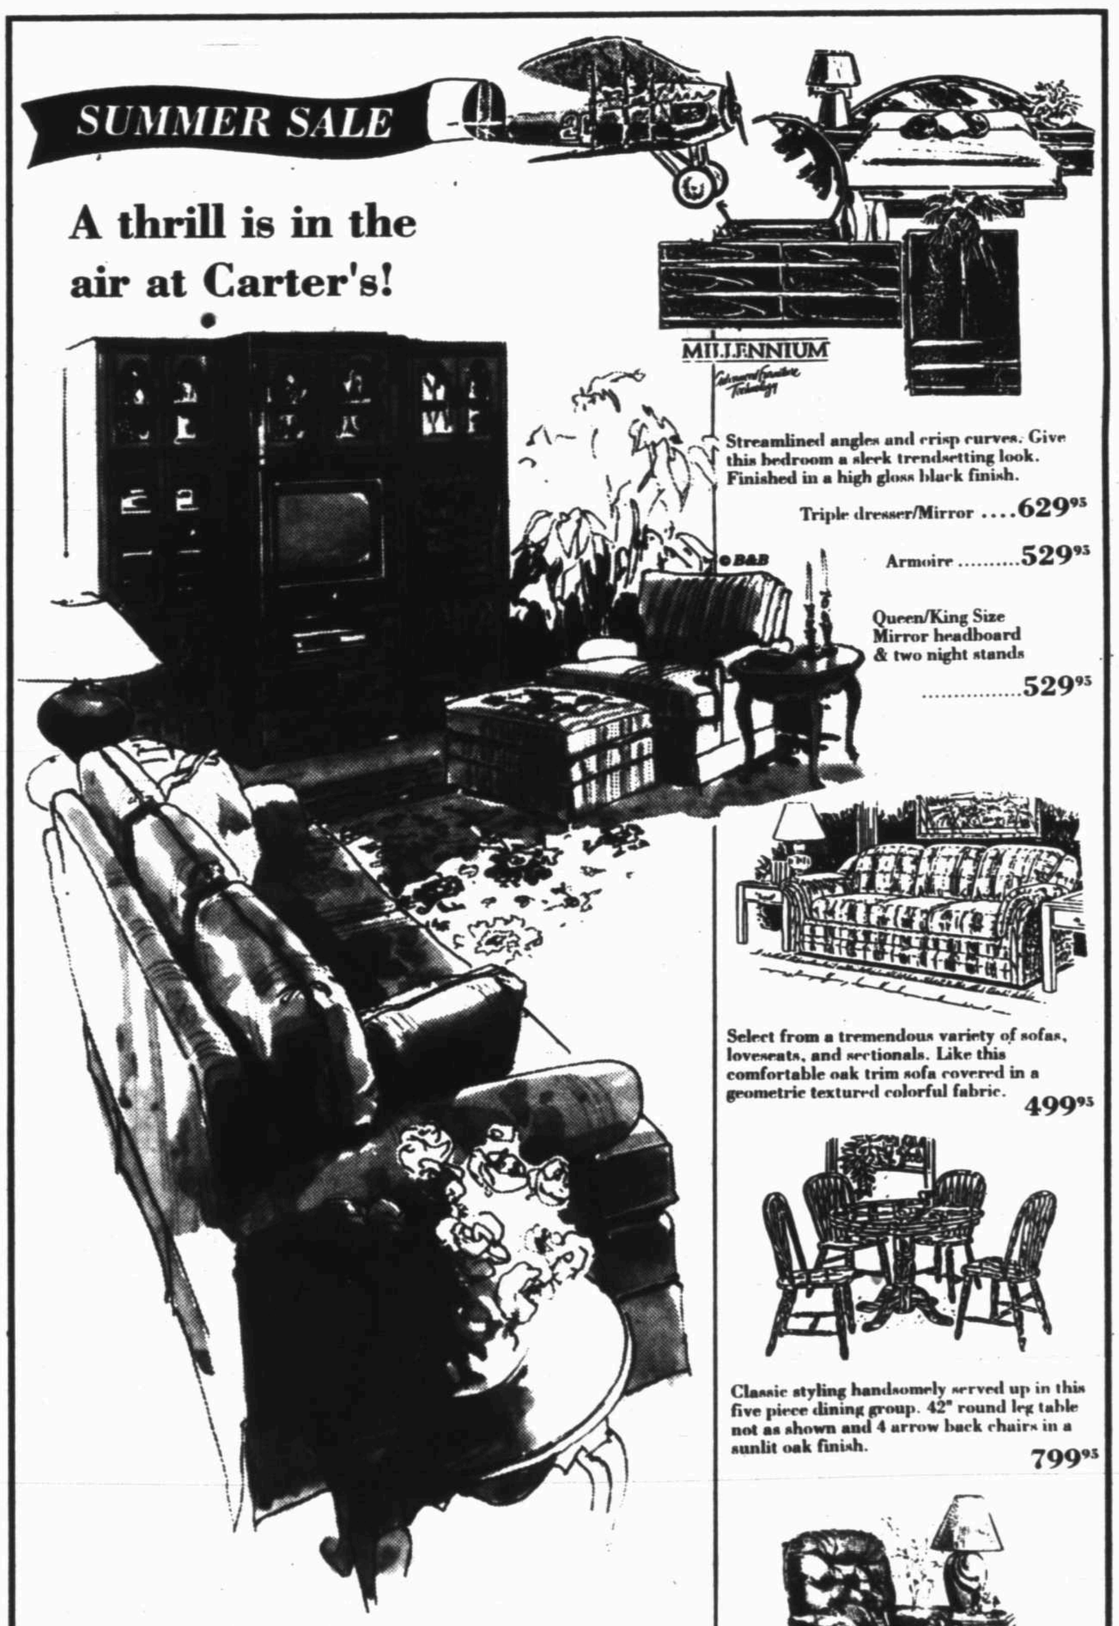

In his speech, de Klerk castigated the ANC for continuing its program of mass action, saying this did nothing to stem political violence. He also accused right-wing groups such as the AWB of "looking for trouble."

About a block away, a crowd of whites hurled rocks at any passing vehicle carrying blacks. Police tried to stop them while other whites stood by and laughed.

Young whites used clubs to rip apart the bullet-riddled van that had crashed into the crowd.

Serbs, Croats to exchange POWs, pledge to uphold truce

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Serbs and Croats announced an exchange of prisoners captured in their bitter ethnic fighting and pledged to work to make an uneasy truce hold. A commission monitoring the cease-fire reported no major violations Friday.

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, the 35-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe urged the warring Yugoslav factions to begin talks by the end of next week to cement the peace.

Meanwhile, maneuvering by the Serbian president, bolstered by Serbian gains on the Croatian battlefield, threatened to open a new source of ethnic conflict in Bosnia-Hercegovina, another Yugoslav republic of mixed population that so far has been spared ethnic strife.

Slobodan Milesovic proposed Thursday that Serbia, its ally Montenegro and Bosnia form a three-way alliance that would create a new, smaller Yugoslavia.

Milosevic invited Montenegro and Bosnia to talks in Belgrade on Monday, but Bosnia's Muslim president, Alija Izetbegovic, refused, saying all six Yugoslav republics should be included in any such talks.

But the ethnic Serb president of Bosnia's Parliament, Momcilo Krajisnik, said he would attend the talks.

Bosnia is the most ethnically diverse republic in Yugoslavia — more than 40 percent Muslim and about 30 percent Serbian and 20 percent Croatian.

Were Bosnia to disintegrate, it would embroil Yugoslavia in a much broader conflict that could also spread to Serbia's southern province of Kosovo, where the ethnic Albanian majority — largely Muslim — seeks autonomy or even reunion with neighboring Albania.

Members of a federal commission overseeing the cease-fire traveled Friday to the Danube River town of Dalj, where more than 80 Croatian policemen were reported to have died last week in some of the worst fighting.

After a meeting with local Serbs and Croats, the federal interior minister, Petar Gracanin, said both sides had agreed to a prisoner swap and to reestablish telephone and other services.

Italy returns Albanian refugees

BARI, Italy (AP) — Albanian refugees pelted police with rocks and bottles and made desperate dashes for freedom Friday as Italy began returning the emigrants to their impoverished homeland.

Ferries and planes carrying more than 1,500 Albanians left this southern port on the 125-mile trip to the tiny Balkan nation, where reports said thousands of others were seeking passage abroad.

Others were flown by military aircraft to Tirana, the Albanian capital. Officials said it would take four days to repatriate the 10,000 Albanians who arrived Thursday in Bari.

An Albanian journalist, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that at least 800 of the Albanians had been returned by Friday night.

He said they were demoralized and suffering from hunger and the heat.

The refugees, sunburned and exhausted, arrived packed aboard the freighter Vlora, which defied a naval blockade to anchor in the harbor. Others arrived in small fishing boats.

Italy, which took in 20,000 refugees five months ago, had vowed to bar any more Albanians from entering.

"Italy is sending us back to starve to death," said Memola Alti, 18, as police escorted him aboard the ferry Tiziano for a return trip.

"We are jobless, without food. Prices of goods are prohibitive," said Xhevair Baku, formerly a steel worker. "I came to Italy to seek a job for myself and my younger brother."

Fighting broke out at a soccer stadium holding 7,000 of the refugees when word spread that they would be sent home. Hundreds of Albanians hurled rocks and bottles at police and about 300 fled through police lines. Most were caught and taken back for a military airlift home.

A police officer, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said dozens of Albanians and about 20 policemen were injured.

U.N. team: Uranium program for weapons

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq's uranium-enrichment program was not for peaceful purposes, the leader of the fourth U.N. nuclear inspection team to visit said Friday.

David Kay, wrapping up a two-week tour, said the investigators concluded that the three enrichment methods Iraqi scientists used — chemical, electromagnetic and centrifuge — were designed to produce enriched uraniam for weapons.

"They were conducted in secret and at a cost yield that would have made sense only in a program dedicated to non-peaceful purposes," Kay said.

He said the Iraqis had generally cooperated with the inspectors, which was leaving the country today.

Under the cease-fire accord ending the Persian Gulf War, all of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction and its capability to produce them are to be dismantled.

Meanwhile, the Baghdad government on Friday rejected a draft U.N. resolution that would allow it to sell $1.6 billion dollars worth of oil to buy food and other essentials.

The Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, quoted Prime Minister Sadoun Hammadi as saying Iraq wanted to sell more oil than that.

The Iraqis rejected an earlier proposal for the same reason, and complained that supervision by outsiders of the funds constituted interference in its internal affairs.

Iraq's oil sales have been banned under an international embargo in effect since shortly after its invasion of Kuwait last Aug. 2.

Iraq's initial failure to disclose its nuclear capability and its threats against nuclear inspectors brought threats of a new military strike from the allies.

This time, the Iraqis allowed access to facilities on short notice, Kay said. The Iraqi authorities answered the majority of the team's questions "to some degree," he said.

"In general there has been considerable progress toward increasing our information on the capabilities of this program," Kay said. "We've made a lot of progress ... but we've still go a lot of miles to go."

Kay said much of the work had centered on a centrifuge program at a nuclear research lab near Baghdad.

"We feel we have a much better understanding of that program, its capabilities and where it was headed," he said.

He said investigators still do not know how much enriched uranium Iraq produced.

Karras pens book

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Karras is coming out with a comic novel featuring some characters that may seem familiar to fans of ABC's "Monday Night Football."

Karras, a former Monday Night color commentator, writes in "Tuesday Night Football" of two men who many say could easily pass for Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford.

Haywood Grueller is "a pompous, verbose, toupeed announcer who can't deliver a simple, declarative sentence, although he can talk non-stop for 100 words or so," Karras writes.

And Lance Allgood, football's chief play-by-play announcer, is a "former jock and all-American boy who just can't say no to the endless parade of .... women that follows him from city to city."

Stubbs signs

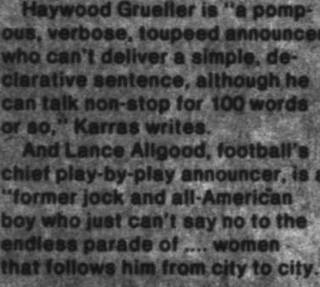

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive end Danny Stubbs ended a 26-day holdout Friday, agreeing to a new three-year contract.

Stubbs, demoted to second team in the off-season after leading the Cowboys in sacks and starting 15 games last year, agreed to a base salary estimated at $1 million. Stubbs made $260,000 last year.

Stubbs' agent, Neal Heller, said the contract is loaded with incentives which could substantially increase its value.

'Wild Thing' leads PGA Championship at halfway point

CARMEL, Ind. (AP) — Scores and their relation to par Friday after the second round of the $1.4 million 73rd PGA Championship, played on the 7,280-yard, par-72 Crooked Stick Golf Club course:

N.Y. Times News Service

CARMEL, Ind. — The marriage of one of the longest courses ever played and the longest hitter in the game was the highlight of early play in the second round of the PGA Championship Friday as young John Daly bulled his way to the lead.

Hitting monstrous drives that often carried more than 300 yards down Crooked Stick Golf Club's soggy fairways, the 25-year-old Daly shot a five-under-par 67 that combined with a first-round 69 gave him a total of eight-under-par 136.

"I'll remember this day the rest of my life," said Daly, a rookie on the PGA Tour. "This is the best I've ever played in my life."

Among the players who had finished their second rounds by late in the afternoon, Daly's closest pursuers were Kenny Knox, who shot a 71 for a total of six-under-par 138, and Ian Woosnam, Nick Faldo and Craig Stadler at 139.

A group at one-under-par 143 included Jack Nicklaus, who double bogeyed the difficult par-4 18th for the second successive day; Seve Ballesteros, who recovered from a 40 on the front side with a 32 on the back, and Raymond Floyd, who also double bogeyed the 18th to close out a 74.

Among those in danger of missing the 36-hole cut was Tom Watson, who shot a 75 for a total of 149. The 41-year-old Watson was hoping to make a strong showing to gain a wild-card berth on the United States Ryder Cup team.

With Knox a notable exception, the leader board remained top heavy with long hitters, as the lack of roll to be gained on Crooked Stick's wet turf along with relatively wide fairways allowed power players to hit the ball as high and far as they could.

"I'll remember this day the rest of my life. This is the best I've ever played in my life.'

— John Daly

Of all the long hitters, the 5-foot-11-inch, 190-pound Daly is the longest, with an average tee shot of 286.3 yards, the highest ever recorded since the PGA Tour began keeping that statistic in 1980.

Not surprisingly, Daly ranks 185th in driving accuracy, keeping the ball out of the rough off the tee only 66 percent of the time.

Daly, who taught himself to play by imitating Nicklaus while growing up in Dardanelle, Ark., employs one of the most pronounced shoulder turns in the game.

His drives are already the stuff of legend among his peers, who have variously dubbed Daly "Wild Thing," "Macho Man" and "Killer." His longest recorded drive in competition is one that traveled 379 yards, which he hit as a member of the Ben Hogan Tour last year at a tournament in Fort Myers, Fla.

Green poison to Angels

Staff Report

EL PASO — Otis Green was the tonic the El Paso Diablos needed and true poison for the Midland Angels.

Green pitched two-hit ball over eight innings to defeat Midland 4-0 Friday night as the Angels began a key 10-game road trip. The victory by El Paso places both Midland and the Diablos in a first place tie in the Texas League West's second half race with identical 23-21 records.

Midland starter Dave Shotkowski, who is now 4-10 and again a hard luck loser, had battled Green to a scoreless tie through four innings, but El Paso struck for three runs in the fifth inning when the Angels committed three errors in the ill-fated frame.

El Paso got an insurance run in the eighth inning when John Jaha tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Dave Cooper.

Midland had a chance to score in the fifth when Marcus Lawton singled and stole second base. However, Diablo outfielder Dave Jacas took a certain Midland run off the boards when he made a diving catch on a sinking liner by Reggie Williams for the final out of the inning.

In the eighth, Midland got two runners on base, but Mark Howie, the Angels' leading hitter in search of his 100th RBI of the year, flew out to end the threat.

Green struckout seven Midland batters before Mark Chapman came on in relief in the ninth inning.

Even though these two teams still have nine games left against each other, this is a key series. Neither team wants to be swept or lose four of five as the season begins to wind down.

San Antonio could have thrown the West Division into a three-way tie for first place with a victory over Wichita Friday, but the Missions lost by a 3-0

Midland-owned horses have banner day

Staff Report

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Steppin For The Moon cemented his status as one of the early favorites for the $2 million All American Futurity in Friday's second day of elimination trials for the world's richest quarter horse race, but two Midland-owned horses earned some respect.

In Friday's third race, a lightly-raced filly, Perfect Liaison, owned by Midland's Rick Fleetwood and ridden by Jeff Williams, stamped herself as an up-and-coming contender by hanging a nose decision on Perfectly Dashing. The daughter of Moon Lark, who has now captured two of three career starts, is trained by Blane Wood of Lubbock.

In the fourth race, Vital Class, owned by Midland's Clarence Scharbauer, overcame a slow-start en route to a sharp ½-length decision. The Texas-bred son of Easily Smashed, who finished second by a nose to Magic Dozen in the Kansas Futurity, has captured three of six starts. He is trained by Brooks.

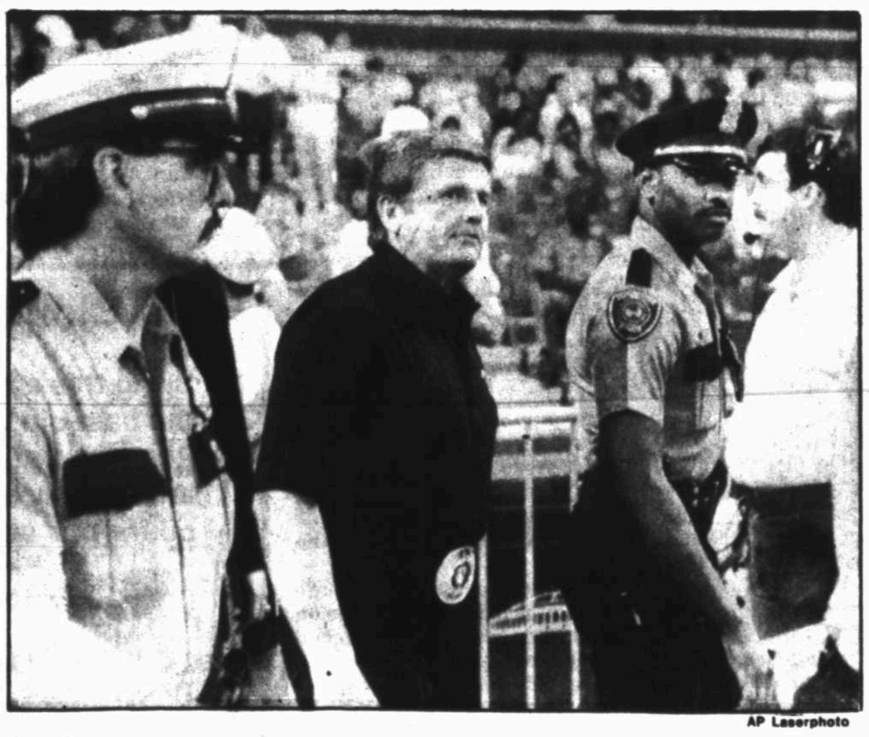

Breaking sharply from the gate under jockey Jacky Martin, Rainbow Futurity winner Steppin For The Moon gamely outfinished Dash Master Miss by a neck in the first race.

Steppin For The Moon, a chestnut son of Moon Lark, has now captured six of nine career outings, and appears to be trainer Jack Brooks' best hope for an unprecedented sixth All American triumph.

Probably the most impressive performance of the two-day trials was turned in by the undefeated filly, Easily A Rogue, in the seventh race. She ran the fastest time of the trials when she covered 440-yards in 21.66.

Easily A Rogue, who is trained by Russell Harris, has captured each of her three career starts.

Jerry Glanville received a police escort into the Astrodome Friday night.

■ Jerry Glanville's return to the Astrodome is a triumphant one as Atlanta buries Houston

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Chris Miller and Michael Haynes gave Atlanta coach Jerry Glanville the kind of homecoming he could appreciate.

Glanville, who coached Houston for four years before becoming the Falcons' coach last season, watched as Miller completed four touchdown passes, three of them to Haynes for 57, 67, and 34 yards, to beat the Oilers 36-7 on Friday night.

It didn't take Glanville to get warmed up after the victory.

"I left two tickets for Mike Holovak, I guess we'll have to decide if he's dead or not," Glanville said.

Glanville left the Oilers after a dispute with Holovak, the Oilers' general manager. He also took a shot at his former players.

"If we played them twice a year, we'd be in the playoffs," Glanville said. "I told them schemes don't matter, plays don't matter, it's what's inside that counts. I told them once they had the spirit here but we're taking that back with us."

Miller played through the first series of the fourth quarter before Scott Campbell came on and hit Mike Williams with a 1-yard touchdown pass with 12 seconds left in the game.

Haynes caught five passes for 225 yards in leading the Falcons to their second straight exhibition victory. Miller completed 10 of 20 passes for 274 yards and the four TDs.

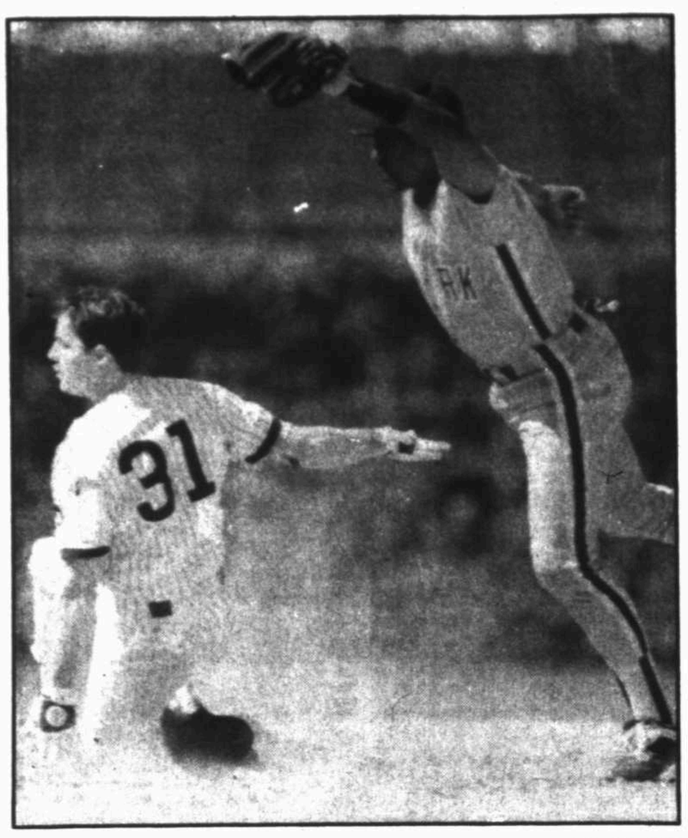

"It was fun, I like throwing the ball deep, it was good for me to go execute, even if they didn't hazve all their playrs," Miller said. "I didn't play at all last week."

Glanville was escorted onto the field prior to the game by six uniformed officers and four black-clad aides. He was booed heavily during pre-game introductions.

"The fans in Houston don't boo too well," Atlanta running back Mike Pringle said. "They need to learn how to boo. I knew Jerry was ready to pound it away on them, keep the starters in and run it up."

Miller completed a 9-yard touchdown

Chicago's Greg Maddux, left, pops up at second on an attempted steal in the third inning.

Cubs have Mets' number

Associated Press

CHICAGO — The Chicago Cubs seemed to have found the secret of beating the New York Mets. Not that it's been hard to do lately.

The Mets have lost eight of their last 10 games, including five in a row to the Cubs. Chicago swept its first four-game series at New York last weekend for the first time since 1965.

Any momentum the Mets had by taking two of three from first-place Pittsburgh was halted by Greg Maddux. Maddux pitched a seven-hitter and sparked a three-run rally with a bunt single and stolen base as the Cubs beat the Mets 5-4 Friday.

"Greg must have had a too much coffee before the game," Cubs manager Jim Essian said.

Maddux (10-6), who had held the Mets hitless from the third to the ninth innings, had to survive a two-run rally by the Mets in the ninth.

Doubles by Hubie Brooks and Mackey Sasser and a run-scoring single by Daryl Boston got New York within a run, but Maddux nailed down his third complete game by getting pinch-hitter Mark Carreon to ground into a game-ending double play.

With the Mets leading 2-0, Maddux got the Cubs going with a bunt single and steal to start the third. Chico Walker advanced Maddux to third with another bunt single and Mark Grace followed with an RBI single. Andre Dawson capped the inning with a two-run single on an 0-2 pitch off David Cone (10-9).

"The steal shocked everybody," Cubs catcher Rick Wilkins said. "Cone's great and quick coming to home plate and Mackey Sasser can catch and throw, but he just caught them off guard."

Maddux's stolen base was the third of his career and the first by a Cubs pitcher since Mike Bielecki did it on Aug. 20, 1989.

Braves 7, Astros 2

ATLANTA — Steve Avery won his fifth straight decision and Ron Gant hit his 24th home run, leading the Atlanta Braves past the Houston Astros.

Avery gave up seven hits and two runs in 7 1-3 innings to improve to 13-5. Juan Benenguer finished.

Gant's two-run homer off Jim Deshaies (4-9) gave Atlanta a 3-0 lead in the third inning. Gant is tied with Howard Johnson of New York for the National League home run lead.

NL Roundup

The Braves took a 1-0 lead when Keith Mitchell led off the first with a single, moved to third as Deshaies made a wild throw on a pickoff attempt and scored on Terry Pendleton's sacrifice fly.

Cardinals 5, Pirates 1

PITTSBURGH — Bryn Smith gave up three hits over 7 1-3 innings for his 100th major-league victory and the St. Louis Cardinals continued Pittsburgh's slide, getting a two-run homer from Todd Zeile in a 5-1 victory over the Pirates on Friday night.

Pittsburgh, which was 60-34 on July 27, has lost 11 of its last 13 games — including four of five to St. Louis over the last two weekends — to fall to 62-45.

Smith (10-7) beat Pittsburgh for the first time in more than three years as St. Louis moved to within four games of the National League East lead for the first time since June 28.

The Cardinals did most of their damage against John Smiley (13-8), who ended an eight-game Pittsburgh losing streak by beating St. Louis 2-1 last Sunday. Smiley, who hadn't allowed more than three earned runs in a game since July 5, gave up four runs and six hits — four for extra bases — in five-plus innings.

Reds 5, Padres 1

SAN DIEGO — Mo Sanford was overpowering in his major-league debut, allowing only two hits and striking out eight in seven innings as the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Diego Padres to end a three-game losing streak.

Sanford struck out the side in the first inning, retired the Padres in order in the second and allowed only four baserunners. The Padres' run was unearned. Sanford, who walked only one, was relieved by Rob Dibble starting the eighth.

The Reds snapped a three-game losing streak.

Sanford, who was called up Sunday, had pitched shutouts in two of his last three starts at Triple-A Nashville.

Phillies 5, Expos 4

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies won their 10th straight game as Dickie Thon's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning snapped a tie for a victory over the Montreal Expos.

It's the Phillies' longest winning streak since they also won 10 in a row in 1984.

Midland teams do well at tourney

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

Midland teams won four of seven games in the early going of the first round Friday, as the Texas ASA Men's Class C Slowpitch Softball Tournament got under way at the Bill Williams Softball Complex and Hogan Park.

Of the 98 Amateur Softball Association teams entered in the tournament, 22 are from Midland. And CMC Business Systems, Mobil Pegasus, Brothers Production and the Golf Course Road Church of Christ all showed why the hosting Tall City is so well represented in the double-elimination tourney.

CMC handed a 13-8 loss to Crane's Mix Company, while Mobil Pegasus beat TNT Pipe of Monahans 13-11. Also, Brothers Production came away with a 13-10 win over Bridges and Hemphill from Gainesville, and Golf Course C of C stuck Littlefield's Stick-N-Move 18-13.

Results from other games involving local teams include the First Baptist Church's 13-4 loss to Low Buck Compressor from Monahans, a 10-4 decision by Monahans' Coors Extra Gold over R&R Express, and the Abilene Fleming Flyers' 15-3 win over High Sierra.

Though Friday morning's rain did throw something of a monkey wrench into the tournament works, games were running fairly close to schedule late Friday night. All games scheduled for the Bill Williams Complex went off without a hitch, but games scheduled for Field 7 at Hogan Park were moved to Field 2 because of wet grounds.

According to Karl Reagan of the Midland Softball Association, which is coordinating the tournament, today's games set for Field 7 should be played there, barring more rain.

Four games were scheduled to start at 1 a.m. today, then players take an abbreviated rest before action picks back up at 8 a.m. The bulk of the tourney's games are scheduled for today, as 137 competitions are slated into the wee hours of Sunday morning.

If the rain forecast for today and Sunday holds back, the championship game should go off as scheduled at 3 p.m. Sunday. That game would be the 194th of the tournament, with the "if" game to immediately follow if necessary.

Brewers cook Ranger pitchers, 10-8

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Paul Molitor got four hits and an RBI and scored four runs Friday night to lead a 16-hit Milwaukee assault on five Texas pitchers as the Brewers earned a 10-8 victory over the Rangers.

It was Milwaukee's third consecutive road victory, the first time the Brewers had won three games in a row since May 15-17.

It was the fourth time Molitor had scored four runs in a game and tied a Milwaukee record held by numerous other Brewers.

Milwaukee starter Chris Bosio left with a 7-6 lead after five innings thanks to Greg Vaughn's sacrifice fly in the sixth inning off loser Gerald Alexander (5-2).

Bosio (8-8) gave up seven hits and six runs for the victory. Edwin Nunez pitched the ninth for his sixth save.

Milwaukee scored three runs in the seventh on RBI singles by Molitor and Bill Spiers and a sacrifice fly by Willie Randolph.

Rafael Palmeiro hit a two-run homer off reliever Julio Machado in the seventh inning.

Ruben Sierra tied the game at 6 for Texas in the fifth with a 416-foot, two-run homer into the right field stands.

Texas starter Jose Guzman lasted only 3 1-3 innings, yielding six runs on eight hits.

Yount's RBI single in the first gave the Brewers a 1-0 lead and they chased Guzman with a five-run fourth, featuring a two-run double by Bill Spiers and Yount's two-run triple.

Texas touched Bosio for three runs in the second inning on a walk, two singles, an RBI groundout by Mario Diaz, and run-scoring singles by Jose Hernandez and Rafael Palmeiro.

Hernandez got a hit on his first at-bat in the big leagues. He had been called up from Tulsa in the Texas League to play shortstop for the Rangers.

AL Roundup

Red Sox 12, Blue Jays 7

TORONTO — Carlos Quintana drove in four runs with two homers and a pair of singles to a pace a 21-hit attack and Jack Clark reached base six straight times as the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Toronto Blue Jays.

Quintana, whose first-inning homer snapped a string of 19 consecutive scoreless inings for the Red Sox, belted a two-run shot in a three-run eighth and added a run-scoring single in the ninth as Boston snapped a four-game losing streak.

Clark, who followed Quintana's first-inning homer with his 20th of the season, scored four runs and drove in two. Clark reached base on a homer, error, two walks and two singles.

Joe Carter hit a two-run homer in the eighth, his second of the game and 26th of the season, to pull the Blue Jays within 10-6.

The Red Sox scored two more runs in the top of the ninth on RBI singles by Quintana and Clark before Toronto scored a run in the bottom of the inning.

Winner Joe Hesketh (6-2) allowed four runs on seven hits over five-plus innings.

Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston had some harsh words for pitcher David Wells when he took him out of the game in the fifth. Obviously unhappy about giving up five runs on nine hits and two walks over 4 2-3 innings, Wells (12-7) tossed the ball into foul territory, then stormed off the mound.

After Quintana and Clark opened the scoring with consecutive homers in the first, Luis Rivera singled home a run in the second for a 3-0 Red Sox lead. In the fifth, Wade Boggs scored on a wild pitch and Ellis Burks made it 5-0 with an RBI single.

The Blue Jays ended a string of 19 scoreless innings when Ed Sprague led off the fifth with his fourth home run of the season.

Devon White led off the sixth with his eighth homer. After Roberto Alomar reached on an infield single, Carter homered to trim the Red Sox lead to 5-4.

Tom Brunansky gave the Red Sox some breathing room with a two-run single for a 7-4 Boston lead in the seventh.

The Blue Jays' first-place lead in the AL East dropped to 5 games as second-place Detroit was rained out in New York.

Royals 4, Indians 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Danny Tartabull returned from the disabled list with a double and a tie-breaking homer and Mark Gubicza pitched three-hit ball over eight innings, leading Kansas City past Cleveland for the Royals' 10th victory in 12 games.

Tartabull, who had missed eight games with a bruised heel, doubled off Greg Swindell (7-10) in his first at-bat since Aug. 2 and snapped a 2-2 tie with his 23rd homer leading off the fourth.

Gubicza (7-5) walked one and struck out five and did not allow a hit after the first inning. Notching his fourth straight victory and first over Cleveland in almost three years, he retired 20 of 21 batters, with the only Indian base runner reaching on an error. Jeff Montgomery pitched the ninth for his 23rd save.

Brian McRae had two singles, stretching his hitting streak to a career-best 18 games and matching Texas' Ruben Sierra for the longest streak in the American League this season.

Cleveland's Alex Cole led off the sixth with a line drive into left which got past Kirk Gibson and rolled to the wall. Gibson, who was charged with an error, retrieved the ball and fired to shortstop David Howard, who threw to catcher Tim Spehr to nail Cole at the plate.

Chris James, who became ill early in the game and left, doubled with one out in the Cleveland first and scored on a double by Carlos Baerga. Baerga came home on Mike Aldrete's single for a 2-0 lead, but Mark Whiten, who had reached on a walk, was trapped in a rundown between third and home to end the inning.

After Tartabull doubled in the second, Todd Benzinger singled him to third and Bill Pecota singled him home. Benzinger later scored on Howard's sacrifice fly for a 2-2 tie.

The Royals added a run in the seventh when Pecota singled and came around on Terry Shumpert's double.

White Sox 7, Orioles 4

BALTIMORE — Tim Raines had four of Chicago's 13 hits as the White Sox won their fifth straight, beating the stumbling Baltimore Orioles.

Lance Johnson, Robin Ventura and Carlton Fisk each drove in two runs for the White Sox, who have won 15 of 18 to move a season-high 18 games over .500.

Relievers Brian Drahman (2-1) and Melido Perez held the Orioles to one hit over 4 1-3 innings, and Bobby Thigpen pitched the ninth for his 25th save. Chicago's bullpen has a string of 28 consecutive scoreless innings.

The Orioles lost for the fifth time in six games to fall 22 games under .500, their low point of the season. Mike Mussina (0-2), making his second major-league start, was pounded for five runs and 11 hits in 3 1-3 innings.

Up 2-1, the White Sox got five straight singles and three runs in the fourth. Joey Cora and Ozzie Gullen started the binge and Raines got an RBI single before Ventura drove in two runs with his hit. After Frank Thomas singled, Stacy Jones replaced Mussina and got an inning-ending double play.

Baltimore closed to 5-4 against Charlie Hough in its half of the inning when Chris Hoiles walked, Juan Bell and Mike Devereaux hit consecutive triples.

Three pennants — and no Italian loafers

N.Y. Times News Service

Let's not mince words. With the Athletics once again in the thick of the American League West pennant race, this has to be said: The A's Sandy Alderson is the worst example of a general manager in baseball.

You don't believe it? Let's just run down the standard list of qualifications for general managers and we'll compute his overall grade.

SELF PROMOTION — Terrible. Barely even appears in the team media guide. Let's put it this way. In the team's 256-page guide, the A's Elephant gets a full page — with picture. Alderson gets one line, in teeny-weeny print on a page with 67 other names, including Holly Hammond, who is listed as "Secretary, Marketing representatives."

Alderson has neglected to do even rudimentary horn tooting for himself and, inexcusably, still does not have his own radio show.

Worst example: During batting practice at playoff games, visiting reporters searching for stories will often stroll right past Alderson, who is sitting quietly on the bench in the dugout.

Extra demerits: Alderson is an admitted attorney.

Grade: F.

POWER-TIE QUOTIENT — Nonexistent. Alderson consistently fails to appear at ballgames in expensive, pointy Italian loafers or shirts with french cuffs. Has reportedly never even owned a gold neck chain.

Some GM's wear Alexander Julian. Alderson prefers Michael Jordan. His corporate uniform is jeans, polo shirt and white sneakers. He looks too comfortable.

Worst example: No tie. Ever.

Extenuating circumstances: Because Levi's owns the team, jeans are probably OK.

Grade: D.

SPIN CONTROL: Awful. You wonder if he's even making an effort. It's perfectly obvious that when something bad happens you're supposed to direct attention away from yourself. It's in the GM handbook.

Worst example: Approached by a reporter who said he wanted to ask a question, Alderson said, "I suppose you want to know (why we traded) Darren Lewis and Felix Jose."

No, no, no, Sandy. That's not how to do it. You're making everyone else look bad.

Extra demerits: He concedes he may have made a mistake with Lewis. "We didn't see him as an everyday player," he says. "He doesn't have much power. The thing is, he is only 23."

Grade: D.

TUB THUMPING — Very feeble. Alderson has not made a grandiose claim on behalf of the team in years. He will not predict a World Series win in spring training and has neglected to saddle young prospects with tags like, "greatest left-handed pitcher I've seen since Sandy Koufax."

Shows a complete disregard for overinflated hype, which makes you wonder what he's doing in the business.

Worst example: When he recently traded two minor-leaguers for pitcher Ron Darling, he took great care to diminish expectations and stressed that he and the scouting staff were no more than cautiously hopeful about Darling's chances for success.

Extra demerits: When Darling pitched well in his first start, Alderson continued to take a wait-and-see approach.

Grade: D.

CLUBHOUSE LEADERSHIP — Almost nil. We are unable to document a single clubhouse tantrum in the entire time he has held the job. As far as we know, he has never delivered a single blistering tongue-lashing during a team meeting.

Has made no suggestions to a player, such as hinting that he might want to stand closer to the plate, which has caused him to break out of a slump. Appears to believe he can best do his job off the field. Can you believe that?

Worst example: Doesn't even complain about umpiring.

Bonus points : Did carp about a close call at second base during a media softball game.

Grade: C-minus.

RESULTS — Team won American League pennant last three seasons and World Series in 1989. Hired Tony La Russa. Staff drafted Jose Canseco (in the 15th round), Walt Weiss, Terry Steinbach and McGwire, among others.

Acquired (among others) Rickey Henderson for Greg Cadaret, Eric Plunk and Luis Polonia; Dave Henderson as a free agent after he was released by the Giants; Dave Stewart as a free agent; Dennis Eckersley for Dave Wilder, Brian Guinn and Mark Leonette; Gene Nelson for Donnie Hill; Joe Klink for Russ Kibler.

The A's, who were was 68-94 in 1982, have not finished below .500 since 1986.

Demerits: Traded Lewis for Ernest Riles; Jose for a month's worth of Willie McGee; Tim Belcher for Rick Honeycutt.

Double demerits: Joaquin Andujar.

Grade: A-minus.

TOTAL GRADE AS GENERAL MANAGER: A.

Why such a good grade? It's baseball. We grade on a curve.

Rose returns to Riverfront as spectator

Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Pete Rose said going to his first Cincinnati Reds game since being banned from baseball for life didn't make him want to return to the game in an active role.

The former Reds star and manager attended Thursday's 6-4 loss to Los Angeles at Riverfront Stadium.

"They're doing a good job," he said. "I let them do their own thing."

Rose, who observed the game from a glass-enclosed box above third base, said he hopes to see some more games at the stadium.

"I have a lot of fun here," he said.

"When you see (infielder Chris) Sabo and (outfielder Paul) O'Neill and those type of guys and you brought them to the big leagues, you pull for them. You want them to do well," Rose said after the game in an interview with WLWT-TV.

He left the stadium after most fans had gone, but signed baseballs and gloves for some people who spotted him.

"I thought it was great," Rich Allebach of Columbus said. "I'd like to see them let him back in the game.

"I'd like to see him be able go manage again. He's paid his debt. He's done a lot for the city. He's done a lot for baseball."

One year ago, Rose pleaded guilty to felony charges of failing to report income. He was sentenced to five months in a federal prison camp in Illinois, three months in a halfway house in Cincinnati and 1,000 hours of community service in inner-city schools and a youth center.

In 1989, he was banned from baseball by then-commissioner Bart Giamatti. He may not make official appearances at baseball games under terms of his ban. Rose, baseball's all-time hit leader, would have been eligible for election to the Hall of Fame next year if he hadn't been banned from the sport.

Reds spokesman Jon Braude was with the team in San Diego on Friday and couldn't be reached for comment.

Rose left his hometown last month to join his family at the Roses' new home in Boca Raton, Fla.

Coody leads US West

Associated Press

JEREMY RANCH, Utah — Former Masters champion Charles Coody solved the hilly and windy Jeremy Ranch course with a 7-under-par 65 Friday and took the first round lead in the US West Showdown Classic.

Coody, ninth on the Senior PGA Tour money list with $328,689 and one victory, had an eagle, six birdies and one bogey on the par-72, 7,103-yard layout. That gave him a one-shot lead over Bob Wynn and former champion Bobby Nichols.

Lloyd Moody, at 60 the older brother of tour regular Orville Moody, and Bob Betley were two strokes off the pace after 67s, and five others, including former NFL quarterback John Brodie and cigar-chomping Larry Laoretti, were at 69.

The group at 69 also included Simon Hobday, Mike Hill and Ted Naff.

Coody, from Abilene, Texas, teed off in mid-morning and only briefly avoided Jeremy's notorious afternoon winds.

"The course was there for the taking for the first 12 or 13 holes," said Coody. "Then the wind came up and made the last four or five difficult."

Coody, winner of the 1971 Masters, did most of his damage on the par 5 holes.

"The secret today was keeping those fives off my scorecard," he said. "I played them in 5-under. I really got a good break on No. 16."

That was when his drive on the creek-lined fairway landed amid the rocks in the creek bed and bounced back into the fairway. From there he hit the green and two-putted for birdie.

Coody also birdied two other par-5s, No. 3 and No. 9, and got two more strokes when he sailed a four-wood within 15-feet of the pin on No. 13 and made his eagle putt.

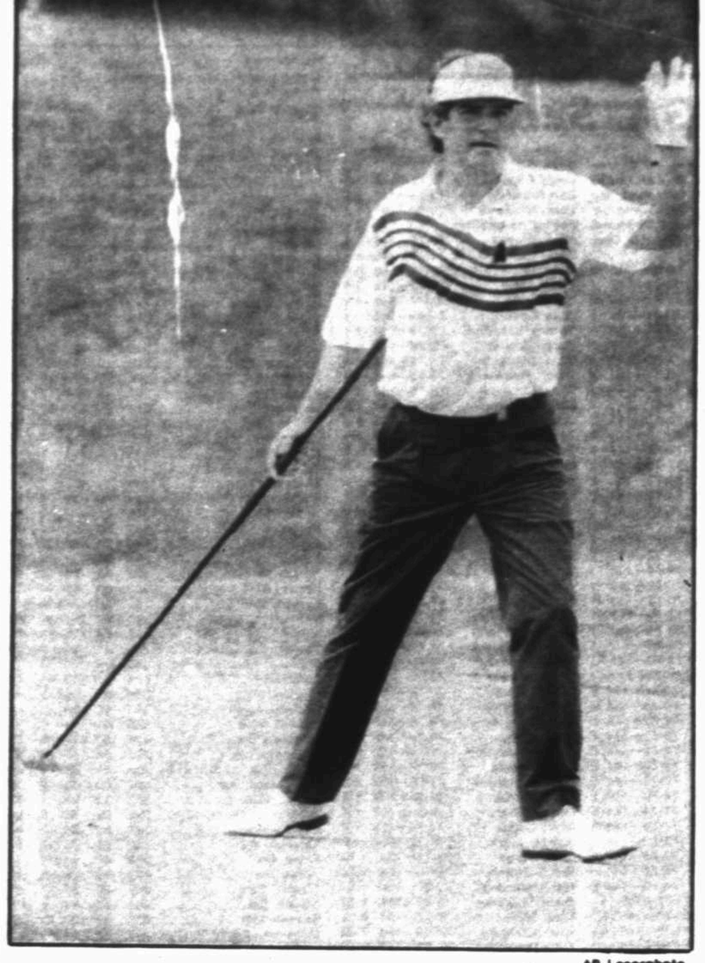

"You'll see some good scores out here before this is over, but it will depend on the wind," said Coody.

Wynn, who got in to this tournament as first alternate, closed out his 66 with birdies on the last three holes. His lone bogey of the day came on the 13th hole, when he shanked a wedge.

Nichols sank a sand wedge from the fairway on the first hole for eagle, birdied No. 2, bogeyed No. 3 when his tee shot found the hazard and went on to log five more birdies and one more bogey for his 66.

Betley, a former motorcycle cop from Ogden, was even par after the front nine, then made a move with five birdies the back side for a 31.

Moody, a virtual unknown on the tour, played with a sprained ankle.

PGA: Anger helps Daly eagle lengthy par 5

(From 1B)

"I have a great ability to fly the ball over trouble," said Daly, whose best finish in a PGA Tour event was a tie for third last month at the Chattanooga Classic. "Other than my shoulder turn, I'm not sure where my power comes from. It's a great advantage when I'm hitting it straight."

He has done just that at Crooked Stick, where he has consistently hit mid-to-short irons from the fairway to long par-4s while most of the field has been forced to hit long irons and even fairway woods. Daly has also birdied or eagled six of the eight par-5's he has played so far.

"Hopefully the weather will stay the way it is, even more rain would be fine," said Daly, who is hitting the ball very straight with a ceramic-headed driver he has been using for two months. "I'm telling myself it's just another golf tournament. I'm just going to swing as hard as I can and make birdies."

Even playing in this year's PGA was a minor miracle for Daly. He was the ninth alternate for the tournament as of Monday. By Wednesday, he had moved up to first alternate. He drove seven and a half hours from Memphis to Indianapolis.

When he arrived in the wee hours of Thursday morning, he learned he was in the field by virtue of the withdrawal of Nick Price, whose wife gave birth to a son on Friday morning.

When Daly teed off on Thursday, he still had not seen the golf course. But he enlisted Price's caddie, who had studied the course, and shot a solid 69.

On Friday, Daly played a spectacular round. Despite a double bogey on the 195-yard par-3 sixth hole, he was one under for the day. But he put a wedge approach into a greenside bunker on the 438-yard eighth hole, and went on to miss a three-foot putt for his par.

"I told my caddie I was pretty mad and I was going to kill my drive on nine," said Daly, who said his biggest problem in competition had been controlling his temper.

Crooked Stick's wicked 18th hole proves deadly

Associated Press

CARMEL, Ind. — The PGA Championship was only half over Friday, and already the 18th hole at Crooked Stick Golf Club had secured a place in history for its wicked, wicked ways.

"I just don't know about that hole," lamented Shawn McEntee.

He had ended his second round and his tournament with a score of 12 on the hole, the highest one-hole tally on the PGA Tour since Ed Dougherty took 13 putts before carding a 14 at Pebble Beach last year.

But McEntee, a club pro from Santa Cruz, Calif., wasn't alone. Shortly after he labored through the 445-yard, par-4 behemoth, touring pro Gary Hallberg also took a 12 on No. 18.

"I guess it's good for the amateurs to see us do things like that every once in a while," said McEntee, 34, who was playing in his second PGA.

PGA Tour statisticians said they didn't know of any comparable high-scoring tandem, and said the odds of two 12s on a par-4 in one day of a pro tournament were too high to calculate.

McEntee and Hallberg had the worst of it, but they were hardly alone.

Almost two dozen golfers made double bogey or worse on Friday. Jack Nicklaus and Raymond Floyd were among them after putting their drives in the water for the second day in a row.

On the first day of the tournament, there were 12 scores of double bogey or worse.

Even long-hitting John Daly, an early tournament leader who birdied the hole after knocking a 163-yard 7 iron within 8 feet, said it was the hardest 18th hole he had ever seen.

All the talk brought a wry smile to the face of famed golf course architect Pete Dye.

Crooked Stick was his first major course, and one he has refined with devilish touches over the past 25 years. The 18th is the consummation of his work.

"I have said that a golf course should build in difficulty as it goes around. You ought to make the 18th the hardest hole on the golf course," he said.

He did that at Crooked Stick by pushing the tees back 40 yards to ensure that professionals would have to use drivers. And he put a premium on accurate drives by expanding what had been a greenside pond into a lake that runs 200 yards along the right edge of the fairway. The water makes a little cut in the driving landing area.

McEntee, who was 2 over par going into the last hole, cut his drive into the water and then sank three more from the point of entry before getting it near the green.

"We might have to give him a cake with 12 candles on it when he gets back," said Grant Barnes, McEntee's assistant at Pasatiempo Golf Club.

Hallberg's drive on 18 landed in the fairway, but he put his second shot and three more into the water just to the right of the green.

Strange to undergo tests

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Two-time U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange is planning to undergo medical tests after experiencing dizziness and persistent headaches the past few weeks, a newspaper reported Friday.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch said in its Friday editions that Strange will be examined next week at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

"I'm not going to play any more tournament golf until this is taken care of," Strange told the newspaper.

Ex-Tar Heel arrested

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Former North Carolina basketball player King Rice was charged Friday with driving while impaired after registering twice the legal level of blood alcohol, according to a Chapel Hill police report.

Rice, 22, of Binghamton, N.Y., was a starting guard on last season's Tar Heel team, which made it to the NCAA Final Four.

Three atop LPGA

Associated Press

STRATTON MOUNTAIN, Vt. — Local favorite Patty Sheehan and defending champion Cathy Gerring joined Deb Richard in another three-way tie after Friday's soggy second round of the $450,000 LPGA Stratton Mountain Classic.

Sheehan and Gerring, struggling to regain their winning form, shot 5-under-par 67s. Richard, seeking her second straight victory, had a 70 to match them at 6-under 138 through 36 holes.

Rosie Jones and Laura Baugh, who shared the first-round lead with Richard, didn't fare as well. Jones fell two shots back with a 72, while Laura Baugh soared to a 76 and fell six strokes behind.

Pat Bradley, the tour's leading money-winner, shot a 72 for 141 and was tied with Melissa McNamara and Sue Thomas, who shot 70s.

OILERS: Carlson roughed up in relief of starter Moon pass to Tracy Johnson and Warren Moon squeezed a pass through Atlanta's defense for an 11-yard touchdown pass to Ernest Givins for a 7-7 first-quarter deadlock.

(From 1B)

Miller opened up in the second quarter, firing touchdown bombs of 57 and 67 yards to Haynes, who outdistanced the Oilers' secondary each time as the Falcons took a 20-7 halftime lead.

"It was an ugly night from a defensive standpoint," Oilers coach Jack Pardee said. "We've just got to get our people back. Defensively we're struggling. Ray Childress and Jeff Alm are hurt. I'm concerned about the deep balls. That's all San Diego got on us."

The Oilers (0-2) lost to San Diego 31-29 in their exhibition opener.

Moon eluded a rush by cornerback William Evers and threw past a dive by safety Scott Chase to Givins to tie the score in the first quarter. Moon played only the first quarter, hitting 7 of 11 passes for 82 yards.

"I'm a little concerned," Moon said. "We want to look better as a team but we haven't had a chance because of holdouts and injuries. You have to remember Atlanta played its first team nearly the whole game. We played a lot of people."

Houston drove to Atlanta's 6 in the third quarter but a fourth-down pass from Cody Carlson to Cedric Jones was incomplete. Carlson completed 10 of 24 passes for 81 yards.

Rich Karlis kicked a 28-yard field goal with 14:04 left in the game, set up by Miller's 60-yard pass to Haynes.

Magic says he'll play 3 more years

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — This summer has given Magic Johnson a chance to map out his future.

Johnson

The itinerary includes three more years with the Lakers, a spot on the 1992 Olympic team, a season playing basketball in Europe and then perhaps a career as an NBA owner.

"After this season, league rules will allow the Lakers to re-structure my contract," Johnson said in an interview with the South Bay Daily Breeze. "I want to set it up to play two additional years.

"Then, I'd like to see what basketball in Europe is all about. A season there would wind it up."

Johnson, who turns 32 next week, replaced his original agent, George Andrews of Chicago, with a local team of agents three years ago. The idea was to become wealthy enough to eventually buy an NBA team.

"I have a group of 10 that'll be ready when the time comes," Johnson said. "I don't want to coach. I want to own a team and that's what I've been working toward to."

And he works full-time. In the offseason, Johnson keeps busy with appearances and managing his business affairs.

He recently returned from a promotional tour in Spain. During a week in Los Angeles, he put on his annual Magic Johnson All-Star Game, which raised $1.5 million for the United Negro College Fund. He spent all of Tuesday filming a commercial. On Thursday, he left for a week in the Caribbean.

"I rest in September so I'll be fresh for the start of training camp (Oct. 1)," he said. "I know everything else I do depends on my success in basketball. I keep in shape. I don't shortchange basketball."

As a collegian, Johnson missed out on the Olympics. He left Michigan State after his sophomore year in 1979, but even if he'd stayed, the U.S. boycott of the 1980 Games in Moscow would have prevented him from competing. Now that pros are eligible to compete in basketball, he's eager to play.

"I've talked to Chuck Daly and we're all set," Johnson said. "Missing out on the Olympics as an amateur leaves something incomplete in my basketball career.

"It's like in baseball where a batter hits for the cycle. Well, I need a single to complete my cycle. I've accomplished everything else.

"Sure, it's going to be a lot of basketball. We'll play this season and then go right into the Olympics. But to realize a dream, to fulfill a goal, it's worth the sacrifice.

"You get opportunities in life you can't pass over. When would I get a chance like this again?"

Johnson said pros are needed for the United States to regain a position of prominence in international basketball.

"Our amateur teams have been struggling in recent years," he said. "Times have changed. The job is too tough for college boys now because other countries are using their pros."

Rested U.S. squashes Bahamians

Associated Press

HAVANA — Fresh from a three-night jaunt to a luxury hotel in Miami, the pampered U.S. men's basketball team answered critics of the trip with another display of excess.

As if to show that the vacation from the Pan American Games athletes village was worth it, the U.S. team pounded a little squad from the Bahamas 116-58 Friday night after starting out with an almost comical 18-0 streak.

The victory, which gave the Americans a 4-0 record, meant nothing to them in the tournament, since they'd already clinched the top spot in their pool. But doubling the score of anybody was still impressive, right up to the final reverse two-handed dunk at the buzzer by Walt Williams.

Some American athletes on other teams perceived the basketball players' trip as snobbishness, and some Cubans felt their hospitality was being snubbed, but the fans responded to the U.S. dunkathon with nothing but cheers.

Bill Wall, executive director of USA Basketball, brushed off the criticism as envy and misunderstanding.

First of all, the team didn't exactly stay in Miami. It stayed in the Mayfair House in Coconut Grove, a little more upscale, and got a corporate rate lower than the usual $175 a night rate. That included mints on the pillows at night. And unlike the athletes village in Havana, the toilets had seats.

Second, the U.S. basketball players always are treated better than everyone else, flying first class to and from the 1988 Seoul Olympics, for example, because most of them will be millionaires in the NBA someday and have to get used to the style.

"We do things differently," Wall said. "We can't help what people say. George (Steinbrenner) knows this. When you're the Yankees, everybody takes a shot at you. And the Yankees got that way, the top teams get that way by paying the best salaries, taking good care of people. Hey, everybody takes shots at us in this hemisphere. Ask them if they like George Bush."

Without doing a poll in Cuba on the popularity of the president, it is fair to assume he rates lower than the American players, who put on a clinic in slam-dunking that would be the envy of Michael Jordan.

All 12 players scored, and six hit double figures, including 21 by Terry Dehere, 19 by James Jackson and 17 by Williams.

Neither the players nor coach Gene Keady could understand the furor over their trip to Miami, which was criticized by members of the women's basketball team, wrestlers, other U.S. athletes and, quietly, by some Cubans.

"We have the highest respect for the Cubans," Keady said. "We went because we wanted some practice. We planned to do that from the get-go. We planned to do that three times, but we probably won't.

"I don't understand why it's an issue. We want to get a gold medal. That's the bottom line. We did it because we thought it would be good for the players."

He argued that there was no nearby practice court for the team in Havana. The backboards at the court where it was scheduled to practice were moved to the game arena, where they were needed after two broke earlier in the week.

The other practice facility they could use was an hour away from the athletes village, and practice time was limited to 45 minutes a day. Keady figured it would be better to take a short flight to Miami and get in longer sessions than hassle with the problems here. If the other teams couldn't afford to do the same, well, that was their problem.

Dehere said going back to work out in the University of Miami gym helped him smooth some wrinkles in his game and pull the team together.

"We didn't look at Cuba being a vacation. We came here to play basketball and come home with a gold medal," he said.

The swimmers came for lots of gold medals. The swiftest U.S. swimmers may not be here, but the ones who showed up say they're good enough to beat everyone else and restore some pride to an American team that is way behind in the search for gold.

"The Cubans are so far ahead in the gold medal count, swimming is the only way to close the gap, and I think we will," said U.S. men's swim coach Joe Bernal. "In the United States we call them firemen. We're going to put the blaze out.

"It's a great motivator and an exciting position to be in. The goal for the men's team is to win 14 or 15 of the 16 events, if not sweep the whole thing. We have definitely made a pact that we're going to win all three relays."

Canada's baseball team Friday protested the 7-5 victory awarded to Mexico when the game was called Thursday after five innings following a bench-clearing brawl. After a six-hour meeting, Pan Am officials still had not announced a decision.

"We are protesting the result simply because we contend their team was the first off the bench," said Canadian team leader Harvey Bailie. "We believe the penalty shouldn't go against us."

Other Malone receives salary boost at Utah

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — The Utah Jazz signed guard Jeff Malone, the team's No. 2 scorer, to a five-year contract reportedly worth about $2 million a year.

"I'm happy and very excited," Malone said Friday. "I wanted to be here. I wanted to finish my career here. It took a little time to work out, but I got the years I wanted."

Malone earned $916,000 last year and became a restricted free agent at the end of last season. If he had accepted an offer from another NBA team, the Jazz would have had the opportunity to match it.

Malone, 30, averaged 18.6 points a game on .508 percent shooting in his first season with the Jazz. He had the second-best free throw percentage in the NBA at 91 percent.

During the playoffs he upped his scoring average to 20.7 points a game.

The two-time All-Star with the Washington Bullets was acquired by the Jazz on June 27, 1990, in a three-team deal.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numberical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key(*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key(*). Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

ANALYSIS

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, getting little benefit out of the latest news on inflation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.82 points to 3,019.68 by 2 p.m. on Wall Street.

But losers slightly outpaced gainers in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 690 up, 755 down and 557 unchanged.

The Labor Department reported that the producer price index of finished goods dropped 0.2 percent in July, after taking a 0.3 percent drop the month before.

Excluding food and energy prices, which are often subject to sharp swings, the index was up 0.2 percent last month.

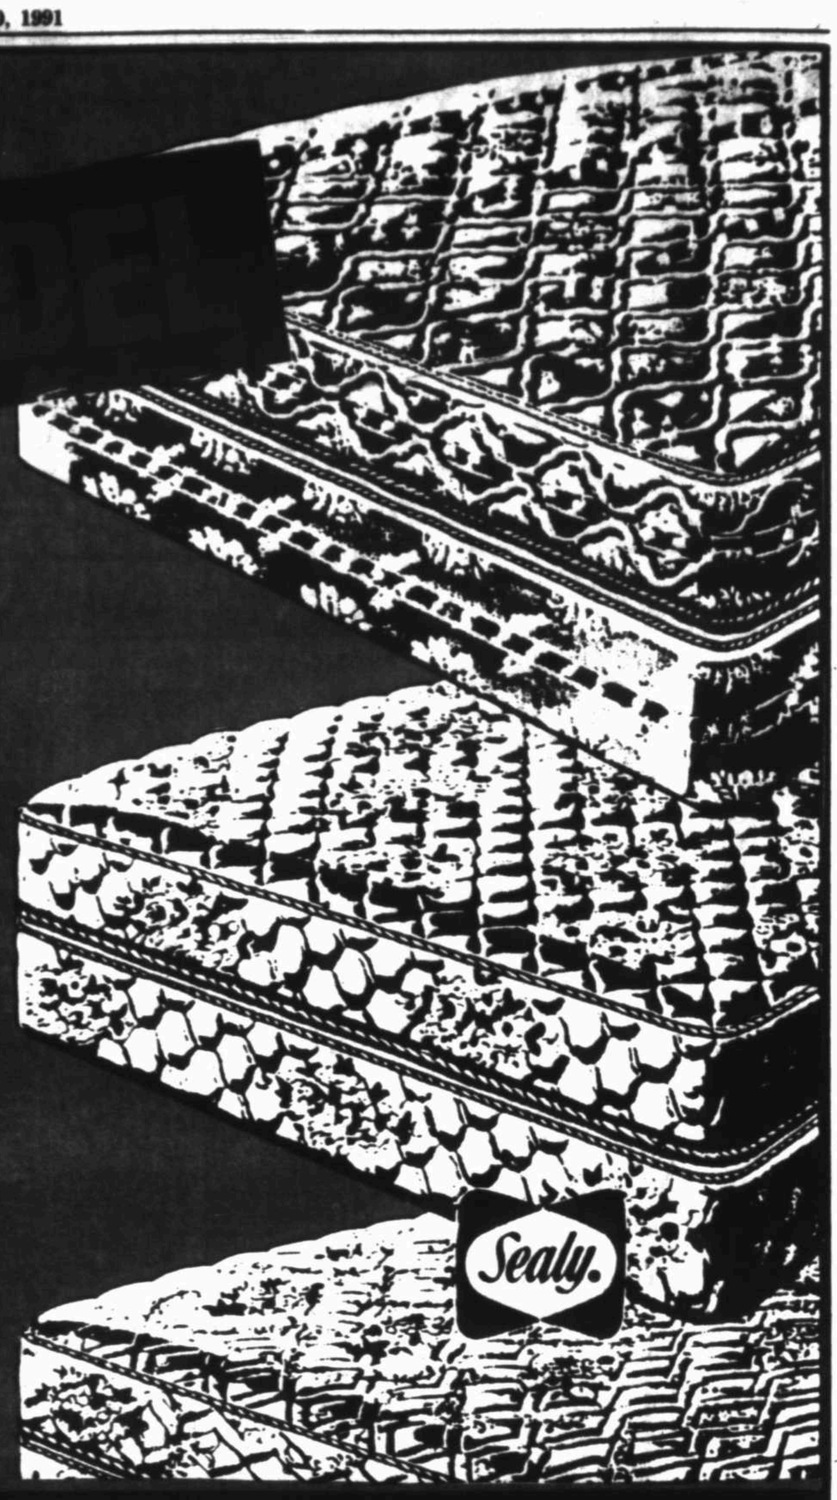

Read either way, the data strongly suggested that the Federal Reserve would not be deterred from easing credit conditions in the near future by inflation worries. Interest rates declined slightly in the credit markets after the numbers came out.

But traders seemed to be having trouble working up much enthusiasm for stocks after several unsuccessful runs over the past few days at a record high in the Dow Jones industrial average.

Shares of leading health maintenance organization companies were broadly lower in selling attributed partly to a negative report by a brokerage firm.

Solace in the Shadow

Perhaps the occupants of these chairs have gone for a swim in the surf or a stroll on the sand on this hot August day. No doubt, however, they will soon return to their comfortable spot on the beach, protected by the shadow of their umbrella, where the sand cannot scorch their feet, nor the sun burn their skin.

No matter what the season, we need a place of comfort . . . a place of solace . . . a refuge from the pressures of everyday.

Enter God's house knowing that you shall find a place of comfort and relief. In Isaiah 25:4-5, we are assured that God is our "shade from the heat" . . . and Isaiah praises God as he further proclaims "thou dost subdue the noise of the aliens as heat by the shade of a cloud."

Seek your solace in the shadow of the protective love of our Almighty Father. Worship Him this week. You will find comfort in His house.

The vigil was set aside as a time to pray specifically for the community of Midland, its local concerns, and national problems such as crime, drugs, AIDS and abortion.

The vigil, held on the second weekend of each month at a different location, begins at noon Friday and continues until midnight Saturday. The designated building is open round the clock between those hours for people to attend at their convenience.

Those going on the trip will leave Midland Oct. 14 and return Oct. 26. In addition to the conference, the trip includes touring Niagara Falls, Toronto and Montreal, Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Boston. Cost of the airline is $450. "We need 20-plus people," said Elliott.

At this time, 17 have signed up. There is room for close to 40.

In addition, the response has been positive to the church's trip planned to Houston and San Antonio in December

"We currently have 86 who have indicated a desire to go," Elliott said. "As a result, we will take a second charter bus for a total of 86 persons."

The cost is $110, which includes the charter, two nights lodgings with two to a room and a ticket to the Christmas Pageant at First Baptist Church, Houston. Marketing religious life isn't panacea, administrator says

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The newly elected superior general of the Roman Catholic Society of Mary, called Marianists, says that Madison Avenue-style marketing of religious life likely will not produce more recruits to it.

The Rev. Quentin Hakenewerth, noting such recent attempts, told a general chapter meeting of the order at the University of Dayton: "We may have tried to sell vocations as a consumer product and not realized what we were doing.

"Religion is not a consumer product — it's a direction of life. Marketing is not the whole answer. Mother Teresa doesn't market herself. What she does is tell her story and it carries its own weight. ... That's our challenge, too."

Fighting racism is church's top priority

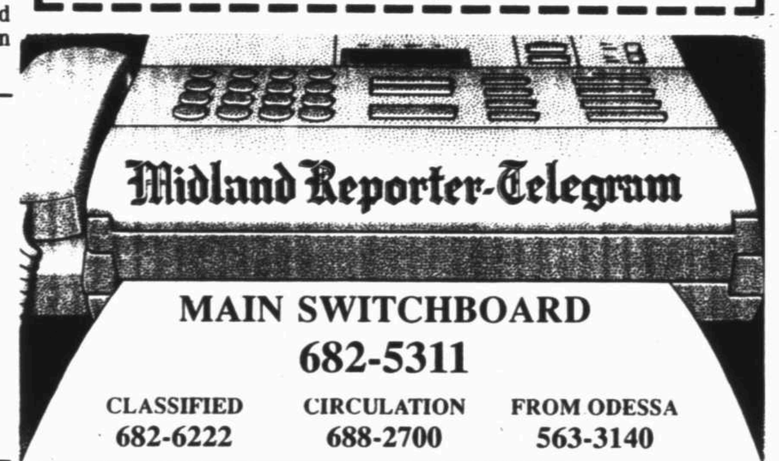

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The 150,000-member Church of the Brethren, one of the country's traditional "peace" churches, resolved at its annual meeting here to give "high priority" to combatting racism.

The resolution calls for establishing a relationship with a black denomination to increase understanding, adding of a black staff worker to work full time in black ministries, and giving increased time to urban ministries.

The church noted that less than a half of 1 percent of its own members are black.

Bondholders end up victims of Gorman-Swaggart feud

Associated Press

Retired professor Bob H. Wilson never dreamed he'd end up a victim of a feud between two TV evangelists, but now $89,000 of his life savings is at risk because of the sexual escapades of Jimmy Swaggart and Marvin Gorman.

Wilson and thousands of other investors bought more than $10 million worth of bonds in the New Orleans church run by Gorman to finance a shopping center acquisition and construction of an adjacent church in 1985.

The bonds paid a nice return — 14 percent. And, Wilson said, investing in a growing, popular church seemed like a low-risk proposition.

"It has been a difficult loss to accept since what appeared to be such a worthwhile endeavor and investment apparently was destroyed by the behavior of two individuals," said Wilson, a retired Louisiana State University agriculture professor who now lives in Texas.

"It's a church — a good cause," Wilson said. "It's a group that should stand by its word, and we thought it was extremely safe."

But within a year of the sale of the bonds, Gorman was defrocked amid allegations of sexual improprieties — allegations he now claims were made by his rival, Swaggart. Gorman left his First Assembly of God parish, the church lost membership and the bonds have been in default since 1987.

Documents obtained by The Associated Press indicate that the church's total income fell from $4.2 million in 1986 to $1.2 million last year, and that the church has lost more than 1,000 contributors.

Gorman is now suing Swaggart and others for $90 million, claiming the evangelist headed a scheme to destroy Gorman's ministry. The trial is being conducted in New Orleans. Among the claims are that Swaggart and his allies spread false stories about Gorman's involvement in adulterous affairs. Gorman admitted to one affair when he resigned.

Swaggart himself was defrocked in 1988 after Gorman supplied photos of Swaggart with a prostitute to leaders of the Assemblies of God, the nation's biggest Pentecostal denomination.

But the trial apparently will have little bearing on the bondholders, who lent money to the First Assembly of God church, not Gorman, who has already established another church for himself.

"Many people who bought the bonds in good faith and who have suffered more than anyone else as a result of this entire scenario have been forgotten," Wilson said. "I'm still young enough to have other assets, but we had a good little bundle in it."

Selling the church property and Airline Village Shopping Center that secured the debt might bring some repayment to the bondholders, but there have been no offers during the four years it has been for sale.

The bondholders' trustee has recommended letting the church continue to manage the property and hope for a sale, rather than foreclose and auction off the church and shopping center.

Church bonds are investments that trade on faith. Churches issue bonds to finance construction and expansion, and repay the debt with tithings. Exempt from registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission, they are not registered with any stock or bond exchange, not traded on a market, not rated by any of the major financial rating agencies. They also often pay a premium interest rate.

Officials who have taken over First Assembly of God from Gorman refused to comment on the bonds, as did the trustee for the bondholders, Trust Management Inc. of Fort Worth, Texas. They also refused to reveal how many bondholders there are.

Charles Martin, president of the investment banking firm that sold the bonds, A.B. Culbertson and Co. of Fort Worth, also declined comment on specifics of the First Assembly bonds. Martin did say that only 20 of the 2,600 church bond issues Culbertson has sold since 1954 have had a problem.

"This just happens to be a big one," Martin said.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Be prepared to make important decisions. Employment opportunities arise in October. Business booms in November. December could find you in love but not yet ready to make a commitment. January 1992 brings new friends and group affiliations. Patch up any differences with family members at a reunion early next summer.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Jimmy Dean, actress Rhonda Fleming, fashion designer Betsy Johnson, President Herbert Hoover.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Household or family matters remain a major focus. You need to show sensitivity as well as practicality. A large social gathering sounds like fun tonight. Share a secret with close friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Marriage could lead to new financial rewards, as could a partnership with an older person. Insist on being consulted about authorizing major expenditures. A platonic relationship begins to intensify.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Playful talk will lead to love along a new path. Be more sensitive to the feelings of your mate and family. A subtle approach will work best when seeking a favor.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Household and family questions can be answered with aplomb. Love is real and intense. Your mate and your friends have much to learn from each other. Your plans are very solid.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): An exciting partnership occupies your thoughts. Certain details still need to be worked out. Adopt a give-and-take attitude. An excellent evening to dine in a glamorous setting. Dress to impress.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can accomplish a lot more at home once you have gained a loved one's cooperation. Show sensitivity when someone confides their hopes and fears. Romance thrives on consideration. Pamper your mate tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Going somewhere with close friends will be good for you. Try something new. Put any work worries out of your mind until Monday. Phone someone who has helped you in the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be living for other people now. Review your options. Discuss a difficult situation calmly and do not insist on having your own way. Stay in close touch with your loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) A good day for heart-to-heart talks. You instinctively know the best way to help someone who is unhappy. Be a good listener. Entertain friends in a relaxed setting. Keep the menu simple.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Although you dislike loose ends, you may not be able to finish everything you start today. Your dedication to your work is understood and admired by those who love you. Welcome romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Rearranging your household possessions proves very satisfying. You and your mate are on the same wavelength. Let pleasures happen rather than seeking them out. Dress your best if attending a social event.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A loved one's hidden problems come to light. You can help by being sympathetic. Curtail any disagreements over philosophy or method. Get out and find new sources of fun.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are outgoing, generous and very intelligent. They have a passion for both hard work and humanitarian causes. Although political life holds special interest for these Leos, they often become disenchanted with the deal-making it entails. They tend to take people at face value and will be deeply hurt if betrayed. A tendency to focus almost exclusively on work may make it difficult for these Leos to find lasting romance. The ideal mate will share their commitment to improving the world!

Charlie Sheen says family forced him to get treatment

NEW YORK — Actor Charlie Sheen says he thought he was going to a birthday party at his family's home in Malibu, Calif., but he walked into an ambush intended to make him get treatment for his alcoholism.

Sheen

"There was no party. It was just my family," he says in this week's Parade magazine. "They said, 'Sit down. We're gonna talk.' And we had it out. It was then that I realized I was an alcoholic," Sheen said.

Sheen, 25, said his family, including dad Martin Sheen and brother Emilio Estevez, encouraged him to get treatment last summer.

During the filming of "Wall Street" in 1987, he said "things got really screwed up ... I'd be drinking away, doing some blow, popping pills and telling myself I wasn't an addict because there wasn't a needle in my arm."

Sheen stars in the current hit comedy "Hot Shots!"

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Martin Short is not surprised his eclectic style hasn't exactly turned Hollywood on its ear.

"This is a very cautious town and Hollywood people don't hand stardom over to you for no good business," Short said in a recent interview to promote his new film, "Pure Luck."

"They're businessmen and this is a business," he said.

When Short came to Hollywood five years ago from television's "Saturday Night Live," he had dreams of quick success. The first script he was sent was "Hot to Trot," a film about a talking horse.

"I thought they couldn't possibly be serious about this, but eventually I realized that this was Hollywood's idea of a hot script, particularly in a world of talking babies," he said.

"At that point, I knew that stardom, if it ever did come, wouldn't come fast. I would have to be patient and do the scripts that interested me."

Short's first film role was in "Three Amigos," co-starring Chevy Chase and Steve Martin. He followed with "Innerspace," "Cross My Heart," "Three Fugitives" and "The Big Picture."

In "Pure Luck," he stars as an accountant enlisted to help find his boss' missing daughter.

BURBANK, Calif. — Linda Ronstadt has recorded two songs in Spanish for the film "The Mambo Kings," a story about two Cubans who find fame in America during the 1950s.

Actor Armand Assante stars in the movie, which will include performances by singers Tito Puente and Celia Cruz. Miss Ronstadt's songs are titled "Perfidia" and "Quiereme Mucho."

"I've always loved this music and this era," Miss Ronstadt said. "Certainly Latin music and the Latin roots of popular American music have held an enduring fascination for me, and I've recorded many sounds reflecting that.

"I'm glad I was asked to participate in the soundtrack for 'The Mambo Kings,' which tells a story characteristic of so many talented Hispanic musicians and artists who came to this country."

The film, due for Christmas release, was adapted from Oscar Hijuelos' Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "The Mambo Kings Play Songs of Love."

KHARTOUM, Sudan — Mother Teresa has offered her help to Sudanese children affected by war and drought, the Sudan News Agency reported.

Mother Teresa

The Nobel Peace Prize-winning nun met Thursday with Brig. Dominic Kassiano, member of the ruling Revolutionary Command Council, and offered the services of her India-based missionary organization to help young victims of war and drought, the news agency said.

A civil war has ravaged southern Sudan since 1983, displacing millions of civilians, and a drought in most of the Africa's largest nation has exacerbated a famine that has affected millions more.

PANAREA, Italy — Prince Charles and Princess Diana lunched with renowned Italian fashion designer Valentino aboard his yacht during their Mediterranean cruise.

The British royal couple's 50-meter yacht, Alexandra, dropped anchor near the tiny island of Panarea in the Eolie archipelago north of Sicily. The couple did not visit the island, but transferred to Valentino's yacht for lunch Thursday, the Italian news agency AGI reported.

The agency said the royal yacht was immediately surrounded by a cluster of boats full of vacationers trying to catch a glimpse of the heir to the British throne and his wife.

Italian and British newspapers have speculated the couple will retrace the stops of their original honeymoon along the southern Italian coast, Sicily and Greece.

Educators turn to churches in America's inner cities

By Susan Chira

c.1991 N.Y. Times News Service

CHICAGO — Those who would save America's inner-city schools are discovering a long-neglected resource — the black church.

From after-school tutorials to summer schools, computer classes to family science activities, black churches are renewing their historic commitment to education.

But now they are getting money from private foundations and some government agencies, who see black churches as their best link to children in neighborhoods beset by poverty, violence and school failure.

For years, these donors shunned religious institutions, worried about the separation of church and state. Now, however, many have come to believe that churches, by their very nature, can supplement what many see as gaping holes in public schools — providing moral or religious training and treating the whole range of social ills that doom many children to failure. To avoid church-state conflicts, most require that money go only to non-religious educational programs.

On just one summer day here, more than 500 children sit in makeshift classrooms in churches around the city, racing to chalkboards to work out mathematics problems or drawing pictures of the solar system.

In an unlikely pairing of science and religion, the National Science Foundation, a government agency, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a professional group, are financing hundreds of instructional programs in black churches here and around the country to improve math, science and computer skills.

The Association for the Advancement of Science has spent $800,000 over the last four years for such programs in 800 churches in 17 cities. Private foundations are also giving money. Carnegie Corp., for example, has given $2.3 million for church-based educational programs in nine cities.

Such church educational offerings include preschools, classes in how to be a parent and special programs tailored to young black men. Most of the children in the programs are not members of churches, but are often those the public schools have failed.

Black churches stepped up their educational programs as concern mounted over the deterioation of inner-city public schools.

"We are responsible who live here," said Rev. Willie Gable, whose Progressive Baptist Church in New Orleans is spending $100,000 this year on educational programs and computer training, with help from Association for the Advancement of Science and Apple Computers.

"What's going on now in my community is something I can change. If each one of us reach one, teach one, we'll make a difference."

From their inception in the early 1800's, the predominantly Protestant black congregations in America have seen education as part of their mission, said the Rev. Alicia Byrd of the Congress of National Black Churches.

Many founded schools and colleges to educate black children barred from white schools. But as the public system expanded, many churches retreated, Ms. Byrd said. In the last several years, churches have renewed their efforts.

"If you want to deal effectively with the black community you have to deal with churches," Ms. Byrd said. "One, because they have the constituency, two, because they have the commitment to community service, and three, because churches have begun to do things."

One of the most ambitious projects in the country is here in Chicago, where more than 500 churches are working to improve the math, science and computer skills of the children they serve. This summer, 10 churches are offering summer school to the 500 students.

In Chicago, this Black Churches Project helps train church teachers and student tutors, designs the science, math and computer courses the churches offer, pays for field trips, recruits black science and math professionals to serve as mentors and speakers, and holds science and math workshops for families.

At the Excellent Way Church of God in Christ, a small storefront in one of Chicago's most violent and drug-ridden neighborhoods, summer school is in session.

Julia Ervin presides over two tables of students squeezed into the back of the room, across from the altar. Brightly-colored maps of Africa and drawings of spaceships cover the walls. At the other end of the room, a woman in curlers sits watching television in an overstuffed chair, one of the homeless who use the church as a shelter.

Despite the distractions, the children are attentive, working in small groups with Mrs. Ervin and two teen-age tutors.

"You've gone to the store," Ervin said to a young girl named Rose. "You have $1.02 and you purchased a pair of socks for 27 cents. Stop chewing your gum. Add or subtract? What are you going to do? Subtract? Good."

On average, said Dondieneita Fleary, who directs the Black Churches Project, which is administered by for the Urban League here, these children are three grade levels behind in school. One child has just been taken away from his mother because she smoked crack when pregnant with his younger sister.

But the children in the class were brimming with confidence, and eager to show off for a visitor. "I can't wait to get to school to get A's," said Michael Dameron, 10 years old, his words tumbling out.

"Here I got lots of As and I like this because it's a church and so if somebody lies here they get struck down. I like science, we do the solar system and I found out the Sun is a star."

Du Pont workers fret over layoffs

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Uncertain about the looming layoffs of perhaps 10,000 employees, Du Pont engineer James P. Neal is updating his job resume for the first time in 31 years.

Other employees say the anxiety prevents them from focusing on their jobs at the giant chemical company. And officials in Delaware are bracing for ripple effects throughout the economy of a state long dominated by Du Pont.

Du Pont recently announced plans to cut costs by $1 billion during the next two years in its U.S. operations. The company won't say how many jobs are targeted, but analysts predict about 10,000 will be lost, including about 4,000 in the Wilmington area.

The focus of the cuts is on support staff, not production workers, and that staff is concentrated in the Wilmington area.

Neal, a 56-year-old state senator, works in engineering, which Du Pont has said will lose 550 of its 2,800 workers.

Neal said he has been offered early retirement, but has not made a decision.

"It's hard to tell at this point how urgent it is to look for another job," he said.

Neal said if he were "fiscally prudent" he and his wife would cancel a 30th wedding anniversary trip this month, but they're going anyway.

Headquartered in Wilmington, Du Pont employs about 144,000 people worldwide. There are 26,000 Du Pont workers in Delaware, making it the state's largest employer. About 23,000 are in New Castle County, which includes Wilmington, a city of 71,500 people.

Du Pont employees are bitter and hurt.

"The psychological contract with a place like Du Pont is 'I give my worklife to you and you take care of me.' Now Du Pont is saying, 'You're not my kid anymore. I've disinherited you and you can fend for yourself,'" said Robin D. Reid, a management consultant with Cook Ross Associates in Chevy Chase, Md.

Fear of the unknown also produces anger and anxiety in workers because "someone else is making a decision about your job and therefore your life," Ms. Reid said.

"People have absolutely lost their focus on working for the Du Pont Company and they are worrying about their livelihood," said an employee who spoke only on condition of anonymity. She estimated productivity has been cut in half.

"All I hear on the (public bus) is 'Du Pont, Du Pont, Du Pont,' and all I hear is 'not knowing is killing me,'" said another worker, who also insisted on anonymity.

Employees are re-evaluating their lives, canceling trips and having second thoughts about big expenditures, one of the Du Pont workers said.

A 49-year-old worker, who restrained himself from using a four-letter word to describe the company where he's worked for three decades, said he's concerned about how he's going to put his children through college.

Others, however, say losing their jobs could be an opportunity to do something else, and they back the company's decision.

'Gone With the Wind' excerpt leaves readers wanting more

ATLANTA (AP) — The plot thickens and twists. Will Scarlett say fiddle-dee-dee to Rhett's offer of gold, to leave him alone forever?

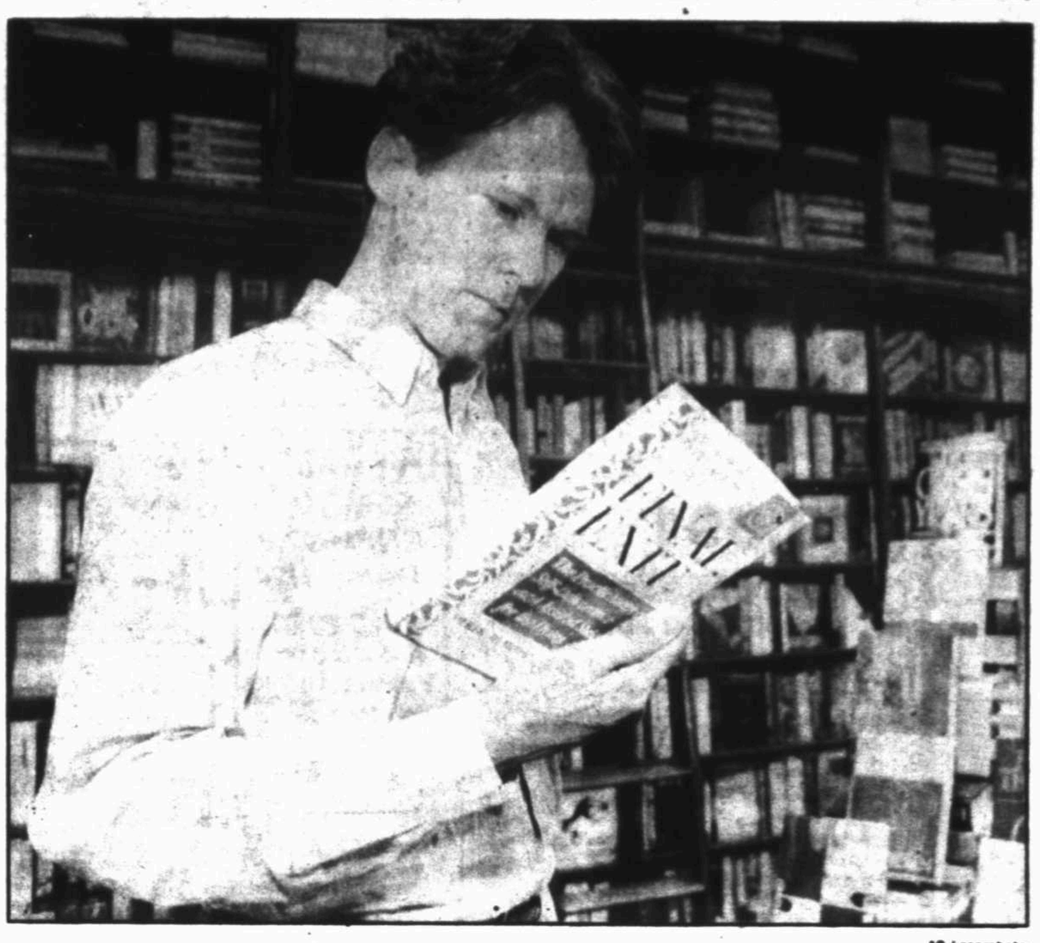

Whether the most famous fictional couple of the Old South live happily ever after wasn't revealed in Life magazine's first excerpt from Alexandra Ripley's much anticipated sequel to "Gone With the Wind."

The excerpt reveals that Rhett Butler and the tempestuous Scarlett O'Hara reunite briefly in Charleston, S.C., where Rhett offers her half a million in gold if she'll go away for good.

Before you can say fiddle-dee-dee, Rhett divorces Scarlett and marries Anne Hampton, a new character. Scarlett — pregnant via a brief encounter with Rhett — learns the news while visiting Ireland to lick her wounds in the birthplace of the O'Haras.

Ms. Ripley, handpicked by the estate of Margaret Mitchell to write the sequel, spent months researching the period. She handcopied Miss Mitchell's words to develop a sense for her style.

You be the judge.

Dr. Scott Cook, associate professor of philosophy at San Jose State University looks at a copy of 'Final Exit,' a book by Derek Humphry in a Manhattan bookstore.

Easy way out

Top-selling book offers painless suicide methods

NEW YORK (AP) — A new book that explains how terminally ill people can commit suicide painlessly has raced to the top of a best seller list, prompting warnings from opponents of euthanasia.

"Final Exit" by Derek Humphry debuts on The New York Times' hardcover best seller list this week as No. 1 in the advice category.

The book, printed in large type, explains how patients facing "unbearable suffering" can kill themselves with prescription sleeping pills.

It features a table of lethal drug dosages, as well as precise tips and instructions. Chapter titles include "How Do You Get the Magic Pills?" "Self-Deliverance Via the Plastic Bag," and, for couples, "Going Together?"

"It's the height of irresponsibility to market this book for the general population, which includes momentarily despondent people, depressed teenagers and anyone else with $20 or a library card," Richard Doerflinger of the Secretariat for Pro-Life Activities of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops said Friday.

"It's a disturbing comment on our age that this how-to book could be a best seller," he said. "'American Psycho' (a lurid novel published earlier this year) just talked about killing. This actually gives recipes."

Derek Humphry is a former Los Angeles Times reporter and founder of the Hemlock Society, a right-to-die group. The society has issued other publications containing much of the information in "Final Exit," but they were neither heavily advertised nor widely available in bookstores.

Kris Larson of the Hemlock Society said "Final Exit" endangers no one, since the sleeping pills Humphry recommends cannot be obtained without a doctor's prescription. Despondent teenagers, she said, "would find it easier to shoot themselves or jump off a bridge."

The book, she said, advocates "a non-violent, warm and understanding end-of-life situation with your family." The book also discusses other suicide options, such as starvation, but recommends against them.

About a quarter of the book is addressed to physicians, prompting the ire of the medical establishment.

"The idea of physician as merchant of death is repugnant," said Dr. Lonnie Bristow, a California internist and member of the board of the American Medical Association. "Assisting patients to commit suicide is both ethically wrong and legally wrong."

VA cuts interest on loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Veterans Affairs is lowering its maximum interest rate for federally backed VA home mortgages to 9 percent from 9.5 percent, it announced Friday.

The new rate is effective Monday.

"This change ... marks a turnaround in the credit market conditions which caused VA to raise the rate from 9 (percent) to 9.5 percent as recently as June 17," the department said.

Shortly before the VA announcement, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said fixed-rate mortgages averaged 9.27 percent this week, just two basis points above its 1991 low.

The rate this week, down from 9.44 percent last week, was the lowest since it fell to 9.25 percent during the week ending Feb. 15, according to the Freddie Mac survey.

Since February, the rate had risen as high as 9.67 percent during the last week in June. The high for the year was 9.75 percent during the week ending Jan. 18.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 7.14 percent, down from 7.22 percent last week and the lowest since Freddie Mac began tracking ARMs in 1984.

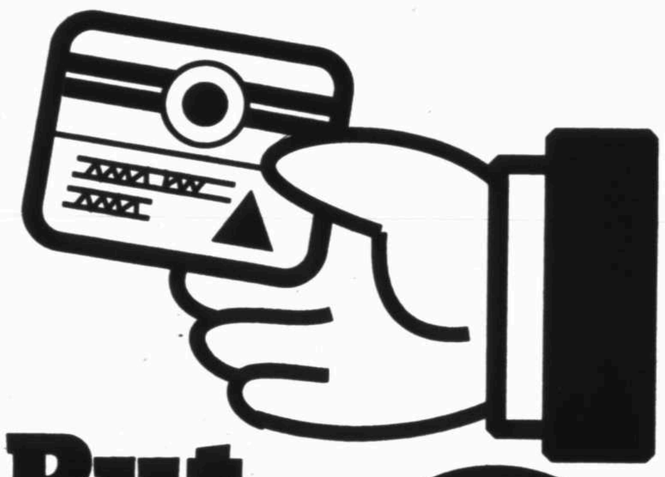

The rates do not include add-on fees known as points.

The new VA rate means that the monthly payments for principal and interest on a typical VA loan of $80,000 would drop $28.99 to $643.70. This represents potential savings to the borrower of more than $10,000 over the life of a 30-year loan, it said.

The department also lowered by one-half percentage point the maximum rates for graduated payment mortgages to 9.25 percent, home improvement loans to 10.5 percent, manufactured home loans to 11.5 percent, manufactured home lot-only loans to 11 percent and manufactured home and lot loans to 11 percent.

VA home loan guarantees may be used to purchase, improve or refinance a house or condominium and to purchase or refinance a manufactured home.
