Dead Girl

This snapshot shows John Bryant Jr., 20, and his fiancée, Mary Lily Roberts, 17. Her body was found in a well at an abandoned house in Herrin, Ill. She was kidnapped from Bryant's car on a lovers' lane in nearby Carbondale. Bryant was shot in the face and seriously wounded by the kidnaper.

Mrs. Croteau Seriously Hurt In Car Crash

Slippery pavement, caused by a heavy shower, was blamed for a major accident at 8:20 p.m. Monday. Two persons were injured, one seriously.

The mishap occurred six miles east of Big Spring on Interstate 20. State Highway Patrol officers who worked the accident said the car, a 1955 Oldsmobile, was driven by Bill Terrell Baker, 31, who lives at 911 West 6th. He is a mail carrier.

His passenger, Mrs. Janice Rankin Croteau, 25, a beauty operator who lives at 2210 Johnson, is in the Howard County Hospital Foundation in serious condition. She has a fractured pelvis, fractured skull and fractured hip. She suffered severe cuts and lacerations.

According to the patrol, Baker and Mrs. Croteau were traveling east. The driver lost control of the vehicle due to the slippery paving and it turned over twice. Mrs. Croteau was thrown from the car and sent skidding 60 feet along the paving.

Baker escaped with minor injuries. He was admitted to the hospital but his condition is not regarded as serious.

Nalley-Pickel "and River both sent ambulances to the scene. The former brought Baker to the hospital and Mrs. Croteau was brought in by River.

Two Hearings Set Sept. 12

Two public hearings were called on property zoning by the planning and zoning commission Monday. The hearings are slated for Sept. 12 and bring the number of hearings at that time to four.

Monday the commission, during a special meeting, granted hearings on property owned by Eugene Thomas and Dr. Akin M. Simpson, on West U.S. 80, and property owned by Hank McDaniel, at Wason Rd. and Marcy Dr. Both requests are for commercial zoning.

The Thomas and Simpson property is presently an A, residential, zone. It is north of the West U.S. 80 Y. About eight acres are included, with about 1,400 feet frontage on the highway.

McDaniel requested that his property, presently non-conforming commercial use, be zoned commercial.

The planning and zoning commission also voted to recommend to Marvin Springer, master plan consultant, that a triangle of land formed by the intersection of Ridge Rd. and State be left as a community business district.

Springer has recommended in the new zoning ordinance that the land be made residential. Carl Strom requested that the community business district zone, which now covers the area, be retained.

Other public hearings scheduled for Sept. 12 include the re-zoning of the Ralph Gossett property at South Gregg and Marcy Dr. from A, residential, to F, commercial, and the extension of the alcoholic beverage sales east and west to the city limits on 3rd and 4th Sts. All four of the public hearings will be held at 5:15 p.m.

Race Violence Flares Again In Florida

By The Associated Press

Violence flared early today despite emergency police powers ordered to curb the racial outbreaks that have plagued Jacksonville, Fla., with fire bombings and shootings.

The first death of the current trouble came when policemen returned gunfire at a car carrying two Negroes which crashed into a utility pole.

In Buford, Ga., 25 miles northeast of Atlanta, a rock-throwing racial fight Monday night brought about the arrest of two dozen white youths and about an equal number of Negroes.

The outbreaks came as New Orleans looked toward U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright for a decision on a plea for delay in his orders to integrate the city's first grades and as Delaware school authorities were under court order to speed up integration of their schools.

The Negro man killed in Jacksonville was not identified. Police officers who fired at the car in which he was riding said he had not been shot. A companion, identified as Willie Green, 44, of Jacksonville, said he did not know the dead man. They met in a bar and decided to ride around and "raise hell," Green told police.

An attendant at a service station fired upon by the Negroes narrowly escaped death. A bullet hit a pistol in his pocket and then punctured a can of oil in the pocket.

Fire bombs — kerosene-filled glass bottles — were thrown at a number of stores, causing damage estimated at $4,815. Several failed to explode or burned harmlessly outside the establishments.

The new outbreak in Jacksonville came despite emergency police powers invoked by Mayor Haydon Burns. He banned street gatherings of more than four persons and unnecessary auto traffic following fights and vandalism over the weekend.

Burns refused official sanction to a request from the Jacksonville Ministerial Alliance for a biracial committee to iron out the troubles. He said such committees in other towns have resulted in integration.

The Georgia incident began when Negroes reportedly hurled stones at cars occupied by white youths on the main street of the small community. The white youths chased the Negroes into the Negro section and continued the battle until police arrived.

School Signs Expected Today

Caution signs, designating 20 mile per hour speed limits through Big Spring school zones, were expected to arrive today for use Wednesday, the first day of school, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works.

The signs will be erected at the end of each block around the schools and the speed limit will be in force between the signs.

Dunn said that stripes designating crosswalks had already been painted at all the schools.

Castro Calls Giant Rally

HAVANA (AP) — Flaunting Cuba's "solidarity" with the Soviet Union, Fidel Castro early today called for a giant rally of the Cuban people Friday afternoon to answer the Declaration of San Jose.

The bearded prime minister reaffirmed his regime's ties with the Soviet Union as he lashed out at the Organization of American States and the United States during a three hour and 15 minute harangue.

In the declaration 19 member nations of the OAS joined Monday in denouncing Soviet and Communist Chinese intervention in the Western Hemisphere and reminding OAS members—meaning Cuba particularly—of their obligation to submit to the "discipline of the inter-American system."

PAPERS MAY BE BIT LATER

The start of school will affect Herald home subscribers in the form of slightly later deliveries in many instances. Herald carriers are mostly schoolboys who are little merchants. Their schooling naturally comes first, and their business schedule in delivering your paper will be shoved back slightly. Most of the boys get out of school around 4 p.m., and home delivery will start as soon as the little merchants can get their papers and get to their routes.

Your understanding of this problem will be appreciated.

WAY TO THE GOOD LIFE EXPLAINED
Sam Anderson, Floyd Parsons, Dr. J. H. Jauncey

Scientist-Minister Tells Teachers Of 'Good Life'

By JOE PICKLE

Teachers are in a position to do much about directing man's quest for the good life, Dr. James H. Jauncey told the Big Spring Independent School District faculty today in urging them to look to individual freedom.

Addressing some 300 teachers and supervisors who listened in rapt silence for 45 minutes in the Howard County Junior College auditorium, Dr. Jauncey said that the good life comes from within a man.

The titanic struggle of two divergent ideas on how man can best obtain his goal of a good life may be settled by the next generation, he warned. Socialism and communism have a common basic concept that the good life can be best achieved by a certain framework of society. Democracy holds that man finds the satisfying life in freedom to express his inner powers, he declared.

DISASTERS

All experiences to find the good life through a social framework have been disastrous, from the time of Socrates and Plato to Marx and Engels, and even to modern socialist states, he said. Marx sought the answer in an economic state, while others have sought the answer in the welfare state, but Dr. Jauncey said these were the ancient times that man is happy when his material needs are satisfied.

"Man finds security in the freedom of mind," he asserted. "His one primary drive is his soul-crying out for expression. Our difficulties today are in failure to overcome our limitations, and we projecting our personal unhappiness on society."

"The American people are less happy today, with all their abundance, than they were 100 years ago because they were forced by circumstance to use all their inner powers."

FINDING GOOD LIFE

Education is simply a process of training others how to find the good life, Dr. Jauncey declared, and this increases the responsibility of the teacher.

The idea of maximum freedom of the individual without interference from the state must be perpetuated. We must have faith in God and our country, I believe that the destiny of mankind has been placed in the hands of the United States of America.

Dr. Jauncey, who is minister of the First Christian Church in El Paso, who whose string of academic degrees is primarily in the field of science, said that he was frightened as a man of science because communism now possessed all the weapons of modern science, but that he's full of hope that America can and will rise to the challenge to put freedom above materialism.

The teachers were greeted by A. K. Steinheimer, city manager; Cliff Fisher, Chamber of Commerce manager; Mrs. Buford Hull,

Texas Senators Vote For Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Senators Lyndon Johnson and Ralph Yarborough voted Monday for amendments to a catch-all appropriations bill restoring $130 million of the $265 million Congress cut from the foreign aid money bill last week. The Senate adopted the amendments 56 to 31. Both voted for a catch-all $305.042.731 money bill including 190 millions for foreign aid. The Senate passed the bill 67-21. Johnson was for and Yarborough against the compromise Social Security bill which the Senate sent to President Eisenhower, 74-11.

Congo Troops Battle With Rebel Tribe

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba faced a new challenge today in Kasai province, where his soldiers were reported battling tribal warriors backing the secessionist move there.

U.N. forces meanwhile planned to take over control today of Belgium's big Kamina military base in Katanga province. The last of the Belgian combat troops were pulling out for home or the neighboring trusteeship territory of Ruanda-Urundi, but several hundred Belgian army maintenance men were to remain until Belgian equipment is removed.

Under an agreement between the U.N. force and the Belgian government, only U.N. troops will be allowed to use Kamina's 100-million-dollar worth of facilities, including one of the biggest runways in Africa. The idea is to keep Lumumba's troops from using the base as an invasion point against Katanga's secessionist premier, Moise Tshombe.

News of the fighting in Kasai was as confused as most reports out of the chaotic Congo in recent weeks.

Kasai Premier Pascual Ngalula told the Belgian News Agency that Baluba tribesmen had counterattacked with bows, arrows and spears against several hundred Congolese army troops who thrust into Kasai's rebellious "mining state" Argia three days ago and captured its capital, Bakwanga. But authorities in nearby Katanga said any talk of a counter-offensive by the tribal warriors was propaganda put out by the anti-Lumumba leaders seeking recognition of their independence movement.

However, a Katanga military station monitored a radio appeal from Bakwanga to Leopoldville asking for transport to fly out 10 wounded men. This seemed to support reports of violence in the area. Lumumba's invasion of Kasai previously had been virtually bloodless, with no serious fighting reported.

With the Congolese troops in Kasai reportedly planning to invade Katanga in an effort to crush Tshombe's resistance to Lumumba's central government, the Katanga army commander in the small rail and farming town of Kaniama, near Kasai's border, said every road and rail line leading into Katanga along the 800-mile frontier has been mined or blocked.

Oil drums also block the airstrips at Kaniama and other fields along the frontier. The commander at Kaniama, which is about 500 miles from Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, said Congo army patrols were reported moving along the Lubila River, which forms part of the frontier.

Money will also be spent for new parks in the city and for improving existing parks. "One of the greatest tragedies in cities now is that no plan is made for adequate recreation for their children," Dr. Hunt said. "Children need places to play."

Flood control to stem the tide of water which flows unchecked at the present to the north part of the city is slated under the proposed bond improvements. Retention dams and studies by the soil conservation service are planned. Dr. Hunt, with the aid of City Manager A. K. Steinheimer, went over the year-by-year program, pointing out where improvements will be made and their cost.

Stickney May Testify Today

HOUSTON (AP) — Howard B. Stickney may take the stand today in his habeas corpus hearing, his lawyer said Monday night. Stickney, sentenced to die Sept. 12 for the May 24, 1958 murder of Mrs. Shirley Elaine Barnes, asked for the hearing on the grounds Houston Dist. Atty. Dan Walton suppressed evidence at his trial.

Two witnesses subpoenaed by Stickney's lawyers—O. John Rogge and John H. Spiller, said they were not with Stickney the night Mrs. Barnes and her husband, Clifford Barnes, were slain. Their testimony contradicted an affidavit made by Robert E. Lee Fox of Houston who said he saw them with the couple and Stickney the afternoon of the murder.

Mrs. G. L. Reseigner and her sister, Miss Neida Eastman, testified they were in Channelview, when Fox said he saw them in Galveston with Mr. and Mrs. Barnes.

Classes Open In Clinton School

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Classes opened quietly Monday at Clinton High School, built to replace the building destroyed by dynamite blasts in October 1958. Principal W. D. Human said about 900 pupils, including 10 Negroes, attended first-day classes. The school has been integrated since 1955.

Chances Dimmed For Final Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — House conferees turned down today a proposal advanced by senators as a basis for compromising their differences over minimum wage legislation.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, heading the Senate conferees, said this dimmed chances for a final agreement on any bill.

A further conference was scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, said the attitude of the majority of the House conferees appeared to be: The House bill or nothing.

The Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, one of the Senate conferees, told a reporter the afternoon meeting should tell the story of whether it will be possible to strike a compromise.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty (R-Vt.) advanced the proposal that Senate conferees offered to accept but House conferees rejected at the morning session.

It contained a formula to bring about coverage of 3,100,000 new workers, compared with four million in the Senate bill and 1,400,000 in the House version.

The compromise did not contain anything on the minimum wage figure. But Kennedy said it was understood that if the coverage formula was accepted, his side would agree to a $1.15 wage floor.

INCREASE

The Senate bill, sponsored by Kennedy, calls for an increase in the present $1 floor to $1.25 in three steps. The House measure fixes a $1.15 minimum.

The House faced a decision on what to do about a Senate-voted increase in foreign aid funds, which could provide another disagreement delaying adjournment of the post-convention session of Congress.

The Senate voted 56-31 Monday to restore 190 million dollars of the 265 million cut last week from foreign aid appropriations. The House could accept the figure, send it to conference, or refer it to its own Appropriations Committee for further consideration. The funds were included in a final $305,042,731 appropriation bill.

The minimum wage and foreign aid legislation were the two chief stumbling blocks in the way of a quick windup of the August session.

Some legislators were hoping for final adjournment by Wednesday night, but most leaders privately forecast Thursday or Friday night. Both branches scheduled only minor bills for floor debate today.

This was the fourth meeting of Senate-House conferees on the minimum wage bill.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), head of the Senate delegation, told newsmen he was studying seriously a new compromise proposal offered by Sen. Winston L. Prouty (R-Vt.).

Prouty suggested a plan to bring about 3,100,000 additional workers under the act, compared with four million in the Senate version sponsored by Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, and 1,400,000 in the House bill.

The two measures also vary on the wage minimum. The Senate proposed to boost the present $1 minimum to $1.25 in three steps, the House to $1.15.

Most of the conferees had reported little chance to reach an agreement after their earlier meetings.

Mrs. Powers Arrives, Faints

WASHINGTON (AP)—Barbara Powers was back in Washington today, still saying she was not satisfied with what the U.S. government has done so far in behalf of her convicted U2 pilot husband, Francis Gary Powers.

Mrs. Powers declined to answer newsmen's questions on her arrival Monday night.

She was sobbing Monday in New York City when she started down the ramp of the plane on which she had flown from Paris. Two guards gripped her arms after she started to fall once but caught herself. After she had gone less than 100 feet she suddenly put her hand to her forehead and collapsed to the pavement before police could catch her.

Policemen carried her inside the airport's health building, where she quickly recovered. She walked to the press room to talk with newsmen 15 minutes later.

"I've done all I can do. I think our government should be able to do something. I'm glad to be home. I really don't know what else to say," she told newsmen.

Voting absentee may be done either in person in City Secretary C. R. McClenny's office, first floor of the City Hall, or by mail.

Balloting in person must be done by 5 p.m. Sept. 9. Or, persons may request a ballot from McClenny and mail in their vote. It must be postmarked by midnight Sept. 9, however.

Persons eligible to vote are those owning real property in the city and who meet regular franchise requirements.

Driverless Car Kills Midland Girl

MIDLAND (AP)—Anne Marie Frantz, 2, was killed Monday by a driverless car. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Frantz.

A policeman said a sister accidentally put the car in reverse while a younger brother struck the gas feed with his foot.

A door swung open as the car started moving, knocking Anne Marie under the wheels.

DEAR ABBY

REPUBLICRATS?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I come from a long line of Democrats. I fell in love with a man before I found out he was a Republican. He says his political party means as much to him as his religion. And if you heard him talk you would know he isn't kidding.

We get along fine as long as we keep politics out of the conversation. We love each other but I wonder if it is possible for two people to have a good marriage when they are so opposite in their political views.

DEMOCRAT

DEAR DEMOCRAT: It happens in the best of families. If you love each other, get married and may all your children have the hide of an elephant and the will of a donkey.

DEAR ABBY: I am a successful businessman who is old enough to know better. I had a foolish little affair with a girl who worked in my office. It didn't last long. I soon realized how wrong it was and called it quits and got her a job elsewhere. She has been calling me and threatening to tell my wife if I don't hire her back and take up where we left off. I must have been out of my mind to get mixed up with her. What do I do now? I can't afford any scandal.

MUST HAVE BEEN CRAZY
DEAR MUST: Do not take this girl back into your office. She can't throw mud on you without getting plenty on herself. If she talks, she talks, but I'd bet against it.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of the Big Spring Herald and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Brothers Give Away Fortune,
Find Everybody Wants A Share

Editor's Note — Only one of them ever had a job — and that lasted a week three years. Later, the Saturno brothers were busy as lawyers giving away over a million dollars because they believe in the Golden Rule.

By LEONARD MILLMAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

The Saturno brothers "much prefer the quiet life." But they are discovering you can't give away 1 1/2 million dollars like a sackful of gumdrops and then fade away into obscurity. No longer millionaires, the brothers from Reno, Nev., are discovering nearly everyone likes money. And an astonishing number would like to get it from the Saturnos.

It started a year ago when Joseph, now 72, and Victor, 64, gave $350,000 worth of Bank of America stock to the 284 residents of the impoverished Italian village of San Marco D'Urri, from which their parents emigrated to the United States.

Immediately people began "pestering us to buy factories." But that was only the beginning. Last month they announced gifts of more than a million dollars, primarily to help Italian war orphans. That did it!

LOTS OF LETTERS
Letters poured in. They have no idea how many. But before they left for Europe they were receiving about 35 letters a day at the home of a sister in Oakland, Calif. — and nobody knows we are here. Even more went to their Reno address.

They are going to San Marco D'Urri for the Aug. 31 dedication of a monument to their parents. About half the letters are from the United States. "They say," Victor observed in San Francisco before leaving for Europe, "we see where you are giving your money away. How about passing some over to us?"

The Saturnos became millionaires in obscurity and apparently without effort.

They inherited a sizable nest egg from their father, Leopoldo, who accumulated the basis of the family fortune starting as an immigrant farm laborer. "Dad was a speculator, shrewd and sharp," Victor recalled.

Their father retired 10 years before his death in 1919, but even then couldn't pass up a good real estate deal. He made much of his money buying farms in California and Nevada, living on them awhile, and selling them for a profit. He made much more buying Bank of Italy stock when the bank was founded and holding the shares until the bank grew into the Bank of America, world's largest banking institution.

The boys carried on after his death, largely through expanded stock purchases.

WORKED FOR NIXON
He worked for the Nixon National Bank of Reno in 1908.

"Dad thought he was panned in too much," said his sister, Mrs. M. J. Cademaso, and he quit after three years.

Victor grows poetic in talking of some of their favorite haunts. However, the brothers are reversing what Victor says is their philosophy.

"For a period of time we enjoyed greatly the wild commotion of our big cities; yet deep down within, there is a call for that shaded mountain trail where one may pause, listen to the song of a bird and then meander on with one's thoughts unto more of nature's silence."

For 50 years they've been on shaded mountain trails. Now with their sister and brother-in-law, they are driving around

Europe "seeing things tourists usually see."

Of their giving away most of their worldly goods to charities, the Saturnos say they weren't church goers, "but we believe in the Golden Rule."

YWA Brings Royal Service Program

"You — A World Baptist," the general theme for the Royal Service program, was enlarged upon at the meeting Monday evening of the First Baptist WMS by members of the Young Women's Auxiliary. The program, originally slated for September, was held early to avoid conflict with other all-church activities which include Week of Prayer, the Youth Revival, and the annual Big Spring Association meeting for which the church is host.

Special guests for the evening were 17 members of the Latin American Baptist Church. Led by Mrs. Isabella Salame, president of the WMS, and the wife of the church pastor, Mrs. Olivia Gutierrez, the group presented a song, "Alegre Salvacion."

"Testing Your Scriptural Vision" was the program topic offered under the direction of Mrs. D. A. Miller, sponsor, and Mrs. Luther McDaniel, co-sponsor. Mrs. Miller introduced the program by saying "We are going to examine your world vision so that we can determine what you see and how well you see it. We want to tell you what can be done to correct faulty impressions."

Assisting with the presentation were Dorothy Wheeler who read the 100th Psalm and sang "May Thy Will Be Mine"; Barbara Bahn, who brought Case 1, Diagnosis: Astigmatism; Melba Threatt, Case 2, Detached Retina; Mary Helen Yater, Case 3, Enlarged Vision; Sally Pachall, Case 4, Near Sightedness. Each gave the cure for the particular case.

Mrs. B. T. Faulkner, society president, urged good attendance at the various meetings during the month and expressed appreciation to the young women for the program. Mrs. W. B. Younger offered the dismissed prayer.

Complexion, Hair Care

Judi Meredith, a frequent star on NBC-TV "Riverboat" series, gives her ideas on complexion and hair care in today's Hollywood Beauty.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Yogurt Facial Good For Removing Tan

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD "I can't believe summer is almost over," Judi Meredith, sighed as we sat set-side at NBC. "I had a lovely vacation but now my tan is fading and I am working to get rid of that muddy look. The make-up man at the studio told me to use a yogurt facial every night and it is really helping."

"After I clean my face, I spread a layer of yogurt on and leave it until it dries. It becomes sort of stiff but washes off easily and it really does a bleaching job. It doesn't bleach much at one time but at the end of the week my skin looks much clearer."

Judi was called before the cameras to complete a scene for "Riverboat." As I watched her, I thought how pretty and shining her hair was. When she returned to my side, I told her.

"The natural sheen has improved since I've been brushing more," she admitted. "Someone gave me a brush with very fine, natural boar bristles. It cost $45. I have had it nearly a year and it is still like new."

"My hair is naturally curly and my friends with straight hair all say, 'You are so lucky.' But you talk to any girl with too much curl and she would trade for straight hair in a minute."

"I've learned to use the largest kind of rollers to stretch the curl out of my hair." Another thing that helps is that after my shampoo, I always finish with a cream rinse to take out the tangles and make my hair easier to manage."

In parting I asked Judi to tell me her favorite glamour trick.

"My lashes are light and I use waterproof mascara on them to make them look thick, but I always remove this with cotton soaked in oil so they won't split or break!" Judi concluded.

Pythian Sisters Make Donations

Plans for official visits and making donations were the highlights of the meeting of the Pythian Sisters Monday evening at Castle Hall.

With Mrs. William T. Chrane presiding, the group made plans for the official visit of the temple deputy, Mrs. Herbert Johnson Jr., on Sept. 19. Announcement was made of the attendance by a local group at the Odessa meeting Thursday when the grand chief, Mrs. Eunice Garrett of Mineral Wells, made her visit there.

A $25 donation was made to the Crippled Children's Fund and also a gift of money will be sent to the Pythian Homecoming at Weatherford.

Mrs. A. F. Hill was winner of the capsule prize. Hostesses were Mrs. Choc Smith and Mrs. W. L. Thompson.

Height, Softness Noted In Fall Hat Fashions

Now that you are seriously contemplating new clothes for fall, it's high time to go on a hat shopping spree to see what's for you... in the new hat fashions.

You will find this year a tremendous selection of new turbans, cloches and toques from which to choose that ascribe to height and soft flattery.

Turbans are a top fashion this fall; turbans in every fabric and in every shape. To create the softest flattery for your face, rich velvet and satin go together in turbans in two and three color combinations.

Sapphire velvet is draped with two tones of satin in ice blue and wine, to tie in two pixie ends at the front. You'll find other attractive color combinations in turbans.

Good news for those of you who have found the comfort and flattery of the cloche your dish. This is a big cloche year, and you will revel in the assortment of flattering new clothes available in millinery departments. One, in a beaver felt, is trimmed with narrow satin ribbon and guinea feather pads for color contrast; another in soft furry Dutchess beaver, adds a high curled feather to the front and a wide velvet band to the crown.

Miss Beard Wins Honor

Sue Alice Beard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beard of Coahoma, has learned she has been selected for a full scholarship at the University of Corpus Christi.

Miss Beard is a 1956 graduate of Coahoma High School and earned her high school diploma in piano from Anne Houser, local piano teacher with whom she has also studied this summer. The pianist was accepted as a student of Stefan Bardas, artist-teacher at North Texas State College. In 1959, she will study at UCC with Dr. Robert Floyd who is head of the university music department. He has recently completed his doctorate under Sydney Foster at the University of Indiana.

each officer who in turn described her creation which was fashioned to show her official duties.

Officers for the year are Mrs. Alfred Herring, president; Mrs. Richard Woodward, vice president; Mrs. Bill Hambrick, secretary; Mrs. Earl Newcomer, treasurer; Mrs. Joe Gillespie, membership chairman; Mrs. Buster Pitts, program; Mrs. James Billingsly, budget and finance; Mrs. Sonny Nichols, publications; Mrs. Bob Hunt, by-laws; Mrs. J. G. Freeman, hospitality; Mrs. Bill Wallace, publicity.

The initial meeting of the year is scheduled for Thursday evening at the Sands High School at 7:30. This is a get-acquainted tea to welcome the new teachers and patrons. Executive board meetings are held at 3:30 on the Tuesdays preceding the regular meeting on Thursday.

People run into the most interesting people and things while vacationing. Take, for instance, the BILL RAGSDALES who have recently returned from their vacation trip to Mexico. They were guests in a small hotel at San Miguel de Allende in Guanajuato, Mexico. Here they ate food that was delicious and strange to the fare in Texas. One of the tastiest was fried squash blossoms. Womanklike, Mrs. Ragdale asked how the delicacy was prepared so the obliging lady brought her up to date. Each morning a peddler comes to the hotel with the huge basket of large squash blossoms; she picks out the best ones, washes them, then dips them into a batter made of flour, water and a little sugar. She fries them in shortening or butter, until brown, then places them in a moderate oven until they are dried.

During the Mexico visit, the couple spotted a car from Big Spring so they left a note telling where they were staying and who should come calling but A. P.

BILL HORNADAY plans to return this evening to his home in Albuquerque, N. M., after spending several days here with his grandmother, MRS. DELLA K. AGNELLS.

MR. and MRS. ZOLLIE BOYKIN have returned from Houston where they attended the graduation ceremonies of the University of Houston at the Cullen Auditorium where their daughter, MRS. JERRY GRAVES, was awarded a bachelor of science degree in education. Mrs. Graves, the former Sue Boykin, a 1957 graduate of Big Spring High, had a 3.1 grade point average. She will teach the third grade at the Montgomery Elementary School in Houston.

A Devotional For Today

In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world. (John 16:33.)
PRAYER: Gracious God, our heavenly Father, with whom there is neither near nor far, but one eternal presence, we thank Thee that Thou art with us always, wherever we are. Grant us in all things the joy and victory which come through knowing Christ Jesus our Saviour and Lord. In His name we pray. Amen.

An Almost Overwhelming Problem

If the estimate of the tax study group is correct, then the legislature will have to raise somewhere between $40,000,000 and $100,000,000 in added revenue.
"Even assuming that new expenditure programs are not authorized," said the report from the Texas Commission of State and Local Tax Policy, "the 57th Legislature will face a tax problem of the first magnitude." This group is not to be confused with the governor's special tax study panel which will presumably make some recommendations to the governor. The tax commission only makes estimates, not recommendations.
It is obvious that the matter of expenditures and revenues to cover them is the paramount question facing the legislature. The acceleration of demands based on population growth brings about

Well-Deserved Honor

The Chamber of Commerce Managers Association of West Texas has paid a high compliment to J. H. Greene of Big Spring in conferring upon him its first life membership.
Mr. Greene is an organizer and past president of the association, and he also is a past president of the state organization of chamber managers. His work in chamber of commerce work, though some of it was under a different name, dates back more than 30 years. In all he put in 42 years as a professional worker, fortunately 20 years of it here.
The honor paid Mr. Greene is richly deserved as will be similar one to be conferred upon him in the next few weeks by the Texas Chamber Managers Association.

Marquis Childs Pictures And Personal Diplomacy

WASHINGTON. — Displayed in Nixon campaign headquarters opening up across the country is a big poster reproducing photographs of the Vice President on his foreign trips.
In the center is the famous picture showing Nixon pointing his finger at Premier Khrushchev, his jaw taut in determined emphasis, during their kitchen cabinet debate. In one corner is a picture of the Vice President with the queen of England in a magnificent ball gown at a state dinner at Buckingham Palace. Another picture shows him arguing furiously with a crowd of Venezuelan students on his Latin-American tour two years ago.

THIS IS THE billboard that advertises the Nixon claim to experience in resolving the difficult and dangerous problems of foreign policy. It is the base of his principal appeal to the voters this fall.
But if there is to be serious discussion in this campaign of the real nature of leadership, of the whole approach to foreign policy in a revolutionary era, then this claim should be challenged. It is what Sen. Kennedy began to do in his Alexandria, Va., speech attacking the vice president's record of "experience."
What the Nixon billboard advertises is the personal diplomacy on which the Eisenhower Administration has relied so heavily. In the first phase it was the personal diplomacy of the late John Foster Dulles who spent a large portion of his six and half years as Secretary of State traveling to the far corners of the globe. During this time the State Department as an apparatus for planning and executing policy was deteriorating. In the latter phase President Eisenhower has assumed the role of goodwill crusader and his Vice President has flown on four goodwill missions.
THE POLEMICS of the campaign to one side, the present moment with threats to America's security blazoning in a half-dozen different places suggests the need for a realistic examination of the value of the personal diplomacy both of the President and the Vice President. It has been an effort into which both men have put a great deal of sincere effort but the inevitable question is whether it has produced results beyond personal acclaim.
Just a year ago President Eisenhower was in Paris on a goodwill tour of Europe. Those of us who were with him will never forget the reception accorded him on that beautiful day in that beautiful city. In the conclusion of the presidential palace at Rambouillet he sat down with President De Gaulle and at the end of their meeting one of those sweetest and light communiques was issued assuring the world that all was well.

BUT VIRTUALLY no progress had been made in resolving the important differences between France, the geographical center of NATO, and the United States and little has been done since. De Gaulle has not been given the help he sought in nuclear development. American planes are still denied the use of French bases. The three Western European powers, France, Germany and England, are coming together on their own with the apparent purpose of forming a force that will not be dependent on American policy or the lack of it. With the failure of De Gaulle's tentative effort to end the Algerian war, his position at 60 is deteriorating and what comes after is a highly doubtful question mark.
When Nixon was stoned and spat at in Latin America in the spring of 1958 he returned to Washington for a hero's welcome. But, in the face of what he encountered he made recommendations on how to meet the growing hostility to the United States, there is no evidence that such recommendations were acted upon.
Secretary of State Christian Herter is currently trying to pull out, or at any rate to confine, the blame in Cuba. One resource he is using is a proposed cooperative aid plan for Latin America. But if this had come two years ago, or three or four years ago, the Secretary would not today be finding it so hard to hold the other Americans to a unified position on Castro and Cuba.
IF HE WERE NOT counting so heavily on his identification with Eisenhower, the Vice President might say that his recommendations were ignored, if in fact they were. The President made it quite clear that the decisions are his and his alone regardless of what anyone may recommend. There were reports after Nixon's Latin American trip that he would propose a series of sweeping changes.
Perhaps as the campaign develops Nixon will give us his specific for the menacing threat to America in Africa, Asia and Latin America. But the billboard is meant to convey the message that just by going to those distant places and talking to Khrushchev and the others a great deal has been accomplished. While it may have been part of the Vice President's education what it achieved for American policy is open to serious question.

James Marlow Rough Job For The Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — This presidential campaign may exhaust the candidates, confuse the public, and even become the most bitter in history. But one thing is sure: it's going to be rough on the newspapermen covering it.
Already Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, is a casualty with an injured knee he banged against a car door while campaigning in North Carolina. He will be hospitalized perhaps two weeks.
A check on the plans of Nixon and his opposite number on the Democratic ticket, Sen. John F. Kennedy, gives an insight not only into the problems of the newsmen traveling with them but into their campaign techniques.
In Nixon's case, particularly, it may be difficult on any given trip to find something new in what he says in each place.
This is because on one trip—when he means speeches in three or four cities—he probably will limit himself to one or two or three main themes and repeat them all along the way.
THIS IS WHAT he did when, right after the Republican convention, he went to Reno, Los Angeles, Honolulu, three other Hawaiian Islands, back to Honolulu, and then to Seattle.
This business of repeating the same themes on any given trip may be interesting to each audience along the way. But it will be tough on the newsmen looking for a new lead at each stop.
Nixon is doing now what he did in the 1956 campaign. On his plane or train he finds time to sit down and talk frankly about his techniques and views with newsmen accompanying him. Kennedy doesn't go in for much of that.
Nixon has prepared newsmen for his method of repetition by telling them they may get a little tired of it. He will oversimplify, perhaps, but he has a reason for this, too—to get across a sense of what kind of man he'd be in the White House.
In the 1956 presidential campaign Adlai Stevenson used the "position paper."
From time to time during the campaign he would release—at great length and in great detail—a statement of his views on the major issues and how he would meet them if elected. These were prepared for him by experts in various fields. Sometimes Stevenson failed to follow up these statements of his views in his speeches.
He seemed to think everyone had read the "position papers"—which were too long for many papers to publish—and therefore apparently saw no need to dwell on them later.
Nixon, too, will issue "position papers" and then follow them up in speeches, although he may only touch on them in a general way. Kennedy is not going to use any such technique, one of his top aides says.
He will outline his ideas in his speeches.

Hal Boyle Are You A Horse Addict?

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you an addict of television Westerns?
Do you feel they are blighting your life because you spend more time watching them than you do working at your job or entertaining your wife and children?
Do not despair. Hope may be at hand. The ailment may cure itself spontaneously. It did with me.
Today there are millions of Americans addicted to liquor, narcotics or gambling. But for every one of these there are probably five who are compulsive viewers of TV horse operas.
The disease is insidious in its onset. At first the victim is supremely self-confident.
"I can take this stuff or leave it alone," he says, twirling the knobs on his TV set.
That's the way I felt, too. At the start I watched one. I discovered one Western program wasn't enough.
One simply left me feeling empty and unsatisfied. I craved more gunfire, more stampedes, more redskin raids, more U.S. Cavalry charges, more rustlers. Without knowing it I was hooked.
One led to another, and soon I was thinking up excuses to leave the office early so I could get home early and switch on the kid Westerns.
"Daddy, do we have to look at any more cowboys?" pleaded my 7-year-old daughter, Tracy.
"Shut up, kid," I grated, "and watch the posse."
"You don't eat dinner any more," complained my wife. "You just gulp your food in between hangings and stagecoach hold-ups."
It was true. It got so I couldn't even go to sleep unless I first had a nightmare in the form of a late, late movie.
When the doctor heard of my vice, he said: "We're getting a lot of cases like yours lately. You're simply suffering Western hallucinations—a form of TV DTs."
He suggested that I taper off. I couldn't taper off. The disease got worse. Then suddenly one night, while I was watching my fifth Western program of the evening, I began to sweat. I trembled violently.
The hero was just about to gun down the villain, but I instinctively switched off the set. In a few moments I calmed down and felt better.
What had happened? I still don't know. But the disease had apparently run its course. It is still too early to be sure the remedy is permanent, but I feel it is.
If you are a helpless horse opera addict, don't give up hope. An overdose of the stuff may turn you into a teetotaler, too, and you can start living a normal life again free from the noise of bang-bang.

To Your Good Health Not All Spine Curvatures Dangerous

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: My 16-year-old son has curvature of the spine. We took him to . . . Hospital but they didn't do anything for him. Can anything be done for him?" —Mrs. E. F. C.
"Curvature of the spine" means the spine is not shaped as it should be. The curvature may be slight or severe, or in between. Many people have curvatures that do no harm, require no treatment, and should be let alone.
Some people have long legs and some short; some have shoulders that don't exactly balance; some have very large feet and some have very small ones. These are all variations from the "ideal," whatever that is. But all of these people get along perfectly well even though they aren't "perfect" or "average."
It's the same way if the spine has a curve that isn't exactly "perfect" or "average." Unless the curvature is causing some difficulty, there is no good reason for tinkering with it. The spine, while a strong structure, is a delicately-balanced series of bones that does not submit casually to being pushed around or re-arranged.
Remember that inside the spinal column is an intricate network of nerves. Remember also that a complex set of muscles and cartilage keep the spine in alignment. If the spine is not causing any trouble, and the curvature is moderate, and there is no reason to think that it will cause any future trouble, by all means leave it alone.
The hospital you mentioned is one of the best in the United States, one of the best in the world. If the doctors there did not propose any treatment, there is only one conclusion to draw: They found that the case was not one which required or warranted any treatment.
In brief: Suppose that a family physician detects some moderate degree of curvature. If he says nothing—even though the curvature is not of any consequence—patients are likely to comment, "My doctor didn't tell me anything!" If he DOES say there's a curvature, then the patients are alarmed about it. So what should the doctor do? It's a tough question!
For another instance, there are, unhappily, some varieties of self-styled "healers" who aren't allowed by law to use drugs or do surgery, yet they undertake to talk about such things as "curvatures" or other conditions. They sometimes share the daylight out of people!

Around The Rim, Funny-He Used To Like The Stuff

A fellow's appetite is a funny thing. I remember a period when I was a small boy I suddenly developed an insatiable craving for pickles. I wanted pickles with every meal — yes, even breakfast. I ate pickles until they ran out of my ears. Then, just as suddenly as it had begun, my hankering for the things ceased. I had not been a pickle-fan before that time; when it passed, I no longer had any taste for them and never redeveloped a liking for them.
Once upon a time, the home ec teacher in my high school (I was working my way through school by doubling as janitor) told me that she would fry up a batch of doughnuts some Saturday. She invited me, another kid who was helping with the janitorial and the football coach. She later married the coach, I recall.
The principal and superintendent were out of town that week-end. She turned the home ec department into a doughnut kitchen and produced a mountain of the delicacies.
"Look, you fellows," she solemnly warned us. "You've got to eat everyone of these things. If the principal finds any evidence we are all in trouble."
So the three of us manfully and courageously set about the task. We ate and ate. Finally there were no doughnuts left — just a few grains of sugar in the bottom of the big pan.
I used to like doughnuts. I enjoyed doughnuts that day, but I have noticed since my taste for them has disappeared. I wouldn't touch one for years, and only in the recent past have I been able to eat them — strictly on a "take-em-or-leave-em" basis.
Mustard is another item which never used to have the slightest appeal to me. If I used it at all, it was most sparingly. A little on a hamburger, perhaps, but not a lot.
In the last few weeks, for some silly reason, I want mustard on every possible occasion. I used to be a roast beef-unadorned follower. Just plain meat, if you please, with no spicing up with onion, garlic, sauces etc. Now I find myself generously painting the beef with mustard. I pile it on ham. I coat hotdogs with the stuff.
My Dad was a cowboy in his younger days. Hence, he had little experience with babies. According to what I have been told, the day I was born, I was hungry. My Pop went to the kitchen and looked over the provender. There didn't seem to be any suitable items for infants. So he took the coffee pot and poured out a bit of coffee in a cup. He added a generous portion of cream and sugar. This, I am told, was the first nourishment I had after my debut into this vale of tears.
I continued to drink coffee — oceans of the stuff.
For years and years I always poured in cream galore. Five or six years ago, I went to the breakfast table. There sat my cup of coffee. I reached, for habit, for the cream pitcher. Then I halted. "I don't want that stuff in my coffee," I told myself.
And never again have I put cream in coffee. If I absently-mindedly forget and pour it in the cup, that cup of coffee is ruined.

And Now — P'sychosis For Sharks

Never say that the man-eating shark does not have friends!
Indeed, never say that the shark is man-eating, if you want to avoid a hassle. (As I learned, to my sorrow, when I spoke slightly of rattlesnakes, there are people who think rattlesnakes are just lovely and only man is vile. Some persons are just daffy about sharks.)
Still, I never thought I would live to see the day when the shark, who may or may not regard man as an hors d'oeuvre, would be defended by the ghost of Sigmund Freud. But that day has come to pass.
The shark that inflicted grievous injuries on a young man swimming off the New Jersey shore recently and thus started the shark scare along the Atlantic Coast was, in the opinion of at least one ichthyologist, probably psychotic. Possibly it was in the throes of a nervous breakdown.
THIS IS THE OPINION of Paul Hamer, chief of the New Jersey State Fisheries Laboratory. Apparently the smell of homo sapiens, even drenched in Chanel No. 5, is offensive to a shark. If his sniffer is operating on schedule, according to this theory, a shark will avoid a human swimmer even as you and I would avoid an open garbage pit in July.
This is not a very pretty thought, and certainly will do nothing to build man's ego. But then, Ben Franklin opined that fish and guests stink in three days. So, maybe, that evens up matters with the shark.
But to go back to Mr. Hamer—he believes the sense of smell of a shark in the throes of a nervous breakdown is affected. Hence, he isn't so picky or choosy about his cuisine, and is not above nibbling on the human he would scorn if he had all his buttons and his faculties about him.
"If this could be established," Mr. Hamer opines, "we might find the answer how to protect swimmers from 'mentally unbalanced' sharks."
I VENTURE to suggest that this is a rather complicated problem. Most persons

The Hate-America Propaganda

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE — With fresh achievements almost daily in missiles and space vehicles, the American might grows apace — and the latest Russian strategy of separating us from our allies becomes readily apparent.
As a sick example of enemy propaganda at work there is a recent exchange of British-Russian viewpoints as published in the Moscow daily "Literaturnaya Gazeta" last July, and since then circulated in Europe. A digest of the exchange, given in dialogue form, follows. The British part was written by the editors of the London "Economist"; the Russian by the Soviet author, V. Cheprakov.
BRITISH: "Friendly greetings! Public discussion of important questions is good. It reveals the truth. It increases understanding."
RUSSIAN: We agree that public debate is valuable. Indeed, we go so far as to consider such debates a historical necessity.
British: Here are two points with which you will surely agree. First, the economic burden of armaments weighs heavily upon the people of every armed nation. Second, the huge economic benefits of disarmament ought to be shared by all peoples.
RUSSIAN: Very influential forces obstruct disarmament. Can you deny that in the United States military concerns are interested in getting profitable military contracts? Can U. S. aircraft companies, engaged 85 to 90 per cent in most lucrative military contracts, really want peace?
British: Britain felt that that must have allies. We must be honest. It was fear of Soviet military might, especially after the events in Prague in 1948, in Berlin 1948-49, in Seoul in 1950. Only these fears could have led the British people to support economic sacrifices to defense.
RUSSIAN: How could a people, like ourselves, who bore the main burden of the war with the Fascist aggressors, not understand and share such fears and preoccupations? But we take the liberty

Forsan Registration To Begin Friday

FORSAN — Registration will be held Friday for first grade pupils in the Forsan Independent School District.

Joe Holladay, superintendent, asked that parents bring their youngsters to the school on registration day. Those at Elbow will meet with Miss Mary Pratt, while those at Forsan will be greeted by Mrs. Minnie Averitt. They should bring birth certificates and vaccination records with them.

These important elementary attendance zones were announced by Holladay:

ELBOW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL—All children residing on the southernmost street in the Lockhart Addition; plus those in the O'Brien and the South Haven Additions; all those residing west of the Old San Angelo Highway; all those residing in the Davidson Trailer Court except second graders, who will attend Forsan school (brothers and sisters of second graders may also attend Forsan if the parents desire).

FORSAN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL—Children residing in the Silver Heels area; those whose property opens to U.S. 87; those who live on the two northernmost streets in the Lockhart Addition; second graders in the Davidson Trailer Court (if second graders have brothers and sisters in other grades, they may attend Forsan if the parents desire).

Buses will operate the first day of school, Sept. 6, but for the first day, the actual routes will be experimental. Population and line changes since last spring have left the picture unclear, and some routes may have to be adjusted, said Holladay.

All elementary pupils will register the first day of school except first graders, who are registering this Friday. The initial day of school will be on a regular full day schedule. The cafeteria will be open, and the price has been fixed by the board at 30 cents per meal at both schools, Holladay explained.

Playground insurance will be available to cover the regular daily activities, and all sports except high school football, for $3 per pupil. A 24-hour coverage will be available at $10. Both are entirely optional with parents.

Nixon Knocked Out Awhile By Bad Knee

By The Associated Press
Expressions of regret have flowed in from both sides of the political fence to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, hospitalized with a knee infection that may keep him off the campaign trail for two weeks.

The Republican presidential nominee entered Walter Reed Army Hospital late Monday for treatment of an infection that damages red blood cells. He had bumped his knee on an automobile door Aug. 17 while campaigning in Greensboro, N.C.

Nixon's campaign dates until about Sept. 12 were canceled. Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy promptly wired regrets and said, "I look forward to seeing you on the campaign trail." Kennedy's running mate, Sen. Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, sent flowers and regrets.

REGRETS
White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said, "The President regrets Mr. Nixon's ailment very much." Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said, "We are all distressed."

The vice president is expected to be able to work on campaign plans and speeches while he is sidelined. Nixon entered the hospital after meeting with a new Dick Nixon Sports Committee headed by Bob Reynolds, former Stanford University football great. Reynolds said 54 members of his group will stump for Nixon wherever they can. Other members include baseball players Ted Williams and Roy Sievers, golfers Bobby Jones and Sam Snead and pro football's Frank Gifford.

Two magazine articles written by Kennedy were in the news. In the current issue of the Saturday Review, he said the idea that the free world can be protected by the threat of massive retaliation is no longer tenable. He said greater efforts should be made to seek effective means of arms control.

NO. 2 SPOT
In a Look magazine article, Kennedy said he had always regarded Johnson as the strongest Democratic candidate for vice president, but had not been sure Johnson would take the No. 2 spot. Kennedy said that it was after he had received a congratulatory telegram from Johnson that he determined to ask him if he were available for the vice presidency.

Political footnotes: Wives of several leading Democrats, including Mrs. Johnson, are in Texas to launch a four-day campaign tour of the state.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas told an Ocean City, Md., audience, "This world wants the U.S.A. for its leader. I fear we do not have that kind of leadership in the country today. We need a change in our domestic and foreign affairs."

Hussein Holding Despite Slaying

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein apparently held firm control of Jordan today despite the assassination of Premier Hazza Majali.

The young king quickly named Bahjat el Talhoui, veteran chief of the royal cabinet, to succeed Majali and Monday night approved the new 11-man cabinet. Seven members were ministers in Majali's government.

London newspapers said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic was bound to be suspected of ordering the time-bombing of the Jordan government offices Monday, in which 10 persons beside the premier were killed and 41 wounded.

Majali was regarded in Cairo as a leader of Arab forces opposed to Nasser. However, shortly before his death he approved the recommendation from the meeting of Arab foreign ministers in Lebanon that Arab nations halt propaganda attacks against each other. The bitterest inter-Arab exchanges have been between Jordan and the U.A.R.

Even observers in Cairo said Hussein still was firmly in control of his desert country. Jordan was placed in a virtual state of emergency. A curfew was decreed for the Amman area, and armored cars with troops in battle dress patrolled the capital's streets.

Airports were closed to traffic and Amman radio suspended its regular programs. Gen. Habes Majali, the slain premier's cousin and commander of Jordan's army, ordered a search for the assassins.

The view in Cairo was that El Talhoui's appointment indicated Hussein intended to stick to his staunchly anti-Communist, pro-Western stand and that prospects were dim for any reconciliation with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Victoria got 2.46 inches of rain in six hours. The Kennedy area, in South Central Texas, got 1.5 inches and Lufkin got .55 in an afternoon rain.

Early Tuesday skies were clear over the western part of Texas and partly cloudy in the east portion.

Seaton Declares Lyndon Could Push Padre Island Bill

HOUSTON (AP)—Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton said today Sen. Lyndon Johnson could push the Padre Island seashore bill through the Democratic-controlled Congress anytime he chooses.

He predicted a Republican victory in November.

The Democratic nominee, John Kennedy, is a Roman Catholic.

Returning to the United States in 1944, he was assigned as a chief flight test pilot and engineer and then became chief of the Air Force Flight Division (Fighter) at Elgin AFB, Fla., in 1947.

With the outbreak of the Korean conflict, Col. Little was assigned to the 8th Fighter and 38th Fighter Groups stationed in Korea. While with these organizations, he flew 50 combat missions as pilot of the F-80, F-84 and F-86 type aircraft and was credited with one enemy aircraft destroyed.

He has been awarded the Silver Star with Oak Leaf cluster, Distinguished Flying Cross with Oak Leaf cluster, Bronze Star, Air Medal with Oak Leaf cluster, two commendation medals (Army and Air Force) and various theater campaign medals.

It went on to add that Brooks, whom Hardesty says he knows, is a co-chairman.

In territory assignments as announced in Austin, the Abilene attorney is to have charge of work in Howard, Mitchell, Callahan, Jones, Fisher, and Mitchell counties.

"I do not understand the announcement since Judge Davidson has already been designated for our congressional district," said Hardesty. "However, we will be happy to have the help of Mr. Brooks."

Hardesty said that the next big political event on the West Texas calendar is a $50 a ticket fund raising dinner in Abilene on Sept. 17 at which Senator Johnson will be the guest speaker. It will officially kick off the Johnson drive in this section of Texas. He added that he has a "few tickets still left" and would be happy to supply any Democrat who wants to attend the dinner.

Award Made For Hail Cover

First Lt. Jerry McMichael of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron is another cash award winner in the Webb AFB military suggestion program. He was paid $10 for designing a protective cover for control surfaces of F-102 Delta Daggers.

The covering will be used in time of hail storms and is made from material already tested on other aircraft.

Damage has been done to aircraft fabric surface, Lt. McMichael said, but hailstorms do not usually affect metal surfaces.

Graveside Services For Parks Infant

Graveside services will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. for Jerry Sue Parks, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Parks, who died Monday evening. Father F. B. Beazley will officiate.

Interment will be at the city cemetery. River Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

The group was that the establishment of saloons within a thousand feet of any oil well be prohibited.

Named as a committee to put the regulations adopted into effect were George A. Hill as chairman, A. D. Lipscomb, F. M. Brown, George Carroll, W. B. Dunlap, W. E. Griffith, O. W. Heywood and others. The result of these meetings was the first organization of petroleum producers, and many of the regulations they accepted became standard oil field procedure. In no other field were derricks built so close together that they were frequently connected by plank runways.

Rites Pend For Mrs. Ruhrup

Services are pending at River Funeral Home for Mrs. Anna Belle Ruhrup, 94, who died in an El Paso rest home Sunday after a long illness.

Mrs. Ruhrup was born at Terrell, July 26, 1876. She was a resident of this community for many years. She married Charles Ruhrup, who preceded her in death, at Baird. She was an engineer on the Texas and Pacific Railroad until he retired.

Mrs. Ruhrup was a member of the Presbyterian Church and of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. J. S. Morrison, El Paso; Mrs. M. T. Johnson, Neenah, Wis.; two sisters, Mrs. Dewitt Davis, Big Spring; Mrs. Joe McGowan, Baird; and four grandchildren.

Announcement Is A Puzzler

Frank Hardesty, Howard County Democratic chairman, expressed himself as puzzled at an announcement out of Austin that Maurice Brooks, Abilene attorney, was to be in charge of the campaign efforts in behalf of Kennedy and Johnson in Howard County.

He said that Howard County is in the 17th Congressional District and Judge Frank Davidson, Lubbock, has already been announced as campaign director for that district. The statement, quoting the State Kennedy-Johnson Headquarters said that Virgil Musick, Abilene bottler, was to be chairman for the 17th Congressional District of which Taylor County is a part.

It went on to add that Brooks, whom Hardesty says he knows, is a co-chairman.

In territory assignments as announced in Austin, the Abilene attorney is to have charge of work in Howard, Mitchell, Callahan, Jones, Fisher, and Mitchell counties.

"I do not understand the announcement since Judge Davidson has already been designated for our congressional district," said Hardesty. "However, we will be happy to have the help of Mr. Brooks."

Hardesty said that the next big political event on the West Texas calendar is a $50 a ticket fund raising dinner in Abilene on Sept. 17 at which Senator Johnson will be the guest speaker. It will officially kick off the Johnson drive in this section of Texas. He added that he has a "few tickets still left" and would be happy to supply any Democrat who wants to attend the dinner.

Webb Pays $1,675 For New Ideas

Air Training Command's civilian incentive awards program is paying dividends. During fiscal year, 1960, the program paid out $218,235 for 1,746 suggestions.

These suggestions saved the U.S. Air Force an estimated $885,265 in first-year savings.

Most of the money paid out was in the form of sustained superior performance awards. These awards totaled $169,600.

With slightly under 25,000 civilian employees assigned to the command during the fiscal year, 6,746 of them turned in suggestions for an overall participation rate of 21.4 per cent.

Webb AFB had a total of 742 civilian employees during the fiscal year, and a civilian suggestion count of 234 for a 31.7 per cent participation rate. The number of suggestions adopted was 83, and incentive cash for new ideas amounted to $1,675. First-year savings in the Air Force was figured at $21,675.

The biggest slice of Webb's incentive money went to employees for sustained superior performance ratings. Miss Ruthie Harris of the awards board said. During the period, 94 persons received $12,450 under this program, she said.

Longhorns Face Indians Today

The Big Spring Steers, 50 strong, get their first big test in a 5:15 p.m. scrimmage at the old stadium this afternoon.

The Seminole Indians of District 2-A move into town to scrimmage the Longhorns who have been hard at work for three days now.

Today's scrimmage is the first of four planned for Big Spring this week. The locals go to Andrews Thursday and to Levelland Saturday for a dual assignment against Levelland and Amarillo High School.

Emmett McKenzie and his aides are trying to get the Steers ready for their first opener a week from Friday night against Pampa.

The boys have shown good technique, perfecting techniques. They got their first workout as a unit Monday afternoon.

Minor injuries have plagued the Steers. Eddie Everett, a second string end and linebacker, is out indefinitely with a neck injury.

Dexter Pate, who had been moved to center from the backfield, twisted his knee and is on the sidelines.

The loss of Pate caused the coaches to move Bill Gillespie back to center to strengthen that position. He'll spell Richard Atkins in today's drill against Seminole.

The boys have shown good enthusiasm, although they tire easily in the hot weather. That was expected, although most of them remained in good physical trim during most of the summer.

The squad has a shortage of sophomores but the registration will probably increase, with the beginning of school tomorrow.

Seminole isn't highly rated in its own conference but could stage a few surprises. The Tribe has always been tough in the past.

Jake Harrell coaches the Warriors. Seminole runs off the T formation, with flanker variations.

The Indians boast 18 returning lettermen, including six offensive and five defensive starters.

They figure to be strong in the air and have a line just about as big as Big Spring's. Their main weaknesses are a lack of speed and depth.

Last year, the school competed in AA circles and it may take a while for the Indians to get adjusted in AAA ball.

The scrimmage should attract a good crowd of the curious, since most every friend of the local school is anxious to see what the new coaching staff has in the way of a team.

Still Looks Like A Whale

Taylor Etchison, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Etchison, Route No. 2, thought he had hooked a whale when he snagged this 32-pound catfish. Taylor had baited a three-hook throwline and tossed it back under an over-hanging bank in the Devil's River near Baker's Crossing. He kept his head, waded in, threaded a rope through the fish's gills and mouth, then hauled it out. That was enough fish to keep the party eating well, and still have a lot left over for the deep freeze.

Tournament Entry List Is Up To 52

Entry list for the 29th annual Big Spring Colorado Hills Invitational Golf tournament climbed to 52 Monday, with the meet still five days away.

Fourteen players paid entry fees Monday and nine of them turned in qualifying scores. All registered from Big Spring or Webb AFB.

The nine who played included: Howard Smith, 100; Pat Gent, 108; Frank McCleskey, 97; Ronald Carlson, 79; Joe E. Carlson, 84; Frank Powell, 75; Worth Peeler, 92; Lloyd Wasson, 97; and Pat Patterson, 97.

Those who entered but did not play for the record included: Jimmy Patterson, Bobby McCarty, Major Hershock, Major Adair and Billy Buhm.

Four of the players trying for places on the local Couden Cup team still have not finished their required 72 holes of play. The deadline is Thursday at dusk.

Those who have played, listed with their scores, are:

Bobby Wright, 283 (five under par); Bill Cheek, 291; Son Powell, 293; Bernard Rains, 295; Earl Reynolds, 299; Daryle Hobert, 301; Red McCullah, 301; Paul Mosley, 301; Jerry Scott, 302; John

Soviets Take Lead But Yanks Improve

By TED SMITH Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP) — Russia ran its unofficial Olympic team total to 71 points with a victory in the individual cycling road race today, but U.S. hopes were lifted by a showing of unexpected strength in two other events.

While Viktor Kapitolov of Russia captured the Soviet's fourth gold medal with a wheel victory over Italy's Livio Trappe in the last of six cycling finals, Americans were surprising in fencing and the modern pentathlon.

Albert Axelrod of Scarsdale, N.Y., reached the finals of the men's individual foil competition with an upset of the defending champion, Christian d'Orliola of France, and two other victories in just 90 minutes of semifinal competition.

And Navy Lt. Bob Beck, 23, from San Diego, Calif., went to the front of the field in the modern pentathlon with a strong showing in 400-meter freestyle swimming, the fourth of the five events on the program.

He carried a 91-point lead into Wednesday's cross-country running final.

The Russian cycling gold medal prevented Italy from sweeping the cycling in which it had already won five firsts.

The semifinal draw of the Olympic basketball tournament was made today. It placed the United States and Russia, chief threat to an American gold medal, in the same half of the draw. They will meet in a showdown game Saturday night.

The temperature, already blamed for the death of a Danish cyclist last week, reached 90 degrees again today.

The Italian Olympic Committee awarded a gold medal posthumously to the cyclist, Knut Enemark Jensen, whose body was returned to Copenhagen today.

The Italians' second place in the road cycling gave them an unofficial 65 points, ahead of Germany's 60 and the United States' 40.

Meanwhile, America's swimmers and divers sought to triple their gold medal output today with three aquatic finals on the Olympic program.

O's Nudge Sox To Strengthen Hold On 2nd

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

"We'll make a lot of mistakes, as kids are wont to do. But should we manage to stay fairly close during the first half of the season, then watch out for us during the second half."

Baltimore manager Paul Richards' prophetic spring statement was recalled following the Orioles' 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Monday night which boosted them to within 1 1/2 games of the idle first-place New York Yankees.

Richards must have been looking at a crystal ball. His baby birds made mistakes—lots of em—during those first few months of the regular season but spectacular pitching kept them close to the pace.

During the second half of the campaign, Baltimore has been the hottest club in the American League. Pastors by such bright stars as Brooks Robinson, Ron Hansen, Jim Gentile, Marv Breeding and Jackie Brandt, and such seasoned campaigners as Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos, the Orioles blended a strong attack with stout pitching.

The result? Since the All-Star break, Baltimore has won 23 while losing 15. During the same period, the Yankees have won 23 and lost 19 and the White Sox have won 27 and lost 19.

Monday night's victory was Baltimore's second straight over the third-place White Sox who dropped 3 1/2 games behind first, two behind the Orioles.

Cleveland defeated Washington 6-4 to move within two games of the fourth-place Senators. Boston's Red Sox whipped Kansas City 4-1.

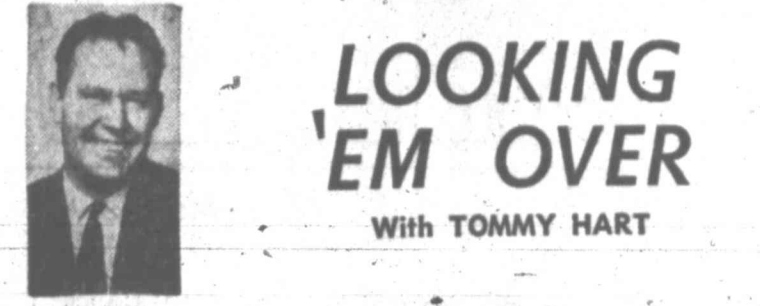

The Yankees, after playing three doubleheaders in three days, enjoyed a welcome day off. Detroit also was idle.

Pittsburgh retained its 5 1/2 game bulge in the National League, walloping Los Angeles 10-2. St. Louis burst into second place with a 3-0 triumph over Milwaukee and Philadelphia blanked San Francisco 2-0. Cincinnati and Chicago were idle.

Jack Fisher, one of Richards' five fledgling starters, hurled the shutout for the Orioles. He permitted only four hits and fanned eight for his 10th victory and first shutout.

Brandt, Woodling and Robinson, the first three batters, got all eight hits off loser Herb Score and two successors.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant maintained his mastery of the Senators, as Cleveland made it two in a row over Washington. It was the fifth time in six decisions that Grant has beaten the Senators this season. His career total is a remarkable 16 victories against only one defeat.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

Sports dialogue: COOKIE LAVAGETTO, manager of the Washington Senators: "In two or three years, Earl Batley will be the best catcher in the American League."

SID LUCKMAN, former pro football great, discussing the outstanding qualities of Johnny Unitas, the Baltimore quarterback: "He wants to be great. That was always my secret."

SCHOOLBOY ROWE, former pitching great: "You know, I was Charley Gehringer's locker mate for ten years and it wouldn't take a very big piece of paper to write down all the words he said to me during that time. After the game, I'd pat him on the back and tell him he played a good game and he'd only grunt. They can talk about Joe Gordon, Nellie Fox or any of them but none of 'em can carry Gehringer's glove."

GEORGE BLANDA, Houston Oilers quarterback: "The most important men on a pro football team are the offensive guards and tackles; yes, more important than the quarterback. Where would Johnny Unitas be with the St. Louis Cardinals line?"

BRANCH RICKEY, who gave up on plans to organize the Continental baseball league when the majors agreed to expand: "I think New York, Toronto, Minneapolis and Houston will be the first four cities annexed. They're much further along in their planning."

JOHN BRIDGERS, Baylor football coach: "We have a two-game winning streak going. We won the last game against Rice, and we beat ourselves in the spring training game. It's not unusual for Baylor to beat itself."

KEN VENTURI, the front-running pro golfer, on why he plans to leave the tour Oct. 2 to return to San Francisco: "In football season, football comes first, even before golf. I'm a 49er fan."

JESSE OUTLAR, Atlanta writer: "Minor league baseball should adopt this slogan: 'Come to the parks and stay away from the crowds.'"

ABE STUBER, head scout for the St. Louis (football) Cardinals, discussing the way scouting teams work: "I'll see fewer games close to home, because (head coach) Pop Ivy and his staff will cover them. If we've got a home game Sunday, we'll have a man, say, at Columbia, or Champaign, Chicago, South Bend, Memphis or Little Rock, close enough that if the weather would ground the planes, he'd still be within overnight train distance to St. Louis. If we're away, we'll do the same. For instance, if the Cardinals played a game at Baltimore, we could have a staff man watching Maryland or Navy Saturday, another at Penn or Virginia, a third at Syracuse or West Point. I'll seldom see our own team play."

RED OLIVER, the one-time TCU back, when called upon to give a five-minute speech as part of a final exam: "Ladies and gentlemen, would you please bow your heads for five minutes of silent prayer."

JACK GALLAGHER, Houston scribe: "It's never been revealed, but the National Football League offered the Chicago Cardinals Don Meredith as a draft-fee bonus last fall if the Cardinals would move their franchise to Dallas. Violet Bidwell Wolfner, chairman of the Cardinal board of directors, turned it down."

Y Industrial Playoff Tilts Are Scheduled For Tonight

Stymied by the rain last night, YMCA Industrial Softball league playoff teams try to get their post-season series under way at the City Park this evening.

The first game, down for 7:30 p.m., pits Coca-Cola against Newcom's Foods.

At 8:30 p.m., McDonald Motors challenges Montgomery Ward No. 1.

Coca-Cola led in regular season play, followed by Ward's, Newcom's and McDonald Motors in that order.

The winner will be determined in a double-elimination type meet. The tournament will be unrelenting on consecutive nights, with the exception of Wednesdays.

The clubs have been allowed to strengthen their lineups by recruiting anyone with a 15-mile radius.

Texas Is Picked To Win SW Title

FORT WORTH (AP) — The sports writers and sportscasters, who have been right only five times in 26 years, have selected Texas to win the Southwest conference football championship.

The Longhorns, who tied for the title with Texas Christian and Arkansas last year, were choices of 50 of 114 for the top spot.

Texas, on the basis of one point for first, two for second, etc., got 187 points. TCU, with 24 first place votes, was second with 303 while Baylor was picked for third with 340 points.

The selections were made in the annual poll of the TCU sports service.

Only five teams got first place votes—Texas, TCU, Baylor with

THESE SICK WOMEN GOT WELL

By Halvard T. Hansen, D.C.
A stiff neck that was painful to turn, and a soreness between her shoulders brought this twenty-seven year old mother to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic.
During our consultation she related other distressing symptoms that she didn't know were within our chiropractic scope of practice such as sick headaches, nausea, chronic head congestion with post nasal drainage, tremulous spells, severe abdominal cramps and related painful female trouble.

Our regular spinal analysis and X-rays disclosed injuries evidently sustained from falls that she remembered having on the ice and about the home, that were causing nerve interference responsible for her mounting symptoms.
She was pleasantly surprised when she was able to report, at her first comparative examination period, that not only were her neck and shoulder pains gone, but those organic conditions originally thought beyond our scope were rapidly disappearing. She learned from this amazing experience that her nervous system controlled her entire body. She is well and happy. No. 1628.

Some time ago a lovely fifty-one year old widow suffered from severe emotional tension. She was depressed, despondent, exhausted from sleepless nights, eyes swollen, etc. She had a drawing pain over her kidneys, chronic constipation, gas, bloating and indigestion. Her heart pounded so rapidly that she felt frightened. For years she tried all the usual methods and medicines. She changed physicians and was given a complete check-up including X-rays. She was told she was suffering nervous tension and acid indigestion, given a prescription and sent home. She gradually grew worse. Then her niece, a former patient to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic, brought her in.

Our chiropractic analysis of her spine located defective nerve current and X-rays disclosed spinal subluxations (misalignments) causing the nerve interference. We corrected the offending vertebral disturbances and in due time her health returned to normal. No indigestion, no nervous tension, no heart palpitations. Just good health. Nerves connect with every organ. No. 160.

If the other doctors have made you well—you don't need us. If you are not well, investigate! You have nothing to lose except ill health.

100 Junior Volunteers Cited For Service At VA Hospital

Over 100 junior volunteers and their parents were present Monday at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital to receive certificates and eat watermelon.

The evening was dedicated to the junior volunteers in appreciation of their service to the hospital during the summer months. Certificates of appreciation were presented to 24 teen-agers who had worked 100 hours or more in the hospital. Letters of recognition went to 77 others who had contributed up to 99 hours.

Mrs. Arah Cunningham, director of volunteers, presided over the program. Chaplain C. O. Hitt gave the invocation.

In a short talk following the invocation, Manager V. J. Belda told the group that the teen-agers had been an inspiration to the patients and to the staff, saying that the vitality of youth was contagious. He said he was happy to have them working in the hospital and hoped they would come again next summer.

Miss Bessie Love, chief of nursing service, cited the youths for their service, saying they had been of inestimable value in building the morale of the patients with their new, fresh outlook, and boundless energy. She explained how the volunteers had helped the hospital and said everyone has profited.

Telford Durham, chief of social work service, noted the eagerness of the volunteers and noted they often finished their regular assignments and requested other work to do. He said volunteer groups of teen-agers such as these helped to counteract the concern over juvenile delinquency.

"If all teen-agers are of the same high caliber as this group, I don't think we have to worry about the future of the United States 20 years from now," he said. He concluded by thanking both the volunteers and their parents for their part in the volunteer program.

Jane Harrington, Big Spring, gave the teen-agers' side of the story. She said the volunteers had profited through knowledge which would stay with them throughout their lives and that the experience had helped many of them in choosing a vocation.

Lonnie McCracken, Odessa, drew a laugh when he said the summer had been a memorial one and that the staff probably would have a hard time forgetting it too. In a more serious vein, he said that the group had received personal satisfaction by knowing they had helped others. He added that he planned to go to medical school and he would put the knowledge gained during the summer to good use in college.

Mrs. Cunningham thanked out-of-town visitors and others who had not been regularly assigned to volunteer work and then introduced Belda, who presented the certificates.

Dr. Jack Margolis, acting director of professional services gave out the letters of recognition. Following the presentations, refreshments of watermelon and cookies were served in the dining hall.

D. Yarborough To Visit Odessa

Don Yarborough, candidate for lieutenant governor in the Democratic Primary last May, will be the featured speaker at the Labor Day program being sponsored by the Odessa Central Labor Union.

Although unsuccessful in his first political race, he has several accomplishments. Some of them are: A National Intercollegiate Debate Champion in 1948; company commander in the Marine Corps at the age of 20 (one of the youngest in the Corps' history); president of his Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1955; and the winner of the National Speak Up Jaycee Contest, held in Buffalo, New York, where he competed with 5,000 contestants from every state in the nation. The winning speech was reviewed by Paul Harvey and placed in the Congressional Record.

Yarborough is the senior partner of the Law Firm of Yarborough, Brimman, Talley & Lucas. He will be the guest of honor at a "Don Yarborough Appreciation Dinner" being sponsored by a group of Odessa attorneys at 12 noon Sept. 5. From there he will proceed to the Floyd Gwin Park to attend the Labor Day Celebration, and is scheduled to speak there following the barbecue supper, which will be served at 5:00 p.m.

Only President Can Hold Back Data, Panel Declares

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Only the President can claim executive privilege to withhold information from Congress, the chief counsel of the House Government Information subcommittee said today.

It is "pernicious doctrine" for executive departments and agencies to claim such a right, added Jacob Scher, a lawyer and former newspaperman now on leave from Northwestern University.

He traced the legal and political history of the executive privilege claim in a speech prepared for a convention of journalism educators, and criticized use of it under the Eisenhower administration.

The doctrine has been invoked periodically by presidents of all parties dating back to George Washington. But Scher said the claim has been used increasingly by the Eisenhower administration starting with the Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954.

At that time, the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), in his battle with the Army over alleged codding of Communists, was trying to find out who within the administration had recommended certain actions.

President Eisenhower directed the then secretary of defense, Charles E. Wilson, to forbid Defense Department officials to testify about conversations during a meeting in the office of then Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell. Eisenhower said it was necessary to effective administration that officials of the executive branch be free to discuss matters candidly and confidentially in reaching decisions. He based his order on the constitutional provision for separation of powers of the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

Scher said there is no specific reference in the Constitution to an executive privilege of confidentiality. He acknowledged that separation of powers is related to the issue, but said only the courts can settle that constitutional question.

He contended that withholding of information under claim of the privilege had grown sharply since Eisenhower's 1954 order.

"Thereafter, it became a slogan and a banner under which more and more federal departments and agencies asserted the right to withhold information from Congress and the people," he said.

"By the rules of reason and experience, there is little room for government secrecy in a democracy."

The only justification for the executive privilege claim is to protect confidential communications to and from the President, he said.

Pregnant Mother Held In Child Death

PEARISBURG, Va. (AP)—Police held a pregnant mother of four in jail today on a charge of killing one of her small children, whose stomach was found "loaded with arsenic."

The three other children apparently are recovering from arsenic poisoning.

Mary Elizabeth Adams, 35, is charged with murder and is being held without bond. Police said she denied the charge.

Sheriff John E. Hopkins Jr. of southwest Virginia's Giles County said the stomach of Mrs. Giles' son, Terry, 3, was found "loaded with arsenic" during an autopsy.

Police sealed off the house where Mrs. Giles and the children lived in the Bunker Hill section.

Terry died Monday about 15 minutes after Mrs. Giles brought him and another child to the hospital in this mountainous region bordering West Virginia. Neighbors brought in the other two children for examination.

The children hospitalized are Teresa Anne, 5; John Jr., 9; and Sandra Sue, 10.

Mrs. Giles and her husband, a cannery worker, have been separated for varying periods during the past 18 months. He lives at Narrows, a few miles away.

Hopkins said blood samples showed all the children had been poisoned with arsenic. He said Mrs. Giles is 5½ months pregnant.

The men were sealed in the tank Aug. 15. They plan to stay inside their "space ship" at least 17 days, which is the length of time believed necessary for a flight to the moon and back using equipment and fuel expected to be available in the near future.
