Mrs. Jordan, 1952 president of the Girl Scout Assn., has been active in local activities and drives, and participated in work of the First Baptist WMU of which she is a past president. She is the only woman who has taught the Everyman's Bible class here.

Southwestern Bell Lays Plans For System Expansion Here

Southwestern Bell Telephone is preparing for another expansion move that will eventually be tied in with its future dial system in Pampa.

Declining to discuss any details in full, George Newberry, local exchange manager, said the next step, now being worked on, will be preparations for laying additional cable here.

"We are getting ready to lay new underground cable in four different work orders. We now have two main - line underground cables running from the office through Pampa. When the present project is completed we will have four underground cables running in four different directions through the city."

He added the company is not ready to divulge full details of the operation and what it would entail. He did say the new cables have to be laid because they have a direct bearing on the dial phones to be placed in service here in a few months.

Asked how soon the new building for dial service would be started, he said:

"I understand the blueprints are nearing completion now, and a contract is expected to be let in the near future."

He said he would have some definite information concerning details of the building and the new cable in about 30 days.

15 Killed In Alabama Air Crash

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Fifteen persons were whisked to fiery death Friday night when two United States Air force transports rammed into each other in flight over this Gulf Port city.

The planes — a C-47 Glovemaster, the air force's largest operational cargo craft — hurtled earthward in flames and crashed squarely on top of parked railroad box cars. Twelve of the box cars were set on fire.

At daybreak Saturday, salvage crews began searching the wreckage for bodies of the dead in charge.

Ford Infant Rites Held Here Tuesday

Graveside services were held Tuesday in Fairview cemetery for Cathy Lynn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ford, Borger.

Survivors besides parents are grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E.R. Gower, Pampa, and Mrs. Letta B. Ford, Kansas. Rev. Clifton Tennyson of the Calvary Baptist Church of Borger and Rev. Hal Upchurch of the Central church, Pampa, officiated.

The Minton Funeral home was in charge.

Heavy Turnout Is Recorded In Area Voting

Clear skies and a warming sun, plus renewed citizen activity at the polls brought heavy turnouts in area school districts holding school trustee elections.

In Lefors, where school trustee interest is high, 434 voters turned out to elect Maurice Upham and Richard M. "Dick" Williams to the board in a field of six candidates including one incumbent, Fred Browning.

Roy Jeffreys, president of the board did not seek reelection.

Upham was high with 201 votes and Williams ran next with 200. James Gotcher ran third with 184; Browning fourth with 163. P. S. Coberly polled 54 votes and Floyd Hines, 49.

ALANREED UPSET

But it was in Alanreed where an upset took place as two write-in candidates went into office and only one of the three named candidates was elected.

Robert Bruce, high man with 55 votes and J. L. Shields with 53 votes were both write-in candidates.

Marvin Hall, the only named candidate, ran third with 47 votes.

Shields' term expires this year and although he declined to file for reelection his name was written in just the same.

A total of seven names were written in on the ballot by the 87 voters. Other candidates and their votes were: Clayde Patterson, a write-in, 45; C. P. Hamilton, on the ballot, 28; J. R. Grogan, on the ballot, 26; I. T. Goldston, 2; H. H. Worsham and Bud Williams each 1, all three were write-ins.

PANHANDLE

In Panhandle A. L. Stovall and Ernest Roselius were named to the Panhandle Independent School District Board of Trustees out of a field of five.

Stovall piled up 189 votes for high man. Roselius ran second with 150; Thil H. Hawkins polled 137; J. C. McCollough, 134; and Guy Wester, 124.

Smith, Green Are Victors In School Board Election

E. L. GREEN, Jr.
. . . wins seat

Frank D. Smith and E. L. Green, Jr., were elected Saturday to the Pampa Independent School board.

Smith, a retail merchant, was re-elected for his second three-year term on the five-man board and Gene Green, a Cabot Co. vice president, was named to his first term.

The five-way race brought a record turnout of 1443 voters, officials said.

Unofficial returns gave Smith 930 votes and Green 773.

J. C. McWilliams, automobile dealer, was defeated for his re-election bid, though he pulled 556 votes.

Other unsuccessful candidates were Elmo Hudgins, a welder, with 273 votes, and W. B. Moore, minister and grocer, with 214.

The record turnout compares with 497 who voted last year.

It was the first time voters could use an "X" in indicating their choices, though they had the option also of scratching out the names of those for whom they did not wish to vote.

About half of the voters used the "X" method and half used the conventional "scratching" method. Some used both.

Many Negro voters turned out for the election to cast their ballots for Moore, the first Negro to run for school board office here.

Of the 1443 ballots only 33 were not counted because of incorrect markings. Six of these were intended write-ins for Fred Thompson, hardware dealer. Though the voters wrote in his name, they neglected to scratch other names out or to put an "X" in front of Thompson's name.

However, he did receive 10 valid write-in votes.

Dr. Joe Donaldson, physician who decided not to run after it was rumored he was backed by the Quarterback club, received one write-in vote.

The successful candidates told The Pampa Daily News they were pleased with the turnout and with the confidence the voters placed in them.

An average of more than 131 persons an hour balloted in the Junior High lobby.

Mediators Seek Strike Settlement

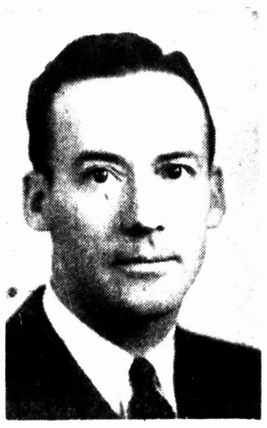

NEW YORK — (AP) — Federal Wage Chief Nathan Feinsinger shuttled between industry and union officials today in search of a way to avert a strike of 700,000 steelworkers Wednesday.

He said the fact that both sides were willing to listen was "always encouraging" and that "we haven't lost any ground" in the impasse.

But in the smoking steel producing areas, both industry and the CIO United steelworkers of America went ahead with preparations for a shutdown.

Union locals made arrangements for soup kitchens, and picket signs.

The huge United States Steel corporation announced plans to start banking 36 blast furnaces tomorrow. Other steel firms were following suit.

Speakers For Highway 60 Meet Slated

Pushing United States Hwy. 60 into a more prominent position in national travel will be the theme of several speakers scheduled for the May 15-16 convention of the National Hwy. 60 Assn. to be held in Pampa.

This was indicated strongly in two letters sent to members of the association urging attendance at the convention.

Heading the list of speakers is Col. John W. Chapman who will talk on civilian defense as it pertains to Hwy. 60. An archeologist, whom the letter did not identify, is slated to discuss the history of Hwy. 60 from times before the first visit of the Spanish explorer, Coronado.

The New Mexico State Highway department engineer and Melvin Drake, director of the state tourist bureau of New Mexico will also appear on the two-day program.

The letters were sent out by association president G. T. McWhirter, Mountainair, N. M.

Both letters centered around increasing tourist traffic over the highway.

Letter To Be Mailed From Paris Monday

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's letter of resignation as supreme commander of NATO is being drafted in Paris this week end. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, Eisenhower's campaign manager, was called to Paris by the general to help write it.

The timetable of handling the letter has been tentatively worked out as follows:

The letter will be mailed from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters on Monday. Protocol dictates that the letter be addressed to the U. S. Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett in Washington. Lovett will relay it to President Truman.

If this schedule is followed, the resignation would be on the President's desk about April 10.

The date on which the resignation would be made effective was to be worked out between Eisenhower and Lodge in their conference this week end.

It was believed in Washington before Lodge left that the resignation could not be made effective much before May 15 if it did take Eisenhower at least a month to clean up his work at SHAPE. The general plans a visit to each of the 12 European NATO countries before returning to the United States.

What Eisenhower does after his return to the United States is also to be discussed with Sen. Lodge. The general will have a certain amount of reporting to do to the Pentagon and the President and Congress in Washington before he takes off his uniform and becomes a civilian politician.

One is to be present at the cornerstone laying for the Eisenhower Foundation building in Abilene, Kan., June 4. This is the edifice which will house all of Eisenhower's war records and trophies — swords, medals, historical correspondence and orders. Eisenhower has assured Kansas Governor Edward F. Arn that he will be present for the event's state ceremonies during one of his international engagements.

Gen. Eisenhower's second commitment is to be present at the American Assembly, sponsored by Columbia University, at Arden House, N. Y., May 15-17.

Aside from these two dates the general's schedule in the first eight weeks before the Republican Convention opens in Chicago July 7 is largely in the hands of his managers.

Lodge, as top member of the campaign management, will meet with those of Middle Western and Western states during the week of April 15. He is expected to work out strategy with state campaign managers for Eisenhower.

Two types of campaigning are being discussed at Eisenhower headquarters in Washington and New York. The first is for a fairly selective series of campaign speeches in a few key cities. The other is for a cross-country campaign special train, hitting all the whistle stops, shaking hands and kissing babies.

BILL WATERS

Waters Seeks Reelection As County Atty.

County Atty. Bill Waters Saturday announced as a candidate for reelection to the Gray county prosecuting post in the July 26 Democratic primaries.

Waters will be seeking his second term as county attorney if he is successful in the primary.

One of the youngest attorneys ever to serve the county prosecuting post in Gray county, Waters graduated from the University of Texas Law school in 1948 and entered private practice.

After being less than a year, he entered the county attorney race and defeated the incumbent John Stokes.

During World War II Waters served 18 months with the combat engineers in the European Theater coming out of the service with a sergeant's rating.

Five Killed As Plane Crashes In New York Residential Area

NEW YORK — (AP) — A low flying cargo plane, loaded with Eastern flowers, smashed into the heart of the residential Borough of Queens yesterday, killing five persons and turning a block-long stretch of homes into a flaming terror.

The twin - engine C-46 dived out of a heavy rain with a thunderous explosion.

It was the fifth airplane accident of its kind in the metropolitan area in less than four months and brought the total toll of dead to 124.

Just as demands were made after three horrible crashes at Elizabeth, N. J., for the closing of sprawling Newark airport, civic groups have called for the closing of nearby International (Idlewild) and La Guardia fields. Planes from both must fly over Queens, huge residential borough of New York City. Newark airport has been closed since the last Elizabeth crash on Feb. 11.

Saturday's accident occurred at 7:25 a.m. (CST) as the cargo plane was attempting to land at International airport.

The plane tore through a two-story home, and then split apart. The blazing fragments hurtled into three other houses.

Frank Sonntag's Suit Is Thrown Out Of Court Here

The $28,000 damage suit brought by ousted Football Coach Frank Sonntag against the Lefors Independent School District Board of Trustees was thrown out of court Friday afternoon by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich when he granted a plea by Defense Atty. Arthur Teed to bar the suit.

The judge said Sonntag did not follow the course set down by law when he failed to file written requests for hearings before the Lefors School Board and higher school officials before coming into court.

This was the second hearing held by Juge Goodrich on the motion asking the suit be thrown out of court. Following the first hearing two weeks ago Judge Goodrich granted Atty. E. O. Northcutt, Amarillo, representing Sonntag leave to amend his petition, or to show that the suit could legally be heard in court without going through the processes of the school system.

Northcutt told reporters he would seek in writing, a hearing before the Lefors School Board on Sonntag's ouster. It was first reported the hearing was to be held Tuesday. But, according to law, it cannot be heard for at least three weeks. Teed said a written request for the hearing must be presented the board. The board at its regular meeting then sets a date for the hearing. The hearing may not be held less than 15 days nor more than 30 days from the day the board orders the hearing, Teed added.

The next regular meeting of the Lefors School Board is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Northcutt indicated it would be at that meeting that the written request for the hearing would be entered.

During the 1948 baseball season the Cleveland Indians drew 1,240,891 fans to 26 night games for an average of 47,720.

Political Issues May Never Reach Election

As political squabbles in both parties grow, it becomes evident that votes, not principles, will again be the order of the day.

As the matter now stands, aside from the candidacy of Sen. Robert A. Taft on the Republican ticket, there seems to be little choice for voters who are fed up with the corruption, high taxes, one world, meddling, bureaucracy, statist beliefs of the Truman administration.

True, most of the candidates are for such things as "honesty in government," and even the New Dealers are saying that they are going to do something about the corruption in government. And all of the candidates are going to "reduce spending" but only "wherever possible." Even Sen. Taft hasn't said anything about reducing spending by the government in housing projects, this being his worst offense against good government.

One school of politicians says that "we must have a military man to guard over military spending" and the next says that "all the military knows is how to spend money and not how to produce the things that are represented by the money."

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, wealthy oil man, says that the Democrats have put more money in the pockets of the American people but doesn't care to discuss how much the money will buy or the fact that the people of the nation have these baloney dollars as the result of thousands of American boys being killed or wounded in two wars. He feels that the average American voters is going to the polls in November and say to himself "which party can I get the most out of for me" and that nothing else will matter to him.

We have the sorry spectacle of New Dealer Republican Harold Stassen accusing Sen. Taft of being an "isolationist" while he objects to Truman's policies of meddling in the affairs of the whole world and trying to buy the friendship of Europe and Asia.

And throughout the entire political squabble runs an Eisenhower theme to the effect that since he has never had to do anything on his own and hasn't made people mad at him, he will be the Wonder Boy in the White House. How long this attitude will continue when Eisenhower has to declare himself on specific critical issues remains a mystery. Right now he seems to be most popular among the "progressives" of both parties and there may be an indication of his position in the fact that even the most ardent New Dealers are willing to "admire" him if they don't do more.

Should Eisenhower win the Republican nomination the voters of the nation in both parties who are seeking a return to sanity in government are going to be hard pushed to select between Eisenhower and anyone the New Deal puts up. The final race probably will not be fought on issues at all but will resolve itself into a popularity contest and "Ike" ought to win that one. If Sen. Taft is the Republican nominee there should be a great clarification of the issues at hand for the Taft school is opposed to the New Deal, Tru Deal and all the rest of it on virtually every score. In this event voters on both sides of the political fence would have an opportunity to express themselves and with reasonable knowledge that the two candidates would be representing their points of view.

Her car stalled at the corner and the traffic light changed red, yellow, green, etc. Finally the officer stepped up beside the car and asked "What's the matter, lady, ain't we got any colors you like?"

Back in the days when acting was done with much gesticulation and thrown-back heads a road company put on a play in a small town. The play itself was extremely inadequate and the ham in the players was sizzling that night. The audience tolerated it for a while then shouted and whistled at the actors' feeble attempts to entertain them.

After the play had run the usual gamut of trials and tribulations and love emerged triumphant, the leading man clasped the heroine in his arms and emoted huskily, "At last, my darling," he said, "we are alone."

"No ye ain't, bub," shouted a voice from the gallery, "but tomorrow ye will be."

A Bill To Withdraw From United Nations

Since the United Nations has not brought about conditions that its advocates, like Alger Hiss, contended it would, and since it has done nothing but tie the hands of our government officials, I think Congress should pass the Bill submitted on August 8, 1951 by Congressman Wood of Idaho known as House Bill 5080. The Bill has been referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

I reproduce the Bill below:

"A BILL to rescind and revoke membership of the United States in the United Nations and the specialized agencies thereof, and for other purposes.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that from and after the effective date of this Act, the ratification by the Senate of the United States on July 28, 1945, of the United Nations Charter, making the United States a member of the United Nations, be, and said ratification hereby is, rescinded, revoked, and held for naught; and all Acts and parts of Acts designed and intended to perfect and carry out such membership of the United States in the United Nations are hereby repealed.

"SEC. 2. That from and after the effective date of this Act all Acts and parts of Acts designed and intended to make the United States a member of the specialized agencies of the United Nations, or any of them, are hereby repealed; and all executive agreements, international undertakings, and understanding, however characterized and named, designed and intended to make the United States a member of the specialized agencies of the United Nations are hereby rescinded, revoked, and held for naught.

"SEC. 3. That from and after the effective date of this Act any and all appropriations for defraying the cost of the membership of the United States in the United Nations or in the specialized agencies thereof are hereby rescinded and revoked; and any unexpended balances of any such appropriations shall be converted into the general funds of the Treasury of the United States.

"SEC. 4. That the International Organizations Immunities Act of December 29, 1945 (59 Stat. 669; title 22, secs. 288 to 288f U.S.C.), be and is repealed; and any and all Executive orders extending and granting immunities, benefits, and privileges under said Act of December 29, 1945, are hereby rescinded, revoked, and held for naught.

"SEC. 5. This Act may be cited as the 'International Organizations Rescission Act.'"

Not Isolationism But Non-Interventionalism

I think that dropping from the United Nations would not mean that we are being isolationists but it would mean that we are being non-interventionalists. An isolationist is a person who would separate himself from the other countries and would not trade with them or permit their people to enter our country. A non-interventionalist is a person who believes that we should not meddle by way of the government in other nation's affairs. This spirit of non-interventionalism seems to be gaining ground. This belief is indicated by the fact that Britain's Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, informed the foreign minister's committee of the Council of Europe at Paris that in the British view, the council could function only as a coordinating body for specialized agencies and not as an instrument for seeking to achieve European political unity. Thus the "Conservative" government of Britain has taken an identical position to that of the Labor Party government of England. Neither is in favor of England participating in a United States of Europe, a project which our representative in Europe, General Eisenhower, has been making a strong plea for in an address in London not long ago.

The United Nations is simply a means of taking control out of the hands of the local and national governments. We do not need "One World." What we need is a nation that will live by moral law and teach by example human relations that will promote peace and prosperity. There is no possible chance of "One World" or the United Nations amounting to anything so long as individual nations believe in tariffs and immigrations quotas. If we in America want to promote prosperity in our own country and throughout the world, we better withdraw from the United Nations and thus be free to establish a sound money system, an unhampered market and a free world.

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

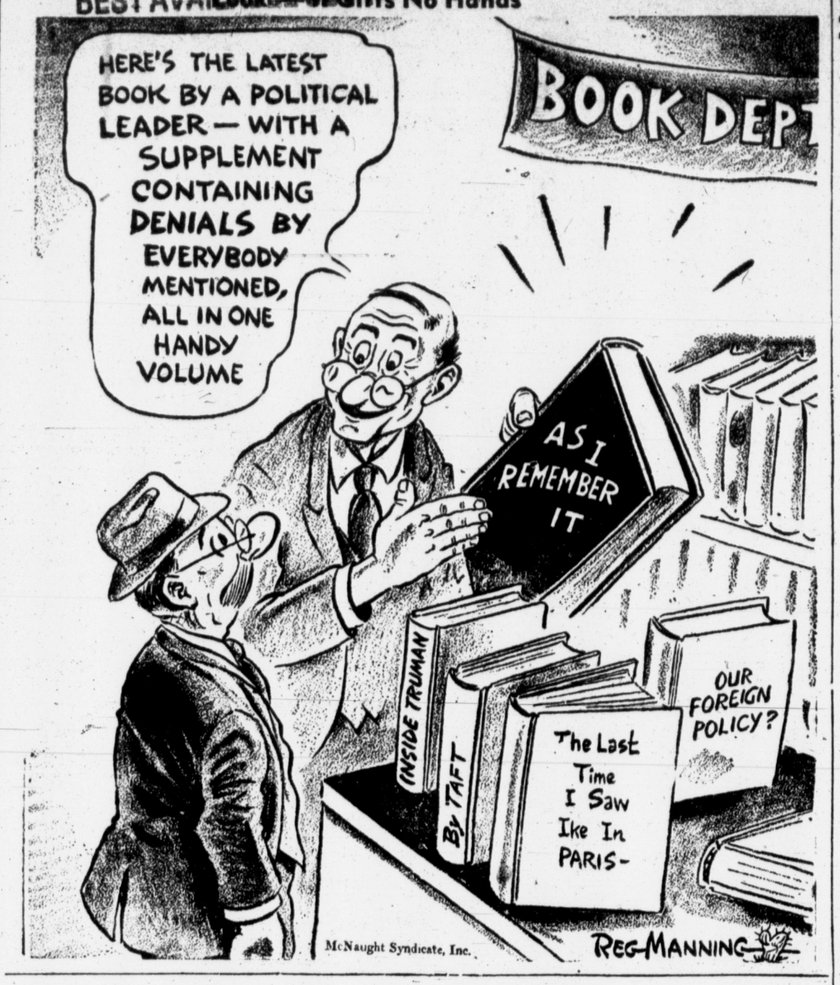

Another name was added to the list of typical American success stories not so long ago. It was that of J. Henry Heitman, president of Gristede Bros., Inc., well known chain of food stores.

It was May 1, 1900, when Henry Heitman, then a gangling youth of 14, entered a tiny gas-lit Gristede store at 138th street and Seventh avenue, New York, and asked for a job. He was hired as a delivery boy at $5 a week.

Later he became a clerk, then a store manager. In 1913 he was transferred to the company's warehouse, and before long became assistant to Charles Gristede, the supervisor of buying in the main office.

After nine years Heitman became head buyer for the chain, and in 1935 was elevated to vice president. In succession he became executive vice president and, in 1948, the one-time delivery boy for one of the company's shops became president of the entire organization.

Hardly a week goes by that we don't hear or read a success story similar to this. This country still offers great opportunities for individual gain as long as men and women have the vision to pick out "their star" and the will and persistence to follow that star.

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

The last time I even mentioned the phrase song writing, I went home bowed over under the weight of 253 songs by melodic readers who believed that the time had come to elbow Irving Berlin off the street. I had not then and I have not how any way of marketing a song for anyone, so I trust today's peek into the life of an amazing song writer will not once again avalanche me with the works of aspiring minnesingers and wandering minstrels.

What I want to say is that the man can't read music. He can't even write music. He can't play a piano. But in less than four years he has written twelve nation-wide song hits, big thumping successes that crawled with liveliness and bounce out of every juke box in the land. This is a man who writes music the way most amateurs do it—by humming it to someone else. If a publisher handed him a sheet of music and said: "How does that go again?" he'd gulp twice and race out of there. When he isn't humming a tune born in his head, he is painfully knocking it out blow by blow on a xylophone that cost him $6.75, cash. That's his piano, that's his instrument. He "hears" a new tune in his head and then takes the two wooden hammers and bangs it out, slowly and methodically. If it sounds good in his ears, he gets a professional music copyist to come listen and write it down for him.

In addition to which dozen solid hits, he doesn't think much of himself as a song writer. He wants to be a television director. No one has asked him to be one and he gets shy when the matter is mentioned. But with his luck someone probably will ask him any day now and he'll turn to that as a job of work. But before he bought the xylophone at an unclaimed luggage auction, he was a motion picture director for Columbia studios in Hollywood. Most of the men I know would have settled for that. Most of the men I know would hone to be movie directors the way people in Europe hone to be free. But when the xlyophone popped out of the package, my boy was a lost kid. He turned his back on movie direction and began hammering out his tunes.

And now, at the ripe, doddering age of 31, he is the moment's Mr. Tin Pan Alley, the boy they'd all like to make money like. You will note I do not say "the boy they'd all like to write music like." It's not his songs they envy—it's his truck-home pay. Royalties like his you do not take home. You send them home in a five-ton truck.

His newest success is "Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania," a song which has not yet run athwart my ears but which I am told is a handsome mouthful of tune and one that has given the teen-agers the giddies. A folk song lover from 'way back, I took one of his croons to my heart in the ignorant belief that it must be an old Elizabethan canto and I even went so far as to tell people it was an old Elizabethan item. It wasn't at all. It came bobbing off that tiny xyiophone in the year 1951. It was—and still is—called "My Truly Fair." A few months later a similar song came along and I became enraged at it, I went around saying that song writers were remorseless thieves who stole each other blind. The song was "Belle, Belle, My Liberty Belle," which I claimed with some heat was a shameless steal from that lovely old Elizabethan air, "My Truly Fair." If it was a cheat, at least the man stole from himself. Which is rare. While these two musical didoes were funneling out of the juke boxes still a third one of his was available: "Sparrow in the Treetop." And I certainly have memories of "If I'd A-Known You Was Comin' I'da Baked A Cake." I remember it because it was the song I desperately wished that people would stop singing. They did in time.

In case you own a nursery-sized xylophone and want to hammer your tuneful way into a million skins, the fellow to know about is this one:

Bob Merrill.

Reader Feels U. S. Butting Into Other People's Business

Each week this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent directly to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "Why are we involved in the Katyn Forest murder?" asks F.D.H. of Tulsa, Okla. "Should not this matter be investigated by some of the countries directly concerned instead of by the United States Congress? It seems to me that we are giving the Communists excellent propaganda by this intervention."

TYPICAL — Answer: This query is typical of many readers' comments on American interference in the internal affairs of so many countries around the world. Underlying these questions appears to be the feeling that we are minding too many other peoples' business, and that we shall suffer the fate of all buttinskis.

Mrs. L. I. of Passaic, N. J., wants to know why Ambassador Peurifoy is trying to tell the Greeks how to reform their electoral system. M. K. of Charlotte, N. C., asks why President Truman should lecture Spanish Franco. J. O. of New Ulm, Minn., cannot understand why Secretary Acheson pressures Iran and Egypt into accepting Britain's policies on oil, the Sudan and other problems.

REBUTTAL — It is true that Moscow twists and distorts our interest and activity in other nations' affairs, charging that it is simply evidence of our "imperialistic and capittalistic designs." The Kremlin argues that the United States seeks world dominance through its prestige and dollars. It is Stalin's rebuttal to our indictment of him as another bloody Ghengis Khan, Caesar or Hitler.

The fact is that there are two schools among Washington officials on this subject. Unfortunately, as the Wilson - Truman clash over increased steel wages and prices demonstrates, they cannot make up their minds on how to handle this vexing question.

HARD-BOILED — When we began to throw our money and weight around the world after the recent conflict, we assured willing and unwilling beneficiaries of our generosity that there were no strings attached to our gifts. We said that we wanted nothing in return, only their recovery and friendship.

We would not interfere, we told them, in their domestic affairs. As evidence of our unselfishness and big-heartedness, the original Marshall Plan offer included Russia and her satellites among prospective recipients.

Now, however, as was inevitable, there is a more hard-boiled attitude on Capitol Hill and in the State Department. The new theory is that we have a right to protect our contributions by insisting on economic, political and social stability in the countries we are helping.

After all, we have sent more than $30,000,000,000 overseas since World War II in one form or another. What banker doesn't police his loans?

IRONY — There is rich irony in this new policy. When Warren Harding and Calvin Coolidge used to order gunboats or marines into the "banana" countries, to insure stability, the "liberals" now in power assailed it as "Republican imperialism." Franklin D. Roosevelt promised to replace "dollar diplomacy" with the "good neighbor" program.

But now that it is the United States treasury instead of Wall Street banks pouring billions abroad, Washington insists that it should have the right to safeguard these government investments.

As so many readers suggest, any kind of interference, no matter how well - meant or justified from our viewpoint, makes enemies instead of friends. Uncle Sam's growing lonesomeness proves that.

EDGE — Mrs. B.E.S. of West Springfield, Mass., wants additional information on reports here and elsewhere that "great sums are being spent on the election of Eisenhower."

Answer: That same statement applies to almost all candidates for both parties' presidential nominations, not simply to General Eisenhower. Although Senator Taft is wealthy and has many well - heeled friends, and Senator Kerr is a multimillionaire, Eisenhower's appeal to eastern financial interests gives him an edge in the money-spending line.

PHONY — The 1952 election will be the most golden in twenty years for obvious reasons. During the Roosevelt period the Democrats did not need to spend vast sums in order to win, and the Republicans didn't have it to spend. The "fat cats" thought it useless to invest in the GOP. Now, with the outcome supposedly in doubt to the last minute, money will talk again.

As I have frequently reported, the so - called clean politics law known as the Hatch act is a complete phony, and was meant to be so when written.

FORGETFULNESS — "What are the facts," inquires W.F.I. of Rye, N. Y., "on the whereabouts of Gen. George C. Marshall on Pearl Harbor eve?"

Answer: Despite persistent questioning by the congressional committee which investigated that disaster, General Marshall could not remember where he had been at that fateful hour. I could never understand his forgetfulness because he has what is known as a "photographic memory."

Bid For A Smile

The Allegorical Pictures posed at the Opera House in the annual Elk's show last Friday evening were a great success. One in particular, entitled originally, "Spring Lolling in Winter's Lap," was carried to its ultimate triumph by the foresight of Tom Wilbur. Tom, in a long white beard, sat on a chair holding his wife, garbed as "Spring," on his lap. But Mrs. Wilbur runs to considerable poundage and every time during rehearsals that she went to loll, the chair would break down. So Tom had another sign painted on the reverse side of "Spring Lolling in Winter's Lap", and during the show, when the chair collapsed as usual, all Sid Cherry, the stage manager, had to do was to reach out to the easel from the wings and turn over the sign. It then read, "The Breaking-Up of Winter."

SPOTLIGHT FOR THE NATION

ACTION OF AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION ON PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT LIMITING THE POWER OF CONGRESS TO TAX INCOMES, INHERITANCES AND GIFTS

By Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc.

At its mid-year meeting in Chicago on February 25, 1952, the American Bar Association adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the burden of federal taxation has become greater than at any prior period in our history, resulting in discouragement to our traditional freedom of enterprise system and falling heavily on both those with small incomes and those with large incomes;

"Whereas, the taxes imposed by the federal government are destroying incentive and drying up the sources of capital on which our system of private enterprise depends, which will ultimately lead to the destruction of that system;

"Whereas, the taxes which are causing the greatest harm in this connection are (1) the income tax and (2) the estate or death tax; and

"Whereas, past experience has demonstrated that the evils of the present system of taxation will not be corrected without a constitutional amendment limiting the taxing power of Congress;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the American Bar Association, that Congress be urged and requested to submit for ratification by the legislatures of the states an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which will limit the power of Congress to levy and collect taxes on incomes, inheritances and gifts and in substantially the form attached to this report.

"Resolved further, that a copy of this resolution and report be sent to each senator and member of the Representatives and to each presiding officer of the respective houses of each state legislature.

"Resolved Further, that the president of the Association be authorized to appoint a committee of not less than ten or more than fifteen, to undertake to secure the submission of such amendment to the states."

This action was in accordance with the unanimous recommendation of a Special Committee appointed by Howard L. Barkdull, President of the Association, last Fall, the members of which are as follows:

William Logan Martin, Chairman, of Birmingham, Alabama,

James M. Douglas, of St. Louis, Missouri,

Robert B. Dresser, of Providence, Rhode Island,

Thomas B. Gay, of Richmond, Virginia, and Robert T. McCracken, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

This amendment approved by the Association is identical in form with the amendment proposed by Congressman Chauncy W. Reed, of Illinois, in a Joint Resolution (No 323) introduced in the House of Representatives on September 13, 1951.

In the language of the Special Committee's Report, the proposed amendment does these things:

"1. It deprives Congress of the power at any time to impose death and gift taxes, leaving such sources of revenue exclusively to the states where competition would tend to keep the rates within reasonable bounds.

"2. It limits the power of Congress in peacetime to impose taxes on income, whether direct or excises, to a maximum rate of 25%, with this qualification: Congress by a vote of three-fourths of 'all the members of each house,' may fix a rate in excess of 25%, but not in excess of 40%, for periods not exceeding one year each.

"3. It gives Congress the power by a vote of three-fourths of 'all the members of each house' to suspend the limitation with respect to taxes on income for periods not exceeding one year each during any 'war which creates a national emergency so grave as to necessitate such action to avoid national disaster, . . .'"

"It should be observed that the limitation with respect to income taxes applies to corporations as well as to individuals.

"The language of Sec. 2 of the proposed amendment limiting to 25% or 40%, as the case may be, 'the maximum top rate (including the aggregate of all top rates) of all taxes, duties and excises which the Congress may lay or collect on, with respect to, or measured by, income,' is intended (1) to make clear that the maximum rate meant is the top bracket rate and not the effective rate, and (2) to make certain that where there is more than one tax imposed upon the same income, by whatever name such taxes may be designated, the 'aggregate' of the top bracket rates of all such taxes shall not exceed the maximum rate specified in the amendment. For example, a normal tax of 3% and a top bracket surtax of 22% would be within the 25% limitation. If a 'defense' tax were added, that would require a reduction of the top bracket rates of the other taxes. This is as it should be.

"The requirement that to exceed the 25% limit or to suspend the limitation completely in case of war, there must be a vote of three-fourths of 'all the members of each house' is designed to prevent such action by a mere three-fourths of those present and voting.

"The provision that the 25% limitation may be raised to 40% or suspended in case of war 'for periods . . . not exceeding one year each,' is designed to deprive the President of the power by his veto to require a two-thirds vote, rather than a majority vote, of each house of Congress to permit the 25% limitation to become effective again after it has been temporarily suspended for a period of one year."

In conclusion to its Report, the Committee says:

"There is only one alternative to a free system. That is a coercive system, whether it be socialism or communism.

"The voluntary system of freedom of enterprise is irreconcilable with the coercive system of state socialism.

"The power to tax has become the power to enslave.

"The history of liberty is the history of the limitation of the power of government.

"The people of this country wish to preserve their free enterprise system, but they appear powerless to do so.

Henry Gives With His 'System' Of How To Beat The Horses

By HENRY McLEMORE

In my last column I promised to tell you how to beat the races. I am not a man to go back on my word, so I will give you my race winning recipe.

If I were a selfish fellow, I'd keep it to myself, not only that I'd copyright it. But that is as foreign to my nature as money in the bank. The whole world is free to use my system. If the Danes want to go broke, they can have it. The same goes for the French, the Italians, the Spanish, and the high school group in the state of Washington called TNT, of which I am sort of an honorary member.

Here is the system with no frills or curlicues.

Bet the same horses rich men bet. Without questioning the wisdom of Providence, I must say that rich men win more than poor men do. During the long years that I have been a newspaperman, and subjected to the temptations which newspapermen are always subjected to, I know for a fact that those who have it get it, and those who don't, don't.

I have played roulette at the table with the late Mr. Hershey of the chocolate drop millions. He could lose fifty thousand dollars without blinking an eye. I couldn't lose fifty dollars without selling an eye. I need not tell you that Mr. Hershey placed chips on the right number.

I won't mention the rich tycoons I have seen gambling while I was gambling, but I'll swear there have been plenty of them. So far their luck has never failed. They walk out with winnings and the boys who can't afford it walk out losing.

The next time you go to a racetrack, tag along behind a millionaire, even though the chances are that he doesn't know one-fiftieth as much about horse races as you do. Don't give up on him when he selects a horse that hasn't won a race since Dewey came home from Manila. My system is based entirely on the fact that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

The likes of you and me come out to the track knowing just exactly what we can lose if we're going to pick up the bills next month. We count our money while driving out to the track. We tell our wives for heaven's sake to bet the same as we do or we're just at cross purposes. A race comes up in which we know a horse is a stickout at even money, which means a dollar for a dollar, which is slightly more than a bank pays you.

We'd like to throw it all on that horse. But we can't. We're scared to roll it all, but the rich man doesn't have to worry, and when the horse comes in, the rich man flaunts his winning tickets as if he were the only one who knew. He says, "Who wouldn't bet a thousand dollars on that horse? A mortal lock."

So he's given credit as a knowdidn't you let me shoot it?"

I still think, though, that we little, worrying bettors get more fun out of horse races. The rich man can't get much clicking of heels out of winning, because he doesn't care. But for those of us who reckon in little dollars, nothing can touch the thrill of seeing your ten dollar bet turn into forty dollars at the finish line.

Don't forget my system, though. Bet with the rich, even if they can't read the racing form without the aid of magnifying glasses.

The Economics Of Moral Decay

(Christian Economics)

BY FRED G. CLARK AND RICHARD STANTON RIMANOCZY

The connection between a nation's morals and its prosperity is simple and certain.

Moral people feel compelled to live up to their contracts, put in an honest day's work, pay an honest day's wage, and deliver honest merchandise at an honest price.

These are some of the reasons why they plan better, produce more, make the best use of their raw materials and tools, and as a result are more prosperous.

Their costs are low, making their goods easy to sell, and the quality of their production is the best of which they are capable.

On the other hand, a dishonorable attitude towards contracts, dishonest values in work and in merchandise, bring on high prices, mutual suspicion, sloppy workmanship, low production, and shoddy goods.

Human nature being what it is, this moral decay spreads to every corner of the economy and brings on a lower standard of living for all of the people.

Economic immorality, therefore, while it is a moral problem, is punished in a very worldly and material way.

The wages of economic sin can be measured in dollars and cents and pounds and ounces.

There is a great deal of talk about the American system and the prosperity it has created, but there is very little talk about what made that system work.

Actually, it was the moral foundations of the American system that caused us to become the world's most prosperous nation.

It was considered sinful to steal; so the people accepted their responsibility of creating their own wealth; they did not ask the government to take part of what other people had created and give it to them.

It was considered sinful to be slothful; so the American people accepted the moral obligation to be "good" workers: to do the best work of which they were capable.

It was considered sinful to be wasteful; therefore people accepted the obligation to be thrifty and to use their extra earnings to build up their community and their nation.

This economic code of morality came right from the Ten Commandments, and the code was lived up to because the people desired to avoid sin.

Whenever you look, you will find a great deal of discouraging evidence thaat sin is becoming a joke in America.

Corruption is accepted as a normal condition.

Honorable men are considered behind the times.

Editorials like this one are considered crack-pot.

"Something-for-nothing" has become a respectable ambition.

Unfortunately for sinners of all kinds, the wages of their sins are not usually immediate, and in this respect the sin of breaking the economic honor code is no exception: time must pass before its physical results are felt by the people.

The mass guilt of economic immorality is avoided by blaming it on the "will of the people."

A person whose morals would never permit him to steal from his neighbor will go to the polls and vote to have the government do the stealing for him.

The fact that government does it is supposed to wash away the guilt.

A little thought will expose the true meaning of this action: the Code of the People is replacing the Code of God.

Morality is being condemned as the "hard way" and as a burden from which our "enlightened" wisdom has now set man free.

There is, however, a destiny that shapes our ends, and that destiny is the Natural Law that God laid down in the Ten Commandments.

We human beings may pass hundreds of laws to make economic immorality decent, and for a while we can even believe we are getting away with it.

But in the long run we will inevitably reap the whirlwind that we have sowed.

Military Cut Said Healthy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The chairman of a House "watchdog" subcommittee says a 10 per-cent cut in the 52 billion dollar military budget actually will improve the nation's combat strength by tightening up waste and duplication.

Rep. Bonner (D-NC) said that five billion dollars could be cut from the new military budget "without even drawing blood."

"Such a cut, instead of rendering the military less effective, will actually result in improvement of the end products of our national defense efforts, namely combat strength," he said.

Bonner, tesifying before a House Appropriations committee, said his own group on a world tour of inspection found numerous "doodaddles" and duplications which were wasting money and sometimes hurting efficiency.

He urged that the use of enlisted men as domestic servants for high-ranking officers should be stopped.

One example of waste, he said, was the building of $22,000 Army houses on Okinawa. A commercial company, on the other hand, erected "adequate" homes for about the Army houses for about $8600 $8600 each.

HOME ON LEAVE — Sgt. Joe F. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Leonard, 505 N. Carr, is home on a 20-day leave from his air force base at Presque Isle, Me.

Everette T. Huffhines, seaman USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Huffhines, of Pampa, is serving aboard the escort aircraft carrier SS Bairoko, now operating in the Korean combat area.

The Bairoko is serving as part of the United Nations Blockading and Escort Forces patrolling the West Coast of Korea. Her planes fly coastal patrols on the peninsula to attack enemy ground forces and onshore supply routes.

"Home" port for the carrier is San Diego, Calif. This is her second tour of Far Eastern duty since the Korean conflict began.

Attack Squadron 702, recently returned from a combat tour of duty in Korea, is reorganizing at the U. S. Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

Serving with the squadron is Conrad L. Wallace, airman, USN, son of Mrs. Jewell H. Wallace of 920 West Buckler, and husband of the former Miss Eva B. Humphrey of 219 North Gillespie, all of Pampa.

Members of the squadron are undergoing training in new developments in Naval aviation. Classes are offered in the fields of ordnance, aerology and electronics. Pilots of the squadron fly the Navy's "Skyraiders" carrier-based attack bombers.

Serving aboard the destroyed minesweeper USS Doyle is Robert L. Shelton, radioman, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shelton of Route 1, Box 89-A, and husband of the former Miss Patricia F. Adams of 409 Hughes, all of Pampa.

Shelton attended Pampa High school and was employed by Furr Food before entering the Navy in Jan. 1951.

Serving with Anti - Submarine Squadron 892 at the U. S. Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif., is Jerry C. Stroup, aviation son of Mrs. Jessye I. Stroup of 702 North Frost, Pampa and husband of the former Miss Kitty Coleman of Hopewell, Va.

The squadron returned to the United States in December, after serving seven months in the Far East.

The squadron's planes, flying in pairs, work as "hunter-killer" teams. One plane carrying a maze of detection equipment finds the submarine and leads the bomb-laden killer in for the attack.

After a period of training, the reorganized squadron will be assigned duty aboard an aircraft carrier with the Pacific Fleet.

The aircraft carrier USS Essex has returned to the United States from a nine-month tour of duty in the Korean combat zone.

Serving aboard the Essex are Pampa men, James E. Britton, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Crouse of 725 East Frederic, and Raymond L. Marney, airman, USN, of 203 Francis.

Also aboard the Essex is Gerald L. Childress, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Childress, Wheeler.

After a 40-million-dollar modernization job, the 27,000 - ton flat top was recommissioned Jan. 15, 1951. In June of 1951 the Essex sailed for Korea carrying the new F2H Banshees.

Air Group 5, attached to the Essex, was the first Navy air group to fly against the North Koreans. The air group flew two tours of combat duty.

WITH THE 1ST MARINE AIRCRAFT WING IN KOREA — Marine Andy A. Tarrant, 21, of Pampa has been promoted to sergeant at a Marine airbase of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing operating in Korea. He is serving with Headquarters squadron of the wing.

BEAUTIFUL RESTFULNESS IN SIMPLE SOLID MAPLE FURNITURE

Originally from Ephrata, Pennsylvania—a delightful chest-on-chest.

YESTERDAY, today and tomorrow. This is the new Lancaster County solid maple that breathes the living warmth of all three. Pennsylvania Dutch forebearers suggested the design. Today's Willett craftsmen peg and dovetail it from the solid wood, then hand rub it for a satiny wax finish. Tomorrow's children will cherish it as you do for its beauty and lasting value. Choose it by the piece or by the living room, bedroom or dining room—and remember Willett foam-cushioned upholstered furniture is equally gratifying to own.

America's largest maker of solid maple and cherry furniture for living room, dining room and bedroom.

Want a lot of mileage for your money?

WE'LL admit that the price tags of automobiles—all automobiles—aren't what they used to be.

But it's just as true today as ever before that some price tags are lower than others, and some cars cost less to own than others.

So let's see how a Buick SPECIAL fits into the picture.

Take first cost. If you put the price tag of this Buick against price tags of cars that have always been tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field"—you'll find that, in actual dollars, a Buick's surprisingly close to these cars of lesser size and horsepower.

But that's just the beginning.

What you're getting here is Buick quality—this SPECIAL comes down the same assembly line as SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Its heft tells you it has extra sturdiness in frame and structure.

Its Fireball Engine delivers extra power. It is an eight, a valve-in-head, with high compression, and the miles you can get from a gallon of gas make it a thrifty performer.

You get Buick's Million Dollar Ride, which protects you—and the car—from jars and jolts.

Even the tires are bigger—which, any tire man will tell you, lengthens their wear.

And if you pay a bit extra for Dynaflow Drive* you're easing the strain on the engine, the rear end, the tires—and eliminating clutch repair bills.

So when we talk about "mileage for your money" we're talking about the miles you'll get from your car—including the unused miles that are what you have to sell when you trade it in.

Maybe that's why Buick's doing so well in the present market. Why not come in and see what a great car this is for you?

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Wheel Crests standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series. White sidewalls optional at extra cost when available. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Within the next five years he was featured in 15 films, but his big break came in "Laura," which established him as a star of the first magnitude.

WARREN'S ARMUP

By Warren Hasse—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What is the distance from the foul line to the head pin in a regulation bowling alley?

STORY TELLING TIME

Billy Meyer, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, tells of the time he was manager of the Kansas City Blues.

"I was ordered out of the park," he said, "and the umpire pulled his watch and threatened to forfeit the game if I didn't get off the field in one minute. I looked down at the watch and just laughed and kept on talking. The watch had no hands on."

Then there's the one about the late Bob "Fatty" Fothergill, a former Detroit outfielder. He was no gazelle afield, but how he could belt hte ball! On his way home one afternoon after making two hits, he read an account of tne game which said that he had gone hitless in four times at bat. Bob called the sports editor and reminded him that he had made two hits.

"Sorry, Bob," said the editor. "They were typographical errors."

"Errors!" shouted Fothergill. Why, one was a line drive to center and the other a double off the wall!"

They call him Goofy, but Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, the old Yankee lefty, is one of the smartest and wittiest chaps who ever wore a baseball shoe. Gomez, now a salesman for a sporting goods concern, is kept busy all winter making appearances at baseball dinners.

A favorite Gomez story is told by his old battery mate, Bill Dickey. Lefty was pitching against the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's had two on base in the ninth with the score tied. Jimmy Foxx, who used to hit Gomez quite well, was the next batter.

"Lefty stood on the mound, shaking off every sign I gave him," says Dickey. "He didn't want to throw a curve, or a fast ball, or a change of pace. I finally walked out to the mound and said, 'All right, wise guy, what do you want to pitch to Fox?'

"Gomez looked straight at me and in a serious way said, 'Let's just wait a little. Maybe somebody will want him on the telephone.'"

Then there is one about another pretty good hurler, Dazzy Vance, one of Brooklyn's all-time greats. Tne Dazzler had pitched a shutout against the Philadelphia Phils, managed tnen by the late Art Fletcher, a noted bench jockey.

Fletcher rode Vance from the sidelines the next time the two clubs met.

"The next time I pitch against you it'll be a no-hitter," Vance told him.

"If you do, I'll kiss your foot at home plate," Fletcher promised.

The next time Dazzy pitched against Fletcher's Phillies was on Sept. 13, 1925, in the first game of a double header. He had them hitless with two out in the ninth inning.

"Remember what you promised to do, Art," Vance reminded Fletcher, and then retired the batter for his no-hitter.

Fletcher was on his way to the dressing room. He didn't make good.

Johnny Price, the baseball comedian who will be at Oiler Park on May 23, tells about entertaining Korean troops this past winter.

"We set up a bazooka and shot autographed baseballs toward the Red lines," Price relates.

"We could see the Reds pick 'em up and study 'em. In fact, they no doubt thought they were mines or booby traps.

"I wrote on eacn ball, 'Bring this ball to any park in the United States. Good for two admissions.'"

They've always talked a lot about how the oldtime ballplayers did more to win a game than the boys nowadays. One of the best team examples was the roistering old Giant outfit under John McGraw and, one of the standouts was Larry Doyle, a rough and ready and efficient second baseman.

There was a tight spot one day where Doyle simply had to get on base. The pitcher cut loose with a wild heave that sent Doyle spinning. The ball hadn't actually touched him but Larry picked himself up out of the dirt figuring Umpire Bill Klem wouldn't know the difference and started trotting automatically down to first.

"Hey, you," yelled the old arbiter, "come back here. That ball didn't hit you."

Doyle looked around and there was McGraw charging out from the bench. Doyle began thinking.

As he walked slowly toward the plate with Klem engaged in the McGraw argument, he kept his arms folded. With one hand he deliberately and viciously pinched himself on the side nearest the pitcher, kept pinching as hard as he could.

Then — "What's the matter with you" Doyle roared at Klem. "Are you blind? He didn't hit me, eh? Well, wotta you call this?"

Lifting up his shirt, he promptly showed Kelm a frightful looking, livid spot where he had pinched himself.

"Well, I'll be darned," said the amazed Klem. I'da sworn that ball never touched you. Go on, young man — take your base."

Dizzy Dean goes down in baseball history as one of its greatest pitchers and competitors. No hurler was endowed with more confidence or brazenness in boasting about himself.

There was a time when Dizzy, then with the Cardinals, was engaged in one of his frequent mound duels with Carl Hubbell of the Giants. Bill Terry was coaching at third base. There was a runner at first and one out when Phil Weintraub, husky first baseman, came Weintraub stepped out of the batter's box and looked toward Terry as Dean was about to deliver the ball. When Phil returned to the batter's box and Diz again went into his windup, Weintraub again stepped out and looked toward third where Terry was flashing him a signal.

When this happened a third time, Dean sauntered toward home plate, scowled at Weintraub and growled:

"What gives, Muttonhead? Terry's done give you the bunt sign three times already. Come on, let's go!"

Hot tempered Weintraub, fairly steaming from Dean's remark, became so fussed he tapped an easy bunt back to the mound and the quick thinking Dean turned it into a double play.

Then there are the other kind of stories, too, the human interest kind, like this.

Since made manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Eddie Stanky has revealed many heretofore unknown details about himself. There is the one, for instance, about his first trip away from his Philadelphia home to play baseball in Greenville, Miss. He drew $125 a month. He became homesick. After the first month, he was broke. He wrote his mother for money to buy a railroad ticket back to Philadelphia. He had had his fill of baseball. Mother Stanky did not answer Eddie's request for 10 days. Then she wrote, but did not encigse any money. She did not have it. Her letter, in part, read:

"Edward, I have tears in my eyes while I'm telling you this, but if you do come home, please do not come to 951 E. Russell St. (the Stanky address). We do not want quitters in this family."

Stanky says he cried for two hours after reading the letter. He didn't return to Philadelphia but went on to become a star with little ability but gobs of determination.

The last line of his mother's letter, "We don't want quitters in this family," inspired him and he went on to reach the pinnacle in baseball — a manager in the major leagues.

ANSWER: The distance from the foul line to the head pin is 60 feet.

READY—Curt Simmons demonstrates to members of his Army unit at Goeppingen, Germany, what he intends to do to National League batters when he returns to the States and civilian life in late April or early May. The 23-year-old southpaw won 17 games for the Philadelphia Whiz Kids before being called up with his Guard outfit in 1950. (NEA)

Nine Records Fall In Texas Relays

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTIN — (AP) — Nine records fell and two others were tied in the Texas Relays ending yesterday with a 6-foot-9 high jump by Charles Holding of East Texas State, a 54 feet 7 3-4 inches shot put by Darrow Hooper of Texas A&M and some terrific relay running by Texas, Texas A&M, Oklahoma and Kansas standing out in the big track carnival.

Charles Thomas of Texas, who won the 200 meters in 20.3 seconds — a tenth of a second over the world's record — and anchored a record - setting 440-yard relay team and a record-equalling 880-yard relay team, was picked as the outstanding competitor.

Rev. Bob Richards, the vaulting parson from La Verne College, California, failed in an effort at the world's record held by Cornelius Warmerdam at 15 feet 7 3-4 inches. Richards made 14 feet 8 inches then tried 15 feet 2 inches five times, each time kicking off the crossbar.

The Rev. Richards appeared as a special feature and his vaulting had no effect on the Texas Relays record of 14 feet 2 1-4 inches set by George Rasmussen of Oregon in 1949. He could not compete for the record since he is not a college student but an instructor.

Holding's high jump tied the record set last year by Walter Davis of Texas A&M, who was second with 6 feet 8 inches.

Hoopers throw bettered his own Texas Relays record of 53 feet 1 inch.

A crowd of 9,000 sat in sunshine for the big cinder path show. There was one accident. Curtis Beaty, former University of Texas football player and a coach in Austin High school, was hit on the head by a flying discus. It cut a gash but did not seriously injure him.

Four records were set after five were hung up Friday. The Texas sprint relay team did 41.2 seconds to wipe out the record of 41.4 set by Rice in 1937 and equalled by Texas in 1947.

The Relays broke up in an argument when the Oklahoma mile relay team was disqualified for the anchor man cutting in too soon on the first turn. Oklahoma had set a new Relays record of 3:13.1 but Texas A&M was moved up to first place. The Aggies' time was 3:13.5, which bettered the Relays record of 3:14.5 set by Rice in 1950.

The Oklahoma tracksters protested bitterly.

Texas A&M rolled up the most points with 37 1-2. Oklahoma was second with 33, Texas third with 26, Kansas fourth with 37 1-2. Oklahoma was second with 33, Texas third with 26, Kansas fourth with 19 and Oklahoma A&M next with 17.

Abilene Christian college led the college division with 16 1-2 points. North Texas State and Howard Payne tied for second with 14. Texas won the junior college-college freshman class title with 12 1-3 points. Oklahoma A&M was second with 11.

Brenham and Galena Park tied for the high school division championship with 15 points each.

The Texas sprint relay team was made up of Dean Smith, Carl Mayes, Jim Brownhill and Thomas, and this same combination tied the Relays record in the 880-yard event with a time of 1:25.6. Texas set the mark in 1936.

Javier Montes of Texas Western sprinted the last lap to win the 1,500-meters in 3:52.6 which became a record because it was a new event.

Oklahoma smashed the two-mile relay record with a time of 7:41.8. The old record was 7:43.0, set by Drake in 1941. Making up the great Sooner team were Derald Smith, Jim Wilkinson, George McCormick and Don rabtree.

Five records were broken Friday in the opening day of the big meet.

Hooper's shot put mark was wet in the preliminaries Friday. He didn't better it in the finals.

In addition to his shot put mark, these other records were set Friday:

Open 200-meter dash—Thomas, 20.3 (New event).

University - College distance medley relay—Kansas 10:06.0 (old record 10:11.9 set by Texas in 1947).

Oilers Test Roswell Today; Defeat Amarillo Gold Sox In 11 Innings, 7-5

CUERO—The Pampa Oilers staged another extra inning uprising at Gonzales Friday night to take a 7-5 11-inning victory from the Amarillo Gold Sox. The win evened the spring series between the two clubs, the Sox pounding out a 13-3 victory over the Oilers Thursday.

This afternoon the Oilers are scheduled to go up against the Roswell Longhorn League entry at Pleasanton. Manager Jake Phillips has selected righthanders Bill Bohne and Clyde Baldwin to divide the pitching chores. It will be the first time this spring that Phillips has tried to go through a game with two hurlers.

Giant ... Ed Sudol was the hitting hero of the Friday ni... He took to the Sox pitching for three for three Thursday and then picked up three more in five trips Friday. Going into the eleventh with the game tide at 5-all, Woldt opened with a single, the Oilers fifth hit of the evening. Norm Auerbach sacrificed him to second and then Sudol blasted double to score Sudol and sew up the game.

Max Molberg was the winning pitcher, having hurled the seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth frames. Jimmy Haggard threw the bottom of the eleventh and blanked the Sox. Rookie Dick Turnbow started on the hill for the Phillipsmen and got along well until the fourth, when he was tagged for three runs which tied up the game. He walked two, fanned one and allowed but one hit in those four innings. Dale Holmsley came in to throw the next two innings, and shut the door on the Sox before Molberg took over.

Righthander Juan Montero finally arrived in camp, almost two weeks late, and was immediately put to work running and throwing light. He is expected to catch mound duty Monday night against the Gold Sox at Gonzales along with George Payte.

Catcher Don Moore reported by telephone to Manager Jake Phillips, saying that personal affairs would keep him from getting to camp before the end of this week. He is being figured on to handle the rightfield post until outfielder Lloyd Stout can turn loose of his school teaching chores in Oklahoma. Then it will be a battle between Moore and Frank Calo for the backstopping job.

Phillips still has to look forward to lopping four veterans off the roster. It will be quite a chore as Phillips has been well satisfied with the performance of practically all of the athletes in camp.

The Oilers schedule this week calls for the Gold Sox on Monday and Wednesday, Roswell on Friday and Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio on Saturday.

Sandies Capture District Track Crown; Pampa Second

CANYON — (Special) — Pampa's Harvester thinclads finished a strong second to the speedy Amarillo Sandies here yesterday afternoon in the District 1-AA track meet.

In Class A competition, the Phillips Blackhawks scored 62 points to a 53 1-3 total for the Canyon Eagles.

All first, second and third place winners will represent District 1-AA in the regional meet at Lubbock in two weeks. Next week end the teams will participate in the Sandie Relays.

Two Harvesters captured firsts. Alvin Ward, having been jabbed with enough penicillin during the week to overcome an attack of tonsillitis, grabbed first in the 120 high hurdles and big Buddy Cockrell tossed the 12-pound shot 46 feet, 8 inches to win that event.

Other Pampa tracksters scoring points for the Harvesters were John Darby, fourth in the 100 yard dash; Ed Dudley, second in the 440; Gene Bonny, fourth in the 120 high hurdles; Ward, third in the 180 low hurdles; Tommy Smith and James Pippen, third and fourth respectively in the pole vault; Gerry Walker and Tommy Sells, who finished third and fourth in the shot; Don Burns, fourth in the high jump; Cockrell, fourth in the discus; Harold Courson third in 880; the Pampa 440 relay team, which finished third, and the mile relay team, which finished second.

No records were broken in Class AA, but in Class A, three records fell. Burris of Canyon heaved the discus, 162 feet, one inch, to beat the old record of 152 feet; Counts of Phillips sped over the 440 in 52.3, passing the old mark of 53.1; and Hardaway of Canyon vaulted 11 feet to set a mark in that event.

The complete results:

Class AA

Amarillo	96
Pampa	32
Borger	14
Plainview	11

Westerners Open Football Drills

LUBBOCK — Spring football practice got underway here at Lubbock High school Friday afternoon with approximately 50 boys reporting for the drills.

Coach Pat Pattison, who piloted the Westerners to the Class AAAA grid championship last fall has 20 lettermen returning. That number includes six regulars, four of whom were used on defense and two who were offensive players.

The spring grid program will be climaxed by a game under the lights at Jones Stadium on May 10, Pattison reported.

Sam Snead, Ben Hogan Share Masters Lead With 18 Left

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — The wind blew and so did Sammy Snead Saturday with the result that Snead and Ben Hogan were Masters Golf Tournament. Each all even after 54 holes of the had scores of 214 going into the final round.

Snead, three strokes ahead after the first two rounds, came apart just after learning that Hogan had finished with a 74. Sammy, playing the back nine miserably, had a 77 to lose what had looked like a huge advantage.

Hogan, too, had his troubles. But he fought them off to turn in a creditable score after being four strokes over par for the first 10 holes.

It was on this part of the course where Hogan played his best golf that Snead played his worst. The wiry little Texan played from the 12th through the 15th holes three strokes under par and didn't have another bad hole until the 18th. Snead, two over par at the turn, went over on 11, 12 and 13, then had to play the remaining holes in scrambling pars to stay even with Hogan.

After stumbling through the windswept third round the two leaders found themselves two strokes up on Cary Middlecoff, the steady-going Memphis, Tenn., dentist. Middlecoff shot his third successive par 72 round, one of the best of the day, for his 216 total.

Right behind him with 217's came big Al Besselink of Chicago, and Tommy Bolt, from Durham, N. C.

Besselink shot a 71, the best score of the day. Bolt, who had two 71's to his credit, skidded on the back nine for a 75 yesterday.

One other 71 was made by Chuck Kocsis, Detroit amateur for a 224. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., one of the first day leaders, shot a 74 for 218 and sixth place.

The gusty, cold wind, playing tricks with shots, caused the scores to skyrocket. The golfers complained they couldn't judge what it was going to do and when they allowed for drist one way it would swirl their shots off in another direction. They said it even affected their putts.

Pair Of Kings Try Luck At Augusta

By STERLING SLAPPEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Two kings who gave up their thrones met again yesterday.

David Windsor — once the King of England, now the Duke of Windsor — went to visit Bobby Jones — once the king of golf.

Windsor gave up his throne for a woman. Jones gave up his throne for peace and quiet.

They met on the porch of Jones' little white house overlooking the 10th fairway of the Augusta National golf course where 10,000 fans milled and streamed about watching the 16th Masters Tournament.

Jones is president of the National and still most potent in golf although he is badly crippled and must sit on his porch simply to watch others play the game he sold to the public in sports' golden era — the 1920's.

The last meeting between King Edward VIII and King Bobby, the one an only, took place on Nassau in 1941 when Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour played in a British war relief exhibition match.

Then Jones still had his health, and at least, he resembled the magnificently coordinated athlete who won all of golf's major titles. The Duke then was governor general of the Bahamas.

Yesterday on the porch of the little white house, Jones and the Duke discussed golf.

After the conversation Jones said the Duke is one of the greatest lovers of golf. "He's enthusiastic. He's attractive and he certainly worships the game.

"The Duke, you know, will walk you to death on a golf course. If you don't hold him back he will walk 36 holes a day. His game is a good 80 or 85 on a tough course like that one out there."

Jones pointed to the 6,950-yard National where even the professional stars have serious trouble.

The Duke and Jones have played golf together numerous times but the most notable was in 1930 when Jones was in England in the midst of putting together his grand slam — victories in the English Open and Amateur and the American Open and Amateur.

The round was shot at Sunningdale where three years earlier Jones is supposed to have played the most nearly perfect round of golf ever shot anywhere. Jones' score was 66 on a super - championship course made as difficult as possible for qualifying for the British Open.

Dale Hall's University of New Hampshire basketball team set a new University scoring record. This was Hall's first year as coach at the institution.

GIANT STAR IN HOSPITAL — Monte Irvin, brilliant Negro lefthander for the New York Giants, smiles from his hospital bed at Denver, Colo., after suffering a compound fracture and dislocation of his right ankle. The injury was sustained as he slid into third base in an exhibition game against the Cleveland Indians at Denver. Doctors said Irvin will be sidelined indefinitely and may be out the entire season. Pop Warner Holds 81st Birthday

PALO ALTO, Calif. — (AP) — "Pop" reached 81 Saturday — a little uncertain about his legs but positive the platoon system has no future in football.

"Pop" is Glenn Scobey Warner, father of the single wing. He scoffs at the T-formation as being the "interference-follow-me" system.

"If I could have a couple of new legs under me, I might be interested in a coaching job," grinned the former mentor of Cornell, Carlisle, Pittsburgh, Temple, Stanford and other colleges. "Pop" has an arthritic condition in his right leg.

He sounded off against the platoon system like this:

"Nowadays, coaches send players into the game like messengers with plays from the bench.

"I suggest the present rule be amended to restrict a coach to making subs only while his team is on defense, possibly a substitution when the offense made a first down.

"This would prevent a coach from sending in a player with a special play in a crucial situation. It would also put a stop to the steady stream of players coming off and on the field."

"Pop" maintains a keen interest in the gridiron game. He is kept busy answering letters from young coaches seeking his advice.

Last night the man who began his coaching career back in 1894 sat down to a birthday dinner with some old cronies.

McKinney Scores Ace On Number 7

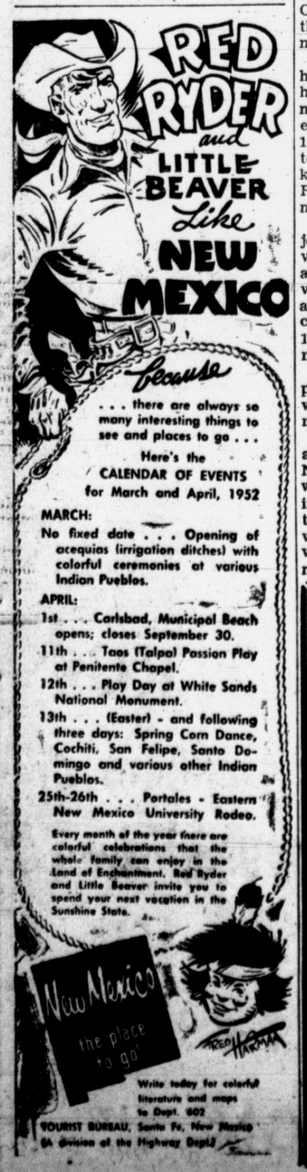

The second ace of the young golf season was scored at the Pampa Country Club yesterday afternoon when Ralph "Baylor" McKinney, (with a strong north wind at his back) pumped a five iron shot into the cup on No. 7 green.

Playing with McKinney were Mickey Prigmore, R. A. Baker, Al Prigmore and Ralph Prock.

It was the first hole-in-one for McKinney.

R. M. Samples, president of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association, scored an ace on the short 14th green two weeks ago.

A total of 11,187 harness horses raced throughout the country last year for a total purse distribution of $13,119,753.

Academic Committee Arms Self With Reform Power

CHICAGO — (AP) — The nation's most powerful academic accrediting agency has armed a committee with the power to expel member schools that violate a new athletic reform program.

A convention of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools set up the program Friday. It approved a new code, effective Sept. 1, which strikes at "snap courses," athletic scholarships and over - emphasis on winning.

Approximately 1,000 delegates voted to make violations punishable by possible dismissal from the association's list of 350 accredited universities and colleges in a 19-state area, including all big ten schools and parts of the Missouri Valley and Big Seven Conferences.

Authority to serve public warning to, or place on probation, or suspend, any violator of the new code is given the association's commission on universities and colleges.

The commission will rule on complaints passed on by a new committee on athletic reports.

Loss of accredition is considered a serious blow to a school's standing.

The new code sets forth these theories on athletics:

"The possible contribution a student can make to the winning of athletic contests should not be taken into consideration at all in the granting of financial aid of any kind."

Heads of colleges are "ultimately responsible" for wholesome conduct of intercollegiate athletics at their schools.

Coaching staff members should have regular faculty tenure "with salaries comparable to the general faculty scale."

Colleges should take "effective steps" to break efforts by alumni and booster groups engaged in recruiting and subsidization of athletes.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Council of Education have devised similar programs but the North Central Association hopes to achieve specific results with the weapon of accredition.

Araujo Looks Like New Champ

NEW YORK — (AP) — New York and television fight fans across the country have had their first look at Georgia Araujo. They may have seen the next lightweight champion of the world.

Rarely has a touted newcomer come through in a fashion to equal his pre-fight raves. The 20-year old Providence 134-pounder did just that against experienced Charley Riley of St. Louis at the St. Nicholas Arena Friday night.

Icy calm and fast with his hands and feet, the Negro lad handed the 28-year old veteran a neat shellacking through the first eight rounds and stopped him in 1:09 of the ninth round of the ten rounder. There were no knockdowns but Araujo stunned Riley in the third, eighth and ninth rounds.

Unbeaten in 2 1-2 years, Araujo, racked up his 29th straight victory and his 29th knockout, although it was of the technical variety. His record is 42 victories and one defeat. He avenged a decision loss to Doc Blanchard in 1949 by belting out Doc in eight rounds six weeks later.

Manager Angelo Pucci feels his phenom is ready to meet lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter right now.

"I'm going to post a challenge and a forfeit check with the New York commission in two weeks," declared Pucci. He said if the commission wants Araujo to fight Paddy De Marco first he would sign for that match providing it was stipulated the winner would get Carter.

The only man in minor league baseball to own three clubs at the same time is A. C. Gonzalez, Del Rio attorney and radio station operator.

He has built himself a baseball empire in three years, having acquired clubs in all of the lower classifications — D, C and B. Now he is ambitious to complete the cycle so far as his territory is concerned and obtain a club in the Class AA Texas League. There is no Class A league in this area.

They say Gonzalez got into baseball because he and his wife are ardent fans. Certainly he didn't expect to make big money out of it — you just don't do it with clubs of D, C and B classification.

Gonzalez entered baseball in 1949 when he bought the Del Rio franchise in the Rio Grande Valley League. He operated it until 1951 when the league combined with the Gulf Coast League to form a class B circuit.

Dropping out of the new league because of travel handicaps, Gonzalez purchased the Sherman - Denison franchise in the Class B Big State League and set about building an independent chain. Chickasha of the class D Sooner State League was added last year. This year he acquired Sweetwater of the class C Longhorn League.

He moved Sherman - Denison to Greenville but moved from there to Paris shortly afterward. He explained that he thought he would lose money at Greenville.

When Gonzalez moved from Sherman - Denison it was after he had put the matter up to the fans — "do you want baseball or not?" He said he asked no money from anybody, wouldn't accept it even if it were offered, but that he wanted to operate without loss through the city showing sufficient interest in baseball to support the club.

Using a mixture of American, Mexican and Cuban players, the Gonzalez clubs depend on about a 50-50 balance of Americans and Latin Americans to lure the fans.

The development of young ball players and their sale at a profit to clubs of higher classification is the key to the success of his enterprise. Despite a losing season at the gate at Sherman - Denison in 1951, the club finished ahead financially due to the large number of players sold.

Expansion is likely under the Gonzalez plan since he owns or controls five ball parks. In addition to Chickasha, Paris and Sweetwater, he has his park at Sherman leased to Art Willingham, who has a club in the Sooner State League, and he uses his Del Rio park for spring training for all of his baseball chattels.

Ever hear of the "shiner" and "mud" ball — or how about the frozen ball?

A gabjest between old-time ball players at the banquet in Waco last week honoring Branch Rickey brought a discussion of why the players of today don't hit as well as those 30 years ago. Dell Pratt, former big leaguer who played at Waco in the Texas League in the '20's said there certainly was no reason. The players today don't have to bat against all trick deliveries.

The shiner, explained Roy Mitchell of Belton, another major leaguer, was created by the pitcher scuffing one side of the ball then putting paraffine, concealed in his clothing, on the other. One side was made very slick and the ball would do all sorts of tricks. Then there was the mud ball — the ball was pushed into the earth and a ball of mud formed on one side. "It would drift and float," Mitchell said. Once when Vernon and Los Angeles were playing in the Pacific Coast League, the pitchers used the mud ball and nobody could get a hit. Finally both teams threatened to quit unless it was stopped. The next day a rule was passed barring the mud ball.

The frozen ball was one placed on ice and left there until all the life was taken out of it, explained Pratt. When a team was ahead it would slip in the frozen ball and the other side couldn't get it out of the infield no matter how hard it was hit.

Lobos Buy Minor's Top Hitter In '49

LAMESA — One of the outstanding hitters in minor league baseball, Forrest E. Kennedy, 24-year-old outfielder, has been signed by the Lamesa Lobos for the 1952 season. He was obtained from the Atlanta Crackers of the Class AA Southern Association.

In 1949 he compiled a .429 batting average while playing in the Class C Sunset League, a total enabling him to win the batting championship of the minor leagues. In 1950 he stroked the ball at a .411 pace for Pensacola in the Class B Southeastern League; and last year hit .307 for Miami of the Class B Florida-International. A right-hander all the way, Kennedy is expected to provide the plate power for the Lobos along with Joe Fortin, purchased from Albuquerque during the winter, and Don Stokes, returning from last year's squad.

Manager Jay Haney has also announced the signing of two rookie infielders, Bob Harvick of Tahoka and Glen Pine of Albuquerque.

Indians' Outlook Very Dark For '52

By JOHN CROWLEY
Sports Editor Oklahoman-Times

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — (AP) — To put it mildly Oklahoma City's outlook in the approaching Texas League race is darker than a cellar during a blackout.

Things could pick up in a hurry and President Jimmy Humphries declares that they will before the April 12, opening, but the array of candidates Tom Tatum drilled at Longview, Tex., lacked about one third of a team of being anything close to a contender.

The Indians' many spring camp losses were not misleading, for in the early phases of the practice games the base hits and the real good pitching just were not there.

Veterans are few and far between on the Warrior team which is operating independently again after winding up sixth as a "loner" in 1951. The entire infield has been wiped out, along with the catching staff.

There are two holdover outfielders and five pitchers returning from the team with which Tatum made his managerial debut a year ago. What the many new faces will deliver is highly problematical, and so is what the future holds in the way of strengthening.

The tribe is hurting badly at first base and behind the plate, where vacancy signs are dangling in plain view as three of the greenest kind of rookies man the posts until help can be acquired.

First year professional cathers are Ted Tate and John Wilson, and another youngster putting in time for the present before being shipped to a lower loop is Noel Dillingham on first base.

The left side of the infield, along with a good start in the outfield and a pitching nucleus, are the Tatums' strong points right now. One of the Texas League's better second sackers, Lou Farotto, was purchased from Dallas.

Tom Lind, bespectacled youth up from Hagerstown, has been smooth at shortstop and pairs nicely with Farotto for a strong double-play unit. At the far corner is beteran Joe Damato, former Southern Association star who comes here from Nashville. He is a steady fielder and power hitter.

Russ Burns has made the winter swap with Dallas, in exchange for Johnny Creel, look extremely good with the lusty manner large Russ former Tulsa slugger, got away from the practice barrier. He has been hitting steadily and for distance.

A fixture in center is fleet Al Cross, who came in last year to plug a gaping hole at shortstop and did a creditable job. He'll be the regular middle gardener, at least for the first few weeks, and Tatum looks for a big year from his speedster.

Returning for a second trial in left field, Bob Leonhard, back from Borger, has been hitting well although not for distance. The club is hunting for another flycatcher among other things.

Tatum prefers to be a bench boss but finds it difficult to keep himself out of the lineup. He almost hit .300 last season and remains one of the dangerous batters of the circuit. He may be pressed into duty as a regular for a while, then later assume utility and pinchhit activity.

Tatum hopes he already as a "big four" among his corpsmen. Only a few days ago Hugh King was returned after a trial at Portland. He'll be a starter, having finished strong with an 11-9 mark.

Wheelhorse Al Gerheauser appears to be poised for another bumper year. The league iron man with 55 appearances in 1951 wound up 16-15 in starting and relieving roles, and should win about as many this year.

Although he lacked lasting ability last year, Rudy Paynich, heavier and stronger, will be an improved pegger — much better than his 11-14 record a year ago. Vern Kennedy also has returned. He won nine and saved no less than 15 last season. Jake Henson gets another chance and from there on little can be told of Indian pitching ability as yet. Ernie Groth comes from Wilkes - Barre; there are rookies Vic Michalec, John Reid and Morris Shipman, and veterans from other leagues such as Mel Nee. Lou Lombardo, Len Pillar and Bob Raney.

Cubs Capture Eighth In Row

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (AP) — Frankie Baumholtz, Chicago Cubs outfielder, drove in three runs with a home run and a single and scored two others to lead the Cubs to a 7-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pelican Field Saturday.

The triumph was the Cubs' eighth in succession and their 18th win in 25 starts.

Philadelphia Blasts Cardinals

CHARLESTON, S. C. — (AP) — Philadelphia's Phillies combed St. Louis pitching for 12 hits and a 9-4 exhibition baseball victory over the Cards before 6,004 spectators Saturday.

Philly Third Baseman Willie Jones' two-run homer highlighted the first inning in which his team collected four runs off lefty Cliff Chambers, the loser. Wally Westlake's homer leading off the ninth inning accounted for the Cards' final run.

Bubba Church worked the first five innings for the Phils and was the winner, but needed help from Andy Hansen in the sixth.

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN O'SNEAD

Mr. Wind has been rough on the boys at the course this past week, whipping around every bunker, sidehill and fence post. It has kept things pretty quiet for the most part. Some of the boys were out, though, dressed in windbreakers and high scores.

There was a good group out Thursday, which was ideal for Johnny Foreman and his sky-ball. The tall wind really got behind the thin man and blew his drive on No. 9 way down to the bottom of the gully. But he didn't know what to do with it from there.

The boys surely did a fine job at the Panhandle Men's meet at Phillips last Sunday with that kind of a start, only three points off the pace on a foreign course, Pampa is in a good position to retain the cup. We go to Ross Rogers next and then come home. And Johnny Austin said he was really proud of the representation at Phillips. Only one fellow out of the group that signed to go to Phillips, failed to show up, giving us 30 golfers there.

One face we missed at Phillips was that of Tommy White. If he doesn't start getting out on the course we'll have Aaron Sturgeon whose game is red hot right now, serve some sort of paper on him to get him out. Lots of the fellows won golf balls at Phillips. If you haven't picked yours up yet, stop by the pro shop and check the list. I know a fellow who didn't win one, even though he found a water hole big enough and deep enough to lose a ball on the Phillips course. Did anybody else see water over there?

Getting into the tournament season again. The Phillips Invitation is on May 30-June 1. C. F. McGinnis is defending champion there. The Huber Invitation is July 4-6, the Plainview Invitation July 23-27, and the Top o' Texas Aug. 28-Sept. 1. Those are just a few of them. Then don't forget the Greenbelt coming up next month at Frederic, Okla. We should have a lot of boys entered in that one.

Got a new golf pro at Lamesa. He is Hank Hensely, who was assistant pro at the Lubbock Country Club for almost a year. He succeeds Dick Julich.

Johnny has been busy shooting the greens with various chemicals this week, and they should be good and green by next Sunday. They're in wonderful shape. Won't be long and the summer pins will be up again. New flags are flying now. All the new trees are really going to make the course more beautiful and sporty.

Did you hear about the golfer in Cheyenne, Wyo., who was practicing in an indoor net set up in his basement. He placed a match head in the center of his target. He scored a bull's eye on his first shot.

It ignited the match, target, net—and house. Fore! Please.

Tlaking about fire, R. M. Samples and Johnny Austin, dressed in the latest fashion to disturb turned up the Phillips course opponents, would normally have last Sunday if it hadn't been for the smothering effects of the blowing carbon black. Samples, attired in a natty pair of bright green slacks and yellow shirt and Austin in orange (politely referred to as "rust") slacks, stood out like mink coats in Washington.

GOLFING THRILLS:

Jimmy Demaret Beat Snead And Never Lost A Hole

By JIMMY DEMARET
As told to Frank Eck
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

My first big golf thrill was winning the National Match Play Open at the San Francisco Golf Club in 1938, I beat Sam Snead in the final, 4 and 3. It was my first big win.

There was a 70 mile an hour wind blowing on the course that day. I didn't get much sleep during the night because of the howling gale. I was in and out of bed all night and each time I looked out of the window the weather seemed to get worse.

I didn't think they'd play any golf the next morning. But Henry Picard told me the tournament was on.

Before leaving the hotel I thought I'd catch a little extra sleep. The tournament chairman called and said "Sam Snead is on the first tee."

I fell asleep and they had to phone again. When I got to the first tee an hour and a half later there was poor little ole Sam burning, poor fella.

Sam's tee shot sailed 250 yards right down the middle. My drive wasn't so good but my second shot from 150 yards off the green went stiff to the pin. It was the big shot in my career. It helped me get a birdie. I never lost a hole to Sam during the entire round of the final.

It has been thrilling to win three Masters (1940, 1947 and 1950) but the big thrill was getting to play with Bob Jones in the 1941 Masters. Every winner at Augusta gets to play with Jones the following year. It was a big thrill because I have always admired Bob both as a golfer and a gentleman.

(Jimmy Demaret, born in Houston, Tex., in 1912, was the nation's leading money winner in 1947 with $28,000. This is his first season as playing pro from Ojai Valley Inn, California.)

Tomorrow: Craig Wood

The first United States city to win a Stanley Cup, emblematic of the National Hockey League title, was Seattle. That was back in 1917.

DAPPER JIMMY Demaret holds golf ball with which he scored a hole-in-one a couple of seasons ago.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — The funniest ruckus of the spring has risen from the new National League ruling that its players who are not in an exhibition game must not do their wind sprints across the outfield while play is in progress.

It's an old training custom and we've never heard a fan complain about it, but President Warren Giles of the National League decided it didn't look tidy and ordered his athletes to desist. The American League failed to follow suit, so there was bound to be strife.

The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians agreed to alternate on "home" games during their long tour north, and Manager Al Lopez of the Indians consented not to let his boys exercise during games in which the National Leaguers were in residence. It made him sore, but he agreed.

Then what happened. Before the Indians' very first home game at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles, President Don Stewart of the Angels advised Al that his excess players would have to remain out of sight. He said that if they did not he would toss both teams off the premises and refund the fans their money.

Al fumed and asked the dignified Stewart who he thought he was and told him what he could do with his ball park, but the rule stuck and the Injuns remained immobile that day. It's still a very touchy subject with the Tampa nugget, who thinks the National League rule is thoroughly silly.

"We go to training camp and spend a lot of money to get our players in shape, not to entertain the fans out this way," he contends. "Running is one of the best ways of getting in shape, and on a tour of one-night stands like this it's sometimes hard to get to the park in time to do much more than limber up before the game starts. It's necessary for the idle men to run during a game and mine are going to do it when we're the home club. If the fans don't like it they can stay home.

"As a matter of fact, I think they do like it. I think they get a kick out of watching a famous pitcher like Bob Feller out there running his head off for an hour or so and then doing his calisthenics. Otherwise they might never see him at all.

"It's been suggested that I let my men run only while the teams are changing over between innings, but that's no good. There's time for only about one dash across the field, and then the players would cool off before they got another chance."

Among the aftermaths of Monte Irvin's injury at Denver is a sincere protest by Al Rosen, Cleveland third-baseman, that he had nothing to do with the accident which may keep the Giants star out all season.

When Irvin slid into the bag and broke his ankle, there was speculation that Rosen had lured him into sliding when there actually was no need for it. Al was seen to slam his glove to the ground when he saw what had happened.

"I hadn't done a thing on the play," he says. "I just heard that bone crack, as everyone else did who was within earshot, and I felt terrible. We all have a lot of admiration for Montie."

Ethan Allen, head baseball coach at Yale, jumped from the straight to the major leagues. He University of Cincinnati campus played pro ball in both the American and National Leagues for 13 years.

Pampa Golfers Finish Third

The Amarillo Sandies, playing two teams over their home course, captured the first two spots in the District 1-AA golf tournament Friday at the Amarillo Country club.

The Pampa Harvesters finished third, Plainview finished fourth, Borger fifth, and Plainview's second team, sixth.

The two low teams will be entered in the regional 1-AA meet at Lubbock on April 19. The two low individual performers also will compete. They were Rex Baxter of Amarillo with a three-over-par 73, and Rex Jordan of Plainview with a 74.

Tommy Cox, senior linksman, paced the Harvester golfers with an 81. He was followed by Ronnie Mullins with an 84, Dib Stowell with an 86, and Derrel Godfrey with a 93.

In the team scores, Amarillo No. 1 had 315; Amarillo No. 2 had a 321; Pampa, 344; Plainview, 350; Borger, 365; and Plainview, 397.

High winds and blowing dirt hampered the play of all the teams.

Everybody Enthusiastic Over Pro Football But Baseball

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

It appears everybody is enthusiastic about pro football in Texas except the baseball people. They tell you privately they can't see how the sport is to prosper and that the folks brought a National Football league franchise to Dallas are like sheep being led to slaughter.

It could be that the diamond people are a little jealous — major league football got here before major league baseball. The reason major league baseball isn't here is because of territorial rights and the amount of money involved, the baseball people say. Too many obstacles. But that was the same tune played about pro football, yet it required only a name attached to a franchise and $300,000 to get the grid game in Dallas.

The tipoff as to rivalry between the pro baseball and pro football people came the other night when meetings were scheduled by the two sports at the same time. Pro football did appear to have encroached — the baseball meeting had been scheduled for weeks when all of a sudden the Dallas club announced it was going to hold one. The baseball people growled.

Giles Miller, the young textile tycoon who heads the Dallas pro football club, doesn't buy that "led to slaughter stuff." "It all looks so good something is bound to happen," he says. "But I don't see how we can miss."

Already they're being deluged with ticket applications and most everybody — except the baseball people — tell them they've hit the jackpot.

The reports that the Texans were going after Doak Walker, Sammy Baugh, Kyle Rote and other illustrious Texas footballers owned by other clubs, are dying out.

Of course, says Miller, Dallas would like to have all those fellows. "But they tell me in pro football if somebody wants to sell you a player, you better leave him alone," Miller comments. "Nobody has tried to sell me Walker, Baugh, or Rote as yet." Anyway, the Texans wouldn't want to pay what those guys would bring if they were offered for sale.

He has found that the only way to get the stars from the other clubs is to trade — trade them somebody who is better fitted for their style of football or would be a better drawing card.

Miller wouldn't be surprised if Martin Ruby and Jack Russell, the former Southwest Conference stars who jumped to the Canadian pro league, came back to American pro football this year.

Ruby, the former Texas Aggie, already has visited in Dallas and talked with Coach Jimmy Phelland.

Ruby and Russell, the ex-Baylor great are on the reserve list of the Dallas club and can't play with any pro club in the United States unless it's with Dallas.

They went to Canada last year because they could get more money and besides they figured they were getting at that age when the softer type of football as played in Canada would be better than the slambang stuff in America. But both still have a lot of football left.

Coleman Sticking

ATLANTA, Ga. —(AP)— Gerry Coleman, infielder of the New York Yankees, said today he will remain with the club until April 30. He plans to fly home that night and spend a day and a half with his family before reporting for active duty on May 2 with the Marine Air Corps at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station at Long Beach, Calif.

Bob Clotworthy of Ohio State, the National AAU outdoor diving champion, is only five feet three inches tall.

24 Years in National League

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Q. What has been the St. Louis Browns' largest total attendance for a season?

A. The Browns' high is 712,918 set in 1922. The pennant-winning St. Louis Americans of 1944 drew only about 500,000.

Beans Reardon

Q. What is the record in both major leagues for doubleheaders won?

A. The Chicago Cubs top the National League with 20, established in 1945. The American League record is 14, held by several clubs.

Q. What has been the record number of players used in one game by one big league club?

A. 24, by Brooklyn against the Giants in 1948, also Pittsburgh against Boston in 1940. The American League record is 23, set by Cleveland against Detroit in 1921.

Q. What are the principal assets needed to be a good umpire?

A. Good common sense and knowing how to handle men. An umpire must hustle, keep on top of plays and never lose sight of the ball. Never make a decision while running, for your eyes jump as you move.

Pirates Seek Grid Battle

LEFORS — (Special) — Head Coach R. C. Callan, whose Lefors Pirates are slated to begin spring football practice Monday, is anxiously trying to schedule one more game for his 1952 squad.

"We want a home game for either Sept. 12 or Oct. 10," Callan said, "and we are willing to play any class A or AA team in the region. We prefer the Oct. 10 date, but will play Sept. 12 if necessary," he concluded.

As the schedule now stands, the Bucs play their first four tilts away, which is why the school is anxious for a home game. As of now, the schedule is:

Sept. 12—Open.
Sept. 19—Stinnett, there.
Sept. 26—Memphis, there.
Oct. 3—Clarendon, there.
Oct. 10—Open.
Oct. 17—McLean, there.
Oct. 24—Price College, here.
Oct. 31—Canadian, here.
Nov. 7—Wheeler, here.
Nov. 14—Panhandle, there.
Nov. 21—White Deer, here.

Clarendon, McLean, White Deer, Panhandle and Canadian are District 1-A games.

Approximately 35 candidates are expected to draw equipment at Shaw Field Monday, Callan said. Among these will be eight lettermen, eight "B" team lettermen, and 10 reserves from last fall's district runners-up. This 26 will be augmented by a number of freshmen up from last year's potent junior high team.

When Snook Bite, You're Busy

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

Bounce Anderson, the gent who masterminds the West Palm Beach Fishing Club, roused me out of bed the other day for a little snook fishing. Of course, anybody who's fished for snook knows that staying in bed is usually more profitable, but the waters pouring into Lake Worth are full of "spanish bass."

We had drawn a complete blank, even with an armada of three, the last time out. We had set sail among the cocoa palms at a time when snook should have been knocking themselves out on surface plugs, but the best we could muster was two minor engagements—won by two midget snook.

But Bounce is one of those indefatigables who insists "you should be here next week," so what happened the next time was the result of waiting around.

Lake Worth is a salt-water enlargement of the inland waterway adjacent to the Palm Beaches. Record fish of all kinds have been taken in this pond, but the local light-tackle addicts specialize in snook, channel bass, sea trout, and ladyfish. There's nothing fancy about this kind of fishing; all you need is some kind of casting rod, patience, and a boat. We rented a fancy outboard for five bucks, and ten minutes later we were on the snook grounds in the north end of Lake Worth.

Bounce steered us in close to a mangrove-smothered island, and there began one of the wildest casting sessions I've ever had. Snook are very smart—most days they just lay around thinking. I suppose they think about some other snook, because they don't give much thought to fishermen. But this morning all they could think about was eating and quick as a plug dropped by the mangrove roots, a fat snook sucked it under.

Once in a while we'd hit a ladyfish—a long, silvery aerialist with a fast change of pace. But most of the time there were black-striped bombshells exploding under the mangroves. Double headers were common. Toward noon we made passes at the lunch box, but it's awfully hard to eat when the fish are biting.

The fish we caught were small—my biggest was a 12-pounder—but most of them ran from two to five pounds. As the Florida weather warms up through April and May, the snook will run much larger—up to 35 pounds.

I'd hate to think what might happen then, because most of the fishing is done at night. We'd probably starve to death. Anyhow, I was there "next week," and for once I can report the local sage was right.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Smoking will preserve game and fish almost indefinitely in most any climate, and when so preserved it is delicious and as good eating as if fresh. Smoking is relatively simple, but it does require attention to the fire or smudge four or five times a day during the process, which takes from two to four days. Here, briefly, are the steps as out-lined by Col. Townsend Whelen.

Some kind of a smokehouse is necessary, but it does not have to be elaborate. The simplest arrangement is to rig up some kind of chimney, say 30 to 40 inches square, made of wood or sheet metal, with shelves and with a trench below it or slightly to one side in which to build the fire or smudge.

Now you need a big fish. Any species can be smoked, just so they are large fish that will fillet into slabs at least half an inch thick. Clean the fish, remove the heads, and split in two pieces in line with the backbone. Lay the halves skin side down on a log, sprinkle salt over them, and cover with canvas. Do this in the early evening. Build your fire early the next morning, just enough to make a small bed of coals. Then feed it on rotten, punky or wet wood so it will smolder and smoke, with little or no flame. You must use only hard-wood — birch, maple, aspen. Never any pitchy wood like spruce, pine or hemlock that would give a disagreeable taste to the smoked food.

When the smudge is going well, with a column or even just a wisp of smoke going up the chimney, wipe the salt off the fish and lay the fillets, skin side down, on the shelves and close up the chimney. Keep the smudge going all day so smoke is constantly circulating around and over the fish. You want only warmth, not heat. Neither the fish nor the chimney should ever get so hot you cannot place your bare hand on them. The chimney must have smoke in it all the time during daylight to keep the flies off; build it up well when you go to bed.

It probably will take from two to four days to smoke your fish properly, depending on the weather and the volume of smoke. When done, put the fillets away skin side down and where they will keep dry. You don't have to keep them cold, so don't place them in a refrigerator or any damp place or they will mildew.

Smoked fish will keep for weeks. You can smoke game birds such as quail or grouse in exactly the same way, splitting them, slightly salting them overnight, and laying them flat on the smokehouse shelves. Deer, moose, caribou, tongues, even sheep and beef, may be similarly smoked, cutting fatfree meat in flat strips not over an inch thick.

SAFETY FIRST—The improper way for a hunter to pass his gun to a partner when hurdling a fence is enacted upper left, the correct way lower left. Be sure it is not aimed at anyone. In a boat, center, hold on even when it is capsized until out of danger. The wrong way to shoulder a gun is pictured upper right, pointed groundward. Keep it up, as shown lower right. (NEA)

Irish Athletic Prospects Look Good For Next Year

SHAMROCK —(Special)— Shamrock's sports season is practically over and already Irish fans are looking forward to prospects for 1952-53.

Coach Scott McCall and his assistants won the district title in football last year and then went on to win the bi-district championship from Tulia Thanksgiving, but the big question is whether they can win a third straight district crown in 1952. Two years ago they copped the 2-A title and the 1-AA title in 1951, with competition coming up in District 3-AA this fall.

Losing nine of their 11 grid starters, their problem will be to develap a new line and round a backfield with the leadership of their lone two regulars, halfbacks Don Carlton and Jimmy Pennington. Spring training, starting Monday, will give a partial answer to Irish 1952 chances and so will the annual senior game the latter part of April.

Basketball for boys looks favorable. Losing Mack Terry, Van Pennington and Bill Harris from the 1952 main string, the Irish figure to replace them with such stalwarts as LeeRoy and Malcolm Passons, Bill Parks and others. They had an excellent B team which racked up 13 of 15 victories.

Girls will likely have an even stronger combine in 1952-53. With only Glenda Thompson, guard, gone from the main sextet, the Lassies figure to be one of the stronger area basketball crews. They also get the stars of Coach B. L. Hill's outstanding junior high girls, including three good forwards and four strong guards. Shamrock placed two girls on the all-district 1-AA girls team—Mollie Mayfield and Modene Griffin.

Losing Clarence Jones and KO king Bobby Campbell, boxing Coach H. W. Callan, regional winner in 1950 and 1951, looks to a strong fistic crew, including such aces as Kenneth Woods, regional champion at 118, Bobby Johnson, Ronald Settle and many others.

Tracksters have back many of their 1952 crew, including Jimmy Pennington, Don Carlton, J. R. Stansell, Eugene Smith and a group of better thin-clads.

There isn't much left to the Irish sports set-up, except the grid drills this month. But fans think the coaches will turn out good if not great teams to uphold the Irish tradition. Foes who aren't too wary of the green-and-gold should look over the trophy case at Shamrock High. Coaches have been busy at more than mumbledy peg.

DOG NOTES

AN IMPORTANT LIFE A DOG SAVED

Last week there was a lengthy news item in the papers about a man living now in Washington, D. C. Once before I told you about an experience this man had many years ago. I won't tell you his name, and from the following you can readily see why I can't. It's an interesting true story:

In 1937 this man lost a fortune. He was deeply in debt and completely dejected—so much so that he decided his only solution was to commit suicide and allow the proceeds of his life insurance to repay his debts. His mind was made up, he wrote a few farewell notes and left his home situated in a fashionable section of the nation's capital. He was going to shoot himself in a nearby park.

Walking through the park toward a secluded spot, he came upon a young puppy who started to follow closely at his heels. The man stopped and sat down on a bench and the dog nestled his nose in this strange man's lap. The dog's actions interested the man. He had no family and most of his former friends had seemed to shun him since the loss of his money. Here was a dog, a stranger, making friends with him. He decided to take the animal back to his apartment and feed it, putting off shooting himself until the next day.

One of his farewell notes he had mailed. Early the next day the recipient of the note rushed to the man's apartment with two policemen. On arriving they found the man playing with the puppy. He was persuaded not to kill himself. Then a group of his friends purchased the little puppy from the rightful owner and gave it to the would-be suicide as a gift.

Today the man is married, the father of three children and often in the news for he is considered a national figure. The dog died a few years ago—a dog that when only a puppy saved a useful life.

TRAINING TIPS

Maybe it's the influence of television or the movies; but I have received a number of letters lately from children asking me for advice on how to train their family dog as a trick dog. Some of the hints I have given these children are applicable to any dog owner. Here are some:

Don't scold or punish your dog in the presence of other humans or of other dogs. A good employer does not berate a faulty employee in the presence of other workers. The same rule should apply with dogs.

Don't try to teach your dog any complicated tricks before he is nine months old. Teach him to obey and housebreak him as early as possible. But let the difficult tricks wait till he is older.

Any command must always go with the desired action. Always use the same command in both words and tone for each action desired.

Never lose your patience with him. Teach him to rely on you for kindness and understanding. Never treat him with cruelty. He may or may not learn by cruel treatment; but if he does, he will always cringe and be afraid of you.

Kindness is the only safe and wise way to teach him and to behave toward him.

TO LET LIVE OR NOT

Perhaps you will be interested in this letter that came to me this week. It reads:

"My dog is more than 10 years old. He has been my constant and trusty companion for 9 years. But now he is beginning to slowly grow older and less agile. He still seems to be in good spirits. His appetite is good as is his general health.

"Now a verterinary doctor and some of our friends advise me to have him put out of the way, without pain, before life is a burden to him. I would hate to. Is it my duty? We all love him and he is happy. Must I have him killed?"

My answer: No, do NOT have him killed no matter what others say. He may have several years of happiness and health ahead of him in your home. Is there so much happiness in the world that you have the right to destroy some of it, by killing your happy canine companion? Let him live as long as he gets any pleasure at all from life.

Far too many people are urged by well-meaning friends to put to death a dog which does not need to die. If your dog is growing old, make his old age as happy as you can. This for your own sakes, as well as for his.

* * *

HOW TO HOUSEBREAK A DOG

At least once a year I repeat my suggestions on how to housebreak a puppy. I have to do so, for that advice is asked for far more often than any other you readers write me for. So here it is again:

Some dogs need practically no lessons in house behavior. Others are hard to teach and slow to learn. Don't beat your dog or yell at him when he forgets his teachings and don't expect a dog under 8 months of age to be 100 per cent housebroken. Use common sense and patience. See that he is put out of doors at the very first sign of uneasiness.

Let him out, also, the last thing at night and the first thing in the morning. Let him out at once after he has been fed. Also several times during the day. Soon he will learn to conduct himself accordingly. Don't whip him if he misbehaves or forgets; just scold him. But after scolding him put him right out-of-doors. Don't wait until later as he won't understand. Remember housebreaking takes time and patience but once learned by the dog it is seldom forgotten.

"DOG PEEPER"

The police of a small Pennsylvania city received a frantic telephone call from a woman who complained that there was a man outside her bedroom window.

The local squad car dashed to the scene and effected a quick capture of the peeping annoyer—but they quickly released their prisoner. It was a large dog that had climbed a fire escape, placed its paws on the window sill and pushed its face against the window.

The woman still claims the dog's face looked like a man's. In fact, she further claimed it is hard to tell a dog's face from that of man's at night anywhere—at least for her.

More Seeking Arizona Position

TEMPE, Ariz. — (AP) — Several more names have been added to the list of prospects for the head football coaching job at Arizona State College at Tempe.

They include A. Dudley De Groot, mentor at New Mexico University, and Jeff Cravath, until recently head coach at the University of Southern California.

Both were seen on the campus yesterday.

They are seeking the position left vacant by resignation of Larry Siemering, former coach at College of the Pacific. Siemering's resignation must still be considered by the board of regents.

Dr. D. R. Van Petten, director of athletics, said his office has received numerous applications. Several interviews have been held.

Applicants include Leonard Raffensperger, head coach at the University of Iowa; Clyde B. Smith, head coach at Indiana University, and Walter Barnes, present defense coach at Arizona State.

Cat Prospects Look Bright For 1952

By FLEM HALL
Sports Editor Fort Worth Star-Telegram

FORT WORTH — (AP) — For the first time since World War II the Brooklyn-owned Fort Worth Cats last year failed to battle for both straight-season and play-off championships. It resulted in an "off" season at the gate, one which did little toward reducing the debt on million-dollar La Grave field, which was rebuilt after the 1949 fire.

The Brooklyn fathers, quite naturally, won't wish that to happen again. So Fort Worth club officials and fans expect a strong [illegible]. In this day of highly [illegible] chain baseball usually [illegible] best means of judging any [illegible] farm club is to first survey the overall talent available in the parent organization, study the commitments and guess accordingly.

On this basis the Fort Worth chances would appear bright. For the Dodgers consider their condition for all high-minor clubs healthier than in the past three years. They won't be surprised to see four pennants won by St. Paul, Montreal, Fort Worth and Mobile.

First indication of the strength to be made available to the Cats came recently when the Dodgers optioned to Fort Worth direct from their major league roster First-Baseman Wayne Belardi, Catcher Steve Lembo and Pitchers Ray Moore and Joe Landrum.

Landrum was out of baseball last year after winning "pitcher of the year" honors at Fort Worth in 1949, dividing time between Fort Worth, Brooklyn and Montreal in 1950.

Belardi is rated the organization's top first base prospect and helped his standing with steady slugging for the Dodgers this spring. Lembo occupies the same position among the system's catchers. Steve, incidentally, will become the Cats' first-string catcher, replacing Manager Bobby Bragan, who for four years has done most of the receiving.

Among the bright newcomers from lower leagues on the club is Outfielder Odbert Hamric, who batted .304 for Newport News last year.

Rocky Claims He'll KO Sugar

CHICAGO — (AP) — Rocky Graziano has reached that stage in training for his middleweight title bout with Champion Ray Robinson where he is making predictions.

Graziano predicted today that he will take Robinson's crown with a knockout.

The 15 round bout will be held April 16 in Chicago Stadium.

Al Silvani, Rocky's trainer, said: "Robinson is through — he's reached that age where he must of necessity conserve his energy. He has a fear of leaving his fight in the gym."

Young Philadelphia Hurler Throws No-Hitter At Cards

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fortune at last has begun to smile on Steve Ridzik, 22-year-old rookie righthander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ridzik turned in the gem of his career Friday at Savannah, Ga., as he pitched the Phils to a no-hit 3-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Yonkers, N.Y., native, named recently as one of the Phils' starters by Manager Eddie Sawyer, has had little to cheer about until this season.

Ridzik joined the Phils' organization when he was 16. His best season to date was in 1949 when he won 15 with Utica. This earned him a tryout in 1950, but his dreams were shattered when he suffered a fractured knee cap in an intra-squad game. Last year, with a poor Baltimore team, Ridzik won 5 and lost 11, but nevertheless was taken to camp for another chance.

The youngster capped his brilliant pitching this spring with his no-hitter. Ridzik was slightly wild, walking four and hitting three cards but was tough in the pinch. He now has pitched 11 hitless innings and 17 scoreless frames.

"I didn't realize I had a no-hitter going until the seventh when I started trying to figure how many hits they had," Ridzik said after the game.

"It was the first no-hitter I ever pitched. I was using a fast ball and a curve, alternating them with a palm ball which I picked up from Konstanty (Jim) this spring."

Willie Jones played a big part in the victory. He came up with two great fielding plays and socked a two-run homer in the Phils' three-run eighth inning. Until the eighth rookie Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell of the Cards had blanked the Phils on two hits. Dick Bokelman was the victim of the Phils' uprising.

The no-hitter was the second of the spring. Jim Hearn and Monte Kennedy pitched the New York Giants to a 10-0 no-hit victory over the Chicago Cubs on March 17.

Sam Zoldak and Bob Hooper almost pitched a no-hitter for the Philadelphia Athletics. The duo held the Baltimore Orioles to one hit in a night game at Fayetteville, N.C., which the A's won, 6-0.

Chris Van Cuyk of Brooklyn also turned in a fine pitching job as the Dodgers trounced the Boston Braves, 7-0, at Montgomery, Ala. Van Cuyk worked the first seven innings and Clem Labine finished up. Van Cuyk has allowed only one run in 27 innings.

The New York Giants scored their first victory in eight starts against Cleveland by beating the Indians, 5-3, at Oklahoma, City, Okla. Larry Doby and Al Rosen homered for the Indians.

Walt Dropo clouted a grand slam homer in the first inning at Fort Worth, Tex., to spearhead the Boston Red Sox to a 9-3 triumph over the Cats of the Texas League.

The Chicago White Sox' "B" team swept a doubleheader from Dallas of the Texas League, 6-0 and 8-5, at Dallas, Tex., but the main squad dropped a 5-4 decision to the St. Louis Browns at San Antonio, Tex.

Tommy Byrne went the distance for the Browns and scattered eight Chicago hits. Byrne featured a game winning seventh inning rally with a double that drove in one run and set up the tying and winning markers.

The Cincinnati Reds made it three straight over Washington by nipping the Senators, 3-2, at Wilmington, N.C.

Tom Morgan became the first New York pitcher to go the distance as the Yankees edged Atlanta of the Southern Association, 5-4, in a night game at the Cracker park. Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra homered for the Champs who won the game with a two-run rally in the ninth.

Test Data On Sorghum Yeilds Is Available To Farmers, Ranchers

Gray county farmers and ranchers will reap benefits of 10 years of sorghum tests by agriculturalists at the Amarillo conservation experiment station.

These tests show the comparable yield for varieties have been tested since 1939 and others have been added as the experiments progressed.

The Gray county extension office has prepared a chart, now hanging in the mainfloor courthouse corridor, which graphically shows the yield data on sorghums.

Kenneth B. Porter, associate agronomist, and Charles J. Whitfield, project supervisor, conducted the tests. They test a large number of experimental strains in addition to the commercial varities.

The tests are grown on land managed in a wheat-sorghum-fallow rotation. The soil is Pullman clay loam, a heavy soil which is the predominant type of the Texas high plains. The tests were planted with a three-row lister and the rows placed 42 inches apart.

Varieties early or intermediate in maturity, such as Early Hegari and Martin, are the more consistent producers in the test, experimenters say. Combine varities recommended for dryland production are Early Hegari, Double Dwarf, White Sooner Milo, Martin, Midland, Combine 7078, and two nw varieties — Redbine 60 and Combine Kafir 60.

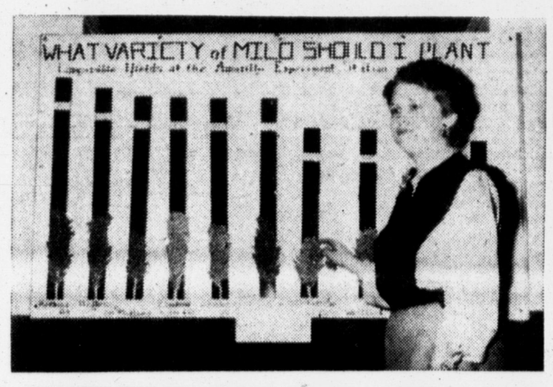

Plainsman, Caprock, Westland and possibly the new variety Redbine 66 are somewhat late for best results on the hard soils near Amarillo. These later varieties, however, may produce varieties, the comparable yield in favorable years on dryland.

Redbine 60 and 66 are selections from a cross of Martin X 7008, a sib of Caprock. Both have dry head stems and rachis and can be combined before frost, if desired. They are similar to Martin but have a bright, reddish-yellow seed.

Combine Kafir 60 was developed by crossing a double dwarf kafir selection to Texas Blackhull Kafir, followed by selection and backcrossing to the Kafir parent. Like Kafir, the stalks are juicy and stand up well in the field, Porter and Whitfield report.

Here is the rundown on the varities, the comparable yield per acre; days to first bloom, and the height of the plants:

1. Redbine 60, 26.9 bushels; 61 days, 34 inches.
2. Redbine 66, 25.6 bushels, 67 days, 35 inches.
3. Midland, 24.7 bushels, 63 days, 35 inches.
4. Combine Kafir 60, 24.6 bushels, 61 days, 34 inches.
5. Combine 7078, 24.4 bushels, 64 days, 29 inches.
6. Martin, 24.2 bushels, 66 days, 34 inches.
7. D. D. Yellow Sooner Milo, 20.4 bushels, 57 days, 24 inches.
8. Westland, 20.3 bushels, 71 days, 33 inches.
9. Early Hegari, 19.5 bushels, 57 days, 37 inches.
10. Caprock, 18.6 bushels, 75 days, 33 inches.

FIGURING THE YIELDS — Barbara Ross, county extension office secretary, helps prepare chart showing the yields of various sorghums. The chart is hanging in the main corridor of the courthouse. (News Photo)

Just when is the best time to plant sorghum is in dispute, County Agent Foster Whaley says.

Some persons advise either to plant very early or very late.

Whaley figures from June 10 to July 1 is a good time. Sorghum then will mature in the cool of September rather than the heat of August and it will also have the advantages of August and September rains.

Prairie Fire Sweeps Over 6-8 Sections Of IV Ranch

CANADIAN — (Special) — The season's most devastating prairie fire raced across an estimated six to eight sections of the IV Ranch Friday afternoon.

The fire started about three miles east of Glazier and swept toward the Canadian river fanned by a northerly wind. It was about 5 p.m. before the blaze was brought under control by fire fighters under direction of Sheriff Clyde Risley, director of prairie fire control for this area.

Canadian Fire Chief John Wilkinson and members of his department and men of the Higgins fire department took part in fighting the fire. Many men with tractors and plows from neighboring ranches in both Hemphill and Lipscomb counties helped in the fight.

It was the worst fire of the present season, and it is feared some young calves may have been lost in the area that burned, but this will not be known until the area can be "rode out." The burned area was said to vary from a quarter mile to about two miles in width, and about six miles long.

Although pastures are dry, . . . ideal conditions for prairie fires . . .there has been no epidemic of fires like that of the spring of 1950.

Preventive measures in the form of fire guards and greater vigilance on the part of the people are thought to be the controlling factors.

Wheat Outlook In W. Texas Variable

Wheat outlook for West Texas varies according to the Texas Employment commission with some portions reporting abandonment of acreage while others can look for a bumper crop this year.

There has been some moisture received over the Northern Panhandle counties during the last month that is temporarily adequate. As a result, the wheat in that section has shown considerable improvement; however, high winds and blowing dust is causing some damage at this time. The North Central Texas area has received a few light scattered showers in the past month but as a whole, wheat is deteriorating, and unless general and adequate rains come within the very near future, considerable abandonment of acreage will result. There are very few signs of greenbugs in the Texas wheat belt, and in no instance do other insects appear to be a hazard to this year's crop.

Moisture received in the Pampa, Borger, Perryton area during March has greatly improved the condition of the wheat crop, although additional moisture will be needed soon. Present indications are for an average production this year.

Reports from the Dallas, Sherman, McKinney area indicate that some moisture has been received during March, but more rain will be needed in the near future to prevent abandonment of acreage.

Scattered rains have fallen over the Denton, Gainesville area during March, but general rains will be needed soon if a fair crop is to be expected.

Wichita Falls, Graham, Haskell, and Seymour areas report that scattered showers have fallen and in small areas, wheat is in fair condition, but the area as a whole is deteriorating, and unless general rains come soon, considerable abandonment of acreage will result.

Reports from the Vernon, Quanah, Crowell area indicate that the prospects at this time are good, and if adequate moisture is received in the next few weeks, a bumper crop should be made.

The condition of the wheat crop in the Childress, Paducah, Wellington and Memphis area is still entirely dependent on receiving moisture in the near future, and if adequate moisture does fall, the production will probably be slightly under average.

A small amount of the wheat and small grain acreage in the Lamesa, San Angelo area will be harvested. Up to 90 percent of the seeded acreage has been abandoned due to drought conditions.

A small acreage in the Lubbock, Crosbyton area has been abandoned due to dry weather and high winds. However, some moisture has been reported during March, and prospects for a normal crop are good if adequate moisture is received during April and May.

Continued dry weather and high winds have caused some damage and possible abandonment in the Littlefield, Plainview area. Some producers are chiseling to control blowing and the extent of abandonment cannot be determined at this time. Wheat under irrigation in this area is from average to better than average.

High winds and blowing dust during the last two weeks in the Amarillo, Hereford, Dalhart area has caused some damage. Most wheat is alive, and if adequate moisture is received soon, prospects are good for a fair crop.

Graduation At Shamrock Due May 26

SHAMROCK — (Special) — More than 50 seniors will be graduated from the Shamrock high school here in commencement exercises slated for May 26.

Principal E. M. Burkhalter and Supt. Elmer J. Moore are making plans for the exercises, with tests for the fifth six weeks now out of the way.

Seniors who meet school standards will be exempted from the final exams. The seniors are making big plans for the final weeks of their high school careers.

April will see the performance of their class play, "The Importance of Being Young," with class sponsor Kenneth Laycock, head of the history department, as supervisor.

Seniors will be entertained by the junior class at a junior-senior banquet at the Legion home April 11.

All year long they have been working, selling candy and other assorted items at sports contests, holding dances and parties and making class money in various ways for the big senior trip which will free them from the final week's work while other high school classes grind away at finals.

No decision has been announced regarding the destination for the senior trip. Last spring seniors went to a ranch near Dallas.

Jimmy Hefley is president of the graduating class.

League Of Women Voters Plan Tea Here Thursday In Sam Houston School

Local and area women will have opportunity to "get acquainted" with the League of Women Voters at a tea Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Sam Houston cafeteria. The tea is sponsored by the local League.

Mrs. F. M. Culberson, Pampa president, in announcing plans for the tea, explained that all women of the city and Pampa and surrounding cities are invited to the tea. "The League is a non-partisan organization," she said, "and its purpose is to promote political responsibilities of citizens. Membership is always open, and young women (and men) under 21 may be associate members."

A special program is planned for the come-and-go tea, and a short play will be presented at 3:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. The play, written by Mrs. W. A. Breining, is designed to give guests a picture of the League's functions.

There are now 100 league members in Pampa.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The inadequacy of trust in matter, and the dominion and power demonstrated by Christ Jesus through his reliance on his Father, God, the creator of all that is real, are discussed in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Unreality" to be read at all Christian Science churches on Sunday. The Golden Text offers this admonition: "In the multitude of dreams and many words there are also divers vanities: but fear thou God" (Ecclesiastes 5:7).

Christ Jesus, by his works, illustrated the unreal nature of sin, disease, and death, thus showing his understanding of these words from the Bible: "All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made" (John 1:3). The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy "Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful: He did not make, hence its unreality" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 525).

Palaver de Pampa

ANOTHER APRIL FOOL'S DAY has passed but not without its hazards and its fools. Mr. Peg and I had completely forgotton the significance of the day until we began eating breakfast, that is. Put a heaping teaspoon of sugar into my coffee — took a mighty sip — then dashed to the sink for a drink of water. Ugh, can still taste that horrible salt. Naturally, Mr. Peg thought it a big joke. Quite a sense of humor my family has. Was on the look-out for other booby traps the rest of the day, but it proved uneventful. You know, do believe Mr. Peg put our little angels up to the prank.

NOW THAT WE'RE INTO APRIL, summer is that much nearer! Oops! If I'm not careful the weather will be the main topic of conversation again as usual. Had better get into more serious things.

HOW MANY OF YOU WOMEN attended the second annual Pampa News All-Electric Cooking school? (Quite a title.) From the crowds in attendance both days, am sure most of you were there. Personally, learned so many helpful tricks about cooking and making the foods look so wonderful. Tried the Ranchburgers on my brood. My, how they loved them — me, too. Would love to have been one of the lucky prize winners. Though I wasn't, certainly felt the time was well spent. Enjoyed Ruth Knight and her assistant, Fern Carver, so very much. Mrs. Knight has such a dynamic personality and certainly knows her way around the kitchen; doesn't she, gals?

A BIT SORRY TO HEAR that Miss Josephine Thomas is resigning at the end of the current school year. She became principal of Horace Mann school in 1928.

MAYOR C. A. HUFF has proclaimed April as Cancer Control month in Pampa. Throughout April, local organizations will conduct a campaign to provide funds for combatting the disease. Last Sunday the National Secretaries Assn. sponsored a fashion show which netted $250. A mighty fine job. One of the projects the local Cancer Society is pushing is the collection and sale of scrap metal. So far the response has been very poor. PLEASE — any of you who have scrap metal — in any from — take it to the spot designated in the 900 block on South Barnes. Tis such a worthy cause. Wonder if Mr. Peg would consider depositing the family jalopy!

AFTER READING THE ARTICLE on Mrs. H. H. Heiskell's fascinating hobby of raising tropical fish — I dashed out and purchased one — just one — but what a lovely one. An angel fish, do believe it is called. Looks just like a picture swimming about in over-sized "brandy-snifter." Makes an unusual fish bowl, don't you think. Guess the little fellah is loney, though. Must get it a playmate. Do you suppose that is how this turns into a hobby? We'll see. Must visit Glenn and Edith Hughes and see Glenn's collection of fish — hear he is quite an authority on the subject.

ISN'T IT GRAND that work has been started on a new high school in White Deer to replace the one destroyed last year by a tornado?

ALL OF US WHO CAN must see the film "The Life of Jesus Christ" to be shown at the Junior High School auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m. It is sponsored by the Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid. No admission — free-will donations.

SHOULD SEE THE PROGRESS being made on OUR soapbox auto — racing car, pardon! Peg keeps trying to add a feminine touch here and there, to no avail. Gonna keep making suggestions, though. Hate being left out. Has your son registered for the Derby, yet? He should, it is such fine fun for the young fellahs.

THE INDUSTRIES OF PAMPA, both large and small, will be honored during Texas Industrial Week which started Tuesday and will continue through tomorrow.

CHATTER DE PEG: Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Rose feel their home will never be completed. That is simply a normal feeling of impatience that goes with the building of your own home. Know just how they feel. Saw lovely Mrs. Frank (Ruth) Terhune and her two darling children waiting for the man of the family . . . Have you heard Stan Freiberg's recording called "Try" — a take-off on Johnnie Ray's "Cry." The kiddies play it and play it. They think it is "real great." Frankly - - - ! Well, my opinion doesn't matter, apparently. Speaking of Johnny Ray — heard a recording of his in which there is NOT one sob. "Real great." . . . Think Billie Pulliam would be oh, so lovely on TV, with her radio talent and her beautiful blonde coloring . . . Saw Ralph McKinney and Mick Prigmore lunching . . . Baseball starts here in Oiler Park before too long, doesn't it? Goody!

Mexican jumping - bean is a name given to the hard beanlike seeds of certain Mexican plants. The popular name of the bean comes from the fact that the pods containing larvae are seen to move from time to time, due to the motions of the worms within.

City Dwellers Discover The Versatility Of Casual Togs

Casual wear, once the province of the country and suburban dweller, is now first choice with the city man, too.

Responsible for the swing to the comfortable, colorful clothes is the fact that more and more town men are commuting to their jobs in the city. . .meanwhile making their home in the smaller suburban towns where life is lived at an easier, more relaxed pace.

Men's wear has kept in step with changing habits. . .and, country clothes go to town this Spring.

Tweeds, once associated with a loose, ill-fitting, baggy look, now are well - tailored, cut in a narrower line and neat as a blue serge. Tweed fabrics for Spring are softer, with almost a cashmere look!

Newest jackets in tweed are those with vented backs and patch pockets, equally at home in town or country. Colors are rich with all shades of blue at the top of the list. Small patterns are also high in color.

Perfect companion for the tweed jacket: gray flannel slacks . . .the newer ones slimmer, with pleats much less in evidence.

Shirts, both sport and dress, are influenced by the demand for more casual dress. Many of the newest sport shirts button conventionally at the collar. . . with a bow tie they are designed for town wear. Other dressier shirts of Oxford cloth, patterned or in plain colors are a good match for tweeds and flannels.

Continuing in the casual vein, accessories play an important role in this wardrobe as they do for more formal wear. Standard choice for wear with tweeds and flannel suits: soft, richly colored hats. . .Argyle socks (hand-knitted are tops), Cashmere sweaters, long - sleeved or sleeveless. . .and gay, colorful shirts. For shoes, rough - grained leather ones that can take a good scuffing.

The casual look is right for Spring in any section of the land. The smart man goes casual . . .at the same time he looks well-groomed and neat, comfortable and right for business or pleasure.

Ties Add Variety To Man's Wardrobe For Spring, 1952!

Ties are a man's most important accessory. . .the bright and focal spot of his wardrobe. The color and pattern of his ties can best express a man's individuality and good taste.

The new Spring lines offer a great variety — to set off the nattiest of suits. Added to this, is a wonderful collection of neckerchiefs and scarves to wear with casual jackets and open collar shirts.

The new versions in this season's selection of ties go to opposite extremes in length. One is the short narrow tie that knots slim and trim. This is favored in knits and tie silks. . . the other is the king-size tie, longer than the traditional lengths.

Be gay — be conservative. . . choose bold or muted tones — they're all high-fashion in the color story of ties! All hues and tints of the color-spectrum are well represented this year.

There's a big crop of fashion fancies in patterns and motifs in tie selections with crisp foulards, stripes, modern and abstract designs, and exciting motifs borrowed from nature.

AMONG CHARTER MEMBERS of the Mobeetie OES chapter honored recently in Mobeetie was Mrs. Rose Crocker of Pampa, left above, who was a member of the chapter when it was organized in 1913. She is pictured with Mrs. Mamye Patterson of Mobeetie, present worthy matron of the chapter. Others honored were Mrs. Dora Harris, Mrs. John Dunn, John Dunn, Mrs. E. E. Johnston and E. E. Johnston, all of Mobeetie.

Mobeetie OES Chapter Honors Charter Members

One of the highlights in the history of the Mobeetie OES chapter was a recent meeting there at which five of the 30 year members were honored in an impressive ceremony in Masonic hall. Among the charter members was Mrs. Rose Crocker of Pampa. Mrs. Artie Reber of Pampa was also recognized.

Mrs. Dora Harris, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnston were presented by the Conductress and Associate Conductress and seated beneath a flower trimmed arch, and the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Mamye Patterson, in a brief message of welcome, spoke of their years of service in the chapter. Mrs. Harris has been a member of the order for forty-four years, thirty-one of them in this chapter. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were initiated into this chapter together, thirty years ago, and have been active in the affairs of the chapter since that time. Mrs. Johnston is treasurer at this time and all are past Matrons and Patrons.

The Worthy Patron Grady W. Harris, son of Mrs. Harris, presented thirty year service pins to the honorees and expressions of appreciation were given them by other officers.

Mrs. Rose Crocker of Pampa, a charter member of this chapter in 1913, was present and was presented a corsage and seated in the East. Mrs. Artie Reber of Pampa, was the oldest member present, in years of service, having joined the order in 1909. She also was presented a corsage and seated in the East.

This was also a Friendship meeting with guests from Amarillo, Pampa, Canadian, Miami, Wheeler, and Shamrock chapters attending. From Amarillo, Hazel Currey, Alpha Hawn, Galdie Quayle, Ora Mae Wofford, Erick Hawn. From Pampa, Mmes. Mary Hatcher, Deputy Grand Matron, Ruth Sewell, Lucy Hale, Naomi Davis, Rose Crocker, Artie Reber, Mary Musgrove, O. W. Harris and Leslie Hale. From Shamrock, Mmes. Ada Risk, Peggy Griffin, Leona Nichols, Lola Kersh. From Wheeler, Mmes. Betra M. Farmer, Myrtle Lane, Ollie W. Beene, Maud Rasor, Hazel Bowen, Irma Kirk, Francis Faught, Sue Dyer, Mildred Porter, Ruby Courtright, J. J. Dyer and George Porter.

From Canadian, Mmes. Elva Trueblood, Berta Johnson, Lois Bryant, Mary Gross, and Bill Flewelling. From Miami, Mmes. Effie Black, Billie Moore, Alice Hardin, Addie Mae Lard, Laura Cox, Rhelma Paris and Leslie Moore.

Refreshments carrying the Easter motif were served to 85.

New Middies Are Glamour Notes For Beachwear

For loving daughters who follow mother's advice and "don't go near the water," fashion has developed a new "covered - up look." It's the middy blouse, but as different from the old middy (which was worn with long, black bloomers) as the French bathing suit and a coonskin coat.

Boxed or belted, Spring's middy is seen on the beaches from Maine to California in denim, linen, cotton or terry cloth. Newest is made of copper denim, but anything goes.

POISONOUS MAMMAL

The platypus, or duckbill, of Australia, is the only poisonous mammal in the world. A venom gland connects with a spur on the animal's hind leg.

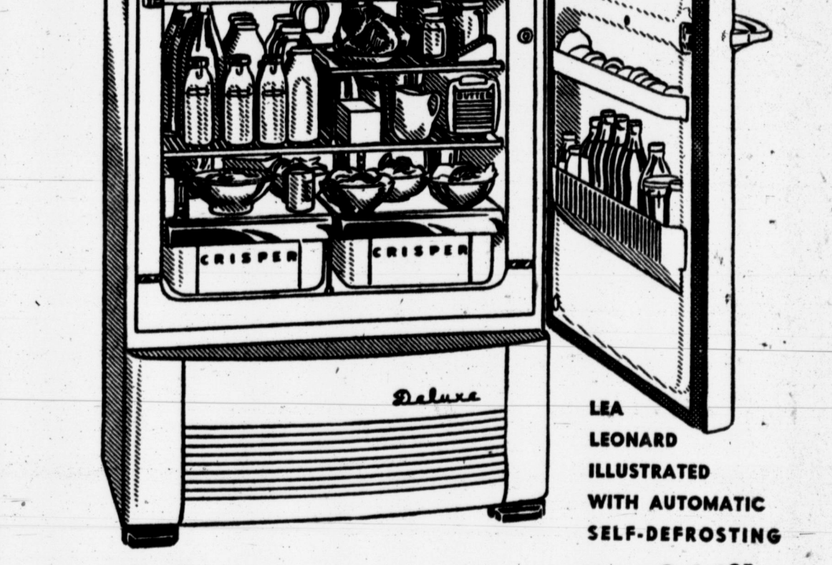

Hats Make Headline News This Spring In Straw Or Felt, Perf - Shaped, Flowered

Keeping step with modern man's insistence on the casual . . . the comfortable . . . are the astute designers of men's footwear.

The moccasin, man's newest pet for comfort and wearability, reaches back into our distant past for its design.

Inhabitants of the Caspian and Black Sea areas carried the moccasin to the north and to the west. Their descendants. . . the Eskimos . . . the Indians . . . the Norwegians . . . adapted it. Though crude and functional as it was, this early day moccasin is in essence the same as today's.

As revolutionary a style as the high-button shoes of the early 1900's, the moccasin, complete with tassels and wing-tips, is the forerunner of more and more formal shoes that are laceless, slip-on and comfortable. It is a style destined to grow in acceptance thanks to its easy comfort and the new trim look it wears in the Spring of '52.

Baptists Honor White Deer Senior Class

DR. T. B. LACKEY
. . . guest speaker

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The graduating class of White Deer High School was honored at a banquet given by the Women's Missionary Union of the White Deer Baptist church, Monday evening, in the church basement.

It was springtime in the banquet hall. Trellises covered with multi-colored flowers were arranged along the walls; huge butterflies rested on the blossoms; and saucy bluebirds carrying diplomas in their beaks were suspended from the ceiling. Centerpieces for the tables were flower - entwined birdhouses inhabited by fat little bluebirds, and favors were tiny replicas of the birdhouses in gay, spring colors. The tables were lighted with white tapers in ruffs of pale green wreathed with flowers.

Rev. Winfred Moore, pastor of the First Baptist church, Borger, was the guest speaker, who chose for his topic "Wherein lieth thy strength?"

Relating the story of Samson, he said that Samson's strength lay in the fact that from childhood he was wholly dedicated to God, that he was doing the work God had laid out for him with the weapons that He had provided, and that he was willing to die to carry out God's purpose.

The speaker called upon the young people to find God's place for themselves and follow His leadership with sincerity of purpose.

Music for the occasion was provided by Sue Partin of Borger, who sang "The Little White Cloud That Cried," "A Tree in the Meadow," and "A Dream Is What You Make It"; Ramona Meadows of Pampa, accompanied by Patsy Stovall, sang "Forever and Ever," and "Anytime"; and Guyda Baten and Mrs. John Baird O'Keefe, who sang "Moon of Springtime."

Mrs. Neal Edwards served as toastmaster. Rev. M. V. Mears gave the invocation; Mrs. C. C. Kelly, president of the W.M.U., welcomed the guests; Eddie Wesner, president of the Senior class, gave the response; and Weldon Lewis, music director at Calvary Baptist church, Borger, pronounced the benediction.

Brotherhood Will Meet Tomorrow

Members of the Palo Duro Baptist Brotherhood Assn. will meet Monday evening at the First Baptist church in Borger.

A fried chicken dinner will be served from 6:30 until 8 p.m. at which time the musical program will begin.

Dr. T. B. Lackey, executive secretary, Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma, will be guest speaker.

Former Miamian Speaker At Club

MIAMI — (Special) — E. M. Ballengee of Plainview, former Miami school superintendent, who ten years ago helped organize the Miami Men's Service club, returned Tuesday night to serve as guest speaker at the club's April meeting.

The speaker told members of the club about a trip he and his wife took last summer to several southern states and Cuba, during which they traveled 60 miles by water, 660 miles by air and 5,000 miles by land.

At the close of Mr. Ballengee's talk, J. K. McKenzie paid a tribute to both the speaker and his wife, who was also present, and presented them with a gift from the club.

Miss Juanita Haynes was the piano accompanist during the singing.

Club president, Theo Jenkins appointed Dr. S. J. Montgomery, Wm. E. O'Loughlin and R. J. Bean as the program committee for the May meeting.

R. R. Commissioner Hits Gas Flaring

AUSTIN — (AP) — A stranger iding through Texas oil producng territory at night five years go might have thought half the ountryside was on fire.

The flaring af gas incident to roduction of oil was so widepread the skies glowed almost onstantly with the reflection of urning gas.

It isn't that way now.

A state supreme court decision eb. 16, 1948, estinguished most f the flame by upholding the ight of the Texas Railroad comission to prohibit wasteful flarag of gas used to bring oil out f the ground.

Strengthened by that important eeligson case decision, the comission has been cracking down n gas flaring ever since.

Even so, natural gas presently s being flared in Texas at the ate of more than 7 billion cubic eet per month.

Two billion of that total is eing vented into the air at gasoline recycling plants, while 5.6 illion is being flared from oil ells for which there is no pipeine connection to take care of he casinghead gas, the commision reported.

This two - billion - cubic - oot loss is the one that botners he Railroad commission most beause the regulatory agency hinks this is avoidable waste.

Bulk of the 2 billion has been lared at gasoline plants in West Texas. Phillips Petroleum Co.'s Goldsmith plant alone flared 940,-22,000 cubic feet of gas in Febuary, the commission reported.

Irked by failure of the industry o solve the West Texas flaring problem on its own initiative, the commission got tough at last month's statewide oil proration hearing. It sharply cut oil production allowables for 14 West Texas fields.

The cut, effective this month, will eliminate most of the gas flaring at Phillips' Goldsmith plant because reduced oil production also means a smaller volume of casinghead gas. The volume of gas produced will be within the capacity of the Goldsmith plant.

"I sometimes think we're overpatient with them. A man who is wasting a product that should be of value to him shouldn't have to be told two or three times to do something about it," declared Commission Chairman Olin Culberson.

Ardent exponents of gas conservation for many years, the 65-year-old commissioner is often described as the "father of gas conservation" in Texas.

"It's just as wasteful to flare gas as it would be to run oil out on the ground," Culberson has insisted down through the years.

Now that the petro-chemical industry is finding hundreds of uses for natural gas, he thinks the men who used to flare gas blithely as an unimportant by-product of oil production are beginning to agree with him.

"When the time comes when it's feasible for the chemical companies to come in and conserve all this gas, it will be done. When it becomes profitable, they'll take care of the problem themselves. Until then, the commission must follow a rigid policy," Culberson philosophized.

It has become profitable for the gas industry to build gasoline recycling plants. Sixty plants have been built in Texas at an estimated cost of $427,021,200 since the Seeligson decision four years ago. They can handle 3,-857,464,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

How about the 5.6 billion cubic feet of gas being lost from unconnected oil wells? Why can't that be conserved?

Most of it is being flared in such small volumes at wells located miles from gas gathering lines that it wouldn't be "economically feasible" to require the operators to conserve the gas.

"The volume of gas involved would be so small, the operator just couldn't amortize the cost of gas pipelines in a jillion years," explained Culberson.

Concentration of gas pipelines in the Gulf Coast and East Texas areas has eliminated most of the flaring at gasoline recycling plants there. The same thing is true in the Panhandle.

But in more recently developed West Texas fields, where long distances often make the cost of pipeline more prohibitive, the conservation of gas is still an acute problem.

"If you had as many lines through West Texas as you do in the Panhandle, you wouldn't have much wasteful flaring," commented Culberson.

TUESDAY MEETING

Mrs. Gene Fatheree, chairman of the Pampa hospitality committee, said today her group would meet at 10 a. m. Tuesday, April 15, in the chamber of commerce offices, to plan an entertainment for newcomers in the community.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

LOST 35 POUNDS

"I have lost 35 pounds taking Barcentrate and my health is so much better," writes Mrs. W. A. Gearhart, 811 Orange Ave., McAllen, Texas.

NURSE LOST 20 POUNDS

"On August 15, 1951, I weighed 178 pounds. I was nursing in a hospital and on my feet long hours. I decided I must lose weight. I heard about Barcentrate and decided to try it. On the first bottle, I lost five pounds; used four bottles and lost 20 pounds. I think Barcentrate is wonderful." Mrs. Willie Choranec, 274 Koehler Court, San Antonio, Texas.

Ernest O. Thompson Slated As Gas Association Speaker

GALVESTON — A warning against federal meddling in state affairs will be given the Southern Gas Assn.'s convention here April 28-30 by Lieut. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, member and former chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas.

General Thompson, whose commission regulates the oil and natural gas industry in Texas, has said he will point up some of the dangers that lie in the practice of permitting federal bureaus to interfere with the work of state regulatory commissions. His talk, at a luncheon Tuesday, April 29, will be a high light of the convention, which is expected to draw a record-breaking throng of 1600 delegates.

In other sessions, the SGA will put emphasis on the importance of getting out and doing a job of selling — as one speaker has it, "There's much to do in '52." Sectional meetings of sales executives are being combined into one big session this year to emphasize this point.

The sales section also will hear Southwest Conference football announcer, Kern Tips, in a new role — partner in a Houston advertising agency. He'll talk on "Advertising, the Extra Point of Merchandising." August Belmont of the famous New York banking family, is listed for a discussion of the gas transmission business as an investment.

I HAVE FOUND TODAY

I've shut the door on Yesterday,
Its sorrows and mistakes;
I've locked within its gloomy walls
Past failures and heartaches;
And now I throw the key away
To seek another room,
To seek another room,
And furnish it with hope and smiles
And every spring-time bloom.
No thought shall enter this abode
That has a hint of pain,
And every malice and distrust
Shall never therein reign;
I've shut the door on Yesterday,
And thrown the key away —
Tomorrow holds no doubt for me
Since I have found today.

Want To Buy Cattle Trucks?

Jeff Williams from Mobeetie, Texas just called and said he wanted to sell out of the trucking business . . . I advised against it, but Jeff's getting to old to run a truck anymore so mabey he'd better sell . . . As you no Jeff has one of the oldest cattle trucking businesses in the Panhandle . . . in fact he gets more hauling I suspect, than all the rest of the cattle truckers put together . . . He operates 3 large trailer trucks, and they're all in perfect shape . . . If you would be interested in buying or trading for this business just call him at Mobeetie, or come in and see me . . . If you call him speak a little loud as his hearing isnt what it used to be . . .
. . . And while Im advertising, I'd like to mention a filling station that I have for sale . . . Its located right here in the middle of Pampa, and its a good one . . . The owner has operated this station himself for the past 11 years . . . and he has allways closed one day a week, and still made plenty of money, so you see its not to hard a grind . . . He handles Magnolia products, and has a good deal with the Company . . . He figures he has about 3500 worth of stock and equipment, so whatever he has, he would want you to buy . . . The Company would make a good lease with you, so I think if you want to go into business for a little money, this would be your chance . . . Just give me a ring and I'll tell you who to go talk to.
. . . I also have some mighty good buys in houses . . . In fact I have some of the best . . . One good buy would be the Marlows big 3 bedroom colonial home out at 1238 North Russell st. . . . Another house that Im fixing to put on the market just as soon as we get an FHA commitment is the Kirk Duncan's residence out at 1613 Hamilton . . . this is really a fine 2 bedroom home, with drapes and carpeting . . . Also have another nice home on Christine . . . I'd do some trading with you on these houses . . . in fact I'd rather trade than sell outright . . . I do more business that away.
