KANSAS CITY, April 8. (AP)—Flood waters surging in on the heels of cloudbursts has swept at least 11 to death in Oklahoma and Kansas tonight, with hundreds of homes inundated, railroad service paralyzed and further flood warnings being issued.

Six were drowned and six others were missing after flood waters trapped two families of Mexicans in their homes near Rockyford.

LOCAL WOMEN IN WRECK.

Mrs. E. P. Nevin, of Wichita Falls, Texas, first listed as a resident of Wichita, Kansas, was one of the 18 injured in the wreck of two Katy trains near Parsons, Kansas, early Friday, in which three were killed.

Receipt of a message from his daughter who is in Loretto Academy at Kansas City, Mo., late Friday, informing him that Mrs. Nevin was only slightly injured in the wreck and would return to Kansas City Friday night, was announced by E. P. Nevin, Mrs. Nevin, who had been in Kansas City to visit their daughter was enroute home at the time of the accident.

The Nevins reside here at 1517 Westlake Drive.

Okla., only two of the 14 in the houses were known to have escaped.

E. L. Phillips, engineer; Dave Ball, fireman, and an unidenified man were drowned. Fifteen were injured, some severely. Eight miles away, rain No. 21, southbound from Kansas City, plunged into a flooded creek an hour afterward, injuring several, none severely.

To persons were drowned in Oklahoma yesterday.

Many southeast Kansas streams went to the highest stage on record after the downpour.

TROOP TRAIN STRANDED

PARSONS, Kan., April 8.(AP)—A troop train of marines, bound for San Diego and China, was stranded between Walnut and Fort Scott, Kan., late today because of washouts on both sides of it. Earlier in the day the train had been flagged a few minutes before it reached the washout that caused the derailment of a Katy passenger train with the loss of two lives.

the Neosho river levee at Erie burst, flooding thousands of acres and forcing farmers to flee their homes, leaving household goods and stock behind.

More than 100 houses were flooded in Parsons, Kan., water covering floors of some four feet deep.

At Independence the Verdigris river reached the highest stage on record late today and was still rising. The Neosho river continued to rise.

Fourteen cars of a Missouri Pacific train were derailed at Englevale, Kan., by a washout today. No one was hurt.

Railroad service was paralyzed with washouts at many places on the Missouri Pacific, Frisco, Rock Island, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, and Santa Fe lines. A mile of track on the Frisco was swept away at Arcadia, Kan., where the rainfall was 8.83 inches.

Virtually all highways in the flooded area were under water, ranging up to four feet deep.

Flood warnings were issued late today to farmers along the Grand river in Oklahoma which is expected to rise to thirty feet tomorrow.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 8. (AP)—Five hours after she was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, highest honorary academic fraternity, a Texas university co-ed was placed on probation by authorities because she donned kid socks and skated into the main university building.

A member of the faculty last night observed the girl, he reported, dressed in a bonnett, gingham dress, child's sox and low heeled shoes skating up and down the halls of the first and second floor of the ancient, ivy-grown building.

Her name was among the 32 Phi Beta Kappa initiates announced Thursday afternoon.

Now, because she attempted to show friends she was not "sophisticated," the co-ed can't attend a social function for two weeks.

Negro Held in Stabbing Given Five Years In Prison On Liquor Charge

Sentence of five years for J. B. Masters, negro, and one year for Bob Johnson, negro, both accused of transporting liquor and indicted in connection with the stabbing of Sam Spence and M. W. Barnett, were imposed Friday by juries in the 30th district court.

Masters was arraigned first on the liquor charge, after trial on two cases of assault with intent to murder, in connection with the Spence and Barnett stabbing, had been continued on motion of defense attorneys.

Sam Spence, assistant district attorney, and M. W. Barnett, United States narcotic enforcement officer, who were stabbed Sunday made their first appearance in public since the stabbing Friday in the courthouse. Both men asserted they "would be back on their jobs" Monday.

Ben Allred, district attorney and James Allred, special prosecutor, presented Mr. Spence as one of the state's witnesses. He testified that Masters was driving an automobile in a reckless manner. Efforts of the state's attorneys to have Mr. Spence testify that he thought Masters was intoxicated met with strong opposition from the defendant's attorneys.

A plea for a suspended sentence for Johnson, who was riding in the car with Masters, was made by the defendant's attorneys. However, the jury brought in a verdict of a one year penitentiary sentence.

Johnson was only indicted by the grand jury for transporting liquor in connection with the assault on Mr. Spence and Mr. Barnett. Masters was indicted in two cases for assault with intent to murder, driving while intoxicated and transporting liquor.

OFFICERS RAID BEER GARDEN

Patrons Munch "Free Lunch" In Olden Style

Beer at 35 cents per bottle, three bottles for $1, with choice tit-bits to munch while the brew was being quaffed, and tables arranged for customers, is what city and county officers found when they raided a residence on Seventh street west of Brook Friday night.

35 Cents Bottle.

The proprietor and a helper were arrested and placed in the county jail to await probable filing of charges Saturday morning. The wife of the proprietor was not arrested.

More than a dozen patrons were in the house when the officers arrived. Their ages ranged from 16 to 22 years, according to officers. No women were present besides the proprietor's wife.

500 Empty Bottles.

About 500 bottles of beer and over 500 empty bottles were hauled away from the house by the officers. Two 12-gallon "crocks" filled with mash were emptied before the officers left the scene.

The raid was made after information concerning the establishment had been given Sheriff W. G. Bralley from an outside source. Officers on the raid were Sheriff Bralley, Deputies Timmons, Belcher, Morris and City Officers W. P. Belcher and Pat Allen.

OFFIERES NAB HUGE STILL AT HENRIETTA.

A still so large that a motor truck from Henrietta had to be called to haul it and other whiskey making equipment to the Clay county city was captured by members of the Wichita and Clay county sheriffs' departments late Thursday on a farm about midway between Wichita Falls and Henrietta. One man was arrested and placed in the Clay county jail.

Sheriff Bralley received information which caused him to dispatch two deputies to the scene, in the meantime notifying the Clay county officials to meet them there. The officers located the still in a dug-out where four large vats of mash were found.

Going to a farm house some distance away, the officers found the man in charge and informed him that they had located the still. The man admitted that the apparatus was his, officers said, and was arrested.

FORD TO HAVE THREE SPEEDS FORWARD GEAR

New Model Soon to Be Out With New Planetary Transmission

STYLE TO BE SAME

General Appearance of Car Will Remain Without Major Change

By Universal Service.

DETROIT, April 8.—"Fords will be Fords," next year and ever after as far as Henry Ford is concerned, was the welcome news received today by flivver owners the world over.

There had been rumors that Henry had been planning to bring out a six, along entirely new lines, but from authoritative sources it was learned today that the famous Detroit model will be continued subject to a few improvements.

The new model four will be a three-forward speed car, with a new design of planetary transmission, underslung semi-elyptic springs, a lower body and chassis and frame of aluminum and steel, it is said.

The new Ford will probably be ready for distribution by July 1 but Mr. Ford has not definitely fixed the date nor the price. A considerable reduction in price is expected.

A new eight cylinder is also being experimented upon, said to be Edsell Ford's contribution to motordom, which will cost between $1000 and $1400, it is reported. It will bear a new name and will not be identified with the Lincoln, it is said.

Ford is interested chiefly in his new four clyinder model. He is not a believer in art for automobiles. He believes the American public desires a car that will run, run cheaply, run without costly repairs and run a long time. He is interested almost solely in producing a mechanically perfect car at a price within the reach of every American family rather than to turn out delight to the eye, it was learned. That is the reason there will be no revolutionary style changes on the new Ford. It will be plain but practical.

The design of the body, save for the new spring attachment which will lower the center of gravity of the car and improve its safety, may not differ at all from present model, it is said.

HAMBONE MEDITATION

ITALIAN FLIER AT SAN DIEGO

De Pinedo Flies to Coast In U. S. Airplane

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 8.(AP)—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italy's most distinguished aviator, landed at North Island naval air station at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

When the squadron of naval planes in the flag plane of which the distinguished Italian airman rode, landed at the aviation field, a large crowd accorded an ovation to the aviator, whose daring carried him over four continents in the monoplane "Santa Maria" which burned Wednesday at Roosevelt dam, Arizona.

Among these present to witness the arrival of the airman and to extend to him the welcome of San Diego were Mayor John L. Bacon, members of the city council, prominent local Italians, and hundreds of the flyers' fellow countrymen from all points in Southern California. L. Silitti, Italian consul general at San Francisco, also was present to greet De Pinedo. Many prominent naval air men stationed here also were among the throng which gathered to witness the landing and greet Italy's ace.

DE PINEDO ACCEPTS BOY'S STORY OF PLANE FIRE.

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 8. (AP)K Confession of a young boatman that he started the fire resulting in the destruction of Commander Francesco de Pinedo's seaplane, the Santa Maria, stilled echoes of an anti-fascist plot rumor as the Italian flier today became the guest of American pilots for the flight to San Diego, Calif.

Reiterating a statement shortly after the plane burned at Roosevelt lake, near here, Wednesday, De Pinedo said there could be no doubt that the fire was set accidentally. He said he accepted the confession of John Thomason, 17-year-old Phoenix youth, that the boy dropped a match on the oil covered water as the plane was ready to take off for San Diego as a full explanation of the affair.

Thomason, employed as a boat tender at Canyon Lake, Ariz., confessed throwing the match to a reporter for the Arizona Republican. He then signed a statement to that effect in the presence of Commander De Pinedo and others who had conducted an investigation at Roosevelt Lake. De Pinedo was presented with the original copy of the confession. He said he would forward it to his government as final proof of the origin of the fire.

The youth said he knew there was gasoline on the water, but did not think it would burn. "I am certainly sorry it happened," he said.

With plans for the continuation of his four-continent flight taking definite shape, four United States navy planes were tuned up here today to take De Pinedo and his two companions to San Diego.

De Pinedo spent the night at Apache Lodge, on Roosevelt Lake, planning a new route for his conquest of North America. Although his itinerary is indefinite, he said he probably would spend 10 days on the Pacific coast before leaving for New York where he will assemble a new plane shipped from Rome.

U. S. CHARTERS FAST LINER TO HAUL MARINES

President Grant of Pacific Dollar Line to Take Troops to China

TO SAIL ON APRIL 20

Marines to Be Rushed Over In Order to Serve In Expected Emergency

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The United States today chartered the President Grant of the Dollar Steamship lines to take more marines to China.

This was done as the tense situation assumed more alarming aspects at Shanghai, Hankow, and all of North China. It developed that the government has no transport available.

Marines are now speeding across the continent to board the President Grant as soon as she can be made ready. She is due to reach Los Angeles tomorrow from the far east and will sail as shortly thereafter as provisions can be made to accommodate the 1500 additional marines.

She is under complete charter to the United States government and will remain so until the emergency is ended.

To Sail April 20

The President Grant will sail not later than April 20, probably before. Her ordinary cruising time to Shanghai is 20 days, in which she makes many stops. Under her new schedule she will make no stops and sail under forced draft. She should make the trip in a little more than two weeks, as compared with one month for the navy transports.

The assumption was that the President Grant would rush direct to Shanghai and debark the marines who will do service there. In the meantime, it is believed that Admiral C. S. Williams, commander in chief of the American forces, will send detachments of marines from his Shanghai base to Tientsin aboard destroyers.

The water at Tientsin is so shallow that it is feared the President Grant will not be able to dock there safely.

The charter of the President Grant was made in direct negotiation between Admiral Edward W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, and Stanley Dollar, head of the Dollar lines. The shipping board gave consent for the commercial ship to abandon its regular sailing to answer the call from the naval reserve to active service.

May Charter Others

Other ships of the Dollar line are being held in readiness and may be chartered if need for them arises.

This confirms exclusive Universal Service dispatches Tuesday night revealing that the third regiment of marines now being concentrated had received orders to sail for China and that a commercial ship would be used for the purpose.

The President Grant, as well as the other "president" ships were built as transports during the world war. They were designed to transport troops to France in the quickest possible time. The President Grant can do better than 17 knots an hour.

With the announcement that the President Grant had been chartered, Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the United States shipping board, wrote a letter to Secretary of Navy Wilbur outlining a program to supply the navy with sufficient ships for every purpose.

Clashes Expected

Clashes between Chinese and foreigners at Shanghai, Hankow and Tientsin, where foreigners are concentrated, are momentarily expected, reports from Admiral Williams indicated today.

It was upon his urgent appeal that decision was reached some days ago to charter a fast commercial ship to rush additional marines to the scene. Negotiations were opened then and kept secret until today.

RUSSIA SEES WORLD STRIFE

Moscow Blames England For Chinese Affair

By Universal Service.

MOSCOW, April 8.—The raid of Chang Tso Lin's police and soldiers on the Compound at the Russian embassy in Peking was not made upon Chinese initiative but was inspired if not directly ordered by Great Britain. It may develop into the "Sarajevo" of a new world war which would open as an Anglo-Russian conflict, and is but another herald and warning to the world.

That in effect can be said to be the very sober opinion one can find today reflected in Soviet government circles and the impression created by the official Soviet press in its presentation of news events in China, as well as in the caustic yet somewhat reserved editorial comments.

The Russian public got its first news of "the grosset violation of extra-territoriality and international diplomatic immunity" today. The official organs, Pravda and Isvestia, portray the raid as an "attack" on Russia and an "unprecedented provocation to war" on the part of Britain in the latter's interventionist plans against Russia in which, by methods of intrigue and secret diplomacy, she is endeavoring to use other powers as pawns.

There is an unmistakable conviction in Moscow that England means war and that Anglo-Russian hostilities, especially in the form of intervention, are but the beginning of another world conflict. There is professed here an equally strong determination to avoid such a war, and it is difficult to doubt the sincerity of such determination when one is on the ground in Moscow.

MARTIAL RULE THREAT ISSUED BY GOVERNOR

Moody Demands That Borger City Marshal Give Up Badge to Office

CALLS OFFICERS LAX

Governor Tells Militia Head To Be Prepared to Call Out Guardsmen

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—The Damoclean sword of martial law was suspended late today over the Borger oil boom section by Governor Dan Moody.

Only prompt correction of conditions will forestall military rule, he indicated.

In sharp ultimatums wired to city and county officials, the governor expressed dissatisfaction over a reported lack of local cooperation with 10 Texas rangers he sent to the scene recently, and declared that he would "take drastic action if local agencies are impotent to correct conditions."

"If Borger can't furnish local officers that will co-operate with the rangers, maybe they can cooperate with the national guard if they are sent to Borger," Moody said in a telegram to the wide-open boom city's mayor.

OUTLAWS IN BORGER

BORGER, Texas, April 8.(AP) Matthew Kimes and Ray Terrell ate breakfast in Borger early today and Terrell, officers say, had his wounded leg dressed here. The authorities were holding a kinsman of Kimes and another man for investigation in the belief that they aided and concealed the Oklahoma outlaws, sought here for a week.

Kimes' kinsman has been receiving his mail and turning it over to him, the officers said. Terrell was wounded in the leg during a reign of terror here last week in which two deputy sheriffs were slain and a bank at Pampa was robbed.

The governor based his decisions on reports of investigations made at his direction. State Adjutant General R. L. Robertson and W. Boyd Gatewood, the governor's secretary, are in Borger.

Reports indicate, Moody said, that Borgehr's city marshal is not performing his duty.

"The first step in a clean up," Moody wired the mayor, "is to get rid of that man (the marshal) and put in one who will enforce the law."

Sheriff Called Lax

Moody told the county judge at Stinnett that the investigations mentioned have indicated that "the sheriff and two justices of the peace of your county have neglected the discharge of their duties and tolerated a condition of open law violation that is not to be countenanced."

The commissioner's court could "straighten these men out," and if necessary, the governor said, take action "looking toward their removal and replacement with officers who will properly enforce the law."

"If local agencies are impotent to correct conditions," Moody added, "it will be my plan to take drastic action to see the enforcement of the law at as early a date as possible."

"Vehement protests will not prevent declaration of marital law," Moody replied to a telegram from Marvin Thomas, secretary of the Borger Chamber of Commerce.

"Reports reaching me of investigations made at my request, in persons in whom I have confidence, indicate a condition of lawlessness existing that is not to be tolerated. The way to prevent marital law is to see to immediate correction of the conditions. This cannot be accomplished until certain local conditions have been corrected by removal of some who have not been seeing to enforcement of the law."

Borger's Mayor Warned

In his telegram to Borger's mayor, Moody further said:

"There are three things that you may depend upon. First, it being a constitutional duty to cause the laws to be faithfully executed, I expect to carry out that duty. Second, that power exists to carry out the law, and that I know how to use that power. Third, that unless conditions are corrected in

$30,000 Worth of Flowers Cover Bier Of Chicago Gangster Slain by Officer

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Another gangster was laid to rest with almost regal splendor today. Vincent Drucci, "the schemer," shot and killed by a policeman on the eve of the city election, was buried in an aluminum and silver casket with flowers estimated to have cost in the neighborhood of $30,000 surrounding it.

Drucci's funeral, without benefit of clergy, was held at an undertaking chapel where Dion O'Banion, one of the greatest of the beer barons also lay more than a year ago after being assassinated. The schemer was regarded by his friends as something of a martyr because he died from a policeman's bullet.

His friends call it murder and the coroner still is investigating. The police have defied the coroner to compel the policeman, Daniel Healy, who did the shooting, or his companions, to appear and testify.

Throngs of the schemer's friends and the curious massed in and about the chapel long before and during the funeral hour.

The body was taken to a vault in Mt. Carmal cemetery to await construction of a mausoleum.

G.O.P. HOLD AXE OVER CHICAGO

Thompson Victory In Race For Mayor Is Prize

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 7.—William Hale Thompson, twice mayor of Chicago will be inaugurated for his third term on April 18.

There was feverish activity about the city hall today as preparations went forward for the change in administration.

Morgan A. Collins, chief of police under Mayor William E. Dever, who went down to defeat before Mr. Thompson in yesterday's election by 82,902 plurality, announced he would resign immediately after Mr. Thompson assumes office.

Hughes For Chief

The mayor-elect spent the day discussing his cabinet. It was rumored about the city hall that Michael Hughes, former chief of detectives, is slated for chief of police. William H. Stuart was mentioned as the most probable commissioner of public works.

It was rumored as certain that William McAndrew, superintendent of education, would go. Mr. Thompson promised during his campaign to change superintendents, although there may be legal difficulties because of a contract. McAndrew was charged by the mayor-elect with "taking George Washington's picture out of text books and replacing it with that of King George of England."

The rush of political job seekers started immediately after it became definitely known last night that Mr. Thompson had been elected. During those hours the mayor-elect had a lead of only a few thousand but a complete tabulation of the returns gave Thompson 512,770; Dever, 429,673 and Dr. John Dill Robertson, Independent candidate, 51,181. The Thompson plurality of 83,000 surprised his opponents who claimed if he were elected it would be by a very small majority.

Dever in Business.

Mayor Dever said today he would enter business after his retirement.

"I will make no new appointments now to embarrass my successor and will leave also to the new mayor the task of tackling the traction problem and other important matters which are pending."

Mr. Thompson expressed his appreciation of the confidence shown in him by the people of Chicago, and said:

"With deep appreciation of the confidence imposed in me through the magnificent vote given me by the Republicans, Jeffersonian Democrats and Socialists, I am mindful of the great responsibility placed upon me, and in the endeavor to meet the expectation of my supporters, I want them to realize now, more than when they voted for me, they have just begun, and I expect their united support for four years in my effort to accomplish what I have started. I stand today where I have always stood."

Republican Victory.

From a national political standpoint the election of Mr. Thompson was regarded as cementing the state factions and bringing them under the Coolidge banner in the 1928 national Republican convention. Mr. Thompson will, it was admitted, be in a position of naming the Chicago delegation to the national convention and that his voice will be heeded throughout the state. And he has made it clear that he is a Coolidge man.

United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, because of his close working agreement with Mr. Thompson in the mayoralty campaign, will become chairman of the Illinois delegation to the national convention. And this will mean that the delegation will not support Frank O. Lowden, spoken of as the western republican candidate to oppose President Coolidge.

CHICAGO JOKED

English Reporter Wants News of Windy City's "War Front"

LONDON, April 8.(AP)—"Have you any information, sir, regarding the military situation in Chicago?" asked an English reporter of the British government's spokesman at the press conference at the foreign office today.

The spokesman had just answered questions about events at Shanghai, Peking, Hankow and in the Balkans, but he preserved a diplomatic silence about Chicago.

Sensational accounts of Tuesday's mayoralty election in Chicago evidently prompted the jocular query. European newspapers have featured reports of bombings and other violence in connection with the election.

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, April 8.—Dates for the annual clean-up campaign have been set for next week, April 11 to 16, and Mayor M. P. McCracken has issued a proclamation accordingly. It became necessary to set the dates for the campaign ahead of those set aside as state clean-up week, on account of the annual convention of Federation of Women's clubs which will be held in Olney the later part of this month. A meeting of all chairmen of the various committees in charge of arrangements for the convention was held yesterday afternoon in the Methodist church at the call of Mrs. Rhea Anderson, chairman of the general arrangements committee.

Plans for the campaign were outlined by M. Gruver, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and the support of all those present enlisted. A supervisor in each block throughout the city has been selected and letters are being sent to them today by the chamber, notifying them of their appointment and asking them to take charge of their territory and see that it is thoroughly cleaned. A list of these supervisors has been given to sanitary officer H. J. Groves, and each will be interviewed by him the latter part of the week.

NEGRO BOYS IN KIDNAPING

Two Held For Ransom Plot In Theft of Baby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 8. (AP)—Two negro boys, 17 and 14, have confessed to kidnaping Virginia Jo Frazier, 2-year-old daughter of City Commissioner and Mrs. Fred B. Frazier, but police plan to place on trial a man and woman charged with the abduction.

Lewis and Arthur Willis, brothers, told police they engineered plans by which they took the baby from her crib on the evening of March 23 and kept her until $5333 ransom was paid. Deputy Charles Taylor found in the negroes' home $3050, only $280 less than the amount paid over to a negro by Mr. Frazier.

Despite the negroes' explanation police are holding Frank Baskett, 47, a former policeman, and Mrs. Annie Thomason, both of whom deny any connection with the abduction.

ABILENE GETS NEW BUILDING

Seven-Story Structure Will Be Erected Soon

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, April 8.—Abilene is soon to have another seven-story building. George L. Paxton and W. G. Swenson, local captialists have recently announced that they will shortly receive bids for the construction of a seven-story building, 50x140 feet to be located at North Third and Cypress streets.

The first floor and mezzanine of the new structure will be occupied by a retail establishment, while the remainder of the building will be given to offices, each floor having 20 offices, according to the present plans.

The completed building will cost approximately $200,000 and will be ready for occupancy by January 1, the owners say. David S. Castle & Co., local architects have been commissioned to draw plans for the structure.

Paxton says that the original plans for the building were for five stories, but Abilene's rapid growth has caused the two extra floors to be added. Work is to be started by May 1. A 1-story building, erected seven years ago will be razed to make way for the seven-story edifice.

JOHN VAUGHN, 78, DIES

HENRIETTA, April 8. (Sp.)—John A. Vaughn, 78, died at his home in the New London community March 20.

MILLICENT SCORES

By Universal Service.

PARIS, April 8.—That a decree will be given in favor of Millicent Rogers, the Countess Salm, seems assured, according to the best legal opinion here, following a perusal of the charges and counter-charges filed by both parties.

While Count Salm claims 'refusal to resume the marital domicile,' Millicent's complaint includes, besides the above grounds, 'injurious relations,' which, legally interpreted, means that her husband was in the habit of hob-nobbing with other women, although leaving in doubt the question of illicit relations.

In the mind of a Paris divorce judge, such charges, although couched in the most polite legal verbiage, if properly corroborated, would overwhelming militate in the favor of the wife.

PARDON ASKED FOR CARROLL

Appeal to Keep Producer Out Of Prison Filed

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—A formal application for a pardon for Earl Carroll, theatrical producer of bath tub party fame was filed with the Department of Justice today. Carroll is to begin serving a sentence of a year and a day in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta Tuesday.

Shortly before the department closed for the day, a man and a woman appeared at the office of the pardon attorney to file the application. Officials decline to divulge the identity of either.

The grounds on which the application was filed were not revealed.

Carroll was convicted of perjury in connection with testimony before a federal grand jury investigating the party he gave on the stage of a New York theater.

"BATH TUB GIRL" WILL PLEAD FOR CARROLL.

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—The Chicago Journal said today it had learned from an authoritative source that Joyce Hawley, the "bath tub girl," is in seclusion in New York and plans to attempt to see Attorney General Sargent and even President Coolidge in an attempt to save Earl Carroll, theatrical producer from a prison term.

Information concerning her plans came to friends here, the Journal says, as a result of a visit she made Wednesday to Federal Judge Goddard in New York. She was said to have asked the judge's assistance in winning a pardon for Carroll on the ground that the story of the bath tub wine party on Carroll's stage was "all wrong."

Carroll's sentence of a year and a day was imposed on a charge of perjury growing out of his testimony in the trial of the bath tub case in which Joyce testified.

Moody Warns Borger Police

Borger, steps will be taken immediately to correct them."

No additional rangers had been ordered by the governor to Borger tonight. Moody so far has declined to comment on a report from Borger today that 10 more men may be sent. Only one ranger remains here and if more are sent, they must be drawn from outposts of the state.

MOODY THREATENS TO CALL MARTIAL LAW

AUSTIN, April 8.(AP)—Threatening to call martial law, Gov. Dan Moody today wired county and city officials of Borger, Panhandle oil town, demanding co-operation of local law enforcing officers whom he said reports indicate are not doing their duty.

He suggested replacement of city and county officers by others. In a telegram to the mayor he declared if "local officers" cannot co-operate with officers there now maybe they can co-operate with the national guard if sent to Borger.

Scores Borger Marshal

"The city marshal has not been functioning," Moody said in his telegram to Borger's mayor, "and has not been discharging his duties according to authoritative reports reaching me. The first step in a cleanup is to get rid of that man and put in one who will enforce the law. If Borger can't furnish local officers that will co-operate with the rangers, maybe they can co-operate with the national guard if they are sent to Borger."

Replying to a wire from the Borger Chamber of Commerce secretary, Moody said "Vehement protest will not prevent declaration of martial law. Reports reaching me from investigations made at my direction by persons in whom I have confidence indicate a condition of lawlessness existing that is not to be tolerated. The way to prevent martial law is to see to immediate correction of the conditions obtaining. This can not be accomplished until certain local conditions have been corrected by removal of some who have not been seeing to the enforcement of the law.

Silent on Rangers

Governor Moody today declined to comment on reports that he has ordered 10 additional rangers to Borger, Panhandle oil town, promising to make a statement about 2:30 this afternoon.

Martial law for the town is believed to be imminent.

If Governor Moody sends 10 additional rangers to Borger they must be recruited from various posts over the state as there is only one other here. The second proposed detail to Borger would leave but 10 rangers, officers and men to protect the entire state and Mexican border.

BULLET-RIDDLED SEDAN FOUND NEAR SAPULPA

SAPULPA, Okla., April 8.(AP)—Discovery of a bullet-riddled motor sedan similar to the description of the one used in the recent robbery of the Pampa, Texas, bank today led authorities here to believe that Matt Kimes and Ray Terrill, escaped convicts, had returned to their homes in this vicinity.

At the same time, however, Kimes and Terrill were reported to have been seen in Borger, Texas.

The car was found abandoned on the road between Sapulpa and Drumright and is being held by police, who were of the opinion that the bullet holes were made during a gun battle after the robbery of the Pampa bank in which two officers were killed.

All glass in the machine had been broken. In the seat was found a card with the name of a Dallas, Texas, automobile company written on it.

OKLAHOMA OUTLAWS ON WAY TO BORDER, BELIEF

LUBBOCK, April 8. (AP)—Sheriff Bud Johnson of Lubbock county, received word this morning that Matthew Kimes, Ray Terrell and an unidentified woman for whom pence officers throughout West Texas are searching were seen early today in Meadow, Terry county, 20 miles southwest of here. The information said that the trio stopped their big car there to refuel and officers in this section are working on the theory that they are headed for the border.

FORT WORTH WARNED OF ADVANCE OF BANDITS

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—Police here were on the lookout today for Ray Terrell, Mathew Kimes and a woman, outlaws, following receipt of a telegram from Chief of Police H. H. Murray, Plainview.

A large sedan in which it is believed the three persons, wanted in Oklahomo on more than 20 criminal charges and in Texas in connection with a bank robbery at Pampa recently, were riding through Plainview at 9:30 last night. If headed in this direction, the car should arrive here some time today.

Police have been given the license number of the automobile and a general description of its occupants.

VICE DENIZENS START HIKE OUT OF BORGER

BORGER, April 8. (AP)—Pedestrians hiking across the plains to the nearest towns was one evidence today of the clean up activities of state rangers following recent disorders here.

The exodus of underworld characters continued. One man reported he had seen more than a dozen girls with bundles on their backs walking along the highway between here and Panhandle seeking automobile rides to the nearest community.

The state rangers, sent here by Governor Dan Moody, held an impromptu hearing in the sheriff's office. They questioned scores of men, turning some back to jail and ordering others to leave town. They also checked up to see that persons ordered yesterday to leave within 24 hours had departed.

Rounding Up Suspects

With the city rid of gambling equipment, the state officers confined their labors to rounding up questionable characters. The clean up activities follow recent disorders including the killing of two deputies a week ago.

Boyd Gatewood, private secretary to the governor and Adjutant General R. L. Robertson were scheduled to meet with the city authorities and the Hutchinson county authorities to deliver the governor's intentions.

Although the governor does not wish to bring troops here, Mr. Gatewood told the Associated Press Governor Moody is determined that the reign of crime in the Panhandle section cease and martial law will be proclaimed if necessary.

TEXAS DIXIE VET HONORED

Gen. Felix Robertson Last Of Rank Surviving

TAMPA, Fla., April 8. (AP)—General Felix "Comanche" Robertson of Waco, Texas, sole surviving ranking general of the Southern Confederacy, second of three generations of fighting men, and honorary commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, still is a fighter despite what he terms the "drawbacks" of 86 years, and "wouldn't trade the esteem of my boys nor the honors they bestowed on me for Calvin Coolidge's job."

General Robertson spent the greater part of the afternoon telling the Associated Press about his experiences at the beginning of the war between the states, between visits of former members of his command.

His most vivid recollections center around sundry "painting jobs" with the red pigments of celebration in most of the larger towns between West Point and Montgomery, Ala., capital of the Confederacy, during the progress southward to join the southern forces after resigning from the military academy a few months before he would have gotten his commission.

"Painting" Exploits

"The 'painting' was accomplished," he said, with the aid of various tavern keepers and kindred spirits who never touched a brush. The technique for the most part consisted of leaning on mahogany with a foot on brass, right elbow planted and hand upraised."

Next in order come the many times he "went broke" on the same trip.

One recollection he never tires of recounting, is of the solemn warning delivered by General Beauregard against his resignation from the United States army and his subsequent discovery that General Beauregard beat him across the Mason-Dixon line.

In carefully chosen words, though with the halting speech of great age, General Robertson recounted the days of his young manhood while two members of his old command, self-constituted orderlies, sat by on the alert for some service they might do their ailing chief.

Confined to Chair

General Robertson's movements for some months have been confined to terrain over which a wheel chair can be moved.

But favor himself otherwise? General Robertson roared strong words when a photographer suggested that he could take his picture in the shade, to save the vet's eyes.

The general's father was Major Jerome B. Robertson of the Texas war of independence. Two of his sons were commissioned in the World war. Felix D. Robertson Jr., of Dallas, Texas, was a major. A younger son, Jerome, was a captain in the tank corps overseas.

The self-appointed orderlies are R. Cay of Valdosta, Ga., and Bayard King to Fort Meade, Fla. Both admit that they hold "all sorts of rank" in the veterans' organization but are proud of having been privates in General Robertson's command. Both were of the Fifth Georgia cavalry.

Tears In Voice

The aged fighting man's voice broke under emotional stress twice during the interview. Once was when he lamented the recent death of General Charles McCausland, last of his brothers in rank, and the other time was when he recounted the parting with his academy mates in the West Point mess hall after he had told Colonel Delafield, then commandant, that he "felt there was going to be trouble and must insist on resigning in order to get on his own side of the house."

"They rose, saluted and cheered," he said.

He said his check from the United States government, settling his account at the academy, all went into the first painting venture, in New York City, when he reached there with a dozen of his mates who had resigned from the academy to follow in his footsteps. The others had no funds, since government orders refused them their money immediately after young Robertson's check was cashed.

They Celebrate

"When we learned at Mossy Creek, Tenn., that Davis had been elected first president of the Confederacy," General Robertson said, "certainly that was another fitting time for a celebration. After carefully counting our funds, my traveling companion and I found that we could invest 25 cents in Tennessee corn whisky. We invested and painted."

Discussion between the general and his men branded as false histories detailing the battle above the clouds, recounted how one company went into the first battle of Manassas armed only with double-barreled shotguns, and placed the christening of General Jackson as "Stonewall" at that same engagement.

Colonel Cay (rank by veterans' standards) declared that General Robertson never sent a soldier into battle in his life. "He always took 'em."

Brothers Separated For 62 Years Meet By Chance at Tampa Veterans Reunion

TAMPA, Fla., April 8.(AP)—Alexander Griffin, 82, of Hampton, Texas, and his brother, Jacob Griffin, 79, of Stone Mountain, Ga., met for th efirst time in 62 years yesterday, under the shadow of a Confederate flag.

They were two of five brothers who left their home in Brunswick, Ga., to fight for the Confederacy in 1861. Two were killed. Alexander, heart sick over the defeat and devastation of the south, wandered off to Texas after peace had been declared. He had heard nothing from any member of his family since. He and Jacob each attended a Confederate reunion at Birmingham last year without learning that the other still lived.

They left together last night for Macon, Ga., to visit the other surviving brother.

We spend too much time worrying about the pin pricks of gossip and not enough about character punctures.

MOTHER SLAIN BY TOT, CLAIM

But Father Held in Jail As He Blames Babe

By Universal Service.

SAN BENITO, Texas, April 8.—Can a three-year-old boy fire a .38 caliber pistol?

This will be an important question in the examining trial of Jose Danache here Saturday morning. Danache is charged by complaint with the slaying of his wife who was found shot to death Tuesday. Danache told police he was asleep in a room adjoining the one in which his wife was killed when the shooting occurred, and that earlier in the day he had seen his three-year-old son playing with the gun.

Police, however, refuse to believe the child could have pulled the trigger of a .38 special.

Wife Should Not Let Her Own Tastes Stand in Way of Husband's Success

Straight-From-the-Shoulder Talk to a Young Wife Who Won't Follow Her Husband's Fortunes to the Tropics—Should Opposites Marry or Is Matrimony Happier For Those Who Are Alike?—Advice to an Old Mother of 70.

DEAR MISS DIX—Two years ago I married a chemist and went to live in the tropics. I was 19, very much in love, and had exceedingly romantic and highly picturesque ideas of life among the palms. At first even the keen disappointment of seeing our new home and the final crash of my colorful dream failed to make me unhappy, but I soon grew to hate the tropics and my life there.

Jack became kinder and more attentive and did everything possible to make me happy, but I hated it and was miserable. We came home twice on vacations and each time I hated to go back worse. Finally I contracted fever and we came back permanently. But Jack can't get any work to do here and he has brilliant prospects in the tropics. We have been using up our savings and are near the bottom of them. My family can get Jack a small clerkship and want him to stay. What shall I do? Return to live among those sloven, ignorant natives, or blight my husband's prospects.

A PARASITE WIFE.

Answer: If you have one ounce of courage in you, or one drop of sporting blood, you will go back with your husband to his job in the tropics where he can make good.

It is a crueler thing for a wife to ruin her husband's prospects and blight his career than it is for her to kill him. Yet many weak and selfish women do this.

For the sake of living near their own families, because they are crying babies that cannot leave mamma, or because they don't want to leave the old home town and the girls they went to school with and the environment with which they are familiar, they will keep their husbands from going where fame and fortune waits them. They will keep their husbands tied down to a miserable, petty little job when they might be doing big things in the great world.

This is not the spirit that animated our foremothers; that sent women across the seas to colonize a new and unknown land, and that later on sent brave, strong-hearted devoted wives out with their husbands to conquer the wilderness and endure the hardships of pioneering.

To live in the tropics in these days, when the comforts of civilizations are available everywhere, is a small undertaking compared to what our great-grandmothers went through, and you must be, indeed, a quitter if you cannot stand a little discomfort, a little heat, a little dirt.

And you don't have to stand the dirt unless you are too lazy to clean up and teach the natives to be good servants. I, myself, have seen a lot of the tropics, all the way around the equator, and I know that the life is far from unendurable. Indeed, that it has many features that makes it exceedingly fascinating and attractive, and the lives of the women who live there where you can have a dozen servants for the price of one with us, is not nearly so hard as that of the women who must do all of their own cooking and washing and baby-tending.

But that's not the point. The question is, are you going to sacrifice your husband and ruin his chances in life because you can't live just where you want to? Are you that selfish? Do you love him so little as that?

If you are that kind of a woman and care so little for him as that, you are not worth his wasting himself upon and he will be wise if he leaves you and goes back to do a man's job in the world.

And let me further warn you of this: If you do make him give up his career and take a little job, the time will come when you will be ashamed of him and when you will resent his not having won the success that you are keeping him from realizing. Think this over, Parasitic Wife, and remember that it is a terrible millstone about a man's neck.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—It is true that couples who are direct opposites get along much better in marriage than those who are alike?

S. A. V.

Answer: So far as physical characteristics are concerned, it does not matter whether tall people marry each other, or whether a tall man marries a short woman, or vice versa. Nor does fatness nor thinness in the high contracting parties have any bearing upon their chances of matrimonial felicity.

But when it comes to the mental and spiritual qualities of men and women, it is a different matter, and undoubtedly the happiest marriages are those in which like marries like. Because, you see, the chief thing in marriage in congeniality. The ideal home is a place of peace and harmony, and that can only exist where the husband and wife think alike, and have the same tastes and aspirations, and see life from the same point of view.

There can be no happiness in a home where a man and woman are in a perpetual fight and warngle over everything. There can be no prosperity in a partnership where one partner pulls one way and the other the other, nor do any man and woman love each other if they disagree about everything and are afraid to open up any new subject, because if they do, they'll start something.

Therefore, when a man and woman marry, they do well to pick out as mates those who belong to their own class, who have been reared in the same way that they have, and who have the same politics and religion, and are used to the same kind of cooking.

Nature, which is concerned with the good of the race and not the happiness of the individual, has ordained the attraction of opposites in order to keep a good general average of humanity. But the very things that draw the unlike together before marriage make them repulse each other violently after marriage, and are the main cause of divorce.

For the people we enjoy and love to be with are those who think as we do, not those with whom we are in a perpetual argument.

* * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow 70 years old. My husband passed away 15 years ago, and since his death my oldest son and I have made a home together. A year ago he married a widow with five grown children. I have stayed on as he wished me to do, but it is not home to me, and I am very unhappy, as my son's wife and her family rule now. I have enough money to go into a widow's home. What would you advise me to do?

MRS. A. B.

Answer: I can only tell you what I would do if I were in your place. I would not hesitate to go into the widow's home, because there I would know that I was welcome, that I was independent, and there I would not be daily tortured by being made to feel that I was in the way and not wanted, nor aggravated by seeing the home I loved dominated by strangers.

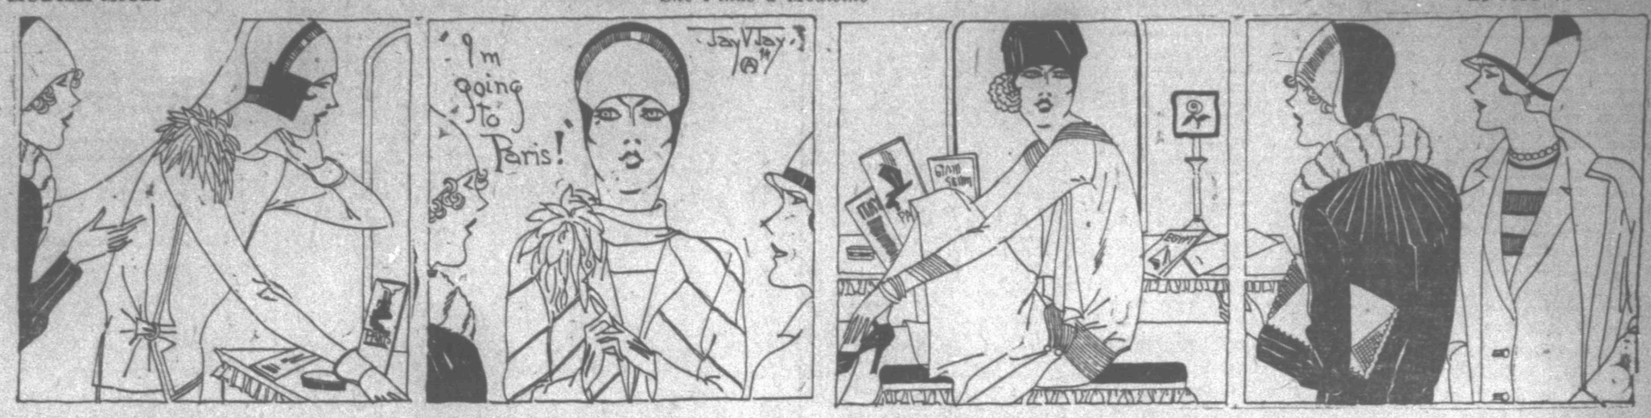

In an old ladies' home an old woman has companions of her own age and is not nearly so lonesome as she is among younger persons who are not interested in her and have no affection for her and who neglect her.

You will find that even your son is more fond of you when you go away and cease to be a bone of contention between him and his wife.

DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — She Finds a Medicine — By JAY V. JAY

Yes, this is Mitzi. At last reports she was just on the verge of taking her leave of this dull world and now we find her dressed in a frock of crepe smartly trimmed with many rows of fine tucks and looking about as much alive as we have ever seen her.

Polly and Adelaide can't understand it. They almost brought flowers and then decided it was too mournful. Notice Polly's smart black satin coat with the ermine collar and its sunburst of tucks in back. Adelaide wears a tweed ensemble of suit and coat and a two-toned felt.

It's completely baffling to Polly. Mitzi doesn't show the slightest sign of illness. In fact, from the very incident of changing her frock twice before she goes out Polly is convinced that she is back to normal. Her hat is one of the new skull caps with ear ornaments.

"Why, it's perfectly simple," says Mitzi. "Dad, the darling brought me a lot of travel booklets and the Doctor said I needed a change. I'm going to Paris." Dad, it seems, was the best doctor. No one knew what was wrong with Mitzi but Dad found the only cure!

Making Modern Menus

Somehow if it's fixed the French way, it tastes a little better. An omelette, for instance.

PLAIN FRENCH OMELETTE

To make a French omelette by the accepted formula, we add all the ingredients to the eggs, which have been beaten together, not separately. The bottom of the omelette is browned and the whole rolled, not folded over. Four eggs are required and four tablespoons of water, salt and cayenne to taste, half a teaspoon of powdered sugar and a tablespoon of butter. Beat the eggs and the seasonings with them thoroughly. Melt the butter in a hot pan and pour in egg mixture. When the underside cooks, lift with a fork so that the raw portion may flow underneath and cook. Repeat this operation until the omelet becomes firm and creamy. Brown the bottom evenly and fold.

Artist.

An American woman, Mrs. Leonchel Jacobs, who has just returned from three and a half years in China, is now showing a collection of her Occidental and Oriental subjects at the Ainslie galleries in New York. She has portraits of the Manchu emperor and his family, famous generals, Chinese actors and singers and leaders in the social life of Tientsin and Pekin.

"I feel that the work I did abroad has a historical as well as artistic interest," Mrs. Jacobs says. "No more will any member of any dynesty wear the ceremonial robes which have lent color for generations past to the palaces and temples of the Forbidden City. There are no more dynasties.

Presidents Coolidge and Harding, Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Rabindranath Tagore and Miss Ethel Barrymore are among the scores of distinguished persons who sat for Mrs. Jacobs before she went to the Far East.

Troubled With Pains And Aches

Texas Lady, Dull, Tired, Run-Down, Tells How Cardui Relieved These And Many Other Symptoms

Whitney, Texas.—"About three years ago," says Mrs. J. E. Shelley, of this place, "I was very much run down in health. My back and sides hurt me pretty much all the time. I had a dreadful ache across the middle of my back, which made it feel like it was coming in two. Sometimes a sharp pain would start up and down my spine.

"I had a dull, tired feeling and I dreaded the thought of having to do my household tasks. It just seemed to me that I did not have strength enough to drag one foot after another.

"I was tired when I got up in the morning. I got no rest from my sleep and I was sleepy all day long.

"One day I picked up a Ladies Birthday Almanac and read about how Cardui had relieved other women of troubles like my own. My husband got a bottle of Cardui for me. It was not long before I began to show a decided improvement. My strength began to return and I felt much more like my normal self. The sleepy spells gradually quit and the pains in my back and sides disappeared. No longer did I mind my work, for I went at it with new strength and vigor."

Cardui, a mild, medicinal, vegetable tonic should do for you the same as it did for Mrs. Shelley. Try it.

JOHN BULL AND BRITISH LABOR

JOHN BULL, in the person of Prime Minister Baldwin, is determined to get the whip hand over organized labor. He has introduced what is known as the government trade union bill in the house of commons and it has had its first reading. His measure prohibits walkouts to coerce government or to intimidate a community. It provides that anyone declaring, instigating or promoting such a strike shall be liable, on conviction, to a fine or to imprisonment not exceeding two years. It further declares that refusal to participate in such an illegal strike shall not render a member of a trade union liable to expulsion from his organization.

Furthermore, the measure declares picketing, when calculated to intimidate or obstruct, to be unlawful and punishable by fine or imprisonment. Picketing of the residence of workers also is made unlawful and punishable.

Civil servants are forbidden, under the bill, to belong to any trade union. Trade unions also are required, under the bill, to keep their political funds entirely separate from other funds.

If the Baldwin government should succeed in enacting the measure and the lords give it their approval there are labor leaders who say that it will be the death knell of the great organizations of wage workers under the Union Jack.

Lloyd George is against the bill; he is against the government; he hopes to be prime minister again in the very near future.

FARMER LOWDEN IS CAUTIOUS

FARMER FRANK C. LOWDEN of Illinois is a very cautious man. He informed a committee of boomers that he would consider seeking the republican presidential nomination provided a sufficient number of agricultural states in the middle west demanded it.

Organization followed this announcement and the 11 congressional districts of Iowa are to be asked to elect Lowden delegates to the national convention. Senator Smith Brookhart is pledged to the Illinois farmer. According to press correspondents who have covered the middle west states the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill did not damage Coolidge, politically speaking, in the least.

And in the Pacific coast states and the Pudget Sound territory the sentiment is strong for the president for another term. All this may be changed before the coming of 1928. Cheap wheat and corn this year may cause a political revolution in the wheat belt and corn belt next year.

MAY PRODUCE A LEAN CROP

THERE will be a large acreage planted to cotton in many sections of Texas, but the coming of the Texas weevil may result in a lean cotton crop this fall. A bulletin issued by the federal department of agriculture carries the news that survival of boll weevils in hibernation during winter will be higher than usual.

This after a careful survey of the cotton belt states. Wherever weevils were abundant ast year the spring emergencie will be heavy.

In Texas, the bulletin rads, espcially in th central portion, the weevil population was decidedly increased by favorable weather conditions during the latter part of the growing season of 1926, and a somewhat heavier initial infestation is expected this season than for several years. Farming life "is just one—after another."

MILLIONS FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

HARVARD COLLEGE, with assets of $86,000,000, exclusive of real property, is said to be America's richest university. Yet, the New York World says its annual budget of $8,000,000 is matched by the state universities of California and Illinois and is exceeded by that of the University of Michigan.

Wisconsin is a great dairy state. It is a great butter and cheese marketing state. Its farmers are scientific farmers. They are producers of staples which are ever in demand in the great centers of population.

Wisconsin lawmakers are liberal in voting appropriations for their university. Utah and Nebraska go beyond the $8,000,000 budget mark. Why not Texas?

SO THIS IS TEXAS

CATARINA is a Texas wonder. It was a ranch yard 15 months ago. Now it is a town of 5000 people. Fifteen months ago a ranch of 100,000 acres was laid off into parked streets with innumerable shrubs and flowers flanking every curb. There is a hotel that cost $100,000; there is a school house that cost $50,000 there are many brick store houses and handsome residences and hundreds of artisian wells which flow from 650 to 850 gallons of water per minute. Catarina is on the map.

HOW TO BUILD ROADS

CHAMPIONS of improved public highways in Hamilton county were given a big lift by the lawmakers of the 40th legislature. A bill was enacted and the governor signed it providing that all male persons between the age of 21 and 45 shall be required to work five days on public roads of the county or to pay a tax of four dollars a day. This, with the gasoline tax should lift Hamilton out of the mud.

SO THIS IS TEXAS

A SOLID carload of shelled pecans was shipped from Seguin to Cleveland, O., last week by one shelling plant. This shipment was vlaued at $20,000 and the gross weight was 42,000 pounds. This is the largest shipment of shelled pecans yet made from Seguin. Cotton isn't the only money crop in Texas. There is a pecan money crop, and Texas is the leader in the production.

A STORY OF MYSTERY, SUSPENSE AND LOVE
The SOB-SISTER

"John Walden!" she gasped.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

DIANA BROOKS, beautiful daughter of ROGER BROOKS, owner and publisher of the Catawba City Times and a chain of nine other newspapers, had been kidnaped and then released. Her father is engaged in a persistent fight against the corrupt administration of Catawba City and through the medium of the Times, redoubles his scathing attacks on politicians of the Ring and defies the Underworld.

Later, Brooks himself is kidnaped and in five days released. On his return he finds that his newspaper stock is being manipulated and suspects JOHN W. WALDEN, who he plans to fight.

Brooks' closest friend is DONALD KEENE, literary editor and guardian of TEDDY FARRELL, reporter and Sob Sister, who is in love with Don. He, however, believes himself in love with LOLA MANTELL, Diana's cousin.

Don and Diana go for a motorboat ride. A storm comes up and they are marooned on an island all night. They are attracted to each other, but Diana reminds herself and Don that he is supposed to be in love with Lola. They return to Diana's home next morning and make explanations of their absence to Roger Brooks. He accepts the truth of their story, but Lola becomes furiously jealous.

NOW READ ON.

CHAPTER XXX.

Diana lingered at the table while Gretta cleared away the luncheon things, replacing them with a lacy centerpiece and a bowl of tea roses. The girl buried her face in their heavy fragrance.

The droning of an insistent bumblebee against the screen . . the muttering of the runabout Lola had started and somewhere back in the kitchen the clatter of dishes drifted to Diana's consciousness as from a distance.

She wrote some letters, then descended again to the porch swing. She would try to sleep. But that peaceful balm she courted seemed fearfully remote. Her body felt fatigued, but her mind and nerves were keenly alert.

A world of turbulence had been packed into the lives of the Brooks family during those recent months. While Diana had been detached from actual participation in her father's business troubles she felt poignantly as if some impending disaster brooded over the household.

Was she becoming neurotic, wild and visionary—superstitious?

An oppressiveness that was almost nausea gripped her as she fidgeted restlessly among the cushions. She must have sunk into a sort of semi-consciousness. A succession of tableau pictures rotated rapidly across her dream-tossed vision. . . . It seemed to her, caught in the clutch of a semi-conscious nightmare, that she was in a darkened theater. . . . Through a glare of blue-green lights projected on an elevated platform passed a weird review, the whole thing grotesque, distorted.

There fitted by the scene of that fog-drenched morning in April when she and Don had gone at 3 a. m. to the city room of the Times to wait for news of her father. The picture changed swiftly to Catawba Island. Then she and Don were landing on the short of town—the newsboys were shouting, "Paper—all about—" In her dream fantasy she heard them shriek, "All about th' scandal of publisher's daughter—" Then the scene shifted like the action of a kaleidoscope.

Teddy's face smiled out . . . the face was covered with blood . . . there was a deathless glow in the brown eyes . . . Lola . . In a fantastic Oriental gown . . approached her slowly, teeth bared in a horrid leer . . a dagger in her hand. . . .

"Miss Brokes—Miss Brokes—"

The visions dissolved.

"Telephone—you're wanted on—telephone—" Gretta was bending over her shaking her shoulder.

"Oh, yes, thank you, Gretta—Oh, I thank you!"

She wanted to tell the girl of her gratitude in rousing her from that horrible dream but, it was several seconds before she could collect her wits and readjust herself. Her forehead and palms were clammy with an icy sweat. Then:

"Diana Brooks speaking."

"Hello, Miss Brooks?"

"Yes, yes!" impatiently. She heard the man across the wire clear his throat.

"Gounot's Inn clerk this is. Your cousin, I unner-stand, Miss Mantell—she sprain her ankle—ask me to call you—says for you to come out right away—get her—"

"All right!" cut in Diana quickly. "Gounot's is on the Canal road, isn't it?"

"Yes, that's right—'bout 12 miles out f'm city limits. You'll see signs along th' road for turns and—"

"All right. I'll start immediately. Tell her, please," interrupted Diana again, and hung up the receiver.

She stopped long enough to bathe her face with cold water. Her father had taken the sedan and Lola had the runabout. There was a flivver touring car in the garage for the servants' use. She took it.

Diana was grateful for this compulsory call for action. The swift drive across town and over to the other end dispelled some of the disagreeable effects of the dream she had just endured. It would have been better had she gone with Lola. She reached the city limits of the west side in less than an hour.

Gounot's Inn—the sign board pointed east. Diana knew of the place by reputation, a rendezvous for the fast set. But she had never been there. She had heard numerous young bloods whisper of the Bacchanales that were often held there; that it was a meeting-place for both ladies and demi-mondaines, of rounders and gentlemen. The ladies and gentlemen, of course, patronized it for the sake of a thrill, as visitors. An occasional outing at Gounot's was a popular pastime with some of her own set.

Excluding the oft-quoted reference to it as being a "shady" half-way house, Gounot's Inn was exclusive and popular. The service was excellent, the food deliciously prepared. And Gounot boasted the finest colored jazz orchestra in the county.

"How in the world did Lola ever come to land here, I wonder?" Diana asked herself as she drew up before a massive archway which blatantly displayed an elaborate electric sign, "Gounot's Inn."

The inn undoubtedly intrigued interest and its appearance admiration. Set far back from the road its brown stucco front reared three stories high like a splendid castle.

No pains or money had been spared apparently on its lavishness. Externally, at least, its luxuriousness was refined and in good taste. The building on either side was flanked by extensive gardens, well kept and profuse with flowers and foliage. Tiny lanes bordered the beds of select delicate rose bushes and here and there rose vine-colored cupolas.

Gounot's Inn, thought Diana, as she made a cursory survey of it, was impressive because of its isolation. Although it was on a main road, the territory around it was sparsely inhabited. The nearest sign of life, about a quarter of a mile away, was a farm house.

Diana decided to park her flivver on the driveway near a side entrance. She looked around for the runabout Lola had taken and was slightly surprised that it wasn't among the several other autos parked along there.

The inside of the place, as Diana stepped into it, was faithful to the promise of its external appearance. A wide staircase wound its way upward. To her right she glimpsed a truly magnificent ballroom with the now mute orchestra platform at its far end.

Gounot's did some business in the daytime, but it was at night that illusion, gaiety and abandon were flaunted there.

An olive-complexioned young man—he might have been French or Italian—bowed elaborately as Diana entered the office. He raised one eyebrow by way of interrogation.

"I understand that Miss Mantell, my cousin, was brought in here with a sprained ankle," she explained.

"Ah, yes! So! And you are Miss Brooks?" the man asked in a suave silky voice.

"Yes. I'd like to have you take me to her. I've come to get her."

"Surely! Delightful! Yes, mademoiselle," the man chirped brightly, assuming an accent that may or may not have been native to him. "Marcel—" raising his voice.

A liveried person made his appearance with the mechanical movements of a bellhop.

"Marcel—please take this lady to Number 16."

"Thank you," smiled Diana.

"Oh—not at all." The olive-complexioned, suave young man again bowed elaborately, dismissing Diana's thanks with a flourish.

The face of the liveried person who accompanied her was a mask. He preceded her up the stairs, down the length of the second floor and from there to a more narrow stairway to the third.

"What was the sense of bringing Miss Mantell all the way up here?" she asked her usher, uneasily.

"I do not know," he replied briefly, his thin, delicate ankles moving briskly before her.

He stopped suddenly before a door marked in neat bronze figures "16." "In here, please," he said, turning the knob. He held the door wide. Diana walked directly in. The door slammed behind her.

She wheeled around.

"John Walden!" she gasped. Then, recovering from her surprise: "Where's Lola?"

"She'll be all right in a little while. She's getting the ankle doctored up. It's a pretty nasty sprain, I guess," said Walden smoothly.

"CSan't I see her now?"

"Not just yet," he put in quickly, "the doctor is reducing the swelling right now."

Diana did not know whether to believe him or not.

REQUISITION ISSUED

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Requisition on the governor of Arkansas for J. K. Mathis, indicted in Dallas county on charges of removing mortgaged property today was issued by Governor Dan Moody.

Mathis, the records said, is in custody in Pine Bluff, Ark.

BO BROADWAY . . . . . By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK, April 1.(EFS).—Childs restaurants in New York used to serve three buckwheat pancakes to a portion—an adult, 45-caliber cake on top, one of more restricted area beneath, with a sample on the bottom a trifle larger in diameter than the cover of a pill box.

They've changed all that and are now serving five small griddle cakes as a substitute for the variegated trio.

This innovation would challenge the resistance of all right-thinking Americans.

For years the golden-brown disc of generous proportions, known and honored as the griddle cake, has stood for all that is noble, pure and ideal in American culinary achievement.

Art has declined the chance, and economy has lacked the temerity to limit the geometric area of the buckwheat cake.

A skinny, skimpy pancake is an aggravation to the eye and a disappointment to man's alimentiveness.

A narrow-chested, hollow-eyed pancake is a gustatory insult; devilish in conception.

The Efficiency Man may monkey with the baked bean. He may fool with the cruller and hammer the doughnut into the wildest and wierdest proportions; but let him not desecrate the greasy griddle. Hands off the pancake!

A Broadway shop advertises: "Lean-looking cutaways for Easter."

Why not christen them "Cassius cutaways"?

Appearing in the Social Register in New York these days means absolutely nothing, unless one's picture has appeared among the advertising pages of a "Quality Group" magazine, endorsing cold cream.

Motto of modern society matron: Don't hide your blight under a bushel!

* * *

George Lee is business manager of a restaurant at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, known as the Palais d'Or. As the name implies, it is a fish ball conservatory of distinction. It's no place for pikers.

The bill of fare of the average Mazda Lane steak-studio is a comedy of naive pretense; and in this, the Palais d'Or adheres to the established conventions of the street—only more so.

A gentleman—or, suppose we call him a gent—by the name of John Weinberg, returning from the theater the other evening with a female companion, paused at the Palais d'Or for a slice of refreshment.

"L'addition, garcon!" he cried at the meal's end.

Some men in the Worthy Brother's place would have scanned the grand total, carelessly tossed the servitor a $20-bill, and resumed his interrupted discourse on the future of the cluck-an-soot business.

But Mr. Weinberg has a meticulous mind. He scrutinized each item on the check and discovered to his dismay that the waiter had chalked up a chicken sandwich at $1.40.

He expostulated. The waiter shrugged and Brother Lee sauntered across in his dinner coat and best manner. He lent ear—head waiters never listen, they always lend ear—to Mr. Weinberg's remonstrance and replied:

"It may be, as you mention, that a chicken sandwich is not worth $1.40. There you and I differ. My valuation was arrived at after much cognition, and blazoned on the back piazza of the carte du jour. You should have scanned the price list before ordering. As the matter now stands, you are, diplomatically spe king, hors de combat. That's French, and it means pay or go to jail."

Despite the fact that Mr. Weinberg's future looms bright as any man's in New York, he vowed he'd "rot in jail the rest of his life" before he'd pay $1.40 for a chicken sandwich.

Business men sometimes venture on acts that the common judgment of the world pronounce absurd.

Later he was discharged by a magistrate, who ruled that Blackstone permits no more than a charge of two bits for a chicken sandwich and if Mr. Lee thought otherwise he might seek redress in a civil court suit.

All of which proves that Death isn't the only one that loves a Shining Mark.

Topic for the Week.
"THE SPIRITUAL STRUGGLE."

Saturday.
"Choice Is Essential"

SCRIPTURE: Read — Psalms 51.

"Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith Jehovah of hosts" (Zech. 4:6). "Repent ye therefore, and turn again" (Acts 3:19). "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit unto them that ask him" (Lk. 11:13).

See—Isaiah 6:6-8; Mark 1:14, 15; John 5:40-43.

MEDITATION: I have many conflicting desires, but I have will power also. I can and must decide. If I choose to, I can cover the light and quench the spirit, or I may repent and make it burn brightly. Earnest desire for the spirit of God assures the presence of that spirit. With my host of fellow-seekers after God, let me blend my will with his.

"That which makes me greater than the beasts of the field is not my superior strength, but my superior insight into my own weakness. My greatness is my sense of needs unsatisfied."

HYMN:
Christian, rise, and act thy creed,
Let thy pray'r be in thy deed;
Seek the right, perform the true,
Raise thy work and life anew.

Hearts around thee sink with care;
Thou canst help their load to bear,
Thou canst bring inspiring light,
Arm their faltering wills to fight.

Come then, Law divine, and reign,
Freest faith assailed in vain,
Perfect love bereft of fear,
Born in heaven and radiant here.
—F. A. Rollo Russell, 1893

PRAYER: Thanks for daily bread.

Pray for—spirit of good will; lovers of self; young people.

Collect—O God, who dwellest in the beauty of holiness, we praise Thee for the beauty of the earth, for loveliness embodied in noble men and for the revelation of Thyself in Jesus Christ the incarnation of Thy conquering love. We are covered with shame at the thought of Thy faithfulness for we have not been ever true to Thee. Keep us from infidelity to Thy friendship. Save us from treachery of soul. From the choice of evil and from the enthronement of the lesser things deliver us. Awaken in us a living sense of Thy spirit. Give us hunger and thirst for righteousness. May our hearts burn with the presence of Christ in us. So would we enthorne Thee, trust Thee, love Thee, obey Thee; all by the grace of Christ. Amen.

COOLIDGE MAY COME TO TEXAS

Efforts Will Be Made To Bring President to Austin

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Efforts will be made to bring President Calvin Coolidge to Austin for the Texas state exposition in October if the contemplated conference of the United States and the Mexican governors at the exposition pans out as successfully as expected, W. J. Wile, exposition manager said here today.

Governor Dan Moody recently pledged his moral support to the invitations to bring other governors here and if it is found that a sufficient number will attend, the president also will be invited, Wile said.

German and Chinese exhibits will be among the international displays.

The ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

He that answereth a matter before he heareth it, it is folly and shame unto him.

The spirit of a man will sustain his infirmity: :but a wounded spirit who can bear?

The heart of the prudent getteth knowledge: and the ear of the wise seeketh knowledge.

A man's gift maketh room for him, and bringeth him before great men.—Proverbs 18:13-16.

A Convenient Service

The "two number" long distance service, which is now in effect all over the Southwestern System simplifies and speeds up long distance calls. This service is available only on station-to-station calls where you know the number of the distant telephone. To use this service, dial 110, and give the operator your number, followed by the number of the party you are calling, for example:

2-1643 Calling Electra 128
2-2816 Calling Burkburnett 75

These calls being station-to-station, of course take the lower station-to-station rate. For calls other than station-to-station, ask for "long distance" in the usual manner.

SPUDDERS ALL BUT BEAT OUT DETROIT CREW

Wichita Falls Scores Five Runs in Ninth But Loses, 11 to 8

BY SOMEBODY ELSE.

George Moriarty, manager of the Detroit Tigers who ground out Saturday morning's Record News sports pages, took a run-out powder when it came to penning a report of yesterday's game between his team and Carl Williams' Wichita Falls Spudders.

"The way your team came back at us in the ninth inning after it was supposed to have been beat nearly to death, and cracked the ball all over the park to almost defeat us kind of took my breath away and I'd rather not say anything about that game. If I ever got started I wouldn't want to stop in time to catch my train (George left early last night for Oklahoma City) because there is so much that could be said. Mr. Gardner and Mr. Williams certainly have one fighting ball club. A couple of the players looked kind of rattled early in the game and acted rather foolishly on the base paths, but the way those boys came back and fought us when they did get started is something to be proud of. With that kind of spirit they ought to travel pretty far in the Texas league race this summer."

Office Boy Does It.

And the regular sports writer had hid out, so the office boy was called into service to report the game. Icky, like all dutiful office boys, had made some kind of excuse slipped off and attended the game. He had gone even further, keeping a box score. Came in with it and said, "I thought maybe Mr. Morarity might want me to help him out because he looked awful busy out there today."

So there you are. Detroit won the game, the second and last of the series, 11 to 8, but only after the Spudders, waging a more or less indifferent brand of ball had rallied nobly in the ninth and shoved five runners across the plate.

McManus of the Tigers, Swenson and Fitzgerald of the Spudders were the hitting stars. Earl Whithall, the lefthander, held the home team down pretty close but Gibson bumped into trouble in the last three innings. Kiefer and Steengrafe, Spud hurlers, were found at a fairly regular clip for base hits.

Tigers Five in Second.

The Tigers took the lead in the second inning over Kiefer when they chased home five runs. Heilmann opened with a single to center, but was forced at second by Blue. McManus doubled to left and Blue checked up at third. Mann booted Warner's bounder and Blue scored. Bassler doubled past first scoring McManus and Warner. Whitehill singled to right and Brassler raced over the plate. Tavener dropped a double in left field and Whitehill stopped at third. Turgeon tossed out Manush and Whithill scored. Swenson made a nice catch and threw to toss out Fothergill for the third out.

Detroit ran its count up a couple more notches in the fifth when Heilman singled and scored on Fothergill's long drive over the left field wall.

An infield hit by Jenkins and a long triple by Swede Swenson gave the Spudders their first run in the fifth inning.

A double by Heilman in the seventh started the Tigers off for another pair of runs. Blue walked. McManus singled past third, scoring Heilmann. Warner hit to Steengrafe and Blue was forced at third. Bassler filed to Fitzgerald and McManus took third after the catch. McManus stole home and Warner scored on a perfect double steal. Gibson rolled out to LaFayette.

Doubles by Swenson and Lapan gave the Spudders their second counter in the seventh inning.

The Tigers scored again in the eighth when Fitzgerald dropped Tavener's high fly to center. Tavener advanced on Manush's infield out and scored on Fothergill's sacrifice fly to left.

A single by Fitzgerald, a double by Lamb, and a sacrifice fly by Jenkins scored another for the Spudders in the eighth.

Marty Wins Ground.

McManus scored a run in the ninth all by himself when he singled to left, stole second and third and came on in home when Swenson let Lapan's throw get away from him.

The Spudders went wild in the ninth, but not wild enough to win the game. Swenson, Lapan and Tobin singled in succession to fill the bases. LaFayette poked a single through the box, scoring Swenson and Lapan and sending Tobin to second. Mann poled a single to center again filling the bases. Heilman raced in to short right to take Fitzgerald's fly ball with no advance. Lamb drove a single to center scoring Tobin and LaFayette. Jankins drove a single to right scoring Mann and sending Lamb to second. Turgeon ended the game by hitting into a fast double play, Warner to McManus to Blue.

The Mighty Moriarty As He Looked While Turning Out This Morning's Record News Sports Pages

—Photos By S. and S. Commercial Studio.

The great Moriarty, just as mighty with the typewriter as he is with the baseball bat or the umpire's indicator, produced Saturday morning's Record News sports pages.

George Moriarty, manager of the Detroit Tigers, former sports writer, former umpire and player, for 20 years connected with baseball and other athletics in some form or other, came to work early Friday morning, knocked off several sports yarns, then romped out to the ball park and pulled his Tigers over for a victory against the Spudders. Then, still in uniform and in very much of a hurry because he and his team left Friday night on an early train for Oklahoma City, Moriarty jumped in a cab and rushed back to The Record News offices after the game.

At the sports desk he went to work again with the same vigor and efficiency he displays on the baseball field. It was short time until he had written his remaining sports stories for this morning and then stalked into the composing room where he directed the page make-up.

In the cut is Moriarty sitting at the sports editor's typewriter. He has just completed a story. On the right he is seen again in The Record News composing room telling Charley Bell, the oldest member of the composing room force, just where to place the type in the form. Moriarty, at the moment the picture was snapped was looking at another cut he intended to run on this page today. Somebody talked him out of it (nothing strange about that) when the above cut was brought in.

IT'S AXE FOR HORNSBY WITH CARD INTEREST

Heydler Rules Rogers Out Until He Sells His Red Bird Stock

PITTSBURGH, April 8. (AP)—An eight-hour conference of National league baseball owners, called in executive session to dispose of the issues growing out of the ownership of 1167 shares of St. Louis Cardinal stock by Rogers Hornsby, was adjourned tonight without having settled the problem. The magnates upheld the ruling of President John Heydler that Hornsby cannot play with the New York Giants until he disposes of the stock.

At the close of the session it became known that the club owners had obtained an offer of $100,000 for the stock from Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals. Hornsby promptly turned this offer down, insisting that he wanted $123,000, for his holdings. He informed the magnates that he had an outside offer of $87,000 for the stock and suggested that the league make up the difference of $36,000. When it became evident that a compromise was impossible the club owners voted to uphold Heydler and bar Hornsby from the Giants' lineup so long as he retained the stock.

GIANTS GO TO COURT

PITTSBURGH, April 8. (AP)—The ruling of John Heydler, president of the National league, banning Rogers Hornsby from the New York lineup until he disposes of stock he holds in the St. Louis Cardinals, will be taken to court by the New York club.

The Giants will seek a temporary injunction to restrain the league from interfering with Hornsby as a player, it was announced tonight by counsel for the New York team, after National league club owners had failed in their efforts to compromise the stock tangle and had voted to uphold Heydler in barring Hornsby.

Leo J. Bondy, attorney for the Giants, said that on Monday he will apply for the injunction in New York. He said that the matter must be disposed of within five days and that while a New York injunction could not be enforced in other states, a violation of it would mean contempt proceedings there against the league and its members.

Pitchers Today Pass Up Many Golden Chances

Egan Says Tiger Corps Is Pretty Hard-Working Gang, However

By A. J. (BLOND BOY) EGAN
Detroit Tigers' Coach and Former Sports Editor of the Irish Gazette.
(As Told to George Moriarty.)

Editor's note: Blond Boy Egan, besides being the originator of the best change-of-pace in baseball, has contributed many worthy bits to pitching science. He is one of the few twirlers to strike out the once famous Honus Wagner on a slow curve ball while the bags were completely populated. Blond Boy, also, was the first citizen to discover that the NO LEFT TURN signs at intersections bar southpaws from warming-up in the streets.

My observation of the present-day crop of pitchers, leads me to believe that too many of them are content to pass up golden opportunities. My experience in the old days gave me a chance to be intimate with such great masters as Jack Taylor. Mordecai Brown, Vic Willis and pitchers of that school.

They all held the contention that every ball should be pitched for a purpose, and should not merely be pitched into a catcher's glove. In the old days the first requisite was control, and it is the same today. The speed of a Johnson is valueless without it getting a piece of the plate in the majority of cases. Young pitchers should strive to get the first ball over; this keeps the batter in the hole, and will eliminate the dangerous base on balls. Every manager and player is willing to have his pitcher touched for a clean hit rather than see him give a pass. The base on balls is deadly because it weakens the morale of a team in all close games, and the spectators lose their confidence the same as the players, because of it.

Dick Kerr Smart Fielder

The pitcher has the most difficult task on the ball field. The men on bases are practically behind him, and unless he has a keen instinct, he often throws a fielded chance to the wrong base. Did it ever occur to you that the pitcher is called upon to cover more ground than any infielder? At first this statement seems absurd, but when one figures that he is obliged to field bunts and slow hit balls near the foul lines half way between first and third, he covers approximately one-fourth of the diamond's area if he is capable. In this respect, George Uhle, of the Cleveland Indians, is peerless among the present-day pitchers. Dick Kerr, formerly of the White Sox, now with Fort Worth, is another "cat around the box," as the unusual fielding pitcher is called in the profession. Mordecai Brown was another fielding demon, and George Dauss of the Tigers, ranks high in this branch.

Tiger Staff Ambitious

I have never been able to figure out the exact reason for the negligence of the latter day pitchers; perhaps, there are too many diversions which take his mind off the serious side of the game. I am glad to state, however, that the Tigers' pitching staff is an exception to such criticism. In all of my spring jaunts with various ball clubs, I have never seen a corps of flingers put so much effort and concentration into their work. They seem to be imbibed with the spirit of winning games right on the mound, regardless of the great hitting strength which the team is noted for. I am enthusiastic about the manner in which the Tigers' pitchers are going about their work, and I would not be surprised to see them around the top of the heap when the averages are turned in at the end of the season.

Tigers Favorably Impressed By Spudder Array

Moriarty, Familiar With Texas Strength Believes Wichita Falls Will Give 'em All Battle

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager Detroit Tigers

I have looked at the 1927 Spudders in two exhibition games, and I like the way they shape up. Although two games should not be taken as a criterion of a ball club's strength, the local team looms up as a strong factor in the coming Texas league race.

To date, the Tigers have played San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas and Wichita Falls, and the latter team seems to be capable of playing any one of those clubs to a standstill. The Spudders have a formidable bunch of hitters in their line-up, and that is what counts in these hectic slugging days. Only the pitching of the local team seems to be doubtful, and I am not in a position to judge the entire staff from observation in two combats. Estell pitches a nice heady game, and should be a consistent winner with the stuff he displayed in the first game.

I like the Spudders' infield at first glance. LaFayette appears to be a very capable performer at first base, and Mann and Turgeon skip around the keystone sack in a very workmanlike manner. Swenson has nice form as a third baseman, and if he hits well, the problem at that difficult spot should be solved. They tell me he is the aggressive type also, and that quality is always to be commended, especially in an infielder who can do so much to keep the entire club on its toes.

Jenkins, Lamb and Fitzgerald stack up as a nifty looking trio on the outer lawn, and although I have had no opportunity to see them throw, I am informed that they can wing the ball to the inner rim with more speed and accuracy than any other Texas league club. Tobin looks able to take care of the heavy work behind the plate.

At this writing, I think that Alvin Gardner has much cause for elation over the prospects of his 1927 team. The Tigers, including DeVivieros, Walkup and Johns, all graduates of the Texas league, are very favorably impressed with the Spudders' chances, and their opinions can be taken seriously as they are familiar with the exact strength of the Texas league.

Leifield Declares Portsiders Real Okra in Pitching

Tiger Coach Believes in Earl Whitehill and Jimmy Walkup

By LEFTY LEIFIELD
Detroit Tigers' Coach and Superintendent of Southpaws
(As Told to George Moriarty.)

Regardless of "Blond Boy" Egan's effusion about southpaws, I champion their purpose for the simple reason that I am left-handed myself. On the other hand, "Blond Boy," notwithstanding his once crafty right wing, often held the enemy to 19 scattered hits, and how they were scattered.

Poor old Rube Waddell was responsible for this constant attack against us left handers. Speaking about right handers being mentally perfect, do you recall Al Acorn? This fellow used to warm up in a round house with the hope of developing a curve ball. Ollie Ozark was another foolish right hander. He thought that South Bend was a curve ball town, and he threw out his arm there one day pitching a double-header.

Serious Business

Left handers have the advantage over right handers in many respects. Their right handed cousins have to pull a move like the "black-bottom," in order to hold a runner on first base, while the southpaws dare them to move an inch off the bag. All joking aside, southpawing is a very serious business. The lefties are continually thrown into the breach to cope with such batters as Collins, Speaker and Sisler, when the right handers fail to stop their dangerous flails.

I want to call your attention to one southpaw in particular as the 1927 season is about to start. Earl Whitehill is his name, and I believe you can look for him to be a full-fledged star this summer. Only the Yankees' luminary, Herb Pennock, overshadowed him last season, but in this campaign it may be different. Pennock, while still a great pitcher, resorts to generalship more than real zip and stuff. Whitehill has everything, and I look for him to be just as crafty with a little more experience.

Walkup Smart Lefty

Jimmy Walkup, formerly of Fort Worth, also has a chance to shine under the big tent. He does not depend upon brawn to pull him through the tough spots, as he has a very keen idea about pitching. He should do well against the slugging type of batter like Babe Ruth. Ed Wells and Lefty Johns round out the Tigers' staff of off-side flingers, and they have shown some excellent wares this spring.

I have been telling my friends that this has been the most enjoyable training trip I have ever experienced. Although it has been all work, somehow it has seemed like play. The Tigers are the most aggressive club I have been with in my entire career. They are all pulling for one another, and you can't beat that spirit on a ball club.

The Detroit club will not be easily subdued by other American league clubs this summer. The infield is already working smoothly, and McManus fits in at second base as if he has been working with little Jackie Tavener for years. The outfield can cop flies and slug with the greatest, and the pitching has shown a decided improvement this spring. The Tigers' flingers should be able to hold their own in the long, hard grind about to begin. We also have a real crop of catchers, so I can only advise you to watch the Tigers of 1927, as I believe they are a snappy, hustling and intelligent bunch who will not be satisfied to occupy a low standing.

George Cautious About Wrestling

He Likes Grip But Doesn't Know Any Indians

Says Mr. Moriarty:

I see that you have wrestling matches here. Now, I always had wondered just why is a wrestler, and still do.

I am told my old friend, Charley Gray, has been mixing it up here the last two or three months. He is to wrestle Yaqui Joe next Wednesday, I understand. I don't know Joe. Never have had the pleasure of meeting him. Tris Speaker was the only Indian I was ever acquainted with and Tris is an Indian no more. So, you see, I don't know anything about Joe, but will say I thought the world of Grip's ability as a wrestler when I saw him work around in the east at the New York Athletic club.

These other two men, the promoter tells me, are on the program, I don't know anything about, I never tell anybody not to go to a show; let them take their own risks. I don't care what kind of a show it may be. Anyhow, wrestling is not my racket, so I'm not going to say anything either for or against it.

LEWIS BEATS PESEK

ST. LOUIS, April 8. (AP)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Chicago, heavyweight, defeated John Pesek, Nebraska "tiger man," here Thursday night. Lewis won two out of three falls.

Lewis gained the first fall by headlocks after an hour and three minutes of grappling. Pesek took the second in 29 minutes with a flying mare and Lewis the last with a combination head scissors and arm hold.

Stewart One of Most Polished Base-Runners in Game Today

Phantom Keystoner Can't Beat Harris Out With Senators But May Get Big Chance With Browns

By GEORGE MORIARTY.
Manager Detroit Tigers.

I have often wondered how "Stuffy" Stewart, utility infielder of the Senators, became such a highly polished base runner and pilferer while he was in the minor leagues before his advent with the Washington club. The tale was unfolded to me by Earl Whitehill the other day. A thorough knowledge of tricks and situations of the paths is not acquired suddenly.

It is a question of diligent study and application before a player becomes proficient in his art. One of the requirements is a pair of legs that can start instantly with the urge to go. The rest is a matter of knowing the pitcher's most trivial characteristics when he is on the rubber and in position to pitch.

Last spring when I was at Tampa covering the Washington camp for the Editors' Feature Service, Clark Griffith informed me during a game between the Senators and Brooklyn, that Stewart was the greatest base runner he could recall not barring Max Carey, the National league meteor.

* * *

A few moments later, Stanley Harris allowed Stewart to occupy first base as a substitute, in place of a pitcher. On that occasion he immediately walked off the bag, and maneuvered one of the longest leads I have ever seen. On the first pitched ball, he stole second by a wide margin.

Judging by that one steal, I knew he was a keen and accomplished performer on the bases. During the American league season last year, he pilfered time and again, and always with apparent ease, because of the remarkable edge he holds on the pitcher.

Earl Whitehill and Stewart were teammates at Birmingham in the Southern association a few years ago. According to Whitehill, Stewart was given a tryout by Pittsburgh a few seasons back, and during his stay with that club, Max Carey saw his possibilities, took him under his expert wing, and taught him the essentials that spell finesse in this supposedly lost art.

* * *

At this time, however, I do not consider him the equal of Max Carey on the bases. Stewart, by the way, has been mentioned in a possible trade with the St. Louis Browns. If it should materialize, it may be the twist of fate that will make him a regular. He is primarily a second baseman, and there is no chance for him to overshadow Stanley Harris at that position with the Senators.

Walker to Risk Crown in Europe

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Mickey Walker has decided to risk his prized middleweight championship in a London ring against a British challenger and with a British referee as the judge.

Jack Kearns, manager of the titleholder, today closed a 20-round match with Tommy Milligan, champion of Great Britain, to be decided in London some time between July 1 and 15. It will be staged under the direction of Charles Cochrane, London theatrical producer and sports promoter. Cochrane plans to hold the bout in an arena seating 100,00.

Promoter Jim Mullin tentatively closed a match between Walker and Dave Shade, the San Francisco challenger, to be decided here late in August, provided Walker is still champion after engaging Milligan. Both Shade and Walker are favorable regarded in Chicago, making the match highly attractive.

Top O' The Morn :-: Stuff :-:

BY BLONDY CROSS

GEORGE DICTATES, TOO

"You're going to have time to knock off a Top O' Morn column for me tonight, aren't you, Mr. Moriarty?" the captain of this col communed to Detroit's Caliph of Clout during the first inning at the orchard Friday.

"Nope, I've just about already written a book for you and we get out early tonight for Oklahoma City," replied the mighty Moriarty, "and by the time I've finished up with the other details down at your office I'll have to be leaving in a hurry."

"Aw, come on, write something," we double backed ever so imploringly.

"Well, I'll tell you, suppose you ask me a few questions and then write it yourself, quoting me."

* * *

Bam! The first item that came to mind was this: "What do you think of the American league race this year?" We got no further.

For Moriarty immediately dictated a column in baseball shorthand or something. You know, the kind of notes that once they get cold not even the writer can read 'em.

* * *

So we hustled down to the Underwood just as the Spudders started that ninth-round rally and twanged out what follows while the hieroglyphics still were warm.

"It is," began the great man, "possible that the race will be one of the most interesting the junior circuit has ever staged.

"There are many reasons for this—ah-hu, just a minute; I want to get some runs," and the famous person jogged over to the third base coacher's box, whereupon H. Manush hit a single and R. Fothergill homered.

* * *

WATCH JOE BOLEY

Mr. Moriarty returned then and continued: "All the critics seem to be centering their attention around the possibilities of the Philadelphia and Washington clubs chiefly. There is no doubt but that these two machines will cause plenty of trouble for every other club in the American league.

"There has been much discussion about the Athletics, most of which has been about the three grand old veterans, Cobb, Collins and Wheat. However, I am inclined to believe that the real defensive strength will devolve around Joe Boley at short. Boley's boosters say he plays a close and scientific shortstop and is a wonder on difficult ground balls. With Max Bishop and Eddie Collins to work with at second base, Connie Mack's infield troubles should be about over if Boley proves his mettle.

* * *

"The Washington club is dangerous mainly because it is what in the profession is termed a smart ball club. If Stanley Harris could figure on dependable pitching in the 1927 fracas he might breeze through, but this phase seems to be very uncertain at this time. Walter Johnson and Coveleskie are two crafty old veterans who at the worst should be able to turn in a percentage of .500 in games won and lost.

* * *

"I figure Speaker should help Washington as much as his absence will apparently hurt Cleveland. With managecial cares removed, he should have a wonderful season both in the field and at bat with Washington.

* * *

Uhle Greatest Right Hander

"Neither can we forget the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees as both have remarkable strength, particularly Cleveland which team has a crafty pitching staff headed by the great George Uhle whom I consider the greatest right hander in baseball today." And then Moriarty took a run at the first base box to tell Jack Warner something about playing his lead off the bag on Joe Kiefer.

* * *

Back again, the eminent athlete closed the gap with, "The Yankees' vital problem this year is to prove that they can come back after their pennant performance last year. They, also, have remarkable hitting strength but must show skill on the rubber to be considered as dangerous competition after the season is a few months old.

* * *

"This does not mean that the other American league clubs will not be troublesome. I have been in the business too long to count any club out of the race at the start of the season. It is all too uncertain. Last year proved this statement when New York and Cleveland came through after they had been considered lightly at the start of the campaign—Hey! there (and George interrupted himself again, jerked an arm off the dugout and charged toward the coacher's box). Get down, Blue; Down! Look out! Heinie!"

* * *

Turning back apparently unruffled by the sudden shift from dictation to bellowing orders in the heat of a quick play on the paths, Moriarty said: "You can say I have stated my hopes about the Tigers in another column. Summing it up, it looks like a real hot fuss and, barring accidents, the teams I have named should figure prominently in the race," and George turned to the other business at hand, that of managing a major league ball club that was on the verge of succumbing before a ninth-inning batting foray pulled by a Texas league team. Good night.

Six of Panthers' Pitchers Ready

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—Pitching selections in the exhibition games with Dallas, Saturday and Sunday were announced today by Manager Jakie Atz. Bill Moore and Denny Burns are slated for duty Saturday while Wachtel and Red Bird will attempt to stem the enemy tide here Sunday.

Atz was not so sure as to the starting hurlers in the opening game of the league season next Wednesday. The wealth of material, rather than the dearth, seemed to be the chief cause of Jakie's indecision.

"At least six of the boys are ready," said he. He included Wachtel, Burns, Bird, Moore and Hubbell in the group from which he said he probably would make his selections.

Atz announced today that Ziggy Sears, veteran outfielder, would re-occupy his old post as a Panther gardner, and that Joe Clayton, obtained from the Three I league this year, would be benched for the time being. The Three I star has been in a hitting slump and his fielding, possibly as a result of worry, has suffered.

PAYNE THROWS AT CHAMPS OF WESTERN LOOP

Des Moines to Wage War On Williams' Crew Next Three Afternoons

Mr. Moriarty's merry maulers moved out Friday night and Shano Collins' Des Moines Devils bivouac on the Spudder Pasture Saturday for the first of a three-day stand.

The Western league champions, with several old Texas league faces, among them such as that of Pug Griffin's, Homer Haworth's and two or three other migratory Texans, blow in with a pretty mean rep.

The Demons are not forgetting the series Wichita Falls took from them on their last trek through this section. Neither are they overlooking that weekly declaration by Texas sports writers and critics to effect any old Texas league club is stronger than the king of the Western loop.

So the Des Moines aggregation, a powerful lot, at that, will be with us the next few afternoons, blood in their eyes.

G. Washington Payne, who looms as Spudder Manager Williams' best mound bet this summer, gets the call for chunking chores this afternoon. The melee is booked for three bells.

FROSH INVADE KERRVILLE

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Texas university freshmen will hold a dual track meet with Schreiner institute at Kerrville Saturday.

Runner Cracked Leg Bone On Jog

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Richard Ward, 17-year-old Pflugerville high school student suffered a cracked leg bone at the end of his 16-mile run in two hours and 15 minutes here Thursday night it was learned here today.

Ward, who ran from Pflugerville to the Austin city limits with U. V. Ray, 21, high school teacher, was forced to drop out suddenly, presumably on account of what first was believed a severe leg cramp. After an X-ray examination today, it was found that a bone was cracked, and the leg was put in a plaster cast.

Ward went home tonight.

Ray stopped when Ward did, but seemed unfatigued, declaring that he could have run back.

UHLE TO HURL OPENER

CLEVELAND, April 8. (AP)—Geo. Uhle, star Cleveland hurler, will pitch the opening game here Tuesday, Manager Jack McCallister has announced. Uhle reported a bad arm early in the training season, but asserted he never has been in better trim at the opening of a season, both in endurance and control. A yannigan game was in prospect for Wednesday.

Jungaleers One Of Most Dangerous Clubs In Race

Detroit Confident of Furnishing Real Trouble With Heavy-Hitting Outfield and Brilliant Combination On Infield

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager Detroit Tigers

I suppose the Wichita Falls fans would like to know my opinion about the Tigers. Well, you can say for me that we have one of the most dangerous clubs in the business.

While I have refrained from making predictions about our possible finish, I am satisfied that our team must be regarded as one of the best in the American league.

We have just about ended one of the most gratifying spring jaunts that a ball club has ever been through. The weather at San Antonio was wonderful after the first three or four days, and we took advantage of every moment of sunshine. Some days we drilled as much as four and five hours, and the Tigers were all ready for the feathers when the grind was over.

I tried out a rather new idea at San Antonio. We trained at the old Block stadium, which we had all to ourselves. The players evinced such capacity for work that I had the ground-keeper cut out a second diamond in a remote part of the field. We used this auxiliary diamond for pitching and base running stunts, and glowing results have already been noticed from the drills the players participated in on that makeshift diamond.

I am particularly hopeful that our pitching staff will show a big improvement over previous form. Our flingers have all toiled willingly and with such ambition that I believe that their efforts cannot fail to give us a much better brand of mound work in the coming American league race.

Likes Tavener

Tavener and McManus at the pivot position of our infield, promise to be the best pair of workmen that the Tigers have ever had at those important stations. Tavener gets the ball out from his hands faster than any shortstop I have ever seen, so much so, that McManus is obliged to skip to second base at a speedier clip than he has been used to.

Lou Blue is the closest approach to Hal Chase I can truthfully recommend. I played with Chase in the old days at New York, and Blue can do all the stunts that his famous predecessor delighted fandom with, and I look for him to prove that he is just as good a hitter and base runner this summer, as the once reputable Hal.

Warner is playing a snappy game at the hot corner for us, and I believe that his work will improve as the weeks go on. Our outfield needs no recommendation; they can gobble flies and liners, and slug the apple all over the lot. We have a snappy catching staff in Bassler, Woodall, Manion and Shea, and the catching burden is not worrying these performers as they are all gritty and confident, and can nicely handle the delicate problems behind the plate.

Miss Only One Day

We have been very fortunate in escaping serious injury during the training season. Jack Warner received a black eye as a result of a foul tip from Lou Blue's bat, and was absent from the lineup for three days on that account. Clyde Manion, one of our backstops, sustained a split finger as a result of a foul-tip. We have only missed one day's work because of rain, and that was a most welcome rest.

If you want to sum up the spring dope relative to the Tigers, here it is: They are confident that they are a real ball team, and can furnish plenty of opposition to the enemy clubs as the American league schedule unfolds.

MORIARTY PRAISES SWENSON

Says Mr. Moriarty:

This Swenson at third base for the Spudders has a nice pair of legs and is fast. His action is good and he has wonderful form around the base for a youngster.

He throws a trifle side-armed, but that's not a bad fault in a third baseman. No two fellows throw the same way and I like the way Swenson throws. With seasoning that young man should prove quite a player.

WAXY WINS 59TH.

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—The Waxahachie high school Indians annexed their 59th consecutive victory by defeating the Terrell high school Tigers in the first game of a three game series here today.

BAN BACK ON JOB

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Four months of rest has brought President Ban Johnson of the American league back to his duties "completely restored to health."

"For three months," he said, "I was a very sick man and did not realize it until I started on my period of rest. Now I feel better than I have for years and am ready to return to my duties."

U. S. TO OKEH ROAD PROJECTS

Federal Aid For Highways In Texas Coming

WASHINGTON, April 8.(AP)—The bureau of public roads will resume soon the approval of state road projects in Texas which for some time have been held up because of lack of state funds for new construction.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau, declared today that the bureau had not withdrawn federal aid for highways as some had believed but that federal approval of Texas projects had ceased because of certain conditions, among which was the lack of state funds.

The Texas highway department, he said, has now requested a resumption of approval of new projects and E. W. James will leave for Texas next week to represent the bureau in co-operation with the state highway department in formulating the future program between the state and federal government. Mr. MacDonald himself also will go to Texas within the next few weeks.

RUNYON GIVES BELT TO BORAH

Scribe Calls Him Victor In Butler Debate

By DAMON RUNYON

BOSTON, April 8.—Some said this and some said that at the close of the furious forensic struggle between Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho, and Pres. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, at Symphony hall tonight.

It is always that way with these no-decision contests, where there are no judges or referee to take the blame, and in which both men finished on their feet still full of big words and strong.

"Borah won easy!" Hisses an excited Boston "dry" in my left ear as I scribble these words from the press bench at the ringside.

"If you don't give it to Butler, you're a crook!" says a "wet," breathing damply against the back of my neck.

It is a tough spot for an expert. Under the circumstances, I suppose a draw would be the safe decision, but being a bold man I must say I thought Senator Borah had a slight shade on points.

He was not lingually as fast and graceful and shifty as Prexy Butler, from the big college on Morningside Heights, but he had the heavier punch as he battled for the negative on the proposition!

"Should the republican national platform of 1928 advocate the repeal of the eighteenth

President Butler said yes and he said it in different ways for 40 minutes at one stretch hand-running. Then Senator Borah followed with no for a solid hour. They may have used longer words, but I doubt if they did any better than a couple of the boys arguing in a corner of the Friars' club for and against booze.

You know both Senator Borah and President Butler are distinguished members of the Republican party, the former reputed an arid dry and the latter a wringing wet. The idea of bringing them together in the debate tonight was to procure a public hearing on what the Republican party ought to do about John Barleycorn, if anything.

President Butler argued that the matter of prohibition ought to be left to the states as units, while Senator Borah preached in the main of obedience to the law as written, as the fundamental principle upon which the government rests. They seemed agreed on one thing, which was that the old saloon must not under any circumstances return.

Still Senator Borah thought repeal of the eighteenth amendment would mean the return of the saloon. He said that all the power of the Republican party should be exerted to enforce the eighteenth amendment, declaring it has never had a fair trial. He answered President Butler's argument for local self-government by saying "the wet states can ship wet into dry states but dry states can not ship dry into wet states."

It was all very interesting and even exciting, but it did not produce anything inflamable enough to justify the expressed fear of some pessimistic Republicans that it will disrupt the party.

President Butler had the more lingual finesse at all times but the Idaho Senator is a grizzly bear at rough and tumble talking and he inflicted considerable punishment on the good doctor in spots. Yes, I would say that, take it by and large, the doctor got what you might call a shellacking.

Four Wells On Yates Dome Gauge 9099 Barrels

SAN ANGELO, April 8.—A new high gauge for four wells on the Yates dome in Pecos county, 9,099 barrels in twenty-four hours, was reported today. Deepening of the discovery well twenty-eight feet to 1,033 increased its flow to 95 barrels hourly. Pinched in and reopened it made 160 barrels hourly.

The maximum daily production previously was 440 barrels. All the wells owned by the Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental Oil companies again are shut in pending completion of the Illinois Pipe Line company's twenty-eight mile, six inch line to McCamey, sixteen miles of which has been completed.

She Faces Charge of Forgery After Purchases Here

Charges of forgery were filed against Mrs. P. Miller before Justice of the Peace R. Y. Gwynn Friday afternoon following the woman's arrest on a Dallas bound passenger train by city officers. A collection of fine silk women's wear was found in possession of the woman and was returned to several Wichita Falls stores after identification had been made.

Seven checks ranging from $9 to $25 were cashed by Wichita Falls stores Thursday for a woman who signed her name as Mrs. P. Spencer. Becoming suspicious, merchants notified police and Mrs. Miller was arrested as she was leaving for Dallas.

A man was arrested in a local hotel in connection with the forgeries but charges were not filed on him. The man was arrested by City Detective Luke McCoy as he stepped from the hotel elevator.

The arrests were made by City Detectives Dick Nuzman, Luke McCoy and Officer Stubblefield.

THE GAMEWELL COMPANY
5-Year Record.

It has also established systems for industrial companies, the federal government and foreign cities.

About 90 per cent of the business is in renewals, replacements and new orders from old customers. In June, 1924, the orginal company held 143 live patents. The plant of the concern is at Newton Upper Falls, Mass. About 325 workers are employed. Through a subsidiary the company operated rental units in the midwest.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $964,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par, 60,000 shares of no par common and 1000 shares of no par management stock. The preferred is entitled to exclusive voting rights when the 7 per cent dividends remain unpaid. The common is entitled to $5 a share in any year before anything is paid on the management shares after which it is entitled to as much as is paid on the management shares. The common elect a majority of the directors.

Dividends have been regularly paid on the preferred since formation of the new company. The present rate on the common shares is $1.25 quarterly. As of May 31, 1926, total current assets were $1,-918,906 current liabilities $260,961 and net working capital $1,657,945. As of that date net tangible assets applicable to the common shares amounted to $1,627,543 or $26.98 a share.

Seminole Chalks Up New Peak Of 339,363 Barrels From 322 Wells

TULSA, April 8.—A new peak in production was reached in the greater Seminole pool yesterday when the output of the field reached 339,363 barrels from 322 wells, for the 24 hours ending Thursday morning.

The peak in February was reached on Washington's birthday when 326,000 barrels were produced in a single day. This high mark held good until March 26 when a new peak production jumped to 336,-000 barrels, and now this mark has been eclipsed.

The Carter Oil company is the largest single producer in the field. Its production reached a new peak yesterday when its leases in the greater Seminole reached 78,715 barrels with no new wells. The Gypsy Oil company is the second largest producer with 36,-000 barrels, and the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and the Amerada Petroleum corporation have 23,000 each.

Bowlegs Extended

A new well of the Amerada Petroleum corporation, its No. 6 Rascoe, in the northwest corner of the southwest of northwest of 15-8-6, extends the production area in the Bowlegs well a half a mile to the west. The sand was drilled from 4061 to 4076 feet and the well flowed 2315 barrels, or nearly 200 barrels an hour, in the first 12 hours.

There are from 12 to 15 wells in the Bowlegs pool nearing sand depth, which will probably be completed before the end of April, which will probably hike the production in this pool to around 50,-000 barrels.

The Pure Oil company's No. 1 Aldridge, in the northwest corner of the southeast of northwest of 3-9-3 in the Searight district, which produced 55 barrels an hour from the Hunton lime, has been drilled six feet deeper, or to a total depth of 4109 feet, and the flow has been increased to 100 barrels an hour. The top of the Hunton was 4050 feet.

Wilcox Failure

F. J. Searight's No. 2 Epperson, southeast corner of the southwest of the northeast of 33-10-6, got a hole full of water in the Wilcox sand from 4420 to 4422 feet. This offsets a dry hole to the north and is a northwest diagonal offset to the discovery well in the pool.

The Tidal-Osage company's No. 2 A. Fixico, in the northeast corner of the southeast of northwest of 26-9-6, has 2500 feet of oil in the hole. It is 13 feet in the Wilcox sand which has been drilled to a total depth of 4143 feet. It will probably be shot and put on air.

The Tidal-Osage company's No. 8 Harjo, in the northwest corner of the southwest of southeast of 23-9-6, has drilled the Wilcox sand from 4125 to 4175 feet, and is making 500 barrels.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on a moderate volume of buying which appeared to be inspired by continued unsettled weather conditions in central belt sections. July contracts sold up to 14.37, or 10 points net higher, and closed at 14.36, the general market closing steady at net advances of eight to 11 points.

Early trading was quiet. The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of six points, and prices fluctuated within a rane of five or six points during the afternoon.

Later, buying became a little more active, coming partly from Wall Street or commission house sources, and prices reached the highest levels of the day in late trading.

Reports that recent rains had increased the danger of further overflows in the Mississippi valley, no doubt, helped the advance which extended to 14.38 for May and 14.61 for October, or about nine to 12 points above yesterday's closing quotations on active positions. Last prices were within a point or two of the top.

Very little southern selling was reported here at any time during the day and except for realizing by recent buyers, offerings were scarce. This naturally left the market sensitive to buying orders, and it did not require very active demand to cause the advance in late trading. Reports of a good tone in the late stock market may have been a contributing factor, and there was some bullish comment on the week-end figures, but the buying was attributed chiefly to the absence of selling pressure from the south and a feeling that the delays reported in farm work in overflowed or wet sections of the belt were becoming more important with the advance of the season.

The world's visible supply of American cotton, according to the figures of the New York cotton exchange, showed a decrease of 131,024 bales for the week against a decrease of 117,975 yast year.

Private cables reported hedging and Bombay selling in the Liverpool market, but said there had been further sales of cotton cloths to South America and that fair clearances were reported at the Shanghai auctions.

Port receipts today 24,749. U. S. port stocks 2,382,558. Exports today 13,296, making 9,064,670 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 8. (AP)—The cotton market moved upward today under the influence of rainy weather in the belt and the high water stage of the Mississippi, attaining net gains for the day of nine to 12 points before the gong.

Opening gains of four to five points were recorded despite fact that liverpool cables were only about as due. Prices continued to gain in early trading until May traded at 14.18, July 14.28 and October 14.47, six to eight points above the previous close.

Later the market was quiet and trading was within the early range until about mid-session when July made a new high at 14.34, or eight points above the previous close. Other months, influenced by bullish mill takings of 395,000 bales for the week, duplicated the early highs.

Mill takings, large exports of the week unfavorable weather and flood news stimulated trading in the latter part of the session and all months made new highs with May at 14.31, July 14.37 and October 14.51, 10 to 12 points above the previous close. The close was at the top.

Exports for the day were 9256 bales, for the week 216,309 bales.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—The market for cotton seed oil was very quiet today and in consequence price changes were irregular, being influenced rather easily by small orders either way. The April position closed ten points higher on covering, June was up one point largely in sympathy, while the late months were two to four lower under moderate liquidation and an absence of demand, as buyers were inclined to await developments. Sales 1900 barrels. Prime crude 7.50; prime summed yellow spot 9.00; May closed 9.13; July 9.29; September 9.52; October 9.40; November 9.26.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—The stock market developed pronounced irregularity today, the continued flow of investment funds into seasoned dividend paying securities being offset by the renewed weakness of a number of shares of companies where the trade outlook is not very promising. Higher money rates and a slackening in steel mill operations had a dampening effect on bullish enthusiasm, although some new leaders were brought forward in both the rail and industrial groups.

The weekly mercantile reviews again called attention to irregularities in business, but stressed such favorable factors as the stability of commodity prices, record-breaking freight traffic and increased chain store sales. Both bank clearings and bank debits ran above the corresponding week last year, due to unusually heavy April 1 settlements.

A compilation of February earnings of class one roads by the bureau of railway economics shows aggregate net railway operating income of $70,045,386, as against $65,571,761 in February, 1926. Based on the roads' own valuation of their property investment, February, 1927, figures are equivalent to a return of 4.82 per cent, as against 4.58 per cent last year.

General Motors, which crossed 184 for the first time, led another long list of new high records made in a quiet ground were Commercial Solvents B, Freeport Texas, American Water Works, Consolidated Textile, Hudson and Manhattan preferred and Reynolds Tobacco B.

New York Central was again the leader in the rail group, crossing 151 to the highest level in nearly 25 years. Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Kansas City Southern, St. Louis-Southwestern and Denver and Rio Grande Western preferred also reached new high ground. While recent wage increases are expected to cut heavily into the net earnings of some roads, the October or about nine to 12 points above yesterday's closing quotations on active positions. Last prices were within a point or two of the top.

Very little southern selling was reported here at any time during the day and except for realizing by recent buyers, offerings were scarce. TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—Wheat was down a fraction on Friday's grain market. The government report on grain conditions throughout the country was due Friday afternoon late and dealers generally awaited the estimate.

Oats ruled narrow but firm, taking their strength from reports of green bug damage and unfavorable news as regards delayed corn planting.

Suspension of farm work due to heavy rains in the corn belt wrought uneasiness among the shorts in corn.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Well grounded assumptions that the United States government crop report this afternoon might contain surprise rallied wheat today from an early setback. The official estimate of the condition of winter wheat, 34.5 per cent, turned out to be higher than expected. Wheat closed net settled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c lower, corn ¼c to ⅛c up, oats at ⅛c decline to an equal advance, and provisions varying from 10 cents drop to a rise of 5c.

Corn owed its strength largely to expectance that 1,441,000 bushels now afloat here will be moved out in the next few days. Other conditions favoring seeding tended to steady the oats market. Purchandise of more than a million cars weekly bears continued testimony to the large volume of general trade. Supporting these favorable features are the high totals of bank clearings at various centers, ease in money rates, larger dividends by some corporations, the comparative smallness of stocks of goods in most channels, and certain other elements which cannot be regarded as other than encouraging.

Weekly bank clearings $10,611,424,000, an increase of 10.9 per cent over last year.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Wheat: No. 1 red $1.35½; No. 2 red, $1.34½.

Corn: No. 3 mixed 69½@70c; No. 2 yellow 75½c.

Oats: No. 2 white, 46@46½c; No. 3 white 45½@46c.

KANSAS CASH GRAIN.

KANSAS CITY, April 8. (AP)—Wheat: No. 2 hard $1.25½@1.44½; No. 2 red $1.21@1.22; old $1.37½; May, new $1.21; July $1.19½.

Corn: No. 2 white, 71@71½c; No. 2 yellow 75@76½c. No. 2 mixed 71@73c; May 71½c; July 70½c; Sept. 79½c.

Oats: No. 2 white, 45½@46½c; No. 3, 45½@47c.

TEXAS WOOL PRICES.

BOSTON, April 8. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The wool market is narrow and featureless at the moment and prices are inclined to favor the buyer slightly.

Foreign markets are less active.

In the west, apparently quiet, except for a few small clippings in Nevada at 28 to 30 cents for short combing fine and fine medium wools. Continued cold rains have delayed early shearing two to three weeks in many sections.

Mohair is quoted. Some hair is reported sold in Texas at Uvalde at 52 cents for goat and 62 cents for kid. Wool quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months selected $1.05@1.10; fine 8 months $1@98c.

WHEAT TRADE ACTS QUIETLY

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Lack of new developments in the crop or export situation, plus the disposition to go slow pending publication of the official crop figures on winter wheat, tended to make a quiet wheat trade in the local market today. Prices made a good recovery from the early level but finished at slight declines. Corn met with good local support and made a net advance for the day. Oats were practically steady and rye was irregular.

May wheat opened at $1.34¼@1.34⅝, dropped to $1.33⅝, rallied to $1.34⅝ and closed at $1.34⅛@1.34⅜. July opened at $1.28@1.28¼, sold off to $1.27⅞, rallied to $1.28 and closed at $1.28¼@1.28⅝. Most of the pressure was in the July delivery, while shorts took May wheat and there was some evidence of local accumulation.

Export sales of wheat were estimated at 400,000 bushels, including winter, durum and Canadian wheat. Private Continental cables reported large business there in new crop winter wheat for July, August, September, October and November shipment. The premium was said to be about 8½c over July price and in some quarters this was taken as indicating confidence in values on the part of foreign buyers at around present levels.

Locally, wheat closed ⅛@⅜c lower, corn ⅛@⅜c lower, oats ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher and rye ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher.

Tone of the cash market was firm and there was some improvement in the amount of local interest displayed. Outside trade remains small. Prices were easier at the outset in sympathy with a decline in July, but there was no important selling and the market soon rallied. Subsequently it made a substantial advance. There was evidence of buying of corn by some of the strong local interests and this induced a number of shorts to cover.

Oats trade was dull and featureless. Moderate buying by shorts and cash interests was satisfied by local selling.

Rye futures were easier.

COURT RULES ON TAX CASE

Government Loses In Attempt To Collect Excess Fee

An excess profits tax is not collectable from a corporation after profits have been distributed to individuals who have paid an income tax on the profit receipts, Judge William H. Atwell ruled Friday in federal court in the case of the United States government versus S. W. Sibley, and others.

Mr. Sibley, now a resident of Dallas, but formerly of Wichita Falls, during his residence here was one of the officials and a large stockholder in the Thrift Oil and Gas company which acquired a 40-acre tract of land in the northwestern Burkburnett oil field for $50,000.

Discovery of oil on the tract of land increased its value to $1,000,000, at which figure it was sold by the oil company. After the sale the corporation was dissolved and the profits distributed among the stockholders, who paid an income tax on the profits.

The government attaorneys held that the officials and stockholders of the company were liable for the payment of an excess profit on $132,000. The defendant's attorneys contended that the income tax payment by the stockholders was sufficient, which contention was upheld by Judge Atwell.

Strand: "Don Mike," with Fred Thompson; comedy and Kinograms.

Gem: Roy Stewart in "With General Custer at Little Big Horn," and comedy.

Garden: "The Rambling Galoot," a Buddy Roosevelt western; No. 9 of "The Firefighters," and Fable comedy.

A picture arrives at the Majestic today which holds promise of being one of the season's best. Those who've seen it in out-of-town showings have given the film high praise and it arrives wrapped in a blanket of "ohs" and "ahs."

"Children of Divorce," Frank Lloyd's new Paramount production, offers much to the cinema connoisseur. The cast alone is one to excite admiration. Two of filmdom's most beautiful actresses, Clara Bow and Esther Ralston, are starred. Miss Bow first leaped across the starry firmament in "The Plastic Age," but it wasn't until "Dancing Mothers" and "Mantrap" that her real ability was recognized. "It" sent Clara off to a flying start as a star in her own right. As for Esther Ralston, optimization of all that is regal and queenly, her reputation started gathering momentum as the young mother in "Peter Pan." Richard Dix's leading woman in "Womanhandled," "The Lucky Devil" and "The Quarterback," she won the hearts of all moviegoers.

As Kitty Flanders and Jean Waddington, both players are said to do their very best work.

Kitty and Jean first meet in a convent as 'children of divorce." All four parents have gone their own separate ways. The tragic mistake her father and mother have made with their lives makes a deep impression on Jean and she resolves never to marry until she is sure the right man presents himself.

Ten years later, Ted Larrabee, a handsome youth whom Jean loves dearly, proposes. Wishing to test him out, Jean withholds her answer until he has actually made good. Realizing her motives Ted engages in practice as an engineer. Everything goes along smoothly until the eventful afternoon oo which Ted enters his office to find it transformed into a bedlam of jazz by Kitty and her wild friends. After the first hour, Ted forgets his vows and again becomes one of the gang. Next morning he finds Kitty in his room and a wedding ring on her hand. They are now husband and wife!

That's the start of "Children of Divorce." Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are featured. Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton scenarized Owen Johnson's novel.

Clara Bow as the jazzing flapper, a role which she plays with such success, in "Children of Divorce," showing at the Majestic theater today.

Seats will be placed in sale at the box office of the Palace theater, Saturday morning for the coming two day engagement of "Beau Geste", the Herbert Brenon Paramount film which is to have its first showing at the Palace April 11 and 12.

"Beau Geste" depicts two sides of life in the French Foreign Legion. The thrills of love, courage, self-sacrifice and wild-adventure predominate and the terrible realities of death, disease, dirt, heat and utter weariness are apparent enough to show why "le cafard" (desert madness) is common.

In his right mind the legionnaire will not attempt desertion. His chances of complete escape are so small to almost suicidal. Lack of water, the heat and wandering bands of hostile Touaregs make the undertaking too hazardous. But many afflicted with "le cafard" attempt it.

Two deserters, dying of thirst, are dragged back to camp by scorch parties in "Beau Geste". After clemency has been recommended, "Sergeant Lejaune", played by Noah Beery, does not force them to face a firing squad but with whip and lash drives them back into the desert, without a drop of water, to certain death.

Hamilton Urges Wichita Residents To Open Homes to C.-C. Delegates Here

The parade to be held in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention will take two hours to pass the reviewing stand, W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the convention committee, said Friday in an address delivered at the business council luncheon held in the Kemp hotel.

Eighty bands will be in the parade, Mr. Hamilton said, in addition to several thousand delegates to the convention.

Mr. Hamilton outlined the program for the convention, which will be held May 16 and 17. Out of town laymen will occupy the pulpits of Wichita Falls churches on Sunday, May 15, the day before the convention officially opens. United States Senator Norris Sheppard will make an address Sunday afternoon. A choral club contest, under the direction of Mayor R. E. Shepherd will be held Sunday night.

Three Governors Here

The business section of the convention will open Monday morning with addresses by officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hamilton said. Governor Moody, Governor Johnston of Oklahoma, and Governor Dillon of New Mexico, will deliver addresses Monday afternoon.

Monday night the Congress of Nations pageant will be held in Spudder park in addition to a large fireworks display, Mr. Hamilton said. The formal dance for the convention will be held Monday night in the Country club. Other dances will be held in the Kemp hotel and the convention tent, at Scott and 12th streets.

A band contest, in which 8 bands will participate, will be held Tuesday morning and $5000 in prizes awarded. An address by James A. Davis, secretary of labor, will be made Tuesday afternoon.

Accomodations Needed

The outstanding problem now facing the convention committee, Mr. Hamilton said, was the finding of accomodations for the thousands of delegates to the convention. He pleaded for the co-operation of the owners of homes in the city and asked them to rent one or two rooms to visitors during the convention. The convention committee has arranged with the Pullman company to have 200 Pullman cars in Wichita Falls during the convention. Berths in these cars will be allotted to delegates.

William E. Herren of the National Association of Real Estate boards, during an address made to those attending the luncheon said the subdivisions of real estate in Wichita Falls would be a credit to cities many times its size. He advocated the removal of unsightly signs on business streets of the city. Mr. Herren predicted a better business year for real estate dealers in 1927 than in 1926, the best year in the history of the National association.

In a short address Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, said that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention would finance itself and that the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce would not have to expend any of its funds. Sales of registration badges is expected to enrich the convention treasury to the extent of $12,500.

Theaters Commended

Mr. Harrison reported that during May the following state conventions would be held in Wichita Falls: Knights of Pythias, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Federation of Labor, State Association of Postmasters, Catholic Ladies of Texas and the Eagles.

J. D. Bright, on a committee appointed by the council to investigate the quality of motion pictures exhibited in Wichita Falls, reported that the committee had unanimously come to the conclusion that Wichita Falls was receiving the best quality of motion pictures and that the theater managers were exhibiting the pictures just as soon as they could book the presentations.

HILL IMPROVING

Wounded Man Apparently Gaining In Fight For Life

Elmer E. Hill was apparently gaining ground Friday night in his fight for life as the result of being shot in the left lung while fleeing from Deputy Sheriff Cliff Keirsey Wednesday morning after Keirsey had arrested him on a charge of adultery. Attendants at the Clinic hospital reported Friday that Hill was "some better."

The improvement in his condition was credited to an "auto blood transfusion" made Friday. Blood collected in one lung was returned to arteries in Hills body by the transfusion, it was said.

Mr. Keirsey was charged with assault with intent to murder following the shooting and made $2000 bond.

CASH ON DELIVERY.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—There may be gold in the Tonopah-Weepah field, or there may not. Carl Ericksen of Northampton, knows an easier way to get rich. Driving through the northern part of New York state near the Canadian line, Erickson ran out of gas. He hailed a passing truck, seeking to borrow enough fuel to take him to the nearest village and a gas station. The truck driver looked Erickson over, clowed down, threw a fat envelope in Ericksen's direction, and sped on. In the envelope was $200 in bills, and Ericksen is working round to the belief that the stuff marked "eggs" carried in cases on the truck was not eggs at all, but another necessary ingredient for the manufacture of a rum omelet.

A Conception That's More Than Just A Definition

There are a good many definitions of the word "service."

In this bank, we aren't so much concerned with what the dictionary might say. Our conception of the term is that it includes everything that helps to do business profitably. And we render it in that spirit.

Have you noticed MY two new gasoline pumps? I got tired of borrowing. (The others also gave you too much for your money). As in the past, I will continue to handle only high test gasoline, the best of oils, tires and automobiles. I know that my customers want the best as they realize that the best is the cheapest. I don't expect to sell all the tires and automobiles in town, but I do expect, and will give you one hundred cents in value for every dollar you spend with me. If you are one of my customers you know this; if you are not, come around and see for yourself.
