Harold Norrell Better

Floydada farmer Harold Norrell has regained consciousness, but now has the problem of pneumonia, it was reported Friday morning.

Harold is in Methodist Hospital intensive care. A Caprock Hospital doctor said if Harold had arrived at the hospital five minutes later after the granary fell on him, he would have died because both lungs had collapsed and his heart had stopped beating.

He is not able to talk, but has written notes to the family.

Cotton Incorporated, the fiber research and marketing company of U.S. cotton growers.

While there are some uncertainties, several important signs point to another good year for most cotton producers, said David M. Cox, Cotton Incorporated vice president for economic research and development.

He said these signs include:

-An improving U.S. economy after the first quarter of the year.

-A continued rise in demand for cotton, both domestically and around the world.

-Tight world cotton supplies moving into the new cotton year.

Because of the severely harsh winter over much of the country, the pace of U.S. economic growth will be much slower in the first quarter than had been expected, Cox said.

However, he added, "Prospects for the remainder of the year look promising. As the weather improves, industrial production is expected to recover sharply as inventories are replenished. Retailers are optimistic about 1977 in total, as are automobile manufacturers and home builders.

"There are some clouds in the domestic business climate for 1977—lingering unemployment, high energy costs and inflation—but the economy is expected to move ahead as the grip of winter lessens after the first quarter," Cox said.

M. Daniel Troxler, Cotton Incorporated associate director of demand economics, said the U.S. textile industry expects to be operating at higher production levels during the last half of 1977 as compared to the first six months.

"Projected increases in housing starts and automobile sales are promising signals for improved demand for home furnishings and industrial fabrics," Troxler pointed out. "Increased retail sales are expected during the last half of 1977, and this will soon stimulate textile production."

Troxler said that as the tempo of business quickens, demand for cotton will increase.

"Consumer demand for cotton was strong throughout 1976, and indications are that cotton continues to have the consumer's eye," he said. "Denim sales remain very good and corduroy is expected to have a banner year. Anticipated increased demand for home furnishings and industrial fabric, if realized, will add to cotton demand in 1977-78."

Therefore, Troxler said, domestic mill use of U.S. cotton in 1977-78 is expected to bounce back to above seven million bales after dropping to an annual rate of 6.7 million bales in the first 26 weeks of 1976-77 because of the retail sales slump last spring and summer.

Demand for exports of U.S. cotton could top 4.5 million bales again, Troxler said, he pointed out that world cotton stocks are expected to reach a record low on August 1, 1977, and that while foreign cotton production will increase, so will consumption.

"The gap between foreign production and consumption will be narrowed but not eliminated," Troxler said. "There also will be the need to increase stocks above the rock-bottom low levels."

Troxler said foreign cotton use in 1977-78 could set a new record of 55 to 56 million bales barring an unlikely major world recession. This would represent a gain of as much as two million bales over 1976-77 estimates.

The world cotton carryover probably will be up at the end of the cotton year on August 1, 1978, "but only slightly," Troxler said.

When it comes to U.S. cotton production, the outlook is clouded with some uncertainty, partly because of the prolonged drought in California.

"Many observers believe plantings in California will be less than last year's 1,130,000 acres" noted David M. Jordening, Cotton Incorporated associate director of supply economics.

Referring to the planting intentions report released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in January, Jordening said the California growers' expressed intentions of increasing plantings by 300,000 acres, or 24 per cent, "appear to have dried up right along with the reservoirs."

Jordening said it is unlikely that producers in the Mid-South or Southeast will pick up that slack because their principal alternative, soybeans is just too attractive.

Cotton, he said, will be planted only on the best cotton land in those areas, with the rest going to soybeans. As a result, he said, "the combined acreage devoted to cotton in the Mid-South and Southeast is likely to be under last year's acreage."

Jordening noted that almost 70 per cent of the prospective increase in U.S. cotton plantings expressed on the January report is in the Southwest.

"With such a large increase already, it's not likely the Southwest can fill the void left by the possible reductions in California, the Mid-South and the Southeast," he said.

All factors considered, he said, U.S. planting prospects at this time may be about 12.5 million acres, down from the 12.8 million acres expressed in the January intentions report.

This is for women who, besides fulfilling the time honored roles of mother and homemaker, have distinguished themselves by outstanding business, professional, or volunteer services.

Members discussed the value of compiling a booklet or package containing letters from members which tell why they like living in Lockney, stressing the advantages of a small community. WOODWORK

ARE YOU aware that the color of your dress, or shirt, or car or maybe even your home tips off the psychologists on what type of person you are? That's what we're told by articles we have read, and we find this interesting, but not too alarming, since the number of psychologists who drive down Jean Street looking for color clues from houses and cars parked outside is not too great.

A Swiss researcher has suggested that one who prefers blue might have a need for inner peace and harmony; black could mean a revolt against one's fate; brown might indicate a longing for physical ease; orange could represent a strong desire to achieve success.

All of this is according to an article in Friends, the Chevrolet magazine, which goes on to say this doesn't necessarily mean you should dump your old grey car for fear the neighbors conclude you're a non-involved type who wants to wall everything off.

The article says these days a well-adjusted person is expected to respond to a much broader range of colors than he or she would have a decade or so ago.

Well, we have several vehicles of various colors, mostly dirty, and I doubt that most of my neighbors give a flip about my innermost neuroses, so long as I leave them alone, although they'd probably like for us to get rid of some of those cars.

As a matter of fact, when I think about it, we have vehicles of so many colors, they probably reflect accurately all of those things mentioned above. (I need love, I need physical ease, I need peace and harmony, I need success, I need a new car).

A few weeks ago, I repainted our piano a bright red, not realizing at the time that it might provide somebody with a clue to my personality. As I was painting it out in the garage, one of our daughters said it looked awful. One wise guy, who is in the insurance business here, stopped his car and asked me if I were going to open up a bar somewhere. The piano tuner said later he thought it looked nice (I hadn't paid him yet). Admittedly it does kind of grab your attention when you go into our living room. But so far no psychologists have entered our home to exclaim, "Aha! Someone here has a lot of wild, repressed passion!" Actually, it was just a sale on red paint.

Anyway, it's interesting to know that those colors could mean something. We already had figured that chartreuse on a car means something. It means the buyer is color blind.

To Contest Winners

An all-expense-paid Rural Electric Youth Tour to the Nation's capital will be awarded to two winners of an oratorical contest sponsored by Lighthouse Electric Cooperative.

Anyone 16 but not 18 in the area served by Lighthouse Electric Cooperative are eligible to enter the contest. Winners will join winners of similar contests sponsored by other electric cooperatives across Texas. All expenses on the 12-day trip, beginning June 9, will be paid by Lighthouse Electric Cooperative.

Contest entrants will be required to give a 5 to 8 minute speech on the subject "Rural Electric Cooperatives and Energy Conservation." Resource materials that may be helpful to contestants are available from the cooperative office and from each high school office and library.

Deadline for submitting entry blanks is Friday, March 18. Each school will hold a contest to select a boy and girl to represent their school in the final contest on March 28 at the Lighthouse office.

This is the 13th year that Lighthouse Electric Cooperative has sponsored an oratorical contest. Winners last year were Sharon Slough and Mike Bean.

As participants in the Youth tour, local contest winners will travel by bus to Washington, D.C. where they will spend 3 days visiting places of historical interest and seeing the Nation's "Government in Action."

Approximately 1000 Youth Tour participants from across the Nation will meet during the week for a special program coordinated by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. The program will feature Congressional leaders and high government officials, a visit to the White House and a fun-filled "shindig" will highlight the day's events.

changed our... still the Boy Scouts of America," says the Council in renumeration in several misleading news stories. President, Bob Bouse, Scout Executive of the South Plains Council, said emphatically that the Boy Scouts of America had not changed the BSA's new communication using the BSA/USA, which is only reported as one of the 67 years of the BSA.

appropriately reflect the current broadened scope of the Boy Scouts of America.

Use of the Scouting/USA symbol began last summer, but full implementation is expected to take several years, according to Bob Bouse, Scout Executive of the South Plains Council.

The traditional fleur-de-lis of Scouting will continue in a modernized form, Bouse explained, but badges and insignia denoting advancement and office will not be changed, also not changing will be the three symbols for the Cub Scout, Scout, and Explorer phases of the total BSA program.

The "new look" for Scouting/USA will help clear up confusion related to the youth and adult leaders Scouting is committed to serve, according to the findings of a five-year study.

Dunbar explained that Scouting serves young men and women as well as boys, and that the word "boy" was dropped from the Scout phase of the program several years ago. This was not because of any pressure from minorities or women's groups. Surveys showed that the young men themselves did not like to be called boys.

Scouting/USA was selected as the BSA's communicative name because women are now serving as volunteers and professionals and have full membership in the Exploring program. Also, there has been a need to identify Scouting with the United States of America because the organization does not serve youth in CUSTOMARY GOODBYE when the man of the house goes to work mornings has lost out to a rigid new schedule since the Carter family moved to Washington. The President's days now start with a 5:30 a.m. wake-up telephone call and he is up and away before his wife awakens.

Food, Fiber Close-at-Hand

You can depend on a fresh, close-at-hand supply of food and fiber the year round in Texas. Each year, an increasing portion of the two and one half tons of food consumed by you and your family is being produced within this state where each farmer can now grow enough to feed himself and 52 others. That's a big increase over 30 years ago when the average farmer produced enough food and fiber to supply ten people, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Farmers Union Calls For Full Parity

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS - Texas delegates at the National Farmers Union Convention in San Antonio are in full support of continuing the general farm organization's goal of a farm program centered around 100% of parity.

The committee which drafted the preliminary policy outline for delegate adoption surprised many by calling for a policy which would seek an immediate loan rate at 75% of parity for all commodities. That move would deviate from the traditional stand of Farmers Union which calls for full parity prices.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The
TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

Texas To Get Its Share... Cheep, Cheep... Harvest Increases.

Texas is expected to share liberally in the anticipated farm exports for fiscal year 1977 (October 1976 to September 1977).

The value of U.S. agricultural exports is expected to exceed $23 billion. Texas is now third in the nation in total value of farm exports with more than $1.5 billion. Illinois and Iowa are in first and second place respectively.

Texas exports one-fourth of all U.S. cotton; the state is also a major exporter of grain sorghum as well as hides and skins, cottonseed oil, fruits, vegetables, and meats.

The increased value of exports is expected to reflect higher prices for oilseeds and oilseed products and significant increases in natural fibers, many animal products, and fruits and nuts and vegetables.

However, lower grain prices are in prospect for this fiscal year. The wheat export unit value is expected to drop about a fifth from the past fiscal year. Corn prices may average about 10 per cent lower. Soybean and oilmeal prices may show an increase of about a third.

U.S. exports are now forecast at $23.2 billion; imports are now estimated at $13.4 billion. This would leave an agricultural trade balance of $9.8 billion.

EGG PRODUCTION in Texas during January was up three per cent compared to a month ago and a year ago, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

However, broiler production in the state was down four per cent compared to a year ago.

Turkey poult production was down 15 per cent from a year ago.

WHILE MOST FARMERS in the state are making plans for spring planting, producers in the Rio Grande Valley are busy with vegetable harvest.

Carrot, cabbage and lettuce harvest activity increased in the Valley as dry weather brought about improved field conditions. Harvest of early oranges is virtually completed and picking of grapefruit gains momentum.

In the Eagle Pass area, harvest of broccoli, spinach, and cabbage remains active.

Sugarcane harvesting is about three months behind schedule in the southern part of the state due to wet weather.

Cotton planting in the southern sections has also been delayed by too much rain. But wherever possible, Texas farmers are now engaged in spring planting activities.

The provision for a lower support level is intended to urge the administration to move immediately with some kind of program which would offset current market prices which are, in respect to production costs, the lowest since the Depression. Proponents of the target program say it would be a first step in attaining the long range goal of full parity.

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco says he concurs with the Texas delegation that "We should continue to support the traditional position of National Farmers Union in calling for full parity prices on all farm commodities." Naman says that such a target goal would only be a "duplication of the long term program." Texas delegates feel that the fight for 100% of parity is not lost and efforts to seek an immediate program within the "realm of possibility" is only a compromise of what farmers deserve.

Fish planned for private stocking include one million native largemouth bass, one million channel catfish and 465,000 hybrid sunfish.

Over 31.5 million fish were produced or procured for stocking in Texas last year but, even with this influx of fish, fishing license sales were down some $210,000.

The fish stocking program is financed thru license sales and the expiration date of fishing licenses could be affecting this drop. Many anglers are carrying fishing licenses which have expired. The fishing license is good for one year from date of purchase. Only the hunting or hunting-fishing combination license is good from Sept. 1 thru August 31 of each year.

Fish And License Sales

Tally Differs

LUBBOCK - Texas anglers have been buying fewer licenses but the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is planning to stock 24 million more fish across Texas in 1977.

The P&WD fish hatcheries and fisheries personnel, all financed by license sales, will be busy this spring procuring or producing the fish for both public and private waters.

Some 21.7 million fish will be stocked in public waters, lakes and waterways and another 2.5 million fish will be put aside for private stocking.

Fish production for 1977 will include 1.5 million striped bass, four million Florida bass, 700,000 smallmouth bass, 637,000 blue catfish, 228,000 channel catfish, 14 million walleye, 31,000 flathead, and 128,000 sunfish. Many of the walleye will be secured from out-of-state sources. P&WD biologists hope to supplement this number of walleye with several million native walleye eggs obtained from Texas lakes.

All fish will be fingerling size with the exception of the walleye, which are normally stocked as smaller fry due to the limited hatchery space.

P&WD hatcheries slated to be used to produce fish include Possum Kingdom, San Angelo numbers one and two, Dundee, Eagle Mountain, Lewisville, Tyler, Huntsville, San Marcus, Jasper, Olmito, and Fort Worth.

Beef is aged to develop additional tenderness and characteristic flavor. Aging requires special conditions. Aged beef means that the beef is held at temperatures 34-38 degrees F. for three to six weeks or held for two days at about 70 degrees F. Ultraviolet light is used to reduce bacterial growth in the second method, explains Mrs. Mary Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Congress created OSHA, EPA and their heavy-handed regulations will be the message going to the Plains Cotton organization continues to battle against unreasonable regulations and PCG officials point out that the Administration (OSHA) is proposing for cotton processing plants of Environmental Protection Agency response to petitioners wanting a 200, and Benzac, pre-emergence cotton and soybean production.

"Other regulations and agricultural economy are already inevitable unless Congress acts," Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President, said.

"So long as OSHA and EPA have virtually unbridled authority they will continue to impose economic effects before regulations are to work with officials of these agencies their hearings and do whatever we can to stop their actions."

But these at best are only stopgap measures. "What is needed," he says, "is legislation that will have economic effects before regulations are to work with officials of these agencies their hearings and do whatever we can to stop their actions."

A step has been taken in this direction. Garza of Texas' 15th District, has introduced legislation that would require all Federal agencies to the appropriate committee. Garza, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, is receiving broad support for his bill. A resolution recently adopted by the Ginners Association of Lubbock promotes agriculture and other industry leadership.

It reads "Whereas American business regulations flowing from Federal misguiding regulations confuse, bewilder the mind before they take you under whereas the surviving business concern relief and resuscitation, be it resolved, Honorable Kika de la Garza, for his

NEWS & REVIEWS

First Baptist Church Library/Media Center

Why do so many Christians remain Biblical illiterates? There are many reasons. When Dr. Curtis Vaughn was here in February conducting the Bible study on the book of Romans, he made several good suggestions about beginning a rewarding program of Bible study. The first step is to set a specific time aside each day and not allow anything else to crowd it out. Next to the specific time, it is most important to have a certain place so that your Bible study tools may be kept close and conveniently at hand. We suggest that you check out several different Bible reference books, concordances, dictionaries and commentaries from the church library. Try several different types and authors. When you have found the one that you enjoy using, it would be a good idea to purchase your own copy for a permanent study center at home. This is also a good way to select from the many translations of the Bible.

In your study area consider keeping a cassette recorder so that you may enrich your study with tapes from great Bible teachers. This series of tapes of Dr. Vaughn on the book of Romans is excellent. We also have a tape by Dr. Jack MacGorman on Romans. The study book that did not arrive in time for the February meeting is now in the Church Office for those of you who wanted to purchase them. Also there are many other books and commentaries about the book of Romans. This would be a good starting place for in-depth daily Bible study.

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF BIBLE CREATURES is a translation of a Danish book in which the authors name every creature mentioned in the most popular versions of the Bible. In each entry the creature's appearance and habits are described to illuminate the biblical stories and sayings in which the creature plays a role. This book has a light and often humorous approach to these "animals" and we think you will enjoy it.

The first question asked as the family returns from church is likely to be "What's for dinner?" Phillis Prokop's SUNDAY DINNER COOKBOOK is a collection of family tested and easy to prepare recipes that serve four to six people. The emphasis is on things that can be prepared ahead of time. It includes main dishes, desserts, vegetables and snacks along with time-saving hints.

Beautiful color illustrations along with information about the habits of one of our most colorful insect families make BUTTERFLIES & MOTHS by Crescent Books a delight to the eye. Knowing something about the habits of these creatures might be helpful if you find an infestation in your yard of some of the damaging species...also the clear illustrations will help you identify the culprit.

Honey Drops
27 Per Cent

AUSTIN--Both natural and man-made problems contributed to the 27 per cent drop in Texas honey production in 1976, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

"Bees were late in stirring due to the cool, wet spring in the state last year, while the extremely dry summer greatly diminished blooms available to the insects," White explained.

Flyer Right

Flying a kite is fun for your children. Remember that there are strings attached. Teach your children the basic rules to your children. They will be flying safer and as much fun as it is.

1. Always use dry string... never wire or metal.
2. Use only wood and paper in your kite... never use glass or plastic.
3. Fly your kite on days when there is no rain or snow.
4. Fly your kite out in the open, safely away from radio and tv antennas.
5. Avoid busy streets and highways when flying.
6. If your kite gets snagged in a power line or in a power line, do not pull the string or climb the tower. Call your power company for advice.
7. Keep away from fallen wires.

Kite flying is child's play. Just be sure they play it right.

MATADOR (Sp) — Motley County has received approval from the South Plains Association of Governments for a federal grant of $51,550 for the legal expenses of two men charged in the shooting death of Sheriff Jalmar "Jinks" Wilson.

The grant application has been sent to an advisory committee which will forward it to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for his approval.

The application is the second of its type filed in Texas. It was filed by Motley County because its low income levels has placed it in the poverty bracket and 40 per cent of the county population is above age 60.

Officials say Motley County citizens would have to pay costs of the legal process for the two men through an increase in taxes should the grant not be approved.

Stacy Albert Carter, 25, of Olivia, V.C., and Larry Cornell Fortenberry, 28, of Mount Hermon, La., were both reindicted Monday by a special grand jury here on charges of capital murder in connection with the death of Wilson on Nov. 13, 1976.

Fortenberry and Carter are also indicted for the attempted murder of John Dee Rogers of Matador, who was with Wilson when the shooting occurred.

Bond was set at $100,000. Carter remains in Lubbock County jail in lieu of the bond and Fortenberry remains in Hale County jail.

Judge George W. Miller of 110th District Court set March 21 for the pretrial hearing. Two Lubbock attorneys have been appointed to represent Carter and two attorneys at Plainview have been appointed to represent Fortenberry.

Carter and Fortenberry were originally indicted for the crimes Nov. 30 by a grand jury here.

The two men were arrested by a highway patrolman about 8 miles northeast of Crosbyton less than two hours after Wilson was shot.

Sheriff Wilson was gunned down 3 miles east of Matador on U.S. 70.

PUBLIC WORKS MONIES FOR TEXAS—More federal money for public works programs should soon be available to Texas, says a resource development specialist with the Texas

The Floyd County Hesperian Agricultural Extension Service. An additional $120 million should become available to Texas cities and other public entities that have unemployment greater than 6.5 per cent. Texas already received some $60 million from the Economic Development Administration in January that funded public works programs in 59 Texas cities, counties and special districts.

NEW 4-H SPECIALIST Mrs. Alma B. Bullard has been named to the position of 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. She will be headquartered at Texas A&M University and will be responsible for planning, executing, and evaluating 4-H and youth development programs in Extension Districts 3, 4, 5, 8 and 11.
