Ask Us

Q—Why can the police confiscate a cap pistol and not a BB gun or pellet gun?

A—According to police, if any object is being used in violation of city ordinance or state law, or in instances where there is a possibility of danger to personel safety or property, items may be seized by police as evidence. It does not matter whether the item is a cap pistol, BB gun, pellet gun or anything else.

Vote 'no, yes, no,' Hasie says

Officials disagree on school funding amendments

By KIM MAY
SDN Staff Writer

If the upcoming school finance election is confusing to some, definite opinions on how to vote were expressed Monday by a State Board of Education representative.

Monte Hasie, District 15 representative to the board, told a turnout of 40 people in Ira on Monday to vote "no, yes, no" on the three propositions to amend the state constitution.

Hasie said that by passing Proposition 1, the Legislature "merely wants to legalize what it was already doing illegally." He said if it passes, it will allow the Legislature to set local tax rates and the authority will be taken away from local school boards.

"Proposition 1 legalizes the County Education Districts (CEDs) and allows the Legislature as well as local school districts to set a minimum tax rate and a top on ad valorem taxes," Hasie said. "I will vote against it. I believe if the actual effects of enabling legislation were available to the voters, this proposition would have no chance," he added.

"In addition, one of the proposed bills designated 37 school districts across the state to share their wealth statewide. Twenty-five of those were in West Texas," Hasie said.

Proposition 2 requires that the state fund programs it requires local school districts to carry out. Hasie encouraged people to vote for this proposition.

"All local taxpayers have been hurt by the Legislature passing laws and requiring local school boards to pay for them with local taxes. However, I do wonder if this would be very beneficial if Proposition 1 passes because the Legislature then could, in effect, set local property taxes. Regardless, all taxpayers and school employees in particular must vote for this amendment in my opinion," Hasie said. "Let's make the Legislature pay for the changes they make."

Hasie said he would also vote against Proposition 3, which authorizes the issuance of $750 million in state bonds for school construction. Hasie said that the borrowers would not necessarily have

Teen-ager being held as suspect in death of parents

A Henryetta, Okla. teen-ager, wanted for questioning in the death of his parents, is being held in juvenile detention in Lubbock after being apprehended by Scurry County Sheriff's deputies Monday.

The 15-year-old, identified as Donald Franklin Stem, was to be brought back to Scurry County sometime today for arraignment. He is expected to be transported to Henryetta for questioning. No charges have been filed against the youth as yet.

The bodies of Johnny Stem, 40, and Donna Stem, 39, were found Monday afternoon by Mrs. Stem's father, who had gone to the house to check on them, according to Henryetta police Chief Everett Allen.

Johnny Stem was found in bed with a single gunshot wound to the head, Allen said. Mrs. Stem, shot three times, apparently was hit once as she lay in bed and twice more as she ran around the house, he said.

Allen said the couple had apparently been shot about 2 a.m., and their van was heard leaving about that time.

Texas Highway Patrol discovered the couple's van some eight miles southeast of Snyder on Highway 208 at about 7 p.m. Based on information provided by Henryetta police, Sheriff's Deputy Delwyn Davis went to a residence owned by relatives of the victims near Dunn. Davis arrested the 15-year-old there without incident at about 8:15 p.m. The relatives were not home at the time.

Law enforcement officers have provided no motive for the slayings.

Arrests...

2 young Snyder men charged with burglary

Two young Snyder men were arrested on burglary charges Monday.

Arrested were 17-year-old Health Clay Mann of 806½ 23rd St. and 23-year-old Joe Garza of 1917 Coleman, Apt. 4. Each man was arrested on two counts of burglary of a building and criminal mischief.

They are charged with the April 22 burglaries of Westerner Golf Land in Snyder and Lynx Disposal Co., north of the Western Texas College Farm.

Law enforcement authorities believe that the two men burglarized Westerner Golf Land where they took a safe, along with miscellaneous items. Parts of the safe were discovered at Lynx Disposal.

The two suspects are believed to have caused damage to pumps at the disposal facility, causing an oil spill outside the pit. A metal storage shed and the office were burglarized and the office was burned to the ground.

Damage estimates at the disposal facility total some $8,600.

Mann and Garza are being held in Scurry County Jail on $5,000 bond for each count.

Sheriff's Deputy Joe Cheyne and Snyder police Sgt. Jerry Parker filed the reports. Sgt. Parker, the arresting officer, said the investigation is continuing.

Flowerfest slated Friday at museum

The first annual "Flowerfest," featuring food, fun, flowers and fashions, will be held Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Scurry County Museum.

Seating is limited and those wishing to purchase tickets or make reservations must do so by noon Thursday.

Reservations may be made by calling the museum at 573-6107. Tickets are available at the museum or Elizabeth Pott's Realtors and are $8 per person.

Those attending will see wildflower art work from the local elementary schools, and flowers and plants from Neff's, Friendly Flower Shop, Travis Flowers, Snyder Nursery and Snyder Garden Club.

A luncheon buffet of assorted salads, finger sandwiches and desserts will be provided by museum volunteers and staff.

While eating, guests will view the latest in spring and summer fashions from Margaret's, Li'l Rascals, Merle Norman's, Bar-H-Bar and Limmer's. Models will include senior citizens Velma Smith and Elizabeth Wilson, high school students Amy Williams and Amy Taylor, and WTC audio-visual department employees Xan Harris and Cindy Fritz.

The museum will also display fashions from the past, including a wide variety of spring hats.

Sponsors for the event include the museum board, Key Brothers, Stephen's Office Supply, Purple Sage Motel and Edward D. Jones & Co.

Meeting resumes; no action is taken

Scurry County commissioners took no action when they convened Monday afternoon to discuss a request to advertise for bids on rural area trash collection.

The court worked on a preliminary contract concerning trash collection services, but no definite decisions were reached. County Judge Bob Doolittle and Commissioner Ralph Trevey reviewed city mandates, questioning possible territorial rights.

Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. said commissioners plan to finish the contract and give it to County Attorney Pete Greene to review.

If the county does go out for bids, it plans to hold a public hearing before that time. "We will let the people give us their input on the matter," Gray said.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Friends made in prosperity are often those you lose in adversity."

Roger Wheeler, founder of American Magnesium west of Snyder in the 1970s, was killed some 12 years ago in the parking lot of Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa.

The May 27, 1981 slaying remains unsolved, and one family member has turned his frustrations about his father's death into something positive.

David Wheeler, 38-year-old son of the slain millionaire, told the Associated Press that he even thought about using a gun to get even with who killed his father.

Instead, the son is using a computer and a software program that's being tested by the police department in Tulsa.

When detectives enter the facts of a crime into the computer, the system determines whether the physical description, getaway car or other details link it to another crime. Within seconds, the computer displays a list of offenses by degree of similarity and list of prime suspects.

Before development of the computer program, investigators relied on their memories to link bandits with multiple holdups. David Wheeler began working on the program soon after his father's death.

Police believe that the killing was linked to the elder Mr. Wheeler's connection in World Jai-Alai Inc. There are four file cabinets of paperwork on the unresolved case.

The case concerning Mr. Wheeler's murder was once featured on "Unsolved Mysteries." David Wheeler said he started the project aimed at homocide cases, but soon realized the value of other applications.

The program can also keep tabs on repeat offenders, store voice samples and mugshots and display instant photo lineups. Police in Tulsa expect to bring the number of closed robbery cases up to 50 from 32 percent by using the program.

It proves that some good can come out of bad situations.

Columbia astronauts profiled

by The Associated Press

A brief look at the five Americans and two Germans aboard space shuttle Columbia.

Commander Steven Nagel knows pretty much what to expect during Columbia's German Spacelab mission. He flew on the first and only other German Spacelab mission, in 1985.

"It's just a real kick to fly one of these missions. It's great," he said.

The 46-year-old Air Force colonel from Canton, Ill., has flown in space three times before, twice in 1985 and once, as a commander, in 1991. He became an astronaut in 1978.

Pilot Terence "Tom" Henricks likes the international perspective on the German Spacelab mission, his second shuttle flight.

His first was a 1991 Defense Department mission.

"The motivation there was to go up and make our environment safer on Earth by being able to monitor what goes on on the surface," he said. "This mission we're seeing a combined team effort that's international. That's a new perspective, and actually more challenging and interesting."

Henricks, 40, an Air Force colonel and former test pilot, became an astronaut in 1985. He considers Woodville, Ohio, home.

Air Force Lt. Col. Charles Precourt, a space rookie, will be flying Columbia while the commander and pilot sleep. He doesn't mind working the graveyard shift.

"I have a passion for the space business and for flying," he said.

Precourt, 37, a former test pilot from Hudson, Mass., became an astronaut in 1990.

"A lot of us come from very small towns," he said. "None of us have had the opportunity to be born with a silver spoon in our mouths. Thanks to the support of family and friends, we're able to do what we're going to do here."

Payload commander Jerry Ross will oversee all experiments conducted inside Spacelab, the pressurized laboratory module in Columbia's cargo bay.

Ross, 45, an Air Force colonel, is making his fourth shuttle flight. He has walked in space four times, more than anyone else in the astronaut corps. No spacewalks are planned on this trip, however.

Ross, who's from Crown Point, Ind., became an astronaut in 1980.

"I come to work every day with an expectation of something new and exciting to happen and a smile on my face. I love what I do," he said.

Astronaut-physician Bernard Harris Jr. says he worked to get family members to overcome their fears about the launch, his first.

Harris, 36, will work 12-hour days inside Spacelab.

"The hardest aspect of this thing has been dealing with family, getting them prepared for at least the ascent portion," he said. He and his wife have an infant daughter.

After completing an internal medicine residency at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., in 1985, Harris did muscle and bone research at NASA's Ames Research Center in Mountain View, Calif. He then became a flight surgeon at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston. NASA chose him as an astronaut in 1990.

He grew up in San Antonio, Texas.

German physicist Ulrich Walter says he's always been interested in flying in space, but assumed his nationality would hold him back.

"We were Germans. That meant we never had the chance in those days to go into space," Walter, 39, said. "But once I saw on TV that we had the availability to apply for it ... it took me a second to decide, 'Yes, I will do that.'"

Walter was nominated as an astronaut in 1987. He will spend most of his first shuttle flight working inside Spacelab.

German physicist Hans Schlegel never imagined he would fly in space.

"I never thought of being an astronaut, although I followed developments from the beginning on, from Mercury (in 1961) and maybe even earlier," he said.

His physics research led him to Germany's astronaut program. He was nominated as an astronaut in 1987.

Schlegel, 41, began astronaut training in Germany in 1988. He will split 12-hour work shifts inside Spacelab.

This is his first space flight.

Author honored for 'Mockingbird'

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Publicity-shy Harper Lee, author of "To Kill a Mockingbird," let down her guard long enough to be honored by the University of Alabama but didn't sound thrilled about all the attention.

"Good Lord, child!" Lee good-naturedly scolded an autograph-seeker carrying three copies of her novel.

Lee and 30 other women graduates were honored during weekend festivities marking the 100th anniversary of women being admitted to the university's Tuscaloosa campus. Lee agreed to attend provided she was shielded from reporters.

Lee, 66, won a Pulitzer Prize for her only published book, which was turned into an Oscar-winning movie starring Gregory Peck in 1962. The novel explores racism in a small Southern town through the eyes of an 8-year-old.

Seven small ways to stop one big problem.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out – STOP! Here's what to do instead:

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or, better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Phone a friend.
6. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
7. Write for parenting information: Parenting, P.O. Box 2866, Chicago, IL 60690

Take time out. Don't Take it out on your child.

Is banked blood free of disease?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 58-year-old husband is scheduled for heart valve replacement for correction of critical aortic stenosis. We question the total safety of blood from the general blood bank pool. Because of the time factor and his condition, he will be allowed to store only one unit of his own blood. We have been unable to locate risk-free, compatible, willing donors locally.

What is your opinion of blood made available through the general blood bank? We understand testing for HIV has become more reliable, but there are other blood-transmitted diseases we don't have good information on.

DEAR READER: Banked blood, from donors obtained through the Red Cross, is carefully screened for contamination with the human immunodeficiency virus (the cause of AIDS), hepatitis viruses and other blood-borne diseases. Such blood is considered safe for transfusion.

Obviously, no matter how meticulous the screening, there is a slight risk (due to human or laboratory error) that an occasional unit of blood may be contaminated; this is unavoidable in an imperfect world. However, as a general rule, Red Cross blood is free of disease.

Nonetheless, whenever possible, patients should attempt to donate their own blood in preparation for elective surgery. Receiving one's own blood is entirely devoid of risk.

In view of the urgency of your husband's surgery, he evidently doesn't have time for autologous blood donation. Consequently, I believe it is appropriate for him to use banked blood.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Blood Donations and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with sebaceous hyperplasia. I've been using Retin A, but I am concerned that more spots seem to be developing all the time and soon my whole face will be covered. Is this a genetic problem, and is there anything I can do to control it?

DEAR READER: Sebaceous hyperplasia simply means that the oil glands in your skin enlarge to an excessive degree. Although this is not purely genetic, the tendency does often run in families. Treatment consists of dermabrasion (sanding the tops of the cysts to allow them to drain), Retin A (to reduce the production of oil), and surgical excision.

If your doctor is unable to control the formation of new lesions, request a referral to the dermatology clinic at a teaching hospital.

Senate candidates Krueger, Hutchinson exchange barbs

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Sen. Bob Krueger says Republican opponent Kay Bailey Hutchison is taking too much credit.

Krueger and the Texas Democratic Party Monday criticized Mrs. Hutchison for claiming in a television ad that she has more Texas newspaper endorsements than all of her opponents combined, who are running in a May 1 special election for U.S. Senate.

Krueger spokeswoman Samantha Smoot, said Krueger has 11 newspaper endorsements, including five of the state's six largest dailies.

Mrs. Hutchison says she has the support of 17 daily newspapers.

"It's certainly not accurate for Bailey Hutchison to claim more endorsements than all of her opponents combined," Ms. Smoot said. "In fact, it's just another indication of her willingness to fudge the truth."

"Maybe the Hutchison campaign got so excited about their first newspaper endorsement that they cut the ad that day, not realizing they would almost be shut out later," said Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle.

David Beckwith, a spokesman for Mrs. Hutchison, defended the state treasurer's ad.

"They need to get about eight more newspaper endorsements and then we'll talk," Beckwith said. "The numbers show she has more support."

Mrs. Hutchison said Monday Krueger would be ineffective in reducing the number of frivolous lawsuits backlogged in American courts because he has strong financial support from personal injury lawyers.

"Many of these contingency fee lawyers make annual incomes in excess of $1 million from a system that badly needs reform," Mrs. Hutchison said. "They will contribute heavily to prevent reform."

Krueger says Mrs. Hutchison is suffering from "truth deKay," and that his campaign is not controlled by special interests.

Quoting Federal Election Commission documents, Mrs. Hutchison's campaign said Krueger has taken $304,628 in donations from personal injury lawyers. Mrs. Hutchison claimed it is the largest single bloc of support in the Krueger campaign.

Ms. Smoot did not dispute the claims, but added that "Bob Krueger is well known for having an independent voting record."

"He will look at each issue independently to determine what's best for Texans," Ms. Smoot said. "Many of those contributions are pro-choice contributions, pro-family leave contributions, pro Headstart and child immunization contributions and that's why they came to Bob Krueger and not to any of the Republican candidates."

Mrs. Hutchison said Krueger has misled voters on her positions concerning child immunization and Headstart, a school program for young children.

"Bob Krueger knows that I support childhood immunization and Headstart," Mrs. Hutchison said.

Krueger and Mrs. Hutchison are among 23 running in a May 1 special election for the U.S. Senate seat vacated when Lloyd Bentsen left to become treasury secretary. Gov. Ann Richards appointed Krueger as Bentsen's interim replacement.

Congressman Joe Barton, a Republican in the race, has again requested that candidates disclose their income tax returns.

Among those who have not disclosed their returns are Mrs. Hutchison, Republican Jack Fields and Democrat Richard Fisher.

Cash on the table

In most North American sports, you win prize money. But in bridge tournaments, you win nothing (except masterpoints). Professionals make money when they are hired as partners.

In the rest of the world, cash prizes are commonplace, but the American Contract Bridge League has always been against them. Now, though, the ACBL is dabbling its toe into the water with a tournament at the Las Vegas Hilton May 4-8. For details, call (901) 332-5586, ext. 243.

Today's deal occurred at one of the most popular money tournaments, in Juan-les-Pins on the Cote d'Azur. How should the club suit be played?

The bidding is given as it occurred, though some of the actions will not meet with universal approval.

Declarer ruffed the second round of diamonds and cashed his three top trumps, getting the bad news. Now he had to play the club suit for one loser.

The normal play is to finesse the nine. If it loses to the queen or king, you finesse the jack next. But as there is only one dummy entry, this line is impractical. The choices are to cash the ace or to enter dummy and lead a low club to the jack. Both work if the suit is 2-2. The former wins when West has a singleton queen or king; the latter when West has a singleton 10. However, given that East opened the bidding, leading to the jack isn't so unreasonable.

The actual declarer went into the dummy and led a club to the ace. "This line," he wrote, "is still causing me sleepless nights."

Problem Child put in place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Universal Pictures has put its 11-year-old problem child, Michael Oliver, in his place.

A Superior Court jury ruled Monday that the child star of the movie "Problem Child" unfairly pried an extra $420,000 out of the studio by threatening to walk out on the eve of filming "Problem Child II."

Recipe Box

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor

Fresh apricots don't have to be in season for this quick bread. Instead, canned and dried apricots team up to give it tangy, fruity flavor. The recipe makes two loaves, so you can take one to work or freeze it for later.

DOUBLE APRICOT BREAD

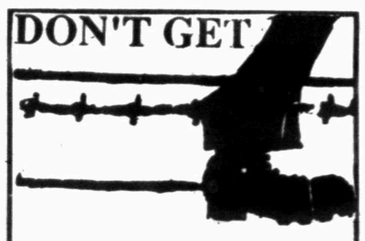

16-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves, drained
13/4 cups all-purpose flour
11/4 cups sugar
3/4 cup whole-wheat flour
31/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup snipped dried apricots
Margarine or butter (optional)

In a blender container or food processor bowl blend or process canned apricot halves until smooth. Set aside.

In a large mixing bowl stir together the all-purpose flour, sugar, whole-wheat flour, baking powder, salt and pumpkin pie spice. In another mixing bowl combine the eggs, milk, cooking oil and the apricot puree. Add the egg mixture to the flour mixture, stirring just until combined. Stir in the dried apricots.

Pour the batter into two greased 8- by 4- by 2-inch or 71/2- by 31/2- by 2-inch loaf pans. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the centers comes out clean. Cool in the pans on a wire rack for 10 minutes. Remove from pans. Cool completely. Slice and serve with margarine or butter, if desired. Makes 2 loaves (18 servings).

AUSTIN (AP) — Licensed Texans would be allowed to carry concealed handguns under a measure that has won preliminary House approval.

The House voted 95-47 in favor of the bill Monday. A final vote is scheduled for Tuesday.

"I'm very pleased that we got it passed through this first hurdle," said Rep. Bill Carter, R-Fort Worth and a sponsor of the measure.

However, the bill would not go into effect unless approved by Texas voters under one amendment added to the measure.

The amendment by Rep. Curtis Seidlits, D-Sherman, would put the handgun proposal on a statewide ballot Nov. 2. If approved by the voters, the bill would go into effect in January.

"This is an issue that is so big and so volatile that if it's going to happen, it's going to affect everyone in this state," Seidlits said. "Let's give the people of this state the opportunity to debate this issue."

The amendment was approved 77-63. But Rep. Ron Wilson, cosponsor of the concealed handgun bill, said it is unconstitutional.

Wilson, who originally urged defeat of the amendment, said the proposal could be a leverage point in urging Gov. Ann Richards to support the bill.

"Strategically it's great for us," said Wilson, D-Houston. "The opponents obviously made a mistake. That's not our problem."

Richards has said she is opposed to the handgun bill, and will likely veto it if it passes both the House and the Senate.

However, Richards' spokesman Chuck McDonald, following Monday's floor debate, said the proposed statewide referendum could affect the governor's decision.

BUDGET BARGAINING

Texas Senate and House negotiators have begun trying to resolve differences in their budget proposals amid warnings from social service groups that the House plan would devastate some programs. The Senate budget for 1994-95 calls for spending $69.7 billion, compared with the House proposal of $67.5 billion — a $2.2 billion difference.

UTILITY STUDY

A two-year study on utility issues that officials say will have a dramatic impact on ratepayers has been approved by the Senate. The studies on proposed telephone industry deregulation, and whether "phantom taxes" should be paid by consumers were included in "sunset" legislation that continues the Public Utility Commission. The bill would change the way the PUC regulates electric and telephone utilities.

AND

Texas House members shouldn't have taken it personally that they were locked out of their own offices when returning to work this week. Most of the locks to nearly 80 offices belonging to state representatives were changed over the weekend because of a set of lost keys, Darryl Schriver, chief clerk of House Administration, said Monday. The odd twist to the mystery is that Schriver isn't sure who lost the keys or when.

Cancer Patient's Friends Lighten Her Heavy Load

By Abigail Van Buren

1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: May I share with you the incredible courage shown by a young friend of mine? She is Gail Aschenbrenner of Portland, Ore. She works in an office of the U.S. Forest Service there.

At this writing, Gail is in remission from lymphoma, a form of cancer. The following is a copy of her letter of thanks to her colleagues and her many friends:

WHY I'M ALIVE TODAY

I'm alive today ... because I finally went to the doctor.

I'm alive today ... because of great advances in chemotherapy, especially over the last five years.

I'm alive today ... because you've donated hundreds of hours of your hard-earned annual leave, allowing me to keep paying my insurance premiums and have the luxury of staying home to recover from five months of difficult treatments.

I'm alive today ... because of all the cards, messages, phone calls and prayers you've sent me. Whenever I wanted to give up, I thought of you and your positive thoughts.

I'm alive today ... and paying those old and new medical bills that my insurance doesn't. Thanks to the terrific folks at Wind River Ranger District and Nursery who raised $2,000 auctioning off goods and services.

I'm alive today ... and getting better all the time. Because of physical suffering, I know what health is. Because of emotional heartache, I know what peace is. Because you were there for me when I was bald, blistered and bloated, I know what friendship is.

I'm alive today ... and "thank you" seems inadequate. No matter what the future brings, I'll always remember what you did for me.

Your friend,
Gail Aschenbrenner

Personally to me, Gail wrote: "I believe that my illness and suffering were given to me as a gift so that I will be able to recognize the many miracles of life while still young. I also feel that having fought this battle, it should be shared so that others may know a little better what endless possibilities for boundless joy await them if only to have health and love, and little else."

My response to Gail, in part:

When the volunteers for the American Cancer Society come to our doors, we will remember you, Gail. Your brave words inspire us with renewed determination to help gain the victory for this noble cause.

DEAR ABBY: What memories the letter signed "Bugged in St. Paul" brought back to me. My late husband rose from a country boy with an eighth-grade education to an executive in a large (and famous) nationally known corporation. He was called upon to make many speeches, and I cringed every time I heard him say, "I seen."

After years of keeping my mouth shut, I said, "Darling, don't say, 'I seen,' say either, 'I saw' or 'I have seen.'" He said, "Sure."

To my horror, the next time, it came out "I have saw ..." After that, I gave up. (I liked "I seen" better.)

He's been gone for 34 years, and how I'd love to hear him say "I seen" again. By the way, I'm 91 and taking classes in German and Spanish and chair-dancing.

Tyson interview due tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Tyson, in his first prison interview in almost a year, says he doesn't think about boxing these days, let alone a title fight against Riddick Bowe.

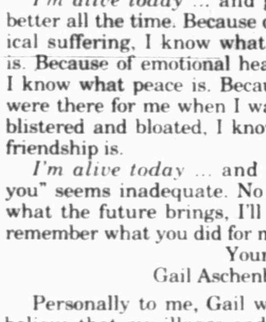

"I don't dream about outside," the former heavyweight champion said in an interview to be broadcast tonight on "Dateline NBC." "That's the reality. I don't dream about it. I deal with my circumstances the way they are."

As for a possible bout with Bowe, Tyson said: "I don't even think about that stuff."

Tyson is serving a 61/2-year sentence in Indiana for raping a Miss Black America contestant.

Clinton reminds people of latter-day FDR

By Mike Feinsilber
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In this week of assessments, historians are having trouble getting a fix on Bill Clinton.

As Clinton approaches his 100th day in office, they see traces of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy — and Jimmy Carter.

Clinton seems to see some of FDR and JFK in himself, too. Roosevelt was the only president he quoted in his inaugural address, echoing FDR's call for "bold, persistent experimentation."

He spent much of one February afternoon rummaging through Roosevelt memorabilia at the presidential library at Hyde Park, N.Y., while aides tried in vain to get him back on schedule.

And consciously or not, Clinton seems to mimic Kennedy, the president whose hand he shook as a teen-ager in the Rose Garden.

Clinton, like Kennedy, plunges his hands into the pocket of his buttoned jacket and slices the air with his arm when he speaks.

Kennedy's "ask not what your country can do for you" is echoed in a line from Clinton's inaugural: "It will not be easy; it will require sacrifices. But it can be done, and done fairly, not choosing sacrifice for its own sake, but for our own sake."

No president, of course, is like any other. Gray sameness does not elevate people to that office. And presidents are shaped by their times. A Franklin Roosevelt in prosperous times might have been a benign president, not one who made war on the "economy royalists" (who considered him a traitor to his class).

Yet in assessing how they're doing, it can be informative to compare presidents.

Historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., who was the house intellectual in Kennedy's presidency, sees in Clinton "a merger of two Democratic leaders of the previous generation who also combined professionalism in politics with idealism in policy — John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey."

Schlesinger ascribes to Clinton JFK's "analytical bent, his detachment and his mastery of detail" and Humphrey's' "exuberance, his gregariousness and his inability to say anything briefly."

Clinton lacks the legislative mastery that former Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson displayed in office, but the reach of the Great Society is displayed in Clinton's ambitious program — beefing up LBJ's Head Start, offering free college in exchange for community service and addressing the nation's health worries in his forthcoming health reform plan. LBJ, father of Medicare and Medicaid, had been the [illegible] health care president.

And, says Columbia University historian Alan Brinkley, Clinton, like Johnson, "has politics in his bones."

Leon Ribuffo, a historian at George Washington University reaches back to Theodore Roosevelt for a comparable presidency.

TR put the first Jew in the Cabinet; Clinton created a Cabinet in which the women, Hispanics and blacks outnumber the white males.

"Roosevelt kept emphasizing that we're all in this together; Clinton does that, too," Ribuffo said.

And Theodore Roosevelt had celebrity status. Clinton does too, at least to young people, he said. "He kindles excitement in my students in a way no politician has [illegible]

[illegible] stimulus plan to Congress. Its centerpiece was a $50 tax rebate for every individual. Congressional opposition was stiff; by mid-April Carter abandoned the rebate. The parallels with last week's news are obvious.

Carter, too, slashed the White House staff and garaged government limousines. In a fireside chat after two weeks in office, Carter said, he had learned, "there are many things a president cannot do."

The other day, Clinton said this: "I must say there's a lot I have to learn about this town."

scholar at Ohio University, sees the other Roosevelt reflected in Clinton's reliance on "policy intellectuals" to help shape his government. He compares them to FDR's "braintruttrs."

"In general this is an administration that draws on a lot of intellectuals who think they've doped out all of America's problems," he said.

But Clinton's uneven start seems to reflect that of another centrist Southern Democrat who took office after 12 Republican years — Jimmy Carter.

Early on, Carter had to withdraw JFK speechwriter Theodore Sorensen as his choice for director of the Central Intelligence Agency when senators found Sorensen had taken conscientious objector status and avoided the draft in 1945. It was that generation's Zoe Baird affair.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

April 28, 1993

In the year ahead, others will be attracted to endeavors that you personally initiate. However, you must be extremely careful to be sure those you recruit can make solid contributions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A normal amount of curiosity could stimulate your mental processes today. However, if you are merely curious for invalid reasons, you might poke your nose into situations where it doesn't belong. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Taurus' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to pass hearsay information onto others today that isn't substantiated by facts. Loose remarks could hurt someone's reputation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might become involved in an unproductive partnership arrangement today. The reason it lacks vitality could be the fact that neither party is forthright with the other.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will resent it today if someone with whom you're associated tries to do your thinking for you. Conversely, others will find it equally irritating if you try to think for them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you are a rather self-disciplined person, but today you might be tantalized and yield to temptations you would normally resist. Be careful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to fulfill your expectations today, you must have continuity of purpose. If this factor isn't operative, you may start things you'll never finish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might have to deal with someone who is numbered among your less favorite people today. If you treat this development negatively, it could create complications.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are selling or promoting something important today, you'd be wise to have some backup available to help you close the deal. There's a possibility you might blow it on your own.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you don't know what you want today or how you intend to get it, don't expect others to figure things out for you. You'll have to be both self-reliant and methodical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your hunches might be based upon your emotions rather than your logic today, so don't put too much stock in your intuitive perceptions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It would be best not to borrow anything from friends at all today, but if you have no choice, pay back the loan as promptly as possible or return borrowed items in the same state you received them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're not likely to be very productive today if you approach your objectives in a wishy-washy manner. Take a firm stance once you assume a specific position.

Doctors remove cancerous mole

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors removed a cancerous mole from Mayor Raymond Flynn's left hand and said his prognosis is good.

The malignant melanoma — the most serious form of skin cancer — was discovered during a physical the 53-year-old Flynn took three weeks ago after President Clinton nominated him to be U.S. ambassador to the Vatican.

Dr. Howard Koh said the growth was found early and did not appear to have spread.

Cultist's attorney seeks independent medical examiner

WACO, Texas (AP) — An independent team of forensic pathologists should be appointed to help investigate last week's blaze that leveled the Branch Davidian compound, says the attorney for a surviving cultist.

Fort Worth lawyer Jeff Kearney, representing Jaime Castillo, filed a motion Monday asking that the outside team be included in the probe led by Tarrant County Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani.

In his filing, made in a McLennan County court, Kearney claims Peerwani's past work shows repeated examples of negligence.

Without an independent review, Kearney claims, his client could "suffer irreparable harm for which he has no adequate remedy."

Peerwani's Fort Worth office did not immediately return calls from The Associated Press Monday.

Castillo, one of nine fire survivors, remained in federal custody Monday for his part in the Feb. 28 shootout between cultists and agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

He is charged with conspiracy to murder federal agents.

Kearney's request cites two 1991 cases.

In one, Peerwani's office sent the wrong body to Montague County for burial in a murder victim's grave. The second involved medical investigators' failure to recover all the remains of the bodies from a Fort Worth car accident.

The motion also says the Tarrant County medical examiner's office is the defendant in a $10 million negligence suit filed by the parents of murder victim Corliss Ancrum.

The lawsuit claims an assistant pathologist was negligent in losing the victim's larynx, which was needed to determine whether he had been strangled.

At 4:30 p.m., Oscar Gonzales, 38, of Tulia was placed into jail for failure to appear. His bond was set at $5,000.

Serb attack defies international peace efforts

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Serb fighters attacked a pocket of government territory in a strategic sector of northwestern Bosnia today, once again defying international efforts to bring peace to the former Yugoslav republic.

The attack on the last swath of land in northwestern Bosnia not in Serb hands was another sign that the Serbs are refusing to bow to tough new trade sanctions against Serb-dominated Yugoslavia or the threat of foreign military intervention.

The Serbs have refused to back down even though President Slobodan Milosevic of Serbia, the engine behind the Bosnian Serbs' nationalist war, appealed to them to accept the plan out of compassion for suffering Yugoslavs.

U.N. officials in Zagreb, Croatia, said a company of 100-150 Serb troops with tanks, artillery and mortar support moved today into Muslim-dominated territory around the city of Bihac, near Croatia's border.

Fighting was reported in several villages, said Andy Burridge of the U.N. Protection Forces.

The Bihac pocket, between Serb-controlled territory in Croatia and Bosnia, has been a thorn in the side for Bosnian Serbs. Its capture would give them control over Bosnia's entire northwestern sector.

The Serb troops crossed into Bosnia from Serb-held territory in Croatia early today, moving steadily toward Bihac, Burridge said. U.N. observers believe the forces have penetrated up to 3 miles toward the Bojna River.

The tougher sanctions that took effect today are aimed at forcing Yugoslav leaders to use their influence to end aggression by Bosnian Serbs.

The measures include freezing Yugoslav public and private funds in foreign banks.

Would-be assassin of Bush reportedly arrested

KUWAIT (AP) — An Arab suspect has confessed he planned a suicide bomb attack in Kuwait against former President Bush, the defense minister said today.

Sheik Ali Sabah al-Salem, who is also a member of the ruling family, said the would-be attacker was one of 14 people detained in connection with an Iraqi plot against the emirate.

They drove from Iraq into Kuwait with carloads of explosives, Sheik Ali said. After they were arrested, one of them confessed he planned to strap explosives around his waist and blow himself up, along with Bush, the defense minister said. Bush was in the country earlier this month on a brief visit.

It was not clear when the group crossed the border, when they were arrested, where they were being held, what they were charged with nor how the authorities discovered the alleged plot.

Sheik Ali said 17 people were implicated but three were at large. The names have not been announced.

Of the 17, five are Kuwaitis while the others are either Iraqis or "bidouns," the Kuwaiti term for long-term, stateless Arab residents of the emirate who do not qualify for citizenship.

The group crossed the border in vehicles loaded with 220 pounds of explosives, Sheik Ali said.

He said the man who planned the attack against Bush formulated the idea on his own and planned to act alone against the former president. Sheik Ali did not say if the would-be assailant ever tried to carry out his plot nor whether there was any evidence other than the alleged confession.

Bush visited Kuwait at the invitation of the government.

School funding proposals to pay the money back.

"State taxpayers then would be left holding the bag. I'm not against the money being available; I just think it should have to be paid back," Hasie said.

Hasie told the audience, "We have been threatened with school closing, state income tax and consolidation. I think it is just a threat to get Proposition 1 passed. If the schools don't open, who are you gonna blame? Yourselves? No, you will blame your elected officials and next term they won't be in office."

Olga Garza, representative for the Texas Association of School Boards, also spoke at Monday's meeting. In contrast to Hasie, she asked the people to vote yes on all three propositions.

She said Proposition 1 deals with equalization. "The passage of Proposition 1 would allow the state to even out the inequitable way schools are funded by shifting a limited amount of funds from property-wealthy school districts and redistributing those funds to property-poor school districts."

Garza did agree with Hasie suggestion to vote for Proposition 2. "It is a linking of policy decisions to funding decisions. It will keep equity and adequacy in the system," Garza said.

Concerning Proposition 3, she asked people to vote yes. She said it would give schools some funds for facilities, where as now, schools do not get help from the state for facilities.

"Passage would assist school districts in financing construction of new classrooms and renovating old ones. It would also provide needed relief to local school districts that have a growing student population and limited classroom space, particularly in the elementary grades, where the state mandates that school districts maintain a 22:1 student-to-teacher ratio," Garza said.

Garza and Hasie, although different on their views concerning the propositions, stressed one thing Monday — that public education should be the number one priority for the Legislature. Both said that more is spent on prisoners and highway construction than on public education.

Hasie said the reasoning is due to voters. "Building big prisons and fixing someone's highway will get you more votes and that is where priority has stayed," he said.

Snyder visits FHS for final road tilt

The Snyder Tigers face a tough final road test this year as they take on the red-hot Frenship Tigers at 4:30 p.m. today in Wolfforth in a District 2-4A baseball tilt.

Snyder is coming off an 8-6 win over Levelland on Saturday that saw sophomore hurler Reagan Key get his second straight complete-game win when the SHS offense erupted for five runs in a seventh-inning rally that had 11 Tigers go to the plate.

Snyder is now 8-16 on the season and 2-5 since starting loop competition.

Offensive leaders for the home Tigers include sophomore John Clinkinbeard, who leads the team with a .375 batting average, including a homer, and senior Raymond House, who hits No. 2 behind Clinkinbeard in the SHS order, hitting .348 with four RBI in district play.

Sophomore Lee Idom is scheduled to start against Frenship.

The FHS Tigers field an experienced team, including today's expected starter B.J. Krier, who has already beaten Snyder once this year, and Michael Denson, who was 3-for-4 with 2 RBI in FHS' 12-2 win over Lamesa Saturday.

Frenship brings a 15-9 overall mark and a 6-1 loop slate into today's battle.

The district's other games include Levelland (9-12, 2-5) at Plainview (17-7, 5-2) and Estacado (12-11, 4-3) at Lamesa (7-14, 2-5).

SHS boys shoot 8th-place 322

SAN ANGELO — In most of the tournaments Snyder's boys have been in this season, a 322 would have left the team in pretty good shape.

However, Snyder's combined 322 in Monday's opening round of the Region 1-4A Boys' Golf Tournament at Riverside Country Club left the Tigers in eighth place, 24 shots off the leaders' pace.

Class 4A state favorite Andrews, led by individual leaders Marcus Mainord and Manuel Hernandez, who each turned in an even-par 72 Monday, broke the 300 mark with its 298 after 18 of 36 holes.

Borger's 304 was good for second followed by District 3 upset champion Monahans at 309, a 311 from Brownwood, and identical 314s by Burkburnett and Hereford.

Senior Chad Jacobi of SHS was tied for third in the individual chase after shooting a 73 Monday. Jacobi is knotted with David Todd of Brownwood and Burkburnett's Kris Hill, each of whom also shot 1-over.

Other Snyder scores are junior Jeff Armstrong's 81, an 82 from freshman Page Patterson, senior Cody Wunderlich's 86 and an 89 by freshman Carl Strickland.

The tourney was to have concluded today with a final 18 holes. The top two teams and the top two individual qualfiers will earn a spot in the Class 4A state tournament in Austin.

Snyder netters are eliminated

SAN ANGELO — Both Snyder High School's entrants in the Region 1-4A Tennis Tournament were eliminated in Monday competition at Angelo State University.

District 2-4A runner-up in boys' singles, senior Jason Warren, was handed a 6-2, 6-4 opening-round loss by Fort Stockton's Jason Lester, and the boys' singles team of Chris Gayle and Tracey Chavez advanced to the quarterfinals before losing a 3-setter, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, to Sweetwater's Chris Boyd and Alton Howard.

"All three players played as well as they could," said SHS net coach Teri Hoerster. "I'm not disappointed in any player.

"I'm pleased with the results, because just getting to play in regionals is a big accomplishment.

"Our district is tough," she continued, "and these guys played tough mentally and physically to get out of district and on to regionals. Hopefully, next year we'll have even more players in the regional tourney."

In today's semifinal round, top seed Zach Gibson of Plainview was to face No. 3 Jason Barfield of Burkburnett, and fourth seed Greg Coplen of Hereford will face Lester, who is unseeded, but who knocked off No. 2 Doan Nguyen of Wichita Falls in the second round.

The two winners will clash in the championship match.

In boys' doubles, Boyd and Howard, rated No. 2 at the start of the event, are set to tangle with Vuong Dao and Keith Jordan of Ft. Worth Boswell, the No. 3 seeds, while No. 4 Greg Biddison and Robert Lee of Big Spring face Rob Hogan and Martin Steenbock, the doubles' top seed, from Wichita Falls.

In girls' singles, three of the top four seeds will advance to the semifinals, the lone exception being Paige Parker of Levelland, who was upset by Brianna Reinauer of Hereford, 7-5, 6-1, in the second round Monday.

Girls' doubles will also feature three top seeds and one upset winner.

Mindy James and Anna Ulrich of Wichita Falls knocked off No. 4 Lyndee McNeese and Lacey Jordan of Borger in quarterfinal action Monday.

Semifinals and finals are scheduled in all divisions today.
