MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Texas has a penitentiary system. A legislative committee investigated the system and its workings. This has happened every two years for fifty years. This committee has submitted its report to the legislature. One of the findings concerns Prison Commissioner W. B. Pryor and former Commissioner Sam W. Low. This is the indictment returned: These commissioners during the month of January, 1921 purchased from Bassett Blakely two hundred and sixty mules and horses for the aggregate sum of 80,000 dollars or a hundred and fifty dollars a head. It is the firm conviction of the legislative probers that these mules were found to be of a value not exceeding sixty dollars a head. Bassett Blakely is the gentleman who repurchased the Blakeley farm from the state during the Hobby administration. They do say that the oil wealth of the farm is very valuable. Of course this had nothing to do with the repurchase although there are carping critics who insinuate to the contrary. Commissioner Pryor refuses to resign. Commissioner Low resigned his office, impolitely told the governor to go to Hades, returned to his home in Washington county and "redeeded it" from the hosts of Jim Ferguson's American party after the aforesaid Americans or American partyites had been notified by English speaking Americans enmasque that they would have their livers and lungs and lights shot out if they talked German or make treasonable utterances against democracy, the English tongue or the established customs of the people of Washington county. Mayor Low, (he is a former service man), is a member of the legislature and he must have smiled when the probers submitted the mule story for the edification of the people. Major Sam is a patriot as well as a lawmaker and of course he will have something to say later along.

These prison probers of the Thirty-seventh legislature, in submitting their findings, declared that the prison commission on the fourteenth of December, 1920, purchased the Fort Bend Cotton Oil mill for the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. These probers said this mill had been operated at a loss since 1913 and that the prison commissioners made no investigation to determine its probable value, "except that they secured from one Pat Grogan, a stockholder in the mill, an estimate of its value." H. N. F. does not know whether the mill was worth one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars or even twenty-five thousand dollars, but he does know that if he needed expert testimony he would call on "one Pat Grogan." Pat Grogan is a prominent citizen of Houston, a leading cotton oil man, president of the state association of cotton oil men and one of the founders or organizers of the Southern Tariff Association. It is alleged that the mill has been operated at a loss since 1913. Maybe so; many mills have been operated at a loss since 1913 and many mills have returned handsome dividends. Col. R. M. Johnston of Houston was the president of the Prison Commission when the mill purchase was made. Colonel Johnston may have his faults. He never did advertise himself as an angel of perfection but when it comes to personal integrity, his batting average has been about two thousand for forty years under Texas skies and he wouldn't mulct the people of Texas for "One Pat Grogan," or for all the mills controlled by "One Pat Grogan" or ever saw by "One Pat Grogan."

Texas owns a tubercular farm not many miles from Huntsville. There convicts are sent who are suffering from the white scourge. This is an excerpt from the report submitted to the Texas legislature by its probers: "What your committee saw on this farm is almost beyond belief. The committee found that a manager of this farm, E. T. Thornton, is indifferent, incapable and inefficient and should be relieved of his position." In addition to this the probers said that the farm is located in low altitude "which is detrimental to persons suffering from tuberculosis." This isn't news. It is the repetition of an old story. Men say that James E. Ferguson is a down and outer; that he dishonored his state and disgraced himself. Regardless of this, he had a heart and a backbone. While he was governor of Texas he visited the tubercular farm. He found thereon, forty-five patients, most of them beyond hope of recovery and all forty-five threatened with death if the state continued to keep them in the low altitude of that section of Texas. Ferguson called on the phone a newspaper friend "What would you do if you found on a prison farm a bunch of sick convicts facing death unless they could be given a change of climate?" "I would pardon every d——d one of them d——d quick," was the answer shot back at the governor by the aforesaid editor. "W-a-a-l, that's just what I did," drawled the governor, "but I just wanted to know how another fellow would feel about it and what action he would take if he were the governor and I were the editor." Lawmakers know that a tubercular prison farm should not be located in the marshes of South Texas. They know in that low altitude death is certain to the convict suffering with tuberculosis. Former Governor William P. Hobby knew it. Governor Pat Neff knows it. This farm should be sold. If there must be a tubercular prison farm, then buy a new one in the west, in the high dry

DEATH FOREVER STILLS GOLDEN VOICE OF NOTED THRUSH THROATED TENOR

By Associated Press.

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 2.—Caruso died today. The great singer, whose ultimate recovery had been hoped for under the benign influences of his own Italy, passed away at 9 o'clock this morning at the hotel Vesuvius in this city. He had been brought here hurriedly from Sorrento, on the bay of Naples, where less than a week ago he avowed his returning strength and expressed the conviction that he would sing again as in the days of old.

He had been able to visit the famous sanctuary of Our Lady of Pompeii, giving thanks offering for his recovery.

He went also to the wonderful island of Capri, where he attended a luncheon in his honor, but soon afterward unfavorable symptons in the form of higher fever, manifested themselves and his wife telegraphed to a Rome specialist to come to Sorrento; it was then discovered that a new internal abscess had developed.

Advise Operation

Caruso's removal to Rome for an operation was advised but he showed such weakness that it was impossible to transfer him further than Naples, where he arrived by sea Sunday evening. Four eminent physicians were called in consultation, and their examination show the presence of a subphrenic abscess, accompanied by severe perotinitis.

An operation to be performed at noon today was decided upon but the patient's condition became suddenly worse at 4:30 in the morning. Prior to this, heart stimulation was resorted to hourly.

In order that Caruso should not tire himself, the attending physicians ordered him not to speak, so during his last night he uttered no word. Of the members of his family present at the death bed the most pathetic was his old mother, who had always clung obstinately to her little home, despite her son's efforts to accustom her to the material comforts of life.

Celebrity 25 Years

Enrico Caruso, for more than 25 years a celebrity in the world of song, the tenor with "the golden voice" idolized by millions in America and abroad, had an artistic career as well known as that of any famous statesman or military leader. He was born in Naples, Italy, February 25, 1873, the son of Marcellius Caruso, a mechanic who detested music but was persuaded to permit his son, when 11 years old, to sing in the churches of his native city. An unpromising pupil, for three years he studied under Guglielmo Vergine, pledging his teacher that when ready for a professional career he should pay him one-quarter of his earnings for the following five years.

He made his debut in "L'Amico Francesco" at the Nuovo Theater, Naples, in 1894, later toured Italy and Sicily and was engaged for four seasons at La Scala, Milan. Subsequently he sang in St. Petersburg, Moscow, Warsaw, Rome, Lisbon, Paris, London and leading cities of Germany. When he came to the Metropolitan Opera House in New York on November 23, 1903, the critics did not go into ecstacies over him. One of them wrote on the opening night: "Signor Caruso (as the Duke in 'Righoletto') has many of the tiresome Italian vocal affectations and when he neglects to cover his tones, as he always does when he becomes strenuous, his voice becomes pallid."

Receives But 100 Francs

It is interesting to observe that when Caruso made his Naples debut he sang the title role four times for which he received 100 francs, a pair of stage shoes, a suit of fleshings and a neckerchief. Some years later Maurice Grau, the impresario, negotiated with him to sing in America for $700 a month but thought the salary excessive and the deal fell through. Grau was quick to perceive the opportunity he had lost and finally engaged Caruso for 50 performances at $1,000 a night. But Mr. Grau became ill and Caruso, when singing in Lisbon, received word that again he must abandon his hope of singing in America. Henirich Conried, who followed Mr. Grau at the Metropolitan, however, cabled Caruso an offer to cross the Atlantic and his ambition at last was realized.

Although no official statement of his earnings was ever made public, it is known that Caruso, at the height of his Metropolitan career, was receiving an average of $3,000 for each performance. On special oc-

LEGION POST DENOUNCES STATE BODY

Pat Carrigan Members Condemn Central Organization Action in Handling Hospital Fund.

Adopting resolutions condemning the manner in which the state organization and state executive committee had handled the hospital trust fund, the Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion voted unanimously at its regular meeting Tuesday night to join with other posts in the state in a thorough investigation of state headquarters.

In connection with the resolution the post voted to send E. J. Bartelle, post commander, to Austin on August 8 to attend a state meeting called by the Thomas Dismuke Post of Houston. Considerable warmth was shown by legion members in the discussion of the manner in which the Kerrville state hospital matter had been managed by the state headquarters.

It was the consensus of opinion that at the Austin meeting not only should plans be devised to recover the legion's money expended but also the criminal prosecution of those responsible for the alleged misappropriation of funds, should be brought about if possible.

Zeb V. Nixon, local attorney, was elected post adjutant to succeed T. R. Brunson, who resigned because he was unable to devote sufficient time to the carrying out of the duties of the office. He was given a rising vote of thanks for work as adjutant. Mr. Nixon made a brief talk following the election.

A buffet luncheon will be held at the next regular meeting August 16, according to an announcement of the entertainment committee. The resignation of Martin Gersh as director of the gymnasium was announced. His successor will be appointed later.

PUEBLO THREATENED WITH ANOTHER FLOOD

By Associated Press.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 2.—Reports tonight from the west said the Arkansas river at Canon City is the highest ever known there. It was reported that the water was fifteen feet high at Canon City and at Florence the cellars in the town were filled with water.

Western Union officials here declared that water is running three feet over the railroad track in the royal gorge. Telephone and telegraph communication with Canon City is down and definite information concerning the situation there is unobtainable. Canon City is 45 miles west of Pueblo.

POLICE THINK ASSAILANT OF WOMAN WHITE

Officers Advance Opinion and Work on Theory That Mrs. Bennett Not Attacked by Negro.

Victim Declares She "Might Have Been Mistaken" in Color of Man Who Beat Her Into Unconsciousness.

Belief that the unidentified assailant who is reported to have attacked Mrs. W. D. Bennett while she slept in her home at 1309 Sixteenth street early Monday afternoon, may not have been a negro was expressed by police officers late Tuesday, following an all day investigation. The nature of the attack was advanced by officers as one basis for this belief.

The motive for the attack, if it was a negro, they declared, could have been for only one or two purposes, robbery or criminal assault. Neither object were attained by the assailant, they said, leaving the belief that some person must have committed the attack for purposes of malice.

Mrs. Bennett, who spent most of the day at the Wichita General hospital, where she was taken late Monday, officers said, was firm in her belief that her assailant was a negro. However, they said, Mrs. Bennett did say that she could have been mistaken, declaring that her "flash of consciousness between the sleep and unconsciousness from the attack was so brief and her fright so great, that it would be hard to be sure of anything that took place."

City Detective Jack Miller, who spent the entire day Tuesday working on the case, refused to commit himself as supporting any single theory.

SPURGIN CROSSES BORDER

Chicago Banker Wanted for Embezzlement Enters Mexico at Presidio.

By Associated Press.

EL PASO, Aug 2.—United States immigration officials at Presidio, Texas, 200 miles east of here on the Rio Grande, believe Warren C. Spurgin, the missing Chicago banker crossed the border there July 20.

The man, they say, represented himself as a mine operator and carried a passport made out in the name of Scott.

Upon crossing from Presidio to Ojinaga, the man engaged an automobile and drove away in the direction of Chihuahua City, 150 miles from there. "Scott" according to the immigration officials answered perfectly the description of Spurgin, which was not received at Presidio until July 31.

The man carried one hand bag.

USES TWO-CENT STAMP TO MAIL BILL FOR PENNY

Ira D. Brown, Rotary club secretary, and in odd moments, proprietor of Brown's confectionery, says he bestows the cast iron life preserver on Jack Barnard, fellow Rotarian, who is general manager of P. B. M. Company.

Ira got a statement from P. B. M. Company Monday, August 1, showing a balance due on his account of one cent. The statement was mailed out the envelope bearing a two cent stamp. Ira says he is going to take the one cent around to P. B. M.'s in person—don't catch him wasting his stamps in any such manner. His time wasted? Oh, Ira has plenty of that.

DEFENSE AND STATE REST IN MURDER TRIAL

Counsel for Toussaint Spring Surprise in Closing Testimony Tuesday Afternoon.

Attorneys Clash Over Question of Which Shall Open and Finish Arguments Wednesday.

With the state asking for the extreme penalty as announced at the opening of the trial and the defense contending that the accused should be freed on the grounds of insanity the pleas of attorneys will open this morning in the 30th District Court at 9 o'clock in the trial of Henry J. Toussaint, charged with the murder of his father, O. H. Toussaint.

John Davenport, special attorney, will open for the state followed by County Attorney E. L. Fulton with District Attorney Wilson closing for the prosecution.

Luther Hoffman will open for the defense, followed by B. Y. Cummings with C. C. McDonald closing. The arguments will start following the charge to the jury of Judge H. F. Weldon. It is expected that three hours to a side will be taken in the arguments which will result in the case going to the jury late this afternoon.

The occasion will mark the initial appearance of H. R. Wilson, recently appointed district attorney, before a jury in a major case. Since his appointment several pleas of guilty have been accepted by the state but the case on trial is the first to be contested.

The taking of evidence in the case was brought to an abrupt close at 3.45 p. m. Tuesday when the state rested after the day had been spent in the presentation of rebuttal testimony.

The defense sprang another surprise as court opened Tuesday morning

HENRY'S FREIGHT REDUCTIONS COME FASTER THAN LEGAL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Freight rate reductions on Henry Ford's Toledo, Detroit and Ironton railroad have been too rapid to comply with the interstate commerce commission's regulations. His application to file a tariff reducing by 2 per cent the rate on stone from Sibley, Michigan, to Detroit, was for this reason, denied by the commission.

Mr. Ford put into effect a reduction on July 26 of five cents a hundred on this traffic and under the regulations 30 days must elapse before additional reductions can be made in the same traffic.

TWO-YEAR-OLD GIRL BURNS TO DEATH IN RANGER.

By Associated Press.

RANGER, Texas, Aug. 2.—The two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Grace Wallace was burned to death this afternoon at the family home, a mile and a half north of Ranger. A gas stove is said to have exploded, and set fire to the room in which the baby was lying on a bed.

The house was beyond water connections and although the fire department made a run to the scene, the property was totally destroyed.

HOUSE VOTES CUT IN PAY TO TEACHERS

Salaries of University Instructors Reduced $105,000 by Legislative Action.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 2.—By a vote of 76 to 50 late today the house voted to reduce the salaries of professors and instructors of the Texas A. and M. College approximately $105,000 for the next two years when the amendment by Beasley of Hopkins carrying this reduction was adopted.

The fight for the reduction started early today. Mr. Beasley offered his amendment and the proponents led by himself and Representative Bonham, leader in the University salary reduction move, and the opponents of the amendment led by Miller of Dallas and Rountree of Brazos devoted the rest of the day to speaking for and against the amendment.

The salary reductions range from ten to twenty per cent with two instances of 25 per cent cuts.

Senator Hartzberg, a member of the penitentiary investigating committee, introduced a bill prohibiting the use of chains and stocks as a means of punishing state convicts. The bill also places restrictions on whipping convicts.

In a message Governor Neff submitted the Kerrville tubercular hospital for consideration, pointing out that he did so in order that the bill might be amended empowering the board of control to lease it to the federal government so that the federal intentions might be carried out.

The Patman anti-secret organization bill was introduced in the house. It makes it an offense for two or more persons to conspire together for the purpose of injuring or threatening in any way a person against whom no legal complaint has been filed. It also makes it an offense to appear in disguise. The penalty is fixed at a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000 and imprisonment of not less than one year nor more than ten years or both imprisonment and a fine.

Chick Gandill Gives Sailor's Farewell to Ban Johnson, "Goodbye, Good Luck and to ——— With You."

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The seven former Chicago White Sox baseball players and two others on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the public through throwing of the 1919 world's series games tonight were found not guilty by a jury.

The verdict was reached after two hours and forty-seven minutes of deliberation, but was not returned until forty minutes later, Judge Hugo M. Friend being out of court when the decision was reached.

The defendants were: Buck Weaver, third baseman; Oscar Felsch, outfielder; Charles Risberg, shortstop; Arnold Gandil, first baseman; Claude Williams and Eddie Cicotte, pitchers; Joe Jackson, outfielder, all former White Sox players, and Carl Zork of St. Louis, and David Zelcer of Des Moines.

Greet Verdict With Cheers

Announcement of the verdict was greeted by cheers by the several hundred persons who remained in court for the final decisions and shouts of "Hooray for the Clean Sox!"

Judge Friend congratulated the jury saying he thought it a just verdict. Eddie Cicotte was the first defendant to reach the jurors. He grabbed Williams Barrett by both hands, shouting his thanks. Joe Jackson, Claude Williams and the others were close behind as the jurors lifted them on their shoulders, while flashlight photographs were taken. Bailiffs vainly pounded for order, and finally noticing Judge Friend's smiles, joined in the whistling and

Caruso, Loved And Famed Son of Song, Has Gone to Join the Choir Celestial

By MRS. DONNA ROBERTS FITZGERALD

Caruso, magic maker of melody, golden throated king of the operatic stage, most wonderful of all the tenors since musical critics began to fashion the chronicles and pen the annals of songland, is dead.

His name was a household word. His fame was worldwide. He was as temperamental as a daughter of the gods, as charitable as a patrician in the days of the Ceasars, as generous to those he loved as any human mortal that ever trod the stage.

He had all the moods of the Latin, all the genius of the Latin, all the frailities of the Latin, all the virtues of the Latin, and for thirty years he held at his feet the lovers of grand opera in all lands and under all flags.

He had no near-rivals. He sat enthroned as the king. Death alone dared to challenge him for place and power and death conquered as death has conquered the mightiest as well as the lowliest since the race began.

He was born in Naples, born in poverty; he died in Naples after all the world had crowned him with its laurels and all the fame and golden favors that capricious Fortune showers upon her favorites.

Although he was an adopted citizen of America, he loved the place of his nativity, that city famed for its love and its license, its intrigue and its romance, its bandits and its art lovers, its ancient glories and its modern allurements. "See Naples and die," was the advice of one of the immortals who enriched literature with his gems.

Enrico Caruso first saw Naples as a waif in the streets. He supped in its garrets and his feast was a crust. He neither was of noble lineage or the sprig of an ancient tree. He had neither wealth nor influence nor position, but God had endowed him at birth with a throat whose chords could out-thrill the sweetest singers of the forests.

As a boy he sang his way into the hearts of patrons who helped him on the road. As a student he won the idolatry of his teachers. As a professional singer he captured the critics and the peoples of three continents. He was the idol of the opera lovers of Europe, the two Americas and Mexico.

Never in the history of this republic of ours has a professional singer had such a vogue and held it for so long a time against all comers from all countries. An Italian by birth, he became a naturalized citizen of the United States.

His romances and love conquests were as many and as varied as his roles in the operatic masterpieces and he fascinated the female of the species as he enchanted the lovers of song and melody.

He evaded the matrimonial noose for years until a fair daughter of Gotham ensnared him and walked him down the stately church aisle to the altar, regardless of the wrath of her irate father, who declared in a newspaper interview that neither his daughter nor her husband would ever be admitted within the pale of the exclusive social circles where his millions had permitted her to reign an exclusive daughter of fashion and folly, as a petted darling of the smart set.

His prophecy did not come true. Caruso and his bride broke down all the barriers, were welcomed everywhere and even Park Benjamin, man of iron, and worshipper of Mammon, finally surrendered and extended the paternal blessing to the Neapolitan king of song whose lovers and admirers were a thousand times more potential than Park Benjamin's dollars.

There was an earlier but not a legalized love in Italy, in Naples, the city of lure and license. She bore him two sons. Fame made his love grow cold for the woman but not for the boys. They fought with distinguished gallantry in the army of Italy throughout the world war. They won promotion and the decorations coveted by war heroes in every land from their king for their heroism under fire.

Their father educated them and gave them handsome allowances regardless of the incident of their accidental birth and was very proud of the valor they displayed as patriots in defense of their king and country.

There was only one Caruso. His like had never appeared before, if critics are to be believed, and may never appear again.

His life had its romance from the cradle to the grave. His life had its shadows from the cradle to the grave. If men whose lives were darkened by shadows of earth, reflect an image in heaven, who can say but that Caruso will sing with the Choir Celestial? Peace to his ashes, rest to his soul.

BRYCE SAYS TREATY SOWS SEED OF WAR

By Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 2. The seeds of future wars have been sown in Europe by the deliberations and findings of the Versailles conference, Viscount James Bryce said at the Institute of Politics at Williams college today in his second lecture on "international relations of the old world states." Discussing the framing of treaties by the representatives of the victorious powers, he said: "Their work has received in Europe nothing but censure."

"Comparing the treaties they framed with those which were made by the congress at Vienna in 1814-15 European critics observe that the men of Vienna, Alexander and Metternich, Talleyrand and Hardenberg and Castlereagh, may have had bad principles and employed despotic methods and misconceived the interests of their peoples, but they at least knew what they were doing, and gave effect to their principles. Their work bestowed upon Europe a tolerable peace which lasted for more than thirty years. But there is no one of the treaties of 1919-1920 which is not now already admitted to need amendment, while some are seen to lend straight to future wars.

Peace Bad As War.

"One hears people say 'the sort of peace that these negotiators have given us is as bad as the war.' The negotiations at Paris differed in their principles and ideals and some at least of them do not seem to have believed in the principles they professed.

"European critics have suggested that some of them may have thought they must play down to their own electorates and regard not what ought to be done, but what would help in the next electoral campaigns. Popular prejudices, popular passions and cupidities had to be humored or gratified. Moreover, and this is an excuse which must not be lightly brushed aside, the task before them was one of unprecedented diffficulty. New states had to be created, territories redistributed, indemnities secured, and all on a scale incomparably greater than any international congress ever before had attempted."

Taking up the position in which the European countries find themselves as the result of the peace treaty, Lord Bryce said:

"Germany, which, though reduced in area, is still Germany and continues to call herself the Reich (the realm), albeit now a republic instead of a monarchy—Germany is still the most populous of European countries after Russia, which, highly educated and industrious inhabitants and great productive industries. Between her and France the ancestral antagonism, dating back to the days of Louis XIV's aggressions, is now more bitter than ever, and seems likely to last in France as long as the generation lives which remembers the devastation wrought in 1917 by the retiring German army and in Germany as long as her government continues to pay immense sums in reparation for the losses in the war by France.

Malice Borne.

"This war has shown one unprecedented feature, painful in the prospect it opens. The victors bear as much resentment against the vanquished as the vanquished do against the victors. There is no blacker cloud, pregnant with future storm, hanging over Europe now that that which warkens the banks of the Rhine. Not even after Jena in 1806, not even after Gravelotte and Sewan and the capitulation of Paris in 1871, has the prospect of reconciliation between two neighboring peoples seemed so distant."

Of Austria and Italy's aspiration in regard to Tyrol, the speaker said:

"Italy had, of course, no historical title whatever to the purely German region she sought to acquire. However, hte principle of nationality was in this case thrown overboard. The British and French governments defended their action by pleading a secret treaty."

Turning to Russia, Lord Bryce discussed the prospects of the empire saying:

"If the experience of states which have in past times lapsed in anarchy or fallen under the dominion of groups of adventurers ruling by mere force without a shred of constitutional or moral authority, were to furnish any ground for a forecast, we should expect the rise of some military despotism like that of Bonaparte. But whence or when will the delivered appear? Three attempts have been made and have failed. Whoever re-establishes order will find a country from which most of its best men have been removed, some by starvation, many by murders, others by exile, so his task will be all the more difficult.

Russia Still Powerful.

"But it must be remembered that Russia herself once her internal troubles have subsided, and she is again a military power, will probably endeavor to reconquer all the territories which she has recently lost except perhaps Poland and Finland."

Turning to the Near East, Lord Bryce continued:

"For more than two centuries, in fact, ever since the weakness of the Turkish monarchy became evident and irremediable, Turkey has been the danger spot of the old world, when a state is both barbarous and decrepit, insurrection is the proper remedy."

PARRISH MAKES PLEA FOR U. S. RECLAMATION OF WEST TEXAS BY MEANS IRRIGATION SYSTEM

Rep. Lucian W. Parrish

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—According to the census department, the United States has a population of 110,000,000. Land will be scarce some day. The Herald prints the following letter:

To the Editor, The Washington Herald:

There are now in West Texas several hundred thousand acres of semi-arid land which can be made most desirable for farming purposes by means of irrigation. Most of this land can be irrigated at a reasonable cost and as a citizen of that section of the great state of Texas, I am most vitally interested in the passage of such laws as will properly encourage the reclamation of these valuable lands, and feel that the federal government by appropriation and otherwise should encourage in every possible way the people, not only in Texas, but throughout the entire United States, who just now are striving so hard to reclaim such lands and to make them suitable for homes.

With an ever increasing population, the time will soon come when America will find herself hard pressed to furnish homes and farms for her citizens, and if we exercise the foresight of a far-seeing people we will make ample provision for sane and conservative irrigation and reclamation of non-productive lands.

Money spent in this manner is not wasted, but is wisely invested and will bring to the nation a manyfold reward in the way of homes for its citizens and increased production.

He would work white convicts and Mexicans in the higher altitudes, work them as road builders, and in the coming years, Texas would have the finest system of public highways in America.

SENATE ENDS HEARINGS ON TARIFF BILL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The senate finance committee practically completed its hearings today on American valuation provisions in the Fordney tariff bill preparatory to determining later in the week whether they shall be retained as the basis of assessing duties. Three witnesses remain to be heard on the subject tomorrow.

Chairman Penrose announced that democratic as well as republican committee members would participate in the executive consideration of the subject. Calling in the minority members marks a departure from the usual methods of disposing of such problems by the majority party and from the course followed by the house ways and means committee in drafting the present bill.

As a result of the change in procedure many senators declared the American valuation section as drafted by the house had small chance of receiving committee approval. It was said that none of the democratic committee members favored it and that several republicans would oppose it. Sentiment has been evident in the committee for acceptance of the modified home value plan proposed by George C. Davis of the New York customs house.

This would place the burden of proof that the imports were comparable or comparative with American products on the domestic manufacturer instead of the custom service. The home value basis, it is claimed would be installed only in case where proof was forthcoming of the similarity of the articles in which event its proponents believe there would be little room for litigation over customs decisions as to values.

The point was made today by Thomas J. Doherty of New York, representing the national council of importers and traders that the house bill had given no definition of the terms, "comparable" and "competitive," he declared they could be construed in a score of ways and that the net result would be an endless tangle of controversies over whether particular imports had counterparts in the American wholesale market. He also asked the committee for a construction of the phrase "principal market." From which under the bill the prices for the home valuation must be taken for assessing duties.

CALIFORNIA OIL WORKERS WILL STRIKE

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Twenty thousand oil field workers in California will strike September 1, if the operators do not cancel a wage reduction of one dollar a day, according to telegrams sent by the oil workers today to President Harding and Secretaries Hoover, Davis and Denby. District officers of the oil workers union said the telegrams were sent only after the operators had refused to meet with them.

Administration heads were asked to use their good offices to compel the operators to assume a different attitude. Federal mediators who have been attempting to get the operators and employes together are said to be preparing to leave here.

CALOMEL LOSING OUT IN SOUTH

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day—Adv.

DEFENSE AND STATE REST IN MURDER TRIAL

when they announced they closed their main case.

After the state had rested Tuesday afternoon the defense after a few minutes consultation announced they would present no evidence in rebuttal. Adjournment until this morning was then announced.

Introducing the deputations of out of town residents together with the testimony of several local residents, all of whom were acquainted with the accused, the state Tuesday sought to offset the statements of defense witnesses on Monday tending to support the insanity plea which it is hoped will save the life of the former army officer or keep him out of the state penitentiary.

Loses Stoic Attitude.

For the first time since the trial of the case opened seven days ago the indifferent and stoic attitude of the accused man changed for a brief period. As Lee Huff, former chief of police, who obtained his first confession, again took the stand and told of the investigation that he conducted at the time of the tragedy, the accused leaned forward in his seat, fixed his eyes on the witness with an expresison of hatred on his face that attracted the attention of those within the bar of the court room. His wife sitting as usual beside him placed her hand on his shoulder and whispered to him in an attempt to calm his apparent rage.

For some time the accused kept his eyes fastened on the state witnesses but as the day wore on he resumed his indifferent attitude using his pencil continuously as with lowered head he drew pictures on paper that he has in front of him at all times.

Dr. W. M. Walker, county health officer, was the last witness in the case and the only expert witness called by the state.

Display of Heat.

His cross examination was featured with a display of heat between he and attorneys McDonald and Cummings for the defense. On one occasion Cummings jumped to his feet, declaring that the witness was acting in an insulting manner, endeavoring to avoid the proper answering of questions, and calling upon the court to reprimand the witness. The court did not carry out the request.

The tenseness of the day was relieved when the witness in cross examination told Attorney McDonald "people around town are saying you and I are both paranoiacs."

"I don't believe we are, however," Dr. Walker declared a moment later.

"Well is it not a fact that most paranoiacs don't think they are," questioned the attorney, the crowd bursting into laughter which called for a reprimand from the court.

The physician's testimony was in the nature of a rebuttal to that of physicians who testified for the defense late Monday in which they testified that the accused was suffering from paranoia, a form of insanity, hereditary, incurable, and which rendered the accused incapable of determining right from wrong as to the killing of his father.

In starting his examination of the witness District Attorney Wilson stated a lengthy hypothetical question to the witness which included practically every fact which the state claims they have shown in regard to the life of the witness and then asked the doctor if he believed granting the statements of the defense to be true, that he was sane or insane at the time he committed the act of killing his father and whether he was at the present time. The witness said, basing his opinion on the hypothetical question asked, that he believed the accused sane and later on the next question said that he did not believe him a paranoiac as testified by the expert witnesses for the defense.

As soon as the state finished examining the witness, Attorney McDonald began his rapid fire cross examination in which more heat was shown at any time during the trial. Again and again the attorney, asking technical questions which indicated that the witness and he had examined the same books together, sought to weaken the flat statement of the witness that he did not believe the accused suffering from peronia. The attorney questioned the professional ability of the witness in regard to insane cases.

Maintains Opinion.

The witness maintained his opinion, frequently interrupting the attorney as he read from books on insanity purported to be authorities and explaining his interpretation of what was said.

Attorney McDonald, basing his hypothetical questions on what apparently will be defense contentions as to the evidence in the case, asked whether or not the witness would not believe the accused a paranoiac, assuming that set of facts. The witness said in his opinion he still would not be. He explained the aloof and recluse life to which the defense witnesses testified as indicating melancholia, another form of insanity, in which the patient is harmless. He declared that other traits of the defendant to which the defendant testified might indicate some form of insanity but not paranoia.

After defense attorneys had cross examined at length, District Attorney Wilson brought out that Dr. Walker had been asked to testify for the defense as an expert. He said he had agreed to do so provided after examination of the accused he was satisfied that he was insane.

He said that he made the examination and informed the defendant's counsel a week ago that he could not testify that the accused was insane either at the present time or when he killed his father in February.

Defense Springs Surprise.

Immediately after court opened Tuesday morning the defense sprung a surprise and announced that they closed their main evidence. State attorneys then asked and were given a few minutes recess before starting their rebuttal.

The rebuttal was oponed by the reading of a deposition from James Barrow of Washington, D. C., who employed the accused in engineering work in 1905 and 1907. Based on his observation of the accused at that time he expressed the opinion that the accused was of sound mind. He mentioned the fact that the defendant while employed was in the habit of going about in the dead of winter without a coat on.

The deposition of William Davis, tenant on the Toussaint farm, near Washington, D. C., was then read, the witness stating that based on a casual acquaintance with the accused he considered him of sound mind.

The third deposition was that of Rufus C. Brown, salesman of Washington, D. C., who testified that he knew accused when a boy and that he considered him of sound mind. All three witnesses knew the father of the defendant.

Lee Huff Testified.

Lee Huff, chief of police at the time of the tragedy, then told the events leading up to and the manner in which he obtained the initial confession made by the accused as to the killing of his father on the afternoon following the killing.

"You murdered your father and I have got the goods on you," the former chief of police said he stated to the accused when after an all day investigation of the case he took the accused to a private room at the city hall and accused him of the crime.

A few minutes later the witness declared the witness said that he did kill his father and gave as the reason the fact that his father and he could not get along and the father "was going to give all his money to his brother, Rudolph, who did not deserve any of it." The remainder of the confession was substantially the same as that given later to Former District Attorney Jones and carried in full in Tuesday's issue of The Record News.

Says Express Regret.

"I am sorry that I killed father but I am mighty glad that he did not recognize me at the time I done it," was the statement made by the accused, the witness said, when he was brought back to the police station after he had taken the officers to where he had hid the pistol and watch, which he took from the person of the father after he had shot him.

The witness in answer to queries expressed the opinion that the accused was of sound mind and knew right from wrong on the night that he killed his father. This opinion was attacked by defense attorneys in cross examination. They brought out that the former police chief while employed as an officer at Waco thought a man sane accused of crime but that later a jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the grounds of insanity when the case was tried.

Testify Prisoner Sane.

W. G. Bralley, police and fire commissioner at the time of tragedy, John C. Paskins, contracting engineer of this city, who employed the accused for a few weeks, D. M. Perkins, local insurance man, who insured the fire station, which the accused and his father were building, H. R. Voelcker and J. G. Dixon of the firm of Dixon & Voelcker, architects, which had charge of the construction of the fire station for the city, Julian Montgomery, city engineer, all testified for the state that based on their acquaintance with accused, confined primarily to business associations, over a period of a few weeks to several months, that in their opinion the defendant was of sane mind, there being nothing in their relations with him that would indicate to the contrary.

"I declare," the accused said when J. G. Dixon told him in his office about the death of his father for the first time on the morning following the killing. The witness said the accused sat on a table for several minutes following the disclosure saying nothing and later left with Mr. Bralley to the undertaking parlors where the body was held.

Judge and Mrs. W. E. Fitzgerald, 2413 Ninth street, in whose servant house the defendant and his father were rooming at the time of the tragedy, testified that they had both known the accused during the five months that he stayed there. Both testified that they knew of nothing in their acquaintance with the accused that would indicate an unsound mind.

Closely Cross Examined.

In cross examining all the state rebuttal witnesses the defense brought out that they were testifying from what they knew of the defendant over a comparatively short period of time and that they knew nothing of his family history upon which to base their opinions as to the accused sanity. They further brought out that the witnesses for the most part had only come in contact with the accused in business matters and not in social association.

C. O. Willson, Record News reporter, testified as to a conversation that he had with the accused the Monday afternoon following the killing in the office of chief of police at the city hall. He said the conversation occurred about a half hour before the accused made his initial confession to Chief of Police Huff.

According to his testimony the accused in answer to question from from him declared that "if his father ever had an enemy he never knew it," and replying to a question as to who he thought had killed his father declared that it "looked funny to him that the family (Bruno) whose home his father had just left previous to the killing claimed that they knew nothing about it until the next morning although they lived within a block of where the shooting occurred." The witness said that the defendant was nervous while he talked to him.

MRS. S. S. ANDERSON SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

Succumbing to a lingering illness which followed an operation six years ago, Mrs. S. S. Anderson, 66 years of age, died Tuesday morning at 8:45 o'clock at the home of her son, W. W. Anderson, 1723 Huff avenue. For the past two months the deceased had been in a serious condition suffering from stomach troubles.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence with Rev. J. Lem Keevil, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Following the services the body was shipped by the O. W. Hines Undertaking company to Abilene for burial. The body was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hamilton of this city.

Besides the son, W. W. Anderson, the deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jewell Harkins. Both the survivors are connected with the Anderson dry goods store.

cheering. Hats sailed high in the air, papers were thrown around and the court room was the scene of the wildest confusion in any recent Cook county criminal case.

As the jurors filed out of the room they were slapped on the back and congratulatory words shouted to them by the spectators.

The defendants on hearing the nine verdicts solemnly read by the court clerk, gave vent to their feelings in varied manners. Throughout the hours the jury deliberated, the men on trial had paced up and down at times, gathered in little groups to quietly discuss the case, or remain scheduled.

Judge Delays Verdict

When the three loud knocks on the jury room door were heard, indicating a verdict, everyone jumped for the court room, but the excitement was momentary, it being sometime before Judge Friend could be reached.

Buck Weaver and "Swede" Risberg were the most excited over the verdict, grabbing each other by the arms and shouting in the gladness. Felsch and Williams merely smiled while Joe Jackson took the decision very quietly. Gandil shook hands with a few friends and quietly slipped from the court room. "I'll give a sailor's farewell to Ban Johnson," said Gandil. "Good-bye, good luck, and to —— with you."

"I knew I'd be cleared," said Weaver, "and I'm glad the public stood by me until the trial was over"

Williams termed the verdict a "true one" saying he was proud to have "come through clean."

Cicotte and Risberg rushed to telegraph offices to notify their wives.

David Zelcer will return to his home in Des Moines immediately and Carl Zork plans to leave for St. Louis tomorrow.

Henry Berger, defense counsel, termed the verdict a "complete vindication of the most mistrested ball players in history."

The state's attorneys were silent.

ed by a negro, would lead me to believe it was the work of either a white man or a white woman and that their purpose was to wreak bodily vengeance." Detective Miller said. "However," the detective added, "the belief of the girl that she was attacked by a negro, even though she is slightly uncertain makes it imperative that we conduct investigations in several channels."

Belief that the negro, Hamie Washington, who was transported to a nearby county seat to avoid possible difficulty with an armed mob, is innocent, was expressed by several officers. The negro, however is being kept in the jail to prevent any possible bodily harm. He was placed there by Constable Frank Morgan and Deputies Will Lay, and Art Blasingame shortly following his arrest by the constable's party in the negro section of the city.

Police Chief Morgan Tuesday expressed belief that the mystery will be entirely cleaned up by late Wednesday and that the guilty person will be in the hands of officers by that time. In this connection the chief declared that a negro is being held in another city who fits the description given by the injured woman.

Detective Miller spent several hours Tuesday with Mrs. Bennett at the hospital discussing every phase of the attack and endeavoring to aid her in establishing a full recollection of the events which transpired during her brief moment of consciousness during the attack, according to his report to Chief Morgan.

Mrs. Bennett was removed to her home late Tuesday afternoon. She was declared to be suffering no ill effects from the beating, but to the point of exhaustion from the constant stream of visiting friends and curious persons who have allowed her but very little time in which to rest and recover.

DEATH FOREVER STILLS VOICE OF NOTED TENOR

casions, such as his 1920 season in Havana, he was paid $10,000 a night.

Amazing Versatility

The list of Italian and French operas in which the noted tenor's name figures since he first sang in New York revealed an amazing versatility. In 16 years he sang no less than 549 times, in one season, 1907-08 making 51 appearances, a great test of endurance for any voice. He was unsparing, if not reckless, of his vocal powers. No grand opera tenor in America, from the days of Brignoli, Campanini, Ravelli, Tamagno and Jean de Reszke, it is recorded, ever reigned so long in popular favor.

Caruso, after his strenuous opera seasons, sometimes had trouble with his throat, which he usually overcame with a little rest and care and at certain inervals, rumors that "Caruso will never sing again," was frequently printed. In the winter of 1920, however, he suffered a serious affliction when a small blood vessel in his throat burst while he was singing in "E'lisie d'Amore" in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Recovered from this mishap, Caruso was stricken with pleurisy.

During his indisposition, Caruso was the object of devoted attention by his wife, formerly Miss Dorothy Benjamin, of New York, whom he married in 1918. One child was born to them. Caruso had a son by a former wife, a singer named Ada Ciachetti, with whom he had been associated in opera at Treviso and Bologna.

Had Varied Repertoire

Caruso's repertoire in America included the following: (Italian) "Aida," "Rigoletto," "La Boheme," "L'Africaine," "La Favorita," "La Somnanbula," "La Traviata," "Les Huguentos," "Fedora," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," "Cavallieria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "L'Amore dei tre re," "Un Ballo in Maschera," "Lodoletta," "Marta," "L'Elisir d' Amore," "Manon Lescaut," "Madama Butterfly," "La Fanciulla del West," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "La Gioconda," "Il Trovatore," "Don Giovanni," "Germania," "Iris," "Lucrezia Borgia," "Tosca," "La Forza del Destino," (French) "Les Pecheurs de Perles," "Armide," "Faust," "Julien," "Le Prophete," "Carmen," "Samson et Deilla," and "Manon."

The famous singer was the guest of honor at a silver jubilee celebration, on the 25th anniversary of his operatic debut, in November 1919, at the Metropolitan at which prominent New Yorkers, including the mayor and other officials, spoke of his great artistic achievements. He received an illuminated parchment from 35 families holding boxes in the $7,000,000 "Golden Horseshoe," a flag from the city of New York, several medals and numerous gifts from his fellow artists.

Mr. and Mrs. Caruso resided in New York City during the opera season. They had a summer home on Long Island and another residence, Ville alle Panche, at Florence, Italy.

PALL OF GLOOM CAST OVER WORLD

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The death of Enrico Caruso beneath the skies of his own Italy today caused sorrow on every highway and byway of New York.

Here he was loved by all, the poor of East Side tenements; the wealthy of Fifth avenue's stately mansions; the countless numbers who filled the seats of the Metropolitan opera house between the sparkling pit and the sombre galleries whenever the incomparable tenor sang a role.

Street sweepers stopped their work to mumble a prayer for the departed tenor; the cultured lamented the loss to art of one of its most cherished possessions. They felt the loss was not only America's but the world's.

Pay Him Homage

The homage paid him was never better realized than when his voice was silenced during his long illness last winter.

When he lay stricken, gallantly fighting against a death that seemed only hours away, ever expressing the hope that he might be spared until he could return to the soil that gave him birth, the meek and the mighty of every land prayed that the great tenor would be spared.

Princetones sent messages of hope to his bedside from every country that knew a cable station or a wireless plant.

To his hotel suite with the exquisite bouquets of the rich came simple garlands that expressed the love and admiration of the poor.

On the stage Caruso always was cheerful. His gaiety in responding to curtain calls, his gracious bows and unexpected tricks, his inexhaustible energy aroused an admiration that knew no boundaries, creeds or birth.

His joy was in singing.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES CHEER.

There are individuals whose spoken words are inspirational to others. These individuals ever face the morning. There are newspapers whose written words are ever inspirational. They cheer on the multitudes in their fields of endeavor. A great building and constructive newspaper is the Kansas City Star. An empire builder, the late William R. Nelson, made it so. He passed on but the spirit of Nelson still dominates all pages of the mighty newspaper that he builded. A recent number of the Star tells of the signs along the road back to prosperity. Labor efficiency is increasing. Those who have jobs are working harder. The spending spree is ended. Despite widespread unemployment savings deposits are growing. Luxuries are not being bought but there is a better demand for the more substantial things. The large crops promised this year will help the farmer out of his difficulty. Lower money rates being a loosening of credit. The financial structure of the nation is in good shape, has weathered the storm and is buttressed with ample reserves. The Washington correspondent of the star declares that pessimism is "over done." Upon several broad phases of the prosperity—or lack of it—situation, there seems to be general accord. One is that the country generally has rather overdone this thing of pessimism. There has been too much of it, bad as conditions have been. There has been too much nervousness and too prevalent a shaky feeling, which has made the situation worse than it ought to be.

For instance, Lord Northcliffe, the British publisher, who is about as keen an observer as exists, was struck upon by it on his arrival here. England, with her per capita debt that makes the American loan dwindle in comparison, with her Irish troubles, her costly coal strike her unions much more able to resist wage deflations than American labor, is taking the same calmness that makes the nervousness in the United States appear strange, in view of the far more favorable position in which this nation stands.

There is another phase upon which, likewise, there is no dispute—that is that the financial structure of the country has weathered the storm, is back buttressed with stronger reserves than have existed for several years and there should be a steady tendency to lower money rates, which, in due time, will reflect in increased industrial activity.

Even more striking is the increase in efficiency and lowered production costs reported to government bureaus in Washington from industry generally. It still is spotted, just as the degree of recovery of various lines of industry is spotted. But increased efficiency to a greater or less degree is evident anywhere and in every line. New England perhaps was hardest hit of all when the war bubble bursted—for the moment. the textile mills shut down with a bang. But unlike Middle West agriculture, which has a long, arduous pull, the mills reopened when buying resumed. Many of them are going full tilt now, evidence enough of returning buying power in the country. There are specific instances reported to government officials of large textile mills with 70 per cent of the number of employees during the war boom, are turning out the same volume of production. In other words, they've gone to work, like they did before the war spree.

The story and figures of increased efficiency in the motor car world are even more striking. The period of shut down in the late winter was used to weed out the incompetents and the idlers. The increased efficiency of labor has meant a greater reduction in the labor costs of the finished articles than the actual wage cuts. The industry is not back on its feet again for the simple reason that the average and higher priced cars are feeling the general surge for saving and retrenchment, which gives the low cost car the bulge. But the drive in the whole industry now is for economies and efficiencies rather than mere volume, which is regarded as a healthy sign.

According to this Washington correspondent a probably more important factor in the story where construction resists the upward trend is that the building and constructions trades and industries generally have shown more resistance to the general reflation and readjustment than other lines. Wages have not come down proportionately, labor efficiency has not gone up in the same degree as other lines.

Likewise prices in construction and even the basic materials like steel have not come down proportionately. Evidently, as some experts see it here, those who would go in for construction are waiting for the price to get within their reach. At any rate, the lines of industry, save agricultural and certain luxury or semi-luxury trades, that met readjustment head-on and accepted it, have recovered quickest.

The farmer may be interested in noting how his situation is viewed by the economists as distinguished by the politician. It is conceded frankly that agriculture has carried more than its share of readjustment, although how to avoid it, likewise is not seen.

Yet, admitting all the unfortunate factors for the American farm, it is in the sizable crops that are promised for this current season that the business experts are looking to most largely for getting things moving upward again on the prosperity road.

Lord Northcliffe controls more than one hundred newspaper publications in Great Britain. He is one of the most successful business men in the world. He has accumulated an enormous fortune. This is what he said to one of the editors of the New York Times:

"I am astonished and disappointed to find so much pessimism, so much uneasiness, so much nervousness, one might say, among business men I have met here. When a lot of American business men were over in England not long ago, they were very much impressed with the calmness they found everywhere. We were then in the midst of the coal strike, and industry was, of course, badly dislocated. Yet, there was no excitement, no demoralization among our business men. They had calm confidence that things would eventually right themselves. In America, you certainly have far more reason for feeling calm and confident. You have between a third and a half of all the gold in the world, and more is coming to you all the time. Your bank reserves are very high in comparison with the Bank of England's reserve. Yet business, I understand, is charged very much more for the use of money here than in London. Considering the conditions in both countries, it isn't easy to understand why there should be so much hesitancy, diffidence and nervousness here."

Lord Northcliffe should be told that Wall Street is not America.

WHAT PETROLEUM DID FOR THE OSAGE INDIANS.

Those who think the United States the richest nation per capita in the world are in error, says the magazine known as The Nation's Business. It is true that we have other countries on our ledgers for about ten billions of dollars and that our investors and bankers hold about eight billions more of obligations; and so we are inclined to think of ourselves smugly as cock of the monetary walk. As a matter of fact, the Croesus of nations is the Osage tribe of Indians.

Not long since, thirty thousand acres of Osage oil land near Tulsa, Oklahoma, was sold for a bonus of $4,500,000, plus a bonus of one-sixth of the oil products. The oil interests are tribal property, and this brought the individual Osage income, from papoose to grandparent, up to $10,000 a year. There are 2,100 Osages, and they run to large families. A family of ten, which is not unusual, thus has an annual income of $100,000.

This ancient tribe is nouveau riche. Fifteen years ago its members were so poor that each of them received from the Government an annual check for $265 and counted himself lucky to get it. That was after the Government had induced the Nation to give up its fairly fertile fields in Kansas and Missouri and move to what were known as "billy-goat" lands in Oklahoma.

Some time later, King Midas, in the person of an oil prospector, touched this Indian reservation.

Liberty Bonds subscriptions by Indians to the World War, running into the millions of dollars, first awakened the public to the importance of the race as a business factor. A glance at their income returns is enlightening.

In Oklahoma about 116,000 Indians received during the fiscal year ended June 20, 1920, (the latest data available), incomes aggregating more than $30,000,000; in North Dakota 9,000 received more than a million and a half; in Utah more than 11,000 received nearly two and a half millions; and in South Dakota 22,000 received about four and a third millions.

The total income of the race was $72,696,431 that year, and since then has greatly increased. Many of those not over-rich through oil are busy with basket weaving, pottery and other native pursuits; but they make good farmers, too, and about 50,000 of them are thus engaged. The crops raised, for instance, in Oklahoma and in South Dakota each amounted to substantially more than a million dollars. The total value of Indain crops was nearly $37,000,000 in the year named.

Cato Sells is a noted adopted son of Texas. More than eight years ago, Woodrow Wilson made Judge Sells Commissioner of Indian Affairs. He retired some time since when President Harding nominated Charles H. Burke of Nebraska to be his successor. Sells' administration of the affairs of the Indians established a new high record on the part of the Government in its dealing with the red man.

Not a scandal arose during the eight years; not an Indian was wronged; not a grafter was permitted to ply his calling; not a bootlegger was permitted to go unpunished.

One of the brightest chapters of the history of the Wilson administration is that which tells the story of the advancement of the Indians along the most modern lines during the eight years of Democratic control.

Shipments of cotton from Texas to Japan during the coming season will be far heavier than they were during the season which has just ended. This is a prediction made by the operating head of one of the largest Japanese cotton trading companies in the United States. Japan is rapidly recovering from war conditions and Japanese shippers are very active. Japan is a maritime power and, the ships of the Japanese traders are ready for business. Japanese buyers are said to be numerous in Texas and Oklahoma and it is said they are taking advantage of the lowest ocean rates from Pacific ports to Japan on cotton that ever has been quoted. There are good times coming.

Wheat growers are paying their debts.—Kansas City dispatch. Thousands of carloads of new grain are daily pouring into the markets and the wheat farmers of the west are enabled to liquidate their debts and country banks in turn are taking up their obligations with larger institutions. This is said to be the condition of business in the great wheat area of the Kansas-Missouri grain producing sections. Old Prosperity is coming back. It is true he may be walking, but he will get a swifter move on himself later along in the year.

FORAGE CROPS.

The acreage in kafir, sorghum, etc., for forage in 1919 was 4,737,843, and the production 7,906,554 tons. Five states reported more than 400,000 tons of these crops, as follows: Texas, 2,468,092 tons; Kansas, 1,928,698 tons; Oklahoma, 1,264,090 tons; Nebraska, 596,455 tons; and Colorado, 440,282 tons.

"Coarse forage," as reported in 1909, was composed chiefly of silage, except in those states where kafir, sorghum and other miscellaneous forage crops were of considerable importance. The total acreage in coarse forage in 1909 was 4,034,432, and the total production 9,982,305 tons.

There were 94,469 acres in root crops in 1919, as compared with 19,034 acres in 1909. The production in 1919 was 609,470 tons, as compared with 255,079 tons in 1909.

THE HELPING HAND.

Jim James was sick for many moons, and had to soak his silver spoons to purchase beeswax pills; the wolf was neighing at his door, and he was weak and sick and sore, and shy of dollar bills. And so it filled my heart with glee to call at times and leave a V, to help old Jim along; this way of aiding luckless men appeals to me a lot, but then some fellows say it's wrong. The drivesmiths daily seek my door to ask for bones and then some more, to help some distant cause; the starving Bedouin's lost his flocks, the Eskimo is needing socks, and I am Santa Claus. And I confess, with little shame, that I detest the "driving" game and hold it most unfair; and I'll discourage, while I live, the folks who tell me what to give, and how, and when, and where. When there's another drive in town I sometimes turn the drivesmiths down, and knock their nervy games; for when I have some extra bucks I'd rather buy some bottled nux for chaps like old Jim James. I'd rather help the guys I know, and let the festive Eskimo be shy a Sunday hat; across the alley there is grief, and I may give some small relief, and I'd fain stick to that. The country's free, and those who care to spread their largess everywhere have every human right; but old Jim James is pretty sick, and I'll take him an ice cream brick and codfish balls tonight.—Copyright, by George Matthew Adams.

It has been stated that women are undermining at its bases the stern masculine rule and that the world will soon be ruled by women. The battle between the sexes which is going on may bring about tragedies and catastrophes. Woman is growing stronger and stronger every day. She has invaded society, business and the professions. She considers herself superior to man and some scientists, professors and writers agree with her. They are the wise ones and wish to avoid trouble. They have chosen the only course which will defeat this terrible menace. Just yield tacitly and be acquiescent. At the proper time hand out a little well placed flattery and admire her personal appearance. Play dead and she will try to bring you back to life. Then you have an advantage and you can follow up. If you are civilized propose marriage and have children. Her interests will be absorbed by the children and she will forget her desire to rule the world, but she will rule it nevertheless through her progeny. In fact, does she not rule the world now? I have been in this world for 38 years and am over six feet tall and I have found that woman has ruled ever since I have been here.
Let them rule; who cares?

Breakfast Stories

A little girl has for a mother a charming woman prominent in public work. One day the child heard a calf, down in the barnyard, crying for its mother. She trotted thither and began consoling it through the bars.

"Don't cry, dear," said she. "Don't cry. Your mother will come home soon. She isn't lost. She's just gone to the club."

"Tomorrow," announced five-year-old Frank proudly to his Sunday school teacher, "is my birthday."

"Why," returned she, "it is mine, too."

The boy's face clouded with perplexity, and after a brief silence he said:

"How did you get so much bigger'n me?"

To make the sport more attractive, if possible, a brass band had been hired from the nearest town to play during an important match of the Studfurrow football club. A goodly crowd assembled in the meadow, but the musicians failed to materialize.

After watching the football for about half an hour, a bucolic-looking gentleman, who had been giving vent to frequent snorts of disgust, made his way to the gate and indignantly demanded his money back.

"Never seen a match before today," he explained, "and I never want to see another! Them footballers are too jealous for my liking, they don't give the band a chance!"

"But the band isn't here!" observed the gatekeeper.

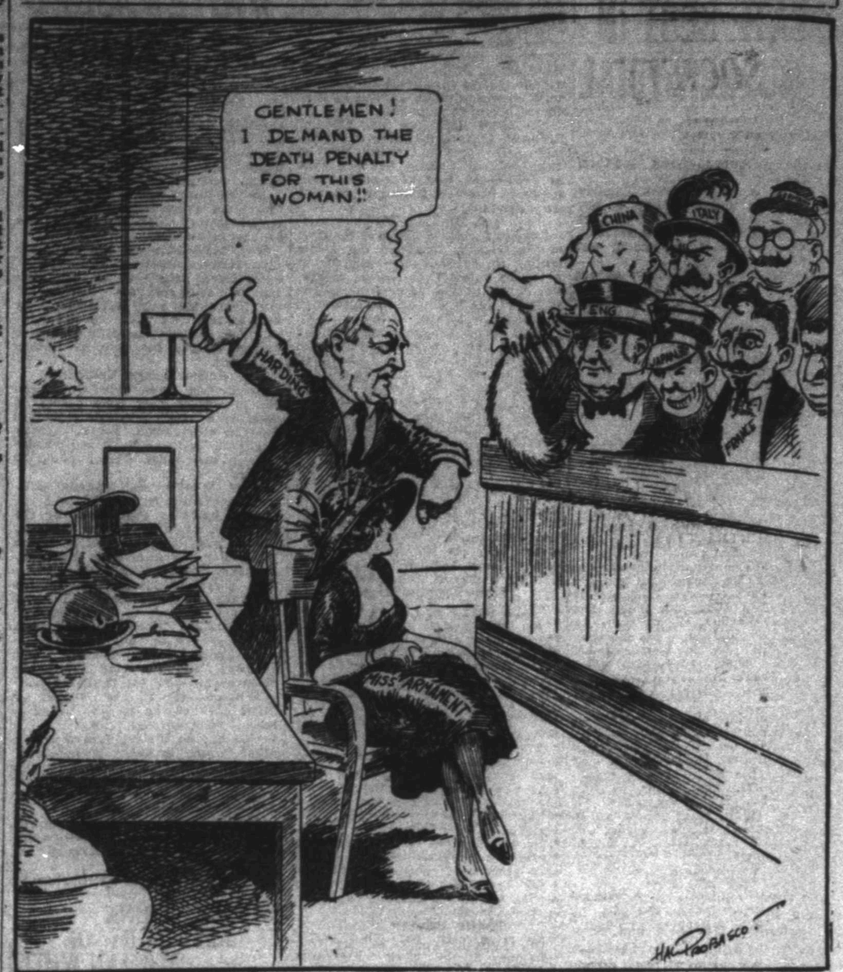

"There's one of 'em come, at any rate," came the answer. "That chap with the whistle yonder; but as soon as ever he starts to give a tune the footballers stop playing and threaten to punch his head!"

A FOOL THERE WAS

(Los Angeles Times)

A fool there was who bought a car—
To tell the truth, there many are
Of those who do this selfsame thing—
And swore: "I'll burn the roads, by jing,
In spite of any motor cop
Who tries to bring me to a stop!
The law he represents I spurn
And he will very quickly learn
That, when I wish to take a spin,
He'll have to fly to run me in!"
So, on the gas he sets his toe
And, pressing downward, makes her go
A pace of sixty miles an hour,
Or more—if it is in his power,
Regardless of congested streets
And other hindrances he meets
He steps upon the liquid gas
Just like the reckless, brainless ass
He is, and at full speed he goes
Until a somersault he throws,
Or runs into a moving train
And spills his microscopic brain,
Although to doing so averse,
He ends his speeding in a hearse.

THE PRICE OF COTTON

(From the Waco Times-Herald)

The esteemed Philadelphia Record sees proper thus to indulge itself concerning the great drop in the price of cotton:

"The price has been low since it became certain that the crop of 1920 would be large. On July 22, 1920, middling upland was quoted in New York at 43.75 cents, and on that date this year it was 12.75. The price a year ago was due to the belief that the crop would be a failure; the price last week was due to the fact that last year's crop proved the largest in five years, but it was also in the face of the fact that this year's crop is certain to be very short."

The esteemed Philadelphia Record is usually fairly accurate in what it has to say; concerning prices for cotton, however, we are disposed to look for some other cause for the great drop than that of the big crop of last year. Maybe this discussion by the Wichita Falls Record News will throw some light on the question:

"Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma is the father of the Federal Reserve Act. He has made a terrific indictment against the manipulators or alleged manipulators of the act. If he has the correct dope, the Federal Reserve Board has abdicated its powers in favor of the bankers who elect six out of nine Federal Reserve Bank directors.

"Senator Owen said these bankers were interested in increasing the purchasing power of the dollar and increasing the selling value of credit—that is in interest and commissions.

"Much of the present stagnation in business, he insisted, is due to the fact that the Federal Reserve Board has failed to meet its responsibilities properly. Declaring the Federal Reserve Board was created to control, regulate and stabilize credit in the interest of all the people, two years ago in July the board began to advise general and indiscriminating defation. Senator Owen admits that some deflation or credit constriction was necessary. It was necessary to restrict credit, which was being used in unduly speculation in commodities improper speculation in commodities as well as credit which was being used in profiteering, but he emphatically declared that general deflation was not only unnecessary, but wholly unwise and ruinous to legitimate production."

It has seemed to us, esteemed Philadelphia contemporary, that the policy of deflation brought on business stagnation, and hence the great drop in the price of cotton. The power to determine the amount, kind and rate of credit is one which no community should yield up to outside domination.

HER TREE.

(New York Times.)

She sowed a seed of Sorrow in the earth,
And oh, she watered it with bitter tears!
And then she turned her to her daily tasks
And set her face toward the coming years!

She could not stop to nurture it, nor tend,
Nor even watch its growth, unless she drew
Her time and strength away from all the cares
That each day brought—yet strong and straight it grew!

Frost did not kill nor hot suns wither it,
And it became, as years went by, a tree!
And passers-by would gather at her door,
For oh, its blossoms, they were fair to see!

And they would rest a while beneath its shade,
And rise, refreshed at last—rejoiced that they
Who journeyed wearily alone the road
Had found the tree she planted by the way!

And oft she heard them murmur, as they went,
A blessing on the planter of the tree!
But oh, they called it by another name—
They said it was the tree of Sympathy!

HILLS OF HOME

(New York Sun)

The sage-bush odors choke my breath,
The hot, dry dust-clouds burn and sting,
But the arid sands of the Valley of Death
Stretch away to the distant mountain's ring.

The snow-peaks there are too far for my going,
The fiery desert unsafe to roam,
And my heart grows sick for the blue waves flowing
In past the sea-girt hills of home.

O the low-kind hills of the coast!
These up-thrust peaks are harsh and drear,
And the great lands weary that never may boast
A sight of sad, blue water near.

Where a thunder of surf on the shingle is falling—
High leap the waves in the heart of me—
Give me my friendly hills and the calling
Voice of the deep-toned, salt-breathed sea.

Who's Who

Lord Middleton, who took a leading part in bringing about the peace conference between Irish leaders and the British government, is the most prominent member of the Unionist party in the south of Ireland. He is a large Irish landowner, owning almost 10,000 acres, and has been bitterly opposed to the ruthless campaign of the "Black and Tans" in the country. He has strongly censured the British government in both the house of commons and the house of lords. He has been actively cooperating with the peace with Ireland league, started by Lord Henry Bentnick, Lord Buckmaster and others, to create a moral propaganda in England which would force the government to take decisive action.

Lord Middleton.

Lord Middleton's sister, the Honorable Albinia Broderick, is a trained nurse, a well-known figure at the nurses' international congresses in London and elsewhere. She established a cottage hospital in Kerry several years ago, where medical attention for poor women was so badly needed. She is well loved among her neighbors, and is a familiar character tramping the country roads in top boots and short skirt. She recently became a convert to Sinn Fein.

Lord Middleton was born December 14, 1856. After receiving his education at Eton and Oxford he took up a career in politics. He was a member of parliament from 1880 to 1906; financial secretary to the British war office, 1886-92; under secretary of state for war, 1895-98; under secretary for foreign affairs, 1898-1900; secretary of state for war, 1900-3; secretary of state for India, 1903-5; alderman London county council, 1907-13; served on Irish convention, 1917-18.

L. H. WHITMAN WEDS SHERMAN GIRL.

A wedding, which took place in Denison Saturday, and which will be of interest to friends of the groom, who is a resident of this city, is reported in the Sherman Democrat as follows:

"A marriage, which came as a genuine surprise to friends of the contracting parties, was that of Miss Dorothy Yates of this city and H. L. Whitman of Wichita Falls, the ceremony having been read by the Rev. Long of the Baptist church in Denison.

"The bride, who is one of Sherman's most beloved girls, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Yates and a graduate of the Central High school, later attending Baylor university, where she met Mr. Whitman.

"The groom was a resident of Waco until recently when he moved to Wichita Falls to assume new business relations. Mr. and Mrs. Whitman will reside in Wichita Falls."

HOW TO MAKE PICNIC COFFEE

The cold picnic lunch probably is responsible for much indigestion and most of the dislike that many persons feel toward the conventional picnic. Such a lunch, however abundant, may leave you stuffed and torpid and yet unsatisfied. But take just the same food and add a cup of coffee and the change is almost magical.

In the opinion of experienced picnickers no outdoor meal is complete without hot coffee. Coffee kept hot in a vacuum bottle will answer the purpose, but it never tastes as good as coffee freshly made on the spot. Moreover nothing adds to the wild and woodsey feeling like a little fire.

Campfire cookery is not easy, but anyone can make picnic coffee. The only essentials are a fire, a coffee pot, coffee and water. If you have never tried it you will be surprised to see how small a fire you can get along with. The story is told of the president of a well known college who prided himself on his skill as a camper and once made a wager that he could make coffee for two with no other fuel than the copy of a New York newspaper. He won his wager although he had to use a Sunday paper to do it. The secret of making coffee outdoors is to conserve your heat so that it is concentrated on the coffee pot.

Build your little fire between two big stones placed about eight or ten inches apart. On the tops of the stones lay a makeshift gridiron on which to set the coffe pot. Two small iron bars will answer the purpose and it is worth while seeing that your equipment includes these because they save a lot of time and trouble.

Prepare for your coffee making before the picnic by grinding the coffee and tying it up loosely in a muslin bag. Grind it fine, about as fine as corn meal, and allow a heaping tablespoon for each cup to be served.

After your fire is going well, set on the coffee pot with the proper quantity of water, allowing an extra cupful for evaporation and absorption by the grounds. When the water comes to a boil, drop in your muslin bag of coffee, then remove the pot from the direct flame so the boiling will cease, but leave it near enough to the fire so that it will keep piping hot until ready to serve. If the water is boiling hard when the coffee is added the brew should be ready to drink in five minutes.

Lacking an orthodox coffee pot, you can make coffee just as good in a saucepan or any vessel that will hold water and stand heat. Be careful, however, not to use a utensil that allows the brew to come in contact with iron or steel. When liquid coffee touches these metals it undergoes a chemical change which turns it black. This is what happens when coffee is brewed in a vessel from which the tin or aluminum or enamel is worn so as to expose the steel foundation.

Another word of caution to the camper—the coffee pot should be washed clean after each using and scrubbed as carefully as any other cooking vessel. The custom of letting the grounds accumulate and using them two or three times over with the addition of a little fresh coffee each time may be followed by a few old-timers, but it is ruinous to flavor. Used coffee grounds are of no more good in making coffee than sand or sawdust.

Don't think because you are cooking for outdoor appetites that any kind of coffee will do. Buy a good brand and, if you are out for more than one day, grind it before starting and carry it in a tin can with a tightly fitting cover, or some other container that will keep out moisture and guard the delicious flavor. Don't leave the coffee can standing around open.—Kansas City Star.

THE FRUIT SALAD

There is no better foundation for any salad than the heart of head lettuce. A lobe of grapefruit or orange with the connecting tissue carefully removed, that nothing uneatable may detract from the lure of the salad, a lengthwise slice of banana, a half of a canned pear or peach, a small group of cherries or cut grapes, a touch of pineapple or any other canned or fresh fruit will enter well into the fruit salad. Nuts, figs and raisins may be used, but these are heavier than most of us wish in our spring salad.

The fruit salad is a grade more refined than the vegetable salad and must not be "boilered at" by a heavy dressing. Use the French dressing which differs from mayonnaise in being eggless. It is frequently prepared at table and the process is interesting to behold when the housewife is a creatur of poise and grace. If it stands long on the salad it will wilt it; it is generally put on when serving. For the French dressing mix salt, pepper and paprika and stir in four tablespoons each of vinegar and olive oil until slightly thickened.

Open Doors In Business

The Dentist

Dentistry is an appropriate field for women, although but few comparatively have so far entered it, and the girl who does must have pluck to combat popular prejudice. A number of women in the west are now earning an income of several thousand annually by dentistry. Dental schools are open to women, and in this field woman's reputation for painstaking detail work is an asset.

Dentistry requires great physical work. The dentist is on her feet all the time she is working. Eye strain is also a factor to be dealt with, and the continual close application is trying. The work is very interesting to those who have taste for scientific investigation and there is more variety than one would believe, each case presenting new problems and opportunity to do original experimentation. There is always something new to learn as dentistry is making rapid progress and great dentists are continually giving to the profession new ideas and discoveries.

As the American people increase in intelligence they give better care to their teeth. Inspection in the schools is discovering to many the need for dental work, and adults who formerly exchanged their own teeth for a set of false teeth are now making the fight to save them. All this gives increased volume of work to the dentist.

A course in dentistry usually requires three years with the usual college vacations. Its expense is a little more than regular college work, the tuition being about $200 yearly and there are laboratory expenses to pay. A diploma makes one a doctor of dental surgery.

To get into the work one may either engage herself to an established dentist for a few years until she gains confidence, acquaintance, and experience or she may "put out her shingle" and try to build up her own business for herself. Unless she has a large circle of friends who have confidence enough in her to employ her, she will find that business comes very slowly at first, and she cannot hope to become self-supporting within a year or two. Her office expenses will be somewhat heavy as she must be equipped with all the proper tools to do good work and beget confidence in the public, and her location must be desirable. However, if she is successful later, a few years of prosperity will enable her to pay the debts of the first years easily.

Child dentistry seems an especially appropriate field for a woman as most successful men dentists have not the time nor patience to work with small children and they would send to the child specialist a great deal of work if they felt assured that she would return their patients to them when they have their second teeth.

Orthodontia, or the straightening of teeth, is an appropriate field for a woman, or specializing in pyorrhea. The work of a specialist is less arduous than general dentistry but it takes longer to build up trade as a specialist, and this had better be postponed until later, after a few years of general practice.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

TIT FOR TAT.

And Arline seemed to fairly flutter round Ned for the rest of the evening. She looked like a blazing butterfly. Her gauzy dress floated about her slight form alluringly. She was the embodiment of girlish charm and beauty. She seemed bent on having every man in the place in love with her, if that were possible.

When Arline and Ned had stolen by the spot which sheltered Cherry and her adorer, the young husband's heart had missed a beat from sheer surprise. Then he had found his whole body tingling with some hugely, primitive sensation. The blood pounded in the back of his head to accompany his jealousy. Yes, Ned was plain, old-fashioned jealous.

He tried to stifle his own ignoble thoughts about his wife and his friend, but at the time it seemed impossible for him to do so. So this was the sort of girl his wife really was? No doubt she had been kissed and been made love to by innumerable men before his turn came along. If not, why had she not made some sort of protest when Hamlen embraced her? A good wife would have done so, without doubt. And Arline had also seen—there was the rub. Now she would have a very small opinion of a man like himself. A man who could not hold his wife after a few short months of matrimony. In turn his heart and head ached all the way back to the dancing.

Arline was her gayest. She patted his arm, and looked unutterable things into his eyes by the clear of the moon as they walked. In every way she let him know that she, too, had seen; also that she felt an infinite tender pity for his sorrow, plus a greater interest in him besides. Clever Arline!

There was only one thing for Ned to do, after their discovery, and that was to play the debonair Pierrot role himself. Come what may, he refused to be considered a husband, fooled. Neither would he let the girl beside him guess how deeply hurt he had been. But in this he overlooked woman-anly knowledge of masculine psychology entirely. Arline had noticed his start of horror as his eyes had fastened on Cherry in the arms of another man, also the gone look in his eyes when he had turned to answer some question of hers, after they had left the erring couple far behind.

And Arline felt strangely elated after the incident. Life seemed smiling and quite possible once more. And Ned was now at his best to her way of thinking. Gay, charming and very, very attentive to her in every way.

She fairly gurgled for joy when he suddenly pulled her roughly to him, murmuring in her ear, closely, with a flushed face:

"I want to dance this with you, Arle, with you only!" A thrill shot through the girl at his words, for he had called her by his old pet name, the name of long ago.

(To be continued.)

IMITATING MARY

This bit of philosophizing is contrary to the modern gospel of efficiency. It advocates for your cultivation a reactionary virtue—the gentle art of sometimes sitting down and letting things "rip."

In these strenuous times we are appealed to by this cause and that; impelled to seize this or that opportunity; pulled by an irresistable current into work outside the home, while within its four falls, there is the ever-present washing, ironing, baking, brewing, stitching, sweeping, dusting, and picking-up—and infinitum, ad nauseam—until we discover ourselves swept into the maelstrom, past all chance of slipping aside for awhile into some quiet bayou! Then suddenly we wake up to the fact that we are missing something.

As for man, happiness may be found in the chase; but to woman it commonly comes as she submits herself to quiet and lets its radiant effulgence envelop her. Sweetness is likely to be scared away by the whirring wheels of over-much activity.

How is a woman to keep her charm; how is she to develop magnanimity; how is she to maintain un-kinked nerves and a broad outlook on life; how is she to preserve the bubbling spring of joy, the love of life, of man, and of children, unless she dips deeply and often into leisure and swathes herself in big immensities of repose? Unless she strengthens herself to feel the influences and listens to hear the harmonies which summer and nature and life are pulsating about her?

In this age, leisure is only for the lazy or the courageous. It takes courage for the ambitious woman of today to turn the current of her life even for a time, into quiet channels. She must do many things which Mrs. Grundy would leave undone, and leave undone, and leave undone many things Mrs. Grundy would do. She must eliminate and simplify with ruthless wide spaces in which she may cultivate her own personality.

Such a program will release from the hustling treadmill of our complexities and give once a chance to become a vibrant flame of a woman instead of a pack horse. It will make life look big and sweet and beautiful instead of a ceaseless grind. It will keep our souls alive instead of choking out every tender sentiment and desire.

It is well enough to talk to the bride-housewife about the charms of efficiency; to hold up before her scrupulous ideals of method and intricacies of appointment; to instill in her habits of regularity and delight in the precise regime of the household.

But to the mother of a family, weathered in cares and apt to live in a rut, to such, who, whenever she lifts her eyes beholds ten things to do to one that she can do, it is wiser, far wiser, to say: "My dear, come ye apart awhile and rest! Do not always be a Martha, cumbered with much serving! Emulate Mary—she hath chosen the better part!"

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

In Blisters On Face and Hands, Cuticura Heals.

"Eczema broke out in little blisters on my face and hands and itched and burned so intensely that I scratched and irritated the affected parts. I could hardly bear to put my hands in water, and could not do my regular work. My face was much disfigured, and I lost a lot of rest at night because of the irritation.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using one cake of Soap and one box of Ointment I was completely healed, in one month." (Signed) Luther Stephens, R. F. D. 4, Box 55, Raleigh, N. C., July 27, 1920.

SUMMER SHORT CUTS

It is wisdom always to take the short cuts in housework. Life is so much a choosing and there are so many things more worth while than mere food and raiment. Time was when woman's sole activity was in the home and her conscience was not satisfied unless she took the longest and hardest way to keep the premises immaculate, dampening and ironing all the rags and scrubbing the kitchen floor on her knees. Now we have learned to choose only the most necessary demands for our time and to apply modern invention to the aid of housework.

In summer, when everybody needs a vacation, and yet the family must be served three meals daily, it is specially important that the housewife take the short cuts. There are many ways of doing this.

All the bric-a-brac which makes the house look cozy in winter could be stored out of sight for summer. That would give the house an airiness and roominess which is appropriate for hot weather.

When the business world is less strenuous, as it is in summer, all members of the family could take a turn at the housework program. A change is a test and the doing of a share of the labor would be somewhat of a vacation lark for those members of the family who are not used to it, if they will look at it in the right mood.

There's Just One Man We'd Hate to Be—And That One Man is Johnny Nee—That Poor Old Hard Luck Sonuvagun—He Always Loses by One Run!

SPUDS WIN OUT 1 TO 0 IN MOST SPECTACULAR 11-INNING GAME EVER PLAYED IN WICHITA FALLS

By C. F. CARTER.

Say, we haven't got our breath back yet! And our pulse is still hitting on all twelve!

Unlucky Johnny Nee! Let no man say Johnny hasn't got a ball club—and a jinx, also.

They never made but one ball club better than Johnny's San Antonio outfit—Walter Salm's got it, and it's a pippin; a fighting, hustling, keep-on-trying ball club.

And that ball club, known around the circuit as the Spudders, defeated the Bears yesterday 1 to 0 in eleven of the greatest innings of baseball ever seen in Wichita Falls—a game the equal of which you'll wait half your life to see; filled with one sensational play after another, sparkling bits of fielding, quick thinking, wonderful throwing and a pitchers' battle between Rube Marshall and Mutt Williams that was beautiful to watch.

That was a ball game de luxe, brothers; a creme de la creme among ball games; a ne plus ultra, e pluribus unum, pax vobiscum of a ball game. Nuf sed. Here's how she happened:

Read 'Em and Weep.

Three up and three down for both clubs in the first, with just nice clock-like playing to it.

SECOND: Tex McDonald threw out Connolly, but Henry cracked a two-bagger to right. Ewell Gross walloped one at Cecil Griggs that looked good for a hit, but Cecil snagged it and doubled Henry off second by yards.

The Spudders went out in order.

THIRD: Tex made a sweet running catch of Rodriquez's foul. Hruska lamed a double to left—and Cecil Griggs took care of both Williams and Fuller.

Three up and three down for the Spuds.

FOURTH: Tullos fouled out to Bischoff, but Bowen soaked a two-sack punch to center. Three innings in succession the second man up for the Bears landed on Rube for two bases. Danny Gross threw out Joe Connolly, and Rube and George intentionally walked Henry—and Danny Gross retired his big brother, Ewell, at first for the third out.

Again the Spudders went out one, two, three.

FIFTH: Rodriquez singled inside of third, and was sacrificed to second by Hruska. Williams fanned the atmosphere, and Danny Clark took care of Frankie Fuller.

In this inning, Clark found Williams for the first Spudder hit, a single through the box, and went to second on Jake Miller's sacrifice. Danny reached third while Williams was tossing out Griggs—but Mutt put on extra steam and fanned Caddy Works.

SIXTH: Tullos was thrown out by Clark, and Bowen shot a single through Danny Gross's legs. Connolly flied to Bob Bescher. Bowen stole second, and went to third when Henry cracked a single to left. Henry tried to steal second, but Bischoff and Gross nailed him on a fast play that checked the Bruin rally.

Look at This One.

Bischoff flied out to left, and Marshall fanned. Bescher singled to right center and went to second when Gross came through with a single to right. Tex McDonald singled to short filling the bases, Ewell Gross knocking the ball down and preventing a score on a pretty piece of fielding. Danny Clark got hold of one he liked and sent it on a line to deep center. Two runs were over the rubber, and McDonald was rounding third, when Joe Connolly made the most sensational catch ever seen at Athletic park. Running with his back to the ball, Joe went into the air and snagged the pill with his meat hand. It was a wonderful catch, and the grandstand applauded him to the echo when he came in.

SEVENTH: Ewell Gross started the Bears off with a wicked triple to right. Rodriquez popped to Danny Clark, and Hruska flied to Griggs who cut loose with a wonderful peg to the plate that sent E. Gross scurrying back to third, where he was stranded when Rube struck out Williams.

Jake Miller beat out an infield hit to third, but was caught off first a minute later on a lightning peg by Hruska. Griggs fanned and Works was thrown out by Fuller.

EIGHTH: Rube finally got the Bruins in one, two three order, and it became the Spudders turn to threaten.

Bischoff started it with a $5 double against the Fisher sign in left, and darned if Rube didn't lay down a perfect sacrifice and ease him along to third. But Bob Bescher struck out on a foul tip, and Danny Gross, with the count 3 and 2 on him, hit to Fuller and was thrown out at first.

And Look This Over.

NINTH: Connolly singled down third, and went to the third cushion when Tex pegged badly to first. It looked bad right there, but listen—Works grabbed Henry's high foul, and then the Spudder battery slipped one over on the Bears. The squeeze was on, but Rube pitched outside, Ewell gross missed the ball, Bischoff grabbed it and ran Connolly down on the line. Gross then drew a pass, and went to third, when Booe, batting for Rodriquez, singled to right. Booe stole second. Rube and George passed Hruska intentionally—filling the bases—and then Rube struck out Mutt Williams on three pitched balls. Wow! that was an inning!

TENTH: Fuller walked, but Tullos forced him at second, Rube grabbing the pill and making a perfect peg. Bowen dropped a Texas leaguer in short right center, which Griggs grabbed on the run, whipped to Danny Gross and got Tullos going to the second sack. Works took care of Joe Connolly.

And again the Spuds went out in order.

ELEVENTH: Clark threw out Henry. E. Gross poked a single through short and went to second when Tiner repeated the hit. Bob Bescher took care of Hruska, however, and Jake Miller gobbled Williams' fly.

Bob Bescher gave the Spuds a flying start in their half of the eleventh with a ringing two-bagger against the fence in right center. Bob went to third on Danny Gross's sacrifice. Tex McDonald rolled a weak one to Williams, and was safe when the Bear pitcher pegged badly to first—Bob, however, being held at third. The Bruins walked Clark intentionally filling the bases—and Jake Miller finally busted up the old pastime by squeezing Bob home with the one lone tally that won the game.

And, boy, howdy, wasn't that a game, though?

20 YEARS LATER WE'LL SEE ANOTHER TY COBB

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 2.—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who is here getting acquainted with his youngest son, born last week, will rejoin the club in Washington Wednesday.

RING CHAMPIONS HAVE HAD MIGHTY TOUGH SUMMER

It has been a tough summer for the champions in the six recognized ring divisions. Two of the six battlers who wore the crowns January 1 have lost them along the road. Pete Herman recently reclaimed the bantamweight title from Joe Lynch, who held it at the first of the year. Bryan Downey recently knocked out Johnny Wilson, who claimed the middleweight title. Jack Dempsey is the only one of the other four kings who has risked his title in a decision battle so far this year. Benny Leonard will place his in the ring early in August when he meets Tendler.

WHEN A FELLER'S IN A SLUMP

BY C. F. C.

When a feller's in a slump, and he cannot make the hump,
He feels blue;
I can't hit my weight in shingles, I don't get no two-base bingles,
Guess I'm through.

I was hittin' four-eleven, 'way up in the batters' heaven,
Goin' strong;
Then I spent a week without one, tried my best but couldn't clout one,
Something wrong.

Thought at first the streak would quit me, but the slump bug musta bit me,
Bit me right;
Got to worryin' right away, worried every doggone day,
Every night.

Batting practice I could soak 'em, hit 'em on the nose and poke 'em
Anywhere;
But with men on base I'm rotten, couldn't hit a bale of cotton,
Just the air.

Me, I never been a quitter, always was a husky hitter,
Nach'ral swing;
Now I'm like a semi-pro, reachin' for 'em high and low,
Anything

Pitcher throws one in the dirt, watch me tear my undershirt,
Swinging.
Ev'ry day my ears is full, with the bleachers' razz and bull,
Ringing.

There must be a jinx about me, say this club could do without me,
This-a-way.
If I don't start soon a-hittin', on that bench you'll find me sittin',
Ev'ry day.

I've tried everything I know, just to get me one good blow,
In a pinch;
I'm a useless, rotten rum; Godfrey! but I'm on the bum,
That's a cinch.

I'm up next? Oh, Lord, I'm sick! Where's that famous hitless stick?
Give it here.
'Bout all I can do with that is to take three wallops at Atmosphere!

Gee! I'm in a cruel slump, just can't seem to make the hump,
No can do.
Gosh! It's fierce to have a jinx. Darn! my batting av'rage stinks!
Hell! I'm blue!

BABE RUTH PLEASES KIDS BY BELTING BALLS TO STANDS

NEW YORG, Aug. 2.—Babe Ruth has inaugurated a new before-the-game pastime that has sent his stock soaring 100 points in the estimation of youthful fans.

During batting practice in the Cleveland series, the Babe has been filching old balls from the umpire's sacks, piling them in front of the visiting teams' dugout and lambasting them into the upper tier of the right field stands and the right field bleachers.

The scramble of youthful bodies that ensues affords the Khedive of Kill-Em great amusement.

WILSON AND DOWNEY BARRED IN NEW YORK

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The state boxing commission today refused to permit Bryan Downey and Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, to box in this state unless they settle in another bout the controversy which arose as to the result of their recent contest in Cleveland when Wilson was awarded the referee's decision on a foul.

HUMPHRIES TO SIGN CONTRACT WITH SPUDS?

Dick Humphries, one of the sweetest youthful right handers developed by the Texas league in some time, may be wearing a Spudder uniform within twenty-four hours. Dick was out at Athletic Park yesterday before the opener with the Bears, and had a long talk with Skipper Salm and R. O. Harvey—and the latter stated last night that the chance seemed rather bright for landing the former Exporter.

Humphries, it will be remembered, is the twirler who unfortunately, and accidentally, "beaned" Froggy Rothfuss several weeks ago. Shortly afterward Dick quit the Beaumont club. He and Pat Newnam, it seemed, failed to harmonize, and Dick decided to give up baseball for the season and devote his attention to business matters in his home town, Knox City.

Salm began angling for Humphries immediately, and at one time it seemed certain the Spudders would land him. But Dick had a pretty good job in Knox City, and was cleanining up on the side with the town semi-pro ball team; and he wasn't ready to get back in regular business.

Yesterday, however, he was in Wichita Falls to talk terms, it is understood. He went back to Knox City last night, and it is expected he will wire his final decision today.

Humphries should be a winning pitcher for the Spudders. He is young, has good curves, control and speed, and was traveling splendidly at the time he quit the Exporters.

HOLD TWO FOR DEATH OF HATFIELD

By Associated Press.

WELCH, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Two men were held today for the killing of Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, residents of Matewan, W. Va., shot here yesterday shortly before the former was to appear in circuit court to answer to a charge of being the instigator of the shooting at Mohawk, W. Va., a year ago.

Hatfield was one of the most picturesque characters in the state. Through his name and the romance attached to his participation in the Matewan battle in May, 1920, in which ten men were killed, his death was of sufficient significance to bring comment from Governor F. F. Morgan and C. E. Keeney, president of district 17, United Mine Workers of America.

Governor Morgan expressed his regret that the killings had occurred and Kenney termed the act as "murder."

C. E. Lively, a Baldwin-Felts detective, and George "Buster" Pence, a McDowell county deputy sheriff, were the two men of the five arrested who were held in connection with their deaths. Both Lively and Hatfield testified before the senate committee which was investigating the industrial situation in Mingo recently. Lively, as a detective of the Baldwin-Felts agency, posed as a union man in the Williamson coal fields and was criticized in the matter. Hatfield appeared on the stand in behalf of the United Mine Workers at Washington and attracted unusual attention there, through his reputation as a gun man.

One hundred special deputies patrolled the streets of Welch today, in order to prevent any untoward incidents. The bodies of Hatfield and Chambers were removed early this morning to Matewan.

NEW NATIONS COME INTO BEING DAILY ON BALTIC SHORE

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Comic-opera states have sprung up along the Baltic shores, the result of the partitioning of the old Russian Empire, according to a special correspondent of the London Observer.

Each of the three baby nations—Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania—is swelling with national pride. Having gained recognition from several big powers they are putting on all the airs of big nations, much after the manner of some Central American republics.

All three are spending large sums of money developing "national" operas, because France supports one. Jeweller designers have been called in to design decorations for various military orders suddenly springing up.

Barely a dozen trains are operated daily in the three states, over a few hundred miles of track. Yet each of the new-born nations has its "railway minister," with scores of subordinates. All three have cabinets modeled along the lines of those administering the affairs of the biggest European powers, with hosts of functionaries.

Every other person traveling the railways is a "diplomat." Even the "White Russian" government, representing Russian refugees scattered all over Europe, has its staff of diplomats, press bureaus and employes of all sorts. Their expenses are paid by contributions from wealthy adherents of the former Tsar, who escaped the Bolsheviks, and by the issue of innumerable varieties of postage stamps. None of these stamps would carry a letter or postcard a mile in any country in the world, but they are highly sought after by stamp collectors, hence the governmental revenue. One specimen alone is now quoted at five dollars apiece by London stamp collectors.

An American business man traveling the Baltic nations must suffer endless inconveniences from customs and passport officials at every frontier. Not so with the "diplomats." Equipped with papers from the Lithuanian, Latvian, Esthonian or White Russian government, they pass customs officials without any questions, and it is generally understood that much of the smuggling alon gthe Baltic goes on in this manner.

French girls were quick to seize the opportunity to demand gold pieces—and they are very rare in France—of their lovers. One French actress announces that she now keeps hers up with gold pieces studed with diamonds.

"TOY PISTOL" MAY CAUSE CLERK'S DEATH.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Ill., Aug. 2.—A small calibre cartridge, placed in a toy pistol by a boy, probably will cause the death of Joseph McCord, a drug clerk. A doctor took the weapon from the boy, entered the drug store and playfully placed the muzzle against McCord's stomach and pulled the trigger. The doctor thought there was only a blank cartridge in the weapon.

FRANCE AND VATICAN RESUME RELATIONS.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Resumption of diplomatic relations between France and the vatican have been formally effected by the arrival in this city from Rome of Archbishop Beneventura Seretti, who will act as papal nucio here.

DISABLED VETS ASK SAME PAY AS REGULARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The disabled emergency officers of the world war, with national headquarters here, is conducting a vigorous campaign in congress for the elimination of alleged discrimination between volunteers and West Pointers in the matter of retirement pay.

The first real victory came when the senate received from its military affairs committee a favorable report to retire emergency officers who were disabled in service with the same retirement compensation as now goes to retiring military academy officers who are retired because of disabilities.

Dozens of emergency officers who are still in the hospitals have already joined the officers' union, having as its object the pressing of their claims, and since the senate received the report from the military committee there has been a steady flow of applications from disabled leaders in all parts of the country joining the association. With a bitter fight now on aganst the proposed adjusted compensation the disabled officers think there is more reason than ever before that they should be most active and many congressmen and senators have received letters from home asking that they support the bills for the elimination of alleged injustice in favor of the regular officers.

Section 10 of the selective service act said that "all officers and enlisted men of the forces herein provided for other than the regular army shall be in all respects on the same footing as to pay, allowances and PENSIONS as officers and enlisted men of corresponding grades and length of service in the regular army.

Unfairness Is Charged

The Disabled Emergency Officers' Union is pointing out that the only pension allowed officers of the regular army for disability is retirement pay and it is claimed that congress said in the selective service act that the emergency officers were to receive the same treatment. It is on this point that the volunteers are making their fight, which has become more intense since the claim was made that the war department is opposed to the proposed legislation now before congress.

It is pointed out that the records show only 5 per cent of the West Pointers saw service overseas as line officers and the volunteers who led the vast majority of the regular army, national guard and national army outfits and who are today suffering from physical impairment, insist they are not being fairly treated.

The national headquarters of the officers here is of the opinion that favorable legislation will be properly acted upon when it comes before the house and senate in open session and it is in order to strengthen their ranks that they are now enlisting members to their organization. The American Legion has already gone on record in national convention supporting the bill and the officers' society is working closely with the legion in attempting to reach its objective.

HARDING MAY SEND DELEGATE TO PRESS MEET

HONOLULU, Hawaii, July 31.—President Warren G. Harding, himself a newspaperman, may send a member of his cabinet to Honolulu in October to deliver the opening address at the sessions of the Press Congress of the World.

Information to this effect has been received by Governor Wallace R. Farrington, chairman of the Hawaiian executive committee of the congress, from Dr. Walter Williams, president of the congress and dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri. Although Dr. Williams' advices are as yet unofficial, it is planned to have a committee of representative journalists call at the White House soon and present the request to the president.

The state department has already sent to all countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations an official invitation to be represented at the Press Congress sessions. Dr. Williams, in a telegram to Governor Farrington, says that, according to the present outlook, the congress will be attended by between 40 0 and 500 representative journalists and that many of them will bring their wives or other members of their families.

A solid special train from Chicago and possibly from New York, to the Pacific coast, for the accommodation of the delegates, is now practically assured, and a number of receptions en route are being arranged. The all-year tourist rate for the delegates has been decided upon by the trans-continnental railroads, although this may be modified. Negotiations for chartering a special steamer to bring the delegates to Hawaii are progressing favorably, Dr. Williams says. He adds that intense interest in the congress is being shown both in the United States and in foreign countries and that an excellent business program is in course of preparation at Columbia, Mo.

The British Empire Press Union will send as its delegate Colonel Edward Frederick Lawson, assistant managing director of the London Telegraph and nephew and heir of Viscount Burnham, proprietor of the Telegraph.

At Honolulu plans for the entertainment of the delegates are going ahead rapidly, and people of all nationalities are co-operating to make the program one of the finest ever arranged in the islands.

MISSOURI FARMER SEIZED AND BEATEN

By Associated Press.

NORBONNE, Mo., Aug. 2.—John Craig, wealthy retired farmer, was seized by masked men last Friday night and taken in an automobile a mile from town where he was whipped severely, it was learned today. The men, it was said, told Craig to "treat his family better."

Charlotte Bronte's writing was so small that it appeared to have been traced with a needle.

THE U. S. NOBBY TREAD

Where the going is specially heavy with snow, mud or sand, in hilly country where maximum traction on the road is a factor, no other tire tread yet devised is quite so effective, or so wholly approved by motoring opinion, as the U. S. Nobby Tread.

Its very simplicity—three rows of diagonal knobs, gripping the road—is the result of all the years of U. S. Rubber experience with every type of road the world over.

If every one listened to experience, how much they'd save

STOP and talk to the next man you see with U. S. Tires on his car. Ask him why.

Most likely you'll hear an interesting story about his tire experiments—before the answer was found. Money wasted. Promises unkept. Trouble on the road—humorous to every one except the man who went through it.

Finally U. S. Tires. And U. S. Tires ever since.

Perhaps it's the experience of U. S. Tire buyers that makes them more emphatic in their preference than ever this year.

When these men have tried most everything by the way of "staggering bargains", "hurrah discounts", "discontinued lines at less" and so forth they know what not to get.

They want a fresh, live tire. With a good reputation. That's everything it says it is. With the people behind it who back it up.

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches.

Your local U. S. Dealer is drawing upon them continually to keep his stocks sized up, complete—to give you service.

Whenever he gets one or a hundred tires from a U. S. Factory Branch, they are newly made this season's tires.

Sold to you at a net price. Full values. Square-dealing. A reputable maker. A reputable dealer. The whole transaction as befits the leadership of the oldest and largest rubber organization in the world.

There's Just One Man We'd Hate to Be—And That One Man is Johnny Nee—That Poor Old Hard Luck Sonuvagun—He Always Loses by One Run!

SPUDS WIN OUT 1 TO 0 IN MOST SPECTACULAR 11-INNING GAME EVER PLAYED IN WICHITA FALLS

By C. F. CARTER.

Say, we haven't got our breath back yet! And our pulse is still hitting on all twelve!

Unlucky Johnny Nee! Let no man say Johnny hasn't got a ball club—and a jinx, also.

They never made but one ball club better than Johnny's San Antonio outfit—Walter Salm's got it, and it's a pippin; a fighting, hustling, keep-on-trying ball club.

And that ball club, known around the circuit as the Spudders, defeated the Bears yesterday 1 to 0 in eleven of the greatest innings of baseball ever seen in Wichita Falls—a game the equal of which you'll wait half your life to see; filled with one sensational play after another, sparkling bits of fielding, quick thinking, wonderful throwing and a pitchers' battle between Rube Marshall and Mutt Williams that was beautiful to watch.

That was a ball game de luxe, brothers; a creme de la creme among ball games; a ne plus ultra, e pluribus unum, pax vobiscum of a ball game. Nuf sed. Here's how she happened:

Read 'Em and Weep.

Three up and three down for both clubs in the first, with just nice clocklike playing to it.

SECOND: Tex McDonald threw out Connolly, but Henry cracked a two-bagger to right. Ewell Gross walloped one at Cecil Griggs that looked good for a hit, but Cecil snagged it and doubled Henry off second by yards.

The Spudders went out in order.

THIRD: Tex made a sweet running catch of Rodriquez's foul. Hruska lamed a double to left—and Cecil Griggs took care of both Williams and Fuller.

Three up and three down for the Spuds.

FOURTH: Tullos fouled out to Bischoff, but Bowen soaked a two-sack punch to center. Three innings in succession the second man up for the Bears landed on Rube for two bases. Danny Gross threw out Joe Connolly, and Rube and George intentionally walked Henry—and Danny Gross retired his big brother, Ewell, at first for the third out.

Again the Spudders went out one, two, three.

FIFTH: Rodriquez singled inside of third, and was sacrificed to second by Hruska. Williams fanned the atmosphere, and Danny Clark took care of Frankie Fuller.

In this inning, Clark found Williams for the first Spudder hit, a single through the box, and went to second on Jake Miller's sacrifice Danny reached third while Williams was tossing out Griggs—but Mutt put on extra steam and fanned Caddy Works.

SIXTH: Tullos was thrown out by Clark, and Bowen shot a single through Danny Gross's legs. Connolly flied to Bob Bescher. Bowen stole second, and went to third when Henry cracked a single to left. Henry tried to steal second, but Bischoff and Gross nailed him on a fast play that checked the Bruin rally.

Look at This One.

Bischoff flied out to left, and Marshall fanned. Bescher singled to right center and went to second when Gross came through with a single to right. Tex McDonald singled to short filling the bases, Ewell Gross knocking the ball down and preventing a score on a pretty piece of fielding. Danny Clark got hold of one he liked and sent it on a line to deep center. Two runs were over the rubber, and McDonald was rounding third, when Joe Connolly made the most sensational catch ever seen at Athletic park. Running with his back to the ball, Joe went into the air and snagged the pill with his meat hand. It was a wonderful catch, and the grandstand applauded him to the echo when he came in.

SEVENTH: Ewell Gross started the Bears off with a wicked triple to right. Rodriquez popped to Danny Clark, and Hruska flied to Griggs who cut loose with a wonderful peg to the plate that sent E. Gross scurrying back to third, where he was stranded when Rube struck out Williams.

Jake Miller beat out an infield hit to third, but was caught off first a minute later on a lightning peg by Hruska. Griggs fanned and Works was thrown out by Fuller.

EIGHTH: Rube finally got the Bruins in one, two three order, and it became the Spudders turn to threaten.

Bischoff started it with a $5 double against the Fisher sign in left, and darned if Rube didn't lay down a perfect sacrifice and ease him along to third. But Bob Bescher struck out on a foul tip, and Danny Gross, with the count 3 and 2 on him, hit to Fuller and was thrown out at first.

And Look This Over.

NINTH: Connolly singled down third, and went to the third cushion when Tex pegged badly to first. It looked bad right there, but listen—Works grabbed Henry's high foul, and then the Spudder battery slipped one over on the Bears. The squeeze was on, but Rube pitched outside, Ewell gross missed the ball, Bischoff grabbed it and ran Connolly down on the line. Gross then drew a pass, and went to third, when Booe, batting for Rodriquez, singled to right. Booe stole second. Rube and George passed Hruska intentionally—filling the bases—and then Rube struck out Mutt Williams on three pitched balls. Wow! that was an inning!

TENTH: Fuller walked, but Tullos forced him at second, Rube grabbing the pill and making a perfect peg. Bowen dropped a Texas leaguer in short right center, which Griggs grabbed on the run, whipped to Danny Gross and got Tullos going to the second sack. Works took care of Joe Connolly.

And again the Spuds went out in order.

ELEVENTH: Clark threw out Henry. E. Gross poked a single through short and went to second when Tiner repeated the hit. Bob Bescher took care of Hruska, however, and Jake Miller gobbled Williams' fly.

Bob Bescher gave the Spuds a flying start in their half of the eleventh with a ringing two-bagger against the fence in right center. Bob went to third on Danny Gross's sacrifice. Tex McDonald rolled a weak one to Williams, and was safe when the Bear pitcher pegged badly to first—Bob, however, being held at third. The Bruins walked Clark intentionally filling the bases—and Jake Miller finally busted up the old pastime by squeezing Bob home with the one lone tally that won the game.

And, boy, howdy, wasn't that a game, though?

20 YEARS LATER WE'LL SEE ANOTHER TY COBB

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 2.—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who is here getting acquainted with his youngest son, born last week, will rejoin the club in Washington Wednesday.

It has been a tough summer for the champions in the six recognized ring divisions. Two of the six battlers who wore the crowns January 1 have lost them along the road. Pete Herman recently reclaimed the bantamweight title from Joe Lynch, who held it at the first of the year. Bryan Downey recently knocked out Johnny Wilson, who claimed the middleweight title. Jack Dempsey is the only one of the other four kings who has risked his title in a decision battle so far this year. Benny Leonard will place his in the ring early in August when he meets Tendler.

WHEN A FELLER'S IN A SLUMP

BY C. F. C.

When a feller's in a slump, and he cannot make the hump,
He feels blue;
I can't hit my weight in shingles, I don't get no two-base bingles,
Guess I'm through.

I was hittin' four-eleven, 'way up in the batters' heaven,
Goin' strong;
Then I spent a week without one, tried my best but couldn't clout one,
Something wrong.

Thought at first the streak would quit me, but the slump bug musta bit me,
Bit me right;
Got to worryin' right away, worried every doggone day,
Every night.

Batting practice I could soak 'em, hit 'em on the nose and poke 'em
Anywhere;
But with men on base I'm rotten, couldn't hit a bale of cotton,
Just the air.

Me, I never been a quitter, always was a husky hitter,
Nach'ral swing;
Now I'm like a semi-pro, reachin' for 'em high and low,
Anything

Pitcher throws one in the dirt, watch me tear my undershirt,
Swinging.
Ev'ry day my ears is full, with the bleachers' razz and bull,
Ringing.

There must be a jinx about me, say this club could do without me,
This-a-way.
If I don't start soon a-hittin', on that bench you'll find me sittin',
Ev'ry day.

I've tried everything I know, just to get me one good blow,
In a pinch;
I'm a useless, rotten rum; Godfrey! but I'm on the bum,
That's a cinch.

I'm up next? Oh, Lord, I'm sick! Where's that famous hitless stick?
Give it here.
'Bout all I can do with that is to take three wallops at Atmosphere!

Gee! I'm in a cruel slump, just can't seem to make the hump,
No can do.
Gosh! It's fierce to have a jinx. Darn! my batting av'rage stinks!
Hell! I'm blue!

BABE RUTH PLEASES KIDS BY BELTING BALLS TO STANDS

NEW YORG, Aug. 2.—Babe Ruth has inaugurated a new before-the-game pastime that has sent his stock soaring 100 points in the estimation of youthful fans.

During batting practice in the Cleveland series, the Babe has been filching old balls from the umpire's sacks, piling them in front of the visiting teams' dugout and lambasting them into the upper tier of the right field stands and the right field bleachers.

The scramble of youthful bodies that ensues affords the Khedive of Kill-Em great amusement.

WILSON AND DOWNEY BARRED IN NEW YORK

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The state boxing commission today refused to permit Bryan Downey and Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, to box in this state unless they settle in another bout the controversy which arose as to the result of their recent contest in Cleveland when Wilson was awarded the referee's decision on a foul.

LEONARD TRAINS ONLY WITH LEFT HANDERS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, will be well accustomed to left handed fighters when he engages Lew Tendler in an eight round no-decision contest in Philadelphia, August 12. Leonard has engaged a squad of sparring partners who stand with their right hand and arm forward and is working with them daily o the exclusion of all boxers of the natural type.

HUMPHRIES TO SIGN CONTRACT WITH SPUDS?

Dick Humphries, one of the sweetest youthful right handers developed by the Texas league in some time, may be wearing a Spudder uniform within twenty-four hours. Dick was out at Athletic Park yesterday before the opener with the Bears, and had a long talk with Skipper Salm and R. O. Harvey—and the latter stated last night that the chance seemed rather bright for landing the former Exporter.

Humphries, it will be remembered, is the twirler who unfortunately, and accidentally, "beaned" Froggy Rothfuss several weeks ago. Shortly afterward Dick quit the Beaumont club. He and Pat Newnam, it seemed, failed to harmonize, and Dick decided to give up baseball for the season and devote his attention to business matters in his home town, Knox City.

Salm began angling for Humphries immediately, and at one time it seemed certain the Spudders would land him. But Dick had a pretty good job in Knox City, and was cleanining up on the side with the town semi-pro ball team; and he wasn't ready to get back in regular business.

Yesterday, however, he was in Wichita Falls to talk terms, it is understood. He went back to Knox City last night, and it is expected he will wire his final decision today.

Humphries should be a winning pitcher for the Spudders. He is young, has good curves, control and speed, and was traveling splendidly at the time he quit the Exporters.

HOLD TWO FOR DEATH OF HATFIELD

By Associated Press.

WELCH, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Two men were held today for the killing of Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, residents of Matewan, W. Va., shot here yesterday shortly before the former was to appear in circuit court to answer to a charge of being the instigator of the shooting at Mohawk, W. Va., a year ago.

Hatfield was one of the most picturesque characters in the state. Through his name and the romance attached to his participation in the Matewan battle in May, 1920, in which ten men were killed, his death was of sufficient significance to bring comment from Governor F. F. Morgan and C. F. Keeney, president of district 17, United Mine Workers of America.

Governor Morgan expressed his regret that the killings had occurred and Keeney termed the act as "murder."

C. E. Lively, a Baldwin-Felts detective, and George "Buster" Pence, a McDowell county deputy sheriff, were the two men of the five arrested who were held in connection with their deaths. Both Lively and Hatfield testified before the senate committee which was investigating the industrial situation in Mingo recently. Lively, as a detective of the Baldwin-Felts agency, posed as a union man in the Williamson coal fields and was criticized in the matter. Hatfield appeared on the stand in behalf of the United Mine Workers at Washington and attracted unusual attention there, through his reputation as a gun man.

One hundred special deputies patrolled the streets of Welch today, in order to prevent any untoward incidents. The bodies of Hatfield and Chambers were removed early this morning to Matewan.

NEW NATIONS COME INTO BEING DAILY ON BALTIC SHORE

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Comic-opera states have sprung up along the Baltic shores, the result of the partitioning of the old Russian Empire, according to a special correspondent of the London Observer.

Each of the three baby nations—Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania—is swelling with national pride. Having gained recognition from several big powers they are putting on all the airs of big nations, much after the manner of some Central American republics.

All three are spending large sums of money developing "national" operas, because France supports one. Jeweller designers have been called in to design decorations for various military orders suddenly springing up.

Barely a dozen trains are operated daily in the three states, over a few hundred miles of track. Yet each of the new-born nations has its "railway minister," with scores of subordinates. All three have cabinets modeled along the lines of those administering the affairs of the biggest European powers, with hosts of functionaries.

Every other person traveling the railways is a "diplomat." Even the "White Russian" government, representing Russian refugees scattered all over Europe, has its staff of diplomats, press bureaus and employes of all sorts. Their expenses are paid by contributions from wealthy adherents of the former Tsar, who escaped the Bolsheviks, and by the issue of innumerable varieties of postage stamps. None of these stamps would carry a letter or postcard a mile in any country in the world, but they are highly sought after by stamp collectors, hence the governmental revenue. One specimen alone is now quoted at five dollars apiece by London stamp collectors.

An American business man traveling the Baltic nations must suffer endless inconveniences from customs and passport officials at every frontier. Not so with the "diplomats." Equipped with papers from the Lithuanian, Latvian, Esthonian or White Russian government, they pass customs officials without any questions, and it is generally understood that much of the smuggling alon gthe Baltic goes on in this manner.

"TOY PISTOL" MAY CAUSE CLERK'S DEATH.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Ill., Aug. 2.—A small calibre cartridge, placed in a toy pistol by a boy, probably will cause the death of Joseph McCord, a drug clerk.

A doctor took the weapon from the boy, entered the drug store and playfully placed the muzzle against McCord's stomach and pulled the trigger. The doctor thought there was only a blank cartridge in the weapon.

DISABLED VETS ASK SAME PAY AS REGULARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The disabled emergency officers of the world war, with national headquarters here, is conducting a vigorous campaign in congress for the elimination of alleged discrimination between volunteers and West Pointers in the matter of retirement pay.

The first real victory came when the senate received from its military affairs committee a favorable report to retire emergency officers who were disabled in service with the same retirement compensation as now goes to retiring military academy officers who are retired because of disabilities.

Dozens of emergency officers who are still in the hospitals have already joined the officers' union, having as its object the pressing of their claims, and since the senate received the report from the military committee there has been a steady flow of applications from disabled leaders in all parts of the country joining the association. With a bitter fight now on aganst the proposed adjusted compensation the disabled officers think there is more reason than ever before that they should be most active and many congressmen and senators have received letters from home asking that they support the bills for the elimination of alleged injustice in favor of the regular officers.

Section 10 of the selective service act said that "all officers and enlisted men of the forces herein provided for other than the regular army shall be in all respects on the same footing as to pay, allowances and PENSIONS as officers and enlisted men of corresponding grades and length of service in the regular army.

Unfairness Is Charged

The Disabled Emergency Officers' Union is pointing out that the only pension allowed officers of the regular army for disability is retirement pay and it is claimed that congress said in the selective service act that the emergency officers were to receive the same treatment. It is on this point that the volunteers are making their fight, which has become more intense since the claim was made that the war department is opposed to the proposed legislation now before congress.

It is pointed out that the records show only 5 per cent of the West Pointers saw service overseas as line officers and the volunteers who led the vast majority of the regular army, national guard and national army outfits and who are today suffering from physical impairment, insist they are not being fairly treated.

The national headquarters of the officers here is of the opinion that favorable legislation will be properly acted upon when it comes before the house and senate in open session and it is in order to strengthen their ranks that they are now enlisting members to their organization. The American Legion has already gone on record in national convention supporting the bill and the officers' society is working closely with the legion in attempting to reach its objective.

HARDING MAY SEND DELEGATE TO PRESS MEET

HONOLULU, Hawaii, July 31.—President Warren G. Harding, himself a newspaperman, may send a member of his cabinet to Honolulu in October to deliver the opening address at the sessions of the Press Congress of the World.

Information to this effect has been received by Governor Wallace R. Farrington, chairman of the Hawaiian executive committee of the congress, from Dr. Walter Williams, president of the congress and dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri. Although Dr. Williams' advices are as yet unoficial, it is planned to have a committee of representative journalists call at the White House soon and present the request to the president.

The state department has already sent to all countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations an official invitation to be represented at the Press Congress sessions. Dr. Williams, in a telegram to Governor Farrington, says that, according to the present outlook, the congress will be attended by between 40 0 and 500 representative journalists and that many of them will bring their wives or other members of their families.

A solid special train from Chicago and possibly from New York, to the Pacific coast, for the accommodation of the delegates, is now practically assured, and a number of receptions en route are being arranged. The all-year tourist rate for the delegates has been decided upon by the trans-continental railroads, although this may be modified. Negotiations for chartering a special steamer to bring the delegates to Hawaii are progressing favorably, Dr. Williams says. He adds that intense interest in the congress is being shown both in the United States and in foreign countries and that an excellent business program is in course of preparation at Columbia, Mo.

The British Empire Press Union will send as its delegate Colonel Edward Frederick Lawson, assistant managing director of the London Telegraph and nephew and heir of Viscount Burnham, proprietor of the Telegraph.

At Honolulu plans for the entertainment of the delegates are going ahead rapidly, and people of all nationalities are co-operating to make the program one of the finest ever arranged in the islands.

If every one listened to experience, how much they'd save

STOP and talk to the next man you see with U. S. Tires on his car. Ask him why.

Most likely you'll hear an interesting story about his tire experiments—before the answer was found. Money wasted. Promises unkept. Trouble on the road—humorous to every one except the man who went through it.

Finally U. S. Tires. And U. S. Tires ever since.

Perhaps it's the experience of U. S. Tire buyers that makes them more emphatic in their preference than ever this year.

When these men have tried most everything by the way of "staggering bargains", "hurrah discounts", "discontinued lines at less" and so forth they know what not to get.

They want a fresh, live tire. With a good reputation. That's everything it says it is. With the people behind it who back it up.

• • •

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches.

Your local U. S. Dealer is drawing upon them continually to keep his stocks sized up, complete—to give you service.

Whenever he gets one or a hundred tires from a U. S. Factory Branch, they are newly made this season's tires.

Sold to you at a net price. Full values. Square-dealing. A reputable maker. A reputable dealer. The whole transaction as befits the leadership of the oldest and largest rubber organization in the world.

DEMAND FOR STOCKS HAS STEADY GAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Stocks were again in demand today with bidding most active for the standard rails. The upward movement of the preceding day was carried forward steadily and gains were well distributed through the list.

Trading was not begun until one o'clock, the opening having been postponed by fire which resulted in filling the board room with smoke, flooding the floor and damaging the electric signalling apparatus. Business was on a fairly active scale.

The rise appeared to be due in large part to the favorable technical position in which the market was placed as a consequence of the recent extended selling movement.

Railroad shares held the leadership throughout. Quotations of the representative rails were run up from one to nearly 3 points.

Call money renewed at five per cent compared with 4½ yesterday and later advanced to 5½. The movement in the foreign exchange market was narrow and irregular with marks showing heaviness.

There was continued activity in the bond market on a rising scale of prices. Liberty bonds shared in the upward movement.

BULLS STILL RULE WHEAT PIT PRICES

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Prospects of diminishing receipts had a bullish influence today on the wheat market. Advances in price, however, were not well maintained, and the close was unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4c higher, with September 1.25 to 1.25 1-4 and December 1.28 to 1.28 1-4. Corn lost 3-8@1c, oats finished unchanged to 1-8@1-4c higher and provisions varying from 2 1-2c decline to 7 1-2c advance.

Scantiness of rural offerings together with a falling off in receipts here and at other primary centers gave strength to wheat prices throughout the day. Car shortage complaints were a handicap to the bears, and opinion became general that the crest of the after-the-harvest movement of the winter crop had been witnessed. However, disappointment was shown over the apparent slowness of export demand.

Beneficial rains where most needed made the corn market easy from the start. Oats rallied owing to estimates that the domestic yield this season is the smallest since 1911.

Provisions averaged higher with hogs and because of 9,000,000 pounds decrease shown in the Chicago stock of lard.

NEW YORK COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Yesterday's activity was followed by a much quieter market for coffee futures here today with rather narrow and irregular fluctuations. Traders seemed to find no additional inspiration in the Brazilian cables and advances met scattering realiing after opening unchanged to one point higher, active months sold 4 to 6 points above last night's closing figures on the continued firmness of Rio exchange. Around 7.21 for December, however, there were more contracts offering and that delivery closed at 7.19. The general market closed at a net advance of 1 to 3 points. Sales were estimated at approximately forty thousand bags. September, 6.74; October, 6.88; December, 7.19; January, 7.31; March, 7.54; May, 7.74; July, 7.94. Spot coffee steady. N. Y. SUGAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The raw sugar market was firm and unchanged at 3 1-4c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 4.86 for centrifugal. There were sales of 35,000 bags to the United Kingdom and 105,000 bags to a local refiner by the committee and 105,000 bags of Porto Rico to a local refiner.

The raw sugar futures market was less active today but the undertone was steady and prices for active positions showed gains of two to 6 points net higher. September closed at 3.32, Dec. 3.11, March 2.89 and May 2.95 all bid.

No change occurred in refined sugar prices which are quoted at 6 cents for fine granulated, although the deman dis not so active owing to liberal offerings of beet sugar at a lower level.

Refined sugar futures were steady early on covering, although the volume of business was light, consisting of only one lot of September at 6.30, which was five points above the previous nights close. Final bids were unchanged to 5 points net lower with September at 6.22; December at 6.15 and March 5.85.

HOLD FOUR MEN GUILTY OF MAIL USE FRAUD

By Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Aug 2.—C. W. Birs, president, and R. Van Wie, secretary-treasurer of the Fur and Specialty Farming company, were found guilty by a jury in federal court here today of using the mails to defraud.

Judge Page Morris sentenced Birs to a year and a day at Leavenworth, and fined Van Wie $1,000.

The defendants, under the leadership of Birs, known here as "the rabbit king,' had promoted a scheme for raising rabbits and selling their fur.

ARREST TWO FOR FLOGGING FARMER

LONGVIEW, Texas, Aug. 2.—Two men are under arrest charged with aggravated assault and police are searching for two other men in connection with an attempted flogging near here yesterday of M. B. Figley, a farmer. He was lured from his home by one of the men and later three others joined the party and attempted to whip Figley, who escaped uninjured after a struggle. Officers said the four men charged Figley with mistreating his wife. The parties under arrest disclaim connection with any secret society.

VIENESE SUFFER BUT TOO PROUD TO ASK ASSISTANCE

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—"The old people of Vienna are slow to ask for help," writes Miss Clara Landsberg, of Chicago, in an article on "The Austrian Intellectual Class" for publication in England. "Only after they have been refused work repeatedly on account of their age, or because their health has completely broken down and they realize themselves that the world will pay them nothing for what they can offer, will they apply to a mission for aid.

"They are doing much for themselves. Every day in the Volksgarten one sees delicate old ladies taking children out walking. Ladies who formerly embroidered, or knit dainty gifts for their friends, now sell their handiwork to help them to live. One old pensioned general has taken to painting and his room is filled with pictures of the Semmering taken from sketches made in this beautiful Austrian resort in the happy time when a yearly vacation there was a matter of course. A major's widow, whom necessity has taught to do beautiful mending, begs to be allowed to mend and patch and darn in return for the old-age ration which the Friends' Mission gives to specially deserving cases. One begs to be given translation to do, another offers to teach French or German, and still another seeks any sort of clerical work. Some ask pitifully if we cannot suggest some return they might make—anything to show their gratitude and to lessen the burden of taking a gift from a stranger.

Government Faces a Dilemma.

"Even when old people have written to the Friends' Mission that they are suffering for the necessities of life, they find it very difficult not to treat the visit of a kindly investigator as a friendly call and evade wholely the subject of their own need. If by chance, however, an unexpected gas bill to be paid in advance has just been received and an old mother and her delicate daughter are discussing what they still have left to sell, the Mission visitor seems to them to be an angel sent from heaven and the delicately reared ladies wil lconfess in a burst of confidence that their pension is barely enough to buy them one meal a day in the city soup kitchen. Clothing, shoes, household linen, kitchen utensils, even a spool of thread, have been beyond their wildest dreams of extravagance for several years. They pay their rent by letting rooms and by selling what they can spare.

"Old men who are pensioners are usually more helpless than the women. Ones heard last winter terrible tales of deaths from cold and starvation because they would not ask for help even when they had sold everything of value they had. The state recognises in theory their hopeless situation and tries to help them meet the ever-rising prices with a small bonus, but Austria, all but bankrupt, has to choose between paying adequate salaries to keep its active workers alive, and adequate bonuses to its pensioners; and naturally it ends by choosing the former.'

GOVERNOR SMALL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

By Associated Press.

MOMENCE, Ill., Aug. 2.—Governor Len Small of Illinois and several members of his good roads touring party had narrow escapes from death today when the governor's heavy limousine skidded into a ditch on the road from Kankakee. The governor leaped from the machine and held it up until others in it scrambled to safety.

CATTLE DRAG AND DEMAND MUCH WEAKER

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 2.—Extremely draggy trading was featured in every department of the livestock market today. Practically all kinds had to sell lower and the demand was weak. Receipts were estimated at 3000 head of cattle, 1500 calves, 1500 hogs and 1500 sheep.

Steers lost 10 to 15 cents and calf prcies were 25 to 50c down, but on cows, yearlings and bulls the market was unchanged. Some good steers went at $6.40 to $6.60, cows notched $5, yearlings brought $5.50 and choice light cavles made $6, while beavies stopped at $5.

Buyers contested the propriety of a higher hog market, but in the end the trade gained 10 to 15 cents and the close was active. The top was $11.35 and bulk sales ranged from $11.15 to $11.30. Pigs sold at $9.25 to $9.50.

Sheep lost 10 to 15c and lambs ruled 75c down. Good range lambs cleared at $7. Quotations:

HOBBY OPPOSES REDUCTIONS IN TEACHERS' PAY

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 2.—Former Governor William P. Hobby, who is visiting relatives in Dallas, is very much interested in the teachers' pay question now prominently before the legislators and people. In discussing the subject he said:

"I trust the people of Texas will not permit the educational facilities of the state to be slaughtered on the altar of pretended economy. The great work for educational advancement accomplished in the last four years should not be destroyed now by demagogic horseplay and petty politics. All of the higher educational institutions have been given liberal amounts during the last four years sufficient to bring the university and its branches, A. and M. and its branches, the College of Industrial Arts and the seven normals up to a high standard of efficiency. And even of greater importance has been the provision for the common school system of the state by increasing the apportionment for the education of each child from $7.50 to $14.50 and in addition to this providing $4,000,000 for the exclusive use and benefit of the rural school districts of the State.

"The teachers in the public schools and the instructors at the higher institutions have been more adequately paid and the standard of Texas has been advanced more than ever before in the same period of time. To step backward now or tear down this work of construction would injure the state irreparably. Those who teach in the common schools and in the higher ones are molding the mind and shaping the character of the Texas of the future and it is the grossest kind of reaction to cheapen the pay of those who are performing that function.

COTTON HAS LOWER TREND ON REALIZING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Prices were lower in the cotton market today ,opening at the decline and showing no great recuperative power during any stage of the session except for a very short period following the initial decline. Realizing of profits by traders on the long side was responsible for a good part of the offerings but some selling came in on reports of fresh labor troubles in the mill districts of France. For the opening decline the refusal of Liverpool to follow the advance on this side of the water yesterday was mainly the cause.

The first break carried prices about twenty points down after which enough new buying came in to cause a complete recovery and put the strongest months 1 to 2 points higher than the close of yesterday. This was done on buying induced by private telegrams from Texas telling of severe deterioration in that state. Toward the middle of the day the market met more profit taking by longs and a sag set in which lasted until the close. At the lowest the active months were 20 to 32 points under the finals of yesterday, October dropping to 12.30 as compared with 12.52 as the high price of the season. The close was at net losses of 15 to 31 points with October at 12.35.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The action of today's cotton market was regarded as indicating a disposition to take profits on long contracts owing to the failure of demand to broaden materially following yesterday's advance. December contracts after selling at 11.30 early, advanced to 13.48, but later eased off to 13.22 and closed at 13.27, with the general market closing steady at a net decline of 11 to 3 points.

The opening decline of 9 to 16 points was due to realizing by yesterday's buyers who were disappointed by the showing of Liverpool. These early offerings were pretty promptly absorbed at the initial prices, however, while later cables from Liverpool were firmer, and the market soon firmed upon fresh commission house buying and a moderate demand from the trade. Crop complaints from the southwest contributed to the recovery which carried near months above last night's closing figures, with October selling at 12.95 and January at 13.36.

The forenoon bulge was promoted by reports that the low crop figures had stimulated business in goods here yesterday but some of the local traders expressed doubt as to whether yesterday's report would lead to any greatly increased buying of spot cotton in the south under prevailing business conditions the days indicated generally dry but very hot weather in the south and while such condition would tend to check boll weevil activity, the probable effect on the plant was considered unfavorable.

KERNEL COOTIE—WRONG NUMBER!

REQUEST FOR LEAVE CAUSES HOUSE DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A request from Representative Fitzgerald, republican, Ohio, for a months leave of absence from the house because he had been "ordered" as a reserve officer to military duty at Camp Knox, Kentucky, precipitated a lively tilt in the house today, Representative Lanham, democrat, Texas, objecting to granting the request while Representative Garrett, acting Democratic leader, held that "a serious question," had been raised and requested that action be deferred.

"I would like to know what power can order a member of congress away from his duty in peace time," Mr. Lanham said.

Representative Green, republican, Vermont, a member of the house military committee, said the request had been worded "crudely" and explained that "no reserve officer in time of peace can be ordered to camp except at his own request."

With a half a dozen members clamoring for recognition, Representative Mondell, republican leader, put an end to the argument by moving adjournment. Request of house members for leaves of absence ordinarily are granted without discussion.

Devil Fish Make Bathing Dangerous

By Associated Press

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Aug. 2—Terrors attending sea bathing at Tahiti, already numerous, have been increased by reports that a giant devil fish was seen recently hovering around the island.

Besides the devil fish, there is the ever present shark and a wicked fish called the "nohu" which buries itself in the sand just off the shore and gives a poisonous sting to bathers unfortunate enough to step on it. Then too, there is a certain kind of coral which causes blood poisoning if it cuts the skin.

Tahitian natives, whenever they chance to get wet with sea water, always wash in fresh water when arriving ashore, and as for the whites, sea bathing is too dangerous to be pleasant.

AUTO STOLEN WHILE PASTOR WATCHES GAME

A five passenger Dodge automobile, belonging to the Rev. W. L. Tittle, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, was stolen from its parking place, west of the baseball park about 5 o'clock, according to reports made to police.

The police have clues, which are expected to lead to the early recovery of the car, according to Chief Morgan.

Claude Monet, the octogenarian painter and one of the last surviving members of the impressionists' school delights to recall the days when he "used to be so happy and so poor." He would then receive 100 francs for a painting; now a commission isn't much that doesn't bring him $10,000.

AGENTS NIP CONSPIRACY TO RUN RUM

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Federal officials claimed tonight to have evidence of a rum running conspiracy involving prominent persons in various cities along the Atlantic seaboard which would go far toward clearing up the mystery of phantom ships for several months reported bobbing up outside the three-mile limit.

That claim was made after the liquor laden schooner Henry L. Marshall had been seized off Atlantic City and brought into this port with four of her crew by the coats guard cutter Seneca.

Her captain and mate escaped in a swift motor boat.

Federal agents declined to reveal the nature of the evidence at their command but intimated that more than one vessel was engaged in landing liquor along the coast from Maine to Florida. Firm belief was expressed that these were the lightless craft which mariners declared had been sighted at sea but had refused to answer signals.

No specific complaint thus far has been lodged against the schooner Marshall, which with her cargo of more than 1500 cases of liquor is being held by armed guards pending further investigation. Her cook and three seamen are being detained as material witnesses.

Captain Aaron L. Gamble of the Seneca has made an official report of the seizure to Collector of Customs Aldridge. United States Attorney Hayward also has been called into conference.

Although the schooner was outside the three-mile limit and was flying the British flag when she was seized, federal officials asserted they were justified in taking charge of her by the evidence of conspiracy in their possession.

Reported transfer to British registry of the vessel, a former Gloucester fisherman, is being investigated. One of her crew asserted this transfer had been made by federal agents said no supporting evidence had been offered.

ORGANIZE COMPANY TO DRILL WILDCAT NEAR WICHITA FALLS

"Faith Oil Sydicate" is the name given the company organized for the drilling of another close in wildcat test—on a five hundred acre lease near the Sunshine State refinery.

The syndicate includes W. T. Martin, Albert O'Neal, and E. L. Bristo, according to an announcement, which also says that they have placed the capital stock with the exception of some $5,000 which is being offered to the public.

Should the wildcat obtain production, the organizers point out, it would mean an extensive drilling campaign near the city in this direction, as would be the case with wildcats near the city in comparatively close in in other directions from the city.

David Burns owned the farm on which the executive mansion and many department buildings now stand at Washington, a thrifty Scot, who objected to giving the land for Lafayette Square. When Washington reminded him he would have been a poor tobacco raiser had the federal government not chosen his farm, he replied that but for a fortunate marriage Washington would have been an ordinary surveyor, but Washington got the land he wanted.

Owing to the coal situation in Europe, a large demand for canned fish has been created, as the product is already cooked and does not require the services of heat to make it palatable. Since the first of the year about 200,000 cases of canned fish have been shipped from British Columbia to London.

In the good old times some people love to talk about there was an established custom and belief that backward children would be cured by making an incision in certain parts of their ears if the operation was made at the right time of the moon, and the belief persists in some parts of rural England.

WILLIAMS DENOUNCES U. S. BANKS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Policies of the federal reserve board during the past eighteen months or more were attacked today before a joint congressional commission by John Skelton Williams, former comptroller of the currency, who charged that the board had displayed undue favoritism in lending ot New York banking groups while southern and western borrowers were unduly curtailed. There was "abundant ground for complaints of discrimination by farmers generally," he added.

The congressional commission was appointed to inquire into the agriculture situation and summoned Mr. Williams in connection with its investigation into credit facilities for farmers.

Many of Mr. Williams' assertions were challenged in cross examination by Representative Ogden Mills, republican, New York, a commission member, who was armed with volumes of statistics. During the examination Governor Harding of the reserve board and several others of its officials were present.

CANADA RAISING BUMPER CROP OF 'NOODLE' WHEAT

OTTAWA, Ont., July 31.—Italian spaghetti grows best in Western Canada. With the ending of the war Italy has resumed its consumption of Canadian spaghetti flour to such an extent that figures just passed by the Canadian department or Trade and Commerce show an increase of 300 per cent in the total of exports to the Mediterranean kingdom. Practically all of this increase is in flour grown on the western prairies, which is said to be unexcelled for macaroni sphaghetti noodles and the various delectable pastes which form a large part of the Italian diet.

According to the report, no less than $17,000,000 of Italian money went into Canadian wheat for spaghetti last year. Much of this is again exported to Canada and the United States in the shape of finished paste products.

France is Canada's best customer among European continental nations, according to the report, which further shows sharp increases in exports to Sweden, Norway, Turkey, Spain and Portugal.

Canada's recovery from the war shock is best shown in the record trade figures of the last year, which place exports and imports at $2,839,716,000, or $50,000,000 over the 1917 total, the previous record year, and $400,000,000 in excess of the 1919 totals. Imports were $1,336,911,000, against $941,013,000 for the preceding twelve months, and exports totalled $1,302,805,000.

Exports for the year were more than twenty times those of twenty years ago, which is considered a record for a nation with less than 9,000,000 people.

Canada is the best customer the United States has, according to trade reports, with the exception of Great Britain. During eight months ending late last year Canada imported from the United States merchandise valued at $626,856,535 and exported to the United States produce valued at $381,822,068. Each year Canada has been buying from the United States about $300,000,000 more than she is selling there.

Canada's population has doubled in twenty-eight years, and her experts anticipate a minimum increase of 500,000 a year until the four Western provinces, now inhabited by about 2,500,000, will have a population of 10,000,000.

SCOUTS MAY HAVE SECOND SUMMER CAMP

A second summer camp will probably be held at Cache, Okla., by the Wichita Falls Boy Scouts, providing the required number of boys sign up for it, Scout Executive H. E. Taylor announced Tuesday. The success of the first camp and the fact that there were a number of boys who would like to go, he says, practically assures the holding of the second camp.

In view of the obligation assumed by the local council to provide for one weeks outing for every scout in the local organization it is believed that sufficient numbers can be signed up for the second camp to make it a reality.

The camp will probably be held about September 1, or close to that date, depending upon the date of the opening of school and will last from one week to ten days.

Complete equipment to hold the camp, in the form of tents, cots, and cooking utensils, is now in the hands of the local council and no outside help will be needed to hold the camp. One of the special features of this camp will be the study hour and advancement work in scouting.

An outdoor meeting of all local scouts, their parents and all those interested in scout work will probably be held in Bellevue park on August 19, according to plans now being worked out at the headquarters. The purpose of this meeting is to create more enthusiasm in summer scouting and to keep up the interest of those members whose troops are not holding regular meetings. The program, as tentatively announced will include scout demonstrations, songs, yells and talks by scout leaders.

Scoutmaster H. B. White announces that the special one-reel moving picture of scout life entitled "A Days Activities With the Boy Scouts" will be shown at one of the Dye Ford and Rogers theaters here some time near the first of next week, through the courtesy of Manager Ford. All of the boy scouts of Wichita Falls will be the guests of Mr. Ford for one hour on the day of the showing.

EXCITEMENT LESSENS OVER DEATH OF TWO

PALESTINE, Texas, Aug. 2.—Excitement over the killing yesterday of Fayette Cornwell and Charles E. Bronson and the wounding of Luther Cornwell, had somewhat subsided here today. J. Norman is held in county jail. Luther Cornwell, a son of the dead man of the same name, probably will recover, physicians said.

The trouble, acording to young Cornwell, started over possession of an axe claimed by the Cornwells. He declares Norman began shooting shortly after the three men stopped, because of a flat tire on their automobile, in front of the Normon home at Wild Cat crossing, 25 miles north of Palestine. The elder Cornwell and Bronson were shot in the back, the young man asserts. He admits he fired at Norman after the two men had been shot. After his pistol was emptied he told officers he begged for his life and that Norman quieted down after young Cornwell had told him, in reply to a question, that he was not a "Ku Klux."

HOLD TWO ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Charged with conspiracy to steal an automobile and transfer it to Oklahoma in violation of federal law, United States Commissioner Lantz, held C. E. Wiems, W. H. Barton, Mike Coben and Buck Branch under $500 bond each Tuesday for their appearance on Saturday for a preliminary hearing. None of the quartette had furnished the bond late Tuesday.

The arrest of the four men was made by Deputy United States Marshall Allen and H. D. Bishop, special agent of the department of justice, after an investigation which started when one of the accused men is alleged to have endeavored to secure a license for a machine.

SHOWER FAILS TO GIVE LOWER TEMPERATURE HERE

The short shower which visited Wichita Falls and vicinity for about 30 minutes Tuesday afternoon was cool enough while it lasted but failed to lower the temperature more than two or three degrees.

On the other hand, the moisture in the air gave the extra humidity which made the heat more unpleasant, which causes the cheerful idiot to arise with the remark that he is glad this city has a high and dry climate.

Reports from points along the Fort Worth and Denver and the Katy railroad indicate that the rain, while light, was fairly general. Forgan, Oklahoma, the northern terminus of the Northwestern railroad, reports a heavy rain lasting for about an hour.

MURPHY TO OBEY COURT

Stating that he was acting on the advice of the acting judge which issued the mandamus writ Pat Murphy, county auditor said Tuesday, that he would recognize the writ of attachment served on him from the county court at law Monday in connection with a debt suit filed against Sheriff Fred Smith rather than the mandamus order obtained by the sheriff. Mr. Murphy said that he was taking this action because the garnishment writ was served on him previous to the mandamus writ.

The action Tuesday grew out of a tangle Monday when the garnishment writ was issued from the county court at law in connection with the suit filed by J. E. Robinson, former deputy sheriff against Sheriff Smith garnishing the amount due the sheriff's department for feeding the prisoners during the month of July.

Soon after the writ of garnishment was served on Mr. Murphy a writ of mandamus was issued, J. M. Akin, acting judge of the 30th District court ordering Mr. Murphy to turn over the $703.50 due on the sheriff's board bill for July. The debt suit involving the garnishment is for $352.00.

All persons who make applications and deposits covering the fees will have their money refunded, should their bids be rejected, Dr. Douglas said.

ORDERS CESSATION OF DES MOINES TROLLEYS

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 2.—Federal Judge Martin J. Wade this afternoon ordered cessation of Des Moines street cars at midnight Wednesday, pending foreclosure proceedings. F. C. Chambers and Homer A. Miller were appointed receivers to act under the new suit brought by the stockholders. The court's order combined all suits pending against the company.

WARD THINKS BETTER TIMES COMING SOON

Better times are coming, if the indications seen by Judge Robert H. Ward, local attorney with the Bass and Kirby oil interests, are correct, he told members of the University club in a talk on "Optimism versus Pessimism" Tuesady noon at the Kemp hotel. His talk was brimful of the wholesome philosophy of cheerfulness and optimism. He expressed his belief that this country is basically sound financially and morally and that the clouds of depression are being dispelled by the bright sun of better times.

Indications of the revival of business and improved credit can be seen in the lowering of the discount rate by both the federal reserve banks and by the Bank of England, by a revival of building all over the country, railroad extensions and improvements and the efforts of the governmen to relieve the situation, Judge Ward said.

In commenting on the tendency of some people to say the country is "going to the dogs" on account of the evil effects on the financial system by war taxes and bonds to pay for the victory, the speaker contrasted the condition at the present time with the condition in the south following the four years of terrible civil war.

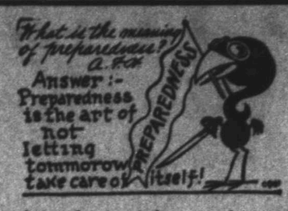

"If the South came out of this carnage like a Phoenix, born anew from the ashes of the old regime, is it not certain that this country which is unlimited in resources, and compared with the South of reconstruction days, has not scratched, will come out stronger and more prosperous for the hard lessons of the war," he declared.

Following the talk by Judge Ward, a resolution was submitted by F. G Swanson, putting the club on record as opposing any cutting of the education budget by the state legislature. The motion was adopted and the resolution was referred to a committee of three to work out the official resolution embodying the sentiment expressed.

Vocal solos by Miss Tillie Mae Schaeffer, accompanied by Miss Lenoa Lorimer furnished members with entertainment that was heartily enjoyed.

Two members of the Spudders Caddy Works and Jim [illegible]ll, also Chick Bowen, of the visiting San Antonio team, were present as guests.

MAKING PROGRESS ON LINE

Good time is being made by the construction gang of the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad in pushing the final extension to Jimkurn, where connection with the Hamon line to Breckenridge will be made, and there is a possibility that that point will be reached by August 10, according to Captain H. F. McFarland, chief engineer of the road who was here Monday. Service will be opened up sometime around the 15th, C. L. Fontaine, assistant manager of the road said.

The roadbed of the line between Wichita Falls and the terminus will be ballasted as soon as possible after the completion of construction work, it was announced. This will enable better time to be made by the passenger trains and also will permit the installation of pullman service. Sleepers will be put on the line as soon as Breckenridge is reached, it is said.
