Mondale believes polls are 'dead wrong'

Associated Press

Walter F. Mondale shrugged off pessimistic talk about his election chances Friday, saying "I think the polls are dead wrong," while President Reagan spoke to Jewish leaders, linking his sending of American forces to Lebanon to "a fundamental moral obligation" to prevent another Holocaust.

Mondale fended off reports of gloom among his top aides, declaring "I am going to campaign with everything I've got" through Nov. 6. Then he launched into an attack on Reagan for being a "sunshine president" who ignored the first anniversary of the Beirut bombing that killed 241 U.S. servicemen but held an elaborate ceremony marking the anniversary of the invasion of Grenada.

"We grieve for the families" of the 19 Americans killed in Grenada, the Democratic nominee said in Des Moines, Iowa. "But what about the 241 Marines who lost their lives in the barracks in Lebanon, the biggest single loss in one day in the history of our forces since World War II?"

In Flint, Mich., Mondale denied a published report that campaign chairman James A. Johnson had told him Reagan had built what seemed to be an insurmountable lead in numerous polls.

"It's tough. I know that. I never doubted it," Mondale told reporters. But he added, "I think the polls are dead wrong" and "I think we've got an excellent chance of winning."

Public opinion polls have shown Mondale down by anywhere from 9 to 25 percentage points.

In New York, Reagan wooed Jewish voters with an invitation to them to leave their Democratic roots and "come walk with us down this new path of hope and opportunity."

He assailed the Democrats for not having "the moral courage or leadership" to condemn anti-Semitism at their convention last July, although the party's executive committee later adopted a condemnation of bigotry. Reagan's charge was a reminder of old wounds opened during the Democratic primary campaign, when then-candidate Jesse Jackson was quoted as privately referring to Jews as "Hymies."

Reagan also spoke of the slaughter of Jews before and during World War II, saying "the immeasurable pain of the Holocaust" must never be lost on this generation or any future generation.

"Perhaps that message should again be impressed on those who question why we went on a peacekeeping mission to Lebanon," the president said. "Indeed, anyone who remembers the lesson of the Holocaust must understand that we have a fundamental moral obligation to assure: Never again."

When Reagan ordered U.S. Marines into Lebanon last year as part of an international peacekeeping force, the Israelis, citing their nation's security, had driven deep into Lebanese territory.

In another reference to Lebanon, Vice President George Bush appeared to take issue with Secretary of State George Shultz's contention that Americans should use quick military retaliation against terrorists, even if innocent lives were lost. Shultz's statement came in a speech in New York Thursday night as he warned of future terrorist attacks.

In an interview with WKRC-TV of Cincinnati, Bush was asked about retaliation even at the cost of innocent lives and he responded, "I disagree with that." But he later told reporters that he believed "the gut feeling" of Americans is to retaliate against terrorism.

Banks cut prime rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's major banks cut their prime lending rate Friday, dropping from 12.5 percent to 12 percent as the slowdown in the economy's growth continued to lower their costs of obtaining funds.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth largest bank, led the move, lowering its rate half a percentage point effective Monday.

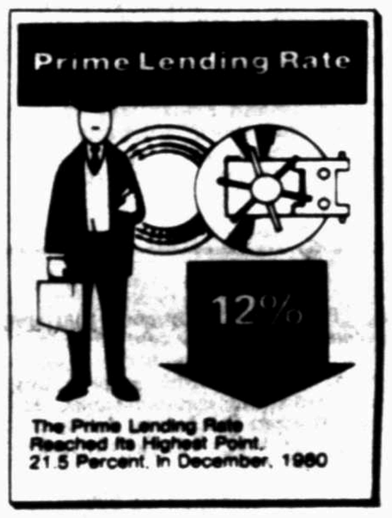

No. 9 Bankers Trust Co., which had stood alone with a 12.25 percent rate since last week, followed, dropping its rate a quarter of a percentage point effective immediately.

Other major banks, including No. 1 Bank of America of San Francisco and No. 2 Citibank of New York, and numerous regional banks quickly followed suit.

They had cut their prime lending rates by a quarter point to 12.5 percent last week, except Bankers Trust which had adopted the lower rate.

The industry had adopted the 12.75 percent prime in late September after three months at 13 percent.

The prime rate is the base upon which banks compute interest charges on short-term business loans. The most creditworthy customers often borrow at below the prime rate. Small businesses typically are charged more than the prime rate.

The Prime Lending Rate Reached Its Highest Point, 21.5 Percent, In December, 1980

The prime rate does not directly affect the price of consumer loans but it is an indicator of the direction of interest rates charged generally.

Friday's cut was particularly good news for Third World debtor nations, which together save an estimated $1 billion in interest payments on each half-point drop in the prime rate.

"The banks lowered the prime rate because their wholesale cost of money fell down and competitive pressures necessitated them passing that along to borrowers," said Maury Harris, an economist at the investment firm PaineWebber Group Inc.

"I think it's going to come down some more," Harris said. "The next step will probably be to 11½ percent, within the next month or so."

David Jones, an economist at the government securities dealer Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., said: "Business loan demands are begining to soften. I think that's causing some banks to become concerned."

Time for a change

Reaching out to change the hands of their clocks is what Midlanders should be doing tonight before they go to bed. The hands should go back one hour, giving everyone an extra hour of sleep.

Party condemns abduction

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Communist Party Central Committee on Friday condemned the abduction of a pro-Solidarity priest and called for "severe punishment" of the kidnappers and a review of the Interior Ministry.

It was responding to a call by the leader of Poland's Communist regime, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who said the Oct. 19 kidnapping of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko was an "act of dangerous banditry."

Jaruzelski, in his first public comment on the abduction, told the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Central Committee that the kidnapping also was an attack "against the party and its leadership."

Authorities have said a "functionary" of the Interior Ministry is to be charged in connection with the abduction, and that he has been placed under arrest along with two accomplices.

The Central Committee ordered a review of the nation's internal security apparatus, and said the ruling Politburo should assert party control over the actions of the police and consider personnel changes in the Interior Ministry.

But it expressed "full confidence" in the interior minister, Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, and said the uniformed police and security service "fully deserve social esteem and confidence." It blamed the kidnapping on "a few criminals, provocateurs and agents of bad cause."

The Politburo establishes the Communist Party's policies, which are administered by the Central Committee.

Poland's official PAP news agency, in a Friday night dispatch, noted the priest might have been murdered.

"It has not been explained yet who abducted, and perhaps also killed, the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, or for what motives," it said.

Drilco International will be closing, vice president says

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business-Oil Editor

Employees of Drilco Industrial, Midland, were informed Friday at a meeting that the facility would be closed.

The industrial mining division of Smith Industries will be phased out over an unspecified time period and will affect all 147 employees of the facility, according to Bob Powers, vice president of Drilco Industrial.

No plans for relocating employees and equipment were announced at the meeting.

"Full details of the phase-out have not yet been formulated," Powers said, "but we wanted to let our people know so they could start making plans for their futures."

He said the decision to shut down the facility was made as a result of a corporate move to eliminate unprofitable lines. The location of the Midland facility, remote to shipping ports and the heart of the mining industry, also played a role in the decision.

For the past 10 years, the Midland facility, while located deep in the heart of the petroleum industry, was engaged primarily in the manufacture of mining equipment.

"Most people think that we are an oilfield tool company," said Powers, "but we are really a mining tool company."

Drilco was founded in 1949 by Midlanders Stanley Moore, Don Morris and Bill Bachman as an oilfield tool company. Drilco Industrial, a division for manufacturing mining tools, was formed in 1964. Drilco was acquired by Smith Industries and the oilfield side moved to Houston about 10 years ago to be closer to the ports, leaving Drilco Industrial in Midland as a free standing department.

The company recently landed a contract to build the drill tools for big hole nuclear waste sites with the hopes it would revive the company and ensure its continuation in Midland.

"We will finish out the contract for the big hole tools," said Powers, "but at this point I can't even affirm that they will be completed at this location." Manufacture of the tools is scheduled through 1985.

The name Drilco Industrial will survive as will the products and functions of the division, and schemes are being developed to continue those functions outside Midland. Drilco Industrial has operations in Australia, Canada and

Kerr, Sprayberry, JP race has been low key

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of an eight-part series looking at local contested races and the eight constitutional amendments. This second part deals with the race for Justice of the Peace, Place 1, Precinct 1.

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

The race for Justice of the Peace, Place 1, Precinct 1, hasn't attracted as much attention as, say, the race for Midland County Sheriff. No write-in candidates, no debates, no slander suits enliven this campaign, which pits incumbent Republican Charlie Sprayberry against Democratic challenger Rick Kerr.

In fact, with less than two weeks to go, Kerr is just getting his campaign under way.

"The majority of my thing is word of mouth," he said. Because he is financing his campaign out of his own pocket, Kerr hasn't been able to afford a high-profile media budget. But now he's pulling out all the stops.

"My truck is full of signs right now," he said.

Sprayberry already has his signs up, but after fighting off two opponents in the Republican primary, he's content with the relative lack of attention the JP race is attracting.

"I'm tickled to death the sheriff's race is getting all the smoke and fire," he said. The JP race isn't generating much controversy because "It's not a controversial office — the general public feels the office is being handled properly at this time."

Not surprisingly, Kerr disagrees.

Kerr

Sprayberry

He claims Sprayberry is handling only 30 percent of the JP caseload because local law enforcement officers prefer to file their cases in Justice of the Peace Bob Pine's court.

"Sprayberry has a bad rapport with police agencies in Midland," Kerr said. "And I don't like the low bonds he's setting."

Sprayberry responds that "There's been absolutely no connection between people skipping bond and the amount of the bond set."

He said local police prefer to file in Pine's court because "There are virtually zero not-guilty findings there, except with a jury." But the state is not always right, he said. "If the state cannot prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt, the law says the person must be found not guilty."

To even up the caseload, Sprayberry said he is taking more bad check cases.

Kerr also objects to what he calls Sprayberry's "antics." He accuses the incumbent of having exceeded his authority by arresting a woman for speeding a few years back, and he also claims Sprayberry was caught poaching in Pecos County.

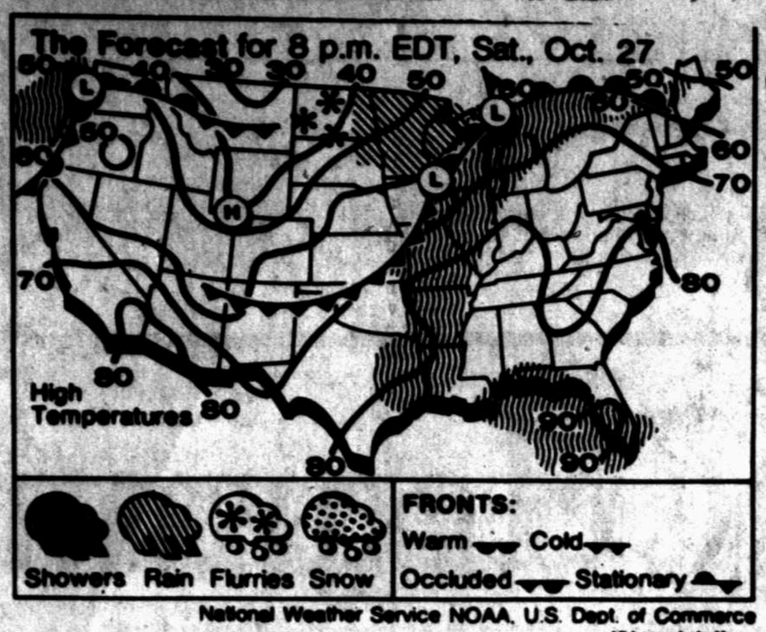

But Sprayberry disputes the charges. He says he never arrested the woman, whose suit against him was dismissed "because it had no basis." And as for the alleged poaching, "I've never had anything in Pecos County."

Sprayberry said he once received a ticket in Presidio County for shooting a javelina pig in season but from a public road, "But that was a Class C violation — the most minor violation you can get." He said he's never been charged with any kind of poaching violation.

AP Laserphoto Map

The National Weather Service forecasts showers for today from Maine through the Great Lakes to Texas and Louisiana, to the Gulf coast, the Pacific Northwest and for parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Snow is forecast for parts of the Dakotas.

Warm temperatures, blue skies can be expected

After cold weather and a recorded 13.21 inches of rain as of Friday night, Midlanders should see blue skies and warmer temperatures this weekend.

According to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, skies should be cloudy this morning, becoming partly cloudy this afternoon. Fair skies are in the forecast for tonight and Sunday.

Temperatures will climb with a high today and Sunday expected in the middle 70s, and a low tonight in the middle 50s.

Winds will be southerly at 5-15 mph today.

Rainfall for the year should stop slightly below the average amount. By the end of October, Midland usually has received 12.65 inches of precipitation, the NWS reported.

Friday's high of 59 was 31 degrees cooler than the record high of 90, set for that date in 1950. The overnight low of 50 was 17 degrees warmer than 1967's record low of 33.

STATE

Air was warmer and more humid Friday afternoon over much of Texas, increasing the chance for heavy rain.

Temperatures that ranged from 55 at El Paso to 86 at Brownsville at 4 p.m. were 5 to 10 degrees higher than on Thursday as a cool airmass vanished.

Southern winds replaced breezes from the north and clouds were a little thinner and rain more scattered, but only for a short time, the National Weather Service said.

Low pressure expected to plow through the moist, unstable air Friday night and today increases the threat of flooding for some, and flash flood watches were posted from the Hill Country to the Red River, the weather service said.

Cooling was expected to follow the low on today night and Sunday, dropping temperatures from highs in the 70s and 80s during the day Saturday.

Lows tonight should range from the upper 30s in the Panhandle to the the mid 70s in the mid-coast region and upper 70s in the Big Bend.

Highs today will range from near 60 in the mountains of West Texas to mid 80s in South Texas, the weather service said.

NATION

A winter storm packing snow and winds up to 40 mph barrelled across the northwestern United States late Friday, as flood cleanup began in waterlogged areas of east Texas.

Blizzard conditions were forecast for western and central Montana, with snow accumulations up to 8 inches likely along the east slopes of the Rockies and a foot or more in the mountains.

A winter storm warning was posted for the northern and central mountains of Idaho, and a travelers' advisory was in effect for the southern and eastern Idaho valleys, with snow accumulations from 2 to 6 inches. Winter storm watches were posted for the northern mountains of Utah, northeast Montana and the northwestern half of North Dakota.

Travelers' advisories were posted for the Cascades and northeast mountains in Washington state, where 18 inches of snow was on the ground.

Wind gusts up to 40 mph were reported at Burley and Pocatello, Idaho; Casper, Wyo.; Helena and Livingston, Mont., and near Reno, Nev.

A strong thunderstorm was moving ahead of the cold front, and a tornado knocked down utility poles and caused minor damage to trees, signs and cars at Boise, Idaho.

Three men, youth arrested after burglary

From Staff Reports

Three men and one youth were arrested Friday morning after a burglary of an eastside residence.

Manuel Padilla, of 1118 E. Spruce, told police he saw a blue and white Pontiac pull into his neighbor's driveway about 11:30 a.m. A black male got out of the vehicle, which was occupied by two Hispanic men and one Hispanic 17-year-old.

Padilla said he saw the man come out of the front door of the house, occupied by Sharon Berry, 1120 E. Spruce, carrying a 19-inch television set, reports stated.

Midland police were called to the scene and, after investigating and obtaining a vehicle description and license plate number, left to return to the police station when they spotted a car matching the description.

The car, which was southbound on Lamesa, was stopped at the Cuthbert intersection. It was occupied by four males matching the descriptions provided by Padilla.

A television set in the car was identified by the owner as hers and the youth and men, ages 20, 24 and 29, were arrested.

Two other residential burglaries were interrupted Friday morning.

Mrs. Hal K. Hall, of 1401 S. Terrell, told police she left her home at 7:15 a.m. to pick up a student. When she drove by her house on her way to school 15 minutes later, she noticed a light on in her bedroom.

Stopping to investigate, Mrs. Hall said she entered the front door and saw a Hispanic male, about 14 years old, who climbed out a kitchen window, through which he had gained entry. The boy was wearing a blue short-sleeve shirt and blue jeans, she said.

Police Roundup

He was seen heading north through an alley on a 10-speed bicycle.

Mrs. Hall said it was the third time this month her house had been burglarized although nothing was taken this time.

Burglars were thought to have been scared off during a break-in at the Gerald Badger residence, 1726 E. Oak.

Badger told police he came home at 12:30 p.m. to find his house had been entered and his locked bedroom door pried open. A portable television set, which had been on top of a stereo cabinet, was found on the floor.

Nothing was reported missing from the residence.

A $370 video cassette recorder was reported stolen from a display shelf Friday at the Montgomery Wards Catalog Sales Store, 2513 W. Ohio. According to Dorothy Scott, employee, the set was missing when she returned from lunch.

About $140 was taken Thursday night from a box containing receipts that was hidden under a stack of magazines at the Reel Quick No. 2, 3805 W. Wall.

According to reports, the grocery store was entered by kicking a hole in the glass of the front door and pulling out a frame. Damage to the door was placed at $130.

A television set was stolen and the coin box of a jukebox opened during a burglary of Sam's Bar-B-Q, 1113 E. Scharbauer. Police patrolling the area found a northwest door open and investigated.

PRIEST

The Central Committee statment said Popieluszko's abduction "strikes against the process of interior stability, relations between the state and church and the international prestige of our country."

Jaruzelski had told the committee, "We are still facing all kinds of challenges and problems. We should firmly fight everything that poisons the social atmosphere, violates elementary norms of law and order, and at the same time strikes... against the policy of our party and its leadership."

Poland's Catholic primate, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, told an estimated 3,000 worshipers at an evening Mass at Popieluszko's Warsaw church, "Though we deeply believe today he will return to us, nevertheless we understand the sacrifice...of the deprivation of freedom."

He said people should bear no revenge or hatred "because Christ took his suffering in this way." The cardinal spoke to the hushed congregation toward the end of an emotional service for the missing priest.

A former senior Solidarity official said Popieluszko's friends felt the chances of finding the priest alive were "diminishing with every hour." The former official spoke on condition that he not be identified by name.

The government has identified the arrested Interior Ministry official only as Grzegorz P. and said he was a "functionary," but did not give his rank or duties. The two alleged accomplices were not identified.

A prominent Polish journalist, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the Interior Ministry official held the rank of captain and was the chief of a section in the internal security service.

Jaruzelski, who holds the positions of prime minister and first secretary of the Communist Party, did not specifically name Popieluszko in his remarks to the Central Committee meeting that was overshadowed by the kidnapping.

Popieluszko often spoke out vigorously from his pulpit against the regime's crackdown on Solidarity, the first independent labor federation in the Soviet bloc.

DRILCO

Africa and some of the functions may be assumed by those operations.

"It is the intention of Smith Industries to move Drilco Industrial closer to the mining customer," said Powers.

Drilco Industrial, according to Powers, has been ailing along with the mining industry for the past few years.

"Conditions in the mining industry have been very bad," he said, "especially in the copper and iron mines, which account for much of our business."

"A study was made about a year ago concerning the possibility of closing this facility," said Powers, "and created a lot of tension for employees concerned for their future. We didn't want that to happen again, and that's why we have issued this announcement about the closing of the facility before all details have been finalized. The closing will affect all 147 of the employees here."

Statement of suspect in capital murder trial read to jury

By LAWRENCE BUDD
Staff Writer

ODESSA — District Attorney Mike Holmes read the signed statement of 19-year-old Midlander Pablo Galindo to the jury Friday afternoon in the capital murder trial in which Galindo is charged with shooting a man on March 24.

Galindo knocked on the door of a mobile home but was not admitted. But, according to the statement, he then entered the home and shot the man.

At that point the man's wife turned on a light and began attacking Galindo. He pushed her off and she ran out of the trailer, the statement said.

Galindo's statement also said that he had been drinking with friends before the incident. He was walking because his truck was stuck in the south Ector County area where he was later arrested.

Prosecutors spent most of Friday entering physical evidence in the capital murder trial of Galindo. Among the items the state figures to use in prosecuting Galindo are statements, the gun he allegedly used in the murder, hair samples and other articles linked to the crime.

Galindo could receive the death penalty if found guilty of murdering the 29-year-old Mark Defee after allegedly breaking into the mobile home at about 3:30 a.m. on March 24.

Defee was shot to death in the bedroom of the mobile home, according to reports. The killer attempted to rape the dead man's wife before she escaped to a neighbor's home, according to reports.

Most of the testimony given Thursday and Friday was by FBI agents and sheriff's deputies who handled the evidence expected to be use to attempt to incriminate Galindo.

Prosecutors developed a chain of evidence required under state law by calling those officers in succession. Bullets tested from Galindo's gun matched those taken from Defee's body. Other physical evidence also was entered to provide links between Galindo and the crime. With the jury out, Capt. Gene Kloss of the Ector County Sheriff's Department testified that Galindo admitted shooting Defee.

Jurors were sent home for the weekend. Testimony is scheduled to resume Monday morning with Defee's wife expected to take the stand.

RATE

"Not only are they seeing a drop in loan demand, they're also facing tougher competition from non-bank sources of funds," Jones said.

Some larger business borrowers are borrowing in the commercial paper market because they have to pay only 9.25 percent to 9.5 percent on their corporate IOUs, Jones said.

One key rate tied to the banks' money costs is the federal funds rate, the interest banks charge each other for overnight loans of excess reserves. That rate stood at 9.5 percent Friday, well below the double-digit levels that prevailed for most of the previous four months.

Another key rate is the one on three-month certificates of deposit, which were trading at around 9.82 percent Friday, vs. 11.06 percent a month ago.

"The Fed is concerned that the economy is growing below average," Harris said. "The Fed becomes somewhat more generous in providing reserves to the member banks, that brings down the federal funds rate and that brings down the other money costs."

The gross national product — the broadest measure of economic health as the total value of all goods and services produced by a country — slowed to a sluggish 2.7 annual rate of growth from July through September, the government reported last week. The GNP grew at a rate of 10.1 percent in the first quarter and 7.1 percent in the second.

At the start of the year, the prime rate stood at 11 percent. It climbed to 13 percent in late June. Its all-time high was 21.5 percent, in December 1980.

JUSTICE

Sprayberry, 43, emphasizes his experience and longtime residency in the Permian Basin, and notes that the 26-year-old Kerr has only lived in the area for two years.

"I'm a native Texan, a long-term Permian Basin resident, and I have a college degree," he said. "And I do have the benefit of JP training schools and the experience of the job."

Kerr agrees that Sprayberry "does have an advantage over me by being a native of this area, but people are people — I've lived all over the U.S."

And as for being only 26, "According to the law in Texas you only have to be 18 years old" to be a justice of the peace.

Sprayberry was first elected in 1980. A former real estate agent, he has a business degree from the University of Texas at El Paso.

Kerr is "shy about a semester or so" of his college degree, but he plans to finish and possibly go to law school in the future. Currently he runs his own oilfield supply business and is active in Midland Jaycees.

Midlander charged with possession

From Staff Reports

A 49-year-old Midland woman was arraigned Friday on two felony charges for possession of narcotics after Midland police department narcotics division officers executed a search warrant Thursday morning at her eastside home.

Ethel Mae Williams was arraigned by Justice of the Peace Bob Pine, who also issued the search warrant. Bond for possession of pheometrazine and possession of marijuana was set at $20,000 each, according to Lt. Jim Colburn, police spokesman.

Narcotic officers, assisted by detectives from the uniformed division, found "numerous" drugs in her residence and on her person about 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Colburn said. Five large marijuana plants found hanging in the rear of her residence drying and a "little" cocaine were confiscated.

A third charge of possesion of a firearm by a felon also is expected to be filed, Colburn said.

Two arrested for gambling promotion

From Staff Reports

Two Midlanders have been arrested in one week on felony charges of gambling promotion.

Midland police arrested a 55-year-old woman at 4 p.m. Thursday at Lee and Illinois for promoting gambling. Gambling paraphernalia and money was confiscated at the scene.

The Midland County Grand Jury handed down an indictment on Armando Prunada Wednesday for similar charges.

Prunada was arrested Oct. 18. He was arraigned and is out on a $7,500 bond, according to police.

Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale greets employees of El Paso International Airport on his arrival Friday. Mondale was scheduled to attend a rally in El Paso Friday night.

Candidates trade charges over money

Associated Press

As Walter Mondale courted Hispanic votes in El Paso, the two camps in the U.S. Senate race Friday hurled charges about each other's money — specifically, where it came from and whether it was donated legally.

Democrat Lloyd Doggett said Republican Phil Gramm took more money from "special interest groups" than the law allows.

In Austin, a Gramm spokesman said Doggett took money from a political action committee, funded in part by Florida dog racing interests, that violated federal election requirements.

Mondale appeared at the 405-year-old Ysleta plaza, in one of the nation's oldest Mexican-American communities, to attend the Ysleta Mission Fiesta.

In the Senate race, Larry Neal, Gramm's press secretary, said Doggett got $1,000 from Grey PAC in May. The committee never filed the required registration with the Federal Election Commission, according to Neal.

He also said contributors to Grey PAC donated more than the $5,000 per year set by federal law. Neal said there apparently was nothing wrong with the donation to Doggett, but added:

"The candidate bears some responsibility for seeing to it the donations he receives are from legally constituted entities."

Three of the four contributors to Grey PAC are South Florida dog race track officials. The fourth is Kerry McCan, a Victoria cattle rancher.

STATE

Austin restaurant owner Nick Kralj is listed as the person who decides how to donate the committee's money. Kralj was in Galveston and unavailable for comment Friday.

The questions Doggett must answer, Neal said, is "Should he give it back?" and "Why do three greyhound racing promoters in Florida want to donate to the campaign?"

Paul Begala, a Doggett spokesman, said Kralj is "a neighbor of Lloyd's."

"For all I know he's a restaurant guy," Begala said of Kralj.

"What we are going to do is look into it. If we determine there's anything improper about that money we are going to give it back," he added. "And that's exactly what Gramm needs to do with his $110,000 in dirty money he took from special interests."

Doggett talked about Gramm's money during a Corpus Christi stop. He said he believes the College Station Republican intentionally misreported campaign contributions.

On reports filed in Washington, Gramm showed no campaign debts from the May primary. He since has reported filing more than $214,000 in campaign bills from the spring, and receiving $110,000 in donations.

"It's clear that they were not content to finance within the limits of the law but that it was necessary for Mr. Gramm to invent a debt to allow those selfish interests to finance him more than the law allows," said Doggett.

The law bars post-election contributions to a candidate who shows no debt.

Gramm has said his bookkeeping system combined contributions for the primary and general election, and the donations were proper.

Gramm's money — or the lack of it — was talked about Friday in Texarkana by GOP Sen. John Tower, whose retirement set up what has become a nasty fight between Gramm and Doggett.

Tower said Gramm is $100,000 shhort in efforts to buy television time for the final week of the campaign.

Sept. 30 finance reports showed Gramm had spent $6.5 million and only had $83,086 left.

Dogget had spent $3.27 million, and had $696,957 remaining.

Attorneys enter innocent pleas for four Texas A&M cadets

BRYAN (AP) — Attorneys entered innocent pleas Friday for four Texas A&M University students who were indicted in connection with the death of a campus military Corps of Cadets member.

Meanwhile, two of the youths' mothers said the students were being used as scapegoats and "sacrificial lambs."

W.W. "Bill" Vance and Henry Paine Jr., who were representing the students, entered the innocent pleas before Brazos County Court at Law Judge Carolyn Ruffino in the Aug. 30 death of Bruce Goodrich, a 20-year-old sophomore.

Goodrich, a transfer student from Webster, N.Y., was rousted out of his bed and forced to perform "motivational exercises," including pushups and situps, investigators said. He collapsed and later died at a Bryan hospital.

The students did not appear before the judge, who set a pre-trial hearing for Dec. 14

On Sept. 28, a Brazos County grand jury indicted 21-year-old Jason Miles, of Houston; 20-year-old Louis Fancher III of San Antonio; and 21-year-old Anthony D'Alessandro of Houston on misdemeanor charges of hazing and negligent homicide.

Gabriel Cuadra, the former senior personnel officer of Goodrich's F-1 unit, was indicted on charges of hazing and tampering with evidence.

The tampering with evidence indictment charges Cuadra with destroying a corps exercise schedule the day after Goodrich died.

In a letter sent to Bill Kibler, university assistant director of student affairs, D'Alessandro, Miles and Fancher said they will not appeal their suspensions from the university because they do not want to embarrass the corps further.

"While we cannot accept responsibility for the tragedy that occurred, neither can we accept responsibility for initiating an action which has the potential to subject the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets and our classmates to further public misunderstanding," the three juniors wrote.

"Notwithstanding the personal anguish involved in such a decision, our experiences over the last few weeks have convinced us that almost no action on our part will be articulated or subsequently reported, without providing opportunity to depreciate the meanings and values of a group which has contributed so much to our state and country for 108 years," the letter said.

All three cadets signed the letter, which was released by Vance Thursday to the Bryan-College Station Eagle.

The three were suspended last week until the 1985 fall semester. Under university regulations, readmission must be approved by the Office of Student Affairs.

Cuadra was also disciplined, but the extent of the action taken against him has not been made public. Cuadra could have been suspended for an indefinite period of time or expelled from the university.

Braniff's president alters carrier's strategy

DALLAS (AP) — The president of Braniff Inc. says his faltering carrier may be able to survive as a "little vagabond" airline serving a few cities with a few cheap flights.

It's a strategy Patrick Foley hopes won't prompt arch-competitor American Airlines to start a fare war that could push Braniff over the financial edge again.

"I don't need to taunt the bear at this point," Foley told The Dallas Morning News in an interview published Friday.

Foley said Braniff, which has lost more than $80 million since resuming service in March, has been trying too hard to compete on American's terms.

"It didn't work," he said.

Braniff said Wednesday it will eliminate service to all but nine cities, ground two-thirds of its fleet, lay off employees and lease nine of its 12 gates at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport to American.

"We had a cash requirement. We had no choice," Foley said. "But I think we have a better chance competing with American as a little vagabond airline serving a few cities with a few flights."

Starting Nov. 5, Braniff will have nine long-haul routes from Dallas-Fort Worth rather than the 19 it now has.

It will operate 10 planes instead of 30 and fly to Boston, Chicago, Denver, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Phoenix, New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

Foley said some routes may have only one Braniff flight a day compared with as many as 10 American flights.

"I won't predict if they will match our fares or not," he said.

Foley said he hopes the cutbacks will persuade American that Braniff is not a threat and discourage vigorous competition. He said he's determined to make Braniff, resurrected in March from the ashes of its bankrupt predecessor, work.

"If this doesn't work, we'll try something else," he said. "But Braniff will be here for a long, long time."

Pentagon: Troops not going to El Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Friday "there are no plans" for U.S. military exercises in El Salvador, thus moving to checkmate published reports that could pose political problems for the Reagan administration in the last stages of the presidential campaign.

A brief Pentagon statement was issued in response to inquiries about reports published in the New York Times and Washington Post.

The reports said several hundred U.S. troops would maneuver along the Honduran-Salvadoran border starting in early December and that some of those operations would extend into El Salvador, scene of a civil war between government forces and Marxist rebels.

"The assertion that 'several hundred U.S. troops' will exercise along the Honduran-El Salvadoran border is false," the Pentagon said. "Further, there are no plans to conduct exercises in El Salvador with the Salvadoran army or air force."

The administration has repeatedly pledged that no U.S. troops will become embroiled in the Salvadoran war, although the United States is supporting the government there with economic aid and military equipment and advice.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters Friday that routine military exercises are planned but that, "at present, there are none scheduled in El Salvador."

Dead man turns up with new name, new wife

NATION

CHICAGO (AP) — When John K. Tidswell vanished during a sailing trip 14 years ago, Kathleen Tidswell thought she had become a widow.

But now Tidswell has turned up in Colorado — with a new wife and a new name, and Mrs. Tidswell is suing him for divorce and at least $100,000 in retroactive alimony and child support.

"She was obviously very surprised and upset" when she learned that her husband had resurfaced as Robert Halfyard of Broomfield, Colo., said Richard Rinella, Mrs. Tidswell's attorney.

"I think he probably wanted to get away from her," Rinella said in a telephone interview Friday. "I think he planned it."

Rinella said he didn't know why Tidswell didn't just divorce Mrs. Tidswell.

"People do strange things," he said. "It would seem a lot easier to do that."

Mrs. Tidswell, 54, of suburban Wilmette, filed the lawsuit Thursday in Cook County Circuit Court.

In 1970, Tidswell, also 54, vanished during a solo sailing trip on a Canadian lake. At the time, he, his wife and three young children were living in St. Catherines, Ontario, Canada.

Authorities found the damaged boat July 25, 1970, but there was no sign of Tidswell. On Oct. 8, 1971, a Canadian court declared him legally dead.

Meanwhile, Tidswell assumed the alias Robert Halfyard, married Ruth Campbell in Chicago on Sept. 30, 1973, and moved to the Denver area, according to Rinella.

Tidswell, as Halfyard, sold cars and was named the top Volkswagen salesman in Colorado in 1979. The honor, which included a trip to Europe, turned out to be a mixed blessing. When he applied for a passport for the trip, immigration officials learned about the double identity, Rinella said.

In August 1983, authorities contacted one of Tidswell's sons, Phillip, now 20. He told his sister, now 22, and brother, now 25, and they broke the news to their mother.

American Dining Room... Welcome The Craftsbury Collection By Century®

It might have been in just such a setting that Thomas Chittedon decided to become the first governor of Vermont. Or perhaps it was in a room like this that the Cabot's spoke only to Lodge's and the Lodge's spoke only to God...
Once again Century® has recreated history-this time. American history-with the introduction of a new collection called Craftsbury. Based on designs current in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Craftsbury incorporates two distinct design motifs: the first, shown here, could perhaps be described as American provincial. Dressy in style, it includes adaptations of English furniture built by Boston. Newport and Philadelphia cabinetmakers. Extensive bead moldings are employed, as are ogee-bracketed feet, drawers edge-banded in mahogany, fluted columns, beveled glass, wood mullions. Queen Anne style pulls and expert mitre work Constructed of oak solids and oak veneers.
(And also a special walnut veneer treatment on formal dining table tops) the entire collection is available in two wood finishes.
Not shown, but of equal importance in the completeness of the collection, is the country element of Craftsbury. Much simpler in line, yet far from being Colonial in interpretation, the country grouping features wide doors and drawers, round knobs, bracketed feet and robust moldings.
Shown: A Queen Anne style extension table featuring edge banding in oak contrasted with a walnut veneer top. Queen Anne style chairs, a three-drawer hunt or side board, and a magnificent four door china with glass inserts. Note the Queen Anne style pulls bead moldings, wood mullions and mitering.
Craftsbury by Century® a welcome return to elegance, a welcome home to America.

Iran: No peace with Iraq's Hussein, 'satans' in power

WORLD

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran on Friday signaled its willingness to ease its conditions for ending the four-year-old Persian Gulf War but said there will be no peace while Iraq's President Saddam Hussein "and five or six other little Satans" remain in power.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic government remained silent, meanwhile, about Red Cross-backed charges that Iranian guards shot and killed six Iraqi POWs during a prison riot in northern Iran early this month.

Speaking to tens of thousands of Moslem worshipers gathered for weekly prayers at Tehran University, Chief Justice Ayatollah Musavi Ardebili said Iran was prepared to drop some of the conditions to end the war, which began in September 1980 with Iraq's invasion of Iran in a territorial dispute over Iraq's only waterway into the gulf.

"We don't want any water or land. ...We don't even want war compensation; we only want (to oust) Saddam and five or six other little Satans," he said.

Ardebili's speech was yet another departure from the stiff conditions set out by Iran shortly after the Iraqi invasion.

Foreign observers here said his words reflected an increasingly accepted theory among Iranian officials that Tehran must make some concessions to rally international support for its main demand of ousting Hussein. Iran has demanded economic compensations from the Iraqi government to cover war damages which Iranian officials estimate at more than $100 billion.

Other conditions included the withdrawal of Iraqi troops and the opening of Iraqi borders to Iraqi refugees now living in Iran.

Last July, Iran's Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said Iran was seeking to end Iraq's war through diplomatic means.

Rafsanjani has suggested that Iran could keep the twin, oil-rich Majnoon islands as compensation for war damages. Those islands were captured from Iraq last February.

The islands, in the southern marshlands, were captured by Iran after a bloody offensive in February. Iran has reportedly made no move to use the oil resources there.

Speaking from an elevated platform overlooking the campus, Ardebili said, "The most painstaking war is better than an imposed peace," he said.

"On the first night that Saddam Hussein learns that he will not be given (international) help, he will commit suicide or flee," he said, drawing roars of "Death to America! Death to the Soviet Union! Death to Israel."

Ardebili also challenged the Iraqi president to brave the Iranian positions in the recently recaptured Meimak Heights in the central western battle front.

"Come to the battle front if you are a man," he said, drawing cheers from the crowd.

Ardebili said an Iranian offensive nine days ago was not an all-out attack but a limited operation to push out Iraqi troops from the Meimak area.

"Iran only moved a little," he said suggesting that Iran's long-awaited "final offensive" is yet to come.

Ardebili, whose job entails supervision of prisons, devoted half of his one-hour speech to domestic issues, but he did not refer to reports about a bloody prison riot at Gorgahn, a city near the Caspian coast, 238 miles northeast of Tehran.

Because it was Friday, the Moslem holy day, no Iranian officials were available to comment on those reports. Iranian officials rarely comment on issues involving international questions. Western reporters rarely have access to most parts of Iran.

In Geneva, Switzerland, a Red Cross spokesman, Jean-Jacques Kurtz, said on Thursday that three Red Cross representatives at the prison witnessed the shootings during a riot on Oct. 10. According to the Red Cross, the witnesses said Iranian guards killed six Iraqi prisoners and wounded at least 35 inmates.

Kurtz said that Iran had informed him of the casualties in the riot. He said no weapons had been used by the rioting prisoners.

The official Iraqi News Agency on Thursday quoted Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz as saying Iranian guards "opened fire indiscriminately on Iraqi prisoners ... killing some of them and injuring others. The transliteration of the Iraqi report said the camp's name was Korcan, apparently a spelling variant of the Iranian Gorgahn.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said the United States supports the efforts of the Red Cross to relieve the suffering of Iraqi and Iranian prisoners of war and their families. "We condemn the current Iranian regime's execution and mistreatment of prisoners of war as tragic violations of the Geneva Conventions," he said.)

Gathered on a campus patio to hear Ardebili were old men wearing turbans and young boys in jeans who mingled with top-level officials and some army officers in the front rows. Several other thousands men and women listened to the speech through loudspeakers scattered throughout the university's gardens and adjacent streets.

Employee of American embassy killed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A gunman jumped out of a car and killed a Salvadoran security employee of the U.S. Embassy as he walked to work Friday morning, an embassy spokesman said.

It was the second time this year that an embassy employee has been gunned down while going to work and embassy spokesman Donald Hamilton said the latest killing, like the first, apparently was the work of leftist guerrillas.

Hamilton said Raul Menendez Aquino, 62, a senior guard supervisor at the embassy, was shot three times in the back and head with a .45-caliber pistol.

A white car with no license plates drove up behind Menendez as he walked through a residential area near the embassy. One of the three men inside got out and fired the shots, Hamilton said. One of the men yelled, "We are the FPL and this is an embassy dog," and the car sped away, Hamilton said.

FPL are the Spanish initials for the Popular Liberation Forces, one of the largest groups in the guerrilla coalition that has waged a five-year war against the U.S.-backed government.

Joaquin Alfredo Zapata Romero, 59, chief of the Salvadoran security personnel at the embassy, was killed in April when gunmen pulled up alongside his car at a traffic light and fired 10 bullets into his body.

A typewritten statement, signed by the "central command" of the FPL was left at a commercial radio station, claiming the group killed Zapata Romero. However, the paper did not bear the characteristic crossed machine guns, machete and hammer of the FPL and it carried a slogan no longer used by the group.

An urban terror group, the Clara Elizabeth Ramirez Metropolitan Front, has claimed responsiblity for similar killings in the past and has claimed ties with the FPL. It is named for one of the FPL founders.

In May 1983, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger III, deputy commander of the U.S. military advisers in El Salvador, was assassinated by guerrillas as he sat in his car waiting for his girlfriend at the University of Central America. He is the only American military adviser killed in El Salvador.

The latest killing is part of recent upswing in guerrilla activity. The attacks have been of the hit-and-run type rather than the sustained military campaigns the leftists had tried to mount in the past.

The accelereated attacks closely followed preliminary peace talks between government and rebel leaders in the northern town of La Palma on Oct. 15. Additional talks are planned for late November.

Since the talks, the rebels have seriously damaged an important power substation, tied up traffic in much of the eastern third of the country by threatening motorists and blacked out the capital for most of a day. They claimed to have shot down a plane carrying American CIA agents and a helicopter carrying top Salvadoran army commanders.

American and Salvadoran military specialists have been predicting increased guerrilla activity to coincide with the return of the dry season and the presidential elections in the United States.

In violence apparently involving a personal dispute, Juan Pablo Rivas, the head of San Salvador's city police force, was shot to death in his office early Friday. Police officials said they arrested a police inspector, Manuel Jesus Medino.

Fans line up for tickets

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Bruce Springsteen's fans started pitching tents five days early, hoping to get tickets to the New Jersey-born rock star's only Nebraska stop on his nationwide concert tour.

About 300 people arrived at a University of Nebraska ticket booth by Thursday, waiting for Sunday's sale of $16.50 seats for the Nov. 18 concert at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. First in line were students Kif Ward, Bill Claussen, Brad Muenster and Mick Kelly, who staked their claim at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

"Nebraska" is the title of a recent album by Springsteen, who has been singing the title song on tour.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rock star Elton John was forced to cancel a scheduled sold-out Madison Square Garden appearance at the last minute due to a bout with the flu, his management says.

Elton John

The flamboyant British singer, whose current hit in a decade-long string of singles is "Sad Songs (Say So Much)," canceled his Thursday night show, said John Reid, the singer's manager.

Tickets for the Thursday show will be honored at a new Nov. 12 date or can be returned for a refund prior to Nov. 1.

BRISTOL, England (AP) - A 64-year-old mother of 11 who met Prince Charles on Friday says she gave him some advice on birth control: "Keep your pajamas on."

Lil Hill, who was in a crowd that gathered to shake hands with the heir to the British throne, says he chatted with her about the problems of parenthood.

"The prince said he would come back to me for advice, and I said the only advice I could give him was to keep his pajamas on," she said.

Prince Charles has two children, 2-year-old Prince William and 6-week-old Prince Harry.

While Charles was in Bristol, his sister Princess Anne was touring Bangladesh, where she visited 60 malnourished children at a Save the Children's Fund facility in Dhaka. She also stopped at an agricultural workshop and training school on the outskirts of the city.

Morton Dean

Dean decided to leave the network, where he also anchored the early Sunday evening edition of the "CBS Evening News," because CBS wanted him to anchor its "CBS Early Morning News" program, said Howard Stringer, CBS News executive vice president.

"It was all fairly amicable," Stronger said Thursday. "We didn't want him to leave."

Dean will co-anchor the nightly newscast that INN provides to about 145 stations across the United States.

The state ad campaign was designed to inform youngsters that they need not tolerate abuse and that adults can help them, Van de Kamp said Thursday.

Inventor of 'Baggie' dies at 64

Samuels

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Samuels, the inventor of the "Baggie," president of the North American Soccer League and former head of the Small Business Administration, died Friday at the age of 64.

His daughter, Catherine Samuels, said he awoke during the night and complained of not feeling well. His wife called a doctor, but he died of an apparent heart attack at 2 a.m.

Gov. Mario Cuomo said he was "shocked and deeply saddened" by Samuels' death. "He was a gentle, compassionate man who possessed a unique talent for bonding his personal sense of humanity with an intelligent, practical view of business and government," Cuomo said.

Former Gov. Malcolm Wilson, a Republican, said Samuels was "a highly principled gentleman with a well-developed civic and social conscience."

Samuels received a degree in science and engineering administration from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a thesis on "The Manufacturing and Distribution Problems of Vinyl-Coated Sisal Rope as a Clothesline."

After World War II he borrowed money from his father and with his brother Richard set up the Kordite Corp. in a $35-a-month abandoned schoolhouse in Victor, N.Y.

Their first product was the plastic clothesline of his thesis, but the company expanded into plastic packaging. The brothers invented and marketed "Baggies," the plastic bags that became a lunchpail fixture.The company employed 2,000 workers in 1958, when the Samuels sold it to Mobil for $43 million.

During the war he had been a member of Gen. George S. Patton's staff and rose from private to lieutenant colonel by age 25.

President Lyndon Johnson appointed Samuels undersecretary of commerce in 1967 and in that post he organized the National Alliance of Businessmen to combat unemployment.

In 1968, he became administrator of the Small Business Administration.

He had entered politics in 1960, as an advisor to John F. Kennedy's campaign, and then he helped spearhead a successful drive to reform New York's constitution.

He ran for the governorship in 1962, and lost. He ran again in 1966 and was nominated for lieutenant governor instead, but the ticket of Samuels and former City Council President Frank O'Connor lost to Nelson Rockefeller.

He ran again in 1970, and again in 1974 — failing each time.

Mayor John V. Lindsay named Samuels the first chairman of the city's Off-Track Betting Corp. in 1971.

"I wanted to be governor — I didn't want to be head bookie," Samuels said in 1971. When he left OTB in 1973, there were 110 OTB offices, handling $5 million a day.

His last public post was with the NASL, which he had led since 1982.

"He fought vigorously to enhance the NASL and to promote the sport of soccer in North America," said Mark Bienstock, the NASL's general counsel.

Samuels is survived by his second wife, Antoinette, two children by his second marriage and eight children from his first.

Services are set for noon Sunday at Temple Rodeph Shalom in Manhattan.

'Beast' takes 'Beauty's place

SHARON, Pa. (AP) — City officials say "Beauty" must go, so innkeeper Jim Winner is hoping that "Beast" can take its place.

Winner, owner of the Shenango Inn, was ordered by the city to get rid of Beauty, the horse he rented to provide carriage rides to customers.

So Winner on Thursday brought in a mule, which he named Beast.

"The city of Sharon has said Beauty must go, leaving me with no choice but to replace her with Beast," said Winner, who claims he got the mule because he did not want to violate a city ordinance that prohibits sheltering a horse or pony.

'Hill Street' makes debut in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The American television series "Hill Street Blues" has made its debut in Poland, where the show won high marks from a Polish critic for its thoughtful portrayal of life in a U.S. police station.

"'Hill Street' will surely provide an hour's entertainment and if somebody wants, he may also notice something more in it," wrote the reviewer in the TV magazine Antena. "Here's the every day work of police on the streets of a big city."

The Polish Radio and Television Committee, the state-run agency that determines Poland's TV fare, bought nine episodes from the NBC series' first season in 1981 and plans to broadcast one a week. Polish officials later may buy eight more episodes to conclude the first year's run.

There was no way of knowing immediately how many people watched the first episode of "Hill Street Blues" televised Thursday night. Polish television officials said Friday the results of a viewership survey they conducted would not be available for several days.

Many Poles were talking about the show, however.

"It was simple and not too complicated," said Robert Wietrak.

Wietrak, 16, disagreed with some observers who had said the reason Communist officials brought "Hill Street" to Poland was because it portrayed a not-too-rosy picture of life in America. "In every country, in some districts, there is crime and death," he said.

A 25-year-old woman said she enjoyed the first program, which centered around a standoff between police and two youths holding a store proprietor at gunpoint.

"The situation like the terrorist action at the store certainly does not happen here, but it's better than that stuff from the Soviet Union," said the woman, who asked to be identified only by her first name, Elsbieta. "One can think about it, laugh about it. One can look at it from every point of view."

Others found little to like about "Hill Street."

"It was too noisy, too much shooting, too much violence," said a 60-year-old woman who would identify herself only as Maria. "What we need is something tranquilizing, not something that will make us nervous."

The decision to show "Hill Street" was viewed as a sign that Communist authorities may be resuming active pursuit of Western TV shows.

With the imposition of martial law in 1981, Polish officials stopped importing TV shows from the West, replacing them with offerings from the Soviet Union and other Eastern Bloc countries. Polish TV viewership dropped.

In recent months, there have been signs that Polish officials are seeking to liven up Polish TV. Such films as "The Godfather," "Love Story" and "Rocky" have been shown on Saturday nights.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Fifteenth-century scholar Desiderius Erasmus and the great screen costume designer Edith Head were born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: Dr. Jonas Salk, Bruce Jenner, actress Jane Alexander, Baltimore's Sammy Stewart, cover girl Suzy Parker and the Detroit Tigers' Bob Melvin. Forcing issues will only slow you down. Pursue your goals in an indirect manner. Those who really count will appreciate your subtlety. Your finances get a big boost in February and again in May. ARIES (March 21-April 19): Let those who look to you for all the answers come up with a few of their own this weekend. Some good news arrives. Your concern for a family member is unnecessary.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Spiritual guidance gives valuable insights. Do not make concessions that will hurt your integrity. A new love relationship looks promising. Involvement with an old flame could cause trouble; keep your distance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A family gathering gives you a great opportunity to share good news and discuss mutual problems. A stranger's remarks strike a responsive chord. An old romance can be rekindled. Know your own heart.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Visiting your former haunts makes you grateful for your present home. Forget about the past and look to the future. A sports event catches your interest. Change your plans to accommodate loved one.

Group asks White for stay of execution for Barefoot

AUSTIN (AP) — A prisoners' lobby organization concerned with ramifications of Tuesday's scheduled execution of Thomas Barefoot sent Gov. Mark White a letter asking for a 30-day stay, the group's director said Friday.

Charles Sullivan of Citizens United For Rehabilitation of Errants said the public perception of the governor is that he is overly anxious to execute the convicted murderer.

"His record supports the death penalty," Sullivan said. "Even while he was attorney general."

During White's term as governor and attorney general, three inmates — Charles Brooks, James Autry and Ronald O'Bryan — have been executed by lethal injection.

On Thursday, the Board of Pardons and Paroles voted 3-2 not to recommend White grant a 30-day reprieve for Barefoot. Despite that vote, White can grant a 30-day reprieve.

"You must have 12 people on a jury to be totally convinced for a guilty verdict, here we have a 60-40 split," he said. "We see the majority is one. And one not an official board member."

Sullivan was referring to Board of Pardons and Parole Chairman Ruben Torres, who voted with the majority. He complianed that Torres is serving although his term has expired.

"He's serving a term that expired in February 1983," he said. "And we're letting this individual make a decision on life and death."

Ann Arnold, White's press secretary, said participation on a board after a term has expired is common.

"It's not uncommon and it happens all the time," she said. "Until that person has been reappointed or replacement made, it's common procedure."

Sullivan said White should look to Louisana Gov. Edwin W. Edwards as an example of how a governor should handle death row inmates.

Edwards, he said, visits with the inmate's family and on occasion visits the inmate at the prison.

Sullivan said if White granted the reprieve, it would act as a signal to the Board of Pardons and Paroles to be more involved in death row cases.

Sullivan said his group is pessimistic about a reprieve but hopes the governor will act on updating the board's membership.

Ms. Arnold said the governor would review the case records over the weekend and make a decision on Monday. The case is also pending in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Barefoot's lawyers filed a motion for a stay with the Supreme Court on Thursday raising the issue of the state's legal use of lethal injection. Attorneys are seeking a stay until the outcome of a pending case filed against the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Attorney General Jim Mattox has asked the Supreme Court to deny the motion. Mattox argues the lower courts have already ruled on the issues raised in Barefoot's case.

Barefoot, convicted of capital murder for the Aug. 7, 1978, shooting death of Harker Heights police officer Carl LeVin, escaped the lethal injection by 11 hours on Jan. 24, 1983, when the Supreme Court stopped the execution in order to review the last-minute appeals process.

Tuesday's scheduled execution marks the fifth death date set for Barefoot by the courts.

Barefoot, who has maintained his innocence, said his execution would be "the most premeditated of murders."

Warden hired to head Darrington Unit

HOUSTON (AP) — A warden from the Oklahoma prison system has been hired to fill the job of warden at the Texas Department of Corrections Darrington Unit, a prison spokesman says.

Timothy West, 35, will fill the job vacated by 40-year-old Warden Willis Gilliam at the Darrington Unit near Rosharon, said chief TDC spokesman Phil Guthrie.

Gilliam announced his resignation this week, saying he was paid too little for the tasks and pressure inherent in the job.

West was warden at the Connor Correctional Center in Hominy, Okla.

Mother, son who married plead innocent to incest

Lawyers say statute of limitations have expired

Mary Ann Bass

CHARLOTTE, Tenn. (AP) — A mother and son who married each other pleaded innocent to incest Friday, while their lawyers argued the charges should be dropped because the statute of limitations had run out.

Standing side by side, Danny James Bass, 26, and his mother, Mary Ann Garton Bass, 43, entered their pleas during an arraignment in Dickson County Circuit Court.

At a hearing later, Mrs. Bass admitted giving conflicting accounts about her relationship with her son. She testified that she had told the same official she was Bass' wife, and on another occasion that she was his mother.

"Well which are you, Mrs. Bass?" said Dan Cook, assistant district attorney.

Mrs. Bass, dressed in a pink sweater, pearls and a blond wig, put her face in her hands. She paused and then looked up at the judge, Leonard Martin.

"I'm having a chest pain," she said. Martin declared a brief recess.

Bass, his hands clutching the court bench, sat hunched in the courtroom and did not look at his mother. The pair came to court separately. It was the first time they had appeared together publicly since their indictments.

Both were charged with incest and felonious carnal knowledge. Bass is also charged with perjury for allegedly lying to the grand jury when he said he did not know at the time of the marriage that his bride was his mother.

Mrs. Bass has also been charged with bigamy for marrying Bass a month before her divorce from her fourth husband was granted.

"This is a landmark case because it's bigamy and incest all rolled into one," said Doug Jackson, Bass' attorney.

He said it was "a victimless crime" and charges should be dropped because the four-year statute of limitations had expired. The couple married in 1978 but have not lived together since several months after the marriage.

"They have not been married in the last four years, nor have they had sex in the last four years. And that's the truth," he said.

There have been conflicting stories as to whether Bass knew of the relationship when he married his mother. Given up for adoption at age 3, Bass was raised by an uncle, who said he introduced Bass to his mother at age 13.

Bass' lawyer, however, said Bass did not meet her until 1978 and did not know at the time she was his mother. When he learned of the relationship several months later, he joined the Army.

He said he went to the authorities after his mother refused to give him a divorce because she did not want another woman to have him. Mrs. Bass, however, has contended that he did so to get revenge for being given up for adoption.

In September, Bass married Brenda Maylene Watts, 25. His lawyer said that because Tennessee Courts have held in other cases that marriage to a blood relative is void, there was nothing bigamous about Bass' new marriage.

Block will have to pay back taxes

PRESTON, Minn. (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block will pay his share of $43,000 in back taxes on nearly 1,000 acres of Minnesota farmland, which reverted to him after an investor partnership defaulted, an aide said Friday.

Block and two partners regained title of the land, making them liable for the delinquent tax bill, said Fillmore County recorder O.H. Amdahl.

"That land was sold by Block before he became agriculture secretary and the default simply means that ownership has reverted back to him. It means he and his partners will now be paying the tax bill," John Ochs, an aide for Block, who was out of town, said in Washington. "He certainly will pay his taxes."

Block, an Illinois hog farmer, and his Illinois partners, John W. Curry and George Clark, sold the land in Mower and Fillmore counties to Decorah Farms, an investor partnership based in Iowa, on a contract for deed in January 1980.

The Iowa partnership defaulted on the contract earlier this year after failing to make a $193,000 payment due in April to the Block group, according to notices filed in the two counties in the past two weeks.

Decorah Farms also failed to pay property taxes owed for 1983 and 1984, county records show.

The delinquent taxes, including penalties and interest, totaled $43,190.64 as of Thursday, according to figures supplied by Fillmore and Mower county officials.

The taxes probably will be paid within 30 days, said William Kingsford, a principal partner in Decorah Farms. He said the two groups agreed that Block and his partners would pay the taxes from a payment made to them by Decorah Farms.

NATION in brief

Nails found in trees

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A $5,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the conviction of people responsible for driving about 1,000 nails into trees on federal land, U.S. Forest Service officials say.

Authorities believe the nails, which could damage chain saws, were driven by people opposed to removal of the trees for timber.

Mike Kerrick, a Forest Service supervisor, said 20 Forest Service employees with metal detectors and crow bars on Friday began pulling the spikes from 132 acres on Hardesty Mountain. It could take up to 10 days to remove the nails, he said.

Mother released from jail

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The wheelchair-bound mother of an 11-month-old infant has been released after serving 76 days in the Butte County jail for refusing to testify against a man she believes to be her husband.

Vallarie Siervonti, freed Thursday, was jailed Aug. 10 for contempt of court after she refused to testify before a grand jury investigating charges against Matthew Siervonti, who is charged with attempted murder, rape and other crimes.

The 32-year-old woman claimed she could not be forced to testify against her husband. But the judge said Siervonti's Mexican divorce from another woman was not recognized in California, so his second marriage was invalid.

Women deny stealing

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Two women have pleaded innocent to charges of stealing almost $2.3 million worth of jewelry and silverware from the mansion of oil heiress Carolyn Skelly two months ago.

Mary I. Coite, 19, and Barbara R. Polk, 20, denied on Thursday charges that they broke into the house and carried out items, including a $400,000 diamond necklace, in a pillowcase.

Mrs. Polk had worked as a maid for Mrs. Skelly for six days before the break-in. Police said they were alerted to the robbery the next day by Mrs. Polk's husband, William.

Rebels not pretty, but 14-7

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee's fortunate 14-7 victory over the Abilene High Eagles at Memorial Stadium Friday night was not a thing of beauty, but the Rebels leaped to within one victory of clinching a second consecutive state playoff berth.

That fact hadn't settled in on Lee coach Jack Tayrien late Friday night. He was still looking to see if his scalp was in place.

"I don't know the other scores and I'll think about what all this means tomorrow. I'm just thankful that we won. I'm glad to just get out of this game alive," said Tayrien.

So, Jack, the facts now say that a victory over Odessa High next week will vault the Rebels into the playoffs regardless of what Lee does against Midland High in the regular season finale.

EVEN WITH two losses, the Rebels will have beaten any other team (Cooper and San Angelo) which has two losses to date. Odessa Permian's victory over San Angelo took care of that Friday.

But back to Abilene High's last ditch stand to stay in the 4-5A race. It fell short, but Lee knew they had been in a real battle.

In fact, it was two costly mistakes on opening first half and second half kickoffs that doomed the Eagles. Abilene kickoff returner Daniel Brewer probably wishes Oct. 26, 1984, had never happened.

Brewer fumbled Lee kickoffs twice, setting up the only Rebel scoring drives of meager 16 and 19 yards. Lee's Kevin Witt recovered the opening kickoff of the game at the AHS 16 and Walter Jones scored in two plays, the final being a 12-yard sweep.

Brewer again fumbled the third quarter kickoff at the AHS 19 where Chris Kenney was there to set up Tyrone Thurman's 10-yard TD run. Craig Kamradt was golden true on both extra point boots.

THE EAGLES stayed in the game and held Lee to a mere nine first downs and 197 yards of offense, the worst Lee offensive show of the year on another sloppy and rain-plagued District 4-5A night.

However, Thurman's one-man rushing crew was a sight to behold. He rushed for 136 yards on 14 carries, but Lee had nothing to go with him. Jones was held to a season low 45 yards on 13 carries.

"Abilene got up close on defense and we couldn't do anything about it," said Tayrien. "They played a great defensive game and we just couldn't utilize our speed on the wet field. Ty (Thurman) did a great job of running, but it was Walter (Jones) who was throwing the blocks for him out there. Those two sure work good together."

The Eagles marched 41 yards in the third quarter to narrow the margin to the final 14-7 when Guy Sims broke up the Lee middle for a 36-yard TD romp and Melvin Davis added the point after. There was still 6:15 left in the third period at that point and the Lee victory was not secure by any means.

However, the Lee defense rose to the occasion as Chris Embrey, Pool Webb, Terry Powell, Earl Davis and Terry Young all came up with big defensive plays to keep in other Eagle chance in Abilene dreams.

THE LEE defense held Abilene quarterback John Bowser to a mere three yards rushing and the Odessa High transfer completed eight of 15 passes, but for only 46 yards. Last week, Bowser ran for over 100 yards against Odessa High.

But Brewer is the one who will remember this contest. His two fumbles accounted for all of Lee's points in a thin victory. Two weeks ago, Brewer fumbled at the Abilene 10 against San Angelo.

It could be a costly victory for the Rebels. Defensive tackle John Wurster went down in the first half with a knee injury.

Cougs outlast Dogs, 24-19

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

ABILENE — Two Abilene Cooper touchdowns in the first 3:25 proved to be too much for the Midland High Bulldogs to overcome Friday night as the Cougars held on for a 24-19 District 4-5A victory at P.E. Shotwell Stadium.

The Cougars came up with great field position on their first two possessions. On the first, John Davis took the opening kickoff to the Bulldog 47-yard line and Cooper quarterback Doug Hadley didn't waste much time in taking advantage. On his first play, Hadley ran a keeper for 14 yards to the 32 and, two plays later, he hit tight end Scott Anderson for 25 yards and a touchdown.

Cooper's second possession was set up by a Jeff Alsup fumble on the Bulldog 28-yard line, recovered by Cooper's I.V. Robinson. Hadley moved the ball to the MHS seven on a pass to split end Chris Cromley. From there it took fullback Jay Tollison two plays to get the final yards, scoring on a three-yard run. Anderson hit his second PAT for a 14-0 lead.

"I was proud of the way the young men came back," said disappointed Midland High coach Doug McCutchen. "We started the game spotting Cooper 14 points and that's a tough situation, but our kids came back. I don't think they ever let up. We just spotted them too much at the start."

With time running out in the first quarter, Midland High quarterback Matt Marcum, replacing starter Alsup, started the Bulldogs on their comeback trail. Taking the ball on their own 21, the Bulldogs mounted a drive that ended at the 10:41 mark of the second quarter when Marcum hit halfback Jake Madrid with a 5-yard touchdown pass.

Madrid had helped set up the drive, breaking a 39-yard run to the 35 and Marcum hit passes of 20 and 11 yards to move the Dogs to the five. Richard Fry kicked the extra point to cut the lead to 14-7.

Neither team was able to move the ball on their next two possessions, however, it wasn't to last as the Cougars moved 36 yards on their third possession to the MHS 31 where the Bulldogs were able to stop the forward thrust, but with the wind estimated a 20 miles an hour at his back, the distance wasn't too far for Anderson, who kicked a 48-yard field goal for a 17-7 lead.

The field goal left 53 seconds on the halftime clock and Midland High tried to get another score. Starting from their own 10-yard line, Marcum connected on four passes, two for 54 yards to tight end Darrell Davis, but it wasn't enough as the Bulldogs ran out of time on the Cooper 25.

Even though the drive at the second half's end came up short, it proved to the Bulldogs they could move the football. On their second possession of the third quarter, the Bulldogs were on the move again, covering 66 yards on 11 plays. Davis capped the drive with his 26-yard TD catch from Marcum in the end zone with 4:23 left in the period. Fry missed the PAT kick, but the Dogs were back in the game at 17-13.

Greenwood pulverizes McCamey

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

GREENWOOD — To this day, Greenwood football coach Joe Longley says his young Rangers are going through a "rebuilding year."

Longley cites a new offensive line that has five fresh faces. Couple that with the fact that before 1984 Greenwood had never played as a class AA school. Before the year started Longley confided that his team was the favorite only to not be heard from in District 8-AA.

But after a convincing 29-9 win over the McCamey Badgers here in a steady drizzle, the Ranger coach must hope for an endless string of rebuilding years.

"It's a nice thing for the kids to play that hard," said Longley of his Rangers, now 7-1 and 2-1 in district play. "Give our offensive line a lot of credit," he said.

That honor belongs to Ranger fullback Roger Smith and tailback Terry O'Steen. Both scored twice, and both crossed the century mark in rushing as the Rangers ripped McCamey for 378 yards on the ground.

Both benefitted from the efforts of the Rangers' new front line that opened gaping holes for the two backs. Smith crashed for 191 yards on 26 tries, while O'Steen scooted for 116 steps on 15 carries. His largest contribution was a blazing 76-yard TD jaunt around the far sideline that gave the Rangers an insurmountable 29-3 lead late in the third quarter.

"We just got beat," said McCamey coach Buster Leaf. "As I told our kids, mathematically we're not out of it but realistically it will take a miracle."

A year ago the Badgers were 11-4 and lost in the state playoffs to Boyd, the eventual champion. But after a fast 5-0 start, McCamey lost to Reagan County to open district, and tonight's loss will dampen the McCamey hopes.

They simply couldn't overcome Smith, and that was the difference.

Greenwood took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in 13 plays for the score, a Smith dash around left end for a seven-yard tally. On the drive, the rangers munched 5:43 off the clock, completed their only pass of the night and made a gutsy fourth-and-one play at their own 30 on quarterback Chad Longley's second effort lunge.

TED BATTLES

UH giving SWC a bad name

Houston shares first place in the SWC and it's giving the league a bad name around the rest of the nation.

The Cougars deserve to be where they are on the basis of wins over Baylor, SMU and A&M, I suppose, but it's what they did before league play began that is hurting the conference.

Mainly, they lost to Louisville. That's bad enough, but last week Rutgers buried Louisville. And I understand from an unreliable inside source noted for erroneous tips, that Rutgers was turned down for admission to the Yankee Conference until it can demonstrate a bona fide dedication to the sport.

Last week the attempt to buck-the-line resulted in an 11-5 mark in the colleges and the muddled-in-mediocrity pros showed a 2-3-1 record.

The SWC...

SMU plus 7 over Texas—Both offenses have been sputtering the last couple of weeks, so take the points.

Texas Tech minus 1 over Tulsa—A matter of loyalty here, while wondering how Tech, beaten 59-21 by Tulsa last year, can be favored.

Texas A&M minus 18 over Rice—The 18 and Owls is tempting, but Rice just can't seem to get close to anybody.

TCU minus 6 over Baylor—Last week, I went against Frogs for first time, taking the points and the opponent. Frogs have been sounder than GM this fall.

Arkansas minus 3 over Houston—Don't these people know Cougars are leading the SWC. How can they be three-point underdogs? Still, pick is Arkansas.

The Others...

Clemson minus 14½ over NC State—A Have vs. a Have-Not.

Georgia minus 6 over Kentucky—Wildcats lose second.

Tennessee plus 6 over Georgia Tech—Vols beat 'Bama last week in squeaker. I know, so did Wreck, but Tech seems to have lost its golden slipper in the last few weeks.

Michigan plus three over Illinois—Wolverines are below par, but playing at home.

Notre Dame plus 10 over LSU—With Bayou Bengals fired up for Irish and playing at home, this is strictly a hunch gamble.

Wisconsin plus 8 over Ohio State—Badgers beat Missouri and played Michigan and Minnesota tough. It all depends on what kind of a mood Wisconsin is in, but they are at home.

Oklahoma minus 24 over Kansas—After last Saturday, even without Danny Bradley, Sooners should run wild.

Navy plus 6 over Pitt—Middies have been skylarking the last two weeks against the likes of Lehigh and Princeton, but even without Napoleon, they played Air Force close.

Stanford minus 4 over Oregon State—With Cardinals playing USC next week, they may not be paying attention to Beavers, but....

Michigan State minus 4 over Minnesota—This looks like money in the wallet, but this is the time of year when minds begin to wander. Still, it's the Spartans, although they have Northwestern next week.

Penn State plus 2 over West Virginia—Ron Jaap is going to want back that free roll of film he gave me last week. Mountaineers are very fickle. It's easy to get in a feud with 'em.

UCLA plus 7 over Arizona State—Don't ask why.

Nebraska minus 32 over Kansas State—Cornhuskers can make it what they want. The question is when will they slam on the brakes.

The Pros...

These are for laughs. Besides, no one really bets on these games, do they?

Dallas minus 10 over Indianapolis—Living recklessly.

Detroit plus 3 over Green Bay—Packers haven't won since the opener.

49ers minus three over Rams—San Francisco packs more fire power.

Giants plus 6½ over Redskins—I like to live dangerously.

REBELS

"We don't know how bad it is right now. We'll just have to wait and see," said Wurster after the game. Tayrien also stated that he didn't know how serious the injury was Friday night. Wurster is a big 250-pound mainstay of the Lee front wall.

In District 4-5A, teams will settle for any type of victory against any team on any kind of night. Lee survied a shot from the Eagles and can now waltz into the playoffs with one more victory next week against Odessa High, a team that has won only one district game this year.

BULLDOGS—

Still, it was as close as the Dogs were going to come. Cooper took Midland High's kick and mounted a 75-yard drive to score a touchdown early in the fourth quarter when Terry Suggs hauled in a 4-yard, fourth down scoring toss from Hadley. Anderson added his final extra point to give the Cougars a 24-13 lead.

Taking the ball on the 20, Marcum moved the Bulldogs downfield, completing five passes and taking advantage of a pass interference call in tallying the Bulldogs' final score. Madrid caught Marcum's fifth pass of the drive and took it seven yards to the end zone. Looking to salvage a possible tie, the Bulldogs went for two, but failed.

Marcum, who made his first appearance in a game in two weeks, said, "This week I was ready to play. My leg was a little weak, but I wanted to play. The line did a great job of blocking for me and I didn't feel much pressure all night. That's why I was throwing so well."

In all, Marcum completed 16 of 29 passes for 249 yards and three touchdowns. Davis caught four of the passes for 100 yards while Darren Thorpe grabbed five for 78 and Tim Hickey two for 25.

The loss dropped Midland High to 5-3 on the year, 2-3 in district play, but didn't dampen Marcum's spirits much.

"I don't think we're out of it (4-5A race)," said Marcum. "I think we can take it to Permian next week if the line does as good of a job blocking as they did tonight. I think they will have their hands full against us."

Mojo scrambles past San Angelo

SAN ANGELO—San Angelo Central's Bobcats gave Odessa Permian a run for its money, but Mojo, No. 1 ranked in the state and leading District 4-5A, subdued the insurrection, 33-24, before 20,000 fans here Friday night.

It was a wild scoring orgy in which points were swapped like haymakers, but it was a 12-point Permian lick in the third period that did-in the upset-minded Bobcats. While Greg Anderson and Dal Watson were scoring on 15 and nine yard passes from quarterback Alton Holloway, the Bobcats' only third period points came on a 27-yard field goal by Richard McKnight.

Holloway wound up with four touchdown passes for the night, also hitting Anderson on a 34-yarder in the second period and flipping to Daron New for five yards in the final period.

The teams were tied at 14 at intermission. Dal Watson had scored Permian's first period TD on a two-yard run while C.L. Bowman crashed over from the two and Charlie Good took a 24-yard pass from Mario Martinez in the second period.

The win gives Permian an 8-0 record for the season and a 5-0 district record. San Angelo, suffering its second loss, is 3-2 in district. The outcome puts Permian and Midland Lee in the forefront for state playoffs berths.

GREENWOOD—

Smith accounted for 45 of the drive's yards, but was to do his greatest damage later.

McCamey's first drive was thwarted at the Rangers' 19-yard line when a field goal try became a botched pass attempt. Moments later, early in the second quarter, Badger quarterback Heath Stephens was stopped cold at the Ranger 20.

"The defense did a good job down there," Longley lauded. "When it came time to buckle down, they played hard. On their first possession they had rammed the ball down our throat, then suddenly we stiffened and began playing defense. AT that point I knew our kids were going to get with it."

Greenwood's only turnover came six plays after the stand, and the Badgers converted the miscue by getting a 24-yard field goal from Nandy Zarate. But the Ranger defense, already owning five shutouts and allowing an average of only 5.8 points per game became ball hawks.

McCamey's next possession lasted one play, and O'Steen intercepted Stephens. Tha half ended 7-3 Greenwood, and a thin crowd that included Texas Tech football coaches Jerry Moore and Spike Dykes expected a defensive battle.

They got half of one. The Rangers stopped McCamey short in the second half, surrendering nothing in the third quarter while scoring three times to ice the game. McCamey didn't even make a first down in the half until 9:14 was left in the game, and by then it was all but over.

The Rangers took the second hlaf kick and stormed 85 yards in six plays. Chad Longley went 20 up the left sideline, then Smith crashed through for his longest run of the night on the very next play, ambling 38 yards to the Badger 25.

Smith almost scored two plays later on a trap right that went 28 yards to the one, and he finished off the drive a play later.

After a two-point conversion, the Rangers led 15-3. Two plays later, John Ellis snapped up a Stephens fumble and the Badgers were again pressed.

Greenwood cashed in on the opportunity with a nine-play, 42-yard hike that O'Steen capped with a TD from six yards out. He made the score on a pitch right that was keyed by a lunging, critical block by Abel Mireles, one of the Ranger unknowns (like Steve Heryford and Garrett Mattison) who keep making important plays.

Heryford dumped Stephens on McCamey's next drive on third and 18, and the Badgers were again halted. Three plays later, O'Steen found a seam outside and burned up the right sideline with a clearing block by Smith for the 76-yard romp.

McCamey continued to self-destruct by throwing another interception on their very first play after the O'Steen score. Mark Graham claimed that mistake, and the only real question at that point was whether the Rangers could keep the Badger from scoring anything else.

Zarate took McCamey for the last score, but by then the few hundred chilled fans had broken up and scrambled for their cars.

Smith's big night keeps the second-year player on pace for 3,000 career yards rushing. A 1,500 yards-plus year in 1983 coupled with around 1,200 this season makes him a solid candidate to repeat as an All-West Texas selection.

Longley was asked about his team that has stunned virtually everyone, including district opponents. Did he think his team would fly so far, so fast?

"I'd be a liar if I said yes, but you can't measure heart," he said. "And I guarantee you they play with heart."

Ingram new coach at SIU

From Wire Reports

Doug Ingram, former COM swimming coach, has been named head coach at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill. Ingram has been swim coach at Indian River, Fla., Community College for the last five years since leaving the COM in 1979.

Indian River has won the National Juco swimming title for the last 10 years, five of which were under Ingram. It is the only school to win 10 straight national titles in a sport.

Ingram also was elected chairman of the U.S. Olympic Swimming Committee for the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul. He was elected on the first ballot by the 50-man committee, which is also a rarity.

Ingram will report to his new job at SIU Dec. 1...

Bird sparks Celts against Pistons

From Wire Reports

PONTIAC, Mich. — Boston's Larry Bird scored 10 of his 33 points in the fourth quarter Friday night to lead the Celtics to a 130-123 National Basketball Association victory over the Detroit Pistons in the season opener for both teams.

Guard Isiah Thomas had a game-high 35 points for the Pistons. Bill Laimbeer added 24 points for Detroit, Kelly Tripucka had 22.

76ers 111, Cavaliers 101— Moses Malone scored 26 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as the 76ers opened up a 75-61 lead in the third period and led by 19 in the final period. Rookie Ron Anderson, from Fresno State, led the Cavs with 27.

Hawks 119, Nets 104— Dominique Wilkins scored 34 points and Atlanta stormed to the lead in the third quarter with the Hawks hitting their first 16 shots from the field against New Jersey. Glenn Rivwrs scored 20 to lead Atlanta while Eddie Johnson scored 13.

Chicago 109, Washington 93— Forward Orlando Woolridge triggered Chicago's fast-break offense with a 28-point barrage and reserve guard Quintin Dailey came off the bench to score 25 points against Washington. The 6-9 Woolridge, who collected four slam dunks and picked off nine rebounds along with rookie Michael Jordan who had 16 points in his first NBA contest, helped spark the Bulls to an early 19-point bulge before the Bullets, led by Frank Johnson and Gus Williams, closed the gap to just four points at 78-74 after three quarters.

Herr demands trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals second baseman Tom Herr on Friday filed a demand to be traded, but said the move was to gain him leverage in contract negotiations with the club.

"I'm doing this to protect my negotiating interests," said Herr. "I would say in general terms that I've been happy in St. Louis. I'm not trying to cause any waves, yet I'm trying to protect myself."

Jim Toomey, a spokesman for the National League team, said Herr has the right to make the trade demand because he is a five-year major league veteran who has played out his most recent contract with the club. The deadline for demanding a trade is Monday.

Herr said he is seeking a contract similar to ones given Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs

The win was the first of the year for the Chiefs, who entered the game with an 0-6 record for the season and were 0-3 in district.

The defeat put a serious crimp in the Golden Tornadoes' playoff hopes. Lamesa is now 2-2 in district and 5-2 for the season.

The game's lone score came 4:42 from the end when James Allen booted a 20-yard field goal for the Chiefs.

Stanton retaliated before the period was over to take an 8-7 lead on a one yard run by quarterback Kevin Glaspie and then passed to Derek Sorley for the two-pointer.

The win makes Reagan County 2-1 in district 5-3 overall while Stanton is 0-3 and 2-5-1. The Buffs host Walls in next Friday's action.

Horns, Mustangs for SWC crown?

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The No. 3-ranked Texas Longhorns are a touchdown favorite Saturday to do something they haven't done since 1978 — defeat Southern Methodist in Memorial Stadium at Austin.

The Texas-SMU game has decided the eventual Southwest Conference champion the last three years but the home team hasn't won since 1979.

The Longhorns lost to SMU in 1982 and 1980 in Austin.

The last time Texas lost three successive home games to any team was in 1936, 1938, and 1940 when they were defeated by the Mustangs.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said, "SMU didn't need any more incentive but they've gotten some with the loss to Houston last week. This starts a long line of important games for us."

SMU Coach Bobby Collins said Texas is every bit as tough as it was last year.

"This is the same Texas team we've come to respect over the years," Collins said.

The No. 14-rated Mustangs will be fighting for survival in the SWC race after suffering a 29-20 upset to Houston last Saturday.

Texas is 2-0 in the league race. Houston is atop the standings at 3-0.

The surprising Cougars were rated a field goal underdog to Arkansas by the oddsmakers although they are playing at home in the Astrodome.

"Houston beating SMU was good for us," said Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield. "We know Houston will be ready to play. They have defeated one of the league's top contenders and have an excellent chance to win the title."

SWC

IN ANOTHER big game, representatives from six bowls — the Bluebonnet, Fiesta, Sun, Liberty, Peach and Independence — will be on hand for the SWC joust between Texas Christian and the Baylor Bears in Fort Worth's Amon Carter Stadium.

It will be televised at 11:30 a.m. over the SWC network.

The oddsmakers have even jumped on the bandwagon making the Horned Frogs a touchdown choice over the Bears.

The 5-1 Frogs are off to their best start in 26 years.

Some 30,000 fans are expected for the game. TCU is 2-1 in the SWC while Baylor is 2-4 overall and 2-2 in league play.

Texas A&M was a 17-point pick over the Rice Owls at College Station and Texas Tech was given a thin one-point nod over the Tulsa Hurricane in an intersectional tilt at Lubbock.

TCU has never been overly successful in homecoming games.

In fact, the Frogs have won only one game before the returning alumni in the last 12 years — a 24-17 victory over Texas Tech in 1980.

Overall, TCU is 20-32-5 before the old grads.

Baylor is 4-2-1 over TCU in Frog Homecoming games.

"THE JOY ride is over," said Wacker. "We don't have anything but a long winding road ahead, one tough conference game after another."

Wacker passed up a chance to sober up his troops by showing them last season's 56-21 rout by the Bears.

Snake calls it a career

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Ken Stabler, one of the most accurate passers in National Football League history, has retired from professional football effective immediately, the New Orleans Saints announced Friday night.

Stabler, who will be 39 years old on Christmas Day, was not available for comment but his agent, Phillip Henry Pitts, said from home at Bay Minnette, Ala., that the former University of Alabama All-America "felt that it was time."

"Under the circumstances, he thought it was best retire," Pitts said.

The Saints issued a brief statement that also quoted Bum Phillips, the team's head coach and general manager, and also one of Stabler's closest friends and admirers.

Landrum retains Pensacola lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Landrum retained his lead and two absent stars — Tom Watson and Calvin Peete — clinched major seasonal awards Friday in the second round of the $300,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Landrum added a 69 to his opening 63 and reached the tournament halfway point with a 132 total, 10 under par, and a one-stroke lead in the final official event on the 10-month PGA Tour schedule.

Although neither Watson nor Peete are competing in this event, they clinched the money-winning and low stroke average titles, respectively, when their last two challengers failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Watson takes the Arnold Palmer Trophy for his fifth money-winning title with a total of $476,260. Andy Bean, who finishes with $465,873, and Mark O'Meara with $422,995. They were the only men with a chance to catch Watson in this last tournament of the season.

The failure of O'Meara to make the cut also assured Peete, the most successful black player the game has produced, of his first Vardon Trophy. Peete ended his season with a 70.56 scoring average. O'Meara, the only man with a chance to catch him, had a second round 72 and 149 for 36 holes, dropping back to a 70.78 average.

Bean had a second round 72 and a 146 total.

In the race for Player of the Year, Tom Watson and Denis Watson remained in a tie on the point list that will determine the winner. Each has 54 points. Denis Watson, a South African who has won three times this season, had a second round 67 and a 140 total.

Bill Kratzert, in a deep slump since scoring his last victory in 1980, moved into second place in the tournament standings at 133. He had a second round 66 that included no bogeys and no 5's.

Tied at 134 were Ken Brown of Scotland, John Mahaffey, Leonard Thompson and Danny Edwards. Thompson and Mahaffey closed up with 4-under-par 67s in the hot, muggy weather at the Perdido Bay Inn and Resort. Edwards and Brown each shot 68.

Landrum, a second-year player and not yet a winner on the Tour, found the cup with a 20-yard bunker shot for a birdie on the 11th hole and had a 2-shot lead until he drove into the rough and bogeyed the final hole.

Lions, Mountaineers in only Top 20 match

Associated Press

How long has it been since West Virginia last beat Penn State?

It's been so long that it was the same year the Dodgers won their first World Series — the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The year was 1955 and, except for a 14-14 tie in 1958, Penn State has beaten West Virginia every year since, including 25 in a row.

The 28 years without a loss matches Ohio State's identical string against Indiana as the longest active periods of domination in college football. It is still behind Oklahoma's 94 straight games without losing against Kansas State (1935-66), which includes a record 32 consecutive victories (1937-68). But Penn State has been so dominant against West Virginia that only two victories in the 25 straight have been by seven points or less.

THESE TWO old sparring partners — the series goes back to 1904 and Penn State leads it 41-7-2 — tee it up again tonight and No. 18 West Virginia is a slight favorite over the 19th-ranked Nittany Lions.

"We're not afraid to line up against anybody," says West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen. "Anybody we line up against we believe we're good enough to beat, and that includes Doug Flutie and Penn State."

The Mountaineers took care of Flutie and his Boston College teammates 21-20 last week. Now comes what Nehlen terms "one of the great teams in college football year in and year out. They have great athletes at every position and are very well-coached. You have to beat Penn State because they are not going to beat themselves. We are trying to get our program to where Penn State has theirs.

"The key to a victory for us is simple. We are going to have to play error-free football, sustain offensive drives and play like heck for four quarters. If we can do that, then we have a chance to win the football game. It's going to take monumental effort because they are so talented at every position."

Penn State, 5-2 to WVU's 6-1, needs one more victory to extend its NCAA record of consecutive non-losing seasons to 46.

TOP-RATED Washington entertains Arizona, runner-up Oklahoma visits Kansas and No. 4 Nebraska plays hosts to Kansas State. Fifth-ranked Brigham Young extended the nation's longest major college winning streak to 19 games by routing New Mexico 48-0 Thursday night as Robbie Bosco passed for 227 yards and three touchdowns.

Elsewhere, sixth-ranked Ohio State visits Wisconsin, No. 7 LSU entertains Notre Dame, ninth-ranked South Carolina hosts East Carolina and No. 10 Oklahoma State is at home against Colorado. All three teams from the Sunshine State — eighth-ranked Miami, No. 15 Florida State and No. 16 Florida — are idle.

IN THE Second Ten, Rutgers is at No. 11 Boston College, No. 12 Auburn at Mississippi State, No. 13 Georgia at Kentucky, No. 17 Iowa at Indiana and California at No. 20 Southern Cal.

So has Washington, which leads the nation in scoring defense (8.1 points a game). But the Huskies must muster more firepower (they managed only three first downs and 109 yards in last week's 17-10 victory over Oregon) if they want to remain No. 1.

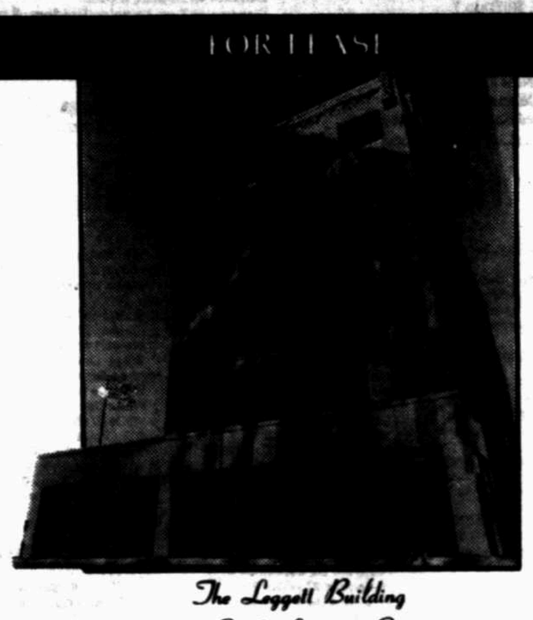

"I don't think there's one specific phase of our offense that doesn't have to improve," says Coach Don James. "The runners can look at the blockers, but the blockers can look at the runners, too. There are times we have protection and don't throw the ball, and there are times we throw the ball and don't catch it. So I don't think you can put a finger on one thing and say this is the reason we're not moving the ball."

Oh, yes, James also warns that Arizona is "as solid as any defensive team in the country." Ya call.

"I don't think we're struggling more than any other team in the country," says Coach Barry Switzer.

Under-table dough was NYC mistake

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Bright, director of the America's Marathon-Chicago, said Friday that Fred Lebow, director of the New York City Marathon, probably made a mistake by not admitting a couple of years ago that he would pay prize money above-board rather than under-the-table.

"I think there was a lot of deception involved," Bright said at a news conference for Sunday's 15th New York City race. "Now, he (Lebow) has to pay the city $300,000 (for services connected with the race).

"It was a business decision at the time," added Bright, "but looking back at it, he probably would have done it differently."

Lebow, in his recently published book, "Inside the World of Big-Time Marathoning," admitted having paid about $1 million in prize money since 1976, when the New York City Marathon reached international prominence, as Bill Rodgers scored the first of his four consecutive victories in the event.

The money was handed out under-the-table. After the publication of the book and the furor it created, Lebow said he would pay the money openly this year, with a total of $273,800 being divided among the top 25 men's finishers and the first 20 women finishers, including $25,000 for each of the winners, $22,000 for the runner-ups and $18,000 for the third-place finishers.

Meanwhile, the America's Marathon has made no secret of financially rewarding its leading runners since Bright became the race director three years ago. In this year's race, last Sunday, Steve Jones of Britain, who set a world-best of 2 hours, 8 minutes, 5 seconds, reportedly received a total of $97,500, including $35,000 first-place money and $50,000 for breaking the previous best of 2:08:13 by Alberto Salazar of the United States in the 1981 New York City Marathon.

DESPITE THE huge amounts of money being tossed around these days for elite marathoners, Bright said, "I do not think it's getting out of hand."

He said the recent impact of the Chicago race has been good for the sport, adding, "I can see more prize money — more rewards — not only for the elite runners but also for the average runners next year."

The favorites are defending champion Rod Dixon of New Zealand and Grete Waitz of Norway.

Danny' White goes against old college coach Sunday

IRVING (AP) — For the first time this Sunday, the Dallas Cowboys' newest starting quarterback, Danny White, will be going against his old college coach, Frank Kush.

Kush, now the coach of the Indianpolis Colts, was White's boss at Arizona State.

"I enjoyed playing for Frank," said White, who regained his old starting job from Gary Hogeboom after eight games. "He was tough, a disciplinarian. But he had a way of getting the best out of you."

Kush, who has made no secret about the fact he would like to have White if Dallas ever tries to trade him, said White "was a remarkable college athlete. I even knew him when he was in high school. He was a winner. He could always come up with the big play."

Would he like White now?

"We'd be interested," Kush said.

Dallas has beaten the Baltimore Colts four consecutive times dating back to Jan. 17, 1971 and are 10-point favorites to do it again Sunday.

The Colts downed Dallas 16-13 in Super Bowl V on a last-second field goal by Jim O'Brien for their last victory in the series.

Dallas is 5-3 in the series and beat the Colts 37-13, the last time the two teams met in 1981.

Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett needs 70 yards to become the sixth player in National Football League history to rush for 9,000 yards.

Yards have been tough to come by for Dorsett, who hasn't rushed for 100 yards in 11 straight games.

"The Colts are a very tough running ballclub," Landry said."

Blind violinst wins competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Sue Martin, a blind violinist from Louisville, Ky., received a $3,000 scholarship Friday as winner of an international competition for handicapped students of stringed instruments.

Virtuoso violinist Itzhak Perlman, himself a victim of polio, presented the scholarship to Miss Martin, 20, a second-year student at Jefferson Community College in Louisville, during a rehearsal break at the Kennedy Center, where Perlman is performing this week.

It was the first annual scholarship awarded by the National Committee, Arts for the Handicapped, which is an educational affiliate of the Kennedy Center, and the Omega Watch Corp. Perlman has been a committee board member since 1981.

Miss Martin was chosen by a panel of judges, including Perlman and faculty members from the Juilliard School in New York, as the most promising musician from among 14 applicants who submitted tapes of their playing.

Franciosa comes home to find 'Lost Loves'

The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

Each week in "Finder of Lost Loves," Tony Franciosa sets out to find someone with whom someone else is aching to be reunited.

And for the past five years, Franciosa's fans might have been anxious to send someone in search of him. The place to look would have been across the Atlantic.

"In the last five years I've done plays and movies in Europe," said Franciosa.

After 5 minutes on the phone with producer Aaron Spelling, Franciosa cut a deal that would bring him home to his wife and three children — at least for this TV season.

The assignment was for Franciosa to play an independently wealthy man whose wife has died, and whose avocation becomes finding the lost loves of other people.

Sometimes the lost love is an old flame (in a recent episode it was a woman's former boyfriend who had since become a priest) and sometimes not (for example, a Vietnamese child seeking her American father).

Franciosa is assisted by his sister-in-law, played by Deborah Adair. And Marcia Wallace, formerly the secretary on "The Bob Newhart Show," has something of the same job here, assisted by a computer.

The series replaces another Spelling effort, "Fantasy Island." Much of the network promotion for "Finder" made it sound like another series designed to deal somehow with fantasy, and the extensive promotion during the Olympic Games, featuring Franciosa taking pensive walks along the beach, gave the series a moody, nostalgic feel.

"In some segments there's a softness and nostalgia," said Franciosa. "But I don't think that's the style of the piece."

Franciosa's son, Marco, saw the beach-walk promo and was struck with another idea: "Dad," he said, "the promo looks like a life-insurance commercial."

Seriously, said Franciosa, "If there's a style to the show, it is to give it a good feeling, upbeat — but to give it a hard edge where it gets soft and a soft edge where it gets hard .... I see the show as a romantic drama. I'm trying to make the character as real as possible."

The word in Hollywood is that there is a Los Angeles-area detective who does in real life the sort of thing Franciosa does on TV, and that his operation provided inspiration for the series.

But listeners to vintage radio may recall a popular series that inspired both the L.A. gumshoe and the ABC series: "Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons."

Franciosa, who has kept his hand in American television in recent years through occasional guest shots, was a virtual fixture on the tube as a series star from the mid '60s to mid '70s.

In 1964-65 he starred as publishing executive Farrow Valentine in "Valentine's Day," a show in which he was constantly chased by women whenever his mother, played by Helen Traubel, wasn't watching.

From '72 to '73 he starred with Hugh O'Brien and Doug McClure in "Search," the three playing secret agents who each wore a transmitter and earphone implanted in one ear; Burgess Meredith was Control. And from '75 to '76 Franciosa played "Matt Helm," a detective surrounded by fast cars and faster women, tailored after the Dean Martin movie series.

But he did his most lasting work in "The Name of the Game" ('68-'71), a series that in some stylistic ways was years ahead of its time.

"Shows now copy the music from 'Name of the Game' a lot," he said, "and in other aspects too," such as the appearance of many guest stars.

"Game" co-starred Franciosa, Robert Stack and Gene Barry, each of the three being featured, in turn, in the week's episode. It was, in a sense, three series in one, focusing one week on Barry, head of a publishing empire, then on Stack, who played an editor, and on Franciosa, a reporter.

To some extent, the series was a forerunner of a popular format today in which characters in a series are involved in story lines that stand independently of the others.

"Three separate crews shot eight shows apiece" each season, said Franciosa. "Time could be taken with the scripts. That was extremely helpful. That's why the quality, if I may say so, was on a high order.

"One of the nemeses of TV entertainment is time — there's not time to do things. You go from one thing to another. It's a medium that is voracious."

Retired admiral happily in command of own pool

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — These days the largest body of water commanded by retired Rear Adm. Charles "Chili" Kirkpatrick is a kidney-shaped swimming pool on a hillside terrace outside his living room.

But in his youth, Kirkpatrick commanded a submarine that sailed beneath the Pacific seas in World War II and sunk thousands of tons of enemy shipping. He dodged Japanese bombs that rained on Pearl Harbor. Later on, a deadly kamikaze (Baka) bomb struck directly beneath the bridge of a destroyer he commanded.

Kirkpatrick, a native of San Angelo, joined the Navy as an apprentice seaman in 1926. The next year he was appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

"A reporter once asked me why a West Texas boy from San Angelo would want to join the Navy. I said 'Son I was looking for water, I didn't care what kind.'"

Kirkpatrick, 77, said he was unsure of how he acquired his nickname. A boy across the street where he lived at 305 W. Concho was also named Charles, with a nickname of Chili. "I was always Chili from the time I remember. I don't think it had anything to do with a bad temper," he said with a trace of a smile.

The intrepid Navy man possesses memories not given to ordinary sailors. His yarns evoke the feelings of an extraordinary era — at once terrible and adventurous.

FOR MORE THAN a year during the war, one of Kirkpatrick's duties was to take notes while Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz and his staff debated battle tactics and evaluated personnel. As assistant operations officer, Kirkpatrick also traveled to the historical summit meetings where Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin met.

"The conferences were unbelievable. I saw the high-level control of things." Kirkpatrick said he traveled aboard Churchill's train, was decorated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and became familiar with people whose names appear regularly in military history books.

Kirkpatrick will tell you that Nimitz was "one of the most lovable characters I have ever known. He tried to do the right and best thing and he usually did.

"He (Nimitz) was not easy on anybody, not with that kind of war on your hands."

Vice Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey Jr. was "a wonderful leader. He was made to order for those jobs," according to Kirkpatrick. As a combat commander, Halsey rated tops with his men and officers. "If he told everybody to jump over the side, they would do it."

HALSEY AUTOGRAPHED a picture of himself and gave it to Kirkpatrick. The caption read: "To one whose exploits burned the seat of Jap pants and warmed the cockles of my heart."

As commander of the submarine Triton for 16 months in 1943-44, Kirkpatrick was credited with sinking 22,949 tons of enemy shipping.

In September, 1944, Kirkpatrick became the commanding officer of the destroyer-minelayer Shea. For eight months, Kirkpatrick operated in the Okinawa area until a Baka bomb (human piloted) badly damaged his submarine.

Kirkpatrick said the Shea was on a radar picket, Station No. 14 of 100 ships stretched about 100 miles, intercepting Japanese planes.

"One day, about mid-morning, we shot down a bomber. But we saw this bomb headed toward us. We shot at it, but couldn't hit it. It dropped closer. We didn't know it was a Baka (human piloted) until the last few seconds. It had plywood wings. I remember yelling 'Hit the deck.'

"The bomb hit the starboard side right under where I was standing on the bridge. It went clear out the other side of the ship, leaving a hole like this and exploded 25 yards to port." Kirkpatrick illustrated his story by making a wide circle with his arms.

"IT SHOULD have gone off on the ship, but it left two huge holes above the water line. Even though the bomb exploded well out, the shrapnel flew, killing people right and left. A bomb wing caught a 50-caliber machine gunner at the throat. The man at the wheel lost an arm and a leg. I got a bad knee. The deck came to meet me on my way to the deck.

"A piece of the bomb went into the back of the five-inch gun turrets and into the handling room full of powder. It set off the powder. Those men were incinerated. It was awful. Had water not entered the handling room, we would have lost the ship."

Seventy-five men were killed or badly wounded, Kirkpatrick recalled.

After unloading the wounded men at Okinawa, Kirkpatrick took the Shea to a nearby island chain for repairs, and subsequently brought the ship to the United States for a major overhaul.

The trip home was uneventful, except that Kirkpatrick heard a good friend of his, Jack F. Glenn was aboard a tramp steamer enroute to the States. Kirkpatrick, who had obtained Glenn's previous posting for him, boarded the steamer and requested the captain allow Glenn to transfer to his battleship.

"I promised Glenn's wife that when I came back, I would bring him with me. I did that after I got him that job. Then I worried that if anything happened to him, his wife would hold me responsible."

Kirkpatrick sailed into port, his friend safely aboard.

Early on Dec. 7, 1941, Kirkpatrick and his commanding officer, Adm. Milo Draemel, were headed toward a golf course. Kirkpatrick heard anti-aircraft fire about 7:30 a.m. When Draemel heard the noise, he speculated the Army was conducting early morning maneuvers. Kirkpatrick disagreed.

"On Sunday morning, Admiral?" he asked.

Kirkpatrick said Draemel ordered the driver to stop and ran up a stairway to a small grocery store to use the telephone. "He came down those steps five at a time," Kirkpatrick recalled.

The two men, dumbfounded, returned to the base and commandered a boat to ferry them to their flagship, Detroit, as the Arizona was being blown up.

Teacher celebrates 61 years of music students

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Lenora Dorian Jones has been sitting on a piano bench for almost as long as she can remember. At the age of five, she began piano lessons at St. Joseph's School here on the island and has been playing ever since.

Now 72 years later she is celebrating her 61st anniversary as a teacher of voice and piano. Recently, old and new friends of Mrs. Jones got together for a reunion recital.

"I can't remember my first solo, but I played a duet called "The Crescent Waltz," said Mrs. Jones. "I still have the music to that song." She wonders now how a 5-year-old was able to play such a difficult piece of music.

As her mother before her, Mrs. Jones was born in an upstairs room in the high-rise white frame family home on 23rd Street. The house also serves as her music studio, where she began giving formal piano lessons at about the age of 16, although she taught a few of her classmates and friends at an even earlier age.

THE ROOM in which she was born has been used by five generations of girls and is now occupied by Mrs. Jones' great-granddaughter, Jennifer. Mrs. Jones, whose only daughter is deceased, shares her home with her son-in-law and her granddaughter's family.

The old screened-in-porch on the southwest side of the house was once used by the family in the evenings. Mrs. Jones recalls they would sit and visit with neighbors and catch the southern breezes from the Gulf. "In those days we knew all our neighbors," she said.

Now the porch has been enclosed and serves as a small waiting room for students who take piano from Mrs. Jones. It would be difficult to count the students she has taught, but Mrs. Jones says she is now on the second and third generations of some of her former pupils. Many a student can recall waiting in the little alcove either for their lesson or to be picked up by parents.

THE MUSIC STUDIO is through the hall to the left. Seated at the grand piano, where she plays and students get to practice at recital time, Mrs. Jones tells about some of the mementos and keepsakes scattered about the room. The items reflect a colorful family history, gifts from family and friends and her love of music. Stacks of piano workbooks and sheet music fill the shelves and another upright piano for students' lessons, as well as a small work table and chair fill the room to capacity.

Proud of her family heritage, Mrs. Jones explains that her maternal great-grandfather's family came here from Germany in the early 1840s, and her father's family from France soon after that. She still has her grandfather's service revolver from when he was in the Galveston police force, along with other family keepsakes and certificates. Her father's family — except a twin brother and other members who were in New Orleans — all were lost during the disastrous 1900 hurricane that killed thousands in Galveston.

She says her father, Charles Dorian, retrieved the bodies of his family and buried them himself. In 1906 her father married her mother, Agnes Pifuger, and moved into the family home on 23rd street. In 1907 Lenora, named for her great-great-grandmother, was born.

Mrs. Jones graduated at age 16 from St. Joseph's High School, the first parochial high school in Galveston which opened in 1876 and finally closed in 1926. The school was a co-educational, nondenominational institution advertised in the early 1900s as "St. Joseph's German and English Catholic School for boys and girls." It was operated by the Sisters of Divine Providence.

These sisters were the ones who taught and instilled into her the love of music, she says. "I always found reading music to be so easy. I thought it was like that for everyone, but I have found it isn't," she said. "My mother always said I was fortunate and she was glad I could read music so easily. She could play from listening but she didn't read music."

Mrs. Jones started her teaching prior to her graduation when she was in eighth grade. Her graduating class of 1924 was the first one to graduate from the city auditorium. "Most of the earlier classes graduated from the Cathedral Hall," she explains.

LATER, WHEN SHE went off to college, her mother continued to give lessons to her students, so that she still had the music school when she came back. She studied at Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio and at St. Louis Institute of Music in St. Louis, Mo. where she received her teacher's certificate.

She has also studied piano and voice with Professor Frank B. Herrle of Galveston. In St. Louis she studied piano with Gottfried Galston and harmony with Ernest Kroeger, Louis Victor Saar and L.M. Dodd.

In the past Mrs. Jones has had several assistant teachers in her employ, and several more pianos in the house, but she teaches alone now. "I used to do a lot of work with the Galveston Little Theater, years ago, but I couldn't do that now," she said.

She is already busy five days each week giving lessons to 25 students. She explains she used to have up to 80 or 90 students at a time, with several lessons going on at once, with help from assistants.

"Several of my assistants were former pupils who came back and taught for me," said Mrs. Jones who seems not only to love music, but people as well. "Many of my former pupils have excelled in teaching music in other cities," she said.

Mrs. Jones has managed to find a little time for her family and community amidst all that piano playing. Over the years she has been a member and has served two terms as president in the Pilot Club, the Galveston Musical Club, the Galveston Garden Club and the Stratford Study Club.

"I THINK I enjoy teaching music more now than I did a number of years back," said Mrs. Jones, after giving a brief demonstration of her capabilites on the instrument herself. She says Chopin is probably one of her favorite composers, although she really likes lots of popular music.

She can even play some of the really new hard rock or New Wave. "I don't say I get the point," she says laughingly, "but I have to know about it so I can teach the students who want to learn it."

"I've always loved playing and teaching and once in a while I get a real jewel to work with," says Mrs. Jones with a twinkle in her eye. "I have two of those in my present classes — Magic D'Arienzo and Peggy Laros," she said.

"My friend who is a nurse says I'm lucky. In other professions people have to retire at a certain age, but I just keep on teaching," she says proudly, adding that she plans to do just that for some time to come.

Army brigade runs to cadence

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Don't ask Capt. Timothy Knigge about the loneliness of a long-distance runner: when he runs, his strides are echoed, in cadence, by scores of others running in formation.

Knigge, a member of the 212 Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Sill, is organizing the group's participation in the 9.3-mile Tulsa Run on Oct. 27.

The activity was started by "an old commander who was a big runner," Knigge said. The commander is long gone, but the group has grown from its original 50 members to 130, and there is talk of expanding to 400.

Even if the other participants don't notice the uniforms — specially designed gold shirts and shorts with trim — it will be hard to miss the group once the race begins.

They will run the entire race in formation and to a cadence. It begins en masse behind the rest of the pack.

"It takes us three or five minutes just to make it up to the starting line," Knigge said. "With 130 people in formation, they want to let a lot of people get around us early."

They will also cross the finish line at the same time, sacrificing, Knigge said, "individual glory for the spirit of cohesiveness and building up a good civilian-military relationship."

This is the seventh Tulsa Run for the group, recruited from among the five battalions that make up the 2,200-strong artillery brigade.

Last year, the Fort Sill runners finished in 87 minutes — about two-thirds of the way back in the pack of 9,000 participants — and hopes to shave five minutes off that time this year.

Knigge, who has run in the Boston Marathon, said interest in distance running was a logical extension of the physical training that's a part of every soldier's regimen.

Candidate wins 'Great Joke-Off'

BOSTON (AP) — U.S. Senate candidate John Kerry won a landslide victory Friday, garnering more chuckles than his Republican opponent, Ray Shamie, in a radio station's "Great Joke-Off" contest.

The Democrat got 185 votes from laughing listeners, while Shamie had 78.

In Shakespear's The Tempest, the sailors cry out in the midst of a storm, "All is lost! To prayers! All is lost!" They reduced God to a first-aid kit and prayer to a parachute to be used only if one can't fly or can't land. God wants to be more than that in your life. What Ever Happened To Joe?

Did He Die?
Move Away?
Is He Mad?

You know Joe. He's the guy that used to come in your business quite often and he bought quite a few things. But Joe hasn't been around for a while. Makes you wonder why, doesn't it?

Joe may be the same old Joe he ever was. Happy, healthy and a good customer. But he may now be someone else's customer. No, you say, Joe always got good service here and he was a satisfied customer.

Maybe. But Joe might have been reading our newspaper and read one of your competitor's ads and decided to give someone else a try. He may be getting good service and is a satisfied customer, but it may now be down the street.

What can you do? Just Write Joe off? No, don't give up so easily. Advertise to get Joe back. And while you're at it, you'll probably be helping keep Jane and John, Dick and Sally and all of your other customers coming in the door regularly.

Adults and children are encouraged to wear costumes depicting a Bible character or object. Prizes will be awarded.

A spokesman for Dayspring said the reason an alternative to the traditional Halloween celebration is being offered is the Bible, Book 18 of Deuteronomy 10-13, "very explicitly forbids Christians to have anything to do with witchcraft, spiritualism or the demonic. Bible-believing Christians cringe and shutter at the thought of Satan worship and occult rites. But how many of these same people will dress their children as witches, ghosts, skeletons or devils and send them out to 'trick or treat' "?

Interested parties are invited to attend.

Trinity Presbyterian Church acquires interim minister

Rev. McGee

The Rev. Glenn McGee is interim minister at Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Born in Arkansas City, Kan., in 1914, McGee's family moved to Cushing, Okla., where he attended public schools.

He met his wife Randy at a Christian Endeavor convention. Both attended Oklahoma A&M College at Stillwater. McGee graduated from McCormick Theological Seminary in 1939 with a bachelor of divinity degree. He later received a master of divinity degree from the same school. Trinity University, San Antonio, conferred an honorary doctor of divinity on McGee in 1947.

McGee began preaching at Davenport, Okla., in 1934. He and his wife were married Christmas Day 1935.

During seminary he preached at Downers Grove. He also preached in Kansas and Illinois. He was ordained by the Presbytery of Oklahoma City April 16, 1939.

His first full time pastorate was at Rochester, Ind. Other pastorates include Ardmore, Okla., 1943, and Trinity Church, Tucson, 1950-72.

He then went to Tripoli, Libya, intending to stay until retirement. However, the government took over the Union Church and the McGees returned to Hutchinson, Kansas.

He prepared a biography of Lloyd Noble for the Noble Foundation in 1976. Then, with an early retirement, he began a series of interim pastorates at Omaha, Neb., Flint, Mich., Waterloo, Iowa, Long Beach, Calif., and Midland.

McGee has served as, among other things, a vice moderator of the 178th Geleral Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, a director of McCormick Seminary for 17 years and a member of the United Presbyterian Foundation and trustee of the General Assembly for 12 years. He has served as moderator of synods of Indiana, Oklahoma, Arizona, Presbytery of Logansport and Southern Arizona Presbytery.

He helped organize Project Crossroad Africa, shared in the British-American Preacher's Exchange, the European Preacher's Exchange and has traveled around the world and visited 65 countries.

The McGees have two sons, Daniel Patrick and Johnathan Michael.

Local church celebrates 30th anniversary

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., has been celebrating the 30th anniversary of the church's formal organization this month.

The church, which was organized and planned as a home mission of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, was started in 1953. The formal organization came in 1954 and 70 names were listed on the charter membership. Today, Midland Lutheran has 701 baptized members.

The local church became a part of the American Lutheran Church in 1960 as the result of a church merger.

Serving as the church's pastors are the Rev. Marvin Koening, senior pastor; and the Rev. Charles Meyer, associate minister.

The Midland Lutheran Church is working with an architect to develop a master plan to enlarge the church facilities. The addition will include a sanctuary with a 350-seating capacity, a multi-purpose fellowship hall, additional educational rooms and a youth activities room.

The church began a pre-school in February 1981. Programming emphasis is on motor skills and academic learning. The pre-school offers morning and afternoon classes for 3 and 4 year olds three days a week. It also offers morning classes on Tuesday and Thursday.

Midland Lutheran Church and the congregation are involved in and assist several local agencies, such as the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Casa de Amigos. The church also hosts a membership blood drive for Midland Memorial Hospital.

The church also sponsors several workshops during the year that are open to the public, such as CPR training, guest speakers on wills and trusts and seminars on retirement and leisure time.

Sunday worship services are at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Study Hour is at 9:45 a.m. Holy Communion is held on the first and third Sundays of the month during each worship service.

For more information contact either minister at 694-1373.

Ministerial alliance elects new officers

The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance has elected new officers.

The Rev. C.L. Boyd, pastor of Greater St. Luke AME Church, was voted president by majority acclamation. Other elected officers are vice president, the Rev. F.W. Johnson, associate pastor of Mt. Rose Baptist Church; second vice president, the Rev. Woodrow Bailey, minister of St. Paul's CME Church; secretary, the Rev. J.F. Campbell, New Jerusalem Baptist Church; and treasurer, the Rev. B. Wilson, associate minister of the Greater New Hope Baptist Church.

The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance was organized in 1950 under the leadership of the Rev. George A. Lowe, now an associate minister of Greater St. Luke AME Church.

Purpose of the Alliance is to, Boyd said, "Bring about a closer relationship among Southside churches through fellowship; to be meaningful in helping those who need help; and particularly to try and encourage the young and elderly blacks along the lines of political and church affairs."

Boyd has been pastoring in the AME Church for 41 years. The last three years of his ministry have been served in Midland.

Boyd has pastored churches in the following conferences: Texas, Northeast Texas, North Texas and Central Texas.

He was appointed at the 1984 AME General Conference in El Paso as Dean of the Northwest Texas Conference by Bishop Rembert E. Stokes. He was also appointed director of evangelism by presiding elder I.C. Cooper. Boyd has been selected to the General Conference five consecutive terms.

Nineteen Southside ministers compose the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance. Any ordained minister may seek to become a member by attending one of the Alliance's regular meetings.

The first automobile parade in this country was held Sept. 7, 1899, in Newport, R.I. Nineteen cars took part.

GM presents new plan to Canada's UAW

TORONTO (AP) — General Motors Corp. on Friday presented a new money offer to the United Auto Workers union in Canada, as the number of U.S. workers idled by the strike grew larger than the number of Canadian strikers.

Robert White, UAW director for Canada, refused to provide details of the package but did say it was "considerably different" from the previous GM offer, which he had denounced as a "rubber-stamp copy" of the contract accepted by GM's workers in the United States.

"GM made an important step this morning," White told a news conference. "It obviously is a serious attempt by Mr. (Rod) Andrew and his bargaining team to show to us they want to try if possible to reach a settlement in this dispute at the earliest possible date."

Andrew, chief negotiator for GM's Canadian subsidiary, described the offer as a serious proposal, but declined to comment.

The 10-day-old strike by GM's 36,000 hourly workers in Canada has forced the layoff of 40,085 workers at 30 GM facilities which produce parts for vehicles assembled in Canada or rely on Canadian-built parts for their own production, according to GM spokesman Harold Jackson.

Fifteen plants in Michigan where operations were either curtailed or shut down accounted for 23,350 of those layoffs, Jackson said.

Five GM assembly plants were shut down indefinitely Friday because of the Canadian strike, idling 16,500 workers.

They are the Pontiac Fiero plant in Pontiac, Mich., where 1,800 of 2,200 employees were furloughed; the Willow Run Buick plant in Ypsilanti, Mich., 4,300 of 4,250 workers; the Lordstown, Ohio, van plant, 2,200 of 2,700 workers; the Fairfax, Kan., large car plant, 4,500 of 5,200 workers; and the Wilmington, Del., large car plant, 2,800 of 4,100 workers.

White refused to speculate about when a tentative agreement could be reached, but said, "We still have a lot of bargaining to do."

Following the 30-minute main table meeting at which the new offer was presented, negotiators began working on details of the package in subcommittee bargaining sessions.

Union and company representatives on other panels were dealing with working conditions and other non-money issues that had to be settled before a settlement could be signed.

European members want strengthened voice in NATO

ROME (AP) — Key European members of NATO on Friday proposed measures to stem opposition to weapons deployment in their countries and to strengthen Europe's voice in the Atlantic alliance, long dominated by the United States.

The proposals were put forward on the opening day of a two-day conference of foreign and defense ministers from seven countries — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The meeting was called to try and transform the long-dormant Western European Union into an effective mechanism to fashion a joint defense policy to strengthen "the European pillar of the alliance."

Italian Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti, setting the tone for the conference, stressed the need to "educate" the public on rapidly changing defense and security requirements in their countries.

NATO officials have said a lack of defense initiative by Europeans has contributed to the spreading of pacifism and neutralism in Western Europe in recent years.

"We recall the painful uphill battle to educate the public" in Britain after it decided to deploy (in 1979) medium-range nuclear missiles as part of a NATO buildup in Western Europe, said British sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"The idea is to take the discussion on defense and security matters out of universities and seminar rooms and present them in a more coherent way by revitalizing the (Western European Union)," said a conference official, who spoke on condition he not be identified.

The ministers took pains to stress that the revived organization is not intended to cut across or in any way undermine the 16-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization or alienate the United States.

"Just as the alliance needs a strong America, America needs a capable and self-conscious Europe," West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher told the conference. "The problem is not that the United States is too strong in the Alliance, but Europe has too little weight."

A British source, who spoke on condition he not be named, said there has been no "apprehensive vibes" from the United States over the reactivation of the 30-year-old Western European Union.

"In fact, we understand the United States welcomes it," the source said.

Conference officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the decision to revive the Western European Union was also aimed at allowing France, which is not in the military wing of NATO, "to get back into the alliance through the back door."

They said the Western European Union offers another advantage NATO does not — it excludes Ireland, Greece and Denmark, the three European Community members that oppose widely-accepted stands on defense issues.

The seven-nation union, founded in 1948 to serve as a watchdog over West German rearmament, was expanded to include West Germany and Italy in 1954. But it has been largely inactive since West Germany joined NATO in the early 1960s.

Genscher said the Western Europe faces "a triple challenge."

U.S.S.R. buys more wheat, USDA says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 200,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat — about 7.34 million bushels — for delivery in the coming year, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The Soviets now have bought more than 15.4 million tons of corn and wheat since midyear. Most of the grain has been for delivery in the second year of the two countries' long-term supply agreement, which began on Oct. 1.

The latest sale was reported to the department by private exporters, as required by law. No prices or other details were disclosed.

However, the department says the latest estimated farm price of wheat is $3.45 per bushel. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat or soybeans.

Thus, the latest sales would have an estimated U.S. farm value of about $25 million.

Purchases for delivery in 1984-85 total 10.7 million tons under terms of the agreement: 2.47 million tons of wheat and 8.26 million tons of corn.

Sales for delivery in 1983-84, the first year of the agreement, totaled 14.1 million tons, including 7.59 million tons of wheat and 6.48 million tons of corn. Sales of soybeans totaled 416,000 tons.

The Soviets are committed to buy at least 9 million metric tons of wheat and corn annually over a period of five years. If they choose, the Soviets can substitute up to 500,000 tons of soybeans for 1 million tons of grain in meeting the minimum.

An additional 3 million tons of wheat and corn can be bought at the Soviet Union's option — making a total of 12 million tons — without further talks with the United States. If more than 12 million tons are wanted, consultations must be held.

The United States has said the Soviets will be permitted to buy an additional 10 million tons of grain in 1984-85, for a total of 22 million tons.

WORLD IN BRIEF

People hurt in bombing moved from hospital

LONDON (AP) — Trade Secretary Norman Tebbit and his wife, Margaret, injured in an IRA bomb attack on the British Cabinet two weeks ago, were moved Friday to a rehabilitation center near London.

Mrs. Tebbit was paralyzed in the predawn bombing Oct. 12 at the Grand Hotel in Brighton, England, where Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her colleagues were attending the Conservative Party's annual conference. Tebbit, trapped in rubble for four hours after the blast, suffered a broken leg and broken ribs.

Doctors in Brighton said Tebbit was making a swift recovery.

David Clay, the administrator at Stoke Mandeville Hospital, a spinal injury center 40 miles northwest of London, said it was too early to comment on Mrs. Tebbit's chances of regaining full use of her limbs.

Monks can't accept cars

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's Commerce Ministry this year has barred at least two Buddhist monastery abbots from accepting donations from abroad of luxury Mercedes Benz automobiles, a ministry official said Friday.

A ban on such imports by the private sector applies equally to monks, said director Thongpoon Sukkasiorn of the ministry's import-export control division. The government has banned foreign luxury cars in an effort to reduce the trade deficit and to promote local car manufacture.

Thongpoon said a West German patroness wanted to turn over a 300-D model Mercedes to the abbot of Ketumwadee Temple on Bangkok's outskirts and earlier this year a Hong Kong man wanted to donate a Mercedes to the abbot of a temple in northern Thailand.

Embassy car bombed

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — A car belonging to the British High Commission, or embassy, in Malta was damaged by a bomb explosion but one was hurt, police reported Friday.

Peter Marshall, deputy high commissioner, said the car was parked by the side of the commission building in Floriana, just outside Valletta.

He said no one claimed responsibility for the explosion.

Malta and Britain are involved in a dispute over what Malta terms British "unwillingness" to clear Maltese harbors of wartime wrecks and unexploded bombs.

Leader visits Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — President Konstantin U. Chernenko received Mongolian leader Jambyn Batmunh in the Kremlin on Friday, the official news agency Tass reported.

To Lease or Not To Lease

Reasons To Lease:

1. Leasing is convenient – you only pay for what you use and not for the full price of the car.
2. There is no used car to dispose of at lease end.
3. Leasing frees your cash and you can use your available bank line of credit for other purposes.
4. Lessee – leasing for business purposes will have the benefit of simplified tax records.
