New School Building to Begin In March

COMMUNITY GOLF CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

To Replace Grade Buildings

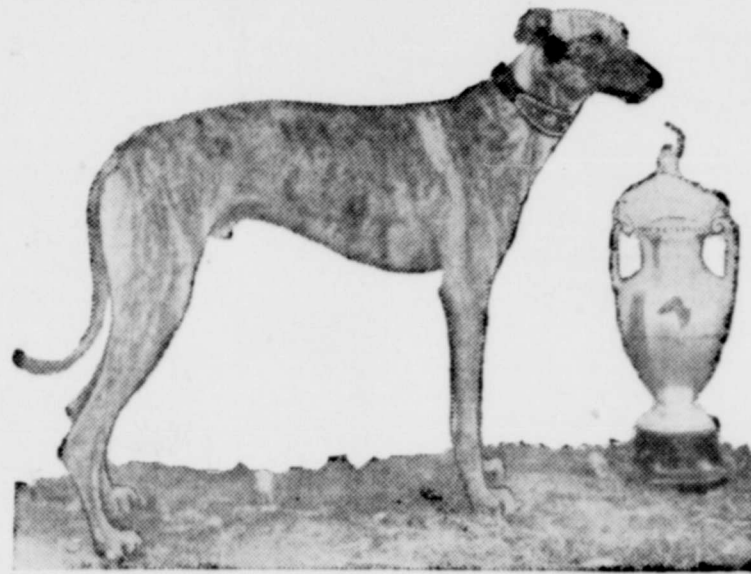

It was announced Tuesday that construction on the new grade school building will definitely begin by the 15th of March.

Mr. Andrews, head of the PWA offices in Wichita Falls, called Mr. Duncan, superintendent of the local schools, informing him that his offices are in receipt of their orders to begin work.

Sketches of the contemplated plans were submitted by Voelker & Dixon of Wichita Falls and were approved by the Board of Education. Blue prints will be made at once. Plans call for a one story building which will be modern in every respect. The building will occupy the approximate center of the block now occupied by the two old buildings. It will front on the highway, the front of the building being on a line with the back of the present structure which was constructed in 1909. Two wings will extend to the back, the most approved construction for obtaining the best lighting and ventilation.

Advantage of all modern methods of construction and architecture will be taken in completing the structure. Preliminary work has already started. Surveyors were at work on the grounds Tuesday.

GOES TO HAPPY HUNTING GROUND

The above is the picture of "Texas Tate," who died recently, owned by J. W. Pirtle. The dog won the national futurity championship at Abilene, Kansas, last year, which brought its owner a check for $750 in addition to the gleaming trophy over which the dog watches. Texas Tate was the first Texas dog to win the championship, which was given to him over a field of 128 entries.

Burkburnett Needs Apartments

Suitable rent houses and living quarters of all kinds have been scarce in Burk Burnett for some time. If you have an apartment or room to rent list it with the Burk Burnett Star or tell the manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Herman Engelmänn, about it. It is very important to the business interests of Burk Burnett to locate people who come here and want a place to stay, and the co-operation of every citizen is necessary to make this possible.

At present we have two deep-test locations made near Burk Burnett and if the people who drill these wells live in Burk Burnett, it will be necessary for local people to prepare suitable living quarters for them.

Where it is possible for Burk Burnett people to prepare apartments the possibility of renting them will be good, we believe.

Drive For New Members to Start In Near Future

Plans For Club House Is Goal Toward Which Membership Is Working

Improve Fairways

Members of the local Community Golf Club met at the City Hall last Thursday. The following officers were elected: Carl Morrison, president; Al Ragsdale, secretary and treasurer; Jack Brumley and Ross Reagan, greens committee, and Cliff Cannon, chairman membership committee.

Plans for the coming year were discussed. A drive is being started at once for new members. It is hoped that by allowing the wives of members to play on their husbands' memberships, an active interest among the women of the town will be stimulated.

The golf course is beautifully situated and is easily accessible. Whether one is interested in the sport from a personal standpoint, or whether he is utterly 'cold' on the subject, no one can fail to see the importance of such a municipal enterprise. Playing is one of the most important features of modern life. Adequate provisions must be made for it.

If we do not make them, then our young people will seek them elsewhere. If you do not care to play golf, swim or dance yourself, think how much nicer it would be if there were some place here at home where your boys and girls might go and join their friends in healthful, pleasant pastimes. If only the proper interest were stimulated, we might all take part and pride in the institution.

It is possible. Other towns, no larger than ours, have had their municipal clubs for years. They are the focal points for all social gatherings. Anyone who has ever attended any sort of entertainment in a small town golf club and seen the spirit of friendliness and relaxation of friends as they gather there, would be blind not to wish something of the sort for his own town.

We join the members of the Municipal Golf Club in the hope that more interest will be stimulated in the enterprise than ever before.

Chicken Theft Suspects Arrested By Local Police

Roscoe Arbuckle and Irvin Moore were charged with chicken theft in a complaint filed in Wichita Falls Wednesday. The arrests were made by officers Jim Turner and Roy Blacett, who recovered 13 chickens.

The officers stated they had found where a pair of overshoes had been burned and the heels knocked off a pair of shoes, apparently in an effort to prevent authorities from identifying tracks found near the scene of one of the places that was robbed.

Officers stated Thursday that most of the chickens had been identified but a few remained yet to be claimed. They stated that the remaining chickens probably came from a home where game chickens are raised as they are part game.

Death Stalking The Trail of Burk Sportsman's Dogs

The grim reaper seems to be stalking the trail of J. W. Pirtle's racing greyhounds.

Texas Tate, pride and joy of Mr. Pirtle's heart, the winner of the national futurity at Abilene, Kansas, last October, died of typhus three weeks ago in Florida, where he had been taken to race.

Another favorite, a promising dog that would have entered the national derby, fell dead here last Sunday while running, and the following day, Pirtle's favorite pup died.

Pirtle said this week, however, that he would still be able to enter choice dogs in the national derby and futurity events to be held at Abilene, Kan., this coming spring.

Burk Delegation Attends Highway Meeting Wichita

Wylie Browning, Paul Browning, Herman Engelmänn, and Fred Knauth attended the state highway meeting and luncheon held in Wichita Falls Wednesday.

Highway needs of this division were aired in brief as delegations from some 15 precincts discussed their needs following a luncheon at the Wichita Club where they were guests of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. Attending the luncheon also were Highway Commissioner Harry Hines, State Highway Engineer Julian Montgomery and several members of their staff from Austin.

In a short address, Herman Engelmänn stressed the need of Burk Burnett to have immediate attention on the completion of highway 240. He also thanked the Commissioner for his previous co-operation on this matter.

It is definitely assured that work on highway 240 will begin in the near future. This will mean much to Burk Burnett and those instrumental in seeing that the matter is carried through are to be congratulated upon their diligence.

Moving of KGKO to Fort Worth Will Be Completed On May 1st

Removal of radio station KGKO to Fort Worth has been definitely set for Sunday, May 1, according to station officials. The regular programs will be carried over the station until midnight, April 30, and programs will be continued at 8 a. m. the following day from the Fort Worth studios.

Installation of equipment, both for studio and transmitter units, is under way in Fort Worth at the present time. The studios, which will be larger and more elaborate than present facilities, will be located on the top floor of the Medical Arts building there. All acoustical engineering is being done by the Johns-Manville company. R. C. A. high fidelity transmitter equipment is being placed throughout, with two 350-foot vertical radiating transmission towers to be placed at a point near Arlington, about midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Network affiliation will be changed from the Columbia Broadcasting system to the blue network of National Broadcasting company. The studios in Wichita Falls will be connected by direct wire remote control, with periodic programs scheduled to emanate from Wichita Falls each day.

No definite announcement has been made as to the personnel of the new studios, but the present staff of announcers and technicians will without doubt be enlarged.

The name of the station, which has been taken over by Amon G. Carter of the Star-Telegram, will remain the same as it is now, and the location of the station on the radio receiving dial may be found at the same place.

Power for the new plant will be 5,000 watts during the daytime and 1,000 watts at night, by authorization of the federal radio commission.

Harold Hough will be general manager and Darrel Kahn will be business manager. Kahn has been in Fort Worth for several weeks completing arrangements for the shift.

"My Home Town" Entries Are Asked For Convention

The local Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention officials announcing the "My Home Town" contest and requesting that Burk Burnett have an entry in this contest.

The letter has been put in the hands of school officials, who will determine whether we shall respond to this request and to choose the speaker.

Contestants will be sent application blanks which they will fill out and send to the chamber offices in Wichita Falls. C. M. Caldwell of Abilene is chairman of the contest.

Winner of the contest will receive the Thomas Etheridge cup and a selection of scholarships as well as a cash prize, announced Mr. Caldwell.

Report Shows Increase Charters

A total of 139 corporations was chartered in Texas during January, an increase of 41.8 per cent over the month before and 4.5 per cent over January last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Total liabilities, $2,266,000, were down 19.2 per cent from the preceding month but were 12.7 per cent above the January, 1937, figure.

Increases in the number of charters over both the preceding month of January last year were confined to the merchandising and oil groups, although banking-finance and real estate-building made sharp gains over December.

There were 47 corporations capitalized at $5,000 or less, as compared with 30 the preceding month and 40 during January last year; while corporations capitalized at $100,000 or more numbered six in January, six the month before, and three the like month in 1937.

Junior Class To Present Mystery Play In March

The Junior class will present their annual play March 11. They have chosen a three-act mystery comedy that has met with startling success everywhere it has been produced.

"The Eyes of Tlaloc." What a portentous title! It hints of malicious brooding watchfulness that takes an accounting of all that happens. "Tlaloc big god—hear much—cry loud. He no forget; Tlaloc remember!" A strange prediction! Tlaloc does "cry loud," for the last time and with startling results.

According to Miss Margaret Tanner, who is directing the play, press notices from all presentations of this play are unusual. It was presented by the director of dramatics in McMurry College at Abilene who proclaimed it one of the most successful plays he had ever directed.

It was also presented by the Senior class of the Port Arthur high school and the director of dramatics there said that it was the first time in his experience that they had been obliged to give an extra performance of a high school play, but it was necessary when "The Eyes of Tlaloc" was played; popular demand required an extra showing.

Dental Society to Meet In Wichita

The Wichita District Dental Society met last Tuesday in a regular monthly meeting. Officers were elected for the coming year. Dr. G. F. Sworts of Wichita Falls succeeds Dr. Carl J. Morrison of Burk Burnett as president and Dr. James O. Bailey, also of Wichita Falls, was elected vice-president.

An afternoon program was presented, consisting of illustrated lectures by Dr. L. F. Megaw of San Antonio and Dr. John L. Preston of Wichita Falls. Dr. Megaw's subject was "The Baked Porcelain Crown; The Ideal in Dentistry." He had colored slides and movies showing the latest methods of restoring teeth without the show of gold.

Dr. Preston's lecture was on the subject of "Treatment of Fractures of the Jaw." It was also illustrated.

After the program, the dentists entertained their wives with a lovely dinner at the Womac's Forum. Following the dinner, they attended "The Ruth Page Ballet" at the Memorial Auditorium.

The program and dinner were presided over by the president, Dr. Morrison. Nine counties are represented in the Wichita District Dental Society. Approximately 80 per cent of the dentists from these counties are members of the Association.

First Students T. U. Invited to Round-Up

Personal invitations from T. U. Taylor, dean emeritus of the College of Engineering, University of Texas, will be sent to men and women who enrolled in the University as its first student body in 1883, urging them to come back to the campus as honor guests for the 1938 Round-Up, exstudent homecoming, April 8 and 9. It is estimated that of the 221 students who enrolled in that first year, approximately 50 still survive, all of them well in their seventies. The Round-Up committee hopes at least fifteen or twenty will respond to the invitation by attending.

Dean Taylor has been placed in charge of entertainment arrangements for the official reunion classes, those graduating in '03's and '08's. He is sending his personal invitation to members of the 50 and 25-year classes, those graduating in 1883 and 1913 and will entertain them at his own home for breakfast on Saturday, April 9th.

Each year, the Round-Up selects some veteran member of the University staff as special honor guest, naming him honorary chairman or foreman. This year, Dr. Henry Winston Harper, dean emeritus of the Graduate School and chemistry professor, has been chosen for this distinction.

The Ex-Students Association will hold its annual meeting at the time of the Round-Up, as will the Dads' and Mothers' Association, now headed by A. M. McAfee of Port Arthur, Mrs. E. M. Wise of Houston and Mrs. W. L. Eyres of San Antonio, president, vice-president and secretary, respectively.

The Pup's Bark

Warning to All Children

We have noticed with great interest the warning to the kite flyers put out by the electric company and we feel that it is very timely and important and will perhaps cause the boys to be more careful about flying kites near electric wires.

We have also noticed editorials written to the adults of our community asking that they observe the traffic laws. Some of these editorials have even suggested that it may be your own child that will be next to have some thoughtless, careless, reckless driver run him down and leave him lifeless on the highway or on our city streets.

Children! We now make our appeal to you! Please, for your own sake, be careful when crossing streets. Do not trust the car drivers and the traffic lights. The traffic light is supposed to be your best friend but it alone can not stop these thoughtless car drivers in our community. Children, be careful! First, look for the proper traffic light and then look both ways for cars before crossing the street. Always remember that the traffic light may not

The teachers of the Burk Burnett central school have been trying to correlate the teaching of safety and fire prevention with their other subjects. We hope that this teaching will have some value and that the lives of our (your) boys and girls in Burk Burnett will be made safer.

Mr. and Mrs. Good Citizen (?) will you please help protect our (your) children? Thanks.

The Best Citizens in H-2 last week were Iva Jo Fields, Hubert Cox and James Gibson.

Those earning "flags" for being good citizens in H-2 this week are as follows: Horace Mills, Gene Pringle, Shelby Stoker, Lowell Dale Wells, Lettie Champion, Bernice Holt, Doty Kent, Betty Stubblefield, Marie Tyler and Betty Jean Wright.

Nadine Haile and Max Bridges were voted Best Citizens for H-2-1 for the last week.

Joan Duncan of H-2-1 is leaving Wednesday to spend ten days in Alva, Oklahoma, while her father and mother are attending the National Education Association Convention in Atlantic City. Joan will attend the school in the class of her aunt at Alva.

Mr. Duncan—We, the Pups from the Bulldog Kennel Club, hope that you and Mrs. Duncan have a pleasant trip to Atlantic City and we hope that the trip will mean much to you and to our school system.

Accidents can be prevented and many lives can be saved by sane, intelligent thinking and careful driving. Many communities are forming Safety Clubs and safety rules and regulations are being discussed. Why can't we do something like this in Burk Burnett? Theodore Roosevelt once said, "The worst evil of any community is uninformed law," and "Obedience to law is demanded as a right—not asked as a favor."

Lahoma Hobbs, in room H-2-2, who has been absent several days on account of illness, is back in school again.

L-5-1 are grateful to Mrs. Schroeder for the large sack of nice animal cookies she sent to our room. The children and teacher enjoyed a delightful social hour during the language period.

H-4-1 has made silhouettes of Washington in honor of his 206th birthday.

The romance of spices has held the attention of the H-4-1 geography class the past week.

Joy Rankin and George Smith were chosen best citizens in H-4-1 this week.

A good school citizen is one who obeys all safety rules, not only on the school ground and in the building, but also in crossing streets; who respects the rights of his fellow class mates; is neat in his work and is congenial on the play ground as well as in the class room.

The members of H-6-1 are glad to have Delphia Finch back in their group.

Decrease In Texas Car Registrations

Reports to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research from fourteen representative Texas counties show a total of 3,914 new passenger car registrations during January, 17.3 per cent less than in December and 21.6 per cent below January last year.

Sales in all groups declined from December, and sales in all but the upper-intermediate price group decreased from January, last year.

Room 6 had a candy sale last Tuesday. The money will be used in taking our ride on the train.
More than half of our room has entered the declamation contest.
In Art Class Friday we made pictures of snow men. We would like to make some real ones in the snow.

The 8th grade has more pennies in the train bank than the 5th grade.

Sports News

Due to weather conditions, tennis, track and other outdoor sports have been discontinued.
However, the brains, if not the brawn are getting plenty of exercise. The declaimers, debaters, actors and spellers are working hard, and already much improve-

The interscholastic volleyball meet has been played off, and the Seniors emerged the winners.
Much to the surprise of every one concerned, the Freshmen and Sophomores were defeated by the Seniors and Juniors. The Seniors and Juniors had only 3 players, while the others had a complete team. It was an exciting play off between the two classes, and although the Juniors played hard, they were defeated.
This left the Seniors the undisputed champions in both basketball and volleyball.

The six weeks exams are looming ahead, and if we live through them, we will be back swinging tennis rackets as soon as the snow begins to thaw.

"The Rest Of The Record"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

My fight to secure the return of the State's lands has developed rapidly the past week.

When I requested the Attorney General to file a number of suits to recover these lands for the State, he told the newspapers that I was childish. From Paul's letters to the Corinthians, he quoted:

"When I was a child, I spake as a child; I understood as a child; I thought as a child. But when I became a man I put away childish things."

I can readily understand why the Attorney General, who calls himself the "Great McCraw," would have to resort to the Scriptures to prove that he has grown up.

Immediately after I demanded that these suits be filed, however, the Land Commissioner cancelled the big lease I had been complaining about—the one where he turned down $103,000 in cash and accepted $310.

This is the second time I have made him back up and cancel out. It appears, therefore, that my "childishness" has already resulted in the cancellation of two valuable leases which he had executed.

You will remember that the Attorney General also said that he would not file all the suits that I had requested, but would file only one test suit. He said that the State's rights would not be jeopardized; but when I pointed out that if these people were allowed to let the matter rock along until a test suit could be drawn out through the courts they would then have their gamble and know whether the well being drilled was a producer or dry; and when I pointed out that these people could even assign these leases to others who could claim to be innocent purchasers, the Attorney General changed his mind and filed nine additional suits.

So my "childishness" has resulted in further action.

The trouble now is that the Attorney General only set up one ground in asking for cancellation of these lands. He did not allege in his petitions that the facts constituted a legal fraud, as I had requested him to do.

Nowhere did he allege the facts and circumstances which I set out in my letters. I think these facts and circumstances taken as a whole clearly shows a fraud upon the rights of the people. I am sorry that the Attorney General is not going to give the court the opportunity to pass on these facts. I would rather have three legs to stand on in a lawsuit than just one, especially where millions of dollars belonging to the school children are involved.

To save my life, I can't understand why the Attorney General hasn't been just as anxious to investigate and go after these matters as I have been. Heretofore the Attorney General's office has been regarded as the watch dog for the people. One after another, former Attorney Generals have stepped out with lawsuits to protect the rights of the people. The most recent instance was when former Attorney General Dan Moody broke up the highway contracts, and was immediately elected Governor.

The "Great McCraw," as he calls himself, has had a similar opportunity and failed to take hold of it, even after I furnished him with all the facts and made an official request he will yet amend and go after these ly and in a fight

formulated plans to make the trade center for the area. We think that one of the first things the Chamber of Commerce should do would be to make their once-a-month meeting semi-monthly or weekly. Meeting once a month of people lose interest in affairs of the city and are apt to "let George do it" when a worthy project comes up for attention. Another reason for meeting oftener than once a month--there are a lot of things that cannot be handled in one meeting. It is true that they can have a special meeting but it is a hard proposition to get the members to respond. Haskell, Beckmorton and several others are about the size of Burk Burnett meet every week and are doing a lot to put their names on the map.

Just recently the Throckmorton Chamber of Commerce changed their trades day from Saturday to Thursday and according to reports it is meeting with much success. This change will be watched with interest by the Star and as it progresses will be kept you informed. It will be noted that the Burk Burnett Chamber tried to change their trades day to Thursday and it was tried by a majority of the members present but "Little Many Hall" steam-rollered the proposition and it was never tried out.

"Little Teapot Dome" Reopens the scene of the senate investigation of oil land leasing which held the lime light for the several weeks, reopened today in Dallas. According to the Holbrook of the senate committee, the scene of operations was moved to Dallas for convenience of several people involved in the litigation. He would have moved it to Burk Burnett if it would have made it more convenient for four that we know of who are involved in the thing.

Leave It To Sloan

Sloan Mills of the Cicero Smith Lumber Co. has a unique way of getting rid of "sweaters." During the recent rains several carpenters and painters have been doing their loafing around the lumber yard. Wednesday, O. B. Wofford fell asleep in a chair by the side of the fire, and after several unsuccessful attempts to wake him, Sloan and Oxley built a fire of old rags under his chair. They had to build the second fire but it had the desired results.

A local banker, engaged in the dignified and quite legal pastime of attending a Bankers' Convention, ran afoul of Duncan police authorities one night last week. The charge was 'removing an automobile without the owner's knowledge or consent.' What about this? If things go on this way, members of the Light Fingers Gentry are going to be protesting against scab competition.

Improved Economic Conditions In Central North Texas Evidenced 1937

J. A. Bellamy, Proffitt, Young county, inspects kill of grasshoppers by use of sodium arsenite bran mash formula. These shoppers were raked together from under one small gourd shown in the picture. About 500 tons of poison were distributed to farmers and ranchmen in the North Central Texas district. Individual terrace with 5 rounds on the farm of C. A. Bellamy, 6 miles northeast of Henrietta in Clay county. 202,848 acres terraced in 1937 in Extension Service district 3.

(SPECIAL TO THE STAR)

College Station, Feb. 22—The economic condition of agriculture in the home living throughout the year 1937, which is composed of counties in central north Texas, is somewhat above the average for several years, according to J. A. Scofield, Extension agent in charge of agricultural work in that section. Rainfall for this district was above the average for the year, grazing conditions were good throughout the district for 1937, and the price for cattle was good during the early part of last year. A bumper wheat crop was expected in the majority of the counties, some counties having an average of 25 bushels per acre for the entire county. It is estimated that a bumper crop was harvested, and prices were received for the crop, the farmers being paid to $1.00 per bushel at harvest.

The biggest cotton crop in the history of the district was harvested although the price received by the farmers was somewhat lacking. Evidence of the economic condition is seen in improvements; some farm homes have been built in the last year, new barns and outbuildings have been built and old ones repaired. Radios have been installed in many homes, and new light plants have been purchased and new and improved farm machinery replaced much which was old and worn out.

County agricultural agents have put forth an extra amount of effort in boys' 4-H club work, knowing that these boys will be the leaders of tomorrow; 1,918 boys were enrolled in the 17 counties. This enrollment exceeded the goal set by the state 4-H club agent by 51 boys, and exceeds the 1936 enrollment by 225 boys. These boys are carrying on many types of demonstrations including calf feeding,

TOO LATE!

AFTER the firemen arrive, many a man realizes that although his fire insurance will indemnify him for the property damage it does not reimburse for loss due to the interruption of his business.

lamb feeding, improved cotton projects and improved grain sorghums, and projects of feeding pigs and poultry raising. Several judging teams were trained by the agents in district 3, including poultry judging, livestock, cotton, grain sorghums and meat identification teams. A meat identification team and a poultry judging team, both from Young county, won the state judging contest in these two branches and represented the Texas Extension Service with honor in the national contest which was held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago in December. Incidentally, Young county is the State which sent two teams to Chicago from Texas last year. The 4-H club boys of Wise county fed 50 lambs during 1937 and realized a net profit of $5.97 each.

The county agricultural agents of district 3 during 1937 perhaps devoted more time to problems in connection with soil conservation and the conservation of water than to any other problem. NYA boys were used in several counties during the early part of 1937 to run terrace and contour lines under the direction of county agricultural agents. Many farmers and 4-H club boys have been trained to run terrace lines and are now assisting the agents in putting over this very important phase of Extension work. A total of 202,848 acres was terraced in the district during 1937 under the direction of the county agricultural agents. The majority of the terraces were constructed by county machinery at a cost of just enough to cover the operating expenses of the machines. This operating cost is around $1.00 to $1.50 per acre. Because of experiments which have been carried on for years by the Experiment Stations and demonstrations which have been conducted by the county agricultural agents, the majority of row crops in district 3 are planted on the contour at the present time, thus conserving the moisture, which is the limiting factor in crop production in this section of the State.

A trench silo campaign was put on in the district during the early summer and the trench silo specialist, together with the district agent, held 12 meetings in the same number of counties, and as a result, 251 trench silos were dug and filled this year, which is an increase of some 200 per cent over the number that were in the district in 1936. It is felt that this is one of the most valuable pieces of work accomplished by the Extension Service in district 3 during 1937 because a trench silo is feed insurance. Much interest has been manifested by farmers and ranchmen throughout district 3 during the past year in improving the wildlife conditions and in setting up and carrying on wildlife and game management demonstrations. This resulted in the signing up by the landowners of a total of 1,385,425 acres.

A serious grasshopper infestation occurred throughout every county in the district during the summer and government aid was secured to fight this serious menace to growing crops. Five hundred tons of poison were distributed through the county agricultural agents to farmers and ranchmen throughout the district. The poison material with a certain amount of wheat bran was furnished by the government. The farmers and ranchmen of the counties then furnished a like amount of wheat bran or cottonseed hulls with which the poison was mixed under the direction of the agents and distributed in the sections of the counties where the infestation was heaviest. In some counties NYA boys were used in the mixing of the material. In other counties the commissioners' courts co-operated by paying for the labor required to mix the material and in some few instances furnished trucks for distributing the poison to the farmers and ranchmen in the remote sections of the counties. It is estimated that about 2-3 of the growing crops were saved from being destroyed.

THE PATTERN
ESTHER H. DOOLITTLE

Claire was in tears. "I can't do that old arithmetic, so there! Miss Allen kept me after school again today, and I don't know any more about it now that I did before."

Mrs. Stowe looked up from her mending. She smiled, even though she was worried about her 8-year-old daughter. "Well, never mind now, run out and get some fresh air before dark, dear," she answered.

Aunt Stella looked up as the back door closed and Claire's skates rolled past the window. "What's the matter, Alice? Claire isn't looking well. I was going to ask you if anything is wrong with her."

"I don't really know what's wrong, Stella. Claire and her teacher seem to be at sword's points all the time, these days. It seems to be all about arithmetic. The child scarcely eats anything and her sleep is badly broken, too. It looks like a case of nerves to me. I think I'll take her to see Dr. Darrow next Saturday."

"Too bad," mused Aunt Stella. "Isn't there something we can do about this arithmetic business? Claire is not a stupid child by any means."

"Of course she isn't," agreed her sister, "but she evidently appears so in this one subject, and no other study bothers her?"

Mrs. Stowe rose to put her mending things away. "On the contrary, she's quite proficient in everything else. All her marks with that one exception are very satisfactory."

Aunt Stella tied a pink gingham apron around her waist. "What does her teacher say of all this?"

"Miss Allen says Claire is inattentive and she doesn't try, in this one subject."

"Nonsense," said Aunt Stella indignantly, then after a minute, "and what does Claire herself say?"

"That she's just stupid and can't understand arithmetic."

"To bad, too bad," Aunt Stella shook her head. "But I think she could throw some light on the matter if we approached her correctly. Let's try after supper."

That evening when Claire was curled up before the fire reading Aunt Stella sat down in a low chair beside her.

"Claire, dear," she began, "tell us why you dislike arithmetic so much."

The book closed with a snap, and the little girl's face clouded immediately.

"I don't know," she answered. "I always have. I can't do it, that's all."

"But like school, don't you?"

"I love it—all but arithmetic."

"Try to think why you dislike that so very much. You like grammar and that requires reasoning."

"Yes, and she likes puzzles, too," said Mrs. Stowe.

"Oh well," and Claire smiled, "puzzles are nothing to be afraid of."

"Afraid," interrupted Aunt Stella. "So you're afraid of arithmetic. But why?"

Claire looked very unhappy. "Never mind, Stella," Mrs. Stowe glanced uneasily at her little daughter, who showed unmistakable signs of returning tears. "Let's forget about it for now."

"Wait a bit, Alice. What is it you're afraid of, Claire?"

Claire fidgeted in her chair. "That the others will laugh at me, I suppose. I'm so stupid."

"You don't feel that way about music or reading or anything else, do you?"

"Oh, no, they're just fun."

"When were you first afraid of arithmetic, can you remember? Think hard."

"The very first day I went to school, I think it was. We had number work on the board and I knew it was arithmetic."

"But what had you heard about that to frighten you, dear?"

"Well, I heard Mother telling Daddy how hard arithmetic was for her. She said she was stupid about it and she was afraid I would be, too."

Aunt Stella gasped, and then tactfully changed the subject.

"So now the cat's out of the bag!" she said to her sister, later. And then very gently, "It has been your own fault, Alice, all this time. You set a pattern for your child to follow and she followed it. She only took your suggestion and faithfully worked out the pattern you gave her."

Every evening for the rest of the winter, Claire and Aunt Stella worked together by the fire-side. It was a reconditioning process, a course in happy confidence and self-respect with arithmetic as its medium. During these lessons the little girl became really interested and lost her fear, with the natural result that she soon came to understand that subject as easily as she did any other.

Randlett School News

Senior News

The Seniors have nothing to say except that a new poet has been brought to light from the Senior class. This is Erma Jean Beavers. The following is her best and latest poem:—
"The beautiful snow—
The ground is covered with sloshy mud."

Junior News

Reporters have to write the news Of country, state and nation, 'N slip around 'n pry 'n peep 'N stretch their 'magination; And school reporters ain't no less An' when than ain't no news You have to set with pen in hand Until you get the blues. If news is bad y'ist go on 'N play like you don't heed it, But if it's good 'n you're so proud, Nobody's sure to read it! Now the Juniors is a good ole class But even if I's hired I ain't a gonna make up things T' keep from gettin' fired!!

Girls' Sport News

The Randlett girls crashed thru with a final score of 31-25 Saturday night defeating Devol and becoming the champions of the Cotton County Basketball Tournament. The nine players who entered into the tournament to bring home the trophy were: June Griffin, Idella Lee, forwards; Tia Juanna Ashton, Margie LeBarre, Stella Alexander, centers; and Wilda Nason, Juanita Ashton, Erma Jean Beavers, Imogene Myres, guards.

The girls will journey to Victory No. 11 Friday night.

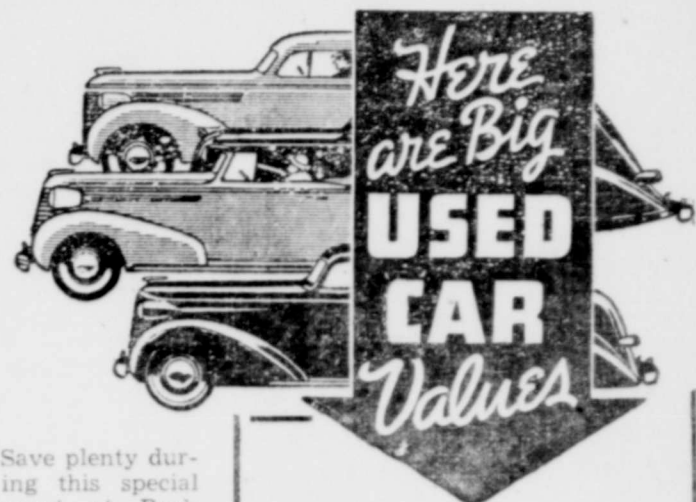

Boys' Sports News

The Randlett boys basketball teams were rather sorrowful today, yet there seems to be a spark of joy in the smile of each one of the players. It is true that

A. boys as well as the Junior boys were beaten in the County Tournament; but we are all rather proud of the fight and spirit as well as the skill that the players showed. It seems that the boys did a little better than was expected of them by some and probably some were disappointed. Yet I don't believe Temple or Aphestone were either disappointed as they were beaten by a large majority. Walters may feel pretty good and the players don't have any if's. They just hope that Walters feel like that they were given a battle for the trophy they justly earned.

Travel lore and the thrills of outdoor vacation trips in Western States, will be an outstanding theme of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay.

Bad Investment

Ordinary chicks from flocks producing from 70 to 90 eggs are a bad investment when compared to Quality Baby Chicks from flocks producing from 190 to 240 eggs. It takes as much time and feed for the ordinary chicks as it does for the better chicks. If you expect profits from the poultry business, it is absolutely necessary to buy Quality Chicks. The records of our flocks is your guarantee when you buy our chicks.

Even at the present low price of eggs, Quality Hens will show a profit, and the price is certain to increase. For example:

ONE HUNDRED QUALITY HENS

Should now lay 70 eggs per day, at 1c each	70c
Cost of feed, 10 lbs. Quality Mash	28c
10 lbs. home grown grain	12c 40c
Profit per day on 100 hens	30c

This means a profit of $9.00 per month on 12-cent eggs. 100 ordinary hens producing 40 eggs per day will just break even.

Big Rabbit Creek

February 21, 1938
At last Old Sol put in his appearance Sunday morning, and it soon warmed up several degrees. Every one is now hoping that we will have a few days' nice weather.

The big four days' and nights' rain which started Monday morning of last week and ended up with a snow Thursday night heavy enough to cover the ground, amounted to 6 1/2 inches of moisture, for which it added to thousands of dollars to the growing wheat and oat crops, and has put a fine underground season in Old Mother Earth to last up till the last of April and maybe longer.

All fruit trees which were bloomed out; peaches, plums and other fruit trees before this big freeze, have gone up Salt Creek, as they are killed. The berry crop is safe, so far.

A few light cases of pneumonia in the Big Rabbit Creek vicinity have been reported to Hawkeye. At this writing, they are up and around again.

Tobe Hardin, Charlie Nails and his cousin, Otis Bone, visited the Owens family awhile Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. E. Wood, her daughter, Miss Geneva and little brother, Master Billie, visited with Mrs. Ed Owens one day of last week.

Lee Stafford was shopping and transacting business Saturday. Lee lives over across the big pond over in Oklahoma.

Thousands upon thousands were in our friendly little city, Burkburnett, Saturday again shopping and transacting all different kinds of business.

After each Saturday's drawing for the $60.00 it takes the big Chief of Police, Bill Stapp and his staff from one and a half to two hours to keep the awful jam one Main Street open up so the farmers can get their cars out from their parking places so they can get started home after the big coupon book drawing of the sixty bucks that is drawn every Saturday at 3:30 p. m.

Three-fourths of the Big Rabbit Creek population was shopping over in the big friendly little city of Burkburnett. Amongst the leading farmers from across the big pond is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Babers, John Ashton and family, Mrs. D. C. Jones, Joe Killgore and family, C. F. King, James Pirtle and many more.

Hawkeye purchased a small bill of groceries from Bud Hicks and little Henry Prinzing's big grocery store Saturday. Instead of Hawkeye taking these groceries to the car when he first bought them, he just waited till after the big drawing. It took Hawkeye just an hour before he could get out of that big, famous grocery store with his box of groceries, as the big store was packed with shoppers. They had six extra clerks trying to wait on the business.

By all reports and by all indications of the old clod hoppers, there will be as much, if not more, acreage planted to cotton in this territory in 1938 than there has been planted for many years and less corn.

The lady who for several years past has been keeping house for Theo. Kinnaird has been bed-fast for several days now with a bad case of tonsillitis; is some better at this writing.

The beautiful playhouse, the Palace Theatre, is being rushed to completion as fast as expert carpenters can do the work. It will take ten days or longer before it will be finished.

Yours truly,
HAWKEYE.
