Frank Wire Scalded To Death in Memphis Yard Accident

MESSENGER INJURED

Engines and Coaches Leave Track as Express Hits Cattle Train

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 30.—Frank Wire, of Amarillo, engineer of the Fort Worth and Denver passenger train No. 1, was scalded to death and H. G. Saunders, express messenger of the train, was seriously injured early tonight when the passenger train collided with a freight engine which had failed to clear the main line track when it went on a siding in the railroad yard about 300 yards south of the depot.

Both engines were derailed, as were two baggage coaches of the passenger train. None of the crew of the freight engine was reported injured.

Fireman Escapes

The fireman of the passenger train leaped to safety. Wire, the engineer, failed to make the leap, and was pinned in the wreckage, which soon was overflowed with scalding water which flowed from the bursted boilers.

The passenger train fireman, whose name was not learned, and Sim Deason, Memphis carpenter who happened to be near, plunged into the wreckage through the boiling water in an effort to rescue the engineer. He was dragged from the mass and placed in a car to be rushed to the hospital. Death came en route.

The nature of the express messenger's injuries was not learned, but it was announced that he was expected to live. He is in a hospital here.

Traffic Blocked

Track on the line was torn up for several hundred feet by the wreck, and traffic on the line will be delayed until Thursday morning, railroad officials said.

The accident occurred about 6:42 p. m., the hour the passenger train is due in Memphis. The freight engine, which was pulling a string of cattle cars, had gone on a siding, but apparently had failed to allow enough room for the speeding passenger train to pass.

Wichita Leaders Pay Tribute To W. B. Hamilton at Banquet Honoring W.T.C.C. President

"The election of W. B. Hamilton to the presidency of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a direct tribute to his work and to his ability. None of us are responsible for his election. He himself won it by his accomplishments and his ability." This tribute was given by W. D. Cline at the banquet given Wednesday night at the Wichita club in honor of Mr. Hamilton's recent election to the presidency of the West Texas chamber.

The banquet was given by the two chambers of commerce of Wichita Falls and was attended by 40 of the prominent business men in the city. Harry Hines, president of the senior chamber, acted as toastmaster.

"Mr. Hamilton has demonstrated to the citizens of Texas that he is interested in the success and welfare of all mankind, and especially that of the citizens of Wichita Falls and West Texas," Mr. Cline said. At the opening of his talk, Mr. Cline stated his subject as "How to Draft a President for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce." Humorously he explained how Mr. Hamilton had been "drafted" by the board of directors.

Hamilton Drafted

"That draft was handled as nicely as any I ever saw," he said. "We had his wife's consent, and his associates said they could worry along somehow, and so it was. Believe it or not, we drafted him.

"But seriously, Wichita Falls is going to have to get extra busy if it expects to hold its place in the

Father and Sister of Wright Offer Alibi in Defendant's Trial

State Seeks Life Sentence for Alleged Participation in Burglary Wave; Case to End Today

Arguments in the burglary trial of C. A. Wright, in which the state is seeking a life term prison sentence under the habitual criminal act, were begun at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon after the defense had backed its plea of not guilty with evidence purporting to establish an alibi. The arguments will be completed and the case is expected to reach the jury early Thursday morning.

Wright did not take the stand in his own behalf, the brief evidence for the defense coming chiefly from J. D. Wright and Miss May Ella Wright, the defendant's father and sister. Both witnesses said Wright was in their home in Oklahoma City on the night of March 16, 1929, the occasion of the burglary of the W. P. Killingsworth home, of which Wright is accused. The indictment against him alleges two former convictions, one in Oklahoma and the second in Louisiana. A conviction under the third offense clause of the bill makes a life term sentence obligatory upon the jury, attorneys declared.

The state's case centered in a tuxedo suit of clothing, identified as the property of Mr. Killingsworth, which was recovered in a Fort Worth pawn shop. Morris Hurwitz identified Wright as the man who sold it to him and Fort Worth officers and detectives were called to the stand to establish the facts of the arrest and the investigation. The second link in the prosecution, as developed by Sam Spence, district attorney, with Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants, was concerned with a footprint left outside the window of the Killingsworth home. According to evidence given by Mr.

Wheeler county, in the Panhandle, reported the greatest cotton damage. Cotton in that county, it was estimated, has suffered a loss of $100,000.

Freight Rate Changes Asked by Congressman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—The farm board was asked today by Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, to request the Interstate Commerce commission to grant the same freight rate reductions on surplus wheat and cotton intended for export trade as were allowed for a number of industrial products shipped for foreign trade.

In a letter to Chairman Legge of the board, Jones asked the board to join in a request to the commission to "correct the inequalities, either by reducing the export freight rates on cotton and wheat or by doing away with all of the reductions on industrial export commodities so that the entire rate structure may be brought down."

MERCY SHOWN GIRL MOTHER

Thelma Long Wins Stay Of Liquor Sentence

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30. (AP)—Thelma Long, alias Mrs. Thelma Holland, 22-year-old expectant mother, whose arrest and prosecution on liquor charges caused an uproar here, today won probation for three years after first being sentenced to a penitentiary term.

The woman, who claimed she was the wife of William Holland at the time of her arrest last summer, originally pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a still and received a one to five year prison sentence in place of the probation she had expected.

She fought the sentence and the case attracted wide attention with several orgahizations lending her support. Finally a motion to set aside the judgment was granted and she was permitted to enter a not guilty plea.

On Oct. 9, date of her trial, she reversed her plea to guilty on the assurance of the state that her case was one for probationary consideration, principally because of the stigma it felt would be inflicted on her unborn child by incarceration in a prison or jail.

At the probation hearing she asked permission to return to her home in Oklahoma but the superior court told her that "your duty is here with Mr. Holland's children."

At the time of her arrest she was caring for Holland's six children by another marriage. Holland was sent to prison for life on liquor charges as a habitual criminal. The woman claimed she had lived with him in the hope of "reforming" him, but Holland's former wife on her death bed accused the woman of stealing her husband.

John D. Rockefeller Sr. and Other Tycoons Support Stock Market Rally

Third Largest Sales Volume Registered as Securities Stage Remarkable Recovery Wednesday

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A gigantic concentration of the country's most powerful financial forces, headed by J. P. Morgan and Rockefeller interests, threw sufficient buying support into the securities markets today to bring about one of the most impressive rallies on record.

This action effectively checked the waves of hysterical selling which had washed away many billions of dollars in quoted values, threatening disaster to many who survived the terrific onslaughts of liquidation in the past week.

BOY'S SCREAMS FOLLOW FIRST OF FOUR SHOTS

Elevator Operator Gives Sensational Testimony In Hamilton Trial

HORSEWHIPPING TOLD

Defendant's Encounter With Brann the Iconoclast Is Related

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 30. (AP)—After one of the four shots which took his life had been fired, Tom Walton Jr., 21, cried out: "No, no, don't do that!" a witness in the murder trial of R. H. Hamilton testified here today.

The witness was Mrs. Lorsine Hill, elevator operator in the Amarillo building. Mrs. Hill said she saw Walton walk down the hall toward his father-in-law's office, and a moment later heard a scream, "and some one say, 'No, no, don't do that!' or 'Oh, oh, don't do that!'"

"The voice sounded like Walton's," Mrs. Hill said.

Iconoclast Mentioned

After Doctor Aulick had said he had known Hamilton's reputation at Waco and it had been good, District Attorney Edward Thomerson asked:

"Isn't it a fact that when you lived in Waco it was common talk that this defendant, R. H. Hamilton, is the man who helped horsewhip Brann?"

Not "Common Talk"

"No, it wasn't common talk," the pastor replied.

Then Thomerson asked whether he had heard Hamilton was teaching history in Baylor university because he was "so high tempered he couldn't practice law." Doctor Aulick replied, "Absolutely not."

R. B. Hood of defense counsel then asked the pastor on re-direct examination whether it wasn't true that Hamilton had horsewhipped Brann because Brann charged girls in Baylor university were immoral. Hamilton's sister was a student in the school. Doctor Aulick said he had heard that was the reason for Brann's whipping. He also admitted he had heard that Hamilton participated in the whipping, "although it wasn't common talk."

Brann Shot to Death

Brann, some time later, was shot to death in Waco. He issued a newspaper in Waco in the late nineties.

The state, presenting its preliminary case, had only 10 witnesses, two of whom testified yesterday. At the conclusion of today's session, eight defense witnesses, six character witnesses, had testified.

It also was brought out today that Hamilton served as a member of the Texas supreme court commission of appeals and was a member of the University Baptist church.

Just after Mrs. Hill testified, the state unexpectedly rested its case. Since more than a score additional state witnesses had been subpoenaed, the move came as a surprise. It was believed the state intended to use its remaining witnesses to rebut the defense case.

From other offices on the same floor where Hamilton had his suite in an Amarillo building, the state brought three doctors, a real estate man and the manager of the building to tell what they saw when they rushed into the jurist's office to find his son-in-law dying on the floor, his body punctured with at least three bullets.

The all important developments of the day were the disagreement

WRIGHT OFFERS ALIBI DEFENSE

Burglary Case to Go To Jury Today

Spence and Sheriff W. G. Brailey, the shoe of Wright fit exactly into the print as discovered and preserved by investigating officers.

Posed as Officer, Boys Say

Against the alibi claims of the defense, the state introduced the evidence of two 16-year-old boys, Elwood Brandeberry and Therman Conrey, who told the jury that they had seen Wright in a Ford coupe in an alley near the Killingsworth home on the night of the burglary. They were playing with a flashlight, the boys said, and flashed it into the face of the defendant. Wright objected to the light, young Brandeberry said, told the boys he was an officer and threatened them with punishment.

E. M. Robertson and Walter Friberg, attorneys for the defense, called J. D. Wright, father of the defendant, as their first witness. The elderly witness, who said he had known county officials here for 40 years, said his son had been "puny" and had come to his home in Oklahoma City during the week in which the burglary here was committed.

On cross-examination Mr. Wright said he did not know his son's business but that he had been told of dish-washing and "hashing." He admitted having had Wright paroled to him out of the Oklahoma penitentiary without telling prison authorities that he was his father. He said, too, that he knew of a former conviction in Louisiana.

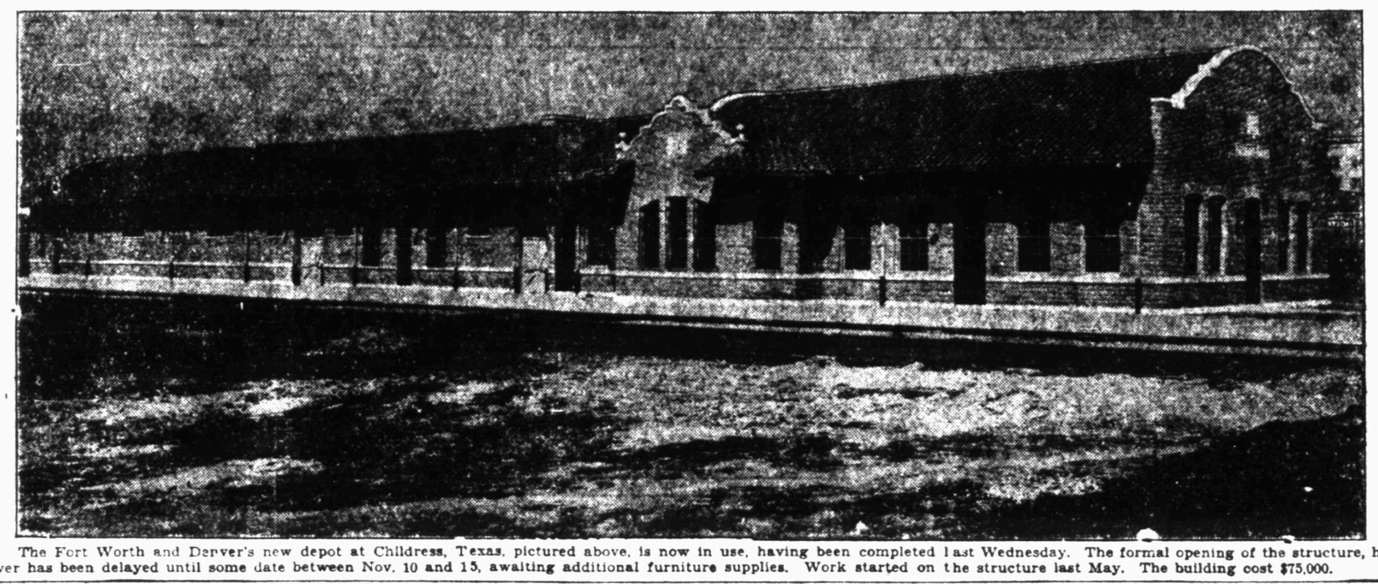

Miss Wright, a pretty 22-year-old senior in the Oklahoma City university, corroborated the evidence of her father in connection with the presence of Wright in the family home on March 16. The defense closed with the testimony of a local clothing salesman who said that certain suit makers handled many suits of cloting without definite distinguishing marks.

Defense Loses Plea

The defense attack upon the third offense clause in the indictment began early Wednesday morning when Mr. Robertson moved to rule it out on the grounds of the Oklahoma parole. Judge P. A. Martin, presiding judge, overruled the motion. During the morning session Carl Holbrook, clerk in the warden's office at the Louisiana penitentiary, and himself under a life sentence there, testified that Wright had served a term in the penitentiary for car theft.

Wright was arrested and indicted here after the recovery of several thousand dollars worth of goods, chiefly clothing, stolen from a number of Wichita Falls homes early this year. T. O. Cagle, indicted with him, is under sentences aggregating 25 years, and Mae Hart, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, is at liberty under a five-year suspended sentence.

O. M. Wiley New Attorney For Archer-Young

The resignation of George Berry, assistant district attorney for the 30th district court in Young and Archer counties, and the appointment of O. M. Wiley, Archer City attorney as his successor, was announced Wednesday afternoon by Sam Spence, district attorney.

The resignation of Mr. Berry will become effective Friday, Nov. 1, Mr. Spence declared. Mr. Wiley will not assume the duties of the office until after the November term of the 30th court in Archer county, because his earlier legal connections will disqualify him in many of the cases now pending, the district attorney explained. He is expected to move from Archer City to Graham, where the headquarters of the office are regularly maintained.

Mr. Berry has acted as assistant district attorney for the two outlying counties since the office was inaugurated in 1927. Mr. Spence declared. He is expecting to continue the practise of law in Lubbock. Mr. Wiley has been one of the leading criminal lawyers in Archer county during the past several years.

Commissioners said stations in the past have issued licenses to car owners without proper tests, and to discourage such practices a provision to cancel without notice any license was written into the county record.

Clemenceau Forced To Take Doctor's Advice

PARIS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau was described by Doctor Degennes and Dostor Laurby as "somewhat tired this evening." For once he heeded the advice of his physicians and retired immediately after his dinner. Clemenceau worked only a few minutes this afternoon.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30. (UP)—South Spring street, the financial center of Los Angeles, had a flurry of excitement as an ambulance arrived at a brokerage office during the peak of frenzied trading today. F. H. Kraft, 57, had been standing in front of a board watching the posting of quotations. He suddenly collapsed and died of heart disease.

editor of the Enterprise at that place, appeared through the front page of the Enterprise, when she bowed. Miss Bonnah Fulfer as Frederick stepped from behind an imitation bale of cotton. Miss Peggy Eckert as Mangum was revevealed in an arch of roses.

A group of students from the Cameron Agricultural college, west of Lawton, appeared in songs and yells. Two of the number brought a large football, behind which danced Miss Favie McFall, Miss Lawton. She is a dancing instructor of Lawton.

Calling Dances

Much interest was displayed in the novelty dancing of Charles Collins, a Tillman county product, who has made good on Broadway and in London. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Collins of North Ninth street and arrived here a few days ago for a visit. He gave two dance numbers. His efforts were roundly applauded. B. F. C. Mullins Jr. of Frederick assisted him, taking a comedy role. Mrs. Jimmie Arnold of this city was piano accompanist. Collins will appear on the program again Friday night.

Members of the Tuesday club, a local woman's organization, appeared in costumes of former eras. They appeared as having set sail from England in a sail boat half a century ago and landed at Burth Lake, northwest of Frederick.

"From childhood to old age," a style operatta, showed the latest creations handled by local merchants. Mrs. R. L. Case sang appropriate selections with Miss Grace Williams as piano accompanist. Art Wright and Mrs. Freda Smith concluded the operetta with a song. Mrs. Frank Stockton of Carter rendered the harp selections.

Harmonica Contest

Niek Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Vaughn of Frederick, was winner in the harmonica contest.

Wednesday night's program follows:

Music, Frederick High school band.

Announcements, L. M. Wagnon, 4-H club appropriate dress contest.

Violin solo, Miss Genevieve Hayward, Miss Grace Williams, piano accompanist.

Wash dress operetta, Mrs. R. L. Case, soloist.

Settle Movie Fight

PARIS.—The squabble between American and French movie producers is temporarily settled. For some time France has insisted that American producers buy one French film for every three American production sold in France. This has been settled and American films are expected to be widely shown in France very soon after a lengthy interval of almost complete absence.

JURY CLEARS BOB M'CORKLE

Wichitan Is Acquitted In Death of Aged Man

After about 30 minutes deliberation late Wednesday afternoon, a jury in the county court-at-law acquitted Bob McCorkle of negligent homicide charges growing out of the death of Tom Bennett in an automobile accident here last July.

Twenty-eight witnesses, an unusually large number for a misdemeanor trial, testified in the course of the proceedings Tuesday and Wednesday. Judge Irvin J. Vogel gave the case to the jury shortly after 4:30 Wednesday afternoon and accepted a verdict half an hour later.

McCorkle, represented by James V. Allred, attorney, claimed in his testimony that the elderly pedestrian moved in front of his car while he was driving at a moderate rate of speed down Ohio. The state had contended that the McCorkle car was exceeding the speed limit and had dragged the injured man across the street before it could be brought to a stop.

Majestic RADIO

Licensed under patents and applications of R. C. A. and R. F. L., also by Lektiphone, Lowell & Dunmore and Hogan License Associates.

Nearly TWO MILLION People CAN'T Be Wrong—

and MAJESTIC Still Makes and Sells 6,000 Radio Sets Daily

Today from nearly every newspaper page you are being shouted at to "watch your step" in buying a radio set, to "look for this" or "look for that." You are being implored to "buy a strictly modern radio." You are being told that "no radio but the famous Gazookis is up to the minute, because it has the new blah, blah, blah—something that no other radio manufacturer can equal."

There is nothing to get excited about. It is so simple to buy a good radio set today, if you look for only two things, which your own mind and you own ears are fully capable of deciding. First, the performance (tone quality), and secondly, is the reputation of the manufacturer sufficient to guarantee that your investment is safe and permanent.

Majestic has always said, "You cannot buy a better radio set than Majestic at any price." We rest our case on that statement. You are the judge. We do not need to tell you that Majestic can make any sort of set, and can manufacture and use in that set, any type of tubes that are known in the radio world. Majestic has access to all the patents, has all the manufacturing facilities, has all the financial resources necessary to do the job.

Majestic is making the kind of sets that are being produced today because, point for point, we know "You can't buy a better radio set than Majestic at any price." If you hear a Majestic, if you listen to its colorful tone, its faithful reproduction, if you examine its sturdy construction, its oversize power pack, its beautifully blended cabinet woods, and compare these points in a side by side test with any other set on the market at any price, then you'll buy a Majestic.

May we remind you, with modest pride, that there are nearly two million happy owners of Majestics today. Two million owners in 17 months —Think of it!

Majestic is now making 6.000 sets each working day. You are welcome to come and see for yourself. You may watch them loaded on the freight cars in a continuous stream each day till the last set is aboard. This is an unusual invitation which only Majestic can make to you, because only Majestic is doing this kind of a job.

Remember, one swallow does not make a summer and one talking point does not make a good radio set. To be a good set, everything about it has to be good. Majestic does not confuse the issue by shouting one form of superiority and ignoring every other important point. Everything about a Majestic has to be good or we could not sell 6,000 a day. Is it too much to say that nearly two million people cannot be wrong?

Your investment IS safe with Majestic.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Our lawn is covered with sycamore leaves and again we would wish publicly that other than sycamore trees were the favorites in Wichita Falls.

One rose has climbed from out the top of a rambler on the fence between our back yard and the next and is blooming there as if she dared the winds of November.

The zinnia bushes are turning rusty and their leaves are dropping fast. The flowers that brave the weather have wind tanned edges but hidden in warm corners, zinnias as lovely as any of the early fall still live.

Sparrows try to appear brave. We wonder if they are. A little yellow butterfly flits across the sunshine.

The most persistent thing in insect life, it seems to us, is the house fly. The weather turns cold and housewives leave doors and windows open while fall cleaning is done, and lo, the fly is established.

Abe Martin said "Bees are not as busy as we think they are. They just can't buzz any slower." Probably the fly is in the same condition. But no one will ever catch us plaintively asking "Where are the flies of yesteryear?"

What we would like to ask is "Where are the pins—and the needles of yesteryear?"

We regularly buy pins and needles and we know we use no more than the ordinary woman, but we are eternally out.

When we used hairpins, it was the same way. We believe the earth about where we live must be so well sown with steel, it would pay for mining.

Another thing that has irked our minds is "What has become of all the valedictorians and salutatorians?" We expect great things of those bright members of their classes who earn highest honor, but it seems so often that with graduation, all the zest of acquiring knowledge is gone.

But the century is nearing a point when graduates do not only acquire a school education, but keep on being educated to keep up with the world.

We believe in a girl or boy taking all she or he can get, in the way of a college education. But the important thing is to use this foundation as a basis for future sound knowledge.

We know people with little education who by constant reading and observation have kept themselves so well informed they can compete in discussion with any college graduate. None of us is ever too old to learn.

Personals

J. W. Stone, who has been confined to his bed for the past several days, is again able to be downtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Eugene Price have returned from their honeymoon and are with Mrs. Price's cousin, Mrs. W. W. Silk. Mrs. Price will be remembered as Miss Katherine Yielding and has a host of friends here. The young couple will be at home to their friends in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke McCrory and Mrs. McCrory's sister, Miss Nell Gibbs, have gone to Muskogee, Okla., where their father, J. H. Gibbs, died Wednesday morning. They will accompany the body back to Liberty, Mo., his old home, for burial.

ALL SHOULD HAVE PLENTY OF MILK

Drink Fresh Milk—Use It and Condensed Milk in Custards and Other Desserts

Two famous nutrition authorities emphasize the need of the human body for the calcium and phosphorus found in milk. Children and expectant or nursing mothers should have from three-quarters to one quart of milk a day, according to these authorities, and other adults should have from three-quarters of a pint to a pint of milk a day. These authorities point out that too little calcium in the diet retards bone growth, causes rickets, may result in bone deformities, produces poor quality of teeth and lowers vigor and vitality. Whole milk also is rich in phosphorus.

Unfortunately there are many people who do not like the taste of milk. For all such people, a delicious milk drink should be made.

One mother makes her children eager for milk by giving it to them in milk shakes. "They call one drink a chocolate frost," she says. "I take a level teaspoon of cocoa and 1½ teaspoons of sugar, mix in the bottom of a glass with a few drops of milk until it's smooth, add a drop or two of vanilla flavoring, fill the glass with milk and shake it with an ordinary tin shaker." Another way to increase the enjoyment of milk is to use it in making desserts. Condensed milk makes a delicious, smooth custard.

Sugar is Nature's ideal flavor. "Help make children drink milk," says an eminent food scientist, "by adding chocolate and sugar." The Sugar Institute. (Adv.)

Italian Cities And Their Art Studied By Junior Travel

Italy was the subject of the day's study under the leadership of Mrs. O. T. Alles and the topics discussed suggested the verse at the head of their program: "The Blue Sky of Italy, the Blue Sky of Rome, Sunlight Pouring White and Clear From the Wide Stretched Sky."

Roll call was answered with current events and directly after Mrs. F. T. Datson, using a map of Italy, pointed out the way through the southern part of that country, telling of the most interesting cities and historical features.

Mrs. Alles made a splendid talk on the art galleries of Italy, illustrating the talk with prints loaned the club by W. P. Killingsworth of the Decorator's company. The prints, with Mrs. Alles' interpretation of their values, were said to have made an unusually interesting subject.

Members present were Mesdames O. T. Alles, W. H. Caldwell, F. T. Datson, E. A. Deaton, Grover C. Johnson, R. O. Kenley Jr., Thelbert Martin, W. A. McCarty, J. A. McFall, W. J. Morgareidge, C. C. Myers, I. R. Sheldon, Wayne Somerville, G. K. Wilson, O. W. Wilson, D. O. Johnson and John Humphrey.

Mrs. John Coolidge Gives Views on Married Life

By HELEN SHALET
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—Marriage? "Why it is the most natural thing in the world to me?"

Florence Trumbull Coolidge, who occupies the unique position of America's most prominent young wife, said this today. She answered the age-old question concerning the age-old institution promptly.

Editor's Note—The recently married Mrs. John Coolidge, whose ideas of marriage and of housekeeping problems have become of interest to the entire nation, has just given Universal Service and the The Record News an intimate, extended interview.

In it she expounds with charming frankness her views on matrimony, housekeeping and the servant problem. The Universal Service will present this interview in a series of three articles. The first is Mrs. Coolidge's ideas on marriage.

What is all the shouting about? Why create a problem out of the simplest and most natural thing in a young girl's life? Mrs. Coolidge wants to know.

Chatting on her views on marriage in her New Haven apartment here, Mrs. Coolidge said:

"I've always felt that marriage was the most genuine thing in life—even when I was in college. Of course there are a lot of people who won't agree with me, but personally that is the way I have always felt."

When it was pointed out to Mrs. Coolidge that this was a mature view for a young college girl in the era of free love and companionate marriage, she readily assented. She said:

"I know it is. It is entirely due to my bringing up. My mother is wonderful. She taught my sister, Jean, and myself these views on marriage. She advised us to marry, but she also advised us to marry when older so that we would know our own mind. Marriages of 18 or 19, she does not approve, but she does approve of marriage around 23 or 24. I was 24 when I married."

The mother to whom her daughter pays such charming tribute is hostess at the dignified executive mansion at Plainville, Conn.

Mrs. Coolidge gave up her beautiful home for her modest $78 a month apartment with John Coolidge.

Despite the material aspects of luxury, Gov. John H. Trumbull's two pretty daughters were reared in true New England manner.

Mrs. Coolidge has definite theories concerning a wife's duty to her husband. Firstly, she believes a wife should be a partner. She cannot possibly be a pal unless she meets her husband on common intellectual ground, hence education is important. Mrs. Coolidge explained her theory:

"People think it is silly to go to college just to learn housekeeping. I think it is a great help in marriage because it broadens one's outlook.

"I think that a wife must be equal in education with her husband so that they may have many interests in common. Get as much education as possible."

Mrs. Coolidge does not necessarily mean that a wife must have a knowledge of her husband's work, but she should have a knowledge of his hobbies, likes and dislikes. Mrs. Coolidge said, without regret:

"I don't know a thing about the railroad business."

John Coolidge is employed as a clerk with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. She continued:

Some women are really a big help in a man's work. I am in sympathy with John's work although I do not understand it. He tells me things that interest him in his work and what ever interests him interests me."

Always smartly dressed and with her auburn hair in meticulous order, Mrs. Coolidge does not, however, put personal appearance first. A husband is more interested in sitting down to dinner with his wife when he returns from work instead of waiting while she primps, Mrs. Coolidge contends.

The young Coolidges meet on common intellectual ground. Mrs. Coolidge was graduated from Mount Holyoke college. John Coolidge is a graduate of Amherst college.

They are also fond of the same sport, tennis. They are also fond of long tramps through the woods. These autumn days they are often seen walking in the countryside, scuffing the brown leaves as they go.

Program of Much Interest Given By Reader's Club

Miss Katherine Sue Ralston was welcomed into the club as a new member and winners of a contest were announced at the meeting of the Reader's club at the home of Mrs. E. L. Fulton, 1400 Polk street, Wednesday.

Mrs. Cecil Putty led the lesson and Mrs. Harry Myers gave two readings from T. A. Daly in dialect. Winners in a contest for presenting clippings of the best serious and humorous articles or plays were announced as follows by Mrs. John Thomas, chairman: Mrs. J. S. Crumpler, humorous, and Mrs. C. H. Reid, serious.

Mrs. A. D. Duck gave a comedy sketch in costume and Miss Marguerite Fisher gave a group of readings from Joyce and Aline Kilmer.

Dresses Recovered From Houston Suspect

HOUSTON, Oct. 30. (UP)—Police here are trying to decide whether they have encountered one of the most nonchalant of burglary suspects in their experience, or merely the dumbest.

The person about whom the question arises was arrested while trying to sell some dresses, which were later identified as being part of the loot taken in a recent robbery of a clothing store.

Two men had been arrested earlier in connection with the robbery and dresses worth about $250 were recovered.

Every Soldier's Grave In France Has Rosebush

PARIS, Oct. 30. (INS)—A rosebush on the grave of every soldier has transformed the military cemeteries in France into vast rose gardens.

At the foot of every wooden cross that marks the last resting place of a French war hero, a tiny rosebush grows today.

Youthful Styles Feature Hostess Day Luncheon

Outstanding among the many hostess days at the Woman's Forum clubhouse was that of Wednesday, when Mangel's store presented a style show in a Halloween setting that had been arranged by Mrs. Grover C. Johnson.

The Bluebird orchestra began soft music as the guests went in to luncheon in a dining room where candle lights gleamed in yellow pumpkins and in fierce looking black cats with transparent eyes. Other lights were not turned on until the audience was seated.

Table decorations were in orange and black and favors were little orange nut cups filled with assorted candies.

A dais covered with the Halloween orange shade was arranged just outside the stage curtains. As the delicious luncheon was served, youthful models stepped up on it and down the front step to exhibit lovely street, sports and afternoon gowns, and finally the most intriguing robes, pajamas and dance sets.

Models were Misses Marguerite Sheldon, Kathleen Cason, Camille Avis, Jewel Rose Akin, Maurine Ulmer, Fay Guthrie and Juel Ward. The lovely frocks they wore from Mangel's store attracted much attention and slippers from the Cinderella Boot shop completed the ensembles.

Ernest Reeves, a former minstrel with the Al G. Fields company, sang two splendid numbers over radio and from the stage, and Miss Virginia Green, of the Knickerbocker studio, gave a graceful Oriental dance.

Mrs. Gertrude Green announced each number over radio.

Hostesses with Mrs. Grover C. Johnson, were Mesdames John M. Martin, O. B. Albritton and Edgar Ratcliff. Much of the success of the plans was said to be due to their work.

Among those present were Mrs. R. E. Nossett and Miss Maud Nored, honoring their sister, Mrs. R. E. Stevens of Memphis, Tenn., with a party of 12, including Mesdames C. P. Burton, W. M. Moore, C. D. Boller, T. M. Conrey, J. T. Brooks, Fred Gates, Eddilee Fitzhugh, Hubert Harrison and J. C. Mytinger; Mrs. Chester Wynne and party, Mesdames Overton Abernathy, Jones of Waxahachie, W. T. Why Fat
WHEN SO MANY FIND IT EASY TO REDUCE

All can see everywhere that countless people have found the right way to fight fat. Slender figures now prevail. Excess fat has largely disappeared. Mark the people you know who in late years have gained new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, by combating fat.

One great reason lies in the discovery that most fat people have an under-active gland. Its failure to control nutrition permits too much food to form fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, combat that cause.

Their method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. People have used Marmola for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. And the results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

Why retain your excess fat when so many have ended theirs? Go try their method—try it now. Get Marmola, read the book in the box. Take four tablets daily, as directed, and watch the changes that occur. Do this in justice to yourself, to please your family and friends. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Middle-Aged Wife Told How to Keep Husband at Home

How Can the Middle-Aged Wife Keep Her Husband, Who Is Fed Up on Domesticity? Folly of Believing in Cocktail Love.

Dear Miss Dix—My niece is married to a business man who is in his 40s. She has been a devoted wife and mother, a good housekeeper, amiable and pleasant and considerate of her husband's tastes and wishes and she has stood by him through some very lean times, although they are prosperous now. Even her husband finds no fault with her except that she is "so darned respectable." But, anyway, he is tired of her and wants to travel around the world and be free instead of being hampered with a wife. Therefore, he is planning to rid himself of his wife when their one child will be through college. He has established a trust fund for this boy, but frankly says that he intends to give his wife only $2,000, and he has fixed the balance of his property so she cannot get any more.

Now my niece hasn't the slightest suspicion of her husband's intentions toward her, and I am troubled about whether I should tell her about what I have found out or not. By the time he proposes to leave her she will be a woman of 50, and it isn't easy for a woman of 50 to change her way of living. What should I do in the circumstances?—AUNT BETTY.

Answer—If your niece's husband is going to take several years to think over his plan of abandoning a wife against whom he has no real cause of complaint, the chances are that he will never do it. The idea of being free and untrammeled and able to wander the wide world over without any wife hanging on to his coattails is just a sort of castle in Spain that many a man builds in his day dreams without ever trying to live in it. It is just like the camping party or the fishing trip he is always going to take next summer that he talks about and plans for all winter, but somehow he never gets off on it. But he has a lot of fun in thinking he is going to do so.

When men get along in the late 40s and the early 50s they reach a restless age when everything they have been doing suddenly palls upon them and they have a morbid craving for change. Their business or profession becomes distasteful to them and they feel that they cannot try another law case or see another patient or sell another bill of groceries. It seems to them that it would be heaven just to have nothing to do, and so if they can afford it they retire and die of boredom in a few years.

And more than all does domesticity get upon a man's nerves at this age. For the moment its monotony seems unendurable to him. No matter how perfect a woman he is married to, she is the same old wife he has had for twenty-five or thirty years and he is tired of looking at her, tired of listening to her talk, tired of coming home every night even to the same good dinner, tired of having to consider the children, tired of everything appertaining to and concerning matrimony.

What he wants, or thinks he wants, is a wild life of gay adventure. He wants painted women instead of a respectable matron. He wants wild parties instead of quiet evenings by the fireside. He wants to be a laughing, irresponsible boy again, and he thinks that if he could just get rid of his wife he would be a joyous lad once more without a worry in the world. Very often while this mood is upon him he tries it, but he finds that divorce doesn't set back the hands of the clock nor restore to him his lost youth. He is still 45 or 50 and not 20. He can't go the pace with the youngsters.

He finds out to his dismay that he doesn't look the romantic hero that he thought he would to the girls and that they regard him merely as a sugar papa instead of a sheik and that he has to pay for all the kisses he gets. And he wearies of restaurants and longs for meals that he doesn't have to order, and he wants somebody to be worried over his rheumatism instead of laughing at him for it.

Evidently your nephew is crossing over this bridge between the 40s and the 60s that most men pass over. It is a dangerous place and one where their feet are mighty apt to slip, but once they negotiate it safely they are ready to settle down thankfully enough and be home companions the balance of their lives.

The only way that wives can help at such a time is by keeping out of the way, and if every woman when she saw her husband was getting restless and bored and beginning to stay out at nights would go away and take a year's vacation, it would save many a divorce.

For when a man begins to wander ninety-nine times out of a hundred it is just because he is fed up on domesticity. He wants to feel free and to do what he wants to do without having to furnish an alibi. The lure of the other woman is that he isn't tied to her apron string. So, if wife would go away and let him find out that home means something besides a jail and that lady loves are just as hard to get along with as wives and quite as tiresome and that running around hunting amusement of an evening can get to be more monotonous than going home, why he would be glad enough to come back again.

So I think, Aunt Betty, I would tell my niece of the danger that threatens her and advise her to talk the matter over with her husband and offer him a year's respite from matrimony. Very likely he would jump at it and still more likely he will be glad to come back to a wife who has helped him make his money and who is so "darned respectable" after he has tried the others who will show him how fast they can spend his money and who are not hampered with respectability.

At any rate if your niece's husband has it in his mind to abandon his wife she should know it as soon as possible so that she may begin to prepare herself for it and at least acquire some trade by which she can support herself if he throws her out without a living.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl desperately in love with a young man and I don't know whether he loves me or not. He drinks some but not excessively and when he has had two or three drinks he makes ardent love to me and tells me that he loves me better than life itself and that he wants me to marry him and that if I don't he will never marry any one and that we are made for each other and that nothing but death can separate us. But when he is sober he doesn't make love. He is just nice and polite and never says a thing about marrying me. Do you think this boy loves me or not?—M. M. V.

Answer—Of course he doesn't love you and you are foolish to waste another thought on him. It is the liquor that speaks, and not his heart. Drink affects men differently. Some men it makes amorous. They make love to any woman who happens to be near them. They swear undying friendship to a perfect stranger over their fourth cocktail. Other men it makes belligerent. They beat up their wives and little children and pick a fight with everybody who comes in contact with them.

Put no faith in the old saying that in wine there is truth and that when a man is drunk he expresses his real sentiments. What a drunken man says are the maunderings of a man who has temporarily taken leave of his senses. Never believe a man loves you unless he tells you so when he is cold sober. The only love that lasts is that which is backed up by a man's reason and judgment and good, hard sense.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.
As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.
Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

Justice Is Not Blind!
AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED
Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts.

"toasting did it"—
Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"
No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

IT DIDN'T BUDGE A RIVET

Daily Editorial

SEVEN billion dollars' worth of air castles and unhatched eggs disappeared from view between Thursday and Friday of last week.

But all the country's skyscrapers, department stores and industrial plants are still standing.

Sound finance had so long anticipated the inevitable, that prosperity escaped without a budged rivet or foundation-tremble when the bubble burst.

Speculators in unearned increments were wiped out by myriads—but their money wasn't.

Jamming the situation into a nutshell, the wisacres who knew better than Federal Reserve warnings or balance sheet facts, and regardlessly margined faiths and fortunes on an indefinite bull movement, paid the entire piper's bill. Lambs were created to yield their fleece.

There is no crisis—not the remotest possibility of a panic.

The bears simply have what the bulls couldn't hold. Vanished paper profits were just so much rainbow-gold; they never existed.

The assets behind each corporation listed on the stock exchange are intrinsically the same this morning as they were a week ago.

Nothing has meanwhile happened to affect company prospects or earning power.

Factories are running as usual, motor plants turning out scheduled quotas of cars, grocers placing normal orders for case goods, and the consumption of gasoline, branded merchandise, drugs, cigarets, electrical equipment, chemicals and steel products isn't even aware of Wall street's existence.

Our working capital is intact and business is taking discounts on the half.

THE nation's cash supply hasn't diminished by a penny; it's all here, only in different pockets.

Security values have depreciated, but the tangible property upon which investment bases valuations, hasn't shrunk or deteriorated an iota.

The actual worth of stocks has no relation to speculative opinion.

Those who have been gambling on their rise and fall, in utter disregard of directors' reports and budget set-ups, are no better than crap shooters trusting to sheer luck for the winning pass.

Reckless optimism, blind to dividend rates, technical analyses and accountants' figures, might as well try to beat the percentages of horse racing or of roulette.

The odds of Wall street are all in favor of the seasoned observer, the millionaire and the professional trader.

Inexperience and limited means can't survive against the highly organized student of economic drifts, or against inside information and board control.

The money masters never gamble; they don't have to. They wait for certainties—or rig them. And they don't signal their curves to the public.

Wall street is a career, not a sideline. Clerks, stenographers, widows and small merchants aren't competent or qualified to thrive there.

David's was the only sling-shot of record that ever felled a Goliah. And he never tried it a second time.

"They" took Tom Lawson and "they" took Dan Sully; "they" took General Motors from Durant as "they'll" take the measure of Jesse Livermore again, when he becomes a cross-purposing factor.

Buy outright and buy under qualified guidance. Most of the fools who didn't are wondering how they will meet the next rent or mortgage payment.

Today in Texas History

OCTOBER 31

1685—La Salle left Fort St. Louis on the Lavaca on his first attempt to find again the Mississippi which he had missed by sailing too far west.

1874—Seventeen state bonds were sold in Austin.

1917—George W. Littlefield of Austin elected president of Terry Texas Rangers.

A youth lost his hearing and sued for $13,000. With the benefits of not being able to hear the radio next door or the talkies, you'd think he'd be more grateful than that.

John J. Raskob says it is the duty of everyone to become rich. Mr. Raskob himself has gone about his responsibilities in a very conscientious way.

It's strange how many children become deaf when the leaves begin to fall.

Some men are flatterers. Others are husbands.

Shadows

PREJUDICES whose indelible impressions are stamped on the minds of children by what they hear from their elders of past wars were pointedly illustrated by a certain youngster's reaction to "March Slav," played Tuesday afternoon at the Memorial auditorium here by the United States army band before several hundred school children.

Having been given a brief explanation of the composition, to the effect that it was written 50 years ago for a soldiers' benefit concert given during the Serbian-Turkish war, the child vehemently replied, "Yes, but the money was not to be for the Turkey soldiers; it was for the good soldiers." Without knowing where or what Turkey may be, without having read a line of history, the child of seven years nevertheless has received a definite and antagonistic impression of that Asiatic people solely through the adult conversation which he has heard.

The incident suggests poignantly the tremendous gap which separates prevalent attitudes toward other races and that disposition which must of necessity underlie any fair measure of international peace. The remembrance of war operates as a gigantic parasite—choking out all recognition of whatever friendship and mutual progress might have marked times of peace.

A generation whose children have learned hatred for unseen peoples before they have learned the alphabet has far to go before it can lay the foundation of world peace.

When Cheapness Is Expensive

CARELESS and cheap construction is a pretty costly proposition. An article in the current issue of the American Architect points out that fire losses due to that kind of shoddy work in American buildings run around $76,000,000 a year.

"Defective chimneys and flues, stoves, furnaces, boilers and pipes cause about 10 per cent of the total yearly fire loss," says the magazine. "Carelessness in handling electricity caused a loss of about three per cent of the total. Much of this was due to improper wiring and overloading of circuits."

The jerry-builder is a nuisance in more ways than one. The houses he puts up are usually eye-sores, and are invariably less comfortable and snug than the home-owner has a right to expect. Now comes this evidence that this type of constructor is directly responsible for an enormous yearly fire loss.

Cheap construction is the most expensive kind. If you are buying or building a home, you'll find that real economy will consist in demanding, and paying for, the best kind of construction work.

A Commission Acts Firmly

STATE public utilities departments do, occasionally, act with considerable firmness and decision, notwithstanding the criticisms with which they are constantly being showered.

The Massachusetts department the other day unanimously denied the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston permission to split its stock in four by changing the par value from $100 to $25. In making this decision, the department asserted that the company's financial policy has made little provision for surplus or depreciation, and added, "the company ought not to increase its dividends until it was able to sell electricity in its territory at rates comparable with those of the municipal plants, which are about one-half of the Edison rates."

This reminds us, somehow, of that remark made by a public utilities press agent during the recent "power trust" investigation. He said, you know, that the best propaganda a public utility could issue would be a rate reduction.

Two Wichitans and East and West

WITH W. B. Hamilton as president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Hubert Harrison as general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, most cordial relations between these two regional organizations can be expected.

We do not know that there has ever been discord between the two organizations, but when men who have lived together in the same town for years and who have worked together as have Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Harrison in the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, are placed in positions of such responsibility and leadership as they have been respectively in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, we can expect to see them joining forces in every movement for the good of the whole state.

And Wichita Falls will certainly feel a closer relationship with these two bodies through its association with these two men.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy is the "easy" type of girl who is continually imposed upon. Young and pretty, she dreams of a future as an artist, saving from her earnings by painting cards and working in her father's bookstore. But, as her selfish, flapper sisters, Alice and Jeanie, borrow her dresses for their own ends, so her brother, Howard, borrows her savings. The art course plan is shelved when Ann Marie uses the money in extricating Howard from an entangling alliance with Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Even her mother's pendant is pawned to pay Howard's fare to the West, when he loses his bank job. Neal Forsythe, dashing Don Juan, visiting the wealthy Lawiers, wins Ann Marie's heart. Mrs. Lawier forbids her son to further accompany the Macy girls, calling them "night-time friends." Alice evens accounts by getting herself engaged to John Lawier. To celebrate, Johnny, Alice, Ann Marie, Neal, Jeanie and Brooks have a party at a roadhouse. Neal proposes to Ann Marie. Ann Marie goes on a Dutch-treat party with Neal, who forgets to return her change. Instead he steals a coffee pot for her from the roadhouse. He returns to New York and Ann Marie begins to save to join him there. Late at night she is aroused by a noise outside her door. It is Howard, her brother, who has returned with a wife.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXVI

With only $207 to her name and no job in sight, Ann Marie made her plans to leave home the next day.

That night, when everybody was asleep, she took all her soiled clothing down to the basement, washed it and hung it up to dry.

Then she went back to her own room and sat up in bed until 2 o'clock, mending her stockings and sewing up little torn places in her few dresses.

After that, feeling that she had made a good start, she turned out her light and lay down.

But she couldn't sleep . . . She was too full of excitement and the sense of change and action.

She sat up in bed again and snapped on the light in her bedside lamp. It showed her the peaceful white walls and the old familiar friendly-looking furniture of the room that had been a safe harbor as well as work-room to her for so many years. There was her old doll's trunk, standing just inside the closet door where it had stood ever since she could remember. She kept the shoes in it now, out of the dust.

It was going to be hard to say good-by to this room, to this house, to this town, where all of the people that she loved were. No, not all of the people she loves. She was going to the one that she loved best of all, she told herself. Going to Neal, who needed her.

From down the hall came the sound of her father groaning in his sleep. He was always restless at night, as if he were having nightmares over the troubles of the day.

"Poor little Dad—He'll miss me," she thought unhappily. "He won't want me to go, but I'll just have to stand up against him this time. I won't let anything keep me from going to Neal."

But she had the surprise of her life the next morning.

For neither Mr. Macy nor any one else tried to stop her from going away.

She overslept, and when she came down stairs the family were all at breakfast—all but Alice, who was still beauty-sleeping.

Ann Marie knew they had been talking about her. She knew by the sudden silence among them when she walked into the room.

She sat down beside Stella and picked up her glass of grapefruit juice.

"I told them you're going," Stella said to her in a quick aside. "I just finished telling them.

Ann Marie looked at her father. "Stella told you I'm going?" she asked him, and before he could answer she went on:

"I thought I might as well take the plunge now as any other time. I never will have enough money to keep me going really, so I'll just have to start out without enough and see what happens."

He nodded at her in his mild way.

"I wouldn't have wanted you to go six weeks ago," he said, patting his lips with his napkin, "but now that Howdy's helping me in the store I can get along—when do you think you'll go?"

"Today," said Ann Marie, surprised and hurt because he did not seem to mind her going.

"Today?" asked Jeanie, in amusement. "Isn't that pretty sudden?"

Mrs. Leezy's lip curled with sarcasm. "I've known she was going ever since yesterday, after she got that telephone call from New York," she said. "And I'll bet if she was a daughter of mine she wouldn't go chasin' after some fellow, like she is. That's what's takin' her to New York, if you all want her to know."

She rapped smartly on the table with her knuckles.

"You ought to have more pride about you, Ann Marie, than to go racing off after a man, when he calls you up to try to get rid of you."

Ann Marie stared at her. She knew then that she had been thinking the very thing all along that Mrs. Leezy had just put into sharp biting words—that Neal was trying to get rid of her. She had been half afraid that that was what he was doing ever since his telephone call of yesterday.

"I don't want my coffee, thanks," she said, when Mrs. Leezy handed her a steaming cup.

She set it down, got up from the table and hurried upstairs to pack her trunk.

Jeanie followed her, carrying her own half-empty cup.

"You're going to take all your clothes with you?" she asked, sitting on the edge of Ann Marie's bed. "Do you think you'll have any use for that yellow dress in New York? I don't believe you will."

She fingered the soft folds of Ann Marie's only dancing dress longingly. She had always wanted that yellow dress.

Ann Marie looked at her. "I may as well give it to her," she thought. "Neal and I won't have any money to go out in the evening in New York, and she's always been crazy about that dress—"

"You may have it, if you want it, Jeanie," she said, moved by that too-generous impulse of hers.

"Thanks," said Jeanie, and laid it down on the bed beside her. "If there's anything else you don't want, you know what to do with it."

She waited to see what else there was going to be for her.

"Listen, I hope you aren't going up to New York on account of Neal Forsythe," she said. "It doesn't do to throw yourself at a man's head, you know."

Ann Marie turned upon her furiously. "You did it with Brooky," she cried. "And Alice! I suppose she didn't throw herself at Johnny Lawier's head! Oh, no! And if I want to do it I'm going to do it, too.

"Well, you don't need to bite my head off," said Jeanie, with a laugh. "Look here, Ann Marie, you never wear those blue beads, and they'd suit. I wish you'd give them to me."

Ann Marie threw them to her. She loved the beads. They were the color of the deep blue sea at dusk, and she had worn them only on state occasions, because she was afraid of losing or breaking them.

She didn't want to give them away. But what could she do when Jeanie asked her for them in that out-and-out way of hers?

She got into New York late in the afternoon, when the slanting sunlight was gilding the tall gray buildings with magic.

Behind the windows of the florists' shops along Fifth Avenue the springtime seemed to be imprisoned. Sprays of lilac blossomed there. Long sprays of yellow mimosa and acacia. Great pots of tulips, like little globes of light. Great bunches of white and purple violets.

On a corner stood a man selling flowers from a tray that was swung about his shoulders.

"Stop," called Ann Marie to the taxi-driver, who was taking her, bag and baggage, down to the neighborhood where Neal lived.

She jumped out of the cab and bought a dozen daffodils.

And with them in her hands she got back into her seat and started off for Perry stret and Neal, once more.

She pinned one of the fluttering yellow flowers to the lapel of her old black coat with its shiny seams. "There, now I won't look so shabby," she thought.

But if her clothes were shabby, everything else about her was radiant and perfect. Above the coat's worn velvet collar her neck was smooth and white, her eyes were clear and blue and steady, and her cheeks were as smooth and warm and rosy as a peach ripened in the sun.

She looked at the people on the sidewalks. They seemed to be well-dressed and well-fed, all of them. New York had not refused them a living.

"And I shall get along, too," thought Ann Marie, as the cab turned into Perry street.

Susquehanna hall, where Neal lived, was a tall narrow building set with great leaded-glass studio windows.

On the front of it, beside the door, was a sign, with "STUDIO" painted on it.

As Ann Marie stood looking at it, there was a crash on the sidewalk behind her.

The taxi-driver had set her trunk down with a bang. He was reaching into the cab for her hat-box and two suit-cases.

"Take 'em inside for you, lady?" he asked.

Until that moment Ann Marie hadn't stopped to think about a place to live. At the back of her mind there had been only a vague idea that she must be as close to Neal as possible.

Now that vague idea elbowed its way to the front of her brain.

"Yes, bring them in and set them in the vestibule," she said to the man.

"I'll live here on this street somewhere," she made up her mind, "if I have to take a basement room."

She had come all the way to be near Neal, and near him she was going to be if it took every penny she owned and every penny she would own in the future, by Jiminy!"

She rang his bell, and after a moment the lock on the vestibule door made a clicking sound.

She opened it and went into a dark hall-way.

Neal's apartment was number two, and she knew that it was on the top floor of the building.

There were five stories, and Ann Marie's legs ached by the time she reached the top. There was his door with his card tacked upon it. With her heart beating madly Ann Marie knocked.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Underemphasizing the Football News

(The Carnegie foundation in its recent report on football evils cites overemphasis by newspapers as among them and urges that papers show more moderation).

New Haven.—It was announced by the Yale faculty here late today that the annual meeting of the Yale and Army football elevens had been held recently at the Yale bowl. Routine matters were taken up, the announcement said, and action of importance to the general public taken. No statement as to the score was obtained.

Cambridge.—President Lowell of Harvard wishes to announce that the 1929 encounter between Yale and Harvard will be held as usual this year. No date was specified, however, the idea being to make it more or less of a surprise. Requests for a probable lineup were politely declined. "I don't think either college has given any thought to selecting an eleven as yet," said President Lowell. "At the last moment the faculties will simply send in their best scholars."

Princeton, N. J.—It is reliably reported here that the Yale-Princeton football game will be played this year at New Haven. No confirmation was forthcoming, however, and the faculty refused to discuss the matter. Local newspaper correspondents said they had been unable to pin anybody down to a definite yes or no.

The names of the players on the Princeton squad have never been released and efforts to locate anybody who had seen the squad practicing were in vain.

Notre Dame.—Mr. Knute Rockne wishes to announce that he has a terrible eleven this season and will make no effort to improve it.

"Football isn't everything," said Mr. Rockne.

New York.—The following announcement was sent out by Dean Hawkes of Columbia today:

"No photographers will be allowed on the field during any football games or workouts by the Columbia football squad. It is the desire of the athletes to keep their pictures out of the newspapers, and the Columbia faculty feels that they should be assisted in this aim. It is also requested that all pictures of the coaches and trainers now held in newspaper offices be burned."

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—The state game, fish and oyster commission today authorized Will J. Tucker, executive secretary, to purchase four additional boats for coastal patrol work. The boats will cost approximately $4,000.

$50,000 FURNITURE STOCK TO GO AT COST!

BOLTON'S Statement

At a recent meeting of our stockholders, we decided to dissolve business as a corporation. In making this change from a corporation to partnership or independent ownership, M. D. Bolton and C. A. Bolton will become sole owners of The Bolton Furniture Co.

Now in order to make this change of ownership it becomes necessary for us to close out our entire stock of merchandise for cash, and to do this, we realize we must take a loss and sell our merchandise near and below the actual wholesale cost. But we have made money in Wichita Falls, and we are now willing to take a loss in order to make this change.

We appreciate the business that you have given us and we trust that in making this change from a Corporation and Credit Firm to an Independent and Cash Business, that we will continue to merit your confidence and business relations.

Following are our reasons why we believe a cash furniture store can be made a success:

First—The American Public is paying too much for the Service of Credit.

Second—Credit belongs to and should be the problem of the Banks and not of the Retailer.

Third—The largest and most successful Retail establishments in the country today sell for cash only.

Fourth—The difference in the cash and credit price of Furniture is great enough to pay anyone to save or borrow the money and pay cash for their Furniture.

Fifth—We have the courage to be the pioneers in undertaking this change in Furniture Merchandising.

Respectfully,

C. A. BOLTON,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—President Hoover tonight virtually capitulated to the Democratic-Insurgent coalition in the senate, repudiated old guard tactics to kill the tariff bill and prepared to accept the bill the alliance will write rather than admit the legislative impotency of a Republican congress.

The president, it was said, insisted upon the enactment of a tariff bill, at the special session if possible, at a secret conference at the White House late this evening. He was aroused by threats of the regular Republicans to kill the bill because the coalition had gained control and was ripping exorbitant industrial rates from the bill.

Senators Summoned

Confronted by a desperate political situation, the president summoned Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, and Claudius H. Huston, newly elected chairman of the Republican national committee, to the White House.

The senators entered the White House from the east front, in order to avoid newspaper reporters at the executive offices on the west front. After nearly an hour in conference, the senators left by the same entrance.

The president, it is understood, was stirred by the prospect of a Republican congress failing to translate his campaign pledge for a tariff bill to aid agriculture and lagging industries into legislation. He was apprised of the situation in the senate and given to understand that he must accept the bill that will be written by the coalition, or have no tariff bill whatsoever.

Opposes Debenture

Mr. Hoover has announced his opposition to the debenture plan written into the bill by the coalition. He will veto any bill containing it. But he was told that the provision was included for "trading" purposes with the house when the bill goes to conference.

What a majority of the coalition wants is the elimination of the flexible feature, giving the president the power to raise or lower tariff rates. The Progressive Republicans, such as Senator Borah, of Idaho, want the debenture with all their hearts. But the Democrats would be willing to recede on the debenture to strip the president of the flexible powers.

While it was indicated that the president was anxious to retain his authority under the flexible feature, he might be willing to accept the senate amendment rather than permit the tariff bill to fail. Following the conference, Senator Watson said:

"There must be a tariff bill. That has been my position from the outset. I am not ready to say that the senate is impotent and unable to legislate.

Hoover Insistent

"We discussed the tariff situation thoroughly with the president. The president insisted that there must be a bill. We will go ahead with the rates and fight it out in conference witht the house."

At the same time, the president was told that Watson's physician had advised him to take a complete rest in Florida and that he will be gone for at least three weeks. In the meanwhile, Senator Jones, of Washington, assistant leader, will function in Watson's place, with McNary as his chief lieutenant.

McNary is suave and popular with all factions in the senate. He is given great credit by President Hoover for the masterly way in which he handled the difficult situation when the farm relief bill was before the senate.

The situation regarding the tariff bill in the senate can be reduced to this: Regular Republicans, such as Reed of Pennsylvania, Edge of New Jersey and Moses of New Hampshire, who see the bill given a black eye by the Bingham-Eyanson incident and the testimony of Joseph R. Grundy, are ready to kill the bill, if they can, because they will not get the industrial rates desired.

Progressives Determined

The Progressives, led by Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Norris of Nebraska, are determined to have a bill in accordance with the campaign promises of the president and his recommendation to congress—for agriculture and "lagging industries."

The Democrats are willing to go along with the Progressives to write such a bill. While the responsibility for the legislation is upon the Republican party, the Democrats have been willing to go along. But if the Republican regulars wish to throw up their hands and quit with the bill in the middle of the road, the Democrats will vote for an adjournment such as some of the Republican regulars are suggesting now.

W. B. Hamilton Paid Tribute At Banquet Attended by Leaders

West Texas chamber. Fort Worth is one of our greatest challengers for the leading position in this trade territory. Mr. Hamilton comes to office under numerous difficulties, mainly that of sectionalism. There is Amarillo's desire to re-establish the old Plains Chamber of Commerce, the unrest at San Angelo and the differences at other points. The job is going to require every ounce of Mr. Hamilton's physical and mental ability for the next several months. He is to be highly commended for the sacrifice to his own interests to the possibility of doing good for the organization."

A meeting of the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been called for Nov. 9 at Stamford, it was announced Wednesday by W. B. Hamilton, recently elected president of the organization. The meeting will mark the first actual business of the chamber under its new leader and will lay the foundations for the work of the next several months, it was said.

Hubert Harrison, who was recently selected to occupy the position of manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and who is leaving Wichita Falls Thursday to take up that office, was the second speaker on the program.

"Mr. Hamilton's character in this community has reached high into the realms of citizenship," he said. "A tribute to him is a tribute to citizenship. It delighted me to hear that the West Texas chamber had selected a man of such vision.

"I hope to bring about, with his help, a closer interest and regional cooperation between East and West Texas chambers for the good of this great territory. And I believe that human resources are above those of the ground in such development. This occasion is one of great sadness to me, on the eve of my leaving the friends and associates who have aided and worked with me for the past 10 years. I pledge a close cooperation between the two chambers of commerce on all matters of general interest to the realm."

Following his talk, Mr. Harrison left the banquet to make preparations for leaving Thursday morning. Miss Dorothy Greathouse entertained the assembly with two vocal numbers, dedicated to Mr. Hamilton. Toastmaster Hines next introduced Frank Kell as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and as a man who has taken great interest in the development of West Texas.

"The board of directors of the West Texas chamber exercised wonderful judgment when they selected W. B. Hamilton for their highest position," Mr. Kell said. "In the selection of Mr. Hamilton the business life of Wichita Falls has been recognized more than ever before.

Tribute to Parents

"I can't think of a more obscure community than that from which Mr. Hamilton came. Most of you know nothing of his early life or influences, but I have had the pleasure of knowing both his community and his father and mother. It is my opinion that his home life in that obscure locality, the influences of his father and mother, have made of him the man that he is today. In his recent election, he has reached probably the highest emergence from obscurity of the community in which he originated.

"I do not agree that we should have East and West and South and North Texas Chambers of Commerce. We have the field and we have the opportunity to organize a Texas Chamber of Commerce, one organization for our great territory. Contentions between the East and West Texas chambers I do not recognize. My experience on the board of directors of the United States chamber has demonstrated to me that a whole can be harmonious. I have often told officials of the chambers of commerce that contentions between districts are due to poor operating machinery. I hope and believe that W. B. Hamilton can begin the remaking of the machinery which will unify all the chambers into one cooperating chamber, working for the good of a territory which needs the support of all its parts for the proper development of the whole.

"The field of usefulness is in organizing the whole state, not in favoring Vernon or Fort Worth or any other town. When Mr. Hamilton has begun the machinery of the West Texas chamber, I feel that he can begin the unification and leave a work well begun in the hands of his successors."

Toastmaster Hines next called upon Mayor J. W. Akin, as a representative of the citizens of Wichita Falls.

"I feel rather out-of-place," Mayor Akin began, "to follow on the program one of the most entertaining speakers in the state, one of the most eloquent and then one whose every word gives all of us something to think about. It hardly seems right to call on a little mayor who has been shorn of all his power and left only his name by your charter. I feel, however, that I can offer the sincere congratulations of the entire citizenship to Mr. Hamilton on his election. I believe that no man more fitted for that high position could have been selected."

Mr. Hamilton himself was called upon for a response as the last speaker on the program.

Hamilton Responds

"I appreciate to the depths of my heart the honor that has been given me. One of the reasons I accepted this position was that it gave me an opportunity for service. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has passed the youthful 'hip-hip-hooray' stage and is now approaching a deeper significance in its work. I ask you all to give and pledge your support to the work that this section might cooperate in the development of Texas and of the entire Southwest.

"My accomplishments I owe to the influence of my father and mother, as Mr. Kell has said. My beginning I owe to the home life which they created for me. But you men have made me what I am today. You leaders have led me, have set my goal of ideals and whatever I seem to have become, I owe to the influence of the men of Wichita Falls and to their encouragement and aid in all the problems of life.

"I came here from East Texas. I retained ownership of a piece of land there where I intended someday to build my home. We debated, my wife and I, whether we should go back. But we couldn't go back. The love of the West had become too deeply ingrained on our hearts. I love the strong north wind and the strong south wind in my face. I love the feel of the West, the hearty openness of the West, the broad lovable friendship of the West. We remained.

"I do not agree with the idea of bringing the separate Texas chambers of commerce into a single organization. There is the question of cooperation between the chambers, to be sure, but there are also numerous instances wherein the various chambers have cooperated with each other on even better terms than the internal parts of one chamber have cooperated with one another.

"It may be best to maintain the separate divisions, not to build a fence around each other but to cooperate as organizations mainly interested in the development of their peculiar environments. We are cooperating.

"I feel to the utmost the responsibility placed upon me. I need your advice, your support, your sympathy, and I feel that I shall get it."

Assembly Pledges Support

Following his speech, a motion was made and passed by unanimous vote of the assembly pledging active and interested support and cooperation with any and every problem which might come before Mr. Hamilton during his tenure of office. Walter Nelson Jr., as president of the Junior chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls, was called upon to introduce the members of the board of directors of his organization.

"We wish to extend our congratulations to Mr. Hamilton," he said, "and to cooperate with him as individuals and as an organization in anything in which we might help."

The program was preceded by two vocal numbers given by R. E. Shepherd, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Shepherd. Those present were: W. B. Hamilton, Frank Kell, Ed Howard, R. E. Penick, W. D. Cline, A. H. Britain, B. D. Donnell, Hubert Harrison, Walter Nelson Jr., Harry Hines, Lamar Fain, Sam Spence, F. L. Adair, J. L. Maxwell, J. L. Randel, E. F. Bohmfalk, H. J. Bruce, William McCamey, Paul Hines, Frank Haley, J. W. Ryan, Luther Hoffman, Mayor J. W. Akin, James H. Allison, Alvin Gardner, Jerry Vinson, Grover Page, R. E. Huff, Rhea Howard, T. J. Waggoner Jr., Charlie Nolen, N. H. Martin, Dr. Q. B. Lee, J. T. Harrell and Grady Shipp.

LAWTON WATER SUPPLY PURE

County Wells and Cisterns Need Test, However

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 30.—Lawton's city water is 99.99 per cent pure, according to tests just completed by A. D. Bull, city sanitary officer.

Tests were made at the request of city officials following the installation of complete equipment of the laboratories. Samples of the water were taken from various poinst contributing to the city's water system. These points were hydrant taps at the city laboratory, the Indian Mission, Fort Sill, Post Field and samples of the water taken from the main four miles northwest of Fort Sill.

The actual test of all the samples of city water showed a total of eight bacteria to the cubic centimeter of water, which means that there is only a trace of foreign matter in the city water and that it is as pure as it is possible for water to be.

Results obtained by several tests of water from some of the wells and cisterns procured and brought to the laboratory from nearby farms give cause for alarm and farmers using well and cistern water are urged to have same tested without delay. Water tested from one well showed a total of 250 bacteria to the cubic centimeter, or 60 per cent of fermentation. At another place there are six members of the family ill and a test of the well water showed 40 per cent fermentation. It is unfit for drinking purposes.

Much of the illness in the country can be traced to impure water, Mr. Bull states. The water can be properly treated and purified. It is not believed farmers will need urging to bring a sample of their well water for testing.

LOREE CLINGS TO HIS PLANS

St. Louis Southwestern Still Under His Control

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—Charges that L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railway, and his associates have not abandoned the plan disapproved by the Interstate Commerce commission for a southwestern railroad unification are contained in a brief filed today with the commission opposing proposed extensions of the St. Louis Southwestern railway.

The brief was presented by Walter E. Meyer on behalf of himself and other stockholders of the St. Louis Southwestern.

It contends Loree still has "illegal control" of the St. Louis Southwestern and the proposal of the road to extend its lines in the St. Francis basin of Arkansas and obtain a direct route from St. Louis to Memphis was initiated in the interest of the Arkansas City Southern and not for the benefit of the applicant itself.

YEP, IT'S CRACKED! (Right) That's the bad news the repairman is telling this motorist. Play safe . . . use Denatured Alcohol, the most economical anti-freeze you can get.

5 If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with other preparations.
6 You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

STATE, CITY ELECTIONS HOT

Virginia and New York City Hold Spotlight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—This year of truce in national politics brings forth three state and municipal elections in which color and bitterness are compounded to attract nationwide attention.

Torn by a coalition revolt against the Democratic machine, Virginia marches in the front rank of the even dozen states holding elections next Tuesday. It alone of all the states elects a governor.

Holding place in the popular appeal with this contest is that in New York City where Republicans, Socialists and Square Dealers seek to bar the way to the reelection of the Democratic mayor, James J. Walker.

Boston supplies a mayoralty contest of three corners with James W. Curley seeking to return again to the stewardship of the Hub against the opposition of Frederick W. Mansfield, Good Government association candidate, and Daniel H. Coakley, an Independent.

There is a single congressional contest in the country, that in New York City to elect a successor to the late Representative Roy H. Weller. Joseph A. Cavagan, Democrat; Hubert T. Delany, Republican, and Frank Crosswaith, Socialist, are the candidates.

Besides Virginia, there will be state-wide elections in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio.

The situation in Virginia, where two college professors, John Garland Pollard, Democrat, and William Moseley Brown, candidate of anti-Smith Democrats and the Republicans, are contesting for the governorship, is without parallel in the state's history, in that there is an open coalition of Republicans and Democrats.

This coalition is an outgrowth of the revolt within the Democratic party against Alfred E. Smith in the last presidential campaign which resulted in Virginia going Republican for the first time since reconstruction days. A year ago, however, the Republican and anti-Smith Democratic organizations worked separately.

AGED PASTOR 'JOINS' ARMY

Rev. Everson Made Chief Of Militia Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (UP)—Pastor Emeritus William Graham Everson of the Muncie, Ind., First Baptist church is a major general now and smilingly admits he probably will be called a hypocrite, and worse, for leaving the pulpit to become chief of the militia bureau of the war department.

"A fellow wrote to me the other day that I would go to hell for this," Everson related. "Maybe he's right. If he is, I am sure I won't be travelling a lonesome road."

"If ever we have another war," he continued, "I think the churches will be to blame for it. The discord, friction and misunderstanding in the world ought to be the food for pretty careful thought. And it is the mission of the churches to remedy that situation.

Opportunity for Service

"Of course support of a war in great national emergencies is a legitimate activity for a preacher, but when a fellow loses his head he is sunk. A pulpit shouldn't be a hurrah station. I look at this duty as chief of the militia bureau as an opportunity for service. If I can play the game and command respect here I think I will do an indirect service to religion. Furthermore I am not apologizing because I am a preacher and I am going to continue to preach. I may be able to find some church somewhere that needs some help and I will be glad to give it."

Everson is a fighter. He was a private in the Spanish-American war and subsequently has held every enlisted grade and commissioned rank up to major general. During the war he was colonel of the 332nd infantry, 83rd division, and organized the American sector along the Piave battle front in Italy. He commanded American occupationary troops in Austria and the Balkans after the war. He was a national guard and reserve brigadier general when ordered to Washington.

When he offered his resignation to the church in Muncie, the congregation would have none of it and elected him pastor emeritus and his pride therein is considerable.

Everson has just taken his oath of office in succession to Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond whose four-year term as chief expired last summer.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. James F. Campbell, of 1012 W. Fifth St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I had bloating after eating. My rheumatism was so bad I could hardly raise my arms. Now I can eat anything and do a good day's work."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. Each Year More Mothers Treat Colds Externally

Dangers of "Dosing" Colds Now Avoided by Use of Vaporizing Ointment

When Vicks VapoRub was introduced, mothers especially were quick to appreciate it, because it is just rubbed on and cannot upset children's delicate stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do. Today the whole trend of modern medicine is away from needless "dosing."

External Treatment Best

As more and more mothers adopted this modern external way of treating colds, the fame of Vicks spread until it is now the standby for colds—adults' as well as children's—in over 60 countries.

Just rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster; and, at the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

Now "25" Million!

Ever-increasing demand for this better way of treating colds is shown in the figures of the familiar Vicks slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly"—later raised to "21 Million"—there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly" in the United States alone.

MORAN & MACK

"Why Bring That Up?"

Soliloquize on Firestone TIRES

MORAN:—
What you see so interesting over there?

MACK:—
I'se just looking at them "Most Miles for Your Dollar Tires."

MORAN:—
Now, boy, what you talking about, them tires can't give no miles for dollars.

MACK:—
What you talking about, don't you know that them tires are known the world over for giving the more miles for the dollar than any other?

MORAN:—
What tires?

MACK:—
Now, "Why Bring That Up?" I mean them tires right there—them that's got that name Firestone on them.

MORAN:—
Well, what's that got to do with miles and dollars?

MACK:—
Listen—don't tell me you're that dumb. Don't you know that Firestone and Tires are the two outstanding words in Wichita Falls motorists' heads. Every time they think of tires, they think of Firestone—F-I-R-E-S-T-O-N-E.

MORAN:—
And why?

MACK:—
First, because they know they get the most miles for their dollar, and second, 'cause they know that when it comes to service this young man R. S. Smith, who runs that Firestone Tire Store and Master Service Station over here on Ninth and Travis, knows just the kind of service a motorist likes and besides, Mr. Firestone has made so many tires that have given the most miles for the dollar that the prices are so low it's just like getting money from home without writing for it—you know what a satisfying feeling that is.

MORAN:—
Boy, when you talk about such things as miles and money, you make me homesick—'cause I'se been doin' so much walking and receiving so little money from home, that I just long for them good ole days when I hear them words. Them Firestone Tires, that's what you call them, ain't it—sure have won a place in my heart.

MACK:—
But that ain't all.

MORAN:—
You mean to tell me you get more than the most miles for your dollar and the best prices to be had on GOOD TIRES when you buy Firestone Tires?

MACK:—
Sure! This young man Smith believes in giving a motorist the most he can for his money, so he has a plant right in his store for putting new life in old tires.

MORAN:—
Aw, come on, boy, you know they can't put monkey glands in tires.

MACK:—
Just 'cause rubber grows where monkeys do ain't got anything to do with monkey glands and tires. What I mean is when these Firestore Tires have given the most miles for your dollar, you can have a new Firestone Tread put on them and right here in Wichita Falls—yessiree, right here in Wichita Falls, Texas,

MORAN:—
Now, boy, you know Mr. Firestone don't have a factory in Wichita Falls.

MACK:—
You're right for once. But R. S. Smith has equipment for putting Firestone Treads on Tires—whether they are Firestones or not. And these "re-capped" tires, that's what he calls them, give just as good mileage as new tires; and besides, cut tire costs in half. Thousands of motorists—and hundreds of them right here in Wichita Falls—have found that out.

MORAN:—
Boy, you sure have enlightened me immensely about tires. From now on I'm going to get the most miles for my dollars in tires. And when it comes to mileage, I'm going to get a double share. I'm buying Firestones from here out, and going to have them—what you call it—"re-capped," too.

MACK:—
And that ain't all you get at this big tire store.

MORAN:—
Man-a-live, ain't dat enough—you done showed me where you'd get more miles for you dolla and more dollas for yo miles—man, you want too much.

MACK:—
Yes, but you ain't heard nothing yet. At this big tire store you get that good Panhandle Green Nozless Gasoline for 2 cents less and you get dem good U. S. L. Batteries, and they can charge and recharge your old batteries right there in their own battery shop.

MORAN:—
"Why Bring That Up"—Man don't you know de war is over long ago?

MACK:—
Now who said anything about the war not being over?

MORAN:—
Didn't you just get through talking about me going AWOL and panhandling it all over de country, getting nock and renocked, charged and recharged, ending up in de front line battle, shot.

MACK:—
Man you sho am ignorant—yo understanding she is bad—you oughta to do something to it. I said they had Panhandle Noxless Gasoline, U. S. L. Batteries and they keep yo old batteries up in good shape by charging and recharging them.

MORAN:—
Why didn't you say so in de first place. I get you now—I understand you perfectly and I'm going to tell everybody else about it, too.

MACK:—
Well, get it straight—don't mix it with de war any more.

Fourth Quarter

There's many a banner knows the stain
Of mud before November rain—
Many a smashing team that knows
Spilt blood before October goes.
These scarred machines, numbed from collision,
Timed to a razor-edged precision,
Take to November fields despite
The battered wounds, the unsung fight,
True to the rhyme of toe and leather—
(November's made of sturdier weather).

Once more they crouch. Each separate bone
Is pliant steel; shoulders have grown
To granite, blood to oil—each nerve's
A lashing dynamo that serves
Each vein with sparks.

The quarterback
Spits jumbled numerals that crack
Like aeroplane exhausts. Suspense—
The ball! A ghost plows through a fence
Of muscle, rips the guards asunder.
Confusion . . . Now the muted thunder
Of cleats along the frozen turf—
He's down—he's up again!—a surf
Of flesh trails out thin sprays of sweat—
The mob goes mad! The dope's upset.
The team that took it on the chin
An autumn month ago, comes in
Over the chalk, and all together—
(November's made of sturdier weather.)

—PHILLIP M. HARDING.

In a Row of Tests

Under the pressure of modern football a Saturday's rest where most of the regulars can take life easy makes—or may make a large and boisterous difference. Teams up against it are those with few reserves who have to tackle three or four rugged opponents in order, with no chance to ease up.

Football is full of such instances now. There was a day when the first hard game came around November. As it is now, any number of teams have already bumped into heavy opposition more than once, or twice, with no rest this weekend.

Take a look at just a few:

Notre Dame has met Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech—with Georgia Tech to come this week.

Yale has faced Georgia, Brown and Army—with Dartmouth to follow on Saturday. After meeting Army and Dartmouth, Harvard takes on Florida for another stiff argument.

Princeton has had Brown, Cornell and Navy, with Chicago just ahead.

Ohio State has met Iowa, Michigan and Indiana, with Pittsburgh waiting.

Dan McGugin's Vanderbilt team will be called on to meet Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee—three of the strongest teams in the South—or anywhere else.

The Navy team has already moved against Notre Dame and Princeton, and now it faces Pennsylvania.

Georgia Tech has had its share of trouble laid out with North Carolina, Florida, Tulane, Notre Dame and Vanderbilt all bunched.

These are just a few leading examples. It takes either luck in the way of injuries or a flock of reserves to face three or four hard ones in a row. Those teams that don't have the luck of the reserves make up most of the upsets you hear about. Football is full of luck and the old dope that the best team always wins is replete with bunk. Or one might say "the better team," if one happens to prefer better English or grammar or what not.

Hard-Driving Backs

Who are the hardest driving backs in football this season? It is impossible this early to round up the entire list, but there are several worthy of mention.

Three of the best are Parkinson, of Pittsburgh; Fleishhacker, of Stanford, and Mullins of Notre Dame. Sloane, of Nebraska, is another, and so is Myers of N. Y. U., although he has not been tested by any outstanding opposition. He hasn't been called on to make his way through a Notre Dame or a Stanford or a Pittsburgh line.

Murrell, of the Army, is good, and so is Karcis, of Carnegie Tech. Parkinson, Fleishhacker and Mullins make up one of the great line slashing trios of the game. They start fast, and they can hit hard, and they can keep going after being tackled. Wittmet, of Princeton, is another hard-driving back. He hasn't had the line this season to help him out. Few backs are good enough to pick up much ground through an outplayed line.

The Navy will find Masters of Pennsylvania, one of the best all-round backs of the year. Here is a young football player who can kick, pass, hit a line, run an end, receive a pass and handle punts. He can do about as many things well as any newcomer any season has shown in a long time. Certainly there are few who can equal him at the kicking game—punting, drop kicking and handling punts, which covers all the ground there is where the shoe is concerned.

The Yale team, having faced Georgia, Brown and Army, with Dartmouth just ahead, is beginning to wonder when the rest period is coming. And before long there are Princeton and Harvard to look after—which is something of a schedule, with no great quantity of reserves to call on.

St. Louis Cards Will Train in Bradenton, Fla.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Bradenton, Fla., has been selected as the 1930 training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals, Secretary Clarence Lloyd announced today. The Red Birds trained at Bradenton in 1923 and 1924.

SANDIES PREP FOR LUBBOCK

Contest May Decide District Title

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 30.—A drizzling rain and heavy skies yesterday and today did not dampen the ardor of the Golden Sandstorm in their preparation for the classic of district one's high school football race with the Lubbock Westerners here Saturday afternoon. The charges of "Dutchy" Smith went through signal drill in snappy fashion, prancing and galloping over the lot as a chilly wind swept over the field.

12,000 Expected at Game

The game at Butler field is advertised throughout the district as the one which will determine the champions and this aspect added to the fact that Amarillo and Lubbock are traditionally bitter rivals gives the contest a glamor and interest that is expected to swell the attendance to 12,000 fans. Advance sale of tickets has been the greatest in local history and practically the entire lot of 1,800 box seats has been sold. A special train from Lubbock will bring thousands of fans on its 15 coaches and many will swarm into Amarillo by auto.

The Sandies will be in the best physical condition of the season and a squad of almost four elevens will be available. Lubbock's task to win the game will be to stop the tricky backfield of the Sandies. So far Bufkin, Gibson, Lockhart and Hudgins have been able to romp at will over the opposition. This set of ball-toters plus some help from Duniven and Vannoy, substitutes, has rolled up a total of 225 points in six games. The opponents have chalked up only 9 points on the Sandies this fall. The Oklahoma City Central High school scoring a touchdown and the North Side, Fort Worth, team counted from a safety.

Flashy Backfields

The game will be a battle between two flashy backfields that have not been pierced this fall. And both teams have been appointed for this contest since last year, therefore, it is hardly necessary to point out that the whole city is agog, pep rallies burst out unexpectedly in all parts of town, committees to extend courtesies to all visitors are hard at work and the population is simply marking time until 3 o'clock Saturday, when the shrill whistle will send the warriors into battle. Neither team has been defeated and to the victor will go the chance to become district champions, while the loser will forget 1929 immediately and begin plans for the conquest a year hence.

Reagan Boys Drop Game to Fairview Third Team 19-0

The third team of the Fairview high school proved to be too strong for the Wichita Falls Reagan Junior high school here Wednesday afternoon when they overwhelmed the visiting team to the tune of 19 to 0.

The first touchdown of the game was made in the initial quarter when Hodges raced 40 yards to cross the goal line. A pass from Bunstine to Hodges made the extra point. In the second half Hoffman plunged the line for two successive touchdowns and thereby covered himself with glory among his mates.

Captain Hossey of the Reagan team played a stellar game and deserves much credit for helping to stem the attack of the Fairview lads. The entire Reagan team put up a scrappy contest but the superiority of age and weight offset their fighting spirit and won the game for Fairview.

The Fairview eleven completely outplayed the visiting team as shown by the number of first downs made by each team. Fairview was able to score 19 first downs while Reagan made only three first downs. A week ago Zundelowitz played the same Fairview and got off with a 6 to 0 defeat. Thus it is seen that the Zundy boys are now outrating the Reagan youngsters by 13 to 0.

Unbeaten Teams in Texas Conference

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Oct. 30. (AP)—Three undefeated elevens are expected to stand out in the Texas conference race after games of this week-end.

The Howard-Payne Yellowjackets are favored to defeat Trinity university in their clash at Brownwood. Simmons university is doped to down the weak Southwestern university Pirates at Abilene. Both games are scheduled Friday.

St. Edward's university, also undefeated in the conference, does not play a championship game this week, meeting Rice Institute at Houston Saturday.

Hamlin Pied Pipers Play Haskell Eleven on Friday

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Oct. 30.—Hamlin Pied Pipers to invade home of Haskell Indians. The Pied Pipers of Hamlin will invade the village of the Haskell Indians, in an attempt to work their magic among the Red Men next Friday. This game was scheduled to be played in Hamlin, but has been moved to Haskell because of the large crowd expected to be in Haskell, in attendance upon the tri-county institute.

Haskell stands undefeated this year, having played five games. The total score of the Indians against their opponents is 89, while the six points made by Anson last week is the only bloodshed by the Haskell team. Hamlin is rated as a strong team, having accumulated a high score against some of their opponents this year. Bill Kimbrough, the Indian chief, has a slightly injured ankle on his famous punting foot, the injury coming in the last play of the game with Anson last week. Otherwise the Haskell team is in the pink of perfection.

Booth Is Yale's New Hero

The name of Albie Booth, Yale's mite quarterback, has become a by-word for football excellence since he rode the Army Mule.

"Down Them Goats" Is Battle Cry When Buffs and Daniel Baker Meet

Special to The Record News.

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 30.—"Down them Goats," is the slogan of all squad members of the Buffalo herd, and this slogan has been taken up by the student body and fans at Canyon and is fast spreading over the Panhandle to exes and friends of the Thundering Herd. For next Saturday, in the annual home-coming football game the Herd will entertain for the Daniel Baker Hill Billies at Buffalo field, Canyon.

In past years the Buffs have been able to win only one game from the fighting Hill Billies and that was a homecoming affair in that was a home-coming affair in teams have always been almost equally matched, but the goddess of fortune has smiled on the Goats in the past. Two of the victories have been 3 to 0 affairs and the other scores have been close.

Buffs Have Good Offense

This year the Buffaloes seem to have the best offense of any West Texas team since 1923, at least, and some fans are rating Pat Gerald, the flashy Buff halfback, as the equal if not the superior of the Goodwin twins, as a ball carrier. Newman is making a name for himself as a punter and blocker. In the Simmons game he punted for an average of 44 yards, which is good in any class. Logan's play at tackle has been entirely satisfactory to coaches and fans. Logan is without doubt one of the best linemen in the entire nation. Captain Ward is making his last year on the team his best. He has always been rated as one of the outstanding ends of the conference and should his play continue in future games as in the past he will doubtless be almost unanimous choice for all-conference end.

It will be the last home-coming game for some of these lads and West Texas exes and friends from all over the Southwest are expected to flock to Canyon Saturday, Nov. 2 to see last year's T. I. A. A. champions in action against the fighting Buffs.

Memphis Cyclone Meets Shamrock Hi

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 30.—On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Memphis High school will attempt to match their strength and wit against the powerful Shamrock High school Irishmen.

The Irishmen are one of the undefeated teams of the conference, and, although Memphis has been defeated, the Cyclone is rated as one of the strongest teams in the conference and the game Thursday is believed to decide who the winner of this district will be. The Memphis Cyclone has played five conference games, losing one of them to the Estelline high Cubs, while Shamrock has not been beaten so far this season. Notwithstanding the fact that the dope bucket rates the Irishmen the better team by two or three touchdowns, this game is expected to be one of the closest contested games of the season.

Cyclone Team Crippled

The Cyclone of the Memphis High school is not in the best of condition. Two of the most reliable regulars are out of the game on account of injuries. James Hammond, stellar back, and J. D. Jackson, end are both out of the game on account of injuries they got in the game in Wellington last Friday. No reports have been received from Shamrock since last Friday, but it seems that they are in tip-top condition and feel very confident that they will return to Shamrock Thursday evening with another victory recorded to their history. However, the result of the game is yet to be decided.

CENTRE-KY. BREAK

Athletic Relations Are Broken Off By Old Rivals

DANVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30. (AP)—Cancellation of all athletic contests between Centre college and the University of Kentucky was announced today by Charles J. Turck, president of Centre, who said the action was "by mutual consent."

The general cancellation followed action of the university athletic council yesterday in dropping Centre, with which it has played for 35 years, from the 1930 football schedule.

Longhorns to Try Passes on S. M. U. In Saturday Game

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—Fearful that the Mustangs might stop their running plays Saturday the Longhorns spent considerable time today improving their overhead game. The backs, who passed so successfully against Arkansas were showing flashes of the same skill, although Coach Clyde Littlefield warned them to get their heaves away a little faster.

Littlefield later called all his men aside and he, Bill James, line coach, and Marty Karow, backfield coach, each took turns telling members of the squad all he knew about the various members of the Pony squad their peculiarities, weaknesses and strong points along with the type of plays the Ponies were likely to use.

As the Freshman "Blues" demonstrated the Mustang plays, the Longhorn backs and linemen would call out the names of the men represented as carrying the ball.

PONIES WORRY ON TEXAS GAME

Slippery Field Might Cut S. M. U. Chances

DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Laden skies and prospects of cold, wet weather for the week-end had Southern Methodist supporters worried in advance of the Mustangs' scheduled clash with Texas university here Saturday. A slippery field, they believe, would lessen the Ponies' chances of victory materially.

Coach Morrison has concentrated on a fast, tricky offense to use against the Longhorns. Uncertain footing and a wet ball would take much of the punch from the proposed attack. The Mustangs have no "power" plays to speak of, lacking a smashing ball carrier of the type of Dexter Shelley, Texas ace. Speed and deception is their dish.

Expect Seat Sellout

No matter what the weather, however, the game will not lack for spectators. Less than 5,000 pasteboards remained to be sold tonight, and it was predicted there would be a complete sellout by Friday night. Ownby stadium, with temporary stands at each end of the field, will seat 24,000.

With Louie Long, an end, calling signals, the Methodists romped through another long workout today. The reserves, using the Texas style of defense, had little success of stopping the tricky plays used by the varsity. Long will direct the team's attack Saturday.

Marion Hammon, big tackle, whose nose was broken in last week's game, appeared with a special guard over the probocis and engaged in the light scrimmage.

Lamesa Clashes in Game With Tahoka on Friday

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 30.—The Tahoka Bull Dogs meet the Golden Tornadoes here Friday, according to the schedule of both teams. This is a conference game and promises to be the stiffest opposition the local boys have had. Tahoka has a record of five wins out of seven games, while the locals have not lost a game this season. A large attendance of business men and football fans from Tahoka is expected.

Monday, Nov. 11, Lamesa will play Slaton at Slaton in the annual class B tilt of these two teams. Plans are under way to run a special train to Slaton from here on this date, according to announcements of the local chamber of commerce.

SUSPECT IN MILL CREEK BANK ROBBERY IS HELD

TISHOMINGO, Okla., Oct. 30. (UP)—Sheriff Fred Hunt of Johnston county today had custody of A. E. Holloway who was being held in connection with the Mill Creek bank robbery July, 1927. The prisoner was surrendered to Hunt by Ardmore police yesterday.

Holloway was arrested after finger prints left on a telephone jerked from the bank wall tallied with his.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 30.—Lawton and Comanche county had a half inch rain between 3 and 5 o'clock this morning. The weather is beautifully clear and somewhat cooler than Tuesday. Farmers are jubilant over wheat and alfalfa prospects.

Ludlam Bowlers Take Two Games And Tie Buick

The Ludlam pin topplers took two out of three games from the Buick players Wednesday night and thereby went into a tie for second place with the Buick players in the City league standing. While these matches were in progress the Hub Clothiers swept through the Bolton Furniture company players for three in a row. Producers Creamery took two out of three from Cinderella Boot shop.

Mount of Bolton Furniture and Turgeon of Ludlam were the two high three game players, each having 605 and 602 respectively.

Sweeney of the Hub Clothiers had single game with a 234.

Henry Kats of Cinderella Boot shop surprised the boys on the Wednesday night meet. He was a trifle "off color" and seemed to experience some difficulty in getting the old backup to work.

No little interest manifested in the matches last night and a goodly crowd gathered to see the pin toppers do their stuff.

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

The rail birds, or sideline specialists, who gathered out at the Junior college practice field Wednesday afternoon certainly got an orb full, as they say in the sports dialect. They not only got their money's worth for nothing but also stole a march on the rest of the Wichita Falls football fandom so far as getting the low down on the teams goes.

A changed note has been recorded in the sports talk of the earlier part of the week. Things are not so bad as they had seemed at first and most of the fans now believe that they have been seeing things or imagining too freely, for Wichita Falls football prospects are looking up. What with the Friday game between the Indians and the Gainesville Junior college coming up and the chances good enough to wager on, and the recent computation which shows that the collegians here are still in the running for conference honors, we don't wonder at the new note of optimism that has been sounded in football circles here about.

Collegians Conceded Good Chance

The Junior collegians are conceded a mighty fair chance to win the game with the Gainesville eleven Friday. The dopesters here say that they are just as apt to win it as they are to lose it. Now, if the Indians do win that game just watch their smoke afterward. Right at this moment only one other team, North Texas Agricultural college, has a higher rating in the conference standing than the Indians. Should the Wichita Falls collegians win the game Friday they will be right in there on the money. By winning the rest of their games they could romp in with the conference championship.

What looks mighty good to the dopesters and fans here is the fact that Terril school which had such a hard time defeating the Baggett men, were equally hard put to nose out the North Texas Aggies, conference favorites, by the same score that they downed Wichita Falls boys. Also North Texas was extended the very limit to win a 6-0 game from the Paris Dragons, who were tied by the Indians. By actual figures the Indians look to be next to the conference leaders. Only a favorable break (which they most assuredly have not got this season, as everybody who has followed the team knows) to put them up as championship threats. Thus the Friday game with Gainesville is a crucial test for the Wichita Falls Indians.

Pretty Pass Combination

Lining up for a mid-week scrimmage session, or rather a battle we would call it, the Indians and the Coyotes went at it tooth and nail, like life-long rivals. The Tribesmen took the ball in midfield and unleashed an attack which threw Coach Holton's team into complete confusion. The Baggettmen never looked better in a scrimmage than Wednesday afternoon. Two of the prettiest and slickest passes you ever saw were completed in a row and a couple of plunges and the collegians were crossing the Holtonmen goal line. Again the Tribesmen took the ball and the passes worked to perfection and they stepped across with the second marketr. This new aerial attack is let loose by Cox to Davis and it works. If the pair can click Friday afternoon, somebody's ball game is going to be in danger.

Forward Wall Stronger

Though Harvey Black will be missing from the lineup Friday, the forward wall will be in much better condition than last Friday against Terrill school. Hutto and Waggoner are both improving and may make their reappearance to the line in the Gainesville line. Remee is also most likely to start in the game sometime. With these veterans in reserve in case they are needed, the Indian defense will be tremendously strengthened.

And all in all a much stronger Junior college team will represent Wichita Falls on the coming weekend than on the last.

The entire Indian squad will leave Thursday for the scene of battle at Gainesville and will go through a light workout there in the afternoon of the same day.

Trio of Games in T. I. A. A. Race Will Give Line on Teams

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30. (AP)—Three games scheduled in the T. I. A. A. race Friday will serve to give a definite line on the strength of the teams in the state's largest college conference. Each of the circuit's 10 teams will have seen action against another member.

In the trio of important games this week, Daniel Baker meets the West Texas Teachers at Canyon; McMurry college tackles the Southwest Texas Teachers at Abilene, and East Texas Teachers meet Sam Houston Teachers at Huntsville.

Non-Conference Battles

Two other member schools engage in non-conference scraps, Sul Ross Normal playing State College of Mines at El Paso, and Abilene Christian college meeting the Southwest Oklahoma Teachers at Durant.

Three teams now are leading the race, each with one victory and no defeats. They are McMurry college, North Texas Teachers and Sam Houston Teachers. The South-Teachers have won one and tied one.

Sam Houston Teachers supplied last week's surprise package with a 13 to 12 victory over Abilene, previously regarded as one of the circuit's strongest outfits.

After Treatment of Rheumatism

Any eliminative measures which will stimulate the throwing out of rheumatic poisons may bring about at least a temporary cure of the various forms of rheumatism. Sweat baths are often helpful. These may be taken at mineral springs or in Turkish bath establishments. There is little value to the mineral effect of these baths, and about the same good can be accomplished through taking a hot tub bath in the patient's own home.

Various medicinal remedies have been tried, and some have proven of temporary help, but most of these remedies are injurious to the heart muscles, and their use is neither necessary nor advisable.

The fasting treatment which I suggested in yesterday's article is the very best treatment possible for getting quick results without danger to the patient.

The principal point I want to bring out in this concluding article on rheumatism is that the permanent cure depends entirely on the proper functioning of a clean, healthy colon. The colon must be in a good position so that there are no pockets nor kinks in which poisonous fecal manner can accumulate.

The muscles of the colon must have a good tone so that normal peristalsis takes place. The external abdominal muscles must be strong in order to hold the intestinal organs in their normal positions. When these organs are in good position and able to function properly, it is then essential that the right food should be used.

From a dietetic standpoint, perhaps the most important point to remember is that good food combinations should be used, and as with all disorders due to faulty bowel elimination, it is a good plan for the one with a tendency to the rheumatic diathesis to eat large quantities of the non-starchy vegetables, both cooked and uncooked. It is, in fact, often advisable to "stuff" on these vegetables for at least a short time in order to provide plenty of harmless bulk for the bowels and thus to exercise the muscles of the intestines and produce better peristalsis and more copious and complete bowel movements.

One or two enemas should be continued daily until the patient is sure that his bowel elimination is unusually good. The slightest symptom of the return of rheumatic pain will show the patient that elimination is again retarded. If this happens, it means more enemas or another fast.

It is useless for the patient to bother with treatments to the outer parts of the body and, in fact, such treatments are often harmful and only induce more inflammation. The sore joints should not be watched or treated. Watching and treating the bowels is the proper thing to do. If this plan is rigidly adhered to, the patient with chronic rheumatism may expect a complete and lasting cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anemia and High Blood Pressure

Question—Mrs. J. H. S. asks: "Can a person be anemic and have high blood pressure at the same time?"

Answer—It is possible to have anemia and high blood pressure at the same time, as high blood pressure is caused either by hyper-tension of the arteries, or due to hardening of the arterial walls. Anemia is a condition where there is a lack of red blood cells and hemoglobin.

Preserving Eggs

Question—A. J. B. asks: "Is it true that the Chinese have a method of preserving eggs without cold storage, sometimes for years? Could you tell me how it is done?"

Answer—The Chinese immerse fresh eggs in an infusion of lime, salt, lye and tea leaves, leaving them undisturbed for about three months, after which they are drained and coated with a mixture of clay, rice husks, etc. Of course, after a year or so, the egg undergoes such changes as would be offensive to the American taste, but when compared to some of our various cheeses, the reason may be laid entirely to the psychology of tradition. At any rate, the Chinese merchant enjoys a "luxury" trade in those eggs of the greater age, the price ascending with the years.

Chest Always Red

Question—J. G. A. writes: "My chest—that exposed where the dress is cut low—is always red, although sometimes I do not go out for days. Do you think it is from nervousness or indigestion?"

Answer—When the skin is very red on the chest above the dress line it is sometimes an indication of the systemic acidosis caused by an over-acidity of the stomach, but of course sometimes it is only due to exposure because of the skin being thin and sensitive.

Lew Wentz Comes To Aid of Prisoner

PONCA CITY, Okla., Oct. 30. (UP)—The asserted philanthropy of a red-haired farm youth in jail here for attempted extortion has prompted his intended victim, Lew Wentz, wealthy oil man and chairman of the Oklahoma highway commission, to ask the youth not be prosecuted severely.

Shelton Phipps, 21-year-old farmer, was in jail today charged with threatening the lives of Wentz and L. K. Meek, a banker, if they did not place $50,000 on a lonely country bridge. The youth, in his confession, said that he wanted the money so that he could place a $1,000 bundle of bills at the doorstep of each of his neighbors who had suffered crop failures this year.

He did not say anything about a mortgage on his car, but denied he wanted the money for himself.

Kansas U. Student Held On Hot Check Charges

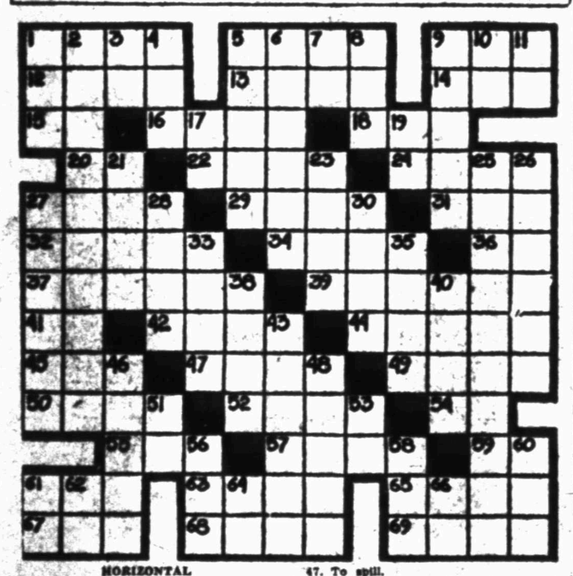

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 30. (INS)—Arrested on a series of check charges totaling $111.50, Wilbur Sipe, 20, of Ranson, is a prisoner in the county jail today. He is a second semester sophomore at the University of Kansas.

A state warrant has been sworn out upon the complaint of Lawrence merchants who claim this is the fourth time Sipe has victimized them. Sheriff Bob Rutherford said Sipe would be arraigned this afternoon before Justice of Peace J. H. Mitchell.

WITNESSES DISAGREE AS TO WHERE BULLETS HIT WALTON

OPINIONS OF DOCTORS VARY

Some Claim Boy Shot From Back by Lawyer

between two doctors as to whether Walton had been shot in the back, and the state's attempt to show where the gun came from that was used in the killing.

In sum and substance, the state made a relentless assault on the self-defense plea the defendant has said he will enter. Apparently, it attempted to show by the testimony it offered that Walton was shot in the back, that a gun was procured just before it happened, and that Walton was not armed, even with a pocket knife, to defend himself.

Witnesses Disagree

Four witnesses, three state and one defense, disagreed as to whether Walton had been shot in the back when he went to his father-in-law's office to tell of his marriage to Hamilton's 17-year-old daughter, Theresa. The widow now is 18.

The third state witness, Dr. J. R. Wrather, of Amarillo, president of the Potter County Medical society, said his examination indicated Walton had been shot from the front. Dr. John Vaughn, a one-time surgeon and physician at the Mayo clinic, declared two shots through Walton's chest had been fired from the back. Dr. Raymond Swindell, who gave Walton a hypodermic just after the shooting, declared the threads in Walton's coat had been broken and pushed into the wounds at the back, indicating the slain man had been shot from the rear.

The first defense witness, Horace Griggs, undertaker, testified he made only a superficial examination until several hours after the shooting. He said, however, he believed the shots had been fired from the front.

Four Shots Hit

Witnesses said four shots hit Walton, two through the right chest, one in the abdomen, and another grazing his neck. Doctor Vaughn said he believed one shot had been fired into Walton's back as he fell, the bullet piercing his back about an inch inside the right shoulder blade and emerging just under the right collar bone.

The state failed in its first attempt to get into the record Walton's last words before he went into Hamilton's office. Those words were to Miss Evelyn Whatley, stenographer in the office of D. W. Humphreys, oil operator, in the same building as the Hamilton-Hendricks law firm.

Miss Whatley, newspapers said, quoted Walton as having told her "If you hear some shooting, it'll probably be me." District Attorney Edward Thomerson declared he wished to show that Walton had said he was going to Hamilton's office to tell Hamilton he was married to Theresa. Judge C. E. Carter ruled the testimony inadmissible at this time.

Hamilton at Ease

Throughout the trial today Hamilton was at ease, leaning forward from time to time to suggest questions to his lawyers. As the eight state witnesses testified today he listened intently, vigorously protesting to Defense Counsel C. B. Reeder, who led the defense cross-examination when one of the witnesses made a statement he believed to be wrong.

A few feet from the accused man sat his wife and youngest daughter, Mary Gail, 9. The other daughters, Theresa, Walton's widow, who was married while she and Walton were attending the University of Texas, and Helen played bridge at the Parker hotel, where Hamilton has reserved the entire top floor for his attorneys, family and witnesses.

The courtroom was more crowded than ever today, nearly half the spectators, for the first time, being women. Some sat in small balconies, one just above the judge's bench and another directly across the narrow courtroom.

Gourd Dipper Used

A change in drinking water facilities today was typical of the old-fashioned courthouse and the farmer residents. A white enameled bucket, which had held a white enameled dipper today also had a gourd dipper.

Defense Opens

Horace Griggs, an Amarillo undertaker, who answered the emergency call to the Amarillo building on May 4 and carried Tom Walton's body to St. Anthony's hospital, was the first witness called by the defense.

Griggs' testimony was another link by which the defense hoped to strengthen its contention that the bullets which took young Walton's life entered from the front of the body. He testified that he carried the dying youth from the Amarillo building to the hospital where he assisted physicians and nurses in undressing him. At that time he merely noticed the wounds and did not examine them carefully.

Griggs described the wounds and gave it as his opinion that the bullets had entered the body from the front. The opinion, he said, was based upon an examination made at the morgue in the presence of Doctors Vaughn and Wrather, District Attorney Thomerson and several others. The bullet holes in the back were some larger and more irregular, the witness said. Much of Mr. Griggs' testimony was repeated on cross examination. He described the wounds on the shoulder blade and nipple as bruised. The abdomen wound was powder burned in about a half inch circle and there were powder burns on the face and neck, the witness added.

Gun Expert Qualifies

S. D. Ridings, proprietor of a gun store in Amarillo, was the next witness called by the defense. He stated that he was a division machine gun officer of the Thirty-sixth division of the Texas National Guard at present and was a veteran of the Spanish-American war and of the Mexican border trouble in 1916 and of the world war. He said he began his service in the world war as a captain of the 142nd Infantry Machine Gun company and in the first fight in France was promoted to the rank of major in charge of the machine gun beattalion of the 142nd infantry. He was discharged from the army as a major.

Major Ridings was instructor of small arms fire, he said, after his second year of 30 years service in the national guard. He was also range officer at Camp Bowie and declared that he had had much experience as such officer and as a big game hunter.

Asked if he had seen many wound wounded men he frowned and said he had seen far too many. He testified, that he was police judge when the call came in on the Hamilton shooting case. He said he went to the Amarillo building alone and saw Walton's body lying on the floor in the east room of the Hendricks and Hamilton suite. He described the boy's position as nearly north and south with the head lying near, and in front of, the desk. He said he did not examine the wounds closely because when he looked at the body he knew that Walton was a dead man.

He testified that it was about a day or two before he went to see the body at the request of District Attorney Thomerson. He testified that he had been used as an expert witness on several occasions. He examined the wounds on Walton's body at the morgue with Doctor Wrather, Doctor Vaughn, Horace Griggs, Dave Tudor and Roy Slay.

Wounds Described

Major Ridings said there were three wounds on the body and a mark on the boy's neck. One of the wounds was just above to the groin, another in the right nipple another above the right nipple.

He testified that more could be told from clothing than from the body when determining the entrance and exits of bullet wounds. He said that the holes in the front part of the boy's clothing were smaller and cleaner cut than those in the back. It was his opinion and best judgment that every shot and mark on the youth's body was made from the front. He said that the exit of the bullet that formed the lower wound in the abdomen and the mark on the neck could be ascertained from powder burns and that there was no question but that they were fired from the front.

On cross examination he said he could easily have been mistaken but that he was doing the best he could to be fair. The spectators leaned forward when Attorney Thomerson produced two bullets and asked Mr. Ridings to examine them. Thomerson had Ridings demonstrate the probable position of Walton's body as the shots were fired.

Ridings demonstrated the possible positions and at this juncture both the state and the defense clashed over the questions as propounded to the witness.

Ed Holloway, Amarillo fingerprint expert was called as the next witness but was called back to make way for character witnesses who live away from Weatherford.

Character Witness

The first character witness was Rev. A. L. Aulick, pastor of the University Baptist church. He said he had known Hamilton for 21 years. He knew him at Waco and at Austin. He testified that Hamilton's reputation as a peaceful and law abiding citizen was good and that he could be believed under oath.

District Attorney Thomerson questioned the minister witness very closely on cross examination. Aulick admitted that he had not inquired to much extent as to Hamilton's reputation. He said that he had corresponded with Hamilton during the years he was away and that he knew he had gone to Brownwood as president of Howard Payne college. Thomerson grew more bitter in his questioning of the witness and the attorneys clashed frequently and violently over the questions.

Thomerson asked him if he knew that Hamilton was teaching at Baylor because he had such a temper that he could not successfully practice law. The question was bitterly attacked by the defense and the witness answered no. Thomerson then asked the minister if it had been common talk in Waco that Hamilton was the man who horsewhipped W. C. Brann the Iconoclast. This brought a storm of objections from defense counsel when the judge dramatically announced that the defense would answer the question by admitting that Hamilton horsewhipped Brann in Waco.

He then asked the question if it was not common talk that Hamilton whipped Brann after Brann had said in print, that the girls of Baylor were harlots and prostitutes, and that Hamilton had a sister in school at that time, to which the witness Aulick replied that he could answer yes except that he did not know that Hamilton had a sister.

Thomerson then asked if it was not common knowledge in Waco that Hamilton had led a mob which horsewhipped Brann and except for interference might have hanged him. He said he did not know about the hanging but thought the other part was true.

Defense and state attorneys clashed on this question and Judge Carter declared that it would not be brought up again with any other witness.

J. B. Moore, Port Lavaca merchant, testified that he had been a resident of Calhoun county for 30 years and that he had known Judge Hamilton for 15 or 18 years. He said a portion of the time from 1910 to 1924 that Hamilton served as county judge, His reputation for truth and veracity was good and he was regarded as a peaceful and law abiding citizen in that county.

He was followed by H. C. Innis, abstractor, and E. L. Tanner, county judge of Calhoun county, both of Port Lavaca; W. M. Jones, Dallas attorney and former school mate of Judge Hamilton at Baylor university.

In order to accommodate the out-of-town witnesses who were anxious to get away tonight Judge Carter held court in session until 5:30 this afternoon.

Morning Testimony

The first witness was Dr. J. R. Wrather of Amarillo. He said his office is in the same building as the Hamilton-Hendricks law firm where young Walton was slain and that he went into Hamilton's office when an elevator girl called: "Dr. Wrather, come quick; a man has been killed down there!"

"Did you say anything when you went in?"

"Judge Hamilton said: 'Good morning, Doctor Wrather.'

"I asked him how he was feeling, and he said something about being a little nervous after having to kill a man or something of that sort."

The physician said that, after observing Hamilton was sitting behind his desk, he went into an adjoining office where Walton's body lay.

"Did you examine Walton's body?" District Attorney Edward Thomerson asked.

"Yes, and found three wounds, one just below his right collar bone, one a little lower in the chest and a third in the abdomen."

Hamilton Nervous

Asked whether Hamilton seemed disturbed, Dr. Wrather said: "He was a little nervous. I didn't notice any disarrangement of his clothes."

"In making your examination of Tom Walton's body, did you find any weapon of any sort?"

"I did not."

"When you turned him over, did you find a weapon?"

"I did not."

The physician declared Walton was breathing when he made his first examination and continued breathing for about five minutes.

Cross-examined by C. B. Reeder, Dr. Wrather said he did not hear any conversation between the sheriff, W. N. Thompson, and any other person in the office.

Thompson, on the stand yesterday, quoted Hamilton as having said: "I would rather be killed than kill a man except to protect my family."

Asked About Miss Hendricks

Reeder also had Dr. Wrather enlarge on a statement made in direct testimony that Miss Florence Hendricks seemed to have a sprained ankle.

"Was there anything said about her being shot?" Reeder queried.

"Yes, after I had looked at young Walton someone seemed to think she had been shot."

Dr. Wrather said he did not examine Miss Hendricks' ankle.

The physician also said he saw Sheriff Thompson get the pistol from Hamilton's desk drawer.

"That was at least 15 or 20 minutes after the shooting, and Walton's body had been removed?"

"Yes, I believe it was at least 15 minutes."

The sheriff testified yesterday he got the pistol, a 44 caliber revolver, and arrested Hamilton before the body was removed.

"You observed some powder burns about those clothes, didn't you?"

"I did."

"Where were they?"

"Some were on the right hand; some were on the face."

"The burns were at the bullet wounds, then?"

"Yes."

No Shots From Rear

"Did you find any shots which entered from the rear or the back of the body, Doctor?"

"I did not."

With pencil and paper, Dr. Wrather described the way in which he determined the entrance and exit of a bullet in a body. The flesh is jagged and larger where the bullet exits.

"There is no question but that the bullets entered the body from the front, is there?"

"Not in my mind; no, sir."

Re-examined by Thomerson, Dr. Wrather said he saw the pistol in Hamilton's office when he entered and "it looked to me like it was smoking."

"Had those wounds been prepared for burial when you examined the body at the undertaker's?"

"I am not sure of that, but I think there had been some work done."

Dr. Wrather had said he did not examine the body to determine whether the bullets entered from the front or rear until the body was taken to the undertaker.

Dr. Vaughn Testifies

Dr. John Vaughn of Amarillo, physician and surgeon formerly connected with the Mayo clinic, said he was in the Amarillo building the morning Walton was shot. He said he heard shots and ran down the hall to the Hamilton-Hendricks office.

"Some one was calling for a doctor," he declared, "and I went into the room."

Walton was on the floor, the surgeon said. He described the location of the body in answer to questions by Thomerson. The body was not moved appreciably until the ambulance arrived, Dr. Vaughn said. Dr. Vaughn declared he went to the hospital with the body where he sterilized and dressed the wounds.

"Did you examine the clothing?"

"I did, and got something out of the clothing for his mother."

"Did you find a weapon of any kind?"

"I did not."

Dr. Vaughn said he found four wounds, one on the left side of Walton's neck, one near the right collar bone, another nearby and a fourth in the lower abdomen. Walton's face was powder-burned on both sides.

Dr. Vaughn stood on the witness stand and with his finger pointed out the location of bullet holes in the back. Only two wounds were in the back of the body, he said, one having grazed the neck and another having lodged in the abdomen. There were no powder burns in the back of the body, he declared.

Wounds in Back

"The wounds of entrance were in the back and those of exit in the front," Dr. Vaughn said in describing the bullet holes in the upper right portion of the body.

"How could you determine the wound of entrance and wound of exit?"

"The wound of entrance was smaller."

Dr. Vaughn said the "first" shot pierced Walton's body about on a level, the second ranging upward as it left the body. Reeder, conducting the cross-examination, objected to the word "first" used in connection with the shot which Dr. Vaughn said struck Walton in the back.

Reeder asked whether Dr. Vaughn had contributed to a fund to employ a special prosecutor. Dr. Vaughn said he had not.

Reeder brought out that several persons who examined the body, including Dr. Wrather, disagreed with Dr. Vaughn as to whether the two bullets which made wounds in Walton's back had been fired into the back.

"I made the proposition that if anyone would let me examine a bullet wound while it was fresh, and I couldn't tell the wounds of entrance and exit, I would give them a $1,000 check," Dr. Vaughn declared. "No one in that argument took me up."

Re-examining Dr. Vaughn, Thomerson got testimony the argument with other physicians and with undertakers as to the wounds of entrance and exit had taken place seven to eight hours after the shooting, the flesh having had time to harden so it would be more difficult to determine where the bullet entered and where it left.

Stenographer Called

When Dr. Vaughn left the stand, Miss Evelyn Whatley, stenographer in a nearby office at the time of the shooting, was calleld by the state. She was the first woman to testify. Before her questioning began, Judge J. E. Carter, after a conference with attorneys, ordered the jury from the room.

Sam Shadle of Weatherford, defense attorney, said he would object to admission of testimony by Miss Whatley, anticipating, he declared, that the state would attempt to get into the record Walton's last words to Miss Whatley. Shortly after the shooting, newspapers quoted Miss Whatley as having said Walton told her, "If you hear some shooting it'll probably be me."

Shadle read from a legal tome rulings that statements made by persons slain, just before they were killed, were inadmissible if they were not known by the accused.

Hugh H. Cooper of Amarillo argued for the state that Walton's statements were admissible. He said they did not intend to show by Miss Whatley's testimony anything except that Walton, a minute before he was wounded fatally, had told her he was on his way to Hamilton's office to tell Hamilton he had married Theresa Hamilton.

While arguments were under way District Attorney Thomerson interrupted to request that witnesses who had entered the courtroom be instructed to leave. Theresa and Helen Hamilton, daughters of the accused man, walked out of the room. Mrs. Hamilton also left, although the state had agreed she should not be under the rule.

After an hour and 20 minutes of argument, Judge Carter recessed court for 40 minutes, saying:

"I'll try to have my mind made up by then."

Questioned About Pistol

J. B. Pottinger of Amarillo was called to the stand to tell of having sold a pistol to Harry Hendricks, Hamilton's law partner, the pistol which Hendricks is said later to have re-sold to Hamilton, and with which Walton assertedly was slain. His testimony was admitted over defense objection. He did not take the numbers of the weapon. Pottinger is a deputy sheriff in Potter county.

In cross-examination, Reeder asked:

"You can't swear positively that you ever saw that pistol before, can you?"

"No, I can't since I didn't take the number on it when I sold it to Mr. Hendricks."

E. L. Smith, Amarillo sporting goods dealer, said Hamilton and his partner, Harry Hendricks, came to Smith's establishment, and Hendricks had a pistol. He identified the pistol introduced as the one with which Walton was killed, as a revolver "similar to" that Hendricks had.

Smith said he loosened the tension on the spring, thus making the pistol trigger require less pressure. When Hendricks asked whether it still would discharge a cap, Smith said he told Hendricks he believed it would.

Later, Hamilton returned and inquired about ammunition for "this particular gun," Smith testified, but he had none in the shop. A few days before the shooting Hamilton again came in and asked for ammunition, the witness said.

Smith did not say whether he sold any pistol shells to Hamilton.

Elevator Operator Testifies

Mrs. Loraine Hill, elevator operator at the Amarillo building the day Walton was shot to death, said she took Walton to the second floor and saw him walk down the hall toward Hamilton's office.

She heard a shot and after that: "I heard a scream and someone say, 'No, no, don't do that!' or 'Oh, Oh, don't do that!' The voice sounded like Walton's."

She said she heard four or five shots, and all were fired in rapid succession. Two or three were fired after she heard the exclamation, she testified.

Reeder, on cross examination, brought out that there was a crack in the corridor between the elevator and Hamilton's office.

When Reeder attempted to get directions in the building straight, Mrs. Hill became confused. Thomerson, however, took a crayon and drew a rough sketch of the floor plan on a blackboard.

Mrs. Hill said that when she took Walton to the second floor he first went down the corridor toward the office of D. M. Humphreys, oil man.

"How did you know he went there?" Reeder asked the witness.

"Miss Whatley told me he did."

Miss Whatley's testimony was barred, for the time, by a ruling from Judge Carter just after the noon recess.

After letting Walton out, Mrs. Hill said she went back down to the first floor, took up some passengers and returned to the second floor, where she was waiting for a passenger when she saw Walton walk toward Hamilton's office. She heard the shots a few moments later, she declared.

C. G. Spencer Heard

The next witness called by the state was C. G. Spencer, Amarillo real estate agent. He recalled being in the Amarillo building on the morning of May 4. He heard three or four shots and immediately went up the stairs to see what the trouble was about, he testified. He entered the east room of the Hamilton suite and declared that Judge Hamilton and another man he later knew as Burks were in the room. Terry Thompson preceded him into the room. The witness said he saw Hamilton sitting at a desk writing on a card. A short time later he declared Hamilton made the statement that he would rather be killed than to kill a man except when he had to protect his family.

Spencer declared the statement was made three or four minutes after the shooting. Hamilton's face and clothing were in normal condition, he said on direct examination. He detailed the position of Walton's body on the floor in the east room, saying the boy's head was near a desk on the south side of the room and that his feet were about 18 inches from a row of book cases alongside of the east wall of the office. He did not see any weapons in the room or about Walton's body.

Describes Room

On cross examination he testified that he was in Brummitt & Hill's office near the stairway on the ground floor. He told of seeing Judge Hamilton and Mr. Burks in the center office of the Hamilton suite when he went upstairs to the scene of the homicide. He thought he got there ahead of Sheriff W. N. Thompson. He did not recall seeing any one in the east office but did see Walton's body. He again detailed the appearance of the room and said he did not see Miss Florence Hendricks until she came out of the west office of the Hendricks & Hamilton law office.

Dr. R. R. Swindell was the next witness called. He said that he has lived in Amarillo since 1926 and practiced medicine with Dr. B. M. Puckett who has a suite of offices on the second floor of the Amarillo building in the north wing. He said he is a graduate of the University of Tennessee and had served as an interne at the Memphis, Tenn., General hospital. He could not recall the date of the shooting but did recall that it was about 9 o'clock in the morning. He was dressing a lady's burned hand when someone called to him that a man had been shot. He went immediately to the central office of the Hendricks & Hamilton law office and then to the east room where the body of Walton was lying on the floor. He said he paid no particular attention to those in the room.

Examines Body

Doctor Swindell testified that he examined the body closely to determine the point where the bullets entered and came out. He gave Young Walton a hypodermic in the arm to stimulate and ease him. He He said he saw no weapons about the body. The witness declared a slight powder burn was on the boy's neck but none on his face.

On cross examination Doctor Swindell testified that he formed the opinion that Walton was shot in the back by looking at the boy's clothing. He said he examined the clothing rather closely, saw two holes in the coat and saw that the strands of cloth about the two holes were pointed toward the body. He was dismissed.

Building Manager Called

C. A. Craig was called to the stand. He is manager of the Amarillo building. The witness said he heard a noise but did not know that it was pistol shots. He said Dr. D. W. Humphreys occupied the office in the hall between the two units of the building. He also said he saw the boy's body in the east room of the Hendricks & Hamilton office. The witness declared that the rooms in the building are 12 by 20 feet in dimension. He went to the office where the body lay. The door was closed and after looking in and seeing the body he went back to his office and called the police. When he returned there were 10 or 15 people in the room. He assisted in placing the body on a stretcher.

Immediately after he had finished his testimony Mr. Craig was excused and District Attorney Thomerson announced rather dramatically that the state would rest its case. He inquired a minute later about a witness, B. M. Williams, who had been subpoenaed from Dallas.

MAN SOUGHT HERE

Wichita Falls police have been asked to aid in locating William Henry Crawford, about 60 years of age, who is thought in or near this city, according to Sergeant C. M. Goodwin, secretary to Chief Frank Burns. Mrs. W. L. Shook of Cyclone, Pa., a half-sister of the man, sent a message to Chief Burns stating that it was urgent that Mr. Crawford be located at once.

Hamilton Named as Member of Mob That Whipped Brann the Iconoclast

Sensational Incident at Baylor University Revived in Lawyer's Murder Trial at Weatherford

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 30. (UP)—Judge R. H. Hamilton of Amarillo was one of the mob men who 35 years ago in Waco horsewhipped Brann the Iconoclast, one of his attorneys admitted here today at the former judge's murder trial for the killing of young Tom Walton.

An incident outstanding in modern Texas history thus was brought sensationally into the jurist's fight for his life. The state raised it, and the defense quickly waived a dispute in order to prevent the story from being retold.

Popularly known as Brann the Iconoclast, a famous journalist, W. C. Brann, publisher of a paper in Waco, some 35 years ago launched a scathing attack on the women students of Baylor university. A mob of men took him out and whipped him severely during the editorial campaign. Brann was killed in 1904 by a man who had two daughters at Baylor, and who himself was shot to death by Brann, raised up on his elbow, as he rounded a corner trying to escape.

In cross-examination of the Rev. A. L. Aulick, Austin minister, character witness for Judge Hamilton, District Attorney Thomerson asked:

"Didn't you hear while you lived at Waco that Hamilton's temper was so high that he couldn't control it enough to practice law and that was the reason he taught at Baylor?"

The witness replied in the negative.

"Isn't it a matter of common knowledge that this man Hamilton helped horsewhip Brann the Iconoclast?" Thomerson then shot at him.

"I think I did hear that," the minister answered.

"We admit he whipped him," defense counsel Hood broke in.

"Wasn't Hamilton the leader of a mob that took Brann out on the campus and if Hamilton had not been interferred with Brann would have been hanged?" Thomerson asked.

"I can't agree to the hanging part but I've heard the rest" the Rev. Mr. Aulick answered.

"Haven't you also heard that this man Brann made remarks against the women students of Baylor university, charging they were harlots and prostitutes, and that Hamilton had a sister there and for that reason he took Brann out and whipped him?" Hood asked on redirect examination.

"I've heard all that except about Hamilton's sister being a student at the time," the minister answered.

The judge then ordered the line of questioning discontinued with attorneys on both sides objecting to questions of the other.

Trial Glimpses

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 30—As hot legal battles raged in the courthouse state and defense witnesses and some of the native residents were engaged in equally hot battles of pitching horse shoes and dollars on the lawn of the court square. No objections have been made to the injury done to the lawn and large crowds are scattered about the courthouse all day.

Dr. John Vaughn of Amarillo created such a ripple of laughter this morning that Judge Carter had to rap for order. On a very severe cross examination by Judge C. B. Reeder Doctor Vaughn was asked if he contended Walton was shot in the back despite the opinion of other doctors and experts. Dr Vaughn replied that he did and then he had agreed to let them shoot any animal and in any case where he could not tell where the bullet entered or left the body he would give them a check for $1,000 "And they didn't take me up and the offer still holds good," he said heatedly.

Reporters from Amarillo and Wichita Falls were forced to pull their coats off today on account of the intense heat of the afternoon in the court room. The news or snow in Amarillo and cold weather in Wichita Falls came as a distinct surprise. It rained in Weatherford this morning as the Parker county fair opened.

A negro shine boy in a barber shop here is taking advantage of every opportunity to meet Amarillo witnesses. He said he had shined the shoes of nearly every Amarillo-an here several times. "I couldn't live up there," he said. "Living is too high. You don't make such good wages down here, but you saves more."

Tired of sitting on the stairs on the second floor of the Parker county courthouse with Miss Florence Hendricks and other girl witnesses, Mrs. Theresa Hamilton Walton went to her room about 2 o'clock this afternoon. Two girl university students decided they would risk being called and go to their rooms.

Grover Hill and Steve Ridings have won the unofficial horse-shoe pitching championship of Parker county. Dr. John Vaughn and Sheriff Bill Thompson have a like rating at dollar pitching. These ambassadors of good will are making hosts of friends for Potter county by their visit.

German Maids Want "Rights"

One of the most important bills coming before the German reichstag this session is the mistress and maid bill. It is sponsored by the union female domestic servants, who are determined that their power shall be felt. Among the numbed of "rights" which they are demanding from the government is the freedom of the individual in that the mistress shall have no control over her out of service hours.

Still a retiring figure as he has been throughout the case since his son was slain, Tom Walton Sr. appeared in the courtroom. He is a grim-faced man, silent but intensely interested in the proceedings. He stood in the rear of the courtroom.

Theresa was present, quiet and reserved as usual, and talked short to newspaper men every time they tried to question her. She guarded against permitting an inkling as to her present feelings toward her accused father.

Mrs. Grace Walton, the slain boy's mother, was in the courtroom from the first to the last.

Negro May Die Of Injuries in Crash

A negro man whose name was given as Willie Green and whose address was thought to be Marlin, Texas, is in the Wichita General hospital in a critical condition following an automobile accident about 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, attendants at the hospital reported.

The injured man is suffering from a serious fracture of the skull and is thought to be near death, it was said. No details of the accident or where it happened could be obtained, since the negro is unable to speak to attendants. An unidentified white man brought the negro to the hospital.

RATLIFF'S CASE TO HUNTSVILLE

Site of Sanity Hearing Is Decided

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 30. (AP)—Upon Judge H. H. Singletary, judge of Walker county court, will rest the responsibility of determining whether Marshal Ratliff, under death sentence for conviction of participating in the Cisco "Santa Claus" bank robbery in December, 1927, is entitled to a sanity hearing in his court.

A motion seeking transfer of the trial to district court was filed jointly Wednesday by W. W. Hair of Abilene, appointed special prosecutor in the case by Gov. Dan Moody, and County Attorneys Joe H. Jones of Eastland and R. T. Burns of Walker county.

State attorneys in the petition claimed Judge Singletary did not have jurisdiction in the case. Decisions of court of criminal appeals were cited in behalf of this contention. The state claimed, in the A. B. Milliken case, the appellant court ruled that a sanity hearing after conviction on a criminal charge, can be held only in the district trial court.

Judge Singletary refused to act on the motion because of the absence of defense attorney Mack Gates. Ratliff's cousel indicated it would file a motion seeking to show that county court has jurisdiction in the lunacy hearing.

Norther Sends Mercury Down

er has already damaged Wheeler county cotton $100,000, according to the estimates of cotton men, and a freeze was expected some time Wednesday night. A freeze would add materially to the damage of the cotton. The temperature here Wednesday morning was 32 degrees. Late today it was much lower. A drizzling rain fell this afternoon.

PLAINVIEW—Following a light rain Tuesday, a heavy snow came to this section Wednesday afternoon, melting as it fell. Over an inch of rain had fallen during the past 24 hours. The moisture will greatly aid wheat, but has stopped cotton picking all over the South Plains area.

Picking Stopped

CLARENDON—Cotton picking has been stopped here by two inches of rain which has fallen in the last two days. The quality of the cotton has been damaged. Wheat, however, already planted, has been greatly aided. The rains have also helped the stock raisers. More stock water is in this area than there has been in the past five years.

FLOYDADA—More rain was expected here tonight on the heels of Tuesday's heavy precipitation. The weather is ideal for wheat but bad on the cotton.

ALTUS, Okla.—The temperature here late today was 49 degrees. The day's rainfall totaled .15 inches. Cotton picking will be delayed, but the crop has not suffered.

CHILLICOTHE—A norther which struck here last night sent the temperature down to 42 degrees late today, stopping cotton picking. Wheat was helped by the light rain that fell. More rain was expected tonight.

SEYMOUR—Early today the temperature here was 50 degrees, with a freeze being forecast on all sides. Light showers which fell today helped small grains but damaged cotton, though not seriously.

SPUR—Winter crops were aided by light showers today. The temperature was 38 degrees early tonight. The showers halted cotton picking.

Cold at Quanah

QUANAH—The temperature here dropped from 76 degrees Tuesday to 40 degrees late Wednesday afternoon. Tonight it was still falling. Light showers have fallen here, but in the northwestern section of the county, where cotton has already been heavily damaged, a hard rain was reported. Late feed crops and cotton would suffer heavily should a freeze come.

VERNON—With the mercury down to 52 at 6 p. m. Wednesday and still falling slowly, following a slight rain earlier in the day, continued unfavorable weather was in prospect Wednesday night. Showers the past few days have slowed up cotton picking, and paved the way for crop damage.

HALLS—A 25 per cent loss to both cotton and wheat has been reported as the result of slow cold rains which have fallen here during the last 24 hours. The temperature, gradually falling, was 40 degrees early tonight.

WELLINGTON—The first frost of the season came here Tuesday night. Wednesday night the temperature was slightly over 40 degrees, and it was still raining. Open cotton has been greatly damaged.

GRANDFIELD — Temperature here late today was 54 degrees. The recent cold wave has killed a good portion of the cotton and feed crops.

MEMPHIS—Rain fell most of the afternoon here Wednesday, the temperature averaging about 40 degrees. Cotton picking has been halted. Cotton has been damaged by the rainfall.

WHOLE STATE FEELS NORTHER

(By The Associated Press)

A variety of weather was handed out to Texans Wednesday.

While rain was reported in nearly all sections, it was accompanied in parts of West Texas by snow. At Houston four persons were injured and much property damage done by a tornado.

A light snow, the first to fall in October since 1918, fell at Plainview. A few flakes were reported to have fallen at Canyon and Amarillo and at Borger a slow rain turned into sleet for a few minutes.

A minimum temperature of 32 degrees was recorded at Amarillo.

A long drouth was broken at Nacogdoches by a steady, heavy rain. Rain also fell over the greater part of North and Northeast Texas.

Cooler weather was predicted for the greater part of the state, an exception being made for the Panhandle region where the thermometer was expected to rise.

STOCKS STAGE GENERAL GAIN

layed tomorrow's opening from 10 a. m. until noon. This action was taken, it was explained, to give thousands of exchange and brokerage house employes, many of whom were reported to have reached a state of complete physical exhaustion as a result of the long hours of overtime in recent markets, an opportunity to obtain much needed rest.

Rockefeller Speaks

John D. Rockefeller Sr., patriarch of American financiers, emerged from a retirement of 18 years today to raise his hand in support of banking interests who were trying to bring order out of chaos in the securities markets.

From his home in Pocantico Hills, Rockefeller issued a statement setting forth that he and his son, John D. Jr., to whom he turned over his business interests in 1911, have for some days been purchasing sound common stocks and would continue to do so as "there is nothing in the business situation to warrant the destruction of values that has taken place on the exchange during the past week."

Leading New York bankers held two short informal conferences in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., again today, but apart from a brief statement expressing approval of the stock exchange closing, they made no official comment on the day's developments. Reports received by bankers indicated a distinct improvement in the situation, but they again declined to make any predictions for the future.

Extra Dividends

Wall street saw in the Rockefeller statement, the buying support of bankers and investment trusts, and the declarations of a series of extra dividends, evidence of concerted efforts on the part of leading banking and industrial executives to revive and maintain confidence and prevent the recession in securities from extending to general business.

The following table shows the extent of today's net gains in leading stocks:

The stock market bounded upward from the opening gong, with initial gains generally ranging from $1 to $10 a share. Although several blocks of 5,000 to 30,000 shares changed hands, trading lacked the violence of yesterday's opening when blocks of 20,000 to 80,000 shares were thrown into the market regardless of cost. A few soft spots cropped out in response to belated liquidation of weakened marginal accounts, but prices generally moved steadily upward throughout the session, with final quotations generally around the high levels of the day.

Heavy buying by investment trusts and trading corporations, many of which had maintained large liquid reserves for just such an emergency, was an important factor in today's buying movement. Estimates of total purchases by those institutions in the last 10 days range from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000, all purchases being for cash. Funds for some of these purchases were withdrawn from the call loan market.

Bernice is the first American woman ever to go on trial in Mexico for murder.

SOUTH PLAINS FAIR PRAISED

Scribes and C.-C. Heads Vent Enthusiasm

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 30.—Words of praise of the Panhandle South Plains fair and offers to render any possible service came to officials of the fair from people invited to a luncheon Tuesday at which time plans for improving the 1930 exposition over the big success of 1929.

"These letters, coming from people who were unable to accept the invitation on account of other engagements or business duties, show the spirit of cooperation and the wide spread interest in the exposition on the part of the people of the Plains," Byron C. Dickinson, president of the fair, stated today in reviewing the letters and telegrams.

Hopkins Sends Message

"Regard Panhandle South Plains fair as one of greatest institutions of its kind in all of Texas and worthy of the best support of this entire section," a telegram from Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, reads. "It must grow comparable to the development of this great South Plains country."

"The Panhandle South Plains fair is an institution which we would all like to see continue to grow, and if there is anything that I can do in the future, I shall be glad to help in any way that I can to make it a greater and better fair," C. C. Williams, secretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, wrote.

"You may rest assured that we will cooperate with you people in any way possible, and will do anything that you pass or want done to further the interests of the Panhandle South Plains fair," R. L. Brown, of Muleshoe, writes.

"I think and hear others say that Lubbock has the best fair outside of the few larger cities in the state and in a few more years Lubbock will have one of the best, if not the best in the state," J. P. Miles, secretary of the Ropes Chamber of of Commerce, stated in a letter.

"Anytime that I can personally, or through the columns of my paper, be of any assistance to your organization, please feel free to call on me," Willis Walker, editor of the Turkey Enterprise, promised the fair association.

"You have developed a wonderful fair," writes J. D. Hord of Southland. "I think you made a hit in having all athletics and other attractions free. We hope to see the fair continue to grow."

Greater Fair Desired

"We do not want to see the fair hampered in any way and hope that every requirement for a greater fair will be supplied," G. S. Dowell, secretary of the O'Donnell Chamber of Commerce, writes.

"My directors have instructed me to write you and express our thanks to you for your making for us the greatest fair of the Panhandle section," R. E. Prewitt, secretary of the Panhandle Swine Breeders association, states in a letter to the fair association.

"Personally, and in behalf of my association, I wish to express appreciation for all the courtesies that we received while at the best fair we attended this season. You do not know how much we enjoyed your great regional fair. There was such a feeling of good fellowship everywhere we went, that it made us feel at home all the time. We are all looking forward and making plans to be back next year with the greatest exhibit of swine ever exhibited in this section. New breeders will be there this year as visitors, but they have caught the spirit, and I am sure that my immediate county will send at least 100 head next fall. You better get busy and plan now for the greatest hog show ever seen in the West.

"We shall always be glad to cooperate in every way to make the greatest South Plains fair the best in this section.

"We certainly appreciate everything that your directors and city did for us, and we will always feel from now on that the great South Plains fair is our fair."

Unemployment Shows Increase for Japan

TOKYO, Oct. 30. (INS)—Unemployment in Japan grew considerably worse during the fall and threatens to become steadily worse as cold weather approaches, according to a report issued by the home ministry based on statistics from 242 local employment agencies throughout the country. The number of vacant positions is steadily decreasing and the number of applicants steadily increasing.

The percentage of persons seeking employment compared to the number of jobs available was 123 per cent as against 101 per cent a year ago.

Surround London With Ring of Police Phones

LONDON, Oct. 30. (INS)—A police ring of 1,000 monster telephone cabinets around London is the latest step in the intense warfare now being waged by Scotland Yard against automobile thieves.

These miniature police offices each contain a cell, writing desk, direct telephone to police headquarters, and telephones for public use.

The next move will be the establishment of a similar circuit at about a 50-mile radius from London. This outer cordon is to be equipped with mechanical means for stopping escaping automobiles.

Plan Lottery to Save Old Silesia Fortress

SILBERBERG, Oct. 30: (INS)—This Silesian city has petitioned the Prussian welfare ministry to permit it to hold a lottery to raise funds to preserve the historic fortress here, especially the dungeon.

In this fortress, which dates from the days of Frederick the Great, Fritz Reuter, the great Low German poet and novelist, served a part of the sentence of imprisonment imposed on him for his connection with the student agitation of 1832 for "the United Free States of Germany" and the "Confederated Republican Europe."

its initial momentum, appointed Frank Kell to act as chairman of the meeting, with J. C. Mytinger serving as secretary.

An outline of the plans adopted last week by the finance committee was presented Wednesday morning by Harry Hines, chairman. Discussion of the chosen campaign of deep oil exploration was featured by emphasis upon the investment feature of the project, according to information given The Record News. It was pointed out that this general area has been under observation for some time by the oil fraternity as likely to be found highly productive at levels lower than those heretofore explored, notwithstanding the fact that this territory now has about 14 producing horizons, and is recognized as one of the most prolific sections in the country.

Stimulate Business

Confidence was expressed by the men present Wednesday morning that a campaign of deep oil exploration such as the new corporation will make possible carries with it the assurance of sizable investments here from all parts of the country. Independent wildcatters, various royalty and lease companies, both small and major oil concerns will be attracted by the guaranteed development of lower producing levels in this section, it was said. Wilbarger, Baylor, Clay, Archer, Young and Wichita counties will be the first and most directly benefitted communities in renewed activity which should bring large numbers of persons into this area, and furnish a material stimulus to all lines of commercial and industrial endeavor in the counties concerned, according to opinions expressed at the meeting.

It is the plan of the finance committee to inaugurate a systematic financial campaign within the near future in an effort to complete the subscription of $1,000,000 worth of stock in the corporation in a short period of time. Members of the group which met Wednesday morning stressed the fact that success of the venture will rest with the entire citizenship of the communities concerned, despite the fact that a large portion of the total amount required has been pledged by men commissioned by the general meetings recently held to assume responsibility for promulgation of the chosen plan.

From the standpoint of investment, it was pointed out, leaders in the movement are convinced that producing horizons existing below those already proven, but above the formations expected to be discovered at maximum drilling depths, should amply repay the owners of stock in the corporation.

According to members of the finance committee, interests outside this section of Texas, have registered definite interest in the project now getting under way here. Various utilities companies, corporations doing business in this territory, and individual capitalists have indicated the intention of participating in the deep oil venture to which this area is now committed, it was stated, while declarations and commitments of citizens throughout the counties concerned, given to the finance committee, evidence the willingness of both large and small investors to subscribe for stock.

Charter Prepared

Organization of the finance committee is now being completed, Mr. Hines said, with selection of members representing counties other than Wichita being made by business leaders in the different communities. Preparation of papers required for the securing of a charter of incorporation will be completed soon by the legal committee, it was said, and upon completion of the campaign for a $1,000,000 capitalization, a meeting of all stockholders will be called to elect permanent directors charged with the business of drilling approximately 10 deep wells in this section of Texas.

It was said that many inquiries have been made at local banks, newspaper offices, and other business institutions, seeking detailed information relative to the adopted financing plan. This information may be obtained by communicating with the Deep Oil Drilling company finance committee, 704 Hamilton building, this city, it was announced.

The men present at Wednesday morning's meeting were Frank Kell, Harry Hines, A. E. Kelly, J. A. Kemp, Dr. A. B. Edwards of Henrietta, W. M. Coleman, I. B. Wilson, N. H. Martin, J. T. Harrell, J. S. ACTIVITY AT GINS SLUMPS

Kraft Plant to Buy Milk Until Nov. 15

Wichita county cotton gins operated at a greatly retarded rate again Wednesday as a result of dampness in the fields, the day's run totalling only 269 bales in Wichita Falls, Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Electra and Kemp City. The season's reported total is now 14,663 bales.

According to information given The Record-News, the Kraft Cheese company will continue to accept milk deliveries every day up to Nov. 15, when the plant will be turned over to the Southwest Dairy Products company. Letters sent to producers some time ago, it was said, stated that no milk would be bought at the cheese plant here after Nov. 1, but announcement to the contrary was made recently from Southwest headquarters at Kansas City.

Gray County to Extend Oil Curb

PAMPA, Texas, Oct. 30. (AP)—A 30-day extension of the shutdown of activities in Gray county oil fields, which already has lasted 60 days, was agreed upon Tuesday at a conference between oil operators.

At the same time another meeting was scheduled for Nov. 29, when proration will be considered if overproduction in the Mid-Continent field continues, spokesmen for the conference said.

Two exceptions were mode. One was for a Magnolia, which will probably drill two wells in section 13, each requiring nine offsets. Representatives of the Magnolia company said, hoowever, that the decision to drill was subject to change. The other exception was for the McMann Oil and Gas company which wants to drill two wells in section 90, a high production area.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today on trade buying and covering which was promoted by the better tone of the stock market, relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports that the movement of cotton to market in the South was being restricted by unfavorable weather. After selling up to 18.21 at the start January eased off to 18.11 under some further liquidation but later firmed up again on renewed covering, selling at 18.26 in the late trading. January closed at 18.24 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 19 to 24 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 13 to 18 points with the active months soon showing gains of 14 to 21 points on trade buying and covering. The week's report of the weather was considered fairly favorable and as indicating somewhat less damage by frost than apprehended and the advance of 18.08 for December and 18.50 for March evidently encountered some realizing by recent buyers.

December reacted to 17.98 and March to 18.39 or about 10 to 12 points from the best.

The highest of the day were reached in late trading with December selling at 18.14 and March at 18.54 and with the general list showing net gains of 21 to 25 points. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Port receipts today, 104,526. U. S. port stocks, 2,329,724. Exports, 32,843 making 2,028,025 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30. (AP)—The steadiness of stocks was reflected in cotton today with prices scoring an advance of about $1 a bale from yesterday's close. Although realizing caused moderate reactions at times, the general trend of prices was upward, the highs of the day being reached in final trading. December after advancing to 18.03, reacted to 17.95 but rallied again and closed at 18.09, or 23 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 22 to 23 points.

Liverpool cables were firm and the local market opened at an advance of 15 to 17 points in response. The improvement in the stock market made itself felt in the form of sympathetic trade buying which by the end of the first hour carried January to 18.15 and March 18.43, or 18 to 20 points over the previous close.

At these levels the market encountered realizing and ring selling probably influenced by a bearish construction of the weekly weather and crop summary. January eased back to 18.07 and March 18.33, or 10 to 11 points down from the early highs.

Values continued on the upgrade, reaching the highest in late trading. January sold at 18.20 and March 18.47, or 13 to 14 points over the lows and 23 to 24 points above the previous close. Final prices were at or near the top.

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. (US)—Optimistic utterances of all the country's business leaders added to investment buying of stocks today, and wiped out a good part of Tuesday's loss in the third most active session of history. Decision to omit trading except for three hours tomorrow afternoon brought added demand and closed the list near the best prices for the day. Steel finished 11 points higher, Can gained 11, General Motors 9¾, Erie 11¼, General Electric 25, Johns Manville 21, Carbide 17, Montgomery Ward 12, Foreign Power 19, Alleghany 7⅝, Atlantic Refining 6½ and Columbia Gas 15. All groups benefited as the Rockefeller interests and other powerful individuals let it be known they had been buying stocks. Call money held at 6 per cent throughout and the time rate eased to the same level. Turnover approximated 11,000,000 shares with the tape near two hours late.

As stated exclusively in this column Tuesday morning John D. Rockefeller bought stocks Monday. He added to his purchases today. It is estimated that he and his son have purchased as much as $15,000,000 of common stocks in the last two days. The last time Mr. Rockefeller Sr. was identified as an active buyer of stocks, when it is remembered that Steel could be bought at from $22 to $25 a share without any trouble in those trying days and that it has paid over $110 a share in cash dividends since, not to speak of the stock dividend and the expected split-up, it would seem that the Rockefeller judgment is worthy of being followed. Similar buying to that of the Rockefellers by other important interests, was witnessed on Monday and Tuesday and those buyers are the kind that stay with their stocks indefinitely.

There was more learned about finding actual values of securities today, than ever before. Customers besieged their brokers with inquiries as to earning power, asset value, working capital, etc. Those who never knew what "balance" meant during the "Coolidge bull market" now recognize the importance of balance sheet study. Those stocks with the strongest cash position, and best earnings history benefited particularly. The number of small buyers was surprising. One firm alone handled 500 odd lot orders in such stocks in one hour.

Inquiry of heads of the more powerful investment trusts and institutions as to stocks they regarded in the best position brought the most favorable mention of such as New York Central, Chicago, Northwestern, New Haven, Missouri Pacific, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Alleghany Corporation, United Corporation, Brooklyn Manhattan, American Radiator, Johns Manville, American International. Building industry stocks were the subject of much more favorable talk. It was pointed out that not alone will the easier money tend to bring about improvement but that the apparent policy of the government will mean material increase in construction work before long.

Omission of trading tomorrow and closing of the exchange Friday and Saturday was regarded as a very constructive action. Machinery of the exchange is shaking under the load it has had to bear and clerks are ragged as a result of almost continuous work since last Wednesday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 30. (AP)—Huge concentrated speculative buying for eastern and European account moved the wheat market up today to the highest and strongest close witnessed in some time. Export purchasing of wheat for transatlantic shipments from North America was also on a large scale, totaling 1,750,000 bushels today. Meanwhile, indications pointed to near-at-hand decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total, and rural deliveries of wheat at interior Canadian points showed a remarkable falling off.

Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's topmost level, 3½c to 4¼c advanced, oats ¼c to ⅜c up, and provisions ranging from 10c decline to a rise of 7c.

By far the greater portion of today's advance in wheat came during the final hour of business, but it was a noticeable fact that prices had begun to climb briskly after a little wavering at the start.

Adding force to the upward impetus of the wheat market in late dealings was the announcement that some domestic mills have disposed of the equal to 600 per cent of their flour-making capacity in the last week. It was shown that primary domestic receipts of wheat this week were less than half as large as a year ago, and that Canadian country marketings for a single day had dropped to 878,000 bushels against 3,897,000 bushels at this time last year. According to one estimate, farmers in Canada have but 50,000,000 bushels of wheat left now after allowing for feed and seed requirements.

Corn although at first inclined to sag, turned upgrade sharply toward the last in response to wheat strength. Earlier, corn was more or less affected by news that a cargo of 2,000 tons of Argentine corn was being unloaded at Georgian bay, Canada. Oats today were governed rather by wheat action than by corn.

Provisions averaged lower as a result of commission house selling which took place notwithstanding that hog values were higher.

Blaze in Chicago's Loop Extinguished

CHICAGO, Oct. 30. (UP)—Hundreds of firemen with all available downtown apparatus fought early today to control fire that was sweeping through the eight-story John R. Thompson building on West Madison street near the center of the loop. Residents of the Morrison hotel, across the street, and the historic old Grant hotel, adjoining, were driven to the streets by smoke.

Origin of the blaze had not been determined.

The building houses, a moving picture theater and a gymnasium, as well as retail shops on the first floor and offices in upper stories were burned.

The Grant hotel, threatened by the flames, in past years was known as the stopping place of theatrical folk and was a show place at one time.

The spectacular fire, which brought a crowd from nearby cafes and nightclubs, was brought under control after two hours. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

The Grant was not damaged but the guests shivered in the streets while firemen fought the Thompson company blaze.

Steer's Dash on City Street Brings Suit

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 30. (UP)—The opera buffet episode on a busy downtown street here recently in which a stray steer terrorized pedestrians and fled before the bullets of a policeman, breaking a plate glass window before he was killed, had a legal aftermath today. Charles S. Davis, slightly wounded by a glancing bullet sued the Kansas City Livestock Commission company for $7,500 damages. Davis exonerated the policeman on ground the officer was performing his duty.

ANIMALS IN WINTER HOME

Zoo Exhibits Housed As Norther Threatens

In preparation for the freezing temperatures predicted for this section Wednesday night, animals at the Municipal zoo were moved into their recently constructed winter quarters, it was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The winter building is a large all-metal structure with facilities for heating, in which the tropical and semi-tropical animals will spend the cold months.

The kangaroo, hyena, ocelot, bobcat, coatimunda, groundhog, crown crane, baboons, monkeys, kinkajou, parrots and other such small animals were given space in the building. Another preparation for the cold weather was the laying of a wooden floor over the concrete in the stockade of Miss Sugar, the baby elephant. She has a bad habit of catching rheumatism from the cold concrete floor in the winter time and the wood flooring will help in protecting her health, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Mr. Brewer is conducting the state university department classes here at the Kemp hotel. Doctor Pinnell opened a 10-day revival meeting at the First Christian church Wednesday night.

Vocal numbers by Misses Jean Fish and Lorene Tucker, with Miss Tucker playing piano accompaniments, were given on a program of entertainment which included a singsong led by E. F. Bohmfalk.

Many Ancient Finds Near German Cities

KONIGSBERG, Oct. 30. (INS)—The excavations conducted by the Prussia museum, which recently disclosed a great Viking burial place, continue to turn up finds from the most various periods—the early Iron age, the Bronze age, the days of the Roman Caesars and of the migration of the peoples.

The oldest find, a bone ax, was made in Lindenwiese. It comes from the later Ice age, 6,000 to 8,000 years ago.

Amarillo Woman Had Suffered For Two Years

Well and Happy Now as Any Woman in Texas; Praises Orgatone

"After suffering for two long years, I took Orgatone and I am as well and happy now as any woman you ever saw," said Mrs. Murchison, who lives at 411 Rusk St., Amarillo, while talking with an Orgatone representative a few days ago.

"I suffered with my kidneys to begin with," continued Mrs. Murchison, "and was never able to find anything to relieve me the least bit. Until I commenced taking Orgatone, I was not able to eat anything without suffering agonies afterwards. My food would sour on my stomach in a short time after meals, and I would often have such cramping spells that I could hardly stand it. I was having the very best treatment all the time, but I just seemed to grow worse every day, and I finally got so weak and run down that I was hardly able to do my own housework.

"While I was trying to decide what to do about my condition, I commenced reading the newspaper here in Amarillo about the great work Orgatone was doing, so I bought a bottle, and that one bottle helped me so much that in two or three nights I was sleeping like a baby. Then I went to the drug store and bought two or more bottles of Orgatone and here I am today just as well as any woman in Texas. Why, I have actually gained in weight and strength and am so perfectly well in every way that I do all my housework and get out and go down town and walk for blocks and not get tired the least bit. I have a fine appetite and my stomach is in such a fine condition that my food agrees with me perfectly and I eat just anything that the rest of the family eats. Oh! I would just love to meet face to face with all the people in the world who suffer as I did and tell them the wonderful story of my recovery so that they might take Orgatone and be relieved as I have."

STRAND: Ruth Chatterton, Lewis Stone and Raymond Hackett in "Madame X." Lionel Barrymore hits a home run in his first time at bat as a director. "The Lunkhead," Mack Sennett talking comedy. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: Monte Blue in "No Defense." Honey Hank Harris and company on stage. Comedy. Sportlight.

GEM: "What a Night," with Bebe Daniels. Western picture. Comedy.

Ordinarily the name of a motion picture director, flashed on the screen at the beginning of the film in formal acknowledgment, receives no more than a casual glance from the patrons. Chief interest is centered in the dramatis personnae (which we now modernly style "The players), and the story which is to be enacted. With such a galaxy of stars as Ruth Chatterton, Lewis Stone, Raymond Hackett, Ulrich Haupt and others who make up the cast of "Madame X," the name of the director may have been more completely overlooked even than it usually is. For those who didn't notice it, that personage was Lionel Barrymore.

With nothing of the Beau Brummel bearing of his younger brother John, with less majesty of voice and physique than his renowned sister Ethel, Lionel Barrymore has not cast over theater goers in this country the spell woven by the other two Barrymore children. John's delicately chiseled nose, expressive eyes, consummate grace and incarnate spirit of chivalry have been the cynosure of all feminine eyes in the theater's past 20 years in the United States. Ethel's unsurpassed richness of tone in spoken parts, capable of running the entire gamut of human emotion with thrilling vibrancy, her dignity of bearing and comprehensive grasp of assigned roles have made dramatic history. But what of Lionel?

"Barrymore" has almost invariably "contacted" with recollections of John and Ethel, with Lionel on second thought remembered as the third heir of the traditional family talent. Why? In large measure due to the fact that Lionel's endowments fit him for dramatic roles which repel rather than attract the sympathy of the audience. It was with his impersonations that the hero and heroine, supported by the emotional cheering of the fans, waged their eternal struggle on stage and screen. Refer for illustration to Lionel's last appearance here, in the talking version of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," with William Haines. His portrayal of the detective had the entire audience figuratively grabbing at his coat-tail in the hope of expediting Jimmy's quite righteous evasion of the law. Now Lionel is a director, and "Madame X" was his introductory vehicle.

To give Barrymore credit for all the excellence of character delineation revealed in this picture would obviously be rankly unjust to the select cast which he utilized. To overlook or discount Barrymore's contribution would constitute as great an injustice. The selection of lines, continuity of constantly growing dramatic intensity, and the details of histrionic technique were welded together with subtle genius to produce a "Madame X" the equal of any the American stage has offered. If this performance is an example of what Lionel Barrymore can do in his new field, few will doubt his having shared equally with Ethel and John in the family bequest of rare dramatic instinct.

Built around the fame which "The Two Black Crows" have accumulated in great slices via reproductions and radio broadcasts during the past three years, "Moran and Mack" will bring the two blackface clowns to the Strand for a week's engagement opening Thursday night at midnight. The fact that sections of recorded dialogue, radio patter, and stage deliveries have been included in the talking-picture merely constitutes a genuine recommendation of their fun-making proclivities. None need fear experiencing ennui with being given "old stuff." That's the secret of the type of drollery which predominates in their chatter; it doesn't get old.

The boxing match which occurs early in the performance undoubtedly will show one of the cleverest bits of pantomimic clowning concocted since the personable but ancient Androcles toyed with the lion under haughty Nero's nose. The elements of melodrama which have been used as a background for the stellar flashes escape the charge of having been drawn from the bokum bucket; they are sections from life, cut from the best known parts.

CHEST FUND GOAL IN SIGHT

Final Drive Expected To Gain Quota

A recheck on non-contributors to the Community Chest fund, answers from out-of-town contributors and the imminence of the first of November as pay day will be sufficient to put the total chest fund over the top for the $70,000 quota, leaders declared Wednesday night.

Twenty-five new workers were recruited into service Wednesday to go to non-contributors and those who were missed in the first campaign. A considerable amount has not been turned in, it was announced, and only 15 of the 45 teams have completed their quotas.

Districts 1, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 18, 27, 28 and 29 are over the top with their quotas, and the county, school and miscellaneous divisions have also checked in complete.

Wichita Youngsters Prepare For Usual Pranks of Halloween

In spite of the fact that modern times have dispensed with horses and wagons and gates are a thing of the past, Halloween will still present to youthful minds untold numbers of devilish things to do and many a resident of Wichita Falls will awake Friday morning to find this or that loose object in some unthought-of place.

Perhaps there will be no automobiles perched on top of steeples or farm implements on roofs, but something is due to happen. Frank Burns, chief of police, has asked that there be no printed suggestions as to what might be done, because the youngsters might not think of so many tricks if no possibilities are suggested.

Chief Burns has issued a warning to residents to remove all movable chairs, benches and other objects from their front yards and porches and has warned against leaving cars parked on the streets. The department will keep a close watch for infractions of the law and will attempt to prevent damage to property or persons, he said, but boys on Halloween night have a "mysterious manner their tricks to play."

Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief inspector of the health department, has notified all business men and residents in the city and that trash haulers will make their rounds of the alleys at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in order to clear away all possible rubbish and prevent use of loose boxes, boards and trash in malicious pranks. He has asked that merchants, especially in the business district, place their trash out in time for it to be hauled away at 3 p. m. and that none be placed out after that time.

Classification talks by J. B. Allred, public accountant, and Dr. C. R. Lanphere, dentist, also were included in Wednesday's program. Hall and Julius Englemann were named as a new program committee by Marvin Smith, president.

Three Lawton Prisoners Taken to Penitentiary

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 30.—Comanche county has added three more prisoners to the overflowing population in McAlester penitentiary. Sheriff George Frampton and County Attorney Wade Tyree left late Saturday for the state prison with Vera Myers, convicted in the present term of the district court of second degree forgery and sentenced to one year.

Marillo Sales, negress, was also a member of the party. She was convicted in the present term of court of attack with a dangerous weapon and given a year in the penitentiary. Marillo attempted to carve an officer when he was attempting to bring her to the police station in an automobile.

Henry Romine, of Cache, convicted two years ago in district court of second degree manslaughter in connection with the fatal injuries to Mrs. J. T. Stephens, wife of a retired minister, when he ran over Mrs. Stephens with his car, while intoxicated, and whose case was recently confirmed by the supreme court, was the third member of the party.

Howard Reynolds, given one year in the county jail by a jury for having shot off the right arm of former Constable S. A. Logan, following a raid upon his place, started serving his sentence Saturday.

CITY RECEIVES STREET SIGNS

Work of Placing Markers To Start Soon

Half the number of street signs ordered recently by the city were received Wednesday and the remainder of the order is expected within the next week or 10 days, it was announced by W. B. Ward, city purchasing agent. George D. Fairtrace, city manager, stated the signs would be erected immediately upon shipment of the pipe for the sign posts. The pipe is expected also within the next week, he said.

A message from the General Electric company has notified Mr. Ward that final shipment of the traffic signals ordered by the city would be made Wednesday, Oct. 30, and that the signals could be expected in Wichita Falls within the next two weeks. A total of 25 signs were ordered, creating an entirely new system of traffic control for the city with a new and improved control mechanism located at the central fire station.

The old traffic lights on the downtown intersections have been sold to the city of Waco and the new lights will be erected in their places, as well as at 10 other intersections in the business district. Three of the new signals will be placed along Brook avenue in the residential section where traffic is heavy.

The improved control system will create a fire lane out Ninth street and will allow the operator at the fire station to switch on the amber lights out Ninth, clearing traffic along that street but allowing traffic in other parts of the city to continue unhampered, Mr. Fairtrace explained. Ninth street will be the only fire lane, the entire system switching to the amber light in case of a fire in directions not toward the residential section. Erection of these lights will begin as soon as they are received, it was said.

U. T. Regents to Let Contract on Nov. 8.

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (UP)—Awarding of a contract for a new $900,000 chemistry building, in a continuance of a vast building program, and discussions of a loan to finance new buildings, will occupy the attentions of the University of Texas regents when they assemble here for a meeting Nov. 8.

Negotiations are practically completed for construction of seven boys' dormitories and a central dining hall, to be erected at a cost of approximately $1,500,000. No university money is to be used for the erection of these buildings. Funds will be supplied by either banking or insurance interests and repayment will be made through income derived from room rentals.

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Olson, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.
