Duval County Funds Tied Up By Broadfoot

SAN DIEGO, Tex., May 29 (AP)—Duval County funds were tied up today by order of Dist. Judge A.S. Broadfoot.

The judge signed yesterday an order restraining county officials from issuing vouchers and the Texas State Bank of Alice, county depository, from accepting them.

He said the order lasts until a new county auditor is sworn in to sign vouchers.

County Auditor C.T. Stansell Jr. resigned early this year during a state and federal investigation of the financial affairs of Duval County and political boss George Parr. He was succeeded by W.M. Benson of Alice, who resigned two weeks later.

John Arthur Thomason of Brown County was named to succeed Benson by Broadfoot but Duval County commissioners refused to accept his bond and voted to abolish the office of auditor. Broadfoot ignored this in naming Thomason. Thomason asked his name be withdrawn after the commissioners refused to accept his bond.

Broadfoot Tuesday appointed Donato Serna to the office, but commissioners court has not met to set bond for him. Serna is a leader in the Freedom party, which opposes Parr.

The petition for the restraining order was filed by Enrique Garza, Dan Abame Jr., and Jose Ruiz.

Their petition said County Judge Dan Tobin Jr. has been quoted to the effect that Commissioners court will not meet until its next regular session, June 4, to consider Serna's bond.

When he made the appointment, Broadfoot wrote to Tobin, suggesting a special meeting of commissioners court to fix the bond.

The citizens' petition said county checks have been issued signed only by Tobin, County Clerk A. Garcia Jr. and County Treasurer Ed Saenz.

While state and federal investigators looked into Duval county affairs, the grand jury conducted its own investigation and reported it found no basis for any indictments. No state or federal charges have been filed, either.

Meanwhile, the State Supreme Court ousted Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin on grounds of official misconduct.

Broadfoot, called out of retirement from Bonham, succeeded him and dismissed the grand jury and the panel which chose its members.

Last week he appointed a new panel, and a new grand jury is to meet Tuesday. What matters it will take up have not been disclosed.

Arrest Made After WAVE Found Killed

POINT LOOKOUT, Md., May 29 (AP) — The battered body of Irene Marion Conole, 26-year-old Wave, was found along the beach early today. Several hours later a Navy airman, Carl Willis Strickland, 21, was arrested at his home in Rocky Mount, N. C., on suspicion of murder.

The pretty brunette was to have been married in a few weeks.

She and Strickland were stationed at Patuxent Naval Air Base, near here, but Strickland did not tell Rocky Mount police whether he knew her. He did admit being on the beach last night, Police Chief J. I. Nichols said.

Nichols said Strickland waived extradition and would return to Maryland with Sheriff Willard B. Long of St. Mary's County late tonight.

Long said there was no doubt the young woman was murdered. An autopsy was ordered, he said, mainly to find out whether she was killed before being thrown into the water, or whether she drowned after being beaten.

Waldo Pickett found the body while walking along the beach to work at 6:45 a.m.

Miss Conole was assigned to the Patuxent Naval Air Station. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Conole of 128 Glenwood Ave., Rochester.

French Break Siege Of Fort In Indochina

HANOI, Indochina, May 29 (AP)—Five thousand French Union troops, including mobile artillery units, today broke the Vietminh siege of Yen Phu in the biggest offensive by the French since the fall of Dien Bien Phu.

The rebels scattered into the hills around Phu Ly, 30 miles south of Hanoi, under heavy air, artillery and ground attack.

Yen Phu, a strategic defense post six miles from the big communications center of Phu Ly, had been under siege for 18 days in what was called a "little Dien Bien Phu." Its defending garrison of only 160 men had been supplied by air.

French pilots dropped arms and supplies to two other small delta posts which have been under rebel siege for about a week. They were Xathi and Tayam about 25 miles southwest of Haiphong, the big port city which receives most of the American supplies for the Indochina fighting.

Tanks, armored cars and infantrymen drove from the Nam Dinh and Phu Ly sectors to relieve Yen Phu. After breaking the siege the infantry fanned out to take a hill position the rebels had used for observation purposes. This was Khenon Mountain, whose top is about 1,000 feet higher than the surrounding limestone hills which serve as rebel hideouts.

The French foot soldiers quickly dispersed eight rebel "contact points" on the mountain.

Mobile American - supplied 155mm long range guns lobbed hundreds of shells into Vietminh hill positions.

Heavy concentrations of rebels were spotted on the Day River just west of Phu Ly and Yen Phu. The rebels were heavily strafed and bombed. In addition, the French sent amphibious units into the river to supplement the air assault.

French military authorities say the Vietminh have around 12 battalions—up to 7,200 men—in the Phu Ly sector, while the French number about a division.

Capture of Phu Ly would slash French communications with the rice-rich southeast sector of the delta and would enable the rebels to step up attacks the vital road-rail link between Hanoi and Haiphong.

Catholics Make Pius X Saint

VATICAN CITY, May 29 (AP)—Pope Pius X, the humble Giuseppe Sarton, was canonized a saint today in a glittering ceremony before half a million people.

The vast throng stretched from the central gate of St. Peter's Basilica, where Pope Pius XII presided, through the big square and the entire length of the broad quarter-mile avenue that leads to Castel Sant'angelo on the bank of the Tiber.

Thousands stood in hushes and prayerful silence as the 78-year-old spiritual head of more than 400 million Catholics recited the ancient Latin formula that placed the name of Pius X on the church's list of saints.

Pius X was the first Pope to be canonized in 242 years. For the first time television cameras recorded the historic event.

For Pius XII it was the most trying experience since his recent illness that confined him for weeks to his Vatican apartment.

Few modern Popes have attained this highest honor as quickly as has Pius X. He died only 40 years ago, after the outbreak of World War I, which he had sought to prevent.

DALLAS, May 29 (AP)—Pioneer Air Lines was authorized today by the Civil Aeronautics Board to provide a new express service between Dallas and Fort Worth and Midland-Odessa.

Smith, Pioneer president, said the CAB order allows only two stops between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland-Odessa via Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder and Big Spring, Smith said. The firm currently operates six flights between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland-Odessa, two stopping at Mineral Wells and Breckenridge and four flights stopping at Sweetwater, Big Spring and Snyder.

Knowland, Smith Speak Against Joe's Method Of Getting Information

McCarthy's Appeal Is Called Shocking

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Two prominent Senate Republicans spoke out today against Sen. McCarthy's appeal to federal employes to disregard security orders in giving him information.

Sen. Knowland (Calif), Republican floor leader, said the Eisenhower administration is just as anxious as Congress to catch traitors and that the Wisconsin Republican is on "dangerous and doubtful ground" in his tussle with the executive department.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (NJ), in a statement dictated to his office here from Princeton, N.J., said he was deeply shocked by what he called "defiance of the executive in this crisis."

"We can not tolerate one-man government either in the executive or in our legislative bodies," Smith asserted. He added that McCarthy's statement was "beyond belief" and described yesterday's clash of statements as "an executive-McCarthy contest" instead of an "executive-legislative" one.

Smith, one of Eisenhower's earliest backers, is chairman of the Senate Labor Committee.

Smith also took issue with McCarthy for refusal of information in his subcommittee files to Democratic members of the subcommittee. "Every member of that committee is entitled to access to all evidence and all information that the chairman is entitled to receive," Smith said.

Knowland spoke out in an interview as McCarthy and some principal actors in the McCarthy-Army dispute went on a holiday until televised hearings are resumed Tuesday.

McCarthy asserted before he left that "no power on earth" could force him to divulge the names of government employes who keep him informed about communism, corruption and espionage. He said federal workers are "duty bound" to give him such data and can not let "loyalty to a superior" interfere.

On that point, Knowland sided with Atty. Gen. Brownell. The latter, in a statement approved by the White House, said the executive department has the responsibility for enforcement of security laws and orders, and this responsibility can't be "usurped."

Speaking of the McCarthy appeal for information, Knowland said:

"I think it gets into highly dangerous and doubtful ground to ask employes to violate the law or their orders to turn over security information. I would not make such an appeal.

"In my opinion, the Eisenhower administration is just as interested in cleaning up corruption, communism and espionage as Congress. I believe the executive arm is interested in taking any necessary steps to eliminate these threats to our security."

Although he said that no one formula can be made to apply to every case, Knowland said he thinks federal employes who learn of espionage or corruption should report the matter to their department heads.

He said that then, if there is no action, he believes the employe would be justified in giving his information to "a member of Congress in whom he had confidence."

But in no case, the California senator said, does he believe government workers would be justified in lifting security documents out of the files and turning them over to either members of Congress or to "outsiders." He said such documents should be produced only on demand of congressional committees and not turned over to individual lawmakers.

McCarthy's clash with administration officials grew out of his production at the hearings of a document quoting an FBI report on the question of espionage at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Brownell ruled that it could not be made public because it would damage national security.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) suggested that McCarthy might have violated the law in receiving the information and the Wisconsin senator replied that if any grand jury wanted to indict him "let them go ahead."

McCarthy has said that because of the attitude taken by McClellan and other Democrats on the Senate Investigations subcommittee he will refuse to let them look at any committee files which contain the names of informers. He said he had no assurance such names would be kept secret.

DOCUMENTS SHOW

Reds On 'Neutral' Team Are Said Hiding Military Buildup

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Defense Department tonight issued documents to show that Communist members of the "neutral" team monitoring the Korean armistice are resorting to propaganda, false charges and obstruction to cover up a Red military buildup in North Korea.

Among the documents was one in which Swedish and Swiss members of the team labelled as "malicious fabrications" charges by the Red members that the United Nations forces are violating truce terms.

The Defense Department charged, on the basis of the documents, that the Polish and Czech Communist members of the "neutral" commission are engaged in exploiting propaganda and intelligence opportunities made possible by their position.

Four documents, with an accompanying statement, were issued by the department. This was another in a series of "white papers" put forth in recent weeks by government agencies, including the Defense Department. Previous releases dealt with Soviet influence in the Korean and Indochina wars and with the military buildup in Russia.

Today's statement and material seemed aimed at showing the futility of attempting to operate a "neutral" inspection team when half of the members are Soviet satellite officials. Two of the four members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission are Swedish and Swiss generals, the other two are Polish and Czech generals.

The accompanying statement by the Defense Department said that from the outset activities of the NNSC "indicated that the Czech and Polish members were not 'neutral' in their approach to the mission, functions, and responsibilities which they had solemnly accepted as members of a neutral supervisory commission." The Defense Department statement added:

"It soon became evident that the Polish and Czech members of the NNSC were following a specific line of obstructionist tactics established and set forth by the senior Comunist member of the MAC (Military Armistice Commission). These tactics apparently are intended to generate propaganda and intelligence opportunities for investigation of the military buildup in North Korea."

Candidates Demand State Investigations

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Charges of lax administration and influence peddling in connection with shaky insurance company affairs were thrown into sharp focus this week as a major issue in state political races.

Candidates for practically all major offices were demanding stepped-up investigations while a Travis County grand jury was returning indictments.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, chairman of the Legislative Council, named a committee of two senators and three representatives today to supervise the council staff's search for tougher insurance laws.

Ramsey is running for reelection. He called the session of the state council yesterday to begin work on insurance law reform.

One of his opponents, Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, called in a statement for a law making all state officials and legislators register the amounts and sources of their income. He said Texas needs a law to "curb influence peddling in state government."

Ralph Yarborough, candidate for governor, joined in again on the chorus assailing "influence peddlers" and "fixers." He said the state needs a thorough investigation looking into retainers, bank accounts, expense accounts, income tax returns, and "excessive personal expenditures" of persons connected with insurance law administration.

Yarborough said insurance policy holders "are entitled to an immediate and complete investigation of all aspects of what Time magazine this week calls 'the Texas insurance mess.'"

Insurance Commission Chairman Garland Smith, an appointee of Gov. Shivers, said yesterday the Time article included "several blatant untruths and numerous half truths." He said the magazine had joined with jealous big eastern insurance companies in trying to "smear" the insurance industry in Texas.

Smith said that most Texas insurance companies are sound operators and those that are in court are there because the insurance commission put them there.

Shivers returned from Korea today. He has done no campaigning for ten days. The main development in his drive for reelection was his appointment of Sen. Ottis Lock as campaign manager and the retaining of three firms to handle his public relations.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd, also a candidate for reelection, submitted 29 proposed changes in the law to the Legislative Council in its effort to plug up loopholes in the insurance statutes.

Rep. Doug Crouch, opposing Shepperd, is another candidate demanding thorough investigation of insurance company affairs and state administration of insurance laws.

The Legislative Council now studying insurance law needs is a year-around agency whose function is to study proposals for legislation. Ramsey named Sens. Gus Strauss, Hallettsville, and Rogers Kelley, Edinburg; Reps. Scott Sayers, Fort Worth, Tom King, Dallas, and Waggoner Carr, Lubbock, to supervise the insurance survey.

Building Plans Are Stalled On Differences

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — A bill expected to touch off a multi-billion dollar government building program is stalled because of differences between the Senate and House over how closely Congress should supervise the projects.

However, two senators serving as conferees on the measure said today they were sure some compromise would be worked out.

Some backers of the measure are fearful that President Eisenhower will veto it unless part of the restrictive language written in by the Senate is eliminated in conference.

The President did veto a minor House bill last Wednesday because of language identical to that adopted by the Senate in the building program measure. He said an unconstitutional invasion of executive power was involved.

The pending measure for the first time would give the government authority to acquire new postoffices and other types of federal buildings over the country through lease-purchase contracts.

Contracts would be negotiated with builders to put up structures to government specifications. Payments would be made like rent for periods of 10 to 25 years, after which the government would own the building.

Sponsors say the resulting program might reach a total of three to four billion dollars because of a big backlog of building needs running back to before World War II.

The measure passed the House last year, the Senate on April 20. No conference between the two branches has been held in the five weeks since Senate action, pending informal discussions to try to resolve the differences.

The Senate held that the House bill was too loosely drawn. It wrote in many provisions designed to assure a tight congressional rein on the building projects.

The one causing the most trouble states that the administrators of the program must "come into agreement with the committee on public works of the Senate and of the House of Representatives with respect to such purchase contract agreement" before it can be executed.

Crack French Army May Go To Indochina

PARIS, May 29 (AP) —French troops now helping occupy Germany have been earmarked for possible transfer to Indochina, an important French source disclosed today. These are some of France's best troops.

These divisions consist of both regulars and draftees, the source said, and if it is decided they are needed in Indochina they may be sent as a unit, including the draftees. However, it was considered more likely, the source indicated, that only regulars would be sent. A final decision on this problem may come from next Tuesday's Cabinet meeting.

The Cabinet also is expected to decide Tuesday whether to recall Gen. Henri Navarre from Indochina, and who might replace him.

These prospects arose after the Cabinet's decision yesterday to call up 80,000 draftees four to six months ahead of schedule in order to permit emergency transfer to Indochina of enough troops to block the Vietminh rebels now converging on the critical Red River Delta area around Hanoi and Haiphong in north Indjchina.

Discussions during the day developed a new point: That the government evidently has decided to point out that only is the fate of Indochina in question, but new troops must be sent there "to protect the expeditionary forces" now fighting a defensive operation.

This change of emphasis evidently was intended to remind Frenchmen that not only the independence of Indochina is involved, but the fate of a beleaguered French army.

A qualified source said the new call-up would make available, if necessary, "several divisions" of French troops. From other quarters it was indicated 20,000 trained troops would be made available by the emergency call-up, a number more than equal to those lost in killed or captured at Dien Bien Phu.

Alaniz Trial Will Be Held In Waco July 6

ALICE, May 29 (AP)—A corrected indictment charging Nago Alaniz, Alice attorney, with conspiracy to murder Jacob Floyd was transferred today to McLennan County.

Alaniz is to be tried in Waco July 6 on that count and two others, murder and accomplice to murder.

Floyd, son of a South Texas political leader, was shot to death Sept. 8, 1952.

His father, a foe of political boss George Parr, has testified that his son was killed by mistake. The father said he was the intended victim.

Mario Sapet, San Antonio tavern keeper, was convicted in Brownwood last year in young Floyd's death and is serving a 99-year prison sentence.

Menzies Tops Aussie Voting

SYDNEY, Australia, Sunday, May 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' free enterprise coalition government was the apparent victory today over the Socialist Labor party opposition in the Australian general elections.

The 12-hour balloting ended last night at 8 o'clock Australian time.

With more than three-fourths of the nearly five million ballots counted, the government's Liberal-Country party coalition pulled out of a see-saw battle with a likely edge of 64 to 57 full voting seats in the House of Representatives.

At one point in the counting, Labor pushed to the lead but was knocked back again by later tallies coming in from the rural areas.

Menzies was re-elected from his own constituency by a healthy majority, as was opposition leader Herbert V. Evatt, former foreign minister in the Labor government.

The Communists campaigned quietly—and fruitlessly—for 41 of their candidates.

Atom Deadlock Is Complete

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The deadlock between Russia and the United States over President Eisenhower's proposed atoms - for-peace plan became publicly complete today—to the discouragement of U.S. officials who had hoped for some progress.

Publication in the Moscow newspaper Pravda of the Soviet government's position on the atomic talks upset these talks, not so much because of the familiar arguments used as because the Russians are now treating the atomic negotiations as simply another aspect of the wide open conflict between the Soviet Union and the West on many issues.

Secretary of State Dulles is known to have been favorably impressed by the fact that the Soviets had refrained from propaganda discussions of the atomic negotiations. These talks resulted from Eisenhower's proposal to the United Nations last December for American-Russian cooperation in setting up an atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

Bob Anderson Warns Against 'Blind Emotionalism' In Talk

DALLAS, May 29 (AP)—Deputy Defense Secretary Robert B. Anderson said today "blind emotionalism" in public debate can undermine the nation's democratic processes.

The Texas-born official spoke at a luncheon after receiving the annual Texas Award presented by A. Harris & Co.

"We who believe in the democratic proposition," Anderson said, "know that the function of public debate, in which differences are aired, views are challenged and truth is relentlessly sought, is crucial to the democratic process.

"But we also know that when blind emotionalism rules, when men rather than ideas become the issue, when self-interest is substituted for national interest in widening circle of hysteria, hatred and mistrust, then discord and insolidarity may indeed become the product of the process."

The lanky former Vernon resident said that "while we may differ, as thinking men do, yet we are cohesive in fundamentals."

Anderson urged "a platform of calm assurance and determination" in combatting "the greedy thirst for power of a few men in the Kremlin."

"We must see our own responsibilities for leading the free world community, in patience and understanding, toward the ultimate goal of freedom for all men, everywhere," Anderson declared.

The award was presented Anderson, recently promoted from secretary of the Navy, by Arthur Kramer Jr.

The award, started in 1950, recognizes Texans who have "appreciably contributed to the advancement of the best we know in American life in any of the fields of arts and sciences."

A $1,000 cash prize goes with the award. Anderson turned it over to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic Leader, told the luncheon developments in Indochina and Guatemala represent a "one-two" punch by the Communists.

"It is hardly a coincidence that Communist arms should arrive in Guatemala shortly after the fall of Dien Bien Phu and right in the middle of the Geneva conference," Johnson said.

"This is a piece of a pattern, a pattern designed to keep us off balance in the months ahead."

He said the United States must "pick and choose" the grounds upon which it will stand—"and know clearly who will stand with us."

"We must find soft spots in the Communist system where we can go on the offensive without going to war," Johnson declared.

"Bob Anderson is one of the few men in public life today who can unite just about anybody," Johnson said. "He can bring them together regardless of party, creed or background. He can bring them together to work for the country."

At the speakers' table were Mrs. Anderson and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Anderson of Godley, Johnson County.

Congratulatory messages to the 43-year-old Anderson were received from a number of nationally prominent persons, including Welfare Secretary Oveta Hobby, Vice-President Richard Nixon and Gov. Shivers.

Some 500 business and professional leaders attended the luncheon. Anderson returns to Washington Monday.

5 Scholarship Award Winners Here Plan To Attend College

Six students who graduated from high school here Tuesday night have been awarded or are eligible for scholarships.

Of the six, five plan to attend college. Mira Nell Caswell, who was valedictorian of the class, was made eligible for a one-year tuition scholarship in any state-supported school. Miss Caswell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil T. Caswell, 3757 Dalton Drive, does not plan to attend college. During her schooling here, she served one year as a student body representative, was a member of the high school library club, and received a special "S" award for scholarship.

The salutatorian, Ramon (Monnie) Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bush Hedges, Westridge addition, was awarded the Lions Club $100 scholarship. As the highest ranking boy scholastically in the class, Hedges was eligible for a one-year tuition scholarship in a church-related school in Texas. His present plans, however, are to attend the University of Texas to enter pre-medical training. Hedges was an outstanding agriculture student in the school. Last year he became a Lone Star Farmer in the Future Farmers of America, the next-to-highest award of the organization. He showed several winning animals in stock shows. In addition to his agricultural activities, Hedges was active in early high school days in athletics, served as a class officer and member of the student council when a sophomore, was a home room officer two years, and was in the school science club one year. He was given the "S" award for scholarship.

Louise Crook, daughter of Mrs. J. P. Crook, 2808 Thirty-seventh Street, was chosen for a special scholarship to Texas Technolocigal College. Miss Crook will receive $750 for one year's schooling at the school, half the money furnished by the Diamond M Foundation established by C. T. McLaughlin, and half by the Barton Foundation, headed by T. H. Barton, chairman of the board for Lion Oil Co. Miss Crook's father, who died last November, had been a Lion employe. Renewal of the scholarship after the first year depends on Miss Crook's performance in school.

Miss Crook plans to major in elementary education and minor in music and business. She was recently a runner-up for National Arion award as an outstanding choral student here. She was a member of the high school a capella choir, girls choir, madrigal singers, and was also a soloist. During her schooling here she was a member of the dramatics club, a home room officer two years, student council representative one year, member of the Future Homemakers of America three years, chairman of the high school safety council one year, and senior class favorite this year. Like the two honor graduates, she was presented the "S" award for scholarship.

Kenneth Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl La rence, 3800 Muriel Drive, was recently approved for four-years of tuition and $200 annual allowance in a scholarship from Texas Christian University, Fort Worth. Lawrence plans to follow the music education field at TCU. Here, he was presented this year the National Arion award as the school's outstanding band student. He received a medal and lapel pin in recognition of the award.

Lawrence plays piano, b-flat clarinet, and alto clarinet. He has won honors for playing each. This year he was awarded five first division ratings in interscholastic league contests for playing solos and as a member of ensembles. He was chosen last fall to the all-regional band and the all-state band as an alto clarinet player, and he was all-regional last year on the b-flat clarinet. A member of the high school stage band here, he was chosen this year to the Texas all-star stage band as a pianist. He served two years as a band officer, was chief quartermaster this year. In other activities, he served two years as a home room officer, one year on the high school newspaper staff, was a member of the dramatics club four years, and was active in athletics his freshman year. He accompanied the high school male quartet on the piano this year. This year he was given the "S" scholarship award.

Joan Alline Parks, niece of Mr and Mrs. V. V. McGrew, 3602 Avenue V, was chosen by the Classroom Teachers Association here for a scholarship of $50 per semester for two years in college. The scholarship provides for a student planning a teaching career to be chosen on scholastic record, personality, appearance, attitude, ability as a good mixer, and leadership. This student must make passing grades in college to continue to get the scholarship. Miss Parks came here a year ago from El Dorado, Ark. In high school there, she had been a member of the Thespian dramatics club and was a worthy advisor in the Rainbow Girls, as well as holding a state office in the organization in Arkansas. Both her parents are deceased. Here, Miss Parks was a member of the dramatics club, Spanish club, Future Teachers of America, and Quill & Scroll, a high school journalism society. She received the school "S" scholarship award. She plans to enter Texas State College for Women at Denton next month to study physical education.

Ray Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gordon, 3200 Avenue J, plans to enter Texas Tech to study electrical engineering. He was awarded a $100 scholarship from the Parent-Teacher-Student Association of the high school here. Gordon has been active in band all through school and was an assistant quartermaster in the organization this year. A trombonist, he played in the school's stage band two years. He was a member of the audio-visual club, science club, and dramatics club, and he was give the "S" award.

Keith Pitner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Pitner, 2802 Avenue M, was selected by the Scurry County Oil & Gas Association for presentation of a slide rule. He was chosen as an outstanding student who plans to study engineering. Pitner is still undecided where he will attend school. He was active in various school functions, especially track and football.

Business In Texas Gains

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Texas business last month showed signs that a mild recovery may be on, a business analyst said today.

Dr. John Stockton, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, reported a 2 per cent gain in the state's business index between March and April.

This represents a recovery of about half the decline between January 1953 and January 1954.

The gain seems to leave little doubt, Stockton said, that the decline in business which began in the spring of 1953, is approaching an end.

Attempts To Bar Texans From Two States Told In New Book

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

To a proud Texan, it's something of an affront to read that Missourians once took to guns to keep Texans out of their state, and Abilene, Kan., sent out notices it didn't want Texans.

It's told in "The Chisholm Trail," written by Wayne Gard and published this May by the University of Oklahoma Press. Gard is an editorial page writer for the Dallas Morning News.

His book is full of factual material. Put all together, it tells a tale of Longhorn Cattle laboring up the Old Chisholm Trail to northern markets during those dozen tempestuous years after 1866.

"It's a tale of hardships, of spring storms, flooded river crossings, sudden cattle stampedes, and always the cowboy fighting to keep his herd moving.

It's a tale of the towns at the end of the trail—Abilene, Newton, Wichita, Caldwell and Ellsworth, and that Gomorrah of the plains, Dodge City, Kansas.

Before the Chisholm Trail became a worn path northward, Texas cattle plodded up to Missouri, along the Shawnee Trail.

The Longhorns were as mean a creature that traveled on four legs. They also spread a livestock disease known as Spanish fever or Mexican fever in Texas. In 1855 Missouri farmers organized vigilante committees to keep the herds from going through their land and spreading disease.

Then later, Abilene, Kan. decided it didn't want the wild whooping Texans celebrating at the end of the trail. Some citizens sent circulars to Texas telling the trail drivers to stay away "as the inhabitants of Dickinson County will no longer submit to the evils of the trade."

Undaunted, the Texans and their Longhorns kept moving up the trail on to Wichita, Ellsworth and Dodge City.

Gradually, barbed wire fences cut off the old Chisholm trail. "Winds and rain began to beat out the prints of millions of Longhorn hoofs," Gard writes. "Soon a carpet of new grass spread over the battered path."

But Texans can take pride in what those pioneers and their rangy old Longhorns accomplished. "On the nation's economy, the trail had a more lasting impression," Gard says.

It spurred the settlement of the northern ranges, it stocked the plains of Wyoming, it lessened the animosity after the Civil War by bringing Yankees and Texans together in commercial transactions, it lessened the cost of beef to the housewife.

It spurred the growth of Chicago and Kansas City as centers for beef packing, it gave incentive to railroad building and to the development of refrigerator cars and meat canning.

And for much of Texas, the Chisholm trail offered a way of escape from the poverty in which the Civil War had left the state.

The book is worth the reading for any Texan.

Testimony Underway In Murder Trial

FALFURRIAS, May 29 (AP)—The son of Esteban Garcia said his mother told in two letters of her friendship with a Mexican general the elder Garcia is charged with killing.

Young Garcia testified yesterday in his father's trial on a murder charge in the death of Gen. Heron Ramirez.

The son said he had been called to his father's home in McAllen before the shooting.

He said Garcia showed him a letter in which his wife said she was sorry her conduct had brought shame on the family and that she was going away.

Ramirez was shot to death outside Garcia's home at McAllen in June, 1949. The two men were known as close friends.

Murder Charge Filed On Cleburne Man

CLEBURNE, May 29 (AP)—A retired farmer has been charged with murder in the beating death of his wife, 70, at nearby Grandview Thursday.

The charge was filed Thursday against G. W. Pinckard, 73. A milkman found Pinckard unconscious under an open gas jet and the body of Mrs. Pinckard badly battered. A broken baseball bat lay nearby.

Pinckard told District Attorney Jack Altaras he and his wife had been arguing for several weeks over her request for a divorce.

Jane Withers Wants To Divorce Texan

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 29 (AP)—Jane Withers, former child movie star, is seeking a divorce from William Moss Jr., 32, Midland, Tex., oil and cattleman.

The actress, 28, amended yesterday her separate maintenance suit, filed about a year ago, to one for divorce.

She accused Moss of causing her mental and physical suffering and anguish. She said she had tried repeatedly to effect a reconciliation.

Miss Withers asked custody of the couple's three young children and alimony. She estimated her husband's income at more than $100,000 a year.

The couple was married in 1947 and separated in 1953.

Car Leaves Street, Kills Child At Home

SAN ANTONIO, May 29 (AP)—Gilbert Rodriquez, 7, was sitting on the sidewalk in front of his home here last night, drinking a soda when a car came down the street, went out of control, jumped the curb, hit the child and crashed into a house.

Yarborough Calls For Investigation Into 'Insurance Mess'

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—An investigation of the "insurance mess" and "influence peddling" was demanded today by Ralph Yarborough, candidate for governor.

I have just returned from three days' travel in Central and North Texas and everywhere the question was the same: 'What about this influence peddling and the insurance rackets down at Austin?'" Yarborough asserted.

"Only the surface has been scratched, but it appears that the administration of Texas insurance laws, which is the responsibility of the executive department of our state government, has not only been lax; it has been totally inadequate."

Pennsylvania Man Says He Killed Two

VAN BUREN, Ark., May 29 (AP)—Police Chief Vol Russell today said that Marvin C. Boyd of Lebannon, Pa., related that he killed a Harrisburg, Pa., girl near Las Vegas, Nev., and dumped her body into Boulder Canyon.

Boyd already was held for investigation of his statement that he buried the body of another woman in the desert near Mexicali, Mexico, earlier this year.

Russell said Boyd under questioning related that he killed Jeanette Harris of Harrisburg and threw her body into the canyon.

A body was found in the canyon April 8.

Russell said that Boyd, whom he described as a user of narcotics, told a story that "didn't jibe everywhere but seemed straight in some points."

The police chief said Boyd didn't say how or why he killed the girl.

Boyd was arrested here for vagrancy several days ago. Later he told Russell he woke in his automobile near Mexicali to find Virginia L. Gosbeck of San Francisca dead.

Jean Peters Weds Texas Oil Executive

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Actress Jean Peters and Texas Oil executive Stuart Cramer III were married here today after one of Hollywood's least publicized romances.

They were married in a quiet afternoon ceremony at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church only a few hours after their wedding plans were disclosed in Hollywood by a spokesman for Miss Peters' studio, 20th Century - Fox. Miss Peters is 25 and Cramer 27.

They planned a honeymoon in Bermuda.

It is the first marriage for both. They met in Rome last summer while she was on location for a movie and he was touring Europe.

Miss Peters quietly left Hollywood this week to go to Washington for the wedding, a surprise to the movie colony.

Cramer, a member of a socially prominent Charlotte, N. C., family, is an official of an oil company at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Miss Peters won an Ohio State campus beauty contest and a trip to Hollywood in 1946. She made her screen debut in "Captain from Castille" the next year.

REMEMBERS ROSENBERG CASE

Congressman From Tyler Is Against White House Pickets

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) —At times pickets carrying placards parade around the White House. Rep. Brady Gentry of Tyler wants to stop it.

He has introduced a bill making such picketing illegal.

Gentry told his colleagues of the incidents which prompted him to draft the bill. He apparently referred to the pickets who for months paraded for the Rosenburgs, atom spies later executed.

"Coming to Washington 17 months ago to begin my service as a member of the House of Representatives, one of the first sights to greet me was a picketing of the White House," he said.

"I stood in amazement as I viewed the revolting spectacle. It was no spasmodic, faint-hearted effort by a few. Literally, legions of hundreds of picketers were massed on the sidewalks immediately around the White House, blocking all entrances.

"No citizen of our country, including members of the President's cabinet, our ambassadors and members of Congress, and no visitor from afar, regardless of the importance of his mission, could gain entrance to the White House, or exit from it, without breaking through the army of marching men which besieged it at close quarters.

"This did not go on just a few hours in the morning, or in the afternoon, or at night. It went on day and night, 24 hours a day. It did not last just one day or even one week. It went on for many weeks, both while Mr. Truman was president and while Mr. Eisenhower was president . . . .

"It is inconceivable that such a disgusting spectacle, directed at the President of the United States, should be tolerated in a country where fairness and decency supposedly exist as common virtues."

Around the capital:

Bill Daniel, Liberty lawyer, recently was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court. He was introduced to the court by his brother, Sen. Price Daniel.

Mrs. Berniece Martin Grieder of Wichita Falls, secretary to Rep. John Lyle of the Corpus Christi district, also was admitted on the same day to practice before the Supreme Court. She studied law at the University of Texas, and in 1945 was admitted to practice before the Texas Supreme Court.

Royal Squires, formerly of El Paso and Austin, has just graduated with honors at nearby University of Maryland. He came to Washington several years ago and worked for a while as a page in the House.

Lack Of Training Is Killing Americans, Gen. Boatner Says

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Twenty to 25 per cent of Americans killed in war are "needlessly" sacrificed for lack of realistic training, University of Texas armed forces reserve graduates were told today.

The speaker was Maj. Gen. H. L. Boatner, deputy commander of the 4th Army, San Antonio.

"The American people do not understand the necessity of hard and realistic training for warfare," Boatner said. "Twenty to 25 per cent of the men killed in war lose their lives needlessly because of inadequate training."

The University ROTC ceremonies saw 188 men given commissions.

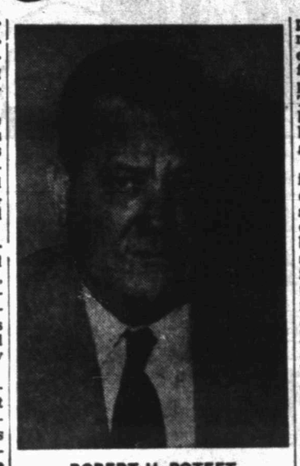
Labor Co-op Ready To Start Securing Laborers For Area

The Farmers Co-operative Labor Association here, which was organized recently, is already gaining members and expects to bring the first Mexican national laborers here within a few days.

Robert H. Poteet, who for the past three years has served as manager of various labor co-ops in Lamesa, O'Donnell, and Grassland, is manager of the local group. He is carrying on manager-supervisor duties both here and at Lamesa.

The labor co-op office is presently located, and probably will be for the remainder of this year, in the office of the Snyder Co-operative Gin, but it has no connection with the gin. Office hours are 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon every day except Sunday.

Poteet explained that the association will handle the procurement of labor for members here. Membership is open both to farmers and to businessmen who are interested in the association. The membership fee is $10. To actually become a member, a farmer must sign papers required by the federal government. Poteet said those who sign as members now are not obligated to take workers but that papers will be ready in case they do want them. He urged those who intend to use workers to join early so the paper work can be done, eliminating a time-consuming job at the time the farmer needs laborers.



ROBERT H. POTEET
. . . labor procurer

Contemplated cost of getting workers here from government recruiting centers at El Paso or Eagle Pass is $22.50 per worker, Poteet said. He explained that this cost includes payment to the government, insurance for the worker, transportation, and meals enroute to and from the center. The worker's insurance is bought for two months at a rate of $3.65 per month. After the worker arrives here and begins work, the employer may deduct $2 per month from the worker's wages for his part on payment of the insurance. The remaining $1.65 must be paid by the farmer. The $22.50 fee must be paid by the farmer when he applies for the workers.

Workers will be brought here in trucks when there are enough coming for truckloads, Poteet said. If a very few come here at one time, they will be brought by commercial bus. The manager said the cost of procuring workers is much less under the co-op system under the present arrangement. As manager of the Snyder and Lamesa associations, Poteet has a hired representative at the Bracero recruiting center to select workers. If one association did that alone, the cost would be much more.

To secure workers, the farmer must have adequate housing facilities. In regular houses, no more than four workers may live in one room and cook in the house. Any barracks-type building may be used with double bunks, Poteet said, adding that there must be enough barracks space for 50 square feet per two workers, with a separate cooking space furnished. Water must be provided within 100 yards of the housing, and outdoor toilet facilities must not be more than 50 yards from the housing. At least one cook stove per five workers must be furnished. All bedding and cooking untensils must be furnished. These are all federal government requirements.

The insurance on the workers covers them while at work and covers sickness or accidents while they are not working. It also provides $1,375 life insurance.

Workers are available at any time for members, Poteet said. Employers must pay 50 cents per hour for cotton choppers and $1.55 per 100 pounds for cotton harvesters or the prevailing wage for either type work, whichever figure is higher.

Persons in surrounding counties, as well as those here, have expressed interest in the association, Poteet said. The Lamesa association, which has been in operation since 1952, now has 340 members. Last year some farmers from this area went to Lamesa to secure laborers through the co-op. Similar co-ops have been operating since 1950 in Texas, Poteet said. Before that time some labor-securing agencies were set up as private businesses, not co-operatives.

The manager said the association will attempt to secure as many laborers as possible who can speak English but that it could not guarantee them because it must take the laborers as they go through the recruiting center. Many of the laboeres will include those who have been working in Texas in previous years and who can probably speak English.

Poteet, 45, is a native of Cameron. He was reared at Kingsville. During vacation from school, he worked on various ranches as a cowhand. After completing high school at Kingsville, he worked for awhile at the First State Bank at Kingsville. He then completed one year at Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, and two years at Texas A&I College, Kingsville.

He served several years with the border patrol of the U. S. Immigration Service, then he spent about a year in Mexico City and the surrounding territory with the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry. About a year was spent later by Poteet with the Bureau of Employment Security, a branch of the Department of Labor, before he entered work with labor associations.

GUY STOKER COMPARES

Better Range Conditions On Areas Given Chance To Grow

Native grass ranges in this area were severely damaged by the drouth in the period from 1951 through 1953. As a result of overgrazing on most of the ranges, many were reduced to extremely poor stands and in some cases almost killed out.

"If we can learn from experience," Jack Hodges, soil conservation chief, here said, "the drouth may have served a good purpose." Hodges explained his point by adding that the drouth has shown agriculturists here that if they are to survive their desirable grasses must be left enough top growth to maintain a vigorous root system.

Guy Stoker, one of the cooperators of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District here and who farms 300 acres six miles north of Snyder on the Lubbock highway, can see the difference on his land after keeping all livestock off his pasture from February to November last year, Hodges said. Even though 1953 was an extremely dry year, most of the grass seed on the Stoker pasture matured during September and October. Many seedlings are now in evidnce.

Stoker, however, says the biggest difference he can now see is that the grass which was allowed to make its full growth last year before it was grazed has come out faster and made more growth than that on an adjacent pasture which was grazed all last summer. Where he deferred grass last year, Stoker said, the grass is much healthier and at least four weeks ahead in growth of pastures be grazed last year.

Hodges said that in his examination of plants from overgrazed ranges the root system is directly in proportion to the amount of top growth, adding that it is impossible for a plant to make vigorous growth unless it has a strong root system. In turn, a strong root system depends on adequate top growth during the growing season to support it.

Additional benefits noticed by Stoker on his deferred acreage included enough growth on the grasses last fall and this spring to hold up the water and make it penetrate the soil, and enough shade from the grass to create ideal conditions for young seedlings.

Here's the way Hodges sums it up: "Leave more leaves to grow more roots to grow more leaves."

WIND EROSION AID BEING TAKEN BY FARMERS HERE

More than 200 farmers in Scurry County have turned in requests for government participation in wind erosion control on their farms, according to Irelan Finley, manager of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office here.

The applications are being made under a special provision made recently allocating Scurry County $33,000 for emergency wind erosion control.

Listing leads the practices by the farmers turning in the requests. The program provides for government participation of 50 cents per acre for listing. Finley said those who did listing before the program began are eligible for retroactive pay but that they must apply by Tuesday. The ASC office will not be open tomorrow, which was the regular deadline for applying for retroactive pay, so the deadline was extended through Tuesday. Those eligible for back pay on listing include farmers who listed after March 31.

Deferred grazing runs second on the list of practices under the emergency program, Finley said. Federal cost sharing in that practice is 70 cents per acre for a five-month period or 35 cents for three months. No payment can be made on this practice until the end of the deferment period, while payment is made on all other practices as soon as they are performed.

Other practices include field strip cropping to protect the soil from wind erosion, $1.25 per acre; stubble mulching for the same reason, $1.25 per acre; contour chiseling, cross-slope chiseling, pit cultivation, or chiseling not on the contour, 50 cents per acre; seeding of grain sorghum, sweet sorghum, sudan grass, millet, barley, oats, or rye to establish a cover crop to ward off wind erosion, with cost sharing for sorghums planted in rows set at $1 per acre, for crops drilled or broadcast $1.25 per acre. Volunteer crops or those planted before July 10 are not qualified. Pitting or chiseling of grazing land for wind erosion control is also included, with cost sharing set at 75 cents per acre.

Support Price On Wheat Set

The federal price support rate on wheat in Scurry County has been set for this year at $2.21 per bushel, according to Irelan Finley, Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office manager.

The support rate will be used for Commodity Credit Corp. loans to be made on wheat this year. Deadline for the loan application is Jan. 1, and maturity date is next Mar. 31.

Wheat raisers may apply for the CCC loan if the market is not on par with or above the support rate when the wheat is harvested. The wheat must be stored on the farm 30 days before a sample can be drawn. When the sample is taken, the wheat must not contain more than 14 per cent moisture to be eligible for the CCC loan.

Service charges on the loans will be $3, or one cent per bushel, whichever is the larger, for that stored on the farm, or $1.50 or one-half cent per bushel, whichever is the larger, on that stored in a warehouse.

The loan bears an interest rate of three and one-half per cent. If the farmer defaults on his loan, the interest rate doubles.

The farmer usually applies for the CCC loan when the market is low. If the market goes up later, while the wheat is in storage, he may market the wheat and pay off his loan. If he does not market the wheat by the maturity date of the loan, he defaults and the loan is settled.

Federal Agriculture Agencies Close Here

All federal agricultural offices will be closed here tomorrow.

Those offices include the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office, the Soil Conservation Service, the Farmers Home Administration, and the county agent's office.

The offices are closing to observe Memorial Day.

Delbert Hess Candidate For FFA President At Lamesa Convention

Delbert Hess, Hermleigh Future Farmers of America member, will be a candidate for area FFA president at a convention Tuesday through Thursday.

The convention, which will have delegates and other attendants from more than 100 FFA chapters, will be held at Lamesa. Activities at the convention will include the checking of records of applicants for the Lone Star Farmer degree. There will be three applicants for this degree from Scurry County. They are Hess and Dick Ethridge of Hermleigh and Buddy Drum of Snyder.

Other activities will include a barbecue, swimming, and a dance.

The convention will elect several officers. Monnie Hedges of Snyder is outgoing area treasurer.

FARM AND RANCH

With government agencies all over the country, all of them known by initials, sometimes a person can get confused. For the benefit of those who do not know the difference in them, we'll give a brief rundown on those known locally.

SCS — Soil Conservation Service, a government agency assigned here to aid the soil conservation district, which is an organization of farmers and ranchers.

FHA — Farmers Home Administration, not to be confused with the Federal Housing Administration or Future Homemakers of America, which both use the same initials. This office loans money to agriculturists here.

PMA — Production and Marketing Administration, but this name is no longer in use.

ASC — Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office, the agency formerly known as the PMA. This agency handles all cotton and wheat marketing quotas and federal participation money for conservation practices.

* * *

Cotton planting is still underway in many parts of the county. Some farmers have planted at least three times.

Estimates are that more than half the cotton expected on the Divide, an area of about 50 square miles east of Snyder, is now up in a fair stand. Less than half the Hermleigh cotton is up, while the Fluvanna area is reported to have less up. Farmers around Ira are now planting.

* * *

Cover crops planted in the fall have already paid off for some farmers here. One is Carmen Hobbs, who farms 160 acres near Hermleigh and another quarter-section on the Divide. He brought his cattle through the dry winter on 30 acres of hairy vetch and Abruzzi rye cover, which he planted last fall.

Hobbs told soil conservationists here he bought less feed during the winter than ever before and that his cattle are in good shape. He worked up a conservation plan on his farm in cooperation with the UCSCD (Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District), the plan including a cover crop of vetch and rye, a vegetated waterway, and a level closed terrace system.

Hobbs said he didn't lose a drop of water from his terraced land during the last rain, and conservationists said Hobbs has a good bottom season in the soil. Along with the program he planted 70 acres of vetch, two rows in and two out, on the Divide land last fall and turned it as a green manure crop late in March. He intends to build the soil by adding nitrogen and organic matter. He inoculated the vetch to increase the amount of nitrogen added to the soil.

FBI Nabs 7 Communists On Violence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government seized seven more Communist party leaders today on charges of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The Justice Department and FBI said the seven were arrested in New York City and West Hartford and New Haven, Conn.

The FBI said three were arrested by special agents who early today interrupted the proceedings of a secret underground meeting of Communist party leaders in New York City.

Arrested at the meeting were Simon Silverman, 38, who the FBI said is known in the Communist party underground as Sid Taylor; Robert Ekins, 48; and Jacob Goldring, 39.

The others arrested in Connecticutt were Joseph Dinan, Alfred Marder, Sidney Resnick and James Tate.

The FBI said that including the seven arrests today a total of 109 Communist party officials and functionaries have been arrested since July, 1948.

Market Hits New Highs

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—The stock market this week went through brief periods of consolidation and then hit new highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks twice during the week climbed to $125.50, the same point hit on April 10, 1930, highest for that fateful year.

Brokers noted a speculative flavor about the market with the low-priced issues often coming into favor.

This was the fifth week for the market to advance. On Monday, trading was heavy and prices were mixed. The average was down a little, but there were a few more gainers than losers.

The next day a reaction took prices down all around. Volume diminished and there was a late recovery, always a sign of basic strength.

That proved to be quite true on Wednesday when the market took off in a surge ahead that sent it to new highs for the year. Steels and aircrafts met heavy demand, and brokers gave vague voice to the fears of war.

Thursday's market was unable to follow through entirely with the strength initiated the previous day, and there was a selloff before the close. The Friday market snapped ground lost the previous day after a hesitant start. That put the average back up to the best of the week.

The five most active issues were Packard up ⅝, U.S. Steel up 1½, New York Central off ⅝ and New York Shipbuilding up 2.

Texan Held On Murder Count

MANSFIELD, La., May 29 (AP)—A Texan brought from Houston ahead of a writ of habeas corpus was held today on murder charges in the highway shooting of a deputy sheriff.

Jasper Self Jr., 35, was charged yesterday in the death of deputy J. W. Gamble of Mansfield May 16.

Officers disclosed that they had arrested a second man in Houston and that he was brought here with Self for questioning.

Self was arrested in Houston at noon Thursday by about 30 officers who surrounded an apartment building. An hour after Rangers quietly slipped him out of town Thursday night, attorney Jim Shown obtained a writ of habeas corpus directing that police appear next Tuesday to show why Self should be held.

Self was brought here late yesterday after signing a waiver of extradition before Shelby County Judge Ozroe Lash in Center.

New Publications Head At University

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Earl Braly, former press secretary to Gov. Shivers, has been named business director of student publications at the University of Texas effective June 1.

He will succeed Cal Newton, formerly of Waco, who resigned to become manager of a community center at San Angelo. Newton came here in 1945 from Baylor where he was director of student publications.

Braly, a graduate of Texas Tech, has held several publicity posts. Recently he was with John Van Cronkhite Associate, Austin. He joined Shivers' staff in July, 1953.

Kin Of Snyderites Dies Aboard Ship

Lloyd Coleman, TA, 20-year-old Dallas Negro and sailor killed in the explosion Wednesday on the aircraft carrier Bennington, was a brother of a Snyder woman and a nephew of another Snyder woman.

Mrs. Lilly Archie, who resides at the south end of Avenue G, said late Friday that she and her family were to leave yesterday afternoon for Dallas to attend funeral services Sunday for her nephew. Also to attend the services was the youth's sister, Mrs. Faye Thomas, 22, wife of Charles Lee Thomas, a pipeline company employe.

Mrs. Archie said her nephew was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fate Coleman of Dallas. He is survived also by another sister, Miss Bessie Mae Coleman, 25, Dallas.

Services are to be held sometime this afternoon at Bexar Street Baptist Church in Dallas. The body of the youth was to arrive in Dallas last night. Other arrangements of the funeral were not known here late Friday.

Mrs. Thomas, an employe of Cogdell Memorial Hospital, moved here from Dallas when she and her husband, formerly of Odessa, married last year.

Mrs. Archie has been an employe of Battenfield Hospital (formerly Snyder Hospital) for 10 years.

She said her nephew had recently re-enlisted in the navy, having served two previous tours of duty. He was the first military casualty in the immediate families of both his mother and father, she said, although several close relatives served in both World Wars and he and four cousins served in the Korean War.

LAKE THOMAS FISH

G. A. Milliken, patrolman at Lake J. B. Thomas, holds a string of eight channel cat fish caught Wednesday night on a trot line in the lake. Millikin said the fish weighed a total of about 25 pounds when caught, with the largest weighing more than four pounds. He said his line was set to fish near the surface of four-foot-deep water paralleling the shore line of the lake. (Lee Watson photograph)

Two Shutout Games In Little Leagues

Two shutout games resulted from play in the Little League Friday night, when the American Legion Yankees continued their lead in the league with no defeats, the Rotary Club Cardinals fell from a lone third place to a tie for third with the Holder Indians, and the Lions Club Cubs began to push out of the cellar.

The Yanks shut out the Cardinals 5-0. In that game, Richard Mahan, Yankee shortstop, hit two home runs to make his fourth of the season. There have been only seven home runs in the whole league. One of Mahan's homers was in the first inning with one runner on base. That put the Yanks ahead 2-0. The team pushed across two more runs in the fifth, then in the sixth Mahan hit his second homer with none on base for the fifth run.

Sam Samuelson, Yank center fielder, hit what would have been a home run had the Card center fielder, Philip Smart, not jumped high to catch the fly ball before it went over the outfield fence. Smart missed two perfect flies in the sixth inning, however.

The Cards got only two on base during the entire game. Mike Moffett doubled in the sixth for the team's only hit, and Jimmie Don Robinson got to first on an error.

Norman Gladson, winning pitcher, struck out nine and gave up only the one hit. Foy Dennis, loser, fanned seven and allowed six hits. Neither pitcher walked a batter.

The Cubs got one run in the sixth inning to shut out the Giants 1-0. Bill Shaw created the run when he singled to bring in Gene Witherspoon, who had doubled. Witherspoon's double and one by Weldon Ware were the only extra base hits in the game.

Devane Jones was winner. He struck out 15, walked five, and allowed only two hits. Roland Key, the loser, fanned 11, walked none, and gave up six hits.

The Cubs tomorrow night will attempt to catch up with the Indians in a match at 7 o'clock. At 9 o'clock, the Cards and Braves will meet to battle, both trying to hold top bracket places in the standings.

HOGAN IS OUT OF COLONIAL

FORT WORTH, May 29 (AP)—Ben Hogan tearfully withdrew from the $25,000 Colonial Golf Tournament today, rendering a blow to the contest he has been instrumental in building to prominence.

The national open champion, who four times has won the Colonial and was favored to do it again this year, stepped out because he had influenza. This threw the field wide open.

Hogan was in a tie for third with 140 for 36 holes, three strokes back of the leader, Peter Thompson, when he succumbed to the virus that had laid him low a year ago.

The gallery favorite waited until the last minute, until he was convinced that he would be unable to play, before withdrawing. His wife, Valerie, telephoned at noon that Hogan would not play the final 36 holes. His absence is expected to cut the gallery considerably tomorrow in the final round.

It was the second time for Hogan to withdraw from the tournament because of illness in his long career that had seen him win every major golf championship. In 1951 he had to quit at Phoenix because of food poisoning. He was leading the tournament at the time.

Mrs. Hogan said Ben might not be able to play on National Golf Day at Springfield, N. J., when, as national open champion, he is scheduled to shoot a round and let the nation's golfers then try to "beat Ben Hogan." National Golf Day is next Saturday.

Hogan has played in all seven of the Colonial tournaments and is a member of Colonial Country Club.

The Colonial tournament this year has been beset by withdrawals of top golfers. Julius Boros, Ed Oliver, Chandler Harper, Clayton Heafner and Jimmy Demaret have quit because of injuries or illness.

Hogan was in tears when he said he would have to withdraw.

"I regret it very much, especially this tournament," he said.

Hogan probably will be all right in time for the National Open but he plans to stay in bed until he is entirely clear of his infection.

250 Athletes Due For NAIA Track Event

ABILENE, May 28 (AP)—The record book is likely to be rewritten Friday and Saturday when the ponderous National Intercollegiate Track meet is run off.

Some 250 athletes are due, all qualifiers from district meets throughout the 500-member NAIA.

Of the 13 events, only three seem safe before the finest field in the 3-year history of the meet. Those are the 2-mile mark of 9:24.8 set by Javier Montes of Texas Western in 1952, and the shot put of 50 feet 8½ inches and discus throw of 164 feet 11 inches set by Palmer Retzlaff of South Dakota State last year.

Three others might defy the crowd but there are strong possibilities they will be cracked. They are the 440-yard dash mark of 47.8, set by George Adrian of Abilene Christian in 1952; the javelin throw by Richard Heber of Arizona State of Tempe in 1952 of 214 feet 3½ inches, and the pole vault standard of 13 feet 6 inches established by Paul Faulkner of Abilene Christian in 1952.

Adrian is back. Halil Ziraman of California Poly has thrown the javelin 210 feet 10½ inches and Charley Hall of Southwest Texas State has vaulted 13 feet 2½ inches.

There will be five 9.6 sprinters in the field and the 9.9 100-yard dash record definitely is in danger.

Track preliminaries are scheduled Friday night with finals Saturday night.

Golf and tennis tournaments also will be held. In golf Tommy Hale of Hardin-Simmons, medalist last year, is back and so is Marion Hiskey of North Texas State, medalist in 1952. S. L. Shofner of Central Oklahoma State, winner of the tennis singles championship, returns.

DeMolays Will Hold Meet In City Saturday

Area elimination contests in five athletic events will be held here next Saturday by DeMolay chapters from seven cities.

Included in the chapters to participate in the events will be Sweetwater, Lamesa, Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Lubbock, and Snyder.

The events will include swimming, baseball, track, and tennis, both singles and doubles. The local DeMolay chapter is now in the process for securing fields and facilities needed for the meet. The all-day affair will get underway at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and last until 6 o'clock that afternoon.

Included in Snyder entries in the contests are Roy Lee Ford in 100-yard and 50-yard dashes in the track elimination, Richard Miller as a high diver in the swimming meet, Alan Snead and Jerry Roberts in tennis matches.

Reese Ends Giants' Six Game Streak

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Pee Wee Reese's two-run homer in the ninth ended the New York Giants' six-game winning streak today as Carl Erskine allowed only five hits in a 4-2 Brooklyn victory.

The Giants put the heat on Erskine in the ninth when Whitey Lock and Don Mueller singled, but Willie Mays struck out to end the game.

Erskine held the Giants hitless until Mays hit his 12th homer against the left field scoreboard with one out in the fifth to tie the score. The Dodgers had scored a run in the second when Sal Maglie walked Pee Wee Reese with the bases loaded on two walks and Junior Gilliam's infield single.

After Gil Hodges put Brooklyn back on top with his 11th homer in the sixth, the Giants tied it again in their half of the inning on Al Dark's fourth home run.

The third Giant hit was a double by Billy Gardner with one out in the eighth.

It was the first time Brooklyn had beaten Maglie, their old jinx, since he lost to Erskine last Aug. 11. Maglie held two decisions over Brooklyn this season and holds a 20-7 lifetime edge.

Pecos Assistant Is Named Head Coach

PECOS, May 29 (AP)—Garland Matthews, 37, assistant football coach at Pecos High School, was named head coach and athletic director last night. He succeeds Boyd Payne, who resigned this week to go to Seagoville.

TRI-SERVICE KEEPS LEAD IN CITY LEAGUE PLAY

Tri-Service remained at the top of the city baseball league in a tie with Magnolia Friday night after slaughtering the DeMolays 20-1.

Sunray, the third place team, and Sun, which is next-to-last, were to meet in the league last night.

The Tri-Service team had little trouble with its game. It opened with a run in the first inning, followed with seven more in the second, one in the third, two in the fourth, one in the fifth, seven in the sixth, and one in the seventh. The DeMolays scored their one run in the sixth when Joe Cargile singled and was later brought in by Frank Bryant.

Donald Huddleston, Pete Hester, D. Bruner, and Howard Sterling led hitting for Tri-Service. Huddleston and Burner got two hits in five times to bat, while Hester and Sterling both had six for three. Hester had a triple in the game, while Bruner had one double. Sterling batted in four runs, and Hester and Bruner had three RBIs each.

Mutt Thompson was winning hurler, pitching throughout the game. He struck out 11, allowed only three hits, and walked only one. Cargile, the loser, gave up 14 hits and seven walks while striking out five.

Fish Hogs Lead Game Law Violators In May

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—Texas fish hogs and other angling violators led among those falling afoul of the law in May, the Game and Fish Commission reported today.

The fish hog classification includes those who poison water to stun fish, seiners, and those who use electrical gadgets to shock fish into submission.

All but 48 of the 229 violation cases involved fishermen. Most were Texans fishing with a license. Game officials usually call this carelessness.

Texas has 600 separate fishing laws and anglers who are in doubt should consult local authorities to keep out of trouble, Game and Fish Department officials advise.

Clippers Lead In Everything But Standings

By The Associated Press

Corpus Christi's Clippers have yet to see first place in the Big State League standings, but you'd never know it by their batting averages.

The Clippers have a .312 team batting average, 29 points better than Tyler.

As a team, the Clippers lead in four hitting departments. Their 41 hits, 70 doubles, 22 triples and 226 runs batted in are tops. The Clippers have three of the top five batters.

Waco's Jack Falls holds the lead among batters with 44 hits in 97 trips for .454.

Next are Corpus Christi's Charles Bingham with .402 and Walt Senties with .388, Harlingen's Keith Carpenter with .377 and Corpus Christi's Billy Capps with .377.

Jack Wilkinson of the Clippers sets the pace with 40 runs and 57 hits. Teammate Shorty Schroeder and Ray Fonta of Waco are the doubles leaders with 15 each.

Bigham of Corpus Christi, Carpenter of Harlingen and J. D. Sanderson of Austin have six triples each. Zonta of Waco and Charles Stafford of Galveston split the home run monopoly with eight each. Bigham tops the RBI column with 37.

Billy Hees of Austin has a 7-1 pitching record, best in the league. Roland Jones of Bryan leads in strikeouts with 51.

Deer Population In Texas Is Increasing

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—The Texas deer population has hit the comeback trail from a low point reached during many months of searing drought, the Game and Fish Commission said today.

The direction is slanted upward, says Howard Dodgen, executive secretary. His conclusion is based on reports from field biologists.

The major big game range in the Edwards Plateau region is showing benefits from recent rains and signs now point toward a near-normal harvest of deer for Texas hunters next fall, Dodgen said.

Similar reports have been received from deep South Texas, where deer grow big in the brush country, and in the Panhandle. East Texas reports are not quite so optimistic.

The fawning season was well under way.

Gene Walker and Bob Ramsey, wildlife biologists assigned to the Edwards Plateau, have begun deer population studies preliminary to recommendations on whether or not to extend the limited experimental kill of does permitted in some areas last year.

They found that where surplus deer in over-grazed areas were hunted, the die-off was negligible.

There was considerable loss from starvation in the more severely-hit drought areas. There were heavy losses in southwest Llano, northwest Gillespie, western Kerr and western Mason counties.

Herbert Ward, warden supervisor of Catarina said the rains have made prospects better than last spring. He said that some deep South Texas counties had a record deer harvest last fall.

"Our brush country deer are in pretty good shape now," he reported.

Ernest Marsh, wildlife biologist assigned to the Derden Wild-life Management Area in Anderson County, said the severe winter drought hit East Texas hard. Rains have sprouted the vital green stuff and deer have begun to fatten up. Marsh said more time will be needed to correctly appraise the situation.

Dodgen said indications now point to an average season next fall.

"Looks now that it could be very good in many areas, but a little lean in others," he said.

Eight Hitting Over .400 In WT-NM Loop

By The Associated Press

You have to hit over .400 to be noticed in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

This circuit has eight players doing better than .400 with Don Stokes of Plainview the leader with .438 on 56 hits in 128 trips.

Stokes is only three points ahead of Bob Westfall of Borger. Stokes holds most of the individual batting leaderships. He also tops in hits with 56 and total bases with 98.

Herb Simpson of Albuquerque leads in triples with five. Lincoln Boyd of Clovis is tied with Francis Green of Plainview in homers with nine. Boyd is the head man in runs batted in with 40.

Eddie Locke of Amarillo is the leading pitcher with eight victories. Carroll Dial of Clovis is second with 7-2. Dial leads in strikeouts with 62.

Pampa leads in club batting with .302.

Longhorn Loop Bat Race Getting Hot

By The Associated Press

One of the hottest batting races in baseball is shaping up in the Longhorn League.

Ike Jackson, Carlsbad, and John Goodell, Artesia, are tied for the lead with .374. Jackson made his with 52 hits in 139 times at bat. Goodell has 46 hits in 123 tries.

Jackson and Joe Bauman of Roswell share the slugging leaderships. Jackson tops in hits, doubles with 15 and triples with six. Bauman leads in total bases with 114, home runs with 18 and runs batted in with 59. Duane White of Roswell is the leading scorer with 47 runs.

A pitcher no longer in the league, Jim Tugerson, now with Dallas of the Texas League, leads in hurling with nine victories against one loss. Tugerson also tops in strikeouts with 82. He was with Artesia.

Artesia leads in club batting with .307. Midland is over the .300 mark by three points.

Osage Indians Making Oil Big Issue In Their Coming Election

PAWHUSKA, Okla., May 30 (AP) — The Osage Indians, whom petroleum made wealthy in its fabulous Oklahoma boom days 30 years ago, choose their leaders June 7 with the tribe's oil business a major election topic.

The tribe's Cooperative Party hopes to stay in power because the headright payments from mineral rights are now close to $750 every three months compared to about $300 when it took office.

This is largely because of increased oil production under a program of water-flooding wells which the tribal council sponsored.

The secondary recovery project has been successful in all but two of 31 fields in which the Indians hold mineral rights in Osage County, Oklahoma's largest. It has boosted daily production from a declining 19,000 barrels to an increasing 31,000. Since 1948, the year before the program started, rentals have risen from about $34,000 to more than $200,000 annually.

But before the oil companies undertook the water-flooding, the council backed an agreement under which the Osages' royalty was cut from the traditional one-sixth to one-eighth. It was approved in a tribal election but has remained a sore point with some members.

Challenging the Cooperative Party in the quadrennial voting are the Full-blood and Wah-Shah-She United Parties.

Supporters of the water-flooding arrangement claim it has resulted in greater interest by companies in exploring for oil now than in the 1920's when the initial development of the Indians' mineral holdings was in its hey-day.

"Without the oil companies," says a Cooperative Party candidate for the council, "we have nothing, but we are not controlled by them. We are encouraging them and want to cooperate with them."

But a candidate of the rival Full-blood ticket has charged the major companies control the council and top officials of the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs as well.

The Cooperatives' platform pledges them to "encourage secondary recovery methods in our oil fields."

The Full-bloods propose "a closer supervision of the operators' activities in oil field be made, to assure tribal members that they are receiving their just and equitable share of our oil production."

The United Party proposes to "continue the secondary program and do everything possible to encourage the development of new fields."

Most tribal leaders agree federal government supervision of the Osages' affairs is essential if their collective ownership of the mineral rights under their lands is to continue.

They believe that if the government withdrew its hand, headrights might become salable and adversely affect the tribe's future. The Osages, incidentally, pay most of the expense of such supervision.

The common ownership of mineral rights was developed half a century ago and written into law by Congress in 1906. At that time each of 2,229 Osages received 658 acres of surface and a headright representing his interest in the tribe's minerals.

Qualified to vote in the election is any mentally competent tribesman over 21 who owns a headright or a fraction of one. There are 1,825 of them in 34 states and four foreign countries.

In pursuit of votes, individual candidates have traveled to Los Angeles, Phoenix, Wichita, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Runnels Gets Three Wildcats

Three new wildcats have been staked for drilling in Runnels County.

Gulf Oil Co. No. 1 Myrtle Pumphrey is to be drilled at a 6,600-foot project in Southwest Runnels County. Drillsite has been set 1,650 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 83-64-H&TC, about six miles northeast of Wingate and two miles northeast of the Suelse field.

S. C. Herring Drilling Co. of Abilene has spotted the No. 1 C. E. Adams 12 miles northeast of Winters in Northeast Runnels. It is to be 660 feet from south and west lines of block 437, George Handcock survey. That is about two and one-half miles west of the East Hull Dobbs field. Projected depth is 4,500 feet.

In Northwest Runnels, Thomas D. Humphrey and Sons, Ltd., of Dallas are to drill the No. 2 Mrs. Lola Ash as a 4,300-foot wildcat. Location is to be 1,263 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of John Myers survey No. 272, three miles west of Norton. It is also one mile north of the North Maverick field.

Second Strawn Well Completed By Humble In South Tom Green

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 Joe Funk has been finaled as the second producer and one-location southeast extension in the H. J. (Strawn) area of South Tom Green County.

Operator reported a calculated daily flowing potential of 478.25 barrels of oil, gravity 41.6 degrees at 74 degrees Fahrenheit.

Potential was based on an actual 23-hour flow of 458.32 barrels of oil through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations between 5,510-40 feet in five and a half-inch casing set at 5,592 feet, the total depth. Tubing pressure was 625 to 650 pounds. Top of the Strawn porosity was picked at 5,408 feet on derrick floor elevation of 2,099 feet.

Another Test Of Tidelands Is To Be Tried By Oil Company

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Capitol rumors said this week a new court test of the tidelands oil act, specifically the portion pertaining to Texas, may be sought.

The report was that one or more oil companies may challenge Texas' claim to submerged lands lying between the 3-mile offshore line and the 3 league (10½ mile) offshore line.

The test, it was reported, would allege the act does not specifically mention Texas or any other state by name and alludes to Texas' claims only in a negative way, by saying no state claim beyond three leagues shall be recognized.

The law declares states shall be deemed owners of the submerged coastal belt out to the seaward boundaries as existed at the time they entered the Union.

Then follows this key provision, which would form the basis of the suit:

"But in no event shall the term 'boundaries' or the term 'lands beneath marginal waters' be interpreted as extending from the coast line more than three geographical miles into the Atlantic Ocean or the Pacific Ocean, or more than three marine leagues into the Gulf of Mexico."

The rumors say the suit will be brought by one or more oil companies against another. The defendant would be a company holding a lease from Texas to submerged lands in the outer two-thirds of the offshore area which Texas claims as her own.

Such a suit would bring about a replay of arguments heard over and over during the years of congressional debate on the submerged lands question. They would center on the point of whether Texas, in entering the Union, retained the 3-league seaward boundary it claimed as a sovereign nation. Some legal authorities contend the boundary was reduced to three miles under an "equal footing" clause in the admission proceedings.

Independent oil producers contin. their cry for a curb on petroleum imports, through industry spokesmen and friends in Congress.

Rep. John Jarman (D-Okla) delivered a long attack this week on present import policies. He urged congressional action.

"Serious injury to this industry would seriously hurt the national economy at a time when it needs all of the help it can get," he said.

"The injury to susceptible state and local economies would be even more direct and immediate. When these points are coupled with the fact that the domestic industry is now capable of supplying more than adequate supplies of oil for both peace and war, a policy of increased dependency on foreign oil becomes truly incredible."

Jack Woodward, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., was here to talk with congressmen on the subject.

He said the voluntary import control program, calling for importers to curtail imports on their own initiative, had failed to work. He said Congress ought to impose tariffs high enough to make domestic crude, produced under high American living standards, competitive with foreign oil.

DRILLING REPORT

Fort Bend Oil No. 1 Wade Davis, Central Scurry wildcat, is deepening to 8,000 feet for a drillstem test. Total depth yesterday had reached 7,920 feet.

The two-hour test was taken on perforations at 7,856-859 feet. Recovery was 6,527 feet of drilling mud and fresh water.

The perforations were then acidized with 250 gallons but it is reported that only part of the acid load was taken up. Operator is now said to be swabbing.

In Southwest Scurry, Ralph Lowe No. 1 Golden-Sun is drilling in shale below 4,384 feet. Lone Star No. 1 Eiland is drilling in dolomite below 4,590 feet.

Runnels Test Makes Shows

Heavily oil and gas-cut mud developed on an Ellenburger drillstem test in Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-A G. Seitz, wildcat in Northwest Runnels County and location was announced for a 5,600-foot wildcat in the same area.

Gulf drillstem tested from 5,290 to 5,310 feet, with tool open two and a half hours. Recovery was 1,550 feet of gas in drillpipe, plus 60 feet of slightly gas and oil-cut mud and 90 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud.

Deepening was slated. The Ellenburger was topped at -5,300 feet, minus datum point of 3,238 feet.

Earlier, a drillstem test of the Fry sand from 4,509 to 4,510½ feet recovered oil.

Gulf will drill the wildcat one and a quarter miles east of No. 1-A Seitz as No. 1 Myrtle Pumphrey, 1,650 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 83-64-H&TC.

Time-Saving Drilling Platform Now In Use In Gulf Operations

ORANGE, May 29 (AP) — A new type tidelands oil drilling platform which can be transferred to a new site within 24 hours is in service in the Gulf.

The platform is a modification of a combination dock and barge developed at the Consolidated Western Steel Plant here last year for the Army Transportation Corps.

Col. L. B. Delong, president of Delong Corp., said today the dock-barge project offered a practical answer to the oil industry's problem of mobility plus stability in offshore drilling operations.

The barge is under lease to a major oil company. Operational features include the towing of a steel barge to its location and anchoring it by lacing steel caissons through wells six feet in diameter. Then, by means of jacks, the barge climbs the caissons until it is raised to a height of 40 feet over the water level.

Tom Green Test Set

Taylor Oil & Gas Co. and W. Edward Lee No. 1 George Foster Rust, East Tom Green County wildcat, eight miles southeast of Van Court, was waiting for cement to harden after casing was set at 3,980 feet from tests above that point.

Total depth is 5,204 feet in the Cambrian, which showed water.

Operator will perforate and tests shows found above 3,980 feet when hole was drilled.

Location is one and a quarter miles southeast of the Rust field and in W. Hillyer survey No. 3.

Applications Filed For Two Kent Wells

Honolulu Oil has filed applications to drill two new wells in the Casey-Canyon sand field of Northwest Kent County.

One will be the No. 1 R. G. Maben, Jr., and others, 660 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 2, John Rodman survey, about 12 miles northwest of Clairemont on a 320-acre lease. It is to begin operations by June 1.

The No. 2 R. G. Maben, Jr., and others is 1,980 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 2, John Rodman survey, also 12 miles northwest of Clairemont. It is to start by June 20.

Both the projects will drill to 6,300 feet.

U. S. farm exports in January, 1954, were valued at 205 million dollars, about 24 per cent below those of the previous January.

WACIL McNAIR coming in . . .

HOUSTON H. HARTE . . . going out

New Editor Named At Newspaper Here

The appointment of Wacil McNair, former city editor of the Big Spring Herald, as editor of the Snyder Daily News, was announced yesterday by Herbert Feather, publisher.

McNair will replace Houston H. Harte, who has been editor since February, 1952. Effective date of the appointment is June 7.

McNair is a native of Upshur County and finished high school at Gilmer. He graduated from Hardin-Simmons University in 1941 and became sports editor of the Big Spring Herald in 1942.

That same year he enlisted in the coast guard and was on anti-submarine patrol duty in the Atlantic during the war. He was discharged as a lieutenant (J.G.) in November, 1945. He then returned to the Herald as city editor.

McNair is married and has three sons. He is a member of the Baptist Church. Mrs. McNair is a member of the Christian Church.

Harte, 27, is moving with his wife and two sons to Des Moines, Ia., where he will be employed by the Des Moines Register and Tribune in the promotion department.

Coming here in July, 1950, after graduation from Washington & Lee University in Virginia, Harte became circulation manager. He was later made business manager and then editor.

McNair becomes the third editor of the Daily News, the other besides Harte being his brother, Edward H. Harte, who established the daily newspaper here in May, 1950. The change leaves Feather as the only owner still active in the management.

Both the Big Spring Herald and the Snyder Daily News are members of the Texas Harte-Hanks chain of newspapers.

Florida Man Makes Texas His Business

HOUSTON, May 29 (AP) — John Randolph is a native of Florida who, more or less by accident, has made Texas his business.

He is a former advertising man who turned author when his Texan buddies in the Army ran out of Texas information to back up their arguments with Northerners.

The result was "Texas Brags," a little pamphlet whose average annual sales have approached 100,000 since it first appeared in 1944.

The humorous presentation of factual, fabulous information about Texas had become so successful by the time Randolph, 46, returned from the China, Burma, India Theater after the war that he decided to quit the ad business.

He set up a business devoted to Texas lore and humor. "Texas Brags" sells at its early post-war pace but other pieces have followed: Maps deliberately distorting the relative sizes of Texas and other states, Texas size postcards, Texas passports, certificates of Texas citizenship.

Next month, Randolph is to publish another companion, "The Jokes on Texas." It is to be something of a "Texas Brags" in reverse.

"It will show the sense of humor Texans have," he said. "They are willing to laugh at themselves. They don't take things too seriously. It will be an anecdote but also a complement, a companion to 'Texas Brags'."

Austin Boy Killed In Friendly Rock Fight

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—A boy was killed yesterday in what police described as a "friendly" rock fight.

He was Howard Dorsett Jr., 7, who was struck in the chest.

Detective Capt. R. B. Laws said the accident was a "freak" and there was no apparent intention of doing harm. Three other children were involved in the rock-throwing.

Stickup Man Wounds One

AMARILLO, May 29 (AP)—A highway prowler stuck up two California couples sleeping in their cars beside the road early today. He wounded one man and stole the second couple's car and money.

Both attacks were near Groom, 45 miles east of here on Highway 66, within a few minutes apart around 3:30 a.m.

Officers said they believed the prowler was the same in each case. A similar holdup occurred early yesterday near Clovis, N.M.

Near Groom, the prowler accosted Mr. and Mrs. Bill Frazier of San Diego. Frazier resisted and the thug fired several times, wounding him. The man fled without taking any money. Frazier was in good condition at Groom.

A few miles away, the prowler awoke the second California couple, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Honey. He took $25 at gunpoint and drove away in their car. Honey said $200 more was hidden in the car. The couple hitchhiked to Conway and officers brought them here.

In the Clovis robbery, John Regenold of Toledo, Ohio, was accosted while asleep in his car and robbed of $40 and the car. The car was abandoned about a mile away.

Reserves Work At Fort Hood

FORT HOOD, May 29 (AP)—The next two weeks mean work for the Texans of the 90th Division, a reserve unit.

They start moving into North Fort Hood near Gatesville tomorrow for their summer field training.

They're coming from all over the state to try to weld themselves into an efficient fighting force.

The 90th Division also will train all reserve recruits from the 4th Army area. They include recruits from the 75th, 90th and 95th Divisions from Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

Col. James Rudder, commanding the 90th Division, said:

"It is essential to the defense of our nation that we maintain a strong reserve component of our armed forces. Men of the reserve units are making a patriotic gesture by belonging to the reserve units and participating in their training program.

"The same admirable attitude is being shown by their employers by permitting them to arrange to attend these camps which are so vital to the security of our country."

New Mexico Man Recalls First Airplane Flight Across Atlantic

SANTA FE, N.M., May 29 (AP)—Jim Breese, now 69 but still ruddy and sturdy, gnawed his thumbnail nervously as he recalled the jackknife and the part it played in history's first flight across the Atlantic.

In 1919, Breese was a Navy lieutenant and engineer aboard the flying boat NC4 which, under the command of Cmdr. Albert C. Read flew from Newfoundland to Lisbon and Plymouth, England.

That was 35 years ago next Monday but Breese still shifts tensely to the edge of his chair when he recalls the start of the flight, and especially the knife he used as a makeshift ignition system connection.

"I live through it each time I think about it," he said. "You know, I held that knife on those battery connections while I made the ignition change, and when I simmered down, I realized all the skin on the palm of my hand was burned.

"I had to keep the connections with the knife so the current flow wouldn't break and stop the engines."

That was at Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland, where the Navy flying boat and its sister ships, the NC1 and NC3, were leaving the last point of land on the big hop to the Azores.

Everything had been fine at the start, at Rockaway Beach, Long Island, but bad luck dogged them up to Trepassey.

Engine trouble forced the NC4 down off Cape Cod and they had to taxi 100 miles in the open sea to the naval air station at Chatham, Mass. They got the engine changed but bad weather kept them at Chatham two days, abjectly listening to radio reports and reading of the arrival of the other two planes at Trepassey.

On the way to Halifax they broke a starter. With that fixed, they took off again only to be forced down once more by engine trouble 15 miles out of Halifax. Finally, they reached Trepassey, where the other planes were waiting.

Here, the NC4 needed one of its four engines changed while the other crews waited impatiently.

"We worked frantically," Breese wrote in his diary. "Messages began coming: 'How soon will you be ready?' We answered, 'In half an hour.' So the others cast loose and began taxiing around us.

"Our new engine was full of oil and wouldn't start. It was a terrible half hour to see the others ready and our new engine not yet started.

"I tried every wile I knew to coax a balky gas engine into starting, but a couple of sputters was all I got.

"Finally, as the others were pulling out into starting position, I thought of one last trump card and went below and raised the ignition circuit from its normal 8 volts to 12. I was taking a chance of burning something out but the moment was critical.

"I came back on deck, the pilots pulled the starting button and binkety, bang, bang, off she went just like an old-timer. The other engines started easily, and we shot out into the bay."

His hunch worked, and they were off to the Azores. Oddly, the NC4, which had had the most trouble getting started, had the least trouble crossing the ocean. The NC1 got lost and landed in 20-foot waves, sinking after the crew was picked up by a tramp steamer. Among the crew was Lt. Cmdr. Marc A. Mitscher, later to become famous as a carrier force commander in World War II.

In the succeeding years, Breese married, got out of the Navy, settled down in Santa Fe, raised four children and became a successful inventor and producer of oil burners. Hundreds of thousands of these burners heated GI tents and huts in World War II and Korea.

In World War II, he commanded the Civil Air Patrol in New Mexico. He gave up flying and sold his small private plane a year ago.

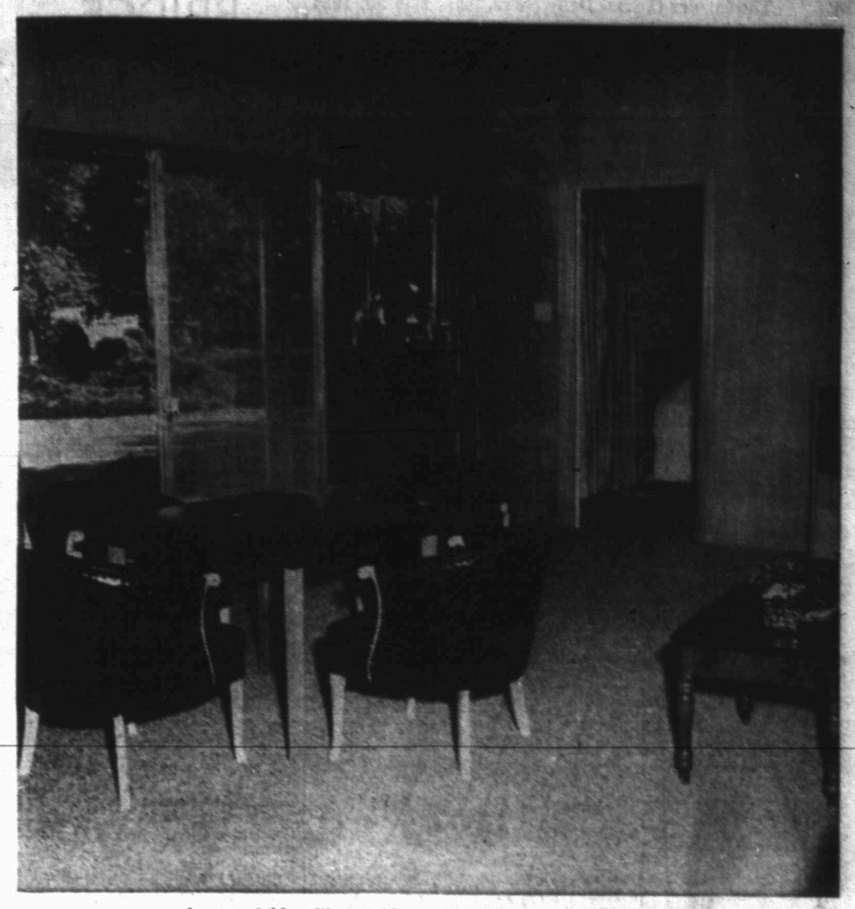
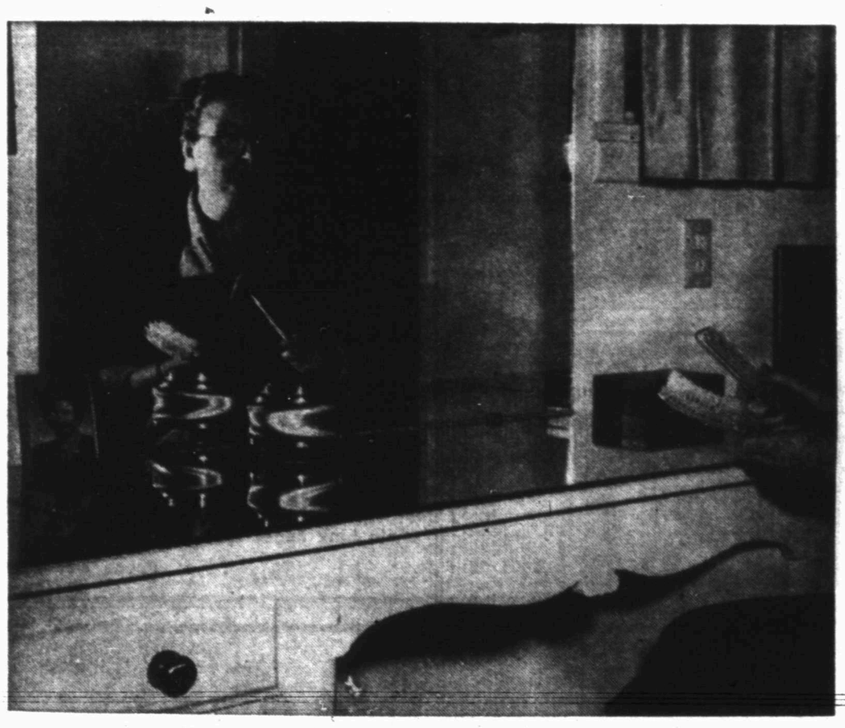
The new wing at the left added more room to the already spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Eiland at 2901 Avenue U. The exterior of the house is painted silver gray with a roof of silver gray slate shingles. Red brick used in a broad walk and the porches gives a color note, and white wrought iron supports on the porches lend further interest. Tall trees around the house are major attractions.



A game table with matching red plastic-covered chairs is one of several attractions of the den. A ceiling light over the table can be lowered for perfect illumination. Morning sunlight floods the room through the large glass panels.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 5, No. 25 — SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 30, 1954 — SECTION B



Mrs. Eiland is mirrored above as she sits at a built-in table in the dressing room between the master bedroom and bath. This long, narrow room has two clothes closets and another closet for hat and shoe storage.

Eilands Remodel, Enlarge Home For Comfort, Beauty

Towering shade trees are often a luxury for West Texas homeowners, and many new homes must wait years for the tall, graceful trees their owners long to see. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Eiland at 2901 Avenue U had the trees, and a house with good, solid lines which was already at home in its surroundings. The house didn't quite suit their wishes, however, so it had a working over. Now with more room added, they have the house and the location they want, a perfect combination.

An attractive brick walk, eight feet wide, leads to the pleasant east front porch of the house. The walk continues along the south side of the house to a second covered porch on the new wing of the house.

Inside the living room, green is the predominant color. The high, beamed ceiling and walls of green set a background for furniture in matching or contrasting tones. The padded cornice boards are covered with a medium shade of antique green satin, with silk curtains of a lighter shade. The same arrangement, cornice boards with drapes and panels, was used throughout the house with no shades hung at the windows. Venetian blinds, which had become dust-catchers during recent dusty years, were done away with gladly, Mrs. Eiland said. Since the house is now fully insulated and cooled and warmed through a central unit, very little dust gathers even on the polished surfaces of the dark furniture.

The neutral coloring of the living room carpet was extended to the adjoining dining room. Green predominates here again, with a pleasant color contrast in the chair seats of antique rose satin.

The palest of greens was used for the walls of the breakfast nook, situated between the dining room and the kitchen. In the breakfast nook is a glass-fronted corner closet for Mrs. Eiland's collection of cut glass pieces and an open cabinet for delicate china pieces. The kitchen gleams with walls of a commercial wallboard which keep their spotless appearance with little cleaning, Mrs. Eiland said. The kitchen is a small, compact working center which requires a minimum of walking to assemble whatever materials are needed for meal preparation. A combination automatic washer-drier is nearby in a service room.

Just a step and out the back door is the terrace, shady at almost any hour of the day and protected by trees and buildings. Triple casement windows in the

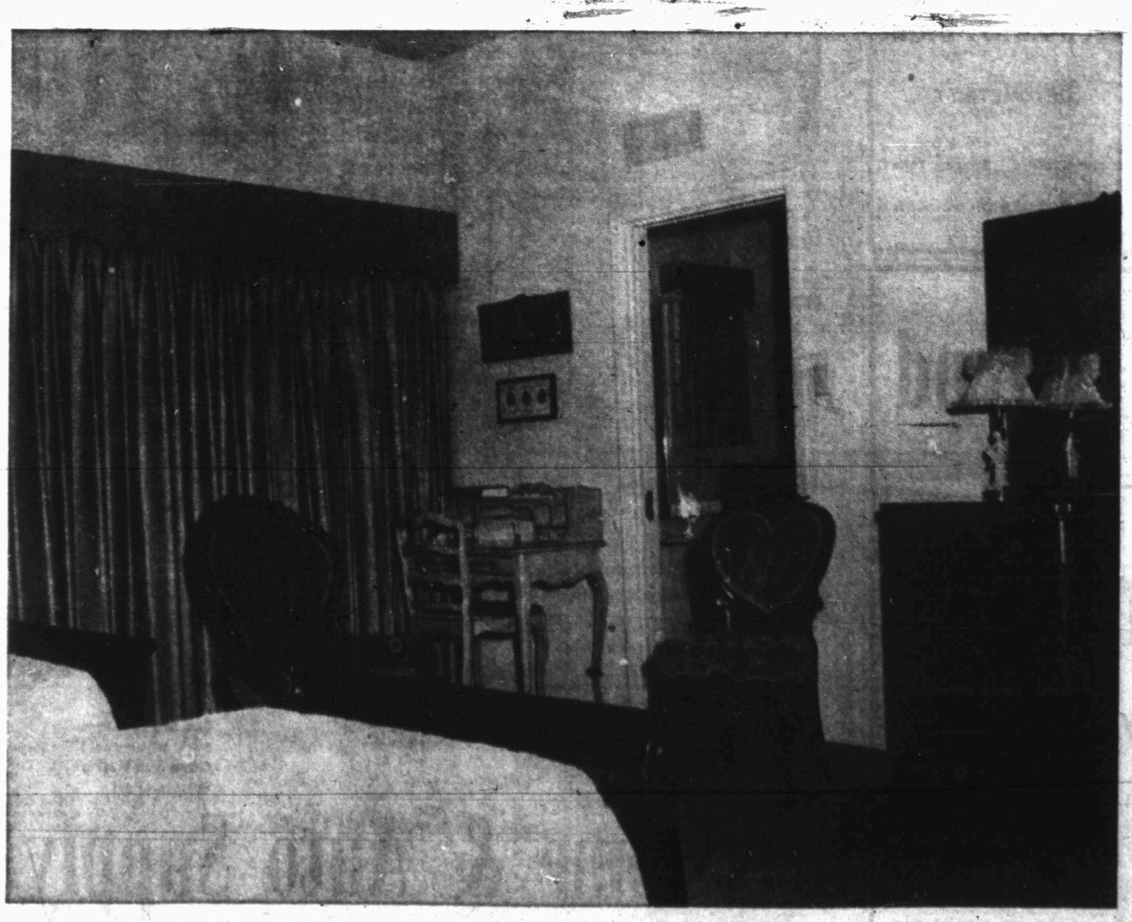
Mr. Eiland is shown on the patio on the west side of the house. Red bricks form a low fence around the area. Grass is already making a carpet for the remaining portion of the back yard, which has a border of iris.



An antique white desk in a corner of the master bedroom is the only departure from the dark furniture used there. The pink of the walls is of the same hue as the drapes and bedspreads, soft, restful colors for a quiet room. A guest room also features pink but is varied with mauve accents.

Mr. and Mrs. Eiland are shown in the den which was added to their home. Oak paneling was used for three walls, with Arizona flagstone above the fireplace. Rock maple furniture and bright colors make the room attractive for informal entertaining and family relaxation. The desk at the right serves practical purposes as well. (Lee Watson photographs)

The easiest dress you will ever make is this selvedge dress, created by the Paris-born American designer Joset Walker. The entire collar is cut in one piece; the hem and collar are selvedged which forms the trim and leaves a minimum of hand finishing. The bodice molds by the insertion of a dart under the collar. The original design was shown in cotton, but any reversible fabric of denim, linen or sailcloth is suitable. Size 12 requires four and one-eighth yards of 36-inch material. Josephine Abercrombie of Houston is shown driving Parading Lady of her Pin Oak Stable of Versailles, Ky., to victory in Fine Harness Champion Stake in the National Horse Show. She was the leading winner at the show, taking 12 of 13 hackney prizes.

Miss Abercrombie lends a hand with Light Note, one of her Pin Oak Farm thoroughbreds at Belmont Park while jockey Bennie Green inspects the filly's leg. The Houston miss is one-fourth owner of a racing string of 18 horses.

Pretty Blonde Is Learning About Racing The Hard Way

By The Associated Press

ELMONT, N.Y. — Outside Stable 42 at spacious Belmont Park, beautiful blue-eyed Josephine Abercrombie stood watching the grooms walk a half dozen thoroughbreds. In her hand she held a stop watch.

"I'm just learning to work it," said the 28-year-old Rice Institute graduate who is one-fourth owner of the Pin Oak Farm stable of Versailles, Ky., and Houston, Tex.

"The first time I used it I didn't know how to start it. The second time I didn't know how to stop it and the third day out on the track I lost it. Now that I've found it I can't get it to work."

Miss Abercrombie has no plans to become a trainer for she has a capable conditioner in J. H. "Slim" Pearce. But even in soiled jodphurs, the sparkling blonde attraction around Belmont's stable area wants to learn everthing abouts racing.

When the Pin Oak horses are due to work out she's usually on hand at 6 o'clock in the morning. And she stays around until all the fillies and colts in the 18-horse stable are back in the barn.

The stable is owned by Miss Abercrombie in partnership with her father's brother, Bob Abercrombie, and Houston contractors William A. Smith and Herman Brown.

The talk about the stable area is that while Pin Oak is literally unknown now it will be heard from within the coming two or three years.

"We all just wanted to get into racing," says Miss Abercrombie. "Last year was our first and we did pretty well. We won 18 races and Bennie Green here (the stable's contract jockey) rode 13 of them. Two of our wins were in stakes. We won the Asterita at Aqueduct and the Marguerite Stakes at Pimlico with Make a Play, now a 3-year-old filly. She is by War Admiral.

"This spring we've won only twice, but the wins came in successive races at Jamaica. It looks like a good sign.

"I'm a real greenhorn at thoroughbred racing but I'm beginning to get the hang of it.

"I've been showing show horses and hackney ponies since I was six and while I shill show hackneys I'm beginning to believe racing holds more fascination, more excitement."

At the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden last fall, Miss Abercrombie won 12 out of 13 first in various hackney competitions.

Her Glenholme Toubadour won the American Horse Show Association honors as champion hackney pony of 1953.

If Miss Abercrombie has half as much success with Pin Oak Farm as she's had with hackneys she will be happy.

She has named all of the stable's horses but Eat and Run. That colt was named by her dad, Houston oil man James S. Abercrombie.

"I like the name, too," she says. "He's by Eight Thirty-Brown Biscuit."

Among those she named are Bless Pat by Pavot, Light Note by Noor, Roman Patrol by Roman, Luminary by Heliopolis, War and Peace by War admiral and Fleet Colors, a County Fleet filly.

Possibly the hardest way to start a racing stable is to begin with untried colts and fillies. That's just the way Pin Oak Farm began, having purchased baby racers at the Keeneland, Ky., and Saratoga yearling sales.

Miss Abercrombie agrees it may not be the easiest way to break into racing but "it's the most interesting way, especially when you can bid in the off-spring of good sires and dams."

Jean Hersholt Is Giving Up Dr. Christian

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the first time in 17 years, Jean Hersholt is parting company with Dr. Christian.

The great Dane is playing one of the leading roles in "Run for Cover" with James Cagney, Viveca Lindfors and John Derek. It will be the first time since 1937 that the public has seen or heard him in any role except that of the kindly Dr. Christian.

"I want to see if I can get away with doing something else," says Hersholt. "After all, Dr. Christian is such a sweet, sentimental fellow. I'd hate to be stuck with playing only him for the rest of my life.

"Two whole generations have grown up knowing me as nothing else but Dr. Christian. Yet I have played in over 400 pictures and done every kind of a role, including many heavies."

He'll be no heavy in this one. He plays 'iss Lindfors' father, a stubborn Swede who is a frontier farmer.

I visited him at this Beverly Hills home, where he has lived for almost 30 years. He looked the same as ever, except that he had grown sideburns and a brush mustache for his film role. He relaxed in his upstairs study, a room laden with medals and trophies, including three honorary Oscars and awards from foreign countries.

"I have no beef with Dr. Christian," he said, puffing on a pipe. "He has been very good to me. I was on radio every week, summer and winter, 18 years with the same sponsor; I don't believe any other show can match that record."

I asked him if Jean Hersholt and Paul Christian are the same person.

"I don't like to think so," he replied thoughtfully. "I like to think I have an identity of my own. That's one of the reasons I am doing this picture. I want to prove that I can do something else."

That doesn't mean he's abandoning the Doc. The show has gone off radio for the present. But Hersholt has made a pilot film for a TV series, and he may get active in that medium.

back bedroom overlook the back yard and terrace. The green of the yard is repeated in the fresh green of the room, with a muted red chaise lounge for contrast. A double, cedar-lined closet in this bedroom, as in the two other bedrooms, has built - in dressing shelves on the inside of the doors. Brown and green were used in the bath here.

Access to the oak-paneled den may be gained from the dining room or breakfast nook. The den also has an outside entrance from the covered porch which parallels it on the east. Shaggy wool carpeting of a neutral tone was chosen for this room, with red and brown furniture in a comfortable arrangement for television watching or other activities. A fireplace with no mantel is in a wall of Arizona flagstone at the north end of the room. Draw drapes with an Egyptian print in brown give the room privacy.

The master bedroom is in the south end of the new wing. Everything here reflects Mrs. Eiland's preference for pink, with the same pink used in the adjoining dressing room and, past it, the tiled bath. The third bedroom, where mauve was used with pink, is furnished with Louis XV pieces for a period look. Its bath is also in pink and mauve tile.

There's no wasted space in the house, no halls which serve little purpose or corners which cannot be used. The whole effect is that of a purposefully planned entirely, and there is surely one advantage that few houses can boast—closet space and storage space without limit.

SOCIETY SCRIBBLINGS

Leaving tomorrow for Denver, Colo., where they will attend the sixty-third annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will be Mrs. H. J. BRICE, Mrs. J. C. DORWARD, Mrs. WAYNE BOREN and Miss MYRTLE HARRELL.

The Snyder group will travel by chartered bus with other federated club women from San Angelo, Colorado City, Post and Lubbock. Delegates from all over the United States will arrive by bus, plane, train and automobile for the convention's opening sessions tomorrow.

A familiar face among the Texas women at the convention will be Mrs. J. W. WALKER of Plainview, who is a candidate for second vice president of the GFWC. Mrs. Walker is past president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Seventh District, which includes Snyder. She has been a member of the General Federation Board since 1940, and recently completed four years as editor of the Texas Clubwoman, the monthly magazine of the TFWC.

Letters of endorsement for Mrs. Walker have come from friends of hers including Governor ALLAN SHIVERS, Representative GEORGE MAHON and Attorney General JOHN BEN SHEPPERD. Mrs. J. T. WHITMORE of Snyder, herself a past president of the Seventh District and a life member of the district, also gave her support in a letter published along with several others in the May issue of the Texas Clubwoman.

Convention visitors will be welcomed by Colorado's Governor Dan Thornton and Quigg Newton, mayor of Denver. Speakers on the second day's program will include Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgen, president of the GFWC, Roy E. Larsen, publisher of Life and Time magazines, and Judge Philip B. Gulliam of Denver who was among the speakers at the Seventh District convention in Dalhart recently. Snyder women will be among those attending the South Central regional dinner at the Cosmopolitan Hotel Tuesday night.

Harold Stassen, director of the Foreign Operations Administration, will be among the speakers on Wednesday. A luncheon on that day given by the Council of International Clubs will have as guest speaker Felisa Riconde Gautier, city manager for San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Election of officers is scheduled Thursday. Dr. Gabriel Hauge, administrative assistant to the president, and Val Peterson, chief of the federal Civil Defense Administration, will be included in speakers for the afternoon session.

Also in the afternoon's business will be the presentation of department reports dealing with 10 important phases of federated club work — Americanism, the American home, communications, conservation, education, national defense, fine arts, international affairs, public affairs and welfare. Mrs. L. E. Dudley of Abilene, TFWC president, will report for Texas.

Twelve resolutions are to be presented to the convention for adoption. Should they be adopted, these resolutions will have the support of approximately six million club women throughout the nation.

Company coming for supper? Keep the menu simple for ease of preparation and serving, but give it a company look with curried peas and potatoes. For the main dish, broiled lamb chops are a suggestion, with a salad and hot rolls for accompaniment. Here are the ingredients for the curried peas and potatoes.

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups diced cooked potatoes
1 No. 303 can peas, drained
2 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup light cream
1 tablespoon minced canned pimento
Salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt the butter over low heat, then add the onion, curry powder and lemon juice. Cook, stirring often, until the onion is soft but not brown. Add the potatoes and drained peas. Cut the eggs in half, dice the whites and add to the potato mixture. Gently stir in the cream, pimento, salt to taste and pepper. Heat to serving temperature and turn into the serving dish. Put the egg yolks through a fine strainer and press through over the vegetable dish as a garnish. This makes four servings.

Orange-flavored cupcakes are as pleasant as a Spring morning. Try a chocolate frosting on them, or a confectioner's sugar frosting flavored faintly with whatever strikes your fancy.

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups sugar
1/3 cup shortening
4 egg yolks
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2/3 cup milk

Have both the shortening and milk at room temperature before you begin the mixing. Sift together the dry ingredients. In a mixing bowl, put the sugar, shortening, egg yolks and orange rind and beat together for three minutes. It is important to have the mixture light and well blended, so don't spare the beating.

Add the sifted dry ingredients and milk at one time. Beat one minute more, or until the batter is smooth. Spoon the batter into 18 well-greased and floured muffin cups, filling one-half full. Bake in a 400-degree oven for 15 minutes. Run a small spatula around the sides of the cups and remove carefully. Cool on a rack.

Nonsegregated Schools Say Little Trouble Between Races

By MARTIN Z. POST

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—What can more than eight million white and 2½ million Negro children and their teachers expect when the Supreme Court issues its decrees ending segregation in the public schools?

The experience of other millions of pupils in nonsegregated school systems may shed some light on what's ahead. A survey by The Associated Press of some of these areas shows:

The complexion of the schools reflects the pattern of housing. Depending on the districts they serve, the schools range from mixed, to almost all white or almost all Negro.

Negro teachers have been employed successfully to teach white pupils.

Children are not bothered by color.

A carefully prepared educational program helps reduce friction.

"Children intermingle freely . . . We have very few racial problems," says Dr. Claude B. Courtee, superintendent of schools in Cincinnati.

"There is a racial problem, but we are meeting it the best we can with a human relations program," says Supt. Arthur Dondineau of the Detroit schools.

"We keep no records on the basis of race or religion," says Dr. Herbert Clish, San Francisco's superintendent of schools.

"No incidents in nine years," reports Asst. Supt. Joseph C. Noethen of the time he has spent in a section of New York with a heavy concentration of minority groups.

New York school authorities—like those in Chicago, San Francisco and other places—say they keep no count of the number of white and Negro pupils among their students.

Elementary schools, says a New York Board of Education spokesman, are districted according to density of population, not character. Some of the 800 school buildings have few Negroes, and some have few whites. Others are changing with the changing character of their neighborhoods.

The Board of Education cannot say how many of New York's 37,000 teachers are Negro. Teachers generally are named from a list of applicants rated according to a competitive examination.

However, a special effort is made in New York to orient the curriculum to the needs of the major community group.

Clish was asked how San Francisco overcame the race problem.

"Our elementary schools are districted on a neighborhood basis," he said. "A youngster must go to the elementary school in his neighborhood, unless the parent receives special permission."

Clish said there had been "one or two" requests for transfer because of race. They were denied.

"One year," he added, "A Chinese boy was elected student body president and another year a Negro was elected in a predominantly white school."

Chicago schools have no policy of segregating pupils. Factors which help make a school district include distance children have to walk and the number of arterial highways they have to cross.

"We take them simply as American children," says Thaddeus J. Lubera, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools in Chicago.

He says there is "no friction," although high spirits sometimes flare at games.

In Chicago as in other big cities, high schools cover greater areas than do elementary schools and sometimes offer specialized subjects.

Thus transfers from one school to another are permitted, although not allowed in the lower grades.

In Chicago, Lubera said, high school students sometimes shift to schools where a racial or religious group is dominant. He said the transfer requests usually are pegged to curriculum as a pretext.

Cincinnati has 79 public schools with an enrollment of 53,945 white, 15,774 Negro children. A dozen schools are predominantly Negro, nine are evenly divided.

Detroit's 19 public schools, 220 elementary schools and 18 junior high schools also range from all white to mixed to all Negro. In the schools there are 263,565 children. 17 per cent of them Negro.

"We've grown up with a nonsegregated system and it works," said Supt. Dondineau.

In the nation's capital, where the public schools have been segregated, Archbishop Patrick O'Boyle began desegregation among the Catholic parochial schools in 1948.

"The pattern of acceptance is unblemished by any untoward incident," reports the Catholic Standard, publication of the archdiocese of Washington.

A flareup had been predicted but did not materialize, the newspaper said. The paper did not say that some white parents withdrew their children from the church schools.

Reports of successful integration of minority-group pupils in curricular and extracurricular life come from other places, like St. Louis' Catholic schools.

There Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter erased the color line in 1947, although Missouri law requires segregation in public schools.

When some parishioners threatened court action, the archbishop cautioned them that such a course would lead to excommunication, and the action was dropped.

Reports the Rev. James T. Curtin, superintendent of the St. Louis archdiocese high schools:

"Relations (between Negro and white pupils) have been all that we could possibly hope for. We feel they are getting to the point of accepting each other without question."

Archbishop Ritter said an important factor in the process of integration has been the community's letting down its racial barriers in recent years.

A pastoral letter was read in the sprawling archdiocese of San Antonio, Tex., last April 5.

"Henceforth," declared Archbishop Robert E. Lucey, "no Catholic child may be refused admittance to any school maintained by the archdiocese for reason of color, race or poverty."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Morkovsky, superintendent of schools, said the order might give a few heretofore reluctant Negroes the moral courage to apply for enrollment.

The Catholic schools in New Orleans have been desegregating for eight years. For several years there has been no segregation at two seminaries.

In Kansas, segregation is permitted on a local option basis but has never been considered a real problem. This is because Negroes are more widely scattered.

Nonsegregated schools in Kansas have been that way since they were established, except in Wichita and Pittsburg, which ended segregation within the last four years.

PRAYER OF THANKS

Hinson Pushes For Laws On Lobbyists

AUSTIN, May 29 (AP)—A lobbyist registration law "with teeth in it" was urged today by Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, candidate for lieutenant governor.

The East Texan hit at "influence peddlings" and urged laws tightening up on activities of lobbyists of "the wrong type."

Hinson ended a week of campaigning in East Texas and planned a tour of West Texas and Panhandle beginning at Wichita Falls June 2.

In the 18th Century, so little was known about bird migrations that some people believed that birds wintered on the moon.

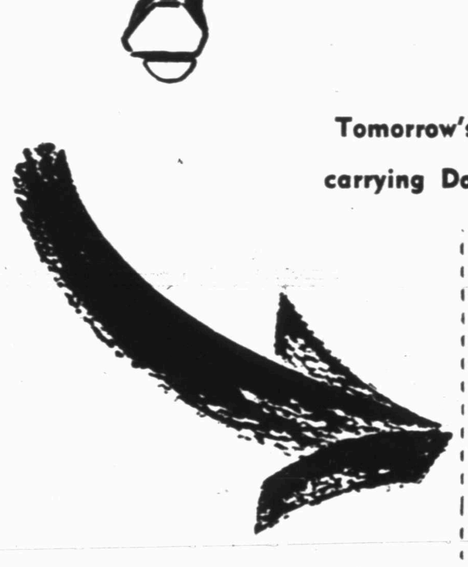
Here's a young man who's going places!

IN FACT, he is already on his way. He is already a successful young business man, operating a small business of his own which fits in nicely with his school work and also rewards him handsomely in profits for the small amount of time required.

Yes, he is an independent newspaperboy. He is proud and his parents are too, of the fact that he is able to earn money for his clothes and hobbies and has a growing bank account.

But much more important than the money he earns is the knowledge and training he is receiving for the future. He is getting basic training in the operation of a business—service to the customer, securing orders, making collections and saving his money. He is learning salesmanship, and how to meet and deal with all types of people.

Carrying a newspaper route is the most valuable training a boy can receive, as a supplement to school work.



Tomorrow's business leaders are carrying Daily News routes today!

NOT AMBITIOUS DOG

Writer Dreams Of Dog Which Doesn't Want To Save Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Somewhere in the world there is the kind of dog I kind of like to dream about.

He's just an old, offhand, carelessly dressed dog with an easy going air. He has no particular color or weight and wouldn't fight another dog to protect his master or defend his honor.

When other dogs brag about their blueblood ancestery, he only yaps, "I'm a mongrel and a bum. I enjoy biting the hand that feeds me, and if anybody wants to loot the joint I am supposed to be guarding, I will help him by carrying out the television set in my own mouth — saying shushhh . . . shushhh . . . on the way."

The kind of dog I dream about is the dog, who, if he discovered gold, will throw dirt over it so his master won't find it. He is the gay carefree dog who sneers at the tint of his license tag, gnaws thoughtfully at every passing child. If he digs up the vegetable garden to bury a bone and finds himself in a uranium patch, he would die rather than report it to his owner and make the man rich.

That's old Bowser, my dream dog.

A funny old unaffectionate kind of beast, but mine. You throw him the remains of a sirloin steak, and after nosing it once he checks the current prices of beef at the local supermarket before deciding it is up to his gulping standard.

The reason that I yearn for Bowser is that I am sure he is a sweet old-fashioned dog who would splash water on me if I were drowning, and play patty-cake with his paws in applause as I went down for the third time.

Yes, I want a dog like that, a con-dog with a sense of humor who cons the human race for food and laughs, and is content with a tail-wagging servile sense of superiority, such as an astute Greek slave showed to his ignorant but muscular Roman conqueror.

With this kind of dog I feel safe, because I know he is a normal, sensible, uninhibited dog who would rather scratch a flea than save mankind.

It is the new, ambitious dog that worries me. This is the go-getter, win-recognition-at-any-price dog.

Brother Of Ira Woman Dies In California

Mrs. Joe A. Thompson of Ira has received word that her brother, Ethel Fairley of Bakersfield, Cal., died unexpectedly Tuesday of a heart attack there.

Funeral services and burial were held in Bakersfield yesterday morning.

A chicken, the blue hen, known in colonial days for its cock fighting progeny is the state bird of Delaware.

Negroes Seek Help In June 19 Celebration

The largest "Juneteenth" celebration ever held here is being planned by the Negro population, according to J. C. Smith, who is in charge of arrangements.

The biggest problem facing the planners, Smith said, is the securing of meat donations for a free barbecue to be held that day. One Scurry rancher, Wilson Connell, has already contributed a goat, Smith said.

The event occurs on June 19, the anniversary of the first mass freeing of slaves in all U. S. territories on that date in 1862. The emancipation proclamation of President Abraham Lincoln was issued Jan. 1, 1863, abolishing slavery in all military sections of the South except those territories occupied by Union armies.

Smith said arrangements are being made for a parade early on the afternoon of June 19. A doubleheader baseball game will be played by Negro teams on the Winston Field south of the Negro section of town.

The free barbecue and dance that night will be the highlight of the events. A jitterbug contest is planned at the dance.
