"95" AND GOING STRONG

J. J. Bryant, a farmer, living across the river, was in Burk Burnett Wednesday shopping at the Smith & Hatch Hardware for building material for repairs on his home. He was 95 years old Monday and says he will live to see England win the war.

HAIL AND HEARTY AT 95

Farms One-Quarter Section In Okla.

J. J. Bryant, a farmer across the river, can remember when Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan were presidents of the United States and who has had the pleasure of shaking hands with President Abe Lincoln, paid one of his numerous visits to Burk Burnett to do his shopping, Wednesday of this week.

Mr. Bryant was born in Grayson County, Virginia, Jan. 6th, 1846, and celebrated his 95th birthday Monday by doing the necessary work around his farm.

From Virginia Mr. Bryant moved with his parents to Missouri, where he married and farmed for 20 years. In 1907, when the Indian Territory of Oklahoma was thrown open for settlement he moved with his family to this new state. He has resided in Oklahoma since that time and for the past five years has been farming an Indian lease just across the Red River.

He and his wife, whom he married 68 years ago, have reared five boys, all living, and who have married and moved away to make homes of their own. Mrs. Bryant is 84, and still able to do her own housework, besides helping with the chores outside.

Mr. Bryant was refused enlistment in the army during the Civil War due to his weight and height. He is about 5 feet 4 inches and weighs 110 pounds. He is very active and walks with a spring to his step that is the envy of men much younger than he is. He has chewed tobacco most of his life and says, "That it will eventually kill him if he keeps it up."

When interviewed by a Star reporter, he was purchasing lumber, nails, etc., from Smith & Hatch hardware for some improvements he was going to make around his farm.

BURK'S DREAM OF A PUBLIC MEETING PLACE COMES TRUE

Lions, Rotarians And City Due Credit

Firemen's Annual Ball Will Officially Open Building Jan. 16

City officials will hold open house Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the new Community Hall, according to city manager Lynn Kincaid. The public is invited to inspect the building which is the latest addition to municipal assets.

Following closely on the 'house warming' will be the Firemen's annual ball which is always a highlight on the winter social calendar.

The date is Thursday evening, January 16, and plans have been completed for one of the biggest dances ever held here. Gordon Shay's orchestra of Wichita Falls has been engaged for the evening and many out of town guests are expected.

The Lions and Rotary clubs will hold their regular weekly meetings there for the first time on January 14th, and will meet there each Tuesday thereafter.

The building will be used for public gatherings of all sorts and will prove to be one of the biggest assets to community spirit and to stimulating interest in civic matters Burk Burnett ever had.

On motion by Leonard Mattingly and Wiley Browning it was decided to hold Ladies' Night January 21 instead of January 14.

Many members of the club became reminiscent because the club was holding its last meeting in the Rotary Hall. The next meeting will be held in the new Community Hall. This will make the sixth move for the local Lions club since its organization fifteen years ago. Some of the members expressed the wish that the club might find the new meeting place a permanent home.

George McClarty and Harry Mayes were guests.

YOUR TELEPHONE STILL PIONEERS

THE PAST 20 YEARS in telephone history are marked by constant progress. Workers in the Bell System... 300,000 strong... still are pioneering.

TELEPHONES AND CALLS DOUBLED Today, America has more than twice as many Bell telephones as 20 years ago. More than twice as many calls flash through the lines each day.

FASTER, MORE DEPENDABLE SERVICE

Your service now is faster... clearer... more dependable. In the territory this company serves, for example, your local calls go through in only three-fourths the time it took just two decades ago... long distance calls in one-seventh the time. Coast-to-coast calls often are connected in one-twentieth the time and cost one-fifth as much.

BETTER ARMED TO MEET DISASTER

Today, America's telephone system is better armed to meet the fury of disasters. Storms that once silenced hundreds of telephones now disrupt service only slightly... and often not at all. Damage from major catastrophes is repaired in hours and days... instead of weeks and months.

TODAY, America's telephone force is better than ever able to furnish fast, accurate, and dependable telephone service to the nation.

Why Not Include Girls?

Publicizing of a motto "Take a Boy Hunting and Fishing," brought an inquiry recently from J. C. Cross, of the department of biology of A. & I. college of Kingsville, Texas, which read: "Why not change your motto of a real sportsman to include girls as well as boys. Girls like to hunt and fish." Thanks, Mr. Cross.

In justice to Il Duce, when he said "Nothing can stop me," he did not specify in which direction of movement.

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY IS READY TO DO ITS PART IN THE NATION'S DEFENSE

Look at the maps below. Until 1908 electric power transmission lines, as we know them today, practically didn't exist. Even when we entered the World War, they were few and far between. But see how they grew, through 1928 on up to 1940. Today the nation is criss-crossed with service facilities, reaching from great cities into towns, villages, even to ranches and farms... everywhere except on tops of mountains and in the great American desert. Today we are prepared... fortified with a combination of electric service systems, unmatched in all the world. This "Preparedness" program has been building for 40 years. Electric Power's defense is "Ready."

In 100 West Texas communities, in the big oil fields of West Texas, Texas Electric Service Company is the servant of the local community... an important part of national defense. Oil wells and pipe lines are powered; cities are lighted; industry's machines are driven. Power is constant, unfailing. The power transmission line system of Texas Electric Service Company and other inter-connected power transmission line systems in Texas exceed in number of miles the entire British "Power Grid." Texas' systems, combined with others of the nation, form a national "Network" no emergency could break down.

Should a Lady Cross Her Legs? Yes and No

SHOULD a lady cross her legs? Yes, and no, say those who know their feminine etiquette. It is permissible, but only if it is done gracefully.

If a woman is sitting in a sprawling position with her legs stretched in front of her so that the calves are flattened out of shape making them look very wide, the answer is no, writes Sally Berry in the January issue of Good Housekeeping. It is, however, quite correct for a woman to lightly cross her ankles if she is sitting erect. This is restful; toes point gracefully, and her legs keep their slender lines. If a woman crosses her legs above the knee, and keeps them straight, not turned out as ugly angles, the answer is again yes.

For a correct sitting position, Miss Berry has some other rules. "Follow them," she advises, "and you'll be sitting pretty."

1. Choose a seat of the right height.
2. Sit on your sitting bones. Don't slump on the end of your spine.
3. See that your lower back touches the back of your chair.

★ FASHION PREVIEW ★

Inspiration for this pastel wool dress was drawn from the outfit worn by cowboys at rodeos. Pictured in the January Good Housekeeping, it has pearl-stud snap buttons, deep three-button cuffs in true cowboy spirit.

Egg Shipments From Texas Show Increase

Austin, Jan. 9.—Shipments of eggs from Texas chicken farms during November climbed to 77 cars, five times the 15 cars shipped in November a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Turkeys dropped from 590 cars in November, 1939, to only 556 cars in November, 1940, though movement of chickens almost tripled.

It's Delightful - Delovely -- Divinity!

YOU'LL think you're in heaven when you taste this made-to-Christmas-order candy, fitten food for angels and poor mortals alike. Coffee lends its flavor to this out-of-the-ordinary divinity, and the result is out of this world. Clip this recipe, by all means, for a holiday candy that approaches immortality:

Coffee Divinity
2 cups sugar
1 cup double-strength freshly-made coffee
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped
nutmeats

Combine sugar, coffee and corn syrup in a saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until a firm ball is formed when a small amount is dropped in cold water or (265° F.) registers on the candy thermometer. Remove from heat. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff, slowly add coffee syrup beating constantly. Continue beating until candy will hold its shape. Add vanilla and chopped nutmeats. Drop from spoonfuls onto waxed paper or turn into an oiled pan and cut into squares. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

DAY-BY-DAY WITH HARDIN DEM. CLUB

Hardin club members are particularly interested in the Saturday morning broadcasts from station KWFT, Wichita Falls. County Agents Miss Ruth Farquhar and G. R. McNeill address the public at that time on subjects of interest to all homemakers.

Miss Farquhar spoke on "Home Ground Beautification" last Saturday and gave valuable pointers to those interested in planting shrubs and flowers. She stated that the residence itself should be the center of attraction and that all plants should be arranged with this thought in mind.

She stressed the importance of keeping tall shrubs in the background and shorter ones in front and skillful arrangement of all to make a broken line. The primary reason for planting, she pointed out, is to hide the unsightly from the view and to emphasize all the best points of house and yard.

Everyone is urged to listen to the Saturday morning broadcasts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Allen and daughter, Pauline, Burkburnett, J. R. Allen and family of Wichita Falls spent Saturday and Sunday in Dallas visiting Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. Jewel Reed.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Farley had as their Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Farley who recently moved to Chickasha, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hewell attended the funeral of Charlie Gidewell in Devol Sunday. Mr. Gidewell was the grandfather of J. C. Hinkle, Hewell's son-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Wesbrooks received word Monday that their son-in-law, Roy Knight, of Kanaw was in the hospital for a minor operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smythe of Amarillo have returned to their home after spending a week with Mrs. Smythe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Wesbrooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Minick had the following guests over the week-end. The Rev. Paul Kaiser, Mrs. Browning, Leta Engelmann, Mrs. M. R. Hewell and Mrs. R. M. Henderson, on Friday and Saturday. On Sunday their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Holly of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dake of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Nolen, Mrs. Edwin Morris and son, and Mrs. A. P. Crump, all of Wichita Falls; grandpa and grandma Nolen, Cornelia Evert, Virginia Hyden, and Christine and Marvin Turner.

Mrs. Fred Brookman is still entertaining that guest called the "flu."

★ FASHION PREVIEW ★

A salesgirl, working on a small salary, is constantly faced with the problem of dressing smartly, but inexpensively. Good Housekeeping for January offers a solution in this medium-blue rayon dress with buttons down the front and long easy sleeves which make it a joy to work in.

Helen Grady Weds Ralph Grizzle

A simple wedding ceremony Friday evening at 8 o'clock united Miss Helen Grady and J. D. Grizzle, both of this city. The rites were read by the Rev. Jack W. Manning, pastor of the First Baptist church here, at his home.

The bride was charming in royal blue chiffon velvet with black accessories. Miss Pauline Brown of Burkburnett and T. L. Carey of Oklahoma attended the young couple.

Others present for the ceremony were Miss Odessa Grizzle, Miss Ozell Hobbs, O. M. Grizzle and Clarence Rinefeldt.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Grady of this city and has been employed for several years by Boyd Brothers' Cash Exchange. She was graduated from the local high school in 1936.

Mr. Grizzle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Grizzle of Thrift and is employed by Bell Oil & Gas company. He was graduated from the Fairview high school in 1934.

The young couple will make their home in Burkburnett.

Everyone Can Conquer Stage-Fright

EVERYONE, at one time or another, has experienced stage fright. Needless, worrisome, and annoying, this defect in public appearance, can be easily controlled.

Dwight Watkins and Harrison Kerr have given the readers of the January Good Housekeeping the inside tract on how to cure stage fright. The question of memory, they say, is all important, and they have listed several rules, which, if practiced, will insure confidence and avoid stage fright:

1. A speech should be rehearsed as many times as possible.
2. Various ways should be devised to make the speech vivid in the speaker's mind.
3. The speech, either in outline or in fully developed form, should be learned as a whole rather than in parts.
4. All periods devoted to learning a speech should be interspersed with intervals of rest.
5. The rest period should be one of mental quiet.
6. The speech should always be gone over, at least mentally, just before it is given.
7. No speaker should ever attempt to say anything that he doesn't understand.

Mrs. Blackstone is still in the hospital here.

The next meeting of the Hardin Demonstration club will be on January 22 at the home of Mrs. D. A. Wesbrooks.

Demand Growing For Reformed Trucking Laws

Austin, Jan. 9.—More than 312,000 of the 334,000 trucks in Texas, violate the laws when their owners haul their own farm, ranch and industrial products over state highways in them, according to Rep. John Bell of Cuero who will introduce a bill to legalize these important "out laws."

Bell's measure would correct the mistake made by the legislature when it included private truck operation under the state's motor carrier act and made them subject to regulation by the Texas Railroad commission. Because of this legislative mistake, the courts have ruled in the New Way Lumber and other cases they are contract carriers and must obtain a permit to operate. At the same time the railroad commission is restrained by law from issuing permits except on the basis of convenience and necessity.

This situation, Rep. Bell points out, leaves the 312,000 private truck owners—the farmers, ranchers, dairymen, merchant, wholesaler, distributor, manufacturer and industrialist—with out legal status and an "out law" on the Texas highways.

"Until the condition is corrected, this important army which constitutes the backbone of Texas business and agriculture can continue in business only as law violators. It is unhealthy and it has discouraged the expansion of many businesses thereby affecting general business conditions and employment. No time should be lost in mending the present law and that is what my bill does without affecting any other form of transportation," Bell, a veteran member of the house said.

"The 312,000 privately owned trucks pay more than $24,000,000 in taxes annually through two special taxes, gasoline and license tax, according to highway comptroller department records," Bell added. "Certainly they have a right to speedy consideration of a problem created by an admitted mistake by the legislature which sought to remedy it temporarily by resolution adopted in both use and senate."

Re said his bill was directed primarily at clearing up a situation of vital interest to the producers and consumers of Texas, and that he hoped for unanimous support. Copies of the measure have been sent to all members of the next legislature and has the sponsorship and backing of farm, ranch, business and civic organizations throughout the state.

Coyote Returns Home

Even coyotes have a homing instinct, provided they have a home to go to, says the Corpus Christi Caller.

Mickey, a 6-month old coyote raised by E. C. Schneider of Mercedes, recently was given away to a family six miles east of town. Being raised in the city ever since the day he opened his eyes, the young coyote evidently never developed a liking for the wide open spaces and even the farm had no appeal to this civilized convert of the wolf pack. Mickey returned to his home here when his new owner turned him loose.

"Eating meat scraps from a plate is probably a lot easier than running down jackrabbits for a daily meal," Schneider says in trying to figure out why the wolf

PEACH GROWING By J. S. GORE

U. S. Department of Agriculture Farmers' bulletin No. 917 shows the following decline in thirty years for the number of peach trees of bearing age. Oklahoma dropped from 5,848,808 to 1,364,806; Texas dropped from 7,248,538 to 3,077,538 and for the combined U.S.A. dropped from 99,991,658 to 58,911,983. Millions of peach trees have been destroyed by war and very few trees planted in U.S.A. during the past few years, to replace the trees that die or are so old they are of little value.

There are several new varieties of peaches that are very hardy and will bear fruit annually unless freeze or frost is sufficient to kill their leaves.

The Experiment Station of New Jersey has developed a splendid yellow free stone peach that is very hardy, by crossing the Elberta with the Greensboro. Each person planning to plant trees should be sure to include some of each of the new cold hardy trees to insure fruit from May to August inclusive.

Young thrifty trees should be planted and you will find they may be found at very reasonable prices if bought through reliable large nurseries, where they can be grown, and budded or grafted in large quantities.

Plant each tree about 2 inches deeper than it grew in the nursery, leaving the budded or grafted portion above ground. Be sure soil is well packed in bottom of hole to prevent it from settling away from roots and leaving air pockets to dry out the roots. Pack soil closely around the roots until hole is over three fourths full and higher next to the body of tree; then water thoroughly, after which finish filling hole with loose soil about even with ground level next to tree, but leave a shallow basin a few inches from tree to hold water and force it to soak down to roots and leave soil firm around body of tree at all times.

Worms sometimes damage or even kill newly planted trees, especially if planted in soil that has not been well cultivated during the past few months, but fresh lime sifted around tree enough to look frosty and covered with half inch or more of damp soil will prevent such damage. A generally prevents any worm damage during first year, as they seldom attack a thrifty tree while growing rapidly and full of sap.

Do not burn weeds. When possible cut while green and work them into top soil for several feet out from tree. This makes excellent fertilizer and will help to cause the tree to come into bearing early. Also use the weeds to cover the water basin around tree to hold moisture and prevent cracking of the soil, and the rapid growth will surprise you.

Never drive nails into trees, but you can add iron rust to soil by leaving old iron near body of tree, which in some way stay cold and retard early blooming, and seem to absorb much of the frost and cause tree to hold its fruit better when exposed to cold. Give your trees a chance and you will be well paid in fresh fruit.

As to Britain, we suggest that we not only give credit but extend same.

Geese Could Do Damage

Argentine geese are so thick in South America they are killed with clubs and Mr. T. E. Buls of East Bernard, Texas, suggested to the state game department that thousands could be captured and released in the United States. His suggestion was referred to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Officials pointed out that Argentine geese are non-migratory and since they, in common with most geese, are grazers, it is believed the damage they would do in agricultural areas would more than offset the benefit derived from them.

The Fish and Wildlife Service pointed out: The North American continent has an adequate supply of native game birds and mammals but is must be admitted that our handling of these resources in the past has not always been creditable.

A Burk Burnett man was fined $25 and costs on a charge of giving intoxicating liquor to a minor when he entered a plea of guilty Wednesday before County Judge Guy McNeely.

Woodward L. Bass, assistant county attorney, who prosecuted the case, said the defendant is alleged to have given sufficient wine to a nephew, 15, to make the boy intoxicated.

The boy, visiting here from Oklahoma, was taken into custody but later was released by James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, to return home.

Do You Know Texas?

A reader of this newspaper can get the answer to any question of fact by writing to A. Garland Adair, Curator of Patriotic Exhibits, Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas.

Memorable Passage: "If you buy something for a dollar and sell it for a dollar and a quarter, and if you don't eat up that quarter in expenses, you can't lose,"—Jesse Jones.

Q. How many men were in the army of the Republic of Texas?

A. Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office, says records in his office list 2,000 in service with possibly a total of 3,000 available.

Oddity: The Comal River, which originates from springs about one mile north of New Braunfels and flows about two miles north of the Guadalupe, is the shortest river in Texas.

Q. Did President Burnet of the Republic of Texas have any sons?

A. His only son was killed while in command of a Confederate battery at Spanish Fort near Mobile, Ala., March 31, 1865.

Factoid: The Brazos River, 840 miles in length, is the longest river in Texas.

Q. Were early Texas Indians expert horsemen?

A. Indians knew little or nothing about horses until the animals were imported by Europeans. Then the Comanches and other tribes soon developed into expert horsemen.

What's In A Name? While the Saint Louis and Brownsville Railway company was building a line along the Texas coast, somebody asked John Pierce, across whose ranch the railroad was to pass, what he thought of a station and shipping pens in the country. "Thank God," he exclaimed, adding "It would be a blessing." He proposed that the station be named "Thank God", but railroad officials considered such a name to be irreverent. They accepted "Blessing," however and thus the town of Blessing, Texas, got its name.

Q. What is the oldest hotel in continuous operation in Texas?

A. The Excelsior, built in the late fifties at Jefferson.

Would You Believe It? Three Texas towns have the same meaning but each is in a different language. They are: Sweetwater (English); Agua Dulce (Spanish); and Mobeetie (Indian).

Q. Are there any leaflets issued by the Texas Memorial Museum?

A. Yes. For free list of published material, send your inquiry to Dr. E. H. Sellards, director of the Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas, or ask your hometown newspaper editor for a copy.

Announcement: To get a copy of "Do You Know Texas?" a 24-page leaflet recently published, send ten cents in postage and your address to A. Garland Adair, Box 1770, University Station, Austin, Texas, or ask your hometown newspaper editor for a copy.

Zeke Says

By Nugent Ezekiel Brown

Austin, January 9—(Special)—Here's hot news! The latest dope is that a straight-cut natural resource tax may be allowed to pass the senate this session. The House will always pass such a tax but, heretofore, it would die in the upper house. Dissatisfaction from last summer's elections has caused, so the story goes, a certain highly placed individual may uprise the major oil companies by turning on them and help throw a good-sized natural resource tax on the Governor's lap. If this happens, and there is good ground for the rumor, it will be a big surprise package for the majors.

Coming Events
The 47th legislature will open Tuesday, January 14th, when Hofer Leonard of McAllen is expected to be elected speaker. His policies will be more or less a continuation of the policies of his predecessor, Emmett Morse. While the chairmen of all important committees will be carefully chosen, yet the fact that 94 members in the House are new most everything can happen before the session ends.

Governor O'Daniel and Lt. Governor Coke Stevenson will be inaugurated Tuesday, January 21. Following the ceremony in the hall of the House of Representatives, a barbecue will be served on the Mansion Grounds, to be followed by the ball at night. There will be no big crowds as was the case two years ago.

Omens of Better Government
Two distinct steps forward in more responsible government for Texas were made in Austin this week, the inauguration of Judge Olin Culberson as a railroad commissioner and the advancement of Reuben Williams to the chairmanship of the insurance board. Before a crowd of hundreds of friends from all over Texas, who jammed the senate chamber, Olin Culberson took the oath of office and then announced a set of proposed regulations, which if concurred in by the other two commissioners, will mean much to the oil industry of Texas. He proposed that no order shall be entered by the railroad commission affecting any matter under its control until after 10 days' notice and a public hearing. This order will do away with the "political influence" lawyers who have thrived in Austin to a great extent heretofore. Judge Culberson immediately began the job of selecting 98 employees (his third of the personnel) out of more than 1000 written applications. A dozen changes had already been made the first two days.

Reuben Williams, casualty insurance commissioner for the past three months by appointment of O'Daniel, was named by the governor last week as life insurance commissioner to succeed the late Walter Woodward. Joe Gibbs of Seguin was named to Williams' old job. Williams automatically becomes chairman of the board and will have far-reaching authority to hire all examiners and to supervise the entire department. A number of changes in personnel will likely be made in the immediate future in the interest of better governmental supervision of the insurance boys. Reuben Williams is certainly not obligated to any insurance clique which augers well for his administration of this very important department. Out with the racketeers!

Famous Writer Turns Out New Book

One of the best-known newspapermen in Texas, Edmunds Travis of Austin, for 20 years editor of the Austin Statesman, has just had a book released which is titled "A Century of Usury in Texas." Compiled and written in Travis' great narrative style, the book reveals that Texas had loan sharks even before San Jacinto. The Supreme Court of the Republic of Texas, in 1841, handed down a decision which ordered two slaves returned to the original owner, a widow, also ordering the loan shark to pay the widow damages because she had been victimized by high interest rates. Everyone knows somebody in your community who attempts to play shylock but the loan shark evil is greatest in larger towns and cities in Texas. Travis reviews the fight of the last few years to get new legislation to put these money lenders out of business. He pays great tribute to Attorney General Gerald C. Mann in the latter's continued fight to oust the loan shark chains. Assistant Attorney General Frederik B. Isely is handling a case now in district court at Austin against the "Miller Management Company" in which the attorney general is seeking $215,000 in penalties for illegal operations, a permanent injunction, a receiver and a lien on properties of the defendant. But you should have a copy of Travis' book, "A Century of Usury in Texas." Just address him at Austin for one. There will be more on this later.

Barbers Need Help

One of the biggest problems facing the barber profession in Texas today is the vital matter of making a living, according to George J. Partain of Dallas, secretary of the Texas State Association of Journeymen Barbers. "Over half of the barbers in Texas get only $15 a week or less for their work," says Partain. "Are you surprised, then, that a lot of graduates of barber colleges, once they get out and learn the true conditions, go back to the farm or other places from which they came? For instance, today there are 75 barber shops in Oak Cliff alone but there are only 125 barbers in those 75 shops there being 40 vacant chairs. So you can readily see why the barbering profession needs help in order to maintain the high sanitary and health standards so necessary during times like the present epidemic of influenza."

Railroads Doing Their Part Now

As the World War emergency grows in the United States, all federal agencies turn to the railroads as an indispensable help in the big defense program now under way. That the railroads will be ready this time is seen in the latest reports showing rolling stock is being made ready for all troop movements and movement of vital war industries and materials.

In other words, the general public will likely learn during the coming year to appreciate more than in a long time just how much the railroad systems of America mean to the preservation of a great democracy like ours.

This Story Stops 'Em All

A recent report in this column of a grandfather and grandson shooting so simultaneously that neither knew the other had fired brought an even better story from E. M. (Ted) Dealey, president of the A. H. Gelo Corp., publishers of the Dallas Morning News. Whereas grandpa hit and grandson missed, Dealey and a hunting partner not only shot simultaneously, but each hit the same javelina at exactly the same spot. Best of all, it was getting along toward dark and was so dusky that it made for extremely hard shooting.

Mr. Dealey's story, which should top all yarns of its kind: "Recently we were on the way back to our car at about dusk when two javelinas jumped out of a live oak thicket, one of those fellows, a big boar which was estimated weighed 75 pounds, stopped in a little grassy glade about 15 yards the other side of the live oaks. I was ahead of my hunting partners, Donald Bennet and Raymond Foy, by about 25 yards.

"When the javelina stepped out into the grassy glade Bennet and I fired simultaneously. I didn't know he had shot and he didn't know I fired. Each of us thought we had killed the boar. When we got him to camp and the Mexicans started skinning him out, we found there was only one bullet hole in his skin where the bullets had gone in. However, there were two bullet holes right through the carcass, and

We had a nice Christmas vacation, and we are glad to be back in school. We are missing the boys and girls who are sick with colds and flu. We hope everyone will be back real soon. We are reading a new book. The name of it is "Jack and Nell." We took our Elson-pre-primers home Friday, and read them to our mothers and dads. (Mrs. Grubbs.)

This week the 6th grade entered the study of the British Isles. Due to the present situation we found the following topics very interesting. First, "The United Kingdom, the World's Greatest Trader." In this study we found that Great Britain has the largest merchant marine in the world; second, "Would Britain Starve if Anything Hindered the Coming of Her Ships?"; third, "Would British Factories Close if Ships Failed to Bring Her Raw Materials?"; and fourth, the location of her coal fields and how Britain uses her Coal in Manufacturing. (Miss McGinnis.)

All sections of the 6th grade are finishing our "Texas Book-let" which was started a few weeks ago. These booklets are very complete in illustrating the colorful history of the Lone Star state. (Miss Gibson.)

The boys of Hardin Grade have been playing basketball for the past three weeks. Each class has been divided into several teams, these teams will play until the winner is determined and then they may challenge any of the other classes. Track and baseball will start after mid-term exams. Each class will work out during the class period, so that those who ride the bus will be able to take part. The best will be picked for each event to represent Hardin Grade at Electra. (Mr. Burnett.)

Most of the pupils in L1-3 are back in school after having had the flu. Our group will begin reading a new book this week. The name of it is "Jack and Nell." This will be our third pre-primers. (Mrs. Kimbrow.)

Quite a number of pupils are still absent on account of illness. We are having a health contest, trying every possible way to prevent colds. We are glad to welcome a new pupil, this week, Graham Sterling. (Mrs. Vann.)

Most of the L5-3 section were ready to be back to work again after the nice long holidays. We wish to thank our room mothers, Mrs. Lowery and Mrs. Martin for the nice gifts of fruits and candies the Thursday afternoon we dismissed, also for their many other kind considerations. We hope the new year shall prove a profitable one for all. (Miss Doty.)

Most of the pupils from L5-1 are back in school after Christmas holidays. Many had been absent before the holidays on account of flu. We hope that our class will soon be regular again. The 5th grade pupils have started studying about the parts of speech. (Miss Goodwin.)

Betty Wright, Susie Ross and Dewey Copher spent Christmas with their grandmother. Jack Hooker and David Foster saw the "Doll House" in Wichita Falls. Roy Baumhardt visited his uncle in Walters, Okla. Benny Jack spent Christmas with his aunt in Stamford, Texas. (Miss Majors.)

Practically everyone in our room has had the flu. We are happy to be well again and in school. Several of us spent Christmas out of town. Marilyn Loffler spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Ann Shaw in Wichita Falls. Mary Cagle visited friends in Stephenville. Jessie Preston visited her aunt in Bellevue. James Reese spent Christmas with his grandmother in Fort Worth. Wanda Simpson visited in Electra. (Miss Solomon.)

Betty Trout spent her vacation in Lawton. Joy Reece in Fort Worth, and Peggy Dunn in Byers, Texas. We are sorry so many of our class mates are ill with the flu. We hope they are able to return to school soon. Pupils making honor roll in spelling are as follows: Peggy Dunn, Juanita Shaffer, J. D. Nixon, Rozella Hart, Willie Jones, Virginia Millar and Joe Sampson. (Miss Jackson.)

Several of our class went away for a Christmas vacation. Wanda Tyler went to Comanche, Okla.; Jewel DeVore to Dallas; Patsy Miller visited at Gilmer, Texas. Daisy Nolen visited in Bellevue; Gwynna Stevenson at Abilene; Roger Michna in Devol. Our attendance is very low because of illness. We hope all our pupils will be back soon. Miss Louise Kent visited with us for awhile the last period Friday afternoon. (Miss Smith.)

L5-2 had a belated Christmas tree due to the fact that quite a number were absent at the time of the regular tree. The entire class seems to have had a very merry Christmas during the holidays. Almost all the class stayed at home to enjoy the holidays. Three or four had the bad luck of having the flu on Christmas day. Betty Ross seems to have had the most extended trip, visiting in Bowie and Abilene. (Mr. Reed.)

First Baptist Announcements

"The Plan of Redemption in Genesis" will be the subject of the message at the 11:00 A. M. service this next Sunday and "Some Precious Promises in Matthew" will be the subject of the message at 7:30 p. m. Both of these messages will be simple plain Bible exposition. We are urging the reading and study of God's Word in this the beginning of a New year. There is nothing we need more today than to take the Word of God literally as our daily guide and standard.

We were glad to see the increase in attendance in both services Sunday. Many are still sick and are unable as yet to be back in the services. It has been a physical impossibility for the pastor to visit all who have been ill. He tried to do so the first week of the epidemic and found it impossible, so if you have been missed it has been due to the great number who are ill. If you do not go to church, friend, why not begin this New year by worshipping with one of the Churches in our town. If there is a church of your choice in town go there Sunday. You will find a welcome. If there is not a church of your preference here, or if this is the church you prefer we invite you to come and assure you of a welcome and a plain Gospel message honoring Jesus Christ.

—Jack W. Manning, pastor.

Liquid Gas Is Big Achievement

The achievement of reducing natural gas to a liquid for storage is listed at the head of gas engineering accomplishments in the annual report of Alexander Forward, managing director of the American Gas Association, who told also the part the industry is playing in national defense, its use of advertising and its growth in many fields.

A huge plant built at Cleveland, Ohio, reduced natural gas to a liquid at a temperature of 250 degrees below zero and stores it in a special container from which it is later withdrawn in its original form and fed into distribution mains. Some of the advantages are saving in storage space, availability of gas in emergencies and the meeting of peak demands.

The industry is taking a leading part in supplying the vast heating needs of national defense. "From hardening intricate parts of machine guns to the final heat treatment of the largest guns, specially designed gas furnaces are speeding production at an ever-increasing pace," says the report. "In the navy yards, some of the largest industrial furnaces ever built are annealing fully assembled gun turrets with gas. Equipment developed for peacetime uses through cooperative research and engineering under sponsorship of the American Gas association, is rapidly being put to work to speed production in war industries."

American housewives bought more than 1,600,000 gas ranges in 1940. The gas industry, supplying towns and cities with a population of more than 84,000,000, served a total of 17,980,300 customers, an increase of 481,000 over 1939.

Much of the increase is attributed to expanded advertising programs. The industry has announced its intention of increasing advertising to promote use of gas for the four big jobs—cooking, water heating, house heating and refrigeration.

Legislature To Have Some Knotty Problems To Solve

The Texas Legislature convened at Austin Tuesday noon. It will have somewhat more than the average number of knotty problems to solve, and this paper does not envy the members their task.

Senator George Moffett, of Chillicothe, who represents this District in the Senate, has sent us the following statement:

"In Texas the state law-making body meets in regular session once every two years. The sessions ordinarily last between four and five months, and the members receive pay only while the legislature is in session. The session which has convened is faced with serious problems. The shadow of war hangs over us, and the cost of a skyrocket, which undoubtedly will mean that the National law-making body will increase Federal taxes to a point never known before, thus leaving the state with only limited opportunity to raise revenue to meet the current $26,000,000 deficit in the general fund. And there is strong sentiment for increased revenue for old age pensions, aid to the blind, aid to dependent children, and for teacher retirement.

"This sentiment is shared by a considerable majority of the members of the legislature, and the Governor. Yet the all-important question is, 'Where is the money coming from?' And it is not an easy one to answer.

"There will be more new members in this legislature than ever known before, and a very large number of them are under thirty years old. There is only a sprinkling of members above fifty. Texas is one of the hardest states to legislate for because of its immense area and variety of conditions. In square miles it is larger than Germany was before the current war began. The membership meets in Austin from divergent surroundings; they are strangers to each other and many of them are strangers to the operation of the Government. This makes it difficult to reach a agreement on important and vital matters. Many compromises have to be made, and sometimes the latter are not altogether for the greatest good of the state, which is indeed regrettable, but sometimes cannot be helped. When it is remembered that twelve men from the same county often sit on a jury and hear the same evidence and fail to agree on a verdict, it is easy to understand that 181 men gathered from the five corners of Texas may have an extremely hard time in agreeing on what should be done for the best interests of this state.

"Furthermore, times are changing very fast and what looks best now, in six months may seem to have been a mistake. I always welcome sincere expressions of opinion from the folks back home as they are excellent guides when I am in doubt about some particular matter, which often occurs.

"The City of Austin usually has about 50,000 invitations to the Governor's Inaugural Ball printed, and sent out to various people, who may want to attend. I understand this will not be done this year, probably for reasons of economy, but that instead a big barbecue will be given on the Capitol grounds at noon on Inauguration Day, and that all those who care to attend are invited, and there will also be a street dance that night to which you are welcome."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (I Corinthians 5:8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We worship spiritually, only as we cease to worship materially. Spiritual devotion is the soul of Christianity." (page 140.)

Favorite Quotations By Dr. Phelps, Reveal His Loving Character

BELOVED by thousands of Americans, William Lyons Phelps has long been a benevolent influence in the field of letters. His revered opinion has been eagerly accepted all over the country.

Of special interest at the present time is the compilation he has made for the January issue of Good Housekeeping of his favorite quotations. They reveal a warmly human character—wise, sensitive and loving.

These are my jewels. These words, spoken by Cornelia, a Roman society matron two thousand years ago come echoing down through the centuries. Cornelia, though well-born, was not wealthy, and when asked where were her jewels, she called her two boys and said "these are my jewels."

I must survive a thing ere I know it dead. The Pope spoke these words in Browning's "The Ring and the Book." It is important to remember, Professor Phelps says, that nothing is dead until you have survived it.

Always do right. This will greatly gratify some people and astonish the rest. This comment by Mark Twain illustrates his fondness for the kind of humor Mr. Phelps calls surprise.

There is no darkness but ignorance. These words in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" were spoken by the clown to Malvolio, who complained he was in a dark room. These lines would have given immortality to any writer, but Shakespeare's genius was so great that the Bard carelessly put them into the mouth of a fool.

In a tri-county conference basketball game at Fairview gym last Friday night, Fairview emerged victorious over Harrold by the top-heavy score of 32 to 14.

The Fairview boys scored first early in the opening quarter and led all the game. The score was 8 to 6 at the half in favor of Fairview. During the last half, the Bears found the goal consistently and looped 24 points while holding Harrold to 8 points.

The Fairview girls defeated the Harrold team in two closely contested volleyball games prior to the basketball game. The scores were 15 to 9 and 15 to 12.

Fairview and Northside were scheduled in both basketball and volleyball games to be played at the Fairview gym Tuesday night but the Northside teams failed to put in an appearance, so presumably, the games will be forfeited.

It is expected that Fairview will drop out of the tri-county conference race as they will start play in the county round-robin play-off Friday night on their own court with Iowa Park furnishing the opposition.

Burkburnett and Fairview tangle in an important contest next Tuesday night at Fairview which may shed some light on the round-robin race as both teams are expected to be the best in the race. The girls are scheduled to play on the nights that basketball games are scheduled.

Calvary Baptist Pastor To Lecture On Revelation

Ray C. Morrow, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church will begin a series of lectures Monday evening on the Book of Revelation. The lectures will continue through the entire week beginning each evening at 7:15.

Morrow states that if you have never made a careful study of prophecy in general and the Book of Revelation in particular, or if you think that the Bible cannot be understood, you are invited to bring your Bible and an open heart and mind to these services.

The Rev. Morrow also states criticisms of other denominations will not be indulged in, but only a careful study into the revealed mysteries of the word will be conducted. You will not have to be a member of the Calvary Baptist church to profit from this study.

A large chart on the Book of Revelation and also a large map of Europe will be used by the speaker in this series of lectures.

Such questions as these will be answered: "Why the seven churches mentioned in chapters two and three? Who are the four beasts and twenty-four elders of chapter four? What are the seven seals of chapter five? Who are the four horsemen of chapter six?"

We do not claim to have an inside knowledge of any of God's word that others cannot have," the Rev. Morrow says. "We want to show you that any of God's children can understand the words he has written for us."

The subject of the Rev. Morrow's morning sermon will be "Putting God First." Young people of the church meet at 6:30 in evening for their regular service. Evening services are at 7:15 and the subject will be, "The Real Conflict in This World."

Trapping Work Prospers

Antelope and deer trapping, the two major projects of their kind carried on by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission still flourish and are expected to continue to do so for at least two months, the executive secretary of the commission has announced.

Birds and animals trapped on over-stocked areas are planted in sections suitable for game, but from which they have not been shot out.

Latest reports are that nearly 300 antelope have been trapped in West Texas and that 100 more than that number of deer have been taken in the traps set by game department workmen on South Texas ranches.

Antelope already trapped outnumber the total taken last year and the 400 deer enticed into traps are within three score of the deer distributed last year.

The game department is using airplanes with which to round up antelope with horsemen cooperating. Cost of the rounding up of the fleet animals has been reduced where it is now $1.70 per animal. That is believed to be the smallest cost of trapping any kind of big game animal managed in this country.
