Administration Takes Problem To Senate Floor For Test; McCarran Prevailing Wage Amendment Losing

Two Votes Gained

Vermont Republican Senators Will Shift Strength, Thus Giving Necessary Impetus, Leaders Believe

By CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Reinforced by desertions from the opposition, confident administration forces today took the long-captive $4,880,000,000 work relief bill to the senate floor for another test.

All surface indications were that this time White House followers would succeed in throwing out the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, inclusion of which in the measure caused it to be sent back to committee for a 10-day period.

Vote Barely Passes

But well-laid plans narrowly escaped being scrambled before the bill got out of the senate appropriations committee. And some administration concessions had been made.

A prior vote in the committee against the McCarran amendment was by the hefty margin of 14 to 9 but Democratic leaders contended today that the committee ballot represented no change from the previous vote on the senate floor. Soon afterwards the word spread that Vermont's Republican senators, Gibson and Austin, planned to shift their stand and vote against the McCarran amendment. This caused the administration leaders to feel that their battle would be won.

Allocation Allowed

Chairman Glass of the committee indicated he might bring the measure up tomorrow.

The committee vote was taken after the White House consented to a rough allocation of the $4,000,000,000 for work relief.

In lieu of the McCarran amendment, the committee today approved the substitute by Senator Russell (D-Ga) authorizing the president to regulate the wage rates for men put to work.

The McCarran amendment would have forced the administration to pay the prevailing wage in the particular locality where the project was located. The president has

Lubbock District Of Church Meets

Methodist pastors from the 28 pastoral charges of the Lubbock district will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the First Methodist church to hear Dr. C. Q. Smith, Abilene, president of McMurry college, Dr. W. M. Pearce, presiding elder, announced late yesterday.

"McMurry college is raising money to clear indebtedness," Dr. Pearce explained. "The city of Abilene has offered to raise $35,000 cash provided the other districts of the Northwest Texas conference raise $5,000 cash.

"The Lubbock districts share will be $600. We want the churches of the district to help raise this amount right away. Dr. Smith will present the plan to the pastors."

At noon the visiting ministers will be guests of Dr. Pearce and Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, First church pastor, at luncheon.

Commercial "Dumping" Will Meet Resistance In France

PARIS, March 5. (AP) — Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin tonight warned the world that France stands ready to defend herself against "commercial dumping" through devaluation of the currencies of other nations.

The statement that this nation is determined to take any necessary measures came as the premier defended his modified NRA plan before the chamber, which voted its confidence in his financial and industrial policies 333 against 154.

Troops Again On March In Balkans

Bull Offered For Hamilton Arrest

HOUSTON, March 5. (AP) — A bull was offered here today as a reward for the capture of Raymond Hamilton, fugitive from the state death house.

Leland Knight, 14, who hails from the cow country around Beeville, posted the reward with Sheriff T. A. Binford of Houston.

"Sheriff," said he, timidly, "I'll give you a good young bull if you'll catch Hamilton."

The sheriff said he would claim the reward if he caught the killer.

Precautions Taken By Powers While Revolt Rages

(By The Associated Press)

TROOPS marched again in the Balkans, perennial powder-keg of Europe, Tuesday as civil war raged in Greece.

Bulgaria strengthened her border guard, France sent a destroyer to Piraeus and held two cruisers ready, while Turkey, it was learned has maintained large forces of troops in Turkish Thrace, near the Greek and Bulgarian border, for the past month.

Britain and Italy had to suspend international air service into Athens as the Greek government banned all civil aircraft.

Knockout Blow Soon

Athen—Gathering its forces for knockout blows of the rebels' land and sea contingents, the Greek government received reports from its war minister that the revolt would be crushed within two days. Rumors in Athens said ex-Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, asserted leader of the revolt, was preparing to flee from Crete.

Vienna — Unconfirmed reports that Turkish troops were gathering on the Greek frontier caused apprehension in the Austrian capital.

Paris—Minister of Navy Francois Pietri ordered the destroyer Verdun to Piraeus, the seaport of Athens, to protect French lives and property, and two cruisers were held ready to be sent to other Greek ports.

Turkey Mobilizes

London — The Athens government's ban on civil air traffic forced Imperial airways to reroute its planes, avoiding Greece.

Sofia, Bulgaria — Bulgaria's foreign minister, Kosta Batoloff, expressed surprise and concern at reports Turkey was mobilizing troops on the Thrace frontier and expressed the hope the action was not "directed at Bulgaria." He confirmed reports that the Bulgarian guard along the Greek frontier had been strengthened.

Hitler Halts Conversations With England

English Perturbed Over Moot Questions As To Why Action Was Taken; Illness Possible Cause, Some Believe

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 5.—The fate of Britain's European scheme apparently hung in the balance tonight as the government strove energetically to learn just why Adolf Hitler suddenly postponed Sir John Simon's visit to Berlin, scheduled for Thursday.

Plans to expand air defenses went into high gear with announcement of 1935 estimates providing for an addition of 11 new squadrons to the home defense force.

Possibilities Studied

Britain's ambassador at Berlin investigated two possible explanations of the fuehrer's surprise decision not to see the British foreign secretary:

1. Hitler may be gravely ill, more so than the German government cares to admit openly just now. (A "slight cold" was Hitler's official explanation of the postponement.)

2. The British White Paper, defending Britain's armaments increases and criticising German rearmament, either stirred Hitler's resentment or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talkings or caused him to decide to give it extensive study before talking to Sir John about armaments.

As the cabinet awaited the report

Greece Drives Rebels Before Loyal Armies

Old Fox Of Grecian Politics Rumored Ready To Flee His Haven In Face Of Certain Failure Of Revolt

Finish Fight Soon

Success Tempered With Mercy As Armies, Ready To Crush Insurgents, Offer Chance To Lay Down Arms

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

ATHENS, March 5.—The Greek government gathered its forces to crush rebels on land and sea tonight as rumors running about Greece said ex-Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, the "old fox" of Greek politics, was making ready to quit the revolt.

While loyal soldiers swept rebels before them over the rain-soaked historic battlefields of Macedonia, the government's repaired war fleet was expected momentarily to sail out in pursuit of five rebel ships somewhere in the Aegean sea.

Finish Fight Expected

A finish fight was expected shortly, with the possibility that the 71-year-old Venizelos, if he is still on the island of Crete, may be cut off from escape.

Many former Venizelos supporters in the capital swung their support to Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris' government, leading the administration to believe the back of the Venizelist movement had been broken.

Ultimatum Sent

Determined, however, to smash every last vestige of revolt without delay, the government was pressing its advantage in Macedonia. To the fleeing rebels, piling helter-skelter toward the wild mountainous country near the Turksh and Bulgarian frontiers, went this ultimatum, from Gen. George Kondylis, minister of war:

"Surrender or be crushed."

Capital rumors said Venizelos, termed the "mad former prime minister" in government communiques naming him as titular head of the revolt, had attempted to leave his refuge in the islands of Crete and flee to Alexandria.

Plane Drops Message

Officials at Alexandria asked the government for instructions as to their course if he tried to escape to Egypt.

A government airplane, flying over the rebels' headquarters in Macedonia as loyal troops pressed hard at their heels, dropped Gen. Kondylis' curt ultimatum.

"Surrender within 24 hours," his message read, "or my troops will crush you.

Thelma Todd, Actress Gets Extortion Note Through Mail

LOS ANGELES, March 5. (AP)—A note asking Thelma Todd, film actress, to "pay $10,000 to Abe Lyman in New York by March 5 and live" was turned over to federal authorities here today for possible investigation.

The note was addressed to Miss Todd at her Culver City studio. It was not signed but at the end was a crudely drawn ace of hearts. Miss Todd, who was divorced from Peter di Cicco, in March, 1934, could not be reached for comment.

Nita Cavalier Files Suit Against Wealthy Sportsman

LOS ANGELES, March 5. (AP) — A blonde actress-writer, Nita Cavalier, came to court today for trial of her $200,400 damage suit accusing George Benton Wilson, wealthy yachtsman, of posing as a single man and winning her heart.

She charges he proposed marriage to her "on April 6, 1933, and many times after that," that their engagement was announced to her friends and she had spent $400 on a trousseau before learning he was married. Wilson has entered general and specific denials to the complaint.

Arkansas Writes Formal End To Prohibition By New Bill

LITTLE ROCK, March 5. (AP) — The Arkansas legislature wrote the end to 19 years of state prohibition tonight with senate passage of a house bill to legalize "immediately" package liquor sales.

Granite Outlaws Trapped In Hole

Author Of Bill Explains "Vote"

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP) —Representative Rogers of Oklahoma looked in the congressional record this morning and, to his embarrassment, found he was recorded as having objected to a bill to repeal an act for taxing some Nebraska Indian lands.

He asked unanimous consent today that the record be corrected. He got that and a chuckle when he explained:

"I was on my feet trying to get consideration for the measure instead of objecting to it. You see, it was my own bill."

Three Leaders Are Nabbed Emerging From Dugout

(By The Associated Press)

FAIRVIEW, Okla., March 5. — Trapped in a hole in the ground like so many rats, three leaders of the sensation Feb. 17 Granite reformatory break of 32 convicts were captured 15 miles west of here today.

Red-haired Malloy Kuykendall, whose criminal record is long despite his brief career, was shot by possemen as he emerged from a dugout at the end of his wild flight, his pistol spitting. His wounds were considered not dangerous. He was the only one of the three who was armed.

Escapes, Recaptured

W. L. Baker, jr., 18, sentenced to 15 years for manslaughter, was captured with Kuykendall. Dale Stanphill, 22, sentenced to 20 years for armed robbery, fled to the farm of Mrs. W. L. Hall a short distance away but surrendered meekly when officers surrounded the house and ordered him to come out. He came, with his hands high.

John Jester, on whose farm the men were caught, was held for further investigation.

May Face Chair

Kuykendall, 20, whose crime career is scarcely a year long, first broke from jail in Shawnee. He escaped from the Sherman, Texas, jail after being recaptured and was taken again when he returned to Oklahoma. He was sentenced in Shawnee to 75 years for armed robbery.

All three now face possible charges which might bring them to the electric chair. Armed robbery and murder charges are possible as a result of the Granite break, in which a guard, James Payton Jones, was killed.

State operatives took custody of the three late today, at the Major county jail, and left shortly for Granite with the prisoners.

Committee In House Warring On Bonus Bill

Appeal Sounded By Vinson To Eliminate Inflation From Proposal And To Vote For His Payment Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 5. — An urgent plea that the uncertainties and controversies of inflation be divorced from the question of cashing the soldiers' bonus was addressed to the house ways and means committee today by Representative Vinson (D-Ky.)

The Kentuckian asked the committee—itself sharply divided — to approve his own bonus bill, backed by the American Legion, calling simply for payment, with the treasury free to provide funds in any way it considers advisable.

Bastinades Rival Bill

He excoriated the alternative Patman bill, supported by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which would direct the treasury to issue new currency to make the payments, totalling well over $2,000,000,000.

"In my opinion," he thundered, "the house will pass any bonus bill on which it has an opportunity to vote. You pass the Patman bill and you ring the death knell of payment of the bonus at this session of congress. At least, if you pass the Vinson bill you have an opportunity to get cash payment."

Amarillo Storm Rumors Are False

Rumors of a super-dust storm, the "worst in the history of Amarillo," and "worse than the storm of Sunday or Monday," spread over this area Tuesday. Starting in the morning with a report purported to have come from Clovis that a storm was headed this way at "60 miles an hour," reports soon were thicker than Sundays storm here.

Lubbock awaited the swirling sand from New Mexico's mountains. No confirmation of reports. Housewives discarded dust pans and brooms.

Queried, the Associated Press at Amarillo said: "We have had only continuation of yesterday's (Monday's) dust storm, only much less severe."

Santa Fe dispatchers at 9 o'clock said: "Amarillo report, cold and clear; dust storm about noon, not as severe. Clovis, no report of dust storm."

Where the rumor originated was not established.

El Paso Labor Enters Battle

Forty-Five Unions Indicate Intention Of Girding For Fight Behind Employes Of Electric Company

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, March 5.—Union labor here girded itself today to back power employes of the El Paso Electric company in their dispute with the company which last Thursday led them out on a 15 hour strike.

A resolution passed last night by a mass meeting of organized labor in which 45 unions were represented, today was clarified by a special committee and in its new interpretation gave even stronger hint of a general strike than heretofore had been made.

Support Aligned

"We will back the members of the electric workers with all the force at our command, morally, numerically and financially," said the resolution. "Organized labor in El Paso will do everything in its power to avert another catastrophe, yet we respectfully submit our plans to the general public. We could not maintain our self respect if we did otherwise than support the principles involved."

Repeal Debate On

Leader Of Senate Wets Agrees To Proposal For Submission Of State Monopoly Plan To Control Liquor Sales

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 5.—Legislation to lift the heavy tax burden from small homeowners was overwhelmingly approved today in the Texas house of representatives.

The house adopted, 109 to 22, a resolution by Representative J. N. Reed of Dowie calling for an election on a constitutional amendment exempting $3,000 of the valuation of residence homesteads from all taxes except for school purposes.

Would Classify Intangibles

The amendment would authorize classification of intangible property to replace revenue lost by the homestead exemption and expressly prohibit a general sales tax. Classification was defeated at the polls last year despite support of Governor James V. Allred.

In the meantime, outright repealists made overtures to the dry bloc in the senate during debate on the form in which modification of the state prohibition statute should be submitted to the people next August.

Senator Weaver Moore of Houston, repeal leader, agreed to submit, along with repeal, a provision giving the legislature authority to set up a state liquor monopoly as an optional measure of control.

Senator Joe Hill of Henderson argued, instead, for submission of an amendment making creation of a state monopoly mandatory, declaring similar systems in other states and in Canada had been highly successful.

Hill advised against leaving the control method to the legislature, in event prohibition was repealed, on grounds that the liquor interests would "stack" the legislature, "just as they stacked it before prohibition."

Otherwise the day saw a house sub-committee report favorably and unanimously a bill ratifying the interstate oil production control compact recently drawn up by Governor Allred and representatives of other oil producing states in Dallas.

The committee also approved an

Following his visit Howe said:

"The end may come at any time. The doctor did not say how long it may be."

Holmes' 94th birthday is only three days away but early tonight it seemed that death was only a matter of hours—not days.

Three Thousand Mothers-In-Law At Amarillo Fete

By VESTEL LOTT
Associated Press Staff Writer

AMARILLO, March 5. — The stigma of derision which for centuries has been attached to mothers-in-law was completely erased today in the minds of about 3,000 weary but happy mothers of married children.

They had participated in Amarillo's second annual observance of "Mothers-in-Law day," had heard words of praise from their governor, had eaten free ice cream, and had marched in a blocks-long parade to the music of 15 bands.

Hundreds of women were unable to register because of a last-minute jam at registration booths. An estimated 15,000 persons saw the parade.

Originally suggested by Gene Howe, Amarillo editor, to appease his own mother-in-law because he had published mother-in-law jibes in his daily column, the celebration attained the magnitude of a convention.

Wearing a 10-gallon hat, Gov. James V. Allred twice addressed the mothers-in-law and their parade.

"Why not a Mothers-in-Law day?" he asked. "If a mother-in-law hadn't first been a mother, there wouldn't have

Cow Country Takes Part In Row Raised Over Song

(By The Associated Press)

DODGE CITY, Kas., March 5. Aid of the cow country of the Southwest in fighting a musical battle was besought today.

Singing cow hands of yesteryears were hunted out by an attorney representing defendants in a $500,000 damage suit involving the popular, plaintive air, "Home on the Range."

"Was the song sung in the plains country prior to 1904?"

This was a question Samuel Moanfeldt, New York attorney representing the Music Publishers' Protective association, put to grizzled cowboys and others connected with camp outfits that roamed the prairies of western Kansas, eastern Colorado and northern Oklahoma around the turn of the century.

An affirmative answer was drawn from Ernest Hendricks, a camp cook in the 90s; from Put Hill, pioneer negro stage driver now a bank janitor, and others.

William Goodwin, a former cowboy and now a feed store proprietor at Tempe, Ariz., has filed suit for half a million against 29 defendants, including several film companies, broadcasting companies, music publishers and composers, charging copyright infringement.

ANSWERING A COMPLAINT

SOME one complains because writers of columns employ the first person pronoun. "They are always trying to draw attention to themselves," she says, "to create an impression that they know an awful lot. Their unmitigated egotism makes me sick."

It is not egotism that prompts columnists to write in the first person singular or that makes them use first person plural. Difference may not be my dominating trait but I want you to feel in this column as if we sat down together to talk things over. If you did that, you would express your views in the first person. In the nature of things, since the conversation has to be one-sided, we still try to make it seem as much like conversation as possible.

HOW IT BEGAN

HERBERT E. SMITH tells of the origin of the name "Rainbow" for the 42nd division of the American Expeditionary Forces by General Douglas MacArthur prior to the actual formation of the division. At that time (the early summer of 1917) General MacArthur was the censor for the war department.

In giving the news to the newspaper men he stated that there would be units from 27 states and the District of Columbia. As the newspaper men were leaving him, General MacArthur remarked that the assembling of so many units from so many states into one division was somewhat like a "rainbow." The newspaper men seized upon the apt term and used it in their stories to describe the new division, and the nick-name stuck.

AN IRREPARABLE LOSS

"According to the best statistics obtainable, the World War cost 30,000,000 lives and $400,000,000,000 in property. With this amount of money it would have been possible to build a $2,500 house and furnish it with $1,000 worth of furniture and place it on five acres of land worth $100 an acre, and to provide such a home for every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, England, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany and Russia.

"After doing this there would have been enough money left over to give every city of 20,000 inhabitants and over in all of these countries a $5,000,000 library and a $10,000,000 university. Out of the balance there would still remain a sufficient amount to set aside a sum at five per cent interest which would pay for all time to come a $1,000 yearly salary each for an army of 125,000 teachers and in addition to pay the same salary to each of an army of 125,000 nurses. After having done all of this, we could still have enough left out of our four hundred billions to buy up all of France and Belgium and everything of value that France and Belgium possess; that is, every French and Belgium farm, factory, church, railroad, street car—in fact, everything of value in those two countries in 1914."

Webber And Kopecky In Mat Feature Tonight; Lamesa Cagers Draw El Paso

Cotton Picker Has Chance To Avenge Defeat

Mervin Barackman And Famous Wrestling Bear Return For Special Events In Local Ring; Bauer Fights Andy

THE MAIN EVENT

Vic Webber, New York vs. Joe Kopecky, Taylor. Two out of three falls to a finish, 2-hour time limit.

THE SEMI-FINAL

Mervin Barackman, Lincoln, Neb. vs. Gorilla Pogi, Buenos Aires. One fall or 30-minute time limit.

THE PRELIMINARY

Joe Bauer, Coblenz, Germany vs. Andy the Bear, one fall or 10-minute time limit.

The Kopecky-Webber match at the Auditorium tonight is calculated to settle a dispute and please the fans, with emphasis on the latter.

Webber, the nimble-fisted, streamlined athlete from the Big Town, challenger last fall to Gus Kallio's world middleweight wrestling championship, gained the right to that challenge by beating Kopecky. But that was several months ago. Webber defeated everybody else in this circuit, in one way or another, including the Panther man.

Kopecky, however, claims that he was caught on an off night, and that, given another opportunity, he can flatten the handsome man from the Bronx in decisive, if not altogether orthodox, fashion.

Fans Spur Them On

The two battlers are on edge for this battle, considered one of the most potentially active bouts staged here in several months. The fact that Lubbock fans have been clamoring for the match has added to the grapplers' nervous energy in preparing for it. There'll be plenty of what goes with a rough rassling match at the Auditorium in tonight's main go.

Webber, a hero with local fans since he abandoned his ungracious tactics recently, still packs a wallop in his good right arm, as most of the tin-ears over the circuit know. In addition, he can, and will, fight clean; that is, observe the rules. He brought a fall-winning hold to the circuit recently, the Irish whip, and he applies it like a veteran. It is something like the "anchored body block," only in addition to the bone-crushing block, a whip over the back and into the resin is applied. It starts with a wrist hold, and is one of the most effective slams known to the profession.

Mervin Barackman and his trained bear, Andy, are playing a return engagement at the Auditorium tonight. Barackman showed a world of improvement over his former self when he stayed with Joseph Kopecky for the duration of a 30-minute special event a couple of weeks ago. The Nebraskan was known mostly for his ability to teach wrestling tricks to dumb animals when he came to Lubbock last summer, but he has improved his own technique along with his bear's, and Gorilla Pogi, the screaming, stomping little Argentine, one of the toughest of the lot, is in for an evening of trouble.

Another Rough One

Barackman is, by intent, a clean fighter, but he can get as rough as any of them when the occasion demands. Pogi likely will bring out all the ire that Barackman possesses tonight.

Barackman's bear, the well known Andy, should be kept awake tonight by Joe Bauer, the comic but very diligent German. In his last appearance here, Andy had to be coaxed into standing up and grappling. It's hibernation time for the specie, but even a brutn can be aroused to fighting temperature by such opponents as Bauer.

The program begins at 8 o'clock, and the usual price of admission will prevail. Ringside tickets may be purchased until 6 o'clock this afternoon at the J. & J. Sporting Goods store. Due to the demand behind the Webber-Kopecky attraction, a sell-out is predicted.

Hardin-Simmons To Enter Denver AAU Tourney

ABILENE, Mar. 5. (Special) — Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys will meet the Cosden Oilers, a strong independent team from Big Spring, here Wednesday night in the first of a series of games the Ranchers will play to raise funds to make the trip to the national A. A. U. tournament in Denver.

Monday and Tuesday nights, March 11 and 12, the Cowboys will play the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks, Lone Star conference champions, in Abilene. The Lumberjacks are also slated to attend the national meet. Friday and Saturday nights of this week Hardin-Simmons will invade Lubbock for a two game series with the Texas Tech Matadors, Border Conference champions.

All the Cowboys' share of the receipts will be used to defray expenses to Denver.

Paul Dean, Zeke Bonura No Longer Are Holdouts

"Daffy" Signs With Cards For $8,500 Plus His Bonus

(By The Associated Press)

BRADENTON, Fla., March 5. — Paul Dean, younger brother of the St. Louis Cardinal's sensational pitching duo of last season, today signed a one-year contract after a short conference here with Sam Breadon, Cardinal owner.

Paul, who with his brother Dizzy provided all the Red Bird victories in last year's World Series, was the last member of the St. Louis pitching staff to go on paper for the season. Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but conjecture placed the amount at $8,500 with a $500 bonus for signing.

Joe Medwick and Ernie Orsatti consequently became the only unsigned members of the club's squad.

ZEKE MUST EARN IT

PASADENA, Cal., March 5. (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox today said Zeke Bonura, who came to terms after a long battle with Owner J. Louis Comiskey, would have to beat out the veteran Glenn Wright for the job. Wright has been working first base in great style and Bonura may have a big job on his hands.

Hank Greenberg Seeks Slugging Championship

LAKELAND, Fla., March 5. (AP) — Hank Greenberg, broad shouldered first baseman for the Detroit Tigers, settled down to practice today with his eyes on the slugging throne left vacant by Babe Ruth's shift to the National League.

Greenberg disclosed he spent much of the winter in study over the requirements of diamond stardom. Fielding he dismissed as negative. League hitting leadership—"I think I can, and never mind why."

"Why shouldn't I go after the slugging title?" he asked and then went into a huddle with Mickey Cochrane.

Babe Turns Pink In Opening Workout

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5. (AP)—Babe Ruth's first workout today with the Boston Braves, under a scorching sun that turned the big fellow's complexion from white to red, indicated to a substantial extent the answers to the three most vital questions connected with his transfer from the American to the National League.

He is still the greatest drawing card of them all, whether it's a voluntary or cash proposition for the followers of baseball. He is so steamed up now over the prospects of a comeback for the climax of his playing career that he's talking about playing at least 125 championship games, besides a full exhibition schedule, and giving the Braves enough extra power to make them a threat to any club in the league. Finally, he has swept away with characteristic frankness any and all suspicion that he might be at loggerheads with Bill McKechnie, the boss of the Boston club on the field at all times.

McKechnie Is Tickled

"Ruth's first work was a revelation to me and the rest of the fellows who have been anxiously waiting for him to join us," said McKechnie. "He not only proved he can step up there cold and wallop the ball but he made all of us feel he is happy to be with the Braves. His spirit of enthusiasm was quickly contagious. He has the power we need and I certainly hope he comes through."

There were no formalities.

Regardless of nominal titles, Ruth is simply another veteran in the ranks. The Babe's only responsibility now and for the rest of 1935 is to play as much as he can. He may practice at first base but his regular assignment will be in the outfield—left or right—"whichever spot isn't the sunfield."

Schoolboy Rowe May Win 30, He Admits

LAKELAND, Fla., March 5. (AP)—Schoolboy Rowe has set 25 victories as his goal for next season.

The ace Tiger hurler conservatively refused today to count upon more than 25 lest he be accused of "popping off" like Dizzy Dean.

Handicapped by an ailing arm, Rowe won 24 games and lost seven last year. As to this season, he reluctantly conceded that he might win more than 30 games.

Cincinnati Rookies Beat Regulars, 9-1

TAMPA, Fla., March 5. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' colts went in for hard hitting today, and trounced the regulars 9 to 1 in the season's first nine-inning practice game.

Bach banged out a homer and McCormick and Erickson each a triple as the colts tallied 13 hits against the regulars' five. Hollingsworth, a leading rookie, was the colt pitcher.

Pruning of the squad began as Pitchers John Heving and Schoendienst and Outfielders Bach and Edwards were ordered to leave tomorrow for Fort Worth, Texas, a Red farm.

Red hair is the heaviest of all hair. Blond, hair weighs less than brown, and brown less than black.

Trophies Arranged For Judging Tilt

Authority to purchase suitable trophies for the tenth annual Vocational Agriculture judging contest, scheduled for April 1, was delegated to officials by directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development at a meeting Tuesday. Cups will be for competition in livestock, plant production and poultry, these three divisions having cups that were permanently awarded to three time winners last year.

Directors also voted to defray expenses of purchase of cups for the annual Lubbock county interscholastic league contests here.

The policy of giving cups in the agriculture contest was begun by the local civic group in 1926.

Tulia has permanent possession of the livestock cup offered by the chamber of commerce in 1926, having won it three times, in 1928, 1932 and 1934. Post holds the plant production and poultry cups, having won the former in 1930, 1931, and 1934 and the latter in 1932, 1933 and 1934. Trophies have to be won three times to become permanent property of a school.

Tornadoes Off Today For State Tourney

LAMESA, March 5. (Special) — Coach Lester Gregg and ten members of the Lamesa High school basketball squad, District 3, Region 1 high school champions, leave today for Austin where they compete for the second straight year in the Texas Interscholastic league tournament.

Interscholastic league officials announced yesterday that Lamesa would meet the Bowie High school Bears of El Paso in a first round game at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, at University of Texas Memorial gymnasium. The Tornado-Bear game starts the 1935 tournament.

Gregg said his regular lineup, Burkhart and Kidd, forwards, Joe Harrell, center, Jordan and Boswell, guards, were ready to start. One or two of the players have been complaining of colds, but the Tornado mentor opined that all would be ready Friday. In addition to the regulars, Sandell, Walker and Hilburn, forwards, Kinnerson, center, and Matthews, guard, will make the trip to Austin.

The Tornadoes plan to spend Wednesday night at San Angelo continuing to Austin Thursday.

Sears, Boggess And Curtis To Officiate

DALLAS, March 5. (AP) — John (Ziggy) Sears, Dusty Boggess and Abb Curtis have been named to officiate Friday and Saturday in the annual Texas Interscholastic league basketball tournament at Austin.

These three men are Southwest conference officials and among the best in this section. Boggess and Sears will be regulars with Curtis alternating.

After the tournament, Sears will go to Florida where he will join the Cincinnati Redlegs and umpire in all their spring exhibition games. He will remain with Cincinnati until the National League pennant race starts when he will don the blue for his first full year as a major league umpire.

Sears and Curtis played Monday in the Texas Professional golfers association amateur-pro sweepstakes over the Fort Worth Z. Boaz course, and both shot well. However, both admitted they were better at calling basketball fouls than shooting pars and birdies.

And That Was One Drop Too Many

For A Beginner, George Learned The Ski-Game Pretty Fast, But He Knew When His Good Breaks Were Over

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 5.—Skiing may be a lot of fun to the initiated, but to at least one entrant in the recent national tournament here it is just a retrospective pain in the neck—as well as elsewhere.

This skier, who registered as George Carlson of Omaha, joined a half hundred other competitors in the two advanced classes of the meet and in due course climbed to the extreme top of the scaffold for the long, swift ride to the takeoff.

Up to this point the venture was a success, but a skier at the takeoff travels at least 40 miles an hour and that was too much speed for Carlson.

He went out of control. He wavered and wobbled and his skis "scissored." In fact, he looked more like a Dutch windmill in action than a skier.

Fate decreed, however, that he might go on living and he landed on the seat of his obviously new ski pants to slide the remaining distance of more than 300 feet to the bottom of the hill.

All went well with the tournament until Carlson's number was called for his second run. Fortifying himself by some undetermined means, he started down again.

Halfway he lost one ski; a little farther on, the other; but he was still traveling—and made a takeoff from his left ear!

This time his right scapula took up the landing shock and some kindly spectators picked him up and brushed him off.

About this time a friend confided to one of the judges that Carlson had never done any skiing before.

"You're telling me?" responded the judge, while Carlson wandered off muttering something about never knowing what you can do until you try.

Judges Are Off; Movie Reveals All

Pictures Don't Lie So Cornell Takes Second Place

NEW YORK, March 5. (AP) — Seventy-two hours after the events were run, the Kirby electric camera timer came along today to change the finish of both the hurdles and sprint in the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships and boost Cornell from 4th to second place in the final team standings.

In Madison Square Garden Saturday night the human eyes watching the finish of the two events placed Arthur Jannell of Fordham fifth in the 50-meter sprint final, Bob Linders of Cornell sixth and gave Charles Pessoni of Manhattan the hurdle title with Phil Good of Bowdoin second.

Shows Dead Heat

As the film unrolled before Referee Fufus B. Thomas, jr., and the judges today it was seen that Linders had beaten Jannell across the finish line and showed Pessoni and Good breasting the tape together in that rarity of championship track, a dead heat.

The one point Cornell picked up for Linders' fifth place gave the big Red team 16 1-2 points and boosted it into second place, over Columbia and Harvard, but still behind Manhattan. The rearrangement of the hurdles finish took half a point from Manhattan and added one for Bowdoin but made no difference in the finish of the two teams. The Manhattan youngsters retain the team title with 26 points.

It is the second time in the three years the timing apparatus has been used in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet that it has upset the placing of the judges. Two years ago it brought a wholesale shift of a blanket finish in the hurdles.

Malcolm Says He Will; Dolly Says No; So They Compromise And Trial Race Is Postponed

Beach In Good Shape But High Wind Makes Trial Dangerous At Daytona; Mrs. Campbell Wins Family Argument

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 5.—Sir Malcolm Campbell said "yes, I run today," his wife said "no," and a titled family argument ran as true to form as it usually does among the common people, with the added possibility that this time it probably saved the British speed champion's life.

A 35-mile wind was pouring from the south up the coral racing strand where, for two of the past three days, Sir Malcolm Campbell has been bounced, battered, gassed with carbon monoxide fumes, nearly burned up in his effort to drive his great racing car Bluebird swifter than the present record he holds at 272.108 miles an hour.

A Lady Becomes A Wife

He decided he'd run again, for the beach was definitely better. And he expected that the wind would die with the ebb tide at 1:57 p. m., which it usually does.

But it didn't. The wind blew stronger, if anything, and after arguing against it in their hotel suite while Sir Malcolm dressed, and then as the car was towed to the beach, Lady Campbell became just plain Mrs. Campbell, or better still, Doily Campbell.

Pride was keeping Sir Malcolm from changing his mind. He had ordered the course flags set, officials were flying around, 50,000 people were gathering hurriedly, the timing traps were up. He had Bluebird towed the full length of the course so that he could run just one way, with the wind, the least dangerous way. As the car was dragged past the timing tower at the end of the measured mile, hitched to a truck, the rear end swerved in the wind.

So Dolly went into action.

She hurriedly gathered the racing officials together, along with Daytona's mayor, E. H. Armstrong, and John McNamara, assistant adjutant general of Florida.

Saved Again!

She bustled about, winning her argument at every stride with officials more than eager to listen. They then piled into a big car, rode down the beach to where Sir Malcolm was sitting in Bluebird's cockpit, his glasses on his forehead, ready to give her the gun and go, against his own judgment.

They talked for only a few moments, Sir Malcolm the husband, Lady Campbell the wife, and then a bit sheepishly, grinning, but quite content, the 50-year-old Englishman climbed out. Lady Campbell kissed him gratefully, and came back in true wifely triumph.

Razorbacks Favor Play-Off If Fair Plans Are Arranged

DALLAS, March 5, (AP)—Glen Rose, University of Arkansas basketball coach, today said he was willing to have his Razorbacks engage in a Southwest conference championship playoff providing the right kind of a schedule could be arranged. Rose wired the Associated Press as follows:

"Am willing to play the tie off if a fair way can be arranged. This seems impossible short of a round robin which might result in another tie and would require a long period of time to complete."

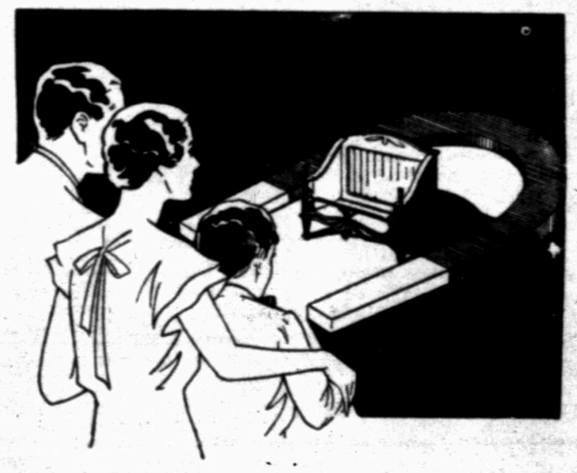

Southern Methodist, Rice and Arkansas tied for the cage crown, each with 9 victories and 3 defeats.

Chevigny Expects 100 Grid Candidates In Spring Drill

AUSTIN, March 5. (AP) — Spring football training is scheduled to start at the University of Texas Friday with 100 candidates expected to report.

The spring session will be climaxed by an inter-squad game.

No Room For This Rodent

INFORMATION coming from Washington indicates a serious possibility of bloody riots in and near Toledo, O., in connection with industrial disputes which began there a year ago and have never been entirely healed.

Headquarters of the American Federation of Labor in Washington are fearful of being able to control the situation, saying frankly that sheer radicals, who are outsiders and paid propagandists, are working might and main against organized labor's leaders and have been making some headway with the rank and file of workers. Pointing to its record of having stood during these recent times of stress as a bulwark against Communism and kindred forces, federation leaders are hoping to keep the situation in hand but that's about as far as they go.

Outside agitators, working in close organization, popped up in Detroit during last year's automobile plant disorders. Those same ranting Reds were in San Francisco during the general strike, in Toledo and also in the textile areas of the Atlantic seaboard. Often they are 'planted' by their sponsoring organizations to cause dissatisfaction among workers, to start trouble and then skip somewhere else. They are not organized labor leaders; they are not working for the laboring man, be he organized or unorganized. They are merely trying to undermine the government by causing internal strife and disorder—to change the American plan of civilization to something akin to the plan of Russia and other similarly governed nations.

If, as federation leaders believe and have warned authorities, those enemies of all Americans, be they employers or employes, are behind the trouble in Toledo they should be ferreted out, arrested and tried under the laws coverng syndicalism and inciting to riot.

If the undermining crew is leading both employers and employes into difficulties and, by so doing, are attempting to block the recovery programs of our states and nation, they should be dealt with sternly—dealt with just as if they were enemies within our gates in time of war. They should not be permitted to go along, day after day and year after year, inciting trouble and leaving in their wake dead men, women and children, broken arms, legs and heads and wrecked factories. Our laws of deportation should be strengthened to take care of them.

There never was and never will be an industrial dispute which cannot be amicably settled by calm, fair and just deliberation on the part of both bosses and workers, or through the right kind of arbitration which takes due cognizance of the rights of both contesting parties.

There is no place in this country, as it is being rebuilded economically or after rebuilding's goal is attained, for those who seek to tear down. We hope for action against that type of roving agitator if his tribe is uncovered at Toledo.

Then I said unto them, cast ye away every man the abominations of his eyes, and defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt: I am the Lord your God.

But they rebelled against me, and would not hearken unto me: they did not every man cast away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt: then I said, I will pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.

But I wrought for my name's sake that it should not be poluted before the heathen, among whom they were, in whose sight I made myself known unto them, in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.—Ezekiel, 10:7-9.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THERE is at least one Washingtonian who is unmoved by the prospect of an American Louvre to be built around Andrew Mellon's rumored gift of old masters. The cold one, being a government official, can be classed as a transient since he was brought into the case after a tax law expert had prepared it. Robert H. Jackson, general counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, is among those incredulous persons who see a trick even in the proffer gratis of a whole wallful of early masterpieces.

As the news columns probably informed you, word of Mellon's contemplated beneficence first broke from Pittsburgh where the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals is hearing a $3,090,000 tax evasion suit brought by the government against the multi-millionaire former Secretary of the Treasury.

It is said that Mellon was annoyed when he learned his attorney, Frank J. Hogan, had let the cat out of the bag. Hogan, however, is a most able barrister who has let cats out of bags in the past for such national headline figures as E. L. Doheny, Albert H. Fall and William P. MacCracken.

None of the foregoing interests Internal Revenue Counsel Jackson. But their point is likely to become clearer as the case develops Hogan's knowledge of the legal loopholes in the law which were left there when Congress passed it. What was done by the ex-Secretary's able counsel may look funny to the man in the street but quite correct to the Tax Appeals board.

STIRRING: Secretary of Interior Ickes who doubles as Public Works Administrator, is very busy these days making a survey of possible projects that could be launched if President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill would only pass.

With much fanfare progressive lists of these "available" projects are being made public. In one week their total amount jumped from about $8,500,000,000 to $14,500,000,000. The idea obviously is to stir up some reluctant Senate votes for the work-relief bill as the projects cover the country like the sky.

Among the possibilities are 13,000 schoolhouses which could be erected with the aid of federal money. The many thousands of unpaid, underpaid and unemployed school teachers no doubt will be interested in this—although, of course, if their communities can't support them in existing schools new ones wouldn't help much.

COMPROMISE: Relief Boss Hopkins has borrowed a couple of hundred million from the public works fund, and now Boss Ickes tells Congressmen that unless the work-relief bill goes through he will be forced to shut down work on projects already in hand, such as Grand Coulee, Casper-Alcova, Bonneville and Fort Peck.

Another hint going the rounds is that army and navy allotments from the public works fund will dry up unless—Also that TVA is counting on public works funds.

So a lot of legislators are beginning to agree with Edmund Burke that "all human acts are based on compromise."

TICKET: A Republican who knows his oats predicts that next year's G. O. P. presidential candidate will not be a man with a national record and reputation.

If true, that makes it hard on Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who is being given most prominent mention in the public prints at the moment. His boomlet would explode under the prognosticator's theory that a U. S. Senator would have too many votes on highly controversial issues to explain.

By the same token Republican governors should take heart. The three who are receiving careful consideration just now are Hoffman of New Jersey, Landon of Kansas, and former Governor Winant of New Hampshire. One at least of this trio stands a fair chance to place on the ticket—possibly two, counting in the second spot.

NOTES: McPherson, Kansas, gets the credit for one of the most unique Public Works allotments yet to be recorded. . . . Part of its $10,500 grant for a water system will include an underground sprinkling system for a cemetery. . . . Farm products and automobiles get favors from Belgium in exchange for tariff reduction on cement. . . . The House favors celebration of the 150th anniversary of the constitution. . . . Florida talks of a world exposition—and an appropriation.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

JESSE JONES' realism was too much for Wall Street's nerves. His remark that ailing railroads must justify their existence before they could expect any more help from the RFC started a wave of liquidation. For a short time it looked as if rail stocks were going right through the cellar.

That wasn't on the program at all. New York was highly amused by the speed with which Mr. Jones pulled the ancient Minneapolis & St. Louis rabbit out of his hat to prove that his heart was still in the right place. Insiders comment this rabbit is beginning to look shopworn from overwork.

They take the liberty of doubting that final arrangements have been consummated — despite the official announcement to that effect. They add that if it does go through you can be sure the eight purchasing roads were subjected to strenuous pressure to accept the necessary loans—and that the RFC's definition of sound collateral must be remarkably flexible. However, the gesture served its purpose of soothing the trading fraternity.

This doesn't mean that the RFC is reverting to its former policy of saving all railroads regardless. But the informed predict that when Mr. Jones wants to get hard-boiled hereafter he will do so in private and not for publication. The episode remains an observer of a man who was surprised to find his wife in tears after he had bawled her out and hastily bought her a box of candy to make amends.

JOCKEYED: Financial circles are uneasy at the recent decline of the pound in terms of gold. Stories that the weakness is due to withdrawal of French capital from London—for fear that a labor government will soon come to power in England—are discounted as naive. Experts insist that sterling is slipping chiefly because the British government wants it to slip.

The situation contains the germ of a serious depreciation war. If the pound continues to slide we would have to cheapen the dollar to maintain our trade position. If competition of that kind is carried far it's likely to damage all concerned.

Bankers doubt that it will actually come to that. They say the British are too smart to get themselves into such a jam—especially as we would be able to stand the pace better than they. They figure rather that our London friends are jockeying for a favorable position in negotiations for stabilization—and by that token predict that those negotiations are close at hand.

DOMINANT: New Yorkers familiar with South America are suspicious of Argentine maneuvers in connection with the Paraguay-Bolivia scrap. They claim she is setting the stage for an act with herself as the heroine and Uncle Sam as the stooge.

Delicate hints have been coming from Argentina that we ought to invoke the Monroe Doctrine against League of Nations interference. If we fall for this game we can easily squeeze the League out of the picture—which Argentina wants. At the same time we give her the chance to rally Brazil and Uruguay with the time honored squawk that the Yankee colossus is once again sticking his nose where he has no business.

She knows perfectly well we will not horn in actively. But with Brazil and Uruguay lined up she could afford to plunge in openly on Paraguay's side (instead of the surreptitious backing she has given up to now), wallop the daylights out of Bolivia, grab off some valuable tin and oil territory and establish herself as THE dominant power in South America.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE HAND OF DEATH

An old stone pillar stands on the sidewalk of Broad street in Augusta, Georgia, which city officials have hesitated to remove due to a curious legend connected with it. The tradition is that about 50 years ago an itinerant preacher foretold the destruction of the Market place, of which the pillar was then a part, by a cyclone or fire. The prophecy came true. Now there is a mark of a hand on the pillar which the preacher said was left by a slave sold into bondage. He foretold that anyone attempting to move the pillar would meet with death. There is a rumor that the curse has struck down four people who have disregarded the preacher's warning. Successive city administrations have decided to leave the pillar alone and many offers to remove it have not been accepted.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nick Trench and Molly O'Brien just have been released by Jimmy Fox from a locked room, under which are tons of explosives to which a lighted fuse had been attached by Peter Orloff. Orloff, a spy, is searching for the same valuble formula that Molly and Nick, with Jerry Mordaunt and Jimmy, are trailing. It had belonged to Molly, but was stolen from her by John Osborne. Before Osborne was murdered he had lived with the Gowllands, and Jerry is trying to get some information from Mrs. Gowland.

Chapter 41
EXPLOSION

Quick as an eel Jimmy twisted himself around, and thrusting Molly in front of me, I followed them down the passage. By the time I gained the main corridor, Jimmy had already crossed the hall.

He flung open the door exactly as Molly reached it, and in another moment the firm ground was beneath our feet, and we were all three running for the iron gate. I was just thanking my stars that I hadn't locked it when with appalling suddenness the end came.

There was a rumbling roar behind us; something struck me violently between the shoulder blades, and half paralyzed by a sickening stab of pain, I pitched forward full length on the rough gravel.

"Gawdluvus!"

Jimmy's gasped-out exclamation was the first thing to penetrate into my numbed brain, and struggling up on to my hands and knees, I stared vacantly about me.

The whole causeway was littered with pieces of broken masonry. One huge block, just to my right, had half embedded itself in the grass, and stretched out beside it, white and inert, lay the prostrate figure of Molly.

With a horrible fear clutching at my heart I crawled painfully towards her.

"Molly!" I cried. "Molly, darling!"

At the sound of my voice she opened her eyes. For a moment she still seemed utterly dazed; then as I slid my arm round her and lifted her gently up, life and consciousness ebbed back into her face.

"What's happened Nick?" she faltered. "I—Ithought we'd all been killed."

"It's a miracle we weren't. The whole place has been blown to smithereens." I dragged out my handkerchief, and very tenderly wiped the dust and mud from her cheek.

"Are you hurt?" I asked. "Did any of that stuff hit you?"

"No, I don't think so. I just heard a roar, and then I don't remember anything else. I guess I must have fainted or something silly like that." She drew in a quick breath. "And you, Nick?"

"Nothing to grumble about," I replied. "I stopped a brickbat or something with my shoulder, but it doesn't seem to have done me any particular harm."

I looked round for Jimmy and discovered him almost at my elbow. Like both of us he was covered from head to foot with white dust, and a thin trickle of blood was oozing from his nose.

"What's up, sir?" he demanded breathlessly. "The young lady ain't copped it—as she?"

"We're both intact, Jimmy," I assured him. "How about you?"

"Me, sir? Oh, I'm fine. Bumped me nose a bit when I come down but that ain't nothing."

He wiped away the blood with his hand and cast a slightly awed glance at the smoking ruin behind us. "Made a decent job of it, 'aven't they, sir? Never seen a better bust-up, not even in the pictures."

Lubbock Pastor Favors Day Of Prayer On Friday

Editor the Avalanche: In accordance with Governor James V. Allred's proclamation issued March 1st setting aside March 8th as a day of fasting and prayer, I am for it 100 per cent. I am a licensed and ordained minister of the Gospel and a pastor in Lubbock. I did not take any part in the recent issue between the city officials and ministers, because in my opinion they were both wrong. House-cleaning should start at home.

Governor Allred has called a day of fasting and prayer March 8th. II Chron. 7:14 tells us how to proceed.

"If my people who are called by my name shall humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from Heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land."

Now it says, "My people who are called by my name." Not the bootlegger, not the "wild women," but my people. Humble themselves, pray, turn from their wicked ways, "then I will forgive their sins and will heal their land."

May we as pastors in the churches of Lubbock call our people together on March 8th, as our God has commanded us to do, and as our honorable governor has asked us to do, and fast and pray for a spiritual recovery throughout state and nation.

Respectfully,
Rev. Floyd Dawson,

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 63

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Under the flickering light of the cresset, Tarzan of the Apes saw tier after tier of shelves upon which were stacked small sacks made of skins. Opening one, the old man spilled a portion of the contents into the palm of one hand. "Diamonds!" he said. "The Bolgani have been accumulating them for countless ages. In their legends is the prediction that some day the Atlantians will return and barter for them. A king's ransom reposes in each of these sacks!"

Giving one bag to La, another to Tarzan and keeping one for himself, the old man remarked: "Just for luck, in case we leave this valley alive!" From the diamond vault he led them up a primitive ladder to the floor above and quickly to the main entrance of the Tower. Two heavy, bolted doors now lay between them and the terrace. Beyond that, only a short distance, was the east gate which Tarzan had left open. But this time the last of the Gomangani had ascended the ladder.

Carefully the ape-man explained to them they were to run for the gate as the bolted doors swung open. Then, turning to the old man he said: "NOW!" The bolt slipped back, the doors swung open and the entire party swarmed out. The Bolgani, unaware that their victims had eluded them, did not discover the fact until Tarzan, bringing up the rear with the golden lion, was passing through the gates. Then several hundred gorilla-men started on a mad run in pursuit.

"Now for it!" cried Tarzan to the others. "Run straight down the valley toward Opar." "I shall not stir a step without you, Tarzan," said La. "As you wish," he said with a shrug, "here they come." Fifty of the Gomangani rallied to his call and with these the ape-man stood in the gateway toward which the Bolgani were now charging. As the first of the hairy monsters snarled within a few paces of them, La glanced down the jungle trail. "Look! Look!" she cried.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FRANK MacMILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 5. (AP)—Stocks snapped out of their recent coma today to meet substantial offerings on a reaction which toppled the leaders 1 to 4 points.

Bonds and principal commodities were likewise reactionary, although Wall Street brokers had no pat explanation for the drooping spirits of traders and investors. Corporate news was on the whole indecisive and Washington developments were lacking.

Among the staples, wheat closed 5-8 to 1 1-8 cents a bushel lower and corn was off 1 1-8 to 1 3-4 cents. Cotton was about steady at 10 cents a bale advance to 25 cents down. Bar silver receded from its recent high, to lose 1-4 of a cent at 57 3-4 cents a ounce.

Volume was accelerated on the decline, though still not heavy, at 890,200 shares. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks lost 1.3 points at 36.3, a new 1935 low, and the three divisions used in the compilation, industrials, rails and utilities, likewise each made a new bottom for the current year.

Sterling rallied about a cent for a time today, but lost its gains. Gold currencies, led by the French franc, receded mildly.

Babies under 5 months of age manufacture their own vitamin C, according to English scientists. The power to do this decreases until, at the age of 14 months, it disappears entirely.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 5. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today and prices held within a narrow range, closing 2 points higher on March, but generally 1 to 5 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points on March while later months were about unchanged. A little selling in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and absorbed at the opening, but prices eased later, influenced by the sag of the grain and stock markets.

March worked off from 12.31@12.25 after the initial buying had been supplied, and later months sold about 4 to 8 points net lower.

The decline brought in additional trade buying, and closing quotations showed rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

Around 33,000 hogs were yarded against 47,324 the same day last year. Trade at all markets was brisk with prices making another gain of 15 to mostly 25 compared with Monday's quotations. Extreme sales were as much as 35 higher. The circuit's high mark was 9.80 paid sparingly at Chicago.

Fat lambs ruled strong to 25 higher at the various centers. Several markets that were relatively high lost the advance on closing rounds. Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 5. (AP) — Light but steady selling erased fractions to almost two cents from the values of grain futures today.

Weakness of stocks coupled with talk of threatened increasing feed grain imports due to the recent drop in foreign currencies contributed to the prevailing bearish sentiment.

Wheat closed 5-8 to 1 1-4 cent lower, May 95 7-8@96, and corn was 1 1-8 to 1 3-4 down, May 82 1-8@82 1-4. Oats lost 1-2 to 1 cent, rye was 5-8 to 7-8 down and barley was unchanged to 1 1-2 off.

Corn took the lead in the decline, reaching the lowest level in more than a month.

Wheat traders virtually ignored extremely pessimistic crop and weather advices from the southwest but at the same time notice was taken of rains in the spring wheat belt, believed beneficial to preparations for seeding.

Lard was steady to a few cents lower after early firmness and bellies were a little higher. Prices firmed early with hog values but reacted on profit taking with grains.

Grecian Revolt

am anxious to avoid fratricidal war. I call on you to lay down your arms."

Gen. Kondylis reported the rebels numbered between 2,500 and 3,000.

Heartened by reports reaching Athens that rebel desertions were numerous, the government notified its legations abroad that it was "growing more and more confident."

Precautionary Measures

Measures being taken included martial law, rounding up of all suspected of rebel sympathies, summoning of reserves, and the halting of all civil air traffic presumably in an attempt to checkmate the escape of rebel leaders. Private automobiles also were forbidden to operate, while the bourse remained closed and business idle.

The mouth of Salonika harbor was studded with mines to prevent five warships seized by rebels at the outset of the movement from putting in to help the land forces.

A mass flight of 21 government bombing planes to cooperate with the land forces in the north was launched. Slashing rainstorms breaking over the region later presumably hindered the expedition.

Rains Hinder Movements

The torrential rains, too, impeded the troops which fought their way across the Struma river to take up the chase.

It was believed Gen. Kondylis sought to bottle the rebels in the neck between the Bulgarian and Turkish frontiers.

The government received reports that the morale of the rebel forces, under the command of General Cammenos, had been badly shaken by the loyal forces' dogged pursuit.

Competent observers believed Venizelos erred in timing his uprising, since its success depended upon utmost speed in striking, an element sadly lacking.

Smith tonight said he was "studying the plan very carefully" but gave no indication when his answer would be given.

Local 585, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, were to meet tonight to consider further plans to meet any new situation might arise.

filed here, Sheriff Harold Wiley said.

Since the break, the trio blazed a spectacular trail. Kuykendall was wounded in a "grudge" duel between Stanphill and Irvin Brewer, Fairview marshal. The three were identified as the robbers of the Seiling First State bank Feb. 27.

After being flushed from a previous hiding place near Antioch school Saturday, they stole one automobile at pistol point, then kidnaped Dr. Fred Lewis Myers at Leedey, taking his car. After a wild 75-mile chase by a hundred possemen and an airplane scout, they released Dr. Myers in his car, saying they wanted "a faster car."

Apparently, however, they were forced to walk across country to their final hideaway. They were exhausted when captured.

maintained this would scrap the plan to shift from the dole to work.

FDR Has Bold Plan

Although things seemed to be going well with his pet measure, reports unconfirmed but persistent, circulated around the capital that Mr. Roosevelt had a new and bold proposal in mind.

He held two long conferences today on the work relief problem with Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, and Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator.

An amendment by Senator Adams (D-Colo) to reduce the appropriation to $2,880,000,000 was defeated along with one by Senator Hale (R-Me) to limit it to $1,000,000,000. Fights on the senate floor are planned on these issues, along with proposals by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) to pay the cost in greenbacks and by Senator Bulow (D-SD) to pay off the soldiers' bonus. Proponents of a reduced appropriation favor continuation of the dole.

The first serious effort to start balancing the emergency budget also fell in the committee when a proposal by Senator Townsend (R-Del) to impose a tax to pay off both principal and interest of the $4,880,000,000 was defeated.

Bonus Split

mittee, of which he is a member, was preceded by similar pleas from legion officials, including Frank N. Belgrano, national commander, and John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative; all urging that the inflation and bonus issues be made separate. They were peppered from the committee bench with questions on how the money would be provided.

Unanimously, they replied that they had no plan for raising the funds, that that was the problem of the house appropriations committee and the job and prerogative of the secretary of the treasury.

Committee Widely Split

So far as an informal poll of the committee could reveal, it was widely and uncertainly split on the question of which measure it would approve, although it was apparent it would recommend payment of the bonus in one form or another. Twelve members appeared for the Vinson measure, 11 for the Patman bill, with two undecided.

The inflation issue also held attention outside the committee room. Representative Lemke (R-ND) presented a petition seeking a vote on his bill to refinance farm mortgages by issuing a maximum of $3,000,000,000 in new currency. He claimed more than 40 signatures. To obtain house consideration of the proposal in this way 217 signatures—a majority of the house—must be obtained.

Heavily guarded, Virgil Stalcup, Texas-Oklahoma desperado was enroute to the state penitentiary at Huntsville last night and was expected to reach there early today where he will remain until he is returned here for formal death sentence for the slaying of Sheriff W. B. Arthur last October. Stalcup, accompanied by three well armed officers, left Lubbock yesterday morning.

The convicted murderer will be kept in the death row in the state prison. A lead chain was attached to the handcuffed man as he left the county jail where he has been confined.

Heavily Guarded

Sheriff John Koonsman of Dickens county, Deputy Sheriff Bedford Carpenter of Lubbock county, and State Highway Patrolman John Keller of Lubbock were the officers who left Lubbock county jail with Stalcup.

At Matador, Sheriff J. E. Skinner of Motley county was to replace Keller, who was to return here.

Departure Time Unknown

The sheriff's department here declined to reveal the time of departure of the automobile bearing the prisoner.

Stalcup was an escaped convict and under sentences totaling 254 years in other counties.

"He was transferred to the penitentiary on account of those convictions in the other counties," Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, said.

Sentence Is Pending

The death sentence has not been pronounced on Stalcup, as defense counsel asked reinstatement of an original notice of appeal. Previously they had asked to withdraw the notice in order to file motion for a new trial.

The jury that fixed Stalcup's penalty at death returned its verdict Feb. 12 here.

Junk, Ten Tons Of It Each Month, Collected By Long

CROSBYTON, March 5. (Special) Ten tons of junk a month, 120 tons a year, is considerable junk, but that is how much L. E. Long, owner of a wrecking yard here ships each month and year to Fort Worth.

A truck load of junk every eight or ten days, sometimes every five days, is sent from Crosbyton by Long. The metals consist of lead, copper, some asbestos and other metals found in old cars and other places.

"We do not gather up any old scrap iron, because there is not enough in it," he explained. If the market would go up to where there would be sufficient money in iron, there would be more.

"Hundreds of car loads of junk from all over the state are assembled at Fort Worth each year. It's a big business. Fort Worth is the central point for gathering metals."

Movie Studio On Wheels To Visit

A traveling movie studio in a specially designed and constructed trackless locomotive is to pay a visit to Lubbock this afternoon, Hal B. Grady, manager of Lindsey Theaters, Inc., has been advised. The studio will arrive here at 5:30 p. m., stage a short parade through downtown Lubbock and stand in front of the Palace theater from 5:45 to 7 p. m. for inspection by the public.

Built at a cost of $150,000, the studio houses a miniature Hollywood studio and has facilities for the taking and projection of motion pictures. Painted a colorful red, the studio measures over 70 feet long and nine feet wide. It is designed so that visitors may pass through it to view the projection equipment at one end and the sound recording studio at the other.

Accompanying the studio, which is on a world tour, is a special camera car, fully equipped for newsreel work, and two special built pilot cars which carry the official Hollywood party making up the studio's personnel.

The party is from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Cardui for Better Appetite

"I was so nervous and depressed, I felt like I wanted to tear my hair," writes Mrs. R. W. Kilpatrick of Houston, Texas. "I would get ashamed of being easily upset. I took Cardui at this time and after the third bottle, my strength began to mend. The pain was less, I quit having the depressed feeling."

A better appetite often is one of the first results of taking Cardui, and as nourishment is improved, many disagreeable symptoms of a run-down condition go away. But of course if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. ADV.—

I did not kill Osborne
By VICTOR BRIDGES

our position suddenly came home to me.

"We mustn't stay here," I said hastily. "That devil Orloff can't be far away, and if he sees that we've escaped . . ."

I broke off. "We must get down under the bank and make for the boat," I added. "Do you think you can manage it, Molly?"

With the aid of may hand she scrambled shakily to her feet.

"Yes, I'm all right, Nick. It's Jerry I'm thinging of. Oughtn't we . . ."

"He knows what happened," I interrupted. "If he's alive he's on his way back now. Our best chance is to lie up under those gorse bushes and wait for him there."

She raised no further opposition, and disregarding the unpleasant pain that was gnawing at my right shoulder, I led the way forward to the gate.

From here to the beach the distance was not more than fifty yards. The low-lying ground between was protected from the tide by a rough sea wall, and under cover of this bank we crept along in single file until we reached the little patch of higher ground where we had brought the dinghy ashore.

To my intense relief it was still there.

"One of use must look out for Jerry," I said. "You'd better do that, Molly, while we get the boat launched. Keep behind those bushes, and don't show yourself unless you see him."

Nodding her head silently she moved towards the gorse, and without further delay Jimmy and I set about our task. It took us some time, for I could only make use of my left arm.

Jimmy, however, performed his share of the work manfully, and after several pauses for rest, we succeeded in tugging our craft to the water's edge, from which position she could be pushed off at a moment's notice.

This done, we crawled back to where Molly was lying, and dropped down alongside of her.

"There's no sign of him, Nick," she whispered. "I'm beginning to feel frightened."

"You needn't worry yet," I replied. "He's got that pistol of Dawson's with him, and if there's any trouble he won't stick at using it. All we can do is to wait here until he chooses to show up."

She glanced round at us both. "You're the most wonderful boy in the world, Jimmy," she said in a low voice. "How did you know that we were locked in, and however did you manage to get ashore"

He schatched his head. "It was like this, miss, I was sitting up on deck 'aving a look at the place when all of a sudden I see a bloke comin' sneaking' out of the front door.

"Soon as I clapped my eyes on 'im I knew who 'e was. Gosh.' I says to meself, 'if it ain't that blinkin' doctor!' and before the words , as you might say, was 'ardly out of me mouth, 'e'd nipped off round the corner and was legging it away up the road.

"Well, it didn't take me long to guess that 'e'd done the dirty on you, so I off with me boots and shirt and drops in over the side. The tide was running a bit strong like, but I ain't what you might call a bad and at swimming—got a prize for it at the Battersea baths last year, I did.

"It was that bloomin' door that was the real trouble. The perisher 'ad shut it be'ind 'im when 'e come out, and seeing as there weren't no time to waste, I just picks up a bit o' wood, and bashes in the winder.

"Lucky I did, too, or we wouldn't 'alf be in a mess now."

We both started at him for a moment without speaking.

"James," I said slowly, "as Miss O'Brien has remarked, you're a bloody marvel. If we ever get out of this . . ."

"Look, Nick, look! There he is—straight in front of us."

Molly, who had turned round again, was pointing through the bushes, and, jumping to my feet, I caught sight of the distant figure of Jerry just emerging through a gap in the hedge that bounded the lane.

He was heading in the direction of the factory.

"Shall I give 'im a whistle, sir?" inquired Jimmy.

"Not a bad idea," I agreed.

He inserted two grimy fingers into the corners of his mouth and emitted a shill blast. Jerry pulled up sharply.

For a moment he stood gazing about him, and then as a second and still more penetrating summons echoed across the marsh, he wheeled round and came hurrying towards us.

"You'd better tell him, Nick," said Molly. "No good our both trying to talk."

Picking his way from one firm tuft to another until he reached the path, Jerry broke once more into a steady run.

Even if we had escaped observation till then, any further attempt at hiding ourselves was obviously futile, so parting the bushes I stepped forward into the open. Without a word Molly slipped through after me.

"You can take it easy," I called out. "We're quite safe, all three of us."

Muddy and dishevelled, his old waterproof smeared with dark stains, Jerry stumbled hurriedly up the slope. There was a queer look in his eyes, which I had never exactly seen before, a look of overwhelming relief, coupled with a kind of suppressed excitement.
