Mrs. Grady White brought in a letter from Baldknob, Ark., that conveys a heart-warming story which seems rather appropriate to present at this New Year.

The letter came from R.M. Tucker, 86, who formerly lived at Dunn. It was addressed to Mr. or Mrs. James Welch, or any of their near relatives, and it referred to a debt the writer said he owed when he moved from Dunn many years ago.

Mrs. White, a niece of James Welch, said her uncle died in the forties. So, the letter was turned over to her.

In the letter, Mr. Tucker said he owed Mr. Welch $245 when he moved from Dunn. Mr. Welch operated a grocery store at that time. Mrs. White says she remembers the Tuckers and believes they moved from Snyder during the great depression of the thirties.

Anyway, misfortune followed misfortune for R.M. Tucker in the years after he moved from Dunn.

"My wife was bedfast for several years and was paralyzed," he wrote. "And I had cancer of my throat twice and I had to have throat operations both times to save my life. I cannot talk—only with a patented speech aid. I regret that I never could pay Mr. Welch what I owed him."

At present, Mr. Tucker said he lives in a trailer house on one of his sons' farms and he has been saving all that he can from his social security check.

"I now have $245 saved that I can pay what I owe Mr. Welch," he wrote. "I cannot pay any interes."

He said he signed a note when he left Dunn and that he is prepared to send a post office money order in exchange for the note.

"The last three years I lived there, I had a complete failure in farming and I lost everything I had," Mr. Tucker wrote, in explaining how he happened to move, leaving the debt unpaid.

Mrs. White said she knew nothing of the note and that she and a sister are the closest relatives of Mr. Welch remaining.

Although there were exceptions, reports from over the country indicate that Christmas mail moved rather smoothly this past holiday season. It is those isolated cases of inconsistency that plague the Postal Service these days. County Tax Collector Don Adams noted that he received a piece of mail on Dec. 28 which had been postmarked Dec. 23 in Snyder. Yours truly received a piece of registered mail that required nine days to come from East Texas.

But J.C. Williamson, a Postal Service employe, has one of the most unusual stories about mail service slip-ups. He said that during World War II while he was stationed in Florida, he mailed a penny postcard (remember them?) to his fiance—LaRue Autry, who for some years now has been Mrs. Williamson. Almost exactly 10 years later, long after he and the former Miss Autry had wed and he had gone to work at the Post Office, Williamson was sorting mail in the Snyder Post Office when his eyes fell upon that postcard.

"I thought the handwriting looked familiar," said Williamson. And sure enough, it was his own. The card apparently had been missent to Big Spring and was lost there for around 10 years, because it had the Florida postmark of 10 years earlier, plus a second postmark from Big Spring just the day before it finally reached the Snyder Post Office.

FOR GOVERNOR OF TEXAS

Austin And Waco Papers Endorse Dolph Briscoe

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Austin American-Statesman and the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald have endorsed Dolph Briscoe Jr. of Uvalde for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas.

The Waco paper made its endorsement in a front page editorial of the Sunday edition and the Austin paper carried the same editorial as the head item on its editorial page.

Both papers are members of Newspapers Inc., whose chairman is Harlon M. Fentress.

"January 1972 officially ushers in one of the most important election years since World War II at both state and national levels," said both editorials. "In Texas the statewide focus begins with the race for governor...

"We have no quarrel with Gov. Preston Smith's administration of state affairs during his tenure since 1969. We do not agree with the claim that Gov. Smith violated the law by accepting a bank loan in partnership with Dr. Elmer Baum, then Democratic party chief and member of the State Banking Board, both by appointment of Gov. Smith. We do believe, however, that Gov. Smith was guilty of an act of indescretion, and that his role as partner in the bank loan, and the purchase and sale at a generous profit of controversial insurance company stock, has done much to destroy public confidence in state government. In view of this, we do not believe that Gov. Preston Smith, if elected to a third term, can furnish the untarnished leadership this state needs."

The editorial in the Waco and Austin papers said it was obvious that Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes chose the governor's race after carefully weighing the chances of winning. "He chose the governor's race after circumstances such as John Connally's appointment to the Nixon cabinet lessened Barnes' chances of defeating U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex. Barnes is a product of the political power system that has grown up around the House speaker's office. As speaker, he contributed much to the growth of that system which has for all practical purposes destroyed the effectiveness of the current legislature. It is doubtful that Barnes can recapture for the executive office of governor the public confidence so essential to state government."

The editorial said former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D—Tex, who was defeated in the 1970 primary by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D—Tex., "is not a candidate for governor, although there have been on-again, off-again rumors that he may be.

Explosions Rock Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's turmoil-stricken capital entered 1972 with a rash of explosions, a skirmish between British troops and gunmen and a sectarian street riot.

Eight explosions rocked Belfast in the minutes before and after midnight. An army spokesman said it was "a miracle no one was hurt."

The bombings were seen as a defiant New Year's gesture by the Irish Republican Army in its guerrilla war against the 14,000 British troops assigned to the province to maintain order.

Targets included a supermarket and a gasoline station. One blast shattered windows at a Baptist church during a watchnight service, showering worshippers with broken glass.

Gunmen fired on a police precinct house and later on troops who returned the fire, but no casualties were reported on either side.

Soldiers had to break up a riot between mobs of Roman Catholic and Protestant youths in Selby Street.

Mebane and his wife, Evelyn, are the parents of four children. Three of them are married. The other one, Becky, is a student at Western Texas College. Mebane is a member of the Union Methodist Church.

In announcing his candidacy, Mebane said:

"The growing demands on the Scurry County Commissioner's Court make it a very interesting and responsible office. I will continue to uphold the integrity and responsibilities of this office."

Court To Hear Redistricting Suits Monday

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Attorneys will ask a three-judge federal court Monday to shatter precedents and give blacks, Mexicans, Americans and Republicans more voting power in the Texas legislature.

The court will hear arguments on four suits challenging the constitutionality of the House and Senate reapportionment plan drawn this summer by the Legislative Redistricting Board.

One of the three judges, William Wayne Justice of Tyler, already has singled out the biggest issue facing the court: the "alleged prejudicial invidious discrimination" in urban districts where numerous representatives run at large within a single county.

Justice noted last week that a speedy decision is required because Feb. 7 is the deadline for politicians to file as legislative candidates.

No matter what the judges decide, however, the final decision almost certainly will be made by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Last year, the high court overruled lower court decisions requiring single-member house districts in Indiana.

The Austin court will hear these four suits, consolidated for the purpose of presenting arguments and evidence:

—A suit filed in Justice's court in Tyler by Dallas Sen. Oscar Mauzy and others, contending that multi-urban house districts discriminate against racial and political minorities. The suit also alleges the 9.9 per cent population spread between the most and the least populous districts violates the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one vote rule.

—Houston Rep. Curtis Graves' suit alleging that Harris (Houston) County senate districts were gerrymandered to prevent the election of a black senator.

—A case lodged in San Antonio by Republican officials contending that Bexar County senate districts were gerrymandering to favor Democrats. The suit also challenges multi-member house districts.

—A suit filed in Dallas by conservative Democratic Party leaders, contending the house plan discriminates against ethnic, religious and political minorities. The suit was believed by some plaintiffs' lawyers to be a front, designed mainly to get a quick decision from a sympathetic judge that the new house districts are constitutional.

IN LAOS, CAMBODIA

US Strikes Supply Lines

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes launched more than 200 strikes against North Vietnamese supply lines in Laos and Cambodia today and enemy gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters on the South Vietnamese side of the border with Laos.

Two American crewmen were killed and two were wounded in the helicopter downings, the U.S. command reported. Both craft were shot down on Friday.

The strikes over Laos and Cambodia marked the start of the 12th year of major U.S. involvement in the Indochina war despite a continuing cutback of American forces from Vietnam. The U.S. command announced the phaseout of 26 more Army units with a total authorized strength of 4,370 troops, the biggest single cut in 2½ months.

The command said the two helicopters—an OH6 and a UH1—were on an observation flight when they were hit with heavy enemy ground fire. They went down four miles southeast of Khe Sanh, six miles from the Laotian border and 20 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone.

Both helicopters crashed and sustained "major damage," the command said.

While the command did not disclose their mission, they apparently were looking for North Vietnamese troop and supply movements during a 72-hour enemy New Year's cease-fire scheduled to run until 1 a.m. Monday Saigon time.

A 24-hour allied cease-fire ended at dusk today.

Both unilateral truces were shattered by more than a score of Viet Cong attacks that killed eight South Vietnamese and wounded 21, the Saigon command said. It reported 19 enemy troops were killed.

The U.S. command also reported a nine-round mortar barrage against an American convoy 15 miles northwest of Da Nang New Year's Eve. The command reported no casualties or damage.

26 Units Coming Home

SAIGON (AP) — In the biggest single cutback in 2½ months, the U.S. Command announced today 26 Army units with total authorized strength of 4,370 troops will be withdrawn from Vietnam.

The main units involved were the 85th Evacuation Hospital at Phu Bai, which has served the 101st Airborne Division in the northern sector of the country, and the 307th Air Traffic Control Battalion of the 1st Aviation Brigade at Bien Hoa. Most of the other units phased out were engineer companies and medical detachments.

President Nixon has ordered U.S. troop strength in Vietnam cut to 139,000 during the next 30 days. It now stands at 158,300.

KEITH COLLIER

Sheriff Is Candidate

Sheriff Keith Collier has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election this year in the action of the Democratic Primary.

Collier said he felt that much progress had been made in law enforcement in recent years and that he was appreciative of the fact that he had been afforded an opportunity to be a part of it.

He is well-known in law enforcement circles of the Southwest. At present he is serving as president of the West Central Texas Law Enforcement Association, and also is vice chairman of the resolutions committee for the Sheriff's Association of Texas.

The Scurry County Sheriff also expressed appreciation of the cooperation of local citizens and other law enforcement officials during his tenure in the office and said he felt confident that such cooperation would continue to improve law enforcement here in the future.

Collier is married to the former Janice Hughes of Fluvanna. They are parents of five children, including two daughters Keitha, 19, and Tracy 8, and three boys Joe Don, 18, Timmy 15, and Dwain, 14.

Collier is a 1950 graduate of Fluvanna High School.

Oilmen Agree National Energy Policy Needed

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil industry leaders are in general agreement the nation needs a national energy policy which will encourage the search for and development of new domestic oil and gas reserves.

Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, says one of the bright spots of 1971 was the Nixon administration's recognition of the necessity for such a policy.

Walter T. Rogers, president of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, says action must be taken now to induce and stimulate exploration and production to fully develop all available reserves and to encourage dedication of new gas reserves to the interstate market.

"For the longer term, it is clear there must be a coordinated national approach toward energy development," Rogers said.

"We must inventory our energy resources against the anticipated demands of the future and then we must establish national energy goals toward which all segments of the energy industries can cooperate in directing their efforts."

The National Petroleum Council, a group of oilmen serving in an advisory capacity, is working on a series of energy policy options for submission to the Secretary of Interior in mid-1972. The Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs also has launched a comprehensive study of national energy policy proposals.

John G. McLean, president and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Co., has expressed hope such studies will permit the government by sometime in 1973 "to get on with the task of formulating a unified energy policy—which certainly is urgently needed."

"Our necessary funds cannot be generated internally by the energy companies at today's levels of prices and profits," McLean said. "They cannot easily be attracted from outside sources at current rates of return on investment."

McLean added, however, that the development of a comprehensive, carefully integrated national energy policy to meet the fundamental energy problems and many related issues will take much time and effort.

Meanwhile, McLean said, corrective actions should be taken or the developing natural gas shortage will increase in severity, the nation will become increasingly dependent upon Eastern Hemisphere oil, and companies will face growing problems in generating the massive capital inputs necessary to provide the nation's burgeoning energy requirements.

Ikard said industry and government experts agree the petroleum potential of the United States and its Outer Continental Shelf is extremely large.

"What the nation needs, and must have in order to realize its economic, social, and environmental goals, is a comprehensive, coherent national energy policy which will encourage the search for and development of oil and gas reserves," said Ikard, a former Texas congressmen and member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Ikard said President Nixon's June 4 energy message indicated support of such a policy. This, plus congressional studies now under way, Ikard said, offer hope a viable energy policy may soon be a reality.

Queen Hands Out Awards

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II honored more than 1,000 of her subjects today with royal awards for accomplishment in art, sport, business and public life.

Cecil Beaton, who designed the costumes for "My Fair Lady," was knighted, along with Christopher Soames, Britain's ambassador to France and the son-in-law of Winston Churchill.

Tennis star Evonne Goolagong of Australia, auto-racing champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland and lightweight boxing champ Ken Buchanan of Britain were made members of the Order of the British Empire.

The title of Dame Commander of the British Empire, knighthood's feminine equivalent, went to Cicely Courtneidge, who celebrated 70 years on the musical comedy stage last September. Dame Cicely first appeared on stage at age 8 and says now: "I have no thoughts of retiring."

Nicolette Milnes Walker, the British girl who sailed the Atlantic solo and startled American reporters by saying she did it mostly in the nude, also was named to the Order of the British Empire. Chay Blyth, who once rowed the Atlantic, was made a commander of the order for sailing nonstop around the world "the wrong way"—against the prevailing winds.

The awards to the sea-farers reflected the penchants of Prime Minister Edward Heath, who makes the recommendations for honors to the queen. Heath, a bachelor, proposed 154 awards to women, compared with 136 in the last royal list.

In the field of literature, Hungarian-born Arthur Koestler, author of "Darkness at Noon," a novel about Stalinist terror, received membership in the order and J.R.R. Tolkien, author of the perennial best-seller "Lord of Rings" was made a commander.

Two British actors, Alec McCowen and Michael Horden, also were made commanders. Knighthoods were bestowed on Mayor Joseph Cairns of Northern Ireland's embattled capital, Belfast; William Benholm Barnetson, chairman of the British-based international news agency Reuters, and astronomer Fred Hoyle, a Cambridge University professor and science-fiction writer.

Crewmen Beautiful People

SAIGON (AP) — "You're beautiful people," were the first words Navy Lt. Charles Burton said to the crewmen who rescued him from the Tonkin Gulf after his A6 fighter-bomber was shot down over North Vietnam two days ago.

Burton of Laramie, Wyo., was the only aviator rescued from among six Americans who were shot down over the North during five consecutive days of heavy raids between last Sunday and Thursday. He is a bombardier-navigator.

His plane was shot down by a Soviet-made surface-to-air missile, one of 45 which the U.S. command says were fired at American planes during the raids.

Burton was blown from his aircraft when the missile scored a direct hit, the Navy said. He was reported in "good condition" today aboard the 7th Fleet carrier Constellation.

The pilot of his A6, still missing, was not identified. Two other American planes were lost, the U.S. Command reported.

The Navy said Burton's parachute was spotted by a SH3 search and rescue helicopter piloted by Lt. (J.G.) James C. Spillman, of Cocoa, Fla.

"I had to keep zigging and zagging to dodge small arms and artillery fire and to keep an eye out for the pilot of the A6," said Spillman. Two Navy A7 attack aircraft silenced the fire from the North Vietnamese coastaline.

P.O. 3.C. Timothy G. Smith of Marysville, Ohio, went into the water to prepare Burton for a hoist rescue minutes later.

Burton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Burton of Laramie. His wife, Elizabeth Ann, resides at Oak Harbor, Wash.

World Trade Dominates Week's Business Scene

By LINDA RUBEY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — International trade considerations dominated the business scene this week as President Nixon evaluated a special report calling for the establishment of new rules for world trade.

The report called for Congress to give the President new authority to negotiate reductions in international trade barriers as well as for the reform of the world monetary system and the establishment of new codes for international business investment.

The report did not contain specific details on the new legislative requests, but administration officials said: "The thrust of our proposals will be in the area of reducing barriers."

In another development in the trade picture, the Commerce Department reported this week that the U.S. trade deficit narrowed sharply in November. The Commerce Department explained that the figures continued to be distorted by the dock strikes of several months ago.

The surplus of imports over exports in November was $227.2 million, down substantially from the record deficit of $821.4 million reported in October.

Observers said the import decline might have reflected the first effects of the now-removed 10 per cent import surcharge and the upward floating of several important foreign currencies.

On the domestic scene, the Commerce Department reported that the government's composite index of leading economic indicators rose in November for the third consecutive month.

The index, which often foreshadows broad movements in the economy, rose .2 per cent last month to 128.5 per cent of the 1967 average.

"The leading indicators continue to point toward further economic expansion in the months ahead," said Harold C. Passer, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs.

Meanwhile, some prominent private economists voiced doubts about the ability of the economy to meet their own glowing forecasts in 1972 without fresh tax cuts or other fiscal stimulus.

There was a general consensus among the economists that the gross national product should gain about $100 billion in 1972.

"Additional government stimulus will come soon to bolster the substantial stimulus already present with a new fiscal package a real possibility to supplement monetary policy," said Daniel S. Ahearn, senior vice president of Wellington Management Co.

World Needs New Justice

BOYS TOWN, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI declared today that the world needs "a new justice" to give it peace.

In a New Year's Day address at this American-type Boys Town just north of Rome, the pontiff said every man should get a fair deal from society.

"The littler, the poorer, the more suffering, the more defenseless, even the lower a man has fallen, the more he deserves to be assisted, raised up, cared for, and honored," he added.

Speaking during a Mass for cardinals, bishops, civil authorities and the scores of boys who live here, the Pope said peace must be based on "true order."

"For there can be a false order," he said. "Yes, indeed. Order imposed by force, oppression, fear, threats, blackmail, abuse of others' weakness, a rooted habit of maintaining situations in which people suffer and cannot even raise themselves up and improve their own lives. Is that true order?"

Back at Vatican City, Pope Paul addressed Romans briefly from his window overlooking St. Peter's Square. He gave thanks to God for "the world in which we find ourselves, which has so many good and beautiful things." But he said the same world "leaves us sad and fearful" over men's political, social, military, ideological, economic and cultural conflicts.

"We must base peace on justice if we want it to be true, stable and beneficial," the pontiff said. "Whoever seeks peace on other bases—power, violence, wealth, suppression of civil rights, oppression of just liberties—does not construct a human and authentic peace."

1972 Prospects Are Brighter For Petroleum Industry

By Max B. Skelton
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The domestic petroleum industry moves into 1972 with prospects little brighter than those of 1971, a year filled with numerous problems with no immediate solutions in sight.

Developing supply shortages, steadily increasing imports, and another sharp drop in explorations for new domestic oil and gas reserves were among the 1971 problems aggravated by increasing environmental concern both within and outside the industry.

Industry officials believe the eventual answer is a realistic national energy policy that will strike a balance between the public's energy needs and the necessity of protecting and preserving the environment.

With thousands of prospective new customers of natural gas having to be turned away for lack of supplies, the development of prolific Alaskan and offshore reserves of both oil and gas has been slowed or halted by controversy involving industry, politicians, and conservationists.

President Nixon's June energy message indicated support of development of a national energy policy. Congressional committees are working toward such an objective but the process is slow and no major action is expected in 1972, a presidential election year.

Meanwhile, the 1971 struggle to balance supply and demand included these factors:

Domestic demand for petroleum products reached a record 15.1 million barrels a day but U.S. crude oil reserves, excluding Alaska's Prudhoe Bay area, declined a seventh time in 10 years. Gas reserves declined the third consecutive year.

Imports averaged 3,856,000 barrels a day, with crude oil 28.8 per cent above the year earlier level.

The greater reliance on foreign supplies comes at a time imported oil is rapidly losing its price advantage over domestic oil. Exporting nations had boosted prices approximating $10 billion a year prior to Nixon's emergency economic measures. At yearend, they were seeking even higher prices. At the same time, new nationalization trends were developing in Algeria, Libya, Venezuela, India, Pakistan, and Turkey.

Only 6,975 exploratory wells seeking new U.S. Oil and gas reserves were drilled in 1971, compared with 7,693 in 1970 and a record 16,173 in 1956. At yearend, exploratory drilling was at its lowest level since 1947. Including development wells, there were only 25,750 well completions in 1971 as opposed to 28,120 in 1970 and the all-time high of 58,160 in 1956.

While demand was up 3.2 per cent, domestic crude production declined .06 per cent, averaging 9,122,000 barrels a day compared with 1970's record 9,177,000.

Top industry spokesmen are in general agreement as to the outlook ahead.

"I fear that the developments of 1971, if continued, will result in our becoming dependent on foreign sources for the bulk of our oil supplies before 1985," said Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

"In order to encourage oil men to take the immense risks connected with exploratory drilling, there must be policies which encourage such risks."

Ralph T. McElvenny, chairman of the American Gas Association, said gas is now and has for a number of years been significantly underpriced to stimulate adequate explorations for new reserves.

"In view of the present shortage of gas and the new awareness of its value in combatting air pollution, it seems clear that uneconomic and wasteful uses of gas no longer can be tolerated," said the president of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Walter E. Rogers, president of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, said the nation's energy use has increased 40 per cent in the past decade, is expected to increase another 40 per cent by 1980, double by 1990, and triple by the year 2000.

"We are running out of gas, quite frankly, because there just hasn't been sufficient incentive for very many people to go out and find and develop it," Rogers said.

"We need an increased governmental and public awareness, followed by action, to step up our exploration and development of domestic gas reserves."

Move Made To Dissolve Marriage

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) The state of New Hampshire has moved to dissolve the marriage of two men.

Atty. Gen. Warren Rudman on Thursday filed a petition in Hillsboro County Superior Court for a declaratory judgment dissolving "the marriage, so-called" between Francis Mucka and Neil Trudelle, alias Tina Marie Trudella.

Rudman acted after Nashua City Clerk Lionel Gilbert sought his advice. Gilbert said the pair had taken the required blood tests in Concord after failing to get married in Lowell, Mass., and had been married by a justice of the peace who didn't realize one of them had impersonated a woman.

A hearing was set for Jan. 24.

Paris To Get New Police Station

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — The City of Paris will get a new central police station following approval of a $60,000 matching grant by the Criminal Justice Council in Austin.

City officials say the old McCuistion Hospital site on Bonham Street will be purchased, the old hospital will be razed and the more modern doctors' clinic adjoining it will get extensive renovation and remodeling as the police station. The whole project will cost $120,000.

Police Chief Loyd Mathews said the new station will include a modern jail with separate wards for women, men and juveniles, a municipal courtroom, training classrooms, identification section and all other necessary police facilities.

"DOC" SAYS THANKS — "Doc" Felton Jenkins, 72, a physicist-engineer and retired business executive, sits in the basement of his suburban Minneapolis home surrounded by his ham radio equipment. He spends about three hours each morning putting wounded soldiers in Vietnam in voice contact with their families. "It's my way of saying thanks to the boys," says the onetime theater organist. Inmates Quizzed On Drugs

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections are being asked if drugs propelled them into crime in connection with a study aimed at determining whether there is a positive link between crime and drug use.

During December, prisoners processed here for major crimes were asked to talk about their involvement with drugs in conjunction with the study, which is being conducted by Dallas police. Results have not been compiled yet.

"We want to gain their prospective on this problem," said Lt. Don Milliken, the officer behind the research. "After all, they're the focal point of this research."

He explained that findings of the research may help law enforcement officials in implementing police programs necessary for curbing drug pushers and users.

Male and female prisoners are involved in the questioning, Milliken said.

Did the prisoners steal or rob to finance a heroin habit?

Are existing policies effective in curbing drug abuse in Dallas?

The inmate drug study, officers hope, will help resolve these and other questions.

Milliken said he would like to know if certain drugs cause the user to commit only certain types of crimes.

"Few people are stealing to purchase marijuana because it's too cheap," he said.

"These are not just police problems—they are community problems," added Milliken.

Tech Seeking Patent On Belt Of Cotton

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech University is seeking a patent on a processed developed here using a continuous belt of cotton to remove polluting oil slicks from the oceans and oil from beaches.

The process resulted from researchers' hunt for more uses for cotton.

The process involves a continuous belt moving down into the water just below the surface, picking up the polluting oil and conveying it back to a roller mechanism which squeezes the oil into a container.

The mechanism and concept was developed by Dr. Robert F. Johnson, director of the Chemical Processes Laboratory in the Textile Research Center.

"This belt-like matrix on a large scale," Dr. Johnson said, pointing to the working model, "could be made to remove oil from sea or lake water, be squeezed free from the oil on a barge, then returned to the water to absorb another load of oil.

"Such a continuous cyclic removal system would be a great advance over the labrious manual methods which up to now have been most frequently used. Additionally, disposal by burning or burying as in the case of oil soaked straw would no longer be necessary."

These cotton matrics also could be used to cover and protect portions of beaches threatened by oil slicks, or even to clean up beaches already fouled, Johnson said.

Textile fibers, natural and synthetic, have been investigated for their capacity to absorb oil.

It was found, Dr. Johnson said, that cotton absorbed the greatest amount of oil per unit weight, followed by polyolefin fiber. Increasing fiber crimp, increasing oil viscosity, decreasing fiber denier, and decreasing temperature all increase oil absorption on loose staple fiber in general.

Johnson said oil is absorbed onto fibers rapidly, and relatively little water is picked up. After oil is absorbed on fiber, it can be almost completely removed by simply running the fiber through squeeze rolls.

On successive exposures of fiber to oil, essentially the same amount of oil continues to be absorbed, he said.

Dr. Johnson said his pilot plant using a six-inch wide cotton belt running at 33 feet per minute will pick up 545 pounds of oil an hour. On a full scale rig mounted on the front of a barge and having a 72-inch belt, 785 gallons of oil per hour should be recovered.

Current research indicates that the capacity can be increased to about 2,000 gallons per hour.

"This would make it ten times more effective than any other known oil slick cleanup system," the Texas Tech researcher said.

Johnson said methods of oil recovery are still in an evolutionary stage and that loose straw spread from helicopters onto the oil has been the material used most often.

The gathering and disposal of the loose straw, which cannot be recycled, and its relatively low absorption ratio have caused engineers to search for more efficient and mechanized procedures.

Mechanical skimmers have been used with some success, but the amount of oil collected per hour is small.

Skimmers take in large volumes of oil-water mixture, which can range from 30 to 99 per cent water. This oil-water mixture must then be transported to shore for separation, or it must be done on board ship in separators which are quite inefficient if rocked by rough seas.

Texas Has Showers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas welcomed in 1972 with quite heavy showers in Central and East Texas and light rain and cloudy skies elsewhere.

A shallow layer of cold air extends across Texas into the Lower Rio Grande Valley when a warm front rested on the southern tip.

Heavy showers shortly before the midnight hour sent the New Year revelers in downtown Dallas and elsewhere scattering for their nearest friendly tavern.

At one time thunderstorms covered 60 per cent of an area running from 35 miles north of Paris to 20 miles east of Kilgore, then stretching from 35 miles south of Palestine to 28 miles northwest of Mineral Wells.

Light showers covered 60 per cent of an area from Amarillo to Pampa to 25 miles northwest of Childress to 15 miles west of Hereford.

The Austin-to-Lufkin area also received showers.

The predawn temperatures ranged from 32 at Dalhart to 65 at Brownsville and Galveston. Amarillo had the Friday low of 23 and Brownsville the high with 84.

The National Weather Service said cloudy skies would continue across most of Texas today with scattered areas of light rain extending across the east and south portions of the state and in the extreme west.

FBI Searching For Deer Head

GOLDEN POND, Ky. (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation is searching for a mounted deer head and other exhibits and machines stolen Christmas night from the Land Between the Lakes Museum-Center Station.

Thieves broke a plate glass window and took the deer head, two deer racks or antlers, several mounted birds and small animals, a slide projector and a typewriter.

The FBI was called in because the museum is situated on a federal government reservation.

New Lunar Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — New clues to the age and origin of cosmic rays—mysterious particles that bombard the solar system from all directions in space—will be provided by a special array of detectors to be carried to the moon and back next March by the Apollo astronauts.

The detector array uses various materials—including plastics, glasses and minerals to record tracks of cosmic rays. The shape of each track, after etching, reveals what kind of particle made it.

The lunar surface cosmic ray experiment was designed by scientists at the General Electric Research and development center at Schenectady, N.Y., University of California at Berkeley and Washington University in St. Louis.

AMRA Home Course Good

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Having been a homemaker and mother for 12 years, I have decided that 1972 is the year for my career debut! At least I am going to make definite plans and prepare for a job. I was a typist before marriage and have seen an ad about a correspondence course which teaches you to become a medical transcriptionist. Can you tell me if this course is worthwhile? – C.L., Harrisburg, Pa

If you're referring to the home study course available from the American Medical Record Association (a professional society whose members are specialists in medical records), it's first-rate.

The course evolved from the discovery by medical record administrators that there was a shortage of trained medical typists, and the rapidly growing stack of records, reports and other medical data have made it desirable to replace traditional longhand methods with modern dictation equipment.

THE HOME STUDY COURSE includes a study manual, tape recorder, casette tapes of transcription exercises, and covers such things as: transcribing a patient's medical history and physical data; reports on radiology, surgery, pathology; discharge summaries and autopsy reports. The student learns to transcribe more than 600 key medical terms as well. Total cost is $275, which can be paid in installments. You receive a certificate of completion when you finish.

THE MEDICAL TRANSCRIPTIONIST uses dictation equipment to transcribe (type) a variety of medical reports, take letters for physicians and create reliable medical records. You need a high school education – or to be able to pass an English competency test – and have normal typing skills.

EMPLOYERS of medical transcriptionists include doctors in private practice, clinics, medical centers, hospitals, nursing homes, medical research groups, sanitariums, city and state health departments, insurance companies, pharmaceutical companies and health service organizations.

EARNINGS are generally in the $5-7,000 range for full-time work, although some jobs pay more. Part-time jobs are sometimes available. If you re doggedly determined, you may be able to make employment arrangements which permit you to do the transcription at home (you would likely have to pick up and deliver the work).

THE LENGTH OF TIME required to complete the American Medical Record Association course depends on the time you invest. If you spend 20 hours/week, you may be able to finish in 6-8 weeks. If you spend 10 hours, it may take 20-30 weeks. Most students complete the course in about 24 weeks. If you don't finish after 48 weeks, you automatically flunk.

BEFORE ENROLLING, you should first investigate the potential in your area for medical transcription work. Check with the types of employers mentioned above to see if they would be willing to consider hiring you when you complete the course; determine the going rates for earnings. If your survey of prospective employers shows substantial need, after you gain adequate experience, you might be able to establish a medical transcription overload service, or work for yourself as a medical transcription "temporary."

BOOKLET. If you'd like a free 16-page booklet about medical transcription and the course offered by the American Medical Record Association, send a postcard to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Ask for "Med. Trans."

Too many people dampen chances for success by hoping employers can determine the niche they're best suited for. By becoming familiar with the vast cavalcade of careers available, you gain a competitive edge. Send career topic suggestions to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. The most popular and interesting will be used in print, but the volume makes personal replies impossible.

SET UP NEW PROGRAM—Joyce Conner, left, Outreach Secretary for the Lubbock State School, and Sue Ward, Director of Outreach, helped set up a Snyder Satellite Class for pre-school, mentally-retarded children.

Program To Help Younger Retarded

Through the cooperative efforts of several concerned individuals and a new organization a here-to-fore overlooked group of Snyder children can now receive training locally which will prepare them to enter the public schools when they become eligible.

The group is made of pre-school age mentally retarded children in and around Snyder. The Snyder Satellite Class is the organization whose responsibility it is to prepare these youngsters, who are not yet eligible for public school, to function in their first year of Special Education in the Snyder Public School Trainable Program.

The Snyder Satellite Class for pre-school children, located 1¾ miles north of the cemetery on Avenue E, is an extension of the Lubbock State School's Outreach program. Mrs. Sue Ward, Director of Outreach, and Mrs. Joyce Conner, Outreach Secetary, visited in Snyder Dec. 22 to help set up the program. They met with Mrs. Ruby Gregory of 1311 Thirtieth Street who is serving as the Satellite teacher.

Miss Gregory urged everyone who has mentally retarded children of pre-school age, and especially school nurses and local doctors who have access to children to refer those who need help to her. She may be contacted by calling 573-9723, or by writing 1311 Thirtieth Street, Snyder.

Mexico Survived Year Of Crisis

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has survived a year of international economic crisis with few visible scars and chances for a better year in 1972.

This country, which relies on the United States for 70 per cent of its foreign trade, was affected more than any other Latin-American nation by the 10 per cent import surcharge imposed by the United States in August, but its over-all exports managed to increase during the year.

Internally, in the first year of a new administration which proclaimed a series of economic reforms, the country saw its economy undergo some adjustments as a result of expectation created in the private sector by the governor's programs and the delay in the announcement of the administration's spending plans.

To slow down a rate of inflation—around 6 per cent—that was becoming a serious threat, the government early this year tightened credit, especially international credit, announced plans for a new tax law and generally exercised its powers to throttle the economic factors that could create inflation.

As a result, the rate of growth, which last year was 7 per cent, this year is believed to be around five to 5.5 per cent.

Economists do not expect a change in the current rate of growth pattern until the middle of next year.

The country's main sources of income continue to flow at a satisfactory rate. Tourism is expected to increase by nearly 11 per cent, bringing in nearly $1.5 billion which will more than offset an expected deficit of $600 million in Mexico's trade with the United States.

The deficit is expected to be much lower than that of 1970.

Mexican industry is beginning to enjoy additional economic incentives created to help the country's big push in the international market.

Mexican exports during the first nine months of 1971 rose by three per cent to $1.05 billion, while imports dropped by 1.5 per cent to $1.7 billion.

More significantly, Mexican exports of manufactured goods are gradually grabbing a large percentage of the Mexican total exports. During the first nine months of the year exports of manufactured products increased by 41 per cent and exports of machinery and electric materials went up 39 per cent.

Trade with the countries of the Latin America Free Trade Association also increased in 1971. In the first nine months exports totalled nearly $53 million, an increase of 26 per cent. Imports totalled $38 million, an increase of 28 per cent.

Unemployment continued to be a problem in 1970. It was estimated at around 20 per cent.

Bob Robertson of the Pittsburgh Pirates hit four home runs in the four National League playoff games against the San Francisco Giants.

208 Million Begin 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 208 million Americans are on hand for the beginning of 1972, the Census Bureau says.

Census officials said Friday the population increased during 1971 by 2,040,059 to 208,557,735.

The greatest net annual increase was 3,058,000 in 1956, the Bureau said. The rate of gain in 1971 was slightly under 1 per cent, lower than the 1970 rate when an extra 2,239,000 Americans were counted.

The net gain during 1971 was the result of an estimated 3,591,000 births, 1,927,000 deaths and 376,000 added by immigration.

Lots Of Hay

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — If all the hay used in a year at the local stock yards was stacked on a 100-bale base, it would reach a height of more than 456 feet.

Carleton Hagelstein Jr., president of the San Antonio Union Stock Yards, said it used more than 45,000 bales in 1970.

Control, Dollar Devaluation Brighten Economic Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be a record 9 per cent, $95-billion gain in national output in 1972. Thanks to price control, two thirds of it may be real.

That would make the new year a considerably happier one than 1971, the year when the dollar ceased to be good as gold and a 7.5 per cent production rise turned out to be two-thirds inflation.

After five such years in which inflation stole 25 cents out of every wage dollar and jobs grew increasingly insecure, Americans have approached 1972 with uncertainty and apprehension.

Now two important new facts brighten an otherwise cloudy economic outlook. The first is wage-price control, with at least a 50-50 chance to curb inflation. The second is the December devaluation of the dollar, giving American industry what amounts to an average 12 per cent price cut to strengthen its hand in the rugged trade competition against Japan and the rest of Europe.

It's the official guess of the Nixon administration that this tonic to expert-related industries will create between half a million and two-thirds of a million jobs—and few economists would argue with that estimate.

But the economists still had misgivings on two scores: Would the impact of revaluation on our trading rivals, by making their export sales more difficult, hasten and broaden what appeared to be an already spreading overseas recession?

And second: Would the expansionary thrust of the devaluation at home—on top of new tax relief legislation and other election year stimulants—reinforce inflationary pressures and perhaps overpower the Phase 2 controls?

Evidence was ample that the 90-day freeze from mid-August to mid-November had not broken the country's inflationary psychology. And the big pay and price increases with which Phase 2 was ushered in led many consumers and businesses to fear that the thaw was too fast for safety.

National nervousness still was being reflected in the sinking spells of the stock market, cautious consumer attitudes shown in surveys of buying plans, a continued abnormally high rate of consumer savings as a hedge against hard times and high prices, continued high unemployment, and the wariness of industry about investing in new plants and equipment.

If confidence is restored in the prospects for price stability, employment and profits, some economists believe the production rise can go as high as $100 billion, or even $105 billion, to a total gross national product of about $1.55 trillion.

The rebuilding of confidence seemed to have begun Aug. 15 when—to rescue a wobbly, inflated dollar from heavy speculative assault—President Nixon stunned America and the world with announcement of his New Economic Policy.

Nixon's 90-day freeze on prices, wages and rents was a tonic to the stock market and consumer spirits. The freeze worked, moreover; despite unavoidable exemptions, wholesale price dropped sharply and the rise of consumer prices was cut to 2.4 per cent a year in September and October, half the previous rate.

But as the Nov. 13 termination of the freeze drew near and the details of a lesser and largely voluntary Phase 2 emerged, the market sagged anew. It slumped further, back to the previous low of 1971, when early rulings of the Pay Board and Price Commission proved large increases.

The public's mood became attuned to the news wires. The prolonged disruption of the world's currency and payments system-severing the dollar's tie with gold and clamping a temporary, protective 10 per cent surcharge on dutiable imports—had a progressively depressing effect on the foreign trade community.

Six monthly deficits in merchandise trade, an unprecedented setback thickened the gloom.

But the market perked up smartly for a time after word came from Rome on Dec. 1 that U.S. concessions had opened the way for possible agreement among the so-called "Group of Ten" richest industrial nations on a realignment of world currencies.

Nixon's Aug. 15 suspension of the U.S. guarantee to pay out gold for dollars at the historic rate of $35 an ounce had wiped out the fixed exchange values for all the non Communist countries. Their currency values were "floating."

The U.S. aim was to pressure them into raising the value of their their currencies. That in effect would devalue the dollar and make American goods more competitive in price in world markets.

On Dec. 18 the President announced the agreement of the Big Ten on a drastically changed currency realignment.

The U.S. dollar was devalued and other non-Communist currencies were revalued upward by as much as the Japanese yen's 16.88 per cent, the surcharge was lifted and some assurances were given that old trade barriers would be dismantled.

Nixon, Sato To Talk China

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato says Japan wants to restore diplomatic relations with Communist China this year but cannot ignore the Nationalist government on Taiwan.

"The sooner the relations are established, the better, now that the China issue was settled at the United Nations," Sato told a yearend news conference today.

"It has become evident that the admission into the United Nations of China last year has proved that the legitimate government representing China is the People's Republic of China."

He added that Japan must keep in mind its 1952 peace treaty with the Nationalists and that the Taiwan question would be discussed during normalization of relations with Peking.

Sato said the China issue would be at the top of the agenda for his summit talks with President Nixon next week at San Clemente, Calif.

FIGHTS TO STAY OFF WELFARE—Mrs. Mary Gordon, 70, pushes heavily laden cart along Blue Hill Avenue in Boston enroute to junk yard. Mrs. Gordon has been a rag picker as long as anybody can remember, first in the West End and for the last six years in Roxbury. She earns about $1 a day. Her purpose—at all cost—is to stay off welfare; so each dawn she leaves her apartment house with her cart, to collect empty bottles, newspapers, and old clothes.

Memorial Service Is Set For Peter Duel

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Duel, the dark-haired Smith of the television Western series "Alias Smith and Jones," has died in a shooting which police said probably was a suicide.

The 31-year-old actor's body was found Friday in the living room of his modest Hollywood Hills home, sprawled near a Christmas tree. Investigators said he had been shot in the head. A pistol was near the body.

Sgt. Dan Cooke said police weren't ruling out the possibility of an accident but said, "It tends to look like a suicide."

A girlfriend who discovered Duel's body told police she had been at his home watching his TV show with him Thursday night.

The girlfriend, Diana Ray, 29, said that after midnight Duel walked into a bedroom, took a revolver from a drawer, told her, "I'll see you later" and walked into another room. Then she heard the shot.

Police said friends and relatives reported that Duel had been despondent over a drinking problem. Court records showed that he pleaded guilty to a felony drunken driving charge last June after an accident in which two persons were injured.

Police investigators said a second bullet had been fired about a week ago from the gun which killed the actor. Cooke said Duel apparently had shot at a telegram, framed and hung in the hallway of his home, telling him he had lost election to the board of directors of the Screen Actors Guild.

Duel, a bachelor whose real name was Deuel, was a native of Rochester, N.Y., son of Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Deuel who live in the Rochester suburb of Penfield. After attending St. Lawrence University, Duel studied acting at the American Theater Wing in New York City. He took a role in a road company of the comedy, "Take Her, She's Mine," wound up in Hollywood and stayed.

He had regular co-star roles in the series "Gidget" and "Love on a Rooftop." This was his second season co-starring with Ben Murphy in "Alias Smith and Jones," a comedy about two Western outlaws trying to reform themselves.

A spokesman said ABC has five more completed episodes of the show which it plans to broadcast at the regular time for the next five weeks, starting Thursday. Plans for the series after that were uncertain.

A memorial service is scheduled at the Self-Realization Fellowship Lake Shrine at 3 p.m. Sunday. The body is to be flown to Penfield for the funeral and burial.

Survivors include his parents, a brother, Geoffrey, 27, also an actor; a sister, Pamela, a singer; and Duel's grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Deuel of Penfield.

Hallmark Now Selling Paintings

GRAPELAND, Tex. (AP) — It was 1959 when Bob Hallmark, a college student on the GI Bill, commented about a Norman Rockwell cover painting on a Saturday Evening Post magazine? "Heck, I can do that well."

So, for the first time in his life, he tried his hand at painting.

And though he may not have done as well as Rockwell, he did very well, very well indeed.

Now, 12 years later, Hallmark is selling paintings.

Unlike Rockwell, Hallmark isn't likely to be found in front of the easel during working hours.

He is too busy making a living for his family as a bookkeeper for two different companies and doing sign painting on the side.

"With a wife and five children," he said, "It's hard to find time to do what you want to."

Though it took Hallmark more than 25 years to discover his talent, he is hoping that it still isn't too late to realize its potential.

At 38, he thinks that some day he might become a fulltime painter.

"I'd like to," he said, almost wistfully. "There's nothing I'd like better."

Though he was born and reared an East Texan, his style is strictly out of the West, drawn from his experiences during several years as a cowboy in New Mexico.

His paintings reflect the loneliness and majesty of the Southwest—mountains and deserts, cowboys and Indians, purple sunsets and stark dark mesas, ghost towns, gaunt and forgotten.

Hallmark left in New Mexico half of the some 50 paintings he has done.

"When I first started, they weren't so good," he said with a shrug. "So, I gave them away."

When Hallmark first began selling his paintings, he felt that he had to apologize for the frames. Because he didn't have the money to buy new frames, he had to make his own.

But now, art dealers tell him that his frames are as original as his paintings and help sales.

Hallmark can't recall drawing pictures even as a youngster. His one attempt at formal training—a correspondence course in art—was canceled by an eye injury and a subsequent operation.

"I spent a year and a half in Germany while in the service and had every opportunity in the world to go to art gallaries and see good paintings," he said. "At the time, I wasn't even interested."

As far as his own talent is concerned, he is far from satisfied.

"If I have to look at one of my paintings for very long around the house, I'll get to where I don't like it or I'll think of something else I'd rather paint," Hallmark said. "Then I just paint over it and start on something else."

Lord Boothby Says King Overplayed

LONDON (AP) — Lord Boothby, a Conservative lawmaker, says King Edward VIII did not give up the throne because of his love for American divorcee Wallis Simpson.

Boothby, in a radio broadcast Friday said, "I still believe that his love for her was very great, but I don't believe that was the governing factor.

"I think the king had been overplayed. I think he'd been driven too hard as the Prince of Wales and then he suddenly felt he couldn't take on any of it any more."

The ex-king and his wife, now the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, live in Paris.

Meany Blasts Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says the nation's workers are unhappy with President Nixon and his administration and pledges to commit organized labor to an all-out drive to replace him in 1972.

"The public's confidence in its government has been seriously corroded," Meany said in a year-end statement issued Friday.

He accused the Nixon administration of "sudden and disconcerting changes in policies, abandonment of principles for momentary political gain and the reliance of gimmickry, government by surprise and the wholesale destruction of candor."

The 77-year-old labor chieftain, who has differed sharply with the wage-price restraints imposed by Nixon to bank the fires of inflation, said organized labor "will make political action our most important undertaking of the coming year."

"Through our votes," Meany said, "we are firmly convinced we can achieve a fully employed nation, dedicated to improving the life of her ordinary citizens, protected against the virus of inflation, secure in the knowledge that both the young and the old will be governed with compassion, understanding and concern."

The coming year will be "difficult and challenging," Meany said. "The economic roadsigns are not encouraging; the social problems grave; the foreign outlook bleak."

Roberts Sold On Canyon

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Dr. James B. Roberts visited Canyon to recruit a former college classmate for a Dallas psychological firm in the summer of 1948.

Before the summer was over, the friend, Dr. J. L. Russell, then dean of the Graduate School at West Texas State University, was still here and so was Dr. Roberts as a professor of education.

Thus started a 23-year association between Dr. Roberts and the university, one that has carried him through five job titles to his present position as dean of the Graduate School.

University President James P. Cornette said Dr. Roberts will retire as dean next Sept. 1. He will be 65 June 21.

"I presently plan to teach a few more years in the education department since retirement is not mandatory yet," he says. Under university policy he cannot hold an administrative job past age 65 but he can continue to teach until 70.

Dr. Roberts was a consulting psychologist with Rohrer, Hibler and Replogle, a Chicago based company, when he made his business-pleasure trip to the Texas Panhandle.

"Dr. Russell pointed out to me the advantages and opportunities in this part of the country and particularly this school and made it sound so good that I began to consider joining the staff here instead of asking him to join us in Dallas," Dr. Roberts says.

Within a year after his arrival on campus Dr. Roberts was head of the Department of Education.

Gregory's Fast In 8th Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dick Gregory says he's lost 70 pounds in his fast that began April 24 and admits to some hunger but "my energy level is very high."

The 38-year-old black comedian has been consuming nothing but fruit juice and water in a demonstration to protest the Vietnam war.

He's been touring college campuses, joking about food and speaking on everything from the war to drugs.

Gregory said in an interview Friday that the public is fascinated by what he doesn't eat. "We have such a hangup with food that when a man stops eating, it really puts foils uptight."

A typical meal for Gregory, who now weighs in at 98 pounds, contains: the juice of two pears, two apples, nine oranges, two grapefruit and a pound of grapes.

He said "The hunger is a mental thing."

Revenge Motive For Cowboy-49er Contest

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are looking ahead for a chance for revenge. For the San Francisco 49ers, that chance is now.

That's one way to view the motivation for Sunday's National Conference championship at Texas Stadium—the final hurdle to Super Bowl VI.

It was just a year ago that these two teams clashed for the same title with the Cowboys coming out on top 17-10 on the strength of their defense—interceptions by Lee Roy Jordan and Mel Renfro that paved the way to both of their touchdowns.

"We'll be back," Dick Nolan said after that game and the San Francisco coach—formerly Dallas' defensive coach under Tom Landry—was true to his word.

Dallas wants to be back, too, but not just against the 49ers. The Cowboys are itching to get another shot at Baltimore in the Super Bowl, assuming the Colts can turn back Miami in the AFC title game which follows the Dallas-San Francisco clash. In last year's championship the Colts edged the Cowboys 16-13.

At quarterback, the NFC game provides diversity with a gambling veteran going against a more conservative youngster.

For San Francisco, John Brodie will be calling the signals. The 15-year pro from Stanford loves to throw an occasional bomb. But it has cost him severely at times, to the tune of 24 interceptions this year.

Roger Staubach of Navy, in his third year with the Cowboys, has only had four passes picked off. Rather than toss the ball up for grabs under pressure, he'll run with it and has been trapped 23 times for 175 yards in losses to Brodie's 11 traps for 111.

On the ground, San Francisco relies almost exclusively on Ken Willard and Vic Washington, who gained 855 and 811 yards respectively. The Cowboys, led by Duane Thomas, share the load. Thomas gained 793 yards while Calvin Hill rushed for 463, Walt Garrison picked up 429 and Staubach ran for 343.

On receiving, too, Dallas split the work. Brodie went primarily to Gene Washington, who gained 884 yards, and Ted Kwalick, who caught for 664. Staubach went to Bob Hayes for 840 aerial yards, Lance Alworth for 487, Garrison for 396 and Mike Ditka for 360.

On overall offense, Dallas was No. 1 in the NFC with 5,035 total yards, 329 more than runner-up San Francisco.

On defense, the Cowboys had a slim regular-season edge, finishing No. 2 in the conference, one slot ahead of the 49ers.

The one glaring difference on defense in the Cowboys' favor was the interception total.

Dallas picked off 25 opposition passes and ran them back a total of 402 yards with Herb Adderley getting six of them for 182. The 49ers snared only 14 opposition tosses for 186 yards in returns with Bruce Taylor, Roosevelt Taylor and Jimmy Johnson picking off three apiece.

Penguins Tie Buffalo Sabres

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Penguins are always welcome in Buffalo, and, as a matter of fact, the Buffalo Sabres like to visit Pittsburgh.

Since Buffalo entered the National Hockey League last season the two teams have played nine times. The Sabres haven't lost yet.

The Penguins had to score twice in the final period to tie the Sabres 3-3 Thursday night in Pittsburgh. But it was better than losing to the expansion club, even if the team had to settle for its sixth tie.

The only other NHL game played Thursday night was a 6-3 victory for Detroit over the California Golden Seals.

Brian Hextall got the Penguins in front in the first period with a goal but Buffalo's Dick Martin and Chris Evans came back for scores in the same stanza.

Pittsburgh got a draw early in the third period when Jean Provost and Bob Leiter each scored. Both teams were unable to score the last 10 minutes of the game.

Mickey Redmond blasted in his 10th and 11th goals in the last eighth games in the Red Wings' victory. He has 18 goals for the season.

Tommy Williams gave California an early 1-0 lead but Detroit came back for five straight goals off the sticks of Larry Johnson, Nick Libett, Mickey Redmond, Alex Delvecchio, and Redmond, again. Doug Volmar wrapped up Detroit's scoring, but not before the Golden Seals' Bobby Sheehan and Ernie Hicke tallied in the third period.

Weather Plagues Climbers

MOOSE, Wyo. (AP) — Severe weather conditions continued to plague the 25 mountain climbers on Wyoming's Grand Teton Peak today in what probably will be their final attempt to scale the 13,766-foot mountain.

The climbers celebrated New Year's Eve in the relative comfort of a climber's hut some 2,000 feet below the summit. Poor radio contact again Friday night cut off the party's conversation with national-park rangers, and a park spokesman said the group was unable to relay its plans for today.

The spokesman said the group—led by Paul Petzoldt, 63, of Lander—also failed to report before communications ended whether any of the climbers made it to the summit Friday. The climbers, however, said they were in good condition for the fifth day of their assault.

Parties led by Petzoldt have been driven back from the summit of the northwestern Wyoming mountain by cold, gusty blizzard conditions five times in six previous midwinter attempts. They had hoped to reach the summit today, New Year's Day, but were advised to move the final climb up to Friday because of an impending storm.

Park rangers will attempt to spot the climbers on the mountain from the air or through binoculars, although similar attempts to follow the group's progress Friday were blocked by clouds and falling snow.

Stars Beat Chaparrals

DALLAS (AP) — "We just can't beat you guys," Dallas Coach Tom Nissalke told Utah coach Ladell Andersen.

"Oh, you will, all right," Andersen answered.

"Yeah," said Nissalke. "Maybe next year."

Perhaps 1972 will bring the Dallas Chaparrals better fortune whenever they meet the Utah Stars, defending champions of the American Basketball Association.

Dallas' luck sank to low ebb Friday night as the Stars capped another year, beating the Chaps, 115-103, for the 17th straight time over the last two seasons.

The Denver Rockets sailed past Memphis, 108-91, in the first game of the ABA doubleheader before 2,404 Moody Coliseum customers.

In that game, Rockets star Ralph Simpson bombed in 43 points.

Despite a 30-point effort by Chap guard Donnie Freeman the Stars continued their domination over Dallas. The assault was led once more by veteran Zelmo Beaty and Glen Combs, a former Chap.

Beaty and Combs scored 25 points each, sparked a third quarter spree, and ultimately sent Dallas a game deeper into the Western Division cellar.

Davis, Colorado Defeat Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Colorado University's super sophomore tailback Charlie Davis wears the 13th annual Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl hero's badge today but he might loan it to Buffalo safety John Stearns occasionally.

Davis, the nation's No. 7 rusher, churned out a bowl record 202 yards on 37 carries and scored on runs of 27 and one yard to lead the seventh ranked Buffaloes to a 27-19 victory over 15th Houston New Year's Eve.

Davis, from West Columbia, Tex., was named the game's most valuable back and was a dominating force in Colorado's massive triple option offense that gobbled up 333 yards.

But Stearns, his teammates call him "Bad Dude", turned in a couple of gold-plated plays in the fourth quarter that helped as much as Davis in giving the Buffs a happy new year.

Trailing 23-17, Houston drove to the Colorado nine-yard line where it faced fourth and nine. Cougar tight end Riley Odoms spurted into the end zone with a pass from Gary Mullins heading his way but Stearns was a step quicker and batted it down.

But Stearns wasn't finished. Colorado took over at its own nine but was forced to punt. Stearns retreated into his own end zone to punt but the ball bounced to him from center.

He scooped it up and took off downfield like a streak for 12 yards and a Colorado first down. Colorado went on from there to score the clinching touchdown with 3:48 left to play.

"They had the return on so I ran," Stearns said.

"Stearns knows he's back there to punt but he knows he can run if they are laying back," said Crowder.

Houston took a 14-7 first quarter lead on touchdown runs of two and three yards by Robert Newhouse, who gained 168 yards on 35 carries.

Davis scored on a 27-yard run in the first quarter and a five-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ken Johnson to Larry Brunson and a 32-yard field goal by J. B. Dean put the Buffs ahead to stay. Davis scored his second touchdown before the half for a 23-14 lead at intermission.

A 29-yard field goal by Houston's Rickey Terrell and a one-yard keeper by Johnson was the only scoring in the second half.

Colts, Miami Tangle Today

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The question of whatever happened to Don McCauley arose today on the eve of Sunday's American Football Conference championship game between the Baltimore Colts and Miami Dolphins.

McCauley, the 22nd player picked in the National Football League draft earlier this year, has found himself totally obscured by other rookie running backs this season, including teammate Don Nottingham, the 441st player selected in the same draft.

But McCauley, who broke O.J. Simpson's single-season rushing record when he gained 1,720 yards at North Carolina in 1970, likely will get an opportunity to establish his credentials in Sunday's game if Tom Matte is unable to go.

Matte, who jogged Friday at the Colts' quarters in Tampa, Fla., in an attempt to shake off a bruised right leg, is considered questionable for the AFC showdown along with Norm Bulaich, the other member of the Colts' first-string duo.

Nottingham, a Kent State product, will substitue for Bulaich if his hamstring pull hampers him, just as he has done all season. But McCauley, who runs behind Matte, would be getting his first starting shot.

"You don't like to lose a guy with Matte's savvy," said Coach Don McCafferty in viewing the situation, "but I'm confident McCauley can do the job.

McCauley, a 6-foot-1, 207-pounder, ran only 58 times during the regular season, gaining 246 yards for a 4.2 average and scored two touchdowns. Nottingham carried 92 times for 388 yards, a 4.2 average and five touchdowns and also gained 92 yards in 23 carries in a first-round playoff victory over Cleveland.

The Colts, meanwhile, flew into Miami today for the decisive third meeting between the teams that will determine a Super Bowl berth opposite the winner of the National Conference championship game between San Francisco and Dallas. The AFC struggle will be nationally televised by NBC starting at 4:30 p.m. EST.

The fourth Olympic invitational track meet will be held in New York's Madison Square Garden on Friday, Feb. 18.

Hicke previously played for the Pittsburgh Penguins, Montreal Canadiens, New York Rangers and Oakland Seals.

Poulos, Georgia Rip N. Carolina

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Poulos is so shy he almost shook when surrounded by newsmen after he led Georgia to a 7-3 victory over North Carolina in the battle-of-the brothers Gator Bowl football game Friday.

He shook, too, when running with the football, but this had nothing to do with modesty.

"He's shaking all over his body when he comes through that line," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, illustrating by waving his hand like a go-go dancer's shimmy. "He shakes so that a defensive player doesn't know where to grab for him."

The 178-pound sophomore tailback was easily the star of the show and was designated so by all but two of the 41 newspaper and broadcast voters.

"North Carolina was keying so much on quarterback Andy Johnson, that we couldn't run the option play," Dooley said. "It had to be Poulos — or it wasn't much of anything. We couldn't have won without him."

Poulos made 161 yards rushing and the lone touchdown while other stars of the offense had to settle for peanuts.

It was Poulos's 25-yard touchdown run with 1:39 left in the third quarter that gave Georgia's Vince Dooley the victory over his brother, Coach Bill Dooley of North Carolina.

"He outcoached me," Vince said, "But we won and that's what it's all about. But I wouldn't want to play him again. There's too much emotion involved and his team is too strong."

"We had our chances to win," declared Bill Dooley, also confessing to mixed emotions about playing his brother's team. "We threw away opportunities after Jim Webter blocked a punt in the second quarter—and didn't he play a whale of a game and again when Rusty Culbreth returned a punt to their 38."

Culbreth's return in the third quarter resulted in a missed 45 yard field goal by Ken Craven seven minutes after he put North Carolina ahead with a 35-yarder.

After the missed field goal, Georgia marched 80 yards in seven plays. A 31-yard pass from Johnson to split end Lynn Hunnicutt set up Poulos' touchdown dash.

"That pass had to be the turning point in the game," Vince Dooley said. "If Hunnicutt had been Terry Beasley of Auburn, we'd have scored on that play. But Poulos got it for us on the next one, and we controlled the game in the closing minutes."

Webster was picked from an array of tough Tar Heel defenders as most valuable for the losers.

Says Goodbye To Hello

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Gus Gavalas, 54, a former sea captain, says he was talked into buying some harness horses five years ago.

His first purchase was Hello, a 2-year-old costing $6,000.

"He never got to the races and five years later I sold him to an Amish farmer for $200," says Gavalas. "When he left the only thing I said to Hello was 'goodbye'."

Gavalas and his son John, 28, train and drive at Freehold.

Wives May Be Guilty

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Wives who make sandwiches for their husbands' friendly card games may be guilty of promoting gambling under Oregon's new criminal code.

Multnomah County Dist. Atty. Desmond Connall says the code, as he understands it, makes private card games beyond the reach of the law although still technically illegal.

But anyone connected with the game who doesn't play is, according to the code, promoting gambling, Connall said.

So card-playing Oregon husbands apparently will have the choice, after the code goes into effect Saturday, of inviting their wives to join their games or making their own sandwiches.

Heisman Award Winner Modest

NEW YORK (AP) — "There are more deserving winners of the Heisman Award," said Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan, "but none will appreciate it any more than myself."

After receiving the Downtown A.C. award symbolic of being voted the nation's outstanding college player, Sullivan said: "I sure would like to play pro football."

New Zealand Has Horses

WELLINGTON (AP) — New Zealand is exporting millions of dollars worth of racehorses each year.

In the year ended June 30, thoroughbreds worth $5,250,000 were exported with imports at $1,142,000.

Most of this trade is with Australia and the Far East. In one recent month one stallion and 31 thoroughbred fillies and mares, worth $335,000, were exported to Japan.

There also is a steady sale of standardbred horses to the United States.

Hooton To Be Lauded

HOUSTON (AP) — Burt Hooton of the Cicago Cubs will be honored Jan. 21 as the Texas-born minor league baseball player of the year for 1971.

The former University of Texas star will receive the annual Jimmy Delmar award at the annual Houston Baseball Writers Association dinner. Delmar is a retired Houston executive who for many years was active in amateur and semi-pro baseball.

A native of Greenville, Hooten was a 1971 free agent draft choice by the Cubs. In his first major league game, on June 17 against the St. Louis Cardinals, he struck out Lou Brock, the first man he faced.

Hooten later was optioned to Tacoma, where he struck out 135 batters in 102 innings with a 1.68 earned run average. He struck out 19 batters in a game at Eugene, Ore., to break a 66-year-old Pacific Coast League record.

He was recalled Sept. 6 by the Cubs.

Buffs' Stearns Made Big Play

HOUSTON (AP) — Colorado punter John Stearns said there "was nobody there so I ran."

Both Colorado and Houston players agreed Stearns' decision to run on a fourth-down punt situation was a key factor in Colorado's 29-17 Astro-Blubonnnet Bowl victory over Houston Friday night.

Late in the fourth quarter, Stearns retreated to punt from his own end zone. However, the ball bounced to him and he picked it up and ran 12 yards for a crucial first down that set up Colorado's final touchdown with 3:48 to play.

"They had the return on, so I ran," said Stearns, who batted down a Houston pass in the end zone moments before. He plays safety when he is not punting.

Colorado coach Eddie Crowder said it was hard to pick out turning points in the game, but that had to be a big one.

"Stearns knows he's back there to punt. But he knows he can run if they are laying back," Crowder said.

Crowder said Stearns did the same thing in the season opener.

Houston coach Bill Yeoman said the Stearns run was a big factor "but there were a lot of turning points" for the losing Cougars.

"Our fumble on the Colorado three-yard line, our fumble at the start of the second half, the pass interference late in the game, the Stearns' thing" were some of the possible turning points which Yeoman mentioned.

"Then there were lots of turning points."

"It killed us when we failed to push it over from the nine," he said.

Yeoman said Colorado "just knocked us out of there."

Charlie Davis, Colorado's super tailback who set an Astro-Blubonnet Bowl record for both total carries and rushing yardage, said Houston "really came to play."

Asked about the record, Davis said, "I try to go all out every time I play."

Houston fullback Robert Newhouse, who gained 168 yards on 35 carries, said Colorado had "the best defense we faced this year."

Cougar quarterback said Colorado has "a fine ball club, but it all boils down to one play."

"That Stearns thing killed us."

Koufax A Cinch For Famed Hall

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Sandy Koufax pitched only a short time in the major leagues—12 seasons—but when he was forced to retire following the 1966 season with an arthritic elbow at the age of 30 he had achieved so many records that it will be impossible to get them all on his Hall of Fame plaque.

Having passed the compulsory five years of pitching inactivity, Sandy now is eligible to be voted into the Cooperstown shrine by veteran members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Koufax rates No. 1 on our ballot among the 48 veteran major leaguers eligible.

Others marked on this writer's ballot are Yogi Berra, Gil Hodges, George Kell, Ralph Kiner, Ed Lopat, Pee Wee Reese, Allie Reynolds, Bobby Richardson and Early Wynn.

It seems like only last October that Koufax was warming up on the sidelines for the fourth and final World Series game in Baltimore. But it was 1966, the year the Orioles held the Los Angeles Dodgers to two runs in four games to sweep the classic.

Sandy had pitched the second game and the Dodgers, notably Willie Davis in center field, did him in. Davis dropped two fly balls in one inning and made a bad throw on the second. Koufax was to lose the last game he ever pitched.

But it was Koufax who got the Dodgers in the Series that year by winning his third Cy Young Award with a 27-9 record that led the league with a 1.73 earned run mark.

For five straight years Koufax led the National League in the earned run records and in three of those years he pitched the Dodgers to pennants. In 1963 he was 25-5 with 306 strikeouts. In the Series that year he beat Whitey Ford and the Yankees twice, 5-2 while getting 15 strikeouts in Yankee Stadium, and four days later winning 2-1 with eight strikeouts in Los Angeles.

In 1965, after a 26-8 season record, he lost the second game of the World Series but came back to beat the Minnesota Twins in his last two starts, 7-0 on four hits and 2-0 on three hits.

Twice within three years he was the World Series star.

He established so many strikeout records they are impossible to get in this space but he had 2,396 strikeouts in 2,325 innings, plus 61 more in 57 World Series innings. Twice he fanned 18 in a regular league game.

Just as Koufax belongs in the Hall of Fame so does Berra and Kiner. Berra for all the World Series records he holds and Kiner as the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger who for seven straight years either led or tied for NL home run honors.

Leisure Ministers Enjoy Growth

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — With church attendance on a national scale dwindling in recent years, concerned ministers are looking toward the nation's lakes and parks.

Since the nation's first full-time resort minister opened up his outdoor sanctuary at Lake Texoma in 1965, the Rev. Thomas E. Arney reports a 700 per-cent growth.

"We've gone from the 3,000 who turned out for services in 1965 to more than 21,000 in 1971," said the Rev. Mrs. Arney.

"And while both the Texas and Oklahoma Councils of Churches have been a major financial sponsor of the ministry since its conception, we're getting more and more denominations each year participating actively."

Arney, a wartime B29 bomber navigator who was pastor of a Presbyterian church in McKinney at the time of his selection as minister-coordinator of the Lake Texoma United Ministry, Inc., said the Roman Catholic Church had put a pastor on his board for 1972. "This is another first for the leisure ministry," he said.

Arney directs 17 services each Sunday starting with Memorial Day and running through the Labor Day weekend.

"I had ministers assisting me from the Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Christian, Missouri Synod Lutheran, and Nazarene during the past summer. There will be a Catholic this year."

The leisure minister conducts non-denominational type services. He personally holds three of the services each Sunday and then has three full-time assistants during the summer months, plus the volunteer help from both lay and ordained ministers in the lake area.

These services accounted for the bulk of the 1971 total. However, there were 444 youngsters enrolled in the ministry's "Christian Happening" over a five week period at the Oklahoma State Park, with 37 adult leaders assisting, representing six churches including the Roman Catholic.

The summer aides the past year were Dr. Rod Gray, a retired Methodist minister; Janice Kragnes, a Disciple of Christ; and Bill Meyer, a Lutheran from the Missouri Synod.

"I think that we've become a fixture now," said Arney. "We have people who have come to expect us. They plan their weekend activities to participate in one or more services.

British Prepare For Pullout

MALTA (AP) — British forces dismantled bomb stores, transmitters and other military equipment today in preparation for withdrawal from this island nation in the Mediterranean.

The Maltese government says the 3,500 troops must be off the island by Jan. 15, while British spokesmen in London say they are aiming for withdrawal by March 31.

Malta's premier, Dom Mintoff, originally demanded that the troops depart by Friday; but, just before the deadline, he announced a two-week extension.

The British contend their payment of $12.35 million to the Maltese government last September entitles them to remain through the end of March.

The premier ordered Britain off following its refusal to pay $46.8 million for the continued right to station air, sea and land forces on the island. In setting the first deadline, he demanded an immediate payment of $11 million.

As British marine commandos continued to guard installations on the island, other troops began setting up a transit camp through which the servicemen and their 7,000 dependents can pass on the way out.

Departure of the British would cost Malta $58.5 million a year, including rent for the bases and spending by British troops and their families.

There has been concern in Britain that, after the troops leave, Mintoff may turn to the Soviet Union, which could use the island to expand its military presence in the Mediterranean.

Airline Strike Cancels Meeting

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — The Greater Lewiston Chamber of Commerce has canceled its Tuesday meeting because the scheduled speaker, Terry Ashton, is unable to fly to Lewiston from his San Francisco home.

Ashton is senior director of planning for Hughes Airwest.

The airline, which is on strike, is the only one that services this northern Idaho community.

Planning Dorm

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Plans are being drawn for the first dormitory to be built at Temple Junior College since its founding in 1926.

The dorms to house about 120 students, will cost in the neighborhood of a half-million dollars.

Black Tax Assessor Sworn In Mississippi

By HUGH MORGAN
Associated Press Writer

PORT GIBSON, Miss. (AP) — A 23-year-old schoolteacher newly sworn into office as Mississippi's only black county tax collector-assessor says he plans to see "every person is assessed fairly, regardless of race, white or black."

"Somebody said we're going to get rid of all the white folks. But that's not true," Evan Doss said Friday at swearing-in ceremonies outside the Claiborne County Courthouse.

"If they want to work with us, fine. We'll work with them. We're here to see freedom, equality, justice for all mankind," he told a crowd of several hundred persons, nearly all black.

Doss was among eight blacks elected to office in Claiborne County during the Nov. 2 general election, the major single victory for black candidates in Mississippi.

Seven of the eight were sworn in Friday. White officials planned no ceremony for their installations.

About three-fourths of the 10,086 residents in the southwestern Mississippi county are black.

Across the state, about 50 of the estimated 300 black candidates for county offices were successful. Blacks took control of none of the state's 82 counties despite a majority registration in about 10 counties.

Charles Evers, black mayor of Fayette who was defeated in November in his attempt to become governor said at the ceremonies, "There are those of us who lost the battle, but we ain't lost the war.

"Let's go and get as much as we can get, because it makes you feel good to be in charge of something. We've been behind too long," Evers said.

He said blacks were not going to settle for their victories in Claiborne County, because "we want it all, then share some, because our brothers have had it all these years," and they didn't give up anything.

Doss said his major problem as tax assessor-collector would be his inexperience, and he said he would get help from an expert provided by the center for black-elected officials at Tougaloo College near Jackson.

Doss, who estimated only five of the 2,229 votes he got were from whites, said he has been treated courteously, but he is not sure how much help he will be given by white elected officials, such as the white-dominated county board of supervisors.

Dan McCay, a white elected sheriff to succeed his wife, said he would be happy to help Doss—as long as the aid is requested and not demanded. McCay, who said black votes helped him to victory over a black opponent, said he felt he would get along well with Doss.

Shelters For Runaway Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — A bill establishing shelters for runaway children and a national network to help families locate runaways will be introduced in Congress early next year, says Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes.

The Maryland Democrat told newsmen Thursday that the measures are needed because of what he termed a "marked natiowide increase in runaways."

In Maryland, he said, the increase has been about 17 per cent over the past year. The total number of missing children in the state may reach 6,000, he added.

General Mills Coupon Plan Is Ended

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN (AP) — A coupon redemption program which provided funds for the purchase of life-saving devices has ended because of complaints the sponsoring company, General Mills, was "trading on misery" to sell its products.

Under the General Mills plan groups turned in the coupons to raise funds to buy such devices as heart-lung and kidney machines. The coupons had a par value of a half-cent and each machine cost approximately $3,000, or about 600,000 coupons.

Richard Rawlings, a company spokesman said that about 200 machines were delivered around the country in the three years the lifesaving part of the program was in effect. This part of the General Mills coupon redemption program ended Friday.

"We got a lot of protests, not only letters but phone calls," Rawlings added. "And we were attacked in radio TV and newspaper editorials for trading on misery. We put up with it for a couple of years, and then a corporate decision was made to get out of it."

Rawlings said many of the complaints arose when groups collected coupons using a "life-or-death appeal" in their campaigns.

The Upper Midwest Kidney Foundation got all 16 of its kidney machines through the coupon program.

"We can't understand why some people would think this is trading on misery" said Dick Tuax, the foundation's executive director.

Quadruple Amputee Is Working For Degree

Madras, Red River County Tex. (AP) — Charles Dannheim is a young and vibrant 25.

The former all-state end for the Merkel Badgers has a small herd of cattle, commutes 170 miles round-trip to East Texas State University three days a week and 80 miles to Paris Junior College the other two.

He is a veteran of the Army's Screaming Eagles, the famed 102nd Airborne Division, spends as much time as he can riding Tickler Bar, his calf-roping horse, and likes to hunt. He killed an eight-point buck the other day.

Dannheim and his wife, Beth, the Red River County home demonstration agent, live in a neat mobile home in the country. They're expecting their first child in February.

There is a difference.

Charles Dannheim has no arms and no legs, but artificial ones the Veterans Administration fitted him with after the accident.

"The accident" struck down the young Red River Countian on a gusty summer afternoon Aug. 18, 1970. Dannheim was taking down an old television antenna at their home near Madras. He stood atop a butane tank, and tilted the tall antenna to the south. An unfriendly wind blew it north, and into a power line.

The 7,200-volt current froze Dannheim to the metal pole. His stepfather, Raymond Kraut of Big Spring, visiting at the time, made a flying dive into Dannheim and knocked him loose. Then gave him external heart massage to save his life.

"They said I regained consciousness that afternoon," Dannheim recalls. "But the next thing I remember was waking up three or four days later in Parkland Hospital in Dallas."

To keep him alive, doctor had amputated both legs below the knees, the right arm above the elbow and left arm below the elbow.

The days that followed must have set some kind of medical record for rapid recovery.

Three months later, Dannheim was out of Parkland. Despite a two-week setback with hepatitis from blood transfusions, he went straight to the Veterans Hospital in Shreveport—and on Dec. 1, they gave him his prosthesis for the left arm.

Dannheim, a righthander by nature, became a southpaw by necessity for it contained the only elbow he had.

Less than a month later, he got an artificial left leg and right arm. Three weeks later, they fitted his right leg.

Shunning canes and other such aids, Dannheim walked.

Weeks later, he rode on his favorite horse, Tickler Bar.

The year before, Dannheim had made the long and rigorous 250-mile ride along the Old Spanish Trail from Longansport, La., to Houston for the Houston Fat Stick Show. One of his friends jokingly mentioned that he ought to do that again.

Dannheim did. Artificial arms, cowboy-booted legs and all. And rode through Houston during the grand parade to the 1971 livestock show.

In May, he enrolled in three summer courses at Paris Junior College. In September, he took on agriculture courses at East Texas State in addition to government and history courses at Paris Junior College.

Dannheim is part of a car pool when one is available, driving his own pickup or car with the aid of a small knob attached to the steering wheel.

He went dove hunting and killed birds. He has gone fishing but has trouble casting.

In late November, Dannheim posted himself on the edge of some woods on the Chapman Ranch, waited patiently until a buck came within range, then cut down the eight-pointer with one shot from his 30-30 rifle.

"I guess I didn't appreciate those days back in Merkel the way I should have," Dannheim said. He played fullback, halfback and was an all-state end for the Merkel High football team, played forward in basketball, was the star high-jumper and ran relays and the half-mile in track.

He took a year after high school to work as a "roughneck" in the West Texas oil fields, then went into the Army.

Not long afterwards, Dannheim took a job at Rosenburg and lived with his sister and her family, which had two or three 4-H Club members in it. And which is why the assistant home demonstration agent for Fort Bend County, Beth Kaufman, came calling.

They were married a year and a half later.

When Beth was named home demonstration agent in Red River County on June 1, 1970, they moved here. At the time of the accident, they had been married almost a year.

"Beth...Beth..." the plucky young college student-rancher spoke in near reverence. "...she is one hell of a good girl. She was with me when I awoke in Parkland Hospital. She stayed with me every minute...and God only knows the things she has done for me since.

"She, not the doctor, was the first to assure me that I would walk again with artificial limbs...I love my wife dearly, and I know she loves me...God and Beth pulled me through..."

He can't run. He can't water ski. He can't swim. Getting pants that fit around the bulky prosthetic trappings at the knees is difficult. But he's working at it.

For a newly-commissioned lefthander, Dannheim does some fantastic pencil sketches. Charcoals are next, just as soon as he learns to hold them with his artificial hands without breaking the charcoal.

He feeds the cows. Drives a tractor.

With about two years of college left, Dannheim is working for a degree in agriculture. He favors livestock management, something that will let him work outdoors. But he likes the technical possibilities of work for a fertilizer or feed company.

Right now, the Dannheims are looking about for some Red River County ranchland.

"Wonderful people around here," the young quadruple paraplegic spoke, almost to himself.

New System Is Hard To Believe

WASHINGTON (AP) — An automatic pneumatic trash collection system that eliminates odors, dust, noise and overflowing trash cans will be installed in a new housing site in Jersey City, N.J. The Department of Housing and Urban Development says the system, first of its kind in the United States, will service about 500 dwelling units, a 40,000 square foot commercial building, a pre-school, elementary school and an indoor swimming pool.

'As for their sin, let God judge them'

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem in our church. A couple of kids, 16 and 17, got into trouble and had to get married. They appear to be very much in love, and neither shows any shame.

It has been customary for the church to make a party for all newlyweds and present them with a gift.

Some of the church members feel that by treating this young couple like the others have been treated, it would be condoning their sin. Others feel that we shouldn't discriminate against them because of the circumstances. Both the boy and girl attend church regularly, and their parents have been good and loyal church members.

We hate to hurt the newlyweds and their parents, but we don't want to give the impression that we condone their sin. How should this be solved? NO NAME OR LOCATION

DEAR NO NAME: I think the young couple should not be publicly punished by denying them the treatment other newlyweds have had. And as for their "sin," let God judge them.

DEAR ABBY: Evidently you have never been to Las Vegas or you would know that the guests are expected to take home ashtrays as souvenirs. That's why the hotels put their names all over them. The management just writes it off as "advertising." MRS. L.

DEAR MRS. L.: The silverware also bears the name of the hotel, and towels have the hotel's name six inches high across the middle. But some "guests" have walked off with service for 12 in silverware, and enough towels to stock a public bathhouse.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and I [both newly married] planned a surprise 25th wedding anniversary luncheon for our parents. We invited 60 of their relatives and close friends. In each invitation, I enclosed a request for $10 per couple to cover the cost of the luncheon and help toward a gift. [The gift was to be two round trip tickets to Hawaii.]

I just got a call from my aunt telling me that my parents will be very unhappy when they find out we asked each couple for $10. This aunt said my brother and I should pay for the luncheon ourselves, leaving the guests to bring any kind of gift they want [or none at all].

As a result of my aunt's call I have written all the guests asking them to disregard my request for $10. Now I am going to have to forget about the trip to Hawaii as a gift.

Do you think I was out of line asking for $10 per couple? Please be frank. DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: It is not uncommon for close friends to organize a "No Host" party and ask each couple to kitty in for one grand gift. But it's not usually done by a member of the immediate family. I would have to vote with auntie.

DEAR ABBY: What level of intelligence would you estimate is possessed by a couple which permits their gross, hairy, slobbering English sheepdog to run riot thru a buffet dinner party in their home? The dozen or so guests had all worn their finest clothes, and spent most of the evening trying to hold off the lumbering brute.

The proud owners seemed impervious to hints that would have penetrated steel plate.

Maybe if they read this they will catch on.

NY Transit Workers Agree On Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Unions representing 42,000 city transit workers agreed with the Transit Authority on a tentative new work contract Sat. about two hours before a threatened 5 a.m. strike that would have shut down New York City bus and subway systems.

The new contract, replacing one that expired at midnight, called for an 18 per cent pay increase over 27 months.

William J. Ronan, chairman of the state's Metropolitan Transportation Authority, said the pact contained guarantees of greater productivity by the worker.

He estimated the contract would cost $121 million over the first two years and force a hike in 30-cent transit fare within days.

Friday the state legislature recessed without acting on a $270 million aid package that would have held any increase to five cents. Ronan said the fare would hold at 30 cents, at least until Tuesday, to await, legislative action.

The contract accord requires approval by rank-and-file members of the two AFL-CIO unions—the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union —and by the Pay Board.

Federal guidelines limit wage increases to 5.5 per cent annually. Special mediator Vincent D. McDonnell said both parties were confident the panel would approve the 18 per cent hike anyway.

AS NEW YEAR BEGINS

Sea Survivor Grateful For Glass Of Water

MIAMI (AP) — While New Year's revelers downed more potent drinks, Richard Antonio was grateful for a glass of water—something denied him and two other survivors during nine hot and stormy days on a raft at sea.

"I was sure it was all over" the 26-year-old Wilmington, Del., carpenter said Friday in his Mercy Hospital room. "I wasn't able to breathe any more and my stomach was cramped. I knew we would never make it back."

Antonio and four other men were aboard the 52-foot sports fishing boat Ixtapa when she struck a submerged object and sank in the Gulf of Mexico 60 miles west of the Dry Tortugas Dec. 19.

Near death, Antonio, Tom Rash of Wilmington and Juan Puga, a Mexican, were still on the raft when it washed ashore on Elliott Key 10 miles southeast of Miami on Wednesday.

Two others who started the journey—boat owner John Denton of Newcastle, Del., and Harold Spaulding of Wilmington—became delirious, leaped from the raft and disappeared, Antonio said.

Antonio refused to talk about the final hours with Denton and Spaulding, but he said all aboard the raft were sunk into hopeless despair after ships and planes passed without spotting their smoke flares.

"One ship practically ran over us and they never saw us," he said.

The Ixtapa went down so fast the men never had time to send a distress call, Antonio said, and the small supply of food and water they tossed in the raft was lost when it overturned.

He said the last food they had was a dolphin which they shot with a spear gun and ate raw early in the ordeal.

Antonio said the men passed the blistering days talking about their families while their hope of rescue dropped.

"That last night was the worst," he said through cracked lips. "I figured we were gone. Then we spotted land and came back to life. I didn't know for sure where we were, but I figured it was one of the Keys."

Antonio's guess was right. During the nine days, their raft had moved with the Gulf Stream past the Dry Tortugas islands and up the east coast of the tourist-laden Florida Keys. They were never more than minutes from land and in waters full of pleasure and commercial craft.

Just before dawn Wednesday, the raft washed ashore on the tiny, sandy islet within sight of the bright Miami skyline.

A Coast Guard helicopter on its way to search for the men spotted the raft with Rash lying in it unconscious. Antonio and Puga were found a short distance away.

About six hours later, the fishing boat Little Flo pulled Denton's body from the Gulf Stream about 20 miles north of Elliott Key.

Antonio said Friday night that he was feeling fit, "but I sure could use a steak."

Mount Ranier's snowfall in the 1955-56 season was more than 83 feet, heaviest ever recorded in the United States.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM LOCKHART (Photo by Craft)

Schwartz, Lockhart Exchange Wedding Vows Dec. 23

Marilyn Dawnyce Schwartz and William (Bill) Lockhart were united in marriage Dec. 23 at 7 p.m. in the Grace Lutheran Church. Rev. Henry Hartman, minister of the church, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Schwartz and Mr. and Mrs. D.H. Lockhart of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with long full puffed sleeves with deep cuffs pointed over the hands and a Mandarian collar. The gown and detachable train were edged in Venise lace and tiny seed pearls. Her elbow length veil of imported silk illusion edged in tiny Venise lace was held by a crown of seed pearls and tear drops. The gown was fashioned and designed by the bride's mother and Mrs. B.T. Bynum.

The bride carried a cascade of feathered carnations and ivy leaves centered with a white orchid. She carried out the traditional something old by carrying a handkerchief given her at birth by her aunt, Mrs. J.C.Schwartz; something new was a Cameo necklace, a gift from the groom; something blue was her garter of blue ribbon and lace fashioned by Mrs. Lucille Bynum. She wore pennies in her shoes minted in the year of their births.

Dunn Couple Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Fifty years ago on Christmas Day, 1921, at 3:00 P.M., Nathan Alonzo Billingsley and Myrtle Lee Hancock were married in front of the First Methodist Church in Colorado City, Texas, in a Model T Ford. The pastor of the church officiated, and W.W. Porter was their witness. Porter had been asked by the couple for directions to the church. Instead of telling them, he escorted them to the church. After the ceremony, the newlyweds forgot their passenger and left him standing in front of the church.

N.A., better known as Nat to his friends and family, had just returned from France. He had served in the infantry in World War I. Nat was the son of J.P. Billingsley and Willie McKiddy Billingsley of Dunn.

Myrtle had taught school at several surrounding communities including Ira, Round Top, and Little Sulphur. She attended college in Abilene at the then Simmons College. She was the daughter of John W. Hancock and Eva Anderson Hancock, formerly of Dunn.

The couple have lived at the "Third house on Deep Creek" all fifty years. Nat's interest in the Model T in which they were married was traded to his mother for the first home they moved to Deep Creek. This house was blown away by a tornado in 1943. This was a year during World War II, when N.A., Jr., was overseas and lumber was hard to get. They were permitted enough lumber to build a four-room with bath home at that time. Later on, they added to this structure.

They have two sons, N.A. Billingsley, Jr., and Max W. Billingsley. N.A. is the District Design Engineer with the Texas Highway Department in Abilene. He married the former Margret Cary of Colorado City. They have two children, Kathie Janette of Angelo State University, and Cary Nathan, a junior at Abilene High School.

Max is the Mud and Drilling Engineer for Baroid at Pleasanton, Texas. He married the former Celestine Wilson of San Angelo. They have two children, Michael William, 10, and Zena Beth, 8.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration was held Dec. 26 in the Dunn Community Center. Hosting the affair were their two sons and their families.

Attending the affair were many relatives. Among these were Lt. Col. (Retired) and Mrs. Lester Hancock of Redding, California; Mr. and Mrs. John Hancock and Mrs. Inez Wyatt of Stephenville. Mrs. Dan Stone of Celina, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wyatt, Martha, Joe, and Zachary of Pittsburg, Penn.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hancock of Union, Tex.; Joe Keith, Tommie Lynn and Butch. Mrs. Lenora Mims of Hobbs, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Billingsley of Dunn; Mrs. J.P. Billingsley and Frances of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Billingsley, Kim, and Jane Ann, also of Snyder. Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Blassingame of Buford, Tex.

Many friends came by the Community Center to extend congratulations.

The anniversary table was laid with a gold lace tablecloth presented to Kathie Billingsley following the celebration by Mrs. Mary D. Cary of Ira. The anniversary cake was designed and made by Mrs. Max Billingsley. The centerpiece was of gold mums presented by Dunn Lodge No. 941 and Eastern Star Chapter No. 358.

The couple are charter member of these two chapters and have earned their fifty year membership pins.

MRS. MICHAEL HUBERT UPTERGROVE

Kelly, Uptergrove Wed In Home Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Kelly, 2209 Forty-first St., announce the marriage of their daughter, Ann Elizabeth to Michael Hubert Uptergrove of Lubbock, son of Mrs. Jack Crum of Spearman and Hubert Uptergrove of Roscoe.

The wedding was performed by Father Arnold Boeding in the home of the bride's parents on Dec. 27 at 4 p.m. in the presence of immediate relatives.

The bride wore a white silk corded A-line dress with a scoop neck edged in heavy white lace. The elbow length sleeves were edged in the same lace as were inserts in the skirt. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations.

Miss Danna Werst of Garden City was maid of honor. She wore a green silk corded dress fashioned similar to that of the bride with a round collar of lace. Lace also formed cuffs on the short sleeves. She carried a bouquet made like that of the bride.

Jim Uptergrove, brother of the groom of Rotan served as best man.

Following the wedding trip to Ruidoso, New Mex. the couple will reside in Lubbock, where the groom is employed.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Snyder High School and a 1971 graduate of Angelo State University. She has been teaching in Ft. Stockton.

The groom is a graduate of Stinnett High Schoool and is a veteran of Viet Nam was having served with the U.S. Army.

Out-of-town relatives attending the ceremoney were from Odessa, Spearman, Amarillo and Rotan.

You Can't Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — After a broken parking meter swallowed his two dimes, Francis J. Colletta sued the city.

"The parking meter is a symbol of this machine age and I'm going to fight it," Colletta, a university student, said in People's Court.

Judge Vern J. Munger Jr., awarded the youth a 20-cent settlement.

But Colletta could not collect it until he paid the court 50 cents for a machine-made copy of the judgment.

Older People Can Cope Better

NEW YORK (AP) — "Older people appear to cope better than younger ones with the isolation, loneliness and alienation which accompany catastrophic illness," says Dr. Leslie S. Libow, chief of Geriatric Medicine at Mount Sinai City Hospital Center at Elmhurst, N.Y.

"Being older in America, even if healthy, prepares you fairly well for the isolation that often comes with a catastrophic illness."

His remarks were made before a group of 500 professionals in the medical, legal, religious and social service fields participating in a symposium which has just been published by Cancer Care, Inc., entitled "Catastrophic Illness in the Seventies: Critical Issues and Complex Decisions," price at $3.50 a copy.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Mel Hazel of Borger announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Vickie Lee to Van David Sumruld III, son of Mrs. Veeda Sumruld of Snyder. The couple plan to wed Jan. 22 at 4 p.m. at the Victory Baptist Church in Stinnett, Tex. The bride-elect is employed by Cecil M. Pruett, Hutchinson County Attorney. She is a graduate of Stinnett High School. The groom is president of Seal Sales and Service Inc., Borger.

Lose Weight-A New Year's Resolution

COLLEGE STATION — 'Tis the season of the year to conjure up a host of new year's resolutions, and among the many that seem to crop up year after year is losing weight. Make it easy on yourself this year and follow the five simple steps to weight reduction, suggests Sally Springer, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

First you must decide that you really want to lose weight, Miss Springer points out. Doctors and nutritionists may report you need to trim off those extra pounds, but it is up to you — and what you eat — that counts. Or, it's what you don't eat that counts.

Check with your doctor to make sure it is safe for you to lose weight, especially if your goal is 10-20 pounds, the specialist advises. Also ask a physician about exercising.

Choose a sensible diet, she adds, that is 500-1,000 calories lower than what you normally eat. For women this level is generally around 1200 calories. Also make sure the diet is nutritionally balanced.

Here is a diet that supplies all of the needed nutrients for only 1200 calories:

Breakfast — (a very important meal) — one eight-ounce glass of skim milk, one poached egg, one piece of dry toast and one-half cup tomato juice.

Lunch — cheese sandwich, carrot and celery sticks and one eight-ounce glass of skim milk.

Dinner — meat pattie, broccoli, tossed salad with oil and vinegar, roll and iced tea or coffee.

Snack — apple or pear.

According to the specialist, this diet uses lower calorie foods from the basic four food groups including milk, meat, bread and cereal, and fruit and vegetable.

A fourth step in proper dieting is to exercise daily, Miss Springer says. Remember that body weight is governed by two factors — the calories eaten in food and the calories expended in exercise. Just think how much quicker you will lose weight if you work on both diet and exegcise!

Also remember to be patient, she notes. Don't try to achieve your weight goal all at once but follow a safe routine of losing one to two pounds a week. It is harder to gain back lost pounds if you lose weight slowly.

Incorporate these five keys to weight reduction in your daily habits and your new year's resolution will come true, Miss Springer adds.

MRS. JOHN ALLEN BAKER (Photo by Craft)

Miller, Baker Wed. Jan. 1

Nancy Beth Miller, daughter of Mrs. Zula Miller, 2805 Ave. Y, Snyder and John Allen Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Baker, Bloomingburg, New York, were united in marriage Jan. 1 at 7 p.m. in the East Side Church of Christ. Ronald H. Miller of Newburgh, New York, brother of the bride, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by Jim L. Talbot, brother-in-law of the bride of Decatur, Ark.

The bride wore a formal length gown of antique white peau de soie, fashioned with a Victorian neckline of scalloped chantilly lace. The empire bodice was an overlay of lace, heavily encrusted with seed pearls. The A-line skirt extended into a scalloped lace chapel length train. Tiny covered buttons accented the back of the gown. The bride wore a chantilly lace mantilla that she purchased while in Europe and carried a bouquet of feathered mums, stephanotis and greenery.

Mrs. Jim L. Talbot, sister of the bride, of Decatur, Ark., was matron of honor. Misses Anne Alexander of Snyder and Marilyn Warren of Brownwood served as bridesmaids. The attendants wore gowns of ruby red velvet fashioned with a ruffled white lace neckline and long sleeves with a flare ruffle of lace. The high waist was encircled with a soft covered cord with a softly gathered column skirt. Their headpieces were ruby velvet Juliet caps.

Miss Amy Talbot, niece of the bride, of Decatur, Ark. was flower girl. She wore a full length gown fashioned after the bride's gown.

Miller Talbot of Decatur, Ark., and Clay Miller of Newburgh, N.Y. nephews of the bride were ring bearers. They wore ruby red velvet jackets with white slacks.

Jerry L. Haynes of Beacon, New York served as best man and Dennis Ensor of Farwell, Tex. and Rick Van Hersh were groomsmen.

The altar of the church was decorated with three arches of candles with greenery. Candlelighters were Misses Sandi and Patty Baker, sisters of the groom.

A group composed of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Ed George, Bryan Whitehead and John Brockman presented the musical program.

The reception was held at Martha Ann Woman's Club. The bride's table was centered with a candelabra and held the three tiered wedding cake. The groom's table held a round spice cake. Assisting with serving were Misses Bonnie Davidson, Becky Austin, Mary Collins, Sherry Adams, Nany and Lucille Baker, sisters of the groom, Keitha Collier and Celia Franks.

Mrs. Ronald Miller, sister-in-law of the bride, registered wedding guests.

For the wedding trip to Carlsbad, New Mex. and Big Bend the bride chose a pant suit of pink and green tweed with accenting scarf and matching beige shoes and purse.

The couple will make their home at 1342 Cedar, Abilene.

The bride attended Abilene Christian College where she was a member of the A Capella chorus, and Sigma Theta Chi social club.

The groom is a Viet Nam Veteran and attended Abilene Christian College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Bloomingburg, Newburgh, and Beacon, N.Y., Monahans, Amarillo, Austin, Littlefield, Three Rivers, Texas and Decatur, Ark.

Eggs-Always A Good Value

COLLEGE STATION—Few popular foods offer consumers the varied uses and outstanding values for the money as do eggs, reports Marshall M. Miller, Extension poultry marketing specialist at Texas A&M University.

The natural balance of vitamins, fats, protein and minerals make eggs one of nature's most nearly perfect foods, Miller explains. Egg protein is a complete protein containing all of the essential amino acids required by the body to build and renew body tissues. In fact, egg protein is of such top quality that it is the standard used in measuring other food protein.

Almost all protein foods sell by volume or by the pound—except eggs, the specilaist points out. Eggs sell by the dozen and the price varies with their size. A dozen grade "A" large eggs must by law have a net weight of 24 ounces or one and a half pounds. If the large eggs are priced at 54 cents retail, then the cost per pound is 36 cents.

The comparative yield value of eggs is also superior to most other food products, he continues, Other meat items have bone and fat loss, which often is high. Eggs are also marked with a loss—the shell—but this loss amounts to only about 10 per cent.

When buying eggs, Miller says to read labels on the carton. Most eggs offered for sale are tagged "AA" or "A" in quality. Some markets may also offer grade "B". Sizes of eggs available are medium, large, extra large, and occasionally, small, each size differing by three ounces and thus also differing in value.

To make the most of your egg money, always buy the larger size if there is less than a seven-cent difference between them and the next smaller size, the specilaist suggests. For example, if grade "A" medium is priced at 49 cents and grade "A" large at 53 cents, then the large size is the best buy.

All standards of egg grading are supervised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Cattle Feeding Industry Enjoys Growth In 1971

DALLAS (AP) — The federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, serving five Southwest states, reports that the margin of profits of cattle feed lot operations "improved sharply last year (1971), giving new impetus to the cattle feeding industry in the Southwest."

The bank noted that the high cost of feeders and of borrowed money slowed the cattle feeding industry in 1970.

But in 1971, wrote Carl G. Anderson Jr. and Dale L. Stansbury for the bank, "cattle feeding has expanded rapidly in the (reserve bank) district's four main cattle feeding states.

"By midyear, Texas had replaced Iowa as the nation's No. 1 cattle feeding state.

"And with nearly 2.9 million head on feed in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, these four states accounted for nearly a fourth of the cattle on feed in the 23 major feeding states."

The fifth state in the district is Louisiana.

However, by year's end, Iowa had edged back into the lead again, with 1,917,000 cattle on feed, compared with Texas' 1,728,000.

The bank report said growth in 1971 was accomplished mainly through greater use of existing feed lots, with not many new lots established.

In fact, lots have been operating at only about 70 per cent of capacity.

In Texas, for example, 98 per cent of the cattle on feed were in 195 lots with average capacities of nearly 11,500 head and the full capacity is not being used.

The spring and early summer drouth hurt many cattle operations because calves were placed in feed lots early. But this was reversed in the second half of the year.

Based on live weight, beef slaughter in the Dallas district was nine per cent greater in the first nine months of this year in the similar 1970 period.

This increase was combined with a 21 per cent gain in the slaughter of sheep and lambs and a similar increase in the slaughter of hogs to give these states an increase of 11 per cent in total red meat production.

The report says there were major declines in production of wool and mohair—a combination of drought and poor prices.

Turkey production was up five per cent in 1971 after a hefty 20 per cent increase in the previous year.

Egg production was up in New Mexico and Oklahoma but not enough to offset declines in the other three states. Broiler production through October was down five per cent.

Surprisingly in view of the drought, the Southwest's cotton crop is expected to be 4.6 million bales, two per cent larger than 1970 and the largest since 1958 when harvest was 5.2 million bales.

Although the grain sorghum acreage is five per cent greater than 1970, drought cut yields in some areas, leaving the expected crop at 383 million bushels, slightly less than a year ago and well below the 1967 record of 409 million bushels.

Winter wheat harvest dropped about a third from 1970 to 155 million bushels in the district. A moderately larger rice crop is expected.

Citrus production in Texas and Arizona is expected to total 21.6 million boxes, or about three per cent less than 1970.

Expanded cattle production in the five states will help boost livestock production seven per cent above its 1970 level—considered a significant gain by the bank since livestock accounts for more than 60 per cent of the agriculture of the Southwest.

Cattle in these states numbered more than 22 million head at the beginning of 1971 and the increase for the year was estimated at about a half million head.

Most of this cattle production increase has been in beef herds, which have been enlarged to meet the greater demand for feeder calves in the district. There also has been a slight increase in dairy herds in response to city demand, with milk production in the five states increased four per cent.

Gross farm income in the five state's, says the bank report, probably was higher than the $7.1 billion reported for 1970. But net income probably changed very little from the $2.3 billion realized in 1970.

Reflecting strong crop and beef prices, cash receipts in the first nine months of 1971 were six per cent higher than in the same period the previous year. Beginning in September, however, many crop prices came under supply pressures that very probably slowed the rise in average cash receipts for the year.

Government 1971 crop payments in the states are expected to be considerably less than 1970's $763 million. This decline, however, was partly offset by other farm programs, and with drought and flood relief, the total may be close to the $811 million of 1970.

Looking ahead to 1972 prospects, the Reserve Bank report said further expansion in agriculture is expected.

Prospects for the largest gains still are in livestock production, the report states. But with better moisture conditions, crop production can be expected to increase also.

Considering ample feed lot capacity available and lower grain prices, notes the report, cattle feeding probably will continue its growth, providing cattle producers in turn a good market for feeder cattle.

Cotton growers, encouraged by higher 1971 prices, are bound to increase their plantings. With continued favorable weather, the wheat crop should be close to normal in 1972. But a cutback rice harvest should be lower because of a cutback in acreage. Little change is expected in the grain sorghum crop.

Junior Editors Quiz on SANTA CLAUS

QUESTION: Where did Santa Claus get his name?

ANSWER: Long before the birth of Christ, people used to celebrate the arrival of winter. This time of the year was a holiday season in pagan times and many of the customs and traditions of Christmas can be traced back to this era. The ancient Romans, during the winter festival, exchanged gifts.

Saint Nicholas, a bishop of Myra, Asia Minor, who lived in the 4th Century, was known for his love of children. His feast day, December 6th, became a children's holiday in many countries of Europe. In countries like Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria and parts of Germany, children were given gifts on December 6th and it was said that they were the presents of St. Nicholas.

When the Dutch came to New York, they introduced the tradition of St. Nicholas. They called him San Nicolaas and this was gradually changed to Sankt Klaus, and then Santa Claus. In the United States, the date of his arrival was changed to Christmas Eve. Gradually, Santa Claus assumed a red costume, a sleigh with reindeer, and a home at the North Pole.

Greeting Card Sets Record

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thirty years ago, a young artist named Dorothy Maienschein designed a greeting card called "Pansies for Thoughts."

Since 1941 more than 13 million copies of the little nickel card have been sold—a world's record. Mrs. Maienschein, now a grandmother, says she is amazed and wouldn't change a thing on the card.

TO DIRECT SNYDER HIGH MUSICAL—Jerry Worsham, left, and Bill Lyon, who head the drama and choral music departments, respectively, will serve as co-directors of Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man" at Snyder High School. Performances are set for Jan. 28-29.

Co-Directors Of Musical Have Varied Experience

Snyderites may be assured of a good production of the musical, "The Music Man," under the direction of the two high school sponsors, Jerry Worsham and William R. "Bill" Lyon. Both have had many years' experience in working with high school student productions.

"The Music Man," a Meredith Willson script, will be presented in the high school auditorium for two evening performances, Friday, Jan. 28, and Saturday, Jan. 29. Fifty-six Snyder High School students will participate in the musical, including cast members, choral groups and dance troupe. Stage settings and costume designing will involve about 40 more students.

This year's production will be an attempt to revive the traditional Snyder High School musical. In previous years such productions as the "King and I," "Oklahoma," "Carousel," and "Annie Get Your Gun," have been staged through the joint efforts of the Snyder High School drama and choral departments. Advance planning and efforts are being made to make this year's musical, "The Music Man," as enjoyable and memorable for the school's enthusiastic patrons as were the musical performances of some five and more years ago.

Worsham has been instructor of the high school speech and drama department for the past five school years. He came to Snyder High School after three years service with the U.S.Navy. Half of this time was spent overseas on a tour of duty in the Pacific.

Since assuming responsibility for the speech and drama instruction in the school, his department has won many outstanding honors in district, regional and state U I L 3-AAA competition. One championship was won in debate, two in prose reading and two in extemporaneous speaking. The department can also boast of three state championship one-act plays within the past four years.

Besides state UIL honors, Worsham's department has copped top district honors for the past five years. Several individual students have won special honors in regional and state meets as well.

A native Texan, Worsham was reared in Barry, and spent his high school years in Corsicana. He holds BA and MA degrees from North Texas State University, and is affiliated with Alpha Psi Omega, a college drama fraternity.

His professional activities do not end with his devotion to his high school department. He is now serving on two special state committees. One of these involvements is serving on the UIL committee of the Texas Speech assocation. This committee is composed of college and high school speech department heads. The duty of this committee is to make special recommendations to the University Interscholastic League for the betterment of the league's operations. The second state committee with which he is currently associated, is the Texas Secondary Theatre Conference on the One-Act Play, a committee working to upgrade drama in the state's high schools.

Lyon came to Snyder High School at the beginning of the 1971-72 school year with 12 years of teaching experience in choral music to his credit. He came to Snyder from Canyon High School, where he spent two years.

A native Texan, he spent his high school career in Friendswood. Following completion of high school, he attended Abilene Christian college where he received his BS degree and later earned his MA degree from San Houston State University.

His love of music began when he was a very small boy, as he recalls, about the third grade of grammar school. His engrossment with choral music since has accounted for a continued growth in his professional field.

Interest in his profession has led him to affiliate with several state and national organizations. He is a member of the Texas Music Educators assocation. The Texas Choral Directors association and the American Choral Directors association.

During his 12-year teaching experience, Lyon has received a total of 26 first division ratings in UIL competition. A large number of all-state soloists and choir members have come from these groups. One of his choirs received the outstanding 3-AAA award at the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo. Another choir, under his direction, received the honorable mention award at the Buccaneer Festival in Corpus Christi. He has served as music festival chairman and as adjudicator at various festivals.

Helping to direct a musical will not be new to Lyon. His directing experience has included three musicals, "Annie Get Your Gun," "George M," and "Guys and Dolls."

Other members of the immediate Lyon family include his wife, Sue, and two sons, Randy, age nine, and six-year-old Mark. The family resides at 2211 Forty-first street.

The two directors of "The Music Man" agree there is plenty of hard work involved in producing a musical, but both whole-heartedly declare, "It's a genuine pleasure to work with a group of students who put everything they have into doing a top notch job. This group of Snyder students has talent and they are not afraid to give of their very best."

Pet Turtle Sales Restricted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Regulations placing public health restrictions on the sale of pet turtles have been signed by Dr. Neil Solomon, Maryland's secretary of health.

Solomon estimated that as many as 2,000 cases of salmonella poisoning occur in the state each year as a result of diseased turtles.

Maryland health officers can now take samples of tank water and order the destruction of turtles found to be contaminated.

Construction Record In Texas

DALLAS (AP) — The construction industry of Texas had its greatest dollar year in history during 1971, a resounding $1,751,331,262.

This fugure exceeded the old record set in 1969 by more than $284 million, states the Texas Constractor says in its January issue. The total for December alone came to $231,986,417.

Largest single contributor to the 1971 record was the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, which let more than $62 million in contracts in one day during December. This project now has more than $300 million in construction contracts now in force.

Highway lettings, thanks to a resurgence late in the year, also had a significant effect. The Texas Highway Department opened low bids totalling $71,153,004 during December and is planning a letting in January of more than $56 million.

The H.B. Zachry Co. of San Antonio, in a joint bid with South Prairie Construction Co. of Wichita, Kan., won a $57,307,284 contract in December for paving at the regional airport, as well as individually winning a Phase 2 power and communication ducts contract in the amount of $3,236,249. The Zachry company also secured a $6,174,000 contract to build Unit no. 4 at Austin's Holly Street power station.

Other large December awards included:

—$6,014,000 to Robert E. McKee of El Paso for the Bowie High School to be built there.

—$5,475,900 to Avery Mays of Dallas to renovate and extend the State Fair Music Hall.

—$5,291,850 to OCCO Inc. of Houston for the Deer Park Senior High School in that city.

—$4,688,732 to L. H. Lacy Co. of Dallas for runway and taxiway improvements at Lubbock.

—$4,033,000 to Southwestern Construction Co. of Houston for the Seton Hospital in Austin.

—$3,007,200 to Warrior Constructors Inc. of Houston to expand and modernize the FAA's air route traffic control center at Houston.

Snyderite To California Base

S1C James H. Norred has completed his 9 weeks of basic training at Orlando, Fla., and has been transferred to naval base in San Diego, Calif., where he will study to be a dental technician. Mrs. Norred, former Lynda Denson, accompanied him. Both are graduates of Snyder High School.

Pole Traps Illegal

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds in Britain has launched a campaign against the illegal pole trap.

Traps are fixed to poles, which seem to offer birds an enticing perch. When the bird alights, steel jaws snap on its legs. Britain's birds of prey—particularly golden eagles, kestrels and owls—are common victims.

A spokesman said the society plans legal action against trapsetters and poisoners.

Red China, Wage-Price Freeze Are Voted Top 1971 Stories

The Top 10 Stories of the Year selections are determined by ballots returned by editors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and TV stations. Editors annually are asked to vote for the news stories of greatest impact, import and use during the year. Selections do not necessarily indicate support for policies carried out in stories chosen. They merely indicate the year's top news stories.

Here are the "Top Ten" of 1971:

1. Red China: Admission to U.N., President Nixon's planned visit, and visit by U.S. ping pong players.
2. President Nixon's wage-price freeze, Phase 2, and national and international effects.
3. The Pentagon Papers.
4. The conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr.
5. The successful Apollo 14 and Apollo 15 moon landings.
6. Attica prison violence takes 43 lives.
7. The Vietnam War, troop withdrawals, and the election of President Thieu.
8. The school busing issue.
9. More than 60 die in California earthquake.
10. The Senate votes down the Nixon Administration's foreign aid authorization bill.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Red China—its admission to the United Nations, President Nixon's plan to visit, and a visit to the Asian nation by a U.S. ping pong team—was voted the top news story of 1971 by the editors and news directors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and TV stations.

The other top stories as voted by the newsmen were: (2) President Nixon's wage-price freeze, Phase 2, and national and international effects; (3) the Pentagon Papers; (4) the conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr.; (5) the successful Apollo 14 and 15 moon landings; (6) Attica prison violence takes 43 lives; (7) the Vietnam war, troop withdrawals, and the election of President Thieu; (8) the school busing issue; (9) more than 60 die in California earthquake; (10) the Senate votes down the Nixon Administration's foreign aid authorization bill.

(Heavy fighting on two fronts between India and Pakistan broke out after the ballot for the year's leading stories had been sent.)

1. 1971 was a memorable year for Communist China as, in the space of seven months, the leaders in Peking threw open their doors to an American ping pong team, agreed to play host to President Nixon, and broke through a 20-year barrier to win admittance to the United Nations.

The western world was startled when Peking invited 15 U.S. table tennis players and three American journalists to pay a visit. But the surprise evoked by this gesture was small compared to that created when President Nixon announced his planned visit to China and its acceptance. The President announced later in the year he planned to visit the Soviet Union also in 1972.

Most significant, perhaps, was the vote that flashed on the tally board of the U.N. General Assembly Oct. 25. With one swift stroke the delegates had admitted Red China to the U.N. and thrown out Taiwan after 26 years of membership as one of the five permanent powers.

The United States had fought vainly to keep the Nationalists in the world forum, even though Washington changed previous policy and endorsed the admission of Peking.

Actually the ballot that decided the issue was the defeat of the perennial resolution declaring the China matter was an "important question" to be decided only by a two-thirds majority. It was a device which the United States had been using since 1961 to bar Peking.

First sign that the United States had switched its position and the doors were about to open came when Nixon said the Red Chinese "should not remain isolated from the international community."

Nixon said the United States would "maintain its treaty commitment" to Taiwan, and thus broached a two-Chinas policy which Peking already had said it would not agree to.

As the debate progressed in late 1971, it became clear Peking's backers were putting up their biggest fight yet and that they had picked up new supporters.

On Nov. 15, Peking's delegation made its formal entry into the U.N. General Assembly.

2. Under the threat of worse economic troubles, President Nixon on Aug. 15 reversed his economic policy in order to protect American jobs and factories from foreign competition and to strengthen the U.S. economy by freezing wages and prices.

Although the President had opposed wage and price controls, conditions at home and abroad forced the change. Unemployment was up, the stock market was hitting new lows for the year, the dollar was in trouble overseas and inflation was growing.

To solve these problems, the President:

—Ordered that all prices of manufactured goods remain where they were;

—Banned all raises to workers, even those promised in existing labor contracts;

—Halted the sale of gold to foreigners in return for dollars;

—Imposed an extra tariff of 10 per cent of their value on all imported manufactured goods.

Nixon had said one of his objections to a freeze was it would require a huge bureaucracy to enforce it. By using the Office of Emergency Preparedness and the Internal Revenue Service to monitor and enforce his program, he avoided the need to hire extra people. The freeze was to be for only 90 days.

At home, the steps had a quick and favorable result. The stock market rose a record 32.93 points on the Dow Jones industrial average on the first day after the Nixon speech. Volume also reached a record 31 million shares as investors took heart that the country's problems might be on the way to a solution.

Overseas the steps were less welcome but results equally cheerful. Elimination of a fixed gold price for the dollar amounted, in effect, to devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold. This meant it cost more dollars to buy, say, 100 marks. Therefore, a Volkswagen cost more in the United States and the hope was this would help the domestic auto industry and thus the American economy.

The 10 per cent surcharge had the same effect. The price of a Volkswagen went up because importers had to pay a higher duty.

As the 90-day Phase 1 of the economic plan came to an end, the President announced that in Phase 2 raises would be permitted, some prices could be increased. He appointed boards to decide how much. Labor objected because it had only 5 votes on the 15-vote Pay Board, but went along.

The vagueness of Phase 2 was a key part—nobody knew how long it would last or whether labor would continue to cooperate.

3. During his last days as President Johnson's Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara commissioned a study that ran to 47 volumes and contained 2.5 million words. The subject: Vietnam. The top-secret study was worked on by 35 researchers who gathered material dating back to the Truman administration. It was called: "History of the United States' Decision-Making Process on Vietnam Policy."

The New York Times, which labeled the study "The Pentagon Papers," published the first article in a projected series on the study June 13. A second article appeared the following day, and, with President Nixon's agreement, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell asked the Times to voluntarily stop publishing the papers. Mitchell said further disclosures would "cause irreparable injury to the defense interests of the United States."

The Times went ahead with a third installment, and the government went to court in New York and won a temporary restraining order blocking the Times from further publication of the papers.

On the day a hearing was to begin on this action, the Washington Post started publishing its own version of "The Pentagon Papers." The government then won a court decision which stopped the Post, too.

The legal battle was soon in the U.S. Supreme Court, which not only agreed to review the cases but extended its usual court term to make a prompt decision on a matter in which the government's executive branch—for the first time in history—was attempting to restrain newspapers before publication. On June 30, the high court ruled by a vote of 6 to 3 that the Times and the Post were free to resume publishing articles based on the secret study of Vietnam.

Then, Daniel Ellsberg, 40, who had helped compile the study, surrendered to U.S. marshals, said he was the source of the leak, adding: "I felt as an American citizen ... I could no longer cooperate in concealing this information from the American people. I took this action on my own initiative, and I am prepared for all the consequences." On Aug. 16, Ellsberg pleaded innocent to charges he illegally possessed and copied classified Pentagon papers.

4. A story that began in 1968—the so-called My Lai massacre—drew to a close in 1971.

My Lai, a Vietnam village, was hit by American troops on a search and destroy mission on March 16, 1968, and in a few hours many unresisting Vietnamese civilians were slain. Estimates by villagers ran over 500. Taking part in the action was Charlie Co., 1st Battalion, 11th Brigade, 20th Infantry Regiment, Americal Division. Lt. William L. Calley Jr. was a member of the company. His company commander was Capt. Ernest Medina.

About a year after the operation, a letter saying "something rather dark and bloody" had happened at My Lai was sent to President Nixon, various congressmen, military officials, and the state department.

Calley was indicted for first degree murder. The indictment charged him with the premeditated murder of 102 persons. His trial began in 1970, at Ft. Benning, Ga., but Calley himself took the witness stand Feb. 23, 1971. During his testimony he attributed everything he did to orders from Capt. Medina. Medina, on the witness stand, denied he ever ordered women and children killed at the village.

The case went to a jury of six of Calley's senior officers March 16—the third anniversary of My Lai. After 13 days deliberation, the jury convicted Calley, 27, of the first degree murder of at least 22 villagers.

On March 31, Calley was sentenced to life imprisonment, dismissal from the Army and forfeiture of pay and allowances totaling $773.10 a month.

The decision resulted in an uproar. Letters to the White House ran 100 to 1 against the Calley verdict and sentence.

On April 1, President Nixon ordered Calley released from the stockade and placed under house arrest in his Ft. Benning apartment where he could wait for the appeals process. Five months later Calley's sentence was reduced to 20 years, making him eligible for parole in six to seven years. The president also said he would make the final review of the case after all military justice procedures were finished.

Capt. Medina was tried at Ft. McPherson, Ga. After hearing nearly two months of testimony, a jury of five officers found Medina innocent of all charges of involvement in the killing of 100 or more civilians at My Lai.

Of the five officers and men tried on charges of assault and murder at My Lai, only Calley was judged a mass slayer.

5. The United States launched two successful moon missions—Apollo 14 and Apollo 15—in 1971.

Apollo 14 left the earth at 4:03 p.m. EST Jan. 31, its departure delayed some 40 minutes by a rainstorm. Aboard were Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 47, the oldest active astronaut; Navy Cmdr. Edgar D. Mitchell, 40, and Air Force Maj. Stuart A. Roosa, 37.

Goal of the mission was to complete the task set for Apollo 13, which was aborted as it neared the moon when an oxygen tank exploded.

Despite some docking problems in space, Apollo 14 fired into lunar orbit Feb. 4. Roosa remained in the command ship, Kitty Hawk, as Shepard and Mitchell dropped to the moon's surface in the lunar machine Antares, touching down 87 feet north of the pre-planned target in the Fra Mauro highlands.

Shepard and Mitchell made two trips onto the surface, searching for lunar material perhaps 4.6 billion years old and dating back to the birth of the moon. For the first time on the moon, they used a two-wheel pullcart to carry their tools and instruments.

Just before leaving the moon, Shepard pulled out two golf balls and a club he had smuggled aboard. He sprayed lunar dust on his first swing, but of the second shot Shepard exclaimed, "There it goes. Miles and miles and miles."

The mission returned safely Feb. 9.

Unlike its predecessor, Apollo 15 left the earth on time at 9:34 a.m. EDT July 26. It carried Col. David R. Scott, 39, Col. James B. Irwin, 41, and Maj. Alfred M. Worden, 39, all Air Force officers, and an $8 million jeep-like vehicle that was to be the first man-driven vehicle on the moon.

The astronauts fired into lunar orbit July 29. They had some trouble undocking the lunar landing craft, Falcon, from the command ship, Endeavour, but overcame it, and Scott and Worden rode down to the surface. Their goal was a narrow valley surrounded on three sides by mountains and on the other by a canyon called Hadley Rille.

After Irwin and Scott unloaded the moon buggy, they drove off to describe the terrain for geologists and collect rocks and soil.

The next trip out, they stopped at a crater where it was thought the rocks they found might date back to the creation of the moon. They had stayed longer, seen more and gone further than any previous lunar explorers.

On the trip home, Worden exited the craft for man's first walk outside a moving ship in deep space, returning after 18 minutes outside.

Apollo 15 splashed down safely Aug. 7.

6. Shortly after breakfast Sept. 9, more than half of the 2,234 inmates of Attica state prison in an upstate New York county exploded in an eight-hour rampage of beatings, arson, looting and seizing of hostages. For 97 hours they held a portion of the huge, maximum-security penitentiary.

Then, on the rainy morning of Sept. 13, under cover of tear gas dropped by helicopter, a heavily armed force of about 500 state troopers crashed through the rebels' defenses and brought out 29 of the 38 hostages still held by the prisoners.

The uprising cost the lives of 32 inmates—three of them before authorities retook the prison—and 11 prison employes, including one guard fatally injured in the initial melee and 10 hostages. Police gunfire killed 39 of the victims.

The immediate cause of the uprising, according to published reports from inmates and lawyers for them, occurred in an exercise yard Sept. 8 when two prisoners appeared to a guard to be fighting. The guard intervened. Rumors spread through the prison overnight, the accounts went, that the two involved had been beaten.

Commissions at the state and congressional levels were appointed to investigate various aspects of the riot, and a grand jury was impaneled late in November to hear presentments on criminal aspects.
