Economic Output Drops By 3.3%

By EILEEN POWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— The nation's output of goods and services fell at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the second quarter this year, the largest such drop since the nation was in the depths of the 1974-75 recession, the Commerce Department said today.

The decline, which had been expected by economists in and out of government, followed a modest 1.1 percent rise in the first three months of this year. It was the first dip since early 1978.

The drop was the largest since the first quarter of 1975, when "real" output - that adjusted for inflation - fell more than 9 percent, said Commerce Department analyst Adren Cooper.

The nation's output, adjusted for inflation, showed a modest 0.8 percent growth in the first three months of the year after rising almost 7 percent in the vigorous, final quarter of 1978.

The last quarterly decline was recorded in the January-March 1978 quarter with a 0.1 percent drop.

A recession traditionally is defined as two consecutive quarters of "negative growth." And that's just what economists in and out of government say the United States is in for, if not more.

Growth figures are important because they reflect personal and industrial well-being, which in turn reflects the ability of Americans to get and hold jobs and acquire income.

The Carter administration, which for months denied that a recession was on the way, reversed itself last week and acknowledged that the economy was in for declining output, possibly through the end of the year.

G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and President Carter's choice to replace W. Michael Blumenthal as Treasury secretary, gave an even gloomier forecast to Congress earlier this week.

Miller said the nation's output could fall as much as 2 percent this year and that as many as 1.4 million people could lose their jobs.

"It appears likely that they (the new Commerce Department figures) will indicate that real gross national product declined somewhat after advancing only marginally in the first quarter," Miller told Congress.

Friday update

Johnson Arraigned

FORT WORTH (AP)-A federal judge entered an innocent plea for fugitive grain dealer Robert M. Johnson today on charges of transporting stolen grain and set a Sept. 4 trial date in Wichita Falls.

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon also continued a $1 million bond set in Idaho for the Iowa Park, Texas, businessman who had been a fugitive since he disappeared in the Gulf of Mexico in January 1977.

Mahon told the burly 43-year-old defendant that if he does post bond he will not be permitted to leave Wichita County and must report weekly to both his lawyer and parole officer, neither of whom has been appointed.

Supertankers Collide

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)-Two supertankers carrying oil collided in the Atlantic off the island of Tobago overnight, setting both ships afire and forcing the crews to abandon ship, the U.S. Coast Guard said today. Thirty-four men were reported missing as the blazing ships drifted toward Tobago.

The Coast Guard said oil had spilled over 12 square miles of water.

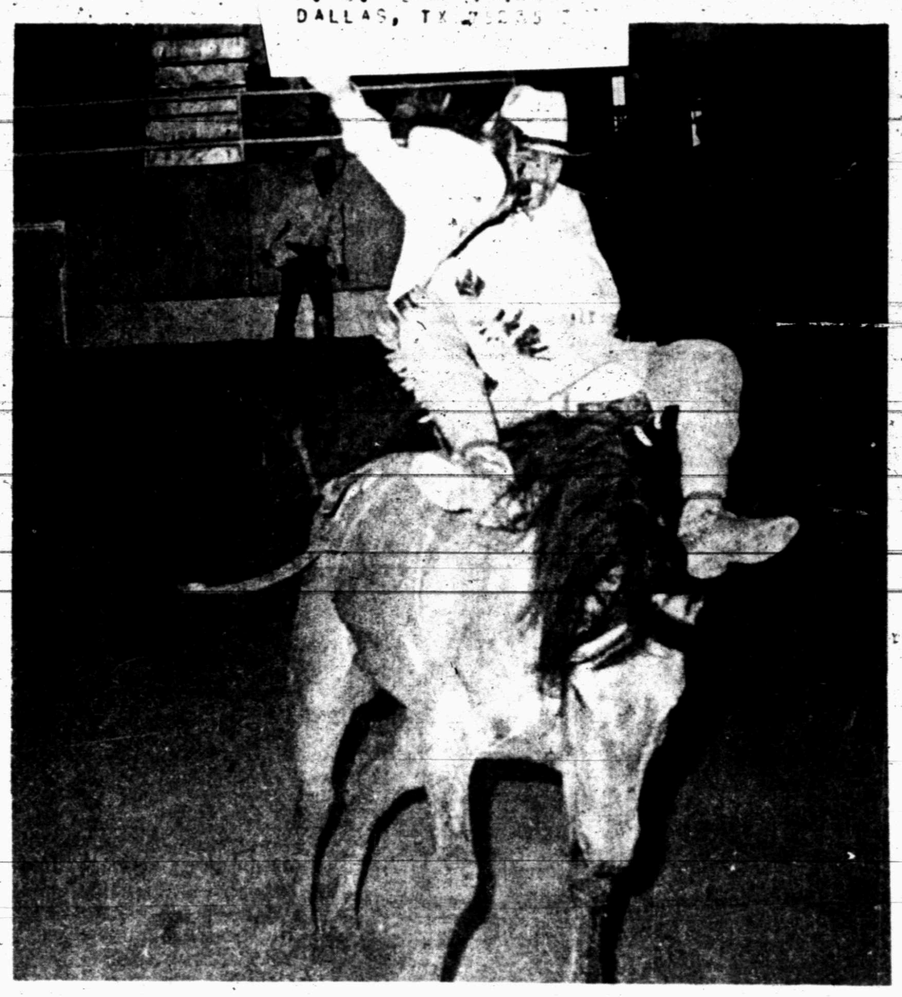

Quartermaster First Class Carlos Martinez said five crew members from the supertanker Atlantic Empress were rescued but the other 34 were still missing. All 36 from the Aegean Captain had been saved, he said.

No More Donations

AUSTIN (AP)-State Insurance Board member Lyndon Olson Jr. says some $13,000 in political donations from insurance men won't color his judgment but he won't take any more.

"I'll probably not take any more because they cause more trouble than they are worth," Olson said Thursday.

He referred to stories in Harte-Hanks newspapers disclosing that about a third of the $38,688 he raised toward retiring his congressional campaign debts between April 1 and June 30 came from persons associated with the insurance industry.

BAREBACK RIDING-The going was tough last night in the bareback riding event during the second performance of the 44th annual Scurry County Rodeo. Only two of ten contestants posted a score in the event. Performances will continue at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday night. (SDN Staff Photo)

Rodeo Action Continues With 2nd Performance

The 44th annual Scurry County Rodeo went into its second performance last night at the coliseum.

Riding a horse called Mighty Mouse, Brent Larue posted the best score, 70, in the barback riding event. He was followed by Jim Martin of Canadian, with a score of 60.

Justin Spencer took the lead in calf roping with a time of 8.72 seconds. Behind him were Terry Leatherwood of Las Cruces, N.M., 9.62 and John Cox of Dodge City, Kan., 10.94.

In saddle bronc riding, Sid Morrow of Capiton, N.M. scored 72 on a horse named Belly Dancer. Wayne Mataska tagged with a score of 63, followed by Mike Mitchell with 62 points.

Teresa Langston of Plainview moved into second place in the overall barrel racing competition with a time of 14.85. Trailing her were Sabrina Pike of Albuquerque, N.M., 15.10, and Tanya Boydstun of Snyder, 15.25.

John Cox and Rob Lauer took a new lead in calf roping with 7.99 seconds. The closest following score was 11.0, posted by Ollie Smith and Jim Powers.

Top bull riding score went to Mark Sanchez of Farmington, N.M., who earned a 62. Tom Mackanhnie of Clovis scored 59, and Ross Higgins of Plainvbiew scored 57.

The complete results of Thursday night's rodeo are as follows:

Margo Beaver, 15.60. 9. Sandra Dalton, 15.73. 10. Ann Longacre, 16.10. 11. Katrina York, 16.76. 12. Jenny Hinton, 19.81. 13. Tally Griffin, 20.04. 14. Linda Sutimeier, 20.52. 15. Shannon Tubb, 20.67. 16. Patricia Boyd 21.27.

TEAM ROPING: 1. John Cox and Rob Lauer, 7.99. 2. Ollie Smith and Jim Powers, 11.0. 3. James Boyd and Jay Body, 17.37. 4. Ben Ingram and Randy Wells, 21.77. 5. No scores went to Zeke Griffin and Justin Spencer, Bob Northcutt and Tooter Jamison, Donald Ray Lewis and Terry Leatherwood, Bob Northcutt and Roy Wilson, Zeke Griffin and Rob Lauer and Ben Ingram and Randy Wells.

BULL RIDING: 1. Mark Sanchez, 62. 2. Tom Mackanhnie, 59. 3. Ross Higgins, 57. 4. No scores went to Malcom Small, Jeff Matsen, Mike Archibegue, Kenny Chadburn, Pete King, Red Lane, Dan Puckett, Dean Puckett, Inez Alonzo and Keith Johnston.

The SDN Column

This nation has never been without political unrest for very long at a time. That is the reason our legislators are kept busy and our state and federal constitutions have been amended so many times.

Tax relief is the big thing now, but it is not a new issue. It was tax relief that colonists were seeking when they declared their independence from England. They formed a republic with emphasis on representation by the citizens of the country, but they also promulgated laws and methods of extending these laws.

Another big thing now is "initiative and referendum." This gives people the power to legislate when they feel that the lawmakers they have elected are not doing the job. Gov. Bill Clements has made initiative and referendum one of his pet objectives.

Frankly, we have some reservations about it, unless the rules are carefully drawn. Our constitution provides a legislative system and procedures for establishing laws. If legislative work is going to be done by the citizens themselves, then we are wasting our money paying for a House and Senate to spend several months in Austin every two years.

Granted, there should be a method for the wishes of the people to prevail over an obstinate legislature, but it is not a matter that should be taken lightly.

We would tend to look with favor on a an initiative and referendum amendment that required a sufficient number of signatures on a petition -- say 35 percent of the number voting in the last general election. Then, if an amendment should be proposed by this method, we think it should be adopted only if more than 50 percent of the qualified voters approve it. Note that we say 50 percent of the qualified voters, not 50 percent of those casting ballots. We sincerely believe that this is the only way that initiative and referendum could function and reflect the desires of the majority of the people. Otherwise, a militant minority faction could keep us voting on wild amendment proposals continuously; and a lapse into abnormal apathy could find us confronted with anarchy.

Q.--How many rabies cases have been reported this year in Texas.

A.--Through the first six months of 1979, 613 animal cases were reported. In 1978, 563 cases were reported for the entire year. In addition 2 Eagle Pass youths died early this month, the first human deaths due to natural exposure to rabies within the state since 1962.

CLOUDY WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES-High Thursday 69 degrees; low, 65 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 66; precipitation, 55; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 13.83.

West Texas - Flash flood watch much of Southwest Texas today. Partly cloudy north with scattered showers and thunderstorms mainly southern protions through Saturday. Some locally heavy thunderstorms possible southwest today. Highs 81 north to near 90s along the Rio Grande in the south. Lows 60 Panhandle to 73 southwest. Highs Saturday 88 north to 95 along the Rio Grande.

Rains Please Farmers

With the threat of flooding passed, Scurry County area residents were looking forward to sunny and warmer weather and anticipating the benefits of the million dollar summer rains.

Although still overcast and misty at mid-day Friday, forecasts called for isolated thunderstorms and possible clearing by the weekend.

Meanwhile local farmers and ranchers were smiling concerning the benefits to their crops and pasture land. It is believed that the timely three-day rainfall may have saved the dryland cotton crop.

Keen interest also has been focused on the runoff into area lakes which provides both water and recreation for residents.

Additional rainfall in amounts from .8 to 1.5 inches Thursday afternoon and night will be a plus for Lake J.B. Thomas.

So far, the lake has caught 18 inches of water and Bull Creek was running five feet in depth and 15 feet wide. The River Bridge was gauged at 14-feet deep. Roads from Gail into both Snyder and Big Spring were underwater Thursday afternoon and were closed for several hours.

Water district officials reported that Lake Spence has caught little water and that most of the runoff will be delayed for another 24 hours.

Deep Creek flows in the Colorado River which eventually reaches Spence, and the Creek crested at 6½ feet shortly before noon Thursday. The Creek was still running at about 3 feet Friday morning. The Colorado River at Cuthbert was running 12-feet deep.

At Lake Colorado City, the catch was 4½ feet, with a three-day rainfall total of 3.42 inches at the lake. The lake is now only 11 feet from capacity.

After 7 a.m. Thursday, Snyder received .55 inch of rain, bringing the three-day total of 3.58 inches.

The heaviest rainfall in the county was reported near Fluvanna where the 3-day total was in excess of 8 inches.

Other three-day totals were Ira, 2.3 inches; Hermleigh, 5.2 inches; Lake Thomas, 3.4 inches; Gail, 7.2 inches.

Much of Southwest Texas was under a flash flood watch today as scattered showers and thunderstorms, some locally heavy, continued across much of the southern half of Texas.

Counties included in the flash flood watch were El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Reeves, Jeff David, Presidio, Brewster, Pecos, Terrell, Crockett,

Patterson Going To Highland Park

Snyder's city council is expected to meet early next week to formally accept the resignation of City Manager George Patterson and to formulate plans to seek his replacement.

The city council in Highland Park, in north Dallas, met Friday morning to make Patterson's employment as city administrator official.

Patterson will begin work Sept. 1, the effective date of his resignation here. Patterson said Friday that he would probably leave here sometime between Aug. 15 and Sept. 1, depending somewhat on the progress made by the Snyder city council in hiring a new city manager.

Snyder Mayor John Fagin said formal strategy on hiring a new city manager would be made by the full council, but that the council will likely interview applicants by invitation only.

He said that unsoliciated applications would be reviewed, but that the city would likely seek out the top prospects for the job through normal channels.

Fagin said he felt the Snyder position would be attractive to a number of qualified candidates, citing Patterson's 17 years here.

Patterson announced his resignation last Tuesday.

Troop Reduction In Korea Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Carter is delaying for at least two more years any large reduction of U.S. troops in South Korea.

The decision was announced Friday at the White House. It represents a reversal of a campaign commitment to bring the troops home.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the U.S. national security assistant, said North Korea's troop buildup was larger than previous American estimates.

He gave as another reason a steady growth of Soviet military power in East Asia "and the eruption of renewed conflict and new uncertainties in Southeast Asia."

There are nearly 40,000 American forces in South Korea, down some 3,600 from the beginning of the Carter administration.

Carter To Nominate Duncan...

Secretary Of Energy Schlesinger Removed

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Carter removed Energy Secretary James Schlesinger today and will nominate Deputy Defense Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr. to replace him, government officials said.

Schlesinger confirmed that Carter has accepted his resignation. Capitol Hill sources said the president told congressional leaders of his selection of Duncan to take over the Energy Department.

Schlesinger, at the Capitol to testify before a House committee, was asked about reports that he was leaving the administration.

"That is correct," the secretary said.

There also was speculation that Transportation Secretary Brock Adams might be ousted today.

Asked about Schlesinger, House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas said he expected Carter to make the official announcement later in the day.

Wright said it was his understanding that Schlesinger would remain in office until the fall, while Congress is considering the president's recent energy proposals.

"It's cut and dried," one source said of the Duncan decision. Duncan refused to confirm or deny it early today; as did White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Under the shadow of Defense Secretary Harold Brown, Duncan, a multimillionaire and former Coca-Cola executive in Atlanta, has wielded more power than most Cabinet secretaries as he managed the Pentagon on a day-to-day basis.

White House political aides have high regard for Duncan and have long sought a wider role for him in the administration. Duncan, who is known to dislike Brown, has volunteered repeatedly for more responsibility.

Powell said he expected Carter to complete evaluating his Cabinet before the weekend and to turn his attention next week to his own senior staff. A high administration source said this Cabinet reshuffling would be "completed by the end of the day today."

On Thursday, in three announcements in 4½ hours, Powell said Carter had dumped Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and had accepted the resignation of friend and fellow Georgian, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell.

Revealing a new Cabinet look for an election year, Powell said Carter will nominate:

-Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia R. Harris to succeed the controversial and outspoken Califano;

-Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller to succeed Blumenthal, who has had frequent clashes with White House staff members;

-Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti to replace Bell.

Powell said successors to Miller and Mrs. Harris will be named soon.

Adams may have undermined his own position Thursday afternoon with a statement that he had been asked to remain in the Cabinet but was "considering whether or not I should."

medicine game costly

The cost of government health care through Medicaid and Medicare has risen from $6 billion in 1967 to $44 billion in 1978. It is estimated that it will jump to $50 billion during the present year. This is a jump of more than 700 percent in just 11 years time.

With the fraud, abuse and incompetent administration, it is doubtful the taxpayers could have lost that much if the Bureau of Engraving and the mints had been left open for anyone to help themselves to currency and coins.

A story in U.S. News and World Report revealed a picture of abuse, deceit, red tape and bungling that boggles the mind. The magazine article estimates that the health programs are cheating taxpayers out of $8 billion a year and admits the extent of all abuse cannot be documented.

With such a sorry record before the American people, it seems fantastic that Sen. Kennedy and President Carter (with those in between) would be advocating increasing the scope of government into the health care field.

Carter admits that his proposal will add another $23 to $25 billion and it has been estimated that the Kennedy plan would about double Carter's.

We submit that any addition will turn the floodgates loose and the present estimates will start up the express elevator for a rip-off ride for taxpayers.

We also submit that the idea of cutting private insurance in for a piece of the action is only lip service toward private enterprise. By the time the bureaucracy gets through with the program, no private insurance firm would be able to meet the pressures.

Instead of just meeting the castastrophic needs of patients, these plans are destined to be catastrophic to the economic health of this nation.

Under the president's plan there is a requirement that employers pay at least 75 percent of "private" health insurance premiums. Has anyone in the administration even tried to ascertain the impact of such a law? The small business employer makes up the great bulk of business in this nation. That item could spell death to innumerable healthy business enterprises. it would be almost impossible for these small firms to recoup such a labor cost increase with a pass-through to consumers.

Another major bomb is: "universal free care for all pregnant women and their infants under one year old." Just put that one into your minicalculator and see how it will rip open taxpayers' pocketbooks.

We suppose that it is useless to suggest that present programs be brought into line before great additions are added. We would go further to suggest that the government should get out of those costly and ineffective projects. But we know that ours would be only an unheard voice in the wilderness of medicine "according to Marx."

Observers of the Rusian scene have developed an ability to read between the lines of official pronouncements. Regarding the Moscow Olympics, the head of the city's communist party had this advice for Moscow's residents:

"It is necessary...that, in relations with foreigners, the capital's residents show cordiality and hospitality, stress the advantages of the Soviet way of life..and at the same time repulse the propaganda of alien ideas and principles."

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Some of the most creative fiction being written today in this country is never published.

Its authors never appear on talk shows, give magazine interviews, or make big deals with the paperback people.

Their work is confined to a small postcard sent from their vacation to the folks back home.

I have never read a postcard where the people were not having the most wonderful time of their lives and were sick that you were not there to share in their ecstasy. The front of the card may bear a picture of a hotel room that is too depressing to commit suicide in, or a lake that features raw waste, but you flip it over and the writer says, "Having a marvelous time. Weather perfect. Food fantastic. Never want to come home. Tomorrow, we tour Paperclip Factory. Love..."

And who has not received cards they pray their postman has been too busy to examine? We always get at least one from a friend who sends a topless native with arrows and a note saying, "Does this remind you of Bernice after..two martinis?"

I am not a postcard writer, but I married one. This man, who has not written to his only sister in 20 years, will pore over racks of postcards for hours. Then, ignoring hanging gardens, majestic canyons, prehistoric burial grounds, spacious skies and amber waves of grain, he will continue to shuffle through his cards, matching up the belly dancer to the office bachelor, ruins to one of the kids' bedrooms, a statue with one arm missing to his accountant.

I once tugged at his arm and begged him to watch a child being cured in a miracle bath in South America and he pulled away and whispered, "How do you spell Walter Cronkite's last name?"

Once he gets started the literary juices flow. They spill right out in tiny illegible script on the message side to the address side with arrows pointing over to the front and continuing in a circular movement.

My favorite card was one I picked off the rack. Across the front of the card was emblazoned, "RAISING HELL IN ATWATER." There was a picture of a 1937 car parked in front of the courthouse, plastic flowers around the war monument, a man pitching horseshoes, and a dog at the bus station waiting for something to leave.

I didn't send it. I didn't want anyone to know I was there.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The U.S. government's consistent mishandling of its relations with the opposing factions of strife-torn Nicaragua already has degenerated into a textbook example of how not to conduct foreign policy.

The diplomatic blundering on the part of both the White House and State Department is especially unforgivable in light of the extraordinarily long period of advanced warning that the popular revolution was underway in Nicaragua.

In a typical revolutionary situation, only a few weeks or months separate the first public demonstrations of hostility toward the established government, the armed insurrection in the streets and the toppling of an unpopular ruler.

But in Nicaragua, the handwriting has been on the wall for more than 18 months - ever since the Jan. 10, 1978 assassination of a highly respected journalist who was an outspoken critic of President Anastasio Somoza Debayle.

The weeks that followed that seminal incident produced massive public protests, a general strike and the deployment of pro-Somoza National Guard troops in the streets.

Although it rapidly became apparent that opposition to the Somoza government stretched from the well-to-do businessmen in Managua's downtown office buildings to the poor peasants in the rural villages, the United States frittered away all of its opportunities in the ensuing 18 years.

A series of "mediation" missions dispatched from Washington invariably produced too little too late, alternately offering proposals that were unacceptable to Somoza, the insurgents or both.

The United States did not publicly call for the replacement of the Somoza government until last month's policy statement unveiled at an emergency meeting of the Organization of American States by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Even then, Vance committed an unforgivable faux pas, telling the ministers from the OAS member nations that they "must consider on an urgent basis the need for a peacekeeping force to help restore order" in Nicaragua.

That suggestion was met by stunned silence on the part of the Latin American representatives, most of whom recall all too well the first, last and only time the OAS was euchred into accepting a similar U.S. scheme.

That traumatic event occurred in the Dominican Republic in the spring of 1965. The "Inter-American Peace Force" was composed of 1,250 Brazillian troops, 250 soldiers from Honduras, 165 infantrymen from Nicaragua and 25 police officers from Costa Rica.

That was the window dressing. There also were 6,000 U.S. Marines and 16,000 members of the 82nd Airborne Divison.

In other words, the OAS "peacekeeping force" merely a facade for an old-fashioned Yankee military invasion, an event anathema to every Latin American government and people.

Vance's total insensitivity to those concerns was demonstrated by the summary rejection of his plan, not only by the OAS ministers but also by both sides in the Nicaraguan civil war.

After belatedly proclaiming its opposition to the Somoza regime, the State Department sought to even the score by "red-baiting" Somoza's opposition. Leaked to the news media were intelligence reports purporting to show that the Cuban government was providing military assistance to the insurgents.

Conveniently minimized was the military aid being supplied to the rebels from Venezuela and Costa Rica, as well as the fact that Ecuador, Mexico, Panama and Costa Rica had broken diplomatic relations with the Somoza regime.

Even the governments of Guatemala and El Salvador, two Central American nations under right-wing military rule, have indicated displeasure with the Somoza government.

Having now alienated all elements in Nicaragua's civil war through clumsy, inept diplomacy, the United States no doubt will still be surprised if, when the dust settles, the winning faction isn't especially friendly to this country.

my turn

Texas Mid continent Oil and Gas Association of Dallas has published a pamphlet entitled 79 Facts about oil and Gas. Here are a few of the facts that caught my eye.

Lyne T. Barret drilled the first Texas oil well near Nacogdoches in 1886.

Texas Motorists are served by 9,838 service stations.

Texas consumes 8.7 billion gallons of gasoline a year, ranking second behind california.

Cost of drilling a Texas offshore well averages $1,691,564-seven times the cost of the average on-shore well.

Texas oil men drilled 15,037 wells in 1978: 31 percent of U.S. drilling.

Texas drilling in 1978 totaled about 81 million feet of hole.

Nearly 26 percent of the wells drilled were wildcats (ventures that seek new fields). Only 30.3 percent of the wildcats found oil or gas.

Average depth of wells drilled in Texas in 1978 was, 5,385 feet.

Texas' deepest well, 28,500 feet was completed in 1972 in Pecos County; a dry hole.

Of all Texas wells drilled in 1978, about 34.7 percent were dry.

Texas produced 1 billion barrels of crude oil in 1978; 33.8 percent of U.S. total.

Of Texas wells, 90 percent must be pumped, only 10 percent flow from their own pressure.

The Average Texas wells yields 17.2 barrels per day.

Texas produced 33.3 percent of U.S. natural gas in 1978.

More than one out of every four gallons of U.S. major oil products is made in Texas refineries.

Texas oil and gas provide 25 percent of fuel energy produced in the U.S.

Average price for crude oil in 1978 was $9.30 a barrel.

Texas has 27.6 percent of all U.S. oil reserves.

Texas petroleum industry taxes account for 20.6 percent of all state taxes.

The Texas Permanent School Fund in 1978 received $267.5 million from the petroleum industry for lease rentals, bonuses, royalty payments, total since 1932, $1.7 billion.

One-fourth of the gasoline tax is used for public education, balance for roads.

The pamphlet notes that increased values for Texas oil and gas last year resulted in a substantial boost to the state's economy, but that a sharp drop in reserves (12.2 percent for gas and 9.2 percent for crude oil) marks a disturbing trend. To reverse this trend it will take additional drilling, it says, and the application of more sophisticated, and expensive, recovery techniques.

Of the 79 facts in the pamphlet I've listed 20. If you are curious about the other 59 the report may be obtained free on request to the Association, 1341, W. Mockingbird Lane, Dallas 75247.

commentary

donald f. graff

Are we being unfair to OPEC?

Oil is the world's most valued natural resource, but it is also a commodity. Are not those nations which possess it in abundance, and for which it is the prime source of income, justified in seeking the highest possible price for it in the world market?

Americans understandably resent the inconvenience of short supplies and escalating expense, but are they justified in accusing the producers of being greedy? Should they not see the situation as the natural operation of that fundamental law of economics, supply and demand?

Are, in fact, the oil exporters essentially any different than American farmers, asks Joseph C. Harsch, taking the long view of the current energy crisis in a recent commentary in The Christian Science Monitor.

As he points out, these farmers are the world's foremost suppliers of wheat and they are looking forward to the highest prices and incomes in years thanks to the combination of a bumper harvest and crop failures in the Soviet Union and elsewhere which will mean heavy demand for the U.S. surplus.

Having seen crisis after crisis in a long and distinguished career, Harsch is as qualified as anyone in the commentating business to take long views. But this one would seem to overlook some aspects of the oil situation which are right up front.

American farmers do not get together to set the price they intend to receive and then tell consumers what they are going to have to pay. If they did, they would rapidly be called to account by federal agencies and the courts on any number of trade-restraining, price-fixing counts. The price of wheat is determined by bidding for the available supply in the more-or-less open market.

Nor does the governor of Kansas jackboot around intimating that his state might stop growing wheat entirely for a time to show consumers who is in charge, which is roughly what Libya's Col. Muammar al-Quaddafi has been doing of late in respect to his country's oil output.

Nor do American wheat producers make a availability of their product dependent upon buyer adoption of acceptable policies on political issues, as our friends the Saudis are doing in indicating willingness to increase their production - a bit, for a time, maybe - providing the United States leans on Israel to withdraw from the West Bank.

The truth of the matter is that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is a cartel. A cartel does not operate according to the law of supply and demand, it reverses it. First come the demands, and then, providing they are met, the product is supplied. A cartel is illegal in any enterprise which answers to United States law. It is all too painfully obvious that OPEC is in no way answerable.

We tend to see OPEC as a Mideastern force and essentially Arab. It is actually composed of 13 nations as disparates as Iraq aend Nigeria, Indonesia and Ecuador. The smaller producers, whose interests are director toward financing domestic development, are only along for the economic ride. But they are dominated by the major Mideastern producers with polical axes to grind that have turned OPEC into a weapon against the industrial nations.

They tell us, most particularly our friends the Saudis, that they are doing it for our own good, to force upon us the conservation that is essential because of finite supply. There is ultimate truth in that argument and in the end we may thank them for awakening us early to our dangerous dependence upon the oil cartel.

But the present crisis is not the result of dwindling supply. That is still some years in the future. It is a manufactured crisis and it is essentially political in purpose, to put the screws to the industrial consumers. It bears more resemblance to extortion than it does to supply and demand.

No, the oil producers and American farmers are not in the same class. The latter are subject to enough economic injury in the cycles of good and bad years. There is no justification for adding the insult of such a comparison.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

We just must comment on your editorial of July 17, concerning "Selling Our Souls" to the OPEC nations. We agree with you 100 percent! Surely there are still more people in our Country with the common sense to see the self-destructive course we are headed on, than there are environmentalists and do-gooders who are destroying us. Every responsible citizen who is concerned about our Country's future must educate themselves on the issues and write their Representatives regularly and forcefully. We have the resources and capability in our United States to be energy-independent to the extent we will never again have our necks on the chopping-block for the Arabs; but to do so we must see that private industry, including the oil industry, is cut loose from the regulations and restrictions that prevent the profits needed to be worth the risks involved.

We know that all energy costs will stay high and probably continue to increase; buy why should not Industry in our country reap the profits and provide the employment, instead of allowing other countries to demand whatever prices they wish, and then come back and buy up our land and businesses with the exorbitant profits we pay them.

We still believe that supply and demand within our Country is our best chance of keeping prices within reason on any product or service. Profit is certainly not a dirty word! It is what encourages individuals or industry to expand, provides jobs and encourages initiative.

We as individuals, must insist on less government; less taxes, and less give-away programs; and we must return to the individual responsibility to work for what we receive.

Sincerely,
Anna K. Carman

Her 'Real' Father Isn't Real Father

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago, when I was 2, my parents split up. My mother was an alcoholic and didn't want me. My father couldn't raise me alone, so I was given up for adoption.

The only parents I have ever known are the wonderful couple who adopted me, loved me, gave me their name and a good life.

Recently, out of the blue, my "real" father contacted me by telephone and said he was coming out to meet me. I had always known I was adopted and thought it rather exciting to be meeting my "real" father.

I'm not sure what I expected, but this man was a terrible disappointment. He is a heavy drinker, smokes like a chimney, has had a rough life and looks it. The father who raised me is exactly the opposite.

Although I feel sorry for this stranger, I don't know how to tactfully discourage him from wanting more of my life than I want to give him. I'm grown up now and have no desire for a close relationship. I don't want to shut him out completely, but we have nothing in common and I see no basis for more than a distant friendship.

How would you or your readers handle this?

FOUND IN OREGON

DEAR FOUND: I would be respectful and courteous, carefully avoiding any phony expression of affection in order to make him feel better. Any pretense of feelings that are not sincere would be more cruel than kind.

DEAR ABBY: This is our first baby, and my husband and I couldn't be happier but, wouldn't you know it, there is a problem.

My husband absolutely, positively refuses to change our baby's diaper.

He says he will do anything and everything in the line of housework, cooking, laundry, marketing, etc., but he simply cannot bring himself to change a diaper! He says that is a MOTHER'S job.

Abby, my husband is the dearest, sweetest, most considerate guy in the world, but his mind is closed on this particular subject and he will not budge.

What is your opinion?

IRRITATED IN IDAHO

DEAR IRRITATED: Diaper-changing is no more a mother's job than a father's. However, if he agrees to do anything and everything BUT, don't hassle the dearest, sweetest, most considerate guy in the world.

DEAR ABBY: A big thanks to you for warning people to never leave discarded refrigerators where youngsters can crawl into them and suffocate before they're found.

After reading that item I literally ran to our garage where mine is stored and removed the door as you suggested.

We have a 3-year-old and a 1-year-old, and I would never forgive myself if they became victims of such a tragic accident. I hope other readers did the same.

THANKFUL MOM

DEAR MOM: I hope so, too. But, unfortunately, some will not. Read on for another life-saving letter on that subject.:

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote about her small daughter being found blue and nearly lifeless after having been trapped for hours in an abandoned refrigerator in a neighbor's yard.

Your advice was good, but parents should also be aware of the potential danger of refrigerators and upright freezers that are IN USE!

Children have been known to climb inside these (in basements) to "hide." They are equally as dangerous.

Fewer Schools, More Students Reports TEA

AUSTIN (AP)—The number of public school districts in Texas has steadily declined since 1974-75 but enrollment has risen, the Texas Education Agency reported Monday.

The TEA's annual report to the governor showed Texas had 1,135 school districts in 1974-75 and 1,105 in 1977-78.

The number of students in that same period rose from 2,529,015 to 2,588,319, the agency said.

In the 1978 fiscal year, the report said, the TEA handled more than $2.6 billion in state and federal funds for schools.

"This is slightly less than 3½ times the $764 million of suppport 11 years earlier, in 1968," the TEA added. "The proportions of state and federal support, however, have remained virtually constant over this period, varying no more than 2 or 3 percent from the average of about 83 percent for state funds and about 17 percent for federal funds. Private sources of support have been negligible."

Snuff Bottles On View

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—An exhibition of almost 100 18th-century and 19th-century Chinese snuff bottles is on view at the Elvehjem Museum of Art through July 29.

The museum says the selection includes bottles made from dozens of materials, both natural and man-made. The bottles served as containers for snuff which was brought to China about 1650 by European traders.

Men's Fashion Trend Changes Ever Four Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Fashion trends in men's clothing usually go through a four-year cycle, according to an apparel specialist.

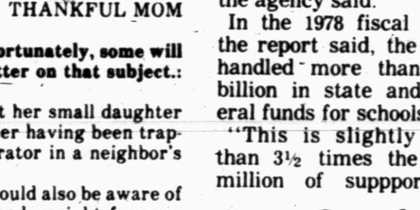

The first year a new style is the province of the avant garde, says Marvin A. Blumenfeld of April-Marcus, Inc., a merchandising consulting firm.

In the second year, the style is in general production but not yet popular, he said.

But by the third year, everyone has seen the style on television programs and it becomes the thing to wear, Blumenfeld explained, adding that everyone in the industry is making the item by the fourth year - and then the style starts on the downgrade.

East took his ace of clubs and led a second club. South took his king and threw West in with a third club. West smiled happily, cashed his last three clubs while East discarded his three diamonds. Then West led his king of diamonds and East was forced to unguard one of his jacks South took the rest of the tricks.

"What could I have done?" asked West.

"Learned to play bridge," replied East. "As soon as South put you in with that club you should have been suspicious. As Vergil said, 'Beware the Greeks bearing gifts.' South isn't a Greek but he gave you one of those Greek gifts."

West had an easy way to beat the hand. As soon as he got on lead he should have led his king of diamonds. South couldn't afford to duck, because once South ducked West could cash his last two clubs.

He also had a complicated way to beat the hand. He could cash all his clubs and then lead a heart. This would break up any squeeze against East because South held only one heart.

Parent Shortage

America is turning into a nation of one-parent families, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

According to the Census Bureau, 11 million U.S. children were living with one parent in 1977 - double the number in 1960.

Census Bureau studies project that nearly half the American babies born last year will live part of their lives with only one parent -- at least several months - before they reach age 18.

The Bureau also reports 43 percent of all black children in the country already live this way.

Energy, Inflation Plunge The Nation Toward Recession

DALLAS (AP)-Energy shortages caused by the government and spiraling inflation will plunge the nation into a recession within a year, a visiting scholar to the Southern Growth Policies Board in Washington, D.C., has predicted.

"I would concur with those who point to the Department of Energy as the cause of these shortages," said Bernard L. Weinstein, associate professor of economics and political economy and director of the University of Texas at Dallas' Southwest Center for Economic and Community Development.

Speaking Thursday to the 4th annual Public Utilities Conference sponsored by UTD, Weinstein also predicted Congress will cut corporate and personal income taxes substantially early in 1980.

The Southwest will not escape this recession, he said, because it "is becoming more and more like the rest of the nation...The Southwest can no longer market itself on the basis of cheap labor, cheap energy, inexpensive housing, or lower living costs."

"I do expect the maintenance of the Southwestern lifestyle to become increasingly expensive. Indeed, I would predict that the lower cost of living, which has been such a strong magnet attracting industry and people to the Southwest, will have evaporated within five years," Weinstein said.

Attempts to substantially increase synthetic fuel production will get lost in the "regulatory jungle" of the National Energy Act, he said, adding less government intervention - not more - would speed energy security.

"It is obvious to me that the president and his advisers do not understand - or are unwilling to face up to - the real causes of energy shortages; and most of the proposals for increased energy production strike me as both unrealistic and expensive," he said.

The North is more energy efficient and the relative increases in production costs will be more pronounced in the South, he said.

A Dallas utility official earlier told the conference that the energy program "can only result in disaster for the utility industry and its customers" unless the increased regulatory risk can be diminished.

John S. Ferguson, senior vice president of Middle West Service Co., predicted the gas industry will suffer more than the electric industry from the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act, one of five parts of the national program.

The act attempts to decrease use of imported oil while artifically increasing the price of natural gas to some large energy users, he said, thus discouraging use of natural gas as a boiler fuel.

Your Birthday

July 21, 1979

This coming year you will be better able to consolidate your forces in order to achieve your aims. Your outer and inner drives will function harmoniously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) All the grand intentions in the world will do you no good unless you are realistic in your planning. A poor choice of a co-worker could ruin everything. Your new Astro-Graph Letter tells you what lies ahead for you for the year following your birthday. Get yours by mailing $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth time.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) If you find yourself stuck with those you consider to be boring and uninteresting, make the best of it and be the gracious person you innately are.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) You are much too wishy-washy about your goals to accomplish much of anything today. Instead, you may spend all your time and energy making excuses.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.23) Your mind has a tendency to wander today, fantasizing all types of things. Take care not to put too much stock in your daydreams.

SCORPIO (Oct.24-Nov.22) Count your blessings today and not all those things you don't have. You can spend just as much energy on positive thoughts as on negative ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.23-Dec.21) That ideal you're chasing isn't to be found today, because all you can see are the imperfections in others. Revise your thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) Inconsistency in the direction of your output and energies gets in the way of your getting anything accomplished today. Don't be a drifter.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.19) You are kidding yourself if you think the world is going to entertain you today. Things happen to those who make them happen.

PISCES (Feb.20-March 20) Disstisfaction with your lot in life could have you making many unproductive changes today. Take a realistic look at what you are doing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency to chatter aimlessly today without giving much consideration to what you're saying. You may mean no offense, but someone could be hurt.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) You'll have to continue to be extra careful with your spending. Again today you could buy without thinking about anything but your personal desires.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Kidding yourself about how much you are capable of doing at one time and attempting too many projects could make you a very unreliable partner today.

High Winds Topple Bus

BUCKEYE, Ariz. (AP) —High winds from a nearby thunderstorm battered a Greyhound bus, sending it sliding off the road onto its side and injuring 17 of its 24 passengers, three seriously, the Arizona Department of Public Safety said.

The bus, enroute to Memphis, Tenn., struck the guard rail on Interstate 10 just west of here shortly after dark Tuesday.

No.1 America's energy problem is a very complex and multi-faceted issue. This is the first in a series in which we will take each of the individual factors involved, one at a time, and discuss the role of each.

Imported oil — part of why we're coming up short.

In 1970, the U.S. imported less than 23% of its oil. Today, we depend on other countries for about 45% of our total supply. This heavy dependence on other countries means that even small interruptions in our imported supply can cause severe problems here at home.

"Sorry, no oil for a while, we're having a revolution."

The unexpected revolt in Iran cut the world's oil supply by about 5 million barrels daily. Almost immediately, a world-wide scramble for the limited supply of oil still available took place. In the months that followed, some oil exporting nations did boost production somewhat, but not enough to off-set the world-wide loss.

"And what about today?"

Though oil is once again coming out of Iran, they are exporting only about 3 million barrels daily, less than two-thirds the amount exported before the revolution. Making the current supply situation even more uncertain is the fact that, except for Saudi Arabia, most of the other OPEC countries are unable or unwilling to increase production to make up for the Iran shortfall.

Events in other countries are not the only reasons why the world is coming up short—and why Americans are experiencing shortages at the pumps. But these events are a significant part of the problem.

Factors like refining capacity, increased demand, government regulations, environmental restrictions, and different qualities of crude oil have all played a role and all will be discussed in future communications.

"... And what about tomorrow?"

The fact is, we are consuming energy at an alarming rate. U.S. oil consumption has jumped by over 16% during the last three years, while U.S. oil production, including Alaska, increased only 3%.

While we cannot control the availability of oil from foreign suppliers, we can and must begin developing more of our own domestic energy resources. We must, at the same time, do everything possible to conserve the energy we have now.

Thank you for listening.

Worker's Comp Rates Raised 5%

AUSTIN (AP)-The State Insurance Board Thursday raised workers' compensation rates 5 percent to cover the cost of higher benefits for injured workers that take effect Sept. 1.

The increase means Texas businessmen will pay about $50 million more in premiums over the coming year. This would be in addition to the $1 billion they now pay each year to cover the costs of on-the-job injuries.

Minimum benefits for injured workers or their survivors will rise from $21 to $23 a week. Maximum weekly benefits will rise from $105 to $119 a week.

The benefit increases are provided under a state law that raises the minimum by $1 and the maximum by $7 for each $20 rise in the average weekly wage for factory workers.

The Texas Association of Business issued a written statement to the three member insurance board, urging it to start immediately an in-depth study of workers' compensation rate-making proceedures.

Ave. D Baptist To Hear Bonner

Dr. Mickey Bonner, Houston evangelist, will lead a revival at Ave. D Baptist Church Sunday through Wednesday. His theme will be how to live a victorious life as a Christian. Services begin each evening at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Bonner will also preach at the Sunday services at 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. and will teach a men's Bible class each evening at 6:30. His wife, Margaret, will teach a women's class at the same time.

Terry Bowman will lead revival music.

Hospital Board Meets Tonight

A special meeting of the Cogdell Hospital board of managers will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in the hospital conference room.

Administrator Cy Miller said the board will consider repairs to the hospital's air conditioning system.

Robert Bruce - king and national hero of Scotland - died in 1329. Only a year before his death, his 25 years on the battlefield had culminated in the Treaty of Northampton, which secured Scottish independence. His most famous battle was at Bannock Burn, where his strategy defeated an English force that greatly outnumbered his own.

ACU Speakers Here Sunday

ABILENE—Representatives of Abilene Christian University will be in Snyder Sunday as part of a series of Christian Education Sunday programs sponsored each year by the university.

They will speak at the 6 p.m. worship services of two Church of Christ congregations on the topic "The Value of Christian Education," according to Milton B. Fletcher, vice president for public relations and development.

William B. Decker, regional director of public relations development, will speak at the 37th Street Church of Christ, and Roy Shake, associate professor of biology, will speak at the East Side Church of Christ.

Following the worship services ACU alumni and friends of Christian education will be invited to say for a brief report on "The State of the University" and a showing of the film "Affirming the Changeless."

In 1978 ACU was responsible for filling 363 pulpits nationwide using 58 different speakers from the university in a continuing effort to share with churches the importance of Christian education.

Agape To Hear Guest Speaker

Miss Laurene Bussy will be guest speaker at morning and evening services Sunday at Agape Christian Fellowship now meeting at West Elementary Auditorium, 37th and El Paso.

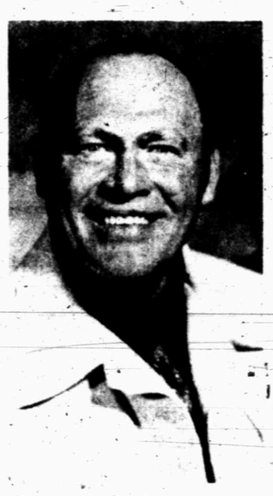

Miss Bussy has B.A. and M.A. degrees in math from Texas Tech University. She also has her T.H.B. from Bethany Nazarene College and is doing graduate work at Texas Tech. She is presently an instructor on the staff of Trinity Bible Institute and contributes much of the material for the adult education department of Trinity Church in Lubbock.

"Miss Bussy is a very delightful person with a tremendous Bible knowledge and a wonderful sense of humor. Her deep love and commitment to Jesus Christ is used by the Holy Spirit to move the hearts and challenge the lives of all who hear," says Jay Newsom, pastor of Agape.

He invites all to attend services to hear Miss Bussy speak on the level of commitment to Christ, "In Times Like These."

Rains

Schleicher and Sutton.

Forecasts called for continued showers and thunderstorms, some locally heavy, across the southern two-thirds of Texas today. Most of the locally heavy activity was expected in Southwest Texas, where rivers and streams were running bankfull or near bankfull.

The northern third of the state was to have partly cloudy skies and continued warm temperatures. Highs were to range from the 80s in North Texas to near 100 in far South Texas.

Forecasters said satellite pictures indicate that much of the Pecos Valley, where creeks were running bankfull, got 2-4 inches of rain during the night.

About 25 families were evacuated from their homes at Lamesa Thursday after heavy rains swamped several West Texas cities.

Several funnel clouds were sighted in West and South Texas as vicious thunderstorms roared across those areas of Texas.

Help for tinnitus

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my husband noted your column about how a hearing aid might help ringing in the ear. I've had a constant ringing in my ears since I was in my teens. I am now 30. I've been told that nothing could be done for this condition. Most of the time I can keep it drowned out with the radio or TV or a fan. Sometimes these other sounds do not help. I'm interested to know if there are any tinnitus clinics in our area. The ear specialists I've been to have not been able to explain my problem. Some said that it may have been caused by allergies. Any help that you can give me will be appreciated greatly.

DEAR READER — By now most of the specialists in ear, nose and throat and the audiologists who are keeping up to date at all with the literature should be aware that there are things that can be done to help a lot of people with ringing and noises in the ear. When I say a lot of people that doesn't mean everyone.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-10, Help For Tinnitus — Noise Or Ringing In The Ear. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I would suggest you take it along with you when you see your ear, nose and throat specialist and tell him that you've read it and you would like to know if a hearing aid or a tinnitus masker would be helpful in your case.

Now relieving the annoyance of ringing in the ear doesn't always mean that you're going to explain the problem. There are instances in which we never know what causes the ringing or buzzing in the ear. But, of course, it is a symptom and a person needs a careful examination to see if there is a cause that can be detected.

Simply not knowing what causes the ringing or buzzing in the ear doesn't mean that it can't be helped either with a hearing aid, if there's an associated hearing loss, or with a tinnitus masker if the hearing is normal.

The truth is you're using a modified form of tinnitus masker when you turn up the radio or the television or use a fan. It would be a lot more efficient to have a balanced noise provided to your ear in the form of a tinnitus masker if your testing proved that you'd be a candidate for it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do you get any benefit from taking a tablespoon of all natural dark molasses a day or would it do any harm? Will it prevent constipation?

DEAR READER — If you're talking about black strap molasses, it does contain a small amount of iron (and one tablespoon a day won't provide enough to make that much difference) and quite a bit of potassium. A single tablespoon does contain 585 milligrams of potassium which is about twice the amount that you'd get in an average orange. A normal person should be getting quite sufficient potassium anyway if he includes the proper amount of fruits and fruit juices in his diet.

Molasses won't help at all with constipation.

Says Land Commissioner...

Profits Tax Should Not Apply To School Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)-The windfall profits tax on domestic oil production should not apply to the revenue Texas receives for its permanent school funds, state Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong told a Senate committee Thursday.

The income Texas receives from oil and gas production on state land is placed in permanent school funds, and the interest on the body or "corpus" of the funds is used for education.

"Therefore, the application of any crude oil 'windfall' profits tax to royalties paid to states with respect to state school lands not only will reduce directly the amount of funds otherwise available to such states for their educational programs, but take away a part of the corpus that we have struggled to maintain," Armstrong said.

"These sales have never been taxed by the federal government," he added.

The House made state royalties exempt in the windfall profits tax measure it passed. The Senate Finance Committee presently is considering the proposal.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., asked if the federal government had the authority to tax another government in any event.

"To my knowledge, there has never been a tax levied on the sale of property belonging to a state," Armstrong replied.

He said exempting the state royalty from any windfall profits tax would affect eight-tenths of one percent of the total Texas production.

At the same hearing, industry spokesmen requested exemptions for independent producers and production from stripper wells. They warned that a higher tax will mean less exploration and lower production.

Strippers wells are those which maintain an average daily production of 10 barrels or less.

Harrold E. Wright of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association said the independent producers who find most of the nation's new oil will be strapped for cash to continue explorations under the windfall profits tax proposals.

Mass Transit Use Increases

By The Associated Press

Though gasoline lines are rarer and shorter, many Americans, still faced with rationing and higher prices for gas, continue to drive less and use mass transit more than they did before the latest crunch.

In Los Angeles, where gas lines first waxed and since have waned, bus ridership is still 25 percent above the pre-crunch levels, officials say. Traffic on bridges and tunnels between New York and New Jersey remains below last year's levels.

Spot checks indicated gasoline supplies should be adequate this weekend, but the outlook for the end of the month was less clear as some service stations were expected to begin running short of July allocations.

Ten states and the District of Columbia continue to have odd-even gasoline rationing programs. But Pennsylvania said it was adjusting its rationing program to ease the impact on tourism.

In New Jersey, gasoline dealers held demonstrations to protest government pricing regulations.

Meanwhile, Mobil announced Thursday that more gasoline would be made available to its stations. The company said it would be able to give its dealers a 3 percent increase in their gasoline allocations for the remainder of July and August.

The California Department of Transportation said freeway traffic in the state was about 3 percent below last year's levels and ridership on mass transit systems was up 14 to 20 percent.

In New York, a spokesman for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey said traffic on its six bridges and tunnels between the two states remained about 7.5 percent below last year's levels despite shorter gas lines in the area.

But in Washington, D.C. officials said driving patterns were returning to normal, with traffic increasing and weekend shopping returning to precrisis levels.

Crowds Celebrate Fall Of Somoza

By JOE FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)-Sandinista leaders and guerrillas converged on Nicaragua's capital today to tackle the tasks of relief and reconstruction as jubilant crowds up and down the little Central American country celebrated the downfall of the Somoza dictatorship.

Two of the five members of the junta arrived in Managua with members of the new cabinet from Costa Rica. The other three junta members were expected today from Leon, their provisional capital since early Wednesday.

Concluding a seven-week uprising, the Sandinista guerrillas took control of Managua early Thursday, two days after President Anastasio Somoza fled to Miami Beach and a day after his handpicked successor, Francisco Urcuyo, flew to Guatemala.

About 700 guerrillas poured in from Leon, 55 miles northwest of Managua, and charged into the deserted Bunker, Somoza's military headquarters. Some grabbed weapons and uniforms. Others entered the dictator's apartment, and one guerrilla couple posed for photographers on Somoza's bed with a red and black Sandinista flag tacked up over the headboard.

A second column of 4,200 marched in from the Southern cities of Masaya, Granada, Jinotepe and Diriamba late Thursday afternoon. Most camped in front of the Intercontinental Hotel adjacent to the Bunker. They said they were awaiting further orders and that many of them likely would be sent back to their hometowns after it was determined how many soldiers were needed in Managua.

There was no indication the guerrillas looted or molested Managua residents. Hundreds of local people picked up automatic weapons abandoned by national guardsmen who changed into civilian clothes and tried to blend into the civilian population.

Delighted teenagers careended through town in cars and trucks, firing automatic rifles and pistols in the air. Throngs of civilians danced through the streets, shouting, "Victory has arrived."

Police Probe Cycle Mishap

One major traffic accident was recorded Thursday on Snyder's rain-slickened streets.

That mishap occurred about 8:50 p.m. in the 2000 block of of Merrill. There, reports show, Glendell Lee Treat lost control of the motorcycle he was driving. This morning he was listed in good condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Three minor wrecks have also been reported.

One occurred in the 1500 block of 26th St. at 10:50 a.m. and involved a 1974 Chevrolet truck driven by Robert Clayton Walker of Lubbock and a 1978 Pontiac driven by Ida Stuard Walker.

Another wreck took place in the 2500 block of College Ave. at 9:55 a.m. and involved a 1977 Buick driven by Lajuana Sellars and a 1976 International truck driven by Larry Pat Humphreys of Breckenridge.

A minor two-vehicle accident also occurred this morning at the parking lot of the Club 250. There, a parked 1974 Ford owned by Steven Nail of Dunn and a 1979 Mercury driven by Sue Ann Beach of Colorado City were in collision at 1:40 a.m. today.

Also, a criminal mischief and two reports of thefts were received.

The criminal mischief was in the form of a broken windshield on a vehicle owned by Wesley Stevens. Damage in that incident was pegged at $150.

The thefts involved rodeo banners taken from Farm Bureau and Everybody's Grocery.

Turtles Rescued From Oil Slick

GALVESTON (AP)-Government scientists rescued 450 baby turtles from a Gulf of Mexico oil spill Thursday, but couldn't find the oil.

The scientists were in a specially equipped C-130 cargo plane, and their primary mission was mapping the oil spill resulting from a blown-out well off the coast of Mexico.

The airlift of the tiny Kemps Ridley sea turtle hatchlings was part of a joint effort by the United States and Mexico to save the endangered species from the runaway oil slick.

The oil has been gushing from the Ixtoc I, an exploratory offshore well owned by the Mexican government, at the rate of 30,000 gallons a day since a natural gas explosion June 3.

'Miracle Baby' Born Wednesday

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)-Doctors are calling David Lee Patterson a "miracle baby."

David, who weighed six pounds, four ounces, was developed outside his mother's womb. Doctors at North Carolina Memorial Hospital say the live birth of such a baby is "too rare to estimate scientifically."

The baby was born Wednesday to Charles and Shirley Patterson of Burlington. The mother and child were reported doing well.

Top Pick Headed For Canadian League...

Cousineau Jumps (NFL) Draft

NEW YORK (AP)—As a kid, Tom Cousineau never dreamed he'd be a pioneer.

Just a couple of months ago, when he was the No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft, the Ohio State All-America linebacker appeared on the verge of accomplishing a childhood ambition. Now he may become known as a sporting trendsetter.

"Any kid in the U.S. playing football grows up dreaming to play in the NFL," Cousineau said Thursday after signing a multiyear contract with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. "I'm no exception but this is a very positive move.

"It's a possibility it will set a precedent. But that's not why I did it."

What the 22-year old, 6-foot-3, 227-pound Cousineau did was become the first top pick in the NFL draft ever to bypass the NFL and sign with another league. He turned down what the Buffalo Bills termed "an offer in excess of any ever sought by a No. 1 draft choice."

He did it because the Alouettes' package outdid the Bills' best offer.

Although terms of the contract were not disclosed, Jimmy Walsh, Cousineau's attorney, said: "Montreal won more than Buffalo lost. It was a better business deal for Tom in Montreal. Better for money and from other standpoints."

Cousineau's signing lends credence to the CFL's position as a viable alternative to the NFL for graduating collegians.

"Jimmy came to us about a month ago," Alouettes General Manager Bob Geary said. "I guess he was looking for someone to compete with the Bills. We thought we lost him two weeks ago. It was a monetary thing but we got it worked out."

The CFL season began two weeks ago and Cousineau said he will be ready to step into the lineup next Wednesday.

Houston Continues Downward Plunge

PITTSBURGH (AP)—For better or for worse, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Houston Astros both picked up where they left off before the All-Star break.

"You've got to play like this to win a pennant," Phil Garner said Thursday night after he, Willie Stargell and John Milner rapped homers to help the surging Pirates sweep a double-header from Houston 9-5, 4-2.

In the nightcap, Milner hit a first-inning homer and Bruce Kison blanked the Astros on four hits until the ninth, when he needed relief help from Grant Jackson.

Milner's homer followed Tim Foli's single off loser Joe Niekro, 13-5. Pittsburgh added two more in the fifth on an RBI single by Kison and a sacrifice fly by Dave Parker.

After allowing a one-out single to Ashby in the third, Kison, 6-4, retired 17 consecutive batters until he ran into trouble in the ninth.

In the opener, the score was tied twice before Garner's two-run homer in the sixth inning gave the Pirates a 7-5 lead.

"I haven't hit the ball well with men on base. It felt good to get a game winner," said Garner, who'd been sidelined since July 7 with a hand injury.

Stargell had broken a 3-3 tie in the third with his 19th homer after a walk to Parker.

White Sox Rip Rangers;

Garr, Lemon The Culprits

ARLINGTON (AP)—A pair of two-run homers by Ralph Garr helped power the Chicago White Sox to a 9-6, 5-4 sweep of a twi-night double-header over the Texas Rangers Thursday.

Garr's blast just inside the foul pole in right field gave Chicago a 3-3 tie in the fifth of the nightcap and Chet Lemon followed with a solo homer an inning later as Ken Kravec raised his record to 9-8.

Kravec struck out four and allowed five hits in outduelling Ferguson Jenkins, 10-6.

Jorge Orta doubled and scored on Lamar Johnson's single to give Chicago a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but Richie Zisk smashed a two-run homer in the second and Pat Putnam a solo homer in the fourth to put Texas ahead 3-1.

Orta, who drove in two runs with a double and a triple in the first game, came back with a triple to open the eighth inning of the second game and Johnson's third single of the game made it 5-3. Buddy Bell homered for Texas in the eighth.

Garr went 3-for-4 in the opener, scoring twice with a single, double and homer as Steve Trout, 4-3, got the win. Dave Rajsich, 0-1, lost after giving up a single, a double and Johnson's three-run homer in the fifth.

The White Sox nailed starter Danny Darwin and two relievers for 14 hits, including three homers, a triple and four doubles.

Zisk singled in two runs and John Ellis got two RBI singles as Texas got off to a 4-1 lead. But Garr's third-inning homer cut the lead to 4-3 and Johnson's blast in the fifth put Chicago ahead to stay.

At Lytham St. Annes...

Irwin Leads Open

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Golf fanatics have argued for years whether the U.S. Open or the British Open is the world's leading tournament.

Hale Irwin, the current U.S. Open champion, doesn't profess to have the answer. But he could well answer the question "who is the Open Champion?" by winning the British tournament as well.

Irwin went into today's third round at Lytham St. Annes with a 2-stroke advantage over young Spaniard Severiano Ballesteros. Irwin shot his second successive 68 for a 6-under-par total of 136.

Irwin's round included three birdies on the front nine and not a single bogey. The round lifted the bespectacled American above overnight leader Bill Longmuir.

The little-known Briton shot a 3-over-par 74 to end the day at 139, one shot behind Ballesteros. Two-time British Open winner Tom Watson was fourth at 140, after carding a 3-under 68.

Ballesteros' 65 was the best round of the day. It equalled the course record that Longmuir also had equalled the day before.

Ballesteros' round was remarkable in that he birdied four of the last five holes. The back stretch is regarded as the most difficult part of the course, and it finished off such dogged competitors as defending champion Jack Nicklaus.

Rosen Leaves NY Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the world champion New York Yankees, has begun looking for a new president for the American League team after Al Rosen resigned "to explore several other business opportunities."

Rosen, in a statement issued by the Yankees, said "contrary to speculation, I have not, nor will I, accept any of those business opportunities in the near future."

Rosen's resignation, which had been rumored for several days, apparently was triggered by a dispute between Rosen, Steinbrenner and Manager Billy Martin.

Borg Makes Quarterfinals

BAASTAD, Sweden (AP)—Sweden's Bjorn Borg beat Italian Antonio Zugarelli 6-0, 6-1 to reach the quarterfinals of the $110,000 Swedish Open tennis championships.
