Hirohito Ousts Tojo As Premier

Jap 'Dictator' Falls After Saipan Defeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo, who led Japan into war against America and Britain and had been virtual dictator for two and a half years, has fallen with his entire cabinet and Tokyo announced Thursday that Emperor Hirohito had ordered another general and an admiral to form a new government "in cooperation."

Hirohoto's mandate was given Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, governor general of Korea, and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, premier in 1940, two of the most powerful leaders of the fighting services. Tokyo broadcasts said completion of the new cabinet was expected Thursday night or early Friday (Tokyo time).

The choice indicates there will be no fundamental departure from the principle of military rule. Both Koiso and Yonai have been known as progressive proponents of Japanese expansion.

The designation of two men is unprecedented and signifies a determination to combine all elements of the army and navy in a government to cope with the acknowledged peril of defeat by the United States and its allies.

The announcements of Tojo's fall and the choice of his successors came in a series of broadcasts recorded by the Federal Communications Commission and the Associated Press.

The ousting of Tojo was a sequel to the series of defeats climaxed by the loss of Saipan July 10, bringing American air and naval power within a few hours' bomber flight of the Japanese homeland and confronting the empire with what Tojo himself called an "unprecedentedly great national crisis."

Mighty Upheaval

His fall constitutes one of the most drastic governmental upheavals of the Second World War, since his position generally had been considered abroad similar to that of Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy.

Domei, the official news agency, indicated that Tojo had fought a losing battle for the past week to maintain his power. One of the problems facing him, said Domei, was the necessity of "enlisting capable men in his cabinet and renovating the cabinet structure." He held a series of meetings with senior statesmen but failed and thereupon collected the resignations of all his

American Planes Shatter Leipzig War Factories

LONDON —(AP)— Another 2,000 American planes blackened the skies of Central Germany Thursday, bombing a great array of airplane factories and synthetic oil planes around Leipzig.

The armada consisted of more than 1,200 bombers and up to 750 fighters.

Enemy broadcasts declared other American bombers from Italy were striking the roofless Reich for the third straight day, this time in Tyrol and Bavacia. On both Tuesday and Wednesday, fleets struck Germany from Britain and Italy, 2,000 from the west Wednesday and 1,000 from the south.

Hit Rocket Coast

RAF heavy bombers streamed across the channel in daylight against the robot bomb platforms of Northern France after bombing caves housing the missiles at Thiverny, 30 miles northeast of Paris, at dusk.

American Havoc light bombers jabbed against air opposition nearly to the Belgian border, hitting rail yards at Chaulnes, 20 miles east of Amiens where much German activity had been noted. Waves of Marauder medium bombers were reported over the battles in Normandy.

Leipzig is 90 miles southwest of Berlin. Targets Thursday included:

A Junkers airplane engine factory at Dessau.

Focke-Wulf engine works at Eisenach and Eisenach-Stockhausen, 100 miles southwest of Leipzig.

A ball bearings factory at Leipzig.

A Messerschmitt fighter assembly plant in the Leipzig suburb of Mockau and another at Gotha, 80 miles to the southwest.

An airplane parts and truck factory at Russelsheim, a suburb of Mainz, near Frankfort.

Synthetic oil plants at Merseburg and at Lutzkendorf, near Leipzig.

Wallace Hits Comeback Trail With 16 Votes From Kansas

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO STADIUM — (AP) — Henry A. Wallace, regarded by many as all but counted out only 24 hours ago, hit the comeback trail in his fight for renomination Thursday while Sen. Harry S. Truman, his leading rival, gained the open support of one of President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Postmaster General Frank Walker told reporters, "I'm for Truman."

Wallace's backers were cheered by addition of 16 Kansas votes to his column.

Kansas, its 16 convention votes previously unpledged, caucused and balloted to give them to the tousled Iowan—possibly indicating a new trend among some of the previously uncommitted delegations.

Backers of Sen. Harry Truman of Missouri, however, conceded nothing—many predicting his nomination over Wallace on the first or second ballot.

Not Campaigning

Truman himself told reporters, however, "I'm not campaigning for anything."

Asked if he had talked to President Roosevelt, he replied "No."

With 684 1/2 votes still unpledged and unclaimed, Wallace had 154 1/2 votes claimed and 165 pledged outright—total of 319 1/2. Truman had only Missouri's 32 pledged outright, with 589 needed to nominate, but apparently had been promised support from big city organizations.

As the convention prepared to renominate President Roosevelt and hear his acceptance by radio, Thursday night, the lines for the Wallace-Truman struggle were drawn by party leaders. These were headed by National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, vigorously backing his 60-year old fellow Missourian.

But Wallace, as Thursday's first caucus vote and hotel corridor talk plainly indicated, made it tough for the strategists who wanted to eliminate him and name the chairman of the Senate's War Investigating Committee on the first ballot.

Ickes Backs Wallace

Wallace got some unexpected help from Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, who was reported reliably to have sent the President a telegram declaring that Mr. Roosevelt had made a "mistake" in naming Truman as a second choice.

Ickes, who is credited with having once urged Wallace to get out of the race, now was said to be backing the Iowan strongly because of his "liberal" views.

The vice president, who confirmed that such a telegram had been sent, has reiterated his intention to remain in the race until the last ballot is counted.

Comfortably enscounced on the convention platform while Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma was shouting challenge after challenge to Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, two men of might in Democratic councils gave the inner circle's answer to the vice presidential puzzle.

Said Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City's vote-producing organization:

"If President Roosevelt's for Truman, I'm for him."

Allies Widen Western Front Breach

Tanks, Infantry Sweep Forward On Wide Sector

By WES GALLAGHER

SHAEF— (AP) —Strong British armored formations under the command of a man who once was Marshal Erwin Rommel's prisoner have captured 12 towns and now are approaching Vimont, eight miles southeast of Caen on the road to Caen, supreme headquarters announced Thursday.

Just short of Vimont the armored drive led by Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Nugent O'Connor—who was captured in the African desert in 1941 but escaped from an Italian prison camp—jabbed into battered German positions after carving out a four-mile wide spearhead south from the vicinity of Troarn, east of Caen.

Comparative quiet was registered on the American front except for local advances between St. Lo and Periers which took three villages, the supreme command announced. A dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Hal Boyle said American patrols crossed the Ay River in the coastal sector and other forces clashed with Germans entrenched in Lessay, western hinge of the Nazi line.

Fighting raged on a bulging 10-mile front from southwest of Caen across to the vicinity of Troarn as the British drove remnants of five and a half enemy divisions back toward Paris and the Seine. Heavy fighting was reported at the farthest announced points of advance—the outskirts of Troarn and near Vimont.

Rommel was on the run again, but it was not clear whether he was going to risk a major battle in the Caen plain. The Allied thrust still pushed ahead steadily, although it had lost the speed with which it got off after the air forces shattered the German lines with an unprecedented bombing.

While British armor slugged into German anti-tank screens on the east, Canadians driving straight from Caen swept through several villages, including Ifs and Cormelles, and at last reports were battling German units in Bourguebus, five miles below Caen. This advance secured the river docks at Caen for unrestricted use of the Allies.

Heavy armored battles were raging from a considerable distance south of these villages in an arc to Troarn, eight miles to the east and north. Clashes also occurred between the Odon and Orne rivers and on the road southwest to Villers-Bocage. The Germans still held Noxers on the Villers-Bocage road, but the British advanced on the west.

The headquarters communique said that in the drive on Troarn the British reached a railway half a miles outside the town.

Russian Forces In Eight Miles Of East Prussia

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW— (AP) —The German army showed signs of breaking in the hotly-contested battleground west of the Niemen River before East Prussia Thursday as seven fronts flamed in battle.

(The German radio said Russian troops had reached Augustow, at the base of the Suwalki triangle which was annexed to East Prussia out of Polish territory in 1939. The town is eight miles from the pre-1939 frontier of East Prussia).

The string of German-held cities of Lwow, Brest Litovsk, Bialystok, Kaunas and Daugavpils was tottering, with the Russians fighting to the outskirts of Lwow in Southern Poland and possibly in the suburbs of Brest Litovsk in Northern Poland.

In the South the Russians for the first time had smashed through the Bug River defense which from 1939 to 1941 formed the dividing line between Russia and German-held Poland.

In the newest of their power-packed offensives near the Latvian republic's northeast corner, the Third Baltic Army crossed the Velikaya River South of Ostrov and made swift progress toward middle Latvia, the frontier only nine miles away.

The Soviet air force was out in a strength never before equaled, giving sure cover for masses of tanks, cavalry and infantry which swarmed upon the Germans from the Western Bug River to the bogs of the north.

Federal Rent Control To Be Inaugurated Here August 1

Federal rent control for Midland will be inaugurated August 1, C. N. Sullivan, of Lubbock, district OPA rent control executive, announced late Wednesday.

A. N. Bullock, OPA district information executive, notified Midland residents of the action.

The order provides for rent control for Midland and Ector counties, and arrangements will be made immediately to open a rent control office here.

Under rent control, the rent ceiling will be the same as rents charged March 1, 1943.

Adopt Resolution

The Midland Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution urging OPA officials to inaugurate rent control here, one of the few areas serving large Army installations which was not under the war regulation.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce estimated that 15 to 20 per cent of the rents here are exorbitant.

OPA officials will employ personnel to manage the office here and hope to have it in operation by August 1.

98-Degree Weather Again Bakes City

For two days in a row the mercury has gone up to 98 degrees in Midland.

Tuesday the thermometer reached 98 at 5:45 p. m., but held it for only a few minutes. Wednesday the mercury held at 98 from 4:30 to 6 p. m., when it began a very gradual decline and sunk to a 75 at 8 a. m. Thursday.

At 8 a. m. Thursday the mercury began climbing sharply and had reached 80 degrees by 9 o'clock.

Temperatures were not so high over the state Wednesday but there still were plenty of places reporting 100 and above.

Palestine received cooling showers that drove down temperatures that had gone to 101. Light showers fell west of Dallas.

Waco had 104; Beaumont, 102; Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin 101, and Big Spring and Abilene, 100.

Union Extender Completed For 252.24 BOPD

By JAMES C. WATSON
Oil Editor

Union Oil Company of California No. 1 W. F. Scarborough estate, 3,750 feet southeast of nearest oil well in the original Union field in Northwest Andrews County, has been officially completed.

Potential production for 24 hours was reported as 252.24 barrels of 41-gravity oil, flowing. Gas-oil ratio was 440-1. The pay section was treated with a total of 12,000 gallons of acid, by stages.

Top of the pay was at 7,020 feet. Total depth drilled was 7,469 feet. It was plugged-back with jelly-seal, to cut off bottom hole water, to 7,435 feet.

Location of the new extension well is 660 feet from the north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 20, block A-31, psl survey.

Other Shows In Outposts

Union and Helmerich & Payne, Inc., No. 1-B Redus, one mile south and slightly west of the Union proven district, was making hole below 7,203 feet in lime. Scattered, slight staining and porosity was reported from about 7,100 feet to around 7,174 feet.

Union No. 6 Biles, one mile north of closest producer in the Union pool, was making hole past 7,139 feet. The upper section of the Clear Fork lime showed slight staining and porosity at 7,030-40 feet, and at 7,071-95 feet.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 1-7 University, Ellenburger wildcat southwest of the Fullerton field, had reached 8,830 feet and was drilling ahead in brown lime.

British American Oil Producing Company No. 1 McCrea, southwest of production on the southwest side of the Fullerton, had reached 4,687

11 High Nazi Leaders Also Suffer Hurts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON—(AP)—Berlin announced that Adolf Hitler was burned and bruised in an unsuccessful bombing attempt on his life Thursday.

Three of Hitler's military leaders were seriously injured, while his chief military advisor Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl was less seriously hurt along with five other generals and two admirals.

(The British radio said that Hitler also suffered a brain concussion, and that this explained a 14-hour break overnight in telephone communications between Berlin and Stockholm.)

The broadcast announcement did not give the scene of the attack, but it obviously took place while Hitler was surrounded by high members of the military staff—perhaps at Hitler's headquarters.

Fifth Army Reaches Arno River On 25-Mile Front As Germans Flee

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME—(AP)—American troops, reaching the south banks of the lower Arno River on a 25-mile front in hot pursuit of the Germans fleeing to their Gothic Line defenses beyond the river, have captured Colle Salvetti, seven miles northeast of Allied-held Livorno, Allied headquarters announced Thursday.

The latest town to fall to the Americans, fanning out against decreasing Nazi resistance, is about 10 miles southeast of Pisa, ona highway leading directly to that important enemy anchor position.

German opposition was confined largely to sniping parties armed with automatic weapons as United States forces seized the last high ground held by the Germans south of the Arno River, and laid down artillery fire which left the enemy without any alternative than retreat.

Cut Coastal Road

At the other end of the front Polish and Italian units pushed on from the west coast port of Ancona and cut the coastal road at Torrette a Mare, nearly three miles west of the city. Another column, with armor, sped along the inland route in the Adriatic sector and established a bridgehead over the Esino River, 10 miles west of Ancona and south of Chiaravalle.

The enemy left much valuable equipment in the Ancona sector.

Torrential rains impeded movements on the entire battlefront, but both the Fifth and Eighth armies made steady progress.

Remnants of the enemy rearguards were being mopped up south of the Arno River in the Fifth Army's central sector and an enemy patrol was driven back from Pontedera.

Southerners Fail In Two-Thirds Rule Attempt

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

CHICAGO—(AP)— The Democratic national convention's rules committee rejected, 23 to 10, Thursday a Southern demand for restoration of the two-thirds nominating rule but averted a convention floor fight on the issue by recommending a study of delegate reapportionment.

Southern delegates had threatened to file a minority report and carry the fight to the convention floor Thursday afternoon but agreed to drop that plan when the committee unanimously recommended that the national committee make a study and report within two years on reapportionment.

A reapportionment plan advanced by the Southerners would give Southern states more convention delegates. However, the committee did not specify any form of reapportionment in its recommendation to the national committee.

As the rules committee turned them down, the Southerners faced another losing fight over their racial demands before the platform committee. That committee was reported to be considering a plank declaring that racial minorities, including negroes, have the right to "vote equally with all citizens."

Should that plank be finally written by the committee, there was a prospect that the Southerners would carry the platform fight to the convention floor and record their protest Thursday night by casting 100 or more votes against the renomination of President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

Slow Going

Just to shatter another postwar dream, the world of tomorrow is going to look very much like the world of yesterday, at least as far as most consumer goods are concerned.

This isn't just our opinion of the moment. It's the consensus of experts, and they have some good reasons. It would take a Hollywood press agent to express our past three years' progress in the proper way. But that is war progress. To convert this progress to peacetime goods, to get it off the drawing boards and into our homes, is going to take time.

In fact, many industrial experts say that the war actually has interfered with our technological progress, and that the things we'll find in stores and sales rooms in the next couple years will be less "modern" than they would have been had there been no war.

Take the automobile industry. The U.A.W.-C.I.O. estimates—and management neither confirms or denies—that the ordinary technological advancement is about 2 per cent a year. The industry has been doing war work exclusively since 1941. That makes a lag of three years, or 6 per cent. From that figure the union subtracts "x" per cent of progress from tricks learned in war production.

When motor car manufacture is resumed, it will be with a slightly disguised 1941 model. Changes will be progressive, but minor, until a substantial portion of the 27 millions cars on the road in 1941 can be replaced.

That quick replacement job will delay the appearance of the more efficient auto motor which the new super-gasoline of wartime is bound to bring into being. For that motor must first be designed, tested, retested, and the process repeated, before it finally reaches perfection.

* * *

The same reasoning applies to radio, frequency modulation and television, to electrical refrigeration, air conditioning, and practically everything of a mechanical nature except aviation. Replacement first, then development.

There are exceptions, of course. Medical and surgical discoveries, food processing and packing, and photographic developments are three fields in which war developments can be speedily converted. But in the main, you had better prepare for a good long ride into the world of tomorrow—in a 1941 car.

'Soak The Rich' Means You

The average citizen had little concern over taxes five years ago. "Soak the righ" was the stock method of raising increased public revenue. Even up until two or three years ago, it seemed as if the so-called rich could always be assessed through business or death taxes to raise public revenue. But we have had a shock—"soaking the rich" will no longer pay the tax bills. From now on, the tax collector must "soak" everybody.

Labor, for example, has found in deductions from its pay checks, what taxation means. In other words, industry and labor are at last in the same tax boat.

Gross earnings and gross wages mean nothing. Jobs must be created out of net earnings. Homes must be built out of net wages—the money remaining after tax deductions.

The only hope of workmen and industry to increase their net incomes after the war, is to see that government gets out of every non-essential, money-spending activity and tax-exempt business project that destroys taxpaying private enterprise.

Every postwar program to put government into business competition with its private citizens, takes money out of the pockets of industry and the worker. There is no Santa Claus except the man and the business that dig up for the tax collector.

Show In Stray Zone

Byrd-Frost, Inc., No. 1 University, Reagan County Permian prospector, was drilling past 2,110 feet in the Yates section. Good oil staining was reported in a stray dolomite formation around 1,825-55 feet.

Bay Petroleum Company No. 1 Cox, Central-West Gaines County exploration, was reaming the hole, after taking a core at 5,168-84 feet. The sample had a slight oil show.

Fred Turner, Jr., No. 1-C State, one-half mile north of the same operator's recently completed 600-barrel well, three miles west of the South Lovington field in Central Lea County, New Mexico, was going ahead under 4,800 feet.

Top of the San Andres was picked at 4,700 feet, on an elevation of 3,982 feet. That put the section 19 feet low to the same mark in the discovery.

The test has drilled through saturated streaks from about 4,720 feet, and it is giving indications of being an oil well.

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1 Spiller, Kimble County wildcat, which gave evidence of a possible new shallow Ellenburger field, from a pay about 2,405 feet several weeks ago, is unofficially reported making new hole past 2,485 feet, with a cable tool unit.

Phillips No. 1 Ellwood, west outpost to the lone producer in the Smyer field in East-Central Hockley, swabbed 63 barrels of new oil in 23 hours, after swabbing out oil load, used for an acid shot, of 1,000 gallons to the bottom at 5,940 feet. It is to be re-treated with 3,000 gallons of acid.

Magnolia Petroleum Company and Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-491 Havemyer & Jenny, one-half mile west extension to the Russell field in Northwest Gaines County, swabbed and flowed nine barrels of oil per hour, cut two per cent basic sediment, after treating with a reported 10,000 gallons of acid. Bottom of the hole was at 7,785 feet in the lower Permian lime.

Still Angling

Culbertson & Irwin, Inc., No. 1 Barnes, North-Central Pecos County Ellenburger wildcat, was still fishing for lost drill pipe on a bottom of 4,450 feet.

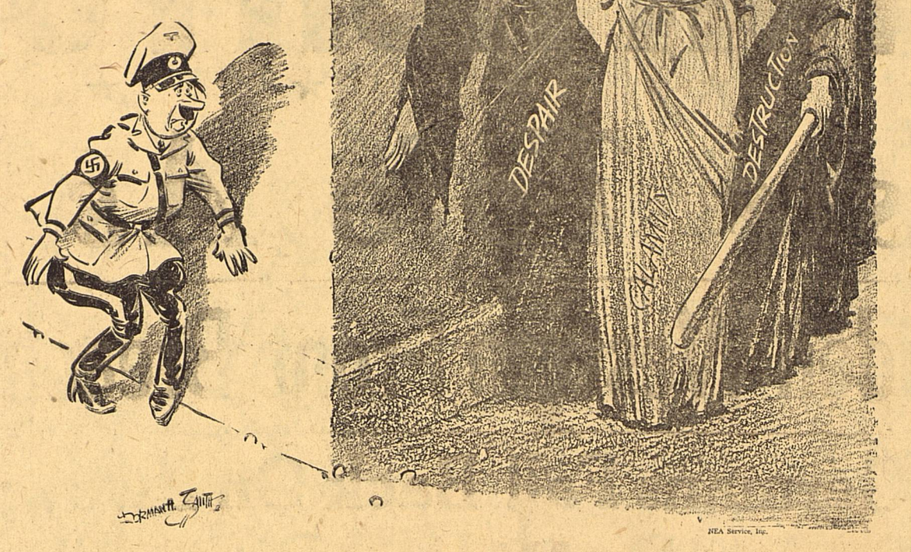

Superior Oil Company No. 1 Wheeler, flanker to the Wheeler-Ellenburger field in East Winkler County, was digging under 10,475 feet in shale.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-B Reynolds, Culberson County wildcat, had progressed below 3,960 feet in gray lime with streaks of chert and was drilling ahead.

'Common Sense' Administeration Of Rent Control Aids Tenants, Owners

By JOHN H. FLEMISTER
Reporter-Telegram Staff Writer

With establishment of rent control in Midland August 1 one of the principal topics of conversation among both landlords and tenants might be "How will it affect me?"

This article does not attempt to give the answer, but it will provide a few observations on how rent control has worked in some other towns, and this is as good a place as any to point out that rent control is generally administered by local citizens, so interpretation of rent regulations vary from town to town.

Brownwood Sample

Back in my old home town of Brownwood, which has one of the largest Army camps in Texas, rent control has been in effect ever since some bureaucrat in Washington dreamed it up.

After having had plenty of experience with the rent control board I believe I can make the flat statement rent control boards do not expect landlords to rent their rooms, houses and apartments out free of charge. Not by a long shot.

On the other hand the rent control board does help curb the grasping nature of some landlords who take advantage of the scarcity of living quarters to gouge renters for all the traffic will bear.

When rent control was established in Brownwood the ceiling price on rents was established at the amount being received on a certain date. On that particular date an apartment of mine was renting for $110 a month, which was ridiculously high. Parenthetically it might be said my conscience wasn't particularly bothering me as the apartment was rented to civilian workmen at the camp who were making $12 a day, except on Saturdays and Sundays, when they made $18.

Cut It In Half

The rent control board set the rent ceiling on this apartment at $55 a month. This is still pretty high rent, but lacks $55 a month being as high as it was. Under normal conditions the apartment would be worth about $35 a month.

Greatest mistake made by the Brownwood rent control board was starting out with the assumption all landlords were greedy and grasping, and all tenants were quiet, lovely persons who took perfect care of the landlord's property and never caused any disturbance.

Landlords were forbidden to evict undesirable tenants and were prevented from securing a deposit from tenants to cover excessive damage to property. This resulted in a number of rooms and apartments being withdrawn from rental lists.

Rent Board Learns

Gradually it dawned on rent board officials that rent control could work both for the protection of the landlord and the tenant. As landlords learned they could evict the small minority of tenants who were destructive of property they began renting again. As the few tenants who seem to take pleasure in damaging and destroying everything in sight learned they might be pitched out on their ear for indulging in this pastime they began to calm down. Rental relations between landlord and tenant became more pleasant.

From the landlord's viewpoint the worst drawback to rent control is not financial loss, for he will continue to receive a good rental return, but is the countless forms that must be filled out.

To sum it up, whether or not rent control works to the advantage of both landlord and tenant depends upon local administration, and administration is generally left up to local citizens.

Graves Registration Unit Went In With First Infantry Waves D-Day

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NORMANDY — (Delayed) — (AP) — The luckiest outfit to land on Normandy's shellswept beaches on invasion day was a group whose job was not to fight but to bury dead.

"We were just lucky—we didn't have a single casualty," said Pvt. James F. White, Louisville, Ky., who waded ashore at 4 p. m. on D-Day with the Graves Registration Unit.

The beach they landed on was the hottest along the whole landing area. For more than 12 hours, they were helplessly pinned to the shelter of an abandoned German trench. It was between two concrete shelters which they were afraid to enter because of possible boobytraps.

Spray White Paint

White told of the horror of those first blistering hours and days in France as he and three comrades sprayed white paint on a group of crosses in the first American cemetery in France.

"I never in my life saw anything like that beach and hope I never do again. Our boys had paid a terrible price to get ashore—although I guess that the number of dead actually was small considering the number of men landed.

Bury 457 Men

"We buried 457 men from that stretch of beach in three days. The first thing we did was pick up litters washed up after the medics carrying them were killed on the way to the beach.

"Most of our dead had been killed by hits in the chest and head. They had been caught in a crossfire from German positions before they could get across the sand. We picked up the bodies and laid them in rows in a field that the engineers had cleared of mines.

"Then we started processing the bodies—that is, identifying them fully and removing personal effects for shipment home. We do everything possible to check the dead man's identity—even list the laundry marks in his clothing if there is any doubt about who he is.

Use Bulldozer

"There were so many dead and so few of us—only 18—that we had the engineers use a bulldozer to scoop out a long trench four feet deep. Then we dug individual graves a foot deep in the trench, carefully marking them with temporary stakes to which dog tags were attached. Another dog tag was left on the body as an identity safeguard. The location of each grave and the identity of the body on each side was charted in our records.

"It is a hard tough job to collect and bury dead properly—one nobody wants and which we didn't ask for. But somebody had to do it and we were assigned to it.

"The first few days it was plenty risky, too, because everybody was in the front lines. More than once some of our boys digging graves had to jump in them and use them as foxholes because of German sniper fire."

Chick Production In Texas Slumping

AUSTIN— (AP) —Texas chick production is slumping rapidly, commercial hatcheries having produced 35 per cent less chicks in the first half of the year than in the record hatching for the same period of 1943.

By JAMES MARLOW

CHICAGO—(AP)— From the general direction of heaven—upstairs in the stadium balcony—the Democrats' bald heads look just like the Republicans' bald heads of two weeks ago.

Both parties have their good-time Charleys when they set out to play. They give the bars and the nightclubs a big whirl and make a rush for steaks, of which the Chicago restaurants have plenty.

At noontime the Democrats don't seem to fill up the hotel lunch rooms as the Repubicans did and one complaining waitress thought she solved the mystery with this:

Has Answer

"I guess it's because the Democrats have been in jobs so long they can afford to eat in their rooms."

A perspiring reporter bought a 10-cent bottle of salt tablets. The expense account could have read—but didn't—salt tablets—10 cents; taxicab to get salt tablets—$1.25; thermometer to tell when to take salt tablets—$1.75; sweater to prevent chill while waiting for salt tablets to take effect—$7 . . . total $10.10.

There have been very few dramatic moments at either convention but a real one came Wednesday night. Chairman Bob Hannegan suddenly interrupted the proceedings to announce a news bulletin that Tojo and his Japanese cabinet had quit.

There was some sharp, immediate applause. The convention needed a moment to digest the meaning of that bulletin, that it might spell a change in the Pacific war, they leaped to their feet, cheering, roaring, applauding.

USDA Reports Drouth Hurting Pasture Grass

AUSTIN— (AP) —Pasture grass has dried out rapidly from hot weather and lack of rain in most of the state but livestock generally is in good condition.

The United States Department of Agriculture report for the week ended July 17 said the Panhandle and high plains were exceptions to dry range conditions.

In dry areas livestock will begin to show shrinkage unless rains are received soon. There was a shortage of stock water in parts of the rolling plains area.

Marketing of cattle and sheep picked up sharply after limited receipts from the week of July 4.

Democrats Play Philippine Angle A Bit Differently

By JACK STINNETT

CHICAGO— (AP) —The Democratic national convention is in its second day, but actually it's ages old. Here's how politics works:

The Republicans used one kind of showmanship with the Philippine delegation, the Democrats another. The Republicans hung a wreath on the delegation's allotted place in the stadium. When they called for the vote from the Philippines and none was forthcoming, thhere was a dramatic pause.

The Democrats didn't play it that way. The six votes allotted to the Philippines are represented. Headed by Philip Frieder, pre-invasion manufacture of Manila cigars, the delegation includes three of the four Frieder brothers, now in Philadelphia. Holding No. 2 place of the delegation is Mrs. Bessie Dwyer. White-haired, matronly Mrs. Dwyer won't be here to cast her vote. For more than 20 years a columnist for Philippine English-speaking newspapers, Mrs. Dwyer has been even longer than that a laborer in the Democratic vineyards. Today, she's interned by the Japs. One of the delegation will vote for her.

Actually the Philippine delegation is interested in only two things here now: Perpetuation of the Democratic Party which opened their door to freedom, and anything they can do for Paul V. McNutt, whom they still think of as the greatest commissioner the islands ever had.

Democracy Gets Workout

Democracy, as it is practiced in these United States, is getting quite a workout at the convention here. One of the key figures is Sidney Hillman,, chairman of the National Citizens' Political Action Committee, which will take over for the CIO Political Action Committee from here on. Hillman is a native of Zegare, Lithuania—in those days a part of Russia. Following immigration to the United States, he became a protege of Mrs. Frances Perkins, now secretary of labor; and Felix Frankfurter, now associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. He doesn't see eye-to-eye any longer with his former sponsors, but probably more than any other individual, his weight was considered vital in he selection of the vice presidential nominee.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Tots Clothing Exhibited In Dunlaps' Window

As part of the program on Family Relationship, women of the Home Demonstration Clubs of Midland County exhibited garments made by their clubs in the window of Dunlaps' Department Store, Tuesday. Clubs taking part were Valley View, West Side, Warfield and Cotton Flat.

Clothing for tots up to the age of eight years was on exhibition. One point stressed in making the clothing was, that the child should be able to help himself while wearing the garments. Some articles were made from old garments, as, the tail of father's worn out shirt was transformed into an attractive suit for junior, while big sister's old dress was made into a serviceable play suit for little sis.

Serve Cup Cakes With 'Snacks'

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Without stirring, add flour mixture and coffee and then stir vigorously until well mixed. Beat 1 minute. THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Whatever other implications of the Japanese cabinet upheaval there may be, one thing stands out crystal clear: It represents recognition of the extreme peril in which the empire stands.

Beyond that we cannot go with certainty until we learn the complexion of the new cabinet. We shouldn't rush to conclusions.

If the militarists are returned to power—as seems quite possible—it will mean intensification of the war effort to escape the defeat which is bearing down on them from across the Pacific like a hurricane.

In the contingency of a moderate government being formed, shorn of the extreme military element which ex-Premier Tojo represents (and news dispatches say this isn't likely), it will mean that Nippon has decided to purge herself of the outward signs of barbaric aggression in an attempt to soften the Allied peace demands.

Knows Defeat Ahead

Japan, like Germany, knows without the shadow of a doubt that she is beaten. The only question remaining in her mind is how much she can salvage from the wreckage. The same is true of Hitlerdom. These two comrades in murder and pillage are walking the last mile together.

It's difficult to escape the thought that the Tokyo government crisis is associated with the disaster which is piling up on Herr Hitler. When Japan committed her savage treachery at Pearl Harbor she was hitching her war chariot to Hitler's blazing star. She gambled that he would win the European conflict, and thereby ensure a victory for the Mikado. She knew that if Hitler lost, she would lose. And the Fuehrer, for his part, placed much dependence on the amount of Allied striking power which Japan would absorb.

The Prussian militarists fully recognize their defeat. A similar stage has been reached in Japan, though Nippon presumably is capable of standing off collapse longer than is Germany.

The military Order of the Purple Heart was founded by Gen. George Washington in 1782.

Midland Man Makes Bond On Drunk Driving Charge

Bond of $1,000 was made Wednesday afternoon by C. V. McGee, Midland cafe man, following a charge of driving while intoxicated which was filed against him Tuesday by Highway Patrolman Miles Thornton.

McGee plead guilty to another charge filed by Thornton, a charge of driving without a valid driver's license.

The charges against McGee were filed as aftermath of an automobile wreck in South Midland Saturday when his 1941 Dodge was demolished after overturning four times.

Jorn Cross, 74, of Big Spring lost an arm as result of the accident. Harry Carter of Abilene, another passenger in the car which McGee was driving, received chest injuries and was hospitalized for two days.

ministers and presented them to the emperor Tuesday.

Mikado Asks advice

The mikado turned for advice to his highest ranking consultant, Marquis Koicho Kido, lord keeper of the privy seal.

Designation of Koiso and Yonai to select a government apparently was an outgrowth of conferences which Tokyo earlier said Kido—lord keeper of the privy seal—had held with many senior Japanese statesmen.

The resignation of Tojo, who sent the Japanese against Pearl Harbor less than two months after he assumed the post of premier in October, 1941, was announced in a series of broadcast dispatches by Domei, official Japanese agency.

Stripped Of Power

Tojo, generally considered his nation's supreme war lord and in the American eye the personification of Japanese imperialism, apparently is now stripped entirely of power.

Tokyo announced Tuesday that he had been relieved as chief of the army general staff—a development that followed by one day a shake-up in the Japanese naval command. These changes came simultaneously with Tokyo's announcement to the Japanese people of the loss of Saipan.

His resignation as premier carried with it resignation from his concurrent post of minister of war.

A Domei dispatch said the 59-year-old Tojo gathered together the resignations of all his ministers and presented them, along with his own, to the emperor at the imperial palace at 11:40 a.m., July 18 (Japanese time).

Summons Kido

Domei said that a few hours later Hirohito summoned Kido, who as lord keeper of the privy seal holds the most important non-royal position in the Japanese empire. After an audience with the emperor, Kido called together a group of high Japanese, including seven former premiers, the president of the privy council, and Tojo, Domei said.

Kido, 53, formerly was minister of home defense. A graduate of the Kyoto Imperial University, he has filled various government offices in the past 30 years.

Kido never has been linked with the militarists, has concerned himself solely with domestic issues, and has never been associated with foreign affairs.

Hunts Competent Leader

A Tokyo broadcast Thursday morning telling the Japanese people of the government changes indicated that Kido's main purpose was to find a competent leader for the next government.

The Japanese homeland was told that because of "the counteroffensive of the United States" the war "situation has become more and more critical" and that therefore Tojo "realized that it is appropriate to change the feeling of the people and march straight forward with the fullest speed for the destruction of the enemies, the United States and Britain * * *."

Democrats –

There were others, like Sen. Bennett Clark of Missouri whose re-election campaign would not suffer from association with that of a home-state vice presidential candidate, who thought the reportedly labor-approved Truman a "cinch."

But others begged to disagree, including thoroughly aroused Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, who demanded to know if the convention was going to be "bossed controlled." Presumably Pepper, an ardent administration supporter, meant by Hague, Kelly, Edward J. Flynn, New York national committeeman, and Hannegan. The latter has made no bones about the fact that he doesn't want Wallace, would like to see Truman named.

RR Commission Will Close All Of Saturday

Midland offices of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission of Texas will be closed all day Saturday, Election Day, on orders from the Austin headquarters of the regulatory body.

Ordinarily the offices are open on Saturday morning and closed in the afternoon.

Bomb Attack –

The announcement came 16 hours after Tokyo's announcement of the fall of Premier Hideki Tojo, and Berlin said Hitler after the attack received Benito Mussolini, third member of the ill-starred trio who led the Axis into war.

Among the seriously injured, Berlin said, was Lieutenant General Schmundt, chief of the German army's personnel department and chief military aide de camp to Hitler for several years.

Two lieutenant colonels named Brandt and Borgmann, and a "collaborator" named Berger also were listed as seriously injured.

Slightly injured were these:

Generals Jodl, Hitler's personal military aide; Karl Bondenschatz, aide to Hitler; Guenther Korten, chief of staff of the German air force; Buhle, Heusinger and Walter Scherff.

Admirals Voss and Von Puttkammer.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering at once went to Hitler upon learning of what had happened, the Berlin broadcast added.

Schmundt was chief military adjutant to Hitler in the days of Munich and had since remained close to the Fuehrer. He was at the Brenner Pass conference of Hitler and Benito Mussolini March 18, 1940, which preceded Italy's declaration of war upon the Allies.

The text of the broadcast by DNB, official German news agency: ....."A bomb attempt was made on the fuehrer's life today. During the attempt, Lieutenant General Schmundt and Lieutenant Colonel Brandt and Lieutenant Colonel Borg and Collaborator Berger, who were in Hitler's company, were injured seriously."

Only Wednesday, the Russian press published a statement by the captured commander of the 41st German Army Tank Corps, Lt. Gen. Edmund Hofmeister, saying there was grave dissent in ranks of the German high command with old generals dissatisfied with Hitler's strategy in refusing to retreat.

It was the second time, at least, during the war that Hitler narrowly missed death.

The first time was on Nov. 8, 1939, when a bomb exploded in the Munich beer hall just after the Fuehrer had left a celebration marking his ill-fated putsch of 1923.

and the wedge between Bialystok and Brest Litovsk to the north made it appear that the march to Warsaw has begun.

The First Ukrainian Army, after capturing Sokal, 45 miles north of Lwow, and bridging the Bug, appeared to be spearing toward the big Polish cities of Chelm and Lublin, milestones on the way to Warsaw. Sokal is 185 miles southeast of Warsaw.

The wedge between Bialystok and Brest Litovsk to the north was just 110 miles from Warsaw.

The closest Red Army units were about 24 miles northeast of Bialystok and were driving hard down the main highway from captured Krynki. They had only the narrow Sokolka River to cross.

Combat Bombardier Of Aleutian Campaign Addresses Rotarians

Lt. John Duncan of the Midland Army Air Field told Rotarians at their meeting Thursday noon in Hotel Scharbauer how the American Army defeated the Japs in the Aleutian campaign in which he served as a bombardier.

The officer reviewed his Army career and discussed the strategy of Army officers which was successful in ousting the Japs from the islands. He told of the attack by the Japs on Dutch Harbor and of the breaking up of this drive by American airmen.

The Japs, he said, planned to capture the port and then sweep southward from Alaska to the United States. Preparations to protect Alaska which were started back in 1940 were described by the officer.

Atmospheric conditions and the hardships of men of the armed forces in the Aleutians were described by the speaker, who was introduced by R. L. Miller, program chairman.

William Kerr, John B. Richards and George Kirk were introduced as new members of the club.

Rotarians voted to conduct an institute of international understanding in Midland again this year. C. H. Shepard, club president, said four speakers would be engaged for the institute.

Browns Solve Attendance Problem

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis had an answer to its attendance problem Thursday in the 31,361 paid customers for the first two games of the Yankee-Browns series for the American League lead.

Although 31,361 represents a fair Sunday crowd in some big league towns, it is roughly 20 per cent of the Browns' total home draw and is calculated to ease the pain of Wednesday night's 6-5 setback by the New Yorkers.

Only last week the St. Louis Americans were sending out questionaires to the fans asking "Why don't you support the Browns?" Joe McCarthy's champs came to town trailing by two games and the fans started to flock through the turnstiles.

Johnny Lindell's 3-run homer was the big blow in a Yankee four-run rally dooming Sig Jacucki and giving Ernie Bonham his fourth straight.

Detroit continued to come on strong since the return of Dick Wakefield, taking six of eight starts and going into a fourth-place tie by a 2-1 nod over Washington as Stubby Overmire outelbowed Dutch Leonard in 10 heats.

Chicago finally cracked Boston's "hex" after dropping 11 straight to the Red Sox and captured a 5-4 game on five runs in the fifth. Orval Grove got credit for his eighth victory, snapping Joe Bowman's five-game win streak.

Ken Keltner paced Cleveland to a 7-1 slaughter of Philadelphia with four hits for a perfect day, while Specs Klieman chucked his seventh victory at Bobo Newsom's expense.

Bucky Walters failed to go the route in a night game for the first time this season but kept intact his seven-game win streak as Reliefer Arnie Carter took the loss in a 10-5 shellacking by Brooklyn. Les Webber, the second of three Brook hurlers, came up with the win that moved the Dodgers back into sixth place.

Ken Raffensberger missed a shutout by one inning but held on for Philadelphia's 4-2 edge over Pittsburgh's Nick Strincevich in a Shibe Park night outing. Nate Andrews graduated into the 10-win class by hurling Boston to a 6-1 nod over Chicago with Bob Chipman suffering the defeat.

St. Louis and New York Nationals were not scheduled.

Sports ★★ Roundup

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK —(AP)— If you hang around with major leaguers, you'll hear plenty of tall tales about the "good old days" in baseball and how kids used to be happy to play with a home made ball on a field grubbed out of a briar patch . . . And likely as not you'll hear that kids nowadays have to be pampered and won't play under conditions that the old-timers regarded as normal . . . In controversion of such statements, we present the following letter from Wendell Lalime, the Newport, Vt., sports scribe.

Read It And Weep

"I thought you might like ta hear about the game the Barton Town baseball team played at East Hardwick the other day," writes Wendell. "Barton lost the game, 18 to 13, but the score does not necessarily indicate poor playing on either side. The condition of the playing field, which was a cow pasture, was accountable for the high score and many errors . . . The cows were not around at the time, but there was evidence that they had been there that morning . . . A hit ball which would look like an easy out would hit a bump and bounce over the player's head, far out of quick retrieving. Even the catchers had to run over a knoll after foul balls.

Special Talents

"The fence which surrounded the pasture was another bad feature," Lalime further explains. "Balls hit through the fence would go for a home run, which even on any good pasture would not have gone for a double . . . Some of our Vermont ball players know how to hurdle the barbed wire enclosures, and in most cases of this nature a hit over the fence doesn't go for a homer unless you can make it . . . There were five pitchers, who had their troubles, too. They couldn't see the plate. The cows hadn't got around to do any grazing in that particular spot . . . Well, Barton collected 16 hits, Hardwick 24 hits; nearly every player on both teams hit safely over, under or through the fence.

Disputed Decision

What was it those old-timers were saying about modern kids?

Troop 151 Leaps Back Into Tie For League First Place

After being knocked from first to third place in the summer recreation program's softball league standings in the last game they played, Troop 151 leaped back into a tie for first place again Wednesday when they defeated Troop 154 by an 8 to 5 score. Troop 154 was shoved out of first place into second because of the defeat.

Troop 154 will play Troop 150 at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the high school field. If 154 wins there will be a three-way tie for first place in the league.

League standings are:

Teams	W	L
Troop 151	8	4
Troop 85	8	4
Troop 154	7	4
Troop 150	3	8

Getting Shot At Is Nothing New To MAAF Cadet

Getting shot at is nothing new to Cadet Martin J. Gleason, who is undergoing bombardier training at Midland Army Air Field.

Before entering aviation cadets, Cadet Gleason served 18 months in the Merchant Marine; with such duties as lookout, wheelman, assistant navigator and machine-gunner, aboard a freighter carrying supplies and ammunitions to war zones in England, the Southwest Pacific and the Carribean.

During his many trips, Cadet Gleason saw plenty of action in the Southwest Pacific area. One trip in particular he remembers well. It happened in Tulagi Harbor.

Japs Strafed Boats

As the convoy his freighter was in entered the harbor, Jap Zeros strafed the cargo boats and Jap 109s dropped stick bombs between the freighters to blow them out of the water, but his ship came through with flying colors. One remarkable thing he remembered during the attack was when the Japs were dropping the stick bombs, a shark was blown out of the water right onto the deck of his ship.

The freighter that Cadet Gleason was aboard had its closest call on a convoy trip through the Caribbean Sea. This happened shortly after the United States enetered the war. The Caribbean was infested with German U-boats, and one surfaced and put a shot across the freighter's bow. But before the U-boat could get near the freighter, planes from another merchant marine had been catapulted into the air to scare off the sub and the enemy sub disappeared.

Cadet Gleason claims that his best trip was the first he made across the Atlantic to England without as much as a scare, and that all the ships reached their destination.

Cadet Gleason attended Fordham University in New York, and while in England witnessed many bombings by the Germans.

Servicemen To Get Gallon Of Gas A Day While On Furlough

PARIS — (AP) — Members of the armed force on furlough will receive an increase in gasoline allowance, Rep. Wright Patman reports.

Representative Patman in a speech at a political rally here Wednesday night said the Office of Price Administration would make the allowance one gallon per day instead of the basic allowance of five gallons per furlough as now in effect.

Patman said Chester Bowles, OPA administrator had obtained the consent of Army and Navy authorities for the extra gas.

Clyde 'Bulldog' Turner To Be In Army Soon

ABILENE — (AP) — Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, all-National Professional Football League center with the Chicago Bears for three seasons, expects to be called to Army service within three weeks.

Turner Wednesday passed his pre-induction physical examination at Lubbock.

He played football for Hardin-Simmons University and was picked on the little all-America team in 1939. He played in the East-West Shrine charity game on New Year's day in 1940 and participated in the all-star game at Chicago that summer.

Home At Last

SEATTLE—(AP)— Maury Maverick finally caught up with his laundry by back tracking.

The war production vice chairman barely had settled in his hotel suite when a maid delivered a package. It was the laundry he had sent out before he checked out of the hotel April 20, 1943. He had forgotten all about it. The bill: $2.20—without a storage charge.

Woman's World

NEW YORK —(AP)— Women are seeking to invade another field of men—the foundry.

The War Manpower Commission revealed Wednesday that after appealing for 15,000 to 20,000 husky men to work in foundries, it had received a number of applications from women.

There are 263 wild life refuges in the United States, aggregating 13½ million acres.

'Who Is Going To Be Vice President?' Is Only Question At Demo Convention

By PETER EDSON
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO— From top to bottom of the Stevens Hotel, headquarters of the 1944 Democratic National Convention — the only quadrennial gathering in American history is assembled for the sole purpose of naming a vice-presidential candidate.

Up in the tower room, one flight above where the elevators stop running, the big ball room overlooking the lake front, here Chairman Robert E. Hannagan, of Missouri, called the National Committee to order and here the committee passed the buck to the credentials committee on the seating of the two contested Texas and South Carolina delegations.

Here also Treasurer Edwin W. Pauley of California reported that the party's surplus of $116,000 would be exhausted by the time the convention was over.

The Big Boys Are Here

The big boys are all here—Boss Flynn of New York, Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago, Postmaster General Frank Walker—posing for pictures and movies. Reports drool on. Nobody pays much attention. Only question is "who's it going to be for vice president?"

From the twenty-fifth to the eighth floors, rooms by the hundred, filled with delegates and alternates, state delegation headquarters here and there. Chinked in are the hundreds of newspaper men and radiocasters, party bigwigs and other people having business with this convention. No business, no rooms. The party housing committee controls the space.

Ice, Glasses, Fizz Water

The delegates and the alternates congregate in rooms, sitting on each others' beds, ordering up ice and glasses and fizz water to go with the stuff they brought with them in bottles. Over the mixtures they argue, "Who's going to be Vice President?" and nothing else. No interest in platform issues, President, Congress, the war. Just, "Who are you for for Vice-President?"

On the seventh floor, headquarters of the National Committee, you stand in the elevator lobby, and sooner or later everybody who is anybody passes by to confer — or just to ask for tickets. Tickets to see who's going to be vice-presidential nominee.

On the fifth and sixth floors, workrooms and suites for the big newspapers and radio stations. On the fourth floor, press headquarters. Blackboards to announce press conferences, when and where the convention glamour gal, Helen Gahagan, may be photographed.

"Kiss of Death" Letter

A press table in one room for handouts. A small low-ceilinged room into which crowd 200 reporters for the important pre-convention press conference. That is where the convention's permanent chairman, Senator Sam Jackson of Indiana, was surrounded and almost mobbed when he gave out the President's letter.

Also on the fourth floor, headquarters for Texas and Indiana delegations and North Carolina's "Broughton for vice - president" headquarters. Though there are a dozen of the disciples mentioned as vice - presidential possibilities, if Wallace doesn't get it, Governor Broughton is the only one to have an organization and literature supporting his candidacy.

Much Talk, Little Purpose

On the third floor, the ballroom floor, the resolutions committee has moved into the commodious north ball room which was Dewey headquarters a month ago, when the Republicans were here. The resolutions committee, with House Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts as chairman, goes through motions, hearing witnesses on equal rights for women, agriculture, foreign policy, peace. Much talk to little purpose.

Judge Samuel Rosenman of New York, presidential intimate, brought out a few suggestions from a certain high official. That will be the basis of the real platform. Besides, the platform isn't important at this convention. All that matters — is who's going to be Vice President.

Organ Music Helps

On the second floor and mezzanine, the grand ball room, bare of decoration of convention activity, and the parlors with big chairs where ladies soak their tired feet in organ music. On the first floor, thousands of people mulling around, waiting for rooms, waiting for elevators, waiting for a glimpse of a celebrity—Tom Connally, last of the long-haired senators or Dear Alben Barkley or Josephus Daniels, waiting to hear who's favored to be Vice President on the ticket.

Down in the basement, the coffee shop, where delegates and alternates and people with business here—all of whom have had two dollar lunches and dinners the day before—go for their 50 and 60 cent breakfasts. Over their coffee they ask each other the same old question, "Who does it look like for vice president?"

Texas Election Bureau Official Foresees Light State Vote

DALLAS— (AP) —Reports indicate that except in districts where there are hot congressional races, the vote in the first primary election Saturday will be the lighest in years, Robert L Johnson, manager of the Texas Election Bureau, says.

Johnson looks for fewer than 900,000 votes, although Texas poll tax payment this year is 1,300,000 and the voting strength including underage and overage exemptions is estimated at 1,510.000.

"There are no congressional races in four of the larger districts," Johnson said. "Thus, returns may be expected to run below voting strength."

Water Hazard

PRATT, KAN.—(AP)— An underground stream has become a menace in normally dry Western Kansas.

There has been no explanation for the underflow which has caused farm machinery to become hopelessly mired on the J. G. Chamberlain farm.

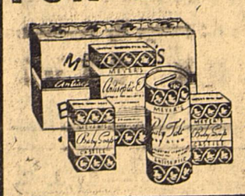

A tractor and combine have been swallowed by the stream.

Salute to a Lady

By Victoria Wolf

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

THE SCENE: A U. S. Army hospital in a little native village in the heart of Algeria about the time of the American landings in North Africa.

THE STORY: Yvonne, the flirt, is convinced she's in love with Dr. Merrill. Juanna's husband, Irving, pays a surprise visit.

* * *

"JERRIES"

X

IRVING is one of those men who are at home everywhere from the very first minute. He visited the wards to search for a buddy and found a hundred new friends. He cheered the boys, wrote their letters and promised to speed them home. He helped with bedding and feeding, helped with the bedpans. He was a treasure for the whole hospital.

It was Irving who brought us the often-mentioned army booklet: HOW TO BEHAVE IN NORTH AFRICA. If you read it in the right mood, it is a treat! He sat at the bedside of our problem child, Sergeant Harvey, and opened a sort of quiz program.

"What do you do when you see a Moslem woman?"

"I try to find out how she looks under her veil," the Sergeant grinned through his bandages.

"You would be killed by her husband for that," said Irving in the voice of a teacher. "A Moslem woman is usually covered from head to foot in a plain white wrapper with a veil stretched across her face just beneath her eyes. But under this unattractive costume she wears garments of bright colors which are revealed only in the privacy of her home. These few rules are to be strictly observed with relation to the Moslem women: Never stare at one; never jostle her in a crowd; never speak to her in public; never try to remove the veil. This is most important. Serious injury, if not death from the hands of Moslem men, may result if these few rules are not followed." Irving's voice became dark and tragic as he read the last lines, while the boys roared with laughter.

"What do you do when you enter a bakery?"

"I ask for cinnamon rolls, grandmother's style."

"No! You leave your shoes at the door. The baker slides the loaves out of the oven onto the floor, and the customers object to having dirt tracked in from the street."

"I'd rather not enter," stated the boy from Maine.

"What do you do if you are invited for dinner by a Moslem?"

"I'd accept."

"And then?"

"I'd go there bravely."

"And how do you eat if you are served barbecued sheep, mutton stew, or squab?"

"Plenty."

"No, you eat with your fingers out of the bowl, but be sure to leave food in the main dish. What you leave goes to the women and children."

"I am sorry that Mom isn't here. She always slapped me when I ate like that at home."

"What do you do if you are offered green tea?"

"I'd use it for a mouthwash."

"That wouldn't make you very popular. You shouldn't refuse it or throw away any part of it. The polite thing is to accept three cups if they are offered but under no circumstances accept a fourth. To drink less than three is considered as ill-bred as to take more than three."

"Goodness gwacious," lisped Sergeant Harvey.

WHEN Irving's furlough expired, he was showered with gifts. The boys who were bereft of everything still found a little something for him. A pencil, a good luck charm, a pocket knife, a bar of chocolate, a cake of soap, a pair of shoelaces.

I couldn't stay through his farewell dinner, which was cooked on the kerosene stove by Irving himself, because Dr. Merrill sent for me. It was eight o'clock; the barracks were in perfect stillness. No transport had come in today and I wondered why he should call me so urgently, as he usually chose Yvonne for special duty.

Ted was waiting at the door of Barrack C. "Quickly," he said, "the boss is in a hurry. He needs you as an interpreter."

"Can't he speak English any more?"

Ted whistled through his two big front teeth. "They just brought three Jerries in!"

My heart pounded.

"Jerries!!"

For the first time in ten years I was to see a Jerry again. A German soldier, whose father or brother or uncle perhaps had killed my father! I should dress the wounds of a German soldier! I should treat him as a human being! Did Dr. Merrill know what he was asking me?

Ted jolted me by the arm. "What are you staring at, nurse? Come."

Dr. Merrill hastily drew me into a corner of the sterilizing room. "You speak German fluently, nurse, don't you?"

"I was born in Germany, doctor."

"All right. You can be of great help to us now. We put three Nazi soldiers in the isolation cell. You stay with them tonight and report tomorrow whatever they say. The lieutenant must be operated on in the morning. He might give orders to his men before he leaves. Don't betray that you understand German. They might test you. They are clever dogs!" He led me to the door of the isolation cell and gave me an encouraging clap on the shoulder.

My knees were weak and my palms hot when I entered. Fredda, who had been with them since they arrived, got up and said scornfully, "Here, sweetie-pie, three perfect examples of the master race and all yours!"

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

In winning the mixed pair event at Reading, Pa., and finishing second in the team-of-four, David Warner, of Philadelphia, has confirmed the opinion of Philadelphia experts that this young man is one of our future stars.

Here is an example of Warner's ability. West thought too well of his hand to take the non-vulnerable sacrifice of six spades, which would have paid rick dividends. The opening lead was ruffed by Warner (South) with the three of hearts. Although he saw that his contract was by no means a laydown, he went about the task of making it in workmanlike fashion.

The ace of hearts was led, and when both opponents followed, Warner led a club to dummy and ruffed out dummy's last spade. Then four more rounds of clubs followed, which West refused to ruff. Now Warner led a trump, West was forced to win and lead a diamond, which Warner permitted to run to the queen in his own hand. You will note that if dummy had not been voided of spades, West would have held a safe exit. Others who took the trump finesse failed to fulfill the contract, losing one diamond and the king of trumps.

Soldier Goes AWOL To Get Picture

MAXTON ARMY AIR BASE, N. C.—(AP)—S/Sgt. Charles E. Darneal, photographer at this glider training base, climbed into a Flying Fortress to take an aerial picture of two gliders being towed by the big bomber. He figured on a spin around the field—but ended up in Columbia, S. C., 110 miles away.

He was AWOL—but got a swell photo, so all was forgiven.

AN ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE IN FRANCE — (AP) — American officers on the invasion front are getting free milk and cream these days.

The Allies are not allowed to commandeer supplies from natives, but one wealthy farmer insists on treating them.

"I like Americans," he insists, "and I made so much money selling to the Germans I can afford to give to our allies."

Moonshine Comes Back

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Moonshining — the manufacture of illicit "whisky" — has been on the upswing since late last summer. Seizures by federal agents, which give the best available yardstick, have more than doubled since the all-time low of November, 1942.

This upsurge should not, however, be over-emphasized. It is important mostly in contrast with the abnormal depression to which sugar rationing, scarcity of essential materials, and high pay in industrial employment, had driven a once flourishing industry.

Last March, the most recent month for which figures are available, Treasury agents seized 554 stills and 237,000 gallons of mash, which looked high by comparison with 355 stills and only 107,000 gallons of mash for November, 1942. Mash gallons are considered the best index of moonshining activity.

The consistent but slow rise that began last year has not brought moonshining to anything approaching the pre-war level, however. Federal authorities do not anticipate any serious increase until sugar becomes readily available to the moonshiners. For while their product is called "whisky" and occasionally is disguised with counterfeit labels of some of the old favorite ryes and bourbons, actually most of it is made from sugar or syrup rather than from grain.

Shortages No Hardship

The quality of the product, in case you haven't risked any of late, is something less than pediculous. It isn't poison—if that gives any cheer. "I'm making it to sell, not to drink," one moonshiner explained.

The price, even for these times, is scandalous. It bears little relationship to cost of production, but is controlled by the old economic laws of supply and demand. There was a short period when moonshine of better "quality" could be had wholesale for 85 cents a gallon. The retail price in Atlanta used to be 35 cents a half pint.

Now the wholesaler or distributor picks up five gallon cans from a "drop" in the woods at from $50 to $72, averaging about $12.50 a gallon from Baltimore to Mobile. The highest retail price is $25 a gallon in Alabama, $1.50 a half pint in dry Baldwin County, Alabama.

All of the moonshiner's costs have risen, of course, and his volume has gone down. The biggest increase in expense is for labor. Helpers who used to accept as little as $1 a day now are getting $10. Nevertheless, the moonshiner is making more money now than when costs were lower and volume many times as great.

Metal and material shortages have not worked too great hardship on these lawbreakers. Copper has been all but impossible to obtain, but copper is only a refinement anyway. For years it has been used, in many sections of the South, only for condensers, and a lot of alcohol can be distilled in an old automobile radiator.

Community Stills

The cooking is done largely in old oil drums, sometimes with two or three welded into a single vessel, and in wooden tanks with sheet metal bottoms to face the flames.

A single still can and often does serve many moonshiners, on a community basis. The mash is prepared and left to ferment either in a "ground hog"—a tank in which it also is cooked—or in barrels buried in the ground in some out-of-the-way spot. On one Tennessee mountain top I saw 30 such barrels, camouflaged lightly with boughs, fermenting with no guard except an ostensible wood-cutter sitting on a log beside the road perhaps a mile away.

In the vicinity, a few miles apart, were a number of such installations, worked on a serial basis so that one still could be kept in continual use making the rounds. In Georgia five or six different operators have been found depending upon a single peripatetic community still.

Sugar and syrup are used mostly now because they can be made into liquor more quickly than grain mash. So long as sugar remains scarce and under rather strict control, moonshining will not become a major problem.

The current rise in activity is attributed to some increase in sugar allotments for industrial use, and as these become more liberal, permitting greater diversion, Treasury agents expect to be kept increasingly busy.

DETAIL FOR TODAY

Close Order Drill

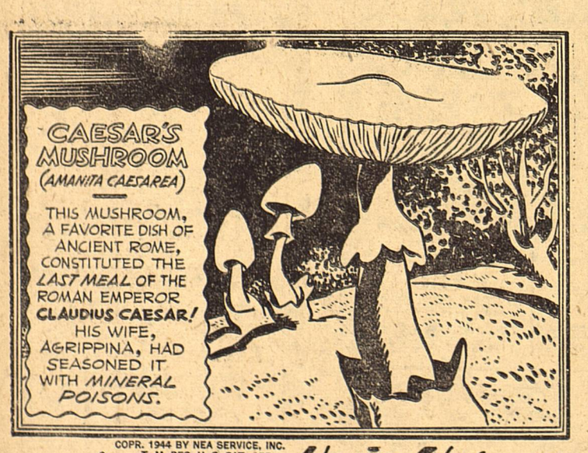

CLOSE ORDER DRILL in the Navy is marching in close formation—about one arm's length from the person in front and on either side of you. In boot camp you do this for hours at a time, often in an area less than half a block square. The marching is accompanied by the platoon leader's hollering of "Left, right, left" or "Hep, two, three, four" plus some other things he hollers when someone is out of step. Even if you never went to school, you are able to count to four after a day of CLOSE ORDER DRILL. It's especially good sport when you are marching with bayonets and the man in front of you makes a column left a second or two late. This is an excellent way to get a free haircut or a close shave.

George And Emily Symbolize British Resistance To Robots

By FRED S. FERGUSON
President, NEA Service

We'll call them George and Emily, because that happens to be their names. They are a bit past "middle-aged." They might be called a typical well-to-do British couple, kind, educated, cultured, with four sons in the armed services.

They are symbolic (though very much alive and real) of the English suburban family of today, and this is to give you a picture—through their experiences—of what all those people have endured and are enduring.

George is an industrialist, and during his rise in his business he spent many years with his family in the United States. They are, therefore, folks that you or you or you would understand. They have a lovely house on a small plot "in the country," which actually means in a London suburb. They are proud of the house of sturdy, standard English design and built of brick. From it, one by one, their boys have gone away with brides and to war.

In the backyard there is a stout steel and concrete air-raid shelter, now virtually hidden with heavy grass that has grown from the earth covering the shelter. The shelter contains double-deck beds and can sleep six. It is safe, and it is dry, but all shelters are bleak and forbidding because of the very nature of their usefulness. George and Emily (and various others at times) slept 100 consecutive nights in this shelter during the big blitz of 1940-41. Bombs fell dangerously near, but despite all the terror, none of the family was injured and the house that meant so much as a home was not even scratched. It was a great relief when the bombing subsided.

To get to his place of business, which also escaped, George has been riding two different buses and then changing to a train twice daily for four years. His car has been jacked up in the garage all that time. There's no gas for it, much less an argument as to whether he gets an A or B card. Emily has had five years of the shortages, rationing and all that goes with the general run of civilian life, plus the anxieties of a war mother.

Long, Hard Pull

But Emily could smile and even laugh with pleasure at the antics of a grand-child as she sat with George and part of her family about her having tea on a bright, cheerful Sunday recently.

"With you American people here in such strength, we are going ahead, we're beginning to win now," said George.

"Yes," said Emily, "I'm sure now we'll pull through. It has been long and hard. I only hope they are not able to bomb us again."

This was on a Sunday filled with sunshine. The following Tuesday night something strange happened. A single mysterious explosion occurred. There were rumors that it did not come from an ordinary bomb. Thursday night the attack of what is now known as the robot bombs began in earnest.

For two nights, Thursday and Friday, George and Emily cowered in a little central hall in their house, shaken by blasts in the neighborhood, but fighting against returning to the dreaded shelter. But on Saturday the decision was taken. The bed clothes were carried from the shelter to air. They could at least sleep in the shelter even though not in entire comfort. Sleep in the house was impossible.

Robot Bomb Hits

As George spread out the bedding, he noted the progress of his little kitchen garden. Potatoes, beets, beans and all were doing fine—but George didn't seem to feel the interest in them that he did a week before.

Emily was in the shelter, cleaning things up. Instead of inspecting the vegetables, George couldn't resist looking into the sky. Then there came a buzz—the unmistakeable sound of a flying bomb, like a racing four-cylinder engine.

By this time George was near the entrance to the shelter. The machine of death landed just beyond the potatoes and beans with an explosive roar. The blast blew George, breathless, directly into the shelter. He and Emily thanked God to find themselves alive together. They knew that daughter-in-law Joan was in the house when the bomb fell. They dared not look at one another as they picked their way through shattered glass in the house. Joan had been in the little inner hall and miraculously was uninjured.

What of the house? Every window was blown out. The ceilings crashed down, smashing family keep-sakes and furniture in all directions. Only the outer shell of brick was left, another such monument to an unconquerable people. There are many, many Georges and Emilys in England—and you may understand why they haven't time to debate (as we do over here) when the war will end.

Burma Becomes Desperate Prize Of Asia War

By PRESTON GROVER
Chief Of AP Coverage In The China-Burma-India War Theater

In the thick jungle mud of north central Burma a battle is being fought between two rain-soused armies—with a supply road into desperate China as the prize. The whole battle is being fought around a town whose pronunciation has tormented newspaper readers for months. It is the town of Myitkyina, pronounced mitchenaw.

On the outcome of the struggle may hinge important battles in China. Presently no supplies get to China except those flown across the Hump at great cost. The new Burma road, called the Ledo road, is routed through Myitkyina. If the Allies capture Myitkyina and surrounding territory, they can shove the road through into China and open a land supply line at a time when the Chinese are perhaps the hardest pressed since their war started seven years ago.

Myitkyina also would be tremendously important as an air base, permitting air transport to take a low level and far less dangerous route from India to China.

If the Japanese hold Myitkyina, all the daring American engineering of the past 18 months will have been wasted and the costly Ledo road quickly will be reclaimed by the jungle.

By a series of astute maneuvers, Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell has piloted his army of Americans and American-trained Chinese more than 200 miles through northern Burma, through some of the densest jungles in the world, right into Myitkyina.

But the Japanese were there with first line troops, and considered it so important that they were willing to risk thousands of men in a desperate drive into India in an effort to break the Allied line.

Stilwell's troops were not the only ones involved. British and Indian "Chindits," flown into central Burma in a daring glider operation, have steadily fought their way northward to the outskirts of Myitkyina, not far from a little town called Mogaung.

In addition, a strong force of Chinese struck westward from China to backtrack the old Burma road in an effort to help Stilwell.

An enemy almost worse than the Japanese is the monsoon which struck just as the converging Allied armies were about to pounce on their target. In the Burma monsoon rain falls in smothering torrents for days. Until about Sept. 1, 200 to 600 inches of rain will pour down upon the Allied armies.

By a quaint trick of nature, the Japanese are able to do most of their maneuvering and run most of their supply lines in a section of Burma where only 100 inches of rain falls. That is the central valley of the Irrawaddy, with Myitkyina at the northern extremity.

As this is written, the Americans and American-trained Chinese on one side and the Japanese on the other are fighting a house-to-house battle for control of Myitkyina. But meantime the Japanese are fighting from the inside and are able to bring in more supplies and reserves.

The Japanese invasion of India, 200 miles to the west, seems to be petering out. Strong British and Indian forces, supported by the RAF and US Air Force, have kept the Japanese from taking Imphal as a base from which to cut off the China supply line at its India end. They threw an estimated 75,000 men into the fray, and by British estimates have lost 14,000.

Even though they slowed deliveries of supplies to China over the Hump and menaced Stilwell's position in north central Burma, they failed to cut the supply line. It is a tough situation—with neither side holding all the aces.

Keynoter Kerr Loyal Booster For Roosevelt

By NEA Service

OKLAHOMA CITY — For their keynoter the Democrats have selected a rising politician who possesses at least three unusual claims to distinction.

Robert Samuel Kerr is the first native-born governor Oklahoma ever had. Also—and this is becoming very rare—he was born literally in a log cabin, on September 11, 1896. His birthplace was 60 miles—three days by wagon — from the nearest railroad station.

Bob Kerr is a big man in more ways than one. He is huge physically, six feet three inches tall—which is an inch shorter than his 17-year-old son Bob Jr., and an inch taller than his 15-year-old son Breene—and weighs 245 pounds.

He is big as a self-made business man, head of his own $5,000,000 Kerlyn Oil Co., one of the most substantial of the smaller independents. The company's major business is drilling wells for other operators in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. In addition, Kerr's firm annually sells about $1,000,000 worth of its own oil.

And he is big politically, up to now highly successful in his own state and boosted by his admirers as a man who will leave his imprint on national Democratic politics. There are those who think that he would make an excellent running mate this year for President Roosevelt.

Born In Log Cabin

Bob's father, Sam Kerr, took his wife and infant daughter Lois from Texas to Indian Territory in a covered wagon, lived that first winter in a tent, and then built the 14-foot square log cabin in which Bob was born. The cabin still stands and is occupied.

The elder Kerr was farmer and rancher, taught rural school, kept a store and was a cotton buyer. Bob helped his father and went to school at Ada. He studied at the Ada State Normal School, at Oklahoma Baptist University, and at the University of Oklahoma.

When World War I broke out Bob was too young for officers' training camp and lacked the formal educational requirements. Dean James S. Buchanan of the University of Oklahoma helped by enrolling Bob as a senior, and young Kerr broke the bottleneck by adding a year to his age. He went to France in 1918 as a shavetail, too late to see fighting action.

Led New Deal Drive

In his first political activity, he helped elect a state commander for the American Legion in 1924. Next year he took over that office for himself.

His next major venture into politics came 10 years later, when he helped elect the late E. W. Marland as governor. In 1938 he was given much credit for the election of Leon C. Phillips as governor. He broke with Phillips in 1940, when Kerr became Oklahoma's most ardent, active Third Termer while Phillips opposed Mr. Roosevelt's re-election vigorously.

As newly-made national committeman, Kerr led the successful New Deal drive in his state in 1940; and in 1942, successfully bucking an anti-Democratic tide that sent the Willkie-Democrat, E. H. Moore, to the U. S. Senate as a Republican, Kerr was elected governor.

Out of many anecdotes told about Bob Kerr, perhaps the one concerning his courtship most nearly epitomizes his character and methods. In the summer of 1925 he noticed a tall blonde visitor on an Ada tennis court. He wangled an invitation and obtained a date for horseback riding. That led to a tennis date which in turn led to a proposal date. On this third encounter, Bob informed Grayce Breene that they were going to be married, and she could select the date if she had any choice. Miss Breene kept him demanding for a few weeks, but they were married the day after that Christmas.

Prospers In Business

When he first left the Army, young Kerr went into the produce business. Burned out, he studied and practiced law. Soon after he was married, he formed a partnership with a brother-in-law in the oil well drilling business. They worked in the fabulously rich Oklahoma City field, where almost any hole in the ground spouted oil, and by taking part of their drilling fees in the form of equities in the wells, they shared in that wealth.

From this grew the prosperity of the Kerlyn Oil Company, and Bob Kerr's position as a leader in the industry. From 1935 until he ran for governor, he was president of the Kansas-Oklahoma division of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Ass'n.

Kerr is a Baptist, a prohibitionist, an ardent Red Cross, Y.M.C.A. and civic worker. Besides the two older boys, the Kerr children include Kay, 13, and Bill, 6.

Do The Same Good Job Your Dads Did

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, NORMANDY — (AP) — GI Joe didn't take off for France without someone to bid him farwell and God Bless You! He went off to war with the farewells and blessings of persons young and old.

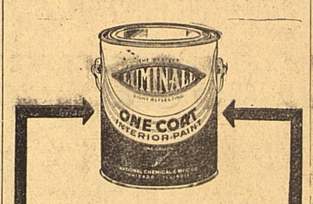

"I don't go for the mush," said T/4 Edward J. Bowers, Kansas City, Mo., "but I got a kinda funny feeling in my throat when these English folk stood in front of their homes and waved us goodbye.

"Many of them said, 'We told your fathers goodbye. Do the good job they did'."

Putting Whether Into The Weather

RED BLUFF, CALIF. — (AP) — Weather reports from Digger butte lookout were held up temporarily when workers couldn't find the fuel moisture stick, used to judge the amount of moisture in the ground cover. Badly gnawed, the stick was found after an all-day hunt. It had been carried off by a bold porcupine.
