DROUTH WAR LAUNCHED

New Deal Holds Farmers' Votes As Towns Drift

FOUR-WEEK SURVEY IN "HEAT BOWL" REVEALS PRESIDENT STILL IN LEAD AS NOVEMBER NATIONAL ELECTION APPROACHES

BY FRAZIER HUNT

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

AN intensive four weeks' motor survey of politics and drouth in the great Mississippi valley heat bowl brings these conclusions:

Throughout the small towns of the middle west there is a decided drift to Landon.

In the industrial centers and larger cities Roosevelt still leads.

From 60 per cent to 70 per cent of the farmers are for the Administration. This is especially true of those who benefitted from AAA corn and hog and wheat payments, and from the present soil conservation program.

Lemke will draw almost as many votes from Landon as from Roosevelt. Only in the Dakotas has Lemke even a remote chance of carrying any state.

Father Coughlin's influence has constantly weakened.

Dr. Townsend wields a far greater power than either Lemke or Coughlin. He is especially strong in the middle west, but the majority of his true believers will follow him politically only to the extent of forcing their congressional nominees to pledge allegiance to the Townsend Plan.

FRAZIER HUNT

In the four states of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois more than 1,000,000 colored adults will cast their votes almost unanimously for Roosevelt.

From western Pennsylvania and New York to the far reaches of Nebraska and Kansas, Landon shows gains, but he has yet to "sell" himself personally to the average voter. Most Republican votes will be more anti-Roosevelt than pro-Landon.

Two reactions immediately result from the devastating drouth. First, in cities and towns the probable increased cost of living will reflect against Roosevelt. Second, in the stricken communities the quick response of the Administration in planning immediate human relief, WPA work, feed loans, cattle purchases and long term soil conservation, dams and resettlement plans have largely re-won the farmer to Roosevelt's side.

To a considerable extent this last has offset the very defiant small-town drift towards Landon. The two together are the most significant new factors in this shifting political scene.

routh ! Chief Topic

OUTSIDE the cities, in this vast middle west you hear little talk[illegible]d of except the drouth.

The lean, weather-beaten son of [illegible]psoil droops in spirit as he contemplates the Tragedy of Dust.

The present drouth spreads over a even greater territory than the [illegible]storic killer of 1934. Sweeping [illegible]uth and southeastward from the [illegible]heat fields and ranges of eastern Montana and Wyoming this murderous drouth swings diagonally across the middle west into the lands of the deep south. In many places the damage is worse than '34.

In great portions of southwestern [illegible]orth Dakota and northwestern [illegible]uth Dakota—and in the pathetic "[illegible]ust bowl" that clips off the con[illegible]rging corners of Kansas, Colorado, [illegible]klahoma and the Texas Panhandle—this "act of God" is the fifth consecutive visitation of death and destruction. The accumulated effect has left literally tens of thousands of families helpless and penniless.

Dakota Farmer's View

WESTWARD from the rich Red River Valley of North Dakota I rode out beyond Fargo into the land that has lost hope. As far as the eye could reach were "still born" fields that should have been beautiful waving seas of yellow grain. Heat and lack of rain had turned them into seared brown acres—short straw—ghosts of wheat, oats and barley. Corn fields were but mocking phantoms. Pastures had no more sustenance than dusty billiard tables left behind in abandoned mining camps.

Some 50 miles west of Fargo I stopped and talked to a farmer driving 15 head of cattle from parched fields to his barnyard. He was a tall wiry man with fine, brown eyes that had a look of utter despair in them.

"I own 480 acres here, and they are all paid for," he told me. "I've got over 300 acres in grain this year, and I'll not get a bushel of oats or barley or corn, and out of 120 acres of wheat I hope I can get 200 bushels of seed grain for next year. If we don't have rain pretty soon I won't even get that. My pastures are burned out, but I may have enough hay and straw from last year to carry through this little batch of cattle. I sold seven steers last week for $245. That'll be my total income from my 480 acres of land and my year's work."

I slowly swung the conversation

BIG BUSINESS IS FORECAST

BALANCED OUTLAY FOR FIRST TIME SINCE 1929 IS SEEN

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Commerce department officials today forecast a 1936 national income close to $60,000,000,000, balancing business outlay for the first time since 1929.

The department's estimates, contingent upon a maintenance of present trends, were based upon readings of various business barometers for the first seven months of the year as compared with similar figures for 1935.

Has Gone Upward

After dropping steadily from the $81,034,000,000 peak produced in 1929, the national income hit a low of $39,545,000,000 in 1932. Since then it has pointed upward. Last year's income was reported $52,959,000,000.

Officials said they expected that income produced and income paid out would approximately balance. Since 1929, income paid out has exceeded income produced. This excess was only $628,000,000 last year compared with $8,817,000,000 figure for 1932.

When income paid out exceeds income produced it means, in effect, that industry and business are operating "in the red" to the extent of the excess. Similarly, when income produced tops that paid out, the excess is regarded as savings.

RCA Executive Is Slain By Intruder

HADDONFIELD, N. J., Aug. 17 (AP)—Curtis Wesley Dobbins, a minor executive at the RCA Manufacturing company plant in Camden, died early today, the victim of an unidentified man who rang the doorbell of Dobbins' home Tuesday night.

Three bullets cut through a screen when young Dobbins opened the front door.

Detectives said they were holding William J. Stephans, 29, former federal prisoner, for questioning.

SPEEDY DEATH IS PROVIDED PRISONERS

DRASTIC ACTION SAID TAKEN AFTER SHELLS FALL IN CITIES

(By The Associated Press)

Government soldiers answered rebel warship shells thrown against Irun and San Sebastian today with swift death for hostages before firing squads, reports reaching the Franco-Spanish frontier stated.

Sharp cracks from executioners' rifles were heard in the besieged cities. Frontier advices said rebel prisoners were being executed in retaliation for the shelling.

Deaths Are Unknown

About 1,200 hostages were held in Irun and 700 at San Sebastian. The number of deaths was not known.

Government forces prepared to meet anticipated rebel attack by land and air in addition to bombardment from the sea all along the coastal strip on the Bay of Biscay near the French border.

Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the rebellious fascists, instilled new enthusiasm into his followers in a quick trip from southern Spain to rebel headquarters in Burgos in the northern part of the country.

Plans Are Perfected

Leaders apparently perfected plans for the long awaited simultaneous attacks from north and south.

In southwestern Badajoz province bloody fighting was reported as the government sought to block the rebel advance on Madrid.

More than 1,500 prisoners were reported executed in Badajoz, and

NEED FOR NEW HOMES TOLD

VALID HOUSING PLAN TO BE CONTINUED, ICKES STATES

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—An A. F. of L. estimate that 13,196,000 new homes will be needed by 1945 was coupled today with an opinion by Secretary Ickes that "necessity itself will assure the continuation of a valid housing program."

Ickes said he hoped that, with no federal funds available for new low cost housing projects, communities would "carry the work forward as local enterprises."

Views Are Expressed

The PWA administrator's views were expressed in a letter to General R. E. Wood, chairman of the executive committee of the PWA Chicago general advisory board on housing. Wood had written to Ickes saying defects in the present program were due to centralization and the initial size of the program.

"I am fully in accord with the conclusions you advance," Ickes wrote. "Centralization of the program obviously was necessary at first. . . . It always has been my hope that once a demonstration program had been developed municipalities would carry the work forward as local enterprises. This has been our objective from the beginning."

Classes Start At Schools In County

Grade school work also started in the Idalou, Becton, and Liberty schools, which were grouped to form the rural high school district. G. A. Lowrey is superintendent. Principals are E. P. Reeves, at Becton, and John Hunt, at Liberty.

Typhoons Strike To Spread Death

FAMINE THREATENS ISLAND AREA AS STORMS DESTROY 90 PER CENT OF NATIVES' CROPS

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 17—Famine threatened North Luzon island natives today after two converging typhoons laid waste their crops and houses.

Pleas received here for government aid said at least two persons were killed in the storm which swept in from the Pacific Saturday, destroying practically all native houses and 90 per cent of the crops in Cagayan river valley.

North coast lighthouses were levelled. The United States coast and geodetic survey ship Pathomer lay on a rock reef at Port San Vicente, a victim of the typhoon. The vessel's Filipino crew and American officers came off safely and were encamped on the shore, the advices said.

(From Hongkong came word that the British steamer Sunning, carrying 40 passengers, was aground and waterlogged in Junk bay off the China coast. One hundred workmen were reported to have been buried alive in a landslide which resulted from the typhoon.)

PAIR PEPPERED WITH BIRD SHOT AFTER MELON IS TAKEN

Two young boys were peppered in the back with bird shot as they rode away on bicycles with a purloined watermelon in south Lubbock late Sunday afternoon.

Neither was seriously injured, but both went to Lubbock sanitarium where the pellets were removed.

Officers Investigate

Officers were investigating the case to determine whether the man who shot the boys from their bicycles will be charged with assault. The boys were about 11 years old.

The shooting occurred on the Slaton highway just east of the juncture of that highway with the Tahoka highway, an officer said.

The boys went to the melon patch on their bicycles, obtained one melon and were riding away when they were fired on. Both were knocked from their bicycles. An officer said he was informed one boy, from whose back 15 shots were taken, had been fired upon twice.

PREDICTIONS OF RISING FOOD PRICES OFFERED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Predictions of rising food prices were made today in the kitchens of the army as agricultural officials studied ways of helping farmers in the drouth areas through the fall and winter.

While Secretary Wallace and his aides considered a $10,000,000 seed purchase program to assure ample supplies for next year's planting, army quartermasters figured ordinary basic foods would advance as much as 20 per cent by springtime.

Estimates Are Made

They were making estimates for the purchase of millions of dollars in foodstuffs for the Civilian Conservation Corps, whose diet is the same as the army.

Improved business conditions as well as the drouth, they said, would advance the prices of the 39 kinds of food which the army considers a balanced diet.

LITTLE INTEREST FOR SECOND PRIMARY IS SHOWN IN TEXAS

BY HARRELL E. LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—Texas candidates whose races were not decided in the July Democratic primary ordered all their forces into the field for the final five days of "shelling the woods" before Saturday's run-off primary.

With the contests for governor, United States senator and important district and county offices in many areas already settled, observers predicted the total vote would fall considerably short of the record 1,071,372 votes in the July 25 balloting.

One Gets Attention

The only statewide race attracting much attention was that for railroad commissioner between Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, and Frank S. Morris of Dallas.

The commission regulates oil in the nation's largest oil producing state and most of the campaign thunder had consisted of attacks on its oil proration policy or support of that policy.

PET BIRDS HOBBY OF SICK VETERAN

KERRVILLE, Aug. 10 (AP)—Pet hummingbirds is the hobby of W. R. Sullivan, a patient at the Veterans Administration hospital at Legion, near here. Lying in bed on the second story he cares for about 500, supervising their diet and watching them at play.

The little creatures dart into Sullivan's room in groups, bright bodies perch a moment on the light cord or tie rack, inspect a light blub, zoom around the ceiling and are gone. Although they quarrel among themselves, they do not seem to be afraid of humans and often light in his hands, Sullivan says.

Patients placed 25 food boxes throughout the hospital grounds and made other provision for the birds' welfare. Sullivan has a container of sweetened water outside his window and, when he opens the window, they come in without fear. The birds start their visit the middle of March and remain until September. They winter south of Mexico City and travel as far north as Alaska.

Sullivan says some of the birds have a wingspread of eight inches, although the average spread is two and a half inches. Their bills are divided, he says, not tubular as some persons believe, and they can thrust out their tongues an inch.

Old Trusty Status Would Be Refused

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 17 (AP)—Assistant Warden L. B. Warlick of Granite reformatory said today Carlton Chilton likely would not be given his old status as a trusty if the Cleveland "Jean Valjean" has to return to the institution from which he fled 23 years ago.

"I never heard of it being done in the case of an escaper," said Warlick.

ARTIST GAINS REPUTATION

MAN'S AMBITION TO BECOME A COWBOY FORMED EARLY

CLARENDON, Aug. 17 (AP) — Harold D. Bugbee, a Massachusetts boy who "went west" to become a Texas cowpuncher, is winning a reputation as one of the foremost artists portraying "western" life, after realizing his initial ambition.

His illustrations for J. Evetts Haley's book, "Charles Goodnight, Plainsman," won wide recognition of his art, but this was incidental to his chosen life work, preservation on canvas of the glamorous life of the cowboy. A number of his oils have been sold by the Ferargil Galleries at New York, and Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, ownes several of his canvases.

Cousin His Hero

Bugbee's ambition to become a cowboy formed when a youngster at home near Lexington, Mass. His father's cousin, T. S. Bugbee, second settler of the Panhandle of Texas [illegible] came here the year Col. Charles Goodnight did, became the [illegible] when he taught him to [illegible] riat out of a clothes[illegible] chickens and fence [illegible]

[illegible] old was 13, his father, [illegible], a clarinetist in Sousa's [illegible] to Donley county and [illegible] 1,000 acres near here. [illegible] started at once to become a [illegible]er, spending as much time [illegible] in the saddle and riding [illegible] alongside experienced, cowboys. He became a top [illegible] ranchmen say.

[illegible] school and a year in Clarendon college behind him, he went [illegible] Agricultural and Mechanical college to study animal husbandry, planned to become a stockman but at A. & M. his skill with [illegible] brush gradually overshadowed the first preference.

Preserved Character

[illegible] realized this country was changing rapidly and conceived the [illegible] of preserving, as fully as possible the original character of the [illegible]," he said.

[illegible] studied three years in [illegible] art school at Des Moines, Ia., [illegible] got some practical experience [illegible] the Taos, N. M., art colony. Succeeding years brought no monetary return but these were spent in making thousands of sketches of animals and cowboys, which have become his "reference library."

"There is no such thing as sketching a bucking horse," he says. "Their movements are too quick to be repeated by a pen or brush. The only way to get the 'feel' of a bronc is to ride one."

Feeling Is Natural

Bugbee, flooded with orders from illustrations, does most of his work in a studio in the basement of his father's ranch house. Close association with cowboys and an intimate knowledge of ranch life have been the major aids in his work, he says. "Feeling" in pictures comes to him naturally.

The artist has done a number of portraits but prefers to paint animals and ranch scenes.

"An animal never can look at my work and say: 'It's all right but, the mouth doesn't look right'," he says.

Bugbee effects the West Texas ranchman's dress — large black sombrero, high boots and dark suit.

OLD HISTORY OF COLONY IS BARED

BROWNSVILLE, Aug 17 (AP) — Prof. Carlos Casteneda of the University of Texas says recently discovered manuscripts establish that a second attempt at colonization in what now is the United States, occurred near the mouth of the Rio Grande in 1519.

The first colony was located near the same spot not long after the first American settlement was set up at San Augustine, Fla. Four attempts to set up colonies on the north side of the Rio Grande were made between 1519 and 1528, he says.

Prof. Casteneda native of Brownsville and graduate of the local high school, connects a disaster to 700 conquistadores and their families with one of the settlements. The party, he says, left Veracruz in a fleet of 19 vessels which never reached Spain.

After sailing from Havana, he says, the fleet encountered a hurricane and, records indicate, after many days two of the smaller vessels reached a "sandy expanse of beach," believed to be Padre island. Prof. Casteneda said Carancahua Indians eventually killed all but two of the survivors.

Prof. Casteneda, authority on Spanish-American history, says the archives of the University of Texas contain a vast amount of documents bearing upon early Texas history, adding that about 865,000 typewritten pages were obtained from archives at Seville, Spain.

MAURY'S A PRETTY TOUGH HOMBRE TO HANDLE WHEN IRE IS AROUSED

AUSTIN, Aug 17 (AP) — Maury Maverick of San Antonio, representative in congress from the 20th Texas district, knows how to get things done, especially how to get into print.

Consider the so-called censorship of the Daily Texan, student newspaper of the University of Texas.

For days after the board of regents designated a faculty member to keep an eye on editorial matter for The Daily Texan the student editors protested, a few persons commented and local newspapers printed a story or two. However mature persons didn't pay much attention, figuring it was another college boy fuss.

Voices Loud Protest

Then Maverick drifted over from San Antonio, rapped on the office door of President H. Y. Benedict of the university, voiced a loud protest and repeated his objections to Gov. James V. Allred.

Next he dispatched telegrams asking Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and the federal commissioner of education at Washington, Dr. J. W. Studebaker, to intervene in the interest of liberty of speech, press and conscience.

Finally he marched up to the capitol press room, perched on a desk and spoke a piece in a loud voice.

Better Watch Out

He said the action of placing a censor over the student publication was merely a step along the path already traveled by Hitler, Mussolini and other "dictators" and the school men had better watch out lest the thing for which they had battled throughout the ages, liberty of thought, might not be taken from them by similar processes.

"The board of regents issued a decree nazifying the university," he said. "Their ukase sounds almost exactly like the press decrees of Hitler, Communist Russia and Fascist Italy."

He said more, but that apparently, was enough for the purpose. A brief story on his charges brought orders from New York newspapers and press services for more, follow-up stories were requested for the next day and Maverick drove back to San Antonio.

Gets Second Term

Incidentally Maverick was renominated in the recent primary for a second term in congress. Although he did not obtain a majority his leading opponent, Lamar Seeligson withdrew asserting Maverick's advantage was such as to indicate the people's preference.

Said a veteran newspaperman: "Maury knows how to kick up dust. Right or wrong, I wouldn't want him on my trail."

The capillary tubes of the human body, placed end to end, would span the Atlantic.

OLYMPICS ARE AT AN END

FLAME IS DOUSED AND GERMANS RETURN TO THEIR BUSINESS

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

BERLIN, Aug 17—The eleventh Olympics ended, the flame blazing day and night in the big stadium for 16 days doused, there remained today only the problem of getting a few hundred thousand pageantry shocked Germans to return to their homes and places of business.

The world has not seen—nor is likely to see again until 1940 at Tokyo—anything approaching the fanatical attendance at the Nazi Olympics.

Stadium Is Filled

The most astounding exhibition of all was saved for yesterday's closing ceremony when Chancellor Hitler attended the official quenching of the flame. The mammoth concrete stadium was filled to the last foot of standing room by 110,000 of the faithful.

No one will ever know which pulled more of the estimated 4,000,000 spectators through the Olympic gates, Hitler or the athletes.

Despite the absence of any official method of determining the all-around Olympic championship nation, Germany could lay claim to the unofficial title. The Germans outscored the United States and everybody else under any system of scoring.

All told the United States carried off team honors in six events to eight for Germany. The women's swimming team just managed to nose out Holland's great squad led by Rita Mastenbroek, the basketball team won the first Olympic court tournament, the catch-as-catch-can wrestlers retained the honors they had won at Los Angeles, and three United States army officers won the modern pentathlon team crown for the first time in history.

On the other hand the boxing team failed to snare a single championship as team honors went to Germany along with women's track and field, rowing and yachting, all of which the United States had won in 1932.

SOLINGEN, Germany (AP) — Searching family records for Aryan ancestry a Solingen citizen discovered that his great-grandfather, serving in the Napoleonic wars in 1814, fought in a battle at Lovers, a small village near Namur, Belgium, where he the great-grandson, fought exactly 100 years later in the World war.

Doherty Equals Course Record In Win Over Holton, 6 And 5 On Sunday

Old Man Par Takes Terrific Lashing In Championship Go

EAGLE ON LONG 18TH IS SENSATIONAL TO TIE RECORD 61

HOLTON ALSO IS FAR UNDER PAR DURING PLAY YESTERDAY

Old Man Par and young Alfred Holton took terrific lashings Sunday when Edgar "Red" Doherty, carrot-topped Tech junior loosed jarring salvos with his woods and babied his short iron and putter to win the first annual Meadowbrook open golf championship 6 and 5.

When the 21-year-old collegian canned his putt on the 13th green of the afternoon round to halve the hole he could look back to more than a championship over another crack shotmaker.

He Equals Record

He had equaled the Meadowbrook course record [illegible]

He [illegible] 15 strokes under regulation figures.

He had won his second major tournament of the year on that course from the same finalist having taken a 1 up win over Holton early in the summer in the Meadowbrook championship.

He had stretched his [illegible] series of wins in one-day flag and match play to four out of seven tournaments.

And he had taken a 4 to 2 edge in frankly admitted golf rivalry with Holton.

Started Back In 1931

It was in 1931 when they first met on a competitive basis that their enduring rivalry started. Holton won from Doherty in the City open here and two years later defeated him in the Ruidoso, N. M. tourney. Those two wins, together with Holton's having held the course record of 61 for almost two and a half years during which time he duplicated the feat three times caused the Tech star to put 10 more yards on his long drives.

Since the 1931 incident Doherty has won from Holton twice in medal and twice in match play tournaments.

Other Flight Results

Results of other flights:

Nick Carter was 1 up victor over W. Smith of Brownfield over the 19-hole route of the first flight. W. C. Edwards bore out our prediction by ousting N. L. Ball 3 and 1 in the second flight and Mrs. W. F. Helwig won the third flight by default from A. C. Bishop.

In the consolation matches Mason Allen, one of the city's best shotmakers, took a 5 and 3 decision over L. Burnette in the championship class. H. McMahon won from A. E. Jones 1 up in the first flight. P. Hubbard accepted by default in the third flight, Bob Gee failing to appear and O. A. Brock was victor the day before over Jack Hazen, conqueror of Dory Detton.

Trophies and merchandise prizes were given winners and runners up in all flights including the consolation.

Referees On Hand

A brown taste was left in the mouth of Holton supporters in the recent Meadowbrook championship play when a question of lie near a bunker was decided for Doherty. To provide against a further contingency of the sort three referees followed closely Sunday's play: Herb Miller, W. F. Helwig and Bob Hale.

In winning the championship Doherty defeated a golfer whose game would have been sufficiently good to have trimmed almost anyone else in this section. Holton was 8 under par for the 31 holes and he was not drawn into trying to keep pace with Doherty's long-distance firing. He was far too clever for that sort of thing. A midget alongside the 175-pound Doherty, Holton nevertheless drove far and accurately, much straighter than did Doherty.

The little fellow's putter lost its magic however and caused him to begin worrying. Worry turned into tension and he began squeezing his clubs in play around the greens. That caused him to be away most of the time on the carpets.

The new champion was not unused to golf honors even before this year. He sacked up the South Plains championship twice, in 1932 and 1934, at Meadowbrook, won the Country club invitational in 1934 and was runner-up in the same tourney the year before—just to mention a few. A foster son of J. W. Burn, he has studied the game since he was 12. His weight, training and height, he's 6 feet 1 1-2 inches, allow him to match his distance game in any company.

Holton's booming drive for 290 yards started the match off on the 315-yard number 1 and Doherty topped his drive but the ball rolled about 190 yards up the fairway. Holton's second shot was dead to the pin for a birdie 3 while Doherty overplayed and came in for a par. Holton 1 up.

On the 111-yard number 2 hole both landed within about 3 feet of the green. Ed pitched to within 2 feet of the cup to cinch a par while Al missed a six foot putt and the match was square.

Doherty, using a wood on the treacherous 318-yard number 3, drove into the dry creek bed to the right of the water hole. Holton played it safe with an iron and was satisfied with 175 yards. His second shot was to within 5 feet of the cup while Ed's second was to the left and he was then on in 3. Al missed his putt for a birdie and they halved with par 4's.

Ed chose an iron for the number 4 hole but was short of the green with a 210-yard drive. Holton, using a wood, landed squarely on the carpet and then rammed down a 6-foot putt for an eagle to go 1 up.

Doherty ran into some hard luck on number 5 after Holton had sent off a 240-yard drive. His first shot, a long one, carried into the cornfield and out of bounds to the right of the fairway. His second tee shot, however, carried 255 yards down the center. They halved the hole when Al missed his birdie putt and they both took a 4.

Ed Wins Jinx Hole

Number 6, the 506-yard jinx hole for a great many Meadowbrook golfers, proved a loser for Holton as he drove 210 yards into the right rough and a deep ravine. Ed's tee shot was far down the fairway for 295 yards. Holton's iron shot was short of the creek while Doherty selected a number 1 iron and drove to within 15 feet of the green. They were both on in three, however. Holton missed his long putt and took a par while Doherty sank a short one for a birdie to square the match.

Both were well over 250 yards on the next hole of 326 yards but Al dubbed his approach. Ed was on in 2 but missed a putt for a birdie by a hair and they halved with par 4's.

Doherty stepped into one for a beautiful drive straight down the center for 295 yards on number 8. Holton picked up 250 yards and they were both on in 2, sinking their putts to halve the hole with birdie 3's.

Both men had nice shots on the 184-yard number 9 hole, Doherty landing within 6 feet of the cup and Holton within 4. They sank their putts for a halve with birdie 2's.

Doherty Gets Birdie

They were on in 2 on number 10 after driving well over 250 yards. Doherty sunk his 8 foot putt for a birdie and Holton missed to get a par. Doherty going 1 up.

On the dog-leg 358-yard number 11 Ed drove far into the right rough and Al followed with a whistling shot which took a beautiful little hook to negotiate the turn in the fairway for about 250 yards. Ed's long iron shot was short and to the left while Al's was barely short of the carpet. Ed pitched dead to the pin for a cinch par but Holton, who was out to win back that lost hole, chipped in from off the edge of the green for a birdie to square the match again.

The short 139-yard number 12 hole proved easy for both and they took pars.

Holton's drive over the trees on the 389-yard number 13 was into the left rough about 280 yards. Doherty sent his 280 yards toward the green and was barely inside the fairway. Al's second shot was about 30 yards short of the green but his third was dead to the pin. Ed's long iron shot landed on and he sunk his putt for a birdie 3 to go 1 up.

Ram Down Putts

Ed's iron shot was short and to the left on the 149-yard 14th while Al's was green high but to the right. They were both on in 2 and rammed down their putts for pars.

On the 447-yard number 15 Doherty drove over the creek by about 10 yards for a total of 270. Al landed about 250 yards down the fairway and his long iron shot which followed was far to the left while Ed's fell barely to the right. Ed pitched on for a "gimme" par. Al's putt rimmed the cup and hopped out to make Doherty go 2 up.

Doherty's 270-yard drive on the 381-yard number 16 hole landed in the number 17 fairway but his second shot hit the green. Holton was 250 yards in the left rough and his second was right of the green. He pitched dead for a conceded par. Ed missed his birdie and they halved.

Barely 10 yards separated the pair on the 296-yard 17th. They were both about 40 yards from the green and pitched on, Holton about 9 feet from the cup and Doherty 3 feet. Holton missed his bird and Doherty sunk to go 3 up.

Lady Luck Smiles

Lady Luck smiled upon the redhead as he came up to the 554-yard 18th. He lashed a shrieking cloudbuster about 270 yards toward the clubhouse which landed out of bounds but with Lady Luck evidently carrying it in the palm of her hand rolled back into the fairway. Holton was 260 yards into the right rough. Ed's second shot, one of his best of the morning, sat down on the green leaving him a putt from the edge for an eagle. Al's second was far short and his third carried him to within about the same distance of the pin as Doherty. He missed his birdie. Doherty, with a difficult eagle, a tie for the course record and another hole in the win column depending upon his next shot calmly ran it down from the edge to go 4 up for the morning round.

A shaky start on the first tee of the afternoon round was the beginning of the end for Holton.

He topped his drive and a moment later conceded Doherty a birdie 3 to go 5 down.

Both Miss Putts

They halved the second and the third where their drives were pin high but where both missed their putts.

Holton won the fourth and the fifth with birdie threes to pull up to within three holes of the pacesetter.

On the 506-yard sixth, however, a terrific drive and a no less sensational spoon put Doherty on for a chance at an eagle. He missed but his birdie 4 was good enough to take the hole and a 4 up advantage when Holton overran the cup to card a 5.

The collegian went 5 up on the seventh when his drive, a booming hook, carried the hill and rolled up to within 12 yards of the green. Holton's drive was long but was 35 yards short of Doherty's. Holton's 7-iron approach carried him 13 feet off line, hole high, and he missed his putt. Doherty canned his 3-footer for a bird.

Halve The Eighth

They halved the eighth after long drives of both found the rough. Doherty, pitching from the deep left rough, was over the green and Holton, a foot out to the left, was barely short, but used his putter. They took par 4.

The gallery was brought up with four thrills on the 184-yard par 3 ninth. Two near-perfect iron shots were executed, the balls being almost together about 13 feet from the pin. Holton, shooting first, played his putt on a slope to the right and watched it run in perfectly. He went to the clubhouse and a moment later heard the gallery clapping to signify Doherty had duplicated the birdie performance to halve the hole and make the turn 5 up.

They halved the tenth with birdie 3's after Holton's drive almost matched a long one fired by Doherty.

On the dogleg eleventh and facing a temperamental diagonal wind in the face, Holton's drive matched Doherty's spoon, both shots splitting the fairway and being well down. Doherty's second was 10 yards short of the pin and Holton's 15 yards to the left, pin high. They pitched up for short putts and halved with par 4's.

Putter Acts Up

Two beautiful 7-iron shots to the twelfth green indicated another halved hole, but Holton's putter acted up again and he was short on the 10-foot try, Doherty running his shorter putt down for a birdie 2 to make Holton dormie 6.

Needing only to halve one of the remaining six holes to win, Doherty lost no time in administering the coup de grace. They halved with par 4's. Doherty's drive hooked into the left rough and his approach also lay in bad territory. Holton's drive severed the fairway, but his approach was to the right of the green. He pitched up almost dead for a concession. Doherty sank his short one.

For all the burning quality of his game, Doherty played with cool precision—possibly because he had cut ventilation holes in his hat, suggested a gallery wag.

Upset Of Dope

The victory of Carter over Smith in the first flight was definitely an upset of dope. Smith had made the back nine stand up on its hind legs and beg Friday to win his match with C. Fox, 1 up 19 holes. Badly in arrears at the turn, he made smoke follow him on the in round then, squaring the match on 17, halving 18, and winning the extra hole.

Sunday was different, and yet strangely alike in some details. Smith was dormie on 15, but won the next three holes to square. On the extra hole, however, Carter sank one from the edge of the green for a birdie. Smith developed the ague and missed a short putt that should have been sunk in any league. He said so himself.

Edwards was steady as a plowhorse, just as he had been all week. He was up on Ball all the way.

The feat of Mrs. Helwig continues to "stump" the ball-following gentry. A woman might have entered some man's tourney somewhere sometime, but the memory of the ancients admittedly is vague and shadowy.

Allen, playing enough good golf to discourage anyone, even in the average championship flight, played his round out after taking a lopsided win, and carded a 66, four under par.

McMahon gave the analysts the bronx cheer, the bird or some other funny noise when he took out the non-medical Doc Jones. Jones, however, said boo at him in the latter stages, halving the last two holes with pars after having been 1 down on the seventeenth hole.

Old Lady Luck Was Smiling On Big Ed Doherty

How many of you ever rammed down your putt for an eagle?

Took all the power you had, direction and putting accuracy, eh, what?

Well, what would you think about an eagle made after a ball went outa bounds?

'S a truth. Edgar Doherty, the ace redhead himself, carded it.

It was on the 18th hole of the morning round Sunday at Meadowbrook. Doherty, who had tried for two and a half years to equal Alfred Holton's course record of 61, stepped up on the tee and cracked the ball with a mighty, flattening impact, hoping to see it land far down the middle of the fairway and give him his chance. He had taken a 31 on the front nine and had required only [illegible] on the eight holes behind him on the in round.

But the ball headed for the left rough across to the barren hill country on the other side of where a fence had been.

But—it struck something and was deflected into the fairway, and a fur piece down.

He took a long [illegible] and [illegible] topped an equally powerful shot onto the green.

What did he think when he lined up the putt? What would you think if you had a chance [illegible] an eagle on an out-of-bounds ball on a 554-yard par 5 hole and at the same time equal a course record?

Maybe Doherty thought of all that, for after sinking the long putt from the very edge of the green his face lit up and he sighed in relief.

"I've been shooting at that mark for a long time and now I've done it," he said.

That was all.

GIANTS CLIMB BACK INTO THE RACE

BILL TERRY'S OUTFIT IN SECOND PLACE IN NATIONAL

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

That Giant express which has been highballing along for a month at the fastest pace of the season is back in second place in the National league today, with only the gas house gang on the track in front.

Climaxing a month-long drive which saw them hammer out 26 victories in 31 starts, Bill Terry's gang took advantage of a letdown on the part of the Cub pitching staff to become the Cardinals' number one challenger.

Cubs Lose Couple

The rise of the Giants was accomplished by a 6-3 victory over the Phillies and the fall of the Cubs in a double defeat by the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3 and 5-4.

Lou Gehrig hit his 37th and 38th homers as the Yankees split with the Athletics, winning 10-2 and losing 2-1.

Dizzy Dean turned in a four-hit job against the Pirates in a nightcap after refusing Frankie Frisch's orders to pitch the opener, contending he had a sore arm. The Cards' double bill victory, 4-3 and 7-2, gave them a two-game lead in the pennant chase.

Cochrane Goes In

Mickey Cochrane caught the first time since his recent illness — one inning of the nightcap — as his Tigers knocked off the White Sox, 6-4 and 8-6.

The Senators tied with Boston for fifth place in the American league by slugging out two wins over the Red Sox, 7-6 and 3-2.

Fine pitching performances were topped by Rookie George Jeffcoat's three-hitter as the Dodgers bowled over the Bees for the third straight day, 5-2, in the opener of a double bill. The nightcap went nine innings, when darkness forced a halt with the score at 2-all.

Other ace pitching jobs were turned in by Johnny Broaca of the Yankees, who held the A's to four hits in the first game; Tommy Bridges, who stopped the White Sox with four hits in the Tigers' opener; Harry Kelley, who handcuffed the Yankee bats with five safe blows in the A's second game; Buck Newsom, whose six-hitter gave the Senators their nightcap victory; Ivy Paul Andrews, who pitched six-hit ball as the Browns belted the Cleveland Indians 9-2, and old Bob Smith, whose five hit job went for nothing when the Bees were held to a deadlock by the Dodgers in their nightcap.

VETERANS ARE COMING BACK

FRED MARBERRY HURLS TWO-HIT GAME FOR EIGHTH VICTORY

By The Associated Press

They do come back—at least in the Texas league.

Veterans whose stars apparently were fading a season or two back are furnishing the punch in the league race. Pitchers particularly seem to have found the pot at the end of the baseball rainbow.

Big Fred Marberry, former Washington Senator signed as a free lance by the Dallas Steers, has performed brilliantly, winning eight games and losing two since joining the league leaders.

Twirls Two-Hit Game

Last night he twirled a two-hit game against the hard-hitting young Beaumont nine to give Dallas an even break in the doubleheader. Marberry's tight-fisted hurling brought the Steers a 2 to 0 victory after they dropped the opener, 8 to 4.

Ash Hillin, the San Antonio wheelhorse, turned in a four-hit performance to shut out the Port Worth Cats 3 to 0, after his teammates had lost the first game, 5 to 3.

In 1933 Hillin was with the Milwaukee [illegible] of the American association, won four games and lost 1 that year. The next year he won 24 and lost 12 with the San Antonio Missions. He has not approached the 1934 mark but his effective hurling has been the Missions' mainstay.

Now Leads League

Curt Fullerton, Dallas star, found only a small measure of success until he signed with Dallas. Now he leads the league in games won.

Houston, trying to catch the flying Dallas entry, defeated Tulsa, 6 to 2 by giving Pitcher Johnny Stevenson excellent support afield.

Bert Richmond, southpaw pitched the Galveston Pirates to a 4 to 3 victory over the Oklahoma City Indians. He allowed but five hits.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Lou Gehrig and Johnny Broaca, Yankees, and Harry Kelley, Athletics—Gehrig's two homers and Broaca's four hit pitching won doubleheader opener; Kelley allowed five hits in nightcap.

Calvin Chapman and Babe Herman, Reds—Former's pinch double drove in two runs against Cubs in doubleheader first game; Herman had two doubles and single, batting in three runs, in nightcap.

Chick Fullis and Dizzy Dean, Cardinals—Fullis' throw-in from right field saved the first game victory. Dean pitched four hitter against Pirates in nightcap.

BALL TOURNEY IS LAUNCHED AT AMHERST

ENOCHS AND SUDAN IN FIRST VICTORIES OF BASEBALL PLAY

BY BOB CANNON

AMHERST, Aug. 17 (Special)—Requiring 2 hours 45 minutes for the first and 2 hours 30 minutes for the second game, Enochs took a 4 to 3 decision from Anton and Sudan walloped the surprisingly strong Dodd City outfit, 7 to 5, Sunday afternoon when the Amherst invitational baseball tournament was touched off.

It isn't every day one sees better games than those unreeled in those Sunday tilts.

Lubbock Plays Today

Lubbock and Amherst, who met in the final game of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal tournament recently and who won first and second money, respectively, there, are to meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Enochs and Sudan will meet Tuesday and Anton and Dodd City Wednesday.

Berry, Enochs hurler, held the Anton team scoreless until the eighth, when four singles in a row produced three runs. Allen of Anton led his team with two hits out of four times up. Coffman of Enochs hit a home run in the second inning and, in the third, Gibson singled and Durwood Howell, manager, blasted one for four bases.

The score was deadlocked in the ninth and Apperson got wild after having fanned 12 batsmen. Berry singled and Gibson, Douglas Howell and Durwood Howell walked. Arnold, relieving pitcher, walking in the winning run.

Fans Eleven Men

For Enochs, Berry fanned 11 men and allowed no free passes.

Ceaberry caught for Enochs, Allen for Anton.

Dodd City, reinforced by such fellows as Sam Langford, old Texas leaguer and a hitting demon, got off to a 1 run lead over Sudan in the first frame and increased it in the third, where the score stood 3 to 1. Both clubs chased in one run in the fourth. Sudan tabulated two in the fifth to knot the count, but took a two-run lead in the seventh, and shoved another over in the eighth. Dodd City scored a single run in the ninth, its rally falling two short of being enough.

Davenport Weakens

Davenport, Dodd City starting hurler, weakened in the fifth and got wild. Two singles, a walk and another single shoved in the two runs in that frame. He was relieved in the eighth by Green. Just before the change, however, in the seventh, a single, base on balls, another single and a double accounted for two more runs.

Davenport, however, tried to make up for his omission, hitting a home run in the fourth.

Nall and Minyard hurled for Sudan and Rundell caught. McNeil was behind the plate for Dodd City.

Minyard struck out six men, Davenport 4 and Green 6.

Langford lacked inches twice of hitting the ball over the ramparts.

SHARKEY AND JOE LOUIS ARE READY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—A ringwise veteran who has held the highest boxing title, Jack Sharkey, and a 21-year-old youth who almost made the top of the heap in one jump but failed to land, Joe Louis, meet along the comeback trail tomorrow night.

It's an unusual situation that finds Louis striving to come back at an age when most boxers scarcely would be started, but nevertheless the Brown Bomber's ring career will be at stake when he takes on the 33-year-old ex-gob in a ten-round bout.

If Joe can win decisively it will show his knockout by Max Schmeling was just a hard break, proving perhaps that the Detroit negro was brought along a little too rapidly.

If he can't he'll probably be tabbed a "flash in the pan" and dropped rudely from the list of heavyweight contenders.

Sharkey has to contend with a lot of entirely different angles, beginning with the fact that he's 33 years old, if not more, and thought he was all through with fighting a couple of years ago.

AMERICAN ACE IS DROPPED

OWENS IS SUSPENDED BY AAU BUT HE IS NOT WORRIED

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The suspension of Jesse Owens brought from his Ohio State coach today the charge that the Amateur Athletic Union is shipping Olympic athletes around in barnstorming tours prompted by "greed" in a drive for money.

"Down with Owens, the A. A. U. says, because he refuses to help them swell their coffers," exclaimed Larry Snyder, coach of the four-medal Olympic star.

The brown Buckeye Bullet was the latest target of the Union's keen-edged axe since Eleanor Holm Jarrett was dropped from the Olympic swimming team and subsequently barred from European amateur competition.

He Jumps Tour

The A. A. U., through President Avery Brundage and Secretary Dan Ferris, cracked down on Owens when they learned he had jumped a scheduled tour of Scandinavian countries.

Jesse himself did not appear particularly worried about the whole affair as he started sight-seeing before sailing Wednesday on the Queen Mary.

The negro whirlwind hasn't made up his mind about commercial offers cabled to him since he outran and outjumped the field at Berlin.

But he's sure of one thing.

"Whether I'm an amateur or not," he said, "it's a cinch I never will run for the A. A. U. again."

AMERADA OILERS ARE VICTIMS; BALL HIT HARD ALL DAY

BY WINTON (COWBOY) KYLE

Those stubborn Hub Clothiers flat-footedly refused anything short of victory yesterday afternoon in Parris field after the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs, N. M., overcame a Lubbock lead, and they forged ahead once more and re[illegible] their 6 to 5 margin at the end.

It was a good ball [illegible]ness. Lubbock register[illegible] in the second frame [illegible] loosened the boards w[illegible] double. Shortstop Prat[illegible] score Presley and Chap[illegible] on after being hit by a [illegible] Coppage singled, scor[illegible] and, to complete the [illegible] singled to bring Coppag[illegible]

Push Over Three

The determined visitors [illegible] in their half of the third [illegible]ed over three runs when [illegible] Burlerson blasted the horse[illegible] single to score Morris and [illegible] and White delivered to se[illegible]son scampering across th[illegible] platter for Hobbs' final tally [illegible] round.

The Oilers tied the count [illegible] fourth after two men had [illegible] out. Weaver, who had replace[illegible]sell on the mound in the thi[illegible] one through Prather and [illegible] standing when Morris unco[illegible] sharp single.

Lefty Blanchard, who le[illegible] Hobbs men down with six sca[illegible] hits in nine innings, bore do[illegible] the fifth and sixth and th[illegible] workers didn't threaten home [illegible]

Hobbs Takes Lead

Hobbs took the lead in the [illegible]enth. Morris was safe at first [illegible] Bettes' error. Burlerson sacrifi[illegible] and Morris scored when White c[illegible]nected with the oval for a three b[illegible]ger. The lead was short-lived, h[illegible]ever, as the Clothiers tied the sc[illegible] and went it one better when [illegible] came their turn to bat in the sa[illegible] inning. Bettes drew a walk a[illegible] scored when Thompson double[illegible] Crites hit safely and came in with the winning run when Presley sent one sailing into center field.

The Clothiers hit the ball hard all afternoon and 10 of their blows fell hits. Errors were cheap commodities in the game. The locals booted six and the Oilers accounted for four. Neither team had a home run hitter in its midst.

Ed Hambright skippered the Clothiers in absence of Sled Allen and evidently salaried visiting teams do not impress him and Sam Rosenthal's crew of amateur, semi-pro at the most, Clothiers.

PRIEST IS IN SECLUSION

COUGHLIN SUFFERS OF SUDDEN ILLNESS AT HIS HOTEL ROOM

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17 (AP) — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin rested in seclusion today after a sudden illness which brought an abrupt halt to an address yesterday in which he renewed his attacks upon President Roosevelt, asserting that "those surrounding him had mesmerized his intellect."

A policeman on guard outside his hotel room, Father Coughlin slept comfortably after he was stricken by what Dr. George P. O'Malley, Cleveland physician, described as exhaustion and a nervous disorder superinduced by the intense work of planning and carrying out the first convention of his National Union for Social Justice.

Preceding the radio priest in addressing the concluding meeting of the National Union's convention, William Lemke declared "Franklin D. Roosevelt is a bewildered Kerensky w[illegible] doesn't know where he is going [illegible] M Landon is the dying shad[illegible] a past civilization and [illegible] it."

[illegible] wave of abnormally high tem[illegible]tures, reaching a Sunday peak [illegible]12, engulfed Kansas, Nebraska, [illegible]ahoma and Missouri.

[illegible]recasters warned the hot area [illegible]ld spread over the northern half [illegible]he midwest and reach into the [illegible]r Great Lakes region.

importance of keeping records of farm work or projects. The important purpose of keeping records to be taught to students is "to find information needed in making changes in the future conduct of the farm business." Other reasons, which have been considered too important before, he said, are "to find out how much money is made" and to "have information to settle with the landlord."

A fault of the farmer in keeping records is that he cannot "separate in his thinking the difference in the farm as his home and the farm as his business. You ask a man what he made on his farm and he will tell you how much money he spent for groceries. If the farmer uses something from his business in his home he should give the business credit and charge it to the home expense."

President Perfects Plans For Journey

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 17. (AP) —President Roosevelt began perfecting details of his forthcoming drouth belt trip today.

He was considering, too, a journey down the Mississippi river.

Hannibal, Mo., has asked him to appear at a celebration. Several other cities along the stream have invited him to visit them, but his assistants said there would be no decision for three or four days.

The chief executive's inspection trip of midwestern areas parched by drouth is to start Aug. 25.

Tea probably was the first artificially concocted human drink. It dates back 4700 years in China.

around to politics. "I don't mind tellin' you I'm going to vote for Roosevelt," he went on. "I'd say most of my neighbors around here will do the same thing. We think he done just about everything he could for us. Politicians been promising to do things for the farmers ever since I can remember but Roosevelt really done something for us . . . We'll vote for Lemke for Congressman but not for President."

Where Lemke Scores

FROM a score of different lips I heard substantially the same thing: they'd vote for Roosevelt for President and Lemke for Congressman. Only one farmer whom I talked to was going to vote for Landon—and he added that he recognized that Roosevelt had done a good deal for the farmer but he didn't like the way money was being spent and relief handled.

A hundred miles or so to the westward in the sections of the Dakotas where the failure has been complete, and debt has blanketed whole communities, there is considerable sentiment for Lemke for President.

Human Side Of Tragedy

EVEN to an itinerant observer the true tragedy of a wide-spread drouth soon shifts from ruined fields to ruined men and women. At Fargo, Dean H. L. Walster, of the North Dakota Agricultural college and one of the wisest and most imaginable agricultural leaders in this country, painted a part of the pathetic picture for me.

"Twenty-five per cent of the land in farms in this whole state should never have had a foot of their grass turned over," he explained. "A hundred thousand of our people here are living in country that was never meant for farming. Wind and water erosion and drouth have beaten them down until today they are the victims of human erosion. Wind and water erosion are social problems, and until America is ready to pay farmers enough to enable them to keep their farms from erosion, the whole future of the race is endangered."

Dean Walster caught his breath and then went on: "It is easy enough to talk about moving people off the land, but there can be no general retreat from any large section. People are earth-bound—their roots go deep down into the soil. We have to co-operate with climate, not fight it. We have to learn to get along with nature . . . Then there is the terrific problem of debt. It's a dead load around the necks of these poor people—an incubus with tentacles that reach into future generations. In this one state our farmers owe the Federal government almost $250,000,000, and we'll have to have somewhere between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000 more poured in this year.

"Every man, woman and child of our 680,000 population will owe around $400 to the government alone. Five years of drouth and the accumulative effects of erosion have been the cause of most of this. It's the reason for our radical leanings. The radicalism of the prairies is bred from the prairies."

TOMORROW: Frazier Hunt will tell why Minnesota is doubtful but Wisconsin is for Roosevelt.

One Man Is Killed As Auto Overturns

HASKELL, Aug. 17 (AP)—A rear tire blowout overturned the automobile of George Clifton, 43, of Knox City, today, killing him and injuring a companion, Nathan Grubin.

Clifton operated a cafe. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Clifton, pioneer Haskell residents. The two men were en route to Wichita Falls.

DROUTH WAR

bers of the committee were asked referred [illegible]s that Dr. C. W. Thornthwaite, former University of Oklahoma [illegible]atologist, recommended in Washington last night that 89,000 families be moved from drouth damaged farms in the Great Plains.

"All this [illegible] about depopulation of the Great Plains is foolish," Tugwell said in a breakfast table address to members of the chamber of commerce. "We don't want to depopulate the country, we want to fortify it to withstand drouth.

"Federal agencies are working to prevent depopulation and the particular agency I represent, the Resettlement administration, is doing its utmost to prevent it."

Six Points Outlined

John E. Hill of Amarillo, representing a committee from 32 Texas counties that studied the drouth, said he was instructed to call six points to the attention of the president's committee:

1. The people of the Panhandle want to stay where they are even if they go broke and have to start over.
2. Farmers want some form of a government financial program to aid the man not yet detached from his land because of drouth and not now a client of any federal relief agency, but unable to get aid from banks.
3. Help for stockmen who are seeking to keep their foundation herd intact.
4. The committee endorses the federal plans for small dams and checks to prevent rain runoff.
5. Financial assistance in pumping water for irrigation.
6. More adequate aid in financing diversified farming.

Accomplishments Shown

"We urge this committee to see our distress but we also want them to see our accomplishments in fighting the drouth", Cooke said.

Hill said the trip of the president's committee to the drouth area "assures us you are really interested in this situation and not just talking."

Cooke told him the trip was "more than a gesture. It represents a very sincere desire to help the drouth country."

Cooke said the problem is to conserve what moisture falls, and save it for a time when it is needed to grow crops.

"I believe that when we make our recommendations, there will be nobody that can say the plan is controversial," he said.

Rep. Phil Ferguson of Oklahoma suggested a 10-year experimental program to determine if sod land broken and placed in crops, can be returned to range.

"We have little knowledge whether the land can be restored to grass profitably," he said. "The government should demonstrate in a 10-year program that it has a plan the ordinary small farmer can put into effect."

He said "the only thing that can help the cattleman immediately is a lower freight rate to market and lower freight rates to pasture and for shipping in feeds."

The committee planned an inspection of lands near Dalhart late today with an overnight stop at Dalhart. Tomorrow it will visit the Oklahoma Panhandle.

In the party are John C. Page, chief engineer of the bureau of reclamation; Col. F. C. Harrington, chief engineer for the WPA; Frederick H. Fowler, director of drainage basin study and Col. Richard C. Moore, army engineer of Kansas City.

TEXAS GAMBLERS TARGETS OF LAW

AUSTIN, Aug. 17 (AP)—Col. H. H. C[illegible], director of the department of public safety, announced today he had ordered Texas rangers to cooperate with local officers in stopping violations of gambling laws and to take action alone if cooperation was lacking.

He said that while no sensational "drives" were planned, a statement confirmed by Albert Sidney Johnson, [illegible] of the public safety commission, he recently ordered captains of six ranger companies in [illegible] to see that the laws were [illegible]ed.

"I [illegible] captains that I wanted [illegible] gambling laws enforced," [illegible] but I wanted them to cooperate with local officers [illegible] them if possible.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—In pursuance of their theory that a negro killed Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, detectives today arrested Claude P. Davis, 18-year-old negro, for questioning about this fourth among recent hotel killings of women in Chicago.

The officers hurried the youth to a police station without announcing the circumstances of his arrest.

ON the heels of the recent announcement at City hall that another 10 per cent wage restoration would go to municipal workers on September 1, The Plainsman was in receipt of several calls asking if it were true that workers in the parks and sanitary departments were getting wage cuts while other employes were receiving increases.

In order to answer the question we asked Mr. William [illegible] Donnell, the reporter who handles the City hall, to dig up the dope. He did and this is what he says:

"Restoration of the 1932 wage scale to city employes, made effective beginning Sept. 1 at Thursday's City commission meeting, resulted in a decrease to approximately 20 laborers in the garbage and park departments. Their present salaries of $90 a month were above the 1932 level which was the highest peak attained before two reductions totalling 20 per cent were ordered.

"The September reduction, making the salaries $80 a month, establishes the same pay laborers in the garbage department were receiving in 1932 but increases the amount paid park department laborers at that time.

"On Jan. 1 members of the commission set the monthly salaries for common labor in the two departments at $90, which was an increase of $18 for the garbage department workers and of $10 for the park department workers.

"The revision was made," officials said, "so that the City would not pay more than the prevailing wage for common labor."

SOME statistician in the offices of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company didn't have a great deal to do one afternoon and he dug up some facts that are interesting and apparently as true as gospel.

For instance:

Betting on your golf game can easily boost your blood pressure up another 20 or 30 points. If you clench your teeth and break a club over one knee, it may jump 80 points. If you merely mutter your anger, the panting climb up the next hill pushes the pressure up 30 points, when something might give way and that would be too bad for you.

If you are one of thousands whose blood pressure needs watching you had better avoid all strains like:

Pushing yourself frantically to get your work in shape to go on a vacation or working frantically to catch up on return from a vacation.

Driving hundreds of miles at high speeds to get somewhere in too short a time.

Gambling on golf, bridge or any other game.

Fishing for big game fish which cannot be caught without a grueling battle.

Mountain climbing and long hard swims.

Getting your city excitement via radio, listening to prize fights, stock quotations and all abnormal "grandstand excitement".

In other words, if your blood pressure is higher than it should be, you'd better take your vacation at home in the porch swing.

You'll live longer!

Treat For Officers

Officers of the clubs are treated royally when they are able to visit Hollywood or when the stars turn up in their cities on personal appearance tours. Dick Powell recently was [illegible] president of one of his clubs and he entertained her in great style at his home.

A Bette Davis club has been in existence several years in New York and when Miss Davis goes there she has the president in for dinner at her hotel.

Screen players receive gifts from their fan-clubbers, especially at Christmas. Some of the gifts are practical, [illegible] they're not. Anne Shirley got an Easter egg carrying the signatures of 200 members of the Anne Shirley Boosters in Australia.

Strange Doings Abroad

Stanley Laurel and Oliver Hardy have an odd fan club in France—the members meet once a week and wear masks which are likenesses of the comedians. That's the story, anyway.

Joe E. Brown and Buck Jones have widespread organizations with membership restricted to boys and girls. Both actors are very conscientious about writing letters.

Beware Of Racket

Petty racketeers have been sniping at movie fans for years. They organize clubs, pocket dues, sell "official" photographs at huge profits, and then skip. Peyton Watkins, in charge of the fan mail department at 20th Century-Fox, told me about some of them. A few of the studios now go to considerable expense investigating fan clubs before they allow their stars to be identified with them.

"Chicago seems to be headquarters for a lot of the racket outfits," said Watkins. "I once learned that a Chicago man had simultaneously written three different players on the lot asking approval of the formation of clubs in their names. I investigated and found the man already had four fan clubs flourishing under the sponsorship of stars at other studios.

"Racketeer organizers not only gyp the members in numerous ways, but sell their names and addresses as 'sucker lists' for other kinds of confidence games."

AN ADMIRABLE FOREIGN POLICY

Whatever may be the criticisms of the Roosevelt administration, friends and enemies alike must admit that Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy is the sanest this country has pursued in many and many a year.

Faced with all sorts of ticklish situations in Europe, Asia and India, the United States during the past several years has steered a straight and sensible course. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, one of the ablest Americans to whom world diplomacy has been intrusted under the New Deal, has done an admirable job of keeping our hands out of many a mess into which a lesser man might have detoured us.

In his recent speech at Chautauqua, N. Y., in which he flatly remarked "I hate war", President Roosevelt briefly sketched the good neighbor policy, pointing out that the United States follows the principle of isolation only so far as [illegible] international difficulties is concerned.

Of course, [illegible] country in the world can be [illegible] sabotage, drawn into almost any sort of an international difficulty but such a happenstance can be made [illegible] by throwing up the safeguards of common [illegible].

Thinking people the nation over will applaud the foreign policy of the present administration as intelligent and altogether commendable. That is one procedure with which not even the wildest-eyed anti-New Dealer can find fault.

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The A. F. of L. executive council itself saved the Committee for Industrial Organization under John L. Lewis from a smashing blow.

Suspension of the 10 C. I. O. unions was anticipated and the heads of those unions took it with a laugh. But a split in the C. I. O., which has had all the breaks so far in its battle with the craft unions, would have been relatively disastrous.

A chance to bust the C. I. O. wide open was exactly what President David Dubinsky of the International Ladies Garment Workers offered the craft union leaders on the council.

A member of the council, as well as of the C. I. O., Dubinsky promised on behalf of his big organization to abide by a majority vote decision on C. I. O. activities at the next A. F. of L. convention if the council would only postpone action at this time.

He said he could get several other C. I. O. unions to sign such agreements.

Failed To Seize Opportunity

This simply meant that Dubinsky, pressed by conservatives in his own ranks and personally quite jittery, offered to abandon the C. I. O. if the convention—a two-thirds vote of which is ordinarily required for suspension or expulsion of a union—disapproved of C. I. O. by majority.

Convention control by craft union enemies of Lewis is absolutely certain. Acceptance by the council would have meant that the C. I. O. would have been seriously weakened in both numbers and prestige.

But the other council members were asleep at the switch. They refused Dubinsky's offer and suspended his union along with the others.

The effect of the move was to solidify the C. I. O. unions and make more certain than ever the creation of a separate labor movement.

Unions following the Lewis leadership will not launch their rival federation before the A. F. of L. convention in Tampa in November. Few of them, if any, will send delegates to the Tampa convention. A credentials committee appointed by President William Green of the A. F. of L. would declare them disqualified and the C. I. O. union delegates would be unable to vote with the rest of the convention on the credentials committee's report.

Green's Status In Doubt

Green's re-election as president is none too certain. As a member of the suspended United Mine Workers he must obtain membership in another union to run for office.

Dominant craft union leaders at the convention are ruthless and in some cases personally ambitious. They will keep Green at the top only if they are convinced that they would invite public opprobrium if they ditched him after he had led their fight against Lewis.

They do like Green, believe that he is at heart an industrial unionist and doubt his willingness to become a real champion for them in a ruthless internal labor warfare.

Few know it, but certain craft union leaders at one time made a compromise offer to Lewis which involved elimination of Green's tenure as president. They overestimated the extent of Lewis' personal animosity toward Green, which isn't very great.

Likely Recruits For C. I. O.

The first new international unions to join a separate labor federation under Lewis presumably would come from among those which voted to support the Lewis position on industrial unionism at the last convention.

These included the printing pressmen, teachers' union, commercial telegraphers and the bakery, brewery, fur, elevator construction, glove, and jewelry workers.

At least a dozen state federations have fairly endorsed the C. I. O. recently. Their influence is moral rather than material, as they have but a vote apiece at federation conventions.

The craft vs. industrial union issue is being fought out in local and central unions throughout the country, but the next big break in labor internal war will come when the International Typographical Union convenes in Colorado Springs Sept. 12.

President Charles P. Howard holds personal membership on the C. I. O. and the council instructed Green to question him further as to his position.

Howard will ask the I. T. U. to join up with the C. I. O. If it does so, courting almost automatic suspension, the effect will be something like another smack on the nose for the council.

Rich and Reckless

By Mary Raymond © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MOLLY MILFORD, rich and popular, has received proposals of marriage from three suitors, but BRENT STUART, whom she loves, has not asked her to marry him.

DONNA, Molly's stepmother, is only a few years older than Molly. Donna is anxious for her stepdaughter to marry.

Bored with a succession of parties, all alike, Molly asks Brent to take her to "The Red Poppy," a questionable night club. He refuses. Molly is determined to go anyway, and sets out for "The Red Poppy" with WICK ROSS, another admirer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

Glittering signs winked familiarly at Molly as she rolled along in Wick's smart car. They made the mental visions she had conjured up seem unreal. In the darkness, she smiled a little. Brent was probably right when he called her a child. It had been silly to inveigle Wick into this adventure.

He had been nice to humor her, but "The Red Poppy" doubtless wouldn't measure up. Tomorrow she would have a headache and wish she had stayed at home.

Tomorrow she would be a good girl and try to feel grateful for her easy, protected life. She would golf dutifully with Dad, lunch with Brent if he asked her, shop with Donna for the Florida trip she was planning. Donna was restless, too, lately.

"None of us is really living," Molly was thinking. "We are only being whirled about by events, tossed around in a rosy cloud that hasn't any reality."

Wick's car had long since left familiar surroundings. Out here in the countryside the wind had an eerie sound. It seemed spooky even with Wick beside her.

"A perfect place for a holdup," Wick spoke shortly.

"I've a funny feeling along my spine," Molly whispered. "As though dozens of people must have passed along this same road tonight."

"And some of them," Wick retorted, "aren't the kind of folks I'd like to meet along here."

"Don't worry. I left my jewelry at home."

"You don't read the newspapers. Holdups can be most unpleasant. Particularly if you've left your money and rings at home. Sometimes you get a nasty bump on the head or maybe a playful dig with a knife. But luck's with us so far. That bright glow over there is the famous 'Red Poppy.'"

As they came nearer yellow squares of light from a long, low clubby type building began to prick the darkness with color.

Wick drove around the side where they found a motley assemblage of automobiles. Some were rather swank, Molly noticed. Others looked as though they were on their last legs.

There was nothing unusual about the place except the dense woodland around it and a sense of isolation. A queer place, if you wanted crowds. But maybe more thrilling things awaited inside. Frances had said the place was terrific. It must have points to be revealed later.

"Here's our cheerful choice," Wick muttered. He helped Molly from the car. "Not too late to turn back," he added.

"Don't be silly."

"It has a rotten reputation."

"I have a feeling something's going to happen," Molly said in a low tone. "Something out of the ordinary."

"Don't say I didn't warn you!"

"When I wake up behind bars, I'll say 'Wick and Brent wanted me to be a good girl and I wouldn't.' Anyway, what could happen?"

"Plenty. police."

"Police!" Molly spoke with the disdain of one who has known only the friendly protection of the guardians of the peace.

They were inside now, and a tall, suave-looking man came toward them, smiling. Molly felt his gaze rest on her for a moment with sudden, sharp interest.

"He knows I'm not a regular customer," she hazarded mentally, "and suspects I'm all set for something exciting."

The proprietor signaled to a waiter, who piloted them to a table.

Molly curved her mouth downward to signify to Wick her disappointment. Wick had been stuffy, deliberately building up an atmosphere which was about to collapse. There was absolutely nothing here to thrill or excite one.

The big room had the usual polished dance floor. A large revolving mirrored disc in the center of the ceiling bathed the dancing area in a flood of shifting rainbow squares. Mirror panels were set in the walls between other panels decorated with vivid red poppies.

The crowd had not yet come to life. People were sitting at tables indifferently, looking at a quite ordinary show with bored eyes. Perhaps after a while that girl with hair like green straw would be crying in her cup and that ugly man with her would flourish a knife—as Brent's edition would have it.

The music had begun. Loudly, brassily and insistently, but the tune was familiar. Nothing daring or sinister in that.

"It's a dumb sort of place," Molly told Wick. "The Red Poppy! Don't they get opium from poppies? The name suits it. It could put anybody to sleep."

"It could put people to sleep in more ways than one," Wick said, persisting in being stupid.

Molly's gaze roamed about and then she stiffened with resentment. The man who had welcomed them at the door was staring at her intently. He spoke to another man at the table who whirled about in his chair and stared at her too.

She wouldn't tell Wick about these obnoxious men. Wick might magnify the incident and start something. She smiled at the idea. No, Wick wouldn't, but Brent, if he were here, would be certain to start smashing things.

As though her thoughts had turned into substance, there—entering the room—was Brent.

Of all things! Coming here when he wouldn't bring her. But of course Brent was following her, dogging her footsteps, shadowing her, protecting her when she didn't want or need his protection.

"Look who's here! How did this happen?"

Wick's eyes traveled the direction of Molly's. He laughed. "It might be a coincidence."

"But it wasn't."

"The truth is, Brent called me

Turkey Reoccupies Its Straits

A historic moment for Turkey was this, as her troops stood at attention on the shores of the Dardanelles while her flag fluttered once more over the Straits, control of which was restored to Turkey at the recent Montreux conference. Permitted to refortify the Dardanelles, which has been demilitarized since the Armistice by the Treaty of Lausanne, Turkey has appropriated $4,000,000 to rush through a rearmament program.

and asked what I was doing tonight. I told him we were night clubbing."

"I won't have Brent trailing me like a bodyguard," Molly spoke indignantly. "I—you shouldn't have told him where we were going."

"Now, Molly, how could I know Brent would horn in? He isn't that kind."

"He's exactly that kind!"

Her eyes concentrated on the tall blond young man who was studying a menu with such absorbed attention, so obviously unconscious of her. She was trying not to feel a sudden rush of pleasure mingled with relief.

There was surely no need for feeling hot and bothered. The bold men who had shown such objectionable interest were now engrossed in conversation, evidently having forgotten all about her.

The man she had mentally dubbed "the proprietor" was speaking now with a newcomer who had sauntered by their table. The new man was young and very handsome, Molly marked. His dark hair grew nicely on a poetic kind of head. He was evidently a man of importance, judging by interest of the group. All three looked pleased and excited. The proprietor was standing deferentially, talking in a low tone while the young man regarded him coolly, almost with distaste, Molly decided. Once he smiled and she saw a flash of white teeth. And once he turned and his eyes met hers steadily for a moment.

She flushed a little. There were lots of staring people in this place. And she was quite as mannerless, looking at others around her as though they were a new species.

A significant conversation was taking place between the dark-haired young man and the others at his table.

"What's the reason I'm getting me into these clothes the minute I get to town?" the young man asked in a low level tone.

"The same reason [illegible] brought you to town [illegible] paid your train fare from Chicago, Nelse." Thornton Black, who was known as "Steve" to a small group of [illegible] friends, spoke quietly.

"[illegible] What [illegible] din reception [illegible] I [illegible] crash [illegible] night."

"You [illegible] start [illegible] What do you think, Nelse [illegible] tonight. Looks like everything is playing into our hands. You could have knocked me over with a feather when she came through that door. You see, Nelse, you're graduating from petty jewel robbery."

The young man took out a cigaret and lit it coolly. "You're not talking to me, Steve. The word kidnaping isn't in my vocabulary, but G-Man is."

"Got a white liver, Nelse? Well, we've a cure for that. It's pretty strong medicine and you might have to spend a stretch inside some big house after you take it—"

Nelson Ferguson's eyes narrowed. "Somebody else might be keeping me company."

"Here, here!" put in one of the trio, a fat little man with an oily voice. "Is that any way for friends to talk? Nelse wants to be urged. He doesn't know what a big piece of pie he'll draw for his share. Only right, too, when he'll be taking the biggest risk. You could never make me believe Nelse would scare."

"Not scared," Nelse said slowly. "But this is a right pleasant planet I'm living on. A lot of the boys have left it recently."

"Those boys didn't have your brains," Bill Patrick put in. "Tell me which one of your absent friends could have engineered that Dawson deal except you and pulled three straight bank jobs without leaving a clew. Or made the police of four cities sit up and take notice for nothing. You've got to hand it to yourself. Those boys weren't as smart as you. That's why we sent for you. That's why we're willing to take a small slice if you pull the job."

"What job?" Nelse sat down.

"Know who that girl is I pointed out to you?" Black asked.

"No."

"They call her the Golden Girl."
