Driver injured in tractor-trailer rig accident on I-20

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

A few minutes of inattention to the road resulted in a tractor-trailer truck skidding on its side about 100 feet along Interstate 20 Saturday morning.

"It was driver inattention," Department of Public Safety Trooper Kneel Stallings said. "The driver was looking off into traffic when the semi went off the road on the south side of the interstate. He overcorrected and the truck turned on the passenger side. It skidded along the highway."

The driver, 59-year-old Paul Campbell of Duncanville, was treated for minor injuries and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

The mid-morning accident occurred at the 184 mile marker and caused law enforcement to close the east bound lane for about three hours.

According to Stallings, the semi trailer hauling returned electronic merchandise from Circuit City skidded along the highway about 100 feet before coming to rest. The accident severely damaged the cab and sleeper of the truck, Stallings said.

No merchandise came out of the trailer but diesel fuel and oil spilled along the road, he said.

"A crew put sand down and absorbed it," Stallings said. "The trailer was not as torn up. A portion on top of the trailer was caved in."

Howard County Sheriff's deputies and the Texas Department of Transportation assisted with the accident scene.

PRINCIPAL OF THE WEEK

Sands' Bilbo likes new challenge

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

ACKELRY — Growing up on her father's farm, Zelda Bilbo's dreams of the future never included becoming principal of her future alma mater, Sands High School.

"I have a rebellious nature in me," Bilbo, principal of Sands High School/Elementary School said. "I have a friend who is the same. We always say we hope the good Lord has a place in heaven for rebellious people."

In fact some people who knew the young high school basketball star may not place the Howard County native in her current position.

"I was at a football game in Jayton and the (retired) superintendent there was one of my principals," the 30-year career educator recalled. "When I told him what I was doing he yelled out 'Oh my goodness, Zelda you're a principal.'"

His astonished proclamation caused several in the crowd to turn and stare, Bilbo humorously recalled.

Her innocent, youthful adventurousness in the small community gave her future tools for her current position.

"Kids can't really shock me," she said. Bilbo admits the education field wasn't her first choice of a career but she soon realized in early adulthood that both Ackerly and education were where she was meant to be.

"I think the Lord sent me into education," she said. "This is the most rewarding thing I can do. I love it."

Bilbo graduated with an education degree from Hardin-Simmons University and has a master's degree in education with a mid-management certification from Sul Ross University in Alpine.

She began her career at Bowie Elementary School in Midland as a physical education teacher where she would handle almost 70 students during a class period.

"I think the Lord sent me into education," she said. "This is the most rewarding thing I can do. I love it."

Sands High School/Elementary School Principal Zelda Bilbo speaks with students T'Aune Reed (left) and Krista Blagrove during a break in classes. The 30-year career educator is currently serving as principal at her alma mater.

"It was a challenge," she said. "I loved it."

She met and married her husband, Robert, while teaching in Midland and from there the couple moved to several towns while Robert worked in the oil fields. She left teaching for a while to start raising the couple's two children — son, Chris, and daughter, Keri.

Then she received a call to come home.

"My parents called us and asked if we would come back home and take over the farm," she said.

And home was Ackerly, Bilbo has come to realize. The couple has been there for 25 years now.

Eventually, Bilbo became a teacher at Sands Elementary and then served as the elementary's principal.

Under her leadership, the elementary has been recognized by the Texas Education Agency as an exemplary campus each of the past six years.

"The teachers worked so hard for us to get that," Bilbo said. "It was wonderful when we made it."

Council Committee vacancies to be eyed

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Committee appointments, approval of specifications for bids and the purchase of Rannels Elementary School are the hot items on this week's Big Spring City Council agenda.

The council meets at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in its chambers, 307 E. Fourth St. in Big Spring.

The council will consider filling two seats each on the Planning and Zoning Commission, the Parks and Recreation Board, the Animal Control Committee, the Board of Adjustments and Appeals, the Big Spring Traffic Commission, the Zoning Board of Adjustments, the Airport Development Board and the Big Spring Citizens' Advisory Board.

The city has received 16 letters of interest for the positions.

Council members will also consider making an appointment to the Permian Basin Airport Board during the meeting.

Specifications on 23 routinely-used items are up for consideration at the meeting, including chemicals such as calcium hypochloride, liquid chlorine, liquid aluminum sulfate, anhydrous ammonia, sulfur dioxide, hydrated lime and polymer; as well as vehicle fleet fueling services; lubricants; digital paper service; radio maintenance; and radio tower maintenance.

Specifications on ultra hi-tensile wire, public works uniforms, trash bags, copper tubing, curb and corporation stops, gate valves, fire

BSISD campuses planning very busy 'Freedom Week'

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District campuses have a full slate of activities to celebrate America's freedoms this week during Freedom Week.

"The main thing is we are focusing on our freedom and constitution, especially during this time," BSISD Assistant Superintendent Ray Villarreal said.

"More than ever, Americans need to be aware of their rights as we balance our freedoms with security of the nation during these times," he added.

"The main thing is we are focusing on our freedom and constitution, especially during this time. More than ever, Americans need to be aware of their rights as we balance our freedoms with security of the nation during these times"

VILLARREAL

Freedom Week originated from House Bill 1776 which designated the last week in September to emphasize lessons on the Declaration of Independence, U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Activities planned during the week at the various campuses are many.

Big Spring High School social studies teachers will hold in-depth class decisions over individual freedoms, how those freedoms were earned and maintained.

Public invited to attend reception for publisher

By LYNDEL MOODY
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce invites the community to come and say howdy to the new publisher of the Big Spring Herald on Tuesday.

"Mr. Bond has shown his commitment to Howard County by continuing to focus on local and area news first and foremost in the past several months he has taken the reins at the Herald," chamber Executive Director Debby ValVerde said.

The reception will be held at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce/Moore Development of Big Spring building, 215 W. Third, from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Bond came to the Herald from Sweetwater where he served as the publisher of the Sweetwater Reporter. He brings 37 years of experience in the news media to the Big Spring paper.

ValVerde noted that since Bond's appointment to the new position, the paper has shown an increase in reporting local and area news.

Circus performance set for Tuesday

By ANDREA MEDLIN
Features Editor

The circus is in town! It's circus time again with all the thrills, chills, fun and excitement of the big top provided by the Suez Shrine.

Dorothy Garrett Coliseum will be home to the three rings that will feature trapeze artists, acrobats, aerial starlets, clowns, the "Dangerzone Rider" in the globe of death, the famous David Zoppe's Fabulous Rhesus Monkeys, with the only performing Rare Black Celebes Ape and Justino the Juggling Genius.

The show will begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Advance tickets, as well as free children's tickets, are available at HEB and most local stores.

Described as a "virtual festival that features a celebration of man's triumph over his own physical limitations," this year's circus promises to have something for everyone.

The two-hour show is a package that is touted as a "kaleidoscope of color, sight and sound wrapped up with the crazy antics of the circus clowns putting on the finishing touches."

For those who like animal acts, Zoppe will present his Rhesus Monkey Revue. The review features one comedy skit after the other and incorporates a rare Black Celebes Ape which resembles a gorilla in minia-

As is always the case, some of the most interesting acts with any circus are the clowns. And the Shrine Circus, coming to the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum for a 7 p.m. performance on Tuesday, will be no exception. Of course, the circus will have plenty of other acts — aerial artists, acrobats, trained animals and much, much more. Proceeds will benefit the Suez Shrine's contributions to charitable organizations.

ture. As stated before the circus offers something for everyone. For those who have gardens and are always looking for a bargain, the circus has something special just for you. There is an inexhaustible supply of mineral-rich fertilizer generated constantly in gargantuan proportions by all the circus' animals. The circus pays hundreds of dollars each day to remove the mountains of the "super mulch" before it can accumulate. Therefore, circus officials are glad to give away the manure to any interested farmers and amateur gardeners.

The Shrine Circus is in its 96th year of existence and appears in 120 cities and towns in North America Each year. The Suez Shrine uses proceeds from the circus for its many charitable organizations.

hydrants, dresser couplings, brass nipples and fittings, brass couplings and adapters and water meters will also be considered.

The council will also consider the purchase of the former Runnels Junior High School building from the Big Spring ISD for $37,500. The purchase would be part of a deal to help the Crossroads Housing Development Corporation acquire the building to provide planned transitional housing for those in need, including women escaping from abusive relationships.

In other business, the council will:

- Hear the final reading of a resolution authorizing an application to the Texas Community Development Program.
- Hear final readings of resolutions authorizing amendments to the deferred compensation plans with Nationwide Retirement Solutions and with Valic.
- Hear the final reading of a resolution authorizing a letter of intent to take part with Howard College in a Community Network Grant.

• Hear the final reading of an ordinance to raise golf cart shed fees at the Municipal Golf Course from $240 to $360 a year and the first reading of an ordinance amending green fees for city employees to $100 a year.

• Consider a request for equipment replacement for the Street Department.

• Consider a request from the school district for construction of a loading dock.

• Consider amending the city personnel policies and procedures regarding eligibility for insurance and retirement benefits.

OUR VIEWS

Municipal court rules are needed

It is certainly time. Municipal Court Judge Timothy Green's announcement a few days ago that he was going to begin enforcing rules of decorum in his court were certainly needed.

"We're raising the level of respect in the courtroom," Green said, noting that he had not expected to have to make a public announcement concerning dress and behavior in his courtroom.

"It was my hope that the parents, before they bring their children to court, would look at them and say 'you are going to court — you are not going to dress like that,' but they don't," said Green.

Now, Green says transgressors will to be sent home.

"I'm going to tell them, 'You need to go home and we will let you know when we have rescheduled your court date.'"

To our way of thinking, it's a shame that the judge has been put in the position of saying he's mad and he's not going to take it any more.

There is simply no excuse for the lack of respect shown by many juvenile and adults in municipal court.

It would seem that common sense would tell anyone needing to appear before any magistrate that they should dress appropriately and use terms like "Yes, sir" or "No, sir" when addressing the judge.

Unfortunately, we have apparently generated at least a part of a generation or two that don't have a respect for authority.

Judge Green has thrown down the gauntlet and said enough is enough.

We applaud this announcement and wholeheartedly support his enforcement of the rules.

After all, it's a matter of common decency. And that should never go out of style.

A SMALL PRAYER

How we can change human nature

Several years ago I met a wonderful man by the name of Winston K. Pendleton, who lives in Windermere, Florida. "Win" as his friends call him, has written over 20 books, a newspaper column and for many years was a much sought after public speaker. The reason I'm sharing this with you is because Win has helped me so much that I consider him to be my mentor.

JIM DAVIDSON

While you probably have never heard of this man, I believe it's important to pay tribute to those individuals who have helped us along the way. It's possible to become highly successful in this country without a lot of formal education, but no person ever achieves success without the help of others. As I said earlier, Win is my mentor and one of my favorite stories that I've heard him tell is about a man who worked for a lumber yard. It seems that this man had worked there for about 25 years and during this period of time whenever he needed some lumber for a project at home or to help a neighbor, he would just take it without paying for it. Well, one night during a revival service at his church, this man got saved and soon thereafter, his conscience began to bother him. He said to himself, "Oh, Lord, what am I going to do?" Then he remembered that the Catholic church has a confessional booth where you can go and confess your sins to a priest and never be seen. Well, this seemed like the right thing to do, so he made the necessary arrangements and went into the booth and confessed. When he finished, he said to the priest, "Father, is that all there is to it?" The priest said, "No, you can't get off quite that easy. Did you ever make a novena?" The man thought for a moment and then said, "No, but if you've got the plans, I know where I can get the lumber." While this is not a true story, it certainly makes a very valid point. Permanent change in our nature, even after we have been saved, is not easy. A person who is inwardly a crook is just waiting on another chance to steal. As it relates to what I am saying, have you ever really thought about the word "nature?" Our nature, according to the dictionary is "the intrinsic or inherent character of a person or thing." In other words, it's our natural instincts we are born with. A good example is that a baby cries when he or she gets hungry. You may not agree, but as a Christian, I believe because of the fall of Adam in the Garden of Eden, man was eternally sentenced to a nature of sin. It's just "human nature" to lie, to cheat, to steal, to commit adultery, to lust or to fight back and try to get even when someone has wronged us. The way to change human nature can be found in the Bible where it is recorded in II Corinthians 5:17 "Therefore if any man is in Christ, he is a new creature: the old things passed away, behold, new things have come." Of course, our environment also has a great impact on our lives. Children who are taught character values by adults who set a good example have tremendous advantages over those who are not. In recent years, psychologists have determined that a person's attitudes and character values are pretty well established at a very early age. So, back to my statement, "permanent change in our nature is not easy." This is the reason a person can have all kinds of educational credentials but still wind up in prison if they lack character and integrity. Hopefully you will give some thought to what I'm saying here because, depending on your needs, it could make a wonderful difference in your life.

Do we really want to invade Iraq?

What's so interesting is that he's given in at the ideal moment: really early, when it messes us up." — Kenneth Pollack, an Iraq expert at the Brookings Institute, on Saddam Hussein's agreeing to weapons inspections as quoted in The New York Times.

Don't you just hate it when the bad guys agree to do what we want them to? If that's not a good reason to go in and take out Saddam, name one.

MOLLY IVINS

But our Fearless Leader, not one to be deterred from war merely by getting what he wants, promptly moved the goalposts and issued a new list of demands Iraq must meet, including paying reparations to Kuwait.

If you step back and look at this debate, it just gets stranger and stranger. For one thing, all the evidence is that the administration has already made up its mind and we're going into Iraq this winter. President Bush went to the United Nations and demanded they back him, he's going to Congress to demand they back him, and there it is. This is not a debate, it's Bush in his "You're either with us or against us" mode. It is not a discussion of whether invading Iraq is either necessary or wise.

If you add up all the reasons the administration has advanced for going after Saddam, the only thing left to say — "Damn right, we need to take out Pervez Musharraf right now!" Musharraf has destroyed democracy in his country, he's backing terrorists in India, our democratic ally, his CIA was hand-in-glove with Al Qaeda, his military is riddled with militant Islamists, his madrasas teach hatred of the West, his heroes are Napoleon and Hitler, and he not only has nukes, he's threatened to use them.

Whereas the Islamists hate Saddam Hussein, there's no evidence he's connected to Al Qaeda, he's broke and his army is one-fifth the size it was the last time we beat him in a couple of days. True, we know he has biological weapons because we gave them to him (see the depressing report in the current Newsweek: "How We Helped Create Saddam?") and probably chemical weapons, as well. The one thing sure to make him use them is an invasion, and frankly he's likely to lob them at Israel. Do we have a right to make them hostages?

The man is certainly a repellent specimen, but there are lots of those around. It must be acknowledged that this is not a situation of moral clarity. Pretending that there's no moral ambiguity here is a profound disservice to both truth and reason. We have done real harm in our past dealings with Saddam Hussein — among other things, we have now double-crossed the Kurds three times (a sextuple-cross?) Not a pretty record.

The downside to taking on Hussein is not so much getting him out as what happens next. Diplomacy is often likened to chess — you have to be able to think several moves ahead. There's no evidence the administration has thought past Step One.

Texas Congressman Ron Paul, a Republican libertarian, has come up with an impressive list of 35 questions that need to be considered. As several commentators have noted, one irony of this situation is that the only real discussion of this campaign is among Republicans (with apologies to Rep. Dennis Kucinich and Sen. John Kerry, gutless Democrats abound). Reducing the discussion to sound bites of "chicken hawks" and "appeasers" is of no help at all.

A post-Saddam Iraq will be a mess (Kurds, Sunnis and Shiites fighting), and adding that much more instability to the Middle East is not smart. Bush claims he wants to further democracy in the region, but every indication is that friendly regimes would be replaced by Islamists after a revolution. The old problem, of course — the root of the resentment — is what Israel is doing to the Palestinians. We are held to be just as responsible as they are by the Arab world. The smart way to go after Hussein is to wait at least until an Arab-Israeli settlement is reached, and that is a do-able deal. Instead, we've let Ariel Sharon inflame the situation — more settlements on the West Bank, now there's a genius move. (Naturally, equal credit to the suicide bombers.)

Hussein is notoriously tricky when it comes to weapons inspection. By agreeing to the return of inspectors, Hussein has effectively agreed to Security Council resolution 1248, from 1999, which sets a lower threshold for weapons inspections, including delays and complications. Seems to me the first step should be to get the Security Council to beef up that resolution, even if the French won't accept an "and if you don't ..." clause. Bush is the "if you don't."

The most unpleasant and unhelpful aspect of this "debate" is the implication that anyone who expresses serious doubts about this venture is unpatriotic — and it often comes from the same people who spent eight years eaten alive with Clinton hatred. Being patriotic doesn't mean agreeing with the government. The most fundamental American right is to not agree with the government and to raise hell about it.

I've always liked Sen. Carl Schurz's definition of patriotism at the turn of the 18th century: "My country right or wrong. When right, to keep right; when wrong, to put right."

has constructed a bulletin board on display in the school's main foyer depicting the terrorist acts on Sept. 11, 2001.

Seventh graders at Big Spring Junior High School will make posters connecting American freedom with the events of Sept. 11, 2001. Some of the posters will be on exhibit in the school's hallways this week. Eighth graders will compare American freedoms to other nations.

Goliad Intermediate fifth and sixth graders will write essays about how freedom relates to them, discuss the founding of the county and how the Bill of Rights, Declaration of Independence and Constitution continue to protect individual rights.

The students will also study various American symbols, link past presidential and American leaders' quotations to current events, learn patriotic songs, flag etiquette and the rights and responsibilities of an American citizen.

Bauer Magnet Elementary School kindergartners will create a hand printed flag and discuss the meaning of the flag's colors. First graders will study American symbols and second graders will make a booklet of American symbols and their meanings.

Third and fourth graders at Bauer will use the Internet to research information about American rights. Third graders will create a pinwheel of American symbols; fourth graders will report their group findings during the morning video announcement time.

Kentwood Elementary School student will meet with Howard County Children's Librarian Karen McIntyre for a school assembly. Each classroom will work on activities relating to the founding fathers. The school will hold a red, white and blue day where students will parade around the school and enjoy a hotdog cookout.

Marcy Elementary kindergartners will make patriotic posters and learn patriotic songs, while first graders will create flags and hats. First graders will memorize the poem "Old Glory" and share their work with the elderly residents of nearby Marcy House.

Second graders and third graders will study a patriotic unit in social studies. Third graders will also create patriotic work and write a short essay about freedom.

Fourth graders will take a virtual field trip on the Internet, discuss the meaning of the Pledge of Allegiance line by line, make a patriotic booklet and read the book "A Place Called Freedom."

On Wednesday all students are encouraged to wear red, white and blue and the fourth graders will spell out USA on the playground. Morning announcements will include information about freedom and student essays.

Moss Elementary School students will create a hand printed flag in red, white and blue colors.

Kindergartners will make U.S. symbols in class, while first graders will use the video "School House Rock" to study the history of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. First graders will also make American symbols, a flag book and Uncle Sam art.

Second graders will study the meaning of the Pledge of Allegiance, study the symbolism of the flag's colors and learn about citizenship and freedom.

Third graders will write about their freedom on a Liberty Bell to be displayed in the hallway, learn about their individual rights through activities, reading and videos. Third graders will also discuss American patriots, create patriotic art and reenact the signing of the Constitution.

Fourth graders will study the Bill of Rights, learn patriotic songs, create symbols of freedom, keep a freedom journal and play the "Your Rights May Be In Jeopardy" game.

The self-contained special education class will study the Declaration of Independence and discuss the phrase, "all men are created equal." The class will also hold discussion over the meaning of freedom.

Washington Elementary kindergartners will read literature about America, make a flag and have a group discussion on freedom. First graders will talk about America, the symbolism of the flag, make an American flag from their hand prints, learn about the Statue of Liberty and write an essay over the theme "I am proud to be an American".

American history and other various projects.

Third graders will write a story on being proud to be an American, discuss the significance of freedom and color an American flag. Fourth graders will study American symbols.

Making love part of commitment

Dear Annie: I am writing in response to the libidinous lady who calls herself "Crushed in Arizona." She says she had "absolutely no interest in sex" during her pregnancy.

Well, "Crushed," sometimes I don't feel like going to work so I can feed my family. And sometimes I don't feel like mowing the lawn, shoveling the driveway, or doing anything to make my wife happy and feel loved. But I do it for us!

It's not all about you, honey, and it's hard for me to understand how you could betray him so easily. Making love only when you feel like it is only asking for trouble. When somebody cuts off their spouse from sex, no matter what the reason, don't be surprised if he or she looks elsewhere for what they need.

You should ask for his apology and remember the commitment you made in your marriage vows, "To love and honor thy husband (or wife) through better or worse." — Wouldn't Take That in Wisconsin

Dear Wisconsin: You certainly told her a thing or two. By now, women all over the country are trying to get your address so they can picket your house. Nonetheless, you make a valid point.

Sex is an integral part of marriage, and spouses occasionally should make the effort even when they don't feel like it. This does not mean sex every day, nor does it mean something kinky or violent. It simply means loving your spouse enough to do something solely for his or her benefit.

Dear Annie: My brother-in-law's girlfriend, "Jessie," was given four tickets to a professional football game in New Jersey last week. She invited my husband and me to join the two of them. I was very excited since I had never been to a pro-football game before.

Jessie was driving and arrived at our home 30 minutes late. Then she informed us that we were going to stop at her sister's house because it was "not far." Jessie got lost and wound up going 40 miles in the wrong direction. By the time we showed up at her sister's house, the game had already started.

To make matters worse, Jessie insisted on spending an hour visiting with her sister, and when we finally arrived at the stadium, the game was down to the last five minutes of play. We missed everything.

My brother-in-law apologized, but Jessie didn't say one word. I think her actions were selfish. She wasted an entire day driving around New Jersey in order to visit her sister, whom she could have seen some other weekend. Do you think I am justified in being upset? — Still Steamed in Upstate New York

Dear Steamed: Yes, you are justified. Apparently, Jessie thought the tickets were hers and she could ignore the needs of her guests. This was inconsiderate and rude. However, there's nothing you can do about it now. If Jessie ever invites you again, arrange your own transportation, and have the tickets in hand.

Dear Annie: I read this in the Hancock Church of Christ bulletin in Lexington, Mass., and thought your readers would enjoy it. — Jill in Evanston, Ill.

Dear Jill: Thanks for passing it along. We loved it.

Dear God: So far today, I have done all right. I have kept my mouth shut. I have not gossiped, yelled or lost my temper. I have not been greedy, grumpy, nasty, selfish or over-indulgent. I am glad about that. But in a few minutes, God, I am getting out of bed. From then on, I'm probably going to need a lot of help. Thank you.

Howard College riders open year at ENMU

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

Danny McDowell gave Howard College rodeo fans something to cheer about Saturday afternoon by winning the average title at the Eastern New Mexico University Junior College Rodeo in Portales.

Spurred on by McDowell's performance, the Hawks staged a strong showing, finishing among the top 10 schools participating. Vernon Regional Junior College won the overall team crown, scoring 355 points. West Texas was second at 190.

McDowell opened the final round of competition with a bang. The Jena, Louisiana, standout scored a 79 in his first ride and held the overall lead heading into the second go.

McDowell finished third on his second attempt, but still managed to walk away with the overall average title. His final scored for both rides was 156.

McDowell was far from the only star for the Hawks. Hunter Cure and Trey Hale each nailed down fourth-place finishes in the respective events, giving Howard College five Top 10 finishers.

Cure was solid in the Steer Wrestling competition. He posted a time of 8.2 seconds in the finals and took fourth in the final average.

Cure worked his way into the finals with a strong showing in Thursday's slack round. He came out of the pack with a run of 5 seconds, placing second.

Hale had identical runs of 6.7 and placed fourth in his event.

Lester Jourdan and Justin Fox ran into some tough luck in their second go in the Team Roping event. The two missed on their final attempt.

Jourdan and Fox had gone into their second try in sixth place. The two, who had placed second overall in during Thursday's opener, recorded a mark of 5.8 seconds in the first round of the finals.

Sophomore Thomas Schenkel also ran headlong into bad luck in his attempt to win the Calf Roping division. After finishing fourth in his first try with a time of 9.4 seconds, he failed to post a mark in his second go.

Schenkel also qualified for the finals in the team's season-opening action at Lovington, N.M., two weeks ago.

"He'll be back," said Howard College coach Greg Kernick. "He's solid."

Jessie Goodson performed well on Thursday, placing second in the barrels.

The Hawks will return to action Oct. 3 in Alpine when they compete in the Sul Ross State University rodeo.

An Eagles' running back looks for a place to run during recent Crossroads Little Football League action. The Eagles played the Falcons Saturday in a showdown of the CLFL's top two flag teams. The Cardinals downed the Steelers in the other game, winning 26-7.

First-half fumbles help Eagles soar past winless Steelers, 26-13

Herald staff report

The 2002 Crossroads Little Football League season has been a learning experience for the Steelers. On Saturday, the learned Cardinals' quarterback Thomas Ruiz can really fly.

Ruiz burned the Steelers on three long touchdown runs and led the Cardinals to a 26-7 victory in Flag action.

"They (the Cardinals) did a good job of getting him outside," said Steelers' coach John Armstrong. "We didn't play poorly, they just played better. We were position to make the tackles, we just didn't get it done."

With the win, the Cardinals moved into second place in the CLFL standings with a 2-1 record. The Steelers, despite a strong effort from running back Thomas Young and end C.J.

Gonzales, slipped to 0-3.

Ruiz scored three times against the Steelers, gaining touchdowns on runs of 27, 34 and 52 yards. His efforts helped the Cards roll to a 26-0 lead.

The Steelers, playing with just 10 players, managed to avoid the shutout on the final play of the game when quarterback Bobby Wells took the snap from center Nick Sharp and darted around the left end for a 2-yard run.

Young finished the game as the Steelers' top rusher, gaining 54 yards on eight carries.

The Cardinals will return to the field this Saturday to face the Eagles, beginning at 9 a.m. The Steelers, who will be without the services of safety Tyler Nairn this weekend, will face the Falcons, the team that edged them, 19-13, on the final play of the 2002 CLFL season opener.

Nairn was hospitalized following the Steelers' loss with complications to an asthma condition. He will, according to the Steelers coaching staff, be on the sideline.

In other Crossroads league action, the Cowboys took a nail-biting 2-0 win over the Steelers in Division II play.

The Cowboys' only points of the game came in the first half when they sacked the Steelers' quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

With the win, the Cowboys improved to 1-1 on the year. The Steelers, despite the best showing of the season, slipped to 0-3.

Broncs' ride first-half surge to win over Buffs

By BRANDON HALLFORD

Special to the Herald

FORSAN — Thursday night the Forsan Buffalo JV ran into a bus driven by the Sonora Broncos. Sonora scored on its first three drives of the first half and took a 34-12 win.

Sonora struck quickly, scoring just four minutes into the game, on a 15-yard run up the left side of the Forsan defense.

The Broncos defense was just as impressive. Sonora shut out the Buffalo offense for much of the first half. The Forsan JV managed a drive of more than four plays only once during their first three possessions of the first half.

The Forsan offense continued to hit on all cylinders. The Broncos scored twice more in the first half and took a 20-0 lead. Sonora inflated its lead at the end of the third when Anthony Longoria captured a pass and scampered 29 yards for a touchdown. Longoria's interception came with 1:52 left in the third.

Forsan got its offense untracked in the fourth. Taking the ball at their own 18, the Buffs methodically moved the ball down the field. The FHS drive was highlighted by a 33-yard run by John Martinez and a 20-yard pass from Tye Baker to Johnathan Wright.

The joy was short lived, however. Forsan's pass on a 2-point conversion was intercepted in the end zone by a SHS defender who returned it the distance for two points.

The Forsan defense, keyed by strong play from Wright and Steven Chavez, stiffened late in the fourth. The Buffs held Sonora to a three and out on their next possession.

Sonora scored on the ensuing kick-off to close out the scoring.

Members of the 2002 Crossroads Little Football League's Titans cheerleading squad show off their talents during a recent practice. The Titans squad is one of several cheerleading teams performing each Saturday during CLFL games. Members of the team are (front row, left to right) Kelsea Moore, coach D'Carion Mata with daughter Kloe, Bianca Griego, (middle row) Jessica Ybarra, (back row) Destiny Sears, coach Sonia Ortega, Stormi Reed, Belle Feaster, Patricia Morales, coach Rachel Gutierrez and Meagan Constanicio.

Lady Steers thump Cooper

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

The Big Spring Lady Steers closed out their non-district schedule on a high note Saturday afternoon in Lubbock. Big Spring reeled off its fourth straight win by rolling over Lubbock Cooper in straight sets, 15-5, 15-3.

With the win, Big Spring heads into Tuesday's District 4-4A opener against rival San Angelo Lake View sporting a 13-9 mark.

"We played really well," said Big Spring head coach Traci Pierce. "We hit the ball well, and move it around. Overall, we did a pretty good job against them."

Big Spring jumped all over Lubbock Cooper early. The Lady Steers, who collected three service aces during the matchup, used a hard-fitting offensive attack to pound Lubbock Cooper in the first game.

The news got even worse in the second game. Big Spring rode the arm of LaKenya Wrightsil and Leina Braxton, to a smother 12-point win in the finale.

Wrightsil finished the game with 13 kills and a service ace. She also led the team in blocks with eight. Braxton recorded six kills, a service ace and seven blocks.

Lindsay Phillips and Sterling Burchett turned in solid efforts setting up the Lady Steers' outside hitters. Phillips, who also recorded an ace in the win, collected 12 assists from her setter position. Burchett contributed seven more.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Board of Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District will hold a hearing to receive public input in regard to changing the current trustee election system. Under the current election system, one trustee is elected from each of the four single-member districts and the three remaining trustees are elected at-large.
Under the proposed change,
one trustee would be elected from each of the seven single-member districts and the second public hearing is scheduled for September 26, 2002, at the Big Spring Junior High School
Cafeteria, located at 624 East
6th Street, beginning at 6:30
P.M. The school districts attorney and demographic expert will make a presentation concerning the change and the maps of the Draft Plan 7-A. The Board will receive public comments regarding the Draft Plan 7-A. Maps and Plan 7-A are available for public review at the Big Spring
Independent School District's Administration Office, located at 708 East 11th Place, during regular business hours at 8:00
A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

This Date in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Sept. 23, the 266th day of 2002. There are 99 days left in the year. Autumn arrives at 12:56 a.m. EDT.

Today's Highlight in History:

Fifty years ago, on Sept. 23, 1952, Republican vice-presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon went on television to deliver what came to be known as the "Checkers" speech as he refuted allegations of improper campaign financing.

On this date:

In 1642, Harvard College in Cambridge, Mass., held its first commencement.

In 1780, British spy John Andre was captured along with papers revealing Benedict Arnold's plot to surrender West Point to the British.

In 1806, the Lewis and Clark expedition returned to St. Louis from the Pacific Northwest.

In 1846, the planet Neptune was discovered by German astronomer Johann Gottfried Galle.

In 1939, Sigmund Freud, the founder of psychoanalysis, died in London.

In 1957, nine black students who had entered Little Rock Central High School in Arkansas were forced to withdraw because of a white mob outside.

In 1962, New York's Philharmonic Hall (since renamed Avery Fisher Hall) formally opened as the first unit of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

In 1962, "The Jetsons," an animated cartoon series about a Space Age family, premiered as the ABC television network's first color program.

In 1973, former Argentine president Juan Peron was returned to power.

In 1999, the Mars Climate Observer apparently burned up as it was about to go into orbit around the Red Planet.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Mickey Rooney is 82. Singer

Ray Charles is 72. Singer Julio Iglesias is 59. Actor Paul Petersen ("The Donna Paul Petersen Show") is 57. Actress-singer Mary Kay Place is 55. Rock star Bruce Springsteen is 53.
