Good Friday

And it was almost the sixth hour; and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour.

And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

And Jesus crying with a loud voice, said: Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit. And saying this, he gave up the ghost.

Businessmen Who Offer Bribes Scored

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee said today businessmen who offer bribes are just as guilty as union leaders who receive them and should be prosecuted.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) told reporters "We are going to find out" why three Scranton, Pa., Teamster Union leaders were indicted by a federal grand jury for accepting money from contractors but the contractors were not punished.

He said the Justice Department has been asked to explain why there were no charges filed against contractor E. P. Bettendorf of Sandston, Va., at the same time Teamster business agents Robert Malloy and Joseph McHugh were indicted for accepting $4,200 from Bettendorf.

The indictment charged that McHugh and Malloy obtained the money by extortion. However, the committee heard testimony that Bettendorf offered the money as a bribe to get his trucks into the Tobyhanna, Pa., Army Signal Corps depot without hiring drivers from the Scranton Teamster local.

Malloy, McHugh and John Durkin, secretary-treasurer of Teamster Local 229, also are charged with accepting payments from other contractors.

Justice Department officials declined to comment.

However, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. has complained in the past that one of his department's problems in dealing with extortion cases is "the very natural reluctance" of the victims and others involved to testify about it.

He said in a speech in 1955 that in extortion cases a "vast amount of time and effort" is needed to "gain the confidence of workers and contractors" who knows the facts.

The Rackets Committee Thursday ended two and a half days of hearings on labor violence in the Scranton area by referring testimony to the Justice Department for possible prosecution for perjury.

McClellan said somebody unquestionably committed perjury in testimony before his committee. He asked the Justice Department to sift the conflicting evidence to learn who failed to tell the truth.

Malloy, McHugh and Durkin swore they had nothing to do with labor violence in Scranton. They said they were against such tactics.

However, a former Teamster muscle man, Paul Bradshaw, testified earlier that they ordered out strong-arm squads against non-union truck firms and building contractors.

Guilty Verdict For Whiteard

Following three hours of deliberation by the jury in Wheeler last night, James William Whiteard was sentenced early this morning to 17 years in the state prison for the murder of Victor Lee Stephens of Shamrock on December 1, 1956.

The case went to the jury at 10:55 last night and the two women and ten men returned a verdict of guilty at 2 a.m. this morning. Whiteard did not make a statement upon hearing the verdict.

Whiteard denied on the witness stand that he had murdered Stephens, a member of a posse searching for Whiteard and his half - brother, Junior B. Myers, on the night of Dec. 1. He also denied his written statement, made to officers following his arrest, that he had shot at a man walking towards him along the fence row, thinking the man was the sheriff. His statement said that he shot him and saw him fall.

During testimony yesterday, Whiteard stated that he did not fire during the shooting incident when Stephens was killed and that the only time he fired was when Deputy Sheriff Luke Henley and Shamrock patrolman H. M. Nix stopped the two fugitives east of Shamrock. Whiteard stated he had fired two shots from a .38 revolver.

Post Office Modifications Are Rescinded

An official memorandum was received yesterday morning by O. K. Gaylor, local postmaster, rescinding part of the modifications recently imposed on post offices throughout the country in an effort to cut down on what was termed as "a continued loss of money on the part of the Post Office Department."

The message was forwarded in the form of a memorandum and was dated April 17, 1957. It read as follows:

"Postal Bulletin Special Issue, April 17, 1957, to all postal installations modified service curtailments. The following service curtailments directed by Postmaster General's Order 56314, dated April 5, 1957, and all related instructions of the Deputy Postmaster General are rescinded effective at once."

The items rescinded were listed as:

"Item No. 1. Relating to closing of post offices on Saturdays.

"Item No. 2. Relating to discontinuance of delivery service on Saturdays.

"Item No. 3. Relating to nonacceptance of third-class mail.

"Item No. 7. Relating to suspension of money order service.

"Item No. 4. Of Postmaster General's Order 56314 and related instructions of the Deputy Postmaster General are modified to provide that District Managers may authorize postmasters to extend window service beyond eight and one half hours per day whenever such extension is specifically determined to be in accordance with the needs of the community. Real Estate Hearing Set For May 3

A public hearing on real estate will be held at 9 a.m. May 3 in the City Commission room by the tax equalization boards of Pampa and of the Pampa school system.

The hearing will be held by the two boards on land and buildings so that property owners will be able to present any reasons they may have for changes in taxes assessed by either the city of schools.

Anyone having questions about their taxes should check with the city tax office for information on the appraisal of their real estate property before attending the public hearing. This action is urged by the board members so that all persons can be heard.

Property owners that don't receive a notice of an increase or decrease in their taxes, and have either bought a new home or have made improvements in old homes should attend the meeting, Aubrey Jones, city tax assessor-collector, explained this morning. Jones reported that several notifications have been prepared but canont be mailed because the tax office does not have the mailing address of the property owner.

Both of the boards will meet in the same room for the convenience of property owners, but the boards will hear the discussions separately.

Egyptian Press Sees Early End To Boycott Of Canal

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The British freighter West Breeze sailed through the Suez Canal today—first British ship to do so since the invasion of last October. The Egyptian press was jubilant and predicted an early end to any western boycott of the canal.

The situation in Jordan quieted down for the moment, but the new anti-Communist policy of the Amman government had repercussions in Jerusalem today. Jordan border authorities refused to admit three Russian nuns because they carried Soviet passports.

To Observe Neutrality

King Hussein of Jordan told United Press correspondent Joe Morris earlier in an interview that his country would fight all "imperialism," avoid foreign pacts and steer clear of such imported dogmas as communism. But he said Jordan would observe "positive neutrality" — the course advocated by Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

Banner headlines in Cairo newspapers said the West Breeze and the British freighter Poplar Hill had paid their canal dues in Swiss francs to the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority as demanded by President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The Egyptian authority announced in Port Said that the American President Liner President Jackson would pass through the canal next Wednesday, the first American ship to do so. It said the 9,277-ton ship also would pay its tolls to Egypt.

Israel Concerned

Israel was reported increasingly concerned at the way the Suez negotiations were going. A Jerusalem dispatch said Premier David Ben-Gurion also was so concerned about recent statements by President Eisenhower he asked his ambassador in Washington to seek clarification.

The chief Israeli concern was Eisenhower's statement that American ships had been advised not to try to force their way where they are "forbidden." Israel feared this meant the Americans were not living up to promises to see that the Gulf of Aqaba was open to international navigation.

Explanation Of Statements Is Requested

JERUSALEM (UP) — Official sources said today Premier David Ben-Gurion has asked Washington to explain recent statements by President Eisenhower that have brought alarm and consternation to Israel.

Ben-Gurion was reported to have cabled Ambassador Abba Eban to ask especially about Eisenhower's statements on the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba and his news conference statement Wednesday that the United States might defend Jordan against "aggression."

The developments followed a series of new border incidents involving Jordan and Syria, including a two-hour shooting affair Thursday afternoon between Israeli and Syrian troops. Much of the blame for these incidents was laid to the Jordan political crisis and the necessity of keeping anti-Israel feelings alive there for the sake of unity.

Officials recalled that on March 5 Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the United States had no reason to believe Egypt would "discriminate against British, French and Israel shipping through the Suez Canal" and that all shipping had the right to use the Gulf of Aqaba unless the international court ruled otherwise.

But the proposals for solution of the Suez question seem to "disregard Israel's rights completely," the officials said. Official sources said Washington appeared to pay lip service to these rights but refuses to ask Egypt to carry them out.

Twisters Skip Across Over Half Of Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes, violent thunderstorms, hail and small floods battered more than half of Texas Thursday night and today.

A tornado that sounded "like a New York subway" ripped through a farm near Pottsboro, in North Central Texas, late Thursday. Another twister hit the earth outside Denison and Southmayd. None was injured.

What police described as a tornado hit the San Antonio area about 1:30 a.m. It demolished a tractor shed and uprooted trees on the Rio Vista dairy farm 16 miles west of San Antonio.

Toppled Theater Screen

That suspected tornado, or high winds, toppled a drivein theater screen on the southwest side of San Antonio and bowled over many small trees and broke power lines in San Antonio's Brackenridge park.

Eagle Pass, on the Rio Grande, was left without lights or telephone communications Thursday night by a torrential rain that had, up to 7 a.m. today, dropped 4.46 inches of water on Eagle Pass.

Weather Observer Charles P. Dodge at Eagle Pass said it was "more rain than we'd had here in a long, long time." The arroyo that runs through the eastern part of Eagle Pass flooded and police had to evacuate several families.

Rio Grande Rising Fast

Dodge said that when he checked early today, the Rio Grande was up three feet and rising fast. However, the rain had slackened and the sun was coming up.

There was flooding of streets in both Dallas and Fort Worth. Fort Worth reported 2.45 inches. Dallas reported 1.12 inches at the Love Field weather station, but the downpour was heavier in other areas.

Unofficial reports put the total rainfall in some areas of San Antonio at 3 inches; though the last official reading there was 1.65 inches with rain still falling. An inch-and-a-half fell in 20 minutes early today, stranding automobiles. Three persons had to be rescued from a stalled taxi on one flooded street.

Olmos Creek, which is near San Antonio's airport, flooded and police set up barricades on Jones-Maltzberger road to keep persons from driving into it.

Trees Set Afire

The weather bureau at San Antonio reported moderate rises on the Nueces and flooding on small creeks in the hill country. Trees were set on fire in San Antonio's Brackenridge park as the wind blew broken, sizzling electric lines against them.

The twister that hit near the

Allison Tornado Reported

A tornado was reported to have struck a ranch near Allison last night and caused extensive damage. No reports of injuries from the high winds were received.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown Jr. of Allison reported that they were visiting their daughter on the ranch when the tornado hit. The high winds demolished the chicken houses and outhouses, turned over the gasoline storage tank, tore up the rack on a pickup bed and blew away feed troughs, they reported. A rain gauge at the ranch recorded 2.30 inches of rain but it was believed that more rain fell and the high winds blew it out of the gauge.

In Allison the high winds turned over cars and trucks and approximately 40 window panes were blown out of the school building. At the Glen Elmore place in Allison the sheds were demolished by winds and other damage was reported throughout the community. Hail was reported to have fallen during the storm.

The outbuildings and sheds at the Charles Garner place were demolished and a windmill tower at the Forrest Evans place was blown over. Evans' barn roof was also blown off by the winds.

A chicken house was blown over at the Ott Clay place in Dozier and hail was reported to have fallen during the high winds. Over half an inch of rain was reported in Dozier.

World Remembers The Crucifixion

ROME (UP) — Pope Pius XII appeared at the window of his study in Vatican City today to bestow a Good Friday blessing on 10,000 pilgrims kneeling in St. Peter's Square.

The 81-year-old pope showed himself in response to the cheers of the gaily-dressed crowd of foreign tourists. Robed in white, he stood at the window and imparted his blessing.

The crowd was part of an estimated 50,000 tourists in Rome for the Easter ceremonies.

The gaiety of the pilgrims contrasted with the solemnity of the settings in Rome's 447 churches. Good Friday is the Christian world's great day of mourning for Christ's crucifixion.

Church altars were bare, crucifixes and statues were covered and priests wore black vestments.

The number of foreigners was unusually high this year because the Middle East crisis prevented many from making the traditional Easter pilgrimage to Palestine.

The mourning will last to midnight Saturday when church bells will proclaim the end of Lent and the start of rejoicing in commemoration of Christ's resurrection.

Pope Pius XII, who was 81 last March, did not plan to attend Good Friday services but decided to spend the day in prayer and meditation after some special audiences this morning.

He will read his annual Easter message at noon Sunday and impart the "urbi et orbi" (to the city and to the world) blessing before a crowd in St. Peter's Square that probably will number 200,-000.

Cranes To Lift Barge

NEW ORLEANS (UP)— Two huge river cranes moved into position today to right a capsized oil barge and reveal the fate of nine missing sailors.

There was virtually no hope that the nine men were still alive. Some 30 relatives of the missing crewmembers maintained a night-long vigil at nearby Buras, La.

The two big cranes moved in on the capsized barge in the north of the Mississippi River, where the huge oil craft turned turtle in squally gulf waters Wednesday as it was being towed into the sanctuary of the river.

There were 15 men aboard the barge, but six were rescued by tugs that were pulling the barge.

X-Ray Equipment Bid Is Accepted

The Gray County Commissioners Court met this morning and accepted a bid from the General Electric Company for new X-ray equipment for Highland General Hospital Annex.

The bid was accepted on the basis of a recommendation presented to the commissioners by the hospital board, which met Thursday night of last week and examined the bids and their contents. Although the accepted bid was $2,956.30 higher than the only other bid, costing a total of $23,-966.10, it was felt by the hospital board members that it was the equipment that would best serve the needs of the annex.

The question had come up last Thursday and action on it had been put off by the commissioners until such time as the hospital board had had time to study the bids and their contents.

In other business the commissioners approved the payment of easements in connection with the construction of the Hobart Street underpass. The three approved payments were to E. C. Newman, $6,000; Ethel Noel, $8,000; and J. S. Schanzenback, $750.

This was in keeping with the County Commissioners recent agreement with the City Commission to go half way in the purchase of rights-of-way for the construction of the Hobart Street Underpass.

In the final business at this morning's meeting, the Commissioners also sold two lots at the site of the old County Barn for a total of $200, and transferred county funds to the First National Bank.

Weekly Newsletter From Congressman Walter Rogers

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

The British Loan Debate

On April 10 the House debated House Resolution 225. This resolution concerned the approval of a change in the 1946 loan agreement between this country and Great Britain. At that time this country loaned Great Britain 3 billion 750 million dollars, which was additional to a balance of 662 million dollars which Britain owed this country under the lend lease program. Under terms of the 1946 agreement Britain was to make annual payments of 128.4 million dollars. These payments were for both principal and interest. The agreement had the rather odd provision allowing Great Britain, the debtor, to waive the payment of interest for any year when certain factors existed. The payments on the loan began in 1951 and were met each year.

On December 31, 1956, a payment date, Britain advised the U. S. that she was withholding the interest in the amount of approximately 81 million dollars and would seek approval of her right to waive the interest under sections 5 and 6 of the original agreement. The 81 million dollars was deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York pending final settlement. Negotiations began between our Secretary of the Treasury and Britain with reference to the proper course to pursue. The 1946 agreement continues until the year 2000. Under the proposed change, approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, the British could select any 7 years of the remaining years and postpone the entire payment of 138.4 million dollars for that particular year, until the end of the agreement. Much more could be said about this agreement, but space will not permit here, since I wanted to say a little about the debate.

The debate was most interesting and generated considerable heat. One of the major points made by the opposition to the resolution was the fact that Great Britain had announced a tax cut for its citizens and the gimmick that had been worked out with our Secretary of the Treasury was for the purpose of helping to finance that tax cut and to support the present government of Britain. Whether or not it was intended to support the present government of Britain is, of course, debatable. However, there is little question, and no doubt in my mind, that the approximate 250 million dollar tax cut recently announced by Great Britain would be, more than 50 percent, financed by the change in the agreement as recommended by Mr. Humphrey.

A great deal was said about the recent statement of the British that their government revenue in the fiscal year ending March 31 reflected a balance, above expenditures, of 812 million dollars. Also pointed out was the fact that the British would be required to pay only 2 percent interest on these postponed payments. This is, of course, much less than our own government is presently paying for the use of the money, and far below the interest requirements of businessmen in commercial enterprises. One Member brought out that the British government had recently purchased another valuable piece of property in Washington for which it paid in the vicinity of 140 thousand dollars. Numerous other arguments were advanced and included a full discussion of many socialized programs being maintained by the British government.

The proponents argued that the resolution should be adopted because Great Britain was our ally and our friend, and in addition had the right to claim a waiver of the entire interest payment whether we liked it or not. They argued also that if Britain claimed her waiver of interest for all of the years, it could cost our country 2 billion dollars. Actually Britain did not have the firm right to waive the interest. She had the right only upon the existence of certain factors which she would be required to establish. Whether or not she could establish them is another question.

It is my opinion that such a provision should never have been made a part of the agreement. In ordinary business transactions the party who has the right to waive interest payments is the lender of the money, not the borrower. However, agreement was made and Britain was insisting upon the interest waiver right.

My analysis of the situation was as follows: In the first place, Britain hired the money and agreed to pay interest. In the second place, if she was the staunch ally and loyal friend that the proponents of the resolution claimed, it occurred to me that she should not be undertaking to welch on an interest payment. In the third place, she had advertised that her income was approximately 1 billion dollars more than her expenditures for the past fiscal year, which is much better than this country has done, percentage wise. In the fourth place, it occurred to me that if anyone was entitled to some tax relief, it was the overburdened American taxpayer — the same taxpayer who shouldered the tremendous tax burdens to pay for the arms, equipment and facilities that saved Britain from complete annihilation in the last war. Certainly he should not be required to finance a tax cut for a Britisher under the circumstances.

It was for these reasons and others, which limited space will not permit me to present, that caused me to vote against the resolution.

However, my vote, along with the votes of 166 other Members of the House, went down the drain so to speak, because the resolution carried to the tune of 218 yeas and 167 nays. We do feel that much additional strength was evidenced in our ranks, and that we are gaining in our efforts to slow down the tremendous foreign expenditures that have so grievously burdened the American taxpayers, and have obviously lessened our friends in the world rather than increased them.

New telephones added in Texas last year could serve a city of 400,000 people

Today you can reach 146,000 more telephones in Texas homes and businesses than just one year ago

Thomas B. Kelly

As told by Thomas B. Kelly, general plant manager, to telephone news reporter Don Davis

IN my job, you can't help but feel the continuing growth in Texas," says Thomas B. Kelly. "There's no room for doubt, when you're putting in 12,000 new telephones a month to keep pace with the state's progress."

And, according to Kelly, there's even greater growth ahead. He should know. It's his big job to supervise new telephone construction, as well as the installation of new telephones and equipment throughout Texas.

A HAPPY moment as the first call comes to a Texas home.

"Last year was a big one, but Texas will need even more new telephones in '57," he points out. "To make these new telephones work, we'll be putting up new buildings, filling them with the latest in equipment, and running telephone wire and cable into the hundreds of new subdivisions springing up across the state. We'll be busy bringing more and better service to outlying rural areas, too."

Growth, of course, makes telephone service more valuable. As more telephones are added in your community, the more people you can reach with a local call, and the more valuable your service.

THE WEATHER AND YOUR TELEPHONE

Kelly talks about the weather and its effect on telephone service as a way of showing how telephone service is becoming more dependable all the time. "A few years back, ice and wind storms gave us a good deal of trouble," he recalls. "But we don't worry as much about the weather reports now. That's because of our 'stormproofing' program. 'Stormproofing' simply means protecting telephone wires from the weather—by running them underground or encasing them in protective aerial cable."

AS NEW RESIDENCES and commercial buildings went up, Texas telephone people were on the job — adding 146,000 telephones, enough to serve a city of 400,000 people.

In the past five years 535,000 miles of telephone circuits have been protected by these methods in Texas. This work will continue in 1957.

While on the subject of greater dependability, Kelly cites other new techniques the company is using to "stop trouble before it happens." One method is pumping nitrogen gas under pressure into telephone cables. A break in the cable can be detected by changes in pressure, and repairmen can be sent to the trouble spot before damaging moisture can seep inside and disrupt service.

HERE a telephone driver practices safety on the road, halting traffic to let two youngsters cross safely.

"As the job of providing telephone service becomes more complex, it's only through the use of new workable ideas like these that we can be assured of giving you the best in telephone service—every minute of every day," says Kelly.

SAFETY WORKS TWO WAYS

Even in the day-to-day bustle of telephone work, the concept of personal safety is never forgotten. "Besides stressing safety for our employees on the job, we also are aware of our responsibility to the general public," the general plant manager says.

Driving safety is a good example. "We teach our people to drive defensively," Kelly explains. "To us, that means driving safely yourself and watching out for the other fellow, too."

He is proud of the safety record of Texas telephone drivers, and with good reason. Last year's record showed only one accident for every 100,000 miles driven.

THE CONSTANT GOAL

All of these things—steady expansion, improved maintenance, new developments, safety—are geared to the one objective of providing telephone service that is high in value and steadily improving.

To meet this goal of continual improvement, a company must be able to act for the long run. That's why a sound, healthy telephone company is important to all Texans.

Only a company that can be confident of earning a fair return can afford to plan and build ahead to give you more and more for your money.

Call by number... it's twice as fast

Capitol Hill News

WASHINGTON (UP) — Most members of Congress headed today for a 10-day Easter recess at home to rest up before plunging into the second half of the 1957 congressional session.

The congressmen left behind a raft of legislative loose ends. Few major bills have been passed so far and most of the important legislation still is in committee.

The lawmakers, possibly sensitive to the country's sentiment for lower federal spending, showed little interest this Easter in junketing abroad to investigate activities in such places as Rome, Hawaii and Tokyo.

Major legislation approved by Congress so far include President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine, extension of corporate and excise taxes and raising of the interest rate on U.S. savings bonds from 3 per cent to 3¼ per cent.

Major bills still awaiting action include foreign aid, civil rights, the budget, housing and school construction.

The congressmen's visits home will give them a chance to test at first-hand the budget - cutting sentiment in their districts. The issue has been the overriding one so far this session.

Other congressional news:

Budget: House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) said President Eisenhower is attempting to regain leadership of the GOP in Congress by proposing a $1,858,000,000 cut in the budget. McCormack said congressional Republicans have been following Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and his economy policies more than they have been the President. He said: "They all like Ike, but they are voting against him."

Small Business: President Eisenhower is reported ready to urge Congress soon to approve a tax plan to attract investment capital to small businesses. The aim is to take the risk out of small business ventures by allowing investors to deduct losses from income taxes.

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee wound up 2½ days of hearings on alleged union violence in the Scranton, Pa., area. The committee has referred some of the testimony to the Justice Department for possible prosecution for perjury.

TWISTER

farming community of Pottsboro, in North Texas late Thursday, wrecked two chicken houses on F. G. Fink's farm. It damaged a garage and a pickup truck and car that were in it and drove a piece of sheetrock into a wall of the house.

Bill Clements, Fink's son-in-law, said he saw two tornadoes dip from the same cloud as he peered out of a storm cellar window. He said the tornadoes "sounded like a New York subway train" and danced around for 10 minutes, also damaging an automobile and water and electrical systems on an adjoining farm.

A twister demolished a barn and outbuildings, knocked the roof from a house and shattered a windmill near Southmayd. It also whipped along the boat docks at Lake Texoma.

The weather bureau said a tornado damaged a house and barn outside the Denison city limits Thursday. It passed near Perrin Air Force Base.

Winds in West Texas

In West Texas, Sweetwater reported winds up to 50 miles an hour Thursday night. Hail damaged wheat in the Floydada area, and at Kirkland, east of Amarillo, the wind ripped the porch from the home of the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad's section foreman.

Thunderstorms hit the Childress-Abilene sector and hail that fell near Memphis was an inch in diameter. Hail also fell at Ector, near Bonham.

Forecasters at the Fort Worth weather bureau said that because of cold air aloft, another band of thunderstorms is likely to form to the west tonight and move eastward.

Heavy rains were reported all over North Central Texas. Many points reporting an inch or more are in the watershed of the lakes that supply Dallas its water supply. These lakes almost went dry last summer.

McKinney reported 2.5 inches, and Sherman 2.7. Other rainfall reports included: Decatur 1.22 inches; Anna 1.07 inches; Justin 1.05; Muenster 1.05; Pilot Point 1.06; Roanoke 1.58; Burleson 1.07; Cresson 1.76; Little Elm 1.95; and Carrollton 2.

However, Gaylor said that this change is in conformity with the business hours of the city merchants. Should these hours be found to be inadequate, the question would be taken up with the district manager's office and the necessary hours effected to assure the best possible service, Gaylor said.

Slick Says 'Yeti' May Exist

KATHMANDO, Nepal (UP) — Texas oilman Tom Slick reported today his yeti-hunting expedition in the Himilayas left him "95 per cent convinced" that an "Abominable Snowman" exists.

Slick said he photographed three sets of footprints measuring 10, 10 1-2 and 13 inches. He said "we also collected some hair believed to be from the yeti and recorded some very convincing eye-witness accounts of encounters with the yeti."

He said his party examined yaks which were reported to have been "mangled and killed" by the yeti, the native term for the snowman.

Hussein Says Jordan Is Against Communism

EDITOR'S NOTE: King Hussein of Jordan has granted his first interview since his ouster of pro-Soviet Premier Suleiman Nabulsi touched off a major political crisis and near anarchy. In it he outlines his government policies to United Press correspondent Joe Morris.

By JOE MORRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

AMMAN, Jordan (UP) — King Hussein of Jordan said today his country would fight all "imperialism," avoid foreign pacts and steer clear of such imported dogmas as Communism.

In the first interview since his stormy cabinet crisis the 22-year-old monarch said Jordan would observe "positive neutrality" but that "we lead and need no leading."

He rejected all projects "which have not been accepted by the member states represented in the last Cairo conference" — Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

No Names Mentioned

Hussein did not mention any foreign aid projects by name nor did he refer to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

But he said Jordan would approve or disapprove aid projects "after careful study by the countries concerned of any such project or projects through an unbiased eye and aspired by Arab history, tradition and interest."

The interview took place in Hussein's hilltop palace. The young king wore a blue suit. He smiled frequently and was fully at ease.

Asked about his plans for fighting Communism he said his people "will not sell themselves to any destructive conventions."

Hussein said that the recent government changes did not mean any "change of policy" and called the reasons "routine affairs of state."

Comments On Cabinet

On the recent government change and the reasons for it he said:

"It is natural to exercise my rights under the constitution when public interests require such exercise.

"Therefore I should say that the outgoing cabinet resigned upon my exercising my prerogative. I should like to assure you that the change of cabinets does not mean a change of policy because the policy of Jordan is not made by any cabinet.

"It came in harmony with the interest of the Arabs in Jordan and elsewhere. The reasons that have led to the change of the outgoing cabinet are routine affairs of state which are known to me as well as all members of the outgoing cabinet."

Extra-High Performance Fuel Coming

The new, extra-high performance gasoline developed recently by Humble Oil & Refining Company will be available in Pampa soon, Doc Cagle, local sales manager for Humble, announced today.

Humble's Golden Esso Extra gasoline, designed to satisfy the requirements of new high compression engines, will be available at three Humble service stations here beginning Saturday, April 20.

"The need for this new gasoline has become urgent," Cagle stated. "Our premuim gasoline, Humble Esso Extra, gives top performance in the vast majority of the high-compression engines now on the road; however, there are many automobiles that require a super-premium fuel. Golden Esso Extra is the answer to that need."

Cagle pointed out that this innovation enables the motorist to select the fuel that meets the power requirements of his car at the lowest cost. "This is the economical way to provide for the ever-widening range in power requirements," he said. "Every step upward in the performance rating of a gasoline is a costly one; Golden Esso Extra will carry a three-cent higher tank wagon price than Esso Extra which is premium priced over Humble Motor Fuel. Thus the customer has the economic advantage of being able to choose the fuel that will operate his car at maximum efficiency."

Humble sales and service station personnel in this area attended a training meeting March 2 at Amarillo where they were given details of the new gasoline and the overall marketing plan.

Convent Burglarized While Sisters In Mass

TYLER, Tex. (UP) —The Sisters of Notre Dame convent was burglarized of $510 while the sisters were attending Mass Thursday.

The sisters said the money was taken from a desk. Entrance was gained by forcing open a screen and breaking out a panel in the door.

A small plane owned by Leonard Precision Instrument of Santa An, Calif., enroute from California to Conneticut ran into hail north of Wheeler and circled over Wheeler for about two hours waiting for the storm to pass. Firemen at Wheeler, who are also a storm observance crew, contacted the pilot, Leonard Zeriat, by radio and instructed him to land at the airport in Shamrock. He landed at 9 p.m. and reported that he wasn't lost and was cruising around hoping the storm would pass so that he could continues to Connecticut.

Rain in Wheeler last night was reported at .60 of an inch and McLean reported receiving .25 of an inch during the afternoon. Light hail accompanied by gusty winds were reported in McLean but were not of destructive proportions.

A trace of rain driven by high winds was reported at Lefors early last night but was not enough to measure.

In Pampa high winds hit at approximately 6 p.m. and caused heavy blowing dust. After a few minutes the dust cleared and boiling clouds passing overhead caused some residents to worry about a severe storm, but no warnings were issued for the area.

Texas Senate Passes Pool Runoff Bill

AUSTIN (UP) — The Pool bill, providing for a run-off in future special U.S. Senate elections was approved yesterday by the Senate.

The measure cleared the Senate on a voice vote after it had failed earlier when sponsors sought to make it apply to the April 2 special election. An earlier test vote on the issue was 21-2 with Sens. Charles Herring of Austin and Floyd Bradshaw of Weatherford dissenting.

The Senate recessed after a morning session until after the Easter week end next Tuesday. The House adjourned Wednesday.

An attempt by Herring to tack an amendment on the Pool bill removing any call for a special election in the event of a Senate vacancy and providing that governor's appointee would continue to serve until the next general election failed.

The run-off bill, sponsored by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas and approved by the House earlier, now returns to the House for concurrence in minor amendments adopted by the Senate.

Five House approved pro-segregation measures will be heard by the Senate State Affairs Committee at 8 p.m. next Wednesday. Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center heads the group.

In part the measures would bar members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from public employment in Texas, require a local option election before a school district could integrate and set up 16 factors on which transfer and assignment of pupils could be based.

Lawton Pageant Expected To Draw Large Crowd

By JOHN CLABES
United Press Correspondent

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)— The 32nd annual Easter Pageant in the Wichita mountains near here is expected to draw 50,000 or more persons early Sunday.

The crowd could be larger, but that will depend upon the weather. Last year's crowd was estimated at over 60,000.

However, no matter what the weather is, the pageant will be presented. Only once has the sunrise service been cancelled. That was because of a severe ice storm.

Theme this year is "Faith of Our Fathers," in keeping with Oklahoma's semi-centennial celebration.

The show will open with a special scene depicting pioneers entering the area in covered wagons, "bearing their most precious possessions—faith in God and a devotion and love of God."

Scene two serves as a device for moving into the rest of the pageant. The remaining 52 scenes cover the birth of Christ, his life, his death on the cross and his resurrection. The story will be told by a preacher standing in a covered wagon.

Sunday At Church Of The Brethren

The Easter morning service, starting at 11 o'clock in the Church of the Brethren will feature anthems by both the Junior and Senior choirs. The Rev. Minnich will bring a message entitled "More Than An Idle Tale."

The 7 p.m. service will be for the Homebuilder's Class. The Junior Class will sing and the service will include several numbers of special music by members of the congregation. Clyde Carruth will bring a layman's message entitled "Something to Think About."

The Youth of the church are planning to attend the city-wide Easter Sunrise Service and returning afterward for breakfast at the church.

Several of the members will attend the Regional Training Camp near Cordell, Okla., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. This period of training is for those who will be directors or leaders of the Church of the Brethren Summer Camps.

Railroad Requests Injunction Against Track Relocation

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP) — The Fort Worth and Denver Railroad Co. has asked a temporary injunction against relocation of Rock Island railroad tracks south of Amarillo Air Force Base.

The move is necessary before runways at the base can be extended. The government planned to move the tracks south of a proposed runway, requiring construction of more than 10 miles of new track.

Wright Armstrong of Fort Worth, vice president of Fort Worth and Denver, said his company contends in the suit filed yesterday in U.S. district court that legal procedure in moving the tracks would violate federal law. He said it proposed another route that would save the government at least half a million dollars.

Armstrong said his company protested the move because it would take Rock Island into a business area served by Fort Worth and Denver, jeopardizing the interests of its stockholders.

Armstrong said he proposed constructing only three and a half miles of track connecting the Rock Island to his company's line and another short connection further west. He said the two companies could operate over that portion of the tracks on a joint usage basis.

Church Starts Campaign To Finance Operations For Year

A campaign to "educate the congregation to the needs of the church" has been started at the First Methodist Church in Lefors.

The campaign is for the purpose of letting members know how much money has been budgeted for church use, what it will go to, why, and the results expected and then to try to satisfy those needs by raising the required amount of money.

Committees totalling 68 members have been set up to expedite the campaign and to handle various details involved.

A time-table has been set up for the months of April and May with the last date to be Sunday, May 19, when a Victory Day and dinner will be held.

Wednesday, all committees met at the church to plan their activities for the campaign.

The time table includes having lay speakers at each of the Sunday services for the next four Sundays, getting out a letter to the membership of the church informing them of the church's needs, putting up posters, preparations for and staging of a barbecue, and then, on Sunday, May 12, holding a Loyalty Day.

On Loyalty Day, the membership of the church will be asked to commit themselves on the amount of money they will try to contribute.

Final Of Series By Leading Churchmen About Easter

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth and final article of a series by leading Protestant and Catholic theologians on the meaning of Easter.

Author of today's dispatch is at the Yale University Divinity professor of historical theology at the Yale University Divinity School, New Haven, Conn.

By Dr. Robert L. CALHOUN

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—The return of Good Friday and Easter this year finds the world once more groping its way along the edge of the Valley of Death.

Not that this is new or strange. Men have always lived within arm's length of the grave. But it seems new, because for a hundred and fifty years, except when major war was going on, we have felt increasingly safe behind a growing technological screen against death.

Now we are not sure whether our newest machines are more to be trusted or dreaded. And we have the uneasy feeling that we may never be sure about them again.

One thing is sure. This anxiety of ours is not to be quieted by acquiring more factual knowledge, better tools, bigger social and political organizations. The real taproot of our anxiety is mistrust of our neighbors, and of ourselves. We men are the main reason the world is once again so frightening.

Partly our ignorance and weakness, partly our aggressions, cruelties, deceits, and evasions, partly our corroding and unnerving fears themselves keep the machines from being trusted servants and make them too often giant foes. These human weaknesss and corruptions, moreover, are beyond our power to eradicate or even to control. They are built into the massive structures of society and history, until whole nations—all nations—as well as individual persons and groups are sick with their poisons.

Our science and technology, our national and international organization are new. But our fundamental human plight—our bondage to our own weaknesses and faults, terribly magnified in fast-growing world society — is very old and very tough. The Roman world in the first century was in a similar plight, with despotism on the rise, old sturdy virtues in decline, and the world clouded with darkening fears.

It was to that world that the first Christian preachers cried out their new message of challenge and hope: that in the obscure province of Galilee, and on a gallows outside Jerusalem, God himself had entered decisively into the human plight, broken the power of death, and turned the cross itself into a promise of life —for all who would bear each his own cross in faith and love.

That unlikely story, that gospel, evangel, "Good News of God," struck root in the Pagan world and grew in defiance of all worldly expectation. It has continued through nineteen centuries, vital and irrepressible, through the rise and fall of empires, cultures, and civilizations, through times of strength and times of woeful weakness among its own preachers and servants. That gospel, of God's doing and not primarily of man's, is now more than ever the needed word to a world in bondage to fear and death: the word of life and unconquerable hope.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

C. Herbert Lowe, Pastor
SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

"Unto you is born . . . . a Saviour which is Christ the Lord." St. Luke 2:11

"Him being delivered by the determinate counsel of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:" Acts 2:23.

This Jesus hath God raised up, Whereof we all are witnesses." Acts 2:32.

Here are the central facts of history. Around these events and experiences revolve the measure of days and years and time for all the world both Christian and non-Christian. To these experiences and events, patriarch and prophet, priest and people, looked from the promise of the Redeemer given in the garden of Eden; (see Gen. 3:15)

As the people of the pre-Christian era looked forward in faith and hope to this person and these events, we of the Christian era look back to them with confidence and assurance. But are we to look backward only, in this confidence and assurance? Have we not also a forward looking faith and hope? Yes, we also have the forward look in faith and hope. And whit is it? It is in the promises of Christ, of angels and of men: "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." Jesus, St. John 14:2, 3. "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven." Angel, Acts 1:11. "So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." St. Paul, Hebrews 9:28.

This the apostle says in Titus 2:13, is "that blessed hope."

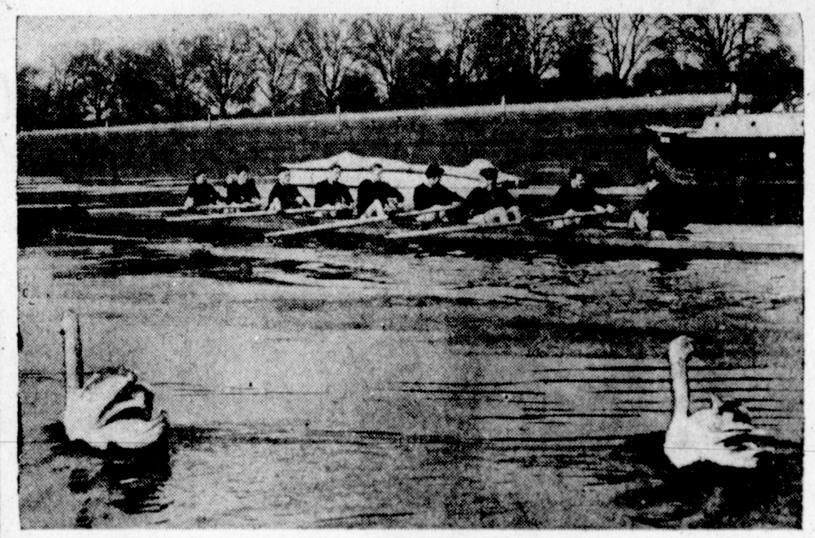
CHANGE OF OCCUPATION—Charlie "King Kong" Keller, one-time New York Yankees' star, now breeds trotting horses on his farm near Frederick, Md. Keller is shown inspecting a new-to-this-world filly as its mother, China L, looks on approvingly.

THE VERY LATEST—Motorized beach buggies are a novelty on the island of Ischia, Capri's neighbor in the Bay of Naples, as early spring brings out Italian bathers. It's really a motor scooter with a custom built sidecar that carries three passengers and gets 60 miles to the gallon.

TAKING A FLYER—Child star Evelyn Rudie manages to relax from rehearsals in Hollywood by running around with her kite. The tot has found this old-time sport a lot of fun, and mighty easy on her seven-year-old nerves.

INGENUITY—Art Bates, a cameraman from Alberta, Canada, uses stilts strapped to his legs to make sure of his camera shots at Gulfstream Park Race Track in Hallandale, Fla. Bates is taking no chances on having his pictures spoiled by those taller fellows who always pop up in front of the boys who aren't high enough to see as easily.

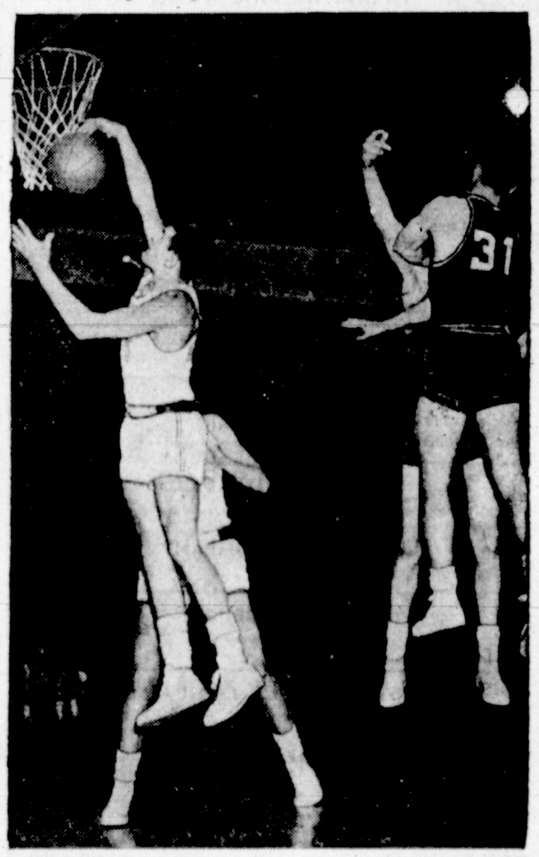


ALONG FOR THE RIDE—The Oxford crew is practicing for its race with Cambridge on the Thames River, near London. A pair of curious swans are cruising alongside to cheer the crew which has not won the event—begun in 1841—for the last two years.

YOUNG AND BRAVE—Youngest "rookie" in the Milwaukee Braves' training camp at Bradenton, Fla., is eight-year-old Bruce Logan, son of the Braves' shortstop, John Logan. Living the life that most kids only dream about, Bruce proudly wears pop's number "23" on his cut-down uniform as he fires away during a determined workout.

FIT TO BE TIED—With the top down on her convertible swimsuit of satinized cotton, Barbara Huffman is insured of an even tan as she frolics with that outsize beachball in San Francisco. The eye-catching polka-dot bow unties to become high-crossing shoulder straps for swimming.

IT MUST BE SPRING—Some high-jumping high school cheerleaders are shown practicing outdoors in Schenectady, N. Y. The warm weather brought the girls out of the gymnasium into the open air, and they're really getting off the ground.



SIGNALS MIXED—Cincinnati's Wayne Stevens (31) and Connie Dierking are so engrossed in their high-flying game of patty-cake that they let St. Bonaventure's Mike Schrauth have a clear field to snare a rebound. This took place during their National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, and the Bohnies won, 90-72.

WITH HIS BOW AND ARROW—William Negley, of San Antonio, Tex., is demonstrating in New York the method he used to kill two bull elephants in the Belgian Congo. Negley had made a bet that he could kill the huge animals with a bow and arrow, and he won $10,000 from W. K. Carpenter, Jr., of Wilmington, Del. The money goes to a museum.

GOAL GETTER—Rangers' Camille Henry, left, is waving his stick after tapping the puck over the line and into the cage for a goal during the Rangers-Toronto game in New York. Seated on the ice, Toronto goalie Ed Chadwick is unhappily watching the elusive rubber dribble past him. The Maple Leafs won the bout with a final 5-3.

BEATING HIS OWN DRUM—New York Giants' second baseman Red Schoendienst banged the drum as two Navajo Indian boys did a dance at the Giants' training camp in Phoenix, Ariz. The lads are Thunder Arrow, eight, and Brown Beaver, five.

June Havoc Has Gripe About TV

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—June Havoc—she's the one in the family who keeps her clothes on— has trouble keeping her shirt on when she considers television.

Miss Havoc, the yummy blonde sister of stripper Gypsy Rose Lee, enrolls next May 11 for duty in NBC— TV's "Mr. Broadway," a spectacular about George M. Cohan. She approaches the task, as she does most of her "live" TV jobs, with trepidation.

"It's a privilege to work in show business—and that's something I feel very strongly about, almost to the point of violence," said Miss Havoc as she sipped some un-violent tea. "But most of the people working on TV sets lack any recognition of the romance in this business.

Actors not Respected

"I hate whisperers, back-scratchers, fidgeters. And TV crews are full of them. There's too little respect for the actors working on the set. I'm pretty bitter about those mechanically minded people in TV who constantly walk and talk and move about without regard for what's going on.

"I've been in show business since I was two. And nobody loves a crew better than I. They taught me to play with jacks instead of shooting craps. I wouldn't be so darn mad at them, if I didn't know and like so many of them."

Miss Havoc, who once starred in a filmed TV series, "Willy," recently worked a BBC spectacular. "In British TV, there's a real sense of discipline, of respect for the business at hand," she said. "The same sort of thing is true of the stage and Hollywood.

"But TV! It's not just the stagehands alone. It's all of those weird people who traipse in and out on a set. Movie actors, working for the first time in TV, can't believe their ears. I've heard them talk often enough about it. They have to fight to overcome it."

Wrong Attitude

The trouble, believes Miss Havoc, lies in the attitude of most TV people toward their jobs.

"The theater is a blessed place," she said. "Ask anybody selling shoes or ribbons across a counter if they wouldn't like to be a part of this magic business. They'd jump at the chance. But so many people in TV don't care any more about their job than they would if they were running an elevator.

"I think the trouble with TV is that the commercialism of the medium has filtered down to everybody working in the business. All right, so it is commercial. But at least the actor should be spared that commercialism."

Guess Who Won?

WAUKESHA, Wis. (UP)— The Raconteurs, a men's writing club, plans a dinner April 26 to honor the winner of their recent essay contest on "Why Men Are Better Writers Than Women." The winner was Mrs. Grace Woodward.

WASHINGTON: Helen Canfield, witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, on the alleged throwing of a stink bomb through the window of a strikebound pizza bakery:

"I thought it was very amusing. I've smelled rotten eggs, and that's just what it smelled like."

BOSTON: British Consul General Robert H. K. Marrett in declining, on behalf of Anthony Eden, offers of fund-raising drives to pay Eden's medical expenses:

"He thinks it is wonderful what these people want to do on his behalf but he gratefully declines it."

BRIXHAM, England: Capt. Allan Villiers of the Mayflower II as the ship sailed off on the first leg of its commemorative voyage to Plymouth, Mass.:

"We are off to America."

Turkey Is Key To Dispute In Cyprus

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Turkey is becoming the key country in the dispute over the future of the eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Britain is now making a new attempt to negotiate a settlement with the Greek - Cypriote islanders, the Greek government and the Turkish government.

To that end, it has released from exile on an Indian Ocean island Greek Archbishop Makarios, leader of the islanders wto demand that Cyprus be handed over to Greece.

Turkey's Attitude Hardens

So far, Britain's negotiations have not gone very far.

For one thing, no basis for a settlement acceptable to Makarios and the Greek government — or even a basis for negotiations—has been found.

But there is another big obstacle. The attitude of Turkey is hardening steadily. As the situation stands now, Turkey is most unlikely to accept any settlement which would be acceptable to Makarios, as the leader of the Greek-Cypriotes, or to the Greek government.

The Turkish government made no secret of its extreme displeasure over Britain's release of Makarios.

Turkish newspapers, which directly reflect the government attitude, are denouncing Makarios as "the instigator, in fact the very personification," of the terrorism to which the Greek-Cypriote islanders resorted to in their campaign for "self - determination."

Talks Continuing

Turkey's fear is that, in its eagerness for a settlement, Britain may agree to give the Greek-Cypriotes domination Cover those islanders who are of Turkish stock.

Diplomatic negotiations are proceeding between Britain and Turkey in Ankara, the Turkish capital, and in London.

Ankara dispatches say that if Britain tries to make any concession to the Greek - Cypriotes that Turkey does not approven British-Turkish relations will be endangered.

The entire situation seems headed for a deadlock. Turkey is most unlikely to recognize any Cyprus settlement in which Makarios takes part. Makarios has said that he will refuse to negotiate with representatives of the Turkish population of Cyprus. Makarios has said further that he will not negotiate unless he is permitted to return to Cyprus, from which Britain still bars him.

Jack Benny To Play With L. A. Philharmonic Orchestra

BY ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The newest rage of the concert world will bow to the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Tuesday night, tuck his violin next to his white tie and play, he hopes.

Everybody used to laugh when Jack Benny dragged out his violin on his radio and TV shows, but now he's graduated into longhair music halls and gained a new "career."

A year ago Benny made his concert debut in Oklahoma City, followed by concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia. Orchestras in other cities were so stunned they flooded Benny with offers. His 1957 benefit concert tour begins here and moves to Washington, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and London.

Very Humble

But the new concert star is taking it all very humbly.

"Actually, I'm pretty lousy," confessed Jack. "I don't play at all. But I get through the numbers and I try to play as well as I can.

"People who think I can't play are surprised. Some figure I'll just tell jokes and try 'Love in Bloom.' But I do these as legit as any concert.

"Mary can't stand my playing," he added sadly. "She says I should be billed, 'Jack Benny and his Frightful Fiddle.'"

At the April 23 concert, for the benefit of Edars of Lebanon hospital' Jack will play the first movement of a Mendelssohn Concerto plus other classical numbers. He's been practicing daily and unfortunately always plays better while practicing than on the stage, he says.

Stage Fright

"I get stage fright, I guess because I'm playing in front of great musicians," he said.

"It's odd—I'm not nervous about my TV shows, which I should be, as that is my real business. But I'm always nervous at concerts, which I shouldn't be because the public really doesn't expect anything."

Benny has been wielding a bow arm since the age of 6. His first paying violin job was with a vaudeville orchestra. Before long he was playing on the stage. Finally the fiddle became a comedy prop, until today it is as much a part of the Benny legend as gags about his stinginess, Maxwell car and perennial 39-year-old age.

Only by becoming a world-famous comedian has Jack been able to attain the concert stage. But, on the other hand, if he had only practiced harder when he was a youngster.

Frostbite May Replace Burn As Hazard

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — Frostbite soon may replace the burn as the No. 1 kitchen hazard.

Food marketing expert E. W. Williams predicts that in 10 years, more than 50 per cent of the food we buy will be frozen. The kitchen range as we know it today "will eventually disappear... and be replaced by microwave cooking," said Williams.

"The revolution is well on its way," Williams, publisher of the trade magazine Quick Frozen Foods, told the Eastern Frosted Foods Association convention here this week.

Kitchen Outdated

"The gadget-laden kitchen ... with its pots and pans, messiness and long hours over a hot stove will soon become as antiquated as ...the coffee grinder."

Williams said 10 million U. S. families now eat their meals at least twice a week in front of the television set. "And most of them are eating frozen foods," he added.

He said some 500 prepared frozen foods are being sold—these in addition to the hundreds of other frozen products such as peas and asparagus, which need cooking.

"Prepared" is the industry's terms for such foods as pot pies and soups which require little more than heating and serving.

Sales Increase

Sales of the prepared frozen foods alone increased 35 per cent last year, Williams said. This year he predicted, we will eat some 400 million frozen pot pies, 50 million heat-and-serve dinners, 60 to 70 million fruit pies, and 320 pounds of potato products.

Our national gorcery bill this year will run about 71 billion dollars, the Grocery Manufacturers of America report. Of this, all types of frozen foods take a "bite" of one billion, 600 million dollars.

"Small bite now," said a GMA spokesman. "But each year it gets bigger."

Each year also, the list of luxury frozen items gets longer.

The housewife can buy artichoke hearts, Frogs' legs, snails, crab roe, bear meat, dandelion greens, passion fruit or bean sprouts. Or, she can purchase dozens of the so-called nationality foods. Williams said purchase ofs these— including Italian, Mexican and Oriental—add up to 80 million dollars a year.

"Parliamentary Procedure" Is Topic Of Talk Given To Lefors Organization

(Special to The News)

LEFORS — "Women in groups, clubs, etc. have accomplished more in the past few years than ever before," stated G. N. Mounger, high school principal and guest speaker for the Lefors Art and Civic Club recently in the civic center, "due largely to the use of parliamentary procedure." He presented two books on parliamentary law, "Mr. Chairman," by Oveta Culp Hobby and "Roberts Rules of Order," which is the Bible of parliamentary procedure.

Having originated in the English Parliament, this subject is stressed in the schools beginning with the very lowest grades and continued throughout the school years.

"It is very easy to get out of the habit of using parliamentary procedure," he went on to say, "but regardless of the type of organization it is much harder to accomplish anything without it."

Mrs. Howard Archer who was in charge of the program and introduced the speaker, closed the meeting with the Lord's Prayer being repeated in unison by the group.

Mrs. H. W. Callan, president, presided over the business session leading the group in the club collect. Roll call was answered with a parliamentary law.

Mrs. James Jinks read a report on the progress of the cemetery improvement and a committee consisting of Mmes. L. R. Spence, H. W. Callan, Earl Atkinson and James Jinks was appointed to assist the chairman, Mrs. C. H. Gustin, in assigning different parts of cemetery to be cleaned. It is being particularly stressed by the club that the cemetery project is a community affair. A day to be announced later, is to be set aside in the very near future in which it is hoped that everyone will turn out to plant trees and help with a general clean-up.

The club members also participated in a cancer drive Monday afternoon covering all the city of Lefors and surrounding camps. It was announced that the club still has door hangers for sale.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. L. R. Spence, hostess for the evening to Mmes. H. W. Callan, Raymond Jordan, Jerry Jacobs, Howard Archer, Charles Glison, Earl Atkinson, Babe Hall, Ed Lehnick, J. E. Carter, L. R. Spence, James Jinks, Bud Cumberledge, and the speaker, G. N. Mounger.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mrs. Benson was rinsing dishtowels when her doorbell rang. Her visitor was the high school principal's wife — one of the town's civic leaders. Invited in, she told Mrs. Benson about some fund-raising plans to build a new hospital; and asked her how she'd feel about joining the campaign organization.

Mrs. Benson had just asked, "But what does a block captain do?" when her 8-year-old son burst through the front door. Breathless and intent on his own affairs, he ignored his mother's guest to blurt, "Can I go over behind Brown's garage to play ball with the kids?"

For a moment his bad manners disconcerted his mother. Almost she blurted, "What do you say when you interrupt people like this?" But pulling herself together, she quickly rejected the temptation to rebuke him — and embarrass him before the stranger as he had embarrassed her.

Quietly to her guest she said, "This is my son John. Please excuse him for interrupting us this way." Then to her child, she added pleasantly, "Yes, you can go over to the ball field if you're careful to get home in time for supper."

All strain immediately left the situation. The guest smiled, John said, "Gosh, I forgot! Excuse me." And his mother experienced the nice clean feeling of having done the needed thing.

A child's bad manners can inflict social embarrassment on us only so long as we think ourselves personally responsible for turning them into good ones. We are not so responsible. All we're responsible for is keeping our own manners good.

It is an immense relief to be able to accept this truth as the principle for teaching manners to a child. It frees us at once from a sense of social strain when he's around. If he forgets his Please, Thank You or Excuse Me, we no longer feel it necessary to demand them.

We don't feel obliged to prove to guests, relatives or friends that we can make him do as he's told. We don't feel required to demonstrate his submissiveness to them.

If he forgets his phrases of courtesy, we simply speak them for him. We say, "Please excuse John from the table. Thank you for letting John look at your fountain pen. Could John have another candy, please?"

It's not especially considerate to reprove children before other people. In teaching him the forms of courtesy, it's a point to hold firmly in mind.

An "April In Paris" Is Carried Out At McLean's Junior-Senior Banquet

By DELMA BUTRUM
Pampa News Correspondent
(Special to The News)

McLEAN — The junior class of McLean High School honored the seniors with a banquet held in the American Legion Hall. The theme, "April in Paris," was carried out.

The ceiling of the hall was covered with blue crepe paper with silver stars, and the sides were papered in red brick paper to represent the outside walls of the building. From these walls were extended national blue and white awnings to enclose the side walk cafes, where all the guests dined from card tables covered with red and white checked table cloths. These were centered with individual small bouquets of cut flowers.

Each place was marked by a nut cup, which was a replica of the Eiffel Tower. The head table was covered with national blue and was trimmed with over hanging silver stars. The centerpiece was a beautiful garden basket with an unusual floral arrangement.

In the center of the room was a seven feet tall replica of the Eiffel Tower, which was constructed by a group of boys. It was made from wire and completely covered in silver foil with an unusual lighting effect that gave forth an irridescent ray. Each cafe was divided by a stone wall about two feet high.

The main source of light came from hurricane lamps which stood on posts near each entrance. The lighting for the remainder of the room consisted of different colored bulbs which threw up an array of reflected colors. The point that made the banquet most outstanding was that the entire atmosphere became altogether Parisian from the minute the guests entered the doorway. They were greeted and seated by sophomore boys who portrayed French chefs. Their costumes consisted of tall hats, mustaches, and large white aprons, and they were carrying large menus, printed in French, which also contained the program for the evening.

The serving was completed by sophomore girls wearing black dresses with white aprons and white frilly maid caps. The meal of French cookery was complimented by French tunes and the theme song, "April in Paris," played on a Hi-Fi recorder.

The program began with the song "April in Paris," which was sung by Caroline Stokes. She was accompanied by the Chef's who worked out a background routine. During the dinenr Mrs. Guy Hester, dressed to portray a Parisan artist drew many character drawings of the guest, while Miss Lona Mae Herron, dressed as a flower vender, delivered corsages to the guests.

Miss Jackie Bailey gave the invocation, which was followed by the welcome, given by Jim Vineyard, junior president. This was answered by the response by the senior president, Miss Gayle Mullanax.

The program continued with Miss Sharon Sitter, wearing a French dancing costume, doing a tap dance. She was accompanied by her brother Lester, who also portrayed a Parisian character.

Freeman Melton Jr., superintendent of schools, gave a short talk to the senior's. The prophecy, will and history of the out-going class were presented by Bob Stubblefield, Joe Dwyer, Miss Maurea Miller and Norman Gilbreath. Miss Caroline Stokes entertained the guests with a group of Parisian songs and was accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Travis Stokes. Harold Bunch, Principal of High School, led the junior class as they sang the senior class song, "You'll Never Walk Alone," as the final number of the program.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Jimmy's mother called him upstairs.

When he came, she showed him streaks of tar on his bedspread. "Why did you put those skates on your bed?" she demanded. "How many times do you have to be told to leave them downstairs? Just how do you expect me to get that tar out of your bedpsread?"

Jimmy said complainingly, "I didn't get it on the bedspread. I left my skates on the floor."

His mother felt a panicky sinking of the heart. Why couldn't Jimmy once take responsibility for making a mistake? What would be the end of this child if he didn't learn to acknowledge a fault — if he continued to evade all criticism by insisting he didn't deserve it?

The answer to these questions lies in her.

Jimmy can admit no mistake out of his conviction that she wants a perfect child. His evasion of any criticism in his effort to satisfy her wish — and assure her she's got one.

If she wants him to learn to tolerate criticism, there's only one way to teach him. She must free him of his conviction that she wants a perfect child by showing him kindness when he behaves like an imperfect one.

To his attempt to present himself as a boy who could never dream of putting his skates on his bed, she must become able to say, "Ah, well — you'll be more careful hereafter. Now let's see if we can correct this mistake. I'll take the spread off the bed and you go downstairs and get out the cleaning fluid. . ."

Unfortunately, parents of children who evade criticism find it almost impossible to treat their mistakes kindly.

When their child misbehaves, they think, "Oh, this is awful! I should have been able to make this child virtuous." As they realize their obvious failure to produce the perfect child, they get madder and madder at him for reflecting discredit on them. Gradually, they can feel only resentment toward the child whose imperfect conduct exposes them to dreaded criticism.

If we are struggling with a child who resents criticism, the questions to ask ourselves are: Why do I, too, fear criticism? Who gave me standards of accomplishment so resentless that I live in perpetual fear of failing them? Was it a person who loved me — or just someone who used me to reflect credit on him?

US, Britain, France Pledged To Action

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States, Britain and France are still pledged to take immediate action to prevent violation of frontiers or armistice lines by either Israel or the Arab states, diplomats said today.

The big three pledge, signed in 1950, was weakened by the British-French invasion of Egypt last Oct. 31, but diplomats of the three powers are trying to strengthen the agreement and put it back on the pre-invasion footing.

President Eisenhower said Wednesday the May 25, 1950, three-power declaration is one of two ways the United States could act to assist a victim of Middle Eastern aggression. The declaration would apply in event of an "Israel-Arab dispute," the President said.

In event of a Communist strike against Jordan or some other Middle Eastern country, American action also could be taken under the recently-approved "Eisenhower Doctrine," the President pointed out. This authorizes the President to use American armed forces if help is requested by Mideast nations against a Communist attack.

The British and French embassies were pleased to hear the President say the 1950 pledge is still in effect. Similar assurances have been made privately to Britain and France by the State Department, it was learned. France and Britain recently made inquiries on this point, diplomats said.

A British Embassy spokesman told a reporter the 1950 declaration is "still operative. We haven't backed out of it at all." This was echoed by a French Embassy spokesman who said the declaration is "still good."

Under terms of the 1950 three-power declaration the United States, Britain and France pledged their opposition to a Middle Eastern arms race. The declaration added:

"The three governments, should they find that any of these states was preparing to violate frontiers or armistice lines, would . . . immediately take action, both within and outside the United Nations, to prevent such violation."

In practical terms the Big Three presumably would take "action" first through the United Nations. This was the procedure followed by the United States in the British - French - Israeli attack on Egypt.

CHASSIS LASSIE — Actress Debra Paget, has been named "The Most Glamorous Chassis of 1957," an award usually given annually to one of the automotive body manufacturers by the Rollins Foundation at Los Angeles. "This year the board voted to expand our thinking," says John W. Rollins."

Hugh O'Brian (Wyatt Earp) To Do Song And Dance Number

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—The little kids in Wyatt Earp hats who'll hang around the TV sets tonight to see their hero will be surprised—Hugh O'Brian will be doing rock n'roll and calypso in white tie and tails.

Hugh is guesting on Dinah Shore's NBC show. The actor, who eagerly acts as his own publicity man, is so excited about his switch from a sagebrush hero to song-and-dance man that he telephoned me to "plant" a story about the show.

As Hugh points out, most stars of TV series are devoured by the character they play, but he's blossomed out all over the dial, first as a dramatic character on "Playhouse 90" and now as a hoofer and crooner.

"It started with my personal appearance tours when I did a western song and dance. You just can't appear, you have to entertain," he explained.

"Ed Sullivan asked me to do my act on his show. Sullivan got more fan mail from that show than any other. Then I substituted for Jackie Gleason and danced an adagio and did a clown routine. His rating doubled.

"If I had just appeared, and not entertained, on those shows' being on Dinah's show wouldn't be such a thing, but people are wondering, 'now what is that guy going to do next'?"

Hugh paused to catch his breath and continued with enthusiasm, "I'll do a soft shoe, rock n' roll and calypso. The reaction from fans has been great. They are very surprised to see my versatility."

As Hugh has been busy twirling his gun as the marshall of Dodge City on "Wyatt Earp", how does he know how to sing and dance?

"I don't," he laughed. "I haven't had time to learn—I'm too busy doing it. Hey, that's a good quote."

Later Hugh called back to say, "did you get everything? And you might like to mention there are other stars on the shown too—Dean Martin, Joey Bishop and Sally Forrest."

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the essentials of winning bridge is to be able to put yourself in your partner's place and visualize the problems that may be confronting him. The following hand bid by Captain Harold R. Fleck, USNR (Retired) of Tucson, Ariz., and Captain Wesley A. Wright, USN at the Yokosuka Naval Base, Japan, illustrates this point.

Hal Fleck's opening spade bid was minimum in high cards but when Ham Wright responded with two diamonds Hal could find only one satisfactory rebid. In spite of holding only 12 points in high cards he raised to three diamonds.

Now Ham had a real problem. He had a tremendous hand but he did not hold an ace. He wanted to bid four no-trump but there was a fly in the ointment.

His partner did not have to hold three aces. With two aces, the response to his four no-trump bid would be five hearts and they would be overboard.

A particularly bad fate for two Navy captains.

A heart or club bid might be taken to show the ace rather than the king and queen. Captain Wright decided on the simple bid of five diamonds.

Now Captain Fleck did what I mentioned at the start of the article. He put himself in his partner's place. Duplicating his partner's reasoning, he decided his partner wanted him to bid the slam if he held three aces and since he did he went ahead and bid it.

There would have been no trouble making the slam in any event but West made things easy by opening the ace of hearts.

These three companies employing 107,000 people, with sales in 1956 totaling one billion, two hundred sixty-six million dollars, announce the signing of agreements providing for a fully-integrated program of engineering, production, sales and service of automotive vehicles; automotive, marine and industrial gasoline and diesel engines; and diesel and gasoline fuel injection systems. All of these companies have been associated for years with quality, precision manufacture and high-performance products.

Pursuant to these agreements, Daimler-Benz and Curtiss-Wright have formed an American company—Curtiss-Wright and Mercedes-Benz, Inc.—to provide for the development and sale of Daimler-Benz products in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Studebaker-Packard Corporation in signing the agreements will now make available to its dealers a full line of domestic and imported sports cars, convertibles, sedans and station wagons—ranging in price from under $2,000 up to $13,000—gasoline and diesel powered trucks and all-wheel drive utility vehicles.

Pampa Meets Palo Duro, Lubbock This Week

The District 3-AAAA baseball race could become more muddled this week end following six games scheduled Friday and Saturday.

Pampa's Harvesters were to meet the league-leading Palo Duro Dons in Amarillo this afternoon at 2 and Coach Deck Woldt's team hosts the Lubbock Westerners Saturday at 2 p.m. in Oiler Park.

The Dons and Amarillo's Sandies are currently tied for the 3-AAAA lead with 2-0 marks. Pampa and Borger are next with 1-1 records while Lubbock has a 1-2 conference record.

A victory by Pampa over Palo Duro today would give the Sandies sole possession of first place since the Sandies have an open date today. The Dons and Sandies meet Saturday in what will probably decide the supremacy of District 3-AAAA.

The Harvesters lost to Amarillo 4-3 there Tuesday to drop from a three-way tie for first place. Both the Sandies and Dons won Tuesday games.

In other conference games this week end, Plainview plays at Borger and Lubbock is at Monterey today and Saturday finds Plainview at Monterey while Borger has an open date.

Pampa was scheduled to play the Plainview Bulldogs here Tuesday afternoon but the game will probably be moved up to Monday at 2 p.m. The game change has not been confirmed as yet.

The Harvesters went into today's game at Palo Duro without their hard-hitting left fielder, Larry Cruise. Cruise, one of the top hitters of the team, will miss at least two games because of illness in his family. David James will probably replace him in left field while Gary Wilhelm will play in center field.

Righthander Ray Stephenson was scheduled to start on the mound for the Harvesters today, opposing Palo Duro's James Coffey. Other Pampa probable starters included Mike Conway, second base; Bill Brown, shortstop; Benny Sparks, third base; Robert Langford, first base; Bill Conway, right field; and John Lee, catching.

Coach Woldt will use either James or Ronnie Burlingame on the mound against Lubbock Saturday.

Oilers Count On Pitchers As Season Opener Nearing

Two more pitchers reported to the Pampa Oilers for spring work outs yesterday as the Southwestern League's opening day edged nearer.

The Oilers have four more days of drills scheduled before the season starts for them against Midland Tuesday. Pampa's first home game will be played against Midland Saturday, April 27, after a four-game road trip.

Reporting yesterday were veteran pitcher Gene Summerlin and rookie Tommy Duncan. This brought to 12 the number of hurlers in the Oiler camp. A total of 22 players are now on the roster.

Summerlin, who had been working with Shreveport of the Texas League this spring, has been in camp for three days but his contract was signed yesterday. Duncan was sent to the Oilers by Corpus Christi of the Big State League. He's the seventh rookie on the Oiler roster.

Summerlin's signing brought to seven the number of veterans on the club. The roster must be trimmed to six veterans, three rookies and seven limited service men by opening day. Manager Allan Cross plans to keep himself off of the active list for awhile in order to give some of the other players a chance to make the team. He has two National Defense Service players who will not count on the 16-player limit.

Summerlin is no newcomer to the Oiler management. He played with Cross three years ago in the Evangeline League. He's the third veteran pitcher on the team. Cross plans to keep around eight hurlers on the team.

The team went through a lengthy practice session today with more drills slated for Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The Oilers are trying to book an exhibition game

Burdette, Maglie Shine In NL Victories

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

It's like old times today for four pitchers who celebrated their first appearances of the new season by picking on favorite "cousins."

The No. 1 job, of course, was turned in by Lew Burdette who pitched the Milwaukee Braves to a 1-0 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. It was the eighth straight win for Burdette over the Redlegs dating to 1955 and it gave him a 10-4 career record against them.

The Brooklyn Dodgers remained the only other unbeaten team in the National League when Sal Maglie tossed a four-hitter for a 6-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The 39-year-old Maglie now has a 23-5 lifetime mark against the Bucs.

A couple of American League jinxes enabled the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox to chalk up their second consecutive victories.

The world champion Yankees scored two tainted runs in the ninth inning to down the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, with Bob Grim picking up the win in relief. Grim now has an 8-2 record against the Red Sox, who haven't beaten him since the 1955 season.

The White Sox drubbed the Kansas City Athletics, 6-2, behind a four-hit effort by Jack Harshman, who's beaten the A's four times and never lost to them during his career in the A.L.

The Chicago Cubs walloped the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-2, and the New York Giants beat the Philadelphia Phils, 6-2, in the other N.L. games while the Cleveland Indians downed the Detroit Tigers, 8-3, in 11 innings and the Washington Senators beat the Baltimore Orioles, 6-4, in the other A.L. games.

Moe Drabowsky, the $60,000 bonus pitcher, stopped the Cardinals on four hits. Gene Baker, meanwhile, walloped three hits including a triple and double to pace the Cubs' 15-hit attack on five pitchers. Gail Harris and Hank Sauer each homered and knocked in three runs to lead the Giants to their victory behind a solid eight-hit job by Ruben Gomez. Sauer's homer was the 250th of his career.

Rookie Roger Maris' grand slam homer climaxed a five-run Cleveland rally in the 11th that returned Ray Narleski the winner over Detroit. Relief pitcher Pedro Ramos yielded only one unearned run over the last 6 1-3 innings to gain credit for the Senators' first victory of the year.

Lew Burdette Is 'Cheating Spitballer,' Says Tebbetts

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs says Milwaukee Braves' pitcher Lew Burdette is "a cheating spitballer" and today wanted the National League to clarify the rules.

An angried Tebbetts said he sent a request for interpretation to league President Warren Giles "to settle once and for all" what constitutes spitball pitching "so everybody will know."

Tebbetts said Thursday after Burdette had won his sixth straight over the Redlegs in two seasons that "I'm tired of him getting away with murder." The manager charged that Burdette has been throwing spitballs for three years.

The Redlegs field chief said Burdette constantly put his hands to his mouth, then wiped them on his shirt or used the resin sack.

Tebbetts said umpires say it's all right if the pitcher wipes his hands on his shirt or picks up the resin sack after putting his hands to his mouth.

"But the rule book says you can't put your hand to your mouth and Burdette does it every pitch," Tebbetts fired out.

Burdette, often accused of throwing a spitter, answered by saying, "It's the best pitch I've got, but I don't use it."

When asked why he doesn't file a formal complaint against Burdette, Tebbetts said "That's a good question. I'm stumped. I can't prove it."

Lawton Women's Open Set Today

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—Twenty-one of the nation's top play-for-pay lady golfers tee off today in the first round of the 54-hole $5,000 Lawton Open golf tournament with umbrellas and rain jackets in expectation of showers.

The weather bureau earlier forecast thundershowers for the area.

Betty Dodd, who captured the first Lawton Open last year with a blazing finish, was favored to repeat here again this year.

Joining Miss Dodd in the 18-hole round were Wiffi Smith, who picked up first prize money in the $7,500 Dallas Open last week end, Marlene Bauer Hagge, one of the top money winners this year, and Jackie Pung, the shotmaker from Hawaii, who turned pro several years ago after winning the U.S. Amateur title.

Also teeing off today were other such top flight performers as Patty Berg, Betty Jameson and Alice Bauer. Not joining their "sister travelers" here were Louis Suggs and Betsy Rawls.

A number of the top amateurs were also in the lineup, including veteran Polly Riley and Clifford Ann Creed.

A $500 pro-amateur event preceded today's opening round. The tournament concludes Sunday.

Stan Musial Plays 776th Consecutive Game Thursday

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Stan Musial was able to play in his 776th consecutive game here Thursday night.

Musial strained his back in Tuesday's season opener against the Cincinnati Redlegs and it was feared that "The Man" would have to stop 48 games short of the record of consecutive games in the National League.

The rainout of Wednesday's game against the Redlegs gave Cardinal trainer Bob Bauman an extra day to administer treatment. Bauman gave the "go ahead" for Thursday night's game after he saw that Stan's back had improved.

Musial was at bat three times but failed to connect and fumbled a ball for an error. However, he kept his streak intact by playing the whole game which the Cards lost to the Chicago Cubs, 10-2.

Oklahoma City Gets Chance To Stretch Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Oklahoma City gets a chance to stretch its slim Texas League lead tonight when the Indians tackle second-place Dallas.

But a win over the Eagles won't be all that is needed to boost Oklahoma City higher. Shreveport and Houston are also in second place with Dallas, only a half game from the Indians.

Oklahoma City and Dallas were idle Thursday night while Houston and Shreveport were creeping up. The Sports took a 10-4 victory over San Antonio as home runs accounted for every run off Sport starter Dave Newkirk.

Billy Muffett forged a five-hitter to help Houston blank Austin, 3-0, and Tulsa knocked Fort Worth into the cellar with Austin on a seven-run seventh inning that sank the Cats, 11-6.

The sites remain the same tonight with the exception of Oklahoma City T Dallas.

Meet Of Champions Led By Furgol, Palmer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — A pair of "opposites" in the world of golf teed off in the second round of the $40,000 Tournament of Champions today holding a one-stroke lead over a closely-bunched field of 23.

Battling for the $10,000 first prize were Ed Furgol, the lame-armed swinger from St. Andrews, Ill., who missed eight putts of less than four feet Thursday and still came in with an even-par 72; and the picture - swinger, young Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa.

The weather was so bad Thursday that their 72s were regarded as classics in the world of championship golf. But for all their efforts they held only a one-stroke lead over defending champion Gene Littler, former champion Art Wall, the Texas wind player; Fred Hawkins, and the ancient Jimmy Demaret, who never has been known to post a poor score in rugged weather.

The weather forecast for today was for calm and sunny. That would be a vast difference from Thursday. The gales blew sand across the desert at 30 miles an hour and the north wind brought in cold, chilling rains later.

Close on the heels of the leaders came Masters champion Doug Ford and the veteran Pete Cooper with 74s. Dow Finsterwald, Billy Casper and National Open champion Cary Middlecoff, the 5-1 tournament favorite, each had 75. At 76 were Mike Souchak, Billy Maxwell, Peter Thomson and Mike Fetchick. Don January and Dick Mayer had 78; Ted Kroll and Bobby Rosburg 79; E. J. (Dutch) Harrison 80 and Bo Wininger and Doug Sanders 81.

Holly Mims Favored In TV Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Holly Mims, an old middleweight "spoiler" ruled an 8-5 favorite today to whip Jimmy Beecham, a hometown boy with his eye on the welterweight crown, in a return 10-round television bout tonight at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Mims' weight advantage and experience was expected to make the difference in the 10 p.m. e.s.t. bout over a national television hookup (NBC). The fight will be used to publicize the annual Easter Seal campaign.

But Beecham, from Miami, figured the weight he shed since his last fight with Mims here Nov. 13, which he lost, will help his speed. He wants to avenge the loss to the Washington, D.C., slugger, then may quit the middleweight division and concentrate in the welterweight ranks.

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Ray Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., and Leroy Warriner of Indianapolis have joined the entry list for the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500-mile auto race. Their signing boosted the entry list to 54 drivers.

USC, Morrow Stand Out In Dallas Meet

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (UP) — Southern California had its fourth straight Dallas Invitational track and field title today but the glory went to University of Texas' 440-yard relay team and the great Bobby Morrow.

The Longhorn relay crew, featuring Eddie Southern, equalled the world's record of 40.2 Thursday and Morrow, running his specialty with the aid of a breeze, turned in a 9.3 100-yard dash.

Olympic hurdler Southern was voted the outstanding performer, running the second leg of the sprint relay and set meet records of 13.9 and 22.8 in the high and low hurdles.

Southern and Wally Wilson were held out of the stellar Longhorn mile relay team with the Kansas Relays Saturday in mind, and Southern California won the event.

USC wound up with 96 points compared to 71 1-2 for Texas, 33 for Abilene Christian, 17 for Southern Methodist and 12 1-2 for Texas A&M.

Texas avenged its sprint relay defeat to ACC in the Texas Relays as anchor man Bobby Whilden finished four strides ahead of Morrow.

Southern California's ace distance man, Sid Wing, beat Texas sophomore Joe Pillarreal in :15.2 in the mile.

Morrow's 100-yard dash time cannot be submitted for recognition because of a 7.8 mile an hour wind slicing over the track.

Abilene took the high school division with 19 points over Gladewater with 17, Graham 15, Dallas Sunset 12, 11 each for North Dallas and Fort Worth North Side and 10 for Brownwood.

Jack Tayrien of Odessa set a record of 169 feet, 4 1-8 inches in the discus. Jack Upton of Vernon high jumped 6 feet 2 3-4 inches for another record and 4:32.2 mile by Raoul Baldamane of Brownwood was a record.

Houston Holds Southwest Golf Tourney Lead

HOUSTON (UP) — The University of Houston, paced by Jimmy Hiskey, held a wide margin in medal play today as the second round of the Southwestern Intercollegiate golf tournament started.

Hiskey went five under par with a 67 Thursday to smash the tournament record by a stroke and give the Cougars a 281 total, trailed by Texas A&M and Southern Methodist at 294.

In match play, Houston, Texas, SMU, Oklahoma A&M, North Texas, Texas A&M, Florida and Rice moved into the second round.

Texas dumped Oklahoma 6-0, SMU whipped Wichita 6-0, Oklahoma A&M beat New Mexico 5-1, North Texas trounced Colorado 6-0, Texas A&M beat Trinity 5-1, Florida edged Hardin-Simmons 3 1-2 to 2 1-2, and Rice beat Baylor on medal score after they tied 3-3.

Hiskey and Bob Pratt, who fired a 69, grabbed the two-ball lead with a 63, two shots better than Texas' Kirby Atwell and Don Pohl.

Atwell, Pohl, Tom Seekatz and Sonny Rhodes led the four-ball division with a 62, a stroke over Houston and Oklahoma A&M.

DETROIT (UP) — Umpire Bill Summers, veteran American League arbiter, was hit on the leg by a whisky bottle tossed out of Briggs Stadium's upper deck minutes after the game between the Tigers and Indians had ended Thursday. He suffered a bruise on his right leg. The bottle - tosser was not apprehended.

Browns Trade Parilli, Five Others For Garrett, Zatkoff

By BILL LOFTUS
United Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (UP) — Coach Paul Brown of the rebuilding Cleveland Browns today tagged quarterback Bobby Garrett the key man in the eight-player deal between Cleveland and the Green Bay Packers Thursday.

The Browns gave up quarterback Vito (Babe) Parilli and five others to obtain Garrett and linebacker Roger Zatkoff from the Packers. The other Cleveland players were defensive halfbacks John Petitbon and Billy Kinard, offensive guard John Macerelli, defensive end Carlton Massey and linebacker Sam Palumbo.

Brown indicated that he was counting heavily on Garrett to solve the Cleveland quarterback problem that has existed since the retirement of Otto Graham after the 1955 season and was a major factor in the Browns' loss of their Eastern Division NFL crown.

Brown said, "Garrett is the key figure in the deal for us, due to our wide-open quarterback post. We always did wonder what we could do with Garrett and now we have the chance to find out.

"The trade is a break for Garrett," Brown pointed out. "He is a smart young man and has a strong arm. Playing with us gives him the chance of being a first string quarterback."

Brown said he was disappointed in the performance of Parilli last season. He said, "We gave Parilli a good test last year and were disappointed. The Packers believe he will have a better chance with them of regaining the form he showed in his first two years as a pro."

The deal reversed a 1954 swap in which Brown sent Garrett, a former Stanford passing star to the Packers for Parilli. Garrett served as understudy to Tobin Rote during the 1954 campaign before entering the Air Force. He will be discharged before the 1957 training period begins.

The Browns originally picked Garrett as their "bonus choice" in the 1954 player draft, but then immediately dealt him away to Green Bay.

Today's trade was made possible when Rote, one of the best quarterbacks in the league, shelved retirement plans and signed last Wednesday in Houston, Tex., for his eighth season with the Packers.

Youngster Gino Cimoli Takes Advice From Dodgers' Campy

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Eight years of frustration may be over today for Gino Cimoli because of a "Dutch uncle" lecture from the "old pro" of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Big, fast and the owner of a strong arm, Cimoli always had baseball talent. The one thing he lacked was determination.

Roy Campanella, who has ignored injuries and age because "We're lucky to be ball players," finally couldn't take Cimoli's attitude any longer and the law he laid down may have "made" young Gino.

The new attitude already has started to pay off. Gino won the season's opener with a home run and in two games already has equalled the four hits he made in 36 at bats all last seson.

Didn't Give Hoot

"I have to thank Campy for everything," says the 27-year-old San Franciscan. "Up until this year I just didn't give a hoot. I didn't seem to be getting anywhere and last year I didn't hardly ever get to play. Sure, I had a bad attitude. I was really down on myself."

But when the Dodgers made their post-season tour of Japan last fall, Campanella took the 6-foot, 1-inch Cimoli aside and dressed him down.

"He had quite a talk with me," Cimoli grins ruefully. "He convinced me I had the ability to be a regular big leaguer and that I would have to change my attitude. I have. Now I hope I'm going to be able to make up for lost time."

Finally On Way

Two games don't make a season. But, from the manner in which Cimoli is hustling, he seems a cinch to finally be on his way to the top.

His talents were so obvious that, at 19, he was able to squeeze a $20,000 bonus out of Branch Rickey, no mean feat in itself. The Yanks, Indians, Red Sox, Phils and Pirates all were after him.

He has been, until now, a distinct disappointment. Last year he rode the Brooklyn bench except when used as a late inning defensive replacement.

His new attitude put him in left field, long a Brooklyn sore spot, as the season opened. And, from the new look in his eyes, Gino is going to be mighty difficult to get out of there.

Teachers Oppose Change In Denton TV Channel

DALLAS (UP) — The second district of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers have joincd the ranks of those opposing the transfer of an educational television, Inc., wants moved to Long-

The channel in question is VHF Channel 2, which Gregg Television, Pnc., wants moved to Longview for commercial purposes.

The resolution passed Thursday at the conference in Dallas said the company's petition now before the Federal Communications Commission would take the best educational channel in Texas and substitute a UHF channel, which it termed useless.

The resolution was signed by Mrs. Leon Price, national publicity chairman, C. C. Miller of Dallas, former president, and Robert H. McKay of Dallas, who offered it. It will be presented to the executive committee meeting in June for approval for presentation to the state board of managers and the state convention in Galveston Nov. 20, 1957.

Mrs. W. D. DeGrassi of Amarillo, president of the PTA, said educational TV is "the future of our children and a heritage like the tidelands."

Missing Rocket Is Found

WASHINGTON (UP)—The University of Maryland has found its missing 3,800-mile-an-hour space rocket.

It didn't leave for Jupiter after all.

It only went as far as the roof of the University Administration Building.

Moreover, campus police who spent all day Thursday looking for the 15-foot long "Terrapin" and campus jokers suspect it didn't get to the four-story high roof on its own power.

The 200-pound rocket — lent to the university by Republic Aviation Corp.—had been on display in the Student Union Building.

Ike In Effort To Regain Leadership

WASHINGTON (UP)— House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said today President Eisenhower proposed new big budget cuts in an attempt to regain leadership of the Republican Party in Congress.

McCormack also said he agrees with Speaker Sam Rayburn's forecast of a tax cut effective Jan. 1.

The majority leader declined to say when he thought the cut might be enacted — this year or next year. But he said it "can happen very quickly."

The President Thursday gave Congress a go-ahead to cut $1,858,000,000 for his appropriation requests.

However, he said 516 million dollars of the proposed cuts—an item covering Army procurement — would have to be restored next year. He also indicated a total of 650 million dollars more of the proposed cuts has already been earmarked for spending next year.

Therefore, the indicated remaining cuts would reduce the President's record peacetime budget from $71,800,000,000 to $71,200,000,000.

McCormack told the United Press the Republicans in Congress have been following Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and his economy policies more than they have been following the President.

"They all like Ike, but they are voting against him," McCormack said.

Changes Made In Diplomats

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower administration is changing almost half of the nation's top diplomatic representatives serving at 78 overseas posts.

A United Press survey disclosed today the big shift began soon after last November's election. Since then changes made or in the works cover nearly 40 foreign diplomatic assignments.

The diplomatic turnover has been so extensive that Congress is beginning to sit up and take notice. One of the chief congressional complaints is that the administration is favoring "political" appointees instead of career diplomats for top posts.

Investgation shows that 54 career diplomats are assigned or will be assigned as ambassadors or ministers representing the United States. This compares with 24 non-career people holding top diplomatic posts.

This figures out to 70 per cent of the diplomatic posts in the hands of career foreign service officers — the highest percentage held by career diplomats in American history.

A new age of automobiles begins with this car

Touch a button—in less than a minute the steel top disappears magically into the trunk—and you're in a supremely elegant convertible. It's two cars in one!

Here Today! The FORD SKYLINER—world's only Hide-Away hardtop

Once in a long, long while a car comes along that people remember and talk about for years after its introduction.

The first model "A" Ford was such a car . . .
The first Ford V-8 was such a car . . .
The first Ford Thunderbird was such a car.

Today Ford Division is proud to announce still another car that many say is destined to become the most famous Ford of all: The Skyliner—world's only hide-away hardtop.

If you plan to buy a new Ford, or already own one, the fact that Ford created this car is important to you. For all the exhaustive research, planning and testing that went into the Skyliner is evidence of the engineering skill you get in every Ford model.

The Ford SKYLINER, the only all-steel hide-away hardtop, is a car for history.

This is an old dream of Detroit, a dream of two generations of motorists.

And today Ford has made that dream come true—in steel.

But the story behind this dream is a story of men who refused to accept "no" for an answer. In the Ford tradition they kept striving toward the goal long after others had given up the chase.

To understand this Ford spirit you must go back to 1908. That was the year when many Detroiters smiled smugly as Henry Ford announced, "We will build a motor car for the great multitude . . . so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one."

And they did.

Today, nearly a half century later, Ford continues to cause the "experts" to change their tune. When you see this all-steel hardtop that retracts into a convertible, you'll be seeing a car that many said would never be mass-produced.

But Ford did it.

The styling group was first to work on it. They experimented. They improvised. They worked unceasingly. Finally they completed a power-operated three-eighths scale model that actually would convert.

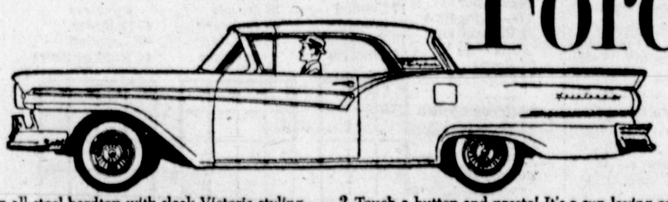
It was December 1956—after eight years of research, planning, experimenting and testing—when Ford unveiled this masterpiece . . . unveiled it amid all the pomp and splendor of the New York Automobile Show.

And now this history-making car, this prototype of a whole future generation of cars, is ready for your own personal inspection in the showrooms of many Ford Dealers.

Plan to see it soon. And ask your Dealer to show you the exciting advances in all models of the new Ford line for '57.

In creating the Skyliner, the world's only all-steel hide-away hardtop, Ford continues its tradition of being first with the important innovations. Come in and see this newest example of Ford's leadership. Let us give you the exciting details on this revolutionary car—and the other great '57 Ford models. Discover for yourself the things you get in Ford that no other car can offer. Discover for yourself why the '57 Ford leads all other cars in sales.

A car born of the habit of being first ...the newest new kind of Ford



1. It's an all-steel hardtop with sleek Victoria styling . . . 2. Touch a button and presto! It's a sun-loving convertible!

Marxian 'Aid'

Fortunately the U. S. Chamber of Commerce has pierced the gloom, rolling like a fog out of the NEA propoganda machine. In a recent publication the Chamber stated emphatically that there was no reliable evidence that any purported classroom shortage could not be adequately handled by the taxpayers within the states requiring such classrooms. The need for "federal aid" to education is sheer buncum and the Chamber so indicated.

Hurrah! It is most helpful when a respected agency such as U. S. Chamber takes such a positive stand.

However, a little more ought to be said about this business of "federal aid."

Last year, the 48 separate states of this union paid into the federal treasury the sum of $3.3 billion earmarked for federal aid. This year the plunder is to be greatly enlarged.

But let us examine what happened to this money a year ago. Where, specifically, did it come from? Where was it finally used?

According to figures put out by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, the fourteen wealthiest states received back a total of $1.4 billions in what the propagandists refer to as "aid." In point of fact this was an $800 million loss and not by any stretch of the imagination aid of any kind.

The remaining 34 states supplied the federal treasury with $1.1 billion. These states received back a total of $1.9 billion, a gain for them of the $800 million lost by the wealthier states.

So, in actuality, what was heralded as a program of $3.3 billions in aid, turned out to be a tax placed against the citizens of 14 states whereby their wealth was shared to the extent of $800 million with the governments of 34 other states. It was an "aid" program amounting to $800 millions. That is all.

All the rest of the funds collected was merely "round trip money." It went in to Washington. It came back from Washington. And in the meanwhile, other sums collected by other means, paid the vast collection agency of the bureaucracy for collecting the money. That is, if you wish to figure it this way.

But something else happened to the "round trip" money." Not only did it spend a little time in Washington. While there, strings were attached to it. Thus, as it came back to the taxpayers who had put it up, it was discovered that the federal government would have supervision of its distribution and employment. Thus, the $2.5 billions which made the complete circuit came back under obligations.

And this is the precise picture which faces us today as we consider "federal aid" to schools.

From any sum of money collected by the federal boys for "aid," only a small portion will be taken to increase the operation of schools in certain favored places. All of the rest of the money will simply make a trip and come back loaded with federal regulations as to how it can be spent.

It is certainly time that our people realized that in truth there is no such thing as "federal aid," to education or anything else. The process is one of simple banditry in which certain taxpayers in certain places are plundered so that their wealth can be shared with the governments of other taxpayers in other places. The federal aid idea is Marxian in toto. It is communism by every test. It follows the central theme of the universal collective which is: "From each according to ability, to each according to need." And the National Education Association and the government schools are shown in this regard as not only teaching questionable and destructive dogma, but actually practicing it.

We are grateful to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the New Jersey Taxpayers Association for properly delineating this monstrous grab for funds. There is just no excuse for it at all. We urge all our readers to write their legislators in Congress, urging that "federal aid" to education be voted down.

THE NATION'S PRESS

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS
(N. Y. Daily News)

We have great respect for the Society of Friends, or Quakers. But the Philadelphia Quaker group, at its current yearly meeting, urges it co-religionists to "make no automatic and unthinking assumptions of guilt" about anybody who clams up behind the 5th Amendment. We'd like to point out that it's equally unwise to make any assumptions of innocence about such a person. In other words, this is a knife that cuts both ways.

BIBLE AND PRAYER EXCLUDED
(Christian Economics)

The Bible and prayer were much in evidence at the recent Inauguration Ceremony as they always are in our courtrooms and legislative chambers. Is there less reason for reverence and an attitude of supplication and dependence upon God in our schoolrooms? Many of the latter exclude the Bible, prayer, Christmas carols and, as nearly as they can, God Himself. Will that help to make us a stronger more self-reliant and God - fearing people?

SALTY TEARS FROM TITO
(N. Y. Daily News

The Yugoslav government, owned and operated by Josip Broz (Tito), is wailing to the Red heavens that it is being discriminated against by, of all people, the Kremlin bossmen. The Soviet Union has welshed on $250,000,000 in promised cedits, and Tito sobs that the squabble wasn't his fault at all. He's still a good Communist, he insists, but is being penalized for refusal to accept the Soviet Union tyrants as his undisputed masters.

So now Tito, too, has learned that you get no help from Moscow unless you turn your country over, stock, lock and citizens, to the Kremlin. We almost, but not quite, feel sorry for poor Tito.

Congregationalists — Social Gospel—1957

I want to continue to quote from "Faith and Freedom" on "Social Gospel - 1957." The article is written by Rev. Irving E. Howard. It pertains to the ideologies as expressed in the Congregationalists in their Social Gospel movement. From here on I am quoting:

'The Social Action movement of the Congregational Christian Churches buries one root in the Social Gospel, one root in the New Deal of the 1930's and one root in neo-orthodox theology.

"From Washington Gladden's Social Gospel, Social Action inherited an indestructible faith in political action as a proper means to gain Christian ends. Beyond this adulation of the state and an hysterical attachment to reform by law, the two movements enjoy little resemblance.

"Social Action has been and continues to be much more radical than the Social Gospel. The Social Gospel was born of Henry George and Fabian Socialism, with little of any radical Marxian influence, but some Social Action leaders have openly admitted their devotion to communism.

"Enfeebled, the Social Gospel died a lingering death in the 1920's and Social Action galloped into the scene in the 1930's. The Congregational Christian Churches formed the Council for Social Action in 1934 in the valley of the depression.

"From the start, the CSA was colored by the New Deal. Example: The Oberlin Conference, which gave birth to the Council of Social Action, resolved to destroy our system of competitive, free enterprise.

"A Social Actionist may say now: 'Don't blame us for that resolution.' Nevertheless, the resolution describes the mood and purpose of Social Action during the subsequent years. Like the New Deal, which Social Action aped, Social Action consistently sought more power for the state.

"Note one recent exception. The House Un-American Activities Committee complained in January 1957 that Dr. Ray Gibbons, director of the Council for Social Action, had 'threatened' that committee for investigating the Fund for the Republic. This, apparently, is one function of government Social Action does not like.

'On Bloody Rapier'

"Neo-orthodox theology has nourished a third root for Social Action. A strange marriage indeed! But a genuine relationship, nevertheless, and because of it, Social Action has moved in a direction far removed from the older Social Gospel.

"The Social Gospel looked at man and human progress optimistically, while the Social Action movement takes a more pessimistic view of both. The Social Gospel believed in an immanent God at work in history bringing the 'Kingdom of God' upon earth while Social Action, following its high priest, Reinhold Niebuhr, has made God 'wholly other' and powerless in history. Therefore, Social Action turns to government far more than the Social Gospel.

"A pacifist, the older Social Gospel avoided all war talk and pinned its faith upon the power of love. Social Action, on the other hand, became an ardent champion of World War II and continues to support our government's interventionist policies which make militarism a necessity. If the Social Gospel was bent on bringing the Kingdom of God on earth by passing laws, Social Action seems to be determined to get God's will done by the sword of militarism.

"At present, Congregational Social Action concentrates upon desegregation, foreign aid and the ecumenical movement, all of which can be given Christian cooperation. They accuse anyone opposing these of being against the brotherhood of man, widows and orphans and Christian co-operation.

"All three of their objectives add up to more power for someone. Both desegregation (by violence) and foreign aid increase the power of the federal government while they use the ecumenical movement to increase the power of church officials. Nowhere has the marriage of a politically motivated Social Action and ecumenicity with its fruits of power been more apparent than among the Congregational Christian Churches.

"Social Action wanes not—unless you could say man's natural lust for power wanes. Social Action will change its dress, adapt itself to the times, beat a retreat if necessary, cloak itself in pious verbiage but always through its inconsistencies and contradictions one determined drive can be found—a constant reaching for more power over the individual."

Fred — Before you marry her, there's something you should get off your chest.

Larry — What?

Fred — That tattooed heart on your chest with Mabel's name on it.

A salesman making a two weeks stay in town bought some limburger cheese to eat in his room. When he got ready to leave, he still had about half the cheese left. He did not want to pack it in his luggage nor did he want to leave it lying in the room. After puzzling for a time, he had a bright idea: he went over to the windowsill, carefully removed a plant from its pot, buried the cheese and replaced the plant. A few days later he received a telegram from the hotels "We give up. Where did you put it?"

The Mystery Of What Went On On St. Simon Island

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON — Something very mysterious is going on when a strange assortment of 67 self-qualified, polyglot designers and arbiters of the economic and political fate of our western world go into a secret huddle on an island off Brunswick, Ga., and not a word gets into the popular press beyond a little routine AP story which completely muffled the importance of the occasions. These gumshoe super-state architects and monetary schemers were drawn from all the NATO countries.

The fact of this weird conclave, as spooky as any midnight meeting of the Klux in a piney wood, was bound to get known to the world eventually.

I got my first word of it from a reader who happened onto St. Simon Island, Brunswick, on her way to West Palm Beach. She wrote that the hotel on St. Simon was almost deserted, but that when she commented on this, the clerk said the place had been alive with mysterious characters a few days earlier and with Secret Service and FBI, too.

I have not verified whether Secret Service and FBI were there, but I did brace Ralph McGill, the editor of the Atlanta Constitution, by long distance and he put on a bland face and said why yes, he had been there but had not thought the occasion required him, as a journalist, to write anything. Ralph said he divested himself of his journalistic nature for the conference and wanted me to treat his discussion confidentially.

But, after all, I was phoning him as a reporter to get information whereas he had made some mental and ethical arrangement with himself which allowed him to dejournalize himself for this extremely newsy meeting. However, I did agree not to quote him and will leave the facts to your judgment.

McGill and Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher of The New York Times, were the only journalists invited to this thing and I observed to Ralph that it was pretty dam funny that with so many thousands of reporters and professional opinionarians in this country, this conference tagged only those two and no others and they suppressed the story.

Elsewhere I was told that Sulzberger flew down from New York in his own ship.

Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, a statesman who certainly rates consultation in such a seminar, had not heard a word about it. He and the Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on Subversion were highly interested. I keep emphasizing the secrecy because it was obviously planned that way. Judge Robert Morris, the counsel for the Subcommittee, had received sidelong tips and he was startled when I was able to put in his hands further information which was verified by my talk with McGill.

I told Byrd and Morris and I am telling you now about a queer parallel between this thing and a conference on Jekyll Island, Ga., a similar retreat, way back in 1908 in which the currency of the United States and of the world was manipulated, to what effect, whether for good or evil, opinions vary. Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, called this one into being. He was the father of Wintrhop Aldrich of the Tom Dewey-Eisenhower-General Motors combination, and they are all balled up with the Rockefellers. There is a Nelson Rockefeller, whose mother was John D. Jr's, wife and Winthrop Aldrich's sister. There is a Winthrop Rockefeller too.

There have been many excited versions of that ancient hoe-down on Jekyll Island in 1908, but relatively few have ever heard of it at all. Byrd frankly admittd that he had not. Neither had Morris. But long ago, B. C. Forbes, the biographer of American big business, told the wild, weird truth in a book and his version stands undisputed to this day. He wrote that Aldrich and a small, select group of American and European financiers, with a strong Kuhn-Loeb, Hamburg, representation, sneaked onto Jekyll Island and stayed a week in such secrecy that not even the servants knew who they were. They called one another by only their first names.

There were 68 on the roster for the recent meeting at St. Simon Island, but one who was there has told me that Ike's protege, Paul Hoffman, now of the U.N., did not accept. Tom Dewey did. And those present included the mysterious Gabriel Hauge, a "Lutheran lay minister, professor and economist," in the Wall Street Journal's description of the guy. He was there in the role of Eisenhower's "economic adviser." The Wall Street Journal said Hauge "helped teach Ike what to think."

I will have to continue this later.

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN
President, Spiritual Mobilization

The Houston, Tex., school board has rejected "an economics textbook and sent two geography books back to its curriculum committee of teachers for further study," according to a recent Associated Press dispatch.

"The action was on motion of a board member, Mrs. Earl Maughmer, Jr. She said that the economics book, 'Applied Economics,' by J. N. Dodd, 'suggested that Federal regulations and controls have become necessary.' She said that the two geography books lauded 'one worldism' and the United Nations....These books are 'Geography of the World,' by Packard, Overton and Wood, and 'Geography of World Affairs,' by Jones.

"In Chicago a spokesman for Rand McNally & Co., publishers of 'Geography of World Affairs,' said that...it had been accepted by more than twenty States and was in use in 'hundreds of schools.'

"He added that the author, Dr. Stephen B. Jones....had been for many years an advisor to departments of the Federal Government."

Well, there you have it—the way collectivists sell alien systems to us not only by advising the Federal government but also by providing the textbooks which our children are required to study in school. They have succeeded in this mostly because our elected school boards have too often abdicated their responsibility in this matter and allowed professional theorists to exercise it for them. So, hats off to Mrs. Maughmer and the Houston school board for having the courage to discharge the responsibility which the people have laid upon them. May the time soon come when their example will be followed by other school boards all over the country.

MANEUVERABLE GIANT—This huge four-engined Douglas Model 1906A can carry 58 fully equipped troops and take off from either an aircraft carrier or extremely short, improvised runways. The high wing shown in artist's sketch incorporates a high-lift flap system which permits short takeoffs and landing runs. Boasting a wingspan of 105 feet, five inches, the plane was designed specifically for fleet aerial resupply and marine light assault missions. Its top speed is 315 miles an hour.

Ike To Propose Plan To Help Small Business

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will urge Congress soon to approve a tax plan which could start a flow of new capital to hard-pressed small businesses, it was learned today.

The aim is to take some of the risk out of small business ventures for wealthy investors.

Under the plan, anyone who invested in an established small business and did lose would be allowed to deduct his loss — or part of it — from his income tax return in a single year. This would save him literally thousands of dollars and make such investments much more attractive.

Small businessmen have complained they cannot get capital needed to help their firms growing in an expanding economy. Early last year the President created a cabinet committee on small business to study the problem.

Last August the cabinet committee reported it was "studying a proposal to help small concerns attract capital by allowing investors to deduct from their ordinary income a limited amount of losses, in the event that losses are sustained from investments in small businesses."

An administration official who has been working on the proposal told the United Press the plan has been worked out and put in the form of a bill. He said the President will submit it to Congress soon.

FOR GRUENTHER?—Pictured above is the red-brick, corner house in Washington, D. C., that may become the residence of Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the Red Cross. A fund set up by businessmen in 1919 would be drawn on to purchase the three-story, $50,000 home for the former NATO commander. Negotiations for another dwelling were called off because of restrictive clauses in the covenant governing suburban Washington development in which it was located.
