Blanton Hasn't Backed Down; Says and Shows Everything Again

HIS CHARGES OF PETTY GRAFTING GET APPLAUSE

Shows His Kit From Whiskey Flask to Poker Chips

"I told congress that these things were petty graft and my Texas colleagues shouted 'liar'!" declared Thomas L. Blanton in the course of a speech to a crowd which jammed the 30th district court room here Monday night— a speech in which he defiantly resaid everything, and reshowed every 'stationery' exhibit from whiskey flask to poker chips, which had recently brought down the wrath of congress upon him.

Blanton's statement of his fight, responsible for the accusations brought against him, found the crowd with him, and he was frequently and loudly applauded as he told of his "fight" against "extravagance."

In the course of his talk he took occasion to praise the Record News, which he declared the best paper in Texas, though he pointed out that he had frequently been unmercifully scored in its columns. Other Texas papers were praised by the speaker except the Dallas News, which he scored as being unfair and underhanded in its opposition.

"Do you know that each congressman is entitled to a free trip to Panama annually, and the bills are paid out of the money you pay into the treasury?" asked the representative. "During my five years there, five never taken mine, but many of them do," he continued.

Blanton pointed ut that upon the death of a congressman, the widow is immediately paid $7,500 cash. He further stated that with the death of the recent Senator Penrose, he left $212,000 in cash in his safety deposit box, and $264,000 worth of liquor stored in his cellar, yet his widow received her cash payment from the government.

SAYS WILLIAMS NOT FOR BONUS

Morgan Accuses His Opponent

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, April 24.—Guinn Williams of Decatur is in favor of a cash bonus for soldiers if money to pay the same can be obtained without taxing the people, Williams told Vernon people here today.

Guinn Williams knows no way of obtaining money to pay a soldier bonus without taxation, and according ot heart is not in favor of the bonus, despite the claims of his friends, S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls told the same audience.

Statement of this contrary view featured the joint debate between the two candidates for congress here this afternoon. The court room was packed to hear the two men—the crowd being far and away the biggest which has yet been drawn by congressional candidates. Following the speech here, the two went to Odell in the northwest part of the county, where they spoke tonight.

The platforms outlined by the two speakers were largely alike, save on the immigration question. Williams advocating shutting the gate tight until some plan to keep out "undesirables" be devised, while Morgan expressed himself for restriction, but opposed to the erection of a "Chinese Wall" around America.

Williams urged the necessity of sending a business man to congress, contending that the business men would make for efficiency.

Morgan defended the record of lawyers in congress, and attacked William's record in the Texas legislature, declaring that his work against an adequate appropriation for the upkeep of the penitentiary system had forced the state authorities to borrow large sums of money outside of Texas, and to pay interest on same, when unappropriated state money, which should have been provided, was lying idle in banks over the state.

SURPLUS OF COAL

By Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 24—Almost 900 coal cars were unconsigned in the southern West Virginia fields today because of "no market" according to the report of the West Virginia Coal association. Saturday's loadings for the various fields totalled 4,200, the report showed.

DALLAS, April 24.—A young coed, clad in a pair of well tailored khaki knickers, a blue sweater, heavy woolen hose, sport oxfords and a mannish felt hat, attempted to attend her morning classes today at Southern Methodist University here. A large crowd of boys flocked around her in such a stampede that the young woman was forced to seek refuge in the girls' rest room. The dean of women, Miss Mary B. Murphy, emphatically informed the exponent of modernity that she would have to change clothes before she could attend her classes and the latter left the building amid the applause of the boys.

Pershing's Boom—Wine for Wealthy—Russia and U. S.—

By H. N. F.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS have launched a boom to make General John J. Pershing the Republican candidate for United States senator from that state. General Pershing is a native Missourian and Laclede is his official place of residence. Senator James A. Reed is certain to be the Democratic candidate and a contest between the soldier and the orator of the West would have many spectacular features. General Grant was a great soldier; he made a very sorry president. It pays the shoe maker to stick to his last. General Leonard Wood was ambitious to be president. His rich backers ruined his chances but they could not ruin his reputation. He will never be president. The record of that campaign for the nomination cannot be effaced.

JOHN DUVAL DODGE IS A Detroit millionaire, thanks to his father from whom he inherited a large fortune. He is a "Fatty" Arbuckle sort of "feller" without the fat and figured in a wild escapade some weeks ago. A Kalamazoo jury in the circuit court returned a verdict of guilty against Dodge on a charge of illegally possessing, transporting and furnishing liquor. His attorneys appealed the case. Under the Michigan law Dodge is liable to sentence to one year imprisonment or $1,000 fine and cost or both. Now just why shouldn't he be given the limit? Home brewers are given the limit; alley rats are given the limit; why not the Detroit millionaire? He is a law breaker or law violator. If he has the private stock in his cellar why should he be permitted to transport or furnish liquor to his friends on his mid-night motor rides. A poor man is deprived of his beer; a whitecollar man is deprived of his wine. Now why shouldn't the wealthy be deprived of their brandy and their champagne? Why not one law for all?

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES A. Gcodrich of Indiana has returned from Russia where he helped to distribute the $52,000,000 appropriated by congress to feed starving Russians. Goodrich says the United States broke the Russian famine and that the money was well spent. All this reminds the writer that the United States government loaned Dictator Kerensky $200,000,000 and when Kerensky blew up $200,000,000 blew up with him. His successors refuse to pay the loan. First Uncle Sam loans the Russians money and they forget all about it. Then he feeds them to the extent of $53,000,000 and they pray for sweet rest for his generous and immortal soul, ignoring the fact that Uncle Sam hasn't passed on as yet.

CITIES CAN'T VOTE FOR COUNTY BOARD

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—Only the qualified voters of the common school districts of a county can vote in the election of county school trustees, Assistant Attorney General Bruce W. Bryant holds in an opinion given out today. This ruling applies to the entire membership of the county school board and is not limited to that trustee elected at large from the county, it was held.

This opinion prevents independent school district voters from voting in these elections.

PEOPLE TO VOTE ON JURY PROBE OF OKLA. KLAN

Judge Says He Will Act When He Gets Ready

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 24.—A petition for a grand jury investigation of the Ku Klux Klan at Shawnee, supplemented by an expose of alleged activities of the order, has been submitted by tax payers of Pottawatomie county to District Judge Hal Johnson at Shawnee, it was learned over long distance telephone today from Shawnee.

Judge Johnson admitted the petition had been presented and his only comment was that he would call a grand jury "when I get ready."

What was purported to be the official roster of the Ku Klux Klan at Shawnee, with other records of the organization which were reported to have disappeared several days ago, were presented to Governor J. B. A. Robertson Saturday, together with a copy of the petition, although a statement from the governor's office today said that the Shawnee situation had no connection with the issue of a general order by Governor Robertson made public yesterday, barring members of the Ku Klux Klan from the Oklahoma national guard.

KATY ASKS FOR NEW VALUATION

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—The state railroad commission today heard argument by attorneys for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad in the application of the road to have the commission revalue all of the Katy lines in Texas so that the road can issue bonds. SOUTHERN PACIFIC PROBE TURNED DOWN

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The capitalization of the Pacific Oil company by stockholders of the Southern Pacific company to take over 250,000 acres of oil lands owned by the Southern Pacific and the associated oil companies, attacked by Clarence H. Venner, a stockholder in the Southern Pacific in an appeal, will not be reviewed by the supreme court, it was announced today.

Venner, as the owner of 200 shares of stock in the Southern Pacific opposed the plan which contemplated the issuance of stock in the Pacific Oil company, to stockholders in the Southern Pacific upon the payment of $15 per share. He contended that the oil property which the railroad could not develop because of the commodities clause of the interstate commerce commission act, was returning Southern Pacific stockholders a reasonable revenue and he charged the organization of the Pacific Oil company to develop the property was invalid.

TEMPLAR'S HOLIDAY

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—A reception by the grand commandery of Louisiana was tonight given to all visiting Knights Templars who are here for the thirty-fifth triennial conclave of the order. There were no formal sessions today, but each arrival of a drill team or a brass band was the signal for the organization of a parade. About 30,000 are here now and 5,000 more are expected.

Tomorrow has been declared a holiday for the entire city and will be featured by the grand Knights Templar parade.

ARRESTS EVERYBODY OVER 12 IN EFFORT TO BREAK UP CRIME

By Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, Ky., April 24—The arrest of every person over 12 years of age in the Mill Creek neighborhood of Clay county has been ordered by Circuit Judge Hiram J. Johnson, in an effort to break up lawlessness which culminated last week in the ambushing of county officers who went into the district to arrest moonshiners. Two hundred warrants were issued by Judge Johnson and orders were given to confiscate all high powered rifles and large calibred pistols.

WOMAN SHOOTS DOWN HUSBAND

Fires as He Attempts To Enter Cellar

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 24.—John Hutchison, farmer and stockman living near Fort Chadbourne in west Texas, was shot and instantly killed Sunday morning as he attempted to enter a storm cellar in which his family had taken refuge.

An inquest was held this morning by Justice of the Peace Soday, in which the justice found that "John Hutchison came to his death by a gunshot wound, at the hand of his wife."

Ran Family Away

Neighbors said Hutchison had run his family away from home earlier in the day, and that they had taken refuge in the storm cellar.

About 4 o'clock Sunday they said they heard someone trying to open the cellar door which had been wired from the inside. Mrs. Hutchison asked who was there, receiving no response. Hutchison finally succeeded in opening the door and as he started to enter, Mrs. Hutchison fired at him with a shot gun, killing him almost instantly. The only words he spoke, according to the testimony were: "Honey, you have killed me."

Woman Hysterical

Indications were that no charges would be filed against Mrs. Hutchison, who has been hysterical since the tragedy.

Hutchison was 40 and is survived by his wife and six children, four of whom were by a former wife.

EDITORIAL COMMENT BECOMES PERSONAL; ONE EDITOR DEAD

By Associated Press.

DURANGO, Colo., April 24.—William L. Wood, 35, city editor of the Durango Herald, was shot and killed here today by Reed S. Day, 47, editor of the Durango Democrat. The shooting occurred in the business district. Day gave himself up and is being held at the sheriff's offices. No witnesses have been found.

The trouble between the two men is said to have been the outgrowth of editorials printed in the two papers. It is said to have begun when the Herald printed a clipping from another Colorado newspaper, which declared the Democrat was one of the few newspapers in the country fighting the eighteenth amendment to the constitution. The exchange of editorial comment had been going on about a week. It finally grew personal.

When Day and Wood met today, the latter is alleged to have started an argument. Wood then is alleged to have struck Day with some kind of a weapon, breaking Day's nose and inflicting other injuries. Day then is alleged to have drawn a revolver and to have fired two shots. Wood died in a hospital an hour later. Day declined to make a statement.

RUSSIAN TANGLE BOBS UP AGAIN AT GENOA MEET

New Proposals May Again Endanger Conference

By Associated Press.

GENOA, April 24.—Another new twist in the Russian tangle again caused disquietude in conference circles. Seemingly the Russian delegates have developed a new set of proposals. It is understood that at the meeting of the experts on the Russian question this afternoon the soviet delegates argued for the complete wiping out of the war debts and also relinquishment of all arrears in interest on pre-war debts.

Simultaneously they asked for reassurances that the powers would grant loans sufficient to enable Russia to reorganize her national life.

As the soviet had previously given the allies to understand that a scaling down of the war debts would be accepted, the demand of the delegates for a protocol cancelling these debts caused great surprise to the representatives of the powers who reported to the chiefs of their respective delegations that the trend of today's meeting with the bolsheviki indicated the possibility of insurmountable difficulties in coming to some arrangement with the soviet.

The Russian request for extensive loans caused dissasisfaction because it is recognized that it would be extremely difficult to guarantee credits to Russia without some reasonable assurance that they would be handled by a truly responsible Russian government.

The allied chiefs tonight frankly expressed their opinion that an arrangement with the soviet will be extremely difficult unless the Russian delegates show a reasonable attitude. Sir Leming Worthington-Evans, chairman of the commission, said he could not discuss the matter further if the soviets adopted such an impossible attitude, and therefore must refer the situation to the respective governments of the allies.

The experts adjourned because of what they termed the expressive Russian demands, which proposed also that the powers accept non-restitution of the private property of foreigners.

The Russian delegates declare that the terms they are willing to grant were conditional, first on the recognition of their governments, and second, receipt of a loan from foreign countries. In addition to cancellation of arrears in interest on the prewar debt, the Russians demand a moratorium of 30 years on the prewar debt themselves.

The breaking up of the experts' meeting has caused depression in conference circles.

Baughman from pressing complaints filed against the company under the law.

FEDERAL SHIPS CUTTING RATES

Lasker Shoots Back In Vessel War

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The shipping board as a result of "The rate war" of the Lamport and Holt Steamship company to South America through the four shipping board vessels of the Munson Line has not only met those but made a further reduction to $295 to Rio de Janero, $345 to Montevedio and $360 to Beunos Airies, Chairman Lasker announced today.

Chairman Lasker said the new "straight rates" would become effective immediately. The Lamport and Holt action, he added, was taken without consulting the Munson line or the shipping board and could only be interpreted as a "declaration of war" in the South American trade.

This war, he continued, may be the forerunner of similar ones in other ocean passenger services in an effort to drive the American flag off the seas.

"Our hat is in the ring," he declared, "and we will stick as long as necessary to assure American domination of the passenger traffic on all oceans."

Prisons Lose Over Million and Quarter On 1921 Operation

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—The Texas prison system operated at a total loss of $1,293,579 last year, according to the auditor's report for 1921, recently filed with Governor Neff. The net loss from operation was $1,056,646 and the loss from sale of the 1920 cotton of $213,031 and a fire loss in 1921 of $23,891 brought the total loss up to the above figure.

Flickering Lightning Bug's Radio Sending Station But Science Can't Dope Out the Weird Insect's Code

By Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., April 24.—If science can discover how the lightning bug's sending apparatus flashes light waves, present day radio science may be superceeded by entirely new methods in the belief of E. G. Shalkhauser, professor of physics and radio science at Bradley Polytechnical institute here.

Experiments are being begun to determine whether the lightning bug is a sending station, a belief advanced by Professor Shalkhauser, Professor W. H. Packard of the department of biology, and Professor Verne Swaim of physics department. Professor Shalkhauser believes that the fire fly can send out an electro-magnetic wave, but its source is still a mystery.

"If we could find this source I think we could throw away all our antennaes, audion bulbs and other apparatus, because it is my belief the lightning bug may have a little power plant of his own more highly perfected than any fruit of radio science," said Professor Shalkhauser. "It has been proved repeatedly that the wave transmitted by the bug is a cold light wave. The light wave, the heat wave, and radio wave are the same in a sense because they have the same frequency. It may be possible to tune down to a sufficiently low wave length to discern the bug code."

TEXAS SHIPPERS SAVE MORE THAN COOL MILLION

Increase in Rates Denied by State Commission

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 24.—More than $1,200,000 has been saved to Texas shippers in the past 15 months, by the refusal of the state railroad commission to permit the 13 1-2 per cent express rate increase on Texas business authorized by the interstate commerce commission on interstate business in November, 1920.

The state railroad commission has been busy in holding the lower rates in effect, and now faces another struggle with the federal rate-making body to retain power to regulate the Texas rates.

By express companies' admissions, when application for the increase was made, it would have cost shippers nearly $80,000 a month more on their express business, had the increase been granted.

The state railroad commission refused the application in November, 1920. Express companies appealed to the interstate commerce commission, and Clarence E. Gilmore, member of the state commission, and T. L. Beauchamp, member of the attorney arguments in April, 1921, maintaining the right of the state to regulate express and freight rates within its own borders.

The matter has remained in the hands of the federal commission, no ruling ever having been made on the application. Recently, however, at request of express companies, the entire subject was reopened for further arguments; and Mr. Gilmore will go to Washington on May 3, and will again reassert the state's right to fix its own rates; and at the same time to show the opinion of the state comission that an increase in present express rates is not justified by the shipping at this time.

Previous applications of express companies for increases of rates in Texas were granted by the state rate body, it was stated, to meet interstate increases; but the last raise asked by the express companies was considered too much, and to have come when retrenchments and reductions were in order in every line, rather than increases, and at a time when agricultural products, particularly were bringing scarcely enough to pay shipping charges in many instances.

The Texas railroad commission's oral arguments against the proposed rate increase is set first on the docket of the interstate body on May 3, and there are eleven other state commissions, which have taken similar action, also scheduled to appear before the interstate commission and reargue the matter, seeking to sustain their refusal to allow companies to raise express rates in those states.

Recent rulings in federal governmental agencies as to their authority to supersede the state bodies' powers have been in much conflict.

A supreme court decision just rendered maintains, in the noted Shreveport rate case, the right of a state body to fix all intrastate rates; while at the same time, the interstate commerce commission still asserts its power to prescribe all rates which affect relations of interstate movements, including a schedule of rates between points in one state, which it may be able to claim cause a discrimination against neighboring points of another state.

DALLAS POLICEMAN RELEASED AFTER SHOOTING MAN

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, April 24.—W. D. Williams, for 17 years a Dallas policeman, waived preliminary hearing this morning and was released on $1,000 bond, following the filing of a murder charge in justice court as the result of the shooting yesterday of Witt Matthews, 25 years old. The fatal shot was fired after Williams had chased Matthews some distance, following instructions to bring the man to police headquarters for questioning. Williams said he did not intend to shoot Matthews and fired merely to enforce his command to halt. The policeman has been relieved from duty.

PROBE OF RAID SHOWS GOBLIN UP AT MIDNIGHT

Kleagle Must Testify At Inquest After Shooting

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—An inquest over the body of M. B. Mosher of Inglewood, who was shot and killed by a town marshal late Saturday night when the marshal attempted to halt a raid by masked men on an Inglewood home, will be held at Inglewood tomorrow morning. The district attorney announced that William S. Colburn, grand goblin of the Ku Klux Kland and W. G. Price, King Kleagle, would be summoned to testify.

Colburn Up Late.

One phase of the affair engaging attention of officials here was the connection with the raid, if any connection existed, of the Ku Klux Klan. Colburn arrived on the scene a half hour after the shooting, although it was near midnight, when it occurred.

He explained his promptness by saying that he had been told of the affair by A. Price, who in turn had heard of it from the sheriff's office.

At the sheriff's office it was stated that no word was sent to any persons other than the officials directly involved and that it was not known how Price got his information.

The district attorney announced that in his judgment the investigation had shown the shooting of Mosher and the wounding of two other men to have been justified.

A further development was the statement by a leader of the negro colony of 45,000 persons here, that members of his race have designated groups for defense, and were arming to prevent any mob aggregation. The spokesman said that the negroes feared that the next move of the masked raiders might be directed against them.

Exonerates Marshal.

William R. Mosher, son of the slain constable, and who was shot in the arm by Night Marshal Woerner, in a statement to the officers, exonerated Woerner of all blame for slaying his father and declared if he had not been wounded he would have killed Woerner. He also admitted that the crowd had gathered to talk over a matter of law enforcement which, according to him, had not been handled by the authorities in proper manner.

"An organization made up of picked men, with every man a real man, made up the band," young Mosher said. "We went out there to get a couple of bootleggers who had been operating in this city for a long time. With me went my father and Leonard Rueicg and many others. I will not name the others and will not give you the name of the organization to which we belong."

JIM HAM LEWIS AT GENOA TO PROTECT PRIVATE INTERESTS

By Associated Press.

GENOA, April 24.—James Hamilton Lewis, former United States senator from Illinois, who arrived in Genoa today, said he had come to represent American concessionary interests in Russia, mainly oil, but doubted whether the question of concessions ownld be taken up by the economic conference.

Mr. Lewis said his impression was that the Russians would be disposed to trade concessions for recognition by the various governments, including the United States. He said he was here to protect the concessions he represented and in a general way as an American, to do what he could in seeing to it that Americans would have a fair share in new concessions if such would be arranged at the conference.

Senate Approves Harbor Upkeep Bill

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The house provision in the annual army supply bill providing $42,815,661 for river and harbor maintenance and development next year was approved today by a sub-committee of the senate appropriation committee which considered the measure. This was the first action taken by the senate committee on the bill.

The committee also recommended that the budget amount of $300,000 for continuing the government barge line on the Mississippi and Warrior be restored. The house had cut the item to $30,000, but the senate subcommittee accepted the argument of war department officials and others interested in the barge line and adopted the original figure.

DUNCAN FIELD STILL ACTIVE

Leases Cheap Near New Pools

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., April 24.—Great opportunities for the independent operator are to be found in the shallow east field covering the Velam, Loco and Fox districts. At this time acreage can be secured offsetting production from $10 per acre on up to $50 per acre, which is the highest. This is possible on account of the fact that operators in this territory are accustomed to the large wells from the deeper sands. Six productive sands are found in this field ranging from 300-foot to the 2,100-foot depth, and comparison will prove that it is one of the greatest fields for the small independent operator in the United States today. Wells can be drilled cheaply with small drilling machines and the fact that it is impossible to buy production further proves the value of this field. While it is true that many of the big companies are operating in this territory ,it is also true that they are going for the deeper sands. These facts are rapidly causing an increase in activity in this territory that is being watched with much interest. Champlin and Winkler have finished their fishing job on the cable tool hole that they are putting down in Section 20, 1s, Sw. Hulschiner's well No. 2 in Section 20, 1s, Sw. bursted their casing seat and are preparing to re-cement at once. Ash-McBride & Co. have made a new location offsetting their big gasser which came in last week, in the northeast of the southwest of Section 18, 1s, Sw. The new location will be one location south. Guy Robertson of Lawtor has also made a new offset location to this well which will be one location north. The Sayray Oil corporation in section 18, 1s, Sw. are drilling in on well No. 3. are setting casing on well No. 5, and are down about 1,400 feet on well No. 4. Wallace and Coogan in Section 30, 1s, Sw, lost their derrick by fire of unknown origin on well No. 4 the first of the week. They were cleaning the well out and had the tubing setting in the derrick at the time. Work on rebuilding will begin at once. The Magnolia company's well No. 8 on the Kagey farm in the southwest corner of Section 34, 1s, Sw, seems to be drilling itself in. This well uncovered a new sand at 2,404 feet, and made an initial flow of 250 barrels with the drill four feet in the sand. Recent reports show that its erratic flow has now increased to 300 barrels.

The entire condition of the local field shows such an improvement that the local operators are very optimistic over the outcome. New locations are being made daily, several wells are now in the sand ready to drill in. And a trip to any of the various fields in this territory will show an activity that has not been witnessed for the past four months. "Lease hounds" report a new activity in the sale and trade of leases and royalties. In fact, it looks like the entire district has caught the "spring fever," but in this case it looks as if it will not only be the spring fever but will continue with a gradual increase.

Few Business Men Make Sign Changes Until Last Minute

Within the year that business Wichitans have had to change their sign boards and make them conform with the ordinance passed last June, but few changes have been made, information obtained at the city engineer's office Monday disclosed.

Twenty-two permits granting either the right to change or construct new sign boards have been issued since the passage of the ordinance, it was said. No record of permits granting the right for changes Monday were on file, indicating that "sign removal week," fostered by the chamber of commerce, encountered a poor start.

Officials of the city engineering department said yesterday that inasmuch as business houses which will have to make their signs conform to the ordinance have waited until this time to make the changes, that there is a possibility of there being a large number of applicants for permits granting such changes within the final month of the year limit. Steps urging the merchants to correct the faults of the sign boards now are being taken, the chamber of commerce fostering this movement.

The ordinance asserts that no sign except an illuminating electrical sign can come closer than four feet to the curbing of the sidewalk. Temporary signs, made of cloth and board, however, can be constructed in a similar manner.

HIS CHARGES—

copy is supplied to each member of the body, bound in genuine leather at another tremendous cost.

The Mileage Question.

"There is an appropriation of $2,191.44 for mileage to each member from Texas, yet the fare from Dallas to Washington is $51.00, and they also howled when I started a fight against that extravagance," he further said. "Who is getting that velvet, and where is it going?" he asked.

Blanton explained the workings of the congressional barber shop, showing the salaries paid, the upkeep and installments were charged to the government.

Stationery Exhibit.

There is an appropriation credited to each member in the stationery room of $375. A provision is made that all or any part of this amount can be drawn out in cash by the member, and according to the speaker, this course is usually pursued. In order to accommodate the so-called needs of the members, a full line of "riff-raff" is carried in stock. Mr. Blanton exhibited a large box of individual correspondence paper, "society stuff," bought for $4.00. A cheap carving set was also shown, but the speaker explained that expensive ones might be bought there, ranging as high in price as $25.00. A copper electric chafing dish at $20.00, a genuine ostrich leather ladies' purse valued at $40.00, pocket and hunting knives ranging as high as $8.00, a $26.00 manicure set, a toilet set and other things, all bought, he declared "to be used as evidence in his speech of January 23."

Cards and Flask.

A climax was reached in his exhibit when he brought forth a leather bound poker set, complete and beautiful, which was bought in the stationery room, but his account of having to put in a special order for one of the pocket flasks which he had seen on exhibit during the Christmas holidays because the demand had oversold the supply, according to th store keeper.

All these things, Blanton explained, were bought by members of the houses out of the $375 appropriated and credited to them out of the peoples' money.

"When I said all this was petty graft, they called me a liar," Blanton repeated.

In referring to his numerous fights in Washington, he mentioned the one staged during the dying hours of the 65th congress when he so strongly opposed the measure to appropriate $1,000 to a clerk who was employed by a "dead committee" who did a little extra work, but that after 18 months on the pay roll at $200 a month, for which he had not "done a lick of work."

In explaining why no more members were assisting in the fight, Blanton pointed out that the path of least resistance was soon accepted as the proper one for a legislator to pursue. The records show that one senator has answered one roll call out of the last 100, stated Blanton.

Praises Black and Lanham

Blanton was loud in his laudation of two members of the Texas body, Eugene Black and Fritz Lanham, both of whom he added, "are men of the highest type and a pity it is that there are not more like them up there."

In explanation of certain civil service charges, Blanton asserted that in one instance, the father of one family was drawing a salary of $85 per month, plus a $240 bonus, the wife, $105 with a like bonus, two daughters had salaries of $1165, and two sons employed for $250 and $225 respectively, all drawing a bonus of the same size, and "for very little work."

During his term of office he has blocked bills totaling many millions of dollars, he further declared, citing instances from clippings from the press as evidence of his statement.

In defense of himself as connected with the recent Mondel motion to expel him from the house, and which failed to carry, and a later motion asking him to resign, he said "I did not get my commission from congress, and I'm not going to turn it back to them. I got it from 314,000 Texas people and when I turn it back, it will be to them, not congress."

Favors Soldier Bonus

"I am for the soldier bonus. I intend to vote for it and am going to do everything in my power to show the men who suffered the hardships of the late war, every consideration possible in the world," Blanton said.

A question was asked from the audience as to why he directed his fight against the minor details, when there were others so much larger. Interpreting the query to bear reference to the shipping board he answered to this effect: "When I go before the shipping board to demand certain things, such as cuting the monthly rent from $526,000 to nothing, by moving the office to government buildings, I am confronted with the question as to why such things as previously discussed as petty graft had not been removed. It leaves me handicapped in the fight, and in removing those things, I would be placed in a position to demand from the shipping board ,the things now so manifestly evident as wasted appropriations, such as salaries of $35,000 and $25,000 to men who scarcely concerned themselves with national affairs.

Another Question Asked

When asked where he would classify a congressman out campaigning while a session was being held, he explained that he was now on his first leave of absence during his five years in Washington, and that instead of going to Atlantic City to rest as many had anticipated, he was endeavoring to show the people of Texas just what state of affairs now prevailed in the capital. He further pointed out that he was not speaking in his district, and that his recent addresses in Texas had been delivered in Denison, Houston, San Antonio, while others were in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and other cities where political affairs were considered. Further he pointed out that he was not even speaking last night in his own district.

The court room was filled to capacity and many stood during the period of over two hours that he spoke. There was much applause tendered him during the evening, and though he stopped occasionally, realising the length of his speech, and explaining that any who desired or were forced to leave might do so without offending him, all remained interested throughout.

TRYING DAMAGE SUIT

Testimony in the case of E. L. Evans vs. the M. K. & T. railroad, suit for $1,100 damages alleged to have been done to a Dodge automobile by a train when the latter and the vehicle collided at the crossing near the Panhandle Oil and Refining company was begun Monday afternoon in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin.

Otis Evans, a brother of E. L. Evans who was in the car at the time of the accident, was killed in the wreck. No suit has been filed in this connection, however.

'POUR IT ON 'EM'

Blanton presented the Record News with a cut Sunday night, to use in lieu of the ones sent out through the press photo service. "When they get it in for a fellow up there, they get a bad picture of him and send it all over the world," he said. Here is one received from a pictorial news bureau.

IS AFTER MORE COUNTY AGENTS

Denver Official to Promote Work

Returning to his office in Wichita Falls Monday after a week of intensive work in the field, M. B. Oats, agricultural agent of the Wichita Valley railroad, said yesterday that he will devote much of his time this week to urging the counties through which the Wichita Valley passes to obtain county agents to promote their agricultural interests.

Agent Oats will leave early this week for Stamford and Spur, Texas, where he will begin some poultry work and start preparations for more to be done this summer.

The Wichita Valley agent said that he has been devoting some of his time to instructing the farmers in the raising of sweet clover, he having located large sweet clover fields in the vicinity of Montague, where he spent the past week.

MAY INTERVENE FOR WEST TEXAS

Action Suggested by Judge Huff

Intervention by Wichita Falls in the mandamus proceedings brought in Austin to test the new redistricting law was suggested by Judge R. E. Huff to the Chamber of Commerce Monday and will be considered by the board of the organization at a meeting today.

Judge Huff's idea is that if Wichita Falls, in behalf of West Texas, and itself as interested party, becomes a party to the action, that more can be accomplished than by the test of disinterested parties.

The test will be made through application for a writ of mandamus to compel the state democratic chairman to certify candidates" named for the new positions created under the redistricting bill.

The bill is considered invalid through commission of Swisher county, in the Panhandle, from any district —through clerical error. The language of the bill repeals all parts of all previous laws in conflict with it. Some lawyers are of the opinion that the bill can be saved through the inclusion of Swisher county in a district in the old bill—a district made up of counties surrounding it and to which it naturally belongs. Hence, it is argued, since the disposition of Swisher county is not in conflict with any part of the new measure, the disposition of that county still stands and the county is disposed of.

Wichita county, under the new measure, would have two representatives by itself and one in common with Wilbarger county. If the new law is held invalid it will revert to representation by a single member representing both counties. The same ratio holds true for many of the recently developed communities throughout West Texas.

ATHLETIC HEADS MAKE A CHANGE

New Rules Made for College Athletes

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, April 24.—The adoption of sweeping regulations for the governing of the southwestern conference was announced as the outcome of the executive session of the organization here today by Dr. J. S. McIntosh of Southern Methodist university, president of the conference.

No official statement will be given out as to the regulations adopted or revised for several days, according to Dr. McIntosh, who stated, however, they are "probably the most sweeping ever adopted by any conference in the country."

Invitations to attend today's meeting were issued to the presidents of the colleges that are members, the faculty chairmen of athletic councils and athletic directors.

There were no representatives present from the University of Arkansas or Oklahoma A. & M., but the five Texas colleges were represented.

As soon as the regulations have been arranged in proper form they will be made public.

Today's meeting decided that it may be necessary to postpone the annual track and field meet carded at Fayetteville, Ark., on May 12 and 13 to May 16 and 17, due to the advantage which would be gained by taking advantage of the summer railroad rates. As Arkansas was not represented, no official action was taken.

Joy Riders Leave Traces in Auto

An automobile owned by J. King which was stolen from its parking place in front of the First Baptist church Sunday evening, while Mr. and Mrs. King were at church, was found Monday morning at 6 o'clock by Frank Morgan, constable.

The vehicle, a new Hupmobile, was in good condition when Constable Morgan came upon it in the Fifth street park, only the gasoline tank, which had been full the night before being empty.

It was the opinion of Constable Morgan that a crowd of joy riders had stolen the auto for an all night spin. Empty bottles which had once contained moonshine liquor and four packages which had once contained cigarettes found around the car indicated that it had been in use for a considerable length of time, he said.

HIGHWAY ROUTE IS NOT DECIDED

Council Fails to Solve Problem

No agreement being reached by the councilmen who went into executive session to discuss the proper routing the Meridian highway should take through Wichita Falls, the commissioners, assembled in regular weekly session Monday night in the council room, announced to a large gathering of citizens who had previously argued for various routes that decision would be deferred until some later date.

A petition bearing 351 names urging that the highway pass through Wichita Falls down Lamar street, thence to Jalonic, and out of the county, was presented to the council, J. C. Hunt, Ralph Hines and J. Y. McQuigg arguing for the route, while Judge R. E. Huff, Myles O'Reilly and others argued that the highway should pass down Ohio avenue.

Merits Argued Hotly.

Those presenting the Lamar street petition urged that the Meridian highway, if passing that route, would only cross one section of railway trackage in this city, while if it went the other way, several bodies of tracks would have to be passed, which would be extremely dangerous to tourists not accustomed to the city. It was argued by those favoring the Ohio route that either way was dangerous, for that matter, and that the highway should remain down Ohio as originally planned.

Some called attention to the fact that the county commissioners have already agreed that the Lamar street plan was the best, and that to deviate from the routing they had chosen would bring a serious conflict.

The arguments presented waxed hot, and both sides presented their pleas in strong terms, the mayor, Frank Collier, eventually calling a halt on the debate by suggesting that the city commissioner in charge of the matter would give his views, and the council announce some action, that body going immediately into an executive session with the above named result.

Cut Engineer Department.

Cut ranging from $5 to $50 per month were made in the salaries of employes of the city engineering department, over the objection of F. M. Rugeley, city engineer, who expressed the opinion that some of his men would probably resign.

No Other Department Was Cut.

No reductions in the salaries of the city police department were made, Commissioner J. B. Fitts reporting that his patrolmen, whose pay was cut a year ago, are paid from $105 to $115 per month, while two detectives receive $150 each and two motor cycle officers, who furnish their own vehicles, are also paid $150.

Authority to sign a new water rate contract with the Wichita Falls Electric company was given the mayor by the council, while ordinance 407, providing that the public utilities read the meters over the city at least once per month and file the readings with the proper city authorities, was placed on its first reading. It was announced that the city attorney will make some minor changes in the ordinance.

Taxation on lots which are being purchased for school purposes was removed.

City Prosecutor.

Discussion of the disposition of delinquent tax cases deferred action on the appointment of a special prosecutor for the corporate court, which action was urged by Commissioner Fitts, who suggested that E. H. Gipson be named to fill that position at a salary of $175 per month.

It was intimated that the council will probably pass on this suggestion at the next regular meeting, Monday night, and that Mr. Gipson will probably receive the appointment.

Plans to wind up the preparations for the American Legion air carnival in an extensive drive will be discussed, while several other matters of significance to former service men will be brought before the meetin, it is said.

Several New Faces At Players' Study

Presence of several new members, and a particularly interesting Shakespeare study program featured the regular meeting of the Community Theatre Players Monday night, at the Kemp Library. There were twenty-five members present.

Following the business session Mrs. E. L. Fulton, the director took charge and conducted the study of Shakespears, which is now receiving the organization's consideration, preparatory to the staging of "Midsummer Night's Dream" on May 30 and 31, as the closing programs of the Community theatre season.

Roll call was answered with quotations from Shakespeare. Miss Kathleen Lynch gave a paper and discussion of "Flowers Of Shakespeare's Pdays," and Miss Mary Colquitt had for her subject, "Contrast Puck and Ariel."

The program was concluded by a scene from "The Merchant of Venice," given by Mrs. Porter Oakes as Portia, and Mrs. C. H. Reid in the role of her maid, Nerissa.

WORK ON ARENA STARTS TODAY

Fixing Ball Park for Rodeo

Work will start today at the ball park on the outer enclosures for the stock which will be used in the Round-Up to be staged May 3, 4 and 5, and within the next three days work will be commenced on the pens, corrals and chutes from which bucking broncos and wild steers will be turned out during the performance.

Tom L. Burnett, in a statement at Round-Up headquarters yesterday, declared that he had engaged sufficient ticket sellers, ticket takers and ushers to handle the crowds without delay or confusion. Mr. Burnett made it plain that persons buying boxes would be permitted to take children in their arms or lap into the boxes, but in no case will they be allowed to seat their children upon the rail of the boxes, thereby obscuring the view of others.

The advance sale of season box tickets is progressing beyond expectation. The boxes of four seats have all already been disposed of and many of the larger boxes already sold. It is reported that there are quite a number of choice boxes left, but these are being disposed of rapidly and as out-of-town orders are just beginning to come in it is expected that practically all boxes will be sold by Saturday.

Galloway, arrested by federal officers at Burkburnett Sunday on charges of having in his possession untaxed narcotics, was remanded to prison Monday in default of $2,500 bond granted him by J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, before whom Galloway was given a hearing and charged with selling morphine.

J. E. Smith, arrested with Galloway, was granted bond of $2,500 by the commissioner, pending his hearing which will be held today. Smith also failed to make bond.

"JINX" SAYS OWNER WHEN THIEVES COME AGAIN FOR HIS AUTO

"I believe a jinx is following me," said Renne Allred, Jr., in speaking Monday morning of the loss of his new Dodge touring car, which was removed from Mr. Allred's garage at 1605 Collins street, some time Sunday night.

Mr. Allred told city police officials that thieves had broken into his garage before, having stolen casings from a Ford car which was but two weeks old. Mr. Allred had had his Dodge automobile but two weeks.

Loss of the vehicle was discovered Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, when Mr. Allred discovered that someone had forced the lock on the garage doors. No clue as to who might have stolen the auto has been found.

TOUGH LINES.

Bill—"Poor old Jim is sure in a quandary today."

Ed—"Did he get his salary reduced?"

Bill—"No; he don't know whether to tell the staff about his latest golf score or what his kid did at home last night."

SCIENCE OF GEOLOGY

Did it ever occur to you that out of each 1,000 wells drilled in Texas during 1921, at least 730 produced oil, and a large number of them are still producing oil? Asks the Texas Oil Gazette.

And if this has occurred to you, after you are told that it is backed by official statistics and government reports, does it mean anything?

Perhaps you are one of those who thinks the wildcat well that produces oil is a myth. Listen a moment and be wise.

If one well out of ten drilled produces oil in the gusher quantities that is found in Texas, it will be a highly profitable business. But geology and experience in drilling have reduced the hazards so that last year 73 per cent of the wells drilled produced oil. This means that the net profit from the oil-producing business is eight times as great as is necessary to carry on the business.

That was last year.

The year before was not so good.

The year before that was still worse.

It stands to reason, from these figures and facts, that we are making progress. Then it stands to reason that as we make progress, we will find more and more producing wells, and fewer dry holes.

The great drilling campaigns that are under way in Texas and adjoining states today where the geology is much the same, can be expected to develop great gusher pools of oil, because they have the expert services of professional men of years of standing and experience behind them.

Men do not employ school boys to settle the location of a well that is to cost thousands of dollars and may mean millions in profits to its owners and interest holders. They employ men of known ability and expeerience, who are able to say with some degree of certainty that this location should be drilled and this other one should not.

For this reason, learned men have found it profitable to make a study of the science of geology, and many of them are giving their life to it. They are the ones that command the big salaries, and likewise they are the ones that locate the oil pools.

Geology is advancing so rapidly, for it is a comparatively new science as applied to oil, that it is becoming exact. That is the reason 73 per cent of the wells drilled in Texas last year were producers. That is the reason we may look for a better average this year, and the next, until finally the dry wells will be freaks, few, and harmless.

A man who invests money in drilling oil wells today has more chances to win than he has to lose. The advantage of science and experience is on his side.

Big navy men won in the house by a vote of 221 to 148. Ninety Republicans voted against the big navy and fifty-seven Democrats voted with them. Forty-eight Democrats were on the side of the president and his secretary of the Navy after the smoke had cleared away. "Who are we going to fight?" Siam or Liberia?

TITLED ASTORS

Lord and Lady Astor are in New York. Lord Astor is a member of the House of Lords. Lady Astor is a member of the House of Commons. Lord Astor was born in England. Lady Astor was born in Virginia. Lord Astor had an American born father, William Waldorf Astor, who deserted the land of his nativity because he said that America was not a fit place for a gentleman to live. A fur trader founded the Astor fortunes. His father according to ancient history came to America as a sutler in a regiment of Hessians hired by King George the Idiot to fight Washington and his heoric soldiers. Of course the sutler had a forebear. He was a worthy butcher in a village in Hanover. But this happened a long time ago and it isn't fair to go behind the returns. Lady Astor is an American, a splendid woman, afflicted with lots of common sense. According to the New York journals when the reporters made a rush to the Gibson mansion Lord Astor answered the ringing of the door bell and every mothers' son of the scribes believed it was the butler of the household, his lordship so greatly resembled the pompous James to memory dear. They apologized and his lordship apologized and then Lady Astor granted an interview. She was very grateful. One sex alone cannot rule the world she says. Men have a greater sense of justice than women. Women have a greater sense of mercy. Men must borrow mercy and the women must use justice. Lady Astor said that she could conceive of nothing worse than a man governed world unless it be a woman governed world. And she suggested to the scribes that it should be made a fifty-fifty proposition. Lord Astor is acting as his wife's social secretary as well as relieving James, the butler, of some of his onerous duties. New York journalists made one mistake. They say that Lady Astor is the first woman to be elected to the British parliament. They are mistaken. An Irish district elected a daughter of freedom to a seat in the house of commons and she very bluntly told them that she would accept the honor but never take the oath required. She was as good as her word. Now she is the leader of the faction of Ireland clamoring for a free republic. She is a countess and a member of one of the old families of Dublin. Lady Astor is for the League of Nations, for prohibition of the liquor traffic, for education for all the children of all the people of the British Isles. She is running true to form as her ancestors fought for American independence as soldiers of the immortal Washington, while the ancestors of her husband was a Hessian or hired soldier under the Union Jack on American soil.

THE SILENT ONES

I hobble by the churchyard fence and to myself I sigh, "I hope it may be long years hence when with those lads I lie. It must be rotten to be dead, and planted here outdoors, no more to paint the village red, or read the baseball scores." Yet I am but a gloomy wreck of what I used to be; I have nine boils upon my neck, a spavin on my knee. I've just recovered from the flu, which racked my weary frame; and I have aches in every thew, and I am sore and lame. And yonder sleepers have no ills that torture flesh and bones; they do not have to live on pills until the spirit groans. They're done with every kind of pain, and every throb is gone, and in the sunshine and the rain they slumber calmly on. Oh, every morning brings new grief to this sad life of mine, and all day long I sit and beef beneath my fig and vine. A change of wind will make me sick, and if I'm in the rain the maladies come fast and thick and fill my bones with pain. My feet get wet and fever coes, and to my bed I go, and lie and gnash my toothless gums for long days, in my woe. But when I pass the churchyard wall I shiver and exclaim, "May it be long before I fall for yonder sexton's game!"

A MOTTO FOR WORKERS
By H. ADDING BRUCE

Many business men, as is generally known, keep on their desks or hang on the walls of their offices printed mottoes of exhortation or warning. Of such mottoes, "Do It Now" and "This Is My Busy Day" are the ones most frequently found in business places.

But there is another which ought to be found more frequently than either of these, yet which actually is seldom found. If it is important to prevent wastage of business time, and if it is important to be prompt in the doing of business, it clearly is much more important to do one's business as accurately and thoroughly as possible.

So that business men might find it a real help to keep constantly before their eyes during business hours a card giving the salutary reminder, "Take Pains." Indeed, it might greatly pay them to have a number of such cards printed and hung where their business associates and employees would be sure to see them frequently.

For if there is anything that workers in business seem inclined to forget, it is this same important principle of accuracy and thoroughness.

This applies to workers in all capacities, from executive heads to workers in the most subordinate positions. Too often haste and carelessness predominate, to the eventual great harm both of the workers themselves and of the firms for which they work.

Yet nothing is more likely to prevent a man from achieving business success than slackness in his working standards and his working methods. The output of all slack workers must needs be inferior in quality. And, as incisively phrased by one keen student of human affairs:

"One of the most insistent things in life is that you are ultimately judged by what you actually accomplish. The busy world gives scant attention to assertion, explanation, protest, apology, or complaint.

"What counts most is not promise, but performance. Good work speaks for itself. Time spent in promises, regrets and professions is usually unavailing. The present age is intensely practical, and more than ever the race is to the alert, the energetic, and the industrious, to workers earnestly intent upon securing actual results."

Hence, to repeat the succinct advice of another equally keen observer:

"Have a work for every moment and mind the moment's work. Whatever your calling, master all its bearings and details, all its principles, instruments and applications. Let nothing about it escape your notice."

Thoroughness wins! That is a truth which cannot be too often or too emphatically proclaimed, especially in these days of numerous exponents of the gospel of "getting by."

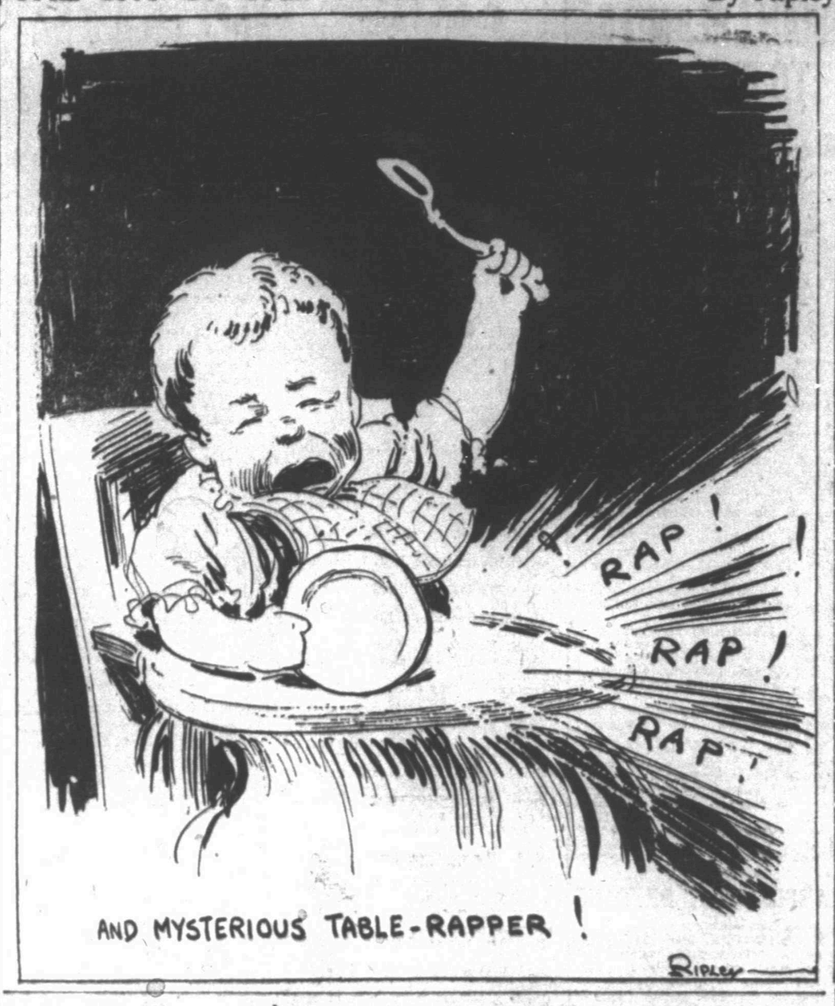

And however much workers may resent being admonished by mottoes to "Take Pains," unless they habitually do take pains they are fated forever to remain workers who wonder why they do not make headway in the business world.

NEW SEA MONSTER HOOKED IN PACIFIC

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 24.—Blase fishermen were astonished and learned professors shook their heads in bewilderment with the capture of an unusual new sea monster, apparently of an unknown species, by the crew of a fishing craft off Long Beach. The monster measured 17 1-2 feet long and weighed 1,500 pounds. The capture was made about eight miles from shore and required several hours to land

THE CRY OF THE WORLD. —By Ripley

THE ONCE OVER
DUMM AND DUMMER ON THE TARIFF BILL.

"I suppose you've studied the new senate tariff bill," remarked Senator Dumm to Representative Dummer. "It has been reported to the senate, and should reduce the high cost of living very materially."

"I've just looked over the schedule in the newspaper, and it leaves no doubt in my mind that the problem of eating cheaply and regularly is completely solved. Shingles, barbed wire, ylang-ylang oil, chicken seeds, lifeboats, seaweed, and kelp are put on the free list, and such necessities of life as horseshoe nails, prussic acid, and decorated bottle-caps are to carry a minimum duty," replied Representative Dummer.

o o o

"The Senate finance committee framed it after a most exhaustive study, and it expects to understand what it is all about if given time," replied Senator Dumm. "Personally, I regard it as very satisfactory, read lengthwise or from left to right. It is a very interesting document."

o o o

"Interesting!" exclaimed Representative Dummer, "I suppose you think it would cheer up the peepul enormously if arrangements could be made to broadcast the tariff schedule by radio immediately following the Little Brown Bear stories."

"People are more interested in the tariff than you think," insisted Dumm. "It virtually concerns the happiness of every American resident. A tariff, to be satisfactory, must be so fixed that it protects American industries and yet does not tax imports to such an extent that the cost of living is made higher. I assume you understand that."

"As far as I can see from a careful inspection of the McCumber tariff it not only increases the high cost of living, but the high cost of bathing" replied Dummer.

"How so"? asked Dumm.

"The schedule calls for a duty of 35 per cent on bathbricks as against 15 per cent at present, a duty of 50 per cent on perfumed soaps as against 30 per cent, and, if I ain't mistaken, it calls for a higher duty on Turkish towels," replied Dummer. "And the cost of tiled bathrooms is made almost prohibitive. Schedule two raises the duty on glazed tile to 50 per cent from 30."

"Well, bathing has been made too easy in this country," argued Senator Dumm. "If the republican party makes the people appreciate what a luxury it is a good work will have been done."

"I get a good laugh out of the whole situation," insisted Dummer. "Why, my dear Dumm, this new tariff bill hoists the duty on beef, mutton, lamb, bacon, dressed poultry, wheat, and ham and eggs. It provides a tax of 2 cents a pound on ham, to be exact, and 8 cents a dozen on eggs."

"Ham and eggs should be made higher anyhow," argued Dumm. "It's a democratic dish and the eating of it should be discouraged. Why don't you be fair and cite the cases where duties have been greatly reduced?"

o o o

"I see the duty on black silver foxes has been cut to $200 a head," admitted Dummer. "This should come as a great boon to the common people. I note that the duty on hay is placed at $3 a ton, which is only a slight increase; that the duty on unshelled peanuts remains the same, and that polo ponies can be imported at about the same cost as at present. I'll admit the senate committee has acted with an eye to the welfare of the masses."

o o o

"Why don't you point out some cases where an enormous reduction has been made?" demanded Dumm. "Look at the item of metal suspender buttons; the new tariff places the duty at a quarter of a cent a gross. The present duty is 15 cents a gross. What have you to say about that?"

"The republican party is doing its best to see that the male voters are enabled to keep their pants up, but this is purely because the politicians know a voter has to wear a pair to get inside a polling place," argued Dummer.

"Did you see what we put on the free list?" asked Dumm.

"I noticed some of the articles," admitted Dummer. "Brazil beans, cuttlefish bone, nux vomica, pigeons, bananas and turtles, for instance. All American citizens who dote on cuttlefish bones, or who crave a daily supply of turtles, should be keenly appreciative. The placing of these things on the free list should guarantee the republican party the cuttlefish and the turtle lovers' vote."

o o o

"You're purposely mentioning unimportant items," accused Dumm.

"Well, mention some yourself," demanded Dummer, handing him a copy of a much-thumbed newspaper containing the schedule.

Senator Dumm put on his spectacles and started to read.

"Bismuth," he began; "binding twine, dried blood, Bibles, cash registers" * * *"

"Bibles and cash registers!" exclaimed Dummer. "That shows the commercial spirit of the age.

"Eggs of birds, fish and insects," resumed Senator Dumm, reading from the paper, "expecting fish roe when used for food."

"That lets in free every egg we have no use for, but puts shad roe on the taxable list," laughed Dummer. "The only eggs that come in free under that section are the eggs of German woodpeckers and the like and the roe of the New Enland goldfish and Corsican minnow."

o o o

"Well, we've done something that will win us the letter carrier vote, anyhow," declared Dumm.

"What's that?" asked Dummer.

"We've put a duty of 40 per cent on picture postcards as against 25 at present."

"That only keeps out the foreign postcards, which are really the only ones having interesting views. The native manufacturers will turn out more cards than ever. Anyhow, though you win the letter carried vote you will lose the sporting vote."

"How?" asked Dumm.

"This tariff takes horseshoes off the free list and puts a tax of 2 cents a pound on 'em."

"How'll that affect the sporting vote?"

"It'll kill the annual2 horseshoe pitching tournaments of the middle west," declared Dummer.

TECNIQUE FOR GIRLS
By DR. FRANK CRANE
(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

A young lady correspondent writes to me that having read my article on "How to Make Love" some time ago, she rather approved of it, but criticized the fact that it was addressed entirely to young men. "Now" she says, "would it be asking too much to have you submit in your column some real, honest-to-goodness rules whereby a young woman can improve her technique from a man's point of view?"

This is a reasonable request, and going to the barrel of rules which I keep handy for all purposes I extract the following, which are hereby offered to the young lady:

1. First of all, remember that there is just one thing that every human being, including men folks, hates, and that is Egotism. Hence, if you want to push young men from you, be egotistic.

2. If you want to be popular with the boys don't be Selfish. Selfishness, of course, is a form of Egotism. You may have charm enough to get away with it at first, but by and by selfishness always spoils love.

3. Speak low. Remember that the voice is "an excellent thing in woman." Do not talk loud nor laugh loud. And for that matter do not dress loud. The kind of men that immodesty makes a hit with is not the kind that you want to know.

4. Be good. I am mentioning this from a religious or moral point of view, but merely as a lure for the opposite sex. Maybe you don't know it, and maybe you know it and resent it as an injustice, but no man loves a girl unless he has an idea that she is better than he is.

5. Don't try to shock the boys. Shocking them may make a sensation and attract attention to yourself, but it costs more than it comes to. It is always a losing game for you. Don't tell risque stories. Don't smoke cigarettes.

6. Be chaste. What I mean is, guard your modesty and cling to your self-respect. Don't snicker at remarks that are off color. Don't let a boy put his hands on you. Remember, that your very last defense and your principal charm is the sancitiy of your person.

7. Be a good sport. By this I mean do not be a prude, and do not look for affronts where they are not meant, and do not see them when they are meant. Be in favor of things. Be a good pal.

8. Be healthy. Be an outdoor girl. Boys are attracted to girls who are not only feminine but vigorous and strong. The kind of man that wants the clinging vine usually develops into a tyrant. The right sort of man wants an equal and a friend.

9. Above all things be cheerful. Keep the sparkle in your eye and the corners of your mouth turned up. Be optimistic, be enthusiastic. Be positive. Everybody likes sunshine and men take to it as a monkey takes to sugar. The average boy is apt to be tragic, and the girl that appeals to him is the one who is not tragic.

10. Don't be sensitive. If you are sensitive don't show it.

And if you keep all these rules and cannot attract the boys, don't blame me. I have done the best I could.

CHASING AFTER HAPPINESS

Inheriting the farm was not alone a matter of surprise to Dick and Marion Mayes, but of gratitude as well. They lived in the cheapest lodgings compatible with health, and had no expectations other than those natural to two industrious young people standing behind the same counter in a big store, and both supplementing the day's earnings by nigh work four nights out of the week. But with all their work and all the saving they could do they had found it really remarkable, as Marion said, how slowly their bank account had grown and how closely the gains of the months huddled together. Of course, some day, they fully expected to have money for everything, but the gift of the farm would set them ahead on their journey toward that day a mighty distance. And Dick sagely supplemented her remarks with: "I'm only the first thousand that really counts, they say, Marion."

Marion was sure it must be so, and devoted all her wits and earning capacity to the getting of the thousand, but, though the farm appeared to be a noble estate, the gains still were slow. In fact, it was only by the assistance of the neighbors that there were gains at all. Neither of them was experienced. Beautiful the farm was to look at. It lay in the brakes of a stream, placid or turbulent, according to season, and the slopes and scallops, timber-fringed, which they so much admired, had been washed by the rains of years till soil was a negligible quantity indeed.

But of that they were blissfully ignorant, and their ambition, especially Marion's grew amazingly. Dick would have been content to spend his life on the farm and his leisure hours lying on the warm, grassy banks, watching the multitudes of birds singing and swiging in the treetops. But Marion's ambitions included no leisure. She wanted the beautiful things of life—a handsome home, elegant furniture, to say nothing of fine clothes and pictures and shelves upon shelves of books. More than anything else, though she wanted that first thousand which in some mysterious way was to multiply till her wishes had all been gratified.

And she was not only willing but anxious to work for it, so when the yearly returns from the farm failed to increase she decided to go to Texas, where millions grew from onions while one slept.

Dick went unwillingly. He had no taste for pioneering, he argued, no matter what the prospect for making money might be. He found it hard enough following blazed trails, he told Marion, and, besides, the comforts of a home were better for the twins and baby Tom than roughing it.

To which Marion indignantly replied that it was of the children she was thinking. She, their mother, had never had the advantages of refined surroundings and an education, but she was determined they should.

Unfortunately for her plans, their experience in the onion-growing venture differed widely from that of the persons mentioned in the prospectus they had received. Not only did the millions not materialize, but the season proved a most disastrous affair to both health and purse.

But they—that is, Marion—had few regrets, for the reason they were directly in the way of getting the thousand, which had long ago become another word for happiness, by accepting the company's offer to sell the mat a very low price some excellent orange land in Florida.

Again Dick demurred and stated in understandable language his opinion of dragging a family here and there in a foolish wild-goose chase. But in the end Marion had her way, and for six years they toiled in the hope of heavy returns from their very first shipment. When that time came, however, a strike on the part of pickers and packers prevented their getting help; the oranges were left on the trees, and the land, only partly paid for, reverted to the company.

But the situation still held hope. At any rate, Marion felt that it did. The company hired them to conduct their sanitarium at a health resort, and the venture might have been a matter of much needed rest as well as some money in their pockets if it could have been continued. The sanitarium changed hands, and they were left without means or employment, starngers in a strange land.

Dick's wrath was prodigious. He washed his hands of all responsibility for their condition, he told Marion and added: "We ought to be at home. If we had stayed on the farm we should have had the money long ago. Besides, you must be blind that you can't see they are using us as a cat's paw."

Marion's indignation equalled his wrath. She made it clear that she had no intention of going home as empty-handed as when she left, and when the company offered to lease them land in Canada, ideal for growing flax, she promptly accepted for them both, congratulating herself that the rental was so low and the terms so easy.

"The whole world knows flax is a money maker," she defended herself. It really seemed that they were to be rewarded for their desperate efforts to make good. The season was all that could be desired and the thousand was almost within their grasp when the mercury took a downward leap. When morning came they sat on the rickety doorstep of their little shack and gazed dumbly at their frozen blue-green fields and ruin stared stolidly back at them.

"Where do we go from here?" Dick asked. There was neither sarcasm nor levity in his voice, only such weariness that Marion turned quickly and looked at him. For the first time in years she seemed to see him. His expression was as hopeless as his voice had been; there were lines in his face and his hair was sprinkled with gray. He was broken and old, although little more than thirty, and the thousand that was to have done so much was as far away as when they rented the farm.

Suddenly she seemed to feel the warm sunlight on the smooth, grassy knoll, scolloping the water to see the birds wheeling and whirring in the soft air; and over all a peace and contentment nowhere else in the world to be found.

"Let's go home, Dick," she said suddenly. They went, emuty-handed; their youth gone; their illusions destroyed; their hopes dead; to find that their own land was holding in trust for them the very thing they had so long sought and had not found.

At some time during their absence a storm had uprooted a huge tree which had stood for generations at the edge of a bluff and left exposed a great seam of coal. The coveted thousand was theirs before they realized it and without a single thought or effort on their part. Presently the mysterious multiplication they had so long counted upon was in full swing, and Dick was so happy to merely be at home that he never once said, even in his thoughts, "I told you so."

Did you have many difficulties when you were learning to sing?

Yes, especially with the neighbors

U. D. C. HOLDS SESSION SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Meeting for the last time this season, members of the U. D. C. after a short business session in which officers for the coming year were elected, enjoyed a delightful program and social afternoon at the home of Mrs. John C. Kay Saturday with Mrs. D. J. Carithers joint hostess.

An important feature of the business session also was the plans for a lawn picnic to be given May 13 late in the afternoon for the surviving old soldiers of the county, and their families, at the home of Judge and Mrs. A. H. Britain.

Mrs. E. T. Duff was elected president; Mrs. P. A. Martin, first vice-president; Mrs. D. J. Carithers, second vice-president; Mrs. E. T. Barker, recording secretary; Mrs. W. O. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. W. Carter, treasurer; Mrs. S. Y. Ferguson, historian; Mrs. A. H. Britain, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. W. Stone, registrar; Mrs. C. B. Felder, custodian of flags; Mrs. M. Gaffney, custodian of crosses, and Mesdames John C. Kay, P. P. Langford and H. B. Patterson members of the program committee.

After the business session a program arranged by Mrs. A. H. Britain was given in which talks were made by Mrs. John Kay, the retiring president, and by Judge Edgar Scurry, a guest of the afternoon. Misses Marian Maer and Cecelia Adicks gave a violin duet accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Britain. Miss Hazelle Dean gave a vocal number accompanied by Miss Martha Roper and little Miss Elizabeth Langford gave two readings which proved very enjoyable. Mrs. G. D. DECORATIVE ART LESSONS AT MARTINS

Wichita Falls' women who are interested in learning how to arrange prettily appointed social functions at a nominal cost as well as make novelties and accessories for the home, are invited to be guests at a series of lessons in handicraft and decorative art at Martin's Book store, 820-22 Indiana avenue, this week, where Miss Louise Williams an artist from Dennison in New York, is giving lessons free of cachge.

Instructions will be given in making crepe paper novelties, costumes, caps, aprons, flowers, table decorations, party favors, place cards, paper rope weaving, flower baskets, lamps, shades and mats. The classes began Monday and will be held from 2:00 to 5:30 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9:00 until 12:00 a. m.

Until last year, this fascinating work was taught exclusively by Dennisons in their store, conducted in the larger eastern cities but now the artist instructors are sent to the larger cities over the country, Dallas, Wichita Falls and Amarillo being the only Texas towns scheduled for these demonstrations.

FASHIONS FOR AMERICANS

Canton Crepe Fashions This Charming Frock.

The frock shown in the sketch helps to prove how attractive the gown made entirely of one fabric and practically without trimming can be. This model is made of canton crepe, the popular caramel shade having been selected, and the only touch of contrasting color is in the thread used to hemstitch the tucks and form a little openwork border around the neck. Brown silk thread is used for this purpose.

Both back and front sections of the frock have the rather wide tucks running practically their entire width, and four panels, two at the side front and two at the side back, are laid in inch-wide flat pleats, the sections between these panels being plain. The sleeves are about three-quarter length and slightly flared. They also are finished with tucks. A sash belt, to be tied at the side or back, holds the frock in at the waistline.

With this frock is worn a small hat of brown braid or taffeta trimmed with foliage or flowers carrying out the color scheme of the frock.

The crepe weave silks so popular this spring are used to make dresses that are smart and practical and so light in weight that they may be worn with comfort throughout the summer, as the majority of them are entirely unlined. The leaning to straight lines and to simplicity in style design is very friendly to the development of unlined frocks, as few are so closely fitted to the figure as to require lining unless it is actually preferred, and certainly the unlined dresses are much easier to get into than the ones that are lined—another advantage in this age of hurry and flurry.

A Wife or a Profession?

Chapter LIX.

Howard Blake no longer mooned over the situation in which he had placed himself, or, as he used at first to think, Annette had placed him. Long ago he had exonerated her. He no longer had futile regrets over what had been, or what couldn't be. He had made a mistake, as thousands of others had made mistakes. Now it was up to him to make the best of it. Annette was happy, and that was a little bit of all right.

He was worried about Annette, not as her husband, but as a physician. She seemed to grow more delicate, frailer each month, yet there was no tangible cause, no real disease.

At last Annette had almost conquered. Howard at times even forgot he had wanted to be a surgeon, forgot all his disappointed ambitions. It has been said that the young cannot always grieve, neither can they continually regret, and Howard Blake was still young. So he settled into the niche Annette, aided by her father's money, had carved for him, to all intents and purposes content.

"Some day something will happen to jar him," Claire Gordon said to herself. She had gleaned from things both he and Annette had said something of the hectic life he had led in Paris and his disgust with himself. She saw him settle back into his old quiet self, his enthusiasm all gone, but with a certain content that boded ill for his future—so she thought.

"I'd rather see him fuss and fume—yes, curse and swear"' she said, whimsically to herself. "Usually when a man settles back like that he is through, dead to ambition." But she said no more, either to him or to Annette. "They'll be telling me to mind my own business," she thought.

Howard Blake was undeniably growing fat. He took little exercise except what he got by sitting beside Annette in her luxurious limousine or attending her on her shopping expeditions." His embonpoint was detrimental to his good looks, and that annoyed Annette a little. His mind, always so keen, had also become torpid from disuse. He drifted.

Whenever he appeared conversation was apt to temporarily stop, while heads slowly pivoted and eyes furtively slipped in his direction. Followed comment—admiring, questioning, or condemnatory. They all felt the dominance of the might-have-been man. Since Howard no longer fought with his conscience himself, or with Annette he had lapsed into a state bordering on the comatose in his emotions.

"I do nothing," he once said to Annette, "for now there is nothing I can do that is worth doing. Do you approve of lazy men, dear?"

"Yes, I think so, if they are gracefully lazy."

"You are an odd little creature—Annette," he broke off. She watched him keenly, seeming anxious to read his mind, something beyond his mere words. He waited for her to agree or disagree, but she did neither.

"Are you happy, Annette?" he asked after a bit.

"So happy it hurts me here." She touched her breast as she spoke, with a little laugh at herself.

Annette slept badly—often she complained of that. She said she was restless as the wind at dawn. And she did not plan quite so many parties, did not accept quite so many invitations. She evinced more interest in his office patients—to Howard's surprise.

"They aren't very sick, I can tell by their looks," I often see them from my window," she said to him.

"Mostly they come to talk, to tell me of their fancied ills. It does them good, and sometimes I am able to make suggestions."

Even Annette noticed the lack of confidence in his tone.

"You surely have the technical knowledge to tell them what they need," she returned, a bit impatiently for her.

"I'm not up in even that any longer." But he said it without the bitterness he so long had allowed to creep into his voice. It was as it nothing really mattered. The worst of it was that was the way he felt. Just as he told Annette. Now nothing mattered but her.

"What's the matter with Annette?" It was Claire Gordon who questioned. She had met Howard in the street.

"I don't know. Frankly, Claire, I am worried about her. I think I shall call in—a doctor." He had been about to say Dr. Campbell. He had not seen him since the day he resigned, and could not bring himself to speak of him.

"Why don't you look after her yourself. Oh, I know it isn't ethical, isn't done, but you know her better than any one else."

"No—I couldn't trust myself."

"And why? Oh, Howard, how you have disappointed me! I know I have no right to talk this way, but you are so soft, so useless, and you might have been everything that makes a man. I could weep every time I think of you."

"Then why think, Claire?"

"Because—because—I can't help it!"

"You don't mean that you—"

"That I care for you? I have always cared, ever since you came to New York, and now I am ashamed of caring, because I am ashamed of you!"

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK,

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

It's this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

HEALTH WORN TO A FRAZZLE

Texas Lady Suffered From Womanly Weakness, Pains and Aches; Says She Took Cardui and Got Well.

Dayton, Texas—Mrs. E. H. Weidel, of this city, writes that she has, for a long time, known of the value of Cardui from personal experience. "I don't know where I would be had it not been for Cardui, for it made a new woman out of me," says Mrs Weidel.

Briefly describing the symptoms of the troubles for which she took Cardui, Mrs. Weidel writes:

"I was haggard, pale—worn to a frazzle—all the time.

"My health was wretched. I had womanly weakness, painful . . . . pains and aches.

"I heard of Cardui, and decided to use it.

"Cardui built me up. I grew well—like another woman—hence the praise I give it. Cardui is the best medicine I ever saw in my life."

Cardui, which this Texas lady found so helpful, is a purely vegetable, medicinal tonic.

For more than forty years, Cardui has been taken by thousands and thousands of women, everywhere, and praised by them for the beneficial results obtained from its use. If you are a woman, and suffer as many women do—

How the Process of Ironization Makes Yeast Doubly Effective

While Science admits that yeast is of wonderful value in building flesh, clearing the skin, and increasing energy, it is found that yeast alone is not enough to bring 100 per cent results. For while yeast contains certain vital elements—lacking in diet, yet essential to health—experiments prove that some other agent is needed in order to quickly CONVERT these important yeast elements into new firm tissue, energy and health.

Everyone knows the great value of iron in changing our food into living cells. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the amazing process of ironization—the scientific process which enables you to derive from yeast ALL of the wonderful benefits it holds for you.

The Only Yeast that is Genuinely Ironized

This remarkable process of ironization is embodied ONLY in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment. IRONIZED YEAST is superior, therefore it is widely imitated. You are cautioned against accepting cheap inferior imitations, which in most cases are merely mixtures of ordinary yeast and iron. Always insist upon the genuine IRONIZED YEAST. It is the only way you can be sure of getting the best.

League Leading Spuds Invade Foreign Fields

POUND WAY TO TOP IN HOME STAND

Drive in Average of Over 7 Runs To Game

By "SPIKE" COOPER

The weather man's nine won the final game of the Spudder-Panther series yesterday afternoon. Batteries, Rain and Mud.

After a home stay of 12 days, wherein the Salmites took eight of eleven games played and permitted them to take the lead in the league standing as they depart for 12 games on the road. The standing shows them a half game to the good over the Oilers and a full game in advance of the Cowtown Cats.

The first stop of the Spudders will be made in Fort Worth this afternoon when they break the Shreveport jump with a one game stand. Due to the fact that the third game of the series was rained out here, and the count one-one, the game today will leave one of the clubs with a game advantage.

The team will leave Heiferville tonight for Louisiana where they will in all probability sweep another series from Billie Smith's Gassers. It will be a bloody fight, for the sting of a four-game loss while here last week has not been appeased.

Then to Dallas!

From Shreveport, Salm will journey again to civiliatzion with a four day stop in Dallas. James Cato Galloway has collected a crowd of apple-knockers over there who are doing their durndest to crowd some of the flag aspirants out of the lead positions. Although the Giants dropped three of the opening series of five games here, they offered some high-powered opposition for the slugging Spuds. The firing squad dealt more than a little misery to the south-side hitters is rounding into even better shape than when they sprung into action here.

To Invade Cowtown

The first road trip will wind up in Fort Worth, May 7, that day closing a four game rumpus which will no doubt determine the leadership of the league for the next few games unless the Beaumont Oilers make good the threat opened up during the last few games.

The win by San Antonio yesterday of the final game of their stay there toppled the Beaumont crew from the top ring of the ladder to which point they climbed Sunday for a twin honor with the Wichita nine, but Hub Northen's nine took them to task yesterday in a nine inning contest and the Spudders are still on top.

Following the road trip, four engagements of three days each will be staged with Galveston, Houston, Beaumont and San Antonio.

Beaucoup Runs.

Early season predictions that the hitting combination now pastiming in Supdder unies would get an average of five runs for the pitchers has been justified. To date a total of 82 runs have been scored as a result of the maulings administered to visiting heavers. Hits to the amount of 115 were marked up in the eleven games. An average of 7 1-2 runs and 10 hits per game will win a pennant in any league, unless the pitching staff collapses completely.

Tex McDonald and Jake Miller are running a close race for offensive honors to date. Tex has secured 19 hits for a total of 25 bases and has swiped eight sacks already. Jakie has collected 17 hits for 30 bases and purloined four sacks. Miller is leading the club in four-ply swats with three. Fred Beck has two and White and Bischoff one each. Adams has three triples and two doubles included in his total of 15 hits for the eleven games. Tex set a season's record by hitting safely in ten consecutive games, up until he fell off Sunday when he faced Joe Pate.

Rough on Southpaws.

It was feared that left-handers would cause the Spudders a lot of trouble this season, but so far, Swartz of Dallas is the only one to get by with any degree of safety, although Seely turned them back in his start. The Spudders seem able to hit them all alike and solid resounding smacks echo daily in Athletic park, regardless of the direction from which the slants approach the chopping block.

There is a bit of daily objection to the work of faithful old Frank Kitchens, backstopper premier for the past several seasons in the Lone Star loop. Do fans forget from one season to the next that Kitch is not a spring hitter? It takes him some time to get into his old time form, but work only will do it, and if he is to be depended on to do the catching this year, he must get in shape now. Then they are riding him because he drops a third strike occasionally. What if he does. How many ball games have been lost on that account? But turn it around and give him credit for the number of would-be base stealers who have been turned back as they went down, and proportion them up with the number who have successfully accomplished the feat. Give him time. That's all it takes and, wait and see if he doesn't come through.

It looks like Wichita Falls' year, and if the fans will just kick in with their support, the 1922 flag is going to bear record of one of the strongest fights in its history, or fly in Athletic park next year. Empty stands don't win ball games.

DEMPSEY REFEREES

PARIS, April 24.—Billy Balzac tonight won the middleweight championship of France on points over Maurice Prunier. The men fought 20 rounds and the decision was rendered by Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist who refereed the bout. Dempsey furnished the only knockout of the evening—this when he rose from the referee's chair and announced his decision in French.

SAME OLD BENDER

Chief Bender finished a practice game for his Reading team against Buffalo at Gastonia, N. C., the other day. With the score 11 to 9 in his team's favor in the ninth and two of his young pitchers having gone up in the air, the old Indian put himself in the box. He walked the first two men—then struck out three in a row and the game was over.

Dugan's Illness Is Blow to Frazee

The Red Sox fans have had a tough enough time of it through Harry Frazee's weakness for selling his stars. Now fate seems to be stepping right along with Harry in handing the fans a jolt or two. For the chances seem ten to one that Joe Dugan, the young infield star obtained from Connie Mack, will be lost to the team for the greater part of the season as the result of illness.

The Red Sox fans had a right to holler when Owner Frazee sanctioned the trade which sent Pitchers Bush and Jones and Infielder Scott to the Yankees in return for one star—Roger Peckinpaugh—and a wad of coin. Later Frazee appeased the fans by cooking up a second deal with Connie Mack and Clark Griffith whereby Griff sent O'Rourke to the Sox and Connie gave Frazee Joe Dugan, Griff sent Ring Miller and Jose Acosta to the Athletics and Frazee capped the deal by sending Roger to the Nats.

The Red Sox fans had reason to believe that Dugan, contented with his new berth, would immediately become a star and show them some classy ball.

Now that hope is shattered.

GIANT LEADER DEVELOPS STARS

John McGraw Began His Career in 1903

By NORMAN E. BROWN

One of the most interesting bits of dope dug up in some time by the delvers into the archives of baseball is a list of big deals which John McGraw has put through in his managerial career. The Giant boss, the record shows, has bought and sold between 90 and 100 stars of more or less luster since he has been piloting the Giants. These deals do not include the lesser ones which involved minor league stars nor do they include players purchased at the waiver price. All told, it is estimated that McGraw has handled 500 players in his day.

POOR FIELDING IS DONOHUE'S UNDOING

CINCINNATI, April 24. — Poor fielding back of Donohue was the main factor in giving St. Louis a 6 to 4 victory over Cincinnati today. Pertica was wild and was hit hard and Barfoot also was pounded.

Mann of St. Louis has been set down for three days and a $25 fine imposed on Lavan and Clemons for their part in a scene at Pittsburgh. Score:

SOX PITCHING "STAFF" IS RIGHT

Urban Faber in actio and photo of first White Sox-Browns game showing Ray Schalk scoring first run of season.

Urban Faber, Kid Gleason's pitching ace, stood out as one of the big stars of the opening tilts in the big leagues the other day, although he was chalked up with a defeat at the hands of the St. Louis club at Chicago. Faber held the slugging Brownies to three hits—which should have brought him a victory. The sox got to Urbau Shocker for nine blows, but their failure to bunch the hits and their poor work afield cost Red the game. With Kerr lost to the team, Faber is Gleason's main pitching hope. All Gleason's other hurlers are in and outers.

The First Day of the Series of Lessons in

Dennison's Crepe Craft

A Big Success

The opening day was very successful, however we were not prepared to handle the large number of ladies that were on hand to start the first lessons.

For those who were disappointed on the opening day and for those who did not come down on account of the inclement weather, please remember that we will continue these lessons until every one has taken advantage of the opportunity to learn to make the many beautiful things that can be made out of Dennison materials.

It will be a good idea to come in the mornings, if convenient, and inspect the work and select your materials while the store is not crowded.

Lessons every afternoon 2 to 5:30. Saturday 9 to 3:00. Special instruction to teachers and children.

THANK YOU—KEEP COMING

HI MAY PLAY AMARILLO FOR TITLE

Win Over Vernon Gives Locals Crack

By "HANK" HAYES

Since the Wichita Falls High school ball-tossers stuck the harpoon of defeat into the Vernon nine, and thereby eliminated their nearest dangerous rival, and the Amarillo Hi squad sent the Northsiders of Fort Worth back with two defeats, the Red and Black squad will probably meet the Panhandlers in a series to determine the northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma title to baseball honors.

Northside Hi of Fort Worth defeated Vernon, which cleaned everything in this section last season, a pair of games and likewise took the state honors last year.

Wichita high authorities received a challenge from the up-the-line club two weeks ago, but the track meet at Iowa Park prevented, and Amarillo also wanted to wait until Vernon and Wichita had clashed. A series may be arranged between the two for the latter part of this week and if a schedule can be arranged that will be satisfactory to both managements, they will play for the stake about Thursday of this week, in spite of the fact that the Older Boys Conference will be in session here.

If no game can be arranged for this week, it will have to be postponed for at least two weeks, as the state track meet will be in full swing on May 6 and some of the players on the team will represent the local high school in these events. Henrietta high school will probably visit this city for a game Friday if no game is arranged with Amarillo Hi.

DEMPSEY MAY MEET NEGRO

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The possibility of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, colored heavyweight contender, meeting in a championship contest in London this summer loomed today on the strength of a cablegram from George McDonald, English promoter.

According to Dia Dollings, England fight manager, now in New York, he received the following message last night from McDonald:

"Can you get Wills to come to London to box Dempsey?"

Wills, when informed of the cablegram, announced he would be "ready to depart on the first boat," but his manager offered no comment except to say he "could see no reason for leaving yet." Dollings did not indicate whether he had sought a definite answer to McDonald's cablegram.

ANSON STOOD AS LINK TO THE PAST

"Pop" and His Kind Laid Present Day Foundation

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The death of "Pop" Anson means more to baseball than the loss of one of the greatest stars in the game's history. His going severs another link that has connected the game of today with the game of yesterday. For he was one of the heroic figures around which the traditions and the ideals of the sport were built when it was growing into the great national game it is. It was Anson and such men of his time who laid such a firm foundation for the sport that two great scandals and a baseball war have failed to disrupt it.

Consider these achievements of "Pop."

He batted better than .300 for twenty years, the only man in the game's history to perform such a feat. Ty Cobb now is the only man who has a chance to equal this record. Anson turned in those twenty .300 marks over a span of twenty-two years, from 1876-97. The two years he failed to strike that gait were 1891-92. Two of these years he hit over .400. Only three other players have duplicated that feat of hitting past the .400 mark twice. They are Ty Cobb, Ed Delehanty and Jess Burkett. Jess hit .400 three seasons.

"Pop" served twenty-two years with the White Stockings as player and manager. Neither McGraw nor Connie Mack, the veterans of the game today, have equaled that record. McGraw is now starting his twenty-second campaign with the Giants. Connie is serving his twenty-first season with the Athletics.

Anson won five pennants for Chicago. McGraw and Connie have beaten that record, but they are the only ones. None of the old-time leaders surpassed it. Ned Hanlon and Frank Selee won the same number. Owner Comiskey of the White Sox who is reported about to step out of active control of his club, has won five.

As a first baseman "Pop" ranked as one of the greatest in the game's history. So much for the record books.

Anson also won added fame and popularity through his fairness, manliness and his strictness as a disciplinarian. His famous "bawl-outs" were picturesque, effective, but always just.

Fans Stayed by Him.

His popularity was attested by the fact that after his baseball days were over fans went to the vaudeville theaters for years tosee him in his monologue act. They went principally to see "Pop" once more and sort o' visualize him as he used to be on the diamond. And "Pop" put just enough baseball dope and actions in his act to make them glad they came.

Anson numbered presidents, statesmen and many other famous men among his close friends. Commissioner Landis was one of his "pals" and admirers.

'ALL-TIME' STAR

"Pop" Anson as present-day fans knew him.

Godowsky's Piano Smashed in Wreck; Another Secured

Leopold Godowsky's nine-foot grand Knabe piano which he was to have used in his concert tonight, was damaged in a railroad wreck somewhere in transit from St. Louis here, which necessitated that another one of the same dimensions be secured at once.

K. O. Williams of this city who is in charge of the installation of the piano after much difficulty located a similar one in Denver, Colorado. This was received here by express and has been installed.

Court Lets Contract For Construction Of Dipping Vat

Contract for the erection of a concrete dipping vat which is to be constructed in Precinct No. 2 was let by the commissioners' court Monday afternoon to Carter Bros. Two bids for the construction work had been submitted, B. O. Gilstrap bidding $2,340 for the job, while Carter brothers submitted a bid of $2,100.

The county auditor was authorized by the court, which was presided over by Judge J. P. Jones, to purchase sufficient corrugated culvert pipe to complete the work on the Burkburnett road, now under way. The pipe, which will be 24 inches in diameter, is not to cost more than $1.91 per lineal foot, the commissioners ordered.

Authority to purchase expansion joints to be shipped from Lockwood, Ohio, to be used on the highway was also given the county auditor.

Disposing of other highway and road matters which came before them, the commissioners ordered the road near the asylum which is now closed, to be opened until some other route around the asylum can be opened. Contracts recently let to the Tibbetts Construction company and the McCollum Construction company for the Henrietta road and Electra north road work were approved and duly accepted, the binds given by each of the companies being accepted.

Bills for $290.85 were allowed by the body.

Jitney Driver's Suit Against City Is Heard Monday

Judge E. W. Napier withheld his opinion until a later date in the case of J. T. Reynolds vs. Frank Collier, mayor, suit for writ of mandamus, tried in the 78th district court Monday morning.

Reynolds claims that he has been denied a jitney license, and that he has been denied the license without just cause, while the city contends that the mayor has a privilege to deny such license when the city administration has just cause, and that in this case the mayor is justified.

WHEAT PRICES ARE SETBACK

Imports From Canada Affect Market

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Wheat underwent an all around setback in prices today owing largely to evidence that wheat imports from Canada, duty paid, had begun. The market here closed unsettled, 3-4c to 2c net lower, with May 1.45 3-4 to 1.45 7-8 and July 1.23 3-8 to 1.23 1-2. Oats finished 1-4 to 3-8@1-2 down, oats off 1-4@3-8 to 1-2c, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 7c advance.

With arrivals of Canadian wheat at Minneapolis announced as commanding prices there which showed a profit, wheat traders here became somewhat skeptical about continued lack of supplies in Chicago to fill May contracts. This was especially the case inasmuch as liberal further shipments from Canada were predicted if high prices on this side of the border should warrant. Besides, receipts in Chicago today totalled 200 carloads, an amount far in excess of what has been the rule here of late. Under such circumstances, an early advance in the price of May delivery here failed to last, and the market soon turned weak for that month as well as for July and September.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat despite demand for corn at the seaboard and large exports sales of oats.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs and grain.

HIGH RECORD IN SALE OF STOCKS

Quoted Values Go Up at Outset

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Various issues of a miscellaneous character were included among the new high records made in the stock market today although the sessions operations were characterized by much irregularity, due largely to professional pressure.

Quoted values tended mainly upward at the outset, but the rise met with extensive offerings of steels, popular oils, motors and allied specialties, utilities and several of the dividend paying rails, effacing much of the initial advance.

Short selling was invited by last Saturday's address of the comptroller of the currency before banking interests, in which the allied extravagance and speculation on the stock exchange was deprecated on the ground that it might cause a diversion of funds from productive enterprise.

Local financiers were not in accord with the views of the comptroller, affirming their belief that the recent uprush of market values was predicted on signs of general business and industrial revival. It was also declared that moneys now employed in Wall street in no way restricted or curtailed offerings for commercial purposes.

New Haven was one of the day's consistently strong features, retaining nearly all of its extreme rise of four points, but other rails of the same class eased. Among the few other substantial gains were Federal Mining and Smelting preferred, and Columbia graphophone.

COTTON MART CLOSES STEADY

Interest Centering in May Position

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—An early advance in the cotton market was attributed to reports of unseasonable low temperatures in the south, but after selling at $18.04 for May and $17.76 for October, or about 12 to 19 points net higher, there were reactions under realizing. October sold off to $17.62 and closed at $17.66, with the general market closing steady at a net advance of one to 17 points. Interest seemed to center largely on the May position. There was some scattering liquidation of the near months at the start, but it was readily absorbed and after selling at 30 points over July the premium widened to about 35 points on covering.

It was estimated on the floor that notices likely to be issued against May tomorrow night total in the neighborhood of 20.000 bales and there were reiterated rumors that more cotton would come here before the end of next month, possibly in the neighborhood of 40.000 bales. The early offerings of May were readily enough absorbed to create an impression among local traders that the notices would be stopped, however, and May held relatively steady in the late trading, closing at 17.90, or within 5 points of the best.

The opening was two points lower on May but generally 3 to 11 points higher and the market showed considerable firmness right after the call on the steady showing of Liverpool, talk of too much rain in Oklahoma and apprehensions of further delays in the new crop start as a result of low temperatures or Mississippi floods. Trading was quite active on the advance but buyers seemed to hesitate as prices approached the 18 cent level for May contracts and when the buying tapered off, the market turned a shade easier under realizing. The close was a few points up from the lowest on renewed covering.

Private cables said the failure to reach an agreement on the question of Lancashire wages was restricting general business, but reported continued good spot demand. Exports today were 4,720 bales, making 4,657,630 so far this season. Port receipts 21,338. U. S. port stocks 942,833.

COFFEE REACTS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Scattering liquidation of May contracts in preparation for possible notices on Wednesday led to reactions in the market for coffee futures today. The opening was one point lower to three points higher with late months relatively steady on a little trade buying or buying against sales of near deliveries.

May soon eased off to 9.94, or 21 points net lower, however, and September eased off to 9.80 or 4 points below the closing quotation of last week. There was enough covering to steady prices around these figures and May rallied several points from the lowest, with the market closing at a net decline of 5 to 12 points. Sales were estimated at about 48,000 bags. May 10.03; July 9.90; September 9.79; October 9.75; December, January and March 9.67.

Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 11@11¼. Santos 4s 14¾ to 15.

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK, April 24.—There was no change in the local raw sugar market today with Cubas for spot and May shipment quoted at 2.5.8 cents cost and freight, equal to 3.98 for centrifugal. There were sales of 13,000 bags of Cubas for May shipment to an operator at quoted prices.

Final prices were 1 to 3 points net lower. May 2.38; July 2.62; September 2.82; December 2.87.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 5.25 to 5.40 for fine granulated with trading light. Refined futures nominal; May 5.70; July 6.00; September 6.20.

NEFF PROGRAM TO BE OUT SOON

To Tell Plans at Early Date

Special to the Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, April 24.—Early in the coming campaign Governor Neff will submit to the people a constructive program covering his idea of needed legislation including law enforcement. He made this announcement today.

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, April 24.—One thousand people greeted Governor Neff on his arrival here to make the first speech he has ever made at Quanah.

V. J. Leibert, R. R. Gilliland and Tip Jones, reception committee, came with the governor from Chillicothe. An overflow audience greeted him at the Baptist church tonight. He was introduced by John C. Marshall, former representative. Many women were in the audience. Neff dealt in the main with the topics handled earlier in the day.

He Specializes in Flying Upside Down; Here for Air Circus

Cyle Horchem, sportsman of the air, who has a national repufation, accompanied by Mrs. Horchem, who is herself no stranger to air craft and long air trips, arrived Monday afternoon from the Texas border, according to officials of the American Legion Air meet, who welcomed the fliers at the close of their trip.

The Horchems, whose home is in Pueblo, Colorado, where Horchem is engaged in the commercial end of aviation, will remain in Wichita Falls this week, and will be preparing for the meet. They drove a Laird Swallow on this trip, and made the fly from Dallas to Wichita Falls in the rain.

Horchem has five planes in his commercial flying line, and states that he expected to have at least three of them entered in the coming meet. He himself is a stunt flyer, and features upside down flying. He has announced his intention of entering every event in the meet. He specializes in upside down flying, and is known as the "Human Squirrel."

The ship which he and his wife are using this trip is a Laird Swallow, especially built for stunt flying and for speed. Another one of his ships, another Laird Swallow, and specially built, is enameled white, with nickel trimmings, and is labeled, "Dove of Peace." In flight it is said to resemble a score of mirrors, fastened at different angles.

Unbelief Leads to Hell, Scarborough Tells Congregation

There are 260 chapters of scripture in the New Testament, and out of this number, 234 speak of hell. Even Jesus himself spoke many times regarding this place, and any man who says there is no hell literally says the Son of God is a liar. In this story concerning Lazarus and the rich man, both lived in the same world until death, then there was separation, not because one was rich and the other poor, but because one was save, and the other lost. Unbelief leads to hell without fail. In this the only message ever sent from hell, Luke XVI, we find that death cannot destroy the memory of the soul. Throughout eternity there will be the consciousness of your rejection of the Son of God and your soul's endless condemnation. In this life God says go to the Christian, and come to the lost. In eternity, the order of command is the reverse, come to me.

This was taken from the sermon of Dr. Scarborough, preached last night at the First Baptist church. This was one of the most forceful sermons of the revival thus far. The main auditorium was crowded with people, many of whom were from other churches of the city.

Mrs. E. W. Enos and Mrs. J. M. Schafer sang a duet. Special music for each service.

Tonight, Dr. Scarborough will have for his subject, "Christians warming themselves at the devil's fire." He uses the scripture for the basis of all his messages.

Irish Strike Ends With No Disorders

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—It was after 10 o'clock tonight that messages from Southern Ireland which today had been plunged into complete silence by a one day strike of labor in protest against the chaos threatening the country, allayed London's anxiety that the anniversary of the 1916 rising would be marked byb extensive disorders.

The strike ended at 9 o'clock this evening and the telegraph and telephone wires immediately began bringing in the connecting news from Dublin and Cork that there had been no disorders and nothing more untoward than the posting in Dublin of a bogus proclamation of an Irish workers' republic. From the standpoint of labor the strike was entirely successful, as all transport and wire communication ceased throughout the day and business was entirely suspended in Dublin and Cork.

Labor Party to Back Neff Fight

DALAS, April 24.—Representatives of the state federation of labor, four railroad brotherhoods, the farm labor union and the non-partisan league union constituting four units of a conference organized to make a survey of the political situation and report on candidates will declare "hands off" in the campaign for the United States senator when the conference meets here tomorrow, it was forecast tonight.

It is said to be likely that indorsement will be given some candidate who will oppose Governor Pat M. Neff for renomination at the democratic primary in July.

RADIO BROADCASTS BRIDAL KISS FROM CLOUDS; MISS BLUSH

NEW YORK, April 24.—A nuptial kiss planted five thousand feet in the clouds above Times Square was broadcast from the cockpit of a speeding airplane to the ears of thousands of radio fans late today when Miss Sarah Colefair, Brooklyn nurse, and Albert P. Schaske, athletic direction of the veterans mountain camp, became man and wife.

Lieutenant Belvin W. Mayard, the "flying parson," performed the ceremony. Lieutenant Bert Acosta piloted the party in a bi-plane and at the appropriate moment, affixed his signature to the marriage document and turned his back on the bridal kiss.

Each detail of the ceremony, except the blush, was transmitted to radio fans by appartus on the plane.

More Heavy Rains In West Texas in Past 24 Hours

Reports from towns covering West Texas and the Panhandle indicate that the rainfall during the past two days has totaled more than two inches in most sections. Although the downpour of Saturday night assured stockmen of sufficient range water, the added fall of yesterday and last week increased the supply and streams which had ceased to flow are now showing their old time form.

The heaviest fall seemed to be in the vicinity of Childress where more than three inches was recorded. The Pecos Valley country also received a deluge which may interfere with rail traffic if the Colorado continues to rise much longer at the rate reported Monday.

Amarillo, Canyon and San Angelo were well soaked also.

The drought seems to be well broken and both ranchers and agricultural prospects are now brighter than anticipated last week.

FLIVVER DOES NOT JUSTIFY DIVORCE IN WASHINGTON COURT

By Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., April 24.—Because a husband will provide nothing more expensive than a flivver to haul his wife around in, is not sufficient grounds for divorce, it was decided in superior court today when Judge William D. Askren refused the petition of Mrs. Johanna Stevens, 62, against James tSevens, 71.

Hrs. Stevens on the witness stand testified that their domestic bark house was on the rocks when her husband insisted on driving a flivver.

AMERICAN SHIP SENT TO CHINA

Flagship Huron Is Sent in Hurry

MANILA, P. I., April 24.—The flagship Huron of the Asiatic squadron received rush orders today to sail for China because of disturbed conditions there.

All officers and men were ordered aboard the Huron tonight preparatory to departing tomorrow afternoon.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The orders to the Huron were understood tonight to be of a precautionary measure only in view of conditions in China. Should lives of Americans be endangered, it was pointed out, assistance could be rendered by the Huron although it is believed no landing orders are involved.

Making Progress in Small Case; Agree On One Juror in Day

By Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 24.—Governor Len Small of Illinois went on trial here today charged with conspiracy to embezzle state funds. At the close of the first day's work one juror had been tentatively accepted by both state and defense, one tentatively passed by the defense and 22 dismissed for causes that ranged from inability to understand English, to possession of a fixed opinion as to the governor's guilt or innocence.

Cheered by what they considered a successful opening day, both sides tonight predicted that the jury can be obtained within a week or ten days instead of the earlier estimates of three or four weeks.

Theodore Goldschmidt, a Waukegan wholesale fruit dealer, is the only juror who has been tentatively passed by both sides.

Peru is celebrating the centenary of its independence from Spain.

WHEAT PRICES ARE SETBACK

Imports From Canada Affect Market

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Wheat underwent an all around setback in prices today owing largely to evidence that wheat imports from Canada, duty paid, had begun. The market here closed unsettled, 3-4c to 2c net lower, with May 1.45 3-4 to 1.45 7-8 and July 1.23 3-8 to 1.23 1-2. Oats finished 1-4 to 3-8@1-2 down, oats off 1-4@3-8 to 1-2c, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 7c advance.

With arrivals of Canadian wheat at Minneapolis announced as commanding prices there which showed a profit, wheat traders here became somewhta skeptical about continued lack of supplies in Chicago to fill May contracts. This was especially the case inasmuch as liberal further shipments from Canada were predicted if high prices on this side of the border should warrant. Besides, receipts in Chicago today totalled 200 carloads, an amount far in excess of what has been the rule here of late. Under such circumstances, an early advance in the price of May delivery here failed to last, and the market soon turned weak for that month as well as for July and September.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat despite demand for corn at the seaboard and large exports sales of oats.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs and grain.

HIGH RECORD IN SALE OF STOCKS

Quoted Values Go Up at Outset

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Various issues of a miscellaneous character were included among the new high records made in the stock market today although the sessions operations were characterized by much irregularity, due largely to professional pressure.

Quoted values tended mainly upward at the outset, but the rise met with extensive offerings of steels, popular oils, motors and allied specialties, utilities and several of the dividend paying rails, effacing much of the initial advance.

Short selling was invited by last Saturday's address of the comptroller of the currency before banking interests, in which the allied extravagance and speculation on the stock exchange was depreciated on the ground that it might cause a diversion of funds from productive enterprise.

Local financiers were not in accord with the views of the comptroller, affirming their belief that the recent uprush of market values was predicted on signs of general business and industrial revival. It was also declared that moneys now employed in Wall street in no way restricted or curtailed offerings for commercial purposes.

New Haven was one of the day's consistently strong features, retaining nearly all of its extreme rise of four points, but other rails of the same class eased. Among the few other substantial gains were Federal Mining and Smelting preferred, and Columbia graphophone.

COTTON MART CLOSES STEADY

Interest Centering in May Position

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—An early advance in the cotton market was attributed to reports of unseasonable low temperatures in the south, but after selling at $18.04 for May and $17.76 for October, or about 12 to 19 points net higher, there were reactions under realizing. October sold off to $17.62 and closed at $17.66, with the general market closing steady at a net advance of one to 17 points. Interest seemed to center largely on the May position. There was some scattering liquidation of the near months at the start, but it was readily absorbed and after selling at 30 points over July the premium widened to about 35 points on covering.

It was estimated on the floor that notices likely to be issued against May tomorrow night total in the neighborhood of 20,000 bales and there were reiterated rumors that more cotton would come here before the end of next month, possibly in the neighborhood of 40,000 bales. The early offerings of May were readily enough absorbed to create an impression among local traders that the notices would be stopped, however, and May held relatively steady in the late trading, closing at 17.90, or within 5 points of the best.

The opening was two points lower on May but generally 3 to 11 points higher and the market showed considerable firmness right after the call on the steady showing of Liverpool, talk of too much rain in Oklahoma and apprehensions of further delays in the new crop start as a result of low temperatures or Mississippi floods. Trading was quite active on the advance but buyers seemed to hesitate as prices approached the 18 cent level for May contracts and when the buying tapered off, the market turned a shade easier under realizing. The close was a few points up from the lowest on renewed covering.

Private cables said the failure to reach an agreement on the question of Lancashire wages was restricting general business, but reported continued good spot demand. Exports today were 4,720 bales, making 4,657,630 so far this season. Port receipts 21,338. U. S. port stocks 942,833.

COFFEE REACTS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Scattering liquidation of May contracts in preparation for possible notices on Wednesday led to reactions in the market for coffee futures today. The opening was one point lower to three points higher with late months relatively steady on a little trade buying or buying against sales of near deliveries.

May soon eased off to 9.94, or 21 points net lower, however, and September eased off to 9.80 or 4 points below the closing quotation of last week. NEFF PROGRAM TO BE OUT SOON

To Tell Plans at Early Date

Special to the Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, April 24.—Early in the coming campaign Governor Neff will submit to the people a constructive program covering his idea of needed legislation including law enforcement. He made this announcement today.

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, April 24.—One thousand people greeted Governor Neff on his arrival here to make the first speech he has ever made at Quanah.

V. J. Leibert, R. R. Gilliland and Tip Jones, reception committee, came with the governor from Chillicothe. An overflow audience greeted him at the Baptist church tonight. He was introduced by John C. Marshall, former representative. Many women were in the audience. Neff dealt in the main with the topics handled earlier in the day.

He Specializes in Flying Upside Down; Here for Air Circus

Cyle Horchem, sportsman of the air, who has a national reputation, accompanied by Mrs. Horchem, who is herself no stranger to air craft and long air trips, arrived Monday afternoon from the Texas border, according to officials of the American Legion Air meet, who welcomed the fliers at the close of their trip.

The Horchems, whose home is in Pueblo, Colorado, where Horchem is engaged in the commercial end of aviation, will remain in Wichita Falls this week, and will be preparing for the meet. They drove a Laird Swallow on this trip and made the fly from Dallas to Wichita Falls in the rain.

Horchem has five planes in his commercial flying line, and states that he expected to have at least three of them entered in the coming meet. He himself is a stunt flyer, and features upside down flying. He has announced his intention of entering every event in the meet. He specializes in upside down flying, and is known as the "Human Squirrel."

The ship which he and his wife are using this trip is a Laird Swallow, especially built for stunt flying, and for speed. Another one of his ships, another Laird Swallow, and specially built, is enameled white, with nickel trimmings, and is labeled, "Dove of Peace." In flight it is said to resemble a score of mirrors, fastened at different angles.

Unbelief Leads to Hell, Scarborough Tells Congregation

There are 260 chapters of scripture in the New Testament, and out of this number, 254 speak of hell. Even Jesus himself made many times regarding this place, and any man who says there is no hell literally says the Son of God is a liar. In this story concerning Lazarus and the rich man, both lived in the same world until death, then there was separation, not because one was rich and the other poor, but because one was save and the other lost. Unbelief leads to hell without fail. In this the only message ever sent from hell. Luke XVI, we find that death cannot destroy the memory of the soul. Throughout eternity there will be the consciousness of your rejection of the Son of God and your soul's endless condemnation. In this life God says go to the Christian, and come to the lost. In eternity, the order of command is the reverse.

This was taken from the sermon of Dr. Scarborough, preached last night at the First Baptist church. This was one of the most forceful sermons of the revival thus far. The main auditorium was crowded with people, many of whom were from other churches of the city.

Mrs. E. W. Enos and Mrs. J. M. Schafer sang a duet. Special music for each service.

Tonight, Dr. Scarborough will have for his subject, "Christians warming themselves at the devil's fire." He uses the scripture for the basis of all his messages.

Irish Strike Ends With No Disorders

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—It was after 10 o'clock tonight that messages from Southern Ireland which today had been plunged into complete silence by a one day strike of labor in protest against the chaos threatening the country, allayed London's anxiety that the anniversary of the 1916 rising would be marked by extensive disorders.

The strike ended at 9 o'clock this evening and the telegraph and telephone wires immediately began bringing in the comforting news from Dublin and Cork that there had been no disorders and nothing more untoward than the posting in Dublin of a bogus proclamation of an Irish workers' republic. From the standpoint of labor the strike was entirely successful, as all transport and wire communication ceased throughout the day and business was entirely suspended in Dublin and Cork.

Labor Party to Back Neff Fight

DALAS, April 24.—Representatives of the state federation of labor, four railroad brotherhoods, the farm labor union and the non-partisan league union constituting four units of a conference organized to make a survey of the political situation and report on candidates will declare "hands off" in the campaign for the United States senator when the conference meets here tomorrow, it was forecast tonight.

It is said to be likely that indorsement will be given some candidate who will oppose Governor Pat M. Neff for renomination at the democratic primary in July.

RADIO BROADCASTS BRIDAL KISS FROM CLOUDS; MISS BLUSH

NEW YORK, April 24.—A nuptial kiss planted five thousand feet in the clouds above Times Square was broadcast from the cockpit of a speeding airplane to the ears of thousands of radio fans late today when Miss Sarah Cokefair, Brooklyn nurse, and Albert P. Schaske, athletic direction of the veterans mountain camp, became man and wife.

Lieutenant Belvin W. Mayard, the "flying parson," performed the ceremony. Lieutenant Bert Acosta piloted the party in a bi-plane and at the appropriate moment, affixed his signature to the marriage document and turned his back on the bridal kiss.

Each detail of the ceremony, except the blush, was transmitted to radio fans by appartus on the plane.

PRESBYTERIAL AT WORK HERE

Business Taken Up This Morning

This morning the Women's Dallas Presbyterial of the Southern Presbyterian church in session commencing Monday night, at the Central Presbyterian church, will take up the business of this annual meeting. Added to the score or more of delegates who arrived Monday afternoon and evening, will be a number of others, from various counties of the district, and there will be a total of between 40 and 50 delegates and visitors.

At noon luncheons will be served at the church for the visitors. The morning is to be featured by the president's message, and the appointment of committees.

Tonight Miss Esther B. Matthews, Mokpo, Korea, will deliver the principal address on foreign missions. An invitation is extended to the women of other denominations to attend these programs, and a day full of interest is promised.

Monday night the presbyterial opened with a communion service. E. S. Goodner of the local church extended greetings to the Presbytery, and Dr. J. D. Leslie of Dallas, synodical superintendent, made an address.

More Heavy Rains In West Texas in Past 24 Hours

Reports from towns covering West Texas and the Panhandle indicate that the rainfall during the past two days has totaled more than two inches in most sections. Although the downpour of Saturday night assured stockmen of sufficient range water, the added fall of yesterday and last week increased the supply and streams which had ceased to flow are now showing their old time form.

The heaviest fall seemed to be in the vicinity of Childress where more than three inches was recorded. The Pecos Valley country also received a deluge which may interfere with rail traffic if the Colorado continues to rise much longer at the rate reported Monday.

Amarillo, Canyon and San Angelo were well soaked also.

The drought seems to be well broken and both ranchers and agricultural prospects are now brighter than anticipated last week.

FLIVVER DOES NOT JUSTIFY DIVORCE IN WASHINGTON COURT

By Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., April 24.—Because a husband will provide nothing more expensive than a flivver to haul his wife around in, is not sufficient grounds for divorce, it was decided in superior court today when Judge William D. Askren refused the petition of Mrs. Johanna Stevens, 62, against James tSevens, 71.

Hrs. Stevens on the witness stand testified that their domestic bark house was on the rocks when her husband insisted on driving a flivver.

AMERICAN SHIP SENT TO CHINA

Flagship Huron Is Sent in Hurry

MANILA, P. I., April 24.—The flagship Huron of the Asiatic squadron received rush orders today to sail for China because of disturbed conditions there.

All officers and men were ordered aboard the Huron tonight preparatory to departing tomorrow afternoon.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The orders to the Huron were understood tonight to be of a precautionary measure only in view of conditions in China. Should lives of Americans be endangered, it was pointed out, assistance could be rendered by the Huron although it is believed no landing orders are involved.

Making Progress in Small Case; Agree On One Juror in Day

By Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 24.—Governor Len Small of Illinois went on trial here today charged with conspiracy to embezzle state funds. At the close of the first day's work one juror had been tentatively accepted by both state and defense, one tentatively passed by the defense and 22 dismissed for causes that ranged from inability to understand English, to possession of a fixed opinion as to the governor's guilt or innocence.

Cheered by what they considered a successful opening day, both sides tonight predicted that the jury can be obtained within a week or ten days instead of the earlier estimates of three or four weeks.

Theodore Goldschmidt, a Waukegan wholesale fruit dealer, is the only juror who has been tentatively passed by both sides.

Peru is celebrating the centenary of its independence from Spain.

COPS MAY GET RICH REWARD

Capture Car and Men Here

Less than two hours after two alleged bandits were known to have stolen a Ford sedan at Lawton, Okla., George C. Croston and F. Simon, two young men, about 23 years old, had been put behind steel bars in Wichita Falls Monday morning, in connection with the car theft, while the care was in the custody of authorities.

A reward of $100 offered for the recovery of the vehicle and $1,000 offered for the arrest of the two men, may go to the local police who participated in the arrests.

Wichita Falls police officials received a call from Lawton early Monday morning, stating that two youths were headed this way, in the stolen auto. Stationing themselves at the bridge of the Wichita river, near the city, Officers Glenn, Belcher, Davis and Smart surrounded the Ford sedan as it was driven onto the bridge and placed Croston and Simon under arrest.

The officers used two cars in making the capture, one vehicle being placed at one end of the bridge, while the second was placed at the other extremity. As the youths drove on the bridge, the car at the end nearest Wichita Falls headed on the structure and blocked their passage, while the one at the other end drove from behind and trapped them.

The alleged auto thieves surrendered without showing signs of fight. Neither drove a weapon when captured.

Officers found a kit of tools used in auto looting when the Ford was inspected, the kit containing a set of Oklahoma licenses for 1922, numbered "110—582," two new files, a screw driver, switch wires which were insulated and could be used in starting a car without a key, a set of car motor dies, a pair of insulated pliers and four decks of cards.

A piece of paper on which the plan of some dwelling had been drawn and which was also located in the kit, is being held by the officials for investigation.

On the two men the officers say they discovered four license receipts all giving different names and different numbers. One of the receipts had been dated at Bridgeport, Texas, where it is believed the two men live.

The vehicle in which they were riding at the time of their arrest was a new sedan, the motor numbers having been filed out, and new ones having been cast, the officers said.

HUMAN FLOWER GARDEN SCORES

Raindrops, Pansies Feature Tableau

Presenting a garden of human flowers as the feature entertainment at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday, Episcopal church singers appeared in an unusual performance that met with hearty response from the Kiwanis club.

A stage had been erected in one end of the banquet room, and while Mrs. H. A. Allen presided at the piano and played, the curtains were slowly drawn, revealing a raindrop, a pansy, a carnation, a daisy, a rose and a jonquil.

In the center of each flower painted on the background of the setting appeared the face of a beautiful woman, each of whom sang in an appealing manner. One by one, the flowers rendered "An Old Fashioned Garden," "I'm a Lonesome Little Rain Drop," "Never Take a Walk With Mary," "When You Look in the Heart of a Rose," "In the Long, Long Ago," and "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland."

The cast included Mrs. James M. Williams, representing the carnation, Miss Denver Russell as the pansy, Mrs. J. W. King, the raindrop, Mrs. J. O. Ammann as the daisy, Miss Bernice Millican as the rose and Mrs. Perry Hancock as the jonquil. The committee directing the novel act included Mrs. Allen, Mrs. C. W. Reid, Mrs. Charles Pogenpohl, Mrs. R. H. Graham, Mrs. R. T. Crawford, Mrs. Daisy Almond, Mrs. Louella B. Thompson and Mrs. Emrett K. Jones.

In the course of the business meeting of the Kiwanians, the club gave a rising vote of thanks to "Bud" Foerster, retiring manager of the Kemp cafe department, who responded in a short talk, thanking the club for the courtesies extended him.

Election of delegates to attend the international Kiwanis convention will be held at the meeting Monday.

KIWANIS CLUB TO AID SCHOOL

Mrs. Weldon Tells Austin Needs

That Austin school is badly in need of playground equipment, that funds should be raised to make the school more comfortable and more convenient for the patrons of the institution and that a number of children in dire circumstances are attending the school, Kiwanians were told by Mrs. Weldon of the Austin School Mothers' club at luncheon in the Kemp hotel Monday at noon.

Unanimous approval of a plan to co-operate with the club in securing playground equipment for the school and in helping the poorer students was the answer of the Kiwanians to Mrs. Weldon's remarks.

Mrs. Weldon declared that seating capacity for the students of the school is insufficient, and it was her statement that many children of the institution are undercad and underfed.

She outlined the needs of the school as follows:

A cafeteria to care for feeding the 1,300 students enrolled.

Seating space for such organizations as the Mothers' club.

A fund to aid the needy children in securing their education.

Playground equipment sufficient to care for the horde of students and make them more physically fit to study.

Twenty members of the Mothers' club were present at the luncheon, two of the student body being present and participating in the program. It was announced during the meeting that the club plans to organize a welfare council during the coming school year, whose duties it will be to ascertain the needs of the unfortunate students and help them.

An all-day banquet which will be held at Call Field May 6, concluded with a dance in the evening, was announced, it being said that the funds derived from the entertainment will go to Austin school.

Home People Endorse Guinn Williams

FOR CONGRESS
Thirteenth District
SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 13th

FOR CONGRESS
Thirteenth District
DEM. PRIMARY JULY 22nd

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE THIRTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

A congressman is to be elected in this District for the next two years. We present for your consideration the name of Senator Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas. We are his neighbors, living in the same county with him; most of us have known him intimately for several years. He is a life-long Democrat, always found in the ranks battling for the good of his country and party. He is an upright christian gentleman—one of the very best neighbors, and the truest friend one ever had. When his country called he was ever ready to answer the call; when his party called the Democratic hosts to arms to battle for its principles, its tenets, he asked no further questions, but with the Democrats' declaration of war in hand, his only inquiry was: "Where is the enemy that dares tread upon the people's right?" and the battle was on.

From his earliest boyhood the cry of the distressed found a sympathetic hearer and a ready helper in him. From his early youth to his present status, he has heeded the admonition: "Remember thy father and thy mother." As a business man he adopted as his slogan: "Honesty is the best policy," and on this principle, adding to it economy and industry; he has succeeded. His neighbors have always found him ready to help them to bear their burdens. As an officer in the county, he applied the same principles as he used in his own business and succeeded in honoring the office, as well as the office honoring him. As a thinker and statesman we point you to his record from his earliest manhood, culminating in his record as a Senator.

Having a splendid personality and a happy way of meeting people, armed with a great fund of business and political information, and a diplomatic mind, no wonder on entering upon his duties as a Senator he at once took front rank. His great work and service in the Senate will appeal to all men and women who believe in great Democratic principles; you will not be disappointed if he is elected. He has never disappointed anyone who put his trust in him.

ENDORSEMENT

We, the undersigned Democratic citizens of Wise county, Texas, hereby endorse Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas, as a candidate for Congress from the Thirteenth Congressional District of Texas, and will do all in our power to fairly and honestly secure his nomination at the Democratic Primary Election to be held July 22, 1922, and we pledge ourselves at all proper times and places to work, talk and vote for his election.
