Business backs rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to pay nearly all Americans $50 picked up some support from businessmen today, as the initial legislative hearings on his $31.2-billion economic stimulus program neared an end.

The proposal for tax rebates, special Social Security and other payments has run into criticism in Congress and elsewhere. But a panel of business spokesmen expressed general agreement with the plan, principally on the basis that some help is needed quickly to offset the drain on incomes from layoffs and high fuel bills caused by the bitter winter.

"Most of us support it reluctantly," David L. Baker, president of the Machinery Dealers National Association, told the House Ways and Means Committee.

Charles E. Walker, former Treasury undersecretary and now chairman of the American Council for Capital Formation, a private business group, said he opposes rebates generally but sees Carter's proposal as "an effort to offset the depressive effect of the rigors of winter."

"Without the weather, I would not be for the rebate," he said.

The committee is holding three days of hearings this week on the Carter plan.

At the end of the hearings, members of the committee will begin making their own proposals for alterations of the Carter plan, which includes a proposed rebate of $50 to most Americans.

The committee has jurisdiction over the rebate and other tax proposals, totaling $13.8 billion, which make up the bulk of the economic boost Carter proposed for this year alone.

The legislation is expected to be approved in some form, although every component of the proposal has encountered some criticism during hearings already held.

Much of the criticism is of the tax rebate plan, a proposal aimed at pumping money into the economy in a hurry. An alternate proposal is for permanent tax cuts to inject fresh money into the economy over a longer period of time.

The Senate Budget Committee starts work Tuesday on reshaping the year's fiscal plan to make room for the expected additions from the Carter White House. The House committee already has approved more budget leeway than Carter asked, enough to add some $1.6 billion to his plans for programs designed to create jobs.

The extent to which the budget will be altered, however, depends on final actions by the full House and Senate.

Meanwhile, ethics questions raised by last year's allegations of financial irregularity continue to occupy the House.

Navy buddy Carter's pick to head CIA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is putting an old Navy schoolmate high on his list of possible nominees to head the Central Intelligence Agency.

Adm. Stansfield Turner, who attended the Naval Academy with Carter, "is one of the leading candidates" for the post, according to presidential assistant Hamilton Jordan.

Carter met with his Cabinet today but did not allow reporters to observe the session, as he has said he might. He also scheduled an Oval Office session with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Thomas B. Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

On Tuesday, Carter plans his first formal news conference as president. He has scheduled personal visits to government departments later in the week.

Jordan said Sunday night that Turner was among a handful being considered to head the CIA. Carter's first choice, Theodore Sorensen, withdrew Jan. 17 in the face of stiff Senate opposition.

Others who have been named as possible nominees include Bill D. Moyers, former top aide to Lyndon Johnson, and H. Enno Knoche, acting director of the CIA.

Carter told reporters a week ago that he was considering "six or seven" persons for the job. He said Knoche is "very competent" and added: "I'm not going to rush into it."

He said he wants to name someone outside the intelligence community.

Turner, 53, is visiting in the Washington area. The commander of NATO forces in Southern Europe, he was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1946. Carter was in the class of 1947.

The admiral is a former president of the Naval War College and commander of the Second Fleet. His naval career has been primarily on destroyers.

A Rhodes scholar, he was an aide to the secretary of the Navy from 1968 to 1970 and directed the systems analysis division in the office of the chief of naval operations before going to the war college.

Carter said last week he was considering opening Cabinet meetings to news coverage. Under past presidents, they have been closed except for an occasional public statement or for photographs.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Friday: "A final decision has been made in that the President has told me and everybody else involved he intends to do it."

But Powell added: "How we work it has not been worked out."

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, attended the baptism Sunday of their youngest child, 9-year-old Amy, who was fully immersed in a tank of water at the First Baptist Church.

Fire damages Baird home

The James Baird home at 3201 Cornell was heavily damaged by fire during the noon hour today.

Baird, a Cosden employe, was in the garage of the home working on his foreign car when the gas tank suddenly caught fire.

The fire quickly spread to the home and made its way to the attic. Smoke damage was extensive and fire damage was also heavy.

Although Mrs. Baird was in an hysterical condition in the yard of the residence and friends were attempting to take her to the doctor while the blaze was in progress, there were no injuries.

Winter's grip easing, gas situation better

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of thousands of laid-off workers and "vacationing" students headed back to jobs and classes today as the natural gas crunch eased a bit in the Northeast.

But icy temperatures persisted, threatening still more energy curbs, and much of the East and Midwest was still digging out from the heavy snows of an oppressive winter.

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded this morning in Minneapolis, Chicago and Cincinnati, and readings were well below freezing in New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia.

New York State negotiated a couple of deals to bring natural gas in from Canada and California, then announced that more than 2,000 industries, shut down when supplies were tight, could bring in their 200,000 employes today.

In addition, about half a million New Yorkers are returning to the gas-heated schools that were closed by Gov. Hugh Carey all last week.

But gas-heated businesses in Buffalo and some other hard-hit areas of the state remained closed.

Buffalo's ban on non-essential driving was still in effect, and the streets were still given over mostly to the 500 or so snowplows, snowblowers, bulldozers, dumptrucks and front-end loaders that have been shoveling away at millions of tons of snow.

Naval power race subject of administration proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — At President Carter's suggestion, defense officials are preparing possible proposals that could be made to the Russians in an effort to curb the race for naval power.

Discussing the naval buildup would be a new avenue for U.S.-Soviet arms control talks. Until now, negotiations have dealt with strategic nuclear weapons, such as long-range missiles and bombers, and with the ground- and air-power balance in Europe.

Pentagon officials also are exploring possible "signals" to the Russians, perhaps including withdrawal of small numbers of U.S. weapons from Europe, in an effort to promote a warmer atmosphere for the deadlocked talks on mutual reduction of forces in central Europe.

Sources said these ideas emerged from a long White House session a week ago when Carter and his top security and foreign policy advisers discussed issues bearing on the size of the defense budget.

After that meeting, a memorandum was circulated to key defense offices listing a range of subjects for preparation of special papers to be submitted to Carter.

The naval limitation idea, which sources said was raised by Carter, and the proposal for some possible moves to unfreeze the European force reduction impasse were among the most significant on the list.

Later, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance stressed the importance the administration attaches to reduction of conventional forces, an issue often overshadowed by problems of curbing strategic nuclear weaponry.

Vance said he expects conventional arms, "where most of the money is spent," to be on the agenda when he flies to Moscow late next month for talks with Kremlin leaders.

The Pentagon memo, following up last Monday's White House session, ordered officials to develop a "concept for naval forces limits that might be sought through discussion with the Soviets."

The growth of Soviet naval power has been a matter of concern to Pentagon officials over the past decade.

Adm. James L. Holloway, chief of naval operations, told Congress last week that the Navy still has a "slim margin of superiority over the Soviets" in areas of greatest importance.

But, Holloway warned, "at the current rate of improvement of their naval capability, the balance of maritime superiority will tip in favor of the Soviets within the next five to 10 years" unless the United States steps up modernization of its fleet.

Floods seen during thaw

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Weather Service warned today that a sudden break in the severe winter weather in the next month or two could trigger flooding in the eastern portion of the nation.

Robert M. White, administrator of the weather service, said that the danger is the result of the heavy freezing of rivers and lakes and thick snow cover in some areas.

A sudden thaw would trigger large runoffs of water, while the ice in the rivers could congest into dams backing up the water.

The Weather Service identified as areas with the highest flood potential the basin that drains into Lake Erie and Lake Ontario; the area served by tributaries of the Ohio River in western New York, western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and communities on the mainstream of the Ohio south to Cincinnati.

Identified as areas with a moderate potential of flood danger were central and eastern Pennsylvania and New York, all of New Jersey, western Maryland and the Ohio River drainage areas of Indiana and Illinois.

"It is too early to predict if flooding will occur, but common sense dictates that the public be kept aware of the problem on a continuing basis," White said in a statement.

"Of course, a more gradual thaw would minimize the problem," he added.

Man nabbed after chase

It took some trick shooting, but Johnny Lee Thomas, 37, 1106 NW 7th, is in custody for felony auto theft. Thomas was apparently driving a white '74 Ford stolen from Father Delaney at the Sacred Heart Church Saturday night, when he collided with a guard rail while headed south out of town. The incident was reported to Big Spring police by an alert CBer, who followed the car south on 87.

When police discovered the car was stolen, they notified the Highway Patrol, and officers David Jones and Ken Joyce set out in pursuit. Although the stolen car was reported 25 miles south of town at the time the THP car was dispatched, they apparently caught up to the fleeing car two miles north of Sterling City.

According to David Jones, officers tried, with a Sterling City police car assisting, to escort the white car to the edge of the road, but the driver persisted in trying to escape.

According to Jones, because of oncoming traffic officers were forced to shoot out the tires on the speeding car, thus forcing Thomas into the right ditch.

Charges were filed Saturday night with J.P. Gus Ochotorena. Thomas is being held in county jail under $7,500 bond.

TRAPPED — An accident at the intersection of S 87 and Hearne St. at 9:33 a.m. today saw Mrs. Christine Hollis James, 4109 Muir, trapped in her pickup. It was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by William Horace McMullan, 4116 Bilger. Police Patrolmen Robert Sims and Allen Parrish are shown above, prying open the pickup door. Shown below, John Turk and Joe Angel, attendants for Alert Ambulance, are placing a neck brace on the injured woman. She was taken to Medical Arts Hospital where she is reported in fair condition.

Building increases

LAMESA — New construction and remodeling work surged way up druing the month of January, with city building permits approaching the quarter of a million mark.

Building permits totaled $224,510 for the first month of 1977, highest such figure in many years in this city.

Permits for the first month of 1976 were only $43,300 while in 1975, the total was $19,570. In 1974, permits totaled $72,300 and in 1973, the total was only $2,625.

Included in the permits were four new homes being built on a speculation basis. One is being constructed by Jean Tapley on NE Hartford while three are being erected by K-Mac Builders in the recently annexed Crestview Subdivision.

Permits also included a new building for the Lamesa Cable TV and six remodeling permits were also issued.

For the first time in years, Lamesans have an opportunity to consider new home sites as several new additions have now been brought into the city limits.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It's the law

Q: Isn't there a city ordinance against leaving old wrecked cars abandoned around the streets of the city? If so, why doesn't the city do something about them? How do we go about registering a complaint?

A: The ordinance says that no car can be left 48 hours on a city street and may be towed away. During December, many were towed off in a concentrated effort. The city cannot haul off junked cars on private property without permission of the owners. Anyone wishing to file a complaint may call the police department.

STANFIELD, Ore. (AP) — An ordinance making it illegal for pets to mate in public has gone to the dogs, city officials say.

Authorities haven't enforced the celebrated May 1975 law which could land the owner of an amorous animal in jail for as long as 25 days, said Jim Dickason, recorder in this northeast Oregon community.

"We kind of let it bury itself back in the annals of history," Dickason said. "Some people made a lot of money on it. They were selling T-shirts, hats, sweatshirts."

When the law was adopted, Mayor Charles Huxoll commented, "There's a lot of that (pets mating in public) going around and besides, almost everybody here has a picture window in his house."

Gas profits said 'astronomical'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Natural gas distributors may reap up to 100 per cent increases in first-quarter profits because of this winter's bitter cold, say utility officials and investment analysts.

But they say a call-to-arms by outraged consumers would be premature because the profit bulge is likely to disappear amid shortages later in the year.

"Profits will be astronomical," said a spokesman for the Buffalo, N.Y.-based National Fuel Gas Co., which serves 665,000 customers in Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio. "But the main reason for that is because we're selling most of our gas in the first quarter."

Foster Corwith, a natural gas specialist for Standard and Poor's investment service, said he expects some companies to report first-quarter profit increases of 100 per cent over last year.

H.A. Offutt, treasurer for fourth-ranked Consolidated Natural Gas Co. of Wilmington, Del., said his firm is now pulling gas out of storage that normally would not have been used until March.

"Sure, we're selling more gas now, and we're going to make profits on it, but unless we can find additional supplies for the last three quarters we're going to be losing then," he said.

These developments have not been lost on investors. Prices for natural gas stocks began a steady rise when it became apparent the unusually cold winter would mean increased gas sales and profits.

For example, while Standard and Poor's index, which measures the activity of 500 stocks, changed little from Dec. 1 to Jan. 26, the index for natural gas distributors' stocks jumped from 77.26 to 87.13.

But Corwith said utility stocks may have peaked because investors are already looking ahead to what will probably be a more normal winter next year. "This is a one-time spurt. It's not the type of growth that can be sustained," he said.

Not only are utilities selling more gas, they're selling more of it now to their most profitable customers — residential users.

According to Standard and Poor's, the average rate for residential users over the 12-month period ending September 1976 was $1.91 per million British thermal units. For industrial customers, the rate was $1.22 per million BTUs.

Because of the freeze that has hit the eastern half of the country, gas deliveries to thousands of industrial users have been curtailed to provide enough gas for home use.

Lucky sailor ends solo voyage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A plucky Japanese seaman, who risked death to make his sailing dream come true, guided his crippled 26-foot craft through the Golden Gate to end his solo voyage across the Pacific.

Tomio Ikegawa, 25, weary from his accident-plagued journey, stood barefoot Sunday night aboard the blue "Seagull's Friend," waving to about 60 reporters and well-wishers as a Coast Guard cutter escorted him to port.

Arriving 120 days after leaving Japan, he surprised reporters when he ducked into his cabin and emerged with a camera to snap pictures of the gathered crowd.

In the tradition of adventurers everywhere, the bearded young sailor, answering through an interpreter, said he made his solo trip "because I wanted to do it."

Gifts were waiting for the grinning Ikegawa as he ended his 4,600-mile mission — a bottle of West Indian rum from a fellow sailor here, a halfbottle of wine, some cheesecake and a bit of leftover steak.

"I thank all you people. You've been so nice. But I'm very tired," he said shyly. He was to spend the night in his boat and check in with customs in the morning.

With only two year's sea experience, Ikegawa set sail from Ehime, Japan, last Oct. 10, planning a seven-week trip to San Francisco. But his boat's mast was broken Nov. 24 in stormy 60-foot seas.

Ikegawa, a carpenter in a boatyard in Japan, said he rigged a makeshift mast to continue the trip, using his engine occasionally to correct course.

He had stored provisions, mostly rice, for 72 days, but ran out of water the last week and sipped sea water to survive. Still, he said, he managed to gain weight.

Ikegawa's damaged boat was spotted last Thursday by a fishing trawler and towed by a Coast Guard cutter into port at Fort Bragg, a tiny coastal community about 120 miles north of here. The stubborn sailor set sail again after only 15 hours in port, turning thumbs down on an offered auto ride to San Francisco.

The harrowing trip across the world's largest ocean has inspired the young man onward. He said he plans to travel the Pacific again to return home.

"I want to go to Japan by sail," the young mariner said.

Road building under fire

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County commissioners are not in the habit of seeking an attorney general's opinion each time one of them begins a road building project, according to commissioner David Pickett.

Pickett's comments Sunday were in response to a Dallas Times Herald story that a road building policy adopted in 1975 by the commissioners is in direct conflict with a series of legal opinions by Texas attorneys general dating back to 1947.

In its Sunday editions, the newspaper said the policy has served as the springboard for hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of road construction and other projects in a number of Dallas County suburbs for which the cities have provided the material and the county the men and machinery.

In addition, the newspaper reported, at least two of the commissioners, Pickett and Roy Orr, have used the policy to sanction other "miscellaneous" projects, ranging from the paving of a number of cemetery roads in Pickett's district to surfacing a high school track in Orr's hometown of De-Soto, a Dallas suburb.

Interviews with several key officials, the newspaper said, indicates that the commissioners did not seek a legal opinion from either the attorney general's office or the Dallas County disrict attorney's office on the policy at the time it was drafted.

In opinions issued in 1947 and again in 1974, the newspaper said, the attorney general's office consistently ruled that commissioners have no authority to carry out road and bridge work within incorporated areas unless it involves work on roads that "form a part of the county road system or connecting links in a county."

Pickett said he was unaware of the attorney general's opinions mentioned by the paper.

According to the opinions, no other work involving the use of county road and bridge funds, county workers or county equipment is authorized in municipalities, except for projects intended to prevent soil erosion, the newspaper reported.

Opinions of attorneys general in Texas do not carry the force of law. However, they are given great weight in courts of law. State law permits commissioners to seek legal interpetations of proposed policies from the attorney general to insure that they conform with state law.

Pickett, the newspaper said, has ordered construction of several new streets in the northeast suburb of Rowlett "that from all appearances, are residential streets."

The newspaper said the streets cost the county $224,540 in material alone—more than six times what Rowlett residents paid in 1976 county taxes.

"That's false information," Pickett said Sunday. "It's more like $150,000 over a three or four year period. I don't know what the people of Rowlett pay in taxes but over that period it would probably break even."

Demand for tags remains steady

County Tax-Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar reported today that sales of license plates are continuing heavy, despite running fractionally behind last year's totals. Money collected for the new plates thus far this year totals $48,764.55. Total funds received at this point in 1976 were $49,743.25.

The new plates will be sold through March at the county courthouse.

Stolen van recovered

Howard County sheriff's chief deputy Bill Whitton reported the recovery of a van stolen in Midland and license plates taken from Durant, Okla. The recovery was made Friday when deputies found the new van abandoned 10 miles south of Big Spring. The van, which had been missing since Jan. 31, had a blown rod.

Sheriff A.N. Standard pointed out that the van was wearing the stolen Oklahoma plates, although the odometer showed only 126 miles added. The plates were reported stolen from a blowing alley parking lot. The van was valued at $9,904, and will be returned to Midland.

Sheriff's deputies also recovered stereo equipment and other items lost in the Dec. 27, 1976 burglary of the Randy Thornhill residence, Rt. 2, Box 28. A 19-inch portable Zenith TV was recovered jointly with Big Spring police as a part of the ongoing investigation.

Standard said that the property recovered had been lost in connection with one of the northwest burglaries which plagued law enforcement officers in late 1976. Standard added that he hopes this progress will lead to a solution of the cases.

Man gets 20 years for injuring child

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas jury has given the maximum 20-year prison term to a man found guilty of causing serious bodily injury to his 18-month-old son by biting the baby's lip, fingers and toes.

Jurors in a state district court set punishment Thursday for Robert Smith, 22, after deliberating 15 minutes. Deliberations on finding Smith guilty of causing injury to a child lasted 12 minutes.

A statement Smith gave investigating officers shortly after the incident was reported Oct. 19 indicated he "got the urge to bite him (the baby) and started biting him on all his fingers."

Later, Smith said in the statement, he bit the child on the upper lip, toes and fingers when he got mad at the baby. He said in the statement that he and his 18-year-old wife removed most of the baby's fingernails and toenails when his toes and fingers became infected.

Up-to-date tax guide available at library

Tax time is at hand. In the midst of new tax reforms and possible rebates, it is ever more confusing to try filling in one's own (now changed) tax forms. Even the old short form 1040 is a challenge.

The Howard County Library has the most up to date service in the "Commercial Clearing House's Master Tax Guide" and "Reports." This service covers the tax laws in three volumes including the interpretations which have been handed down pertaining to those laws.

In addition, there is a book devoted to explaining and providing coherent information for the tax returns of the year. All four of these volumes are updated as needed, usually several times a month. The set is thoroughly indexed so that the information needed is easy to find.

Another big help from CCH is the "Federal Tax Forms." This service makes all tax forms available to the harried preparer who cannot find the correct form on which to report his rental income or his moving expense or his farm equipment depreciation. These forms may be xeroxed and used as legal forms. Don't run all over town looking for the right form, they are all at the library with accompanying instructions.

A number of special interest booklets are also available on such topics as the "1976 Tax Reform Bill," "Deduction for Child and dependent care," "Comprehensive Private Pension Security Bill of 1973," "Pension Reform Act of 1974," and examples of filled-in tax return forms for individuals and corporation partnership and fiduciary.

Available to check out are some copies of the 1977 edition of J.K. Lasser's "Your Income Tax." This short step by step guide is a valuable aid to preparing one's own return or to being aware of the advantages of different ways of preparation.

Reagan wants new GOP party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan called Saturday night for a "New Republican Party," rebuilt on conservative principles and shed of its country club image.

"My friends," Reagan told the Conservative Political Action Conference, "the time has come to start acting to bring about the great conservative majority party we know is waiting to be created."

Although some of the ideas in his speech at a "Salute to Ronald and Nancy Reagan" dinner had been floated earlier, it was the first comprehensive presentation of his blueprint for the conservative future and his strongest personal assertion of leadership since his presidential campaign died just short of nomination last August.

Reagan said the answer for conservatives is not to start a third party but to seize and restructure the GOP.

"I believe the political success of the principles we believe in can best be achieved in the Republican party," Reagan said. "I believe the Republican party can and should provide the political mechanism through which the goals of the majority of Americans can be achieved.

"For one thing," he said in his text, "the biggest single grouping of conservatives is to be found in that party. It makes more sense to build on that grouping than to break it up and start over.

"Rather than start a third party, we can have a new first party made up of people who share our principles."

Reagan has suggested that the Republicans look for a new name, but he said in the meantime he would call the dreamed of conservative majority "The New Republican Party."

"The New Republican Party I envision will not, and cannot, be one limited to the country club-big business image that it is burdened with today," the former California governor said.

"The New Republican Party I am speaking about is going to have room for the man and woman in the factories, for the farmer, for the cop on the beat and the millions of Americans who may never have thought of joining our party before but whose interests coincide with those represented by principled Republicans," he said.

Reagan also said the foundation of the new version of the party should be the conservative platform which his followers hammered through the 1976 Republican convention.

Reagan pictured a political majority built on a grass-roots, populist conservatism, resting on economic rugged individualism, an aversion to social engineering and a demand for military strength.

Blacks murder missionaries

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Black guerrillas murdered seven white Roman Catholic missionaries, four of them nuns, in an attack Sunday night on a mission 36 miles north of Salisbury, a church spokesman said today.

The victims included three Britons, three West Germans and an Irishman rounded up and shot at the Church's Musami mission, the spokesman said.

Pope Paul VI expressed "profound grief" at the killings. A telegram of condolence sent in his behalf by Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot to Archbishop Patrick Chakaipa of Salisbury said the Pope "denounces this deplorable act of violence perpetrated against seven messengers of Christ's love."

Chakaipa, Rhodesia's first black Catholic archbishop, said those responsible for the killings "make a mockery of whatever good ideals they claim to serve."

Two Jesuit priests, a Jesuit lay brother and four Dominican nuns were slain and a fourth Jesuit was wounded, but not seriously, the church spokesman said.

Two of the priests and one of the nuns were British, the other three nuns were Germans and the Jesuit brother was Irish, church officials reported.

The mission staff also included another white brother and another white nun. The spokesman said it was not known where they were at the time of the attack, but they were thought to be safe.

The attack was the most serious against the missionary community during the four-year guerrilla war to end white rule in Rhodesia. On Dec. 5, a lone guerrilla killed a retired Catholic bishop, a priest and a nun after stopping their car in western Rhodesia and demanding money. Another nun was wounded but escaped by pretending to have been killed.

The Roman Catholic Church has been a frequent critic of Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority government and has accused the security forces of atrocities against black guerrillas taken prisoner.

Bishop Chakaipa said those killed at Musami were "friends and servants of the African people.

Meanwnile, 333 black Rhodesian teenage students allegedly kidnaped by black guerrillas and taken to Botswana have refused to return home, reporters in the neighboring country reported.

About 140 parents went to Francistown, Botswana, to meet with their children Sunday at the district commissioner's office. But reporters at the scene said only 51 of the 384 students returned.

"We know our mothers were intimidated by (Prime Minister Ian) Smith's government to come pick us up against their will," one student reportedly said. "This has been confirmed by a number of parents in our private discussions with them."

DWAIN McMILLAN

McMillan is sales boss

Dwain McMillan has been named sales manager of Treanor Equipment Co., according to an announcement by Paul Moore, vice president sales.

McMillan, 48, is a native of Oklahoma. After service in the Seabees during World War II, he attended College of Sequoias in California. He joined Treanor Equipment Co., then a California firm, in 1948 as a sales representative.

In 1956, after Treanor Equipment Co. had moved to Texas, McMillan was appointed manager of Treanor's Odessa branch, a position he held until 1964. He then moved to Abilene as Sales Promotion Manager. It is from this position that he advances to Sales Manager.

Active in conservation, McMillan was named Business Professional Man of the Year by Director of the Middle Clear Fork Soil and Water Conservation District. His work has produced several booklets and seminars on mechanical brush control and reseeding.

Treanor Equipment Co. sells and services Caterpillar equipment in 40 counties in West Texas, including Howard, from headquarters in Abilene and a branch in Odessa.

Carroll Moore named fellow

The inductions boosted the Academy membership to 7,783. The Academy is the nation's largest medical organization for specialists in bone and joint surgery. To be eligible for induction, all Fellows must have passed the certifying examination of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Shawn Davis to teach horsemanship, rodeo

DENVER, Colo. — Shawn Davis, three-time world champion saddle bronc rider in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, has turned from cowboy and cattleman to college "professor."

The 35-year-old competitor, originally from Whitehall, Mont., has accepted a teaching position with the College of Southern Idaho at Twin Falls where he'll instruct students in horsemanship and rodeo.

"We're going to build the best rodeo team in the country," Davis said.

And he might do it. Davis earned his world titles in 1965, '67 and '68. He was leading world standings in 1969 when a bareback horse flipped with him and broke his back.

Doctors said he would be lucky to walk, much less ride again, but the next year he resumed competition with a permanently stiffened back. In 1971 he finished fourth for the world title; he qualified for the National Finals Rodeo the next three years, and narrowly missed the 1976 Finals.

This year he won first in saddle bronc riding at the Denver rodeo in January, and now leads PRCA saddle bronc standings with more than $4,000 in 1977 earnings.

Division leaders:

ALL AROUND COWBOY — Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., $5,890.
SADDLE BRONC RIDING — Shawn Davis, Twin Falls, Ida., $4,033.
BAREBACK BRONC RIDING — Scotty Platts, Lyman, Wyo., $3,394.
BULL RIDING — Jack Ward, Springdale, Ark., $3,970.

Fina reports second best earnings in '76

DALLAS — American Petrofina, Inc., today announced the second highest earnings in its 20-year history. Also, for the first time, gross revenues exceeded $1 billion.

Earnings for the year ended December 31, 1976, amounted to $45,549,000, or $4.27 per share, up 13 per cent over 1975 earings of $40,186,000, or $3.77 per share. Gross operating revenue rose to $1,070,959,000 in 1976 from $986,036,000 in 1975. The previous high in earnings occurred in 1974.

For the fourth quarter of 1976, net income increased to $10,233,000, or 96 cents per share, as compared with $9,241,000, or 87 cents per share, for the same period in 1975. Gross revenues in the quarter amounted to $273,356,000 compared to $258,066,000 in the fourth quarter of 1975.

R.I. Galland, chairman of the board, said that 1976 results were achieved in spite of the prolonged slack demand for petrochemicals and plastics and continued federal regulations affecting the pricing of refined products.

Commenting upon significant activities of the Company during the year, he cited its stepped-up exploration activities both onshore and offshore in the United States; the formation in September of a joint venture with Hercules Incorporated for the manufacture of terephthalates, a principal raw material for polyester fibers nd film; the addition in October of 600 million pounds per year of styrene monomer capacity; and the completion in the fourth quarter of a 30,000-barrel-per-day expansion of the crude unit at the Company's Port Arthur, Texas refinery.

Norther brings cold, wet weather to state

By The Associated Press

A fresh norther wheeling down from the arctic brought along a promise of more wet and cold weather for much of Texas today.

Prospects were seen for light snow mixed with rain in the central part of West Texas, but the latest forecasts dropped earlier mention of possible sleet or snow in some areas farther east and south.

Light showers or rain already were falling early in the day near El Paso in far West Texas, in a 20-mile-wide belt from south of San Antonio to Eagle Pass in South Texas and at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

At that hour the new frontal system had thrust as far south as a line across West Texas from Wichita Falls to Wink, and skies were clear only in part of the Texas Panhandle and the northeast corner of the state.

Temperatures dived near dawn to a shivery 16 degrees at Dalhart and 21 at Amarillo in the Panhandle while it was still 56 at Brownsville. sunday's top marks ranged up to 79 at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas.

At the end of December 1976, Air Training Command (ATC) as a whole had recorded savings of $8,432,000 against a goal of $50 million.

Indira's opposition gain momentum

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Disheartened political aides of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi debated campaign strategy today after her opponents outdrew her two to one in weekend rallies in New Delhi.

Workers for Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party assembled the daily crowd of well-wishers and political hopefuls at the prime minister's residence. But the crowd was no comfort to the party leaders meeting privately for a new assessment of prospects for the parliamentary elections next month.

Nearly 200,000 persons packed the Delhi fairgrounds Sunday and wildly cheered opposition calls for Mrs. Gandhi's ouster and an end to her 19-month state of emergency with its suspension of democratic procedures and rights.

Mrs. Gandhi's campaign kickoff Saturday at the same site drew only 100,000 people, and the rally ended prematurely when the crowd became restive.

The prime minister, who has held office for 11 years, received another setback during the weekend when former President V.V. Giri called for an end to the suspension of civil liberties.

A diverse group of opposition leaders told the rally Sunday that the voters faced a choice between dictatorship and democracy in the election.

"There were more people in Indian jails during the emergency than in British jails before independence," said Jayaprakash Narayan, the disciple of Mohandas Gandhi and 74-year-old politcal elder. "The question is whether you and your children and the country will be free or slaves."

Narayan's plans in June 1975 to lead a Gandhi-style campaign of civil disobedience against Mrs. Gandhi was one of the chief reasons she had the state of emergency proclaimed. She jailed him for five months but let him out when his chronic kidney trouble got worse.

Narayan represents India's 85 million untouchables who bolted the cabinet and the Congress party last week, charged that a "clique of six or seven persons has grabbed the Congress party apparatus and has taken over the country." He implied that one member of the clique was the prime minister's controversial 30-year-old son Sanjay, who during the emergency has become leader of the Congress party's youth wing.

Is Harold Brown's reasoning sound?

One of the strongest parts of President Jimmy Carter's campaign in 1976 was his vow that he would not tell a lie to the American people.

This vow, which I believe was honestly made, converted millions of Americans to his cause and may well have been one of the key issues that made him president.

LIKE MILLIONS of other Americans, I want to believe President Carter. I want to have faith in the leadership of our nation.

But my first personal conflict with the president's vow not to deceive the people came in late January when the new Defense Secretary Harold Brown proposed a military budget cut of $2.8 billion.

The cut did not surprise me. Carter had promised it in the campaign.

What did surprise me was where Brown wanted to cut. For one thing, he wants to trim 10,000 men from the Army, along with cuts in the F-15 fighter and several other areas.

Worst of all, the Feb. 7 "Federal Times" quoted Brown as saying that he favors reductions in Defense installations as a means of achieving savings. During confirmation hearings, he told the Senate Armed Service Committee that potential defense budget cuts would be delayed because "it takes a long time now to to close bases."

All of this shocked me because candidate Carter told me personally face-to-face in Peanut One that his planned defense savings would not include cutbacks in either manpower or bases.

THREE REPRESENTATIVES from Harte-Hanks Newspapers had an exclusive interview with Carter, and I asked him point blank if the cutbacks that he proposed included any in manpower or bases.

He replied no in a manner that could not be misunderstood.

Then he proceeded, for the first time, that at least the lawmakers in Washington knew about, to detail where the cuts would come from: 1) Increasing the student-instructor ratio; 2) lengthening military assignments; 3) changing some luxury items such as military staff and golf courses; 4) cutting cost overruns on weapons; 5) keeping equipment, especially ships, in repair; and 6) standardizing NATO weapons.

No mention of savings through base cutbacks or manpower reductions were included.

Carter said to me:

"I am not going to tell you that I will never close a base. I'll do what I think is best for this country . . . .

"The figures I've quoted do not include the closure of any bases," he said flatly.

So the Herald readers will see why I am dismayed with Carter's newly appointed defense secretary proposing to reduce manpower, and hinting that bases might be cut.

How can this be happening from the administration which took office largely by a vow not to lie to the American people?

There are ways

Around the rim

Bill Werrell

At one time or another we have all been short-weighted at the supermarket, dissatisfied by a department store, gypped at an auto repair shop, or ripped off by a roofer.

TO DEFEND ourselves against the onslaught of misrepresentations, foul play, dishonest salesmen, or the purchase of an inferior product, we have not only our common sense but a number of tactics and institutions, designed for the protection of the consumer, at our disposal.

John Dorfman's new book, "A Consumer's Arsenal" provides a guide to fighting back in the market place: step by step, state by state, and problem by problem.

If you have found yourself gypped of services or product quality, Dorfman has compiled a "complaint escalation ladder" which consists of the different steps one must take to find justice in the market place.

Step one is the telephone complaint. Say, for example, that you just bought a new toaster, which worked the first three times you used it, but smouldered and blew a fuse the last time.

The most logical step to take is a telephone complaint to the retailer from whom you bought the toaster. Among the points to remember about making this phone call is to talk to someone with enough authority to do something about your complaint. The next thing to do is to know exactly what you want; a new toaster, or a repair on the one you have now. Keep a written record of everything that is said and promised, and the name of the person that you talked to.

If, in response to your telephone call, you don't receive fair results, the next step is a written complaint to the retailer.

Among the points of a complaint letter to remember is that you should state clearly what you want from the store, whether it be repairs, replacement, or a refund.

Also give a brief history of the transaction, your complaint, and a summary of your telephone complaints, and the store's response to them. State a deadline for action, before you will feel compelled to seek outside help in resolving the dispute.

THE NEXT step to defend your rights as a responsible consumer, is to write the manufacturer of the toaster.

In your letter to the manufacturer, state why you are writing him, as a responsible manufacturer wants to know why he's getting complaints. If it's because his retailers won't stand behind his product it may induce him to change distribution outlets.

Also include the same things you did in your letter to the retailer, and the history of complaints to the retailer. If you're pressed for time you might also include a deadline date.

If the letter to the manufacturer proves fruitless you can take your complaint to a trade association.

Fairly often the merchant with whom you have a complaint belongs to some trade association or other, and you can call this association if its a local one and ask whether it will mediate complaints involving its members. The local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce can point you in the right direction of which trade association you should state your complaint with.

In Texas there is a B.B.B. in Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Bryan, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, Midland, San Antonio and Waco.

If your toaster is still no good after stating a complaint to all these businesses and agencies, you can go on to the next step in filing a complaint; the state level.

The backbone of consumer protection in Texas is the Antitrust and Consumer Protection Division, office of Attorney General, P.O. Box 12548, Capital Station, Austin. Besides the main office in Austin, the Antitrust and Consumer Protection Division maintains six branches throughout the state; 2405 Cedar Springs, Suite 155, Dallas 75201; City-County Building, El Paso 79901; Consumer Center, 201 E Belknap St., Ft. Worth 76102; 369 Main Plaza, Houston 77002; 806 Broadway, Lubbock 79401; 100 Dwyer Ave., San Antonio 78204.

If you haven't received satisfaction at this point, Dorfman describes five other steps in his "complaint escalation ladder," which should assure you justice and a toaster that works.

Terror (II)

William F. Buckley, Jr.

BUENOS AIRES. — Jorge Luis Borges tends to avoid politics. He is, after all, preoccupied. At 77, arguably the best living writer in the world, he is blind and has been for 20 years; having read The Divine Comedy in Italian only 11 times, he is in a hurry to get back to it, though of course it will need now to be read to him. He has written 35 books, so he is busy at work on three new ones simultaneously.

When Peron first came to power 32 years ago, Borges exerted himself politically to the extent of signing a manifesto against him. In return, Borges' mother and sister were put in prison, and Borges lost his job in the library. He will engage himself politically nowadays only "when the barbarians are at the gate." Then the big question: what is his position on the ruling junta in Argentina? "They are gentlemen." He would go no further.

IN A SENSE he did not need to do so. General Videla, by almost everyone's estimate, is that. Well, will he lead Argentina to democracy? Borges' answer: "Perhaps in a hundred years." But on reflection a few moments later he interrupted himself. "You had better make that 500 years." Now, General Videla has said he wishes to head his country toward democracy, but he would no sooner venture to put a date on its realization than Abraham Lincoln would have given a date for the ending of the Civil War after the Battle of Bull Run. There is simply too much to do, too many people being killed, too many people suffering from the economic dislocation caused by the terrorists.

Life, to be sure, goes on. During the Second World War, Oxford and Cambridge still rowed against each other. The other day, the annual International Ocean Sailing Race, Buenos Aires to Rio, took off: 32 boats, one American entry. At the Yacht Club it was all clutter, bars doing great business, beautiful women coming in to see their husbands and sweethearts take off.

Only strangers noticed what Argentines take for granted: several dozen soldiers with automatic weapons. There was enough firepower at the Argentina Yacht Club to level a moderate-sized town. At the local school for the children of foreign executives, the enrollment is down 75 per cent. Foreign companies cannot afford to pay ransoms in excess of 10 million dollars to keep a man on the field, and cannot afford the only kind of security that is effective. There are 72 persons guarding the American Ambassador and his family: at a cost of one million dollars per year. Among the effects being protected at the American Ambassador's residence is a plaque commemorating the visit in that building of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt between November 30 and December 2nd 1936.

THE PLAQUE FEATURES a single phrase from a declaration by the President on that occasion: "Democracy is still the hope of the world." In South America, democracy brought them Peron, twice. Democracy proved not the hope of Argentina, but the undoing of Argentina.

And now they need to go back and start all over again. There is total freedom of the press, which abounds with criticism of this or that act or this or that government official.

Drugs: Weighing needs, dangers

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please discuss various drugs and their possible side effects in the body. We hear so much these days about this or that drug, to the point where I am scared to take anything my doctor prescribes. — Mrs. T.H.

If I wrote on nothing else for a year I might be able to scratch the surface of this answer. Then you'd probably be more disturbed and confused than you are now. I can give you some general and personal views on this important subject. The plain and simple truth is that no chemical substance (which is what a drug is) enters the body without having some effect. Most are good, some are bad, some more bad than good, some more good than bad.

There is a large volume on my desk called "The Physician's Desk Reference," well over 1,500 pages of drugs, detailing their descriptions, indications for use, when they shouldn't be used, and possible reactions. Some of the reactions are well-known, and widespread. Others are minor or to be expected in only a few among the millions who might use them. If a physician refused to prescribe a medicine that held some potential adverse reaction, he wouldn't prescribe at all — ever — and we would be back to roots, herbs and incantations for healing.

Yet, you cannot deny the problems that come with a profusion of new drugs. The conscientious physician strikes a balance, weighing the good against the bad, with the patient's immediate needs tipping the scales, just as in risky surgery. It is well-known, for example that certain high blood pressure medicines may lessen sexual potency even as it lowers a dangerously high blood pressure. Estrogen, which is used with birth control pills, may have potentially bad side-effects in some, but the pill is nonetheless a highly effective means of family planning. Indeed, birth control pills, by preventing dangerous pregnancies, may have preserved more good health than they have damaged.

Even the lowly aspirin, consumed by the tons annually, has its potentially damaging effects, but it also has provided much needed pain relief for millions of arthritis sufferers.

I think by now you must get my point. A patient has the right to inquire about possible side effects of any prescribed medicine, and the physician has an obligation to answer. After that it's a matter of how much you trust your physician's judgment as to its use in your individual case. As for the physician himself, he must trust in the efficiency of the federal authorities which pass judgment on the safety and effectiveness of the new drugs which enter the marketplace each year, making that "Physician's Desk Reference" fatter and fatter.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is bran good for a person with ulcer symptoms? I've read where it's good for any ailments. — Mrs. L.B.

There's a difference between having what you call "ulcer symptoms" and having ulcers, and I'm assuming your speaking of gastric (stomach) ulcers. The only way you're going to find out is to be examined. As to this bran, I'm getting a lot of letters relating to it. Bran is high residue food. Whether it is advisable for you would depend on your examination. An ulcer diet is usually a bland one with as few irritants as possible.

Bran is a fine roughage item, and roughage is needed in any good diet. However, I question some of the varied claims being made for it with regard to its curative properties.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me if there is any medical reason why you should not use paraffin wax in candy-making? I have a cookbook with recipes for candy using the wax. My husband refuses to eat any of it until I've asked your advice. — M.S.M.

My dietician consultant knows of no reason why paraffin wax should not be used in candy-making. Your husband has undoubtedly eaten such candy many times during his life without realizing it.

It is used to give chocolate covering its consistency. Apparently recipes haven't been changed. Paraffin is a purified derivative of petroleum. It has the advantage of being colorless, odorless and tasteless.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor:

Two items about Roots in Sunday's paper prompt me to write.

Mrs. Chester Railsback's letter misses the whole points of Roots. She holds it to be a "degrading, misleading, untrue show." No one argues with her that all whites were not cruel to slaves. The point of Roots was that the system which would permit one human to own another's body and soul, whether that human was mistreated or not, was cruel.

The other item I'd like to comment on was the Hearts 'n Flowers report of another woman's thoughts about Roots. She points out that "the American Negro when compared to his cousins in Africa has made tremendous strides." Now really! What is progress? Are we so insular here that we judge another people as less civilized because they live "under thatched roofs, hunting down their food with spears?"

Anyone who has read Roots would know that Kunta Kinte's people were indeed a civilization — albeit different from us. They had strong family ties, music, dance, commerce, travel, agriculture, domestic animals, a formal educational system, an intense interest in history, a humane code of warfare and other trappings of "civilization". They had religion, though they called God Allah. And yes, Kunta Kinte was even literate. All Mandinka boys were taught to read Arabic.

When reading comments like these two women made in Sunday's paper, it calls to mind a mentality in America which may not say "nigger" anymore, but still thinks "nigger."

Roots has provided a fine background for understanding the black in America, what he was, what he had to overcome, and what he is today. I am glad Roots is well on its way to becoming an American classic of social history.

Dear Editor:

Every year about this time we have many magazine salesman come into our town. There have been two different groups in town selling magazines. Both have been thoroughly checked out, and employement confirmed before they were issued a permit.

The methods and tactics of a magazine solicitor vary in many ways; some say they are working their way through school and a sale would help them by awarding them points toward a scholarship. Others say the sale of magazines is a credit towards winning a large amount of money. Any story they put on a customer or client is only to get you to feel sorry for them, so you will make a purchase. The various stories are too numerous to mention in this letter.

When you enter into a contract, you pay either by cash or check. If you write or make a check out to the salesman, you should enter both the salesman's name and the company he represents to keep him from cashing your check. If you leave the payee's name off the check, the salesman will cash the check at a local business. Inserting the business name on the check will insure that, if payment is stopped on the check, the loser will be the business.

The Police Department has to issue a permit when a business is legitimate and the salesman has a good record. It is the police department's feeling that if you buy from our local merchants, you can't go wrong.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I can understand that there ought to be a heaven for good people and a hell for evil people. But don't you think there should be a third place for people who are neither very good nor very bad? I mean, it would seem they should have this life only, and no afterlife. — C.J.

DEAR C.J.: No, the Bible does not support your view. Instead of being annihilated at death, the Bible teaches that every human being has an eternal destiny. You might, for example, want to study what Jesus teaches about the judgment of mankind in Matthew 25.

The Bible gives several reasons why all men will either go to heaven or hell. First, we are all made in the image of God, and therefore we all have an eternal spirit that lives on after death. Also, the Bible teaches that we are all morally responsible for our actions. If what you suggest were true, we could commit certain sins and never be held accountable for them. "For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ . . . So then every one of us shall give an account of himself to God" (Romans 14:10, 12).

The Bible also tells us that no man deserves to go to heaven. "There is none righteous, no, not one" (Romans 3:10). It is not our good works that admit us into heaven, because no one has enough good works. You see, God is perfect, and His standard is perfection.

But the Bible also tells us that we can be assured of our eternal destiny if we give our lives to Christ. "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God" (I Peter 3:18). In a wonderful way Christ, the sinless Son of God, took our sins upon Himself so that we could be forgiven.

If you have never accepted Christ as your Lord and Saviour, I urge you to commit your life to Him right now.

WASHINGTON — Donald G. Baker is a decent sort, a lawyer of excellent reputation, with an upright air and a scholarly demeanor. As the Justice Dept.'s antitrust chief, he is supposed to police the cutthroat corporate world. But the business tycoons who inhabit this world make Baker look like Snow White among the seven dwarfs.

He discourses upon the evils of economic concentration; he espouses the theory of antitrust enforcement. But when it comes down to protecting the public from rigged prices and corporate monopolies, Baker has not exactly been a bold champion of vigorous action.

HIS LATEST tilt with the barons of Big Business is described in a confidential memo, which was never intended to be circulated outside the Justice Dept. It reveals how he settled a price-fixing case with the two electrical giants, General Electric and Westinghouse, without demanding concessions that might have brought down energy prices.

The pursuit of lower energy prices is one of the top objectives of the federal government. Yet Baker could have broken the price squeeze in return for dropping antitrust allegations against General Electric and Westinghouse, the memo suggests.

Between them, GE and Westinghouse sell 90 per cent of the giant turbine generators, which produce electricity in America's power plants. Each generator costs millions, which, in turn, has an impact on the price that the public eventually must pay for electricity.

Colorado City roots

with Marj Carpenter

Colorado City, which has many historical firsts, also has the first former slave to own ranchland in West Texas in its history.

D.W. (80 John) Wallace was born of slave parents and was a free child shortly after the Civil War. He had been born in Victoria County, and Texas was the last state to know the Civil War was over. In fact, the very last battle of the war was fought down around Brownsville.

When 15 years of age, Wallace rode with cowboys and a herd of cattle into Old Mexico, then along the Chisholm trail. In 1877, he rode north with Clay Mann, arriving in Mitchell County.

Mann's "80" brand gave Wallace a name for life. He was almost always referred to as "80 John". Mann allowed him to graze cattle on his spread. Mann was certainly an unusual post civil war rancher and he advised "80 John" to purchase land.

Wallace ended up raising fine cattle and growing crops on 12½ sections of land. He was probably the first former slave to own West Texas land.

He went back to school to try to learn to read and write after he was grown and met his wife, Laura, who was the teacher. They married and had four children.

Wallace never underestimated the importance of education and all four of his children were college educated, including three daughters and a son.

WEST TEXAS PIONEER
. . . born a slave

The first school for black students in Colorado City was named Wallace School and when a new school was constructed in 1953, it was again named Wallace School. That building still stands and has beautiful terrazo floors and tile walls that have been excellently kept through the years.

This year the school was changed to an adult center for continuing education classes in Colorado City. This is so appropriate, because Wallace was an adult before he was educated.

Neither his picture, nor his history was placed in any of the schools named for him although he has been the subject of several West Texas books.

But when the education center was opened, a request was made for his picture. It was brought to the building by Mrs. Hattie Branch from Loraine, one of his daughters. She had once taught at the Wallace school.

They never thought of offering the picture until somebody said they wanted it.

The descendants of "80 John" Wallace are all educated, gentile, friendly and good citizens. Their roots are in West Texas and they are rightfully proud of their father and grandfather "80 John" who was so respected by cowboys and ranchers alike, in the days when this kind of respect was rare.

His picture looks down from the Wallace Education Center as a constant reminder of a kind and hard-working man — back in Mitchell County — beginning in 1877 when there weren't many fences in this part of the world.

Queen Elizabeth has Silver Jubilee

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee has opened with a royal memorial service for her father, press tributes to her 25-year reign and a newspaper tempest-in-a-teapot over the words of the official Jubilee hymn.

It was a low-key start Sunday for a year-long celebration that will reach its peak in June, traditionally the month for royal celebrations since the English weather is usually at its best then. There will be a nationwide chain of bonfires, a thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Cathedral, a Royal Progress on the Thames and a parade in London.

The queen and Prince Philip, her husband, leave Wednesday for the South Pacific, beginning Jubilee visits to the members of the Commonwealth. She also will visit almost every county in Britain during the year.

The royal family spent a quiet day at Windsor Castle and attended a memorial service in the chapel there for King George VI, whose death on Feb. 6, 1952, brought his elder daughter to the throne.

"During the shifting sands and the changing times of the last 25 years, the royal family has advanced and adapted in a most remarkable way, and the debt we owe to the queen and Prince Philip is incalculable," said Chaplain Anthony Harbuttle in his sermon.

The Sunday Times said Elizabeth "has become one of the wisest as well as the best informed. most painstaking and most dutiful of recent sovereigns."

An audience of 5,500 enthusiastically applauded the Jubilee Hymn at its premiere at a concert at the Royal Albert Hall. There was no comment on the music by Malcolm Williamson, the master of the queen's music, but a number of professional and amateur critics opened fire on the words by Britain's 70-year-old poet laureate, Sir John Betjeman, who is Britain's best-selling poet.

"A nice Valentine's card poem," said Laurie Lee, another poet.

"The most banal, ninth-rate piece of child's verse," said Nicholas Fairbairn, a Conservative member of the House of Commons who gave the papers his own 18-line text for the occasion. In a total of 82 words, he used "queen" 17 times.

Violence toll light

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents received the blame for most of the violent deaths in Texas during the weekend as the state recorded a lighter toll than during many similar periods.

The worst crash involved two cars and left four dead at Lubbock.

Altogether there were reports of nine traffic fatalities and one each from gunfire and stabbing from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

In the Lubbock crash, police listed the dead as Albert De-Leon, 19, and Roy Gonzalez, 15, both of Lubbock, and Ramiro Salinas, 18, and Fidel Juarez, 25, both of Plainview. Police said one car jumped a raised median and slammed into the other vehicle. Two of the dead were pinned in the wreckage.

Lum Mitchell, 54, a disabled Fort Worth resident, was killed on a freeway there Sunday as his pickup truck crashed and burst into flames after its gasoline tanks exploded.

Two Alpine residents, Jose Mareno, 59, and Juana Valenzuela, 45, died in a pickup that was in collision with a tractortrailer truck on Texas 18 three miles north of Fort Stockton Saturday night.

Leonard Mitchell, 62, died Saturday when he was struck by a car as he walked along a farm road in Northwest Harris County.

Donald Ray Johnson, 22, of Porter, died in a two-car accident about two miles west of Porter.

Patricia Haggard, 39, of Fort Worth was shot to death late Friday night as she was trying to cross a street near her home to get her son at a church gathering. Police said they at first thought she hit by a passing car.

John Holland, 32, also of Fort Worth, was stabbed during what police said was a domestic argument and died early Saturday in a hospital. Police took a woman into custody.

The new industry must employ as many as 20 people and would occupy a building vacated by Wickes Mobile Homes.

The Snyder chamber will stage its annual membership banquet April 15. Tickets will be $10 each. Special guests will include Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the late president, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Frostbite way of life

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Mailman Vincent Brey says frostbite is a way of life for those who deliver letters and packages in this northeastern North Dakota community.

"You don't feel a thing while it's frozen," Brey said about his face. "But when it starts thawing out, it itches and burns."

When the wind is blowing, Brey wears longjohns, a snowmobile suit and a heavy parka. He wears hunting gloves to keep his hands warm.

Called "shooter mittens," they leave the forefinger and thumb free to make sorting mail easier, he said.

"When I do get cold, I go home and it takes hours to warm up," Brey said. "Sometimes I get so damn cold I take a hot bath and I'm still cold."

Ford joining lecture circuit

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford is joining the college lecture circuit with a talk at Yale University, where he won the law degree that started him toward a life in politics.

Ford was scheduled to discuss foreign policy with the students in History 323 today. Reporters were invited.

Also on his agenda were a speech at Yale's new School of Organization and Management and a meeting with Yale's coaches and football players.

Ford was an assistant football coach while he studied law here.

He graduated in 1941, and his law career led to his election to Congress in 1948. He was a Michigan representative until he was appointed vice president in 1973.

The former president reached the campus Sunday and attended a welcoming dinner Sunday night. His appearance through Tuesday is part of the Chubb Fellowship program, which brings public figures to Yale.

He has said he hopes to visit other colleges as well.

Ford looked more like a candidate than an elder statesman when he arrived in New Haven. A cheer went up from the crowd of at least 75 as the well-tanned former president stepped from an Air Force DC9 at Tweed-New Haven Airport.

Despite windy, subfreezing weather, he walked to the crowd and shook hands.

Ford gets a stipend of about $1,500 for this week's visit, but he reportedly intends to turn it over to a charity.

Harry Truman was the only other former president to take part in the Chubb program, but two years ago the guest was an aspirant named Jimmy Carter.

Bullet holes sunk riverboat restaurant?

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP) — The owner of a riverboat restaurant and lounge that was under water in the Tombigbee River for nearly a week thinks bullet holes in the hull caused the sinking.

Metzger said he notified police Friday morning, but Chief Charlie Watkins said workmen had already welded over the the holes by the time investigating officers arrived at the vessel.

Dear Mr. President:

As our new president, Jimmy Carter, begins his term, he has asked the American people to give him ideas and suggestions, questions or comments about this country and its government.

The Herald thinks the president should get many comments and suggestions from people in Big Spring, since our town is much affected by what happens in Washington.

Here is our chance to send input directly into the White House. A special section of the Big Spring Herald on Sunday, Feb . 20, will contain as many ideas and questions for President Carter as this newspaper can gather from the Big Spring area. Copies of the section will go directly to the White House and President Carter.

Here's how to participate. Just sit down and write a letter to President Carter on any subject that might be of interest to our government. Begin it, "Dear Mr. President:" Be sure to include your name and address. Then mail it to:

Suggestions for the President Dept.
Big Spring Herald
P.O. Box 1431
Big Spring, Tex. 79720

Or bring it by the Herald's office at 710 Scurry. Please try to keep the letters as short and to the point as possible. The letters should reach the Herald as soon as possible but no later than Thursday, Feb. 17, to be included in the special section.

Write your suggestion to President Carter today. Let him hear from Big Spring.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

TIPS OF INTEREST

Q. How can I add a "gourmet" touch to carrots to make them more interesting?

A. Try adding a bit of allspice, bay leaves, caraway seed, dill, fennel, ginger, mace, marjoram, mint, nutmeg or thyme . . . just remember that a little goes a long way.

Q. What are good sources of iodine?

A. Two reliable sources are iodized salt and seafoods. Regular use of iodized salt is the most practical way to assure enough iodine in your diet.

Q. What are good sources of magnesium and potassium?

A. Both are found in good amounts in nuts, dry beans, dry milk, yeast, whole-grain products, dry peas, and dark-green vegetables.

Q. How can I prevent potatoes from darkening after paring?

A. Cover them with water. Long soaking of most vegetables, however, is not desirable because some nutrients dissolve in the water.

Q. What's the best way to handle unripe fruits?

A. Unripe fruits should be left to ripen in open air at room temperature and out of direct sunlight.

Q. How can I get good texture when baking muffins?

A. Don't overmix — the results would be poor texture . . . large holes and tunnels.

Q. What is a good temperature guide to food safety?

A. We have a printed USDA guide you'll find helpful. It's printed along with this column in leaflet form at Safeway. Come pick up your free copy. No purchase necessary.

If No Regrets, It Paid

DEAR ABBY: Does it pay to be a lady these days? I kept steady company with a gentleman for eight years. He is now 74 and I am 66. I didn't believe in going all the way before marriage, and told him so repeatedly, so we just went together and had nice clean fun.

I had a friend (about my age) who was also a widow. She had a gentleman friend with whom she traveled and spent weekends. They were going all the way without any pretenses, and he finally married her. Now she is living like a queen and having a ball.

Three months ago, my gentleman friend dropped me for a woman who would go all the way. And after I went steady with him for eight years!

To me, adultery is adultery whether you're 16 or 70.

I ask you, does it pay to be a lady anymore?

A LADY

DEAR LADY: Only you can answer that question. If you have regrets, it doesn't pay. If you haven't, it paid.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who lives alone. I am fairly well to do and want for nothing. My problem is my son-in-law. He has "sticky fingers." He has ripped me off several times; cash from my purse (anywhere from $10 to $100 at a time) and little things he can pick up. (Transistor radio, camera, binoculars, etc.)

He and my daughter have two beautiful children, and it would break her heart if she knew what kind of man she's married to.

I'm afraid if I were to tell her she'd take his part, as she probably should. Then I would be deprived of her company and of the joy of seeing my precious grandchildren.

I don't know how to handle this. I provide them with so many things they otherwise wouldn't have. He is a fairly good father and husband, but he is a spendthrift and very immature.

Is there some way I can put a stop to his stealing from me without damaging the relationship between my daughter and me?

NO WAY OUT

DEAR NO WAY: Why must you tell her? Tell HIM. But you had better be sure that your suspicions are correct before making any accusations.

DEAR ABBY: My husband travels constantly by automobile. He is self-employed. Recently he took a female employee along on one of his trips. He asked my permission first, and I agreed. The only stipulation I made was that if she ever became a threat to our marriage he would let her go. (We've been married over 25 years and have always had a good, solid relationship.)

Within a few weeks I learned they have been sharing a motel room. Both were indignant and insulted when I objected. My husband said it was strictly a business arrangement, and he was only cutting expenses. They both insist this is a common practice with traveling men. Maybe I'm behind the times, but I never heard of this before. Have you?

TENSE IN TOLEDO

DEAR TENSE: No. And if you hold still for that kind of "economizing," may I suggest that you use the money he's saved to have your head examined.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MRS. ABEL MAGANA

Couple weds in home rites

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Magana are on a wedding trip to San Antonio following their wedding Jan. 30. The afternoon ceremony was performed by Bob West, Justice of the Peace, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blaz Bailon, 4103 Dixon.

The couple stood before an improvised altar featuring brass candelabra, devotion candles and English ivy.

The bride is the former Mary Cortinez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cortinez, Southland Apts. She attended local schools. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Esteban Magana of Presidio. He is employed by Jiffy Car Wash.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a full-length gown of white satin with sheer, pleated ruffling adorning the neckline and wrists of the long, fitted sleeves. A headpiece of satin flowers and azares held her bouffant veil of illusion.

The maid of honor was Miss Rosie Bailon, and other attendants were Mrs. Chevo Galaviz, Miss Mary Lou Gonzalez and Mrs. Tito Trevino. Tito Trevino lighted the candles, and Chevo Galaviz served as best man.

The two flower girls were Cynthia Dutchover and Olaya Valenzuela. Serving as ushers were Mrs. Felis Dominguez and Mrs. Fina Bailon.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Fina Cafe, 200 N. Gregg.

The newlyweds will reside at 1100 N. Nolan.

Hyperion club hears advice on gardening

The 1970 Hyperion Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Curtis Strong, 2803 Goliad with Johnny Johansen, guest speaker, presenting the program, "Battle of the Elements".

Mrs. Dennis Tucker, president, welcomed two guests Mrs. Rene Brown and Mrs. Sandy Sandlin.

Mrs. Willie Lane introduced Johansen whose background includes earning a BS degree in landscape architecture from A&M University. He has recently retired from 34½ years as director of the city park program. Upon retirement, he has opened a nursery.

Johansen said, "It has been a challenge to work professionally in West Texas where the natural elements do not always complement the growth of all vegetation." He suggested home owners with such growth problems take samples of soil from different areas in the yard to the county agent to find what minerals are deficient and which fertilizer to use for best results. The soil should consist of equal parts of nitrogen, potassium, magnesium, iron, and zinc for good growth of all types of plants.

"Shrubs should bring out the best architectural features of a home, not cover them up," commented Johansen. "We sometimes overplant by planting trees and shrubs too close together, thereby, not putting emphasis on any one plant."

January, February and March are the best time to plant bare root trees. The hole in which to plant the tree should be large enough to accomodate its roots. Johansen commented, "Put a $1 plant in a $10 hole and watch it grow!" Root stimulators and fertile top soil should be used when planting bare root trees. It is best to plant immediately, but if circumstances will not permit this put the plant in a bucket of water or wrap roots with wet clothes to prevent their drying out.

Johansen recommended Florabunda roses for landcaping as they bloom from frost to frost. The miniature rose bush is easy to keep, is disease resistant and has been improved upon for the past 25 years.

The program was followed with a question and answer session.

Mrs. Tucker presided over the business session.

The next meeting of the club will be March 1 at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Buster Peek, 2920 Melrose Lane.

Mistletoe tea safe to drink?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department list of possible substitutes for coffee boiled into controversy over the weekend with the inclusion of mistletoe tea.

Despite the pleasant Christmas-season associations of the plant, experts said the plant is poisonous, particularly the berries.

But the question of danger from tea brewed from mistletoe leaves remained a question. Some experts said it was also dangerous, while others said no harmful effects had been noted from commercially prepared mistletoe tea.

Mistletoe was includee in the list of coffee substitutes suggested by the Agriculture Department and reported Saturday by The Associated Press.

This report led at leas' one television network to switch signals and begin warning consumers not to drink mistletoe tea.

Dental patient's behavior can often be misleading

Dental treatment or oral hygiene procedures cause some patients to cringe with pain, while others react with stoic tolerance. It is very difficult to gauge the intensity of a patient's discomfort by his overt behavior, a British psychiatrist has suggested.

According to reports received by a company in the U.S. dentists in our country have reported that the only way they may become aware of the pain of dental hypersensitivity in some patients is when they apply a jet spray of cold air or water to a specific area of the mouth.

Some of the reasons for stoicism suggested in the past have included family conditioning, a high threshold of pain tolerance, and the fear that admitting pain will result in more pain in the form of dental treatments and expense.

Developing a good doctor-patient relationship is the psychiatrist's recommendation for monitoring accurately anxiety or pain, and for helping the patient to overcome his fears.

Patient education is another offered by dentists who find that knowledge of new procedures and techniques that cut down on time, expense and pain encourages a patient to discuss his dental problems more openly and not to anticipate discomfort. Home treatment is sometimes possible, too, and for teeth that are overly sensitive, the "treatment" may consist of changing toothpastes to one containing strontium chloride (Sensodyne) to block the stimuli that produce the pain.

Weather ups prices

COLLEGE STATION — Frigid weather conditions have upset the entire fresh tender-vegetable line and curtailed egg production — with resulting higher prices on some items for grocery consumers.

In spite of that, economy is still possible in several instances, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, says.

Items that grocery stores previously planned to "special" will now be particularly good values, and items harvested before the weather hit their supplies may still be good values.

Fresh citrus fruit from favorable-weather areas is in good supply and includes oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and tangelos — but their prices may fluctuate due to diminishing supplies from Florida, the specialist reported.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For vegetable economy, choices of fresh items generally are limited to dry onions, white and sweet potatoes, hard-shell squash and rutabagas. But consumers can look for frozen-vegetable features.

At meat counters, pork supplies continue to increase — lowering the price to consumers. Good values appear on Boston butt roasts and quarter-loin sliced into chops — along with hams, bacon, roll sausage and frankfurters.

At beef counters, supplies are adequate and prices are the same as last week or slightly higher. However, greater economy is available on the less-demanded cuts, so consumers might consider rib and shoulder steaks — as well as the popular sirloin and T-bone steaks, ground beef and liver, Mrs. Clyatt advised.

Church floral arrangements

"Church Sanctuary Floral Arrangements" was the topic presented by Mrs. John Knox to Big Spring Garden Club on Wednesday. Drawing from the Biblical quote, "In His sanctuary honor and majesty are before Him. Strength and beauty are in His sanctuary," Mrs. Knox said. "In spite of an earnest desire to give unto the Lord the glory due His name, some of us have failed. Many a sanctuary lacks strength and beauty because of shabby and uninspired floral arrangements. There should be joy in the work, a joy in being able to honor God by arranging the flowers of His house with dignity and reverence."

Using this theme, Mrs. Knox explained that since the beginning of religion, flowers have played an important role and have been used as an expression of joy in all religions of the world. Israel, from the earliest times, worshipped God with floral offerings.

Mrs. Knox discussed the importance of design and color of sanctuary arrangements. She said flowers should harmonize with the church's architecture, be dignified and impressive, express the mood of the service and have unity of plan.

Mrs. Knox also discussed arrangements for special occasions such as Easter and Christmas.

Mrs. D.O. Gray announced that the Lancaster Garden Center, Odessa, will sponsor the Southern Zone Judges Council Flower Show School No. 5 March 15-17. The seminar will meet from 9 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon in the Family YMCA, 3001 E. University Blvd., Odessa. The fee will be $10 before March 5. Garden club members who are interested may register with Mrs. Eugene Bussey, 4232 Waverly St., Odessa, 79762.

Mrs. J.C. Pickle reported Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs will plant 75 slashed pines in Cottonwood Park. Members were urged to volunteer to help with the planting.

Mrs. Pickle also noted the garden club council will sponsor an emphasis upon eliminating litter from the city. Persons who notice litter anywhere in Big Spring may call 263-8311. The council urges citizens to report the license number of any car from which litter has been thrown.

Members will bring to the next meeting any item which can be used in the kitchen of the Alliance of Clubs Clubhouse.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Robert Stripling with Mrs. Clyde Angel as cohostess. The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. James W. Cowan. Mrs. John Hogan will serve as cohostess.

Boosters will meet tonight

Parents of Big Spring High School choir members who are going to San Antonio Friday are urged to be present for the Choir Booster meeting at 7:30 p.m., today in the high school auditorium.

The Meistersingers and selected girls' choir members will go to San Antonio to perform for the Texas Music Educators Association.

Persons who are taking donations for the Choir Boosters' car project are asked to turn in any money they have this evening. The car, to be given April 30, is a 1976 Ford Pinto.

Sign of age

Pistons new name, Motown Brawlers?

The Detroit Pistons, who've spent most of the season squabbling and scrapping among themselves as the National Basketball Association's answer to baseball's Oakland A's, turned their attention to the Kansas City Kings in a bench-clearing brawl touched off by Detroit's usually mild-mannered center, Bob Lanier.

"I got the rebound after (Kings' center) Jim Eakins had shot and was about to release the ball," Lanier said of the third-quarter flare-up. "I looked at Eakins and I saw his fist was balled up. I figured a guy can either duck or swing."

Lanier swung. First, a backhand right to the head knocked Eakins off balance. That was followed by a looping left that sent the Kings' center to the hardwood.

As Eakins tried to fight his way off the floor, Kansas City forward Bill Robinzine entered the melee and he and Lanier wrestled their way into the stands. Both benches emptied, seven Pistons and six Kings exposing themselves to $150 fines in order to join the action.

After peace was restored, Lanier was ejected by the officials. But it didn't matter as Detroit went on to outscore the Kings 40-30 in the third quarter en route to a 130-111 victory.

"I was just trying to protect myself," insisted the 6-foot-11, 260-pound Lanier, who outweighs Eakins by some 30 pounds. "I don't like to fight and this is the first one I've had in a long time. In fact, I think this is the first time I was thrown out of a game."

Eakins, who suffered a slight cut under his left eye, had no comment about the fight.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 102-97, New Orleans defeated Houston 99-90, Phoenix downed Denver 115-104, the New York Nets trimmed Cleveland 94-90, Boston handled Buffalo 113-97, Indiana outscored Chicago 111-99 and Seattle topped Milwaukee 107-99.

Lanier scored 20 points before he was ejected, with Detroit ahead 78-62. Howard Porter added 18 and Ralph Simpson and M.L. Carr 17 each.

76ers 102, Lakers 97

Reserve forward Steve Mix, who has spent the season in the shadows of all-stars Julius Erving and George McGinnis, had 37 points as the 76ers knocked the Lakers out of first place in the Pacific Division.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 26 points and grabbed 16 rebounds, but no other Laker could score more than 15 points.

Jazz 99, Rockets 90

Pete Maravich scored 23 points in the first period, 35 in the first half and 43 for the game to help New Orleans to its sixth straight home victory. Meanwhile, Jazz forward E.C. Coleman prevented the Rockets' leading scorer, Rudy Tomjanovich, from scoring a single basket and held him to just one point.

Suns 115, Nuggets 104

The guards did the damage for Phoenix, Paul Westphal scoring a season-high 32 points and rookie Ron Lee adding a career-high 30 in the nationally televised game. The Nuggets went ahead 63-62 with 8:40 to go in the third quarter, but Westphal's 13 points helped the Suns edge ahead 87-82 at the end of the third quarter.

Nets 94, Cavs 90

The Nets posted their third straight victory behind a career-high 37 points by Bubbles Hawkins, a second-year guard who was picked up as a free agent earlier this season.

Spurs 119, Knicks 96

San Antonio led 57-45 at the half, built the lead to 20 in the third period and stayed comfortably in front behind Louie Dampier's 11 fourth-quarter points. Larry Kenon led San Antonio with 24 points and George Gervin had 23.

Celtics 113, Braves 97

Boston snapped an 86-86 with a 14-2 burst midway through the final period, John Havlicek and Jo Jo White scoring three baskets each and Dave Cowens one in the spurt. Cowens led Boston with 28 points.

Pacers 111, Bulls 99

Indiana led 26-20 after one period and stayed in front as Billy Knight scored 23 points and Wil Jones added 20.

SuperSonics 107, Bucks 99

ETSU coasts, then trips up

By The Associated Press

Fame can be fleeting in Lone Star Conference basketball. Just ask East Texas State.

ETSU was coasting along unbeaten in league play then took a double shotgun blast last week, losing to Howard Payne 66-64 in overtime then tumbling 50-49 in a shocker Saturday night.

Howard Payne seized ETSU's sinking spell to take the lead in the LSC Western Zone by shaving Abilene Christian 79-78.

Howard Payne is now 8-1 in the LSC while East Texas is 7-2. Angelo State is close by at 7-3.

In the LSC East, Stephen F. Austin leaped to the top of the ladder with a 6-4 ledger while Sam Houston and Southwest Texas are tied for second place with 4-6 records.

In other games Saturday night, S.F. Austin trimmed Southwest Texas 77-73 and Sam Houston tripped Texas A&I 70-69.

The schedule tonight shows S.F. Austin at A&I, Abilene Christian at East Texas, Howard Payne at Tarleton State, and Sam Houston at Southwest Texas.

Hawks vie at 8 p.m. in Clarendon tilt

The Howard College Hawks, coming off their first road game win of the WJCAC slate, are back in Hawk gym tonight in a very crucial contest. The Hawks are currently, 7-5, tied for third place in the standings, and Clarendon, the visitors tonight, stand at 6-6, ready to climb into the very important fourth slot if the Preybirds should falter.

The Hawks have won five of their last six games and are battling it out for a spot in the Region V tournament in Abilene in March. Clarendon, likewise is on a roll, winning four of their last five, and led the Western Texas quintet by 12 in Snyder before finally dropping the contest by only four points.

The Hawks will rely on the quick moves of guards Mike Little and Russell Sublet, plus the tree-topping abilities of big men Paul Cathey, Joe Cooper and Lowell Walker. Reggie Leffall and Eugene Williams are the starting forwards, and Jim Ray and Johnny James are expected to be in the thick of battle as well.

The game will not start until 8 p.m. because the Hawk Queens will entertain the Sul Ross State fems at 6 p.m. in a preliminary game.

Friars tucked in by Cards

Final minute did it

By The Associated Press

From now on, the Providence Friars will have to make better use of their time.

They had nearly a whole minute Sunday, but didn't do anything positive with it.

Bruce Campbell missed a 15-foot shot with 52 seconds left, Bob Misevicius misfired with 12 seconds remaining and then Providence threw the ball away on an inbounds pass with three seconds on the clock.

This wasted effort added up to a 68-64 loss at Louisville in a battle of nationally-ranked college basketball powers.

"When you play a team as good as Louisville in Louisville," said Coach Dave Gavitt of the 15th-ranked Friars, "you have to play extremely well to win. I have no complaints about the officiating. I think we lost to a good team."

Except for the final minute, Providence made every second count against the ninth-ranked Cardinals. The Friars trailed at one time by 17 points before making a comeback that eventually wiped out the mountainous Louisville lead.

"We played so hard, we nearly ran out of gas," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "No doubt about it. We were tired. I thought after Providence caught up that they got a little tired also. Then, it was nip and tuck the rest of the way."

In another important game Sunday, the 12th-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats upset No. 6 Marquette 63-62.

In Saturday's action, top-ranked San Francisco defeated Nevada-Reno 98-81; secondranked UCLA turned back Washington St. 72-59; thirdrated Kentucky routed Vanderbilt 113-73; fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas nipped Rutgers 89-88; fifth-ranked Wake Forest outscored Virginia 80-72; No. 7 Michigan walloped Ohio State 93-72; No. 8 Alabama stopped LSU 77-70 in overtime; No. 9 Louisville clobbered Memphis State 111-92, and 10th-ranked Minnesota hammered Northwestern 79-53.

Tennessee, the country's No. 11 team, turned back Auburn 93-83; No. 13 North Carolina whipped Furman 88-71; No. 14 Arkansas nipped Houston 82-80; 17th-ranked Syracuse buried Northeastern 110-70; Illinois upset 18th-ranked Purdue 71-70 and No. 19 Arizona whipped Arizona State 99-83.

Before the Friars misused their last minute, freshman Darrell Griffith sank two free throws for Louisville to provide the Cardinals with their ultimate winning points. Griffith then hit a driving slam dunk at the buzzer for the final score.

Powered by Mike Jones' 20 points, Cincinnati held off Marquette and extended the nation's longest home-court winning streak to 57 games. The loss snapped Marquette's 10-game winning streak and provided Coach Gale Catlett with his 100th victory at Cincinnati in five years.

The Bearcats almost blew a nine-point lead with three minutes remaining. But Marquette guard Butch Lee missed a shot at the buzzer.

Marlon Redmond and Winford Boynes combined for 50 points to lead San Francisco past Nevada-Reno. The victory improved the country's best record to 23-0 and virtually locked up the West Coast Athletic Conference race for the powerful Dons.

David Greenwood and Roy Hamilton each scored 18 points in UCLA's victory. Frustrated inside by Washington State's big front line, the Bruins took their scoring outside with Hamilton and backcourt mate Jimmy Spillane hitting bombs. Spillane's sharp-shooting netted 14 points.

Mike Phillips paced a highpowered Kentucky attack with 24 points to lead the Wildcats to a runaway Southeastern Conference victory over Vanderbilt. Jack Givens added 21 points, Larry Johnson 19, Rick Robey 18 and Truman Claytor 16 to the awesome Kentucky offense.

Robert Smith scored 16 points, including the winning jump shot with 10 seconds left, as Nevada-Las Vegas survived a scare from Rutgers. Rod Griffin triggered two scoring bursts in the second half to lead Wake Forest past Atlantic Coast Conference rival Virginia.

John Robinson and Rickey Green combined for 43 points to power Michigan past Ohio State.

Texan needs a rest

Lietzke takes open

HONOLULU (AP) — Bruce Lietzke, suddenly one of pro golf's brightest young stars, says he needs some time off.

"I need to go home and think this thing out," the hard-hitting 25-year-old Texan said after scoring his second victory of the young season Sunday in the Hawaiian Open.

"I thought I was going to have to rearrange my schedule after winning Tucson (last month, his first pro title), but now I've really got to sit down and figure out where I'm going, what my goals are, what I'm going to do."

First, however, he puts the best record of the season on the line this week in the $200,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic and will play the following week in Los Angeles. After that, however, things are in doubt.

"I've never been overseas but I have a few things lined up now. I'm going to play in Japan and maybe Australia and New Zealand. I'm not sure about the British Open. It just depends on how many trips overseas I decide to make."

Lietzke, who added the Masters, the PGA and the Tournament of Champions to his schedule after winning Tucson, now has to fit in the World Series of Golf. As a multiple winner he joins Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson and World Cup winner Ernesto Perez Acosta as the only four men now eligible for that fall classic.

Lietzke, staked to this victory when old pro Don January blew the lead with a double bogey five on the 71st hole, had a final 69, three under par, and a 273 total, 15 under on the 7,234-yard Waialae Country Club course.

In four starts this season he now has finished fourth, first, 12th and first. The $48,000 he collected from the total purse of $240,000 boosted him into the season's money-winning lead with $100,550, more than he'd won in his two previous years on the tour.

"I don't know what to say. I'd have thought only one or two guys could have won this much this early in the season. I really can't explain it," he said.

A good portion of it involves his vast length off the tee. He played the par fives in this tournament 15 under and closed out the victory with a four-iron second shot to the par-five 18th and a 12-foot putt for an eagle.

Razorbacks have title in the bag

By The Associated Press

It's all over but the net cutting.

Arkansas, barring a collapse that would register 10 on the Richter Scale, has bagged the Southwest Conference basketball championship.

But the Razorbacks have a little unfinished business. They have a chance to be the winningest team in the school's history.

Back in 1935-1936, Glen Rose had a 24-3 club.

Arkansas shoots for victory No. 20 against one loss tonight when the 14th-ranked Razorbacks travel to New Orleans to play dangerous Tulane which has upset several teams in the Top Twenty this year.

Thanks to a pulsating 82-80 victory over Houston in Hofheinz Pavilion Saturday the Razorbacks have a three game lead with five to play. Arkansas is 11-0 to Houston's 7-3. Call off the hunt.

But there's a little thing left called the Southwest Conference postseason tournament. It's patterned after the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs and Texas A&M found out last year it can be a nasty little thing.

The Aggies waltzed through the regular season then were upset at Dallas by Texas Tech which got a ticket to the NCAA playoffs.

In March, the SWC tournament will be in Houston—at The Summit.

Arkansas, if it goes on to win its first SWC title since 1958, will get a pass all the way to the final game.

There's first round action on Feb. 26 and it appears Houston, Texas Tech, and Texas A&M will be three of the home teams for certain. There's a real fight between SMU and Texas for the fourth home spot. The second place team plays the ninth place club, the third place club hosts the eighth place team, etc.

Houston gave Arkansas it toughest game since the Razorbacks suffered their only defeat earlier in the season to Memphis State.

But Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said the Razorbacks coolness prevailed.

"The big thing was our poise," said Sutton. "We hung in there close. With the crowd and the way Houston was playing a lot of teams would have quit. Several times."

Now, Arkansas has a chance to become the first SWC team since the 1956 SMU outfit featuring Jim Krebs to go through league play undefeated.

Arkansas hosts Baylor on Thursday and Rice on Saturday.

In games Tueday night, Baylor is at Texas A&M, Houston is at Rice, smu is at Texas and Texas Tech, is at TCU.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to try to come to a better understanding with co-workers and friends. But evening brings a lack of understanding between persons so try to avoid any confrontations whatever.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Winding up any agreements with partners early is wise. Then you can be free to think out other matters in the afternoon. Avoid arguments. Concentrate on having more prestige.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk over your plans with fellow workers early and gain their cooperation easily. Take time to add new accessories to wardrobe.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make your plans now for what recreation you want to have later in the week, then get busy at whatever is important to your welfare. Buy a gift for a loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be extra courteous at home during the day and gain the favors you want. Make some addition at home that will be good for all concerned. Evening is fine for relaxation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Gain the advice you need from experts. Use your phone more and save time and money. Clarify some problem with kin and neighbors early.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care of financial affairs that are vital to your welfare. Then see how you could save more money for the future. If you have any doubts, get in touch with an expert. Follow advice exactly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go after your personal aims early in the day for best results. Put off social activities for later. Don't be led around by the nose by an inferior any longer. Assert yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigate early whatever is puzzling you and get the right answers. Gain more devotion from your mate by being more affectionate. Avoid a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) See as many persons as you can who could be of help to you today, whether in business or personal life. Some personal aim requires more effort on your part if it is to succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan time to see powerful individuals you know who can assist you to have more success in the future. Take your rightful place in the world. Handle any credit affairs intelligently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine new ideas during the day which should be put in operation early, but steer clear of new contacts in the afternoon. You are highly inspired now and can gain your aspirations.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Combine your good judgment with your hunches for best results during the day. But evening is not good for reaching important decisions. Try to please mate during the day.

Gold medalists look toward Olympic Games

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The nationals are over, the World Championships are on the horizon, but most of the gold medalists have Olympics on the mind.

Yes, the 1980 Olympics remain the major motivation for American amateur figure skaters. And in skating, before the lucrative ice shows, will come the Lake Placid Games.

Tai Babilonia, who teamed with Randy Gardner to win the senior pairs title, was asked on a biographical form what her plans were for future skating.

She simply wrote: "Olympic gold medal."

Linda Fratianne, the senior women's champion, was asked if she's thinking ahead to signing a pro contract. She laughed, and her coach, Frank Carroll, jumped in. "She wants to stay on until the Olympics," he said.

Of the gold medalists in the major events here at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, only Charles Tickner was uncertain whether he would skate in circles until 1980.

"I just don't know what I'll do," he said Friday after winning the men's title with an artistic skating display that earned him three perfect marks. "I just have to play it one year at a time."

Tickner, from Littleton, Colo., is 23, ancient for American figure skaters who know shaving only as a sliver of ice. But the rest of America's World Championship and Olympic hopefuls are young and eager enough to wait for the 1980 Games.

As good as they are now, they can only get better after experiencing international competition like the World Championships in Tokyo March 1-5.

In the pairs competition, the U.S. will be sending its top three teams, champion Tai Babilonia, 16, Mission Hills, Calif., and Randy Gardner, 19, Los Angeles; second-place finishers Gail Hamula and Frank Sweiding of Colorado Springs, Colo., and the No. 3 couple, Sheryl Franks, Lexington, Mass., and Michael Botticelli, Weston, Mass.

"The Russians have age and seasoning in their favor," said John Nicks, coach of the Babilonia-Gardner team. "But I think Randy and Tai are the best in musical interpretation, line, form and artistry.

"If the Russians make a slip and if Tai and Randy skate as well as I feel they can, there could be new world champions."

Tickner, who has never competed in a world championships, will lead a strong trio of senior men to Tokyo, including runnerup Scott Cramer of Colorado Springs, Colo. and David Santee, Park Ridge, Ill.

The American women's team in Tokyo will include Miss Fratianne, 16, Northridge, Calif.; runnerup Barbie Smith, 18, Denver, and Wendy Burge, 19, Colorado Springs.

In ice dancing, Judi Genovesi of Vernon, Conn., and Kent Weigle of West Hartford, Conn., who won the national title here, and Susan Kelley and Andrew Stroukoff of Claymont, Del., will also represent the U.S. in Tokyo.

Race down to last bucket

It appears 1977 is one of those years in which the Southland Conference basketball race is going right down to the last basket.

There's a three-way tie with McNeese State, Arkansas State and Lamar University clinging to the top ladder. Each team is 2-1.

The logjam should be broken somewhat this week with a full slate of play.

Arkansas State is at Southwestern Louisiana tonight while Lamar is at Texas-Arlington. Louisiana Tech hosts Georgia Southern in a non-conference contest.

On Thursday, McNeese State entertains UTA. McNeese gets Louisiana Tech at home Saturday while Arkansas State hosts Lamar.

McNeese State nudged Arkansas State 65-63 Saturday night in a crucial SLC game. Other standings in the league show Southwestern Louisiana at 3-2, Louisiana Tech at 2-3 and UTA at 0-3.

BOWLING

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

THE POSTMAN ALWAYS KNOCKS AND KNOCKS

DEAR MR. YOUNG: The most damaging trade in the history of basketball was the Nets giving Brian Taylor and Jim Eakins for Nate Archibald. If not for that, Julius Erving would still be a Net. Dr. J. was getting $230,000, and happy, until Nate arrived from KC with his $450,000 salary. —Richard Schiller, Levittown N.Y.

Dear Mr. Schiller: Yours is a popular misconception. Julius, through Irwin Weiner, started renegotiations prior to the trade for Archibald. Also, your figures aren't quite right. Dr. J was getting more upfront money from Nets than Tiny. Most of Archibald's 450 was deferred. He gets $150,000 a year currently. Erving got $185,000 plus bonuses that fattened his 1975-76 pay to $287,000. His 185 base would have been 220 this year had he stayed with Nets.

Dear Dick: You are a brazen racist, judging by your column on Marvin Barnes and Duane Thomas. — William Wilson, Greewnich, Conn.

Dear Bill: I can't stand spoiled ingrates who squander their talent, white or black.

Dear Mr. Dick Young: As a kid, I always played hustling baseball, imitating Enos Slaughter. He belongs in Cooperstown and will be there as soon as some baseball writers think back a few years. — Roger Hickman, Rose City, Mich.

Dear Mr. Roger Hickman: Slaughter has, I believe, two more shots and will be given close scrutiny by the BBWAA.

Good Morning Mr. Young: Let me say that the claim of AFC superiority over NFC is way off base. Don't forget that three of the AFC Super Bowl victories were by strong teams transferred from the NFL in the merger. — Carl E. Froelich, Wright City, Missouri.

Good Day Mr. Froelich: Baltimore, when it switched, was a good team that had finished second in its last NFL year. Pittsburgh, in its last NFL year, was the worst team in the league, with 1-and-13. The Steelers were rebuilt and reborn as an AFC team. Their two Supe wins are strictly AFC.

Dear Mr. Young: Baseball's Hall of Fame voting has become strictly a popularity contest. If not, why wasn't Eddie Mathews voted in? He hit the same total of 512 home runs that Ernie Banks did. — Milton Herman, Jr., Irvington, N.J.

Dear Dr. Herman, Jr.: There is, hard to believe, more to baseball than home runs. Banks was, through much of his career a fine shortstop who hit home runs, a rare combination. But yes, popularity does count, in baseball, in voting, in life.

Dear Dick: Why doesn't Pete Rozelle do something about the ethics in the NFL? How come the public didn't know Fran Tarkenton was going into the Super Bowl with a bad knee that kept him out of the pro bowl a week later? — "Hyginus," New Suffolk, N.Y.

Dear Hy: Much was written about Fran's questionable knee prior to Supe XI, despite his claim he was 100 per cent. Either he lied, or he was, after the game, alibiing his poor performance.

Dear Dr. Young: What good will it do to put Marvin Barnes in jail? He certainly can be rehabilitated more effectively outside prison. — John D. Littlehole, Newport, Ky.

Dear Mr. Littlehole: The sentencing of Marvin Barnes is exemplary punishment, serving as a deterrent to others, showing that even a high-priced athlete cannot break the law with impunity. The alternative was to have him work with kids. Would you want your children lectured by a man who has made it a practice of beating the rap?

Dear Dick: I was a poor white kid who went to bed hungry many times. We were so poor the Waltons sent us Care packages. I mention this because Reggie Jackson wants to play a ballgame for benefit of poor black kids only. He didn't suggest he wanted only black fans to buy tickets. As Muhammad Ali said, if he had to depend on black fans he would starve. I now make $150 a week, before taxes, and I go to games. — Harry Blake, Jamaica, N.Y.

Dear Harry: As blacks share more in our economy, they support sports events more. Reggie's charitable specifications were well-intended, poorly expressed, for the common reason that many black people can't conceive of whites being poor.

Fickle finger of fan judges

NEW YORK (AP) — The last of the original Mets, big Ed Kranepool, says the fickle fan will render the final verdict on baseball's 1977 free agent money binge.

"Teams such as the New York Yankees and California Angels, who put out $4 million and $5 million for new players, will really be on the spot," he warns. "They have to win to justify that kind of dough.

"Fans will be expecting an instant pennant. If they don't get it, they will start calling the players greedy and say all the players want is more money without putting out.

"They'll have a right to scream. And no telling what it will do to team morale."

None can speak more knowledgeably of the vagaries of the baseball public than this strapping native New Yorker who signed as a $62,000 bonus baby with the Mets right out of high school in 1962 and has never worn another uniform.

He went through those fumbling, stumbling formative years when the Mets were baseball's loveable clowns and soared with them to the pinnacles of a World Series championship in 1969 and another National League pennant in 1973.

Now 32 years old, with a new lease on life as a steady-hitting first baseman and pinch-hitter, he is entering his 15th season with the security of a three-year contract at $100,000 a year.

It may sound like pocket-change in the light of the multimillion dollar contracts handed out to the likes of Reggie Jackson, Don Gullett, Joe Rudi and Bobby Grich, but Kranepool shrugs it off philosophically.

"They're the super stars," he says. "They are the creatures of an unusual period in baseball history. These free agent salaries are not realistic. In a few years this will all be gone and the game will return to some degree of normalcy.

"Me? I am just one of the guys. I do my job.

'Team Snail' not so slow

Porsche wins Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "I may be slow, but I'm ahead of you."

The motto of the Ecurie Escargot Porsche applied to everyone at the finish of the 24 Hours of Daytona.

When the checkered flag dropped at 3 p.m. Sunday the Ecurie Escargot entry was about 10 miles ahead its nearest challenger, and its members had a good chuckle over their little inside joke.

What is Ecurie Escargot?

Actually, explains Dave Helmick, one of the three winning co-drivers, it was his idea for a racing club name that he came up with while serving in the military.

"It's French," said the bearded Miami doctor. "Roughly, ecurie is team. Escargot means snail.

"Team Snail — I may be slow, but I'm ahead of you."

The "slow" Porsche that Helmick, three-time winner Hurley Haywood and John Graves drove to victory gave up plenty of horsepower to the speedy Porsche 935 turbos and the Inaltera prototypes — in fact to just about everybody.

But when it came to endurance, the name of the game really, the supposedly obsolete Porsche Carrera was without peer.

The team covered 2,615 miles at an average of nearly 109 miles an hour.

Faster cars led the event until barely three hours remained. But reliability was not their strong suit.

Leaders for most of the race were Reinhold Joest of Germany and Frenchman Bob Wollek in a Porsche 935. Nagging problems with a left front wheel finally forced them to make a agonizing 17-minute pit stop for repairs, and their lead slipped away for keeps. They finished a distant third behind Italians Martino Finotto and Carlo Facetti in a Porsche 935.

Peter Gregg and his new codriver Jim Busby challenged the Joest-Wollek car between midnight and 3 a.m. Sunday, but a three-hour stop to rebuild their transmission later cost them 100 laps.

Prerace favorites Jacky Ickx of Belgium and Jochen Mass of Germany drove an incredible race, punishing their Porsche 935 every lap. Mass punished it severely twice against the east banking wall. The second time tore off everything on the right side of the car, just as the team had moved back from 25th to second, eight hours from the finish.

It had led most of the first three hours until it crashed the first time. Danny Ongais, a former drag racer who burned up his engine after only 90 minutes, was the only other leader.

Both French Inaltera prototypes were long gone at the finish. The lead car lasted until past halfway, running as high as second once.

The other car, driven by women's champions Christine Beckers of Belgium and Lella Lombardi of Italy, was involved in the race's most spectacular accident. Amazingly, no one was hurt.

Miss Beckers said a slower car forced her into the outside wall on the high-banked portion of the course, and she spun.

Missing grain dealer alive, well, friend says

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP) — Constable Ben Cash says he thought something was wrong last month when he first read about the reported drowning of Robert Johnson.

And the officer backed up his suspicions Sunday by asserting the North Texas grain dealer was alive and living in northern Mexico.

Cash's account coincided with a copyrighted story in Sunday's Dallas morning News and a report by the Corpus Christi Caller-Times that Johnson was alive based statements of a person who claimed to have knowledge of Johnson's plans.

Johnson's disappearance Jan. 3 from a pleasure boat off Port Aransas set off an investigation of grain elevators operated by Johnson in Wichita Falls and Iowa Park.

State officials said their probe shows several hundred thousand bushels of grain were missing from the facilities.

Cash, who said his investigation was now closed, said he had verified that Johnson was seen in Belize in Central America the three days after his disappearance.

The Dallas News quoted an unidentified man, who claimed to be a friend of Johnson, as saying the grain dealer faked the drowning and changed his appearance through plastic surgery.

The News quoted the friend as saying Johnson has been living on a Mexican ranch about 75 miles from Eagle Pass in Southwest Texas.

Cash, 50, said Johnson made a trip from Belize to Mexico City where plastic surgery was performed. Cash said the operation cost $2,500.

The constable said a witness, whom Cash declined to identify, had seen Johnson in an area south of Eagle Pass.

The witness underwent a polygraph test that indicated he was telling the truth, Cash said.

Cash said he has not determined that Johnson has committed any crime.

The constable said all he was concerned with "was whether or not there was foul play involved, whether or not he was missing or whether he probably died of natural causes or whether it was a planned disappearance."

Cash said he had been supboeanaed to appear Feb. 14 in Wichita Falls before a federal grand jury set to investigate the Johnson case.

According to the Dallas News, Johnson's friend gave the following account of the grain dealer's disappearance:

Two Corpus Christi women and three of Johnson's employes were aboard the boat with Johnson in the early hours of Jan. 3 "more or less as witnesses."

Johnson, clad in a diver's suit, waited until the boat was beached on a sandbar in the channel where "Bobby had his feet on the bank itself"

He waded ashore and climbed into the trunk of a car that took him to the Corpus Christi airport where a private plane waited to take him to Belize, just south of Mexico.

Johnson and some friends stayed in Belize about three days before returning to the ranch by way of Mexico City and Eagle Pass.

"He looked younger than his 43 years, was wearing a paste-on mustache and had lost part of his big belly," the friend reportedly said.

The friend said Johnson began planning his escape last August when "things started getting rough with the late harvest of wheat.

"He was going to have to get out and get it over with," the friend said.

Mayor helps re-enact deadly el accident

CHICAGO (AP) — With the mayor aboard, investigators led an elevated train through a simulated replay of a crash that killed 11 persons and found that the motorman had a clear view of a stationary train before he hit it.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators also said a preliminary check of the wreckage showed that the rear train's emergency warning system was working when the accident occurred.

On Sunday, the investigators, Chicago Transit Authority officials and Mayor Bilandic boarded a train and simulated conditions at the crash site on the Loop in downtown Chicago.

Kay Bailey, NTSB vice chairman, said the simulation, conducted at the same time of day as the accident, showed there was no obstruction of the driver's window which would prevent a motorman from seeing another train stopped ahead.

CTA officials Saturday cited "man failure" as the cause of the accident after inspecting the wreckage and talking with the train's motorman, Stephen Martin, who is hospitalized in serious condition.

CTA Chairman James McDonough said Martin, 34, told him that the train's warning system was operating, but that he did not see the stationary train in time to stop before plowing into its rear.

McDonough, blaming Martin for the accident, declined to say what the motorman did wrong. Martin was not available for comment.

Federal officials said Martin may have violated CTA rules by failing to notify the CTA controller when he proceeded despite a flashing red light in his cab. A steady red light requires the motorman to come to a complete stop, but a flashing red light allows him to move ahead at a speed under 15 miles per hour after notifying the controller.

Elmer Garner, head of the NTSB's railroad division, said Martin apparently stopped for a steady warning light but then started moving on a flashing signal without telling the controller.

Odessa office hears appeals

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock has announced that taxpayers served by his Odessa Field Office now can have oral appeals of tax assessments heard at that office instead of having to travel to Austin for the hearing.

"We just didn't think it was fair to require aggrieved Odessa-area taxpayers to travel all the way to Austin for an oral hearing, so we have decided to take the hearing to them," Bullock said.

Any taxpayer who feels that the taxes assessed him by the Comptroller's Officer are wrong or unfair has the right to appeal, Bullock noted. The aggrieved taxpayer may request an oral hearing or present his arguments in writing.

In the past, taxpayers who have requested an oral hearing have had to come to Austin to present their case. Now they can request the hearing be held in the nearest field office if they live roughly 200 miles from Austin or more.

Because of the trouble and expense involved, many aggrieved taxpayers probably have paid taxes they felt were unfair rather than travel all the way to Austin for an oral hearing, Bullock said.

Bullock urged taxpayers to contact the nearest Comptroller's office to see if they are eligible to have their appeal locally.

The Odessa Field Office, headed by Sherman P. Carrell, is located at 106 Columbia Bldg., 810 N. Dixie Rd. It is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on week days. The telephone number is 337-1545.
