Lloyd Ward Is Winner In Cotton Guessing Contest

Top winner in the 1960 Memphis Democrat Cotton Guessing Contest is Lloyd Ward of Memphis, who guessed within seven bales of the official report figure. Total ginning figures were released this week by the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce.

Ward's guess was 59,600, and the official report recorded 59,593 bales as Hall County's cotton yield for 1960.

Second place goes to Mrs. H. W. Wolf, Rt. 1, Memphis, who missed the official figure by 295 bales with a guess of 59,888.

Roland Salmon, Rt. 1, Lakeview, takes third place honor with a guess of 59,991, 398 bales over the official total.

With the exception of Ward's guess, which is one of the closest estimates to the actual total in the history of the contest—only seven bales off—the winners in this year's contest were not as close as the other winners.

For coming closest to the number of bales produced in the county, Ward has been awarded a three-year subscription to The Democrat.

Mrs. Wolf was awarded the second prize, a two-year subscription, and Salmon received a year's subscription, which is the third prize of the contest.

In the top 10 besides the winners were: Mrs. L. J. Tusk of Grove, Okla., Ted Myers, F. L. Bevers, Whimpy Widener, Royce Frisbie, Y. Z. Taylor, Linda Trent, W. F. Adams, Walter G. Guth and Mrs. Maude Chaudoin.

Around 200 persons participated in the contest.

According to the cotton ginning report from the Bureau of Census, Briscoe County produced 24,060, Childress 27,474, Collingsworth 40,506, Donley 9,101, Motley 18,371, and Hall 59,593. With the exception of Donley County, all others increased their yield over the 1959 figures. Hall County produced 13,434 bales more in 1960 than in 1959, the report revealed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Sacred Story

—by Mrs. W. B. Funk

As Sunday is Easter, the day we celebrate the resurrection of our Lord, I would like for us to think about the sacred story. At the crossroad of history stands a cross. Its shadows reaching through the centuries of time revealing God to man, and in looking back along the pathway of the shadow, we see Jesus standing before the Roman governor and his accusers. And yet, He uttered no word of complaint. Somewhere on the outside, the disciples had scattered; one had dared to follow the crowd, but later he denied he knew Jesus. Anouther betrayed his master for thirty pieces of silver. These, the most intimate friends of Jesus, presented a tragic picture; and yet, it had been only a few days since Jesus' popularity was high when He rode into Jerusalem.

The common people heard Him gladly and declared Him to be the Son of the living God. Still earlier we find Jesus in the wilderness meditating upon His mission or His work. He had been a young man in His Nazareth home; a lad in the temple. At the age of 12, a babe in Bethlehem, there had come to him voices out of the past, voices of hope and expectation that later led Him to the cross where the Son of God died.

But Calvary was not the end. In looking forward we see the shadow aa it lengthens through the centuries of time. It is the symbol of victory and not defeat and as I wrote, it seems that I can see Him as he climbs the hillside of Golgatha bearing the cross of suffering and shame. Broken-hearted, our Saviour died for the redemption of man, and I can imagine—

I can see His mother standing by the cross where they crucified her son; but what does this all mean to us? Jesus said, "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me". Easter is such a wonderful time for us to rededicate our lives to Christ. Our is a commission to go and teach all nations. No, the cross and cross bearing did not end with the resurrection of Jesus. It was glorified and made vital in all human relationship and is a symbol of an inner spirit that binds men eternally to the heart of God.

Homer Burleson Gets Chevrolet Selling Award

Homer Burleson has been awarded the Chevrolet Motor Division's highest selling honor. Burleson, a member of the sales staff of Potts Chevrolet Co., was named to membership in Chevrolet's "Legion of Leaders" Honor Club at a special award banquet attended by fellow members from the Division's Oklahoma City Zone. This is his third entry into the select group of Chevrolet salesmen.

For a quarter of a century Chevrolet has recognized its leading salesmen. It's first "Honor Organization" was inaugurated in 1926. Now, 25 years after its inception, the "Legion Leaders" is considered the most rewarding recognition program for salesmen in the automotive industry, according to company officials.

Fred H. Husbands of Abilene Speaks At Local Chamber Director's Meeting

Fred H. Husbands, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, of Abilene, spoke at directors' breakfast of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development last Thursday.

The breakfast was held at 7 a. m. in the Cyclone Drive-Inn.

The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the local organization's leaders with the program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Husbands stated that the job of the West Texas C. of C. was the molding, or mobilizing of public opinion in the 132-county region it serves. He explained the history of the founding of the organization and its first three programs.

An economist hired by the organization recommended, following a survey, that the greatest opportunity for future development in the field of agriculture was in the field of better feeding of beef cattle, hogs and lambs, Mr. Husbands said.

He listed for the group the names of the different agriculture conferences the organization sponsors or helps sponsor, explaining that the latest of these was a tour for Texas farmers to visit Iowa stock farmers to see how they feed their cattle.

Mr. Husbands also discussed the role the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is playing in trying to obtain sugar beet allotments for High Plains farmers. He then discussed the industrial development program, community service program and clinic, and the leader's workshop for Chamber officials.

"Water is the most essential single item we have in this area," he said, "and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has a better understanding of the water problems and their solutions than any other organization." He explained that since it was founded the organization has been working in this field.

In the field of state and national affairs, he explained that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a "state's rights organization." He said the organization opposes the extension of payments under the unemployment program, federal aid for education, minimum wage raises, compulsory medical care for the aged under Social Security, and the federal aid to depressed areas program.

In the field of state affairs, he said the organization is most concerned with the state operating in the red. He explained that the cost of state government will increase steadily even if no new programs are undertaken.

"We must get more new jobs from industry in the state, because the agriculture and petroleum fields will not be hiring any large numbers in the future," he stated. "Until the state government is put on a sound financial basis, new industry will not be attracted to Texas," he explained.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is for a retail sales tax to bring in the necessary revenue to run the state government. He said that Texas is falling far behind in the fields of law enforcement, care for the mentally ill, and educational aid for schools and colleges.

A short discussion was held on the retail sales tax following Mr. Husbands' talk.

Ozelma Miller of Lubbock visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fowler Sunday. She and the Fowlers visited the Leon Fowler family of Lesley Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Lloyd Hamilton of Borger was a Memphis vistor Wednesday. He is a former pastor of the First Methodist Church here.

NOTICE

To Voters of The Memphis Independent School District

As friends, and being qualified voters, we announce the candidacy of Charles Snowdon, Robert Moss, and Alvin Phillips to the Board of Trustees of the Memphis Independent School District.

We appeal to the sense of fair play of the citizens of the District, our appeal having been brought about by an unfortunate incident in connection with the filing of our candidates for election to the Board.

Well in advance of the deadline for filing, our candidates gave to us their permission to petition that their names be placed on the ballot. Through a misunderstanding of the election law of Texas, our petitions were filed with the County Judge, instead of the Board of Trustees of the School District. The error was not discovered until after the deadline for filing, and under the Texas election laws our names could not legally be placed on the ballot.

We believe that all concerned acted in good faith, and that there was no malice on the part of anyone in the mistakes that were made. We hold no ill will whatever.

However, since our candidates had agreed to seek election at our request, and thought that their petitions had been legally filed, we now appeal to the qualified voters of the district to support them, just as though their names were on the ballot.

This can only be done by writing in their names. We use this means of soliciting your support. Your write-in vote will be appreciated.

Here are the reasons we have asked our friends to seek election to this important job:

Each of them has children. They offer their services to the community as a public duty.

They are not running against something, but FOR better schools and better educational opportunities for our children. It is not their desire to disrupt our system, but to build it up.

They believe that if the people of this school district will unite solidly behind our school system, it can offer better and improved facilities — a better educational future for our children.

Each of them will appreciate your vote and influence.

Deadline Given For O. A. Entry Fees For Conclave

The Order of Arrow Conclave for the Region 9-A District will be held April 28-29-30 in the Midland Scout Council at Buffalo Trails Scout Ranch at Tayahvale, Texas.

The tentative plan is as follows: each Scout will pay $6.00 entry dues for the trip. Additional cost of $3.00 or $4.00 for bus fare will be paid. Buses will be furnished by Pampa and Borger Scout troops. Each Scout will supply his own bedroll and personal equipment. The council will supply tents for the conclave.

All O.A. Scouts who hold a card dated Dec. 31, 1961, will receive material soon for the conclave. All Scouts whose membership card has expired should send their $1.50 dues for the year in by the weekend plus $7.00 registration fee for conclave by April 5, Ted Myers, Comanche District O.A. advisor, said.

A review of the book, "Splendid American, Dr. Tom Dooley," was given in a most impressive manner by Mrs. Browder. She told, in a colorful fashion, of the work of Dr. Tom Dooley, an ex-Navy dctor, who made a name for himself by healing natives in Laos. In a span of four short years he accomplished more than most people do in a lifetime.

Tasty refreshments were served from an attractively laid tea table.

AFS Chapter Makes Plans To Sponsor Student

The local chapter of the American Field Service met March 18 in the home of the president, Mrs. David Aronofsky.

During the business session, members voted to sponsor another foreign student to the Memphis High School next year. At the present time, the chapter is sponsoring a German student, Hiner Ludemann, who is making his home with the Ace Gailey family.

"Letters have been mailed to clubs and individuals who participated in the program the past year requesting financial assistance again this year," Mrs. Aronofsky said.

"We will again need a family home for the student," she stated. "Any family who is interested in keeping a student should make application with Mrs. Mildred Stephens."

Subcommittee of the Com- on Interstate and Foreign erce has held some recent rs on educational television. are a continuation of the gs that have been held on bject for the past several At the recent hearings, ding educators (including gan Wilson, Chancellor of iversity of Texas) from all e nation appeared and gave ny in support of early act- the Federal government to possible the use of tele- channels set aside for pub- educational purposes. The channels have been assigned to pri- rporations and individuals public property and con- e use of the spectrum. The sters or broadcasting sta- ve a license to use these ls. reason that so few of the onal channels have been is due primarily to the lack of funds. Most of the States have been hesitant to create an authority and provide funds for the use of these educational channels. Many institutions of higher learning have been anxious to obtain licenses to operate on these channels. However, the lack of funds available to these educational institutions has been the major stumbling block. Some of the States have instituted programs to take advantage of these facilities. The State of Alabama is using educational television in a substantial majority of its public schools, and takes the position that it has been highly successful and will prove more so.

The bills before the House of Representatives provide for Federal grants of approximately $1 million to each State for the purpose of purchasing facilities and equipment necessary to start operation of these stations. As you can probably suspect, there are many problems involved. One of the issues is whether or not a grant of this kind would be Federal aid to education. The next question is whether or not the license to operate the channel should be granted to a State authority, to the public school system of the State, to several of the institutions of higher learning, to an organization made up of educational institutions, or be set up as an arm of the Federal government operating on a regional basis. The thought is that if the channel should be granted to a private or a single educational institution, any Federal grants would certainly constitute Federal aid to education. It is generally conceded that the use of these channels should not be confined to teaching school alone. If the channel is to be utilized, a proper allocation of time could result in beneficial information for all persons of all ages.

In any event, there will be much pro and con on this subject during this term of Congress. Certainly it is a subject that should be exhaustively studied. The wonders of television and its many possibilities provide a great challenge to man. Properly used, this discovery and medium could and should make a great contribution to the enlightenment of man, to the advancement of civilization, and to the realization of universal peace.

The President's Farm Program

Most of you realize the difficulties and the trials and tribulations that have been experienced in trying to work out a farm program which would be in balance with the other segments of the economy. The President's message to the Congress on this subject touched on just about every phase of the agricultural picture. Each of these phases will receive a separate study and evaluation. Subsequent messages will no doubt provide much more information as to the Administration's thinking on these subjects.

However, one particular suggestion of the President should receive a complete re-evaluation. I have reference to the following paragraphs contained in his message:

"Programs formulated in accordance with the enabling legislation here proposed and involving controls over production and marketing should not go into effect until approved by a majority of two-thirds of the producers voting under regularly authorized voting procedures and there should be legislation to this end. Such voting will be after full opportunity for debate and discussion and will insure that the producers of no commodity will be asked to accept programs to which they have not given strong affirmative approval.

"All comprehensive programs prepared under existing and requested authority will be duly submitted to the Congress of the United States not less than sixty days before taking effect. If within the sixty-day period the program is rejected by either House of the Congress, the program will not go into effect. Thus no agricultural program will be adopted if it is regarded adversely by a majority of either House of the Congress."

I cannot support this procedure. It is, in effect, reversing the legislative process. Under our Constitution, legislation is supposed to be prepared and passed by the Congress. It is then submitted to the Executive Branch of the government, which is headed by the President. The veto power is vested in the President. If he approves of legislation, he signs it. If he disapproves of it, he vetoes it. In such last event, in order for such a measure to become law, a a two-thirds majority vote of both Houses of the Congress is required. If we should follow the suggestion of the President as above quoted it would be, in effect, permitting the Executive Branch to write a law and submit it to the Congress for veto. Inaction by the Congress and failure to veto the proposal would constitute approval by acquiescence. Although this method has been used a number of times in the last several years, it has never had my full approval. It is reversing the lawmaking process as laid down in the Constitution. It has been used in the Eisenhower and previous Adminstrations for departmental reorganization and other purposes. This, however, does not, in my opinion, constitute a sufficient precedent to employ the method further. It might work all right in the particular agricultural situation involved, but we must remember that its use could be extended to other segments of the economy. Such practice could develop to the point that our entire lawmaking process could be completely reversed.

SENATOR ☆☆☆ Yarborough's Report

Dear Fellow Texan:

The latest unemployment report shows that we had 7,000 fewer Texans working in the oil industry in our state in January 1961, than were employed by the Texas oil industry in January 1960.

Texas crude production declined 50-million barrels in 1960, from 1959 and the total number of allowable days production was cut to only 104 days in 1960 compared to the 123 days production that was allowed in 1959.

In order to put Texans back to work and to stimulate our Texas economy, during this new session of Congress I'm renewing my efforts to stem the huge flow of excessive oil imports. I have urged that oil imports be cut at least 100,000 barrels daily.

The new Adminstration must have adequate time to review the situation and then to act to stop this flood of excessive oil imports. Interior Secretary Udall has announced that a study is already underway. After a reasonable period, if a realistic control program is not invoked, I'll continue working for passage of a tariff to protect the domestic oil industry from monopolistic pressures of the international oil cartel. Such a tariff measure was introduced by me in the 85th and 86th Congress.

Amending the Internal Revenue Code to substantially increase the import duties on petroleum and petroleum products would have two highly desirable effects.

First, it would curb the flood of excessive oil imports in order to permit full employment and healthy development of the domestic petroleum industry.

Secondly, it would add tens of millions of dollars to the national treasury each year by requiring importers of oil to pay an equitable duty on cheap foreign production.

Cheap tax free foreign oil imports are taking the "free" out of free enterprise for our Texas independent oil men. I have no prejudice against the importers, no desire to cut off American investment abroad, but I have a deep concern for the continued existence of a body of independent American oil producers who have given us a competitive industry in the past and who hold our only hope for keeping a competitive oil industry in the future.

FIRST CHOICE of TEXAS VOTERS

Senator William A.

BLAKLEY

★ SENATOR BLAKLEY is the winner of the Texas Poll directed by Joe Belden and subscribed to by 21 leading Texas newspapers. He also is the first choice in many other surveys and polls conducted throughout Texas.

SENATOR BLAKLEY'S ACTION PROGRAM FOR TEXAS

$100 MILLION MORE ANNUALLY FOR SCHOOLS: A home-rule aid-to-education plan that would return to each state 5 per cent of federal income taxes for support of locally administered public schools. In Texas this would mean over $100 million more annually for our schools — without federal interference!

INCOME TAX RELIEF FOR PRESSED PARENTS: Also, for families putting their children through school, additional income tax exemptions of $1,200 for college or university student, $400 for son or daughter in high school. Parents deserve a tax break!

A HELPING HAND FOR OUR SENIOR CITIZENS: A bill to raise ceiling on what Social Security recipients may earn without being penalized. Senator Blakley would raise ceiling from $1,200 to $1,800 a year to help many retired persons.

SHARP REDUCTION IN FOREIGN OIL IMPORTS: Reduce by one half the amount of foreign oil being brought into U. S. Texas' economy, schools, state government, all suffer when foreign oil floods market, causes Texas production to shut down.

INDEPENDENCE! WE MUST KEEP IT ALWAYS: Retain Connally Amendment to World Court. United States should maintain its sovereignty without question. Senator Blakley is fighting against repeal of this vital guarantee.

LET'S KEEP SENATOR BLAKLEY IN THE U.S. SENATE

Symbols of Easter History Explained

It wouldn't be Easter without baskets of brightly colored eggs, but how did they come to be associated with the great holiday of the resurrection?

World Book Encyclopedia's religious editor, Mrs. Francis Glagsburn, reports that eggs represent the new life that begins in the spring about Easter time. The ancient Persians believed that the earth had hatched from a giant egg. Persians and Egyptians used to exchange colored eggs with their friends. Early Christians adapted the custom of coloring eggs to Easter.

Some legends credit the Easter bunny with bringing the eggs. The rabbit, too, is an old symbol of birth and new life. Moreover, the rabbit, or the hare, has long been associated with the moon. It may have become an Easter symbol because the moon determines the date of the holiday.

Lighting candles at Easter was a custom in Rome back in the 200's. One church father declared that "on the night of the resurrection no one should sleep and everyone should have a light, for on that night the Redeemer made everyone free from the darkness of sin and the grave." The large paschal candle used in Roman Catholic services represents Christ risen from the dead as the light of the world. It is blessed and studded with five grains of incense, symbolizing the wounds of Christ.

One of the traditional Easter foods and a figure in many decorations for the holiday is the lamb. This symbol comes from the Jewish Pesah, or Passover, celebration. The Jews used to sacrifice a paschal lamb in the Temple at Jerusalem during Passover. Early Christians saw in this sacrifice a forecast of the sacrifice of Christ. They referred to Him as "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

The most universal symbol of Easter, and of Christianity itself, is, of course, the cross. Many ancient peoples, such as the Phoenicians, Assyrians and Persians, considered the cross a religious object. To some American Indians it is said to have been a symbol of the four cardinal points of the compass. At the time of Christ, however, it was representative of the most shameful and cruel form of execution. The death of Christ transformed it from an object of humiliation into a symbol of glory.

Mrs. Neva Hickey Purchases Saieds

Mrs. Neva Hickey has purchased Saied's, ladies ready-to-wear shop, located on the south side of the square, according to an announcement made this week by Alex Saied of Childress, former owner.

The business will continue operation in the same location, according to the new owner. However, the name will be changed from Saied's to Neva's Shoppe.

Mrs. Hickey has served as manager of the shop since it was opened here nearly two years ago.

Mrs. Hickey said Mrs. Leona Liner will continue serving with the firm as a full-time employee. She extended an invitation to customers and friends to come by and visit with them.

CANCER CONTROL MONTH — Governor Price Daniel this week presented the Sword of Hope, symbol of Cancer Control, to the Jack E. Walsh family of Lubbock, Texas 1961 Cancer Family. Gov. Daniel also proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month in Texas. Pictured with the Governor are Mrs. Walsh, Mr. Walsh, John Walsh, David Walsh, and Erick Jonsson, chairman of the American Cancer Society's 1961 Texas Crusade.

By Vern Sanford

Not everyone fishes. But most people would like to fish occasionally. Usually the excuse is "I just don't seem to find the time."

Recently, over a period of several days, I asked everyone I chatted with — old friends and new friends — one question: "Do you ever go fishing?"

Answers ranged from "Never" to "Occasionally" to "I go as often as I can."

Invariably the person who said "NEVER" would add, in tones of wishfulness, "I just don't have the time." Lots of them seemed to have a guilty feeling about it. Sorta like "I know I oughta get out and away from everything. . . once in awhile . . . but I just don't."

Those are the fellows who need it most. I want to direct this message especially to them, because I've been in their position. I know exactly how they feel, and I know that they need to go fishing, perhaps more than they realize.

Usually such persons go "all out" in anything and everything they do. They work night and day on the job. Or they devote 80 per cent of their non-sleeping hours to civic work. Or they take on too many committee assignments — from the club, or the church, or the multitude of other organizations in the hometown, or the district, sometimes even the state.

As long as it is fun to do these things; as long as they accomplish them without pushing themselves too hard; so long as they are just burning up excess energy — they are not hurting their minds or their bodies.

But there comes a time when everyone needs a little diversion. The farther the diversion can be from the routine activities of his everyday living, the better that diversion will be for him.

I firmly believe that is why fishing is so popular as a recreation. Another factor, of course, is that it can be cheap recreation. It doesn't have to be costly.

Usually there's a place to fish that is not much farther away than the golf course. One does not have to wear fancy duds. That helps the budget a great deal.

He can rent a boat, if one is needed. Also a motor. So he doesn't necessarily have to buy either.

He can purchase as bait a can of worms, or two dozen minnows, for 50c. Artificial lures that last and last range in pice fom 35c to $1.50.

He won't lose any more lures than he will golf balls, and most likely far less. Of course if he's a dubber like me, and in the rough most of the time, he might come out ahead in the golfing game by finding more balls than he loses.

Anyway, considering everything, fishing is about the cheapest pastime available.

Of course one can go all out with fishing gear the same as in hunting, or golfing, or bowling. . . in fact any participating sport. One big difference, however, is the great opportunity fishing affords for relaxation. It's the best tension-reliever ever discovered.

We've participated in most all sports, at one time or another — track, tennis, baseball, basketball, football — to name some of the more strenuous. We've done our share of bowling, golfing, swimming, even bicycling and motor cycling. You name it and we've done it, or tried to do it, and a good bit of most of them. But there is nothing, nay nothing, more relaxing to this scribe, than hunting or fishing. . . and especially the latter.

Like most everyone else. . . if we've tried it we want you to try it . . . and our best argument is that it's good for you.

Unfortunately the fellows who need relaxation the most usually do the smallest amount of it.

Take the doctor, for example, or the druggist, or the banker, or the retail merchant, or the service station manager, or the executive of any business, firm or corporation — including the newspaper publisher. All of them work under tension every day — high, nervous tension.

Why?

Because they have the responsibility of serving lots of people. . . all kinds of people. They have greater responsibility than the average man. There are hundreds of such business men . . . and women, too . . . rushing hither and yon, tending their tedious tasks, selling their services, or peddling their products.

They need to stop this go—go—go life of theirs, long enough for a change of pace.

Okay. Then what's more relaxing than a complete reversal of activity?

A few hours' angling from the bank of a quiet stream, or a farm pond, or in a boat far out on some costal bay, is the answer to the high-tension problem. It will ease the mind. The exercise that goes with it will do wonders for the body.

Surprising as it may seem to you who may not have tried this prescription, you'll get more work done than ever before. . . when you return to your job.

So, don't kid yourself into thinking that you can't afford the time off to go fishing. It just could be that you can't afford not to do so.

THANKS

To my former customers

I want to take this means to express my appreciation to everyone in the Memphis area who patronized my store while I owned it. Thanks for the nice business which I enjoyed.

The store was recently purchased by Mrs. Neva Hickey, who is well-known to everyone. She will operate it at the same location, south side of square, and will continue to feature fine merchandise for women and girls.

The new owner is familiar with all phases of this type of business, and I believe she will serve the people well in the future. I wish for her every success in the enterprise.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

I count it one of the great blessings of life that the newspapermen of Texas have bestowed their friendship upon me.

One time, though, one editor got mad; he blamed me for something that I had nothing to do with and I would have explained this to him if the opportunity had only been given. But he wrote a fiery article in which he declared, "Boyce House lost Fort Worth a million dollars on Casa Manana" —(referring to the Centennial celebration of 1936 and also the following season).

This accusation disturbed me. In the first place, Billy Rose was the producer; I was only the publicity director. In the second place, the show was not put on to make money but to publicize Fort Worth and keep Dallas, as the scene of the official State Centennial, from getting all the limelight. (You don't give a party to make money but to entertain your friends.) In the third place if the money spent with the stores and hotels by the thousands of visitors was taken into account and if the world-wide attention the city received was considered, Fort Worth made several million dollars.

But (thought I) even if the accusation had been correct, not many people have ever lost a million dollars. A few hundred dollars or even several thousand dollars, yes — but not a million dollars!

Another thing, if I had lost a million dollars, I had been smart enough to lose somebody else's million, and not my own.

So I wrote a letter to the editor and wound up with, "Thank you for the compliment."

(But of course I didn't mail it.)

And, incidentally, the next time we met, he invited me to dinner.

My Uncle Tavie told me when I was a small boy, that he could speak Chinese so I asked for a sample. He said, "No tickie—no washie."

Electric Energy To Be Used On Icey Bridges

Electric energy is spearheading a determined assault by the Texas Highway Department against an old and deadly traffic hazard in the state: iced-over bridges.

In the hope of permanently solving this age-old peril to motorists, Highway Department engineers are now experimenting with an electrical ice-prevention system near Wichita Falls. First testing began Friday, Jan. 13.

First of its kind ever undertaken in Texas, the research project is taking place on twin bridges of U. S. Highway 287 at its intersection with City View Drive near the northwest city limits of Wichita Falls.

The anti-icing system employs the use of electrical heating elements embedded in the concrete bridge slabs through which are energized small amounts of electricity which heat the elements and warm the bridge deck a few degrees above freezing. The system is actuated by a control panel hooked up to an electric utility power supply.

The headache of iced-over bridges has been particularly acute in Texas, where flash freezes occur periodically during the winter months. Ice forms more easily on bridges than on highways because cold air circulates both above and below them. Temperatures of the adjaent highway areas are reduced more slowly, and may not reach the freezing point at all, due to the influence of heat radiation from the earth.

This creates a deceptively dangerous situation for the winter motorist, who may be driving comfortably at 60 miles an hour along an unfrozen highway and suddenly come upon a glazed-over bridge.

Sand and salt have been the traditional standbys used by the Department maintenance crews to fight the icing process, although this has often meant all-night work in anticipation of flash freezes.

The search for a better way to keep ice from forming on bridges has narrowed to this electrical anti-icing system. It was built into the bridges during their regular construction stages and is completely safe. No motorist or pedestrian could be burned or shocked by the bridge.

The object of the research being conducted this winter—and in succeeding winters if necessary—is to develop the most efficient system through controlled tests. Engineers expect this research to provide answers to the traffic hazard of ice on bridges.

Will Laos Become Another Korea?

Despite the varied ways of pronounciation of the tiny country in Asia, the situation there is as serious as any which has faced these United States since the Korean War.

The United States and its allies in the free world have made their position quite clear, they will not hand Laos to the "Reds" on a silver platter, and they are willing to send military aid to the war-torn nation. It is to the advantiage of the free world that Laos does not become just another Communist puppet. If Laos falls, it will become the site for armed invasion into the rest of Southeast Asia including South Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand and Burma.

Will Russia back down, call a halt to agression, allow a neutral and independent Laos, or will Russia continue the fighting, stalling for a peaceful settlement until all of Laos is occupied by Red Forces, and then dare the world to try and take back what they have won, threating all-out war. The Russians under their communist leaders love to play this vicious game.

What will be the course of action the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will decide upon? Through Tuesday, they were working for a peaceful settlement without seeking military aid or massing troops to send into Laos.

If war does develop in Laos with the United States, England, and SEATO on one side and Red China, North Vietnam and Russia on the other, Red forces will have a decided military advantage, reports indicate. SEATO troops would have difficulties with supply lines, and terrain, while Red forces already have these problems taken care of.

Nikita Khrushchev has selected his place to test the new President of the United States, to see how tough he is. The place is Laos.

As in Korea, Russia will supply trucks, tanks, planes, arms, ammunition, etc. for a war but send no troops. And, if the Communists don't find things going so well in Laos, it will be a simple matter for the Soviet dictator to create diversions in many places such as Korea, Formosa, Berlin, Northern Congo, Algeria, Cuba and Latin America, not to mention South Vietnam and Cambodia, the two countries the Soviets are licking their chops over if they can take over Laos.

Can the new President afford to be anything but firm on the stand this nation is taking in Laos? It is highly advantageous for the American people, and all freedom loving people throughout the world to stop the Red horde.

As a great statesman once reminded the American people, "The Tree of Liberty must forever be watered with the blood of patriots."

The Birch Society

In this issue of The Record, we are devoting an exceptional amount of space to a report on the John Birch Society. . . a secret, political organization which is beginning to be heard from around the country.

We do this in the belief that an organization which has successfully kept itself in the dark for most of the time since it was organized more than three years ago should have the benefit of some light.

We think the John Birch Society needs a great deal of light shed upon it, because it appears to have some very dark corners indeed.

It advocates a policy which, if successfully carried out, could result in the total destruction of the American government as we know it, and of American liberties as we enjoy them.

While we agree, like most Americans, with its avowed purpose of defeating Communism in America . . . we disagree, wholeheartedly, with the methods by which it proposes to accomplish this end.

We realize that, by this statement, we brand ourselves, in the eyes of John Birch Society members, as pro-Communist. So be it. They may think so, but they had better not say so.

The founder and dictatorial leader of the John Birch Society declares that Americans must choose between domination by Communists or the leadership and government of the John Birch Society. We do not believe that this is so. If it is, we see nothing much to choose. A dictatorship of the Communist left can be no worse than dictatorship of the Fascist right. In either event, freedom for the individual would no longer exist.

But we still believe that there is strength in a free society . . . if the members of that society remain alert, keep themselves informed, and are not stampeded.

The John Birch Society aims to create a stampede. If it succeeds, by generating such fear of the Communist left that we, as a nation, are stampeded to the Facist right, then we may yet see the creation of the American dictatorship which the John Birchers are told is necessary to the defeat of Communism.

Don't sell them short. They are headed by a man who means business.

And don't join them . . . if you place any value on your own freedom.

—The Canadian Record

U. S. Senator Race

Since there's little chance of any of these becoming a real "dark horse" candidate, your choice really boils down to five some add a sixth, including liberal State Senator Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio. But there are only five whom we think have a chance.

Like it or not, Republican John G. Tower will be the leading man in the first election, the odds being 70 to 1 in his favor. That's the reason the Texas legislature two years ago passed a new law requiring a run-off in special elections when a candidate fails to secure a majority. Under the old law, Texas would elect a Republican in practically every special election. Mr. Tower, however, won't be the leader in Crosby County.

Mr. Tower, being a Republican, represents the conservative side in this election. His counterpart among the Democratic candidates is Bill Blakley, who is serving his second interem appointment to the senate job. Mr. Blakley who would really like to win this time, sounds just a little liberal in his TV speeches and press statements, but you can rest assured he is still the conservative Mr. Blakley, millionaire oil man from Dallas.

In the center we have State Attorney General Will Wilson and Congressman Jim Wright from Tarrant County. Wilson, who leans to the right of center, has done an excellent job of re-organizing the attorney general's office and placing it on a sound, business-like basis. Many Texans feel, however, that he has failed miserably in bringing much needed reforms to state, county and city governments, as he promised in his first campaign. After a halfhearted attempt to reform Galveston, his office has since done little in the investigative field.

Congressman Jim Wright is in the middle with leanings toward the liberal. Although we don't agree with everything he advocates, we do know that he has become known in Congress as a fighter for what he believes to be right. He has served on a number of important committees and proably could make the jump from Congress to Senate without losing too much of his prestige and influence. He is Trend's choice of the 71 candidates.

On the liberal side is another man with quite a reputation as a fighter — former Congressman Maury Maverick of San Antonio. In the past, Maverick has not usually been too far to the left, but the backing he is receiving from Texas' organized labor naturally would be expected to influence him if he heached Washington. That's the main reason we choose Jim Wright over Maverick.

So on April 4, don't let that long list of candidates dismay you to the extent of keeping you from the polls. Unless you are a relative or know one of the other candidates personally, you really only have to decide between five candidates.

Mrs. Greenhaw Continues Story Of 'Round The World Tour

(Editor's Note: This is the third, and concluding article, written by Mrs. George Greenhaw giving details of her recent 35,000-mile trip around the world.)

From Cairo we flew via Miszais Mitla into Jerusalem. We flew over which gave us a birds-eye view of the great Sahara Desert, the Red Sea and the Dead Sea.

As we entered the Holy City, we felt a sense of humbleness. We pulled off our shoes so many times as we walked through the Buddhists' temples, Temples of Confucism, Mosque Temples of the Moslem Worshippers; here, as we walked on Holy ground we felt we could walk all the way in our stocking feet.

Jerusalem for its memories of the past. Jerusalem is not an attractive city today. The streets are narrow and dirty, shut in by high gloomy walls of the buildings and often over arched, so they seem almost like passages through caves. The streets are crowded with traders, beggars and travelers from all over the world. In Jerusalem we visited many sacred places, Damascus Gate, Church of St. Anne, Pool of Bethesada, walked along Via Dalorosa (Way of the Cross), Tomb of Christ, the chapel and the Holy Sepulchre, the old city wall, an afternoon sight seeing to Bethany, home of Jesus's friends, Mary and Martha, their brother Lazarus and Simon the Leper. We drove to Jerico via good Samaritan Inn to the Dead Sea and Jordon River, Elisha Fountain, also a view of Mt. Temptation.

After three days in old Jerusalem we crossed the frontier into Israel to new Jerusalem. We traveled by motor coach through the residential quarters of the modern and oriental communities of Jerusalem and Mt. Zion with its splendid view of the Old City and arrived at Tel Aviv in the late evening.

From this city we had a magnificent view of the Mediterranean Sea. Our second day in Tel Aviv included a full day excursion to Tabgha, scene of the miracle of the loaves and fishes, Mt. of Beatitudes, passing Migdal, home of Mary of Magdalene, continuing to the Jordon River and the Sea of Galilee. We visited the Church of Annuciation, also a visit to the City of Nazareth. We visited a "Kibbutza" collective farm near Nazareth.

After a most interesting three days in Israel we flew by El Al airlines to Istanbul, Turkey, transferred to the Hilton Hotel

Istangul is rich in historic and artistic attractions, offering such a beautiful natural diversity of scenery and is the only city in the world astride two continents. Here the swift waters of the Bosphorus separate Europe and Asia. Istanbul has been a metropolis for 2600 years longer than any other city of the world. It is a city of beautiful mosques, 500 of them. One of the loveliest mosques visited by our group was the Sultan Armet Mosque (the Blue Mosque). Istanbul is 85 per cent Moslem. The covered Bazaar is one of the most fascinating attractions in Istanbul. It is a small covered city in itself. Its streets and alleys are roofed with vaults and domes and the wider streets often have columned arcades.

We did a great deal of shopping here but very little buying. Our motor trip up the shore of the great Bosphorus to the point where it leaves the Black Sea was very enjoyable. This point is a stronghold used as a protection from the invaders of the outside world. War ships are not allowed to enter. Our hotel here was one of the finest. From our bedroom window we could see a magnificent view of the city.

From Turkey we flew to Athens by British European Airways. We found Athens a bustling city. Our hotel, the Grand Bretagne, an old hotel but as grand as it sounds filled with American tourist and travelers from all over the world. Our city tour here included the Parliament, Theatre of Dionsos, the Acropolis (Temple of Wingless Victory, The Parthenon Propylea), Tower of the Winds and Agora.

Three-fourths of the land is so rugged as to be non-arable, yet Greece has primarily an agricultural economy. In recent years American aid has played some part in this. We enjoyed an all-day tour into the mountains and had lunch high up in the mountains overlooking the Aegean Sea. We enjoyed typical Greek food which was delicious.

We enjoyed a farewell dinner for some of our tour members who were touring countries of Europe on our last evening in Athens.

We left Athens via BEA flying into London, stopping only for fuel in Rome, Italy. We had a pleaant flight and an enjoyable stop in London at the Piccadilly Hotel.

We left London at mid-morning flying into New York via Pan American, rushing through customs and on to Dallas via Braniff Airlines, stopping there about two hours, arriving in Amarillo at 9:30 p. m.

After flying over 35,000 miles, it was good to get our feet on the ground and to be at home again with relatives and friends. As I walked over my yard, blanketed with purple verbenas, bright yellow dandelions, leaves putting out, sparrows chirping in the trees, so calm and peaceful, I felt that I should bow down in humility for this was God's handiwork. God Bless America.

FARMER'S DAUGHTER . . . Most men dig this kind of gardening, when it involves a companion like Pat Nelson, shown on a Florida farm.

Will Writes from Austin

By WILL EHRLE
State Representative
88th District

past week began a 22- campaign for Speaker of Texas House of Representa- for the 58th session of the ature which will convene in ry, 1963.

ters were given individually ch member of the House my purposes in running he reasons for announcing s time.

the date of this writing we ecured the support and com- nts of 25 members of this ature.

ugh it may seem very early, are many reasons for begin- ur campaign at this time. I that by an early start we void the bitterness of a to the wire" race for r.

959 Waggoner Carr defeat- Burkett, Kerrville, in a at closed with a floor ballot opening day of session.

current House of Repres- es has been divided be- of the race which saw James defeat Wade Spilman in contest. Perhaps the mem- will make an early choice us avoid such a heated and ged race.

Powerful Office

office of Speaker of the is one of the top three posts as politics. It is definitely in power to the office of vernor. Certainly this pos- would honor our 88th Dis- and our Northwest Texas use of its great importance, e takes on all the flavor of e-wide poditical campaign.

Big Step

Our announcement is a big step politically, but I am convinced that we have an excellent chance to win the Speaker's race.

Our initial support comes from House members from all sections of the state and members from both sides of the political fence have pledged their support to me.

This bi-partisan support is another indication that perhaps the next race for Speaker can be resolved prior to the beginning of the next session. This would then allow the organization of the House to be completed and the committees appointed shortly after convening and thus save the taxpayers a great deal of money by avoiding the delays caused by the past two campaigns for Speaker.

District Support

We can be successful in this effort with your continued support at home. I am deeply appreciative of the past help of all the folks in District 88. I hope by being elected Speaker that I can continue in an even greater way to work for the good of the people of Texas by helping provide more jobs, a higher standard of living, better education, and progress in both the industrial and agricultural fields.

Ode Cooley, Helen Parker and Mrs. Henry Blum spent Tuesday of last week in Hobart, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Morrison and family of Amarillo and his mother, Mrs. Lewis Morrison visited this weekend with the John Smiths. Mr. Smith is a brother of Mrs. Lewis Morrison.

Texas Highway Dept. Announces New Flagmen Law

The Texas Highway Department recently announced a highway safety measure designed to protect the motorist by making him see red—literally.

The Department said it will require flagmen directing traffic at highway construction and mainance projects to wear bright red vests and to use a flag of the same color.

Men in the red vests now appear on Texas highways. Made of fluorescent red nylon, the new vests are designed to make flagmen more easily visible and recognizable to motorist both day and night.

Red flags have been used by flagmen in the past but the fluorescent color and the vests are new requirements, made "to insure added safety and convenience for the public in the movement of traffic to and through highway construction and maintenance operations," said D. C. Greer, State Highway engineer. He hailed the new vests as a safety measure not only to motorists but also for highway workmen.

The same flag signals will be retained: flagmen's arm fully extended horizontally to indicate "stop"; movement of the flagman's free hand without use of the flag to indicate "proceed."

Soil Conservation District News Hall County

Many farmers in the Hall County Soil Conservation District have completed the rebuilding of their terrace systems this spring. Approximately 752 miles of terraces have been rebuilt this year on 103 farms. Snow and rain recently slowed down the rebuilding of terraces and diversions for the next few days. Two miles of diversions have been reconstructed and 20 miles of new terraces have been built. Mrs. Nellie Franklin has constructed on her farm at Parnell one mile of new diversion terraces.

Also 10 dams have been reconstructed in the past few weeks. Buster Helm whose farm is in the Harrell Chapel community is building a livestock water pond. A 10-inch draw down tube has been installed through the dam to protect the spillway.

Several farmers are installing underground irrigation pipe as part of a reorganized irrigation system. Some of these farmers are: E. H. Saunders, Lakeview; L. T. Winn, Parnell; F. D. Barnhill, Turkey; W. W. Cooper, Turkey; Woodrow Mullin, Lakeview; Smittie Guest, Turkey; Luke Lane, Turkey; Irl Twilla, Turkey; L. E. Hughs, Memphis; Morris Robertson, Lakeview; and Mutt Wansley of Lakeview.

New basic soil and water conservation plans have been developed on the Mack Richards farm, E. H. Saunders, Woodrow Mullin, and D. V. Sassar farms.

All of these conservation practices that have been applied in the Hall County SCD will help in the control of water and wind erosion as well as the progress of Hall County.

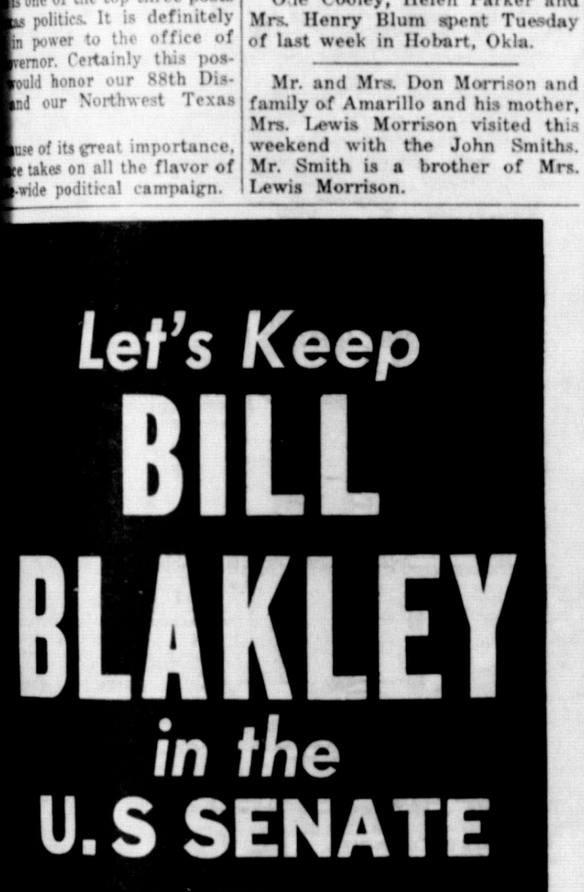

If any farmer has a soil or water problem of his farm or ranch, he is requested to contact the local Soil Conservation Service Technicians at the court house.

Rep. Will Ehrle To Be Candidate For House Speaker

State Representative Will Ehrle of Childress formally announced his candidacy this week for Speaker of the House for the 58th Legislative Session in 1963.

A rural House leader in his third session, Ehrle revealed his plans in a letter to all members of the House of Representatives.

Ehrle is a graduate of McMurry College in Abilene and holds a law degree from the University of Texas Law School.

In his statement of purposes Ehrle pointed out that early announcements and commitments for the speakership would help avoid the bitterness often aroused in campaigns.

"I plan to make an active campaign over Texas prior to the next session," Ehrle said. "I sincerely appreciate the support which the people of my district have given me in the past and I hope the membership of the Texas House of Representatives will honor our 88th District and our area by favoring my candidacy."

Ehrle is the first House member to openly launch a campaign for the key post now occupied by James Turman.

A life-long resident of Childress County, Ehrle is best known in the House for authoring statewide water legislation, sponsoring agricultural measures, and improvement of Texas schools and higher education.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker Jones returned this week from a visit several months in California.

The Bloomin' News

Kinda cold this (Wednesday) morning to be thinking about gardening but maybe when this spell is over you can really start buying these nice plants we have ready for you. In addition to the usual line of tomato, pepper, petunia, snapdragons and sundry plants, we have something special to offer. Two year old columbine plants (they will bloom this year) @ 50c each and we were able to pick up one dozen shasta daisy plants on our last trip to Oklahoma.

You should drive down to the City Park and see the new tables. This project is almost complete and should be a wonderful asset to our park. Sure hope you enjoy them because the members of the Fire Dept. and a number of other people have sure done lots of work on them.

Our selection of Easter plants and flowers is just about the nicest we have ever offered. It will help us serve you better if you will place your order for that corsage, bouquet or plant as early as possible.

The American Field Service Committee would like your opinion on the Foreign Exchange Student program in Memphis. We think it has been a wonderful experience for everyone concerned and think it should be continued next year. Your ideas and support will help us go forward with this program. Memphis and Hall County is going to be and do just about what the majority of the people want them to be and do.

The Memphis Democrat

VOTE FOR

Jim Wright

For U. S. Senator

He Is The Right Man for Hall County!

Congressman Jim Wright is a life-long Democrat. His record as a U. S. Congressman for three terms has proven that he is a friend of agriculture and small business—the two things most important to this county.

Remember that Tower, a Republican, and Blakley, who suits them (Republicans) fine, are the choice of the old Shivers machine with few exceptions. Let's remember those who gave us Benson for eight long years. Don't waste your vote on one of the many candidates who don't have a chance to get in the run off. Vote for Jim Wright and help prevent two republicans from being in the run off.

Jim Wright has always been fair to everyone, whether they represent management, labor or agriculture. This is all any fair-minded Texan wants—a fair shake for everyone.
